5879. I suppose there was more trouble in the last registration than there was in any previous one?—Yes, because it was much larger.

5880. With reference to the Leicester voters, it was said or suggested that you had given Parker 40 l. to pay them; did you ever give him any such sum, or any money at all?—I do not know the man; I never saw him, and I never paid him one penny.

5881. Did you ever give any man any money to pay the Leicester voters?—Not one halfpenny; not one farthing; not anything.

5882. You say you do not know Parker to speak to?—I do not know him at all.

5883. Did you at any time see Clark and Denny?—I never did.

5884. Do you know Clark?—I do.

5885. With reference to a man of the name of Hammerton, I believe you sent that telegram to Hammerton (handing a telegram to the Witness), “Come by first train to ‘Stag,’ Bishop-street”?—No doubt it was sent, but I never wrote those words.

5886. I suppose you would most likely direct it to be sent; that is not your signature?—No, I never wrote those words.

5887. But you would direct a message of that sort to be sent, and no doubt it would be sent?—Yes, perhaps so.

5888. Hammerton said that you had directed him to go to the “Stag,” and that he was to have refreshments, and that you gave him a sovereign; is that true?—I did not.

5889. Neither one nor the other?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

5890. When did you begin to act as a ward manager?—At the last election but one.

5891. You are going rather further back than I had in my mind; in relation to this election, when did your duties commence?—As soon as we heard of Mr. Eaton's address; as soon as I saw it in print.

5892. When was that?—About the 24th of September.

5893. What ward did you have?—The Bishop-street ward.

5894. Who was your colleague?—No one.

5895. Did

5895. Did you have any meetings at all of any persons in the different wards?—We did.

5896. Taking your ward for instance, where did you meet?—We met at the “Stag.”

5897. That was the house at which you met?—Yes.

5898. When did you begin to meet at the “Stag”?—As soon as we got Mr. Eaton’s address; in a day or two after I saw Mr. Eaton’s address, I called the men together.

5899. Whom did you call together?—We called parties that I thought would be able to assist.

5900. To carry on the election?—Yes.

5901. Did you keep any record of those names; do you know who they were?—No, I do not know who they were.

5902. Was there any book kept like a minute book?—No minute book.

5903. Any book?—No more than the books we began to make out, the canvass books, and the house roll books.

5904. Who has them?—I cannot tell; we do not keep those books when the election is over; I suppose they go among the waste paper, and they go out of the way altogether.

5905. Did you make no return to head quarters?—No, we did not.

5906. None at all?—No.

5907. Not to Mr. Seymour, or anyone, as to the result of your canvass?—No.

5908. How did the candidates know, then, the gross result of your promises?—There is a Mr. Radcliffe; he gets a little information from us.

5909. Does he not get all the information from you in the wards?—Well, perhaps he does; yes.

5910. Perhaps you will tell me the fact; does he or does he not?—Mr. Radcliffe called and said, “How are you going on with your canvass?” And I told him.

5911. Did you not give him the names of the persons promised?—He turns over the canvass books, and he simply takes the majority.

5912. How do they know in the central committee-room who are the persons that promised?—I hand it over to him, and I do not know what he does with it after.

5913. What do you hand over to him?—The state of the canvass.

5914. Do you hand also to him the names of the persons promised?—No, he does not take the names; only the result and the majority.

5915. How many persons in your ward had canvass books?—Perhaps 30.

5916. Did they make the returns to you?—Yes, they bring the books to me.

5917. At the end of the canvass, do you give back the books to them?—We do.

5918. Each man keeps his canvass book?—He does.

5919. Were those same persons employed to bring voters to the poll, or had you other assistants?—No other assistants; they volunteered to bring voters to the poll, and they did.

5920. Where did you get those books from?—I bought the books, and paid for them.

5921. Who paid you back?—I paid it from money which I received.

5922. From whom?—From Mr. Blundell.

5923. How much?—£. 75.

5924. He is an accountant, is he not?—I do not know what he is at all; I drew the money from him.

5925. When did you receive the 75 l.?—As 275.

soon as I wanted some money; I cannot tell you when; when I felt I wanted money I told him.

5926. Mr. Justice Willes.] Do you mean that you paid 75 l. for canvass books?—No.

5927. Mr. Henry James.] You had 75 l. in the gross?—Yes.

5928. And out of that you paid some portion for canvassing books, and other expenses?—Yes, with other expenses.

5929. When did you have that 75 l.?—I drew it at three separate times, 25 l. each time.

5930. When was the first?—I cannot tell you when; I tell you as soon as I wanted money.

5931. That is a want which may arise at any time to all of us?—I cannot tell you really; I should think about a fortnight after we had gone on.

5932. Would that be about the beginning of October?—Well, I really cannot tell you about when I had the money; I made no entry of it.

5933. You say it was a fortnight after you commenced your operations; did you commence your operations at the middle or end of September?—We commenced as soon as we saw Mr. Eaton’s address; we had one meeting first.

5934. When did you see Mr. Eaton’s address?—On the 25th or 26th of September.

5935. And you must have had this money about the commencement of October?—Perhaps so.

5936. When did you have the second 25 l.?—Perhaps a week afterwards; I really cannot tell when I had the money; I made no entries of it.

5937. When did you have the last?—I had the last about four days before the election, to the best of my knowledge.

5938. Of course you have kept an account of your expenditure?—I do.

5939. Where is it?—At home.

5940. Where is your house?—In Bishop-street.

5941. Did you make up those accounts from day to day?—I did.

5942. Did you make entries from time to time?—I did.

5943. Will you produce that account when you leave the box, that I may ask a question upon it?—With pleasure.

5944. Have you paid anything at the “Stag”?—I have not.

5945. Have you paid for the committee-rooms?—I paid for a room.

5946. The name of the landlord is Hopkins, I think?—It is.

5947. What have you paid Hopkins?—I paid him something like 10 s. per night.

5948. What was the amount you paid him?—I paid him, I think, three weeks; that would be about 6 l.

5949. But is it 6 l. you paid him or not?—That is as near as I can guess without having the book in my hand.

5950. Did you have a bill from him?—No, I had not; I never had a bill from anyone.

5951. The committee had refreshments, you know?—I do not remember it.

5952. Had you none?—I had none.

5953. And you have only paid the bare account for rooms?—That is all.

5954. Did you ask him what your account was?—I asked him what I had to pay at the end of the week, and he told me 2 l.

5955. Did you ask what that was for?—For the room.

5956. Did

J. Kilbey.

19 February 1869.

J. Kilbey.
1869.

5956. Did you say to him, was it for the room?
—I said to him, was it for the room.

5957. And he said it was?—He said it was.

5958. There was nothing else that you had to pay for?—No.

5959. Then why did you ask whether it was for the room?—I knew it was for the room.

5960. Then if you knew it was for the room, what was the object of asking?—That was for the room I said.

5961. You took care to say, "This is for the room"?—Yes.

5962. Have you paid him anything since the election?—I have not.

5963. Have you asked him if there is any demand?—I have not.

5964. And you know of none?—I do not.

5965. Had you the committee-room on the day of the election?—No, we had not.

5966. When did you cease to have the committee-room there?—A week before the election, I think.

5967. When did you make the last payment?
—My book will show all that.

5968. Did you see that book this morning, or when did you see it last?—I do not think I have seen the book this month.

5969. How long have you known Hammerton?
—I have known him for many years.

5970. Had you had any communication with him about this election, before that telegram was sent?—None whatever.

5971. Did you direct that to be sent?—I think I did.

5972. To whom did you give the direction?—Some one came and said Hammerton would vote for us if we sent for him; he had not been written to.

5973. To whom did you give that direction?—I think to a man of the name of Rice.

5974. You had no committee-rooms at the "Stag" then?—None.

5975. What was he to go to the "Stag" for?
—Because I knew he dared not go anywhere else.

5976. Why did you select this public-house for him, which was not your committee-room, you having ceased to have that committee-room for a week?—I knew he had lived in a court called the Stag-yard, and I thought he would be best at home there.

5977. But if he was to pay for what he had, why should he not go where he liked?—He did pay for what he had; at least he did not.

5978. If he was to pay for what he had himself, why should you choose the public-house for the man?—I did it simply because he used to live in the same yard.

5979. You had no idea that you were to pay for it?—I never intended to.

5980. Nor to convey that impression to him when you used the words, "Go to the 'Stag'?"—I never intended to pay any money for Hammerton.

5981. That is not the point; did you intend to convey that impression to him?—Well, it was conveyed to him.

5982. Had you previously sent that telegram intending to convey that impression to him?—Yes.

5983. Did you see him when he arrived in Coventry?—I was voting myself, and I saw him there about the same time.

5984. You never saw him at the "Stag"?—I never saw him at all.

5985. Have you been at the "Stag" to inquire whether he has paid?—I have not.

5986. How do you know whether he has or has not paid?—Because the landlord told me so.

5987. When did you see the landlord?—I saw him last week, and he knew that Hammerton was in the town.

5988. Did you go to him or he to you?—I did not. I met him in the street; he said he heard that Hammerton was here.

5989. What did he say then?—He said he owed him some money. Mr. Hopkins first approached me and said Hammerton owed him money.

5990. Hopkins never said that, until Hammerton was in the town, immediately before this petition?—I think it was on Monday last.

5991. That was the day the petition was thought likely to commence?—Yes.

5992. What was the amount, did you learn?—He did not tell me. He said he went away and did not pay for his lodgings and for his refreshments.

5993. You never saw him at the "Stag" at all?—I never did.

5994. When you had conversation with Hammerton, having sent that telegram to him, did you learn from him that he had been at the "Stag"?—I never had any communication with Hammerton.

5995. Not at the polling-booth?—No.

5996. You telegraphed to him?—I did.

5997. Did you see him at the polling-booth?—I did.

5998. Why did you not speak to him?—I did not speak to him.

5999. But why not?—Because he did not trouble to speak to me.

6000. You directed that telegram to be sent; you saw the voter come over, and you did not speak to him because he did not trouble to speak to you?—Yes.

6001. How long have you known him?—I have known him for several years.

6002. Well?—Well, I have known him well.

6003. How long is it since you saw him?—Since I saw him last?

6004. Yes, before the polling-booth?—I could not tell you that.

6005. About how long?—I could not tell you; he is not in the town.

6006. I know he is not, and that is the reason I ask you about how long it is since you saw him?—I should think I have not seen him since the election before the last one.

6007. This is a man you have known well, a man you had not seen from March to November, and the man you telegraphed to; why did you not ask him how he was, and speak to him?—We had plenty else to do that morning.

6008. But you saw him?—He was in a crowd of people going in to vote; I saw him; there were 200 people round the booth at the time.

6009. When did you see him after that polling day?—He came to me the next morning.

6010. Where?—At my back door.

6011. Did you speak to him then?—I did.

6012. What did he say to you?—He told me he was going away, and wanted to know if I could pay him.

6013. For what?—His expenses, I presume.

6014. Did he say so?—Yes.

6015. He came to your back door?—He did.

6016. Is that the place where he usually came, or did he generally come to the front door?—The front door was not open; he came to me at half-past six or seven o'clock in the morning; I know I could scarcely see him.

6017. I understand, from what you have said already, that when he came and asked for his expenses, you swear you gave him nothing?—I did not.

6018. What did you tell him?—He asked me to pay them, and I said, "I do not pay any man that comes to vote."

6019. What was said about his expenses, about the "Stag"?—He said nothing about it.

6020. Nor you to him?—No.

6021. Not one word?—Not one word.

6022. You sent the telegram, but you said nothing to him about his expenses at the "Stag"?—No.

6023. Did he appear satisfied when you said you would not pay anything to any voter for coming to vote?—He did not.

6024. You have never heard anything from him since?—No, I have not.

6025. When did you first, to your knowledge, see Parker?—Who is Parker? I don't know Parker.

6026. Not Henry Parker, of Leicester?—I do not.

6027. Have you seen any person, called by that name, in this court?—I have not.

6028. Have you heard of him?—I have.

6029. Have you any recollection of a man, a stranger to you, coming and speaking to you in the street?—I have not.

6030. Have you had the curiosity to come and look at Mr. Parker?—In this court?

6031. Yes?—No, I have not.

6032. Has it come to your knowledge that Parker has sworn that he did meet you in the street, and spoke to you?—It has not.

6033. Do you read the Coventry papers?—I do; I have heard of Parker, one of the Leicester voters, but I never saw the man.

6034. That is not the point, and you know it; have you heard that Parker has sworn that he spoke to you in the street?—I have.

6035. When did you hear that?—The same day that he made that remark.

6036. Wednesday?—Yes.

6037. Did you go and look at Parker, or make any inquiry from him, or endeavour to discover whether it was true or not?—I thought I should like to have a look at him, but I have never been able to see him.

6038. You have not tried to find him?—No; I don't know him, and I didn't trouble.

6039. Did anyone ever call upon you about the Leicester expenses?—No one.

6040. You do not know Frederick Clark, or Denny?—I know Clark.

6041. How long have you known him?—Three years.

6042. He lived in your ward?—Yes, he did.

6043. When did he move to Leicester?—I cannot tell you.

6044. When did you lose sight of him?—Last summer.

6045. You didn't know where he had gone?—I did not.

6046. You have never seen him since?—I have seen that man Clark, because I know him.

6047. When did you see him after the summer when you lost sight of him?—I never saw him till the day after the election.

6048. Where did you see him?—I saw him in the street the day of the election.

6049. Had you any talk to him?—I had not.

6050. When did you see him next?—I never saw him at all, to my knowledge, till yesterday, or the day before.

6051. Did you have no talk to him?—None.

6052. Have you no knowledge of either him or Denny calling at your shop?—None whatever.

6053. Did you learn that, while you were out, anybody had called, from Leicester, to see you?—I did not.

6054. When did you send in the return of your expenses?—I never sent it in at all.

6055. How much did you expend out of the 75*l.*?—£.71 or 72*l.* I have some money in hand now.

6056. What have you done with the balance?—It is at my house.

6057. You have kept it?—Yes.

6058. Has no one ever asked you to send in a return?—Not yet. I am prepared to do so when they wish it.

6059. But nobody has ever asked you to send in any return of expenses?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6060. Blundell was the person who gave you the money?—Yes.

6061. And you have to account to Blundell for that money?—If he wishes it.

6062. Are you prepared to account for it?—I am.

6063. And to hand over the balance?—Yes.

6064. Mr. Blundell, I understand, has been very ill?—He has.

6065. And he has not made application to you yet?—Not yet.

6066. Was that money expended in the affairs of the election?—It was.

6067. Was any portion of it an improper payment?—Not one penny.

6068. And you can give the particulars?—Yes.

6069. You will go and fetch your book?—Yes.

6070. The telegram to Hammerton is, "Come by first train to 'Stag,' Bishop-street"; was that the place he was to go to?—Yes.

6071. Was there any suggestion that his expenses should be paid there?—None whatever.

6072. Had you any intention by that that he was to have his expenses at the "Stag"?—I know him too well to give him a penny.

6073. But had you any intention that his expenses should be paid by the candidates, or yourself, at the "Stag"?—I never meant to pay him, and I never intended to let the candidates do so.

Mr. Justice Willes remarked that the question was whether the telegraphic message contained a promise to Hammerton to pay his expenses at the "Stag."

6074. Mr. Huddleston (to the Witness).] You say you knew the man too well to trust him?—I did.

6075. Had he been a man who had been a witness in the former petition?—He had.

6076. You would not have trusted that man at all, I think you say?—Not the slightest whatever.

Q 3

6077. My

J. Kilbey.

1869.

J. Kilbey.

1869.

6077. My learned friend asked you why you did not speak to a man at the polling-booth; how many men were there at the polling-booth at the time?—I should think 100, and perhaps more.

6078. Were you busily occupied with other voters?—I was trying to get in to vote myself at the time I saw Hammerton there.

6079. You were asked some questions about Hopkins, the landlord; have you paid Hopkins anything more than for the use of the rooms?—Nothing whatever.

6080. As I understand, you would inquire the way or the intention of the different voters in your ward, and then you would make up your book, and the result would be given to Mr. Radcliffe?—Yes.

6081. But with 7,700 voters, Mr. Radcliffe does not take down all the promises, I suppose?—Oh dear, no.

6082. He takes down the results from the different wards?—Yes.

6083. And then afterwards he makes his own calculation?—Yes, he does.

6084. Mr. Justice Willes.] Have you any copy of the register that you marked with the promises?—I had a register.

6085. Did you mark down the people who promised in the register?—We copy into canvass books from the register.

6086. But have you no book in which you marked the people who were going to vote the one way or the other?—They were all marked in separate books.

6087. Have you columns?—In a large ward we have perhaps 30 books.

6088. Have you columns in which you entered the way in which people were going to vote?—Yes, we have.

6089. Where are those books?—They are gone among the waste paper; we did not keep those books.

6090. Do you mean that no book has been kept showing what promises had been given to your side, and what people had stated they were going to vote for the others, and marking those that were doubtful?—We have not kept them.

6091. I do not now understand why you told Hammerton to go to the "Stag"?—I told him to go to the "Stag" because I knew that he lived up the "Stag" yard when he resided in Coventry.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES SUDDENS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

J. Suddens.

6092. To what ward do you belong?—To Spon-street, St John's.

6093. Do you know two Birmingham voters, named Samuel Lord and James Rose?—Yes.

6094. Did you, on the polling day, give either of those voters the sum of 10 s.?—No.

6095. Or did you send them anywhere to get 10 s. of anybody else?—No.

6096. Did you introduce either of those voters to Mr. Herbert Jackson?—They went and seen Mr. Jackson, but I did not introduce them.

Mr. Justice Willes said the two cases had better be taken separately.

6097. Mr. Gates (to the Witness).] Did you see Samuel Lord at all on the morning of the polling day?—Not till after he voted.

6098. Did you see him before he voted?—No.

6099. Did you see him on the polling day at all?—Yes, towards two o'clock in the day.

6100. Did you introduce Lord to a man named Herbert Jackson?—I did not.

6101. Or did you say anything to him about his getting 10 s.?—No, nor about his getting a penny.

6102. Did you see Rose also on that day?—I did.

6103. Did you introduce him to Herbert Jackson?—I did not.

6104. Did you say anything to him about his getting 10 s.?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

6105. What had you to do with the election?—Very little indeed.

6106. But what was that very little; it will take you less time to tell it than if it were more?—I went round with Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton on the 7th of November.

6107. Canvassing?—I did not canvass, for I never went into any house whatever.

6108. Were you a ward manager or a deputy ward manager?—No.

6109. Were you in the committee room on the day of the poll?—No, I was not in the committee room on the day of the poll; not doing anything.

6110. Were you in the committee room on the day of the poll?—Yes, once I was.

6111. How long have you known Lord?—I should say three or four years.

6112. How long have you known Rose?—I never saw the man in my life, to my knowledge.

6113. Did you know that Lord was at Birmingham at the time of the polling?—Yes.

6114. How did you know that?—His wife was going away from Coventry about three weeks before the election.

6115. Then you learned that he was at Birmingham?—Yes.

6116. Do you know a man of the name of Barnacle?—I know several of the name of Barnacle.

6117. Do you know a man named James Barnacle?—Yes.

6118. Do you know a man named William Barnacle?—I do.

6119. Did you know of either of those men being over at Birmingham?—William Barnacle was.

6120. When did you know of that?—I knew he was there some time.

6121. Living there?—Yes, living there.

6122. Did you give any one the information, that Lord was at Birmingham?—No.

6123. Did you know he was coming over to Coventry?—No.

6124. To vote?—No.

6125. Did his coming, when you saw him, take you by surprise?—Yes.

6126. Quite?—I never solicited Lord for his vote.

6127. When you saw him on the day of the poll, did the fact of your seeing him take you by surprise?—Not a bit.

6128. Were you aware that you were likely to see him?—No; only I know that he had always voted on the Conservative side.

6129. Do

6129. Do you know that he had been canvassed by any one?—No, I never canvassed him.

6130. Then all you could do was to ask him how he was, I suppose?—Yes.

6131. Who was this Jackson whom you say they went to see?—I do not know who he was.

6132. You let fall the expression, "They went to see Mr. Jackson," who is Mr. Jackson?—There was a Mr. Jackson there.

6133. Who is that Mr. Jackson that was there?—I do not know exactly the gentleman.

6134. Never mind exactness; who is he?—I do not know who he is, not personally.

6135. I do not know what is the converse of personally; but what do you know about him?—I only know that he is a gentleman residing in the town.

6136. Where does he reside?—I do not know.

6137. What is he?—I do not know that personally.

6138. What is he, to the best of your belief?—I believe he is a silk broker

6139. Do you tell me that you know his name is Jackson, and that you believe him to be a silk broker, and that you do not know where he lives?—I do not.

6140. Nor where he carries on his business?—Yes.

6141. Where is that?—In Little Park-street.

6142. Then Mr. Jackson is a silk broker in Little Park-street; now cannot you oblige me with his Christian name?—I do not know it.

6143. How long have you known him?—I have known him by seeing him. I have seen him go to his warehouse a time or two.

6144. You have had no conversation with him?—No.

6145. How long have you known him?—I should say six months, something like that.

6146. You used an expression that this man went with this man Jackson; what did you mean by that?—When I saw Jackson, those two men were with him; I never took him.

6147. Was there another person there with you in the room; Mr. James Foster, in the committee room?—No.

6148. Do you know Foster?—Not James Foster.

6149. Do you know any Foster?—Yes.

6150. Was any Foster in the room with you?—Not in the committee room.

6151. Did you see any Foster that day?—Yes, Henry Foster.

6152. Where did you see him?—Agen the booth.

6153. Did you give a voting card to either Lord or Rose?—I went to the committee to fetch one for Rose.

6154. When you had got that card, did you give it to Rose?—Yes.

6155. For the purpose of his voting?—Yes.

6156. You knew he had come from Birmingham?—He told me he had.

6157. You knew him to be a working man?—Yes.

6158. When was it you first saw him with Jackson?—It was two o'clock in the day when I saw him.

6159. Where?—In Hill-street.

6160. Were they talking together?—Yes.

6161. Did you speak to Rose?—No.

6162. Was it before or after you had given him the card?—Afterwards.

6163. Did you neither speak to Jackson nor Rose?—Not a word; not a word about anything.

275.

6164. You did not speak?—No.

6165. When was it you had given the card to Rose?—I should say about 11 in the morning.

6166. Had you seen Jackson on that morning?—No, I had not seen Jackson then.

6167. When did you first see Jackson?—At two o'clock in the day.

6168. Was that the first time you saw him?—Yes, on that day.

6169. Were you close to him?—Not very close.

6170. Why did not you speak to Rose; you knew him?—I had no cause to speak to him.

6171. Did you not ask him when he was going back?—Not a word.

6172. Did not you introduce Rose to Jackson?—I did not.

6173. You did not know whether Rose had ever known Jackson before?—No.

6174. You knew them both before, did you not?—No, I did not know Rose before that day; I had never spoken to him in my life to that day.

6175. Had you seen Lord before, on that day?—I had seen Lord, but not before he voted.

6176. How long had you known Lord?—Three or four years.

6177. How was it, if you did not know Rose till that day, that you went and got him a voting card?—Because he asked me; he was talking with Henry Foster.

6178. He came to you and asked you if you would get him a voting card?—He was talking with Henry Foster.

6179. And he came and asked you if you would go and get him a voting card?—Foster asked me if I would go and get him one.

6180. Who told you his name?—Foster and himself told me his name was James Rose.

6181. Did you see Lord at any time with Jackson?—No, not till two o'clock in the day.

6182. You did see Lord with Jackson?—Yes.

6183. And Rose?—Yes.

6184. Both Rose and Lord somehow got in communication with Foster?—I do not know anything about Lord and Foster; I know Rose was with Foster.

6185. You say at two o'clock you saw Lord with Foster?—No, with Jackson.

6186. I beg your pardon, so you did; did you see Lord with Jackson at two o'clock in the day?—Yes, somewhere about two.

6187. And Rose?—And Rose.

6188. How far were they from the "Newdigate Arms"?—That was in Hill-street, somewhere near against the "Newdigate Arms."

6189. Were they walking in the direction of the "Newdigate Arms"?—They was.

6190. How far did you pass from those three persons where they were walking; did they pass on the same side of the street?—Yes.

6191. And not a word passed between you and them, either one of the three?—No.

6192. You did not say anything to Lord, whom you had known three or four years, as to his going back to Birmingham, or anything?—Not a word.

6193. Had you seen Lord before in the morning?—No.

6194. You had not seen him, and got a voting card for him?—No.

6195. Do I understand you, not having seen Lord in the morning, and having known him three or four years, you passed him without speaking?—They were talking together, him and Rose; they went towards Jackson.

6196. How

J. Suddens.

1869.

J. Suddens.
1869.

6196. How long was it before that, you had seen Lord?—I should say it was six or seven weeks from the time I had seen Lord, till that day.

6197. You had known him three or four years?—He was in Birmingham.

6198. Not having seen him for six or seven weeks you pass by him, and do not speak to him?—It is bad manners to speak to a man when he is in conversation with somebody, is not it?

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6199. You do not stop and speak to every man you happen to know, because you see him in the streets at election times?—No.

6200. With reference to William Barnacle, you say you believe he was over at Birmingham; had you any communication whatever with William Barnacle?—None at all.

6201. You are not a ward manager, I think?—No.

6202. You said that upon one or two occasions you were with Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill, when they were canvassing?—I was.

6203. But you were not canvassing yourself?—No.

6204. Sometimes people go to show the way to the candidates?—I did.

6205. Were you authorised to take any part in the election at all, except so far as voting?—No.

JAMES MANN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

J. Mann.

6216. Do you act in the Gosford-street ward?—Yes.

6217. What as?—They call me ward manager, I suppose.

6218. Do you know a person of the name of Shuttleworth?—I do.

6219. He says that you promised him half-a-sovereign when the election was over, and that you would give him half-a-crown the next day?—I did not.

6220. Did you do anything of the sort?—Nothing of the sort.

6221. He said that on the Saturday you went to him, and that you nudged him on the shoulder and took him into the back kitchen, closed the door, and gave him half-a-crown, is that true?—It is not true.

6222. He says that the Wednesday after the election, you gave him half-a-sovereign, and said he was not to say anything to anybody, is that true?—It is not true.

6223. Did you either promise Shuttleworth money, or did you give him any money at all?—I did not. I neither promised nor gave him any.

6224. Did you canvass Shuttleworth?—I did.

6225. Did you give him a voting card?—Not on the first occasion; on the second.

6226. Was there a mistake in the voting card?—There was.

6227. What was the day you gave him the right voting card?—On the Saturday prior to the election.

6228. You neither promised nor gave him any money?—I did not.

6229. Do you know a person whose name is given as Villiers?—I do.

6230. Villiers says that you gave him, I think, a shilling, 5 s., and another shilling and 5 s., and that afterwards you gave him, I think, 10 s.?—I did nothing of the sort.

6231. Just tell me this, did you at any time give Villiers any money at all?—I never did.

6206. Had you any communication, directly or indirectly, with Mr. Jackson, with reference to his giving any money to either of those voters?—Certainly not.

6207. And you do not know of it?—And I do not know of it.

6208. That you swear positively?—I do.

6209. Mr. Justice Willes.] What had you to do with the election?—I went round some time before the election to take a house row; I went to ascertain who lived in such and such houses.

6210. You did not go to canvass?—No.

6211. You went to take the names; did you ask the people how they were going to vote?—No.

6212. Mr. James (by permission of the Court).] Who directed you to take the house row?—Mr. Eaves.

6213. Which Mr. Eaves?—Mr. William Eaves.

6214. You were not paid for that, I presume?—No.

6215. Mr. Justice Willes.] What ward?—Spon-street.

Mr. James.] Has your Lordship a list of deputy managers too?

Mr. Justice Willes.] I have got them under "Chairmen and Vice-Chairmen."

6232. Did you ever give him the sum of two half-crowns at any time?—No.

6233. Or promise him any?—Nor promised him any. I never gave him any or promised him any.

6234. Elizabeth Villiers said you gave her 5 s. in two half-crowns?—I did.

6235. You never gave Villiers any money, but you gave Elizabeth Villiers 5 s.?—Yes, and that was given me by Brown; he asked me if I would leave it.

6236. What for?—For work done on the Monday prior, at the Bishop's-street ward on the municipal election. Brown asked me to leave 5 s. for Villiers, and I did so, for working on the Monday prior, in Bishop's-street ward, on the municipal election.

6237. What was the day you gave her the 5 s.?—On Saturday, the 7th of November.

6238. That was the Saturday after the municipal election?—Yes.

6239. He said you gave it him the next day; he says he saw you on the Tuesday, and he says you asked him if he had been polled, and he asked when they would settle, and that you then gave him afterwards 10 s.; you say that is not true?—That is not true.

6240. Do you know William Jones a fish hawker?—Yes, I do.

6241. He said that you saw him, and that you said to him, "You sell fish for those parties against us, you are afraid of offending them"; that you said, "it would not take much to start you a basket; a pound or two would do it"; did you ever say anything of that sort to him?—No, nor he never said anything to me about it.

6242. You never said anything in the shape of a promise to him?—Certainly not.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

6243. What are you?—A weaver.

6244. Have you taken an active part in elections before?—I have.

6245. Have you been a ward manager before?—They generally call me a ward manager.

6246. Have you been a ward manager before?—What would you term a ward manager; I am not chairman or anything of that.

6247. Mr. Justice Willes.] Have you been a ward manager before?—I took the same part now; not as chairman or vice-chairman.

6248. Mr. James.] Had you anyone above you, as it were, in the ward, or were you the chief manager?—I was not the chief manager.

6249. Who was?—Mr. Atkins is the chairman.

6250. Had you any money to disburse at all?—Not at all.

6251. And you have never received any money from anyone about this election?—Not a farthing.

6252. Who would keep the accounts in the board?—Mr. Atkins, I presume.

6253. You would have nothing to do with them?—I would not.

6254. Did you canvass Shuttleworth?—I did.

6255. How many times were you at his house?—Three times.

6256. Can you give me the dates?—I cannot give the dates; the first occasion was about three weeks before the election.

6257. Were you there on the Thursday before the election?—I was not.

6258. About four o'clock in the afternoon?—I was not.

6259. Were you there on the Friday before the election?—I was not.

6260. Were you there on the Saturday?—I was.

6261. The first occasion you say was three weeks before the election?—It was.

6262. The second was a Saturday?—No, the second was when I attended with Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill, the Tuesday before the Saturday you are speaking of.

6263. The man says it was Wednesday?—It was Tuesday.

6264. You were canvassing with Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes, I was.

6265. What did the old man say to the sitting Members when they canvassed him?—I cannot recollect that; I simply introduced them; I said "Shuttleworth, Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill."

6266. Was a promise obtained from him?—A promise was obtained; he told me then in my presence he should vote for them.

6267. What did you go there again on the Saturday for?—To take a voting card.

6268. Were you the deputy ward manager, the person to take out voting cards?—I found there was a mistake on the Saturday; Shuttleworth had not had his voting card; I was in the committee-room, and I said, "I will take it myself."

6269. Why should you take it yourself?—Because he should be sure of having it; I found they had neglected to do it.

6270. There are paid messengers, boys or others, to take out voting cards, are there not?—Yes.

6271. Why should the deputy ward manager take a voting card to a weaver like that?—Simply because it was left in the committee-room; I thought it had been neglected, and I took it down myself.

6272. You did not think it right to give it to one of the messengers to deliver?—There were none there at the time.

275.

6273. Was this the only voting card that was neglected to be sent?—No, there were several others.

6274. Why did you take this and not the others?—Because he lived near the committee-room.

6275. Did you pick it out?—I said, "Here is Shuttleworth's card that has not been sent;" and I said, "I am going home, and I will take it."

6276. What became of the others that were neglected to be sent?—I am sure I do not know.

6277. You took this one, and the others remained?—Yes; it was not the only one that was taken in the same way.

6278. You did take others?—Yes; not at that same time.

6279. When you went that Saturday, was the wife at home?—No, she was not.

6280. She was not in the house?—She was not in the house.

6281. The room opens from the street?—From the court or terrace.

6282. Was not that woman in that front room?—She was not; there is only one room.

6283. In the back kitchen?—There is no back kitchen, and no back door.

6284. There is no back kitchen in that house?—There is not any back kitchen in the house, I am informed.

6285. Who has informed you that there is no back kitchen in the house?—One of the neighbours.

6286. What is the name of the neighbour who informed you that there was no back kitchen?—Mrs. Wilson.

6287. Have you been to ask Mrs. Wilson if there is any back kitchen to the house, or did she come to you and tell you?—She heard the report of the proceedings read, and she called and told me there was no back kitchen; I said I never recollected seeing one.

6288. Did she call upon you, or did you go to her?—She called upon me.

6289. What is your recollection from what you saw in the house?—I opened the door, and I saw only one kitchen, and a fireplace on the right.

6290. What is your recollection now; is there a door that opens out of the kitchen?—There is a door that opens into the kitchen.

6291. Is there a door that opens out of the room into any place at the back?—I saw a door, I presume it was the coal-hole or the pantry.

6292. You saw a door?—One or two doors; I know there is no back door to the house.

6293. You saw a door that opened out of the room into the back part of the house?—No; I do not know where it opened to.

6294. You did not go through it?—I did not.

6295. How do you know it was not a back kitchen?—I do not know that it was not.

6296. It may be a back kitchen?—It may.

6297. You are quite sure the old woman was not there?—Quite sure.

6298. Are you quite sure you did not go out of that room?—Quite sure.

6299. How long did you stop there?—I was not in the house two minutes, I should think; I simply said, "Shuttleworth, I beg you will excuse me for not bringing your card earlier; I found it in the committee-room," and I handed it to him.

6300. Did you go there again?—I never went again.

6301. What

J. Mann.

1869.

J. Mann.
1869.

6301. What was the mistake made with the card?—The card should have been delivered on Friday instead of the Saturday.

6302. It was not that it had had a wrong number, or anything of that sort?—It was in a circular; it had not been opened.

6303. That was the mistake in relation to the card?—Yes.

6304. Have you ever seen the old man since?—I see him in this court.

6305. Have you seen the woman since?—Yes.

6306. Where?—In this court; and only twice before in my life.

6307. What are the two occasions on which you saw the woman before?—In this court, in Gosford-street, and in the house when Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill were there; they was at dinner on that occasion.

6308. When did you see her in Gosford-street?—On Wednesday week.

6309. Had you no talk with her then?—I have never spoken to the woman in my life.

6310. About Villiers; have you been concerned in the municipal election at all?—Not in Bishop-street ward.

6311. In any ward?—I have in Gosford-street, before.

6312. This time?—It was no contest.

6313. Who is Brown, who you say gave you the 5s.?—John Brown, assistant ward manager.

6314. What part did he take in the municipal election?—He went to assist Mr. Anstey in Bishop-street ward, upon the last occasion.

6315. Did you know anything of Villiers' employment?—Not till Mr. Brown gave me this 5s.; he asked me if I would leave it as I was going up the town.

6316. When you called upon Villiers, did you know he had a vote?—Yes.

6317. Did you say anything to him about it?—I did not.

6318. You were anxious for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Yes.

6319. You had been canvassing for them?—Yes.

6320. Why did you not say anything to Villiers about his vote?—Because he had promised.

6321. From whom did you know that?—He had promised me.

6322. You had canvassed him?—I had; he has always been Conservative ever since I have known him.

6323. When did you canvass Villiers?—I could not say exactly; I saw Villiers, and asked him for his vote and interest for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill, and he said "certainly."

6324. When was that?—I could not speak to dates, it was before November; in October.

6325. Would it be about the 18th of October?—It might be about the 18th of October.

6326. Did Mr. Villiers then ask you if you had anything to give him to do?—Not then.

6327. Did he at any time?—He came up to our house one morning, I said I had nothing to do with that, and he went away.

6328. It is no use my asking you what work Villiers had, you know nothing about that?—No, I know nothing at all of it.

6329. Did you ask Villiers where a person of the name of Taylor lived?—I did not.

6330. Do you know a person of the name of Taylor?—Yes.

6331. Where does he live?—In Cox-street; I forget the number of the court. I knew where he lived prior to seeing Villiers.

6332. Is that the same place that Villiers lives in?—Yes, in the same street, the opposite side.

6333. Did you ever see Villiers in the committee-room in South-street?—I did.

6334. Were you alone in the room with him?—I was not.

6335. Who were there?—Several; I could not say who they were.

6336. Cannot you give the name of one?—Smith, the doorkeeper; he made the fire, and attended to the room.

6337. Was he in the room at the time?—Yes.

6338. What was he doing?—He was simply in the room doing anything which there was to do.

6339. Was he sitting down there when Villiers called?—Smith was in the room. I knew Villiers was there some time.

6340. What was Villiers doing there?—There was a fire in the room. He was smoking his pipe; he was not doing anything.

6341. Do you represent that a man comes into a committee-room to do nothing but smoke his pipe?—He would sit down a few minutes to smoke his pipe. We would not send him away; he was there for his own purpose, not for ours.

6342. What purpose?—Simply to smoke his pipe.

6343. Do you mean that you saw no money given to him?—I am sure I saw none.

6344. In the presence of Mrs. Villiers, did not you ask her husband to tell you where Taylor lived?—I did not. I knew where he lived before that.

6345. Has Taylor had any money from you?—He has not.

6346. You never gave to anyone any shillings to give to Taylor at any time?—I did not.

6347. You never gave any to Villiers, or anyone else?—I did not.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6348. You say that you knew that this man Villiers had always voted for the Conservative side before?—He had.

6349. And therefore, if he came up into the committee-room, he knew that you would not interfere with him?—He went in and out of his own pleasure; at no request of mine.

6350. Mr. Justice Willes.] Where was that committee-room?—I believe it was 87, East-street.

6351. A private house?—Yes.

Mr. Huddleston stated that he proposed to call a witness named William Nunn, to prove a statement made by Shuttleworth to him.

Mr. Justice Willes stated that in that case it would be necessary that Shuttleworth and Mrs. Shuttleworth should be confronted with Nunn in court. (Shuttleworth and Mrs Shuttleworth were accordingly sent for.)

FRANCIS TAYLOR, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

6352. You live in Cock-street?—Yes.

6353. Do you know James Mann?—Yes.

6354. Do you know Villiers?—Yes.

Mr. Justice Willes.] Ask him whether he is a voter, and for whom he voted?

6355. Mr. Gates.] Are you a voter?—Yes.

6356. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

6357. Has Villiers brought you on one or two occasions, the sum of a shilling from James Mann?—No.

6358. Has he ever at all brought you any money from James Mann?—No.

6359. Have you known James Mann for some time?—He came to solicit my vote.

6360. Do you know when he first came to solicit your vote?—About a fortnight before the election.

6361. Have you been paid anything for your vote?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

6362. When did you promise your vote?—I promised James Mann a fortnight before the election.

6363. Did he come and canvass you alone, or with anyone?—Alone.

6364. Did you do any work at all at the municipal election?—No. F. Taylor.

6365. Nor at the Parliamentary election? 19 February 1869.

—No.
6366. Did you see Mr. Mann, to your recollection, at any time shortly before the election after he canvassed you?—No.

6367. Did you see him about Saturday the 9th of November?—No.

6368. Did not he come to your house at all?—I do not know; I was not at home.

6369. Did you hear of his coming?—I do not remember his coming.

6370. Did you hear of his coming?—No.

6371. How long have you known Villiers?—About four or five years.

6372. Have you had any money at all from him?—No.

6373. Just before the election?—No.

6374. Nor from his wife?—No.

6375. Not a farthing?—Not a farthing.

6376. For whom have you voted before; have you always voted for the Conservative candidates?—No, the others once.

6377. Mr. Justice Willes.] You voted once before for the Liberals?—Yes.

THOMAS HOLLINS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

6378. ARE you a voter?—I am.

6379. How did you vote?—For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

6380. We are told that one day you went with Messrs. Eaton and Hill on their canvass?—I never did.

6381. Do you recollect a person of the name of Wale?—I do.

6382. He says that you gave him some tea and sugar and a shilling; will you tell us about that?—I met him against the Union Bank, as I was going out to work; he stopped me and told me he was in very great distress; I said I was very sorry to hear it; I said I had got no money in my pocket, would a little tea and sugar be of any use to him, if so I would go to my wife and tell her to give him some; that was all that passed, and I went about my work.

6383. Was anything said about voting at all?—No; I did not know he had a vote.

6384. Had you relieved him before?—Scores of times.

6385. He came to you and told you he was in great distress, and you gave him this tea and sugar?—He met me in the street.

6386. That was purely given to him as a charity by you?—It was.

6387. You gave him a shilling too?—My wife did; I did not give it.

6388. Is your wife here?—Yes; she will tell you all about it.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

6389. What are you?—A carpenter and joiner.

6390. How long have you known Wale?—Twenty-two years.

275.

6392. I mean before the occasion when this tea and sugar was given?—Perhaps four or five weeks before that.

6393. What did you give him?—Some halfpence to get something to drink; he asked me for it, mind you.

6394. Do you call that charity?—He asked me for it.

6395. Do you know Clare?—I do.

6396. In Clare's presence, did you ever canvass Villiers for his vote, or did you hear Clare canvass him?—No.

6397. Were you out canvassing with Clare?—No.

6398. You never canvassed anyone with Clare?—No.

6399. You have known Wale for 22 years?—Yes.

6400. Do you mean to represent that you did not know whether he had a vote or not?—I did not.

6401. Did not you ask him?—Not the least whatever.

6402. Did you learn from Mrs. Hollins what she had given him?—When I got home to my dinner, I did.

6403. What was it?—Two pounds of sugar and some tea; two ounces, as nearly as she could make it, out of her tea-caddy.

6404. Mr. Justice Willes.] What had you to do with the election?—I had nothing at all to do with it; I attended no meeting.

6405. What ward are you in?—Earl-street ward.

6406. Were you a ward manager?—No.

6407. Or were you employed by any ward manager?—No.

6408. Had you any books?—No.

6409. Did you canvass on your own account?—I did not go canvassing at all.

6410. Mr.

T. Hollins.

T. Hollins. 6410. Mr. James (by permission of the Court).] Was there a committee-room at your house?—
 19 February 1869. No.
 6411. Did not they meet there at all?—I had my own friends in several times.
 6412. Your friends?—Conservatives.
 6413. At the time of the election?—And before the election.
 6414. What did they do there?—To go through the chart.
 6415. What is that?—The names of all the voters then in the ward.
 6416. Your friends met to go through the names of the voters in the ward; how often?—They were there twice.
 6417. Did you let them have your room?—I told them to do as they liked with it.

6418. At the voting day was, "Vote for Eaton and Hill," put up on your house?—Yes; on the front, on the shutter.

6419. And the state of the poll, on the polling-day, was on the shutter?—I daresay it was.

6420. And your friends the Conservatives, came in and out?—Yes.

6421. And they had a list of the voters there that day, and a chart?—Yes.

6422. They saw who had voted, and struck them off the register?—Yes.

6423. And they went out and tried to poll those who had promised?—I cannot say that.

6424. What was the object of the register?—To see who had polled and who had not.

6425. What became of those who had not polled?—I do not know.

Mrs. HOLLINS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

Mrs. Hollins. 6426. ARE you the wife of the last witness?—I am.
 6427. Did you give the old man, Wale, a small quantity of tea and sugar, and a shilling?—Yes.
 6428. Were you told by your husband to do so?—I was.
 6429. Mr. Justice Willes.] You said a small quantity; how much was it?—I think it was two pounds of sugar and about two ounces of tea.
 6430. Mr. Dugdale.] Did your husband tell you to give him two pounds of sugar?—No.
 6431. That was your charity?—That was my charity.
 6432. Did his wife bring it back?—Yes, she did, the same day.
 6433. The tea and the sugar?—Yes.

6434. But not the shilling?—But not the shilling.

6435. What did she say when she brought back the tea and sugar?—She said, "Mrs. Hollins, I have brought back this tea and sugar. I cannot think of keeping it. I always drink the best lump sugar and green tea. I am very angry with my husband for asking Mr. Hollins for it. I do not like people to know I am in want."

6436. The best lump sugar and green tea does not represent a state of much destitution?—It does not.

6437. And she brought it back?—Yes; I said she could leave it. She had been quarrelling two hours over it. I said, "I am very sorry; you had better leave it, and go."

[The Court adjourned for the usual period.]

JOHN PRICHARD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

J. Prichard. 6438. Did you take the old man, Wale, to the poll?—Yes.
 6439. You are described as a young man, wearing a billycock hat?—I am not very young either.
 6440. Are you a voter?—Yes.
 6441. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton.
 6442. You took him to the poll?—Yes.
 6443. After you took him to the poll, where did he go to?—I took him home. His wife asked me to take care of him, because he was an old infirm person. She was afraid he would get pushed about. I took him to the poll on her wish, and took him home again on her wish, and I left him at home.
 6444. He said he was at the committee-room, and you were by when somebody put—

Mr. James.] No.

6445. Mr. Huddleston.] I think, on the cross-examination, he said Prichard was present (Mr. Huddleston read from the evidence of Wale). Was there any piece of paper given him with money in it, or anything of the sort?—Nothing of the sort.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

6446. Did the old man sit down by the fire?—Not where I was. He may have sat by his own fire. I never saw him in any other place.

6447. You never saw him in the committee-room?—No, I did not.

6448. Mr. Huddleston (by permission of the Court).] Do you know a man of the name of Roadnight?—Yes.

6449. Did you, at any time, give him a shilling?—Yes, for work.

6450. What work?—Wheeling my bricks and mortar for setting a grate; I employed him to do so.

6451. He said, the Thursday after the election, he saw you at a place called The Park, and you gave him 10 s., is that so?—No; I deny it. I never saw the man in The Park to my knowledge.

Further cross-examined by Mr. James.

6452. Do you know Mr. Clare?—Yes.

6453. Had you anything at all to do with the election?—Well, I had something to do, so far as regards voting.

6454. Your own vote?—My own vote.

6455. Had you anything to do in regard to other people's voting?—No, I had nothing at all to do with other people's voting.

6456. What was Mr. Clare; was he a ward manager?—Yes, I believe he was a ward manager.

6457. Did

6457. Did you ever go to the committee-room?—If I say I did not, I should speak an untruth. I have been at the committee-room.

6458. You have been at the committee-room?—Yes.

6459. What did you go to the committee-room about?—Like the rest of them; I went to see what was going on.

6460. Did you see this man Roadnight after the election at all?—I have seen him about the town scores of times.

6461. Apart from the question whether you saw Roadnight, or not, did you go into The Park at all on the Thursday after the polling day?— J. Prichard.

No.

6462. You were not there?—No, I was not. 19 February

6463. In company with another person?—No, I was not. 1869.

6464. Do you wear a billycock hat?—Yes.

6465. Mr. Justice Willes.] Is that hat what you usually wear?—Yes.

6466. What age are you?—Fifty-four, the 24th of this month.

Mr. James asked that Mr. Kilby's book should be produced.

Mr. DANIEL HUNT CLARE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

6467. ARE you manager of Earl-street Ward?—Yes, I am.

6483. When you so employed him, you paid him small sums?—Yes.

Mr. D. H. Clare.

6468. Do you know Roadnight?—I do.

6469. Did Pritchard bring him to your house before the election?—I believe he did.

6484. Had that anything to do with his vote?—I never asked him for his vote.

6470. Are you a voter?—Yes.

6471. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

6472. You took an active part for them; are you a strong Conservative?—I am what they call a strong Conservative.

6473. Did Mr. Pritchard bring Roadnight to you some time before the election?—He did.

6474. What took place when Roadnight was brought up to you?—He says, "I have brought Roadnight"; he said, "this man is Roadnight"; he says, "I have just been down to my tea, and I saw him come out of the office of the relieving officer.

6485. How much did you give him altogether?—I think, as far as my memory serves me, I gave him 1 s. 6 d. one day, and I think 2 s. for another day, and I think I gave him 1 s. another day; I think altogether it amounted to about 10 s., and I think he did about five days' work.

6486. Did you say anything to him a day or two before the election, about giving him two days' work?—Not a word.

6487. Mr. Justice Willes.] What was the work?—Distributing some bills.

6488. Mr. Gates.] You think about five days' work in all?—I should think that would be the outside.

6475. Then what did you do?—He told me he had been to the relieving officer for relief, and he would not give him anything; he had had no food or firing in his house for two days, and the relieving officer refused to give him any.

6476. What did you do for him?—He said that the relieving officer told him he was to come up on the next Wednesday, and he would give him a note to go into the house.

6477. You took him to a provision dealer and relieved him, did not you?—I did.

6478. What did you give him?—I believe two loaves; I gave him a pound of lard and two ounces of coffee. I am not certain whether it was I or Prichard that gave him two pounds of meat.

6479. Was anything said by you or Prichard in your presence to him about his vote?—Not a word.

6480. Mr. Justice Willes.] When was this?—This was on Friday evening, as far as my memory serves, three weeks or a month before the election.

6481. Mr. Gates.] You got him some employment in distributing bills and cards, did not you?—He came to my house on the following Monday, and asked me if I could give him a job. I says "If you do anything for me on the election, you will have to do it on the voluntary principle; if you insist upon payment, and you vote; if you insist upon my paying you and you vote, you subject yourself to prosecution."

6482. Did you send him anywhere then for work, or anything of that sort, or put him on for so many days?—No, he came down to me at intervals, perhaps two or three days between the time, and he asked me if I could give him something to do; I said "There are some more bills, if you choose to take them out you can."

6489. Did you say to him "You know who you will vote for," when you employed him, or paid him on any of those occasions?—No; because I told him at first, if he insisted upon payment and he voted, he would render himself liable to prosecution.

6490. Did he say to you he was to be set down for two days' work; and did you say "All right"?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

6491. As we hear, you were one of the ward managers?—Yes.

6492. Did you have a sum of money from anyone to disburse in the election?—Yes.

6493. How much did you have?—£. 10.

6494. From whom?—From Mr. Blundell.

6495. Have you rendered any account of that?—I have not.

6496. How much of it did you spend?—I think my account amounts to about 18 l.

6497. Then they owe you 8 l.?—Yes.

6498. Have you applied for it?—No.

6499. Why?—Mr. Blundell said I need not trouble about it; he should come for the account.

6500. When did he say that?—When he brought me the money.

6501. When did he bring you the money?—I cannot say when; it was before the election.

6502. Before the election Mr. Blundell brought you 10 l.?—Yes.

6503. What did he tell you then about the rest of the money if you spent more?—He said nothing about anything more.

6504. Then you, out of your own pocket, spent 8 l.; why have not you applied for it?—I expected Mr. Blundell would call for the account, and then I should have asked for it.

- Mr. D. H. Clare. No. 6505. He has never called for the account?—
 19 February 1869. 6506. Where is your account?—I have it in my pocket.
 6507. Will you let me see it?—(The Witness handed it to the learned Counsel.)
 6508. Show me Roadnight's name in it?—Roadnight's name is not in it.
 6509. Show me the entry of the payment of this money to Roadnight?—It is included in there as messengers; a good deal is entered at the same time.
 6510. I see this is put "messengers" (that would be in pencil), "chart clerk, 1*l.* 10*s.*"?—Yes.
 6511. You have no particular items of that I suppose?—Roadnight is included in messengers.
 6512. It is included in your knowledge but his name is not down?—No.
 6513. When did you make that entry, before or after the election, "messengers, chart clerk"?—After the election.
 6514. You trusted to your memory?—No, I put it down directly after the election; the chart clerk is the one employed on the polling day.
 6515. How much did you pay the chart clerk?—Ten shillings.
 6516. The 1*l.* is composed of sums paid to several people?—I say 10*s.*; is not there any one else besides the chart clerk?
 6517. "Messengers, chart clerk, 1*l.* 10*s.*;" if you paid the chart clerk 10*s.* there would be 1*l.* for the messengers?—The 1*l.* would go to the messengers.
 6518. As to these, you trusted to your memory? No, I put them down when I paid the money.
 6519. Where?—I included them together.
 6520. This was done after the election?—As soon as the election was over.
 6521. The money was given to Roadnight before the election; you trusted to your memory so far?—I did so far as Roadnight was concerned.
 6522. Did you put down the names of any messengers anywhere?—No.
 6523. You trusted to your memory, so far as all the messengers were concerned?—There were only two.
 6524. Who was the other?—He lives down Nib's yard, the butcher's, in Little Park-street.
 6525. Had you known Roadnight before the election?—No.
 6526. Pitchard told you that he had seen him come out of the relieving officer's?—Yes.
 6527. What are you?—A shoe manufacturer.
 6528. You do not mean to represent a person tells you that he has seen persons coming out of the relieving officer's house, is there any reason why you should relieve the wants of all those persons?—It would if that was the only case I ever did relieve.
 6529. If it was the fact that the person was seen coming out of the relieving officer's house, what claim had that person upon your charity?—I am not aware that he has any claim.
 6530. You contemplated his being employed, because you told him if he did any work at the election he must do it on the voluntary principle?—Yes.

6531. Did you tell him you were a supporter of Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—I did not.

6532. What was said about his doing work at the election that caused you to say, "If you do any work you shall do it on the voluntary principle"?—That was on the Monday; I relieved him on the Friday.

6533. He came back to you?—It was on the Friday evening I relieved him.

6534. You relieved him because he was in your view in great distress?—Yes.

6535. Did you expect this man who was in great distress to do work on the voluntary principle?—He asked me to find him work before the election; I told him I could not give him work if he insisted upon payment; if he insisted upon payment and he voted he would subject himself to prosecution.

6536. And he did work?—And he did work.

6537. And you paid him?—I did.

6538. And you thereby subjected him to prosecution?—I did not ask him to vote.

6539. You knew he was a voter?—I did.

6540. Did you expect when you paid him the 1*s.* and 2*s.* that he would not vote in consequence of your paying him?—No, nothing was said to him about his vote.

6541. You did not tell that he was not to vote?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6542. As I understand you, you mentioned to him at the commencement that if he was paid he could not vote?—I did.

6543. You say whatever you gave him, and at every time that you gave it, you never at any time asked him about his vote?—Never.

6544. As to this 10*l.*, I see you have here an account of the different sums that you have expended?—I have.

6545. Have you left that account till Mr. Blundell would come?—Yes.

6546. Do you say Mr. Blundell has been very ill?—Very ill.

6547. First of all stationery, 1*l.*, circulars for convening meeting, 15*s.*, hire of room, 16*s.*; that was the room where you met, and you paid for it at the time?—Yes.

6548. That is the course, to pay for the rooms at the time to prevent bills running up?—Yes.

6549. You have not added it up?—Yes.

6550. What is the size of your ward?—As far as my memory serves me, there is close on 300 voters.

6551. Those are the whole expenses of that ward?—The whole expenses.

6552. The whole expenses of [house-row lists and stationery, and rooms, and cards, and everything of that sort?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN PRICHARD, called again; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

J. Prichard. 6553. Did you take that man Roadnight to Mr. Clare?—Yes, I met Mr. Clare in Little Park-street.

6554. You met the man coming out of the relieving officer's?—Yes; I saw him pushed out into the street.

6555. What did he say when he went to Mr. Clare?—It was me mentioned to Mr. Clare about him.

6556. What did you mention about him?—I asked Mr. Roadnight, when I saw him pushed out, what was the matter; what was up; he said he had been to ask Mr. Kendrick to give him relief. He said he had had nothing, neither him, nor his wife, nor his family, nor wife's sister; he had not had anything for two or three days, not a bit of fire, nor a bit of food to eat. I told him I was very sorry for him, and I said, "Come with me and I will give you some tea;" I took him and gave him some tea, and he told me and my wife what was the matter; that he had had nothing for two or three days, and he began to cry. I said, "I will go and see a gentleman; I will see if I can get you a little assistance till such time as he would be able to go up to the parish." I did so, and going up Little Park-street I met Mr. Clare. I told him the circumstance, and Mr. Clare said he would do what he possibly could for him.

6557. Do you know Clare?—Yes, because I work for him.

6558. Have you known Mr. Clare relieve persons in distress at times?—Yes, I have known him to do it on several occasions.

6559. Out of charity?—Yes, out of charity.

[The Witness withdrew.

WILLIAM HENRY BARTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

6560. ARE you the husband of Jane Barton, who has been called in this inquiry?—Yes.

6561. Have you a vote for this city?—Yes.

6562. Who did you vote for?—Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton.

6563. Do you recollect Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton coming to canvass you?—He came to thank me for my vote; I promised it three weeks ago.

6564. Did they come to canvass you?—

Mr. Justice Willes.] Is there any use calling this person against his wife; he is already in conflict with the evidence of the two Members. You put him in the box for Mr. James to answer. I do not like a husband to be unnecessarily examined against his wife.

Mr. James.] Ask him whether he had any money.

6565. Mr. Dugdale.] Had you any money from the Hedgers?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. HENRY HEDGER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

6566. ARE you a voter for this city?—Yes.

6567. Who did you vote for?—Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

6568. Did you go to Barton's house to canvass him?—I did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

6569. Are you the Mr. Hedger that received a telegram from a person of the name of Hooper, in London?—No.

6570. Do not you know a person of the name of Hooper, in London?—I do not.

6571. Is there another Hedger, who took an active part in this election?—Yes.

6572. Who is that?—My son.

6573. He is in Coventry?—Yes; he is obliged to mind my business when I am here.

6574. Do you know whether your son knows a person of the name of Hooper?—He does not.

6575. Mr. Justice Willes.] Is his name Henry James?—William James.

6576. Mr. James.] Who is Mr. Hedger, of Broadgate, Coventry?—I am Mr. Hedger, of Broadgate, Coventry.

6577. Just look at that (handing the telegram to the Witness); I daresay you know a person named Hooper?—I do not.

6578. Did you receive that telegram about the election time?—No, my son did.

6579. How do you know that?—Because I have seen the telegram.

6580. Do you know who used the name of Hooper?—I do not; a stranger to me.

6581. Who lives at 17, Warwick-street, Regent-street?—That I cannot tell you.

6582. Has your son been in London lately?—No.

6583. Did you ask your son who Hooper was?—I did not; I think, like myself, he did not know who the party was.

6584. He is quite unknown to you?—Quite.

6585. You were known as a person who took an interest in the election?—Yes.

6586. And you canvassed actively?—I do not know about actively; I had the gout, so I could not get out, and I could not have been very active about it.

6587. You know nothing about two men coming from London; two voters?—No.

6588. This was quite an enigma to you; you gave it up, I suppose?—It was not to me.

6589. You saw it?—I did.

6590. You gave it up?—Yes, I could not explain it.

6591. Nor your son?—That I cannot tell.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN LINNET, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

6592. WHAT are you?—Up to Christmas last I had filled a situation of 28 years' duration; I am now doing a bit of business on my own account.

275.

6593. Are you a voter?—Yes.

6594. Who did you vote for?—Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

J. Prichard.

1869.

*W. H.
Barton.*

*Mr.
H. Hedger.*

J. Linnet.

- J. Linnet.*
19 February 1869.
6595. Do you know a voter named Thomas Neale?—Yes.
6596. Did you call there the night of the nomination, about nine o'clock, with Fawson?—Yes.
6597. And ask him whether he had made up his mind to vote?—Yes.
6598. What did he say?—He did not make me any immediate answer, but his wife proceeded to talk, being of a talkative turn.
6599. Did you say to Neale himself, "It will be worth a week's work if you vote for the light blues"?—No, I did not.
6600. And did Mrs. Neale say to that, "What do you call a week's work?" and then did you say, "He does not earn a sovereign, does he"?—No.
6601. Did you say that you would give him that, or make it as good as that, if he voted for the light blues?—I did not.
6602. Will you tell us, in your own way, what it was that passed between you then?—The mention of the sovereign emanated from the wife.
6603. Will you tell us how?—I cannot swear to the exact words; she said something amounting to this: that we could give her a sovereign for that little china dog, if we thought it well; she knew how these things were done.
6604. Was that a voluntary observation made by her to you?—It was.

6605. Then did you leave them?—I started about going, but Fawson not following me immediately I went back, and I told her it was evident to me that she did not mean her husband to vote without being paid, and as that was no part of my business, I must bid them good night.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

6606. You are a ward manager?—No.
6607. You had no accounts to render?—I had not.
6608. I understood you to say that nothing was said about your asking what the man would earn in a week, or what his wages would be, or anything of that kind?—No, certainly not.
6609. Do you mean to say it is true what you have stated?—I do.
6610. Mr. Justice Willes.] What are you?—I suppose I may be called deputy-manager.
6611. I mean out of politics, what are you?—At Christmas I vacated a situation that I had held for 28 years; I am now doing business on my own account; I am a buyer and seller of ribbons.
6612. What were you during those 28 years?—I was with a ribbon manufacturer, an old firm in this city.
6613. What name?—Ratcliffe.

CHARLES FAWSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

- C. Fawson.*
6614. ARE you a voter?—Yes.
6615. For whom did you vote?—For Messrs. Eaton and Hill.
6616. Did you call with Linnet upon the Neales on the nomination night?—I did.
6617. Did you see Mr. and Mrs. Neale, both?—Yes.
6618. Will you tell us what took place; when you went in there you asked for Neale's vote I suppose?—I went for a different purpose very likely from Linnet; Linnet I believe went to ask him if they had made up their mind who to vote for.
6619. What did you go for?—I went for money owing to me.
6620. You did not go to ask about their vote?—No, I had nothing to do with the election.
6621. Did you hear the conversation between Linnet and the two Neales?—Yes; Mr. Linnet did ask if they had made up their minds for whom they would vote, and instead of answering she stated that her husband had been ill with a fever, and he ought to have something for it; for the loss of time I understood her to say.
6622. Did you hear anything said about a chimney ornament?—Mr. Linnet answered her and said that would be bribery; afterwards she says, "Damn it, man, could not you buy this dog?"
6623. Pointing to something?—It was a small ornament taken from the shelf.
6624. Did she suggest the worth of it?—I fancy she said 1*l.*; I would not swear to that; I would not be very particular upon that.
6625. What did Linnet say or do then?—He said it was bribery still; he had no power to do so—to offer any money.
6626. Did this take place; did Linnet say to her it would be worth a week's work if her husband would vote for the light blues?—I did not understand him to say so.
6627. Did she say, "What do you call a week's work?" and did Linnet answer, "He does not earn a sovereign, does he"?—I did not hear him say anything of the sort.
6628. Were you there all the time?—Yes.
6629. When Linnet turned to go, you remained behind a little?—Only a little.
6630. Did Linnet go on to say, "I will give you that, or make it as good as that for you"?—I never heard him say anything of the sort.
6631. Mr. Justice Willes.] What are you?—A watchmaker.
6632. Were you at all concerned in the election?—Not in the least.
6633. Except as a voter?—Except as a voter; I never solicited anyone in my life.

Mr. James asked again for Kilby's accounts.

Mr. Justice Willes.] I have been thinking that Kilby ought to have been here an hour ago with the books; he ought to have brought them instantly, if he did not desire a reflection to be cast on his absence; he ought to have produced the book to Mr. James.

JAMES KILBY, called again; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6634. How long have you been here?—A quarter of an hour.

6635. Were you here before lunch time?—I was.

6636. How long were you here before lunch; you went to get your book; how soon after you went away, did you come back?—I was gone 20 minutes.

6637. Were you here after that till lunch time?

—Yes, I have been here a quarter of an hour now; my reason for being away was, that my wife is very ill, and of course I had some conversation with her while I was away.

6638. Is that your book?—Yes (producing the same).

J. Kilby.

1869.

THOMAS JACKSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

6639. ARE you a voter for this city?—Yes.

6640. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

6641. Do you know Horsfall?—Yes.

6642. Did you see Horsfall about a week before the election?—I did not.

6643. Did you ever say to him, about that time, “I hear you are in very great distress,” and you could get him work at the Elastic Factory?—I did not.

6644. Did you ever see him on the Saturday, the following day on which he alleges you offered him assistance?—No.

6645. Did you give him 2s. 6d. in the street?—No.

6646. Did you see him on the Monday after the Saturday which I speak of, and say that you would give him 10s. after the election was over?—No.

6647. Did he go to the “Swanswell Tavern” with you on the Friday morning after the election?—No.

6648. Did you see him at the “Swanswell Tavern” on the Friday morning after the election?—I did not.

6649. Did you tell him the previous day to call at your house to go with you to a gentleman at the “Swanswell Tavern”?—I did not.

6650. Did you ever tell him to say nothing about it?—Not at all.

6651. Did you ever give him 10s., or 2s. 6d.?—Never; I never gave him 2s. or 2s. 6d.

6652. You never gave him anything?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

6653. Are you one of the ward managers or deputy ward managers?—Yes.

6654. Which?—A deputy ward manager.

6655. You did not have any money?—No.

6656. None at all?—None at all.

6657. You did not receive any from anyone, nor have you any claim?—I did not.

6658. You know this man, Horsfall?—Yes, I do.

6659. Did you know that he was in distress at the time?—I did not.

6660. Did you speak to him?—I did not speak to him.

6661. You say that you gave him nothing; that you did not speak to him, and that you had nothing at all to do with him?—Yes.

6662. You never went with him anywhere?—I never went with him anywhere.

6663. Was anything at any time said as to his putting out some bills, or anything of that kind?—No, not to me.

6664. Mr. Justice Willes.] What ward were you manager of?—The Jordan Well Ward.

6665. I have Dowling as deputy ward manager; were you another?—You may call me deputy ward manager, or something of that sort.

6666. What are you by business?—I am a watchmaker by business.

6667. Are you a journeyman watchmaker, or have you a place of your own?—I have a place of my own; I have one apprentice and one man.

6668. How long have you had that place?—Four years I think now; I was in business before, but things went bad with me so far as trade, and I had to go out of the watchmaking trade, and then I commenced it again.

T. Jackson.

THOMAS JACKSON, jun., sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

6669. ARE you the son of the last witness?—Yes.

6670. Are you a voter for Coventry?—Yes.

6671. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Hill and Mr. Eaton.

6672. On the nomination morning were you at the “City Mill Inn” with Joseph Horsfall, a ribbon weaver?—No.

6673. Did you pay for gin-hot for him, and for eight or nine other persons there?—No.

T. Jackson, junior.

[The Witness withdrew.

EDWARD WAKELIN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

6674. WHO are you?—Wakelin, of the “City Mill.”

6675. You are the landlord of the “City Mill”?—Yes.

6676. Are you a voter?—Yes.

6677. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Eaton and Hill

6678. Do you recollect Friday, the 20th of November?—Yes.

275.

6679. Did Mr. Horsfall come into your house at all that day?—Not to my knowledge; he is a stranger to me. I never knew him.

6680. Were you in your house serving in and out all day?—Yes; I was waiting in the bar.

6681. Was there any gin-hot consumed there at all that day?—There was not.

E. Wakelin

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN ASHTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

J. Ashton. 6682. ARE you a voter?—I am.
 19 February 6683. For whom did you vote?—Eaton and 1869. Hill.

6684. I think you are the secretary to the Constitutional, or to some Conservative working association, are you not?—I am.

6685. Do you know a voter of the name of Richard Kilpack?—I do.

6686. Did you see him a few days before the election; on the 13th of November?—I did.

6687. Did you have any conversation with him about the way in which he was going to vote?—Yes.

6688. Just tell us what took place?—I asked him whether he would vote for Eaton and Hill; he said he thought not.

6689. Did he say to you that he thought of going away the next day, as he had been out of work; and did you say, "You had better make up your mind, and come and see me in the morning"?—I did.

6690. Did he come?—He did not.

6691. Did you afterwards see him again?—I did not; I saw him again the same night, but he was to see me the next morning.

6692. He did not come the next morning?—No, he did not.

6693. Did you have any more conversation with him after that before the election?—I returned to his house again, seeing the distress he was in, and I left them 1s. to buy them some bread.

6694. Did you tell him that if he would vote for Eaton and Hill you would see him well through the winter?—No.

6695. And that there were many gifts at Christmas, and that you would see that he had some, or words to that effect?—No.

6696. Do you know an old man named James Everett?—I do.

6697. Did you speak to him about which way he was going to vote?—He spoke to me.

6698. Will you tell us what took place between you both?—He said the Liberal party had used him very ill; they had never given him a gift at all, and without they did give him one he would leave them. I says, "I will see what I can do for a gift for you."

6699. Did you say to him, that if he would go on your side you would find him employment for four days, at 5s. a day?—No.

6700. Nor anything at all to that effect?—Nothing at all.

6701. Were you thinking of the Christmas gifts and the Christmas presents?—Yes; that was the result of the conversation and nothing more.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

6702. Are you secretary to the Conservative Association?—I am.

6703. What are you by business?—I was a weaver, but I am not now.

6704. What do you do?—I travel as well as being secretary to the association.

6705. Do you travel in business?—Yes; I travel with spirits on commission, and I fill up my time at the association.

6706. Then you come back from your travelling, to the association?—Yes.

6707. Are you paid by the association?—I am.

6708. What does Mr. Eaton subscribe to the association?—Five guineas, yearly.

6709. You seconded Mr. Eaton, once, did you not?—No.

6710. Never?—Never.

6711. Did you go to London on a deputation?—Never.

6712. They give you more honour than is due to you, apparently; did you tell this man, Everett, that you would see about the gifts, at the time you were seeing him about his vote?—I did not.

6713. Had you asked him to vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Never.

6714. But you were seeing him about his vote?—Never.

6715. What did you go to him for, then?—He came to me.

6716. Did you never call upon him?—Never.

6717. Never at all?—Never.

6718. Did you call upon Kilpack?—I called upon Kilpack, twice the same night.

6719. Was that to canvass?—No; I was not canvassing.

6720. What did you call upon him for?—A person came to the room to me, and asked me to wait upon him; and I done so.

6721. For what purpose?—Why, to ask him if he would vote for Eaton and Hill, in the first instance.

6722. That is something like canvassing, is it not?—No; I consider a man who goes canvassing goes out with a book of some kind or other, and I refrain from doing so.

6723. If you go to ask a man for his vote, you do not consider that canvassing?—I think not.

6724. Then the book makes the canvass?—No; the canvass, is of course, a man going out for the day.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6725. What are the subscriptions to the Conservative Association?—It is to provide a room and papers for working men, to come and sit and read; nothing more.

6726. What other gentlemen subscribe to it?—Many gentlemen who I see around me now; guineas, half-guineas, five shillings.

6727. And that is spent in a room, and fire, and lights?—Yes, it is expended on fire, gas, salary, and rent, and other little matters connected with the association.

6728. It is not spent on the election in any way?—Certainly not; not one penny.

6729. And you, I think, you say yourself, did not canvass?—I did not.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN BURDON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

6730. ARE you a voter?—Yes.

6731. For whom did you vote?—Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.

6732. Do you know a voter named George Brown?—Yes.

6733. Are you the manager, or deputy-manager of any ward?—I am not a manager.

6734. What are you?—Well, I might be perhaps termed a manager, but I don't know, I am sure.

6735. Where do you live?—At Foleshill; I am not a manager.

6736. Mr. Justice Willes.] But why might you be called a manager?—Just simply because I went round with one or two to see one or two of the voters.

6737. Mr. Gates.] In what ward are you?—It is not a ward; it is a parish; the parish of Foleshill.

6738. You do not belong to either of the wards of the city?—No; I live at Foleshill, about a mile or a mile and a quarter from Coventry.

6739. You say you know a voter named George Brown?—Yes, I do.

6740. Did you know which way he was going to vote?—Yes; he had promised us to vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill, without asking.

6741. Did you see him on Thursday, the 12th of November?—Yes; I did.

6742. Was that in Coventry?—No, it was not; it was at Foleshill.

6743. Did he say anything at all then about voting?—He said that he did not think he could stay to vote, for he was going to Manchester; he had a letter come from his sister, and he was going to Manchester.

6744. Did you say anything to him then about making it worth his while to stay?—No; that was all the words that passed that day.

6745. Did you say to him that if he staid, his time should be given to him, and his fare back, or anything of that sort?—No; I said nothing about it; I saw him on the Friday morning, the 13th, the day afterwards, at 10 o'clock. He had been into the town, he said. He says, "I am going to Manchester, I am going by the 12 o'clock train." I was at the top of the Cross, with a man of the name of Yardley, and when I saw him, it was a quarter past 12. I said, "Are you going to Manchester?" He says, "I am too late for the train." We walked down Hereford-street, and then he said he should like to go into the Market Hall. We went into the Market Hall, nothing was said about money, or anything of the kind. He had asked whether the party could keep him; he said, he should like to stay to vote for Eaton and Hill, if the party could keep him over Tuesday; he asked me, if they could. I said, "No, they could not," for I had never heard anything about any money affairs at all.

6746. Did you upon that occasion say, you would give him his time and pay his fare back to Manchester?—No; I had no promise of money for anyone. I could not make any promise; It was not in my power to do so.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

6747. Did you go in the first instance to canvass George Brown?—I did not canvass him, because I saw him several times, and he says, "Am I on the Register?" and I says, "You are." He says, "I shall vote for Eaton and Hill."

6748. You did go from person to person trying to get votes?—I did; I went to several houses.

6749. You had a canvassing book given you?—No book was given me; I made out a book of my own.

6750. From the register?—Yes.

6751. Where did you get the register from?—Well, I had it at the Registration Court.

6752. What were you doing at the Registration Court?—I looked after the voters at the registration.

6753. Who employed you to do that?—The Registration Association.

6754. Were you paid for it?—Was I paid for the registration?

6755. Yes?—I was paid for attending at the court.

6756. What were you paid?—I think it was 5 s.

6757. For how many days?—Five shillings for two days, I believe.

6758. You were paid nothing afterwards, of course, at the election time?—No, not a half-penny, I will swear.

6759. Did you learn from Brown that he had got a pass to go to Manchester?—Yes.

6760. Did you try and persuade him to stop?—No.

6761. You never told him if he stopped he should lose nothing?—No.

6762. But have a pass found him?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

WILLIAM YARDLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

6763. ARE you a voter?—No.

6764. Do you know Burdon, the last witness?—Yes.

6765. Were you with him on the Thursday and on the Friday when he saw George Brown?—I was.

6766. Did you hear the conversation that took place between them?—I did.

6767. Did Burdon ever say to Brown that he would give him his time if he would stop and vote, and pay his fare back to Manchester, or anything of that sort?—No, nothing of the kind.

[The Witness withdrew.

W. Yardley.

JOHN BROWN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

- J. Brown.*
 19 February 1869. 6768. WHAT are you?—I am a druggist by trade.
 6769. Are you a voter?—Yes, I am.
 6770. How did you vote at the last election?—For Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.
 6771. Do you know a blind man, called William Jones?—I have known him for years.
 6772. He says that you offered him a load of coals, and you suggested that 1*l*. would do him good when setting up his basket of fish?—I did not.
 6773. Tell us what did take place?—I called upon him asking for his vote. He told me he wished to vote with us, but the screw had been put upon him by his own side. Therefore I said I would not press him any farther, and I said, “Jones, rather than sell my vote at that price I would collect for you,” but not among ourselves. He said directly afterwards, “If I vote for you I shall lose the coals at Christmas”; then I said to him, “Then I would turn out, and try and get them elsewhere.”
 6774. Did you promise him or offer him 1*l*. in any shape or way?—Most decidedly not.
 6775. He says, also, you gave him 6*d*. for something to drink?—I did so; I was sorry for the man’s position; it was not the first I gave him by any means.
 6776. Then afterwards you left him?—I left him and I have not seen him since.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

6777. Are you a ward manager or deputy ward manager?—I believe I am called so.
 6778. But are you so?—I believe I am.
 6779. You are in conjunction with James Mann in the same ward?—Yes.
 6780. Did you call, with James Mann, upon this blind man, Jones?—I did.
 6781. For the purposes of canvassing?—Just so.
 6782. I suppose you had your canvassing-book as deputy manager?—Undoubtedly.
 6783. Did you canvass him in the presence of his wife?—Undoubtedly I did.
 6784. Was anything at all said about stocking his basket of fish?—I told you what I said, that I would turn out if I were him and get 1*l*.
 6785. Did you say anything about stocking his basket with fish?—Certainly not.
 6786. What did you say about turning out and getting 1*l*.?—I said to him that rather than sell his vote at the price he was getting I would turn out and get 1*l*.
 6787. How was he to get the 1*l*.?—Well, I should fancy from the position the man showed himself to me to be in, anybody would help him to get 1*l*.

6788. By what means?—Among his friends.
 6789. Begging?—Yes; I would rather do it if I was in the position he was, if I had been that way.
 6790. You thought it better that he should get the 1*l* by begging than that he should vote for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—Just so, under the circumstances.
 6791. Two witnesses have stated that you offered him a load of coals; do you mean to contradict it?—I deny it, most positively.
 6792. You suggested that he should get the load of coals?—I said, “Rather than I would vote for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson under compulsion I would try and get them elsewhere.”
 6793. Where was he to get them elsewhere?—There were lots of Conservatives and Liberals besides the one that was going to give him the coals; it was charity, these coals.
 6794. Your idea was that if he did not vote for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson, but voted for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill, he could go and get the coals?—No; I said, rather than sell his vote at that price.
 6795. But you wanted him not to vote for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson?—Just so.
 6796. Then what you suggested to him was that he should vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Oh, dear no.
 6797. What did you call upon him for?—To ask him for his vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill. He told me then he decidedly wished to vote for us, but the screw had been put upon him by certain parties, and he felt that he could not do so without, perhaps, losing his livelihood.
 6798. Did you not then suggest to him that he should vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill, and get his coals elsewhere?—No; certainly not; I told him it would be much better as far as his position was concerned to vote for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson; I have not seen him since.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6799. After you told him that, you did not ask him again?—Decidedly not.
 6800. Mr. Justice Willes.] You asked him to vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—Just so.
 6801. He said he was going to vote for Mr. Carter and Mr. Jackson against his will, and that he would lose something if he did not?—Just so; that is it.

[The Witness withdrew.

JAMES MANN, recalled; and further Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

- J. Mann.*
 6802. We have had Mr. Brown here who said that he canvassed Jones, the blind man, with you?—He did.
 6803. Do you recollect anything being said about his vote?—We asked him for his vote and interest on the part of Messrs. Eaton and Hill, and he said, under the present circumstances he could not promise them; but he said he should have liked to support them, but he had friends who assisted him in different ways, and gave him coals at Christmas, and so on. Mr. Brown said that under the circumstances he would not press for his vote, in fact, he should not ask him again; he gave him 6*d*. and we left; and he distinctly said that the 6*d*. had nothing at all to do with his vote.
 6804. Brown was telling us that something was said about the man saying that he would not get his coals at Christmas?—I understood Jones to say, say, that they had given him some coals at Christmas, meaning Liberal friends.

6805. The last Christmas or the Christmas to come?—He did not say whether it was last Christmas or the Christmas to come.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

6806. Did you hear Mr. Brown say that Jones had better not sell his vote in that way?—I do not recollect Brown saying that.

6807. And that he had better turn out and get his coals elsewhere?—I do not recollect Mr. Brown saying that.

6808. Or get it elsewhere, or get coals from other people; you do not recollect his saying that?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

J. Mann.

1869.

JOHN PRIEST, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

6809. ARE you a voter?—Yes.

6810. And for whom did you vote?—For Eaton and Hill.

6811. Do you know another voter named Thomas Milliner?—I do.

6812. Did you call upon him with Mr. Cooke?—Yes.

6813. Will you tell us, in your own way, what took place when you and Cooke called upon him for his vote?—On the first occasion we delivered a bill, and on the next occasion we took a house-roll, and took the number of the house where he lived; we went to his house in the ordinary way that it is done along with other houses, and when we had done so, we gave up that book and we had nothing to do with Mr. Milliner, or any other man.

6814. Did either you or Cooke call him out, and ask him whether he could go with you for four or five days?—We never called him out at all, but spoke to him in his house.

6815. Did you ask him whether he could go with you for four or five days?—We never asked him any questions at all.

6816. And did you tell him he could have 5 s. a-day?—No; I deny that.

6817. Did you tell him he had a wife and family to consider, and that it would be better than being idle?—No; I never did.

6818. Did you say to him that if he would not go out, and you could depend upon him, you could give him 5 s.?—I had not 5 s. myself, nor five pence; I could not offer him 5 s.

6819. Then you say that you made use of no such language whatever?—I made use of no language of the sort.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

6820. Are you manager or deputy-manager?—I am no manager at all; I am only an ordinary man.

6821. Are you in the habit of going to the committee rooms?—I do not know the committee room; I have been in a committee room, but I am no manager.

6822. What do you mean by saying that you do not know a committee room, and you say that you have been in one?—I have been in the committee room years back, but I saw no name of a committee; I was in the house at the last election.

6823. I suppose you got your canvass book from there?—I never had a canvass book.

6824. Had Cooke one?—I can answer for myself; I had a house-roll book, but I had taken down the names myself.

6825. You know that messengers were employed?—Yes; I know that messengers were employed.

6826. At how much a day?—I cannot tell, I do not know at all; I had nothing.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6827. The house-roll book is the book which is made for the purpose of ascertaining the order in which the voters lie?—It is not made out; it is just the number of the house where a person lives.

6828. The object is to know where to call?—As a matter of course; it is not made out, it is a house-roll book, it is a plain book.

[The Witness withdrew.

J. Priest.

THOMAS COOKE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

6829. ARE you a voter?—Yes.

6830. Did you vote for Eaton and Hill?—Yes.

6831. Are you a manager or deputy-manager in your ward?—No.

6832. Were you with Priest, the last witness, making the house-roll list on the 9th November?—Yes.

6833. Do you recollect going to Thomas Milliner's house?—Yes.

6834. Did you go into it or not?—Yes; into it.

6835. Did either you or Priest call him out and ask him whether he would go with you for four or five days?—Certainly not.

6836. Did you further add, either of you, that it would be for 5 s. a day?—No, nothing of the sort.

6837. Did either of you say to him that he had got his wife and family to consider, and that it would be better than being idle?—No.

6838. Were you close by Priest at the time?—Yes.

6839. Did you hear Priest say to him that if he would not go out, and you could depend upon him, he would get 5 s. a day?—Certainly not.

6840. Or anything to that effect?—Nothing of the sort.

[The Witness withdrew.

T. Cooke.

CHARLES EDWARD VERLING GOATE, Esq., M.D., sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

- C. E. V. 6841. I BELIEVE you are a Surgeon or Physi-Goate, Esq. cian?—Both.
— 6842. Do you know a man of the name of 19 February Mayne, who has been mentioned in this inquiry?
1869. —I do.
6843. Have you been attending him?—I
have.
6844. Has he talked to you about his having had anything for his vote?—He has frequently stated that he has not.

Mr. Henry James objected to the question.

6845. Mr. Dugdale (to the Witness).] Have you conversed with his wife about it?—I have.

Mr. Henry James renewed his objection.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN SMITH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

- J. Smith. 6846. ARE you a voter?—Yes.
— 6847. What is your profession?—I am a Coal Merchant.
6848. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Eaton and Hill.
6849. Are you a ward manager or deputy ward manager?—Not at all.
6850. Do you know a man of the name of Edward Jackson, a weaver?—Yes.
6851. Did you and a man named Wheeler go to see him before the election?—Yes.
6852. Is it true that after some conversation
Wheeler said that he could give him four days' work if he would vote for Eaton and Hill?—
No.
6853. What was it that did take place?—I met him, and it was the first time I had met him since he had lost his wife, and I sympathised with him in his loss. I had known him all my lifetime, and he was in different circumstances from what I had known him, and I felt deep sympathy for the man. I asked him about his work, whether he had got any work to do, and he said he had not. I said, "Who are you going to vote for this time, Jackson?" and he said, "Well, I do not know; I have not made up my mind." I said, "Shall you vote for the Liberal party again?" and he said he did not know; he had not made up his mind; he would see me again about it.
6854. Did you promise him anything at all if he would vote?—Nothing at all.
6855. Then it is utterly untrue that either you or Wheeler ever said you would give him four or five days work if he would vote for Messrs.
Eaton and Hill?—Yes, utterly untrue.
6856. Did anybody say to him, "Come along, you may as well have two or three pounds"?—

No.

6857. Mr. Justice Willes.] Was anything said about two or three pounds?—No.

6858. Not by anybody?—Not a word.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

6859. You were an active supporter of Messrs.
Eaton and Hill?—Well, I took an interest in their return; but no further than having served them all the time they had come here.

6860. And you have taken an interest in this petition, I think?—Not at all.

6861. Have you not been to see any of the witnesses for the petitioner?—Not at all; not one.

6862. You have not been to see Shuttleworth?
—No.

6863. Did you not speak to him?—I met him in the street; I met him now, and I said, "Good afternoon, Shuttleworth."

6864. That is all you said to him?—That is all I said to him.

6865. Did you go to speak to this man Jackson about his vote?—No, I never went to his house; I do not know where he lives.

6866. But when you saw him in the street, you asked him how he was going to vote?—I asked him whether he was going to support the Liberals again.

6867. Did you ask him to vote for Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill?—I do not think I did.

6868. You say you said nothing at all to him about work?—Nothing at all.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN WHEELER was called; but did not appear.

SAMUEL HUNT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

- S. Hunt. 6869. ARE you a voter?—Yes.
— 6870. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill.
6871. Are you a ward manager or deputy ward manager?—Well, I did the registering for the ward.
6872. You are not a manager?—No.
6873. Did you see Edward Jackson on the 30th of October?—I did not.
6874. Did you see him on the Tuesday following the 30th?—I did not.
6875. Did you offer him any work, or press him to have work if he would vote for Mr.
Eaton and Mr. Hill?—I did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Chandos Leigh.

6876. You say you are not a ward manager; have you canvassed at all for Mr. Eaton and Mr.
Hill?—No.

6877. Did you canvass at all with Mr. Eaton or Mr. Hill?—No.

6878. Did you see Jackson at all during the election?—Oh, I might see him; he was often about the streets.

6879. Did you ever have a talk with Jackson about the election?—No.

6880. Nor never mentioned it all?—No, I never spoke to him about it.

[The Witness withdrew.

JEREMIAH MASON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

6881. WHAT are you?—A Weaver,
 6882. Are you a voter?—Yes.
 6883. Did you vote for Eaton and Hill?—
 Yes.
 6884. Do you know another voter named
 James Lamb?—Yes.
 6885. And he has a brother named John
 Lamb, has he not?—Yes.
 6886. Did you see John Lamb, the brother, the Wednesday week before the election?—No.
 6887. Did you see him, at all events, shortly before or after that time?—Not to my recollection; I never see him at all.
 6888. Did you ever, at any time, say to the brother John that you could help him to a pound or two, and ask him to mention it to his brother?
 —No.
 6889. On the 4th of November, did you see
 James Lamb himself?—No.
 6890. At all events, did you see him and have any conversation with him anywhere about that time?—Not to my recollection.
 6891. Did you promise to get him four or five days' work, and say you could get him one or two pounds for it?—No, I have no power of doing anything of the sort.
 6892. Did you say that you would do it?—
 Never.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

6893. You know both John Lamb and James
 Lamb, do you not?—Yes.
 6894. You did take a little interest in Mr.
 Eaton and Mr. Hill's election, did you not?—
 Yes.
 6895. Did you ask people for their votes?—
 No, not one.
 6896. Did you go out canvassing with Mr.
 Eaton and Mr. Hill?—No.

6897. Never with those gentlemen when they were canvassing, or asking for votes?—No.
 6898. That you say positively?—That I say positively.
 6899. Nor either of them?—Nor either of them.
 6900. Nor young Mr. Eaton?—Nor young Mr.
 Eaton.
 6901. Then what interest did you take in the election?—Nothing beyond taking a few circulars out.
 6902. Who gave you the circulars?—Mr.
 Patterson.
 6903. That you were not paid for?—No.
 6904. Do you recollect James Lamb coming and speaking about your buying some sleys?—
 Never.
 6905. That was never mentioned?—That was never mentioned.
 6906. What did he come to you about, about ten days before the election?—He never came to me at all.
 6907. How long was it before the election that you ever saw James Lamb?—Well, I could not say.
 6908. Did he never call upon you, say within a month, of the election?—He never called upon me upon any occasion.
 6909. Nor John Lamb?—Nor John Lamb.
 6910. Neither one nor the other?—Neither one nor the other.
 6911. Mr. Justice Willes.] Are you in work at present?—Yes, I have got work at present.
 6912. Were you in work at the time of the election?—No, I was not, and that made me go out doing all I could for the benefit of the cause in that respect.

[The Witness withdrew.

J. Mason.

 1869.

JAMES BARNACLE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

6913. ARE you a voter for Coventry?—Yes.
 6914. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Eaton and Hill.
 6915. There is a man named John Hall, who says that he saw you on the day of the polling in the "Newdegate Arms"?—I was there.
 6916. Did you see John Hall there?—I could not say that I did.
 6917. Did you give him a voting card, and ask him to go and vote for somebody else?—No.
 6918. Do you know anything at all about it except seeing him by accident in the "Newdegate Arms"?—No.
 6919. Did you promise him 10 s., whether he voted or not?—No.
 6920. William Sedgeley, another man, says he saw you in the "Newdegate Arms"; did you give him a card, or ask him to personate anybody, or offer him anything for so doing, or for voting?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

6921. You do know John Hall, do you not?—
 By sight.
 6922. You never spoke to him in your life, did you?—Well, I might have spoken to him in my life.
 275.

6923. Any of us might; but have you?—
 Well, I could not say that I have.
 6924. Could you say you have not?—Well, I should not like to swear I have not; but not to my knowledge.
 6925. Where do you live?—I live at 119,
 Spon-street.
 6926. Where were you on the Sunday before the election?—I really could not tell you where I was exactly on the Sunday.
 6927. Do you know Locker's-lane, at Foles-hill?—Yes.
 6928. Were you at Foleshill on the Sunday?
 —No, I do not believe that I was.
 6929. Can you tell me where you were?—I was in Coventry, in Spon-street.
 6930. Upon your oath, did you not see John Hall in Locker's-lane, at Foleshill, upon the Sunday?—No.
 6931. You swear that?—Yes.
 6932. Did you tell him that there was a job for him; to come to the "Newdegate Arms" upon the Tuesday, at eight o'clock?—I never told him anything of the kind.
 6933. Did you see him on the Sunday?—No.
 6934. That you are positive about?—Yes.

J. Barnacle.

- J. Barnacle.* 6935. And therefore, of course, you never could have told him then (and I presume you will say at any time) to come to the "Newdegate Arms"?—No.
6936. What were you doing at the "Newdegate Arms"?—I went there to see the state of the poll.
6937. What time was that?—I should think it was about half-past nine o'clock.
6938. Were there people breakfasting there?—No.
6939. Was there no eating and drinking going on?—I saw none.
6940. Who keeps it?—Thomas Eves.
6941. Did you hear anything said about a voting card of a man of the name of John Dyce?—No.
6942. And you never saw John Hall after the poll, did you?—No.
6943. Nor say one word to him?—No, I never said anything to him.
6944. Have you a brother of the name of William Barnacle?—Yes.
6945. Where does he live?—He is living in Coventry now.
6946. Was he in Birmingham at the time of the election?—Yes, he was residing in Birmingham at the time of the election.
6947. Did he come over here on the polling day?—Yes, he was here; he came here to see his friends; he had been away some time.
6948. So he chose the election day when he would be most likely, I suppose, to find them at home, and to talk to them and see them?—Yes.
6949. And he did come over, and you saw him?—Yes, I did.
6950. At the "Newdegate Arms"?—No.

6951. Where did you see him?—I saw him in Spon-street; he came to my house.

6952. When did he go back?—He went back on the same day—no, the day after.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6953. You had nothing whatever to do with that man Hall?—No.

6954. Mr. Justice Willes.] What is this "Newdegate Arms"?—It is a public-house, in Hill-street.

6955. Was there a committee-room there?—No, they called there with the state of the poll from the "King's Head."

6956. Did you say 'Thomas Eves was the landlord?—Thomas Eves is the landlord of the "Newdegate Arms."

6957. What had you to do with the election?—Nothing at all.

6958. Were you employed in any way?—No.

6959. What took you to the "Newdegate Arms"?—I went there to see the state of the poll, to see how we were getting on, as they called there before they took it into the committee-room.

6960. Did you see Hall there at all?—I might have seen him there, but I could not swear that I did; there was a great number of people there; I daresay there were 30 or 40 people there.

6961. Was William Eves or Charles Eves there?—I did not see either of them there.

6962. Was there any ward manager, or deputy-ward manager there?—I could not say; I do not know.

[The Witness withdrew.]

CHARLES STUART BLENKARN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

- C. S. Blenkarn.* 6963. WERE you engaged at the last election?—I was.
6964. What as?—A scrutineer.
6965. For Messrs. Eaton and Hill?—I was.
6966. Do you recollect a man of the name of Paul coming up with a polling-card in John Dyce's name?—I remember some party, but I do not know what the man's name was.
6967. Did you challenge him?—I did.
6968. On the part of Messrs. Eaton and Hill?—I did.
6969. And in consequence of that his vote was rejected?—It was.

Cross-examined by Mr. James.

6970. What became of the card?—What card?

6971. Did he not produce a voting-card?—I do not know whether he produced a voting-card or not; I did not notice those matters.

6972. What did you notice? You called yourself a scrutineer; did you not observe that?—The scrutineer's book was marked that the party was in America; and the remark I made to him when he presented himself was, that he must have come by telegraph, as he was in America that morning, and he must have got there very quickly.

6973. How did you know that he was in America that morning? You must have got at it very quickly. Did he produce no card?—Not that I am aware of.

6974. Did he say his name was John Dyce?—He did.

6975. And no card was produced, that you saw?—Not that I am aware of; I do not know whether he produced a voting-card or not.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6976. The scrutineers have a book with observations in it?—Yes.

6977. And the names of the different voters?—They have.

6978. And where they live and all that sort of thing?—Yes.

6979. And opposite this was the word "America"?—Yes.

6980. And when you saw that man you rejected him?—I did, no matter what party he came from.

6981. Whether he came with a card or not, when you saw "Dyce," you knew that the man was in America and you rejected him?—I did.

6982. Mr. Justice Willes.] You did not know what side he was going to vote upon?—I did not; I objected to him before the question was answered.

[The Witness withdrew.]

CHARLES EVES, sworn; Examined by Mr. Gates.

6983. ARE you a voter?—Yes.

6984. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Mr. Hill and Eaton.

6985. Do you know a voter named Alfred Paine, a dyer?—I know a person of the name of Paine.

6986. Did he come and speak to you two or three weeks before the election about some bait for fishing?—A person of the name of Paine called to ask me if I wanted any baits in September.

6987. Did you ask him whether you should put him down for four days' work, or did you tell him that you could put him down for four days' work, if he would vote for Eaton and Hill?—No.

6988. And that the days would be at 5 s. a day?—Nothing of the kind.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

6989. You are a deputy manager, I think?—Yes.

6990. And Mr. William Eves is a manager? C. Eves.
—Yes; my father.

6991. Have you a brother of the name of Thomas?—No. 19 February 1869.

6992. Is he any relation?—My uncle.

6993. And he keeps the "Newdegate Arms"?—Yes.

6994. He was rather an active supporter of Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill, I think, was he not?—I believe he voted for them.

6995. Nothing else?—That I do not know.

6996. Were you at the "Newdegate Arms" on the day of the polling?—No.

6997. Mr. Justice Willes.] Do you know of any attempt at personation?—No.

6998. What are you?—A watch manufacturer.

[The Witness withdrew.

WILLIAM BARNACLE, sworn, Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

6999. WERE you at Birmingham during the last election?—Yes.

7000. Are you a voter?—No.

7001. There is a man of the name of Lord, who says that he saw you at Birmingham; did he?—Yes.

7002. Did you give him 1 s. 6½ d.?—I lent him the money. He said, he wanted to come to the election, and I lent it him.

7003. Was that out of your own pocket?—Yes.

7004. Do you know Rose?—Yes.

7005. Did you ever tell Rose that he had better go over; that it would be all right; that he should be well satisfied?—No, I did not.

7006. Nor anything of the sort?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

7007. How long had you been in Birmingham before the election?—Two or three months.

7008. Working there?—Yes.

7009. You have not been in Coventry within those two or three months?—No.

7010. You had no letter, I suppose, nor any communication with anyone in Coventry, shortly before the election?—Not the slightest.

7011. Not from anyone?—No.

7012. Did you know how many Coventry voters came over from Birmingham the morning that you did?—I do not know that. W. Barnacle.

7013. Were there several?—Well, I believe there was.

7014. About how many, do you think?—There might be two or three.

7015. Those are several, certainly; but were there more than that?—Not that I am aware of.

7016. What train did you come over by?—I was in Coventry by about 11 o'clock.

7017. Were there other persons that you knew besides Rose and Lord at the train?—They did not come in the same train with me at all; I never see them come, and I do not know when they came.

7018. What did you come over to Coventry for that election day?—To see my brother and my friends.

7019. And you went back the next day?—Yes.

1720. Mr. Justice Willes.] You did not try to vote?—No.

7021. Mr. Henry James.] Did you go to the "Newdegate Arms" at all?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

WILLIAM DICKENSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

7022. YOUR name was vouched, just now, as being the manager of the ward of Spon-street, Saint Thomas's?—Yes.

7023. Did you know anything of a man of the name of Moore?—I knew him.

7024. Had he anything to do with the election?—Not to my knowledge.

7025. Did you give him any directions or authority or anything of the sort?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

7026. You were a manager of the ward, were you not?—Yes.

275.

7027. What money have you received?—£. 55 from Mr. Blundell. W. Dickinson.

7028. Have you rendered an account?—No, I have not.

7029. Where is your account?—I can fetch it, if it is required.

7030. Did you put down everything you spent from time to time?—Yes.

7031. From whom did you receive the 55 l.?—From Mr. Blundell.

7032. When?—Well, I could not tell you exactly when, but it was previously to the election.

7033. In one sum?—No.

7034. Did

W. 7034. Did you have any interview with Mr. Blundell since the election, or have you seen him at all?—No, I have not.
 — 7035. Is the balance of the account in your favour or against you?—There is about 9*l.* difference.
 19 February 7036. In which way?—In my favour.
 1869. 7037. You have the 9*l.*?—No; I want 9*l.* more.
 7038. They owe you 9*l.*?—Yes.
 7039. So you spent 64*l.*?—Yes; 64*l.*
 7040. Instead of 55*l.*—Yes.
 7041. Why have you not applied for it?—Because on account of Mr. Blundell's illness; I thought it would come eventually, if I made an application for it.

7042. As manager of the ward you knew that the election agent was sending in the accounts?—I was never applied to for it, and I expected Mr. Blundell would have sent round for it.

7043. Have you the account made out?—Yes, I have it at home.

7044. Was there an advertisement put in the paper asking all claims and bills to be sent in?—I believe not.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

7045. How many voters are there in the Sponstreet St. Thomas Ward?—There are 1,102, I believe, on the register.

7046. And this 64*l.* covers the whole expense?—Yes.

7047. You have your account?—Yes.

7048. And you can go and fetch it?—Yes; shall I fetch it?

7049. If you please.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN BROWN WHEELER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Dugdale.

J. B. 7050. ARE you a voter?—Yes.
 Wheeler. 7051. For whom did you vote?—For Hill and Eaton.

7052. Were you along with John Smith, coal dealer, and did you see Edward Jackson before the election?—Yes.

7053. A weaver in Brewery-street?—Yes.

7054. Are you a manager or deputy manager?—No.

7055. Did you tell Jackson that you would get him four days' work if he would vote for Eaton and Hill?—No.

7056. Did you say anything about giving him 2*l.* or 3*l.*?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN BLUNDELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

J. Blundell. 7057. You, I believe, have been very ill, have you not?—Yes.

7058. Are you a voter?—I am.

7059. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

7060. For Eaton and Hill, I believe?—I did.

7061. What were you at the election?—I was nothing particular, except that I paid the accounts for the agent of election; bills, and so on.

7062. You received the cheques, I believe, from Mr. Neale?—Yes.

7063. Does that book (handing a book to the Witness) show the money that you received; what did you receive from Mr. Neale?—I can tell you (referring to a book); I received 1,000*l.* in the whole, in several sums.

7064. In what sums were they?—On the 28th of October, one cheque for 350*l.*; November the 4th, three cheques for 200*l.*; the 12th, two cheques for 100*l.*; the 14th, three cheques for 350*l.*

Mr. Justice Willes remarked that the Witness had not been assailed as to his disposition of the money.

7065. Mr. Huddleston (to the Witness).] Did you receive strict orders that no improper payments were to be made?—I did.

7066. And did you take care that you transmitted those orders to the persons to whom you gave the money?—I did.

7067. We understand that a sum of 505*l.* was put down, "Payments for hire of rooms, canvass, polling, making house roll list of voters, directing and distributing and soliciting voting cards, addresses, and handbills, and for canvassing out-voters, and canvass books." How is that sum made up?—It was paid in the various wards and the out parishes, for the purposes you have mentioned.

7068. And for no other purposes?—For no other purposes.

7069. Have you got the accounts as far as you have been able to get them?—I have.

7070. Did your illness prevent your inquiring about them all?—Well, it did interfere with my getting the accounts in.

7071. Just let me look at the accounts you have got to make up that sum of 505*l.*?—This book will show you the various wards and the sums in each.

7072. What is this "Bailey"?—That is Bailey-lane Ward, that is the first ward.

7073. What is "J. N."?—That was John Newark.

7074. And he had 5*l.*?—He had 5*l.*

7075. For the purpose?—Of the legal expenses of the ward.

7076. What is the size of Bishop-street Ward?—I should think it has about 1,500 voters.

7077. I see that Mr. Kilbey had three sums of 25*l.* each, that is 75*l.*?—Just so.

7078. And I think he said that something was due to him?—I have not been able to see him respecting the accounts.

7079. You have been ill?—Yes, I have.

7080. Broadgate Ward, who is that?—That is Mr. Clair, I think.

7081. No, it is "H. H.," I think?—It is Mr. Hedger, he had 30*l.*

7082. Then there is Cross Cheping Ward; at any rate here is a list of all the persons, and that makes up, I think?—The sum total is 505*l.*, including the out parishes.

7083. Are

7083. Are you aware of any improper payment of any character whatsoever?—I am not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

7084. What are you?—I am an accountant and house agent.

7085. Those accounts are not very complicated, are they?—No, they are not.

7086. Had you anything to do with the election of March 1868?—Yes.

7087. This book, I think you will agree with me, only shows the sums you have paid to each person?—Nothing more.

7088. Can you give me the amounts that you received from the different ward managers?—I have not had any account rendered.

7089. From anyone?—Not from anyone.

7090. All this shows is, that at certain times, I presume mostly before the election, you gave out certain sums?—I did.

7091. Have you the slightest idea of the expenses of Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill, at the last election in 1868?—Nothing more than what the published account shows.

7092. But where did you get the results of the published account if you had no accounts in from the ward manager?—Those sums which I paid I guess were expended, or nearly so; I paid them in various sums as they wanted them; they had expended the sums that I had given them before.

7093. Supposing Mr. James Kilbey has a claim against you of 25*l.* more than the 75*l.* he has had from you, do you know whether he has that claim or not?—I do not.

7094. And you do not know whether any one of the other 11 ward managers has any claim or not?—I do not.

7095. Suppose for instance that those 11 managers had all a claim of 20*l.* against you more than you paid, which they may have, Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hill may be called upon for 220*l.* more than you have returned?—They may have, but I do not know that they had any claim against me.

7096. Why did you not ask them whether they had a claim, before you returned that as fulfilling the statutory requirement?—I concluded that the money I gave them was quite sufficient to meet all their expenses, and that they did not require any more, and had none to return, as they did not come to me.

7098. Now let us dissect it; how have you arrived at the sum of 505*l.* as representing the things that are put against it, such as messengers, hire of rooms, and so forth; have you any analysis of that?—I have not; I merely gave it to them as they required the money to meet their expenses.

7099. Who guessed at that 505*l.*?—It was not a guess; that was the money actually paid.

7100. But you paid more than that?—Not for the wards.

7101. Is that more than you had paid into the wards?—That is the exact sum.

7102. Then you put that down as being the 275*l.*

exact sum, without having particulars from the ward managers?—I did. J. Blundell.

7103. And you got no receipts, and made no inquiry?—I did not. 19 February 1869.

7104. Mr. Seymour has told us this morning that you have rendered him a rough account, as he termed it, from which he made out these accounts; did you give him any other accounts whatever, except the amount of the sums you had paid out?—And of the bills I had paid.

7105. Are those bills in addition to those sums that you paid out?—Yes.

7106. Was any account given of the 505*l.* items?—I gave the amount paid into the various wards; I had no control over the money after it left my hands.

7107. But as to the mode of expenditure by the persons to whom you gave the money to expend, have you given any account whatever to Mr. Seymour?—I have not; I have had none returned to me.

7108. Have you been about lately?—I have not been about these six weeks.

7109. Have you come out of your house for the first time to-day?—I have been about a day or two; I have been about in a car or a cab for a day or two, but not more than three or four times for this month.

7110. Anyone would have known where to find you this last month or six weeks, I suppose?—Yes.

7111. You have not been able to roam about?—No, I have not.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

7112. I believe you have been suffering from rheumatic fever?—Yes.

7113. At the time the accounts were made up by Mr. Seymour, were you capable of leaving your bed?—I was not.

7114. How long before that had you been confined with rheumatic fever?—I should think about a fortnight.

7115. If this illness had not come upon you, would you have gone into the accounts of the different ward managers, so as to have returned them to Mr. Seymour?—I should, undoubtedly.

7116. You say there was a rough account of 505*l.* which was money that you actually paid to the different ward managers; and they are in this book?—Yes.

7117. You have had experience in electioneering?—I have.

7118. Would that sum, so divided amongst the different wards, fairly represent the legitimate expenses of each ward?—Yes; I consider it a very moderate sum for each ward for the time the election business was about.

7119. Just let me see that rough account that you showed Mr. Seymour?—This is the rough account that I rendered to Mr. Seymour (producing a document, and handing it to the learned counsel); that is the detailed account of the whole expenditure.

7120. Then those are other sums which you expended?—Yes, those are the bills.

7121. And the vouchers are given to Mr. Seymour?—To Mr. Seymour; here is a continuation of that account; that was made at the time I was ill in bed, from my dictation. I could not make it up myself.

7122. Mr.

J. Blundell.
1869.

7122. Mr. Henry James (through the Court).] Do you know whether the ward manager of Broadgate Ward is Mr. William James Hedger?—No.
7123. It is so returned to us?—It is Mr. Henry Hedger; I saw him; he was about. His father might have deputed him to act for him, but I considered his father was the ward manager.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Huddleston stated that that was the case for the respondents.

JOHN SHUTTLEWORTH was recalled, and confronted in the witness-box with James Mann.

J. Shuttleworth.

7124. Mr. Justice Willes (to Shuttleworth).] LOOK at that man (pointing to Mann); what do you say of him?—He was the man that gave me the money.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ELIZABETH SHUTTLEWORTH, recalled; and further Examined.

E. Shuttleworth.

7125. Mr. Justice Willes.] Is that the man you spoke of (pointing to Mann)?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

EMMA WILSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

E. Wilson.

7126. Do you live next door to the Shuttleworths?—Opposite.

7127. Of course you know them very well by sight, at all events?—Yes.

7128. Do you remember the Friday before the election?—Yes.

7129. Did you see anything of Mr. Shuttleworth then?—Yes; I seen him there several times.

7130. Did you see James Mann at all go into the house?—Not on the Friday.

7131. Did you see him go there on the Saturday?—Yes.

7132. Do you know where Mrs. Shuttleworth was then?—Mrs. Shuttleworth was gone out.

7133. About what time of the day was it that you saw Mann go there?—Between three and four o'clock; getting towards dusk.

7134. Did he go in?—Yes.

7135. When Mrs. Shuttleworth went out, what did she do with the key of her house?—She left the key at my house.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

7136. Is your husband a voter?—Yes.

7137. For whom did he vote?—For Mr. Eaton and Hill.

7138. Is Mrs. Shuttleworth in the habit of leaving her key at your house?—Yes, frequently, till this last fortnight.

7139. What day of the month was the polling-day?—I cannot remember what day of the month it was.

7140. What day of the week?—On a Tuesday.

7141. When Mrs. Shuttleworth left her key with you, how soon was it before Mr. Mann came there on the Saturday?—On the morning.

7142. Who got the key from you?—Mr. Shuttleworth, between three and four o'clock in the afternoon.

7143. What became of you; did you stop in your house?—Yes.

7144. How soon after he got the key did you see Mr. Mann there?—In a few minutes.

7145. Were you in your house all the time between the time when you got the key and the time that you saw Mann?—Yes, I was at the door, cleaning my doorway.

7146. And I suppose also looking at Mr. Shuttleworth's door?—Yes.

7147. And you saw that she did not go in?—She was not in.

7148. You took particular note of that?—Yes, because I saw her come home at night.

7149. But you saw her come home frequently; when did anyone first come to you and ask you about this?—Well, there has nobody been to me.

7150. Have you been to anyone?—No.

7151. How did they know that you stood at your door cleaning it and saw her come in?—I will tell you. Mr. Shuttleworth came over a few minutes after Mr. Mann had gone, and said—

7152. I do not want to know what Mr. Shuttleworth said to you, but my question to you is, when you first told anyone, or anyone came to you, about your having seen Mr. Shuttleworth there on the Saturday?—I told one of the shop-mates yesterday.

7153. You recollect thoroughly that it was on the Saturday?—It was.

7154. Do you know that he was there on other occasions besides the Saturday?—No.

7155. You only saw him once?—No.

7156. And you did not see him on the Friday or upon the nomination day?—No.

7157. It came to your mind, but are you quite sure that it must have been the Saturday?—I have thought of it several times before yesterday, but I have never said it to anybody.

7158. What made you think about it several times before yesterday?—Because there have been such rumours about.

7159. You heard it said that Mr. Mann had been to Mr. Shuttleworth to give him money?—No; I never heard that he had been to Shuttleworth to give any money.

7160. What were the rumours about?—That Mr. Shuttleworth was going to pledge his word that he had had so much money on the Saturday.

7161. Did you know that he had had the money on the Saturday?—Yes.

7162. Did you know that it was rumoured too that Mrs. Shuttleworth was present?—Yes.

7163. And

7163. And then you recollect in your mind that she was not present?—Yes.

7164. And you said nothing about it to anyone?—Not till yesterday.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

7165. You say that you know that this was the Saturday because Shuttleworth came over and said something to you after Mr. Mann left; what was it that Mr. Shuttleworth said?—

Mr. Henry James objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Willes overruled the objection.

E. Wilson.
1869.

7166. Mr. Huddleston (to the Witness).] What was it Shuttleworth said to you?—He asked me for some water for his tea, and he said his wife had not come home, and he did not know when she would come home.

7167. And you are sure that that was on the Saturday before the polling day?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN SHUTTLEWORTH, re-called; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

7168. WHEN was it you first went and made a statement to Mr. Kirby?—He came to our house.

7169. After you made the statement to Mr. Kirby, did you go into the workhouse?—It was before that.

7170. You made the statement to Mr. Kirby's clerk first, did you not, and then you went into the workhouse after?—Yes.

7171. Mr. Wheatley is the master in the workhouse, is he not?—He is the overlooker.

7172. Did you ask Mr. Wheatley to let you go out of the workhouse, as you had something on your mind? (The Witness hesitated.)

7173. Did you say so?—I did not ask him. He said as he could send me with a man as was on the ground to a gentleman in the town.

7174. Did you tell him that you had something on your mind?—I told him that I had.

7175. That you had something on your mind?—Yes.

7176. What was it?—Well, I do not know; I was confused.

7177. When you got out of the workhouse were you going to Mr. Dewes's office?—A man of the name of Greenway went with me.

7178. Were you going to Mr. Dewes's office?—I did not know where he was going to take us to; he took us there.

7179. Did you meet Mr. Nunn? (The Witness hesitated.)

William Nunn was directed to stand up.

7180. Mr. Huddleston (to the Witness).] Did you see that gentleman (pointing to Nunn) when you came out of the workhouse, as you were with Greenway? (The Witness hesitated.)

7181. Did you see him?—Yes, I see him.

7182. Did you tell him that you wanted to make a clean breast of it, and that you were going to Mr. Dewes's office?—No, I did not say that.

J.
Shuttleworth.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

7183. Who is this man Greenway that came to you?—He is a man working at the workhouse.

7184. Did he ask you to go anywhere?—Mr. Wheatley told me that he could send him with me.

7185. Did he say where to?—To a gentleman in the town, but he did not say who.

7186. Did Mr. Wheatley first speak to you about it?—He spoke to me first; he sent one of the men, and told me to come up to him.

7187. And then he told you that he would send Greenway with you to a gentleman in the town?—Yes.

7188. Did they take you anywhere before they took you to Mr. Dewes's office?—I went with them to the "King's Head."

7189. With Greenway?—Yes.

7190. Did they give you anything to drink?—We had some drink in the tap-room.

7191. You, I suppose, did not, of course, pay for it; did Greenway pay for it?—No; it was brought in.

7192. Whom did you see at the "King's Head"?—I see two or three, but I did not know them, or three or four in the place we were in.

7193. Do you know who they were?—I did not know.

7194. How much did you have to drink at the "King's Head"?—A pint, I think, or perhaps two pints.

7195. And then they took you to Mr. Dewes's?—Yes.

7196. What is your age?—I am 69.

[The Witness withdrew.

ZACHARIAH WHEATLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

7197. ARE you the overlooker at the workhouse?—Yes.

7198. Was this man Shuttleworth in the workhouse?—No; he was working in the yard, in the stone-yard.

7199. As a pauper, or how?—He had three days' work there.

7200. Did he ask you anything, did he ask permission to go out?—Yes; he did.

275.

opinion about a paper that he had signed in reference to Mr. Mann.

Z. Wheatley.

7202. Who?—Shuttleworth.

7203. At Mr. Kirby's office?—He did not tell me he had signed one but in reference to Mr. Mann, and that he was very much troubled in his mind ever since he had done it, and he says, "What would you do in the matter?" I says, "If there is anything on your mind make a clean breast of it." He said he would, but how was he do it? "The best thing," I says, "you can do is to go to

S. Wheatley. to that gentleman in Hay-lane; I dare say he will take down your evidence, and you can make a clean breast of it.”

1869.

7204. Hay-lane is Mr. Dewes's office?—I expected that was the place.

7205. And then did he go away with Greenway?—He went away with Greenway, and 32 more that day.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

7206. Have you a vote?—Yes.

7207. For whom did you vote?—Eaton and Hill.

7208. And you were rather active in the election, and you asked people to vote for them?—Certainly not.

7209. You did not speak to anybody on the subject?—Never.

7210. But you voted for them?—I voted for them.

7211. You, of course, did not give Greenway any money to pay for drink?—Certainly not.

7212. You knew Mr. Dewes was collecting evidence on the part of the sitting Members?—I knew he was connected with it.

7213. But you knew he had charge of the petition?—I knew he had something to do with it.

7214. That was the reason you told the man to go there?—I did not tell him to go there until he asked me where he had better go, and I said “To that gentleman in Hay-lane.” I did not say Mr. Dewes's office.

7215. To which gentleman did you refer?—The gentleman in Hay-lane; I expect it was Mr. Dewes.

7216. Who else was it but Mr. Dewes?—I do not know that it was anybody else but Mr. Dewes.

7217. You knew it was Mr. Dewes?—I expect it was Mr. Dewes.

7218. Had you any doubt about it?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Huddleston.

7219. But what you said was that he had better go down to the gentleman in Hay-lane?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM NUNN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Huddleston.

W. Nunn.

7220. DID you meet that man Shuttleworth with Greenway?—I met him in the King's Head-yard on Friday morning.

7221. What did he say to you?—He said the paper he had signed was all false, and that he wished to make a fresh statement.

7222. What are you?—A grocer by trade.

7223. Living in this town?—In this town.

7224. And a voter?—And a voter.

7225. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Eaton and Hill.

Cross-examined by Mr. Henry James.

7226. Did you see anybody else at the King's Head-yard at that time?—There were several in the yard.

7227. Do you know whether Shuttleworth had had anything to drink at the time?—I do not know at all; he followed me down to Mr. Dewes's office, and it was there that Mr. Dewes said he would have nothing to do with it.

7228. Did he appear to you to be at all in drink?—Not at all.

[The Witness withdrew.]

GEORGE TAYLOR, sworn; Examined by Mr. Henry James.

G. Taylor.

7229. WHAT are you?—A Surveyor.

7230. Have you been to this house of Shuttleworth's?—Yes.

7231. Does that correctly represent the ground floor (handing a plan to the Witness)?—It does.

7232. Have you made that plan to-day?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Justice Willes asked Mr. James whether he intended to make any point upon the treaty contained in the letters.

Mr. James replied in the affirmative, and stated that there were only two letters which he thought it necessary to refer to, but he had the result of these letters sufficiently upon the evidence of Mr. Staveley Hill.

Mr. Justice Willes stated that the letters must be put in regularly. The same were read as follows:

“14 October 1868.

“My dear Sir,—I saw Hill last night, and promised I would call upon you to-day re Coventry. I had a good deal to attend to, however, and could not get into the city.

“My object in seeing you was to arrive at an understanding which hereafter could admit of no doubt. Hill having left this in my hands, it would be false delicacy on my part to ask you to let us have a letter from you, clearly defining, no matter how briefly, the basis upon which we stand.

“I take it to be as follows:

“First, that Hill, under no eventuality, is to pay anything but his own personal expenses. Second. That no matter what course the election may take, you will bear him harmless in all election expenses. Third. That should any question arise during the contest as between you and him, it shall be referred to some mutual friend named by yourself, whose decision shall be final. Fourth. That you mutually agree to be loyal and true to each other.

“Nothing

"Nothing can be clearer than this, I think, and if you so understand it, then kindly write me a line to that effect; I will keep a copy of this letter, and will ask you to do the same. 19 February 1869.

"I shall be at the 'Dolphin,' Southampton, for some days, so kindly address your reply there; I have had very satisfactory letters from Messrs. Lynes and Rotherham, who seem in great feather as to our success.

"H. W. Eaton, Esq., M.P."

"I am, faithfully yours,
"Frederick Gray.

"15 October 1868.

"My dear Sir,—In reply to your note, dated yesterday, which has been forwarded to me here, I think there can be no possible misunderstanding between Mr. Hill and myself as to the basis upon which he has consented to contest Coventry with myself; I think your statement of our understanding to be perfectly correct, and I accept it in all its particulars.

"As you suggest, I will keep your note, which I consider binding.

"Believe me, yours very truly,
"Henry W. Eaton.

"Frederick Gray, Esq."

Mr. Huddleston was heard to sum up the evidence on the part of the sitting Members.

Mr. James was heard in reply.

WILLIAM JAMES HEDGER, SWORN.

7233. Mr. Justice Willes.] ARE you a District Manager?—No.

7234. You are the son of the district manager?—Yes.

7235. Was it then your father who was the district manager?—My father.

7236. What is your father's Christian name?—Henry.

7237. What is your name?—William James; there is a mistake in the list. They have had it for some time "William James Hedger," instead of "Henry Hedger."

7238. Did you receive that telegram (handing a paper to the Witness)?—Yes.

7239. Who is Mr. Hooper?—I cannot say who he is; I will give you an explanation respecting this.

7240. First answer my question; had you ever any business with Mr. Hooper?—No.

7241. Were you very much surprised to receive that telegram?—Well, I was going to give you an explanation.

7242. I want first to have my questions answered. Were you very much surprised?—No; not after the letter I received first.

7243. You received a letter?—Yes.

7244. Where is the letter?—I cannot find it; it was some time before the election taking place, that I received a letter from him, brought by two men, two of the body of commissionaires; two serjeants. He had sent them to me to detect bribery and treating during the election, and they were here about a week.

7245. Are they the two men referred to in the telegram?—Yes.

7246. Those are the men that are referred to in that letter?—Those are the men.

7247. Had they any reference to the two men who came down, as we learn, from London to vote?—No nothing whatever.

7248. Nor to any voters?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

Adjourned to To-morrow, at Ten o'clock.

Mr. James was further heard in reply.

R E P O R T.

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

COURT for the Trial of an Election Petition for the Borough of Drogheda, between Sir F. Leopold McClintock, Petitioner, and Benjamin Whitworth, Respondent.

THE Petition (a copy of which is hereto annexed) between the aforesaid parties came on for trial before me at Drogheda on the 15th, 16th, 18th, and 19th days of January 1869, and thereupon I determined as follows :—

First. That Benjamin Whitworth, Esq., is not duly elected a Burgess to serve in the present Parliament for the borough and county of the town of Drogheda.

Second. That said election for said borough and county of the town of Drogheda is a void election.

Third. That Benjamin Whitworth, Esq., was, by himself and by his agents, guilty of undue influence at the said election for said borough and county of the town of Drogheda.

Fourth. That a system of intimidation was organised and carried out at the last election for the said borough and county of the town of Drogheda, subversive of the freedom of election, and outrages were committed which were calculated to deter, and did, in fact, deter a considerable number of voters from exercising their franchise at the last election.

Fifth. That Benjamin Whitworth, Esq., shall pay the costs of this Petition.

And I do accordingly hereby certify to the Right Honourable the Speaker of the House of Commons—

First. That the said Benjamin Whitworth, Esq., is not duly elected a Burgess to serve in the present Parliament for the borough and county of the town of Drogheda.

Second. That said election for said borough and county of the town of Drogheda is a void election.

Third. That Benjamin Whitworth, Esq., was, by himself and by his agents, guilty of undue influence at the said election for said borough and county of the town of Drogheda.

Fourth. That a system of intimidation was organised and carried out at the last election for the said borough and county of the town of Drogheda, subversive of the freedom of election, and outrages were committed which were calculated to deter, and did, in fact, deter a considerable number of voters from exercising their franchise at the last election for said borough of the county of the town of Drogheda.

Dated this Twenty-fifth day of January, One thousand Eight hundred and Sixty-nine.

WILLIAM KEOGH,
One of the Judges on the Rota for the trial of Election Petitions in Ireland.

This certificate is accompanied by a copy of the evidence given at the trial, as taken by the shorthand-writer of the House of Commons, sworn by me pursuant to the Statute.

WILLIAM KEOGH.

IN THE COMMON PLEAS.

THE PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

ELECTION for the County of the Town of Drogheda, holden on the 18th November 1868, being the day of Nomination; the 20th November 1868 being the day of Polling; and 21st day of November 1868 being the day of the Declaration of the Poll.

THE PETITION of Sir Francis Leopold McClintock, of No. 21, Merrion-square North, in the County of the City of Dublin, Knight, Captain in Her Majesty's Royal Navy, whose name is subscribed.

1. Your Petitioner was a candidate at the above election.
2. Your Petitioner states that the election was holden on the 21st day of November, in the year of our Lord 1868, when Benjamin Whitworth, Francis Brodigan, and your Petitioner were candidates, and the Returning Officer has returned Benjamin Whitworth as being duly elected.
3. Your Petitioner states that upon several days immediately preceding the election addresses and speeches of an exciting and inflammatory nature were delivered in the public streets of Drogheda by the said Benjamin Whitworth and several other persons, in his presence, and with his knowledge and consent, for the purpose of urging and inciting a number of persons to use force in order to intimidate and prevent the electors from voting for your Petitioner or the said Francis Brodigan, and to compel them to vote for the said Benjamin Whitworth.
4. A large number of men and women were hired by the said Benjamin Whitworth, or with his knowledge and consent, for the purpose of intimidating electors in order to induce them to vote for the said Benjamin Whitworth, or to refrain from voting for your Petitioner or the said Francis Brodigan.
5. Several members of the Roman Catholic priesthood improperly exercised their spiritual influence over many of the electors for the purpose of constraining them to vote for the said Benjamin Whitworth, and to prevent them from voting for your Petitioner or the said Francis Brodigan.
6. Upon the 18th day of November 1868, the day of the nomination of candidates, the Court-house, where the election was to be held, was taken possession of by a riotous mob, consisting of the friends and supporters of the said Benjamin Whitworth, who made an attack upon your Petitioner and his proposer and seconder, and several other of his supporters, and by actual force expelled them from the Court-house, inflicting severe bodily injuries upon them.
7. Upon the 20th day of November 1868, being the polling day, several thousand persons, friends and supporters of the said Benjamin Whitworth, armed, some with fire-arms and others with bludgeons and sticks, attacked voters who wished and had promised to vote for your Petitioner, and inflicted very severe wounds and other bodily injuries upon them, and forcibly prevented many of them from recording their votes, and also attacked a large escort of cavalry, infantry, and police, who were acting as an escort for the protection of voters, and caused such terror and alarm in the minds of the electors, that many who had promised to vote for the said Francis Brodigan, and some who had promised to vote for your Petitioner, were induced, by intimidation, to vote for the said Benjamin Whitworth; and many electors who had promised to vote for your Petitioner, and had come long distances to do so, and were most anxious to do so, if they could, without risk of their lives, were deterred from going to the poll and recording their votes.
8. Your Petitioner charges that the offence of undue influence at the said election was committed by the said Benjamin Whitworth and a great number of other persons, with his knowledge and consent; and that an organised system of intimidation and violence was established by the said Benjamin Whitworth and his friends and agents; and that the said Benjamin Whitworth could at any time have restrained the rioters from acts of violence if he had been willing to do so.
9. Your Petitioner alleges that if the electors had been allowed to vote according to their wishes, without any intimidation or coercion, your Petitioner would have been returned at the above election as a Burgess to serve in Parliament for the said county of the town of Drogheda.

Wherefore your Petitioner prays that it may be determined that the said Benjamin Whitworth was not duly elected or returned, and that the above election was void.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN before the Right Honourable Mr. Justice Keogh, on the TRIAL of the ELECTION
PETITION for the BOROUGH of DROGHEDA, at the Court House, Drogheda.

Friday, 15th January 1869.

McCLINTOCK	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	Petitioner.
WHITWORTH	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	Respondent.

Mr. McDonogh, Q.C., the Hon. David Plunkett, Q.C., and Mr. Ryland, appeared as Counsel for the Petitioner. Mr. P. J. Mayne appeared as Agent, 15 January 1869.

Mr. Denis C. Heron, Q.C., Mr. Christopher Pallas, Q.C., and Mr. Hamill, appeared as Counsel for the Respondent. Mr. Henry Clinton appeared as Agent.

Mr. McDonogh was heard to open the allegations of the Petition.

THOMAS PLUNKETT CAIRNS, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

1. I BELIEVE that you are a Magistrate for the county of Meath?—I am.

2. And an elector of the town of Drogheda?—Yes.

3. The election for the town of Drogheda being held on Friday, the 20th of November, 1868, do you recollect on the Tuesday week preceding that Friday meeting Sir Leopold McClintock?—I think it was on the Wednesday.

4. The 11th?—Yes.

5. You came down from Dublin?—I went on the arrival of the half-past 11 train, to the station.

6. Then, just say what occurred shortly after your arrival in Drogheda?—I was introduced to Sir Leopold McClintock, and subsequently met him at a meeting of Conservatives, who came together for the purpose of hearing his views upon political matters.

7. And he was adopted, I believe?—He was at that meeting adopted by the Conservatives as their candidate, and resolutions were passed.

8. Mr. Heron.] What was the date of that?—On Wednesday, the 11th of November, one week before the day of the nomination.

9. Mr. Plunkett.] Then, I believe that Sir Leopold McClintock returned to Dublin?—He returned to Dublin on that evening, and returned here on the following Friday morning.

10. That was the 13th?—Yes.

11. Did you again meet him?—I met him 27.

again on the arrival of the train, and accompanied him with some other gentlemen on his canvass for a part of the town on the south side of the river. T. P. Cairns, Esq.

12. How was he received?—He was very well received upon that occasion.

13. Was there any violence?—Not the slightest disposition to violence, and no incivility offered.

14. Did you pursue the canvass on the next day, or did he pursue it in your company?—I was with him for a very short time on the following day, but he pursued it, I understand, with others.

15. Whilst you were him, how was he received?—He was very well received, civilly and respectfully.

16. Well, then, Sunday intervening, were you with him on Monday?—Yes, on Monday, accompanied by several gentlemen, we proceeded to canvass West-street.

17. Will you tell his Lordship how he was received on Monday?—There was a very different feeling exhibited then; much more disposition to interfere with our canvass. We were hooted as we went from house to house.

18. Will you tell his Lordship how Sir Leopold was received in West-street?—I say that there was distinctly much more disposition shown to interfere with our canvass, and they hooted us from house to house. A mob attended us during our canvass, who were evidently hostile.

19. Did you recognise any individuals among that

T. P. Cairns, Esq.
15 January 1869.
that mob?—Not amongst those composing the mob. Upon coming out of Davies's shop, close to this in West-street, there was some disturbance. I was one of the last of my party who left the shop, and I found a great deal of excitement amongst the mob immediately about the door. Mr. Henry Moore, of West-street, was one of our party, and I saw him. I understood from those around me —

20. Mr. Heron.] Just say what you saw yourself?—I saw Mr. Verdon and Mr. Clinton amongst the mob.

21. Mr. Plunkett.] Who is Mr. Clinton?—Mr. Clinton is Mr. Whitworth's conducting agent; Mr. Verdon is also a solicitor.

22. Did you observe their conduct then?—They were talking to Mr. Moore in a very angry and excited way. I could not hear the substance of what they said, but I heard Mr. Verdon call out, "We will have no Orangemen here." I then proceeded slowly along to this Town-hall, and I remonstrated with Mr. Verdon upon the impropriety of urging the townspeople.

23. Was Mr. Clinton also present?—He was present in the first instance, but whether he continued I do not remember.

24. What did he reply?—He replied that it was Mr. Moore's fault, that the disturbance had arisen from him. I then crossed over from here to Peter-street, through the mob, with great difficulty; an attempt was made to knock me down from behind. I stated to the mob who surrounded me upon that occasion that we wished merely to have fair play, and to have the contest carried on fairly and openly. I think Mr. Gardner, the sub-inspector of police, was present on that occasion, if I do not mistake.

25. Was Sir Leopold McClintock's canvass continued the next day?—That was on Monday.

26. On the Tuesday?—I did not take a very active part on the next day. After that we consulted, and came to the conclusion that it was a hopeless proceeding to canvass in the town, from the state of the mob.

27. In what way was that Tuesday employed?—On the Monday evening after this occurred, we proceeded to canvass some of the out-voters in the country, and on the Tuesday we were occupied the greater part of the day in the tally-rooms, and I canvassed some voters here and there through the town. I did not afterwards attempt a house-to-house canvass.

28. You have already told us that you came to the resolution that it was useless to do so?—Yes.

29. Where were you on the Wednesday, the next day?—I went to Dublin on the Tuesday evening, for the purpose of voting for you and Sir Arthur Guinness.

30. I am much obliged to you for that; and on Wednesday?—I came down by the first train on Wednesday morning.

31. And you arrived in Drogheda, when?—I came here to the nomination.

32. Will you describe to his Lordship the state of affairs which you found?—I found the candidates and their friends assembled on the steps of the court-house; a cordon of police drawn up immediately in front, and a large and very excited mob in the street; I pushed through the police and took my place as well as I could on the steps, and I got next the Reverend Mr. Doyle, a Roman Catholic clergyman; he was in a very excited state, and shouted out as loud as he possibly could at intervals, "Down with the Orange faction;" I remonstrated with him, and said I was not an Orangeman, nor did I know of an Orangeman there; he said, "It is no matter, you have the old Orange blood in you," or words to that effect; there was an egg thrown apparently at Sir Leopold McClintock, who occupied the highest step of the court-house door; after a delay of I should suppose about 10 minutes, one half the door was opened and a terrific rush ensued; I struggled to get in with the others, when Mr. Doyle to my surprise seized me by the coat, and assisted me in, saying, "You are an honest fellow at all events."

33. He said it to you individually?—He said it to me individually; I rushed in here, and occupied a position between the bench and that door, about where Mr. Gardener is at present standing (pointing out the same). The sub-sheriff was within a yard or two of me; I found that I was separated from my party, but so great was the crowd that I found it impossible to get back to them; a scene of the greatest possible confusion then ensued; the whole body of this house was filled with a riotous violent mob of the lowest order of society, and a great number of them appeared tipsy; the mob appeared to be divided between Mr. Whitworth and Mr. Brodigan, but by far the greater number appeared to be in Mr. Whitworth's interest; I did not hear a single voice raised on behalf of Sir Leopold McClintock amongst the mob; we were crushed to the greatest possible extent, so much so as to become extremely alarming; the noise was so great, that though the sub-sheriff was within two yards of me, I was unable to say whether he read the writ; I heard him calling upon the people to hear the writ; I also called out with him for the purpose of endeavouring to make an impression upon the crowd; after a short time I saw Mr. James Matthews raised on a bench, and he appeared to be addressing the audience, but I was unable to hear one word he said; subsequently other gentlemen were raised into a similar position, and appeared also to attempt to address the audience, but not a single word of what they said was audible to me.

34. How close were you at that time to them?—I was at that time immediately behind that brass rod (describing the same), and a gentleman was speaking from where his Lordship is now.

35. Will you explain to his Lordship the circumstances under which you left the court-house?—The mob surged and swayed over these benches, and on one or two occasions fell over the parts of the bench where the respectable part of the community were, and at times they surged and swayed over, and fell over, the tops of those on the bench, and those underneath seemed to be in great danger; I heard some one say that Mr. Cottington had fallen over, and was in danger of being suffocated; I then forced my way out as well as I could for the purpose of getting the assistance of the police to assist in rescuing, but I found that I had been anticipated, as somebody else had got them; a small number of the police came in; by this time a good number of the respectable part of the assembly had commenced leaving.

36. Did you see Sir Leopold McClintock at that time?—Not then; I was looking about anxiously for him and his other supporters, and I could not see him for some time; after some little time I found him on the step outside the side door, and I placed myself behind him; when I returned, after going for the police, I met the high sheriff somewhere adjoining the side door, and I asked him what had taken place; he stated that the candidates had been proposed and seconded, and he asked me who had (I am not quite sure whether it was) "seconded" or "proposed" Sir Leopold McClintock; he was in doubt as to the one or to the other; I told him; he also asked me as to a poll having been demanded, and I said "To prevent any mistake I demand it now;" when he said that would be sufficient; this occurred at that side door leading to the court and not in the court-house itself.

37. When you met Sir Leopold McClintock, what happened?—I found him standing immediately outside the side door. I placed myself immediately behind him so as to admit of the mob passing out. One man from amongst the mob came up to me and commenced screaming and yelling in a violent way, and threatening me and ordering me to leave that. He came within a few feet of me. I took no notice of him for some time, until I saw he was becoming so violent that he would probably assault me, and I then shut my fist in his face and threatened to knock him down if he touched me. The high sheriff came up shortly afterwards and used his influence to get those men out of the building.

38. How did you leave the court-house?—We then proceeded to the door of the court-house, and found such an angry mob in the street that we had to obtain an escort of police to force our way across it.

39. Was Sir Leopold McClintock with you at that time?—I am not certain whether he formed one of our party, but his immediate supporters were with us, and I think he was. We had to force our way literally through the crowd, so thick was it. As I got outside the edge of the crowd, on the opposite side of the street, a man ran across and deliberately struck me across the shins, endeavouring to knock me down. He was arrested, but subsequently discharged at my desire.

40. How were you principally employed on the Thursday?—There was no attempt at a house-to-house canvass on the Thursday either. I canvassed with Sir Leopold McClintock several voters on cars in the town and neighbourhood.

41. Was there excitement in the town of Drogheda on that day?—There was.

42. Was it greater or less than before?—I could not show my face without being hooted and insulted in every possible way, but up to this time I had seen no stones thrown.

43. Will you say what occurred on the day of polling after you left your own house?—I left my house about half-past seven, accompanied by Sir Leopold McClintock and several friends, and we proceeded into the town. With regard to the arrangement for bringing the voters into the town, I should have said that I made them with the stipendiary magistrate on the Thursday. I then waited on the stipendiary magistrate; they first called at Sir Leopold McClintock's tally-room to see what protection was required. I gave particulars of the numbers of voters and the roads they were expected to come by, and arranged as to the escort of police.

Mr. Heron objected to the opinion of the magistrate being given as evidence.

44. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] What did they do?—I endeavoured to impress upon them the necessity of a large escort by the half-past 11 train, as we expected a great many voters by it. On the Friday we proceeded to the tally-rooms; on coming towards the town we were met by a crowd of girls.

45. At what o'clock was this?—Between seven and eight on the Friday morning; those girls were apparently factory hands, with green boughs. As soon as they recognised us on the cars they hooted and yelled, and threw dirt at us; there were no stones convenient. I proceeded to the tally-room and found that a voter who had freely promised to vote, and who had been in my employment for a great number of years, was absent, though he had promised to be there to meet me.

46. What was his name?—Patrick Boyle.

Mr. Heron objected that this name had not been mentioned until now, and applied that a list should be furnished to the Counsel for the Respondent.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that the Petitioner ought to be prepared with a proper list to guide the Respondent in his defence, and that if it was intended to go into any cases ultra those mentioned by Mr. McDonogh in his opening speech, a list of the names had better be furnished at once to the Counsel for the Respondent, with the names of those persons by whom they were alleged to have been unduly influenced.

47. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Now will you tell us about those you expected at the tally-room?—I proceeded on an outside car, accompanied by Mr. Charles Smyth, from the tally-room to my brewery. When approaching the building I observed a crowd of factory girls, a great many of them with green boughs. I also saw the Rev. Mr. Matthews, of St. Mary's; when passing, he came quickly over to the side of the car in which I was and "boo'd" in my face very loudly; immediately the crowd of girls commenced stoning us, and followed us with volleys of stones all along James-street, striking the car several times.

48. What o'clock was this?—This was about eight o'clock; they followed us all along James-street. I then drove down to my brewery, and the girls assembled on the road commanding it, and commenced pelting volleys of stones whenever I appeared, and also breaking the windows; I saw the voter, and asked him why he had not come up as he had promised; he said he was alarmed—

Mr. Heron objected to a private conversation between the witness and the voter being given as evidence.

49. Mr. Plunkett.] Where was this conversation?—In my yard.

50. Was any one else present besides yourself and those voters?—Not immediately present.

51. Did you leave the yard afterwards?—I left the yard without the voter; I did not urge him to come. I attempted to leave the yard, but in every instance when I attempted to leave the yard I was saluted with volleys of stones, curses, &c., and after making several attempts I was obliged obliged to send the carman with a note requesting that some police might be sent to remove the mob. After a delay of about 20 minutes, the mob left their position, and I returned to the tally-room.

52. Did you observe anything as you passed through James-street?—I saw the Reverend Mr. Matthews, with a large mob, following us up Paddock-lane as I passed round James-street.

53. How were they conducting themselves at that time?—They were cheering Mr. Whitworth.

54. Did they take any notice of you?—No; I escaped their notice; they were going in an opposite direction.

55. Then will you say what was the state of the town subsequently to that time after eight o'clock?—I then returned to the tally-room, and in the course of about an hour or so I voted here, accompanied by one or two others; on passing to and from the booth I was insulted, and cursed and hooted.

56. Did you go alone to the tally-room?—I was accompanied by two other voters. The violence of the mob from this time increased considerably; so great was it that at I think about 10 o'clock we considered it necessary to apply —

57. Mr. Heron.] Say what you did?—I was one of those who joined in applying for an escort of police, as arranged on the preceding day with the stipendiary magistrate; we got that escort, and subsequently to that every voter that was supposed to be obnoxious to the mob, or well known to them, was sent down in the centre of a police escort; I watched some of them going, from the window, and I saw the mob striking at them over the guns of the police; over the police.

58. Mr. Plunkett.] Did you see any clergymen at that time?—I saw a Roman Catholic clergyman.

59. Do you know who he was?—I was informed —

Mr. Heron objected to this being received as evidence.

60. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Have you since learnt his name?—I have learnt his name to be the Reverend Mr. McKee. I saw him taking off his hat; my attention was attracted by a noise in the street, and I saw a large mob, the majority of them armed with large sticks, coming in a very tumultuous way up Peter-street; this gentleman apparently leading them up. As they passed our tally-rooms they groaned and shouted, and brandished their sticks, shaking them at those in the windows.

61. Was there any stone throwing?—There were some stones thrown at the windows, but not many.

62. As to those voters whom you were expecting to arrive, what happened?—The voters expected by the 10 o'clock express, and the mail, and the half-past 11 o'clock train had not arrived up to this. There was a rumour that there was very serious rioting in the direction of the railway, and we were looking out anxiously for them.

63. Did you see anything of that yourself?—I was looking out anxiously for the expected body of voters from the train. I observed the escort coming round the corner of James-street.

On looking through the window of the tally-room I had a complete, though distant, view of it.

64. Will you tell his Lordship exactly what you saw?—I saw the Hussars in front and at the sides, and an immense mob opposing their progress in Shop-street. I saw a great number of sticks in the air, whether brandished or thrown I could not say, close up to the Hussars. There was a halt on the bridge. I saw a Hussar's horse rear up, and they were thrown into disorder, and the Hussars retreated; and I saw the infantry formed across the bridge. I then heard a report of a shot. The mob fell back about 50 yards, and I saw a body lying in the intervening space. The Hussars then charged up Shop-street, clearing it with extraordinary rapidity. Two of the horses fell at the turn, and the infantry subsequently charged. I saw an umbrella held up from amongst the body of people who were with the military; it was literally torn to shreds with stones. Shortly after this a number of our voters rushed into the tally-room in a most excited state, bleeding from wounds inflicted on their way from the railway, and some of these in the tally-room were engaged for some time in dressing their wounds.

65. What was the conduct of the people outside at that time?—There seemed to be less disposition to violence after the shot was fired.

66. Immediately?—Immediately.

67. After the voters reached your tally-rooms, what happened?—We then discussed —

Mr. Heron objected to discussions of any kind being received as evidence.

68. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] What was the result of your discussion?—The result of the discussion was that Sir Leopold McClintock applied for an escort to bring the voters back to the railway station, as he considered it unsafe.

Mr. Heron.] You must only say what was done.

69. Mr. Plunkett.] Did he obtain that escort?—The resident magistrate did not apply for some time; there was a delay of a considerable time owing to the resident magistrate being engaged, as we understood. He came after some delay, both Captain Talbot and Mr. Hannay; and Sir Leopold McClintock, I think, stated what he required, namely, an escort for the voters back to the station. Captain Talbot said —

70. Was that escort provided?—No; he declined giving it, and suggested that we should remain there till dusk.

Mr. Heron objected that the opinion of the resident magistrate was not evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the opinion of the resident magistrate could not be given.

71. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] But what did he do?—He left us without an escort.

72. Mr. Plunkett.] Did those voters who arrived from Dublin all vote? —

Mr. Heron objected that this must be proved in a more regular way.

73. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Do you know whether they all left the tally-room?—Not nearly the number who were expected arrived. There was a list of 30 made out.

Mr. Heron objected that legal proof must be be given that a particular voter had not voted.

Mr. McDonogh submitted that this was good evidence of general intimidation, if the witness knew of his own knowledge that the voter was not able to leave the tally-room.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that some names must be mentioned, as if the witness was not able to mention the names, he could not say whether or not the persons in question were voters.

74. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Do you recollect the names of any of the voters who were in the tally-room at the time?—Mr. William Jameson, my cousin, and Major Smythe, and Mr. St. George Smythe, and the Rev. Mr. Rowe also.

75. Did those gentlemen leave the tally-room; did the Rev. Mr. Rowe leave the tally-room to go to the polling-booth?—Not that I am aware of; a number of others—

Mr. Heron objected to a number of persons being referred to unless the names were given.

Witness.] A number of other voters arrived subsequently, also injured, later in the day; amongst them one old gentleman who, I was informed, was Colonel Fairclough. He, amongst others, returned to the railway station in a covered car, accompanied by some of Mr. Whitworth's friends. I should have mentioned that Mr. Whitworth and several of his friends came up some time after the scene on the bridge to our tally-room and offered their services in protecting our voters to the booths.

76. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who did so?—Mr. Whitworth and several of his leading supporters; the high sheriff, Mr. Frank Chadwick, and Mr. Richard Bradwell.

77. Mr. Plunkett.] At what time of the day was this?—I should say it was between two and three o'clock; but I would not swear very positively as to the exact hour.

78. Do you know, of your own knowledge, whether Sir Leopold's officers were withdrawn from the booths or not?—Yes.

79. Mr. Heron.] Were you at the booth?—I was not. I never left the tally-room after I voted, from the state of the streets.

80. Mr. Plunkett.] Did you see them in the tally-room?—I saw in the tally-room several of the people to whom I had seen books given in the morning, and whom I knew to be clerks employed there, and I heard them state that they had closed their booths.

81. Was that before or after Mr. Whitworth came with his friends to escort you?—Some, I think, before and some after.

82. Mr. Heron.] Are you sure?—I would not swear one way or the other. The greatest alarm prevailed in the tally-room for the next couple of hours. We were seriously apprehensive—

Mr. Heron objected to the witness's apprehensions being received as evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the witness might state the effect produced upon his own mind.

83. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Were any stones thrown at your tally-room windows?—

Some were thrown during the day at intervals. I was seriously apprehensive of danger in passing through the streets on my return home.

84. Did you see any violence from the windows of the tally-room?—Yes, there was a man assaulted.

85. Did you see it yourself?—I saw it, but not the details of it.

86. Do not say anything which you did not see yourself?—Of course not. I heard that a man was arrested and had been released again. I went down to Captain Gardner, and asked how it had happened that he had released him. I subsequently returned home, accompanied by Mr. Frank Chadwick, through the town, who volunteered to give me a safe convoy.

87. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who is he?—He is a supporter of Mr. Whitworth's; Mr. Mayne being accompanied by the high sheriff.

88. Mr. Plunkett.] Was he one of Mr. Whitworth's friends?—He was. When I returned to my office the following day I found the windows completely smashed, both some of the shutters and some of the sashes, and I found a quantity of stones inside, one a stone weighing nine pounds, and much larger ones lying in the area beneath.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

89. I believe that Sir Leopold McClintock's address appeared first on the 14th of November. Will you look at the "Drogheda Argus" (handing a Paper to the Witness), and say did it appear before; look at the date to refresh your memory?—I am not sure. The 11th was the day on which he came down.

90. I know that?—I think there was a special edition of the paper (but I am not certain) during the election, and it appeared on the Wednesday.

91. Is that your recollection?—I will not say so.

92. Did his address to the independent electors of Drogheda appear before the 14th of November?—To the best of my recollection, it was placarded before that. Do you mean appeared in the papers or in placards?

93. I mean did it appear in print?—I believe it did.

94. What is the earliest date you will fix for that?—Either Wednesday evening or Thursday morning, the 11th and 12th.

95. Before Sir Leopold McClintock had addressed the electors, had you been trying to get a Conservative candidate?—Yes.

96. For a long time?—How long?

97. I mean for a fortnight or three weeks before that time?—Yes.

98. And had failed?—Yes.

99. Had the privilege of standing for the representation of Drogheda been offered to Mr. McClintock?—Yes.

100. To whom had it been offered; had he been here with Mr. Mayne to see the chance of a Conservative getting in?—Yes.

101. How long was that before Sir Leopold's address?—About a fortnight.

102. Had he declined the honour?—He had.

103. In addition, had you and the other supporters of the Conservatives here offered the privilege of the candidature to Captain Pepper?—Not to my knowledge.

104. Was there any candidate who came here, calculated

T. P. Cairns,
Esq.
1869.

T. P. Cairns, Esq. calculated the numbers and departed?—Not to my knowledge.

1869.

Mr. McDonogh objected to this as being irrelevant.

105. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] This is the last question I will ask you on the subject. How long before Sir Leopold McClintock stood had you and the other Conservative gentlemen been trying to find a candidate?—I cannot fix a time.

106. Were you a month trying?—What do you mean by “trying to find a candidate?”

107. Trying to induce a candidate to stand at the election; you understand that?—I do not quite understand what you mean by “trying to get a candidate.” We were, of course, looking to the results of the last registry; we were anxious to get a person.

108. Anxious to get a candidate?—Yes.

109. On the morning of the polling did any other people come down from Dublin besides electors in your interest?—Not to my knowledge; but I believe there did.

110. Had you been with Mr. Mayne on the previous day to the railway station, to the telegraph office?—I had.

111. And were you and Mr. Mayne together when the telegram was sent to Dublin?—I was.

112. The telegram for persons to come down who were not electors?—Yes.

113. How many?—I heard 50. If you will allow me, I will state the transaction shortly to his Lordship; I am quite ready to do it, and I should have done it before but I omitted it.

114. That is the use of cross-examination; to bring out what is omitted unintentionally?—On my way into Drogheda, on Thursday morning, I was informed by Mr. Mayne that he expected a number of assistants the following day to assist his tally-men in the booths and in protecting the voters to and from the tally-room to the booths, and he discussed with me whether he could get accommodation for them in Drogheda that night. As we agreed that there would be very great difficulty in that, he asked me what was the earliest train he could get them down by the following morning. I told him the first train I was aware of was the mail at half-past eight; I said that was too late, and I proceeded to the railway station to ascertain the first train by which those men could be got down, who, I understood, were under 50. I was informed there was a goods train which arrived about eight o'clock and left at about six o'clock, but Mr. Symington could not say whether passengers would be taken by that train; he offered to telegraph to Dublin to ascertain whether passengers could be taken by it or not, and we waited till the telegraph should be replied to. While waiting, Mr. Mayne inquired what the expense of a special train would be, and he said it would be eight or ten pounds, and Mr. Mayne then sent a telegram to some person in Dublin (whom I don't know), ordering a special train for those assistants in order to have them down in time for the opening of the poll. I subsequently got a communication from Mr. Symington, stating that a third-class carriage would be given by the mail train.

115. What was the name of the person to whom the telegram was sent?—I am not aware.

116. Were you ever aware?—No; I did not see the telegram.

117. Do you mean to say that you did not know?—I did not see the telegram.

118. Do you mean to say that you did not know?—I did not see the telegram; I am not certain at this moment; I have my suspicions, of course.

119. I ask you now to give your suspicions?—Am I to give them? I may guess; it was sent.

120. I ask you to whom you now believe that the telegram was directed?—I believe it was directed to some one in Sir Leopold McClintock's interest at Dublin.

121. Do you not now in your heart believe you know the name of the person?—I am not certain at all.

122. Whom do you suspect?—Am I to answer that, my Lord?

123. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Oh, yes?—I rather think that it was to Mr. McClintock in Dublin; that is merely my guess.

124. Is that Mr. McClintock at the Custom House?—Yes.

125. What is his Christian name?—Alexander, I think.

126. Where were the 50 men to be procured?—In Dublin.

127. But from what place in Dublin?—I do not know.

128. Do you not believe that they were to be procured at the Conservative committee-room?—I do not believe anything of the sort.

129. Did you know what was to be paid to those men?—No.

130. Did you know that they were to get 1*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* a piece?—No.

131. Did you see that some of them have since sued for their money and recovered it?—No.

132. Do you mean to say that you did not hear that?—No.

133. You have not seen it in the paper?—No, I did not notice it.

134. You were, of course, on Sir Leopold McClintock's committee here?—There was no committee; I was one of his prominent supporters.

135. Were you an active supporter, and did you canvass for him and do your best for him, backing your party like an honest Irishman?—I did, decidedly.

136. That is, you canvassed for him and with him, and did your best for him?—Yes.

137. On Mr. Mayne's statement, of course, you sanctioned the chosen 50 coming from Dublin?—Yes.

138. Were they to come with sticks?—I heard nothing of the sort.

139. Were they to come with sticks?—I believe not.

140. Did you see any of them when they came?—I saw some whom I believed to be them in the tally-room.

141. Had they sticks there?—No.

142. Were they taken from them?—They did not look like men who usually carry sticks. Some of them were old quiet looking men in the rank of clerks.

[The Witness withdrew.]

The Reverend JOHN FRANCIS MORETON, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

143. ARE you a Clergyman of the Established Church?—Yes.

144. Is yours a vicarage or a rectory?—A vicarage.

145. Where?—In the diocese of Lismore; the vicarage of Rathlone.

146. Are you a registered voter of the town of Drogheda?—I am.

147. Did you come to this town for the purpose of recording your vote?—I did.

148. Had you promised any of the candidates?—I had promised Sir Leopold McClintock.

149. When did you leave Dublin?—The day before the polling.

150. When did you leave your own house?—I left my own house before that day; I stopped with a friend on the way.

151. On the day of the polling did you come to this town?—I did.

152. At about what hour did you reach the Drogheda terminus?—I came by the half-past eight train; at about 10 o'clock, I suppose; at 10 or 11.

153. Did any other gentleman accompany you?—The Reverend Thomas Wallace.

154. Was he a voter also?—He was.

155. Was there anybody else?—Several were in the train, but not with me.

156. Upon reaching the terminus, what appearance presented itself to you?—Everything was quiet at that time, but there were symptoms of disturbance on account of the large number of police that were about.

157. Did you see the resident magistrate?—Not at first, but soon afterwards.

158. That was Mr. Reed, I believe?—Yes.

159. Did you proceed to the town of Drogheda at that time?—No; we were advised to wait.

160. Did you wait accordingly?—Yes.

161. Until the next train?—Yes.

162. Did you happen to see what escort of military or what civil force there was there at the time when you were advised to wait?—

Mr. Heron objected that the advice was not evidence.

Mr. McDonogh supported his line of examination.

Mr. Justice Keogh reminded the learned counsel on both sides that as the facts of the case were to be dealt with by the judge, and not by a jury, the drawing of inferences would be of no avail.

163. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] Will you be good enough to state exactly what occurred. Having waited for the next train, did other voters come by that train?—They did.

164. At that time will you state whether, as a matter of fact, there was an escort, and of what kind and character?—There was a reinforcement in the town, but in the meantime there was considerable rioting at the station.

165. Did you see that?—I did.

166. Will you be good enough to describe that?—My attention was first attracted by an order given to the constabulary to form into order. They formed a curve about the entrance to the station-house, and immediately a mob rushed up to the station such as has been described already.

167. Will you describe it yourself?—They were armed with bludgeons and other weapons.

168. Were they numerous, or otherwise?—They were numerous, but not so numerous as the mobs which we met afterwards.

169. What occurred in your presence?—They commenced by yelling and shouting, threatening the voters who were waiting, and asking them to have the voters let out to them, and that kind of thing.

170. Did any one of them address you from the crowd?—Several. There was in particular one who attracted me on account of the deadly weapon which he had in his hand, an iron bolt.

171. What did he say?—He said, "If I had you out here I'd settle you," or words to the like effect. He seemed to be calling upon the police to let me out.

172. Did he say anything with regard to yourself about your station, or the profession to which you belong?—Nothing.

173. Did you see Mr. Hamilton there?—I did.

174. Had you known him before?—Yes.

175. Was that before the second train arrived?—It was.

176. Were there any voters in company with Mr. Hamilton?—There were several whom I understood to be voters.

177. Did you see anything occur to Mr. Hamilton or to those people who were with him?—Yes; and I saw some persons going about and saying to Mr. Hamilton, that it was a shame that people should not be allowed liberty of action, or words to the like effect. Then some persons came from the town and were urging some of those men who were with Mr. Hamilton to state for whom they were going to vote. I did not hear their reply, the noise was very great. One of them, as I understood, said he would not vote at all, and he was let go. I saw him go into the station. There was afterwards a scuffle amongst the men, and I think there were two of them carried away upon cars.

178. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Upon what day was this?—Upon the day of the polling.

179. Mr. Heron.] Did you see them?—I did.

180. Mr. McDonogh.] Did you see in what way the people laid hold of them or took them off?—They were (I was going to say) carried away by the mob; they were forced away by the mob.

181. Do you know Mr. Whitworth?—I saw a gentlemen there whom I was told was Mr. Whitworth: I had not seen him before.

182. Mr. Heron.] Do you know him now?—Yes.

183. Mr. McDonogh.] Was it the person whom you have seen in court to-day?—I think I saw Mr. Whitworth here to-day, and he is the same person whom I saw at the station.

184. Mr. Heron.] He was beside me here?—Yes.

185. Mr. McDonogh.] Where did you first see that gentleman?—At the station speaking to those voters.

186. Were those the persons that were with Mr. Hamilton?—Yes.

187. What did he say?—He asked them whom they would vote for.

Rev. J. F. Moreton.

Rev. J. F.
Moreton.
1869.

188. Did you see him do anything towards Mr. Hamilton; tell us exactly what you saw consecutively, as well as you remember?—I saw that there was some altercation and some struggling; at length some of the mob came in and took away the men one at a time; there was some little interval between.

189. Was Mr. Whitworth present on that occasion?—Yes, he was.

190. Do you know Mr. Clinton, one of the conducting agents?—Yes; I am not sure that I know him personally, but I know his appearance.

191. Did you see him that morning?—I am not sure whether he was one of those who were addressing the mob; I would not know him at that time by name.

192. Did you see anything happen to Mr. Hamilton?—Yes, I saw him thrown down.

193. By whom?—By the crowd who were carrying away the man.

194. Did you see Mr. Whitworth take hold of any person?—

Mr. Heron objected to this as being a leading question.

Witness.] I saw Mr. Whitworth lay hold of the voter to whom he was speaking.

195. What did you see him do; tell us the whole as if now it was spoken for the first time?—As if he wished him to go with him.

196. Was it after that, that the mob took him?—It was; the mob in the first instance did not come until after Mr. Whitworth had been speaking for some time.

197. Did you happen to see how they took them away?—They took them upon separate cars.

198. What was the conduct of the mob at that place?—They were merely shouting, and yelling, and brandishing sticks threateningly.

199. Have you stated to us all that you remember about that occurrence of taking away the voters?—The man who said he would not vote went into the station, some of the mob afterwards rushed in and took him away with them.

200. Describe now the manner in which he was taken away, if you saw it?—A number of persons got about him and took him away. He was partially carried and partially dragged; he was put upon a car, and several men got upon the car with him. I do not know how many, but the car seemed crowded; the well-cushion and all seemed crowded.

201. Where was he put?—In the midst of them.

202. Was he sitting or lying, or in what position?—I really could not tell; there was great confusion, and the whole thing was a momentary occurrence.

203. After that, did you and the voters, when the second train arrived, proceed into the town?—Yes.

204. How was the escort arranged?—The cavalry in front, and the infantry on each side of the voters, with a single cavalry soldier outside of them; the Royal Irish constabulary brought up the rear.

205. Was it a large escort in point of number?—There were about 30 men in the constabulary. I heard the magistrates say there were 30 of the constabulary, and I suppose about half a company of infantry, and half a troop of cavalry.

206. Will you give us the names, as you remember them, of the voters who then proceeded with you down towards the town?—I know but a few of them by name; there was Mr. Wallace, Mr. Hamilton, Mr. William Denison, Mr. James Denison, Mr. Ball, and Mr. Eakens, and several others. I dare say I could remember the other names if I had time to think.

207. Were those whom you knew, gentlemen of respectability and position?—They were.

208. Did you observe, on starting from the railway terminus, what the state and condition of things was from that place down to the town, as to the crowd?—The crowd that had been round the station had in a great measure dispersed at that time, or rather retired, and when we started from the station there were not many persons in the way; those that were there commenced hooting as we went. As we approached the town, about midway between the railway station and the entrance to the town, the stone throwing commenced, and it grew more violent as we approached, until we got into James-street, and there it became very violent, particularly as we passed cross lanes; one leading down, I think, towards the iron works, on the right; the next was a very high steep one, on the left in the Bull Ring.

209. What about it?—There the stone throwing was very violent. As we reached the Bull Ring there was a temporary stop, and the escort were thrown a little into confusion. I do not know the precise cause, but there was great stone throwing at the time. I was not in the absolute front; I was immediately behind the cavalry. The officer in command seeing this, ordered the men to close in upon the voters, which was a great protection to us. In this position we went on till we reached the bridge.

210. Did you see whether or not any consequences followed from stone throwing?—Many of the soldiers and voters were bleeding at this time; I was bleeding myself at the time.

211. Where were you struck?—I might say say all over; but the only severe wound I received was upon the head. It was from that that I was bleeding.

212. Will you resume your narrative?—Just here I heard the soldiers conversing with each other, and one said to another, "We shall catch it at the bridge."

Mr. Heron objected to this being received as evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that it was admissible.

Witness.] I turned and asked the soldier to repeat what he said, and he repeated to me, "We shall catch it at the bridge." Then the men began to show symptoms of discontent. I heard them say, "We cannot stand this," speaking to one another. As soon as we turned the corner into the Bull Ring, I naturally looked towards the bridge, which I had just learnt was the great point of danger, and I saw great crowds at the end of the North Quay. There were also crowds at the Bull Ring, but they did not seem so dense as those on the other side of the river. We then got upon the bridge, and there we halted. The stone throwing there became very violent indeed. The stones seemed to come chiefly from the end of the North Quay, about the Telegraph Office, I think; but they came, in fact, from all directions, except from the west side; there was no means of throwing from that side.

213. Did

213. Did you happen to observe the size of those stones?—Some were very large; there were brickbats amongst them. I called the attention of my friend, who was with me, to the brickbats.

214. Did you see anything of Captain Daunt, the captain of the infantry?—I did not see anything of Captain Daunt.

215. Did you see him fall?—I did not see him fall; he was more in front of me.

216. What did you see?—I saw the cavalry thrown into great confusion, the horses plunging upon one another, and ultimately they seemed to wheel away from the stone throwing, and they fell back upon us; we were driven back then upon the constabulary at the south side of the bridge; then the cavalry re-formed and went forward again, and left the centre of the bridge for a short time quite clear. The stone-throwing continued at short intervals; the stone-throwing was very heavy, at times it was dreadful.

217. Were further wounds inflicted?—Further wounds were inflicted, and about this juncture (the whole thing happened in so short a space of time that it is difficult to speak of things in perfect order; but as well as I remember) the men became very much discontented, and began to call upon the officer, saying that flesh and blood would not stand it, and “Will you allow us to stand here, sir, to be murdered,” or “to be killed,” or words to that effect. In the midst of this confusion I heard shots fired, and my friend Mr. Wallace next to me turned to me and said, “There is a man killed;” I did not see the man fall, nor did I see who fired the shot.

218. Did you see the body on the ground?—No; they ultimately charged up the street; they were ranged for a time in West-street, just opposite to this at the time the body of the dead man was carried past.

219. Where had you betaken yourself to so as to enable you to see this?—On the footpath.

220. Were you with the military?—We were; we asked the officer what we were to do; he said he could not do anything more, that is to say, he could not escort us to the booth, for instance; but he said, “You had better stay with us,” and we remained accordingly.

221. What did you see then?—While the body of the dead man was carried past, as I have stated, the mob rushed up Shop-street, and it appeared that the officers anticipated an attack; they ordered the men to load, which the men did instantly; they held their rifles in a position to be ready to fire if commanded.

222. Had the mob anything in their hands?—They were armed, as before, with sticks and bludgeons.

223. Did you see what they did with them?—They were yelling at the military, and threatening them.

224. What did the officer do?—When the men had loaded and held their rifles in a horizontal position, he immediately called out, “Do not fire,” “do not fire,” “do not fire;” I do not know which of the officers it was; I think there were three officers or two officers.

225. Did the mob go off?—They remained a short time, and then they passed on up West-street.

226. What next occurred; where did you go?—I remained there for some time; a person was leaning against one of the shop doors, it gave way and went in, and it remained open, and Mr. Wallace and I got into this place.

227. What state were you in when you got in?—I was bleeding. The person in the house was very kind and gave me a glass of water, and offered other assistance, but I did not feel that I required it; besides, I was anxious to remain with my party, and we remained just at the door. I observed then that some of the men were very much wounded, and one young man near the door seemed faint, turned pale, and I took him by the arm and drew him in.

228. Was that a soldier?—Yes, the people of the house were very kind, and brought him into an inner room, where he sat upon a chair. I asked for a glass of water for him, which he took from my hand; then he fell forward and I caught him in my hand; he leaned his head upon my hand, and I supported him until he recovered again; and I asked some of the persons present to go out and tell some of his comrades to come in, for I feared, perhaps, that I had done wrong in bringing the man from the ranks without his officer's knowledge. Another soldier then came in, and I left them, and went out to the front again. The question then came how we could get to the booths, and Mr. Wallace and I were anxious to keep together; but it was found that the booths were in different streets. He said that he would not go without an escort. Some gentlemen came and volunteered to escort us; I do not know who they were, but he declined; he said he must have authorised responsible persons to escort him, and the officer of the constabulary brought some police, and he went with them, I think, to Lawrence-street. I went to Shop street, having first taken the arm of Mr. McCann, I think it was. I knew him by appearance and addressed him; it was Mr. McCann, whose face I had known when he was a boy, and he very kindly gave me his arm, and I walked with him towards the booth, when one of the Messrs. Chadwick also came. I do not know Mr Chadwick's Christian name. It was not you (pointing to a gentleman in the Court), it was your brother; he came on the other side and gave me his arm. I felt, of course, more or less exhausted, and I was glad to have his support, and I went to the booth and voted. I felt it my duty to vote, having come for the purpose. Mr. Wallace and I afterwards met in the Court here, and Mr. Chadwick, who is on the bench now, most kindly gave me his arm to conduct me to the railway station. The high sheriff, whom I also see here, gave his arm to Mr. Wallace, and I think there were two other voters with us, I do not remember whom, who also had, I think, some persons with them. Mr. Richard Kirk also tendered assistance to one of the voters, and walked up to the station with him. We remained at the station for, I think, two or three hours, until we met trains there and went on to Dublin.

229. Have you now stated all the facts as you remember them?—I think so.

230. As they occur to your memory?—As they occur to my memory. There are a great many more which one could not think of unless one set down to think of them.

[The Witness withdrew.]

The Reverend WILLIAM DISNEY ROWE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett :

The Rev.
W. Disney
Rowe.

1869.

231. ARE you a clergyman of the Established Church?—I am.

232. Where do you reside?—At Newport, county of Mayo.

233. Are you the clergyman of that place?—I am the rector and vicar of that place.

234. Do you remember coming to Drogheda, the day of the election here?—Yes; by the half-past eight o'clock train.

235. You are a voter of Drogheda?—Yes.

236. Just tell his lordship exactly what happened, without saying what was said; you may say anything that is said in a public way, but not a private conversation?—On arriving at the station at about 10 o'clock, we got out of the train; I intended to go down into the town, but when I went outside the station I saw a crowd of girls and boys, and some men; some of them had green boughs in their hands and sticks; there was a large force of constabulary also there, somewhere about 30 men, and while waiting to proceed, I found that some others had also come by the same train for a similar purpose; there was a resident magistrate there, Mr. Reed; some person asked him would it be safe to go down without an escort, and he said that it would not be safe, and that he could not give us a sufficient force to protect us; but that if we would wait until the arrival of the next train, in the meanwhile he would send to the town for an additional force, and then escort all the voters to the Tholsel; we took his advice, and remained until the arrival of the half-past 11 o'clock train; whilst waiting during that time, there was a large crowd of persons come up at the arrival of the train from Belfast, I think it was about a quarter past 10 or 20 minutes past 10, and crowded into the station.

237. Where did they come from?—From the town; they were principally men.

238. Had they anything in their hands?—They had sticks in their hands, short sticks.

239. What was their demeanour?—They seemed determined about sending the crowd into the station, and I and several others went into the waiting room and remained there; there seemed to be some confusion until the train moved off, and then those men retired. A man came up bleeding to the station from the town, and his face was covered with blood; he sat on a form at the station-house and his wound was dressed there; it was washed. Another man also came up from the town, he had lost his hat, and he had a pocket handkerchief wrapped round his head; I spoke to the man, and he told me —

Mr. Heron objected to this being received as evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

Witness.] He said that he was badly wounded. I asked him how —

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that this was not admissible.

Witness.] Mr. Hamilton came by the same train by which I came, and he had three men with him, those men seemed humble men; I saw Mr. Whitworth come up to the station during that interval, and he addressed one of the men, and asked him whom did he wish to vote for; there were a lot of people about who had sticks in their hands, and they were saying, "Say Whitworth;" Mr. Hamilton was by, and Mr. Whitworth addressed Mr. Hamilton, and said it was a shame for him.

240. Mr. Plunkett.] Did he do anything?—I saw him put his hand on the man's shoulder and ask him, "Would you not vote for me?" they seemed so angry that I retired from the station; I was told —

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Never mind what you were told.

241. Mr. Plunkett.] What did you see yourself?—Mr. Hamilton came back, and then the man was taken.

242. Did you see that man again?—I did not see that man again.

243. Then you came back again?—Yes.

244. What next did you observe; were the constabulary taking any active part?—The constabulary cleared the station after the departure of the Belfast train, and meanwhile some hussars came up and a company of infantry, previously to the arrival of the half-past 11 o'clock train; Mr. Reid told the voters —

Mr. Heron objected.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the evidence was admissible.

Witness.] He told us that he would conduct us as far as the Tholsel, but that he would not conduct us anywhere else from the Tholsel; he also told us that a charge would be made by the cavalry, if there was any necessity for such —

Mr. Heron objected to the reception of this as evidence.

Mr. McDonogh argued that this evidence was admissible.

Witness.] He addressed those words to myself.

Mr. Justice Keogh directed the witness to confine himself to facts.

Witness.] At the time the train arrived, we started from the station; the cavalry went first.

245. Mr. Plunkett.] Whom do you mean by "we"?—A number of voters; the voters who had already come down by the half-past eight o'clock train, and the voters who arrived by the half-past eleven o'clock train. The cavalry went in front, and some cavalry at the sides; the infantry round the voters, and the constabulary guarding the rear. On leaving the gate outside the station-house some few stones were thrown, and when we came to the turn up to St. Mary's Church the stone-throwing was very great; one of the soldiers was struck, and I heard him saying, "Are we to be murdered in this way?" He was struck in the face. The stones rattled against the rifles of the infantry, and several of the voters were struck. I saw the Rev. Mr. Moreton and Mr. Hamilton, who was alongside myself; he was struck on the back, and he complained very much of it; and about James-street my own hat was knocked off, but fortunately I recovered it. I was struck in several parts of the body, but when we came to the Bull Ring the stone-throwing increased. One gentleman had an umbrella, and he lifted it up, and in a little time, until until that was broken, it gave some protection to him, and also to myself. Whatever was the cause, the cavalcade was halted, and there was a great scene of confusion, the mob shouting, and the stone-throwing having increased, until at length I saw the cavalry wheel round apparently in flight, and the infantry and cavalry rushed back upon the voters, and closed them up; and some gentlemen who were before me rushed against me, and the infantry also, and I turned, and I was pitched violently upon three or four gentlemen. There were some soldiers passing, and when I was pushed down I caught hold of one of them; he struggled to get away, but, however, I was the stronger man of the two, and I got up. When I got up the confusion still existed, the soldiers were running to either side of the bridge; at this time there was a shot fired; there was great shouting; when the shot was fired there was a peculiar sort of shout raised by the mob, as if of terror. I did not see the man fire, but I heard the shot. Shortly afterwards another shot was fired. I fell back upon the constabulary, and as I just reached them the officer of the constabulary came down and told them to load. Some of the constabulary begged me to go into a house; I said, "No," and immediately a trumpet sounded, whether for charge or not I cannot say, but, however, the trumpet sounded, and there seemed to be a movement. The cavalry wheeled round their horses, and I saw the infantry rushing forward, and I rushed on with them, and there was a charge then up Shop-street, and I came with the cavalry and the infantry to the Tholsel. When I looked round I saw that only five other voters were with me—Mr. Moreton, the Rev. Mr. Wallace (as far as I can remember), Mr. Jamieson, Captain St. George, and Mr. St. George Smythe—out of the whole number.

246. How much was that number when you started?—I cannot say; there was a number of them.

Mr. Heron objected to this evidence.

247. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Were there more than 20?—

Mr. Heron objected, unless the names of the electors were given.

248. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you know whether those parties had votes who were with you?—Not more than what they told me, that they intended to vote.

249. Can you say how many persons there were who were, to your own knowledge, voters within that number; you may not be able to enumerate all the names now?—I could not say that, except from hearsay.

250. Then you had better not say?—I could say how many started; I could say the names, but I would confine myself to the number.

251. Mr. Plunkett.] How many persons, whether voters or not, started with that escort?—Those that I enumerated, and there was another, Mr. Jamieson; there were two Mr. Jamiesons; there was a Colonel Fairclough, there was Dr. Breendon, there was a Mr. Filgate, and there were some others with whose names I am not acquainted.

252. Do you know how many persons started with the escort; you need not say exactly?—I was told —

253. Never mind what you were told?—There seemed to be about 30.

254. You had just come to the place when you say you saw five of that party with them?—About five of that party when we came to the Tholsel here. I saw some of those gentlemen very badly wounded. When I arrived at the Tholsel I was told that a man was shot. I spoke to those gentlemen, and told them that it would be well for them not to remain out in the street, but to come into the Tholsel. They said they would remain under the protection of the military. I came in here, and I presented myself as a voter, here in this place, and I was told that my polling booth, commencing with the letter "R," was not where I presented myself, and I went up then to another place, where I was told that they were taking voters' names, and I was told that was not the booth for letter "R." I asked, then, where it was, and they told me in Lawrence-street. I was going down some stairs connected with this building, and I heard shouting outside, and I looked out at the window, and I saw the corpse of the man that had been shot laid on a shutter or a door, I cannot say which, and carried. The people seemed very angry. I saw, then, that if I should go out of the Tholsel, I should go at once to McClintock's tally-rooms, and decline going down Lawrence-street, as I saw a large crowd down there; and I thought at the time that that crowd had been driven on by the charge of the cavalry. However, I determined that I would not go down that street. I went to the tally-room, and I met Mr. Mayne, and I told him distinctly—

Mr. Heron objected to this evidence.

255. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Did you vote or did you not vote?—I did not vote.

256. What was the state of your mind at that time?

Mr. Heron objected to this question.

Mr. McDonogh supported this line of examination.

Witness.] I was horrified at the death of the man; and I did not think myself justified in running any further risk myself, or asking the police or the military to risk their lives.

257. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You did not vote, therefore, in consequence of apprehensions which you entertained?—Undoubtedly; not a question of it.

258. Mr. Plunkett.] You say that you did not vote; where did you go to?—To Sir Leopold McClintock's tally-rooms.

259. How long did you remain there?—Until shortly before the starting of a train which arrived in Dublin somewhere about four o'clock.

260. You went by that train to Dublin?—I went by that train to Dublin.

261. How did you get to the railway station from the tally-rooms?—Sir Leopold McClintock came out and told those voters—

Mr. Heron objected to this evidence.

262. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Never mind what he said; how did you get down?—I came down with the high sheriff, who kindly offered to conduct Mr. Filgate and Mr. Jamieson to the station.

263. Mr. Justice Keogh.] In fact, you were accompanied by the high sheriff?—By the high sheriff.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pallas.

264. At what hour was it that you made up your mind that you ought not to vote?—I was coming down stairs after saying—

265. I know that; but I just want to fix the hour, if you can?—Well, it was about 12 o'clock. We came down as soon as we could after the arrival of the train, and I suppose it was about 12 o'clock.

266. Then from 12 until 4 you remained in the tally-rooms?—Yes.

267. Do you know now the position of the booth in Lawrence street?—No.

268. Then you are not able to say how far it was from the tally-rooms?—I was told that it was down Lawrence-street, and I saw a crowd there.

269. Will you swear that it was more than 50 yards to the tally-rooms from where you were?—No.

270. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Had you come from your residence in the county of Mayo for the purpose of voting?—Yes.

271. When had you left home?—I left home on the Wednesday.

272. What day of the month was that?—About the 18th.

273. Then you came to Dublin, and from Dublin to Drogheda?—I came to Dublin at about six o'clock on the Thursday, and then I came the following morning to Drogheda at about half-past eight.

274. And your business was to vote?—I had no other business.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. WILLIAM HENRY FILGATE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Ryland.

Mr. W. H.
Filgate.

275. ARE you an Elector of Drogheda?—I am.

276. Did you come to vote at the last election here?—I did.

277. By what train did you come?—By the quarter to ten train.

278. At what time did you reach the station here in Drogheda?—At about 12.

279. Were there many other voters along with you at the station when you came?—There were several other gentlemen, whom I understood to be voters.

280. Were you amongst the party who were escorted by the military from the station into the town?—I was.

281. Did anything happen to you on the way?—Yes.

282. Will you describe what occurred?—I was struck on the back of the head by a man who had an iron bar in his hand; he came in through the file of soldiers, and went back again; shortly afterwards, I was struck by a stone on the side of my face, which cut me, and I got a third blow on my leg, with several other blows; those three blows all hurt me.

283. Whereabouts was it that you were when you got those blows?—The first blow was some time before I reached the bridge; the second blow was a stone also before I reached the bridge; and the third was on my leg, but I am not sure whether that was before I was on the bridge or after I had reached it.

284. What did you see at the bridge?—At the bridge I saw stones thrown at us, both from the front and rear; there were sticks, and I cannot tell what else.

285. Did you see the sticks thrown?—Thrown! the air was full of missiles of various kinds. When the troops had reached the end of the bridge, there was a call of "Back, back," and I found that the Dragoons in front were in disorder, and were coming back upon us, and I retreated a few steps; and the next thing that happened was that I heard the report of a shot; shortly afterwards, I heard, as I thought, two other reports, closely following one another.

286. Did you see any one injured by those shots?—No; I could not see in front. There was then a lull, and I next heard the word "Charge," and I then saw the Dragoons galloping up the street, followed by the troops, and the crowd in front. The police, who had very properly stopped at the entrance to the bridge on the Dublin side, then rushed past me. I then found myself standing on the bridge with two other gentlemen, one Mr. Francis Hamilton, who went towards the station, the other a tall, elderly gentleman, whom I did not know at the time, but who I since understood was Major Fairclough; his clothes were bloody, and he had a cut under the eye, and a very ugly-looking cut it was.

287. Where did you go then?—I walked towards the town, and the first house I came to, the door of which was open, I asked to be allowed to go in; I was very kindly permitted to do so, and I had my head and my face washed, and I remained there some time, until the blood had ceased to flow somewhat; I then went up in the tally-room.

288. In what state were you when you got to the tally-room; had you recovered from the effect of those bruises; I do not mean whether they were healed; were you stunned at all?—Well, I was not stunned, I was a little bothered.

289. Did you afterwards vote?—No.

290. What was the reason why you did not vote?—I understood at the tally-room that Sir Leopold McClintock's agents had been withdrawn from the booths, and that it was no use.

291. At what hour was it that you got to the tally-rooms?—Well, I cannot be positive, but I should think about a little after one o'clock; it might have been half after one or two.

292. How long did you stay in the tally-rooms?—I remained there until, I should think, nearly four o'clock.

293. Did you go back to the station?—I did go back to the station.

294. How did you go back to the station; did you walk or drive?—I walked, but I did not cross the bridge.

295. How did you get there?—I walked to the old station on the north side of the river; I got upon the railroad there, and I walked across the lattice bridge to the station.

296. Were you by yourself, or was there any one with you?—I was by myself.

297. Is there anything further that occurs to your mind that I may have omitted asking?—I am not aware that there is.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hamill.

298. Do you remember, at any time, hearing the word "halt" made use of, either in the Bull

Bull Ring or on the bridge?—I did hear the word “halt;” I don’t know where the Bull Ring is; it was whilst I was on the bridge that I heard the word “halt,” and it was passed on.

299. From the rear to the front?—From the rear to the front; and it was passed on by the escort party, as far as I believe.

300. You say that you went into a house; do you remember that some gentleman or gentlemen came in and offered to bring anyone there who wanted to go up to the Tholsel to vote?—A man did come in, and I think he offered to escort me to the Tholsel; he did escort me to the tally-room.

301. And in going to the tally-room, you had to pass the Tholsel?—Yes.

302. Do you know whether that was the sheriff or some other gentleman; do you know who that person was?—No, I do not. I don’t recollect his name, it was not the sheriff, for I saw the sheriff afterwards.

HENRY ALEXANDER HAMILTON, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

308. WHERE do you live?—At Balbriggan.

309. Are you a magistrate of the county of Dublin?—I am; and of the county of Meath.

310. Are you a voter for this town?—Yes.

311. Do you remember having come to the town upon the day of the polling?—Yes.

312. Were you accompanied by any other voters?—By four other voters.

313. Will you mention their names to his Lordship?—Patrick Donald, Andrew Semple, John Devine, and John Usher.

314. At about what time did they reach the Drogheda terminus?—Shortly before 10 o’clock; it was the half-past eight train leaving Dublin; I got in at Balbriggan.

315. Did they get in with you?—They got in with me.

316. Upon reaching the station, will you state to his Lordship exactly the state of things which you found there?—On arriving at the station there was considerable confusion, and I was anxious to get back to Dublin as soon as possible, and I addressed myself to Mr. Reed, who stated that he was the stipendiary magistrate, and was very anxious to go down to vote; and he pointed out the state of the place, and said he had but a small number of cavalry at his disposal, and it would be impossible to take us; but he requested us to wait till the arrival of the train which would leave Dublin at a quarter before ten; he would then have a large body of infantry and cavalry, and would escort, not only ourselves, but the voters who came down by the second train; and I consented then to remain with some of the gentlemen who are here this morning. We remained at the station. I observed on the platform streams of blood where we were walking up and down. The mob had complete possession of the platform and of the rooms; they came in and out.

317. The rooms appertaining to the station?—The rooms appertaining to the station—the waiting rooms. They hustled me and drove me about, and those four men who were waiting with me; Semple said he should go off, and he went away.

318. Do you know where he went?—He went down to the town to vote, and the other three men remained for the present with me; they were walking round among the crowd, and going

303. Do you know where your booth was at which you were to have polled?—Indeed I do not.

304. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Will you describe, as clearly as you can, how the cavalry went about; did they go right about, or did they merely back their horses?—They were in confusion; I saw their flanks; in fact, the horses were across the entrance to the street.

305. But was it a regular military movement?—Oh, no; they were beaten back in confusion.

306. How were the infantry affected; what movement did they make?—I could not see what the infantry were doing at that time in front.

307. But the cavalry were put in confusion, and thrown back?—They were, and they came back upon the escort party.

[The Witness withdrew.

in and out the station-house with me. The mob were outside with their sticks, and I observed that a good number of them had in their hands those short iron bolts with a nut on them, which might have been found lying about a railway station; they had those in their hands brandishing them at us. That state of affairs went on for some time, and we waited. When I was standing outside, Pat McDonald stated to me—

Mr. Heron objected to this evidence.

319. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] Was he one of the voters who came with you?—He was.

320. Was it said aloud in the crowd, or a private communication to you?—I considered it a private communication to me. The other two men, John Usher and John Devine, remained about the station-house; they were in different parts in and out, and I should say it was a little after 11 o’clock or so, or it might be after, when Mr. Henry Clinton, Mr. Whitworth’s agent, as I understand, came up to me. We were at that time out among the mob; Mr. Henry Clinton came up to me in a very violent and very excited manner, and he said, “What are you doing with those men?” I said, “I am doing nothing with the men, the men are there.” There were only two men there at this time, Usher and Devine, standing about in the crowd, and he spoke very violently, and that sort of thing, to me, in a very excited manner. Then a gentleman came up that I did not know; I have been since informed that he is Mr. Whitworth; I had never seen him before.

321. Do you now recognise him?—He had not spectacles on at that time. That is the gentleman that came up to me (pointing to Mr. Whitworth), and the mob was standing all round, with their sticks and those iron bars that I have before described, in a very excited manner. Mr. Clinton and Mr. Whitworth addressed first John Usher, and said, “For whom do you vote?” two or three times. Usher immediately said, “I will vote for Whitworth.” Upon that, the mob seized him up, dragged him off to a car, and I saw no more of him.

322. Had that man previously promised to vote for Sir Leopold?—He sent me word that he would do so; I had merely written him a note asking him to vote. He was with me at Balbriggan, and he gave me to understand that he would. In the train, coming down, there was a gentleman, an agent of Mr. Whitworth, whom I afterwards recognised in Drogheda.

323. Mr. Heron.] What was his name?—I cannot tell; he was the man afterwards in charge of a part of the mob, for I met him with green ribbons in his hat; he told me that he was one—

Mr. Heron objected to this evidence being received.

Mr. Justice Keogh directed the witness to state only what he knew of his own knowledge.

324. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] Did you see him with the mob?—I did. There were three men dressed in the same way; he had two bands of green ribbons round his hat; he was one of the men talking in the train with me—

Mr. Heron objected to this evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh allowed the objection.

Witness.] Usher was disposed of, and then there was only Devine standing some way off, when Mr. Whitworth rushed up to him, and Devine came to me, and he grasped me by his right hand, and he called out, "Will you save me?" Mr. Whitworth came up and caught him by the coat collar, in this way (describing the same), and he said, "Who will you vote for—who will you vote for?" I did not speak; I never opened my lips except to Mr. Clinton; I did address a few words, but when those other gentlemen came up I never opened my lips, or said one word. Mr. Whitworth put his fist up in my face, and backed me up against the wall, this old man holding my hand all the time, and he said, "You are a disgrace to the place; you are a disgrace to the place." He then called one of those men, whispering to John Devine, "For whom will you vote?" Mr. Whitworth then struck me in that manner (describing the same), which knocked me away from Devine, and I lost his hand, and I was thrown out into the mob. I was about six feet from Devine, and they still kept on at him, "Who will you vote for?" Devine called out, "I will not vote for anyone." I then saw Devine go into the railway station. A man came up to me of the name of Townsend; he was with me, and he asked might he take Devine back to Balbriggan; he wanted to go away; he was afraid. I said, "Yes, of course, take the man away;" and I saw them go into the railway station, and I saw nothing more for some five or six minutes. The mob rushed out of the station-house again with this man Devine. Devine caught hold of me in passing, and got me by the hand, and he grasped me very firmly. The mob then pushed us both on towards the goods station. Devine was knocked down with very great violence, indeed, and fell on the broad of his back, and received some blows. I fell on my knees, but not from the blows; I consider I was dragged down by Devine; I fell on one knee, I think, and my right hand came to the ground, and sprained my wrist entirely. I got up, and Devine got up; the mob dragged him off, and he was carried over to a car, close to the goods station. They were as full as they could be, close up to the car, and he was thrown on his back on the cushions, and he was held down by the arms and legs, and he was struggling to get off. I called to Captain Talbot, the stipendiary magistrate, who was riding past, and I said, "Will you give no protection to this man; this man is carried away against his will?" And he said, "I cannot do anything for you, sir." I saw him carried over towards the car, and immediately the car drove off amongst the crowd, and I saw no more of it.

325. Then those four men were disposed of?—Then those four men were disposed of.

326. Had Devine made any promise to vote for Sir Leopold M'Clintock?—Yes.

327. Mr. Heron.] Had he promised to you?—Yes, that morning.

328. Mr. McDonogh.] Will you proceed?—I had some conversation with the stipendiary magistrate, and he said that he would form the troops up at the door of the railway station. After all this occurred he sent in troops and police, and they cleared the place. He said, "I will keep the door shut, and if you will have the kindness to marshal the voters when they come down, I will have the soldiers in a sort of square that you will go into, and I will escort you to the polling." I waited for the arrival of that train, and saw a good number of my friends arrive by it. I thought there were 35; I told them there were 35.

Mr. Heron objected to this evidence.

329. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] Were there about 35 persons?—I thought so.

330. Did you know those to be voters?—I thought they were voters; I knew a great many of them; there were 15 I suppose, passing acquaintances of my own, who arrived by that train.

331. Mr. Justice Keogh.] How did you know the 15 to be voters?—Except from knowing them, and seeing their names on the register.

332. Do you know that those 15, from your seeing their names on the register, were voters?—I went over the register with Sir Leopold M'Clintock one evening, and the men whose names I give you, I can state were on the register. There was Henry Sands, Macready, my own cousin (Francis Hamilton, Mountjoy-square), two Mr. Smiths, Captain Smythe, Mr. Filgate, who was on the table, I saw him there; Mr. Morton, Mr. Rowe, Colonel Fairclough, Mr. Vanhomrigh, Mr. John and Mr. James Jamieson, a distiller of this town; and another, I think we call him Mr. Jamieson of Montrose, I do not know his christian name; Mr. Wallace; Dr. Breedon was there, I saw him; I do not at this moment recollect any others. Then the escort being ready the door was opened, and we all walked in while the troops were opening for us; the military were each side, there were some cavalry in front and a few of the cavalry each side; I was the second I think upon the left rank; we were about three abreast; we proceeded away from the railway station down towards the town; we got some way when the stone-throwing began very violently, and it increased as we got next the town; when we got to James's-street, I was struck with a large stone on the back, on the vertebræ at the back of the neck; it staggered me very much, and left me very faint from the blow, and as we were going along the stones, they began stone-throwing, and sticks and small pieces of broken and hotp iron I saw coming at us; persons all about me were more or less cut and injured. As we turned the corner from James's-street, a vast number of missiles came upon us, and pieces of broken glass; there was one of the troops, one of the 9th Regiment upon my left, who was cut on the side of the head with the bottom of a broken quart bottle; it struck him on the side of the head, and the man said, "What on earth am I to do?" I said, "You had better put your handkerchief to it;" the blood spouted from the side of his head; he took out his white handkerchief and bound his head up. We went on, and still the missiles came to us in all directions; the men were calling out, "Will you allow us to be murdered? Let us protect ourselves;" these were the troops. We pressed on, and had got about half way across the bridge, when we were stopped; we were told that the Riot Act was being read; while there, the stones were coming very thick indeed, and these other missiles also across us. The dragoons got into confusion; there were four or five in front of us; we were close behind them. The horses reared up; I saw the men striking at them with sticks and stones, and the horses became restive and plunged among the men. After the Riot Act was read, a very warm volley of stones came from the North Quay, which runs at right angles to Shop-street and also from Shop-street. The horses and the men were all driven back, the horses and the infantry in great confusion. I was thrown out from among the escort altogether; I was close to the bridge. I heard one man call to the others to make haste; I looked round, and a man was loading his Snider rifle, and two of his comrades were protecting him; just at that time I was struck with a heavy ash-stick; I threw up my arm and caught the blow on the right arm; he passed me and struck at the troops; immediately after that a man who was about 10 feet from me was shot dead; he was close to me. There were two shots fired as close as they could go; the ball passed me and shot this man, and he lay on the bridge, and his arm rose and fell; I was close to him; the dragoons had got each side of the bridge, up and down the pathway, and after the shot the mob fell back a slight way. I looks round there was no one on that part of the bridge but myself and the body of the deceased man. The dragoons formed behind me, across the bridge, and charged past me and the body. Being by myself, I immediately followed the dragoons close up after them. Missiles of all descriptions and filth, and earthen vessels, were thrown on us or on the dragoons as we passed up. Then I came up; I could not find a human being to speak to whom I recognised; the mob were hustling me; I got my back against the wall, the other side of the street; I could get no information as to where the polling places were, how we were to vote, or what we were to do. I afterwards saw Mr. Edward Verdon, a gentleman I have known many years; I asked where is the polling place, he said, "Oh, I will show you." He brought me across to the polling place, and I voted for Sir Leopold M'Clintock, and there was nobody I knew there; he got me some sherry; I was wholly exhausted from the blows I received, and from being knocked about and hustled. I got up to go and look out of the window, and I was immediately pulled back by a gentleman in the room, saying if I showed at the window I should be destroyed, and the place pulled down; I waited there a considerable time, and then went across to my friend Mr. Kearns; I was exceedingly anxious to get back to Dublin as I was much interested in the election for the next day. I said, "Oh, I must get off by the next train." I came out into the street again, and I tried to get down by the street here at the bridge; the place was in such confusion, and the mob so great, that I could not. I got Mr. Kearns to help me make my way up past the gaol; some of the mob followed, hooting and yelling, and calling out, "To hell with the Queen, down with your Church, and up with the stars and stripes." I then got across the Belfast Junction line to the north part of the town; I got to the north of the bridge over the Boyne; I was by myself; I crossed over the viaduct, and I got in that way to the railway station and remained at the railway station till the train came up; I went on to Dublin by the quarter before three train.

333. Have you stated substantially what you remember?—Yes, all that I can remember.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

334. What hour was it that you voted?—I will tell you as near as I can; I should think it was as near as possible to 12.

335. You mean a quarter after 12?—I came up immediately after the dragoons, immediately after the man was shot. I was about here for five or six minutes; it was before the body was carried through the streets. I had voted at that time.

336. You went and voted before you went to your tally-rooms?—Yes, by Mr. Vernon's kindness.

337. Where was it that you voted?—I think it is Peter-street; it is nearly opposite Sir Leopold M'Clintock's tally-room, the continuation of Shop-street, on the right, up where the agent was; Peter-street I think it is called.

338. Did you know at that booth the state of the poll when you voted?—Not the least; I had not the slightest knowledge.

339. You did not go to the tally-rooms at all?—No; after I voted I asked to see Mr. Kearns, to direct me my way.

340. You were in a hurry to get back to the county election?—Yes.

341. The county election was the next morning; there was a little talk about the surprise in the country, like the surprise here?—Yes.

342. You have told us about these four voters?—Yes.

343. As to the man whom I have taken as Macdonald, accompanying you from Balbriggan?—Yes.

344. You do not mean to convey to his Lordship that McDonald, Devine, and Usher, live at Balbriggan?—No.

345. They live at Drogheda?—Two miles from Drogheda.

346. The northern side?—They are tenants to Mr. Cooper, for whom I am agent.

347. They live two miles on the northern side of Drogheda?—Yes.

348. In reference to McDonald, Devine, and Usher, are they not tenants-at-will, or tenants from year to year?—Yes, certainly.

349. You know it?—Yes.

350. Sample is not a tenant on the Cooper estate?—No.

1869.

351. Where does he live?—Three miles beyond Balbriggan, on the Dublin side.

352. How long had the four voters been on a visit to you before the election?—I know nothing whatever of them being there till the night before the election.

353. You knew nothing at all about them?—I did not know that they were in the town.

354. You knew they were in Balbriggan, by some extraordinary coincidence, the night before the election?—No, two of them called for me.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] The poll-books are here, and I suppose there is no objection for either party having the use of them.

Mr. McDonogh.] Certainly not.

Witness.] Two of them called upon me. I came down to my own house on Thursday night, about half-past nine o'clock (I will tell you their names); Usher and Devine knocked at my door; I had no communication with them, except by letter; I wrote a line to each of them.

355. I only ask you when you knew they arrived at Balbriggan; you say the night before?—I had no knowledge of it, except what I have told you.

356. Do you remember the election of 1865?—No, I have no knowledge of it.

357. Do not you know that McDonald, Devine, and Usher voted in 1865, for Whitworth?—Neither directly or indirectly do I know of it.

358. You never heard it?—No.

359. You do not know how they voted in 1865?—No.

360. There was no Conservative candidate in 1865?—I took no interest in the election at all. I do not know who the opposition to Whitworth was at the time.

361. Do you know McDonald, Devine, and Usher to be Roman Catholics?—Yes.

362. And Semple a Protestant?—Yes; the Church of Scotland.

363. Semple is on Colonel Taylor's estate?—He is now; he has got the farm within this last year.

364. Did he vote out of his farm on Colonel Taylor's estate?—No.

365. He was the tenant on Colonel Taylor's estate at the time he voted?—He came down to vote, but Colonel Taylor's estate is not in the borough.

366. Where did McDonald, Devine, Usher, and Semple lodge on the night before the polling?—I have not the least knowledge.

367. Have you a rent warden on the Cooper's estate?—Yes.

368. What is his name?—Hudson.

369. Was he in Balbriggan the night before the polling?—He lives there; I did not see him that night.

370. Do you believe he was there?—Yes.

371. Had you any communication with him?—Not at that time.

372. But immediately before?—No.

373. Did you give him any word about having the Cooper tenants all right?—No; and so guarded was I that I would not allow him to come with me that morning in the train; he asked to come.

374. So guarded were you of what?—Of having anything said against me bringing these men against their will, which was said. I would not allow the bailiff to come with me; I turned him back.

375. Was he coming with you?—Yes; he said, "I will come with you to Drogheda." I said, "No, you will not do it." I did not ask these men, except by note, to vote.

376. What rent does that McDonald pay?—About 35 l. a half-year.

377. What rent does Devine pay?—£.50 a year.

The learned Judge intimated that it was not necessary to enter into the question of the rent paid.

Witness. They are very respectable men.

378. Mr. Heron.] Do you mean to convey to his Lordship that Mr. Whitworth struck you?—I do.

379. Was it a hard blow?—It was sufficient to separate me from the hand of Devine, and drive me out into the mob.

380. Were you holding on to Devine as hard as you could?—No; Devine was holding on to me; his hand was in mine; he held me as hard as he could hold.

381. You said you let Semple go by himself?—I did not let him; the man said he would go, so did McDonald.

382. Semple went off and voted by himself?—I do not know whether he voted; he went off.

383. I may tell you he voted for McClintock; McDonald went away then?—I do not know.

384. Did not you inquire whether McDonald, Devine, Usher, voted or not?—My impression is that they never voted at all.

385. That is what you heard?—From hearsay. I believe none of the three voted at all.

386. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who do you mean by the "three"?—McDonald, Usher, and Devine. I believe now that Semple did vote.

387. Mr. Heron.] He did vote for McClintock?—Yes.

388. What hour did Semple go away to vote by himself?—He stayed with me about the station for some time; he went about half an hour after we arrived.

389. What hour was it?—About half-past 10.

390. Semple went off by himself?—Yes; the other three remained.

391. They remained with you?—They were about the station.

392. They remained with you?—They remained with me, because we could not get protection to the poll.

393. Did not Semple go and vote?—He went by himself.

394. To vote for McClintock?—Yes, he told me so.

395. You believe he did vote?—Yes.

396. Could McDonald have walked down with Semple?—He did not.

397. Could he?—I do not think he possibly could, for I could not.

398. In what position of life is Semple?—A farmer; a most respectable man.

399. He is a most respectable man, and is perfectly well known?—I believe he voted for Whitworth at the last election.

400. No, you are wrong?—He told me he did.

401. Who paid the railway fare for the four men?—I do not know; I did not.

402. What other voters got in at Balbriggan?—None, to my knowledge; there was us five. I made a mistake about a man named Green, who did not vote; he is one of Colonel Cooper's tenants; he did not vote.

403. As you say you did not pay the railway fare for the men, did you pay your own railway fare?—I did.

404. Have you no suspicion who paid the railway fare for the men?—No.

405. Was it Hudson?—Hudson did not to my knowledge.

406. You gave no money for the payment?—No.

407. You do not know where the men lodged the night before the polling?—No.

408. Have you a suspicion?—No.

409. Were they in Hudson's house?—They told me they went backwards and forwards in Dublin; they had been threatened, and they came there to hide themselves.

410. To your house?—No, not in my house; I was not in Balbriggan at all for many days before the election.

411. You entertain a great interest in the Conservative cause all over Ireland?—Undoubtedly.

412. Now, as to the expression you heard from the mob; I must repeat the terms, "To hell with the Queen, down with the church, and up with the stars and stripes"?—Yes.

413. We all know stars and stripes is the American flag?—Yes.

414. Now, I must ask you, as magistrate, having some experience, this question; you heard Mr. McDonogh's speech?—Yes.

415. And you heard there was what was called a Fenian element?—He used that expression.

416. Do not you think the expression of "stars and stripes," was likely to come from that element?—There are Fenians in America, as we all know by hearsay.

417. Do not you think that expression was likely to come from a mob of that sentiment?—That is my opinion.

Re-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

418. You told Mr. Heron that the two men, I did not catch which men, had told you that they had been threatened; what two was that?—Usher was the man who told me he was threatened to be thrown into the Boyne, and McDonald as well, not Devine; they said they dare not cross the bridge, they would be thrown into the Boyne.

419. When was it they told you that?—The night before, at my house.

420. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You said you got back yourself by the Boyne viaduct?—Yes.

421. Is that by the railway bridge?—Yes; I crossed by the north of the bridge, the railway station is to the south of the viaduct.

422. It was the railway bridge you crossed?—Yes, the large viaduct; I was by myself.

423. After this occurrence, you mentioned an altercation between you and Mr. Whitworth; what time intervened before you entered that square formed by the military, to go down to the voting?—Fifty minutes.

424. Before you entered the square?—Yes; I know by the arrival of the trains.

425. Did you see Mr. Whitworth or his agent there after this occurrence which you have mentioned?—What occurrence?

426. The conflict between you and him, such as it was?—I did not see Mr. Whitworth again after the man had said, "I will not vote for any one;" he appeared to me to go into the mob by the railway station; I did not see him after.

427. When you speak of the mob which met you as the military were going, were they a distinct mob at the railway station?—The mob at the railway station, there were some women among; I saw no women in the mob at the bridge; they all seemed to be men armed with sticks, but from the railway station to the bridge, we were continually pelted; I ought to say this; when we got off the railway premises, there is a road running parallel from the railway station to the country road, while we were going along that, still on the railway premises, we were not interfered with; but opposite the poor-house, coming on the main road, I first saw the stones coming, and it increased in violence until we got to the large stones on the bridge.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. RICHARD MACABE, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

428. ARE you by profession, a short-hand writer, or reporter?—Yes; I am.

429. For many years, have you been engaged in the practice of the court?—Beyond 20 years.

430. Were you in this town on the night before the day of the polling, and under the balcony of Silcox's hotel?—I was in the drawing-room of the hotel.

431. Were you listening to the speeches delivered on that occasion?—Yes.

432. Will you look at that report (handing the same to the Witness), is that in your hand writing?—It is.

433. Does that report, which is in your handwriting, give—

Mr. Heron objected to the course of examination, on the ground that the original notes ought to be produced and read.

434. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] Did you take it in shorthand?—Partly in shorthand, and partly in longhand.

435. What has become of those partly shorthand and partly longhand notes?—I do not know; I threw them into my waste basket at my desk.

436. When you were done with them?—Yes; it may be that, had I known that I would have been examined on this to-day, I would have preserved them.

437. Have you searched for them since?—Yes.

438. Have you been able to find them?—I have been unable to find them.

439-40. You threw them into the waste basket?—Yes; the waste basket was removed in the usual way, down to the kitchen.

441. Is that a faithful and honest report of what occurred, which you hold in your hand?—Yes.

Mr. Heron objected to the paper being read, unless the shorthand and longhand notes which were taken at the time, were produced.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

442. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] Is that a true and faithful report of what occurred?—Yes, a true and faithful report of my notes.

443. Do you know the name of the clergyman who who spoke first?—The Rev. Mr. Murphy, a Catholic curate.

444. He was the first speaker?—Yes, I think so.

445. Who was the next speaker?—There is a portion of this not my report.

446. Not in your handwriting?—No, not in my handwriting.

447. We will not allude to that at all, give nothing but your own handwriting?—It is merely an addition.

448. Mr. Pallas.] State which of it is not in your handwriting?—This last page.

449. Mr. McDonogh.] Whatever is not in your handwriting, we will take off. Do not read anything that is there but what is in your own handwriting. Who is the next speaker to Mr. Murphy?—The Rev. Mr. Murphy, a Catholic curate, the Rev. Mr. M'Kee.

450. What is the next person who spoke?—The Rev. Mr. Glyn. He is the next, but he is a gentleman I did not know. I took the names of gentlemen as I heard them.

451. You took the names of the other gentlemen?—Yes; the Rev. Dr. Murphy came next, and then follows the Rev. Mr. Govan, a Catholic curate.

452. Mr. Heron.] When did you write that out?—I think I transcribed it on the same night that I took the report, on the 19th, the day before the poll.

453. For publication?—Yes, I speculated as a correspondent upon them.

454. Did you send that document away anywhere?—Upon my word I think I delivered it at the office.

455. What office?—The Drogheda Conservative Office. I think I delivered it myself; I might have sent it by my son.

456. When did you get it back?—I have not seen it till it was handed to me now.

457. Mr. McDonogh.] Do you know whether Mr. Whitworth was there upon that occasion?—He was not present during the speeches, but he came into the room afterwards, and addressed the crowd, telling them to go home.

458. Where was he during the delivery of the speeches?—I could not see him in the room, and had he been there, I think I should have seen him.

459. Do you know whether the room where the balcony is, was employed for Mr. Whitworth's purposes?—

Mr. Heron objected to the question.

460. Mr. McDonogh.] Was there any other gentlemen there, besides the reverend gentlemen whose names you have given, during any portion of the time?—Yes, there were many parties in and out.

461. Who were they?—There were more than a dozen in the room altogether; I perhaps could enumerate them.

462. You were minding your business, I presume?—Yes.

463. Now read the Rev. Mr. Murphy's speech?—"The Rev. Mr. Murphy was the first speaker; he commenced by observing that they had arrived at a great crisis—a contest between Protestant ascendancy and equality. The great question of the day was, whether the Protestant Church was to be disendowed and disestablished in Ireland. Any person who wished that that should be so would vote for McClintock; any one who wished to sustain Protestant ascendancy in Ireland would be opposed to Mr. Whitworth. He, therefore, hoped no Catholic in Drogheda would vote against Mr. Whitworth. Anyone who voted against him would prove himself an enemy to his country, and a supporter of the Protestant Church. He might not tell them, for they had already abundant proof of it, that Mr. Whitworth was as much opposed to Protestant ascendancy as Cardinal Cullen or himself, and he longed for equality. He hoped they would not be led astray, for he would again tell them that anyone who voted against Mr. Whitworth was an enemy to his religion, and to the priests of his church, who would sacrifice their lives for the people. If they were not mad, they would vote on the side the priests went, because they knew the priests had never deceived them. Did not Father Kelly and Father M'Guckin lose their lives by attending patients in fever, and were the priests not every day risking their lives attending upon their flocks on their sick-beds? They should vote, then, for Whitworth, which would be voting for liberty and the destruction of Protestant ascendancy. He had that day heard it reported that a mob of 500 Orangemen were to come down from Dublin next day—the polling day (Friday)—to disturb the peace of the town. He thought they might not have heard it, and he wished, therefore, to put them on their guard. Will you, men of Drogheda, tolerate this in your Catholic town? He would advise them, then, seriously, to be fully prepared; for the Orange party in Drogheda were anxious and panting to crush them. Every man who is opposed to Whitworth is on the side of the Orange candidate. Let them remember that. Although he never wished any man to do wrong, he must again call on them to be prepared, for the Drogheda Orangemen had secured the assistance of 500 of their brethren in Dublin. The Catholics opposed to us are Orange Catholics. They must despise them, no matter who they are. There were some of them he esteemed and loved, but he must stand by his church. Those Catholics who were on the side of the Orangemen must be put down. They must be crushed at any risk; they should, therefore, be prepared for them, for it was a terrible crisis. He was sure many parties had been deceived by Brodigan and his committee; but there was time to relent, and if they now came round to the side of Mr. Whitworth they would be received with open arms. By promising support to Brodigan they had brought a thorough enemy into the camp, and everyone who was an enemy to Whitworth was an enemy to his church, his country, and his principles. Let everyone bring up all the voters he can in his neighbourhood to-morrow, and by so doing he will be materially assisting in disendowing and disestablishing the Protestant Church. The Conservative party were promising bribes which they never intended to pay. They will deceive the Catholics who trust to them; but if the Catholics go with their priests they will never do wrong." That finished the Rev. Mr. Murphy.

464. Now for the Rev. Mr. M'Kee?—The Rev. Mr. M'Kee said, "This would be a momentous contest. It was a contest against their deadly enemy. He was a North of Ireland man, a native of Ulster; he was born within a few miles of the Yellow Ford, where Hugh O'Neill gained a victory over the English; he had read of the persecutions which had occurred in Drogheda heda, in by-gone times. They had all heard of the butcher Cromwell, who gave glory to God for the number that he butchered in Drogheda, in one day. That church which stands at the head of Peter-street had a wooden steeple; when Cromwell came to Drogheda, more than 200 years ago, Cromwell went first to St. Mary's Church, where they had, the other day, to fight a battle over again. Cromwell was opposed there by the good priests, who mounted the walls to resist him, but they were beaten back and fled for refuge to St. Peter's Church, which then belonged to the Catholics. Their priests and nuns fled to Peter's Church for refuge; but Cromwell came with his invading army, and what did the butcher do? He found he could not force them to surrender, and he set fire to the steeple, and when they fled from the church he butchered them without the slightest mercy. When the Cromwellians gained the victory they robbed their forefathers of their property. Who are the party that are now coming forward to act a similar part? The descendants of Cromwell's soldiers, whose ancestors being their forefathers at the Tholsel of Drogheda." The Rev. Mr. M'Kee next stated that "the present bishop of Glasgow's father was flogged at Millmount, and that the father of Mr. Brodigan, the present Member, went up to see the inhuman act performed. He (Mr. M'Kee) knew what an Orangeman was; he was sorry to say that Orangism had its origin in the county Armagh. Orangemen say they will be true to the Government as long as they give them places and emolument; so long as they give them the loaves and fishes they will be loyal. The Orangemen are loyal as long as they get everything in the country; as long as they feed on the vitals of the Catholics. A few months ago one of the ministers, in the North of Ireland, said that sooner than they would submit to a change from Protestant ascendancy, he would see the Crown of the Queen thrown into the Boyne. Now, he asked them were they to become slaves; the Orangemen of Dublin were, on next day, to come down to Drogheda. If these men should come down let them hurl them into the Boyne. Let the people meet them in the morning, at the train, and give them a warm reception." I would state that I have not taken a full verbatim note.

465. Is that substantially what took place?—Yes.

466. Have you a distinct remembrance of their saying something about throwing them into the Boyne?—Yes; I am as distinct as that I am looking at the judge.

467. The Rev. Mr. Glynn said what?—"The Rev. Mr. Glynn next addressed the crowd: he confessed he was ashamed to stand there as a Catholic priest; he was ashamed of the people of Drogheda to allow the battle of the Boyne to be fought over again, which was fought 200 years ago on the banks of that river, and a terrible battle it was. On that occasion there were two contending armies; one party fought under the flag of 'No Popery,' 'Church Ascendancy,' and 'To h—ll with the Priests.' The flag of the others was, 'Religious Equality,' and 'Peace and Harmony among all Classes of their Fellow-citizens.' Who is the successor to-day of that Catholic army? Who is the general to-day? Mr. Whitworth. They were that night on the eve of another great battle of the Boyne. Their general was an Englishman, anxious for religious equality, and the battle was for Ireland. When they had the Protestant Church dis-established, and dis-endowed, they would then get anything they wanted, and the priests of Ireland would be found in their ranks. Now, was there any Catholic amongst them who would be so base as to go into the ranks of the enemy? If there was, his name would be recorded in history as the vilest wretch in creation. He advised all who heard him to bring their friends to the poll; to marshal their forces early in the morning, and when they were about to charge, say, 'Friends of freedom, charge them home; foes of freedom, faugh-a-ballagh'!" That concludes it.

468. The Rev. Dr. Murphy again?—"The Rev. Dr. Murphy next addressed the assemblage: they had arrived at a very important crisis in the history of their native land. The would-be Catholic Member, Mr. Brodigan, and Orange emissaries from h—ll, had come amongst them. At this critical juncture he advised the people to be faithful in following the advice of their clergy, secular and regular, and the Catholic traitors, and Orange demons, would soon be routed from Drogheda. Up to this moment the greatest peace has existed amongst the people; he trusted the same quietude would mark the proceedings, up to the hour of closing the poll next day, and a glorious victory would be theirs." That concludes that.

469. The Rev. Mr. Gavin is next, is he not?—Yes. "The Rev. Mr. Gavin now came forward, amid loud cheers. He said he knew by their voices that they proclaimed him a friend, not an enemy. He knew by their voices that they believed he was prepared, as their forefathers were to go to the block, lay down his head and sacrifice his life for their interests. When he last spoke to them he told them that there was a crisis arrived at in reference to the three kingdoms, England, Scotland, and Ireland, but particularly to Ireland. He told them, last evening, that there was a question not only before the three kingdoms, but before all Europe; a question was brought before the people to decide, and that question was the disendowment and disestablishment of the Protestant Church, which was generated and nurtured in lust and crime, while it was fattened on the spoliation and robbery of the Catholic property and the Catholic Church of Ireland. The people of England were not acquainted with our grievances until their eyes were opened by a continuous rebellion. The question of disestablishment and disendowment of that church which was placed upon your shoulders is now understood in England to be a grievance in this country, and the question for you is, will you give your voices against it. Up to a very recent period he had not intended to identify himself with the politics of the town; but when he saw a man, by the way, a most respectable and an educated man, of the name of Mr. M'Clintock, coming into Drogheda to be returned by the voices of the Liberals and Catholics of Drogheda, his blood rose to his face, and he blushed for shame that such a man would get a chance of becoming representative for the town. All that he wanted to tell his hearers in conclusion was, that on yesterday, in the city of Dublin, some of the friends of ascendancy in this town hired 300 assassins to come and butcher the Catholics of Drogheda. He asked them, would they meet them. He assured them, on the word of a priest, that what he said was a fact, that some party in the favour of the Orange candidate here went to Dublin and purchased the tag, rag, and bobtail of Orangedom to come down and butcher them to-morrow. He did not want the people of Drogheda to treat those hirelings as they deserved, but he merely wanted to show to what extremes the Orange party are capable of going, seeking for victory, in order that M'Clintock may be another, who will, by his vote, assist to perpetuate that badge of conquest and blot on the English constitution, the Protestant Church. Did any of them know the Irish language? Did they know what a ranthan was? He would explain it to them. It was a calf with a dirty tail. No matter, although Mr. M'Clintock may be a gentleman and a man of education, he called him a ranthan; for, from many of those of his supporters it was clear he had a dirty tail.

No matter how learned a man and great sailor Mr. M'Clintock may be; he may sound well with his plummet, remarkably well; but when he comes to use it here, seeking for mud and dirt, he will find amongst us adamantine rock to the bottom."

470. Is that your own handwriting you have been reading at the bottom?—Yes, that is my handwriting.

471. Have you now finished your report?—Yes.

Mr. Heron applied for a copy of the speeches read by the witness.

Mr. Justice Keogh ordered a copy to be supplied.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. SAMUEL DERKINS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

S. Derkins. 472. ARE you a Councillor in Dublin?—Yes.

473. Did you come down to Drogheda on the morning of the polling day?—I did.

474. Who accompanied you, do you know?—Mr. Bell, of Ball's Grove, living in Dublin; Mr. Harris, and Dr. Breeden, and two or three more; I do not recollect their names.

475. Did you hear Mr. Hamilton mention a number of gentlemen's names?—I was not here when Mr. Hamilton was examined.

476. Will you tell us what occurred when you arrived at the railway station in Drogheda?—When we got within 100 yards of the railway station, the train stopped, and we wondered it did not come up to the platform; the station master came down running along the steps outside the train, and he asked whether there were any voters.

Mr. Heron objected to what the station master said being received as evidence.

Witness.] He said there was a great deal of excitement at the station, and that we should take care of ourselves, and advised as many of us as we could to get together in one compartment if possible. A number of people got into a first-class carriage, and all the seats were occupied, and when he made some arrangement with the other carriages, we proceeded to the platform, where we got out. A number of gentlemen met us, and said we were to be escorted down by the cavalry. "Take time and get yourselves into line." There were about 30, and we proceeded in that way from the station, and the stone throwing commenced immediately after; hooting first, and then stone throwing, till we got into James-street; then we got it quite hot and heavy. I used the caution of putting my umbrella up; I saved my head; I got well pelted about the back; two gentlemen who passed me were bleeding from the head; the blood was running down their coats when we got there; there was a sort of halt.

477. Where?—At the bridge, and I distinctly saw a great crowd in Shop-street; in fact, the street was full. I looked and saw bludgeons and sticks, and saw the cavalry. There was a rush, and I was knocked down and picked up; when I got up I saw a man bleeding from the head; about that time I heard the shots. I saw the men, I might say, firing; I saw him on the ground. After that the crowd got thin, and soon after the charge was made up the street. I looked about for the voters; some went into a house; I followed and got into Kelly's. There I found some gentlemen had got in; Colonel Fairclough along with the rest; he was bleeding very much. We went upstairs, in the back room. The person of the house said, "For God's sake, do not make any noise." There was a great noise outside, and every moment they expected the fellows in. We got some water when we were upstairs, and tried to stop the blood. He bled for an hour and a-half. A person in the house allowed us to go in the front room, but we were told not to go near the window, the crowd were watching us. We waited till half-past two, two hours, then the landlord came up.

Mr. Heron objected to the evidence.

Witness.] We remained there till the high sheriff came, and we were told that the high sheriff and some gentlemen were downstairs and wished to see us. During the time we were there, there was a great deal of excitement, but we were determined they would get the worst of it if they came upstairs. I have a book with me in which I got the gentlemen to write their names. I said, "We may forget one another, will you write your names in this book, and we shall know one another." I kept the book.

478. Mr. Plunkett.] Is this the book?—

Mr. Heron objected to the book being produced.

Witness.] We remained there till the high sheriff came and told us the town was tranquil, and we might go up and vote; some would not vote; I said I would not vote; I would not risk my life any farther; at last we got there; I found I had lost my hat when we got up there. Mr. Chadwick was with us, and I heard the clerks were withdrawn from the polling booths, and that we could not poll.

479. Mr. Plunkett.] What o'clock was that?—Three, or a quarter to three; we were very anxious to get to the train. Mr. Chadwick conducted me to my brother-in-law's in West-street; we got a car and went the back way out of the town.

480. You went back by train?—Yes, by the mail train.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pallas.

481. I suppose it was about twelve o'clock when you got into this house; that was the hour when the occurrence took place, was it not?—Yes.

482. What

482. What hour did you first leave the house?—I think about half-past two; twenty-five minutes to three.

483. Where did you go to then?—Up to Peter-street.

484. From Peter-street where?—To West-street.

485. Where was the tally room?—In Peter-street.

486. When you say you went to Peter-street, you mean you went to the tally room?—Yes.

487. How long did you remain in the tally room?—Half-an-hour.

488. Where did you go to then?—My brother-in-law's.

489. Where was that?—West-street.

490. How long did you remain there?—I remained there less than half-an-hour.

491. From West-street you went to the station?—Yes, straight.

492. There were six gentlemen in the house originally with you?—Yes.

493. Was Mr. George Bell one of those?—No.

494. Look at that and tell me the name?—There were Mr. Vanbornley Macready, Charles Healey, Francis Hamilton of Bird's Eye-square, Colonel Fairclough of 8, Upper Leicester-street, Robert Smith, and myself.

495. Are you aware whether any of those persons voted?—Yes, Macready voted, he told me after.

496. You know that Mr. Macready voted?—He told me so; I did not know it till I saw him in Dublin.

497. Do you mean to swear that you would not have been able to vote if you wished?—I could not swear that. I did not know what I might meet between the bridge and the polling-place.

498. The poll did not close till five o'clock, did it?—I do not know that.

499. When did you know that McClintock had no chance?—I did not know it.

500. When did you suspect it?—I did not suspect it.

501. When you were going away by train, you did not expect that McClintock would be beaten?—He was beaten, and we were all beaten.

502. Did you suspect McClintock was beaten?—I had no suspicion at all. I came down to vote, and I was prevented.

503. Did you pass the polling booth when you were going to West-street?—I do not know where the polling booth was.

504. Did you ask?—No.

505. You remember when these gentlemen came in about half-past two and offered to escort you to vote?—Yes.

506. Did you believe you would be safe in going under their escort?—I had my doubts.

507. That is the reason you did not go?—I did go.

508. You did not go to vote?—I could not.

509. The reason you did not go to vote was, that you believed you would not be safe under the escort?—Yes.

510. You thought the escort which would take you to West-street would not be sufficient to take you to the polling booth?—I do not think I did.

511. Was Mr. Bradbrooke one of the persons who offered to bring you to the polling booth?—No one offered to bring me.

512. No one offered to form an escort?—No one.

513. Had you Mr. Bradbrooke, Mr. Chadwick, and Mr. Carroll?—Yes.

514. Did they ask every one of the party if they wished to vote?—Not that I know of.

515. What did they say?—What the sheriff said was, they were very sorry they were obliged to run up there for shelter; they said it was very poor shelter he gave us.

516. Did they, or not, say this or anything like it, "If you wish to vote we will conduct you to the poll and give you any protection you require"?—Yes.

517. They said that?—It was said in the room.

518. You understood it as addressed to you all?—Yes.

519. Did some of them answer that they would go?—Not in my hearing, not one.

520. Did some of them say they would not?—I said I would not go.

521. Did some of them say they thought there was no use in their voting?—I did not hear it.

522. Will you swear they did not?—I did not hear it.

523. At this time there was some discussion about the price of some refreshments, was there not?—No.

524. About who should pay for the refreshments?—No; you were never more mistaken.

525. The party were having a discussion as to whether Sir Leopold McClintock ought not to pay for the refreshment?—No; your brief is wrong there.

MR. EDWARD TOWNLEY HARDMAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Ryland.

526. WERE you an elector?—Yes.

527. Did you come down to record your vote on the day of the poll?—Yes.

528. By what train?—The train that was supposed to leave Dublin at half-past nine; the train that was supposed to leave; it did not leave at the proper time.

529. Did anything take place before you arrived at Drogheda?—Yes; when we came within a short distance of the terminus the train was stopped; the station-master came to the carriage in which I was, and asked in a very excited manner if there were any voters there. No person in the carriage answered. Then he said, if there were any they had better tell him. Then we saw the voters being brought out. I should mention there were two other voters, friends of mine, in the carriage; Smith and Bliscoe. When we got out we were put into a first-class carriage, with a number of others, and the train then proceeded to the terminus. We were then brought out and placed under an escort of military. The infantry formed two deep, with the cavalry outside, and we were brought down this way into the town. We were not molested until we got some distance from the railway. When we got outside the railway gates stone throwing commenced, and the whole way from there into the town we were pelted, more or less; in James-street especially. We were hurt very much. I was struck two or three times. I saw several gentlemen under the escort struck, and also soldiers as well. When we arrived at the bridge a halt took place. I did not know at the time what the reason was. In a short time we were again marched on, when another halt took place, and the soldiers and everyone were driven back by the violence of the stone-throwing; the horses reared and almost fell back on us, so that the voters attempted to get back out of the way, and in their doing so most of them were knocked down, I among the rest. When I picked myself up I found the rest of the voters were vanished; I could see none of them. Then the cavalry came behind where I was standing, and prepared to charge. On seeing that, I withdrew off the bridge into Mr. Herbert's.

530. On which side of the bridge?—The west side. I waited there some time till the crowd had become less. However, I saw the crowd was very thick on the bridge. Previously as we were leaving the bridge I saw the soldiers drawn in a body in front, and I heard two shots. I then left the bridge and went into the saltworks, and seeing the crowd was still very thick on the bridge, I attempted to leave the other way, by John-street. I intended to go round by another bridge further up the river, and through West-street to the tally-room. However, as I went through the yard I was met by three men. One asked me whether I was going to vote for Whitworth; they were armed with sticks and looked very ferocious; and I said of course I was. Then one of them said they would escort me through the town, and he came with me. Just outside we were met by three others; he told them I was going to vote for Whitworth, and they came round me and marched up Shop-street with me. As I passed several crowds, these men said I was going to vote for Whitworth. When we came to the polling-booth in Shop-street I went in expecting I should vote for Sir Leopold M'Clintock; but the men came in along with me and surrounded me, and I felt that if I voted for Sir Leopold M'Clintock at that time, my life was in danger. One of these men then said that I was going to vote for Mr. Whitworth. Some person in the booth said I could not do so unless I had a ticket obtained from his tally-rooms. Then the men said they intended to escort me to his tally-rooms. I went out with them, thinking I could easily escape from them outside and go to Sir Leopold M'Clintock's tally-room. However, they insisted upon my going to a room which happened to be one of the polling-booths, which they mistook for Mr. Whitworth's tally-room. There I was met by a gentleman, who asked me whether I was going to vote for Mr. Whitworth.

531. Who was that?—I have heard since that it was a Mr. Matthews; he was the same gentleman I met there.

532. Would you know him now?—I think so; he was a young man; I do not see him here.

533. Go on with your description?—I said there was plenty of time to vote; I was not in a hurry. At the same time I was thinking how to get away from my escort.

534. At what o'clock was that?—I should say very nearly one o'clock.

535. Now about the three men?—Three of the four men were in the body of the polling-booth speaking to some of the people in it; the other man was standing with me at the door; he said to me, "Mr. Hardman, you had better go home, or vote for Mr. Whitworth; you will certainly be killed if you do not; if you vote for Sir Leopold M'Clintock you will certainly be killed."

536. Mr. Heron.] Who said that?—One of the men who escorted me up the town. I asked him would he take a drink; he said he would. He came then, and I took him into a public-house and gave him a drink. Still he kept with me, and we were walking up the street together, when I slipped into a house and he passed on; I waited until I thought he had gone, then I came out of the place and walked up the street to the tally-room, where I remained the greater portion of the day.

537. Mr. Ryland.] Did you vote?—Certainly not.

538. What prevented you afterwards voting when you got to the tally-room?—There was an immense crowd at the polling-booth, and I thought my life in danger.

539. Was that the reason you did not vote at the polling-booth?—Yes.

540. Were you struck yourself, or did you see other persons struck?—Yes; when we were walking down, I turned round and saw a gentleman walking just behind me, one of the voters who had evidently been struck.

541. Mr. Heron.] What was his name?—I do not know his name.

Mr. Heron objected to the witness stating that the gentleman who was struck was a voter.

542. Mr. Ryland.] Was he a gentleman who was escorted?—I saw the blood streaming down his coat, and I found some of it on the back of my coat and trousers afterwards; I saw a gentleman who was walking before me struck three times on the back of the head; I saw several of the soldiers struck, and I saw two of the soldiers turn round who were struck.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Captain WILLIAM DAINT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Mc Donogh.

Captain
W. Daint.

543. DURING this election were you a Captain in Her Majesty's service?—Yes.

544. Were you in charge of that portion of the military?—On the 20th of November?

545. Yes?—I was in charge of 64 of the 9th Regiment, and also I had a party of the 14th Hussars under my command.

546. Were you assisted by any officers of your own regiment?—I had four other officers of my own regiment under me.

547. Had you any officers of the Hussars?—Captain Hux, of the Hussars.

548. The whole detachment was under your charge?—Yes.

549. Do you remember when you were called upon?—I was ordered somewhere about 11 o'clock to go down with 40 men and reinforce a party already down there, which consisted of 20 of the 9th Regiment, and some of the Hussars.

550. Did you receive the order from your colonel?—I received the order from Colonel Knox to manage the whole troop there.

551. You proceeded there accordingly?—Yes.

552. When

552. When you reached the station, did anything attract your attention?—When I reached the station I saw some of the Hussars there, and I also saw this part of my regiment there. One of the stipendiary magistrates, Mr. Reed, came up to me and told me that there was a party of voters immediately expected by train, and that I was to escort them up to the polling-booth; and he requested me to get my men ready to escort them up, and get them between my men.

553. Did you proceed to make your dispositions accordingly?—Yes; I then proceeded to make my dispositions so that the voters should get immediately between my files. In a short time the party arrived. I was told by Mr. Reed that I was to escort the voters. He then came up to me, and said "Here they are."

554. How many persons were there altogether who came by the train?—About 40 they seemed to me, by the way they occupied my files.

555. Then I presume each took up his position just as you directed; the infantry, and cavalry, and police?—Yes; I had the voters between my files; some cavalry on each side outside my men; and the rear was protected by a body of the constabulary.

556. You moved towards the town in that order?—Yes.

557. What occurred next?—When we got about 20 yards from the station there was a few people outside; when we got outside they increased in number, and when we got 20 yards from the station, stone-throwing commenced. After a little time, being in front, my men in the rear, the cavalry, I turned round and saw several of my men bleeding profusely from cuts about the face. As we proceeded further into the town the crowds were much thicker. There was a very dense crowd as we came from James-street; they were shouting and yelling at us, and cursing us, and brandishing their sticks at us. All this time stone-throwing was continuing, and also other missiles. I saw pieces of hoop iron pass close to me. There seemed to me to be all sorts of missiles, some of them thrown from the houses; I should say so from the direction in which they came. Bye-and-bye the crowd became denser and denser, till we came to Bull Ring, but we managed to get on till the cavalry got just over the bridge, to this side of the bridge; then there was a halt; a stoppage took place, and I saw the horses of the cavalry were plunging and rearing about. In the meantime stones were flying in showers at us; I saw several gentlemen whom I was escorting, and who I presume to be voters, bleeding; and I also saw several of my men bleeding. I had tried to get at the front as soon as the halt took place. I saw that active measures must be adopted, and I wanted to get a magistrate in front, but I could not get there owing to the plunging and rearing of horses; I then fell back; there were two horses rearing most tremendously, and I had to retire to prevent myself being kicked or knocked over by the horses. As I did so, I saw three or four of the Hussars wheeling to the right to get away past my right flank, past my men. I must tell you that when the halt took place the horses of the cavalry pressed back and broke the formation of my men entirely; they fell back and broke the formation in which we started. After this I saw three or four of the cavalry wheeling to the right to get to the rear, I presume, of the party; just then I was hit by a large stone in the chest, which caused me to stagger back, and I fell against some of my men behind, and just as I was regaining my feet (I did not fall, I staggered back only) I was struck by a stone on the side of the head; I fell, and I knew nothing more about it.

558. You became unconscious?—Yes; the next I know of it is, when I was being helped up off the ground by some of my men; I heard a shot fired just as I was in the act of being helped up off the ground, and I saw several of my men loading; I stopped their loading; there was then a great lull in the uproar, but the uproar previous to that had been tremendous; I called out to the magistrate, but my voice was drowned in the tremendous uproar; when I heard this shot fired, I noticed there was a lull, and after seeing my men loading, and stopping it, I turned round and saw a man lying 15 or 20 yards from me at the commencement of Shop-street. The crowd had opened out considerably then; I could almost see up the street; I could not see the front at first, because the horses were in front of me; I saw a great crowd on the quay to the right, who kept up a tremendous fire of stones at us; I saw a man lying in the road; the crowd opened; I formed my men up then across the bridge, and turned round to Mr. Reed; I saw the crowd were then closing in again; I requested leave of Mr. Reed to charge; it was impossible to stand that sort of thing any longer; he told me that the Riot Act had been read, and that I was to charge; while I was speaking to him, the cavalry came up from the rear and charged up Shop-street, past my right flank; I then charged up about 50 yards after them; there were still things thrown from the windows on the left-hand side of Shop-street; we charged about 50 yards on the double up; I formed the men a minute or two, and charged up the side of the street facing the court-houses.

559. Had you any of the persons placed under your escort with you then?—I saw a few of them standing behind my men after they were drawn up in front of us; they were standing behind.

560. Did the mob come up again and pass you?—The mob came up again bearing the body of this man on a shutter or door on their shoulders, and using most menacing language and shaking their sticks at us; they seemed so excessively violent and infuriated, that the men were all ordered to load.

561. And they did, I presume?—Yes, we loaded.

562. Do you remember whether you said anything about their firing, or prohibiting them?—I told them not to fire until orders were given.

563. Did the mob pass on then?—The party who were bearing the dead body passed on, but still there was a great mob left in front of us.

564. Did anything else occur?—Some stones were thrown at us, even after we were drawn up, and I saw one make a deep mark on a shutter; it passed where I was standing; I saw an immense number of sticks and stones; they were large thick sticks.

565. Did anything else occur that day?—We afterwards marched up to the prison, and two men were delivered up to the civil powers.

566. Did you examine the state of the rifles which your men had?—I examined them after I returned from election duty in Dublin.

567. What day was that; how soon after?—

Captain
W. Daint.
1869.

Captain
W. Damt.
1869.

The beginning of December, but they were examined by officers the same day.

568. How many did you find injured?—

Mr. Heron objected to the evidence on the ground that the examination of the rifles was at a remote day from that on which the alleged damage took place.

Mr. Justice Keogh allowed the objection.

569. Mr. M'Donogh.] Are the other officers here?—One of them is here who inspected some of the rifles.

570. Were many of the men injured on that day, or hurt?—Yes, four officers and 14 men.

571. Were any of them seriously hurt?—Oh! yes; there is one very ill and in the hospital still.

572. What is his name?—Serjeant Campbell.

573. Were you at Silcocks's Hotel?—I was billeted at Silcocks's Hotel for a week.

574. Were you there at night when speeches were delivered by clergymen?—I heard part of the speeches delivered on the 19th, Monday, the day before the polling.

575. Do you remember any expression in relation to any of the people coming from Dublin?—I heard attention called to this: "Men of Drogheda recollect the battle of the Boyne that was fought here nearly 200 years ago, and be prepared to fight this battle again to-morrow." I also heard that we must adopt every measure to return a man who votes for the disestablishment and disendowment of the Irish Church, which has been built up by the spoliation and robbery of the Catholic religion.

576. Do you remember anything said about the men coming from Dublin?—There was an immense amount of cheering after this, and as I was not particularly interested in it, I withdrew from the window, and afterwards I heard the words, "Orangemen, down with them, down with them;" but nothing more than that.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hamill.

577. At the time you were upon the bridge, did you hear the word "halt" cried out?—No.

578. Did you hear any command given to the cavalry to wheel round?—No.

579. Nothing of that kind?—No.

580. They were under the command of Colonel Knox?—Yes.

581. Did you hear him examined on a former occasion?—Yes.

582. Did you hear him say that he had given the command to the Hussars to go to the rear?—I cannot remember now.

583. Did you hear him admit that it was the word "halt" that made him—

Mr. M'Donogh objected to the question.

584. Mr. Hamill.] Were the cavalry in advance of you?—Yes, four yards in front of me.

585. There was an officer; is he here; is that officer here?—He is here.

586. Did you see the cavalry wheel before what happened to you?—I saw about three or four pass me, and just at that moment I was knocked down.

[The Witness withdrew.

Captain JOHN HUNTER KNOX, sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

Captain
J. H. Knox.

587. You are Captain of the 14th Hussars?—Yes.

588. Were you quartered at Drogheda at the time of the late election?—Yes.

589. How long were you here before the polling day?—I was here a few days; I came here on the Saturday, I think, before.

590. Were you here on the nomination day?—Yes.

591. Were you kept in readiness to act on that day?—Yes, I was left in readiness.

592. Now, tell us what happened on the day of the polling?—On the night before the polling I got an order from Colonel Knox, who was in command of all the troops in Drogheda, to take half my troop out the following morning, and to parade down at the court-house at a quarter past eight, I think it was, or a quarter before eight, and accordingly the following morning I paraded. There had been orders that I was to take half the troop under my command. I had one officer who was to be left in with the other half; accordingly I paraded 16 of my men in front of the court-house, and reported myself to Colonel Knox. He introduced me to some of the magistrates, and told me to render them any assistance they might require. I remained there for some time, and had not anything to do. There was a great crowd, and so on, but there was nothing for the soldiers to do for some time. Afterwards I was told to take half my troop to assist some men in taking prisoners up. We did so, and came down to our own position to the court-house. Soon after, about half-past nine, I think, I went with Captain Talbot down to the railway station. I was told that I was to bring in some voters that were coming in by train. I brought my men down through the town; the streets were full of people, but they did not interfere with us beyond hooting, yelling, and crying, but they did not molest us. We arrived at the railway station; there was a very large crowd there. I was told that there were some voters inside. They would wait till the next train with more voters arrived; they came in together, and the magistrates who were there (Mr. Reed was one and Captain Talbot for the other) consulted me, and asked me if I thought we had sufficient force to bring the voters into the town. There were 16 men of my own and a portion of the infantry, 9th Regiment, and some police; I do not know the strength altogether at the time; I said no, I thought the force was not sufficient if they did not allow the men to use their arms; if they chose to let them use their arms, if necessary, I thought the force sufficient; but if they wanted to do the thing peaceably they ought to get a larger force. There was a note sent off, and they got up another company of infantry under the command of Captain Talbot. We formed an escort, and attempted to bring the voters into the town.

593. You were in charge of the infantry and others?—Yes. When I went first to the railway station there was a large mob in and about the station and down the lane. We waited at the railway station a considerable time; I should think over an hour; and after some time the mob dispersed and went back to the town. When we started at first the road was quite clear for some way. When we got into the town the stone-throwing commenced; not many at first, but it got worse and worse until we got to the bridge, and there it was very bad.

594. Were

594. Were any of your men injured?—Yes, they were all hit, but none of them injured severely, but they were all hit; I was hit myself by several blows on the back of my head.

595. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Did you say you were thrown?—A stick was thrown and hit me on the back of the head; I was also struck on the right arm with a stone. My horse was struck in several places about the head and fore legs and hind quarters; in fact, he was struck all over.

596. What occurred next?—I had Captain Talbot with me mounted, and the high sheriff was also with me. He seemed to have a great effect on the people; they cleared away. He kept a great many people away from me, and just as we got on the bridge the words “halt and front” were passed along; but we should have been obliged to halt if the word “halt” had not been passed. We could not go on at a walk; the horses would not face the mob and the sticks and stones; they were plunging and rearing about. My men were divided. I had a few with me when I started; the others were each side of the escort.

597. The formation had been broken, had it not?—Yes, the formation had been broken very much; my men were scattered about when I first started. Just as we got over the bridge I turned round and saw what was going on, and saw that I was no use whatever, and my own men were no use where they were; and to the few men behind me I said, “Get in rear of the infantry; get back.” They wheeled their horses round, and they went in rear of the infantry. Just as I passed the front of the infantry there was a shot fired, and a man fell in front of the mob. Well, there was a lull, and the mob ran back. There was a vacant space left, but a few seconds afterwards they seemed to be coming on again. I turned round to Captain Talbot and said, “What am I to do?” he said, “Charge and clear the streets.” The men drew their swords and galloped up the street, and the mob ran in every direction, and I trooped up the other half of my troop in front of the court-house.

598. When you formed up, did you see then the persons you were escorting?—No, I did not see them; I do not know what became of them.

599. What next occurred?—Afterwards the body of the man who was killed was carried past on a shutter, and the mob threw sticks and stones, and I saw the infantry in the loading position; we went up to the gaol afterwards.

600. What was the demeanour of the mob when carrying the dead man past?—Very threatening; it meant that if we had not got arms, and the infantry were not ready, they would have attacked them; that was their demeanour.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

601. Had you the slightest difficulty in clearing the street by your charge?—No, not the slightest; the shot that had been fired cleared the street in the first instance; the two shots that were fired.

602. Had you passed the bridge yourself on horseback before the word to halt was given?—I had just got over the bridge at the time.

603. Who gave the order?—I do not know; it was passed from the rear; the whole escort were attacked all round; I looked round in the saddle.

604. Was the word passed from the rear?—I heard the word from the rear, “halt and front.” I will not be certain that I did not hear, “We cannot keep up, we are attacked,” or some words to that effect.

605. Was the word given by some one in authority?—I do not know who gave it at all.

606. Did you give the word to halt to your men?—No.

607. But they did halt?—Yes, they were halted by the mob and the sticks as much as anything else.

608. Did you direct your men to wheel round?—No, there was no regular formation; there was no regular word of command; it was not necessary to give a regular distinct word; I turned round and said, “Get in rear of the infantry.”

609. And up to that time you had been facing towards Drogheda?—No, not always; at times the horses were rearing up in the air, sometimes sideways, and sometimes turning round.

610. You told your men to get in rear of the infantry?—Yes, the two or three men near me.

611. They then did so?—Yes.

612. Your men did not retire to the rear of the infantry until you gave them the word?—No; I told the few men near me to do so; the others were at the side of the infantry.

613. Was it after you got into the rear that the infantry opened out to let you charge?—After we got to the rear I formed my men up; they were scattered when we first started; I formed my men up and went round one side of the infantry, and galloped up the street.

614. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Were there any of your men thrown off their horses?—Yes, there was one man when we were galloping up the street, or two men and horses came down; one horse came down, the other horse struck him and came down.

615. It was not the result of blows or stones?—The second horse, I believe; I did not see it. His fall, I believe, occurred by a chamber-pot; it came down out of a window; it fell in the front of the horse; he swerved round and fell.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Captain R. M. JEPHSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Ryland.

616. Of what regiment are you?—The 9th Regiment.

617. Were you at Drogheda during the election?—I was.

618. Where were you?—With Captain Daunts' Company, who went to the railway station to escort the voters.

619. Will you describe what you saw at the railway station?—We had been escorting the voters, and after leaving the station 200 or 300 yards, stones began to be thrown; the mob used threatening language, and I heard, “Bring them out, pull them out,” alluding to the gentlemen, I believe, we were escorting. Some stones were thrown, and the shower of stones increased as we got to James-street. There the mob was very violent, and then the shower of stones increased. Then when we got on to the bridge, on this side of the bridge, the mob seemed to have concentrated their forces, and we were obliged to be be brought to a halt; the cavalry were thrown into confusion and fell back, and threw us into disorder also.

620. Did you see the man shot?—I saw him on the bridge just after the cavalry, or most of of them, wheeled and went past our right flank, and just after that I saw the gentleman lying down on the ground in front, and the mob were stoning him; I went up; I thought he was in danger. I went up to do my best to assist him; I tried to lift him; as he was rather heavy, my first attempt was ineffectual. All this time the mob seemed bent on stoning the gentleman almost to death.

621. Was he one of the party you had been escorting?—I had not seen him before in the party.

622. Was he in the party at the time of the stoning?—He had got in front somehow or the other, and I went and tried to lift him up, and one of the crowd came up and threw his arms round the gentleman's head to shelter him from the shower of stones, and another came up and took him to his horse. I returned to my company a few steps behind, and I heard a shot fired. I saw Captain Daunt immediately after, and I inquired who had fired the shot, and then after the shot was fired, the mob opened out and the cavalry charged, and we followed them up to the court-house here.

623. Did you receive any injuries yourself?—I got a slight blow on the cheek from a stone.

624. Were many of your men hurt?—Yes; I saw a number of our men bleeding, and also several of the gentlemen we were escorting.

625. Have you examined the arms of any of the men?—I examined all the arms of the company that I belong to.

626. On what day did you examine the arms?—On the same time.

627. How many rifles did you examine?—I examined either 26 or 29; I am not quite sure of the number.

628. In what state were the rifles?—Out of the number, there were 23 or 24 injured. I had them marked down as injured.

629. What was the nature of the injury to the rifles?—Blows from stones, the barrels scratched or dented, and also the stocks injured.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. FREDERICK ST. CLAIR RUTHVEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

Mr. F. St.
C. Ruthven.

630. I BELIEVE that you are an officer in the constabulary?—I am.

631. Were you in charge of any of the constabulary on the day of the polling in Drogheda?—Yes, I was in charge of a party of 14 men; that number was afterwards increased to 29.

632. When you had the 14 men, what part of the town were you in?—I was at the railway station.

633. Will you describe what happened?—When I arrived in the morning, sometime between 5 and 6, at first everything was quiet for sometime till after the arrival of the first train, by which some 40 or 50 people came down from Dublin and went into Drogheda. Sometime after they went to Drogheda two of them returned to the station bleeding and bruised from the beating they had received at some place in the town, or in its vicinity, and they stated—

Mr. Heron objected to this evidence.

634. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] What did you see then after they came in?—I went down towards the town with my party, and I met Mr. Reed, the resident magistrate, coming up with a party of constabulary, and he remained with me for the rest of the day with 15 more constabulary.

635. What happened afterwards?—The mob greatly increased at the station till they amounted to several thousands, and they were very furious, and armed with sticks and bludgeons of various kinds.

636. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Will you tell us what occurred?—I kept my party at the station for a long time to keep the mob from entering the station, but some of them got round by the ends of the station, and got into the station. It was reported to me that they had beaten some people—

637. Do not say what was reported to you?—I then cleared the station.

638. Mr. Plunkett.] After you had cleared the station, what happened?—I saw some people in the railway carriages were bleeding very much from the wounds which they had received, and I kept the station clear till the arrival of the next train. We then started for the town with a number of people who were voters.

639. As you went down with this escort, what happened?—Immediately before the escort moved the mob seemed to have been mainly withdrawn from the station, and shortly after we got out of the railway premises the stone throwing commenced. It was principally meant for the persons whom we were escorting in the first instance. The stone throwing increased very much as we got into the town, and became very bad in the Bull Ring, and from that on to the bridge.

640. When you came to the bridge, what happened?—The mob was very violent, and sticks and stones were thrown in great numbers, and I saw the military disorganised, and they partly retired on the constabulary, who also retired, and were in some confusion. I saw several of the people we were escorting struck with stones, and at the bridge two of them were knocked down, and then Mr. Reed, who was with me till that time, went to the front; and shortly afterwards Colonel Talbot directed me to go to my party and fix swords to keep back the mob, who were coming up in the rear of us, which I did. I heard two shots fired, and I saw the military charge up the street, and I charged up after them. I placed some of the persons whom we were escorting in the centre of the escort, but some of them, I think, did not remain there; they got into some house afterwards.

641. In fact, had you any difficulty in protecting the voters by your men?—Not except from the stones and sticks that were thrown at us. We marched in the rear. We marched behind the persons whom we were escorting.

642. Were you hurt yourself?—I got a slight blow of a stone.

643. Were

643. Were any of your men injured?—There were four of my men injured.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. EDWARD TOWNLEY HARDMAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. M'Donogh.

644. WERE you present on the occasion of the polling-day in this town?—I was, as check clerk at one of the booths.

645. Were you present when the Rev. Mr. Matthews and a voter of the name of Kelly were together?—I don't think it was the Rev. Mr. Matthews. There were four clergymen. I do not think Mr. Matthews was among them. There were four gentlemen in clerical attire.

646. Do you know the names of any of them?—No, I do not. I know their appearance.

647. They were Roman Catholic clergymen?—Yes.

648. Where was Kelly?—Kelly came up to the booth in charge, as it appeared, of two or three persons who were insisting upon his voting, and he refused to vote, and declared that he would not vote at all, and he went down-stairs; immediately afterwards I was obliged to go down myself to a call of nature, and on going down-stairs I saw this man in the hall with several of those clergymen; they were pressing him to vote.

Mr. Heron objected that unless some of these persons were identified this evidence was inadmissible.

Mr. Justice Keogh thought the objection was premature.

649. Mr. M'Donogh (to the Witness).] For whom were they pressing him to vote?—For Mr. Whitworth.

Mr. Heron submitted that if this was sought to be made a case of undue influence, it must be made out to be a case of undue influence by the respondent or his agents.

650. Mr. M'Donogh (to the Witness).] Tell us what occurred?—One of those gentlemen said to him that he should vote for Mr. Whitworth. "If you do not you will disobey your church, and you know what the consequence of that will be;" then said Kelly, "This election has nothing to do with my church;" and he emphasised the word "my" very strongly, as much as to say whatever it had to do with any other church, it had nothing to do with the Catholic Church; he succeeded in getting away from them, and as he was going out he turned down towards the court-house, and a policeman standing in the doorway put out his hand and took him by the coat and directed him to turn the other way; to turn up the street.

651. And did he accordingly?—He did.

652. At the time the clergyman said this, do you remember any other expressions used?—He said afterwards, tantamount to this, that he would be damned, or some word of that nature; that he would be lost.

653. Was that the substance of what he stated?—That was the substance of what he stated; he said, "You are disobeying your church, and you know what the consequence will be."

654. Did the man vote, or refrain from voting?—The man went away and did not vote at all; he was brought up by parties who called upon him to vote for Whitworth, and he refused to do so; he said, "I will satisfy you so far, that I will not vote at all."

655. Did you see Mr. Whitworth on that occasion?—Mr. Whitworth was present.

656. Was he present at the time that the clergyman was endeavouring to induce him to vote for Mr. Whitworth?—They were all together.

Mr. Heron said that he should not have raised the objection if this had been stated before.

657. Mr. M'Donogh (to the Witness).] Had you yourself suffered any injury from the mob during any portion of this time?—I had been several times struck and abused, and one day I was very badly beaten.

658. When was that?—The first occasion was, I think, the Monday week before the election; I got a blow; a single instant blow; there had been a good deal of excitement several days before, but on the day before the nomination I was knocked down and trampled upon and very badly beaten, and very much hurt; I still feel the effects of it.

659. Where did that attack on you take place?—Just at the post office here, in the street up there, I was posting a letter, and there was a meeting being held here at the "Tholsel" at the time, and the crowd coming out from it, and I wished to avoid coming down through the crowd, and I crossed the street and went down a lane that leads to the other street; as I was going down I heard feet coming very suddenly after me, and I was suddenly caught by the back of the neck, and struck across the shins and thrown on my face; I got my hands over my face on the ground for fear anything should happen to my face, and I suppose the whole thing lasted three or four minutes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

660. You say that you were first beaten on the Monday week before the nomination?—I think it was Monday week, but I am not certain; I did not say I was beaten.

661. You were assaulted, to use the legal phrase?—I was.

662. Ten days or a fortnight before the polling?—I think it was the Monday week before the polling.

663. Whom were you acting for then?—No human being; I took no part in the election from the beginning to the end.

664. You were not acting for Mr. Brodigan at all?—Certainly not; I never asked a man for his vote for any candidate.

665. Were you, in no shape or form, Mr. Brodigan's agent?—In no shape or form.

666. Paid or unpaid?—Paid or unpaid.

667. And never got a shilling?—I acted as a clerk in the booth at Mr. Mayne's personal request, because he was short of hands, his men not having come down that morning.

668. What booth were you in?—In No. 3, I think, in Peter-street.

Mr. E. T.
Hardman.

1869.

669. Were you promised to Mr. Brodigan?—No.

670. Did you give him a promise?—No.

671. Did you give him a promise that you would vote for him ever?—Mr. Brodigan knew very well that I would vote for him unless a Conservative came forward.

672. The result was that you did not vote at all?—The result was that I did not vote at all; and between you and me, I think I showed my discretion.

673. How many hours were you in the booth?—From the time it was opened till the time I was ordered to retire; till 10 minutes past one.

674. From eight o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

675. What booth were you in?—In Peter-street; it was No. 3, I think; I may mention that I think I exercised a sound discretion in not voting; I will tell you why.

676. I don't ask you for any explanation; were you in the employment of Mr. Simcox at any time?—Yes; I was his assistant.

677. Were you dismissed by him?—No.

678. Were you accused by him of perjury?—No.

679. Never?—No.

680. On your oath?—On my oath.

681. Were you summoned?—I heard something of it, but it never went on; I believe there was an error.

682. Of yours?—No, none whatever.

683. Was it a summons against you?—Yes; I heard such a thing was in contemplation, but it never went forward; I never saw a summons.

684. Why did it not go on?—I suppose they found that they were wrong.

685. Was that the reason?—I give you the best answer I can.

686. Did you pay any costs about it?—No.

687. What was the charge against you?—I heard indirectly. There never was any charge made against me personally at all. I heard, through a third party, that I was accused of claiming a qualification that I did not possess.

688. On your oath, were you served with a summons?—It is so long ago.

689. On your oath, were you served with a summons for perjury?—I believe, on my oath, that no summons was ever served.

690. Do you know Dr. Pentland?—I do, very well.

691. Did you ask him to interfere for you, and prevent the exposure?—Not that I am aware of, and I have no recollection of anything of the kind.

692. Do you mean to tell his Lordship, when I ask you whether you were summoned for perjury, and whether you asked Dr. Pentland to interfere to save you, that you have no recollection?—That is exactly my answer; and I may go farther, that I do not believe I ever did.

Re-examined by Mr. M'Donogh.

693. With his Lordship's permission, will you give an explanation about this?—It is rather a hard case. The fact and truth of the matter was this: I was with Mr. Simcox nearly 10 years ago, but on one occasion there was a dispute between us, and a professional agent of Mr. Simcox's asked me a question with reference to my qualification as an infirmary surgeon. He asked me was I a member of the London College. I said I was not. He said, "Are you a member of the Edinburgh College?" I said, "I am not; but I have been in Edinburgh, and have studied there." They took down this as claiming the qualification; and there is the whole explanation.

694. Was Mr. Simcox in the same trade as yourself?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. MICHAEL KELLY, sworn; Examined by Mr. M'Donogh.

Mr.
M. Kelly.

695. ARE you a voter of the town of Drogheda?—Yes.

696. Do you remember the last election?—I do.

697. Do you remember having been applied to to vote for Mr. Whitworth?—Yes; he sent me a card.

698. Do you remember any clergyman applying to you?—I do.

699. Will you tell me who they were?—Father Mathews.

700. Was he the first?—Yes.

701. At what hour of the day did you see him?—It was about eight o'clock.

702. Eight o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

703. At that time did any number of persons come to your house?—Not at that time.

704. Was he there before the time that they came?—He was.

705. How soon after he left you did the mob come?—There came no mob at all to me whilst I was there.

706. You remember that whilst you were there they did not come?—Yes.

707. What did Mr. Mathews say to you when he came to you to solicit the vote?—I was in bed when he came there first, and he spoke to the mistress, and I heard his voice below, and I came down. He asked me was I coming; and I said, "Where?" So he said, "To vote for Mr.

Whitworth." But, I said, "I will vote for no one." He and I spoke to that purpose for a good while; and I said I would not vote at all. With that, he came there at 10 o'clock and asked me to vote; and I would not. So, with that, about 10 o'clock, I went up the street and took a few bye-lanes, intending to vote for Sir Leopold M'Clintock; and I was not long in West-street when a party of people got round me and caught me, and dragged me and hauled me about. With that, Father Mathews came over to me, and he in the crowd. "Will you vote yet?" said he. "I did, sir," said I. "For whom?" said he. "For Whitworth," said I. "I will see that," said he. So that the crowd held me there while he went away. So he came back and said, "How dare you tell me a lie?"

708. He left you there with the crowd?—Yes.

709. How long was he away?—About three minutes.

710. What did he say when he came back?—He said, "You scoundrel, how dare you tell me a lie?" I said, "I did so to save my life." "Take him along," he says; and they brought me to the court-house, and I was not long here before I was ordered to Peter-street, and carried partly up there to the booth room. So I asked for the judge of the room when I went in, and I asked him was I to be coerced; and he made answer not.

not. "Why did not you vote?" said he. "I cannot please everybody," said I. So I told him I would not vote that day; and they provoked me as long as they could. So I asked the judge to give me my liberty; and I turned down the stairs back, when I met Mr. Whitworth, Father Powderly, Father Doyle, and one of the Christian Brothers. So the crowd followed me down, and told Mr. Whitworth that this man did not vote, and would not vote. So Mr. Whitworth—

711. What did he say to you?—He told me to be the same as all the people of Drogheda, and to vote the same as all the people of Drogheda, and showed me the state of the poll; and I told him I would not vote, and I would please myself. So with that, one of the Christian Brothers said to me, "Let him go; he is going to Hell. If anything happens between this and home, what will be the result? you will be damned for ever." So, at all events, in respect of my vote, I was giving my vote to Sir Leopold M'Clintock, on account of Mr. Cooper, and I would give 20 more if I had them. That was all I had over that election.

712. Did you promise the vote to Sir Leopold M'Clintock?—I did, on account of Mr. Cooper being a neighbour of mine; we are next-door neighbours.

Cross-examined Mr. Pallas.

713. When did you promise to vote for Sir Leopold M'Clintock?—I suppose it was about a week before the election.

714. Who was it asked you?—Mr. M'Clintock and Mr. Cooper; and those parties all came into the house.

715. Had you ever any conversation with any one as to money, in reference to your vote?—The Christian Brother spoke of money to me, and I told him if he wanted 100*l.* I could lend it.

716. With the exception of that, had you any conversation with any one about money for your vote?—Not then. I am a voter in Drogheda for 16 years back now, and I never got anything from any of the Members.

717. You had no conversation with Father Mathews about money for your vote?—Yes; he said he would call at 10 o'clock for me; I said, "If you do bring 100*l.* with you."

718. With the exception of that, had you any conversation about money with Father Mathews?—Never.

719. Did you ask him would he give you 20*l.* for your vote?—That is what I am saying; 100*l.* if he was coming to me again.

720. Which was it, 20*l.* or 100*l.*?—It was 100*l.*

721. Then it is not the fact that you asked Father Mathews would he give you 20*l.* for your vote?—I told him 100*l.* if he came to me again.

722. You did not say 20*l.*?—Not a word.

723. You are quite clear on that?—I am quite certain.

724. Why did you say that you had voted for Mr. Whitworth, when you had not?—I did not promise Mr. Whitworth.

725. But did you not say that you had voted for Mr. Whitworth when Father Mathews asked you?—To save my life with the mob.

726. Do you mean to tell his Lordship that you thought your life would not have been safe unless you told that lie?—I considered my life was in danger if I voted at all.

727. And you think that you were in a great deal better position because you said you had voted for Mr. Whitworth?—To save my life.

728. Then, though they found out that you had not voted for Mr. Whitworth, you are still here to tell it?—Sure, I could vote for Sir Leopold M'Clintock, or Mr. Whitworth, if I liked.

729. Who is your landlord?—Mr. Hamilton, of Dublin.

730. And who is Mr. Cooper, to whom you say if you had 20 votes you would give them to him?—We are the next-door neighbours in respect of land.

731. What lease have you of your farm?—Sixty-one years.

732. How many of them are out?—Ne'er a one; about eight years have expired.

733. You say that when Mr. Whitworth spoke to you, he said he had been already partly returned?—Yes.

734. Do you remember what numbers he told you?—I did not take the numbers in my hand; it was Father Doyle that had them.

735. He had at least three times as many as any other candidate at that time, had he not?—He had three clergymen, and the Christian Brother, and himself.

736. I mean the votes that he said he had. Did you know what I meant by my last question?—Put it again to me, and then I will know; I did not know.

737. Tell me the state of the poll, as told you by Mr. Whitworth?—I cannot tell that.

738. Do you remember that the figures, whatever they were, showed that Mr. Whitworth had about three times as many as any other candidate?—This was about half-past 10, but I do not know what figures they were.

739. Was he in a large majority?—He was.

740. What is the name of this Christian Brother who you say used those expressions to you?—I cannot tell you.

741. Did you ever see him before?—I did.

742. How many Christian Brothers are there in Drogheda?—I am not able to say that.

743. Have you formed no opinion as to his name?—No. If I saw him I should know him.

744. Who else was present at the time that those expressions were used by that Christian Brother?—The police were there.

745. Anyone else?—Mr. Whitworth and the two priests.

746. The two priests whose names you have mentioned?—Yes.

747. What took place when you were canvassed by Mr. Mayne to vote for Sir Leopold M'Clintock?—I was in my own house when they came in, and I said, "I give my vote to Mr. M'Clintock, on Mr. Cooper's account, and if I had 20 more I would do the same."

748. Of what religion are you?—A Roman Catholic.

SAMUEL HANNAH, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Ryland.

S. Hannah,
Esq.
1869.

749. WERE you one of the resident magistrates sent to Drogheda, at the last election?—I was.

750. On what day did you arrive in Drogheda?—I arrived here on the evening of the 19th of November.

751. That was the evening before the poll?—Yes.

752. Will you describe what you saw, if you saw anything remarkable in the town on that evening?—I felt that mischief was coming.

753. Tell us what you felt?—When I got half way between this court-house and the bridge, there was a small crowd of persons. The porter carrying my luggage was in advance. The luggage having been heavy, I took part of it to relieve him. I was carrying a writing-case, and when I got to this crowd they commenced kicking at this bit of a writing-case, and I didn't take much notice. I passed on, and then they commenced kicking myself; I turned and told them that I was not a candidate, or a voter, or an agent at the election. They came on to the court-house so far, and it got worse. I got past the court-house, and then they got very violent, and kicked me, and tried to throw me down. At last, things were so bad that I had to leave the street and get against a door, and put my back to it. It opened inside and I went in backwards, and in the act of getting in they seized my writing-case, and another matter I had in my hand, which they took from me. I got the writing-case and got in safe, and I was hardly safe inside, when the owner of the house told me I must leave it, as they would break his house if I stopped there; so I was turned out. Then I got into the crowd again and they were not so violent, and I got on; and, in fact, a gentlemanly sort of man came forward and appeased the crowd, and told them they should let me alone, and let me go to the hotel; so I got to the hotel, and when I asked for my luggage it was gone, and they did not know where. They suggested the other hotel, and I went there, and then I conversed with my brother magistrates, two other stipendiaries. They had made the arrangements which of course I did not interfere with. The next morning we were all here at an early hour, and the matters that you have already heard recited occurred, which of course I saw at a distance. I allude to that affair at the bridge; I saw it.

754. Were you in sight of it at the time?—I was standing exactly at this corner. I was watching for the escort. The high sheriff had spoken to me, and expressed his uneasiness at the escort having remained out so very long, and expressed a wish to go and assist; I believe I dissented at the first, wishing to have him an efficient officer close to myself; but, however, I consented in the end. Of course he was fully competent to go without me, but we were acting together; but he went, and shortly after he went I saw the escort approaching. I saw a number of persons from about the middle of Shop-street, I think they call it, going down, and with sticks attacking the cavalry. The colonel commanding was standing beside me, and he being an elderly person, I called out to him what I saw, as it occurred, which impresses it more upon my memory now. I told him I saw them attacking the cavalry with sticks; that I saw the cavalry disorganised; and then I exclaimed in great excitement that the cavalry were beaten back and were retreating, or, as the officer described it, going round. I watched very anxiously for another few moments, and I could not distinguish whether the infantry were beaten back. I saw them struggling with some members of the crowd, and I couldn't distinguish. Of course I know that they were not driven back, but I could not at that moment distinguish. Then the two shots were fired, and in an instant the crowd vanished as if annihilated; the street was perfectly cleared. The cavalry then charged up and the infantry after them, all in the height of excitement, and the stipendiary magistrate who was riding with the cavalry fell so close to me that his hat struck me, in fact, in the fall. Then word came up that a man was shot, and then the excitement exceeded anything from all ranks and classes, and the stipendiary magistrate came forward, and there was a great clamour, people calling out, "Why did you order the men to fire? why did you read the 'Riot Act?'" There was no occasion for the men to fire; the magistrate asserting that he did not order the fire. However, the cavil went on, and I am most reluctant to mention names, but I think Mr. Whitworth was there, and he and some others invited me into the magistrates room, that we might consult what was best to be done; of course, I assented, and Mr. Whitworth and some of his friends, and the colonel commanding, and myself, met, and then I asked for the other two stipendiaries, but they were obliged to stay with the troops, because the troops would not stay in the streets unless a magistrate was with them. Mr. Whitworth and his friends gave every assistance, and the result we came to I believe you know already, also; that is, that the clergymen were requested to have the body removed, which was at the court-house at the time, and the colonel gave up the names of the two men who had fired. I issued a warrant for them. The colonel then at my request delivered them at the jail and not in the street, but he delivered them to the jailer.

755. Have you been at many contested elections in Ireland?—I have.

756. And at some where there have been disorder and disturbance?—Very great disorder. I have seen many at Tipperary, Waterford, Dungarvon, and those places.

757. Have you ever seen one so riotous and disorderly as the last one here?

Mr. Heron objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that the proper question to ask the witness was, what was the the state of the town and of the people during the election.

Witness.] Exceedingly violent; in fact, it made me as anxious as ever I was upon any occasion in my life, having the charge of the troops and having the charge of the people. I never felt more anxious upon any occasion. The troops were there with loaded arms, and there was that excitement that I thought it necessary twice to go forward to the colonel, and remind him that he should not allow his men to fire without express orders from me. I asked him where he wished me to remain; he told me, "In front of the troops." I told him, "No; remember, colonel, I am senior magistrate here; do not on any account fire without distinct and positive orders from me."

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

758. When were the troops withdrawn from the street?—The troops were withdrawn from the street just after the warrant was written out and signed by me.

759. At what hour?—I really don't know.

760. Was it immediately after the meeting of the magistrates that the troops were withdrawn?—Immediately.

761. Did you remain about the streets until five o'clock?—I should say so.

762. Do you not remember?—I really don't know the hour.

763. Until five o'clock, until the polling closed?—Certainly.

764. And you knew the polling was going on?—Well, I fancy I did not, because I avoided going into a polling booth.

765. Do you know that the election was going on until five o'clock?—I cannot say that I knew when the polling booth was closed, or when they ceased.

766. Or the legal hour?—I believe it is something about five o'clock; but you asked me whether I knew of their being polled or not. I will give any information with pleasure, if you will tell me what you want to know, if it is in my power.

767. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say that you saw Mr. Whitworth?—Yes.

768. Did you see Mr. Whitworth at any place when the attack was being made upon the military?—I did not.

769. You do not know where he was?—I do not.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. THOMAS IDDON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

770. Were you in Drogheda on the day of the polling?—Yes.

771. Were you in Drogheda on the evening before the polling?—Yes.

772. Were you in a street opposite to "Simcox's Hotel," when speeches were delivered from the balcony?—Yes.

773. Did you hear any of the expressions used on that occasion which you can call to mind?—I did.

774. Would you mention to his lordship what you heard?—I heard one of the clergymen calling upon the crowd to meet the Orangemen that were coming from Dublin and to hurl them into the Boyne.

775. Was there anything else?—I also heard one of them say that there were 300 Orange assassins hired in Dublin to come and butcher the Catholics of Drogheda to-morrow.

776. Was there anything else you heard at that time?—Except such expressions as "Down with the Orangemen," I do not remember any.

777. Did you see any persons on that balcony except clergymen who were there?—I saw one gentleman.

778. Do you know who he was?—I believe his name is Mr. James Duff Matthews.

779. Do you know Mr. Whitworth?—I do.

780. Did you see him there?—I don't remember seeing Mr. Whitworth there.

781. Do you know a man of the name of Michael Kelly, of James's-street?—I do.

782. Did you happen to see him in any of the polling booths on the day of the polling?—I saw him in one polling-booth in Peter-street; I saw him come into the polling booth along with three other persons, and the three other persons that were along with him wished him to vote for Mr. Whitworth, and he refused to do so, and said he would not vote for any person; and after remaining there for some time he went down.

783. Do you remember anything else in connection with that transaction?—Shortly afterwards I was getting out of the polling booth when Kelly was there, and being spoken to by a clergyman.

784. Did you hear what passed between them?—I cannot exactly swear to the very words; I can give the substance of the words; one of the clergymen was coercing Kelly, at least in language, to vote for Mr. Whitworth.

785. What was the substance of the language which he used, so far as you heard?—So far as I heard, I believe these were the words: why can't he vote for Mr. Whitworth, and that of course he knew now it would be voting against his church if he did not.

786. Was there anything else?—I don't remember any words except that I heard the word "hell" used by one of the clergymen to Kelly, and something about his bread being taken away. That is the substance of the words used by the clergymen.

787. Do you know whether Kelly is a baker in the town of Drogheda?—He is.

788. And you heard the word "hell" used by one of those clergymen?—I did.

789. Do you know the names of any of those clergymen?—I think there was a Christian Brother there.

790. Was he one of the clergymen who was present?—He was; I should recognise him again if I saw him.

791. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What was his name?—I don't know his name, I know him very well by sight.

792. Mr. Plunkett.] Was there any person present on that occasion, that you saw, except the clergymen?—Mr. Whitworth was there.

793. Was he taking part in the conversation?—I heard Mr. Whitworth say, "Why cannot you do as you are told" or "asked" (I do not know which); "see the large majority I have got."

794. I believe Mr. Whitworth was present only part of this time?—I cannot say; I was there when he used those words.

795. Just say all the words that you heard Mr. Whitworth use?—Those were the only words that I heard Mr. Whitworth use.

796. Did you hear him say, when Kelly said,

"I have made up my mind not to vote at all,"
"I have made up my mind not to ask any man to break his word"?—I did not.

797. You do not remember those words?—I do not remember those words. He might have said them, but I did not hear them.

Mr. FREDERICK CHARLES BIGGER, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

Mr.
F. C. Bigger.

798. WERE you in Drogheda on the night before the polling?—I was.

799. Were you outside "Simcox's Hotel"?—I was at the other side of the street, under Mr. Moore's.

800. Did you see any persons on the balcony?—I did; the balcony was full of people.

801. Are you acquainted with the person of Mr. Whitworth?—I am.

802. Did you see Mr. Whitworth that night?—I did.

803. Where?—Standing beside one of the clergymen that was speaking.

804. Did you see whether anything occurred to Mr. Moore's house during that night?—Yes, I saw a great many panes of glass broken; they fell down round me while I was under the house.

805. What broke the glass?—Stones, I suppose.

806. At what time was that?—It was about seven o'clock.

807. About what time in relation to the speeches; were the speeches before the breaking or after?—They were speaking about the time the glass was broken.

808. Who were speaking?—Some reverend gentleman, I do not know his name.

809. Were you able to catch any of the expressions?—Yes; they said that there were 500 Orangemen coming from Dublin, and that they would meet them at the bridge, and fight the battle of the Boyne over again, and hurl them into the Boyne.

810. Do you happen to remember whether Mr. Whitworth was on the balcony at that time?—He was.

811. Where was he when the glass was being broken?—I could not exactly say where he was on the balcony, but he was on the balcony; I do not recollect the exact place.

812. Were you well acquainted with his personal appearance?—Yes; I knew him personally.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

813. Have you sworn that Mr. Whitworth was on the balcony when these words were used; was that your intention?—Yes.

814. Have you been in court during the rest of the trial?—I have.

815. And have heard the other evidence about the words used on the balcony?—Yes.

816. But you swear that Mr. Whitworth was there standing beside them?—He was standing beside some reverend gentleman.

817. You have no doubt at all about that?—I have no doubt at all about that.

818. Do you know a man named Owen Cameron?—I do.

819. Who is he?—He is a flour porter at Smith and Smyth's.

820. You are in the same office?—Yes.

821. Were you with Owen Cameron at the hiring of any people?—No.

822. Do you know Owen Cameron?—I do.

823. Did you see him pay any mob?—No.

824. Do you know anything about it?—No.

825. Do you know what I allude to?—Yes.

826. What?—You allude to men being hired.

827. For whom?—To protect Messrs. Smith and Smyth's premises.

828. Were men hired to protect Smith?—The men belonging to the mill were.

829. How many of them?—I do not know.

830. How many men belonging to the mill?—Fourteen, I think.

831. Were those men hired that day?—The mill was closed.

832. And the men hired?—No, they were sent out.

833. Sent where?—Up the town, to protect the gentlemen belonging to the firm polling.

834. They were sent up to town to protect the firm when polling?—Yes.

835. How much were they paid, do you believe?—I do not know what they were paid.

836. Were they paid?—I do not know.

837. Did these men get the tickets of the Rowing Club; are you secretary of the Rowing Club?—I was last year.

838. Did these men get tickets?—No.

839. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

840. Had you any tickets?—No.

841. Did you see any tickets of the Rowing Club?—No, they were all destroyed after the races; all the tickets belonging to the club.

842. And you never heard how much these men were paid, upon your oath?—No, upon my oath.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. MONTAGUE MAXWELL CARPENTER, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

Mr. M. M.
Carpenter.

843. Where do you reside?—I am at present residing with my mother, in the town of Drogheda.

844. I thought you had come this morning by the train; were you at the railway station on the morning of the day of the polling?—Yes.

845. Did you see Mr. Hamilton there?—Yes, I did.

846. Will you tell us what occurred in your presence with respect to Mr. Hamilton?—I went up to the station in the morning; I escorted a lady up to the train, and when I arrived there I saw Mr. Hamilton and several other gentlemen there waiting to be able to come down to town; waiting for an escort to bring them to the town; and I saw Mr. Hamilton with some man talking to a number of men, telling them that they must keep together, that it was the best way, and that when the escort came up they would all get down to the town. When I was there I saw a car draw up, on which was Mr. Whitworth and another gentleman; I heard since that his name was Mr. Clinton; I saw them come and take two people away whom I understood came there with Mr. Hamilton to vote for Sir Leopold McClintock.

847. What did they do when taking them away?—One man in particular was very obstinate, and said he would not go, and objected to going; and they took him away by force.

848. You saw that?—I saw that; I was standing beside the car.

849. Did you see him approach Mr. Hamilton, that man that you say was very obstinate and wished not to go?—I saw Mr. Hamilton objecting to their taking this man away. I did not actually see him shoved away, but I saw that they pooh-pooh'd, in fact, what he said, and took the man away.

850. Was Mr. Clinton there at that time?—Yes, he was the gentleman who assisted Mr. Whitworth in taking him away. I did not know Mr. Clinton at that time.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pallas.

851. Were there two men taken away at the same time?—They were taken away during my stay at the station.

852. But were they taken away at the same time?—I cannot say exactly that. They were taken away one after the other.

853. Did you hear Mr. Whitworth say anything upon that occasion; were you near enough to hear anything?—I did not hear him say anything particular. I heard him ask this man for whom he would vote, and then I did not hear what occurred; but I saw them take the man away.

854. Was that the first or the second man?—That was the first man.

855. How long afterwards was the second man taken away?—I cannot exactly say how long afterwards; it was during my stay at the train.

856. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Did you see Mr. Whitworth there at the time that the man was taken away?—Yes.

857. Was he near the man?—He assisted Mr. Clinton, or the gentleman I have since heard to be Mr. Clinton, in taking the man away.

858. Do you know him to be Mr. Clinton now?—I had heard that it was Mr. Clinton at the time, but I did not know Mr. Clinton by appearance.

859. Now, knowing Mr. Clinton's appearance, supposing he was in court, would you know him?—I might.

860. Look round and see if you can see him in court?—No, I would not recognise him in court. The man had a hat on when I saw him.

861. Do you know Mr. Whitworth?—Oh, yes, I know Mr. Whitworth very well.

862. Do you see him in court?—Yes, I see him in court; Mr. Benjamin Whitworth.

[The Witness withdrew.

Serjeant JAMES VINCENT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Ryland.

863. WHAT regiment are you in?—The 2nd battalion, 9th Regiment.

864. Were you in Drogheda at the time of the last election?—I was.

865. When did you come to Drogheda; did you come any time before the election?—We came down on the 14th, I believe.

866. Were you one of an escort which came down with people from the train on the day of the polling?—Yes, I was one of the escort.

867. Did you see any stones thrown, or anything of that sort?—Yes, there were stones thrown at the voters just after we were leaving the railway station till we got to the bridge; but the stones were not thrown at the soldiers till we got to the bridge, or close by the bridge; and then they were thrown at the soldiers as well as the voters.

868. Did you see any person struck with the stones?—There were eight of my men struck and bleeding; there were seven of them treated by the doctor that day.

869. In what part of the escort were you; were you in front or at the side?—I was next the cavalry, in front, in the vacant space between the two sub-divisions of the infantry.

870. In what state were the crowd at the time; the people that were round the troops on the outside when you were at the bridge?—They were in a very excited state.

871. Did you see the rifles of the men afterwards?—I did; I saw them inspected in the barracks after that.

872. Was there anything the matter with them?—About 50 of them were cut with stones and injured.

873. Captain Daunt was the officer in command, I believe?—Yes.

874. Did you see anything happen to him?—He was knocked down, but I did not see him knocked down.

875. Were you hurt yourself?—I was struck three times, but I was not injured.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN NACEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

876. YOU were one of the escort that came down with the people from the train on the polling day?—Yes.

877. Had the crowd on that day anything in their hands?—They were all armed with heavy cudgels and sticks.

878. Did you see anything in their hands besides the cudgels?—Not before I came to the bridge at the end of the Bull Ring.

879. What did you see then?—I saw a revolver in a respectable young man's hand.

880. What was he doing with it?—He had it pointed

Mr. M. M. Carpenter.

Serjeant J. Vincent.

J. Nacey.

J. Nacey. pointed in his right hand, and at the same time Captain William Daunt, commanding the escort, was on the ground.

1869.

881. In what direction was the pistol pointed?—It was over Captain Daunt, but I could not probably say whether it was for him, or meant for one of the voters whom we were escorting.

882. Did you do anything when you saw that?—Yes.

883. What?—I made a plunge with my bayonet at the man. There was a grey-headed old gentleman, one of the voters, that we were escorting from the station house, who was knocked down by a stone of about two pounds weight.

884. Do you know who that voter was?—I do not.

885. When you made a plunge with the bayonet, did you strike the man?—Yes, I caught him on the arm above the elbow, slightly.

886. What did he do more?—He dropped the revolver. At the time he dropped the revolver I was knocked down senseless on the bridge myself by a cut, which I have the mark to show.

887. Before you were knocked down, did you see what became of the revolver?—The youngster, as I recovered again, was running away with it. I think he was between 13 and 14 years of age, but he had a heavy cudgel and a stick in his hand at the time.

888. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say you saw a young fellow running away with the revolver; was that the same respectable young man who had the revolver before?—No, it was another person.

[The Witness withdrew.

ANDREW O'CONNOR, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

A. O'Connor. 889. Do you remember the night before the polling?—I do.

890. Were you orderly on that occasion with Captain Daunt?—I was Captain Daunt's orderly.

891. Were you at the hotel?—I was.

892. Did you see any clergymen there that night?—I did.

893. Where were they?—On the verandah.

894. Did you hear them speaking?—I did.

895. Did any of the expressions used strike you so as to make you remember the substance or the words?—Yes.

896. What were they?—On the night of the 19th, I heard a clergyman saying to the mob that he hoped they would all meet to-morrow, to meet five or six hundred Orangemen that were coming from Dublin, and that he hoped they would fight the battle of the Boyne over again.

897. Anything else?—And a young gentleman alongside of him, on his left, said, "To hell with the Orangemen."

898. Was he also on the verandah?—He was; he was leaning over the verandah.

899. Would you know that young gentleman?—I would not.

900. Did any other expressions attract your attention?—Yes; the mob addressed him, "Yes, father, we'll meet them to-morrow with sticks and stones."

901. You heard that from the mob?—I did; presently some of the mob began to pelt stones at the opposite side of the street at a shop.

902. In what state did the people appear to be?—They appeared to be an outrageous mob to me.

903. How many Roman Catholic clergymen were there there?—I could not tell you.

904. Are you yourself a Roman Catholic?—I am.

905. Do you know Mr. Whitworth?—No, I could not swear to the man.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hamill.

906. Where were you standing?—I was in my bedroom, looking out of the window upstairs, overhead of the verandah.

907. And you were looking out and listening to the speeches?—Yes.

908. Enjoying all you saw?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

SAMUEL SMITH, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

S. Smith. 909. WERE you the orderly of Colonel Knox?—Yes.

910. Were you at the hotel the night before the polling?—Yes, on the 19th.

911. Do you know Mr. Whitworth?—No.

912. Where were you while the speaking was going on?—I was in my bedroom in the hotel.

913. Is that above the verandah?—Above the verandah.

914. Were you in the same room with the former witness?—Yes.

915. Were you looking out of the window?—Yes.

916. Did you hear the expressions which were used by any of the clergymen?—Yes.

917. What did you hear, the substance of it, as you remember?—The first clergy that spoke said, "People of Drogheda, do you remember what took place two or three miles out here?" and with a long pause he shouts, "The battle of the Boyne;" and he says, "On to-morrow there is 500 or 600 Orangemen coming down from Dublin to put Sir Leopold McClintock in. Be prepared to meet them, and we will fight the battle of the Boyne over again." And he referred back to the history of 200 years ago, when Cromwell had possession of the lower part of Drogheda: "The Catholics fled up to St. Peter's church for protection, and Cromwell followed them. At that time the church steeple was a wooden one; he set fire to the steeple, and as they were leaving he butchered them. At that time it was a Catholic church, and now it is a Protestant one."

918. What else do you remember?—He said no more.

919. Did any other clergyman address them, as you remember?—There was some others.

920. What did he say?—I could not say exactly what he said.

921. Did you hear anything called out by the crowd?

crowd?—I heard the crowd say that they would meet them with sticks and stones to-morrow.

922. Did you hear or see anything occurring then to any of the houses?—I saw that a great many of the crowd were very violent at the time, throwing stones at Mr. Moore's windows, across about 40 yards from the verandah.

923. After the crowd had said they would meet them to-morrow with sticks and stones, did you hear another clergyman address the mob?—There was another addressed them.

924. Do you remember anything of what he said?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. WILLIAM THOMAS BRISCOE, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

925. You reside in Dublin?—I do.

926. Are you a voter of Drogheda?—I am.

927. Did you come down to vote?—I did.

928. By what train did you come?—By the quarter to ten train I left Dublin.

929. For whom did you come to vote?—For Sir Leopold McClintock.

930. Did you vote?—I did not.

931. Were you one of the party escorted into the town?—I was.

932. Were you yourself struck?—I was very severely struck.

933. Where were you struck?—In the forehead and the back of the head, and my limbs were all blackened.

934. Where did you take shelter?—I ran to a house in the Bull Ring; I was thrown out of the escort by a blow I got, and then I lay on the bridge for a moment or two; and then as soon as I recovered myself I crossed over to a shop, and they shut the door in my face; and then a man struck me in the face, and I haven't recovered since; I have been very nervous since.

935. The first blow you mentioned put you out of the escort?—Completely.

936. While you were lying on the bridge did the escort pass off?—The escort passed off.

937. And was it after that that man assaulted you?—It was.

938. At which side of the bridge was it that they closed their doors against you?—At both sides; they slammed the door in my face and told me I shouldn't come there; had it not been for a man who seemed to have some control over them I should have been murdered, I verily believe.

939. Do you know who he was?—I do not, indeed.

940. With whom did you take refuge, then?—He brought me out of the town.

941. You never were at the tally-rooms?—Never; I was not able to cross the bridge; I was afraid to go by the train because I saw a number of people there, and I walked, bleeding as I was, to Laytown; I think it was four or five miles off; I had a severe cut on the back of my head; I knew nothing until I was a mile or two out of the town, and I was told by a woman on the road that I was all bleeding.

942. When did you get to town?—I got by the three o'clock train that left Laytown.

943. Mr. Justice Keogh.] When you say you walked to town, that is to say you walked some miles in the direction of Dublin?—Exactly; I walked to Laytown, the next station.

944. Mr. Heron.] That is five miles, I believe?—It is three miles, I believe.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr.

The Reverend THOMAS WALLACE, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

945. WHERE do you reside?—At Belfield, Kingstown.

946. Are you the son of Mr. Wallace, the Queen's counsel?—I am.

947. Did you come down here to vote?—I did.

948. Are you a voter of this town?—I am.

949. Did you come by the first or second train?—I came by the first train.

950. Did you see Mr. Hamilton after the first train?—Yes; I came with him, in fact.

951. Did you see the men he had with him, the voters?—I did.

952. Did you see anything happen to them?—I saw Mr. Whitworth; I saw, before Mr. Whitworth came up, two men, who professed to be Mr. Whitworth's agents, who were trying to induce the men to go with them; the man said nothing, but appealed to Mr. Hamilton for protection. Some time afterwards Mr. Whitworth came up with a crowd, and I saw Mr. Whitworth take hold of one of those men, and with the crowd hustle him off with one of his agents and put him on a car, having assaulted Mr. Hamilton, who was holding the hand of the voter who was thus taken away, who was appealing to Mr. Hamilton to protect him.

953. Who was it assaulted Mr. Hamilton?—There was a great crowd; I cannot say who it was; I saw him knocked about.

954. Was Mr. Whitworth there at the time?—He was.

955. What became of the man?—He was taken away by Mr. Whitworth and his agent and put on a car; I don't know what became of him.

956. Were you one of the escorted party?—I was.

957. Were you injured upon that occasion?—Yes, I was.

958. Did you make your way notwithstanding to the polling place?—I did.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

959. You voted?—I voted under an escort of police.

960. Mr. McDonogh.] Did you see that old gentleman, Colonel Fairclough?—I saw two gentlemen lying on the bridge knocked down; I did not know who they were.

961. Were you yourself badly beaten?—Well, I was struck four times, and my head was cut very much, and my hat cut through.

962. Where did you get the escort of police?—Opposite the Tholsel; I was standing behind the military at the time, and I spoke to Captain Talbot first, and Captain Talbot said he could do nothing for me; and I think it was that gentleman

Rev.
T. Wallace.

Rev. T. Wallace. man standing there (pointing to a person in court) who then got me an escort of police, and I was brought to the tally-room and to the booth, and I voted.

1869.

963. Mr. Heron.] Then you voted before you went to the tally-room?—I was not there at all. I made a mistake. I ought to have said the booth.

964. You went to the booth, and you did not go to the tally-room?—I didn't.

Mr. CHARLES M'CARTHY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

Mr. C.
M'Carthy.

966. I BELIEVE you are a student of Trinity College?—Yes.

967. Were you engaged to come down as a tally-clerk on the day of the election at Drogheda?—I was engaged as a tally-clerk to come down for Sir Leopold McClintock.

968. Did you come down?—I came down by the train, arriving, as nearly as I remember, at half-past eight at the Drogheda terminus.

969. When you arrived, just tell his Lordship what happened?—I saw a crowd, numbering about 200 or 300, principally composed of young girls who looked like factory girls, and men and boys armed with sticks and stones, and we walked down very quietly, and just outside the railway was a priest. I was told afterwards his name was Father Gavan, one of the agents of Mr. Whitworth—

970. How do you know that he was an agent of Mr. Whitworth's?—Because I saw him afterwards talking with Mr. Whitworth and with Mr. Verdon.

Mr. Heron objected to the reception of this evidence.

Mr. Plunkett said that it would be seen presently that this was not an unfair question.

Witness.] Just as we came out of the railway this priest hissed the mob on our party, who numbered about 50, making use of the words, "McClintock's bloody Orangemen, boys; don't hurt them!" There was a Mr. Malley along with me, and we went along the little side-path on the left-hand side of the road, and walked by ourselves there; and when we got a little way from the railway the crowd began throwing sticks and stones, and the priest was walking beside them and hissing, and urging them on with his hands and laughing, and pointing out some whom the crowd had not thrown stones at. We could see them distinctly, being behind him. The crowd, thinking we did not belong to the others, did not throw stones at us, so our party commenced running down towards the town, and we walked. We walked down, then, past a building on the left—I think it is the poorhouse—and while we were passing there we saw a man take the back rail out of his cart and strike one of our party on the bridge of the nose, nearly knocking him down. We went round there, and turned by a road up to the left, intending to go round that way by the town, as we were afraid of our lives to go down to the town by the common straight way. There was a large and tremendously excited crowd, and half way up the hill we were met by a crowd of women and men. We, to save our lives, declared we were for Whitworth, and so we were allowed to pass; and when we were at the top of the hill we met an agent of Mr. Whitworth's—

965. Did you vote within a quarter of an hour after the occurrence on the bridge?—No; not for an hour. I daresay it was about an hour. I cannot exactly say. It was a long time that I was waiting under the escort. I should think it was about an hour. It was a long time.

[The Witness withdrew.]

971. What makes you say "an agent of Mr. Whitworth's"?—Because he had a card in his hat. I have a card in my pocket of the same kind.

[The same was delivered in, and is as follows:—]

"DROGHEDA ELECTION—WHITWORTH.

"No. . Name.

"Polling Place, Booth No. .

"at

"The polling will commence at eight o'clock a.m. on Friday morning next, 20th November, and will close at five o'clock on same day.

"Your early attendance at the poll is requested.

" Please bring this card with you."

Witness.] We declared to him that we were Mr. Whitworth's friends. "Well," says he, "it is not safe for you to go down through the town, but I will bring you down as you say you are Whitworth's friends." So he brought us down, and just after we got into the street the crowd closed round us threatening our lives, and saying we belonged to the "bloody Orangemen." He said, "No, boys, they are Whitworth's friends," and beckoned with his hands, and said, "All right boys;" and he had to keep saying it the whole time down to the tally-rooms. So we went down there, and I procured three of those cards in the tally-rooms, and he introduced me there to Mr. Whitworth and another priest. I think it was the same Father Gavan whom we had seen at the railway. So we walked then down to the town, trying to look for our booth; but we were afraid to ask anybody, because if the crowd had known we belonged to any side except Mr. Whitworth's, they would have taken our lives. About one o'clock I saw a tremendous crowd rushing down towards the railway down Shop-street, and we heard there was dreadful work; they were murdering some voters coming from the rail. I was going down Shop-street, and I saw a crowd of horse soldiers and foot soldiers on the bridge, and I said to Mr. Malley, who was with me all the time, "We had better get out of this crowd." So we went up into a window—

972. Never mind what you said to Mr. Malley?—We went up into a window, and while there we saw the scene on the bridge.

973. Tell us what you saw there?—I saw the horse soldiers in front coming, and behind them were some foot soldiers surrounding some voters, and the crowd beat back the horse soldiers, and they retired. They went back as if they were beaten by stones.

974. Did you hear a shot fired?—I heard first of all a shot fired, which seemed to come from a window as I looked down, and immediately after two that two shots were fired; and immediately after the crowd scattered like rabbits into a burrow, or like feathers blown off your hand. Immediately after that I saw a body lying across the street, and then the horse soldiers came again and charged up the street, followed by the infantry.

975. After that where did you go?—I went up to the court-house; trying to look for Mr. Mayne, or for our tally rooms; I did not know where they were. While at the court-house I saw two Roman Catholic clergymen standing at the door of the court-house, and an old gentleman with grey hair and a grey beard came in to vote, escorted by some police; he went into vote, followed by the clergyman, and he voted for Sir Leopold McClintock; and the priest made some remonstrance, or said something to him; I didn't quite catch what; and followed him out, and pointed him out to the crowd as having voted for Sir Leopold McClintock, and stones were thrown at him and sticks; and I saw the same clergyman do the same thing to two or three different voters at the court-house door.

976. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you know his name?—An old woman in the crowd told me his name was Father M'Kee or M'Creagh, I am not sure which.

977. Mr. Plunkett.] Was there anything after that?—I saw nothing after that.

978. Did you succeed in getting to the tally-rooms?—I did not succeed in getting to the tally-room, because I was afraid of my life, and I went up with Mr. Whitworth's card in my hat.

979. You say that you were introduced to Mr. Whitworth?—The agent introduced me to Mr. Whitworth as a friend of his in his own tally-rooms.

980. Did anything else occur to you that you recollect?—Nothing, except that Mr. Whitworth was talking to the clergyman.

981. To which clergyman?—I think it was to Father Gavan; I am not quite sure.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pallas.

982. Where were you engaged to come down to Drogheda?—In Dame-street.

983. In the Conservative committee-rooms?—Yes.

984. Who was it engaged you?—Mr. Purcell engaged me for a Mr. Kennedy.

985. Mr. Kennedy was acting for Sir Leopold McClintock?—He was, as I understood.

986. Were you at those Conservative committee-rooms the evening before you came down?—No, I was not; at least not at the time that the other men were engaged, but I was afterwards.

987. What is the number in Dame-street of those committee-rooms?—I think it was 47, but I am not quite sure.

988. You say you were not there when the other men were engaged?—No.

989. But you were there afterwards?—Yes.

990. Do you remember being there when some of the men who had been engaged were there?—Yes.

991. And when Kennedy was there?—No; Kennedy was not there.

992. You did not see Kennedy there at all?—No.

993. Did you see at the Conservative committee-rooms any of the men who afterwards came down in the train with you?—I did; some of them.

994. How many?—One or two.

27.

995. Only one or two?—Only one or two that I recognised.

996. Can you say that you did not meet 20 at the Conservative committee-rooms, who afterwards came down with you by that early train?—I couldn't swear to 20 faces where I could swear to one or two.

997. May there have been 20, although you did not recognise them?—Certainly.

998. How many came down with you in the train?—In the carriage where I was there were about 12 or 15.

999. In the carriage in which you were not, can you say how many there were?—I should think not.

1000. Were they full. How many carriages were there on the train. Now how long were you waiting before you got into the carriage from the time you arrived at the station?—I should think half an hour.

1001. I suppose in that half hour you were very well able to see the number of people that there were in the station?—Yes.

1002. How many were there?—I should think there were between 40 and 50.

1003. Was Kennedy there?—He was.

1004. Did Kennedy buy the tickets for all the party?—I did not see him buying them.

1005. Who gave you your ticket?—Kennedy.

1006. Had you a bludgeon with you on that occasion?—No.

1007. Any stick?—I had a light stick.

1008. Had you that stick with you the evening before at the Conservative committee-rooms?—No.

1009. Are you certain of that?—I am certain of it.

1010. Had you any other stick if you had not that one?—I always carry a cane.

1011. On the evening before, at the Conservative committee-rooms, were you flourishing something, and saying what you would do in the way of protecting voters the next day in Drogheda?—Not that I remember.

1012. Will you swear that you didn't?—I say I don't remember.

1013. That is the farthest you can go?—Yes.

1014. Will you swear that in the Conservative committee-rooms, the previous evening, you had not a thick stick, and that you were not flourishing it and saying what you would do in Drogheda the next day?—I don't remember.

1015. How many of the men that came down with you were armed with bludgeons?—I did not see any with bludgeons.

1016. How many with sticks?—As far as I remember, two men in the carriage with me had sticks.

1017. How many not in the carriage with you had sticks?—I cannot answer that.

1018. How many of them had a revolver?—I didn't see one, or even a heavy stick.

1019. You said you came down as a poll clerk?—I did not tell you so.

1020. You told my learned friend, Mr. M'Donogh so; did you act as a poll clerk?—No, because I could not get to the rooms.

1021. At what hour were you in Drogheda?—I think it was about half-past eight; I hadn't a watch with me.

1022. But at all events the election had commenced before you arrived in the town?—I cannot say.

1023. Do you know what "roughs" are; do you

Mr. C
M'Carthy.

you know the ordinary meaning of the expression "roughs"?—I do.

1024. How many of the men that came down in the train with you, were roughs?—I don't think any of them were roughs. I think most of them were engaged in the office in Dame-street, or in the one on the opposite side.

1025. And they were all coming down as poll clerks?—Yes.

1026. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say that you saw two old gentlemen come into the court-house to vote, and that they did vote?—One old gentleman with a long grey beard.

1027. I thought you said there were two; another with him?—No; I saw other voters treated in a similar way by the same priest.

1028. But you said that the clergyman came in after them?—He followed them into the booth-room where they gave their votes.

1029. What did you see him do afterwards?—He remonstrated with them for voting against Mr. Whitworth, and then he followed them out to the door of the court-house where the excited part of the mob outside formed a phalanx round the door; he pointed out particularly to one old woman who seemed to be leading the mob, that those gentlemen had voted against Mr. Whitworth; he pointed at them, and said "McClintock."

1030. What took place?—Then the mob set on one old gentleman, and beat him the whole way down the street, and the constabulary had actually to turn round and beat the fellows off with the butt end of their muskets to prevent the old gentleman being killed.

1031. Can you say who that priest was?—I asked a woman who he was, and she said it was Father M'Creagh.

1032. Would you know the gentleman if you saw him again?—I don't think I would.

1033. What time was that; was that after the attack on the military?—As well as I remember, it was.

1034. Mr. Plunkett (through the Court).] Do you know who the old gentleman was?—I do not know his name, but he was a very remarkable looking old gentleman with a long grey beard; he was rather below the medium size. He was a very peculiar looking old gentleman, and he seemed to be very well known in the town, because they all called him by a name which I forgot.

1035. Would you know it if you heard it again?—I think I would. I would know the old gentleman again, certainly, if I saw him.

1036. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you recollect the name that they called him, or anything like it?—It was something ending in "ate," I think, or something like it.

1037. Mr. Pallas (through the Court).] I forgot to ask you how much you were to be paid for your day's work?—I did not hear at all.

1038. Was there no contract made?—There was no contract made.

1039. Look about among those gentlemen, and see if you see the clergyman that you refer to?—I think that was one of the clergymen standing at the door of the court-house (pointing to a person in the court); but Roman Catholic clergymen are so like each other that I cannot swear to any one in particular.

1040. Mr. McDonogh.] Do you mean to say that that was the clergyman who went in and remonstrated with the old gentleman?—I wouldn't swear that, because there were so many things happening that day.

Mr. Justice Keogh inquired the name of the person who had been pointed out, and it was stated to be the Reverend James Powderley.

Witness.] I wouldn't swear that was him, but it was very much like him.

1041. Mr. Pallas.] Have you any memory upon that subject at all?—Not as to his appearance. I remember the fact of his going in quite well. The only thing I remember about it was, asking this old woman.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ST. GEORGE WILLIAM SMITH, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

St.
G.W. Smith,
Esq.

1042. WHERE do you reside?—At Newtown, near Kells, county Meath.

1043. Are you a voter of Drogheda?—I am.

1044. Did you, on the day of the polling, come to this town?—I did.

1045. Was it by train?—By train from Kells; it came into Drogheda about 10 o'clock.

1046. Did you remain at the station, or did you come into the town?—I remained at the station till the 12 o'clock train came in with the voters.

1047. You were one of the escorted party, I suppose?—I was.

1048. Have you resided in the neighbourhood of Drogheda for any time, so as to be known by the people?—Oh, yes, for an age; the family always resided near it for an age.

1049. You are one of the Armsbrook family, I believe?—Yes.

1050. Were you known in the town?—By every one nearly.

Mr. Heron stated that he would admit this.

1051. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] Were you beaten on that occasion?—I was.

1052. How many blows did you get?—Three before I ever entered Peter-street at all; one on the right side, breaking the brim of my hat, another on the left cheek, and another very severe one on the crown of my head, which cut in my hat and almost stunned me, and made me unconscious for a time. The blood flowed very freely, and I found great difficulty in keeping up with the escort through James's-street; it was so narrow, and they were getting so pressed there, that there was danger in going through that part of it, and we were getting scattered.

1053. Did you vote?—I did not.

1054. Where did you take shelter?—When the affair took place on the bridge, after the charge of the cavalry, I went up with the infantry, and charged with the infantry up the street, and I found great difficulty in keeping pace with them, because I had met with an accident, and I had a large heavy coat. The men were rushing out of the houses and lanes with clubs at us, and one fellow with a bludgeon aimed aimed a blow at me, and I do not know how I escaped. I got up then to the Tholsel, where, out of the number of 30 or 40 that left the railway, I think there were not more than seven or eight of us.

1055. Were you in terror and apprehension at that time?—Every moment; you did not know whether your life was safe a bit. After we got to the bridge we all slouched our hats and turned our collars up to prevent our faces being smashed to pieces.

1056. For whom had you intended to vote?—For Sir Leopold McClintock.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hamill.

1057. You say you got up after what was called the cavalry charge?—I got up with the infantry.

1058. Did you pass this house?—I stopped at the Tholsel.

1059. There was nothing to prevent your going in there?—I went up to the tally-rooms, and when I went there I was told they had withdrawn their clerks from the poll, and that the election was over.

1060. Did not they tell you not to vote?—

They told me there was no necessity for my voting.

1061. Did they not tell you not to vote?—I said, "Are you going to the poll?" They said, "It is no use, we have withdrawn our clerks."

1062. Were you at Kelly's, a person in the Bull Ring?—No.

1063. Were you in any house at all?—No.

1064. You were not in any house?—Not in any house.

1065. Do you remember the sheriff coming to you?—The sheriff never came to me.

1066. At the tally-room?—No; I went into the room, and I heard some noise in the room.

1067. Did you see the sheriff there?—I saw some gentlemen; the sheriff, I think, was amongst them.

1068. Did he come and say to you, and to others, that if any gentleman wanted to go down to vote he was ready to go with them?—I heard him say he was ready to escort them.

1069. But you declined it?—I did not decline it, but it was no use; the election was over; they had withdrawn the clerks, and our own were scattered.

[The Witness withdrew.]

EDWARD BOYS, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

1070. ARE you a Doctor of Medicine?—I am.

1071. Where do you live?—In Kingstown.

1072. Are you a voter for the borough of Drogheda?—I am.

1073. Did you leave Dublin on the morning of the polling day in Drogheda?—I did, by the half-past eight train.

1074. When you arrived in Drogheda, tell his Lordship, shortly, what occurred?—I arrived here at about a quarter to 10, coming down by the mail, and my brother and I were alone together; we walked out of the carriage, and came down here in the direction of the town. After we had got about 300 yards, we noticed, for the first time, a number of men lounging upon the parapet of the railway along there. I had a newspaper in my hand, and I put it in my pocket, which attracted their attention, and I carried it there with my hand in my pocket for a little distance. The crowd immediately closed on me; they thought it was a signal, I suppose, and said, "For whom do you vote; vote for Whitworth." So they gathered round us, and one man in particular was a little drunk, I think; he tried to upset my brother three or four times, and caught him by the collar and put his foot out, but he did not succeed. But they closed round us, and put their sticks over our heads, and said, "Vote for Whitworth." So my brother having one of Mr. Whitworth's cards (he was the only one who canvassed us), showed it them, and they said, "All right."

1075. Had you promised to support Mr. Whitworth?—Certainly not. Then they made way for us. We came up along, I think, the north quay, the other side of the bridge, and came up by the upper road, and then down through the crowd. Then we came in and voted for Sir Leopold McClintock.

1076. After you had voted, what happened?—Then we came up the other way; and by mistake took the wrong road, and came round by the slums to the railway station.

1077. Did anything occur to you as you went along?—We did not suffer any personal violence; we asked the road to the railway station, and said we were strangers. The woman whom we asked inquired for whom we voted, and we said, "For Whitworth, to be sure," or something to that effect. She said, "Oh, you Orange curs, you would not be coming this way if you were Whitworth's men." That was all. When we got to the railway station, I found a tremendous crowd of people there, but I got in unmolested, and passed through the police.

1078. Did you see Mr. Whitworth there?—I saw a gentleman on horseback, who I afterwards heard was Mr. Whitworth, but I do not know; I could not identify him.

1079. Would you know him?—I knew him since I came into court.

1080. Where did you see him?—At the railway station.

1081. Do you see him in court now at all?—Yes; he is here (pointing to a person in the court).

1082. When you arrived at the station, did you get off quietly then?—My brother and I were both safe, because we were inside, but the crowd collected round a number of men, who, as it appears, were Sir Leopold McClintock's clerks, and attacked them. The people said, "What a shame of Mr. Whitworth not to come in and put an end to the row, he being outside at the time."

1083. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who said that?—Some of the people in the crowd.

1084. Mr. Plunkett.] Do you mean the crowd outside or the crowd inside?—The people in the railway station.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

1085. Do you remember having seen Mr. Whitworth on horseback?—I did see a gentleman on horseback.

1086. And you now recognise him to be Mr. Whitworth?—No.

1088. Was he the gentleman?—I could not tell you; I was told he was on horseback outside by the crowd; that was all.

1089. Did you see Mr. Whitworth on horseback?—I saw a gentleman on horseback.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HALL BREEDON, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

H. Breedon, Esq.

1090. ARE you a medical gentleman?—Yes.

1091. A doctor or surgeon?—Both.

1092. Where do you live?—In Great Brunswick-street, in Dublin.

1093. Are you a voter of Drogheda?—I am.

1094. Did you come down to vote on the day of the polling?—I did.

1095. For whom?—For Sir Leopold McClintock.

1096. By what train did you come down?—By the train that left Dublin at a quarter before 10, I think.

1097. Were you one of the escorted party?—I was.

1098. Were you beaten on that occasion. Tell us what occurred to you?—I was coming down James-street with an escort, and I was struck by two or three stones slightly. Then I got a very severe blow on the side of my head, which is just barely getting well now, and I was knocked down and stunned very much. I had a friend with me, Mr. Burney, who is also a voter, and he fortunately was able to lift me up. My head was so giddy that I had great difficulty in walking, but he held me up, and we went on till we got on to the bridge. Then there was a rush back of the cavalry, and we were all thrown back, and I was, amongst others, thrown into a place called the Bull Ring. So we made an attempt to get into one house or two, and we did not succeed.

1099. And why did you not succeed?—They would not let us in; but at another house (I do not know whose), they were very kind, and let us in, I think through Father Matthews, but I do not know. He succeeded in getting us in. I felt very giddy, and I told the person as soon as I got in that I would like to get into bed, I felt so very uncomfortable. So they very kindly brought me up stairs and put me on a bed. I had a white handkerchief in my hand which I held to my head, and it was completely saturated with blood. The young woman of the house very kindly took my handkerchief away and got it washed, and nicely made it up to me; in fact, brought it to me again in the course of an hour quite clean and nice, and in fact was very attentive all through.

1100. What became of you then?—I lay there, I think, three or four hours, up to nearly the time that the train was to start for Dublin; I attempted on some occasions to get up, but I still felt remarkably giddy, and I lay down again, and just lay quiet there for some hours. In the meantime I bled a good deal, and some medical gentleman was sent to me, who looked at the wound and put some little dressing on it; however, it bled until seven or eight o'clock that evening.

1101. By what train did you come up?—The train that arrives in Dublin, I think, about five o'clock; some time after three.

1102. Did you vote upon that occasion?—No.

1103. And each time that you raised yourself in bed you felt giddy?—I felt so giddy that I did not think I was in a state to get up.

1104. Then you did not try the motive power whether you could use your limbs?—I did not at all; I did not get up.

1105. You, as a medical man, are quite aware of what concussion of the brain is?—Yes.

1106. Does that frequently cause giddiness?—It does.

1107. Did you continue ill for any length of time?—I was ill for some days, and I had a very eminent medical man in Dublin who attended me (Dr. Geoghegan). I continued ill for some days, and he would not allow me to move at all.

1108. Are you thoroughly recovered yet?—I am tolerably well now, but my head is quite sore yet, and what I call numb; not the feeling that I originally had in it.

1109. Did you see anything happen to Colonel Fairclough?—Well, I did not exactly see. He held me coming down the road by the right shoulder trying to keep up with us, for he was very feeble. I did all I could to help him along, but about the bridge he was knocked down, I think, and I saw no more of him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pallas.

1110. I believe you were one of the gentlemen that made an affidavit, that you would not for any consideration come back to Drogheda to give evidence, in consequence of what you anticipated there?—Yes.

1111. Are you not very agreeably surprised?—Certainly, very much at present; for I did not think it was possible, from what I saw that day.

1112. When you were in this house, do you remember being waited upon by some gentleman who offered you an escort if you wished to vote?—There was somebody that did make an offer of the kind. I do not know who he was.

1113. I think what you said in answer to it was, that there was no use in your going?—Very likely I did say that.

1114. Then you at that time knew that Sir Leopold McClintock had no chance?—I do not say that.

1115. Did you use the words, "It was no use"?—I think very likely I did.

1116. Did you not use these words in addition, "There is no use in going, as Brodigan has made a bad fight"?—I said no such thing.

1117. Of course, when you came into the town at that time, you heard the state of the poll?—I did not.

1118. At that time you had no idea how the election was going?—No.

1119. What reason did you give for not voting?—Because I felt so very unwell; I was so giddy, that when I attempted to rise up in the bed, I found that I was obliged to lie back again.

1120. Some others of the gentlemen that were there went and voted, I think?—I do not know; the gentleman that came with me would not go; Mr. Burney, of North Frederick-street, Dublin.

1121. Is he here?—He is not, I believe; I do not see him.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM MORRIS REED, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

1122. You are a stipendiary magistrate?—I am.

1123. Were you here in that capacity on the day of the polling, in Drogheda?—I was.

1124. When did you first go out into the town in that capacity on that day?—At about a quarter to eight.

1125. Did you observe anything peculiar then, when you went out, in the state of the town?—No, nothing peculiar at that hour.

1126. When did you first go up to the railway station?—At about half-past eight.

1127. Did you observe anything then?—Yes.

1128. What?—I had a party of constabulary, 15 men and a sub-inspector with me; and when we got to the foot of Shop-street, there was a row there, and two men had taken refuge in the electric telegraph office, and I saw the crowd endeavouring to break in the door.

1129. Where is the electric telegraph office?—It is at the very end of the quay at this side of the bridge; it is a corner house. I ran to the door to prevent their forcing it in, and brought the police with me, and pushed the crowd on one side, and two men came out and claimed my protection. I asked them what they wanted; they merely said they wanted their lives protected. I told them I was going up to the railway station on duty, and that if they considered they required my protection there, I would take them there; and I did do so. The men had both of them lost their hats at the time, and one of them was cut and bleeding.

1130. Do you know who those men were?—I do not know; I think I could identify both of them, but I never saw them before or since.

1131. When you came up to the station what did you observe then?—Shortly after arriving there a very large mob collected, not a dense mob, but a scattered mob, all armed with bludgeons and pieces of iron hoops straightened out about two feet or two and a half feet long.

1132. Did you observe among them any persons of a better class than the mob?—No, I cannot say that I did.

1133. What occurred next at the station?—When the first train came in some gentlemen came down by it; one of those gentlemen whom I did not know at the time, but I know now, came up and told me he was a magistrate of two counties, and asked me if I was a magistrate, and I said I was the magistrate on duty there. He asked me to give him and his friends who were voters, protection down to the Town-hall; I told him I had recently come from there, and that with the small force I had at my disposal, namely, 30 constabulary, it would not be a safe experiment to take them down.

1134. At what o'clock was this?—About half-past nine; I told him if he wished to go I would go with him, but that it was a very dangerous thing to attempt, and that I would send a requisition to Captain Talbot, my brother magistrate, for further help, and I did do so; I sent for infantry and cavalry, and they both arrived shortly afterwards with Captain Talbot, who then considered that even the force at our disposal then was not sufficient to protect the parties to the Town-hall; and we sent a further requisition for more infantry.

1135-6. At that time how many infantry and cavalry had you?—At that time we had 20 infantry, 16 hussars, and 30 policemen, and the sub-inspector and the officers.

1137. That is 66 of all arms?—Yes; Captain Talbot then sent for a further augmentation, and we got 40 more infantry of the 9th Regiment. On the arrival of the next train, about half-past 11 o'clock, or shortly after half-past 11 o'clock, the party was formed to go into the town. The voters or gentlemen who said they were voters, numbering about 25 to 30, were placed between two files of infantry; the cavalry, the hussars, were placed four at each side of those files of infantry, and the remainder at the head of the party; and Captain Talbot being with Colonel Knox, who was in command of the cavalry; I brought up the rear of the whole party with the 30 constabulary; the moment after we left the railway premises, the moment we got outside of the railway gate, the stone-throwing commenced, but it was not very bad until we got to the narrow portion of that street which I believe they call James's-street; it is at right angles to the Bull Ring; there the stone-throwing became excessive; not only stones, but bottles and pieces of iron, and sticks were thrown at us. Then when we got on to the Bull Ring it was, if possible, worse; and almost opposite the police barracks on the Bull Ring two old gentlemen that I was walking with (they were the last of the party of voters, and to my right), were each of them knocked down; the outside man of the two was knocked down first; he fell backwards; and then the next man to me was knocked down, and he fell forwards. Seeing that, and also seeing the temper of the mob, I considered it would be perfectly unsafe to leave those two old gentlemen in the hands of the mob, and I ran forward at once to Captain Talbot, who was at the head of the column, and I told him what had occurred, and said we must make some provision for their safety; but when I got to the front I saw a scene, of which I had no anticipation whatever. When I was at the rear I found a large mob collected in front armed with bludgeons, pelting stones, and I said to Captain Talbot, "I must read the Riot Act." He said, "Yes, do." I then ran out between Captain Knox's and Captain Talbot's horses' heads, and I there read the Riot Act, the stone throwing men making demonstrations with bludgeons; I tapped Captain Knox on the left shoulder, and I said, "Captain Knox, charge them with the cavalry." Almost at the same moment the men with the bludgeons rushed forward and bludgeoned the cavalry horses on their heads.

1138. What followed upon that?—The effect of that was to knock the horses back. They fell back upon the infantry, who were utterly disorganised in consequence—the leading files of the infantry. I ran back behind the horses' backs, and that brought me to the left front of the infantry. I then waved my stick over my head, and I called out to Captain Daunt, who was in command of the infantry, to charge the mob with the bayonet. Then the mob got right on amongst the soldiers, whose organisation was broken, and there was a regular stand-up fight between members of the mob and the troops. I saw Captain Daunt struck with something, and knocked half round towards me, falling towards the ground. I did not see him come to the ground; but I saw two men of the 9th Foot on the ground at the same moment, and I saw one of the bayonets of the 9th within an inch or two of a man's head. I then fell back a little along the left file of the infantry, and found the front ranks of the infantry in open order—in fact, all disorganised. The next thing was, that two shots were fired almost instantaneously, and the effect of those shots upon the mob was to make them run in every direction. I never saw a greater stampede. The next thing was a charge of cavalry up Shop-street. The next thing was for us all to get up to the top of Shop-street the best way that we could. That was empty at the time, but there were stones being thrown from windows as we passed up.

1139. Had you any more duty to perform then?—Yes; the next thing was, that I went up with the troops to the gaol. Two men were handed over to the civil power.

1140. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You have been a military man, I presume?—Never.

1141. Did you see any persons urging on the crowd, or taking any sort of a leading part in the matter, guiding or directing?—No; I could not point out any person as a leader.

1142. Did you see any clergymen amongst the crowd?—I saw a Roman Catholic clergyman on the left of the window as we were coming down, before we got into James's-street, and, thinking he would have influence with the people, I went to him and told him to check the stone-throwing, and I must say he used every possible exertion to do so, holding up his hands to the crowd, and telling them to throw no stones.

1143. Do you happen to know who that gentleman was?—I would know him again. I did not know him at all. I am a perfect stranger in Drogheda.

1144. You have been in court for some time?—No; I only just came in previously to my being called.

1145. It is creditable to that gentleman, and, therefore, you had better look round and see if you see him in court?—I only see one Roman Catholic clergyman in the gallery, and I do not think he is the gentleman.

1146. Then, look round. It is creditable to the Roman Catholic clergymen, and it should be known?—I see two, now. I may be mistaken, but I do not think either of those was the gentleman. The front gentleman of the two is not unlike the clergyman. I should not say it was he, though.

1147. Mr. Heron.] Will you look at the Roman Catholic clergymen in court?—After looking round I only see two Roman Catholic clergymen here; and it was not that gentleman, nor was it this gentlemen, I think (pointing to persons in court). Certainly this is very like the gentleman, but I would not undertake to identify him.

1148. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What was the time covered by the whole of this transaction, from the time you left the station until the termination of the charge of cavalry, which appears to have been the closing scene of the whole?—I think we left the station at about a quarter to twelve, and I think it must have been about five minutes past twelve, or, perhaps, a little more, when we arrived at this court.

1149. There was no further rioting?—There was no further rioting during the day that I am aware of.

1150. You say you saw the cavalry horses bludgeoned. Do you mean by that that they absolutely struck the heads of the horses?—I saw the horses' heads struck, and I was driven back with the horses, and behind the horses.

1151. Were you mounted?—No, on foot.

1152. Had the hussars their swords drawn at that time?—They had no swords drawn from the time we left the station; when we got to the head of the bridge they had not been drawn.

1153. When they charged had they their sabres drawn?—I am under the impression that they had, but I am not positive.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

1154. During the day before that, or immediately afterwards, did you see other Roman Catholic clergymen endeavouring to pacify the mob?—No; that was the only Roman Catholic clergyman that I saw, and he was acting upon my suggestion.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. JOHN DEVINE, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

Mr.
J. Devine.

1155. WHERE do you live?—About a mile from Drogheda.

1156. Are you a voter for the town of Drogheda?—Yes.

1157. Did you come to the railway station on the day of the polling?—I did, from Balbriggan.

1158. Were you in company with Mr. Hamilton?—No.

1159. Did you see Mr. Hamilton at the station that day?—I did.

1160. Had you promised to vote for any of the candidates?—I promised to vote for M^cClintock.

1161. When you came to the station, will you tell us, if you please, what occurred to you?—Why, I was afraid of my life.

1162. Tell us the facts that made you afraid of your life?—Why, the mob.

1163. Well, tell me all about it?—I declare I was afraid of being killed; only for that, I would vote.

1164. For whom?—For Mr. McClintock.

1165. Do you know Mr. Whitworth?—Well, I know him by eyesight.

1166. Did you see him there that day?—I did.

1167. Do you know a Mr. Clinton?—Yes, well.

1168. Did you see him there that day?—I did.

1169. Will you tell us what occurred, either with the mob or with those gentlemen?—Mr. Clinton asked me, would I vote for Mr. Whitworth, and I said nothing to him. Then Mr. Whitworth came up a short time after, and he asked for whom I would vote; and I told him I would vote for no one. Then I just walked on one side; and as I was going, Mr. Hamilton, he was afraid that I would be killed, and he told me to go back to Balbriggan again for safety. I went into the wrong carriage, and I came out again. Then, after a while at the station-house, I was dragged through the mob.

1170. How many persons do you suppose there were?—I think there were about 30; I could not tell you.

1171. Where

1171. Where were you dragged to?—I was not dragged, but I was put on a jaunting car nicely. I went to Mr. Whitworth's tally-rooms.

1172. Before you were put on the jaunting car had you spoken to Mr. Hamilton?—Yes.

1173. Did you see him?—I did.

1174. Did you take hold of him, or did he take hold of you?—I left Mr. Hamilton; he just sent his men with me for safety, for fear I would be killed; he is a good gentleman.

1175. But how did they take you out of the station?—Sure they came up and dragged me.

1176. Was Mr. Whitworth present?—I did not see Mr. Whitworth at that time.

1177. Had you seen him shortly before that?—Before that I did see him, and Mr. Clinton too.

1178. Did you see Mr. Clinton at the time they were taking you away?—No.

1179. When they took you out of the station where did they put you?—

Mr. Heron objected to leading questions.

1180. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness.)] What did they do with you?—I was brought down to the town.

1181. How?—They dragged me.

1182. To put you on a car?—Yes.

1183. Where did they take you?—To Mr. Whitworth's tally-rooms.

1184. What became of you then?—I was kept there for a good while.

1185. Did anybody apply to you to vote?—No; indeed, sir, they did not.

1186. What became of you; did you go to the voting?—No.

1187. How long did they keep you in the tally-room?—Not long.

1188. What did they do with you, then?—Why, I might go home then.

1189. Did you go home?—I did.

1190. How?—Walking.

1191. Did you walk the whole way to your own house?—Yes. No; I beg your pardon, we hired a car.

1192. Then you drove home?—Yes.

1193. And you did not vote at all?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pallas.

1194. I believe you are a Roman Catholic?—Yes.

1195. Who is your landlord?—Mr. Cooper.

1196. How much land do you hold from him?—Very nearly 50 acres.

1197. At what rent?—Well, it is about a guinea an acre.

1198. What tenancy have you; is it a tenancy from year to year?—Yes.

1199. Who is the agent of your landlord?—Mr. Hamilton.

1200. Do you know that gentleman (pointing to a person in the court)?—I do.

1201. Did you ever see him before?—I did.

1202. Putting lease out of the question, and putting religion out of the question, whom would you have wished to vote for?—

Mr. McDonogh objected to the question.

1203. Mr. Pallas (to the Witness.)] Suppose you had a lease for ever, and your landlord had no power over you, whom would you have wished to vote for?—

1204. Mr. Pallas (to the Witness.)] Did you tell that gentleman there that you were forced to vote against your conscience, as you had no lease?—It was my free will to go to Balbriggan.

1205. Did you use these words; I will try and bring your recollection to it?—Yes, you may.

1206. Do you remember meeting that gentleman (pointing to a person in the court) at the station the day you were going to Drogheda?—I do, but not the day I was going to Drogheda.

1207. What day was it?—A couple of days before, perhaps.

1208. On that occasion did you say anything like this: that you wished to vote for Mr. Whitworth, but that you were forced to vote against your conscience as you had no lease?—I forget.

1209. Will you say that you did not; you forget?—I do.

1210. When did you go to Balbriggan?—On Tuesday.

1211. When you were speaking to that gentleman did you cry?—For what will I cry?

1212. I ask you the fact; did you cry?—No.

1213. I must ask you these questions because perhaps there may be a contradiction of your answer; did you or did you not?—No; I did not cry.

1214. Had you ever a vote before at the Drogheda election?—Yes.

1215. Whom did you vote for then?—

Mr. McDonogh objected to this question as being wholly irrelevant.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

1216. Mr. Pallas (to the Witness.)] Did you vote at the previous election?—I forget that.

1217. You forget; think now?—I voted for Whitworth.

1218. You told me a moment ago that you forgot for whom you voted at the last election; is that true? When you used those words, "I forget," did you not know and remember that you voted for Mr. Whitworth?—I do remember it.

1219. When you said that you forgot for whom you voted, did you know that you had voted for Mr. Whitworth?—I voted for Mr. Whitworth.

1220. Mr. Justice Keogh.] That is not what you are asked; you are asked, do you recollect for whom you voted, when you said you had forgotten?—I did forget it.

1221. Mr. Pallas.] Why did you vote against Mr. Whitworth at this election if you voted for Mr. Whitworth at the last?—Because I got a letter from Mr. Hamilton.

1222. Have you that letter here?—Mr. Hamilton has it.

1223. If you had not got the letter from Mr. Hamilton you would have voted for Mr. Whitworth?—I would vote for no one; neither Brodigan nor Whitworth.

1224. You voted against Brodigan on the last election when you voted for Mr. Whitworth?—Yes.

1225. If you got no letter from Mr. Hamilton why would you not vote for Mr. Whitworth, as you did before?—I would vote for none of them.

1226. What was it changed your mind?—I thought there was very little good in both of them.

Mr.
J. Devine.
16 January
1869.

Mr. J. Devine. 1227. And was that the reason you changed your mind?—Yes.

1228. When did you go to Balbriggan?—On Tuesday it was.

1229. Where did you remain the Tuesday night?—I forget; in a decent house.

1230. In Balbriggan?—Yes.

1231. Where did you remain on the Wednesday?—I suppose in Dublin; I went to Dublin, and I might have come back.

1232. Where did you remain on Thursday night?—At Balbriggan, I think.

1233. Are you certain?—I am certain.

1234. Was it in the house of a man of the name of Clinton you stopped in Balbriggan?—I do not know.

1235. Do you know Mr. Hodgson?—Yes, well.

1236. Who is he?—He is a rent-warden of Mr. Hamilton's.

1237. Did you see him upon the Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday?—No.

1238. Who paid your railway fare from Balbriggan to Drogheda?—Mr. Hodgson paid it.

1239. Who gave you money to pay your fare back from Drogheda to Balbriggan?—Mr. Hodgson.

1240. Who paid your fare from Dublin to Balbriggan?—The money we had going up.

1241. They paid it all?—All myself got was very little.

1242. Was any one else with you?—Let every one speak for himself.

1243. Who else was with you?—Usher and McDonald.

1244. Mr. Hodgson paid for you all?—I suppose he did; he paid me half-a-sovereign.

1245. Why did you go to Dublin?—Because we thought it to be as good as to be in Balbriggan; to see the sport, as we were never at Dublin before.

1246. What sport was it that you were to see in Dublin?—The election.

1247. And was it for that purpose that Mr. Hodgson sent you to Dublin?—No, he did not send us at all; it was our own pleasure.

1248. Where did you stop in Dublin?—No place at all; we came back again to Balbriggan.

1249. I thought you said that you stopped Wednesday night in Dublin?—No, I did not tell you that at all.

1250. So that you must have stopped three nights in Balbriggan?—Yes.

1251. Do you know Emerson's?—No.

1252. Did you pay anything for your lodgings in Balbriggan?—No, we did not.

1253. Did you pay anything for your food in Balbriggan?—No.

1254. Who was to pay for that?—I do not know who was to pay for it.

1255. Now that your memory has been a little bit refreshed, perhaps now you remember what you said to Father Langdale?—No, I do not.

1256. Is it not a fact that you were forced to vote?—It was my own pleasure.

1257. Were you forced to vote?—For whom?

1258. For Sir Leopold McClintock?—No.

1259. You would have wished to vote for McClintock?—I would have voted for McClintock only I was afraid.

1260. Did you know what politics he had?—Indeed I do not know much of them.

1261. Did you know either of their politics?—I did not.

1262. Why would you prefer to vote for McClintock in preference to Whitworth, when you knew neither of their politics?—I had a good agent.

1263. Were you afraid of being put out if you did not vote for him?—No, I was not.

Re-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

1264. You told that gentleman that you would have voted for McClintock only you were afraid?—Yes.

1265. Of whom were you afraid?—Of the mob.

1266. Now, on the former occasion that you voted for that gentleman, Mr. Whitworth, when Mr. Brodigan and he were contesting, did Mr. Hodgson, the bailiff of Mr. Hamilton, canvass you for Mr. Whitworth?—Yes.

1267. Did you vote, to oblige Mr. Hodgson, for Mr. Whitworth?—Well, I did.

1268. Can you read?—I can, badly.

1269. Is that the letter which you got from Mr. Hodgson (showing a letter to the Witness)?—That is the last letter, I believe.

1270. It is the same; at all events we will read it:

"Balbriggan, 9th Nov. 1868.

"DEAR SIR,—Sir Leopold McClintock, one of the greatest men of the kingdom, will be member for Drogheda. You will oblige me and Mr. Cooper very much by voting for him.

"Yours truly,
"Henry Alexander Hamilton."

Was it of your own free will that you voted for Sir Leopold McClintock?—Yes.

1271. Did Mr. Hamilton threaten you in any other way?—I did not see Mr. Hamilton at all.

1272. Did Mr. Hodgson threaten you in any way?—No.

1273. Mr. Pallas (through the Court).] Did you see Mr. Clinton, and did Mr. Clinton ask you for whom would you vote, and did you say, "I would wish —?"

Mr. McDonogh objected to the question.

Mr. Pallas supported the question.

1274. Mr. Pallas (through the Court).] Did you meet, when you were brought down on the car, Mr. Clinton at the tally-room on the stairs or in the room, and did you say to him you would rather not vote, and did Mr. Clinton say to you, "Very well, do not." Or did any conversation of that kind occur?—No; Mr. Clinton came up to the station-house, and Mr. Hamilton was with me, and he rushed in, Mr. Clinton did, and he asked me to vote for Mr. Whitworth, and I didn't give him any answer at all, either yes or no. Then Mr. Whitworth came in a few minutes after, and asked for whom I would vote, and I said I would vote for no one.

1275. When you were taken away on the car, and brought to Mr. Whitworth's tally-room, did you see Mr. Clinton after that?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MR. JOHN USHER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Ryland.

1276. ARE you an elector of Drogheda?—Yes.

1277. And a voter?—Yes.

1278. Where were you on the morning of the polling day; were you in Drogheda the night before?—No, I was in Balbriggan.

1279. When did you come into Drogheda?—I came in that morning.

1280. By train?—Yes.

1281. At what hour about did you get to Drogheda?—It was nearly up to ten o'clock.

1282. Who was with you, do you know, at the time?—Mr. McDonald.

1283. Who else?—Mr. Hamilton.

1284. Who else?—I cannot remember any more.

1285. Were you at the station for any length of time?—I was.

1286. Did you see any persons there; did anything happen while you were there?—Yes.

1287. Do you know Mr. Clinton?—Yes.

1288. Do you know Mr. Whitworth?—Yes.

1289. Did you see either of those gentlemen there?—Yes, I saw both, I think.

1290. Did they do or say anything that you can tell us?—He was down at the station himself. He came down and asked who I voted for? I made no answer at the time; it was Whitworth; then he went away, and we walked about for fifteen or twenty minutes; then he came back again. I saw rioting about the place at the railway; he asked me who I would vote for, and I said I would vote for him sooner than be killed.

1291. Had you promised to vote for any of the candidates before?—Yes, I had.

1292. For whom?—For McClintock.

1293. Did you intend that morning when you were coming by train to vote for McClintock?—I did.

1294. When you said to him that you would vote for Whitworth, what occurred?—The mob got round and shoved me off; they put me on a car.

1295. What was done to you then?—They brought me up to the tally-room; they brought me into the tally-room; Mr. Whitworth followed me and told me he did not want me to vote at all.

1296. Did you vote?—I did not.

1297. What did you do after that?—I remained there for about an hour, and I came out and went home.

1298. Did you vote at all?—I did not.

1299. Would you have voted for McClintock, but for the rioting you saw at the station that morning?—Yes, I should have voted for McClintock.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

1300. You are a tenant on the Coopa estate?—Yes.

1301. And Mr. Hamilton is your agent?—Yes.

1302. How many acres have you?—About 60 or 62.

1303. What rent do you pay per acre?—Guinea an acre.

1304. You have no lease, but you are a tenant from year to year?—Yes.

27.

1305. Had you before that promised to Mr. Whitworth that you would vote for him?—I told Mr. Whitworth when he asked me to vote; I said, "If my landlord is pleased I will vote for you, if not, I must go with my landlord."

1306. How long before was that?—A few months; I suppose four or six weeks.

1307. Do you swear before his Lordship that you did not promise Mr. Whitworth who is here to vote for him?—I told him as I told you now; "If my landlord is pleased I will vote for you, if not, I must go with my landlord."

1308. Did you say I must go with my landlord?—Yes.

1309. Did you get half-a-sovereign also?—I did.

1310. When?—The day before I left home.

1311. Where?—I got it at my own place.

1312. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Hudson.

1313. Is Mr. Hudson a stranger?—No, he is the rent warden.

1314. You have known him a long time?—Yes.

1315. What did he tell you to do with the half-sovereign?—He told me to do nothing with it.

1316. Where did he tell you to go to with the half-sovereign?—He told me to go to no place; he gave it to me.

1317. Gave it to you for what?—He gave it to me for expenses to bring me from Balbriggan.

1318. Did he tell you what house to go to?—No.

1319. Did you go by accident into a house?—I did.

1320. Did you pay anything for your lodging in that house?—Not a halfpenny.

1321. Did you know the house you were going to?—No.

1322. And you do not know it now?—I know the house, but I do not know the name.

1323. You do not know the name of the people?—No.

1324. Did you go into the house by accident?—No, I did not.

1325. Who told you to go to the house?—Mr. Hudson.

1326. Which house did he tell you to go to? I do not know what is the name of the house.

1327. Answer now before his Lordship, where did Mr. Hudson tell you to go to?—I cannot tell the name of the house.

1328. Where did Hudson tell you to go to?—He told me to go to a lodging-house; I cannot tell the name.

1329. Did you know beforehand what lodging-house you were to go to?—No.

1330. Did you go into the first that occurred to you?—I did.

1331. Did you and Devine go by accident into the same house; did you travel with Devine?—I did.

1332. And McDonald?—Yes.

1333. And the three of you went into the same house?—Yes.

1334. And you paid nothing for meat and drink?—No.

1335. Did you get any more money?—I got another half-sovereign going home.

1336. From whom?—From Mr. Hudson.

F 3

1337. Where

Mr.
J. Usher.
1869.

Mr. J. Usher.
16 January 1869.

1337. Where did he pay you that?—In Balbriggan.

1338. Who paid your railway fare?—I cannot tell.

1339. You did not pay any railway fare?—No.

1340. Did Devine and McDonald also get a separate half-sovereign?—They did.

1341. Did you not vote for Whitworth in 1865?—I did.

1342. Do you know anything about politics?—Not much.

1343. Did you know that McClintock was a Tory, and that Whitworth was a Liberal?—I knew there was a difference between them.

1344. Did you know which was which; did you know which was Tory, and which was Liberal?—I did.

1345. Which were they?—Whitworth was for the Liberals, and a good man in the town of Drogheda for the poor.

1346. And that McClintock was what?—I never knew him until I saw him in the street.

1347. Did you get a letter from Mr. Hamilton?—Yes.

1348. Have you that letter, or did he take it away from you to-day?—It is here.

1349. Show me the letter?—(The same was handed in to the learned Counsel.)

1350. When did Hamilton take the letter from you?—I sent it to him on Wednesday.

1351. “Balbriggan, 9th November 1868.—Dear Sir,—Sir Leopold McClintock, one of the greatest men in the kingdom, will be Member for Drogheda. You will oblige me and Mr. Cooper very much by voting for him.—Yours truly, Alexander Hamilton.” Had you ever heard of McClintock until you got that letter?—I heard he was coming in for Drogheda.

1352. Had you ever heard of him before you heard he was coming in for Drogheda?—Never.

1353. You told his Lordship that Mr. Whitworth finally told you that he did not want you to vote at all?—Yes.

1354. Where was it that he told you that?—In the tally-room.

1355. Had you said anything to him before that?—Not one ha’porth.

1356. Do you mean to say that he came up and told you that he did not want you to vote?—He came into the tally-room and said, “I do not want you to vote at all.”

1357. What did you do then?—Remained there for half an hour, and came out and went home.

1358. You were not molested in any way by any crowd?—No.

1359. Where was the tally-room which you were in with Mr. Whitworth?—In Lawrence-street.

1360. How long were you there?—About an hour.

1361. Was that the first time Mr. Whitworth came up to you?—It was.

1362. Was that before or after you heard the shot?—Before I heard the shot?

1363. Before you heard about the shot being fired?—Yes.

1364. It must have been before 12 o’clock?—Yes, it was before 12 o’clock.

1365. Was McDonald with you then?—No, he was not with us that day.

1366. Was McDonald with you that day in the tally-room?—No.

1367. Were you alone with your party?—Yes.

1368. Do you remember Semple coming with you from Balbriggan?—Yes.

1369. Do you remember Semple coming down before you?—I lost him in the train.

Re-examined by Mr. Ryland.

1370. You were asked whether you voted for Whitworth on a former election?—Yes.

1371. Were you canvassed by anyone?—Yes.

1372. By whom?—Mr. Hamilton.

1373. Mr. Heron.] Did you see Mr. Whitworth after the election?—I did.

1374. Did you tell him if you were put on the table, and told the truth, that you would not vote out of your farm?—No.

1375. What did you say to Mr. Whitworth when you saw him?—I told him that I could not go against my landlord.

1376. Did he speak about your evidence “on the table;” did you use the words “on the table;” did you say, “I cannot go against my landlord on the table”?—

1377. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Were you speaking in confidence to Mr. Whitworth at that time; whatever you were saying, did you expect it would be brought up to-day?—I was afraid it would.

1378. When you were speaking to him, did you understand that you were speaking confidentially to him?—Yes.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Then the question ought not to be put.

1379. Mr. Ryland.] You told that gentleman that you voted for Mr. Whitworth at a former election?—Yes.

1380. Were you canvassed by your landlord, or anyone connected with the property, to vote for Mr. Whitworth?—At the last election?

1381. Yes, the last election?—Yes, I was.

1382. Who did you vote for?—Mr. Hamilton.

1383. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Did you vote at all at the last election?—No, I did not vote.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. JAMES CAHILL, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

Mr. J. Cahill.

1384. WHERE do you live?—At Pitcher Hill.

1385. Is that in the town of Drogheda?—The borough of Drogheda.

1386. Had you promised at the last election to vote for anybody?—I told the landlord I would vote for him if he would protect me.

1387. What is the name of your landlord?—Mr. Smith.

1388. Had he canvassed you for Sir Leopold McClintock?—He asked me to vote for McClintock.

1389. Was it then you told him that you would if he would protect you?—Yes, I told him and I told Mr. Cooper; he called along with Mr. McClintock at my house, and I told him I would vote for him if he would protect me.

1390. What

1390. What did you say about Mr. Cooper?—Mr. Cooper was with McClintock when he asked me for my vote, and I told Mr. Smith I would vote for him if he would protect me.

1391. Were those two gentlemen with you at the same time, or on two different times?—No; at one time.

1392. Did you intend to vote for Sir Leopold McClintock?—I did, if I was protected down to the poll; but I would not venture to come down to the poll unless I was protected.

1393. On the morning of the polling-day, before daylight, did anything occur?—The mob rapped at the door; my wife opened the door; I was in bed; I was not well, and she told them I was in bed; I cannot say what she said; I was in bed and was not well.

1394. Was there anything done to the door?—Not a ha'porth.

1395. At a subsequent time did any other mob come?—About 10 o'clock another mob came and rapped at the door, and they hailed across and came as far as that, and they wanted me to go to vote, and my son-in-law said I should not; they were there a long time; I do not know what they said, but they went away; it was not very long after till Father Matthews came, and he opened the door and walked into the room where I was and asked me to vote; I said I would vote for the landlord. Father Matthews said, "Vote according to your conscience." I went to the door; he linked my arm and helped me up on the car; I was not very well able to go on the car; a grey horse was standing at the door with a car and another respectable man, a farmer; I had knowledge of him, but I do not know his name; he was with the priest, and I went down with them.

1396. Mr. Justice Keogh.] They put you on the car and you came down?—Yes.

1397. Mr. McDonogh.] Where?—They brought me up to a place, and they told me to say, "Whitworth" when I was asked.

1398. Who told you that?—They never told me who to vote for once after.

1399. Who told you to say "Whitworth"?—Father Matthews, the priest.

1400. Did he accompany you on the car?—He was on the car with me.

1401. What next happened to you?—Nothing at all.

1402. Did you come up to vote?—Yes, I voted for Mr. Whitworth; he brought me back again and put me on the car again; the man left me at home at my own house.

1403. Mr. Justice Keogh.] For whom did you vote?—Mr. Whitworth.

1404. Was that according to your wish that you voted for Mr. Whitworth?—I said I would vote for the landlord if I was protected, and then when I was not protected I voted the other way; I did not vote in Drogheda before, and had not a vote.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

1405. Before this had you promised Father Matthews to vote for Whitworth?—No; he never mentioned Mr. Whitworth's name in his life.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS MCKENNA, sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

1406. ARE you an elector of the Borough of Drogheda?—Yes.

1407. Do you know Mr. Brodigan?—Yes.

1408. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] You were on Mr. Brodigan's committee, were you not?—Yes.

1409. And you know a great number of the Catholic electors of Drogheda?—I did.

1410. Did you canvass at all with Mr. Brodigan?—I canvassed five or six days in company with Mr. Brodigan and his committee.

1411. From your knowledge of the voters of the town of Drogheda, and from the canvass that you made for Mr. Brodigan, can you say whether a great number of voters had promised Mr. Brodigan?—The first day I went out with the canvassers?

1412. Had he asked whether there were many promises for Mr. Brodigan?—Yes; a vast majority in the places I went to with him. We went into the house of a Mr. Farrell, at the head of King-street, and he refused, and to the residence of a man named Pentona, who refused also; then we went to John Burne.

1413. Mr. Justice Keogh.] "The vast majority of those canvassed," was your expression?—Yes; that day.

1414. Mr. Plunkett.] Do you know, as a matter of fact, how those men voted afterwards?—Yes, of course; I was sent out afterwards on the Thursday.

1415. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Cannot you answer the question; do you know how the men voted afterwards?—I was not at the polling place; I cannot swear how they voted; I know they did not keep their promises from the result afterwards.

27.

1416. Mr. Plunkett.] Did you vote for Mr. Brodigan yourself?—No.

1417. Who did you vote for?—I did not venture into the town; I did not vote at all on that day. I was attacked by mobs, and threatened in an extraordinary way.

1418. Just explain how that was?—I live in North Road, and I have property in one lane, and there were two miniature coffins put up at the gate in the lane where I had stables and a barn, and place for cattle; the morning of the 20th, the day of polling, I went early, intending to go to Mr. Brodigan's committee, and I was set upon by a ferocious mob, who attacked me with stones, pokers, hammers, and used violent language; they said they would set fire to the place if I dared to vote as an Orange Catholic against the Church; against the old religion. They said, "Be hanged for me;" that they would burn down the stables, and that they did in a most emphatic and violent way. They rushed up quite close to me with large stones in their hands, and all that.

1419. Were there any persons amongst those who threatened you, except the mob?—No.

1420. It was altogether the mob?—Yes.

1421. In point of fact, you did not vote?—No; and on the Monday, my Lord, Sunday was the 15th, and certain things took place on that day; everything was tranquil until then.

1422. What took place on the Monday?—On the Monday I saw that the reign of terror had commenced. I was walking along here, and a ferocious mob rushed forward and attacked and shook me, and pushed and drove me, and they nearly threw me on the face, except but for the police coming up and saving me. Mr. Garnill came just in time to save me, and Mr. Latimer, one of Mr. Whitworth's best supporters, was blandly smiling on the crowd and encouraging them from Shop-street out here.

1423. Mr. Heron.] "He blandly smiled"?—Yes; I wondered at it—

Mr. Latimer.] That is not true, my Lord.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who says that?

Mr. Latimer.] Me.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] If you interrupt the Court by making observations on the evidence given here, I shall at once have you committed to gaol for contempt of court.

Mr. Latimer.] I beg your pardon, my Lord.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I do not commit you now, because I suppose you are ignorant of the consequences of your behaviour.

Witness.] I was surprised at him doing so, because he was a near neighbour and friend of mine before; I also complained to the policeman Gammon at the moment.

1424. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Is he a police constable in the town of Drogheda?—Yes; and the men who attacked me were in the employment chiefly of Mr. Whitworth's committee, and I think some of the sheriff's men.

1425. Mr. Plunkett.] You said before you went into that description, that before the violence commenced, some things occurred; what things occurred, I ask you now. You say everything was quiet, and then some things occurred, and then there was violence; what things?—

1426. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What do you allude to; you say certain things occurred on the Saturday; what were those things?—The addresses to the people on Sunday against the ascendancy candidate; I would rather not speak about it.

1427. Mr. Plunkett.] Who delivered the addresses?—The Catholic clergymen; those that I heard were not of an inflammatory character at all, I must say. I was with Mr. Brodigan and his supporters on the day of nomination at the court-house, and I was a witness of the terrific scene that occurred here; then, whilst we were waiting in the street, I saw a number of persons though the court door was closed; I saw a number of persons inside through the window looking out.

1428. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was that before you came in?—Yes, it was 10 minutes before 10 o'clock; we were not admitted until the clock struck 10.

1429. But do you say you saw persons inside?—Yes, looking out.

1430. Before the court was open?—Yes; there were a number of persons in the court house previously to that public opening; I heard a fearful groaning and boisterous clamour outside, and saw a missile, it was an egg, thrown at the McClintock party; it seemed to be aimed at Sir Leopold McClintock; we got into the place then, and when the door was opened a tumultuous rush took place, magistrates, clergymen, sack carriers, and labouring men, all classes pushed and drove in together in the crowd, a thing that never took place within the last 40 years to my memory before; since 1830 there was no such mode of admitting the people previously, and the crowd at the place here; I was standing down there (describing the same), a number were all standing with their backs to the gallery and round here, and what are called roughs were up here on this place, and some standing there along the ledge; Mr. McDonald and his brother jumped up where that hat is, and he appeared to me to act in some capacity like a fugleman or mob leader.

1431. Who did?—Mr. McDonald; from the time he stood on the spot, the place was one terrific scene of uproar; he was gesticulating and waving his hat, and flourishing; the Rev. Mr. Macarthy stood there, and two or three porters and labourers stood close to that pillar; Mr. Town Councillor Byrne and the Mayor of Drogheda, and an active member of Whitworth's committee rushed up and drove in my nose with his fist on the spot.

1432. Mr. Plunkett.] Who did that?—Mr. Byrne, the Town Councillor, he was Mayor of the town at one time; it is a few year ago.

1433. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say he was a member of Mr. Whitworth's committee?—Yes, and he was round canvassing in the town.

1434. What did he do to you?—He punched my nose in with his fist, and two or three days afterwards he apologised and said he hoped I would drop it; and I said I would.

1435. Was that in the court-house?—In the court-house about the time that the sheriff was standing there with some paper in his hand, but you could hear nothing he said; at the same time, I saw Mr. Carty, an aged magistrate, struggling through the hostile crowd, and trying to push his way forward, driving through them; I saw several respectable citizens jostled about in the presence of the sheriff, without his affording them the slightest protection, nor did he take any measure, whatever, to have order in the court, or to afford any protection to the citizens, either to the candidates, or seconders, or supporters; I was at all the elections since 1830, and I heard the speakers here; order was preserved, and the speakers allowed to address the candidates and their movers and seconders, until Mr. Whitworth's party commenced to fill the place with paid mobs; and since then all order and freedom of election has gone, and that to the knowledge of every man in court who is present.

1436. Mr. Plunkett.] On the day after the nomination did you proceed to canvass for Mr. Brodigan, or attempt to do so?—No, I tell you I was at the committee-room on Friday, and heard the speeches made there.

1437. Mr. Brodigan's?—Yes, Mr. Brodigan's.

1438. On the Thursday, that is the day after the nomination, did you proceed about the town at all with Mr. Patrick Turner?—No; he is the sheriff; sure he did not accompany me on that day; I heard one of Mr. Brodigan's speakers out of the window.

1439. Did you, after the nomination, canvass at all for Mr. Brodigan?—No, I did not venture at all; I did not venture down the town at all.

1440. After the nomination?—No, not this far into the centre of the town.

1441. Did you on either party on Tuesday before the nomination attempt to canvass; between Sunday and Wednesday did you attempt to canvass for Mr. Brodigan?—I think I was engaged engaged all the time examining the lists of the voters with Mr. Simpson and Dr. Atkinson and some others; no, not on those days I did not.

1442. You have already told us you did not vote yourself on the polling day?—No, I did not venture down; there is another circumstance I must mention —

Mr. Heron stated that he objected to the Witness making a speech.

1443. Mr. Plunkett.] What does the circumstance which you wish to mention relate to?—

Mr. Heron objected to the question.

1444. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Do you know Mr. Hill?—Yes, he is an eminent merchant in the town.

1445. Do you know of his having taken part in the canvassing for this election; did you see him taking any part in the canvassing for this election?—No, I did not; I do not recollect that.

1446. Do you know, of your own knowledge, anything of mobs being hired in the borough of Drogheda?—Yes, upon one occasion, in Mr. Brodigan's room I saw 30 tickets given to a party to form a mob.

1447. Mr. Justice Keogh.] In Mr. Brodigan's room?—Yes.

1448. Mr. Plunkett.] Do you know, of your own knowledge, anything of the hiring of mobs for any of the other candidates?—No.

1449. Mr. Heron.] Did you see it?—No, I did not.

1450. Mr. Plunkett.] Did you on the night before the election go round for the purpose of bringing any of Brodigan's supporters up to the poll?—Yes, I did; the district was assigned to me and Patrick Turnan.

1451. Now tell us all about that, whatever you saw on that occasion yourself, when you went round with Patrick Turnan in your district?—I went to the house of a good many voters with Mr. Turnan on Thursday, who I had known to have promised to vote for Mr. Brodigan.

1452. Had these persons promised to vote for Mr. Brodigan?—Yes.

1453. When you went to them to bring them up, as you say, the night before the election, did they consent to come?—

Mr. Heron objected that the names were not in the list, and there was no evidence to be given of a person not named in the list.

1454. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Did these men, in point of fact, come up with you?—

Mr. Heron objected to the question.

1455. Mr. Plunkett (to the Witness).] Can you tell the names of any persons who had promised to vote for Mr. Brodigan; they did not come up with you?—Mr. Charles Barron; he said —

1456. You cannot say what he said; anyone else?—Peter O'Neill and Mr. Thomas Green.

1457. Anyone else?—Peter Matthews; I cannot say whether they voted or not, because they did not come in with us. I was not present in the booth.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pallas.

1458. How many people were there altogether in Mr. Brodigan's mob?—I cannot say.

27.

1459. Give it as far as you are able?—I saw 30 tickets given.

1460. I mean the entire number that constituted his mob on the day of the polling; about 200, is it?—I have not the slightest idea.

1461. About 200?—I am not aware, the mob having been hired only on one occasion; I was present when tickets were given out.

1462. You cannot say that?—No; they would not let me know it, because I objected to the mob being hired at all; I protested in committee against it.

1463. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was that at the last election or any former election?—The last election.

1464. You say you saw the mob hired in Mr. Brodigan's committee-room at the last election?—Yes, and I protested against employing the mob at all.

1465. Mr. Pallas.] You know that the mob consisted of a great many more persons than the 30 you know of?—No, there were 30 in the street present when I saw them go out of the house.

1466. You intend to tell his lordship that Mr. Brodigan's mob only consisted of 30 persons?—Upon that day it did not consist of 30 persons.

1467. On the day of the polling it did not consist of 30 persons?—No.

1468. On the day of the poll do you mean to say that Mr. Brodigan's mob did not consist of 30 persons?—No.

1469. I believe the election before the last you voted for Mr. Whitworth?—Yes.

1470. Mr. Brodigan was the only other candidate?—Yes.

1471. On this occasion you changed your mind, and preferred Mr. Brodigan to Mr. Whitworth?—Yes.

1472. You were aware, were you not, that Mr. Whitworth was on the grand jury in Manchester that found the bills against the Fenian prisoners; did you ever hear that?—I heard that. I had no objection to him on that account.

1473. I am not asking you what you yourself think, but you knew he did?—Yes. I read it in the papers.

1474. During the course of the election did you frequently hear Mr. Whitworth called the Manchester butcher?—I heard Dr. Waters denounce him that way (he does not belong to Drogheda), in reference to his having been at the Manchester trial.

1475. There was a Mr. Waters brought down in the interest of Mr. Brodigan?—I think he was brought from Dundalk.

1476. I only ask you as to the address of Mr. Waters, from Mr. Brodigan's committee-room?—I say I do not recollect the word "butcher."

1477. Whatever he said, he said something in reference to it?—His whole speech consisted in the denunciation of Mr. Whitworth on that account.

1478. That denunciation was from Mr. Brodigan's committee-room?—It was.

1479. How long did that speech last?—He made three or four speeches; it was very distressing to me to hear him talk at all.

1480. He made three or four speeches?—Yes.

1481. Upon what days were the speeches?—During the week of the election.

1482. And the day before the polling?—Yes.

1483. Were any of them on the day of the polling?—I cannot say.

1869.

1484. How long did the speeches occupy; a quarter of an hour?—One of them longer.

1485. Half-an-hour?—I do not think he could speak for half-an-hour.

1486. What evening was it when his speech, which was rather the longest, was delivered?—He spoke on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

1487. I dare say he spoke on some other evening's as well?—He spoke in the day-time, as well.

1488. In fact, Mr. Waters was in the habit of denouncing Mr. Whitworth, in consequence of the Manchester matter, from Mr. Brodigan's committee-room?—He was.

1489. I believe there were large mobs usually assembled opposite the committee-room, where Mr. Waters was so speaking?—Yes; there was a crowd of people.

1490. Did you ever hear any other person make speeches of a similar character to Mr. Waters, or use similar expressions?—No; I think not so forcible as he.

1491. Perhaps more politely, but conveying the same idea?—He is the person who harped on the Manchester affair. I did not hear any other speaker do so.

1492. Did not you hear any of the other speakers refer to the Manchester affair?—They were speaking of Whitworth's nationality, and that he was an Englishman and a Saxon.

1493. Did you ever hear Connor denounce him for the Manchester affair?—I heard Connor attack his father in a most abominable way.

1494. From Mr. Brodigan's committee-room?—Yes.

1495. Did not he refer to the Manchester affair?—He did not refer much to it.

1496. Three or four words, such as "Manchester butcher," and "hangman;" did you hear him use those expressions?—Not "butcher," but I think he called him the "Manchester hangman," when he was speaking of Mr. Whitworth out of the window.

1497. Did you hear him denounce the people who were in the interest of Mr. Whitworth in his speeches from Brodigan's committee-room?—His speeches were very vulgar and low.

1498. Especially anything connected with Mr. Whitworth?—He denounced his father.

1499. Did you hear the expression "Manchester butcher" frequently shouted by the mob at the court-house on the nomination day?—No; you could hear nothing on that day.

1500. Were the mob outside shouting "Manchester butcher"?—No.

1501. You heard the mobs in the street shouting "Manchester butcher" frequently, did you not, or "hangman"?—No; the tables were turned completely from the Sunday during that week, by the mobs, in Mr. Whitworth's favour.

1502. Is it not the fact that his denunciation continued down to the Friday?—Yes; but without any seeming effect by Dr. Waters, who was talking upon two evenings.

1503. Did you yourself ever use that expression, "Manchester butcher," or "hangman"?—No, but I did in another sense.

1504. Tell me first the words you used, and then the sense?—A Protestant gentleman in town called me in and showed me a report of the Evangelical Alliance, and he showed me Mr. Whitworth's name as a contributor to what the Catholics call the soup system; he was connected with the Band of Hope, the Evangelical Alliance, and things of that sort. They talked of his inconsistency in upholding these things in England when he was upholding other things in Drogheda. I said, "Manchester souper," because I had heard it in Drogheda.

1505. In addition to "Manchester souper," did not you refer, one way or another, to his finding the bill in Manchester?—No.

1506. Do you swear that?—I had no sympathy with it at all.

1507. I ask, did you in any way allude to it in conversation or speaking?—No, I think not.

1508. You think not; will you swear you did not more than once?—I referred frequently to the "Manchester souper," but not to the "Manchester butcher." I never applied such an epithet to Mr. Whitworth.

1509. Nor "Manchester hangman," nor allude to his finding the bill?—It was spoken of repeatedly to me. That matter was alluded to by Mr. John Morton.

1510. Will you swear just now; one word will do. No; did you ever speak or denounce Mr. Whitworth as the "Manchester butcher" or the "Manchester hangman"?—I swear I did not.

1511. Or alluded to Mr. Whitworth having found those bills?—I do not think I did.

1512. You are not so certain; did you see the town placarded with placards denouncing Mr. Whitworth as the "Manchester butcher"?—Yes.

1513. Did you see this (handing a placard to the Witness)?—Yes.

1514. There were other placards in addition?—Yes.

1515. Were there any other placards that had your name at the bottom of them?—Yes, which I will explain. The conducting agent, Mr. Healy, has stated this. I stood up in the committee and I objected emphatically to issuing such placards. I denounced them forcibly, whereupon Mr. Healy stood up and said, in the presence of Mr. Brodigan, the members of the committee, and the chairman, "I endorse every word of the condemnation uttered by Mr. McKenna."

1516. Mr. Healy was the conducting agent of Mr. Brodigan?—Yes; I objected entirely to it.

1517. Was not that placard issued from Mr. Brodigan's committee-room?—With my knowledge it was not.

1518. Do not you know that it was issued from Mr. Brodigan's committee-room?—I heard a man say it was. I never saw that placard in Brodigan's place.

1519. Did you hear it discussed in Brodigan's committee-room, whether those placards should be issued or not?—Not more than I have described now; my own condemnation of them.

1520. Were not you overruled?—All persons agreed that I was right.

1521. Were not you overruled, and were they not issued?—They were issued notwithstanding.

1522. That is one of them (handing a placard to the Witness)?—Yes.

1523. In addition to that placard, was there another placard denouncing Mr. Whitworth in the same manner, published by Mr. Brodigan's committee?—No, not to my knowledge.

1524. Not to your knowledge?—No.

1525. You never saw one?—No.

1526. Directly or indirectly; that is the only placard you ever saw denouncing Mr. Whitworth?—I did not say that. I saw them on the walls.

1527. Was there a placard that had your name to it?—There was, but it was a proper placard. A letter addressed to the electors and non-electors of Drogheda. I have that placard here.

1528. Give it to me now?—Here it is (handing the same to the learned Counsel).

1529. It denounces mobs and all that; the demoralisation and drunkenness which Mr. Whitworth has caused by his distributing money among the people?—Certainly it does.

1530. Mr. Justice Keogh.] “That Ireland never trusted a Saxon but she was betrayed”?—That is true; I believe it firmly.

1531. Did you think that expression would make the Fenian mob more conciliatory towards Mr. Whitworth.

Mr. McDonogh objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the question could not be put.

1532. Mr. Pallas.] Who signed this?—I wrote every word of it except one word.

Mr. JOHN CLARKE, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

1538. WHERE do you reside?—James-street.

1539. Are you a voter of Drogheda?—Yes.

1540. On the occasion of the last election had you promised to vote for any of the candidates?—I promised to vote for Mr. Brodigan on certain conditions.

1541. What was the condition?—

Mr. Heron objected to the examination, the witness's name not being in the list furnished to his clients.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that questions might be asked as to general intimidation, but that the rule, with reference to the furnishing of lists, must be adhered to.

1542. Mr. McDonogh.] Do you know Father Matthews?—I do, perfectly well.

1543. Did you meet him upon the occasion of the polling day or the day before?—I did not.

1544. Did you meet him on an occasion antecedent to the election; to the polling?—I met him one day at my own door, and he asked me who I was going to vote for. I said I would vote for Mr. Brodigan if I thought he would; if not, I would vote for Mr. McClintock.

1545. What did Father Matthews say to that?—He said he would trample me and Mr. Brodigan under his feet, if it was required.

1546. Was there any other expression used by Father Matthews on that occasion?—No, there was not; I walked away from the gentleman.

1547. Did any mobs come into your house?—Yes, there was a mob all round, and they attacked a party by the name of Ray; the mob said to me that if I voted for Mr. Brodigan or McClintock it would be the last I ever voted for.

1548. Was that after the expressions from Father Matthews to you?—It was four days before the election Mr. Matthews spoke to me.

1549. On what day was it that the mob said this to you?—On the day of the polling.

1550. Did you see any persons beaten on that day?—I saw they came and attacked the Rays and beat them.

1551. Tell his Lordship who you saw beaten?—I saw them beat a man of the name of James Ray and a man of the name of Edward Ray; I saw them beaten.

27.

1533. What is that word?—The word is “cordially,” and the word I wrote was “candidly.”

1534. As you wrote that, perhaps you made some speeches against Mr. Whitworth and in favour of Mr. Brodigan?—Yes, I attended five or six speeches every night.

1535. And you made speeches, in addition, to the mob?—No, I could not catch the ear of the mob; I was ousted on that occasion.

1536. You did not make speeches to the mob?—I do not call it a speech; a few words.

1537. I ask you whether in this court-house you did not use expressions similar to this: “Mr. Whitworth is a man who executed your countrymen in Manchester”?—No, I used no such words.

[The Witness withdrew.

1552. When was that?—The morning of the poll.

1553. Where was it?—One hundred or 200 yards from where I live, in James-street.

1554. About what hour?—I could not say; it was before 10 o'clock; I could not swear what hour it was.

1555. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You have not stated whether these men were electors; were James and Edward Ray voters?—Yes, they were voters, I think, Sir.

1556. Mr. Heron.] You think so; do you know whether they were or not?—I saw them on the list of voters.

1557. Mr. McDonogh.] Do you know a person of the name of Connor; did you see anything done to his windows?—No, I did not.

1558. Did you see Father Gavan at any time?—I saw Father Gavan go up the road that morning.

1559. Do you know a person of the name of Kearns?—Yes.

1560. You know his place?—Yes, I know Mr. Kearns, the brewer.

1561. Did you see anything occur to his windows?—No, I did not.

1562. When was it that you saw Father Gavan?—They said there were 400 or 500 Orangemen coming down in a train; there was a mob of people going up the road; he was going up. I cannot say whether he was quieting them or encouraging them; I could not tell, for I was not going to run the danger of my life by getting up among them.

1563. Now, we must fix the place where you were at the time; where were you?—I was standing at the corner of old Maugan's public-house; I stood inside the door.

1564. What did you see pass?—I saw a whole crowd of people with sticks; crowds of women with stones in their aprons, and boys and girls.

1565. What did you hear about the Orangemen?—I heard the crowd saying they would be down by this next train.

1566. Where was Father Gavan when the crowd was going up with sticks and stones?—He might be going direct to his home, for what I know.

Mr. J. Clarke. 1567. Where was he?—On the road, going up with the mob.
 1568. Was it in the direction of the railway?
 16 January 1869. —It was in the direction of his own home and the direction of the railway too.

1569. Can you fix the hour when it was that the mob passed?—I cannot give the hour at all for you.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hamill.

1570. Tell me, did you vote?—Yes.

1571. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Brodigan.

1572. You voted quietly, and went home quietly?—Yes; I voted after the man was shot.

1573. Mr. McDonogh.] Did the mob pursue you this morning?—They did; I went out with two or three others to accompany Mr. Brodigan's voters from the country, and the mob pursued us, and some of them ran across the fields and across the gardens; there were five or six of us.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. JOHN O'DAIR, sworn; Examined by Mr. Ryland.

Mr. J. O'Dair. 1574. ARE you an elector of Drogheda?—Yes.

Mr. Heron objected that the Witness was not on the list furnished to his clients.

Mr. Ryland stated that he only intended to examine the Witness as to general intimidation.

1575. Mr. Ryland.] Do you recollect the evening before the poll?—I do.

1576. Were you in your house that evening?—I was, the whole day, and kept my door locked and barred.

1577. Did any people come to your house?—They did; a party, between eight and nine o'clock at night.

1578. Were there many in that party?—To the best of my knowledge, there was 50.

1579. What took place when they came to the house?—My wife said she would open the door; I said, not; and they insisted they would beat it in; and for the third time they arrived; they said they would get in. I said I would remove, or go on the roof for protection. I went up on the roof, for further protection. My wife says, "You are going to be killed." I said, "Do not attempt opening the door; I will suffer my death before I leave the house." She got her hands round me, and cried out, and began to cry.

1580. What occurred at the door?—"I will open the door," says she.

1581. What was done at the door?—They insisted to get in; I went then out to the garden, and hid myself.

1582. Is that at the back of the house?—Yes; out of the back door.

1583. Did you hear the mob shouting out anything?—Yes.

1584. What did they shout out?—They shouted out to "tear him out of the house;" and then the door was opened by my wife; and I was hiding in the garden, and they entered the house, and the mob cried out, "He is on the roof." "No," says my wife; "there is the house; search it." With that she held a candle to them.

1585. Mr. Heron.] Did you hear all this?—I did. She held a candle to them; the mob cried out, "He is on the roof." My wife said, "Here is the ladder; go on the roof"; and I knew no more about the mob.

1586. Was your door damaged on that occasion?—Yes, it was all broken down, the next morning.

1587. Mr. Ryland.] Was the damage done that night?—No.

1588. The following morning tell us what happened?—The following morning John Martin

(I have the names in my pocket). I was lying in bed, before eight o'clock.

1589. When were you subpoenaed to come here?—A week, last Monday or Tuesday.

1590. Were you asked to give a statement of your evidence?—

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that he could not allow this course of examination to be pursued.

1591. Mr. Ryland.] Did you see any violence, the following day?—I did. A party came the next morning, before eight o'clock.

1592. I do not want to ask their names; but what did they do?—There came a party, before eight o'clock, and said to me, "You will come out of that." I asked them whether they were coming into my house, and the door locked to them. I said, I was very angry at my wife letting them in; but a lot of people did come, the house was full in a minute. The first came in the bed-room to me, and said, "Come up out of that." "What do you want"? says I. "We want you to come and vote for Mr. Whitworth." "Now, just go out of the house," says I, "you are breaking the law." "We are not," says a man, named Martin.

1593. Do not mind the names?—"We are not," says he; "but I am the man," says he, "who will make you bounce out of that, in a few minutes"; and then the mob began to catch stones; and I cried out to my daughter, "Shut it as quick as you can"; for I was lying just anent the door, where the stones came in. She shut the door, and they kicked away, and kicked away. The window was next to it; that got soused by some of the mob; but there were no windows where I was lying.

1594. What happened to you after that; did you leave your house after that?—No, not the whole day.

1595. Did you vote that day?—I did.

1596. Mr. Justice Keogh.] For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Whitworth.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

1597. Did you want any money for voting for any one?—No.

1598. You never asked money from any one in your life for voting?—Not about the election.

1599. Nor any one to you?—They did.

1600. Who?—One of the parties of the mobs. They said I would be going down every night, getting money; and I knew nothing about it.

[The Witness withdrew.

JAMES RAY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

1601. ARE you an elector of the borough of Drogheda?—Yes.

1602. Did you leave your house on the day of polling?—Yes.

1603. Were you alone, or was any one with you?—My uncle.

1604. What is his name?—Edward Ray.

1605. Tell his Lordship what occurred when you left your house on that morning?—We proceeded down to vote for M^cClintock; we were assailed by a party of men on the road.

1606. What o'clock was it in the morning?—About half-past eight.

1607. Were these men a mob, or were they people whom you knew?—I knew some of them as being workers in Mr. Chadwick's mill; they were living just beside us.

1608. Those were mill-workers?—Yes.

1609. Except the persons who worked in the mills, were there any persons there whom you knew?—There was.

1610. Who?—There was a clergyman there that I knew.

1611. What is his name?—The Rev. Mr. Gavan.

1612. When this crowd met you with whom Mr. Gavan was, did you hear him say anything to them?—I did.

1613. What was it he said?—You have a holiday, and you know how to enjoy it.

1614. What happened then?—Stone-throwing commenced then; we both linked together.

1615. What did you do?—We got out of the way as quick as we could.

1616. Did you succeed in getting out of the way?—I succeeded in coming down, and then the parties that were throwing stones turned back. I was coming to the entrance of the town. They were principally composed of girls and boys and mill-workers.

1617. You say your uncle was with you; did you see anything happen to him?—I did.

1618. What?—When we came over the town, nearly opposite James-street, we met a man there, and he told us to go back or we would catch it.

1619. What happened; never mind what he said?—I proceeded further and my uncle was attacked, and the stick pulled from him, the hats knocked off both our heads, and he was knocked down on his knees by the mob of men, women, and boys as they were.

1620. After that where did you go, or what did you do?—We lost both our hats, and I dragged him on his knees from a place they call the Old Hill in James-street till we came over to the public-house of a man of the name of Parry; I dragged him in there on his knees, and the mob kicking and beating him, and the same with me, the whole time.

1621. Did you succeed in getting to the polling-booths at all yourself?—Yes.

1622. How did you get there?—When I got into the house, the man of the house said he could not keep us, or the house would be pulled down.

Mr. Heron objected to the Witness stating what the man said.

1623. Mr. Plunkett.] Never mind what you said to him; when you left the court afterwards who was with you?—The high sheriff and Mr. Verdon got a car, brought us up to vote.

27.

1624. What o'clock was it?—I should say 11 o'clock, because we were home about 12; he left us on the car too.

1625. How long were you in the court where you were shut up before the sheriff came; how long was it before the sheriff came?—I should say it was three-quarters of an hour; I am not very exact as to time.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pallas.

1626. Have you anything to say as to hiring any men for M^cClintock?—There came a man to write a list for him for 20 men for that day, and I wrote it for him.

1627. What is that man's name?—John Fatheler.

1628. What was the list?—For to go up to tally-rooms or the polling-booths to let the voters in.

1629. Did you see those men yourself?—I did.

1630. Give me their names?—I could give a good many names.

1631. Give as many as you can?—The two Brogans that swore on the inquest.

1632. Just give the names?—Hugh Brogan and Patrick Brogan, and John Fitzpatrick, Pat Dockett and James Plunkett.

1633. Go on?—I cannot think of them, you go so quickly; a man of the name of Sheils, I do not know his christian name; I gave the list to the man; I cannot recollect.

1634. How much were the men to be paid?—I do not know.

1635. You did not hear that?—No.

1636. Who was to pay them?—The man I wrote the list for.

1637. I suppose in the interest of Sir Leopold?—I do not know.

1638. Those men were roughs?—They were labouring men.

1639. Had they sticks?—Not one.

1640. You saw them afterwards in the crowd?—I saw them coming down the town; they had not a stick in the world.

1641. Do you know of any other man being employed on Sir Leopold M^cClintock's part, except the 10 men?—I heard—

Mr. McDonogh objected to the Witness giving hearsay evidence.

1642. Mr. Pallas.] Did you write out any other list?—Yes.

1643. What other list?—The day of the nomination.

1644. What list did you write out on the day of the nomination?—Thirty-one.

1645. What is the name of the man for whom you wrote them out?—For Mr. Harvey.

1646. They were to act in the interest of Sir Leopold M^cClintock?—They were.

1647. In keeping order?—Yes, not to have them crowded, coming in here to the nomination.

1648. Were the 31 different from the other 20?—Some were and some were not.

1649. Did you write out any third list?—No.

1650. Did you see any other persons not included in those lists acting in the crowd for Sir Leopold M^cClintock?—No, not one of them.

1651. You were yourself a paid agent of Sir Leopold M^cClintock?—No.

1652. Were you acting gratuitously?—Yes.

J. Ray.

1653. Was there any dispute about money by these men afterwards?—Not by me.

1869.

1654. Was there by any other person?—I heard there was.

1655. When did you first hear there was a dispute about money?—From some of the summoned parties.

1656. Before the poll was over did you hear of any dispute about money?—I heard nothing that day, because I was punished.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. M'Donogh stated that he found John O'Dair was mentioned in his opening speech.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that in that case he could be re-called and examined.

Mr. JOHN O'DAIR re-called; Examined by Mr. Ryland.

Mr.
J. O'Dair.

1657. Did you promise your vote at the last election to any one?—I did.

1658. To whom?—To M^cClintock.

1659. You told us that you voted for Mr. Whitworth afterwards; what was the reason you did so?—For the fear of my life, my family, and my property.

1660. You say that a number of persons came to your house and attacked you, and you were about telling us the names of some of them?—Yes.

1661. Now you may tell the names?—I have the names here in my pocket; when they came to my house I only took a few names down; one of them is John Martin, of Thomas-street.

1662. What is he by occupation?—He is a man that keeps a huckster's shop.

1663. What is the other name?—Pat Brannaghan. He keeps a huckster's shop at Lawrence Gate. Those are the remarks I took of the mob when they began to throw stones.

1664. Were they the first?—No, but they stated at the door, "We will make him bounce out of this again;" and then I told my daughter to lock the door.

[The Witness withdrew.

PATRICK BOYLE, sworn; Examined by Mr. M'Donogh.

P. Boyle.

1665. Do you know Mr. Kearns?—Yes.

1666. I believe you are in his employ?—Yes.

1667. I believe all your life you have been with the Kearns?—Yes, since I was 20 years of age.

1668. Are you a voter?—Yes.

1669. Did Mr. Kearns canvass you for Sir Leopold M^cClintock?—Yes.

1670. Did he ask you to vote for him?—Yes.

1671. What did you say to Mr. Kearns?—I told him that I would vote for Mr. M^cClintock.

1672. Did you go to the election?—No.

1673. What prevented your voting?—I was not able to come. I was afear'd of getting out into the crowd; I did not come out at all; I stopped in the yard; I was frightened.

1674. Had any persons applied to you?—No.

1675. On the morning of the polling were you again applied to by Mr. Kearns?—Yes.

1676. To vote for Sir Leopold M^cClintock?—Yes.

1677. What did you say?—I told him I was afear'd to come out.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN LODGE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Plunkett.

J. Lodge.

1678. You came down on the morning of the polling day to Drogheda?—I did.

1679. What did you come down for?—I came down as poll clerk, or check clerk, or to serve in the booth till the clerk came, or whatever I might be appointed to when I would report myself.

1680. For whom?—For Sir Leopold M^cClintock.

1681. Do you know, of your own knowledge, any of the persons who were employed in the same way for the same person?—Oh yes, I know several that were there.

1682. Were any of those persons Roman Catholics?—They were.

1683. When you arrived at Drogheda did you succeed in getting to the tally-rooms?—No, I had to shelter in the ditches and hedges in the road, and I was thrown down in the road, and I had a tailboard over my head, and I escaped blows.

1684. Did you see at that time any persons who came down as clerks?—I did. I saw some on the road, and men with sticks beating them.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

1685. How much were you to get for the day's work?—A guinea; the same as all the rest.

1686. The same as all the rest?—Yes.

1687. Who employed you?—A party of the name of Kennedy.

1688. In 47, Dane-street?—Yes.

1689. Were there about 50 of you there the night before?—No, I do not think there were 50.

1690. How many were there?—About 40.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. M'Donogh stated that that was his case.

Mr. Heron was heard to open the case on behalf of the sitting Member.

PATRICK TERNAN, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Pallas.

1691. I BELIEVE you are at present High Sheriff of Drogheda?—Yes.

1692. And you were high sheriff at the time of the last election?—Yes.

1693. You remember the day of the nomination?—Yes.

1694. Do you remember whether, when the doors were opened the three candidates entered together in a body?—I cannot say. I was inside the court-house at the time; I cannot say that the three entered in a body, but very soon after the door opened Mr. Whitworth, Sir Leopold M'Clintock and his supporters and Mr. Whitworth's supporters also got in.

1695. Did you observe some of Sir Leopold M'Clintock's supporters enter nearly the first?—I did.

1696. Can you name any in particular?—Mr. Frederick Smith was up almost immediately beside me, one of the first.

1697. I need hardly ask you whether you did your utmost at the nomination to obtain a hearing for the candidates?—I did all in my power to do so.

1698. And I believe that there was equal difficulty in hearing any of the candidates, and any of the proposers and seconders?—Yes.

1699. At that nomination, with the exception of the noise which you heard, did you observe any actual violence as distinguished from noise?—There was a great deal of shoving and pushing about, and I observed one person strike at Mr. Cooper, of Cooper-hill.

1700. Was that the only blow that you observed during the nomination?—That was the only blow I saw during the nomination.

1701. Did you hear some opprobrious epithets used during the nomination?—There were cheers and counter cheers; I could not catch what the expressions were.

1702. I believe you had given instructions to the police to escort Sir Leopold M'Clintock to his committee-rooms?—I had.

1703. Did you yourself accompany him?—To the best of my recollection I did; I went up immediately after himself and his friends on leaving the court-house.

1704. Were you through the town the entire of that day of the nomination?—I remained here in the mayor's office some time afterwards, getting the poll-clerks sworn and deputy sheriffs, for, I think, about two hours, and then I walked through the town afterwards.

1705. Did you continue about the town during the greater part of that day?—I did until about seven or eight o'clock in the evening.

1706. Will you describe to his Lordship the state of the town when you were so passing through it?—I did not observe any violence except just in one instance. There were vast crowds through the streets, and I saw a crowd gathered together as it were, with some person in the centre, and I went over towards them, and immediately one man came out and walked away, and got away.

1707. With that exception you observed no violence?—None whatever on that day.

1708. Now I will come to the polling-day; that was the 20th day of November. At what hour were you in the town upon that morning?

—I was in the town I think about seven o'clock in the morning.

1709. Where were you principally during the day?—Here in the vicinity of the polling-booths almost all the day.

1710. Will you tell his Lordship what violence if any, you observed during the day of polling?—At one time, I think about half-past nine or 10 o'clock, or so, I observed some voters coming down (I thought they were voters, and I believe they were) from Sir Leopold M'Clintock's committee-rooms, and as they turned the corner going into the polling booth, I saw some sticks thrown at them; I at once ran up and got between the crowd and those voters, and called upon the people to desist, and just as I got there they had got into the polling-booth and the disturbance ceased.

1711. At about what hour of the day was that?—I cannot be quite certain, but I think it was about half-past nine o'clock or 10 in the morning.

1712. Do you remember getting some information that there were voters in Mr. Alexander King's house?—Yes.

1713. What did you do when you got that information?—I at once asked some of the police to accompany me down to that house. There was a body of police in Shop-street with a sub-inspector, and I asked them to accompany me down there, as I wanted to escort some voters up to one of the polling-booths. I got down to this house, and I saw those two voters there.

1714. Did they go with you to the booth?—On reflection I sent the police away again. I thought it just as well to do without them, and I had sent for a car, and got those two voters on a car, and I took them round up to the polling-booth in Lawrence-street, and they both voted for Sir Leopold M'Clintock.

1715. While they were with you, were they assaulted or obstructed in their progress?—Not in any way. I afterwards got them on the car again, and left them up very near the railway station; in fact, near their own residence in the Dublin-road.

1716. On their return to their residence were they either assaulted or obstructed?—No.

1717. I believe that you were present at the bridge when this unfortunate man was shot?—I was.

1718. Will you just tell us what you observed upon that occasion. I do not wish you to repeat everything which you saw, but state exactly what happened after the man was shot?—I had gone down the street with a view of going up to the railway station in company with two of the local magistrates, and I had told a man to keep a car in the street for me. When I went out I found that the car had gone away, so I said, "We will get a car down street, and as we walk down we shall meet one." As we turned into James's-street we saw the troops coming down from the railway station, and as they were entering the far end of James's-street I could observe some sticks and stones thrown at them from each side; that is to say, as those in front got into the street I could see sticks and stones coming as it were from the square on each side. There is rather a wide space as you enter the street, and I observed sticks and stones thrown at them there, not at those those in front, but at those towards the centre of the escort. As I got up to the troops I found some men in front with sticks making a feint, as it were, to strike at the horses, and to prevent their coming on. I at once turned about in the centre of the street, and got between those men and the cavalry, and kept them off them as well as I could. There was a man on the pathway who observed what I was doing and the position I was in, and he came over to my assistance, and he took two of those men over to one side on the pathway, and after that there was, I may say, little or no obstruction in front until after the word "halt" had been called on the bridge, and the troops were standing there for some time.

1719. I believe you asked the resident magistrates if the troops might go on?—After the halt had occurred. The word "halt" was cried out behind. I was walking in front of the troops at the time, and when I heard the word "halt" I turned back, and I went to the stipendiary magistrate, Captain Talbot, who was on the extreme left next to Captain Knox; I asked him to get the men to come on at once, and not to remain there. He turned about in his saddle and called to those behind to come on. There was some answer made to him; I could not exactly catch what it was, but I found that they did then come on a few paces, and stopped again just as the bridge joined Shop-street. When I observed that they stopped again, I began to get more alarmed, and I went back to Captain Knox and I said, "For God's sake get your men to come on out of this; do not let them remain here; let us get those voters whom you are escorting up to the Tholsel; you are only inciting the crowd to collect and assail you by remaining here."

1720. I will not go into the question connected with that shot, but you remained there till after the shot was fired?—I did.

1721. After the shot was fired, we have heard the crowd fell back; is that so?—Yes.

1722. Did you remain there until the streets were nearly quiet, upon that occasion?—No.

1723. What was the next act which you did after the crowd fell back?—After the shot was fired I heard a second shot. The crowd had got past me; as the cavalry fell back they got past me, in between me and the cavalry, and I was under the apprehension that some more shots might be fired, and that I was in rather a dangerous position; and I went into Mr. Curtis's house, which is the third door from the bridge, on the left-hand side.

1724. Did you observe, or see there any voters who wished to poll; do you remember meeting a Mr. Jamieson?—I do; I was then going out into the street again. I do not know whether I met him exactly in the street or at the door. When I saw him first he was in company with a Mr. Collins. I took him upstairs into Mr. Curtis's, in company with Mr. Collins, and got him on to a sofa; and Mr. Curtis thought he was a bit frightened and faint, and got him a glass of sherry wine, and gave it to him. I told Mr. Jamieson to remain there until I would come back, and take him away after a little time.

1725. Did you afterwards return for him?—I did.

1726. In company with whom?—Mr. Whitworth.

1727. And anybody else; was Mr. Clinton with you?—I cannot say exactly. I chanced just to say to Mr. Whitworth that Mr. Jamieson was in a place, and that I must go down to get him out of it, and he at once said, "I will go along with you."

1728. And he accordingly accompanied you?—Yes.

1729. Did he accompany the gentlemen to the booth?—He took Mr. Whitworth's arm, and I accompanied him too, and we came up street, and I believe he went into the booth and voted.

1730. Were you present at the meeting of the magistrates?—I was.

1731. Did that meeting take place before or after the occurrence which you have last mentioned?—Immediately afterwards I called a meeting of the magistrates.

1732. The gentlemen in charge of the military were there too?—They were.

1733. And I believe amongst other resolutions that were come to, it was thought that the military ought to be withdrawn from the streets?—That was the fact.

1734. Were the military immediately after that withdrawn from the streets?—They were; they were removed up towards the goal.

1735. About what hour was that when they were removed?—I should say it would be about one o'clock, or so.

1736. After one o'clock, when the military were removed, did you continue in the streets, and about the booths, until the election was over?—I did.

1737. Do you remember going to the house of a man of the name of Maguire, in the Bull Ring?—I do.

1738. I believe you heard some report that there were voters there who wished to vote?—Yes.

1739. Were you accompanied by any gentleman; was Mr. Hammond with you?—Yes.

1740. And I think Mr. Bradwell?—Yes; I think so.

1741. The Rev. Thomas Matthews?—Yes, he was.

1742. Was Mr. Clinton there?—I think he was.

1743. Will you state what you observed on entering Maguire's house; did you find any voters there?—There were two or three voters there.

1744. Are you able to mention their names?—One of them was Mr. Ball; but I took his arm and brought him upstairs.

1745. Was Mr. Harris there?—I am not certain, but I think Mr. Harris was the other gentleman.

1746. What did you say to them?—I told them I had come there to escort them wherever they wished to go, either to Sir Leopold M'Clintock's committee-rooms, or to any of the polling-booths.

1747. And did any of the gentlemen accept that offer?—Yes; I took Mr. Ball up into the polling-booth which is in the top-room of this building, and I saw him vote there for Sir Leopold M'Clintock.

1748. Do you happen to remember whether you went to the tally-rooms before you went to the booth, or whether you went direct to the booth?—I went direct to the booth.

1749. Are you able to say whether any of the other gentlemen voted: for instance, did you go with Mr. Harris, or do you know who went with him?—I think it was Mr. Clinton went with him.

1750. But he went with some person to the booth?—He did.

1751. You do not remember the name of the third voter?—I do not.

1752. When

1752. When Mr. Ball had voted, did you conduct him back to any place?—Upon my word I do not remember whether I did or not.

1753. In bringing him from Maguires to the polling booth, did you experience any obstruction?—No.

1754. Had the violence at that time partially or altogether subsided?—It had altogether subsided, I may say.

1755. About what hour was that?—I should say it would be about one or half-past one o'clock.

1756. Did you go there immediately after you left the meeting of the magistrates?—No, I first went to take up Mr. Jamieson immediately after the meeting of the magistrates, and after having brought up Mr. Jamieson, I then heard of this other gentleman and went back for him.

1757. Did you again go into another house for the purpose of conducting other voters?—Yes, I heard there were some other voters in Mr. Kelly's on the Bull Ring.

1758. Did any persons accompany you to Kelly's?—Yes, Mr. John Farrer.

1759. And Alderman Chadwick?—Yes, and Alderman Chadwick.

1760. How many electors did you find there?—I think it was either seven or eight.

1761. I think you found Colonel Fairclough there?—Yes, he was one of them.

1762. And Mr. Samuel Ekins?—Yes.

1763. And Mr. William Smith?—Yes.

1764. And Mr. Morton?—I do not know as to Mr. Morton; Mr. Macready was there too, as I think, and Mr. Vanhomrigh was there too; there were six or seven, at all events.

1765. What took place when you went into Kelly's house?—I at once told those gentlemen I had come there to escort them either to the polling booths, or in fact to any place they chose to go to.

1766. Did any of them avail themselves of your offer?—At first they were talking amongst themselves as to what they would do, and for some little time they did not decide upon what course they would adopt, and ultimately they all came away with us.

1767. Do you remember some of them going to Sir Leopold M'Clintock's committee rooms?—Yes.

1768. Those rooms are in Peter-street?—Yes.

1769. In passing to Sir Leopold M'Clintock's committee rooms, did you pass any of the polling booths?—We passed them all.

1770. Were you able to conduct them to Sir Leopold M'Clintock's committee-rooms, without any obstruction or violence?—Yes.

1771. Could they have voted without difficulty if they had been so inclined?—They could.

1772. Did you offer to protect them if they wished to vote?—I did.

1773. Did you hear in the course of that election up to five o'clock of any elector who wished to vote and had not voted?—

Mr. M'Donogh objected to the question.

1774. Mr. Pallas (to the Witness). Did you know of any elector who wished to vote, and had not voted?—I did not, and if I had heard of any persons, I would at once have thought it my duty to have gone and escorted them, wherever they chose to go.

1775. Did you use your utmost exertions to find out if there was any person who wished to vote?—I did, because somewhat earlier in the day, I had gone up to Sir Leopold M'Clintock's committee-rooms and offered to go and escort any voters who wished to go up.

1776. Whom did you see upon that occasion; do you know the gentleman who acted as Sir Leopold M'Clintock's counsel at the election?—I saw Mr. Ryland for one, I think; Mr. Ryland came out, and I think Mr. Kay, and I think Mr. Mayne.

1777. Was this after the meeting of magistrates?—It was.

1778. What did you state to them?—I stated that I had come there to ascertain if they had any voters who wished to be escorted to the polling booths, and that if so, I would render them all the assistance in my power, and that I would do everything to take them without being molested in any way.

1779. Was any reply made to that statement of yours by any of the gentlemen?—When I went in first, I stated that I wished first to see Sir Leopold M'Clintock, and I think either Mr. Kay or Mr. Ryland, or Mr. Mayne came out; he went in as it were to let Sir Leopold M'Clintock know that I was there. I may mention that Mr. Whitworth and some other of his friends had followed me up, and they were on the landing just below me at the time.

1780. Then Mr. Kay went into the committee-room as if to make some enquiry?—One of the gentlemen did; I am not certain which of them.

1781. When he returned, what did he state?—I think he first asked us not to go in; that the floor was bad, and if so many of us went in, the floor might break down.

1782. How many people were with you when he said that?—

Mr. M'Donogh objected to the reception of this evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that it appeared to him to be of no value.

1783. Mr. Pallas (to the Witness). When Mr. Kay returned from the room, what did he say?—He stated then that they had closed the poll, because they had in fact given up endeavouring to poll any more.

1784. At that time were the streets in such a state that any person could have voted if he wished?—They were.

1785. Did you continue about the town up to five o'clock of the day of the election?—I continued up to seven o'clock in the evening.

1786. From the time the military were removed from the streets, up to the closing of the election at five o'clock, was there any difficulty to any person who wished to vote?—Not that I saw.

[The Witness withdrew.

P. Ternan,
Esq.
1869.

1787. You stated on Saturday that before the doors were opened some persons were observed in the court-house; will you tell his lordship how that happened and what you did when you observed it?—I just wish to make a statement with reference to that. Captain Gardener had 170 police in front of the Tholsel under his command on the morning of the nomination. The instructions I gave him and the head constable, Coghlan, were that at 10 o'clock on the opening of the doors, they were first to admit the candidates and their friends; Secondly, any electors who presented themselves, and if there chanced to be room after that in the Tholsel, that they then were to admit the general public; about 20 minutes before ten at which time the court was opened, I ordered 20 or 30 police inside the court-house lest anything might occur after the candidates were let in, and those 25 or 30 police and a magistrate, namely Mr. Patrick Matthews, the sub-sheriff, the court keeper, Devitt, who was to open the door, and myself, were the only persons inside the court-house previous to the admission of the candidates. Two of the polling booths were in this court-house, and three others within about 50 yards or so of the court-house, so that they were all in view of the court-house, and I spent the greater part of the day on Friday in the street in view of the polling booths, and whenever I saw it necessary at all or saw any of Sir Leopold McClintock's voters either come out of his committee-rooms or returning after voting, I walked beside them or behind them lest they might be molested in any way.

1788. During the entire election did you afford all the protection in your power to every person independently of party?—I did.

1789. And in all respects acted bonâ fide and impartially?—Yes.

1790. I think I asked you on Saturday whether a person could vote without difficulty in any of the booths from one o'clock to five?—Yes, I say so.

1791. You say that from personal observation?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

1792. You took all the precautions possible to maintain public tranquillity?—I consider so.

1793. I am sure you did; where was Mr. Cooper when he was struck?—He was passing out.

1794. By whom was he struck?—I do not know.

1795. Did you see the blow inflicted?—I saw one blow inflicted. The top of his hat was a little bit dented in, and the man was making a second blow against him, and I put up my arm and saved the second blow from him.

1796. Mr. Justice Keogh.] That was in the court-house?—That was in the court-house.

1797. Was that on the day of the nomination?—That was on the day of the nomination.

1798. Mr. McDonogh.] Notwithstanding all those precautions which you have indicated?—Yes.

1799. Did you see that a vast mob had assembled outside?—I did.

1800. And you gave directions that first the candidates should be admitted, and then their friends, and then the general public?—No, that is not what I stated; the directions I gave were that, first the candidates and their friends should be admitted and then the electors; and, thirdly, if there was room in the Tholsel, the general public.

1801. And how was Mr. Gardener, the officer of police, to distinguish between the electors and non-electors?—He is a long time in Drogheda, and he ought to know.

1802. He ought to know every man?—I don't say that he ought to know every man.

1803. In consequence of what happened on that day, I believe you provided an escort to take Sir Leopold McClintock from the court-house?—As soon as I went out, Mr. Cairns and Sir Leopold McClintock were standing on the stairs. There were some of the parties passing out threatened them, and I stood at the foot of the stairs myself between them and those parties, and when the people had got out of the court I went down before Sir Leopold McClintock and Mr. Cairns and some others, and I thought it more prudent to tell constable Coghlan outside the door to provide an escort for them to the tally rooms.

1804. Having heard threats in the precincts of the court offered to Sir Leopold McClintock and his friends?—Not to his friends. I heard one man say something to Mr. Cairns that I did not like.

1805. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What was the remark that you didn't like?—I think he said something about "Yellow Cairns," or something of that sort, in a nasty way; that is the expression he made use of.

1806. Mr. McDonogh.] On the day of the polling itself, will you tell me at about what hour exactly, just to fix the time, you went for the Rays that were locked up in the house?—I cannot tell exactly, because I didn't look at my watch or a clock at the time; but I should imagine somewhere about 10, or half-past 10 o'clock.

1807. Or it might be a little earlier?—I do not think so. I think it was about 10 o'clock.

1808. Where were you when you received the information that those men were in the house?—Just outside the Tholsel here, in Shop-street.

1809. And that they could not dare to leave it?—I cannot exactly say. I was told they were in a house in John-street, and that they had been beaten, I believe.

1810. Have you a doubt of it?—Yes, that they had been beaten.

1811. And that they could not come to the poll?—They could not come to the poll.

1812. And you felt it your duty to go and take them out?—I did.

1813. Where

1813. Where did you leave them?—I took them to the booth in Lawrence-street, where they both voted for Sir Leopold M'Clintock, and I left them afterwards in their own house on the Dublin road, a little beyond the poorhouse.

1814. And so long as they were in your company, I venture to think they were not touched?—Not in any way.

1815. So I should suppose; you were an active supporter of Mr. Whitworth?—I cannot say that I was an active supporter of Mr. Whitworth.

1816. You were a supporter of his?—I was.

1817. At what hour did you vote?—I voted, I think, at about 10 o'clock myself.

1818. At what time did you see the voters of Sir Leopold M'Clintock with stones and sticks thrown at them?—It was before that.

1819. How long before that?—I don't think there were any stones thrown. It was sticks I saw thrown at them. I think it was sticks I stated on Saturday.

1820. How many voters were there?—I think, to the best of my opinion, there might be about six or eight.

1821. Where were they coming out of?—They came down from Sir Leopold M'Clintock's committee-rooms, and passed round the corner of the street, and they were going into the booth in Lawrence-street.

1822. Was it as they were entering the booth, or just before that the sticks were thrown?—A little before it.

1823. Did you see a clergyman there at that time?—I did not notice any clergyman.

1824. That was before the other?—To the best of my opinion it was before the other.

1825. I think you told us that you were going to the railway station before the transaction on the bridge?—Yes.

1826. You thought your personal presence was necessary there?—No, I did not hear of any disturbance having taken place at the railway.

1827. At what hour were you going thither?—I think something before 12 o'clock.

1828. And you had not heard of the beating of the men in the early morning, at eight o'clock?—No, I had not.

1829. Or of the blood flowing on the station?—No, I had not heard a word of the blood flowing on the station. I will tell you what was the fact. There were two magistrates up at the railway station; Mr. Hannay was there; and I had spoken previously to that of going up to the railway with Mr. Hannay, and he asked me not to go but to remain here.

1830. What took you to the railway station?—I thought it was a long time that these voters were coming down; and I made the remark that the escort was delaying a long time, and I thought I had best go up and see what was detaining them.

1831. Then you knew of the arrival of the voters?—I knew of the requisition of Sir Leopold M'Clintock in the morning asking for an escort.

1832. And you knew that an escort, either large or small, had gone there?—I did.

1833. And you thought there was delay there?—I did.

1834. It appears the second train had come in, and you saw the full escort accompanying the voters down to the bridge?—Yes.

1835. Were they on the bridge when you first saw them?—No.

1836. They were approaching it?—No; they were just entering the far end of James's-street when I first saw them. They were just approaching James's-street, at the end of the Dublin road.

1837. Is that the other side of the bridge?—Beyond the bridge.

1838. Towards the Dublin side?—Yes, towards the Dublin side; it is a good distance beyond the bridge. In fact, as I turned into James's-street with Mr. James Matthews and Mr. John Chadwick, both magistrates, I observed them about entering James's-street; they had not quite reached the far end of James's-street at the time we turned the corner into the near end of James's-street.

1839. Did you perceive the stone throwing then?—As those in front got into James's-street, I perceived there were sticks and stones thrown from each side, from what they call Mangan's corner, and also from the other side of the street.

1840. Did you see any soldiers dropping from their horses?—No.

1841. But you saw the party was then in peril?—I saw sticks and stones thrown.

1842. Mr. James Matthews and Mr. John Chadwick were both supporters, as well as yourself, of Mr. Whitworth?—They were, I believe.

1843. Did you see the Rev. Mr. Matthews then?—I cannot say that I did.

1844. When did you see him?—I do not know when I saw him.

1845. Did you not say on Saturday that you saw him in Maguire's house?—That was after the thing occurred altogether.

1846. Did you see the Rev. Mr. Gavan that morning?—I cannot say that I did.

1847. Can you say you did not?—I do not know as to whether I saw him or not.

1848. Did you happen to see an old gentleman; did you know the name of the person who had a long flowing beard down to his waist?—No.

1849. Did you know Colonel Fairclough?—No, not until after I had seen him in Kelly's.

1850. You knew him then?—I knew him then.

1851. Was he the old gentleman who was beaten down?—I do not know.

1852. Was he bleeding profusely when you saw him?—When I saw him he had a cut on his forehead.

1853. Was it then that you saw the Rev. Mr. Matthews?—No.

1854. When was it?—It was previous to that.

1855. How soon was it before that?—I should say 'about half-an-hour or three-quarters of an hour before that.

1856. Now could you fix the hour for me exactly when you saw the escort entering James's-street?—I think it was about 12 o'clock, as near as I can tell you.

1857. How long after that did you see the Rev. Mr. Matthews?—I think about an hour afterwards.

1858. Then it was near one o'clock when you saw him?—About that.

1859. Who was it that was taken into Maguire's house?—I saw Mr. Ball there. I took Mr. Ball myself out of Macguire's house.

1860. At what hour did you take Mr. Ball out?

out?—Almost immediately after seeing Mr. Matthews; I was going down to Shop-street, to that place when Mr. Matthews and some other person came up, and then we went down together, and I think Mr. Hammond was with him too; Mr. Hammond was with me first; I don't know whether Mr. Clinton was or not; I cannot say.

1861. Did you see the mob beating the horses with bludgeons?—When the cavalry—

1862. Will you kindly answer me first, and then you may explain, if you think it needs an explanation?—My opinion is this—

1863. I do not ask your opinion at all?—Let me say then that when the horses became restive and began to swerve round, and did swerve round, there were sticks thrown at them.

1864. Although that is perfectly accurate, yet that is not the question; before the horses swerved did you see them beating them on the head?—Well, I cannot say that I did.

1865. You cannot say that you did not?—I cannot say that I did.

1866. When the horses were swerving round, were there stones flying then?—There were.

1867. When the horses had turned round and went behind the infantry, did you see the state of things at that moment?—The next thing that I heard was a shot fired, and looking round I saw a man fall.

1868. You saw a man lying prostrate?—I did.

1869. He was never raised, I believe, until he was carried upon the door?—No.

1870. Did you see any of the voters at that moment?—As the cavalry opened out, I saw some gentlemen in the centre between them.

1871. And they had a pleasant prospect, those persons who came from Mayo to vote; they saw the dead man, and they saw Colonel Fairclough lying upon the ground; this old man whose beard and venerable age might have entitled him to some regard?—I suppose it was so.

1872. There is a respectable paper (as there are many respectable papers in this town) on the Liberal side, the “Argus,” is there not?—There is.

1873. I may take it that anything I find there touching the persons engaged in this election is accurate; were you, upon the 23rd of September 1868, appointed one of the committee for conducting the election?—No.

1874. Were you present at that meeting?—I don't recollect as to the date. I will tell you what passed. Some months before the election, and before there was any Conservative candidate in the field, in fact, before Mr. Whitworth had canvassed at all, I got a circular, one day, from Mr. Henry Clinton, to attend a meeting in his house; I don't know the date of it.

1875. And you did attend?—I did attend.

1876. That was before August, you know; we heard the dates from my learned friend, Mr. Heron, the other day?—I don't know the date of it.

1877. September the 26th, Saturday; the “Drogheda Argus”; that is the meeting to which I wish to call our attention, if you please, held on the 23rd of September; did you not attend that meeting?—I don't know as to the date.

1878. In September did you not attend a meeting?—I don't know that it was in September or in August.

1879. Did you attend another meeting, after the one for which Mr. Clinton sent you the circular, I mean the one when you took the second chair; do you remember that meeting?—I cannot say I do exactly.

1880. Do you remember a meeting at which you took the second chair?—Not exactly.

1881. Do you remember it substantially?—I recollect attending a meeting in Mr. Clinton's office.

1882. But did you not attend another meeting?—I don't know; I cannot exactly say. If you will mention some little particulars about it, perhaps they might be able to bring it to my recollection. All I can say is that up to the present time I never thought that I attended any other meeting but that one.

1883. The fairest way is to hand you the “Argus” paper, so that you may look for yourself (handing a newspaper to the Witness)?—I think that is the only meeting that I attended, that is alluded to there.

1884. That meeting was held on the 23rd?—

1885. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Where was that meeting?—At Mr. Henry Clinton's office.

1886. Mr. M^cDonogh.] You know these gentlemen, Patrick Ternan, justice of the peace and high sheriff; that is yourself?—Yes.

1887. John Chadwick, James D. Matthews Clarke, Simcocks (I am not reading them all) Hughes Gallagher, and so forth; and I believe you were all appointed on the committee?—Well, I don't think there was any committee appointed.

1888. I will refresh your memory: will you be kind enough to read this accurate newspaper (handing a newspaper to the Witness)?—

Mr. Heron objected to this mode of cross-examination.

Mr. Justice Keogh over-ruled the objection.

Witness.—I see it is moved, “That the independent electors now present do form a working committee.” I see that that is so.

1889. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was the working committee formed?—There is a resolution there to that effect.

1890. Mr. M^cDonogh.] Were you not present, and did you not take the second chair?—I don't think I did.

1891. But you were there?—I was there.

1892. Have you a doubt now that the gentlemen present were appointed a working committee?—I know that at the meeting I attended there was some talk about going out to canvass.

1893. That is generally the result of appointing a committee?—Yes.

1894. And, accordingly, you all did go out to canvass?—No, I never did.

1895. You, holding the office of high sheriff, abstained from canvassing?—Yes.

1896. You saw them on their canvass?—I saw Mr. Whitworth a few days afterwards.

1897. Who were with him?—I don't know exactly.

1898. Was Mr. James Matthews with him?—Not when I saw him.

1899. Did you ever see him with him?—I often saw him with him, but I don't know that I ever saw him canvassing with him.

1900. Was Mr. Clinton present at the meeting I spoke of?—He was.

1901. Were you at the great meeting in November 1868?—When did that take place? (A newspaper was handed to the Witness.) I didn't attend that meeting at all.

1902. Then

1902. Then I will not trouble you at all about it. I believe that you are a gentleman extensively engaged in trade?—Pretty much so.

1903. A fine establishment, I am told, it is; where is it?—On the quay.

1904. Is it a mill?—Yes.

1905. You have a great number of porters and workers in your establishment?—Not a great number.

1906. How many?—I dare say about 17 to 20 are employed in it altogether.

1907. On the day of the polling, were they not out?—All I can say is that my establishment worked the whole day of the polling.

1908. Were they out?—I don't know, of my own knowledge, whether they were or were not; if they were they were not out with my sanction or my leave.

PATRICK KELLY, re-called; Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

1909. Do you know a person named Thornton?—I do.

1910. James Thornton?—Yes.

1911. Had you any conversation with him about voting?—No; but he came to my house.

1912. Did he speak to you about voting?—He did, and another man with him.

1913. Did you ask him to get you 20*l*. for your vote?—Not to my recollection; but he showed up his hand, with five fingers, to me.

1914. Did you use the expression "Twenty"?—Not to my recollection.

1915. Did you use the phrase that you wanted to get money for your vote?—I might say that may be, but I never asked for money.

1916. Did you say that you expected to be paid for your vote?—Not to my recollection.

Re-examined by Mr. M'Donogh.

1917. Who is this Mr. Thornton?—He was a publican in the Bull Ring.

1918. Is he a supporter of Mr. Whitworth's?—Well, I heard he was.

1919. And when he held up the five fingers, what did you understand him to mean?—I cannot tell.

1920. Could you tell us the day he came to you?—The day of the polling.

1921. How soon before was it that you were in the hands of the mob, when the Rev. Mr. Matthews told them to "hold the rascal"?—It was after that.

1922. Was it after you went away and refused to vote?—Yes; in my own house, just after leaving the streets.

1923. It was after leaving the streets and going home that he came to you?—Yes.

Mr. M'Donogh proposed to examine the Witness as to what had recently occurred to him.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that anything that had occurred since had better be stated by affidavit, and informed the Witness that he might depend upon the protection of the Court.

[The Witness withdrew.]

P. Kelly.

BENJAMIN WHITWORTH, Esquire, a Member of the House of Commons, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

1924. I BELIEVE you were first returned for Drogheda at the general election of 1865?—I was.

1925. Had you been previously residing in Drogheda, and were you the proprietor of a mill here?—I commenced building a mill here in 1864. I had resided here for eight or nine years, commencing in 1854 or 1855.

1926. At the recent election do you remember issuing your address, about the 8th of August?—I cannot speak as to the exact date, but it would be somewhere about that.

1927. It would be early in August?—It was in the beginning of August, I believe.

1928. You had stood on the Liberal side in 1865?—I had.

1929. And you expressed those opinions while you were Member for Drogheda during 1866, 1867, and 1868?—I did.

1930. Did you stand in the same interest in 1868?—I did.

1931. You have also property, and carry on business in Manchester?—I do.

1932. Do you remember going on your canvass for the present election?—I do.

1933. Do you remember at about what date you commenced to canvass from house to house, and to conduct a personal canvass?—I think it was in October.

1934. Was that about the 23rd of October?—Somewhere about that.

27.

1935. Did you in the course of your canvass experience obstruction?—Very great.

Mr. M'Donogh objected to this evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that evidence as to the state and condition of the town was legitimate.

1936. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] I believe you have been on the Manchester grand jury?—I was on the grand jury on the trial of the Fenian prisoners there.

1937. Now, during your canvass, what was the nature of the obstruction which you received?—There was a mob who kept following me, and several prominent men in that mob always got before me into the doors during my canvass, and cried out, "The Manchester hangman! the Manchester butcher!"

1938. Did that continue for some time?—It continued for two or three days.

1939. I ask you shortly, were you finally obliged to discontinue what I may call a public canvass of the town?—I was.

1940. And did you then yourself proceed occasionally without any public canvass of the town?—I did.

1941. At the previous election of 1865, had there been between yourself and Mr. Brodigan a public canvass of the town, going from house to house with your supporters?—There had.

Esq., M. P.

B.
Whitworth,
Esq., M.P.
18 January
1869.

1942. You said you were finally obliged to discontinue a public canvass?—I did.

1943. During this time, when you were going on with your canvass, where were you residing at Drogheda?—At "Simcock's Hotel."

1844. I believe you have not a residence in Drogheda?—I have not.

1945. What rooms had you engaged in "Simcock's Hotel"?—I engaged a back sitting-room and a bed-room adjoining.

1946. Had you any other rooms engaged in the hotel during the entire time?—I had not at any time.

1947. Were those the rooms that you had been in the habit of engaging at "Simcock's Hotel" when you came to Drogheda?—Invariably.

1948. I mean irrespective of election times?—Invariably the same, at election times or other times.

1949. How long was it before the nomination day that you had been obliged to discontinue a public canvass of the town?—I should think it would be about the 1st of November, as near as I can recollect.

1950. You remember Sir Leopold M'Clintock making his appearance as a candidate, as has been stated, on or about the 11th of November?—I do.

1951. Up to that time, had any one addressed the electors except Mr. Brodigan?—No.

1952. Mr. Brodigan's address and canvass was on the Liberal side?—It was.

1953. I may say, on the extreme Liberal side?—It was.

1954. And it had been the same in 1865, when he was a candidate?—It had.

1955. I come now to the Thursday evening, the statement of the speeches; you heard the names of the reverend gentlemen mentioned, Father Gavin and Father M'Kee, as having made speeches?—I did.

1956. Had these gentlemen canvassed with you, or had they declined to canvass with you?—I never asked them myself, but I understood—

1957. Never mind what you understood. Had, in fact, Father Gavin and Father M'Kee canvassed with you?—No, they had not.

1958. Did you receive from a supporter of yours a message from Mr. Gavin and Mr. M'Kee declining to canvass with you?—

Mr. M'Donogh objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

1959. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Did you hear Mr. Biggar give evidence on Saturday?—I did.

1960. Before I come to that, do you remember that Thursday evening?—I do.

1961. Where were you during that Thursday evening?—The great portion of that evening I was in my own private sitting-room.

1962. Will you state where that private sitting room is situated in reference to the room from the balcony or verandah from which it is stated speeches were made?—It is immediately at the back of it; the verandah and coffee-room are in front, and my sitting-room is the next, and the bed-room behind that again.

1963. Had you engaged, or did you, in fact, pay for the use of the coffee-room?—I did not.

1964. Did you hear the reporter, M. Maccabe, read out from his note the speeches delivered by Mr. M'Kee and Mr. Gavan and Dr. Murphy?—I did.

1965. Did you hear the speech of either Mr. McKee or Mr. Gavin?—I heard Mr. Gavin speak at the end of the meeting.

1966. Did you hear any of the other speakers?—I heard Dr. Murphy say a few words.

1967. "Rev. Dr. Murphy.—Up to this moment the greatest peace had existed amongst the people; he trusted the same quietude would mark the proceedings up to the hour of closing the poll next day, and a glorious victory would be theirs." Did you hear him say something to that effect?—I cannot say that I remember the exact words.

1968. The whole of the speech before that is, "The Rev. Dr. Murphy next addressed the meeting, and said they had arrived at a very important crisis in the history of their land; the would-be Catholic Member, Mr. Brodigan, and Orange emissaries from hell, had come amongst them; at this critical juncture he advised the people to be faithful in following the advice of their clergy, secular and regular, and the Catholic traitors and Orange demons would be soon routed from Drogheda (great cheering)." Did you hear the phrase uttered by any one of throwing the Orangemen into the Boyne?—I did not.

1969. Were you present, or did you hear any priest saying anything about meeting the Orangemen on the Boyne Bridge and hurling them into the Boyne?—I did not.

1970. Is it true, as we were led to infer from the evidence of Mr. Biggar, that you were present when these speeches were made?—I was not present when those speeches were made which you have described.

1971. You heard him give evidence about these two phrases on Saturday last?—I did.

1972. When did you yourself come out, as it were, from your own room to do anything about the meeting?—I came out; the committee told me that the crowd would not disperse unless I said a word or two to them.

1973. Then you came out?—Then I came out, and Father Gavin spoke a few words to them after I came out.

1974. What were those words that he spoke to them after you came out?—I really cannot say. I think that was a fair report, as far as I recollect it.

1975. That was Dr. Murphy's speech?—I think the speech that was taken down by the shorthand writer was, so far as I can recollect it, a fair report of Father Gavin's speech. I did not take particular notice of it.

1976. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You apply that observation to Father Gavin's speech, and you think it was a fair report?—I do.

1977. Mr. Heron.] What did you yourself then say?—I told them that I hoped that they would keep the peace, that any man who broke the peace was not a friend but an enemy; that it was the last expiring effort of the Orange party in Drogheda, who came to take advantage of what they considered a division in the Liberal ranks; that the only chance that they had was to petition against my return; that my victory was certain. And I then said, "Now I trust you will all go home and be as quiet as you usually are in Drogheda."

9978. Were you directly or indirectly on that or any other occasion a party to any act of violence towards electors or non-electors, or any persons?—Of course I had an altercation with Mr. Hamilton.

9979. Never

1979. Never mind about that; what I mean is this; did you, directly or indirectly, and as the petition charges, organise any violence or attack against any human being?—Certainly not.

1980. Directly or indirectly did you authorise any human being to intimidate any voter or any non-electors?—I did not.

1981. I come now to the day of the nomination. As we have been told, the entrance to the court-house was that entrance by which we enter?—Yes.

1982. And that was the only entrance?—The only entrance.

1983. How long had you been waiting at the door with your friends?—I should think about 10 minutes.

1984. Was Sir Leopold McClintock there?—He was there before me.

1985. And also Mr. Brodigan?—Mr. Brodigan came a few minutes after.

1986. You were with a few of your friends on the steps, the police next, and the crowd outside?—Sir Leopold McClintock was on the top step, and I was next to him. I was just close to him, within a yard. Mr. Brodigan was, I should think, four or five yards lower down.

1987. Had you been introduced to Sir Leopold McClintock, and were you conversing on that day with him?—I was introduced to him on the steps by Mr. Mayne.

1988. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was that on the nomination day?—On the nomination day. It was either Mr. Mayne or Mr. Cairns; I forget which.

1989. Were you and Sir Leopold McClintock and Mr. Mayne, and the others, before you came in, all conversing together?—We were.

1990. It is said that an egg was thrown. Do you remember the occurrence of an egg being thrown?—I do well.

1991. Whom did the egg finally hit?—It hit the door, and fell on the head of Mr. John Bradwell, a friend of mine.

1992. Was he a supporter of yours?—He was.

1993. Was anything else thrown on that day?—I saw nothing else.

1994. The door was opened, and everybody rushed in?—The people who were immediately near it.

1995. How did they get in?—The candidates and their immediate friends came up those stairs.

1996. By which his Lordship comes on the bench?—Yes.

1997. Then you all got possession of the bench first?—We did.

1998. Were you on the bench before the mob got into the body of the court-house?—There was a regular rush; we all came in at once. I think we were rather longer in getting on to the bench than the mob were in getting here.

1999. Where were you standing?—I was standing about opposite this lamp (pointing to a lamp), and Sir Leopold McClintock immediately under me to the left.

2000. Had you any conversation with Sir Leopold McClintock?—I had.

2001. I suppose, as described, there was great uproar?—There was great uproar indeed. I thought it a most disgraceful uproar.

2002. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What do you mean when you say Sir Leopold McClintock was under you?—He is rather a little man. He stood under me.

27.

2003. But he was on the same platform?—He was on the same floor.

2004. Mr. Heron.] Were you and Sir Leopold McClintock, while the uproar was going on, conversing of course as honourable opponents, and talking together in a friendly manner?—Yes we were.

2005. Had you and Sir Leopold McClintock then any discussion about the chances of the election?—We had.

2006. What passed between you?—I said, “I hope this will convince you of the necessity of the ballot.”

2007. What did you mean by “this”?—The uproar and disturbance. He expressed dissent from that, and I said, “Well, now you have come here, and you have been completely deceived; you cannot pole more than 120 votes unless you buy them or the voters are coerced. Mr. Brodigan cannot poll more than 80 under any circumstances.” He said, “You are quite mistaken, he will poll double that; we shall buy no votes.”

2008. Was this while the high sheriff was either reading, or attempting to read, the writ?—It was during the proceedings. I did not hear the sheriff myself read it. My hat was knocked off, and I think it was half-an-hour before I could get it again. I think it was under Sir Leopold McClintock’s feet.

2009. And considerably damaged?—It was; I never could wear it since.

2010. Now I go to the day of polling. The polling commenced, and I want to know when you first went up by the railway station?—I went up, I think, at about a quarter past 10.

2011. Had you received any message from the railway station to make you go up?—My friend, Mr. Garnan, of Dublin, came into the polling booth—

2012. Mr. McDonogh.] Never mind that; don’t tell us what your friends said?—I will tell you why we went up to the railway station—

Mr. McDonogh objected to this evidence.

Mr. Heron argued against this objection.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the Witness might be asked what was his business at the railway station.

2013. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] What brought you up to the railway station?—I was informed that several voters—

Mr. McDonogh objected to the reception of this evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

Witness.] I went up to the railway station and looked on to the station to see if there were any Conservative voters who wished to come down. I could see none except a few gentlemen that I knew, and I then came out of the door of the station again, and I was informed that three of my own supporters—

Mr. McDonogh objected to this evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

Witness.] There were three supporters of mine who were detained—

Mr. McDonogh objected to this evidence.

2014. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Did you see the two men, Usher and Devine?—I did.

2015. Did you hear anything about Usher and Devine until you had gone up to the station?—I did not.

2016. Had you known Usher and Devine before?—I had.

2017. Had you known that they voted for you in 1865?—I had.

2018. When you saw them first, where did you see them standing?—I saw them standing against the wall with Mr. Hamilton, with his arms encircling them in this way (describing the same).

2019. Which wall?—The wall just to the left going into the station.

2020. Was it outside or inside the station?—Outside the station.

2021. Did you go up to Mr. Hamilton and the two men?—I went up to Usher, whom I knew intimately; I said to him, "For whom do you wish to vote, Usher?" He said, "For you." I said, "Come along, then." So I just got hold of him by the collar, and Mr. Hamilton got hold of him and detained him. I said, "You ought to be ashamed of yourself; it is a bad cause that requires such conduct as this." Then I got Usher away, and put him on to a car and returned.

2022. Did you strike Mr. Hamilton, as he swore you did?—I didn't strike him; I certainly just used my open hand in this way (describing the same) when he came to interfere with Usher when he was coming with me.

2023. Had you canvassed Usher for this election?—I had.

2024. What promise did he make to you?—He had promised to vote for me.

2025. How long before this election?—I should think two months before.

2026. Did Usher go away with you of his own free will?—He did.

2027. Did he get up on a car?—He got up on a car.

2028. Did he go away then?—Not immediately.

2029. Did you go back to where Devine was standing?—I did.

2030. How was Mr. Hamilton then in reference to Devine?—He was standing close to him.

2031. Now say what you said?—I said, "Who do you wish to vote for?" After some hesitation he said, "I don't wish to vote at all." I said, "Well, I have no more to say to you." And then I left him, and went down town.

2032. Did you leave him and Hamilton then behind you?—I did.

2033. Then did you get on the car with Mr. Clinton and Usher?—I did.

2034. Was there any one else?—There was either one or two, but I cannot remember who they were.

2035. Did you, after that, in any way whatever, interfere with Devine up at the station?—I never saw him after; not at the station.

2036. After that did you see Usher in your tally-room?—I did.

2037. What did you say to him about voting?—Devine and Usher were both together. I said, "Well, have you voted?" And they said, "No, we have not; we shall only give offence to our landlords if we do." I said, "Very well, I don't wish you to vote; we have got quite plenty without you."

2038. Did you ever catch Devine or touch him at all?—I never touched him in any way.

2039. Did you see the other man that has been mentioned, McDonagh?—I did not.

2040. You know nothing about him?—No.

2041. Except that you knew that he had voted for you in 1865?—He did.

2042. You heard Dr. Boyd, I presume by mistake say that you were on horseback up at the station.

Mr. McDonogh.] He said he had heard Mr. Whitworth was on horseback.

Witness.] He said somebody was pointed out to him as Mr. Whitworth.

2043. Mr. Heron.] Were you on horseback for the last 25 or 30 years?—I was not.

2044. You were not on horseback on that day?—No.

2045. You heard Patrick Boyd's name mentioned, and John Odair's name mentioned?—I did.

2046. Did you ever canvass those people?—I never did.

2047. Had you anything, directly or indirectly, to say to any intimidation being practised on those men, or any knowledge of it?—Certainly not.

2048. I come now to the unfortunate occurrence at the bridge. At what hour did you leave the railway station?—At about, I think, 20 or 25 minutes past 10 o'clock.

2049. Then after that, did you remain in the town about the business of the election?—I did; I never was, I should think, 50 yards from the Tholsel.

2050. Where were you when in fact you heard anything about what had occurred at the bridge?—I was up in the Record Court.

2051. Was that a booth?—Yes.

2052. When you heard of anything having occurred, tell his Lordship what you did, and what you saw?—I heard a great noise; I went to the window, and saw cavalry rushing up the street. I at once went down and heard that those men had been shot. There was considerable excitement. After some time the high sheriff said that he had requested a number of the magistrates to meet upstairs, and would I go with them. I went up, and Colonel Knox was also there, and I think two of the stipendiary magistrates. After some discussion, I said, "Well, I think the best course would be to take the troops from the streets; I am confident that it would quiet the people more than anything else." After some discussion it was decided to do so, and that those two men who had fired should be taken and given up to the civil authorities. Immediately afterwards the troops were withdrawn from the streets; and everything continued as quiet almost as it is to-day.

2053. Did that continue until five o'clock?—It did.

2054. At what hour were the troops withdrawn?—I should think about one o'clock, or a little after; a quarter past one.

2055. Was this court-house and the neighbourhood of the place where the five booths were, from one o'clock to five o'clock, perfectly quiet?—From one o'clock to five o'clock, certainly perfectly quiet.

2056. You were of course working in the election, and going about from the court-house to the the different booths before the riot occurred?—Yes.

2057. What was the condition of the streets from eight o'clock in the morning until five o'clock in the evening, and with what exception of time?—I was there at eight o'clock or a little before, but with the exception of ten minutes or a quarter of an hour when this unfortunate disturbance occurred, there was perfect tranquillity. Of course there was a little cheering, and that when my supporters came up, and perhaps a "boo" or two when one or two noted men came up to vote against me. But I never saw the slightest interference with any elector.

2058. Did you yourself go to any of the Conservative electors?—I did.

2059. After the rioting?—After the rioting.

2060. After the 12 o'clock riot?—Yes.

2061. Will you state what occurred then?—I understood that some parties were in houses near the Bull Ring, and I accompanied the sheriff, and I think Mr. Chadwick, a magistrate, and Mr. John Bradwell, and we saw several of those men who had been in the escort. They seemed of course alarmed, and we at once offered to bring them up to the poll, and guaranteed their safety. I brought up Mr. Jamieson, who voted for Sir Leopold McClintock, and I took him back again to Mr. Cairns' Brewery, on the other side of the river. Then I brought up Mr. George Ball, of Dublin; Mr. Ball, while I was linking with him up the street, said, "If you wish I will vote for you." I said, "Well, Mr. Ball, whoever"—

Mr. McDonogh objected that this was not evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh allowed the objection.

Witness.] He offered to vote for me---

2062. Mr. Heron.] Did Mr. Ball plump for Sir Leopold McClintock?—He did.

2063. Who else did you bring up?—Those were the only two that I brought up.

2064. Can you name the gentlemen whom you offered to bring up?—There was Dr. Breed, and one or two others. I don't know their names at all.

2065. Did you go into the tally-rooms of Sir Leopold McClintock?—I did.

2066. Did you make the offer of protection there?—I did.

2067. What did you say?—I said that if they had any voters who wished to poll, if they would let me know where they were, I should be very glad to go and escort them to the polling.

2068. At what hour was that?—I should think it would be half past two o'clock.

2069. At what hour did you go to the houses you mentioned?—I should think about half past one or two o'clock.

2070. Did you enter the houses before you went to the committee-rooms?—I did.

2071. You heard Kelly examined?—I did.

2072. Do you remember going to the polling-booth in Peter-street, a little after one o'clock?—I cannot recollect the hour, but I recollect---

2073. Was it after the riot?—It was.

2074. Had you known before you went that Kelly was there at all?—I did not.

2075. Did you see in the hall the Rev. Mr. Powderley, and Mr. O'Donnell, who was described as a Christian Brother?—I did.

2076. Did you hear what they were saying to 27.

Kelly, and do you know what they were trying to do?—They were trying to persuade him to vote for me.

2077. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Where?—In the hall of the polling-booth in Peter-street; the polling-booth was upstairs, and this was on the ground-floor.

2078. Were there any other persons with him?—There were two or three others, but I really cannot recollect who they were.

2079. In Kelly's presence, then, did the reverend gentlemen say anything to you?—They said, "Do you speak to him, and he will vote for you." I went to Kelly, and I said, "Come, Kelly, you'll vote for me, won't you?" "No," he said, "I've made up my mind not to vote." "Well," I said, "I have made up my mind that I will ask no man to break his word:" and I then said to Mr. Powderley and Mr. O'Donnell, "Don't interfere with him." I had the number at the time polled. I said, "We don't want a vote at all; we can do very well without him, if he is unwilling."

2080. What was the number?—I cannot speak as to the number at that particular time.

2081. But had you then an immense majority?—Oh, an immense majority.

2082. Did you, in fact, then interfere in any way with the man?—Not at all. Those were the only words that I said to him.

2083. In your presence, on that day, was the expression attributed to Mr. O'Donnell used; "Let him go to hell, where he is always going," or anything to that effect?—There was not. I remember the expression used. Mr. O'Donnell said, "Won't you vote for your church, and your clergy, and your country." That is all that I heard.

2084. Now, as to numbers; did you ask any elector to break his promise?—I did not; I distinctly refused to ask any man who had promised.

2085. Did you do that more than once?—I did.

Mr. Heron stated that it appeared from the poll books that the numbers polled for Mr. Whitworth were 365; for Sir Leopold McClintock, 138; and for Mr. Brodigan, 30. He also produced the register, which showed that the constituency numbered 726.

Mr. Justice Keogh inquired whether the counsel for the Petitioner objected to this.

Mr. McDonogh raised no objection.

2086. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] At the previous election in 1865, did you hear the sheriff declare the poll at your election?—I did.

2087. Do you remember now the number?—

Mr. McDonogh objected to the numbers at the election of 1865 being given, and stated that he had raised no objection to the last statement because he believed it to be totally irrelevant as evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh said he did not see how the question of the poll of 1865 could affect this election.

Mr. Heron submitted that in the statement he had made he had followed the precedent in Election Committees of the House of Commons.

2088. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] You having been Member from 1865, do you know the constituency thoroughly?—I know it very well.

2089. Did you yourself canvass personally the vast majority of the constituents?—The great majority.

2091. Of the 193 unpolled, dividing them according to the Protestants and Catholics, what were the proportions?—102 Protestant voters remained unpolled, and 90 Catholics.

2092. That leaves only 192; can you account to his Lordship for the missing man?—There is one double entry.

2093. What is the name of the double entry?—Cahill.

2094. What are his two franchises?—He has two different franchises.

2095. Is he in two different wards?—No, he is in the same ward, I think.

2096. Of the 102 Protestants, how many had promised to vote for you?—Out of the 102 Protestants 14 had promised to vote for me, but abstained from voting; 13 had promised not to vote against me; two are dead; three were agents, and engaged by the sheriff, and could not vote. There were in England, Scotland, or abroad, 17. There were in Ireland above 25 miles away, 29, leaving 24 in the immediate neighbourhood who didn't vote.

2097. Of the 90 Roman Catholics, how many had promised to vote for you?—I cannot tell you exactly the number of the Roman Catholics.

2098. Can you not give the same comparison as regards them?—I cannot.

2099. Then 90 Roman Catholics did not vote?—Yes.

2100. On the morning of the polling day do you remember about the state of the poll at half-past ten and half-past eleven?—At half-past ten I think I had 296 polled. I am not so clear as to the exact numbers polled by the other two candidates.

2101. We will prove that by the totting up of the poll; at eleven o'clock how many had you?—At eleven o'clock I had 326.

2102. And the polling was going on during the hour before the shot was fired?—It was; the polling never was interrupted altogether, even for a minute.

2103. I believe you are an Independent?—I am.

2104. When you went out from the room on the day of the speechifying, the Thursday evening, was Mr. Gavin speaking?—No; Dr. Murphy was speaking.

2105. When you came back again who was speaking?—I remained till the close, perhaps five or six minutes.

2106. And then you spoke yourself?—Then I spoke a few words for about a minute and a-half.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2107. You told my learned friend, Mr. Heron, that you met with considerable obstruction in the course of your canvass?—I did.

2108. On what day did you commence the canvass?—I don't remember the exact date.

2109. How soon after that meeting in September that you heard me ask the high sheriff about?—It was very soon after that.

2110. You were present at the meeting, I suppose?—I was.

2111. You saw the sheriff there?—I saw the sheriff there.

2112. And you saw the Rev. Mr. Matthews there?—I don't think I did.

2113. Soon after that you commenced your canvass?—Yes.

2114. On what day were you obliged to discontinue the canvass?—I cannot speak to the exact date, but the first day we commenced canvassing West-street, and before we had got very far, this mob commenced their disturbance, rushing before me to every door, and crying out "The Manchester butcher! The Manchester hangman!" and some stones were thrown.

2115. And they were a violent and angry mob?—They were.

2116. Were they in the interest of Mr. Brodigan?—I cannot say.

2117. What do you think?—I think they were.

2118. Is it not a fact, as you heard your counsel say the other day, that Sir Leopold McClintock didn't make his appearance until the 11th of November?—So I believe.

2119. And Sir Leopold McClintock had nothing to say to this?—Certainly not.

2120. Finally you were obliged to give up and discontinue the canvass; you had not gotten the 325 pledges then, had you?—I had not.

2121. They were refused in many instances?—No doubt.

2122. Did they not say they would vote for Brodigan?—I don't think I met half a dozen during the whole of my canvass who said they would vote for Brodigan.

2123. But you did meet half a dozen?—Certainly not more.

2124. The others refused you?—Others refused to promise me.

2125. Mr. Brodigan's people were active?—They were.

2126. You heard Mr. McKenna examined?—Yes.

2127. A respectable man?—Well, there is a difference of opinion.

2128. So there is about everybody; when did you hear about the two miniature coffins being placed opposite his door?—I never heard of them until he named it.

2129. Having given up on the 1st of November, how came you?—I do not fix the 1st of November.

2130. Well, it was about that time; at all events, you and Mr. Brodigan were actively in the field when Sir Leopold McClintock made his appearance?—We were.

2131. Mr. Brodigan was then the popular man for the time?—Well, I don't think he was.

2132. When did you resume your canvass?—While I was in Drogheda I kept slipping out by stealth; Mr. Clinton and I used to say, "Well now, you go one way, and I'll go the other;" and we generally met at his house, and then went and canvassed for perhaps a quarter of an hour, or half an hour, and then came back again to keep this mob from following us.

2133. In fact, to escape them?—We did.

2134. That

2134. That was a private canvass, which you were enabled to carry on in that way?—Yes; we carried on the canvass in that way.

2135. When did the light of popularity again beam upon you?—When Sir Leopold McClintock came into the field.

2136. Then it was about the 11th of November?—Somewhere about that.

2137. Had you canvassed in company with any of the Roman Catholic clergy up to that time?—I had.

2138. When?—Pretty early in the canvass.

2139. Will you mention the names of the clergymen?—The Reverend Canon Tiernay, and the Reverend Mr. Powderley, and the Reverend Father Smith, who doesn't reside in Drogheda; he canvassed with me in the country districts.

2140. Is the Reverend Mr. Powderley a gentleman located in the town?—He is.

2141. He is a Roman Catholic curate, I suppose?—He is.

2142. And well known in the town?—Very well.

2143. Although he was with you, do you mean to say that the mob exhibited this angry feeling towards you?—I do.

2144. Even in his presence?—Even in his presence.

2145. Mr. Smith was a country clergyman?—He was.

2146. And you canvassed the country with him?—I did.

2147. When did you get the accession of any other of the Catholic clergy?—I had no accession at all.

2148. None at all?—None at all.

2149. Did the Reverend James Matthews ever accompany you?—He did one day.

2150. When?—I think about three or four days before the polling.

2151. Had they stood aloof from you for some time?—Who?

2152. The Catholic clergy?—Two or three of them had.

2153. Had the Reverend Mr. McKee?—He had.

2154. Had the Reverend Dr. Murphy?—No.

2155. Was he with you all through?—He was always a friend of mine.

2156. Was the Reverend Mr. Murphy; there are two?—He never interfered at all; I saw him at one meeting, but he never canvassed with me to my knowledge at all; he did not take an active part.

2157. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Did Dr. Murphy canvass with you?—He did not; he is very infirm, and could not walk about.

2158. Mr. McDonogh.] It appears that you had the whole body of the Roman Catholic clergy with you afterwards?—I believe so.

2159. The Reverend Mr. Gavin?—Yes.

2160. Did he canvass with you?—He did not.

2161. Did he canvass for you?—I do not think he did; I don't know that he did.

2162. Did the Reverend Mr. Matthews canvass for you?—I believe he did not in my presence; I have been told so; I don't know from my own personal knowledge.

2163. Did not the Reverend Mr. Matthews tell you that he was successful in his canvass for you?—He told me that he had spoken to several men.

2164. And that they had promised for you?—Yes, he did.

2165. Did the Reverend Mr. Powderley tell you that he had got promises from people?—He told me in one or two instances that he had seen voters who were away when he had called upon them, and that he had succeeded in getting promises.

2166. When did you manage to get Mr. Brodigan out of the field?—We didn't get him out.

2167. Up to the time that the tide of that charming thing called popularity set in in your favour, when you were hooted in the streets, how many pledges had you got, do you think, good, bad, or indifferent?—The hooting began on the very first day of my canvass.

2168. But you then, by stealth, endeavoured to pursue it. Up to the time that the tide turned in your favour how many pledges had you got?—I cannot say.

2169. Can you say, as an honest man, that you got 50 pledges?—I can say that on the very first day I got between 70 and 80.

2170. Notwithstanding all the insults and refusals that you met with?—Exactly.

2171. Did your getting pledges then stop?—Certainly not; I got pledges every day that I went out; the fact is, that I met with very few opponents.

2172. Did you hear that Mr. Brodigan claimed that he had a vast majority?—I did; I had heard that before.

2173. Suppose this went on, and that Mr. Brodigan retained his hold, there was peril between you both, that if a Conservative stood he might slip in between you?—My firm conviction was—

2174. I am asking you as a matter of fact, and not your own opinion?—My firm opinion is, that if Sir Leopold McClintock had spent 10,000*l.* in bribery he could not have got in.

2175. Although you told him he had no chance unless he bribed?—I told him he had no chance of polling more than 120 votes unless he bribed.

2176. And you whispered that to him on the Bench?—We were chatting very comfortably together.

2177. That was a very interesting dialogue between the two candidates amongst the noise?—I told him exactly what I thought.

2178. But he entirely disagreed with you?—I don't think he did; he didn't express any dissent as to the number who would vote for him, though he dissented as to the number that would vote for Mr. Brodigan.

2179. But he said that he would not bribe?—Yes, he did.

2180. Do you remember when Mr. Brodigan became unpopular?—He was always unpopular.

2181. Pardon me for a moment; do not be too severe upon him; wasn't he the popular man when you were hooted?—Certainly not.

2182. When did you see that he and his friends went through the streets?—I did not see him.

2183. Nor his friends canvassing for him?—I may have seen him just pass, but I never saw him canvassing; I never went near them.

2184. Your mob finally extinguished his, did it not?—I don't know; I had no mob.

2185. Now, you are serious?—I am indeed, perfectly serious; you will find that I shall not equivocate in any way; I will tell you the plain honest truth.

2186. Now, I wish to know as to the locality of this sitting-room at Simcocks's; first, there is what one soldier called the verandah, or the balcony; then there is the room inside; you call it the coffee-room?—It is the public coffee-room.

Esq., M.P.

2187. Then there were folding doors between your sitting-room and it?—There were.

2188. And beyond that again was your bedroom?—Yes.

2189. Then the folding doors being open, the rooms were all ensuite?—No doubt.

2190. And you had been long a resident at that hotel?—Ever since I came to Drogheda.

2191. How was it that the meeting of that evening was arranged?—I don't know; I was not a party to it.

2192. Who made that arrangement?—A considerable number.

2193. And you don't know how it was arranged?—No.

2194. And Mr. Clinton never told you?—He did not.

2195. Well, you were very glad to see them all?—Well, I was not.

2196. Did you in opening the proceedings, or at all, ask them to give three cheers for Father McKee?—I did not.

2197. Did you ask them to give three cheers for anybody?—I did not, except for "Old Ireland," at the close of my speech.

2198. Were the folding doors open that evening?—They were not during this election; Mrs. Simcocks, or Mr. Simcocks had lined the crevices with green baize, and with something to hinder the noise, or people hearing anything that might occur in one room from the other.

2199. Were you in quietude in your sitting-room on that evening?—I was a considerable portion of the evening; and another portion of the evening I was down in the sitting-room of Mrs. Simcocks, on the ground floor.

2200. When did you know the meeting was going on?—I could hear the cheering and noise the whole time.

2201. And you knew it was a meeting in your interest?—I supposed it was.

2202. Had you the slightest doubt about it?—I had not.

2203. And you went up into the room, did you not?—I went into my own room.

2204. But did you not go into the coffee-room?—I will tell you exactly what I did—

2205. First, do me the favour to tell me whether you went into the coffee-room?—They came and told me the crowd would not disperse unless I said a few words to them.

2206. Where were you then?—In my own sitting-room.

2207. Were you reading?—I was not; I was speaking to Mr. Chadwick, and I think my brother William; I believe those were the two gentlemen that were there.

2208. Who was it that brought you that message?—I really cannot say.

2209. Then you went in?—I went out on to the balcony; of course I passed through the room.

2210. Was there a clergyman next you when you went on the balcony?—Yes, Dr. Murphy.

2211. Was he on your left hand or right hand?—He was on my right hand, I think.

2212. Who was on your left?—I cannot say; I think Mr. James Daff Matthews.

2213. And you heard Mr. Gavin make his speech?—I did.

2214. And you heard the reporter recite it the other day?—I did.

2215. That was an accurate report?—I could not speak positively to it, but I should consider it a fair report.

2216. Did you hear him read the report of Dr. Murphy's speech?—I did.

2217. Was that a fair report?—Well, I think it was.

2218. Did you hear him read the report of the Rev. Father McKee's speech?—I did.

2219. Do you think that was a fair report?—I did not hear the speech.

2220. Did you hear any portion of it?—No.

2221. But you stood with a clergyman on one side and the counsel on the other?—Mr. Matthews, I believe, was next.

2222. That was your counsel?—Yes.

2223. Another great man stood between two clergymen, but you had a clergyman on one side and a barrister on the other?—Yes.

2224. Was Dr. Murphy speaking whilst you stood by his side?—He was; he was speaking when I went on to the balcony.

2225. Then if a gentleman swore here that whilst the speaking was going on he saw you standing beside a priest, it would be true?—It would be true at that time.

2226. Now you gave them "a touch of a speech," as Lord Eldon said?—I did.

2227. And you took care, in that "touch of a speech," to assure them that this was the last expiring effort of the Orange party?—I did.

2228. That was to tranquilize them, of course?—I do not know; I just told them exactly what I thought.

2229. Was it for the purpose of tranquilizing them?—It was, I believe; I don't know that that particular sentence was, but the whole of my speech was.

2230. The general context?—Certainly it was.

2231. What did they cry out when you said it was the last expiring effort of the Orange party?—They cheered.

2232. Do you remember their crying out, "Yes, Father, we will meet them in the morning"?—I do not.

2233. And after assuring them that victory was certain, and that it was the last effort of the Orange party, you told them to go home quietly?—I did.

2234. And as a commentary on that text, they broke Mr. Moore's windows?—They broke the windows in Simcocks' Hotel, too, at the very time.

2235. What an impartial mob! Now, with respect to your not riding, I am sure nobody will contradict that; does your brother ride on horseback?—I never saw him; I don't think he does.

2236. Are there two gentlemen of the name in the town besides yourself?—There are two.

2237. Does neither of them mount a horse?—I never heard of their so doing; I know they have no horse.

2238. They are not afraid of that noble sport, horsemanship, I hope?—I don't know.

2239. Now, may I ask you, did you hear anything said in addition to what you said Mr. Gavin and Mr. Murphy may have said to the people about the Orangemen that were expected from Dublin?—I heard nothing except what Dr. Murphy and Father Gavin said.

2240. Upon that subject?—Upon any subject.

2241. Did you hear either of them say that the the Orangemen were to be down in the morning?

—Father Gavin said so.

2242. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was that from the balcony?—Yes.

2243. Were you present when Father Gavin spoke?—I was; he said that an Orange mob would come to butcher the Catholics of Drogheda.

2244. Did he not say, upon the word of a priest, that 500 Orange assassins were coming to butcher the people?—He said something to that effect; I cannot say exactly what the words were.

2245. Now, do you remember their saying, “Yes, Father, we will meet them in the morning”?—No, I do not; and I don’t think such words were used at all.

2246. How soon after that was it that you made use of the expression that it was the last effort of the expiring Orange faction?—It was just at the close of the meeting.

2247. Did you, on the morning of the polling, take any step to prevent a collision between the supposed Orangemen and the mob?—I never feared any; I never had any idea of a collision.

2248. You did not do it?—I did not.

2249. Where did you first hear, if you ever heard, that Father Gavin was there in the early morning?—I never heard it until I heard it proved in evidence here.

2250. Is Father Gavin here?—Yes, he is.

2251. You were attending to the polling in the morning?—Yes, I was.

2252. As time is of some importance, and as you were not quite clear about the 1st of November, I will ask at what hour you reached the terminus yourself?—On that morning?

2253. On the day of the polling?—I think it would be about a quarter past ten o’clock, perhaps ten minutes past.

2254. Did you then learn anything of the violence which had occurred there?—I did not.

2255. It was then you saw Devine, the voter?—I did, and Usher.

2256. Was there a large mob then outside?—There were, I should think, 100 or 150.

2257. Did you see whether they had sticks and stones?—Some of them had sticks; I saw no stones at all.

2258. Did you lay your hand upon Mr. Hamilton?—I did, as I have described.

2259. Well, I want you to describe it fully; did you see that Devine had him by the hand at the time?—Devine was not touching him at the time that I had my altercation with him.

2260. Did you see Devine at any time holding the hand of Mr. Hamilton?—I did not.

2261. Was Mr. Hamilton near Devine when you had the altercation with Mr. Hamilton?—Usher was between Hamilton and Devine.

2262. What made you lay your hand upon Hamilton?—I pushed him with my hand when he came to interfere with Usher going along with me after he said, “I want to vote for you.”

2263. When you first asked Usher to vote for you wasn’t he silent?—I think he was for a moment.

2264. And you repeated it?—I did.

2265. Did Mr. Hamilton then approach him and Devine?—He was close to him at the time, because he had his arms encircling him at first.

2266. And in order to enable you to take

27.

Usher away, you put your hand upon Mr. Hamilton?—I asked Usher, as I said before, “Usher, whom do you wish to vote for?” After some little hesitation, which, of course, in the presence of his agent, he naturally felt, he said, “I want to vote for you.” “Well,” I said, “come along.” Then Mr. Hamilton got hold of him, and forcibly prevented him from coming; and I then said, “You ought to be ashamed of yourself for such conduct, it is a bad cause that requires such work as this.” I just shoved him again with my open hand, and Usher walked out.

2267. And then you say you shoved him again with your open hand?—I pushed him again; I did not say “shoved.”

2268. I beg your pardon, you did. Having pushed him again, you got Usher away?—I did; he came away.

2269. Did you leave Mr. Clinton behind you?—I did not.

2270. Did you make any effort to take Devine?—I did not.

2271. Will you swear that?—I do, most positively.

2272. Was the car yours upon which Usher was taken away?—I don’t know whose car it was.

2273. Had you cars engaged?—I had not.

2274. Had your committee?—I believe not.

2275. I am not asking you what you believe?—I tell you I had no cars hired, and I don’t believe any were hired.

2276. How soon after that did you meet Devine and Usher at the Tholsel?—I didn’t meet them at the Tholsel; I met them at my tally-room at, I should think, about half-past eleven o’clock.

2277. And it was then that you said you did not want them?—I asked them, “Have you voted?” and they said, “No, we have not; we don’t want to offend our landlord.” “Well,” I said, “never mind voting, I have got quite plenty without.”

2278. I suppose you thought you had the election nearly won then?—I was sure.

2279. Were you perfectly sure?—I was as sure as I can be of anything that is not an absolute certainty.

2280. However, you were quite sure, I presume, that at twelve o’clock, or a little after half-past twelve o’clock, when the man was shot, there was no doubt whatever you had a majority then?—None whatever.

2281. Then after the time of the riot, from one till five o’clock, you know there was serenity in Drogheda?—It was quite as quiet as one could wish it to be.

2282. But at the close of the rioting, and when the man was shot, the election was in your favour, virtually?—No doubt.

2283. And could not be retrieved?—It could not be retrieved under any possibility.

2284. You had received but 325 pledges, and you had 326 at a certain point of time, as you stated to my learned friend?—Yes, at eleven o’clock.

2285. After the rioting had ceased, by the death of the man; then, at about one o’clock, was there a meeting of the magistrates?—I think about one o’clock, or a little before, perhaps.

2286. And then it was utterly irretrievable that any man could win the election?—Except myself.

B.
Whitworth,
Esq., M.P.
—
18 January
1869.

2287. In fact your success was indubitable, and was complete, when the rioting was over?—It was, and before.

2288. Do you not think it was as arrant a mockery as ever was enacted, for you and your friends, after you had triumphantly won the election, and the rioting was over, to go round to the poor voters belonging to Sir Leopold McClintock and tender your services?—I can swear this, that I should have been very glad to have brought up any of Sir Leopold McClintock's voters at any time of the day; that my success was as certain, in my own mind, as anything in the world could be.

2289. What state or condition was Ball in; was he bleeding?—I don't think he was.

2290. Was he weak?—He is naturally weak; he is an old man, and he is a weak man.

2291. Was he tottering?—No, he was not tottering.

2292. Was he leaning upon you?—He did lean upon me, no doubt.

2293. Had you known him before?—I had not.

2294. You never saw him before?—Not that I am aware of.

2295. Had he known you?—He had known me by reputation.

2296. He knew that he was speaking to Mr. Whitworth?—Yes.

2297. You had never canvassed him?—I had not.

2298. You had never seen him before?—I had not.

2299. Was he weak after being beaten?—I do not know that he was weak.

2300. Do you think that one of the voters escaped being beaten who were escorted?—I think so.

2301. Do you mean to tell me that this man, whom you had never seen before, and never canvassed, while he was walking arm-in-arm with you, said he would vote for you?—He did; he had promised, through his agent, to vote for me.

2302. Did you see him vote for Sir Leopold McClintock when you brought him up?—I did.

2303. Sir Leopold McClintock's clerks and people had been all withdrawn at that time, had they not?—No, they had not, that I was aware of.

2304. About how many thousand did the mob consist of that day?—Where?

2305. In this town, where the firing took place, and the man was killed?—I was upstairs when that occurrence took place, very much to my surprise. I had no idea there was any rioting going on.

2306. You did not hear of the way in which the voters were treated when they came in in the morning; sticks and stones being thrown at them?—Not a word.

2307. The high sheriff did not tell you?—He did not.

2308. You did not know of the house being locked up after the Ray's had been beaten?—I did not.

2309. How many hundreds of people are employed in your factory?—I should think about 600.

2310. How many women are there?—I should think there would be one-half.

2311. Of those 600?—I should think so.

2312. Did you hear the priest say, "Boys, you have a holiday, and you know how to use it?"—I did not.

2313. Did you give them a holiday?—I did not.

2314. Were they out?—They were, on the nomination day.

2315. Did they form a portion of the assemblage which ornamented the room?—Not that I am aware of.

2316. But they were out on that day; you let them all out?—They would not work. We told them they must work, but they would not work; it is a very great loss.

2317. Did you pay them for that day?—We did not.

2318. Were they out the next day?—Which next day?

2319. The interval between?—Certainly not.

2320. Were they out on the polling day?—They were, part of the day; we started the engine, as I have heard from my brother; my brother consulted me as to it. It is a serious loss; a loss of 30*l.* or 40*l.* a day, every day the mill stops, and it gets them into idle habits. They will not come, even after the election is over. They started the engine at about six o'clock, but at half-past seven a message was sent to my brothers' house to say that he was wanted down at the mill. They there told him that they would not work on that day, and, of course, he could not compel them to work.

2321. And they all left?—They did; the engine was stopped, and they left.

2322. The starting of the engine was not a make-believe, any more than the going about with those voters?—It was not.

2323. But at all events, starting at six o'clock, it was stopped at half-past seven?—Somewhere about that time.

2324. And the whole 600 men and women walked out?—There are very few men employed at our mill.

2325. But they are stalwart boys, are they not?—The majority of them are 15 or 16 years of age.

2326. And the women?—They are young; they are young girls.

2327. And they wear aprons, I suppose?—I cannot say.

2328. Fit to carry stones?—I cannot say.

2329. And did you pay them for that day?—No.

2330. Did your brother?—He did not. I only know from what I have been told.

2331. Do you know Mr. Thomas Owens?—I do.

2332. He was an active supporter of yours?—He was a supporter of mine.

2333. Did he pay a mob?—I do not know.

2334. Is he in this town?—He resides in the town.

2335. Do you not know that they got 5*s.* a-piece?—I do not.

2336. Do you know John Odair?—I never saw him till I saw him in this chair the other day.

2337. Do you know Mr. Martin, of Thomas-street?—Yes.

2338. He is an active supporter of yours?—I believe he voted for me.

2339. And canvassed for you?—Not that I am aware of.

2340. Did he not tell you so?—He may have done; done; I dare say he may have said, "I have spoken to So-and-so."

2341. Do you know Mr. Brannigan, of Lawrence-gate?—I do not.

2342. Is Mr. Martin in this town?—Not that I am aware of; I do not know.

2343. Is he not here now?—I do not know.

2344. He lives in the town?—He does; there are several Martins.

2345. What is his business?—I think he is a shopkeeper.

2346. He is a huckster, is he not?—He is a huckster.

2347. Did you hear Odair say that Martin and Brannigan came to his house with a mob, and that the door was battered in with the stones?—I did not.

2348. Were you here?—I was, but I do not remember hearing him say that.

2349. Did you know that Odair had hidden in the garden?—I did not; I never knew anything of him. I never knew who Odair was till I saw him in this chair.

2350. You saw that man Kelly, the baker?—Yes.

2351. At about what hour was it that you saw him, when he was addressed by a clergyman?—I should think about half-past one o'clock, as near as I can speak.

2352. That was after the dreadful riot at the bridge, and the death of the man?—It was.

2353. Was it the Rev. Mr. Powderley that addressed him, and asked him to vote for his Church?—I think not; I think it was Mr. O'Donnell.

2354. The Christian Brother?—I think so.

2355. Did you hear him say, "It is not my Church that is concerned in this election?—I did not.

2356. Did you catch any words to that effect?—I did not.

2357. Showing that the man knew the question was the disestablishment of the Protestant Church?—I did not.

2358. After they had spoken to him, as you say, in the manner you have told us, was it true that they said, "Ask him yourself, and he will vote for you"?—It was.

2359. Which of them was that?—I think it was Father Powderley, but I am not very clear.

2360. You did ask him?—I did.

2361. If the election were so completely won, no matter what the violence was, no matter what the intimidation was, why did you press the man to vote for you, if you were so sure?—I did it because I was asked to do it.

2362. By the clergyman?—Yes.

2363. Did you speak to Father Matthews about him?—I did not.

2364. Do you know now that it was Father Matthews that had him kept by the mob until the father ascertained that he had not voted?—I do not.

2365. Did you hear Kelly state that?—I heard him say something of the sort.

2366. Did you make any apology to the owner of the hotel for the use of his apartments on that night?—Certainly not.

2367. You are an old familiar customer?—It was not my business to do so.

2368. You did not meddle with the matter at all?—I did not.

2369. How many thousand pounds has the election cost you?—This election?

2370. Yes?—I have paid 700*l*. How much of that has been spent I do not know. Of course I have paid fees to my counsel on this trial; 600*l*. or 700*l*. is all that I have spent.

2371. That is all that you have spent?—It is; and I said that I was quite sure that no such amount as that would be required. That remark was occasioned by my brother writing to say that he had paid 600*l*. into the Bank of Ireland to the credit of the election agent, for election expenses.

2372. Who is he?—Mr. Campbell.

2373. And then there was another 100*l*.?—The other 100*l*. was before that.

1274. How much do you believe it will cost you?—I expect I shall have some returned. Mr. Clinton says, "I can return you some of it; I do not think it will be all wanted."

Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

2375. How much did you pay for the last election in 1865?—Between 400*l*. and 500*l*. If I may be allowed to volunteer a statement, I will swear positively that if the election had depended upon illegal expenditure, I would not have done it.

[The Witness withdrew

Mr. GEORGE BUTTERLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hamill.

2376. You are the sub-sheriff, are you not?—Yes.

2377. Do you remember the morning of the polling?—I do.

2378. When the doors were opened can you tell who were the parties inside this place?—There was the high sheriff, the court keeper, I think some members of the constabulary, and myself, and a gentleman came in at that window, a magistrate.

2379. Were those the only persons in the place when the doors were opened?—Yes.

9380. Up to the time of what is called the riot did you observe any personal violence to any one in Drogheda upon that day?—No personal violence.

2381. Were the poll-booths open for any one to come forward to vote?—They were.

27.

2382. After the riot, say from about half-past 12 o'clock up till 5 o'clock, when the booths closed, was there perfect liberty for any one to come to any of the polling-booths to vote?—Perfectly so.

2383. Did you canvass for Mr. Whitworth or take any part for him?—No, I did not.

2384. You remained independent?—Neutral, except voting.

Cross-examined by Mr. Plunkett.

2385. On the day of the nomination were there any tickets distributed to the various candidates?—No.

2386. Was there any application made that there should be any such distribution to your knowledge?

knowledge?—Well, there was a good deal of—2387. Who made the application?—Well, I think Mr. Brodigan did.

2388. Any person else?—And his agent, Mr. Healy, the solicitor.

2389. Any person else?—There may have been, but I am not so clear about anybody else.

2390. Do you know whether there was any application made on behalf of Sir Leopold McClintock for tickets?—There may have been, but I will not say.

2391. Were tickets given out?—No.

2392. Will you explain why they were refused; you were the person who was applied to, I presume, for tickets?—I was asked would tickets be issued.

2393. You took that as a requisition, I presume, that they should be?—Well perhaps I did. I said I would consult the high sheriff, and I did; and the high sheriff said he did not see the necessity.

2394. The advantage of it?—"The necessity," I think, or words to that effect.

2325. Were you asked a second time to give out these tickets for the nomination?—Indeed I was, more than twice.

2396. Did you make any promise about opening the door a little earlier so as to let people in quietly?—No, I did not.

2397. Did you make a promise that you would open the door at a quarter before 10 o'clock?—No.

2398. Do you happen to know yourself whether the sheriff made that promise?—I do not know, neither do I believe he did, from the conversation I had with him.

2399. You were asked just now whether you observed any violence on the day of the polling, before the affair of the bridge, and you said, no personal violence. What do you mean by "no personal violence"?—I did not see any person injured, that is, struck, or any assaults committed.

2400. Did you see any people about the streets at all?—Indeed I did.

2401. Did you see any mobs about the streets?—I did.

2402. Were they in rather an excited state?—They were.

2403. Were any of them in an intoxicated state?—With liquor?

2404. Yes?—No.

2405. Were they in rather a friendly state?—No.

2406. In rather a quarrelsome state were they?—I cannot say that I saw any number of people under the influence of drink on that day at all. I beg your pardon, at the row at the bridge I did see one man, and he must have been in a fearful state of intoxication to act as he did. There may have been hundreds, but I did not happen to see them.

2407. What did this one man in Drogheda do who was in this state?—After the man was shot at the bridge, I saw him race over to attack the military a second time, and if I recollect right, he had a cudgel in his hand.

2408. And I suppose he was the only person there who had a cudgel in his hand?—Oh, hundreds had, as well as I recollect, but this one individual made himself remarkable to me. I was pretty convenient to him, and Mr. Brady, the pawnbroker in West Street, caught him and drove him back again.

2409. You are prepared to say that except the little incident of that man rushing forward, you saw no person that day under the influence of drink?—I think I saw them in the evening, but not up to that hour.

2410. Do you mean to say that after this rioting was over there was no more violence in the town at all?—The town was remarkably quiet, considering there was an election.

2411. Were there any crowds about?—There were, but it was remarkably quiet for an election.

2412. That was from one o'clock until five o'clock?—From one o'clock until the close of the poll.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS GREEN, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Pallas.

T Green,
Esq.

2413. WERE you mayor of this town during the last election?—Yes.

2414. Do you remember the day of the polling?—Yes.

2415. During the principal part of that day, where were you?—Principally in the court-house.

2416. Did you continue there until five o'clock?—No, not until five o'clock; I might have been here until about three o'clock.

2417. Up to the time you had left, was there any obstruction in the court-house as to voting?—None.

2418. Was it free to everybody to vote as he wished?—Free to everybody.

2419. I suppose, being in the court-house, you saw nothing of this rioting?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Ryland.

2420. Were you on the committee of Mr. Whitworth?—I never was on a committee at all, but I was chairman of a meeting of his supporters. I never heard of a committee.

2421. Were you walking about before twelve o'clock on the day of the polling?—I was here nearly all the day.

2422. Were you outside the court-house, or in the window?—In the window, in what they call the mayor's court.

2423. That commands a view, I believe, of both Lawrence-street and Peter-street?—It does.

2424. Did you see any mob of people in Lawrence-street, near the tally-rooms, on the morning of the polling, between eight o'clock and 12 o'clock, at any time?—Of course I saw several.

2425. Did you see sticks or stones flying in the air?—I did not see sticks and stones flying in the air, but I saw them in the hands of the people.

2426. Did you see the men with the sticks strike any people?—No.

2427. Did you see them rush at any people?—I might have seen it, but I did not; I saw no one struck.

2426. You

2428. You saw them rush after them with sticks as they were going to the tally-rooms?—I did.

2429. Did you see them flourishing the sticks?—Not to my knowledge.

2430. Had they the sticks raised above their heads?—They generally had them on a level with their arms or shoulders.

2431. So that you could see them plainly?—Certainly.

2432. Did you see green hatbands on any of those men?—I saw two or three, I think.

2433. Two or three, I think, with each mob?—No.

2434. Was there but one mob that you saw there?—I could not say whether there were mobs or one mob.

3435. Did you see a mob of people where there was not a man with a green hatband on?—Yes; I only saw three persons with green hatbands, small green ribbons.

2436. Were they the leaders?—I had no idea that they were the chief persons; I thought they only had the green on for safety to themselves going through the mob.

2437. You say you saw this mob in Lawrence-street; did you see any mob in Peter-street?—I did.

2438. Did you see them there rushing at the people as they went to the booth in Peter-street?—I saw them rushing up and down occasionally.

2439. Did you see the people coming down to the booths in Lawrence-street?—I saw them come from the committee-rooms down to the court-house, and to Lawrence-street, but I did not see anyone going from Shop-street.

2440. Did you see any persons rushing at them with sticks as they came down?—No, I did not see a single stick raised to strike anyone, or at least I did not see anyone struck by a stick.

2441. But did you see people rushing towards them; when they came out of the committee-rooms to vote did you see the mob rushing towards them?—I did, occasionally, but they were very generally protected; the sheriff was generally with them, and the two Mr. Chadwicks.

2442. And the police?—The police were stationary; they very seldom walked with them.

2443. Did you see any voters walking down that the mob did not rush towards them?—I cannot say.

2444. You did not see them?—I did not.

2445. Did you look down Shop-street at all?—No, I could not; there was no view from that place.

2446. Were you out at all during the day?—I suppose I might have been out during the day.

2447. At what hour?—I daresay it might have been, perhaps, near two o'clock.

2448. Were you out before one o'clock?—I think not.

2449. From eight o'clock to one o'clock, were you in this building?—No; I was not here, I suppose, until about half-past nine o'clock; that is the hour at which I used to hold my court.

2450. By what way did you come to this building?—From my own house.

2451. Where is your own house?—Near the viaduct; I think it was over the back lanes I came, and up Shop-street; I am not certain, really, but I think so.

2452. Did you see many people as you were coming at half-past nine o'clock?—There were not many in the streets then, as I thought.

2453. Did you see many people towards the bridge, and towards the quay, as you passed through Shop-street?—No; I did not see any people there at that time.

[The Witness withdrew.]

BENJAMIN WHITWORTH, Esq., M.P., re-called; further Examined by Mr. Heron.

2454. HAD you, in fact, any committee?—I had no committee.

Further cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2455. Were you not present at the meeting in September, when those several gentlemen whose names you heard me mention to his Lordship, as stated in the "Argus," were in attendance?—I was.

2456. Was not the last resolution put then, "That the gentlemen now present do form a working committee"?—There was a resolution passed, but I certainly have no recollection of what that resolution was.

2457. That is the most you can say?—It is.

2458. Will you look at that paper (handing a paper to the Witness)?—"That the independent electors now present do form a working committee, with power to add to their number, for canvassing purposes." I have no recollection of that; I suppose it must have been so if it is in that paper; I have no recollection of any committee being formed; I was at the meeting, but I have no recollection of that resolution being passed.

2459. You will not deny that that resolution was passed?—I will deny that I have any recollection of it.

[The Witness withdrew.]

RICHARD BRADWELL, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Pallas.

2460. I BELIEVE that you are a Magistrate of the county of Meath?—Yes.

2461. Do you remember the day of the polling?—I do.

2462. I believe you and your brother have certain mills in this town?—The firm of Bradwell, Chadwick & Co. have mills.

2463. How many mills?—Two.

2464. Were you about the town the entire of 27.

the day at the polling?—From about half-past nine o'clock, until about four o'clock, I think I was.

2465. Do you remember the time at which the riot occurred?—I do.

2466. After the riot had ceased, and the military had left the streets, were the streets quiet?—I went up to the gaol with the military, and was away nearly two hours.

K

2617. And

T. Green,
Esq.

1869.

B.
Whitworth,
Esq., M.P.

R. Bradwell,
Esq.

R. Bradwell, Esq.
18 January 1869.

2467. And with the exception of the time that you were at the mills were the streets quiet, as far as you saw?—There was a great deal of excitement before the military were withdrawn from the streets, but when I returned from the gaol the streets were perfectly quiet.

2468. At what hour was it when you returned from the gaol?—At about three o'clock.

2469. At that time was there any difficulty in a person polling if he wished it?—Certainly not.

2470. Did the streets continue in that state as long as you were there?—I left the town at four o'clock.

2471. Were your mills working on that day?—One mill was working up to one o'clock, and the other mill worked up to the breakfast hour; and the engine was stopped after the breakfast hour, and was obliged to be stopped because the people were not coming in.

2472. Why was the mill that was worked up to one o'clock in the day stopped?—I was told—

2473. Mr. McDonogh.] Never mind what you were told?—Then I don't know anything about it.

2474. Mr. Pallas.] Who is in charge of that mill that worked till one o'clock; is Mr. Moran in your employment?—He is the manager over all the mills.

2475. Did you give permission to any of your work-people to be out on that day?—Quite the contrary; I gave most decided instructions to them to do all in their power to keep the mills working.

2476. Was there any pay stopped in consequence of the men being absent?—All those who were absent did not get their pay.

2477. I believe you from time to time escorted voters of Sir Leopold McClintock's?—I assisted in escorting them. I went down to the Bull Ring twice.

2478. Whenever you heard a voter was anxious to poll, did you offer an escort?—Yes, I was running about the whole day.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2479. When did you begin to be escort for Sir Leopold McClintock's voters?—After the row.

2480. After the row you went to the gaol, I think?—No, not immediately; I escorted some voters first.

2481. At about what hour did you become escort for Sir Leopold McClintock's voters?—There was a meeting of the magistrates immediately after the row. After I attended that, I was told, when I came from the room up-stairs, that there were some voters in the Bull Ring who wished to vote, so I went down with some others.

2482. You, I believe, voted for Mr. Whitworth?—I did.

2483. And you were on his Committee?—No, I was not.

2484. Were you at the meeting?—No, I was not.

2485. At the time that you volunteered your services as an escort for your opponent's voters, or Mr. Whitworth's opponent's voters, may I ask you, did you believe that the election was virtually over?—Yes, I was quite sure of it.

2486. Are you the active member of the firm in managing the mills?—No.

2487. Who is?—Mr. Chadwick.

2488. In fact, the work-people did not come back after breakfast, and the water was running away; was that so?—No, the steam-engine was running away.

2489. The rotatory motion went on?—You can imagine that when an engine is intended to drive a hundred and twenty horse-power, and you have no power on it, it is very likely to run away.

2490. Well, the people would not come to work. How many hundreds of them were absent?—I cannot tell that.

2491. About how many?—I was told only about 70 came in after breakfast.

2492. You do not know how many hundreds were away, seven hundred or eight hundred?—Precisely.

[The Witness withdrew.

JAMES MATTHEWS, ESQ., sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

J. Matthews Esq.

2493. I BELIEVE you have been on the Commission of the Peace for about 35 years?—Yes.

2494. And you have been five times Mayor of Drogheda?—Yes.

2495. Were you in Drogheda on the 20th of November last?—I was.

2496. That was the day of the polling?—Yes.

2497. Do you remember driving up to the railway station?—I do.

2498. Did you drive your own phaeton?—I did.

2499. Did you see there Mr. Henry Alexander Hamilton?—Yes, he was there along with several others.

2500. Did you make any offer to Mr. Hamilton to bring him into the town?—I did.

2501. And to any of the other gentlemen?—Yes.

2502. How did you offer to bring them into the town?—In my phaeton.

2503. At what hour was it?—I suppose it was about 11 o'clock.

2504. That was for the purpose of bringing them up to the Tholsel here to vote?—Yes.

2505. You knew Mr. Hamilton and the other gentlemen came to vote for Sir Leopold McClintock?—Oh, of course.

2506. Were you about the town during the day until five o'clock?—No; I was about the town in the early part of the day, but not the latter part of the day; after the unfortunate occurrence, I went home.

2507. Except the unfortunate occurrence at the bridge, was there any rioting in the streets during the day?—I saw none except from the bridge up to the railway.

2508. That is, after the man was shot?—Yes, and before it.

2509. How long before it?—Well, perhaps a quarter of an hour.

2510. Before you drove up, had you been about the Tholsel and the polling booths here?—Yes.

2511. Was there any interruption whatever to the voting before the riot at the bridge?—None that I saw.

2512. Of course, I presume there was the ordinary excitement, cheering, and shouting?—There

There was cheering, and occasionally booing, and all that, you know.

2513. But did you see any violence whatever?—I did not.

2514. Or any necessity for your interfering as a magistrate?—I did not.

2515. I need scarcely ask you whether you would have done so had it been necessary?—Most certainly.

2516. For either Conservative or Liberal voters?—Certainly.

2517. Did you, through the day, as far as you could as a magistrate, do your best to keep the peace?—Certainly.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonagh.

2518. At what hour did you drive in from your country house?—Perhaps a very few minutes after eight o'clock.

2519. And then, I presume, you were in the immediate vicinity of the court-house?—Yes, a great part of the time.

2520. You did not see the violence offered to Sir Leopold McClintock's voters as they were coming to the booths?—Yes, I did with the military, but not otherwise; I saw no violence offered before that.

2521. You were not present when the high sheriff interfered to prevent the throw of stones?—No, I was not.

2522. And you did not see anything of the Rays being beaten?—I did not.

2523. May I ask, had you heard of the injuries inflicted upon the people at the railway at about eight o'clock in the morning?—I had,

2524. Perhaps it was that that took you to the railway?—No, it was not; hearing that Mr. Hamilton was there, I went up.

2525. To offer your assistance?—Yes.

2526. You knew that the state of the town was at that time very bad?—I knew no such thing.

2527. And perhaps you thought it very good?—Well, I thought the usual excitement was going on at the election; I saw a great many elections at Drogheda a great deal worse than that.

2528. I should be sorry to think that there was anything worse, but do you think Mr. Hamilton required your protection?—I believe if Mr. Hamilton had walked down he would not have been molested.

2529. Did you think he required protection when you invited him to come into your phaeton?—I thought he was under apprehension of being assaulted.

2530. Who was the other gentleman?—Mr. St. George Smith.

2531. Those were the two gentlemen whom you invited?—Yes; I saw a great many gentlemen there; the Reverend Mr. Morton, whom I had not seen for a great many years.

2532. They having declined to go into the phaeton with you, did you drive down towards the town?—I did.

2533. Did you see the dreadful stone-throwing?—I saw nothing at all as I was coming down, and then I came here to the Tholsel.

2534. Then, were you here before the riot commenced?—I came down and returned with the sheriff and Mr. Chadwick.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. JAMES LATIMER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hamill.

2535. You heard Mr. McKenna's evidence on Saturday?—Yes.

2536. He is asked, "What took place on the Monday?" (A.) On the Monday I saw that the Reign of Terror had commenced. I was walking along here, and a ferocious mob rushed forward and attacked and shook me, and pushed and drove me, and they nearly threw me on the face, except for the police coming up and saving me. Mr. Gardener came first in time to save me, and Mr. Latimer, one of Mr. Whitworth's best supporters, was blandly smiling on the crowd, and encouraging them from Shop-street out here." Is that true?—It is not true.

2537. Is there any other person of your name in this town, or any person of the name who could be spoken of as a warm supporter of Mr. Whitworth's but yourself?—There is not.

2538. Will you tell his Lordship what occurred?—I was in Shop-street, standing talking to Mr. Eugene Clarke in his doorway on a matter of business, and Mr. McKenna turned out of West-street, round the corner of the Tholsel, into Shop-street, and a few women after him; I think a considerable number of women. They were using language that would indicate to me that it was owing to his own conduct, not at all in connexion with the election, that they were abusing him; I do not wish to go into the matter, because it is a private matter; I did not see it commence; I was not in the street with McKenna; neither by act nor motion, directly or indirectly, did I either encourage or do a single thing; Mr.

Clarke and I drew into his shop when we saw them coming on.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonagh.

2539. About how many women were there?—I cannot tell.

2540. About how many?—I should think there might be about 30 or 40.

2541. Might there be a hundred?—I cannot say; I drew a little into the shop with Mr. Clarke.

2542. Might there have been a hundred women?—Indeed there might; I will not pledge myself to the number.

2543. Did you not in your very first answers, say that there were a few women?—I only saw a few coming round the corner at first.

2544. Did you not then go on to say, "a considerable number of women"?—I will not bind myself to the number at all.

2545. Did you see any men amongst them?—Not that I remember.

2546. Did you see men following Mr. McKenna down the street?—Some may have been.

2547. They may have been; did you see a hundred men following him down the street?—I did not.

2548. Did you see many men following him down the street?—I do not remember many; there may have been some.

2549. You do not know in your conscience that there were?—I do not.

J. Matthews,
Esq.

1869.

Mr.
J. Latimer.

Mr. J. Latimer. 2550. What do you believe?—The persons that I saw pulling at McKenna's hat were women.
 18 January 2551. Did you see any men following him?—
 1869. There may have been.
 2552. Were there not?—I don't believe there were.
 2553. Will you swear that you don't believe it?—I will swear I don't believe there were.
 2554. Did you see them going down the street?—I did.
 2555. Did you hear the shouting?—I didn't hear any shouting except afterwards.
 2556. Did you hear them booing at him?—

No, if you wish, I will tell you what the women said to him.

2557. I have no wish whatever about it; were there about a hundred women; did you smile?—Really I cannot tell.

2558. Did you hear the manner in which he described it; that he described it that you "blandly smiled"?—Yes, I did; I heard him say so.

2559. And you cannot say that you did not smile?—I cannot say that I did not, but I did not blandly smile.

[The Witness withdrew.]

PATRICK KINSILLA, sworn; Examined by Mr. Pallas.

P. Kinsilla. 2560. WHERE do you live?—24, Vicar's-street, Dublin.
 2561. Do you remember the day before the polling of the Drogheda election?—I do.
 2562. Do you remember meeting a man of the name of O'Rourke upon that day?—Yes.
 2563. You and O'Rourke had a conversation?—Yes.

Mr. McDonogh submitted that this evidence was irrelevant..

2564. Mr. Pallas (to the Witness).] Did you speak to a man of the name of O'Rourke, on the day before the polling for the Drogheda election?—Yes.

2565. Did you and O'Rourke go to any place after that conversation?—47, Dame-street.

2566. Do you know a Mr. Kennedy?—I do.

2567. Did you see a Mr. Kennedy at 47, Dame-street?—I did.

2568. Will you state what took place, if anything, between you and Kennedy?

Mr. McDonogh objected to this as being recriminatory matter.

Mr. Justice Keogh considered that at present there was no ground for the objection.

2569. Mr. Pallas (to the Witness).] Is Mr. Kennedy in court?—He is.

2570. Will you point him out?—He is beyond, at the corner there in the window (pointing to a person in court).

2571. State what passed between you and Kennedy.

Mr. McDonogh objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

Witness.] Mr. O'Rourke brought me up by the shoulder and says, "This is a stout lump of a chap that would not be afraid of a row." That is the way he introduced me, and he took down my name.

2572. Mr. Pallas.] Was there anything else that passed?—He told me on Saturday at 10 o'clock, that Mr. Hamilton would pay us 1 l. for coming down.

2573. When were you to go down?—The next morning at half-past four.

2574. Were there any other persons present on that occasion?—There were over 70 in the house.

2575. Was Kennedy employing these persons?—Taking down the names; he took down my name and read to the whole of us that we would be paid by Mr. Hamilton at 10 o'clock the next day, Saturday.

2576. What Mr. Hamilton was that?—That was the Member that was for the county of Dublin.

2577. You saw the 70 men that were being hired?—I cannot say that all of them were hired.

2578. Were some of them strong fellows?—They were.

2579. Like yourself?—Yes.

2580. Did you see Kennedy again that evening?—Yes, I did.

2581. Where?—In O'Connor's public-house.

2582. What were you doing there?—I was brought in to get drink.

2583. By whom?—Mr. Kennedy.

2584. Did you next morning, go by train to Drogheda?—I did.

2585. Did you see Kennedy?—I did.

2586. Did you see a great number of others there?—I did see them.

2587. Did others come after you?—Yes.

2588. How many altogether before the train left?—There were 50 that got tickets, and then there were four or five left behind.

2589. Had any of them any sticks or weapons with them?—I seen sticks in, too.

2590. Many?—In the side of the carriage that I was in there were 12 men, six on a side, and I could say there were about six sticks, and out of that there was one short one loaded.

2591. Had you yourself any?—No, I had no stick.

2592. Did you hear anything said by Kennedy about any weapon that the men had?—That they had them for to hide them going down the town.

2593. When did Kennedy say that?—I think it was at Laytown.

2594. Do you remember Kennedy saying anything in which the word "coward" was used at any time?—That we should have no cowardice about us.

2595. When was it that he said that?—I think it would be on the platform.

2596. Did you see any arms beside the sticks? No.

2597. Kennedy, I believe, got the tickets, and then the party came down?—Yes; I was about the fifth that was served with a ticket, a single ticket.

2598. Do you remember when the train arrived at Drogheda?—I do.

2599. And the men getting out?—Yes.

2600. Were there girls and boys collected on the platform, or near it?—Sitting on the wall as you come down from the railway.

2601. Do

2601. Do you remember any words being used on that occasion about fighting?—I saw a few girls there and a few boys.

2602. Did you hear any of your party say anything of what you were to do when you got to Drogheda?—I did not know myself what I was for.

2603. Were you to act as poll-clerk?—I never heard a word of it.

2604. Do you know what a poll-clerk is?—He has to take the votes as they come in.

2605. When you got out of the train, did you see a girl struck by a person?—I did by one, for hooting; she was hooting.

2606. Did he say anything when he struck her?—I forget now.

2607. Was she knocked down?—She was.

2608. Did you see a woman knocked down by a stone?—I did.

2609. Was that stone thrown by one of your party?—They were thrown at both sides.

2610. Did you see any man knocked down with sticks upon that occasion?—I saw one.

2611. When did you leave these 50 people?—This is what made me leave the town altogether. There was one man called Woodhouse, and he met some priest on the road, and he said, "If I had a revolver I would shoot that bloody papist priest. So I says, "I am in bad quarters," says I, "and I will get away."

2612. What was the Catholic clergyman doing when these expressions were used?—When the girls and the man began to pelt the stones at one another, he told them not to pelt any stones.

2613. And it was then that these expressions were used?—Yes.

2614. After that, before you left, did you see another girl knocked down?—I only saw the woman and the girl altogether.

2615. When did you leave Drogheda on that day?—I suppose it would be about half-past nine o'clock in the morning.

2616. And at about half-past eight o'clock, I suppose, you arrived?—Yes; I got into a house, and I stood there smoking a bit.

2617. Were you afterwards paid for coming down?—Yes, I was. On Saturday morning, after I had walked in from Drogheda, I went up to Mr. Kennedy, and I told him that I had to cut my old shoes up for walking home. "Well," he said, "we will not make you the same as the others; there is 5s.," he says, "on account." So the following Wednesday night I walked up, and he gave me a shilling. Then they were to be all paid on Friday, so I did not go on Friday, but I heard that they were paid, and I went up to Kennedy's own place, and he paid me 19s.

2618. All the men were to be paid the same?—No, but I was to get half-a-crown extra for walking home.

2619. Did you see a list of names with Kennedy of the persons who were brought down?—I did.

2620. Do you remember how many names there were on the list?—I know there were 50 came, but there might be a lot that were left behind.

2621. Did you see that list within the last week?—I saw it yesterday.

2622. In whose possession?—In Kennedy's.

2623. Is your name on that list?—It is.

2624. Do you remember the number of it on the list?—54.

2625. Is that the Mr. O'Rourke that you refer to?

(pointing to a person in the Court)?—That is the man that introduced me to Kennedy.

P. Kinsilla.
1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. M'Donogh.

2626. Mr. O'Rourke keeps a public-house in James's-street?—Yes.

2627. What are you?—I am a dealer.

2628. In what?—In fish, such as oysters and shell-fish.

2629. You are not an Orangeman?—No.

2630. You are not one of the "bloody Orangemen"?—No.

2631. You did not come down to take the town of Drogheda by storm, did you?—Give and take, that was the name.

2632. You had no stick?—No.

2633. Were those small sticks, the six that you saw amongst all those men?—Some of them were big ones, and one loaded with lead.

2634. With a ferule on it, as you would call it?—No, no ferule; it was loaded in the head with lead.

2635. Did you see the attack that was made upon the men, when they came here?—It was nothing of any account.

2636. You did not see the blood flowing?—I saw blood.

2637. Did you see the shower of stones coming from the women?—Aye, and I saw them going back too.

2638. They went back as they came in?—Other stones, not the ones that were thrown.

2639. Did you throw a stone?—Yes.

2640. You really did?—Yes.

2641. Were you struck with a stone?—Well, slightly, I was not hurt at all.

2642. Did you see any man amongst them?—No, they were all little girls. There were only two men with sticks at the cross of St. James's-street.

2643. You do not mean to say you threw a stone at the little girls?—I did at the women and girls.

2644. Did you see the men come in upon the station?—I did not go to the station; I did not go back to it.

2645. But did you not go to the station in the first instance?—From Dublin I did.

2646. Did you see the men break into the station?—No.

2647. Did you see any one in the station?—I did.

2648. Did you see them beating those men who came from Dublin?—No, not then.

2649. When did you see them doing it?—Give and take; I see them coming down with stones, I did not see them beaten at all.

2650. Did you see them beaten with stones by the men?—Who beat with stones?

2651. The men that came down in your company?—I was told they were beaten, but I did not see them.

2652. Was blood flowing?—I saw the cuts, but I did not see the blood from them.

2653. Where was the priest?—There is a little gateway on the road as you come down from the station, and he was just there.

2654. And he was there when the train arrived?—Not at the train.

2655. Was he at the station?—I did not see him until I saw him where I tell you.

2656. How soon after you arrived at the station did

P. Kinsilla. did you see him?—I saw him the very minute I came into the road.
 18 January 1869. 2657. Do you know who he was?—No.
 2658. Did you hear that his name was Father Gavan?—No.
 2659. Would you know him again?—I might.
 2660. Is he in this Court?—I do not know.
 2661. Look about, look up in the gallery, is that the gentleman (pointing to a person in the Court)?—I am not sure; I think that is like the gentleman, that put up his hands, and told them not to be throwing any stones; I am not thoroughly sure about that.

The Rev. JAMES POWDERLY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

Rev. J. Powderly. 2666. Are you one of the Roman Catholic curates of Drogheda?—Yes, I am curate of this town.
 2667. Who is the parish priest?—The Very Rev. Dr. Tierney.
 2668. How long have you been in Drogheda?—I am in my 16th year in Drogheda now.
 2669. As Roman Catholic curate of this parish?—As Roman Catholic curate of this parish.
 2670. You remember the day of polling at the last election?—I do.
 2671. Did you hear a person named Kelly examined in Court on Saturday?—No.
 2672. Did you see him here to-day in Court?—Yes, I saw him here to-day.
 2673. Do you remember on the day of polling seeing Kelly in the hall leading to the booth?—I met a person said to be named Kelly, but I did not know him, otherwise, except that I heard his name was Kelly.
 2674. Was he then in the booth in Peter-street?—Not in the booth; he was in the hall leading up to the booth.
 2675. In Kelly's presence, were you asked whether you would go and speak to him?—I was walking in the street, and some person came to me and said there was some voter in Peter-street, and that if I would ask him to vote for Whitworth, he would probably do so; and I complied with the request.
 2676. Did you go and see Kelly?—Yes.
 2677. What did you say to him?—I asked him whether he would vote for Mr. Whitworth. I said that Mr. Whitworth had strong claims upon the people of Drogheda; that he was a Liberal, and would support the great Liberal party, who were now promising good measures for this country; and that it would be a great matter for us to return a man who would carry out our wishes, and support measures that might be brought forward in the Imperial Parliament for the benefit of Ireland.
 2678. What did Kelly say?—Kelly said that he would rather not vote.
 2679. Did he assign any reason for not voting?—I think I recollect him to say that he was afraid of his landlord.
 2680. Was that all that occurred before Mr. Whitworth came up?—I do not know whether that occurred in the presence of Mr. Whitworth or not. I am not quite sure about the moment that Mr. Whitworth appeared or Mr. O'Donnell.
 2681. Were you speaking to him before Mr. O'Donnell, the Christian brother, came?—I think I was speaking to him before Mr. O'Donnell came. I remember distinctly that I saw Mr.

2662. Did you see amongst those men that came down with you, one that had a wooden leg?—I did.
 2663. Did you see another of them that wanted an arm?—Not with us, he did not come down.
 2664. What was the wooden legged man's name?—Reeves, I believe.
 2665. Did he sit in the carriage with you?—Not in the carriage with me.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Whitworth and Mr. O'Donnell, and there were some others present, but I could not recollect at all who there were.
 2682. From the time Mr. O'Donnell came up to Kelly, did you hear all that occurred?—I heard all that occurred while I was there, of course.
 2683. Did Mr. O'Donnell say that Kelly would go to hell if he did not vote for Whitworth?—Certainly not in my hearing at all. I heard Mr. O'Donnell, I think, say to this person, who was supposed to be Kelly, "Won't you vote for your priests?" or "with your priests?" and he might, perhaps, have added the words, "for your country"; but I could not be so sure of that. That is all I heard Mr. O'Donnell say on that occasion.
 2684. Do you remember Mr. Whitworth coming up and saying anything to him?—I remember Mr. Whitworth asking him, "Won't you vote for me, Kelly?" and he declined, and said he would not.
 2685. What did Mr. Whitworth then say?—I think we left them there. Immediately after I said, "If this man does not wish to vote, we do not want the man." I was only there a few minutes altogether.
 2686. Did Mr. O'Donnell say, "Let him alone; let him go to hell; he is always going there"?—Certainly not; I never heard him say such words.
 2687. On the day of the polling, were you in and about the Tholsel and the different booths?—I was, frequently.
 2688. Did you point out to the mob to attack an old gentleman with a long white beard who had voted for Sir Leopold McClintock?—Certainly not.
 2689. On that day, or at any time during, or before, or after the election, did you excite the mob, or lead the mob, or in any way influence the mob, to commit personal violence upon any person?—Certainly not. On the contrary, I did everything in my power to prevent the mob doing any harm of any kind. I made no speech, I may remark, before the day of polling or on the day of polling, until after the man was said to be shot. When I heard that there was a man shot, I at once said it was time to draw the people, if possible, off the streets altogether, and to prevent any further disturbance or confusion; and I went to the nearest place at which I could address them publicly in the streets, and that was at Mr. Thomas Daly's, where the judges' lodgings are. There is a balcony, and I went there, and I knew when they saw a priest standing there they would come away from the soldiers. I may remark that,

that, when I saw the soldiers, they seemed in a most excited state after coming up from the bridge. I saw only one of the soldiers bleeding a little from a wound on the side of the head, and I spoke to them for a moment, and I said, "If you can at all keep quiet here, do so." They were trembling with emotion, and in a most excited state, and seemed to have their guns ready to fire almost, and I was really afraid that some other accident might occur; and I begged them to have a little patience for a moment, and said that I would do everything in my power to withdraw the mob. So I went to Mr. Daly's windows, and I told them that the state of the poll was now such that Mr. Whitworth was certain to be returned, and I said that I was very sorry to say that the victory now gained was not gained without some bloodshed; and in order that there might be no further accident, I begged of them to hear one of their pastors who had been here so long with them, and to follow his advice, and that was, to disperse, and to go home as quickly and as quietly as they possibly could to their own houses. I then told them to go up to the Whitworth Hall, which is in Lawrence street, some distance from the polling, in order to take them entirely from the streets, and that they would be addressed there by the clergy, and by other friends of Mr. Whitworth. This was merely to take them away from the place, and when we got there I repeated what I had said at Mr. Daly's windows, and begged them then to go home quietly; and, in order to do this more effectually, I left the place and went down, before them, to the post-office, which is about half-way up Lawrence-street, and I stood in the centre of the street, and I told them, as they went back, that I would not allow anyone of them to pass; at least I requested them not to go down to the Tholsel any more, and I begged them to go home; and that if they lived in this side of the town, they could go to it; and if they lived in the other part of the town, they could go to it by a lane which is called Free School-lane, on the one side, and on the other side by the lane leading down to Shop-street, and across the bridge. Not more than one or two passed me, and those living in Lawrence-street, so they all dispersed; and afterwards the town remained perfectly quiet.

2690. Except on that occasion when you were walking before the crowd?—I brought them with me; they followed me at once.

2691. Except on that occasion, is it true that on that day you were in any way a leader of a mob?—Not of a mob in any manner.

2692. You walked up the street before them, telling them to come after you?—Yes; I told them publicly from the balcony of Mr. Daley's, to follow me, and to come up Lawrence-street.

2693. To take them away from the soldiers?—To take them away from the soldiers, and to make them disperse peaceably, and for no other object.

2694. Did you on that day hiss on the mob at the station?—I was not at the railway station at all that day; I did not cross the bridge at all that day.

2695. Had you canvassed for Mr. Whitworth?—I had.

2696. When did you do so first?—Almost at the beginning of his canvass; the first time he went to see the voters that lived in the country, I went with him.

2697. Did you, on the day of the polling, do your best as a minister of peace, to preserve the peace?—Certainly, on all occasions.

Rev.
J. Powderly.

1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2698. You canvassed for Mr. Whitworth, (as you had a perfect right to do), and went with him, I presume, on his canvass?—I did.

2699. And from the very commencement?—Not from the very commencement; it was about the commencement, certainly, but he had been canvassing a few days through the town before I went with him.

2700. And you reported to him the results of your canvassing as you went along?—Certainly.

2701. Upon this occasion in question, it appears that you saw this man Kelly; did you see the Rev. Mr. Matthews before you saw Kelly?—Mr. Matthews was not there at all to my recollection.

2702. Did it come to your knowledge that Mr. Matthews had had the man in custody?—I knew nothing whatever of it.

2703. Can you tell who the person was that said to you, "Do come and speak to the man to induce him to vote"?—I could not at all; I did not know the person at all.

2704. And did you canvass the man?—I asked him to vote for Mr. Whitworth, certainly.

2705. And then Mr. Whitworth joined you?—Yes.

2706. And then he canvassed the man?—Certainly.

2707. Did you hear anything said by anybody about his bread being taken?—Not a word at all that I recollect.

2708. You knew he was a baker?—I did not know what he was; I never knew anything of him at all, whatever.

2709. Did you hear Mr. O'Donnell, the Christian brother, say anything at all about his bread being taken?—I do not remember anything of it at all; it might have been said, but I have no recollection of it. Mr. O'Donnell may have been there after I left.

2710. Do you remember this expression; when he was asked to vote for his church, then did Kelly say, "This election has nothing to do with my church"?—I do not.

2711. Can you say whether or not; you can swear those words did not occur?—Everything I say, I am swearing.

2712. I know that, but there is a difference between swearing and positive affirmation; did those words occur in your hearing?—Certainly not.

2713. The man was very reluctant to vote?—The man was very reluctant to vote; consequently, I left him; I was not two or three minutes speaking to him; we did not want him, and I told him so.

2714. At what hour was that?—I do not recollect what hour.

2715. Was it after the man was shot?—I really could not decide; I heard some of the witnesses say it it was half-past one, but I cannot say myself, whether it was before or after the man was shot.

2716. You cannot tell me the hour?—I cannot indeed.

2717. The man was shot before one o'clock?—I heard so; I do not know from my own personal knowledge.

2718. But

Rev.
J. Powderly.
—
18 January
1869.

2718. But the dreadful event must have impressed itself on your mind?—Certainly.

2719. Are you able to say whether this conversation was after the shot had been fired?—I am not able to say, because I was in and out from half-past seven o'clock, or eight o'clock in the morning, throughout the entire day.

2720. Where were the soldiers when they were trembling with emotion and agitation?—Standing opposite the Tholsel here, on the other side of the street, near Shop-street; they appeared to be very excited.

2721. And you very properly came to the determination of withdrawing the people?—Certainly.

2722. Lest some dreadful collision might occur?—I did not know at the time what had occurred at the bridge; I was in West-street at the time.

2723. Surely you had heard of it?—I had heard of it, but I did not see it; I did not know the particulars of the man being shot.

2724. But you knew at the time that the man was killed?—Yes; at what time?

2725. At the time you saw the soldiers trembling with emotion?—Yes, that was about half past 12 o'clock or a quarter to 1 o'clock when the man was shot that I was aware of.

2726. And then you came to the determination of withdrawing the people?—Certainly.

2727. And making them all quiescent?—Yes.

2728. And sending them away?—Yes.

2729. And you did that to prevent any collision with the soldiers who had their guns in their hands?—They had, and I think they were at full cock and ready to fire if they got the least word of command.

2730. They were in that nervous state that if they were not assailed they would have fired?—I could not tell.

2731. But you were apprehensive of that?—Yes.

2732. The thing to be achieved was that you as a Christian minister should get the people out of the trouble?—Certainly.

2733. And then you went and addressed them from Daly's?—Certainly.

2734. And you had a powerful influence over them?—I got them all off; I knew the state of the poll at that time to be that Mr. Whitworth had such a majority that there was no possibility of any other result; I knew from the beginning there was no chance for Sir Leopold M'Clintock at any time.

2735. But you knew then the victory was won?—I did.

2736. And you announced it to the people?—Yes.

2737. And you knew, of course, the victory having been announced, that that was a tranquillizing statement coming from a gentleman in your position?—Certainly; it is generally called a victory when one succeeds in an election matter.

3738. I have no doubt of the truthfulness of your feeling, that you regretted that your victory had not been won without bloodshed?—I regretted that there had been bloodshed.

3739. And you so stated to the people?—Yes, I so stated to the people.

2740. And still acting with a determination of withdrawing the people and getting them out of the way, you, as it were, went at the head, and you knew they would follow you?—Some went before and some followed; I was in the middle of them sometimes.

2741. But you took up a position amongst them?—Yes.

2742. Then you separated them from the soldiers?—They were separated from the soldiers before this; I took them away from the soldiers up to the end of Lawrence-street, and the other clergymen that were there addressed them also, and then I went down before them in order to prevent their coming back.

2743. And accordingly you withdrew them?—Yes.

2744. You were not the night before at Sincok's Hotel, were you?—I was.

2745. What brought you there?—I was just out to see what was going on, to see Mr. Whitworth; it was quite usual to be down there sometimes in the evening to see our friends.

2746. You were in the habit of going therefore into that coffee-room?—I was not.

2747. Where used you to go?—To Mr. Whitworth's sitting-room.

2748. And you saw him there on that occasion?—Very likely I did.

2749. But did you, or did you not?—Well, I should think I did.

2750. But did you not?—I think I did see him.

2751. Have you any doubt of it?—It is quite possible; I think that I saw him; I can say no more.

2752. Were you on the balcony when the speeches were made?—I was not on the balcony at all at any time.

2753. Did you make any speech?—I did not until after the man was shot; I was quite opposed to any speeches being made; I heard them speaking and saying that no speeches should be made. Some people were suggesting that it would be well to have some speeches made, and Mr. Clinton, Mr. Whitworth, and myself, came to the determination most distinctly that it was best that no speeches should be addressed to the mob.

2754. But you were overruled?—We were not overruled, because they came and acted for themselves.

2755. And you disapproved of the sentiments of those speeches?—Of some of them certainly.

2756. Did you hear Mr. Maccabe, the reporter, give his evidence?—No, I did not.

2757. Did you hear the Rev. Father Gavan make a speech?—I heard him saying a few words; I did not hear all his speech.

2758. Did you hear the Rev. Dr. Murphy?—I heard him saying a few words.

2759. Did you hear the Rev. Mr. M'Kee?—I heard him saying some, I did not hear the entire of his speech.

2760. Did you hear the 500 Orangemen from Dublin talked of?—I might have heard it, but I am not quite sure whether I heard it there, or whether I saw it in the papers a few days afterwards.

2761. But you disapproved of the sentiments you heard?—Of some, not of all.

2762. What sentiments did you disapprove of?—I disapproved of treating any person in an injurious manner, or of any words that would produce that effect.

2763. Do you remember their being told to meet them coming down in the morning; that was what you disapproved of, was it not?—I tell you you I disapproved of everything that would lead to violence.

2764. Was that the sentiment that you particularly disapproved of, "Do not forget, boys, to meet them in the morning, and hurl them into the Boyne"?—Of course, I could not approve of that.

2765. Did you hear this—"So we will, father, with sticks and stones"?—I did not.

2766. Did you express any disapprobation to the clergyman who used those words?—I told some of the gentlemen who were speaking that they should discontinue and say no more on that subject at all, and tell the people to go home quietly; and when I heard some of the clergymen that were speaking using language that I thought likely to lead to violence, I begged them to stop, and not to address such language to the people, and to retire after telling the people to go home quietly, and to disperse.

2767. Did you see Mr. Whitworth standing next to the Rev. Dr. Murphy on the balcony?—I did not.

2768. Did you hear a witness say here (it may have been a mistake) that an old woman, being asked what the name of the clergyman was that pointed out the voters as they left the polling, said that that was Mr. Powderley?—I was here on Saturday when a witness said that he saw a clergyman pointing to the mob when he saw an old man come down after voting for Sir Leopold McClintock, and giving them to understand that they should offer some violence towards him. He was asked then did he know who the clergyman was; he said he did not, but that he heard that it was the Rev. Mr. McKee. He was asked then, could he identify that clergyman again if he saw him; he said he was not sure, but he might; and he was asked to look round the court, and he saw me standing here, and he said, "I think that is the clergyman I saw."

2769. But he did express positively that you were the person?—He was not positive; he was quite wrong about it; I was not the person.

2770. Do you not think that you were one of the main causes of the dispersion of the crowd that day?—I contributed a good deal towards it. Rev. J. Powderly.

Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

1869.

2771. Did the Rev. Mr. McKee and Mr. O'Donnell assist you in dispersing the crowd?—Yes, I think they did; certainly they did; and the Rev. Mr. Glynn also, and Father Doyle.

2772. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say that you, when you heard some language which you thought was calculated to lead to violence, very properly interposed, and recommended that there should be no further address; can you recall what was the language that you apprehended would lead to violence?—I do not remember distinctly the words now, but it was something about the Orangemen coming from Dublin.

2773. Was there anything about throwing them into the Boyne?—I think I heard that.

2774. Did you hear any expression from the crowd in reply to that address?—I have been asked by Mr. McDonogh if I heard the people in the crowd say, "We will beat them with sticks and stones on to-morrow morning."

2775. But did you hear any expressions from the crowd in answer, after those observations were made, of which you disapproved?—I cannot say exactly at what time it was, but I think I heard some one in the crowd say they would meet them.

2776. Was Mr. Whitworth there at the time?—I really cannot say; I am not quite sure whether, when I heard those remarks, I was standing amongst the crowd myself or whether I might have been in the room.

2777. At all events you have no doubt that you did interpose to stop the use of language that you thought calculated to lead to violence?—Certainly; I endeavoured to take the gentlemen in who were addressing the crowd.

2778. It is very creditable to you.

[The Witness withdrew.]

The Reverend EDWARD O'DONNELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hamill.

2779. ARE you one of the Christian Brothers stationed in the town?—I am.

2780. Were you hear on Saturday, or did you hear the evidence of Mr. McKenna delivered in this court?—I was here on Saturday, but I did not hear the evidence of Mr. McKenna.

2781. Did you afterwards hear it, or hear it spoken of?—I heard it spoken of.

2782. Did you canvass for Mr. Whitworth?—No.

2783. Were you hear upon the day of the nomination?—I was.

2784. Will you let me read to you a passage from Mr. McKenna's evidence; he says that the people were in the gallery, "and some were standing along the ledge; Mr. O'Donnell, a Christian Brother, jumped up where that hat is, and he appeared to me to act in some capacity, like a fugleman or mob leader;" is there any truth in that?—I stood upon the bench, but I did not act in the capacity of fugleman or mob leader.

2785. Were you a mob leader?—Decidedly not.

2786. Then he says, "From the time Mr. O'Donnell stood on the spot the place was one terrific scene of uproar; he was gesticulating, and waving his hat and flourishing it." Just tell us what you did at the day of nomination?—I cheered for Mr. Whitworth, and waved my hat or my hand from time to time.

2787. Did you do that in any capacity at all as a mob leader, or as one desirous to guide or direct the crowd?—By no means; I was neither by accident nor by arrangement connected in any way soever with the mob.

2788. Do you know a person named Kelly, a voter, or did you know him before that day?—No, not before that day; I saw him on the table to-day.

2789. Did you see that man upon the day of polling?—I did, though I would scarcely know him other than that I saw him here to-day.

2790. Where did you see him?—At the hall; at the booth in Peter-street.

2791. Who was with you when you saw him?—Mr. Whitworth, and the Reverend Mr. Powderly, and some others.

2792. Just state to his Lordship what you said, and what was said in your presence, and what Kelly said, as you best recollect?—I heard the Reverend Mr. Powderly recommending him to vote vote for Mr. Whitworth; Kelly said he had not his mind made up to vote at all; Mr. Powderley repeated what he had said at first; Kelly still refused; Father Powderley said that Mr. Whitworth's principles were known to be those of the great Liberal party; why would he not vote. Mr. Whitworth said, "Why will you not vote; you know my principles?" I heard that much, and then I added, "Vote with your priests, and for your country." I repeated those words perhaps twice, and then on seeing that he was still obstinate, and refused to vote at all, I said, "Let the fellow go, he doesn't intend to vote; it's useless to press him."

Rev. E. O'Donnell.

2793. Did you use the word "hell," or that "he is going to hell;" or that he was "about to go to hell, where he was always going," or words to the like effect?—I never used the word "hell" on the occasion, nor that "he was going to hell," nor anything whatsoever about "hell" or "damnation," as he attributed to me.

2794. Did you assist the Reverend Mr. Powderley, the last witness, to calm the crowd, or take away the crowd after the occurrence at the bridge?—I did.

2795. And you did your best to quiet them?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Plunkett.

2796. I have no doubt you did your best to quiet the mob at the bridge, and I believe you had some success with them?—I was not on the bridge at all upon that occasion.

2797. After the transaction, you asked the people to disperse?—Yes, I did my best.

2798. And you had some success with them, had you not?—Very considerable, I think.

2799. Until you and the other clergymen addressed them, they were very much excited?—They were excited.

The Reverend THOMAS MATTHEWS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Pallas.

Rev.
T. Matthews.

2811. I BELIEVE you are the parish priest of one of the parishes in Drogheda?—Yes.

2812. How long have you been a clergyman in the town of Drogheda?—Better than 21 years.

2813. Do you know Clarke, who was examined on Saturday?—I do.

2814. Prior to the election, had you any conversation with Clarke, and did you make any promise to support Mr. Whitworth?—I did.

2815. About how long before the election?—It was several weeks; seven or eight weeks I dare say.

2816. Did he promise you that he would vote for Mr. Whitworth?—He said that he would promise to vote for Mr. Whitworth.

2817. Did you on that occasion say you would call upon Mr. Clarke, or did you meet him casually?—I met him casually; he lives close by me.

2818. Do you remember meeting him again on the day of the polling?—Not upon the day of the polling, but I met him some few days before.

2819. What passed upon that occasion?—It was a casual meeting; he was standing at his door, which is quite close by my residence, and having heard that he was going to the entertainment Mr. Brodigan was giving in the evening, eating and drinking, I began to suspect that he might not be firm in his first resolution; he men-

2800. In fact, your addressing them with the other clergymen, had the effect of dispersing them and sending them home?—It sent vast numbers of them home.

2801. I suppose you came there on the nomination day, and supported Mr. Whitworth?—I came there to witness the proceedings.

2802. You are not a voter I suppose?—No.

2803. But you came there to witness the proceedings, and to take part in supporting the candidate you approved of?—I came there not intending to take any active part at all, but merely as a spectator; but I was interested in Mr. Whitworth's return.

2804. But being interested in it, your spirit entered into the spirit of the scene I suppose?—Just so.

2805. Had you not some influence with the mob that day?—Probably they respected me; I had the influence that any respectable person would have, and perhaps something more.

2806. On that occasion, when you saw the voter Kelly, you say that you said, "Let him go;" are you sure that you did not add words to this effect, "the way he is always going"?—I never repeated it.

2807. But did you say it?—I did not say it; I did not know Kelly, consequently I could not say "the way he is always going."

2808. I suppose that if a man of your religious persuasion was opposing the cause of which you approved, you would think he was going a bad way?—We were voting for a Protestant and Independent.

2809. But I speak of the cause?—That is merely a religious question.

2810. But you said, "At all events, let him go"?—It was useless to press him.

[The Witness withdrew.]

tioned also, himself that he was going there and getting the entertainments, and I said to him, "Clarke, I hope you will continue to support Mr. Whitworth," and he said, "I think I will support Mr. Brodigan;" and then I made an observation to the effect that Mr. Brodigan and himself were a very worthless pair.

2820. Did you make use of any expressions to the effect that you would trample him and Brodigan under your feet?—Nothing of that sort whatever.

2821. Do you remember calling at Kelly's house upon the morning of the day of the polling?—I do.

2822. Did you see him?—His wife was in the shop; I stood just inside the door, and I think he descended the stairs from a room up-stairs, and I said, "Kelly, will you come to vote for Mr. Whitworth?" and he answered and said, "Will you give me 20?." Then I told him Mr. Whitworth gave no money; and then he said, "I will not vote without money;" and I said "That is impossible; I will call in another part of the day, and you will have your mind made up;" and I think he said as I retired, "If so, bring 100? with you."

2823. Did you afterwards, in the course of the day, see him in West-street?—Between 10 and 11 o'clock I came up to West-street, to see that all was going on quietly. Kelly was walking here close close to the court, with three or four persons around him, who seemed to be parties acquainted with him, and I said, "Kelly, did you vote?" and he said, "I did vote for Whitworth;" "Take care, Kelly," said I, "I will inquire." Three persons were with him, who I thought were well known to himself, and were not like roughs or anything of that description; I went, and after a time, I made out the booth where Kelly should have voted, and I found he didn't vote; after a time, I met Kelly about the same place, with scarcely any person with him, and I said, "Kelly, you told a lie, you're a great rascal," or something of that kind; and they appeared to urge him to vote, and said he ought to; and after a time, I retired and left him there, but I didn't give him into the hands of the mob in any way.

2824. On the first occasion, before you went to the booth, did you use any expressions, such as, "Hold him there, while I see whether he has voted?"—Nothing whatever of that tendency.

2825. And then, when you found he wouldn't vote, you left him?—I left him.

2826. When did you see him next upon that day?—I don't think I saw him that day after?—

2827. Do you remember seeing a man of the name of Cahill, on the day of the polling?—Yes, I called at his house.

2828. At what hour was that?—Somewhere about 11 o'clock, or perhaps a little before that.

2829. What took place upon that occasion?—I went to Cahill's house; some weeks before, he had told me he would vote for Mr. Whitworth; I called in, and his wife was there, and his son-in-law and daughter, and I asked where was Cahill. They said he was down in the room; I went down and said to Cahill, "Will not you come to vote as you promised," and he said, "They are opposed to me here," meaning his family. With that we came towards the room door, that is the parlour door, quite close by the hall; and the son-in-law particularly said, "Oh, the landlord is here, he cannot go and vote." He said, "I think that he would be destroyed." I said, "Cahill, have you a lease?" "I have," he said, "a long lease;" and immediately after that his daughter came up and said, "You must go with the priest," and he came.

2830. Is that the substance, as well as you can remember, of everything that took place upon that occasion?—Those are the minute particulars.

2831. There was a witness of the name of Boyd, who was examined here; had he promised you to vote upon any occasion?—He had not.

2832. Do you remember after the shot was fired, some of the escorted party coming under your protection?—I was in my own house, and the escort came down; I went along with the escort, and endeavoured to pacify the people. Some little persons, boys and girls, were throwing stones in a small way, so as to let them drop upon the parties in the escort; and they came on to the bridge and met the people at the bridge, immediately the man was shot, and the ranks were broken, and seven, eight, or nine parties whom I knew to be voters, claimed my protection. I gave them protection, and told them they would be quite safe, and I brought them with me, and I put them into Maguire's house; the other houses were closed on account of the crowd in the street. Dr. Breedon, as I found afterwards, had his head cut; he was, I think, the only party that received any injury, and the doctor was sent for to dress the wound, and he came after a little, and I said, "Now remain so, and I will go and get you to vote; I will see some of the authorities." I sent for the sheriff, and some of the other magistrates came with us, and I think six or seven came out; but Dr. Breedon by this time was in bed; he was an old man, and he was feeble.

2833. And any of them who wished to vote you saw were properly escorted?—Yes, I took the first, a Mr. Smith, and I think he voted for Sir Leopold McClintock, and the others did also.

2834. Before you gave them that protection, had you any communication with Mr. Whitworth at all?—None whatever.

2835. Were you about the town the greater part of the day of the polling?—Except when attending on those parties.

2836. Did you do everything in your power for the purpose of quieting the mob?—Everything as the other priests did.

2837. Did you see other priests in the streets upon the same day?—Yes; the Reverend Mr. Gavin was there doing everything to appease the people, and to prevent the throwing of ones.

2838. Was everything done by you during the disturbance to prevent throwing stones?—Certainly, because we knew firstly that it would be a means of injury to the people; and secondly, because we knew it was just what the opposite party would wish.

2839. Did you do anything whatever to excite offence?—Certainly not.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2840. Was there a large number of persons present when you told this man he was a great rascal?—I think there might be six or seven, some few; I don't think they were near enough to hear us; they were about, and he was walking about by himself loosely, through the place.

2841. You are now speaking of Kelly?—Of course.

2842. And you had repeatedly tried to get him to vote for Mr. Whitworth?—Only on that morning; I might have once before; but I knew he was a character, from report and from my own observation, that would not vote without money.

2843. Did you not ask him to vote upon a former occasion?—Perhaps I did; I am not quite sure; but I had no idea that he would vote for anyone except upon this condition.

2844. Did you not state that you had canvassed him originally?—I don't think I stated that.

2845. Perhaps that applied to Clarke?—Just so.

2846. When you met him, you asked him if he had voted, and he said he had, for Mr. Whitworth?—Yes.

2847. How near was that to the voting booth?—I found the voting booth, afterwards, was in Peter-street, and this was two or three perches to the west of the court-house.

2848. Did you find him, when you came back, in the same place?—Not in the same place.

2849. But the people were about him still?—Only a very few.

2850. Do you mean, now, to represent to the Court that, when you went to ascertain whether he had voted, he was a free agent to go where he liked?—Perfectly so.

2851. And

Rev.
T. Matthews.
—
18 January
1869.

Rev. T. Matthews. 2851. And you mean to represent that?—Perfectly.

18 January 1869. 2852. You didn't say, "Hold him, boys, while I try whether he voted?"—Certainly not.

2853. Nor anything to that effect?—Nor to that effect. There were some few persons near him of his own class, and I then said, "Kelly, you shouldn't have told a lie." I may have used the word "rascal"; I dare say I did.

2854. What did you do with him then?—I left him there to himself.

2855. You left him to his own devices?—Exactly.

2856. Did you see Father Broderley afterwards?—No; I think I saw him addressing the people.

2857. Did you see Kelly in the mob after you left him?—No.

2858. You did all you could to make him vote for Mr. Whitworth?—Just what I told you.

2859. You afterwards ascertained, of course, that he refused to vote at all?—He told me early he would not vote without money, and I thought he was looking about for money.

2860. Was it soon after that you went to Cahill and got him?—I didn't say the particular hour. I think Cahill was before that. I will not say that it was a casual meeting with Kelly here.

2861. At about what hour did you get Cahill to vote?—I think it was some short time after 10 o'clock.

2862. Had you been often at his house —I think only once that day, and on a former occasion I was there once when I was on duty in the neighbourhood.

2863. When on duty in the neighbourhood, you dropped in to get the vote for Mr. Whitworth?—Exactly.

2864. And on this occasion, notwithstanding a remonstrance of the man and of some of his family?—He made no remonstrance; he said they were opposed to him in the house, meaning some of his family; but the daughter came down and said he should vote. That, I think, arose from his stating that he had a long lease, and that he had no apprehension of his landlord.

2865. Did you take him then and poll him?—No; he was an old man, and I walked out with him, and helped him up on the car.

2866. And then he voted for Mr. Whitworth?—Then he voted for Mr. Whitworth.

2867. At what hour?—I said at about half-past 10 o'clock, but I wouldn't be quite certain.

2868. He was one of the triumphant majority?—The majority was quite certain weeks before.

2869. And when Mr. Whitworth could not show himself in the street, it was quite certain?—That was in consequence, I believe, of a mob being hired against him.

2870. Brodigan's mob?—I think the other had a mob. I am quite sure of it, so far as observation could go. Sir Leopold McClintock was not known until the advanced part of November.

[The Witness withdrew.]

The Reverend HENRY MCKEE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

Rev. H. McKee. 2871. ARE you one of the Catholic curates of Drogheda?—Yes.

2872. How long have you been in the town?—Nine years.

2873. You are also an elector of Drogheda, are you not?—Yes.

2874. Originally, did you canvass with Mr. Whitworth?—I never canvassed with him.

2875. Had you declined to do so?—Yes.

2876. When first did you go near Mr. Whitworth as a supporter of his?—When Sir Leopold McClintock appeared on the field.

2877. How soon was it after Sir Leopold McClintock came?—From the moment I saw him canvassing I knew he was in earnest; that was on the 14th of November.

2878. I believe the 14th of November was the day his address appeared in the newspapers?—It appeared three or four days previously; it was placarded through the town.

2879. On the day of polling, at what hour did you vote?—At half-past eight o'clock on the day of the polling.

2880. Did you remain about the town on the day of the polling?—I remained in the vicinity of the Tholsel, except that I was away for about 10 minutes, but came back again; I remained in the vicinity of the Tholsel till about half-past nine o'clock.

2881. Up to that time, had you seen any disturbance?—Not until half-past nine o'clock.

2882. What occurred then that you saw?—I saw the Hussars coming up Shop-street, brandishing their swords; I was then afraid there would be a collision between them and the people, as the street was crowded; I then, to create a diversion, went up Peter-street, and took off my hat, and the mob followed me.

2883. Away from the soldiers?—Away from the soldiers.

2884. Did you do that as a matter of precaution and a measure of peace?—Decidedly.

2885. You brought the crowd, you say, up Peter-street?—Yes.

2886. How far did you bring them away from the military; did you bring them completely away from that direction?—Undoubtedly; they followed me up to my own house in Fair-street, where I was going at the time.

2887. Is that your parochial residence?—It is.

2888. Did you then go in there?—Yes.

2889. Did you, after that, come out from your own house, until after you heard that the shot had been fired?—Shortly afterwards, I went into the reading-room of the St. Peter's Young Men's Society, which is next door to our own house, and I remained there reading the paper till shortly after 12 o'clock.

2890. After the shot was fired, did you use any efforts to keep the peace?—I used every effort.

2891. Where did you go after the shot was fired?—As soon as I heard of the man being shot, of which I heard a little after 12 o'clock, I went down to West-street, and I then saw the Reverend James Broderley addressing the crowd from Thomas Daly's windows; I went there to give him all the assistance in my power to preserve the peace.

2892. Did you yourself address the crowd there?—Not from Mr. Daly's.

2893. What did you do then?—Then it was suggested that it would be better to withdraw the crowd from the neighbourhood of the soldiers, and and I and Mr. O'Donnell, and the Reverend Father Glynn and others went down in the direction of the Whitworth Hall for the purpose of addressing them there, and in order to keep them away from the crowd; we then found that the windows would not open, and we went over to William Magee's —, and from those steps Father Broderley addressed them, and I addressed a few words to them also; then Father Glynn and I came down to the Tholsel and found the crowd remaining there, and we thought it better to move them from it; Father Glynn then addressed them from the Tholsel steps, and told them not to interfere with the military; that only two men were criminals, and that we would see justice done in the case, and not to molest the soldiers, who were completely innocent of any part in the shooting; I said, "The two criminals are in custody; we will see them lodged in the gaol, and let no stone be thrown at the military;" and the people took my advice to the letter.

2894. Did you afterwards accompany the military?—I did.

2895. Where did you go?—I went first of all to make certain that the military would not be attacked even by a passing stone; I went with Mr. O'Donnell and Mr. Glynn in front of the military; we went up to the gaol, and then I remained there until I saw those two soldiers safely lodged in gaol; there was a good deal of time occupied in the gaol taking the depositions of the witnesses, &c. After all that was done, I and Father Gavin, and Father Glynn, and Mr. O'Donnell accompanied the military to Milmount Barracks, and parted with them there.

2896. After that, did you see the streets up to five o'clock?—That was about three o'clock; then I went home, and I saw nothing further.

2897. On the Thursday evening, you made a speech from the balcony?—Yes.

2898. Was that the only occasion on which there was any speechifying at which you were present?—I made a speech on Wednesday evening.

2899. But you spoke on the Thursday evening?—Yes.

2900. Have you been in court and heard the evidence given by the Reporter?—I was not present when he read my speech.

2901. Did you see the official short-hand writer's report?—I read the report, in the Conservative journal of this town, which he supplied to the paper.

2902. Can you give any explanation of that to his Lordship; first of all had you heard that an orange mob was coming down?—I had heard that evening—

Mr. M'Donogh objected that that was not evidence.

Witness.] On that occasion, as I had heard four or five of the speeches, I and my brother clergyman, the Reverend Thomas Murphy, went down that evening, at seven o'clock, to Simcocks's hotel, not for the purpose of making speeches at all —

2903. Mr. M'Donogh.] Nobody asked you what you went there for.

2904. 2904. Mr. Heron.] You did not go down for the purpose of making a speech?—Certainly not.

2905. What led to the making of the speech, and what occurred?—The reports were quite general that 500 Orangemen were to come down the next day to Drogheda as an orange mob. It was suggested then that the people should be told of the Orange mob coming down, in order that they might not be taken unawares if those men were let quietly into the town. It was thought well that the people should know that these Orange men were to come in the next day to create a disturbance in the town. I was the second speaker on that occasion. I told him I knew well what an Orangeman was—that I was from the county of Armagh, where Orangeism had its first existence. I then told them that, with all their boasted loyalty, they were not loyal—that they were loyal so long as they got the loaves and fishes, but no longer. Then I said, that not long since, a Protestant minister of the north of Ireland stated that sooner than he would submit to any change from Parliamentary ascendancy, he would throw the Queen's crown into the Boyne, "Now," said I, "are you content to become slaves. It is reported that Orangemen are coming down to-morrow from Dublin to Drogheda; if they do come down, let them be hurled into the Boyne—let us be up at the train, and meet them, and give them a warm reception." That is the entire of the speech, at least substantially. I used the word "Boyne" in connection with the expression of parson Flanigan. The parson said, he would kick the Queen's crown into the Boyne. Then said I, "Hurl them into the Boyne." As I have stated, I didn't leave my own premises from 10 o'clock till about a quarter past 12 o'clock. The man was then shot. I then went to Mr. Daly's. I was not then in the neighbourhood of the Tholsel at all. I therefore did not directly, or indirectly, point out any aged man with a long beard to any mob, to have him assaulted, as was stated by a Trinity College boy.

2906. On the day of the nomination, or the polling, or at any time during the election, did you point out any person to be assaulted by the mob?—No.

2907. Did you point out any person to be insulted by the mob?—Certainly not.

2908. Were you with the mob, or the crowd, at any time, except when you were bringing them away from the military, up towards Peter-street; were you with them upon any occasion during the day; you have already told us that, as a matter of precaution, you brought the people up Peter-street?—Yes; that was at half-past nine o'clock.

2909. Were you with a mob, or crowd, at any other time than that?—Not until the time I was leading the crowd from the Tholsel to Lawrence-street; I was not across the bridge at all.

2910. Were you with the mob at any time except with the intention of preserving the peace?—I think not.

2911. Did you hiss or hoot any person or voter that day?—I did not, nor require it to be done.

Cross-examined by Mr. M'Donogh.

2912. May I ask you, do you indulge generally in historical observations?—Not often.

2913. On this occasion did you give them a touch of Cromwell. I will take the liberty of reading it:—"The Rev. Mr. M'Kee said, this would be a momentous contest; it was a contest against their deadly enemy. He was a North of Ireland man, a native of Ulster. He was born within a few miles of the Yellow Ford, where

Rev.
H. McKee.
1869.

Hugh O'Neill gained a victory over the English. (Cheers). He had read of the persecutions which had occurred in Drogheda in bygone times. They had all heard of the butcher Cromwell, who gave glory to God for the numbers he had butchered in Drogheda in one day. (Hear, hear.) That church which stands at the head of Peter-street had a wooden steeple when Cromwell came to Drogheda, more than 200 years ago. Cromwell went first to Saint Mary's Church, where they had the other day to fight a battle over again. Cromwell was opposed there by the good priests, who mounted the walls to resist him, but they were beaten back, and fled for refuge to St. Peter's Church, which then belonged to the Catholics. (Hear, hear.) Their priests and nuns fled to Peter's Church for refuge, but Cromwell came with his invading army, and what did the butcher do? He found he could not force them to surrender, and he set fire to the steeple, and when they fled from the church he butchered them without the slightest mercy. When the Cromwellians gained the victory they robbed their forefathers of their property. Who are the party that are now coming forward to act a similar part? The descendants of Cromwell's soldiers, whose ancestors hung their forefathers at the Tholsel of Drogheda." That is your speech?—Yes.

2914. Then, "The Rev. Mr. McKee next stated that the present Bishop of Glasgow's father was flogged at Milmount, and that the father of Mr. Brodigan, the present member, went up to see the inhuman act performed. (Groans.) He (Mr. McKee) knew what an Orangeman was; he was sorry to say that Orangism had its origin the county of Armagh. Orangemen say, they will be true to the Government as long as they give them places and emoluments; so long as they give them the loaves and fishes they will be loyal. (Hear, hear.) A Voice: 'Down with the Orangemen!' (Cheering.) Rev. Mr. McKee: "The Orangemen are loyal as long as they get everything in the country; as long as they feed on the vitals of the Catholics. (Cheers). A few months ago one of the ministers in the north of Ireland said, that sooner than they would submit to a change from Protestant ascendancy he would see the crown of the Queen thrown into the Boyne. (Cheers). Now, he asked them, were they to become slaves?" This is the application of all the historical learning?—Yes.

2915. "Were they to become slaves? (No, no.) The Orangemen of Dublin were on next day to come down to Drogheda. (Hear, hear.) If these men should come down let them hurl them into the Boyne. (Vehement cheering.) Let the people meet them in the morning at the train, and give them a warm reception." That is the speech which you delivered on that occasion?—Substantially.

2916. You first gave the history, and then you pointed the moral, "to hurl them into the Boyne"?—No; the moral was to resist Orange ascendancy.

2917. You have told us, in a former part of your evidence, that you waived your hat, and called upon the people to follow you, and the people took your advice to the letter?—Yes, that was after the man was shot.

2918. This was a speech on the night before the man was shot?—Yes.

2919. Your power over the people was so great that they took your advice to the letter?—My power is shared by all the others. As one of the Catholic clergy, I am convinced I have a good share of influence.

2920. Now, you said that the people took your advice to the letter?—Yes.

2921. And you knew they would?—I did.

2922. And when you were addressing them in the language which I have just read, you knew your power over the people?—Yes.

2923. And you said what you meant?—Certainly.

2924. And you meant what you said?—I may have used exaggerated language, of course, on the occasion.

2925. Did you know that Father Gavin went up to the railway station the next morning?—I did not.

2926. Was Father Gavin present when you made that speech?—I could not say; I think he was. I don't recollect having seen him.

2927. Did the Rev. Mr. Broderley try to prevent any speeches being made?—He never spoke to me upon the matter, either directly or indirectly.

2928. Did you see any old gentleman voting for Sir Leopold McClintock in the booth, and afterwards raise your hand and point at him?—I did not; I was at no booth that day, except when recording my own vote.

2929. Did you stand at the door, and point at any voters, after voting?—Most decidedly not.

2930. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You have stated that that report of your speech is substantially correct?—Yes.

2931. You have also stated that you knew the people would take your advice to the letter?—I have said that they did take my advice; I addressed the crowd after the man was shot.

2932. I am not alluding to that; you said that the report of your speech the previous night was substantially correct?—Yes.

2933. You have also stated that you knew the people would take your advice to the letter?—I don't mean upon that occasion; I knew they would be well prepared to meet the Orangemen when they came into the town, and would resist them too, because I believe they were all armed with revolvers. I know what an Orangeman is.

2934. Did you know that the people would go to the railway station on the following morning, after you made that speech?—I believed they would go.

2935. Did you know that they were there on the following morning?—I did not of my own knowledge.

2936. Did you believe they were there?—I concluded they would go there, after my remarks, undoubtedly.

2937. Did you take any step to go amongst them, and to see what would be the result of your remarks?—I did not, for I knew the police had heard my speech, and would be there to take every precaution. It was only a strong form of expression.

2938. You say that you knew they would be there?—I knew the people would be there, to meet the Orangemen coming down from Dublin, in the morning; I know that I expected they would be there.

2939. In consequence of your language?—Yes.

2940. Did it occur to you, that it would be right to try and prevent a collision?—I knew others would do it as well as I would. The railway station is not in my parish; I did not go in that direction.

2941. At

2941. At what hour did you record your vote?
—At half past eight o'clock.

2942. Where did you go after that?—I went up to Mell, beyond Trinity-street, and came down with a voter who voted for Mr. Whitworth.

2943. In what place did he vote?—He voted in one of the polling booths in Lawrence-street.

2944. I thought you told me you were not in a polling booth, except to record your own vote?—Neither was I; he came on a car with me to the Tholsel, and he went into the polling booth and voted.

2945. Then after you recorded your own vote you came down again to the polling booth?—I recorded my vote at half past eight o'clock, I then went up and brought down this voter to the Tholsel; I remained there, outside in the street, till half past nine.

2946. Then it is a fact that after you had recorded your own vote, you did come back again to the polling booths?—Yes, after I recorded my vote, I then went and brought this voter down.

2947. And then you returned to the polling booth?—To the Tholsel.

2948. Then you were mistaken in saying that you didn't return to the polling booths after you had recorded your own vote?—I had not till after 10 o'clock.

2949. You expected the people would go up to meet the Orangemen, whom you also expected would be armed?—I believed they would be coming down by special train in the morning, not by the ordinary train; I believed they would be here by about seven o'clock, or so, that morning; and I heard they were come and gone at half-past 8. When I voted I heard that the Orangemen had come and were gone, and believing so, I then knew that there was no other cause for excitement whatever, and then I concluded that everything would be calm and tranquil for the remainder of the day, the Orangemen having gone back to Dublin.

2950. Did it occur to you to communicate that, if it was your belief, to the people whom you had addressed the previous evening?—They had all heard it; it was quite the opinion that they had come and gone.

2951. At what hour?—At half-past nine.

2952. Then, it is a fact which you now state, that at half past nine o'clock it was generally believed in the town, that the persons you call Orangemen, had come and had gone?—Yes; that was my impression.

2953. And that there was no danger of any collision with them?—Yes.

2954. And for that reason you returned to your own house?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew

The Rev. THOMAS GAVIN, sworn; Examined by Mr Hamill.

2955. Are you Curate in what is called St. Mary's parish?—I am.

2956. How long have you been a curate in Drogheda?—Going on for four years.

2957. Is your residence between James's-street and the railway station?—It is about half-way.

2958. I believe you made a speech upon the night of the Thursday preceding the election?—I did.

2959. That speech has been read, perhaps you have seen it?—Yes.

2960. Is there anything in that speech that you would like to answer upon?—It is all substantially true, with one exception.

2961. What is that?—Where it is mentioned that I said "you will meet them to-morrow," and I was interrupted, there was a shout, "We will." But then I said, "You will despise them," and then immediately after that I said, "I do not want people to treat those hirelings as they should be treated; but I want to show to what extent those in the interest of the Conservative party go to send Sir Leopold McClintock to perpetuate that badge of conquest and blot upon the English Constitution."

2962. Have the words, "We will despise them," been omitted from the report?—They were omitted from the report.

2963. On the morning of Friday, did you see persons near to you, or where you reside, upon the steps or roadway?—I saw about 40 or 50 girls.

2964. Did you see some men also?—I saw some that were about their business.

2965. Did you observe the girls throw stones at those men?—I did.

2966. When you saw that, what did you do?—I ran down as fast as I could; however, they began to pelt, but as soon as I got an opportunity

I raised my hand, and I said, "For God's sake stop this." There were two men, and one of them came and seized me by the collar, and there was a screech made that I was going to be killed.

2967. Where did those two men come from?—One man turned out from among the party.

2968. Were they the people at whom the girls were throwing stones?—They belonged to the party.

2969. When those men caught you, what happened?—The girls ran and threw themselves between us, and I raised my hands over the heads of those men that I wanted to put away the sticks, and one of the men seeing that I was anxious to save them, said, "Why won't you take Father Gavin's speech."—So they pulled off the girls, and I said, "For God's sake let me out, and it will be all right."

2970. Did you succeed in protecting those men?—I did; I sent them with two or three respectable men up through the crowd.

2971. Do you remember when the escort was coming down the road, sometime about 12 o'clock?—I do.

2972. Do you recollect Mr. Reed, the magistrate, having spoken to you?—Yes.

2973. Are you the clergyman that he referred to in his examination?—I am.

2974. Did you, before he spoke to you at all, do your best to quiet the people?—Yes; if I got the world I could not do more.

2975. Did you speak to the people?—I spoke to the people from the Tholsel four times.

2976. To go back; did you speak to them before Mr. Reed spoke to you in James's-street?—Yes, and I took hold of the collar of one fellow, and I told him I would strike him with a stick if he took up one stone.

2977. Did you all through that do your best to keep the people quiet?—If I could get the world, I could do no more.

2978. Do you recollect stating to them afterwards, to the effect that the man who had raised a stick or threw a stone would be an enemy?—I stated it here, opposite Clarke's stores, from the steps, and I think Mr. James Matthews was present.

2979. You did all you could to keep the people quiet?—I did all I could; I could do no more.

2980. Did you canvass for Mr. Whitworth at all?—No, never.

2981. In point of fact, did you take any part in the canvassing?—I have not taken any part in any election at all, nor did I intend to take any part at all beyond recording my vote.

2982. Do you know a person of the name of Ray?—I know a person, an old Mr. Ray.

2983. Were you in court when James Ray, his nephew was being examined?—I was.

2984. Did you hear Ray say that he had been attacked by some mill-people, girls and boys, and that you said to them, "You have a holiday, boys, and you know how to enjoy it;" did you use those words, or anything of that kind?—Certainly not, nor anything of that kind more than that I did not see Mr. Ray the whole day.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2985. Those are words you would not use?—Which words?

2986. Just what you have negatived, "You have a holiday boys, and you know how to enjoy it"?—I would see no reason for using the word "holiday," because it was not a holiday.

2987. Do you know the meaning of the word?—I know what a holiday is; it is a vacant day.

2988. I know it is, too; we have no vacant days; but do you know the meaning of the language attributed to you?—Yes; I say that the meaning of it should be, that it was exciting the people to beat others.

2989. That is the meaning of it; that is what I understood by the language?—I think so.

2990. Having a remote resemblance to the more vulgar expression, "Do not nail his ears to the pump," do not you think so; now, I will take the liberty of reading the language you did use—"The Rev. Mr. Gavin now came forward amid loud cheers, he said, he knew by their voices that they proclaimed him a friend, not an enemy. (Cheers.) He knew by their voices that they believed he was prepared, as their forefathers were, to go to the block, lay down his head, and sacrifice his life for their interests. (Cheers.) When he last spoke to them, he told them that there was a crisis arrived at in reference to the three kingdoms." You had spoken in the early part of the evening?—No.

2991. Then I beg your pardon; I refer to another speech. "When he last spoke to them, he told them that there was a crisis arrived at in reference to the three kingdoms, England, Scotland, and Ireland, but particularly to Ireland. ('Down with the Orangemen.') He told them last evening that there was a question not only before the three kingdoms, but before all Europe; a question was brought before the people to decide, and that question was the disendowment and the disestablishment of the Protestant Church, which was generated and nurtured in lust and crime, while it was fattened on the spoil and robbery of the Catholic property and the Catholic Church of Ireland. (Great cheering.) (A voice:

'Down with Brodigan and the Orangemen.') (Cheering.) Rev. Mr. Gavin: The people of England were not acquainted with our grievances until their eyes were opened by a continuous rebellion. (Hear, hear.) The question of disestablishment and disendowment of that Church which was placed upon your shoulders is now understood in England to be a grievance in this country, and the question for you is—Will you give your voices against it? Up to a very recent period he had not intended to identify himself with the politics of the town; but when he saw a man—by the way a most respectable and an educated man—of the name of Mr. McClintock, coming into Drogheda to be returned by the voices of the Liberals and Catholics of Drogheda, his blood rose to his face, and he blushed for shame that such a man would get a chance of becoming representative for the town. (Hear, hear.) All that he wanted to tell his hearers, in conclusion was, that on yesterday, in the City of Dublin, some of the friends of ascendancy in this town hired 300 assassins to come and butcher the Catholics of Drogheda. (Tremendous uproar, and loud cries of 'Down with the Orangemen.') He asked them would they meet them? (Several voices: 'We will, we will,' and vehement cheering.) He assured them, on the word of a priest, that what he said was a fact, that some party in the favour of the Orange candidate here went to Dublin, and purchased the tag, rag, and bobtail of Orangedom to come down and butcher them to-morrow. (Loud manifestations of sensation.) He did not want the people of Drogheda to treat those hirelings as they deserved; but he merely wanted to show to what extremes the Orange party are capable of going, seeking for victory, in order that McClintock may be another who will, by his vote, assist to perpetuate that badge of conquest and blot on the English Constitution—the Protestant Church. (Cheering.) Did any of them know the Irish language? Did they know what a ranthan was? He would explain it to them; it was a calf with a dirty tail—no matter, although Mr. McClintock may be a gentleman and a man of education, he called him a ranthan; for from many of those of his supporters, it was clear he had a dirty tail. (Loud cheers and laughter.) No matter how learned a man and great sailor Mr. McClintock may be, he may sound well with his plummet remarkably well; but when he comes to use it here, seeking for mud and dirt, he will find amongst us adamant rock to the bottom." I have read that speech for you, and you intended that the people should meet these 300 assassins?—No; but I say that they would meet them so certain they were to come. I say that is what I said there, and I swear it that I said "you will meet them," that is, you will certainly meet them and despise them, and there is a displacement, so far as I recollect. The next part of my speech was, that I did not want that the people of Drogheda should treat those hirelings as they should be treated, only so far as those persons in the interest of Mr. McClintock went to perpetuate that badge of conquest.

2992. You pledged your word as a priest to the matter of fact, that the 300 Orangemen were coming to butcher the Catholics?—I did.

2993. Did you intend that the people should assemble at the railway station?—Certainly not.

2994. Will you swear that?—I swear it upon my oath, and it never came into my head.

2995. And

2995. And you never thought it would occur?—Never, never.

2996. Did you say some time ago that some of them said, “we will meet them”?—Yes; but that was before they gave me time; they interrupted me. As soon as I said “you will meet them tomorrow,” some parties in the crowd said, “we will.” “But you will despise them,” said I.

2997. When you used the words “you will meet them,” they said “we will meet them”?—They interrupted me in that part of the sentence. Some few of them said, it in the crowd, and then I finished the sentence.

2998. And what brought you there in the early morning?—The first place I went to was to the booth, and when I went up I heard the magistrates had made an arrangement. I went to the magistrates, and spoke to them of the propriety of having the police there to search them, or take precautions against letting people into the town on unsuspecting people.

2999. What brought you there again in the morning?—I was told they had police there to search them, and to take arms or knives or any wicked instrument they had with them. I saw the police there, and I was fully certain when the train came in that that was to be gone through; the magistrate was at the station with me, and he told me it was to be done, and I waited there to see it.

3000. And you now swear that, having told the people to meet them, and you having heard the people say they would, you went to see the process gone through of the magistrates and police depriving those men of their knives and dangerous weapons, and anything else?—That is what I swear.

The Rev. THOMAS LANGAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

3001. ARE you a Roman Catholic clergyman?—I am.

3002. Are you a parish priest?—I am.

3003. Where?—Of ——— lately called ———

3004. Do you know the men named Usher and Devine?—I know Devine well; I don't know the other by name, but I identified them here.

3005. Did you have any conversation with those two men before the election?—I had.

3006. Was a third man named McDonnell there?—I don't know; they were the two men that were examined next after Devine.

3007. What conversation had you with them?—I met them at the Balbriggan station, at between 9 and 10 o'clock.

Mr. McDonogh objected to this, on the ground of its being recriminatory evidence, the seat not being claimed.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

3008. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Where was the conversation?—Partly in the waiting-room at Balbriggan, partly on the platform outside.

3009. On what day was it?—On Wednesday, the 18th of November.

3010. That is two days before the polling?—I believe so.

3011. Will you tell his Lordship what happened?—Am I to detail the conversation? I cannot do it without repeating what I said myself.

Mr. McDonogh requested his Lordship to take a note of the objection which he had raised.

Mr. Justice Keogh did not think it necessary to do so.

Mr. JOHN DEVITT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

3014. ARE you the court-keeper?—Yes.

3015. Before the day of the nomination, was this placard about the town (pointing to a placard)?—Yes; in several places.

3016. Was it in that form, with a cross on a green ground?—It was.

3017. In many places?—In many places.

3018. Was this one also (handing a paper to the Witness) placed about the town?—It was, in many places.

27.

3012. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Tell us shortly what you said?—We were talking of politics, and I said as a rule, I preferred the Tory landlords and Tory agents to what is called the Liberals, the Whigs. I specified the names of Colonel Taylor, Mr. Woods, and Mr. Cottington, and their respective agents; and I asked them who or what they were, and they said, that unfortunately they were tenants-at-will, having votes in Drogheda; that they were prisoners or something equivalent to that in Balbriggan, to go down to the elections in Drogheda to vote; and to my remark that there was no great difference between one candidate and the other, they said that they would vote for the man that gave the employment, Whitworth, if they were left free. I said, “if you make this statement to Mr. Harry Hamilton he will not ask you to go; I believe him to be an honest and an honourable gentleman.” That occurred inside, and one of the men followed me out when I got into the carriage, and put in his hand and shook hands with me, and burst out crying, “For God's sake speak; do something for us, do something for us.” It was not until afterwards that I thought he meant to save him from voting. I believed at the time that he meant he would not object to a little coercion, in order that he might not vote. I cannot swear to that, but that is my impression; he wished me to speak to Mr. Harry Hamilton.

3013. That is the only conversation you had with him?—Yes.

R E P O R T S.

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

COUNTY OF THE CITY OF DUBLIN ELECTION PETITION.

IN the matter of the Petition of George Foley and Thomas Woodlock, Petitioners; Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., Respondent.

THE matter of this Petition (of which I annex a copy) came on to be tried before me, at Dublin, on the 23rd day of January last, and continued on 10 succeeding days, in presence of the parties, their counsel and agents, and having heard the evidence, and what was offered on both sides, at the conclusion of the trial, on the 5th day of February 1869, I determined, and I do accordingly certify to the Right Hon. the Speaker of the House of Commons, that the last election for the said county of the city of Dublin was, so far as related to the return of the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., a void election; and

That the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., was not duly elected to serve in Parliament for the said county of the city of Dublin.

That the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., was, by his agents, guilty of bribery at said election, and I do hereby report that it has not been proved before me that such bribery was committed by, or with the knowledge or consent of, the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart.; and I do further report,

That the following freemen electors (that is to say): John Frederick Kirk, Richard Butler, junior, William Walker, George Hagarty, William Beckett, Henry Bailey, John Wilson, Robert Wilson, Benjamin Katherens (otherwise Catherens), Michael Richard Steele, and Joseph Hassett, were bribed on the day of polling to vote, or in consideration of having voted, for the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart.

That, in addition to the persons whose names I have so reported, it was proved that from 20 to 30 other freemen, whose names were not disclosed, received bribes at the same house in which those named were bribed, and on the day of polling, in consideration of voting, or of having voted, for the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart.

That Henry Foster William Campbell and William Watkins were proved to have bribed the said freemen.

That two other freemen, namely, Richard Jesson (now deceased) and George Booth were bribed to vote for the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., by Benjamin Warren.

That George McDonnell and William Field, both freemen, were bribed to vote for the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., by William Robinson.

That other freemen, from 10 to 14 in number, who were not sufficiently identified by name, were bribed to vote for the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., by the said William Robinson.

That Henry Cramer, a rated occupier, was bribed to vote for the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., by the said William Robinson.

That Alexander Ferguson, a rated occupier, and John Kelly, a lodger, were bribed by William John Vance to vote for said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart.

That Davenport Crosthwaite and William Johnston were guilty of bribing 41 out-voters, by promises to pay their travelling expenses, on condition of their voting for the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart.

That it was proved that freemen voters, to the number of 30, did apply, previous to the said election, to the agents of Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., to obtain bribes in consideration of their voting for the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart.

That several of the parties so applying, and other freemen voters, numbering over 200, were induced to sign agreements pledging themselves to give their services gratuitously to the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness at the said election, but such agreements were colourable, and formed with the object of evading the provisions of the Statutes against the giving employment to voters at or previous to elections.

That it was further proved that a considerable number of the said freemen voters were, on the day of polling, seeking payment of money from William Campbell, an agent of Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., in consideration of their having voted for the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart.; and I do report that I have reason to believe that corrupt practices have extensively prevailed amongst the freemen voters at the said election for the county of the city of Dublin.

And I do further report, that, save as I have reported respecting the said freemen, corrupt practices have not been shown to have extensively prevailed, nor is their reason to believe that corrupt practices have extensively prevailed at the election to which the said Petition relates.

Given under my hand this Fifteenth day of February, One thousand Eight hundred and Sixty-nine.

WILLIAM KEOGH,

Judge of the Court of Common Pleas on the Rota for the Trial of Election Petitions in Ireland.

A copy of the evidence taken at the trial, as furnished to me by the House of Commons shorthand writer, who was duly sworn before me faithfully to take down the same pursuant to the Statute, accompanies this my certificate.

WILLIAM KEOGH.

COUNTY OF THE CITY OF DUBLIN ELECTION PETITION.—(No. 2.)

IN the matter of the Petition of the Hon. David Robert Plunket, Petitioner; Jonathan Pim, Esq., M.P., Respondent.

Sir,

I HAVE the honour to report to you that this Petition was withdrawn, with my leave, upon special application, and in pursuance of the Statute in that behalf made and provided; and, in my opinion, the withdrawal of such Petition was not the result of any corrupt arrangement, or in consideration of the withdrawal of any other Petition.

I have, &c.

WILLIAM KEOGH,

Judge of the Court of Common Pleas on the Rota for the Trial of Election Petitions in Ireland.

To the Right Hon. the Speaker of the House of Commons.

IN THE COMMON PLEAS.

ELECTION for the County of the City of Dublin, holden on the 18th day of November, in the Year of our Lord 1868.

THE PETITION of George Foley, of 99, Lower Baggot-street, in the County of the City of Dublin, Barrister, and of Thomas Woodlock, of 42, Dame-street, in the said County of the City of Dublin, Stock-broker, whose names are subscribed hereto.

1. YOUR Petitioner, George Foley, is a person who voted at the above election, and your Petitioner, Thomas Woodlock, is a person who voted at the above election.

2. And your Petitioners state that the election was holden on the 18th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1868, when Jonathan Pim, Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, the Honourable David Robert Plunket, and Sir Dominick Corrigan, were candidates, and the returning officer has returned the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness and the said Jonathan Pim, as being duly elected.

3. And your Petitioners say that, before, during, and after the said election, the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness did corruptly by himself, and his agents, managers, and friends, and by other persons on his behalf, directly and indirectly, give and lend, and did agree to give and lend, and did offer and promise, and did offer and promise to procure, and to endeavour to procure, money and other valuable considerations, and also offices and places, appointments and employments, to and for divers persons having votes at the said election, and to and for other persons on behalf of such voters, in order to induce such several voters to vote, or to refrain from voting, at the said election; and did also corruptly make such gifts, loans, offers, and promises of money and other valuable considerations, and of offices, places, appointments, and employments to divers voters at the said election, and to other persons on behalf of such voters, to induce such voters to refrain from voting, or on account of such voters having voted or refrained from voting, at the said election; and did also make such gifts, loans, and offers and promises as aforesaid to divers persons in order to induce them to procure, or endeavour to procure, the return of the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness to serve in the present Parliament for the said county of the city of Dublin; and did also advance and pay, and cause to be advanced and paid, money to and for the use of certain persons, with the intent that such money, or some part thereof, should be expended in bribery at the said election.

4. And your Petitioners further say that, before, during, and after the said election, the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness did corruptly by himself, his agents, managers, and friends, and by and with other persons on his behalf, directly and indirectly, give and provide, and cause to be given and provided, and did knowingly allow to be given and promised, and was accessory to the giving and providing, and did wholly or in part pay, expenses incurred for meat, drink, entertainment, and provisions to and for divers persons having votes at the said election, and to and for other persons on behalf of such voters, and to and for divers other persons, in order to be elected, and for being elected, and for the purpose of corruptly influencing such persons and other persons to give or refrain from giving their votes at the said election, and did also so do to divers persons on account of such persons and other persons having voted or refrained from voting, or being about to vote or refrain from voting, at the said election.

5. And your Petitioners further say that the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness before, during, and after the said election, did, by himself, his agents and friends, and by divers other persons on his behalf, pay money on account of the conveyance of voters to the poll.

6. And your Petitioners further say that the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness did, by himself and his agents, and by others on his behalf, inflict or threaten to inflict loss, damage, harm, and injury, and by divers ways and means practise intimidation upon or against divers persons in order to induce or compel such persons to vote or refrain from voting at the said election, and did by fraudulent devices and contrivances impede, prevent, and otherwise interfere with the free exercise of the franchise of divers voters, and did thereby compel, induce, or prevail upon divers voters either to vote or refrain from voting at such election.

7. And your Petitioners further state that the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness was, by himself and his agents, guilty of bribery before, at, and after said election.

8. And your Petitioners further state that the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness was, by himself and his agents, guilty of corrupt practices before, at, and after said election.

9. And your Petitioners further state that the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness was, by himself and his agents, guilty of intimidation and undue influence before, at, and after the said election.

Whereupon your Petitioners pray that it may be determined that the said Sir Arthur Edward Guinness was not duly elected or returned, and that his said election was null and void, and that your Petitioners may have such further and other relief as to this court may seem fit.

GEORGE FOLEY,
THOMAS WOODLOCK.

IN THE COMMON PLEAS.

THE PARLIAMENTARY ELECTION ACT, 1868.

ELECTION for the County of the City of Dublin.

THE PETITION of the Honourable David Robert Plunket, of Lower Pembroke-street, in the City of Dublin, whose name is subscribed.

1. Your Petitioner, the Honourable David Robert Plunket, is a person who claims to be returned at the above election.

2. And your Petitioner states that the election was holden on the 18th day of November 1868, when Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, Bart., Jonathan Pim, Honourable David Robert Plunket, and Sir Dominic Corrigan, were candidates; and the returning officer returned Sir Arthur Edward Guinness and Jonathan Pim as being duly elected.

3. And your Petitioner says that the number of votes declared for each of the said candidates were respectively as follows:

Sir Arthur Edward Guinness	-	-	-	-	-	5,587
Jonathan Pim	-	-	-	-	-	5,586
Honourable David Robert Plunket	-	-	-	-	-	5,452
Sir Dominic Corrigan	-	-	-	-	-	5,379

And that the majority of votes declared by the returning officer in favour of the said Jonathan Pim over your Petitioner was only an apparent and colourable majority, inasmuch as votes of divers persons were accepted and recorded on the poll in favour of the said Jonathan Pim who were not legally entitled to vote, and had no legal right to vote at the said election; and that a real majority of good and legal votes polled at the said election was in favour of your Petitioner over the said Jonathan Pim.

4. And your Petitioner says that, at the said election, divers persons were admitted to vote, and did vote at the said election for the said Jonathan Pim, who were not legally entitled to vote at such election, such persons having been, at the time of said election, disqualified from or incapable of voting, on the ground of legal incapacity, under by virtue of the statutable enactments then in force; or of having been, at the time of the said voting, so disqualified from voting on the ground of legal incapacity which had arisen subsequently to the time allowed for making out the list of voters from which the register of voters in force at the time of such election had been formed; and that said persons, for the reasons aforesaid, were not entitled to vote at such election, and that the votes so admitted should be struck off from the poll.

5. And your Petitioner says that divers persons voted for the said Jonathan Pim at such election who were, or had been, during such election or within six calendar months previous thereto, retained, hired, or employed for all or some of the purposes of such election for reward by, or on behalf of, some or one of said candidates at such election as agent, canvasser, clerks, or messengers, or in some other like employment; and that such votes were admitted and entered as good votes for the said Jonathan Pim, and ought to be struck off the poll.

6. That divers persons were admitted to vote, and thus votes were entered at such election for the said Jonathan Pim who were not legally qualified or entitled to, but who personated other persons duly entitled to vote at such election, whose names appeared upon the register of voters, and who did not vote at such election, and that such votes ought to be struck off the poll.

7. That

7. That many persons were admitted to vote, and did vote at the said election for the said Jonathan Pim, who were guilty of the offence of bribery at such election within the meaning of the statutable enactments in that case made and provided, and that the votes so entered ought to be struck off the poll.

8. That many persons were admitted to vote, and did vote at the said election for the said Jonathan Pim, after the tests of the writ for holding such election, and before, during, and after said election, were treated, and made engagements, and received promises for being treated, and had been guilty of the offence of treating, within the meaning of the statutable enactments in that case made and provided, and that the votes so entered should be struck off the poll.

9. That by the ways and means aforesaid, and also by the bribery and treating herein-after mentioned, the said Jonathan Pim obtained an apparent majority over your Petitioner, whereas in truth and in fact your Petitioner had a majority of legal votes over the said Jonathan Pim, and was duly elected by such majority of votes to serve as a Member in the present Parliament for the said county of the city of Dublin, and ought to have been returned as such Member.

10. And your Petitioner says that, before, during, and after the said election, the said Jonathan Pim, by himself, his agents, and other persons on his behalf, directly and indirectly, did give and lend, and did agree to give and lend, and did offer and promise to procure, and to endeavour to procure money and other valuable consideration, and also offices, places, and employments to and for divers persons having votes at the said election, and to and for other persons on behalf of such voters, in order to induce such several voters to vote or refrain from voting at said election, and did also corruptly make such gifts, loans, promises of money, and other valuable considerations, and of offices, places, and employments to divers voters at the said election, and to other persons on their behalf, on account of such voters having voted or refrained from voting at such election; and did also make such gifts, loans, offers, and promises, procurement, and agreements, as aforesaid, to divers persons, in order to induce them to procure, or endeavour to procure, the return of the said Jonathan Pim to serve in the present Parliament for the said city of Dublin, and the votes of divers voters at such election.

11. And your Petitioner says that, after the test of the writ for holding such election, the said Jonathan Pim, by himself, his agents, friends, and some other persons employed on his behalf, directly and indirectly, did give, present, and allow to divers persons having votes at such election, meat, drink, entertainment, and provisions; and did, before, during, and after such election, promise, engage, and agree to do the same to and with such persons, in order to be elected, or for having been elected; and that before, during, and after the said election, the said Jonathan Pim did corruptly, by himself and his agents, and by and with other persons on his behalf, directly and indirectly give and provide, and cause to be given and provided, and did knowingly allow to be given and provided, and did wholly or in part pay for the giving and providing, meat, drink, entertainment, and provision, to and for divers persons having votes at the said election, for the purpose of corruptly influencing of such persons, and other persons, to give or refrain from giving their votes at said election; and did also so do to and for divers persons, on account of such persons having voted or refrained from voting at such election; and that the said Jonathan Pim was, by himself and his agents, guilty of divers acts of bribery, treating, and corruption, at such election; and that, by reason of the premises, the said election of the said Jonathan Pim was wholly null and void.

Wherefore your Petitioner prays that it may be determined that the said Jonathan Pim was not duly elected and returned, and that his election was wholly null and void; and that your Petitioner had a majority of legal votes over the said Jonathan Pim, and was duly elected by such majority of votes at such election, and ought to have been returned, and ought now to be declared the sitting Member.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN before the Right Honourable Mr. Justice Keogh, on the TRIAL of the ELECTION PETITION for the CITY of DUBLIN, at the Sessions House, Green Street, Dublin.

Saturday, 23rd January 1869.

WOODLOCK and FOLEY	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	Petitioners.
GUINNESS	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	Respondent.

Mr. Heron, Q.C., Mr. Hemphill, Q.C., Mr. Palles, Q.C., and Mr. O'Shaughnessy, appeared as Counsel for the Petitioners. 23 January 1869.

Mr. David Fitzgerald appeared as Agent.

Mr. McDonogh, Q.C., Mr. Butt, Q.C., Mr. Exham, Q.C., Mr. Purcell, Q.C., Mr. Atkinson, and Mr. O'Byrne, appeared as Counsel for the Respondent.

Mr. Frederick Sutton appeared as Agent.

Mr. Heron was heard to open the allegations of the Petition.

At the conclusion of his address he stated that they had subpoenaed officers of the Telegraph Company to produce certain telegrams, but that those persons did not feel at liberty to produce them without the sanction of the Court.

Mr. Exham resisted the application.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that he had authority beyond that of an ordinary tribunal, and that it would be better that Mr. Sanger, who did not wish to produce these documents, should afford an opportunity of having them inspected.

JOHN FREDERICK KIRK, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

1. WHERE do you live?—2, Mark-street.
2. In this city?—Yes.
3. Are you upon the list of voters as a free-man?—I am.
4. Did you vote at the late election for the city of Dublin?—I did.
5. For whom did you vote?—For Guinness and Plunket.
6. What are you by trade and calling?—A printer.
7. Are you a printer upon your own account, or upon that of anyone else?—For W. O. Toole.
8. Where does he live?—In Brunswick-street.
9. Are you a reader?—Yes, a reader.
10. Do you know a person named John Carroll?—I do.
11. Is he a fellow workman of yours in the establishment of W. O. Toole?—He is.
12. Do you recollect before the last election, the 18th November, having had any conversation with John Carroll, in reference to the election?—Yes, we were constantly speaking of it.
- 29.

Mr. Butt objected to the question.

J. F. Kirk.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

13. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Had you any conversation with John Carroll?—Yes.

14. Do you know where Guinness and Plunket's ward committee-rooms were? were they in the street in which you were living?—No, in Westland-row.

15. Had they one in South Anne's-street?—I think they had.

16. Did Carroll, the day before the election, show you any paper?—He did.

Mr. Butt again interposed, on the ground that the question was inadmissible.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

17. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Did he show you a paper?—He did.

18. Was it the day before the election?—No; I think it was a week before.

A

18. What

J. F. Kirk.

23 January
1869.

19. What did he say to you?

Mr. Butt objected to the question.

20. What was the paper about?

Mr. Butt objected again.

Mr. Justice Keogh allowed the question to be put.

Mr. Justice Keogh. It may save trouble in the beginning of this inquiry, if I state my views in reference to the lists. I made the order that the lists should be given, and it is right, following the principles of the House of Commons, that the Parliamentary lists should be given, but I will not shut out the parties, in any fair case, from going beyond the list. Besides, while the Legislature tells the Judge he should originate an inquiry if he see reason so to do, why should I shut out parties who require liberty to amend the lists? I shall allow the utmost latitude to amend. It has been reserved by the order, and unless it is a case in which I see that the party kept back information at the time he furnished the list, I shall allow the amendment.

21. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] What did he say to you when he showed you the paper?—He said that several persons had called upon him from St. Anne's-street.

Mr. Butt objected to this line of evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh said he could not see how he could shut out a preliminary investigation.

22. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Go on, witness, and state what occurred?—He said that several persons had called upon him from St. Anne's-street.

23. Did he say what they called for?—To sign the paper that he showed me.

24. Do you recollect the substance of the paper?—It was something like this, that they gave their gratuitous services for Guinness and Plunket.

25. Did he tell you anything further?—He said that he was going to vote for Pim and Corrigan. He said he would not sign it, and I might see what I could do with it.

26. Did he give you a paper?—He did.

27. Did he tell you where to go with it?—The committee rooms, South Anne's-street, Guinness and Plunket's.

28. Did he tell you for what purpose you were to go there?—To try and get some money.

29. Did you receive any polling card that day for Guinness and Plunket?—I cannot say that I did upon that day.

30. What sort of a card was it?—Lithographed.

31. What was on it; were the names of voters on it?—It was the regular soliciting card.

32. An ordinary polling card?—Yes.

33. Did you after that conversation go to the meeting at South Anne's-street?—I went to the committee rooms.

34. About what time in the day was it?—Between three and four o'clock.

35. Did you see any one in the wards' committee rooms?—I did; I saw a person sitting in an arm-chair.

36. Was he writing?—He seemed, like, to be a clerk.

37. Did he appear to be in charge of the place?

—Oh yes, no one else was there, I showed him the polling card.

38. Did he give you any directions?—He said there would be a meeting of the wards that evening, and to come down between eight and nine o'clock.

39. When were you to call to the committee rooms, South Anne's-street; did you afterwards go to those rooms?—No; as I was leaving, he asked me where I lived; I told him; he said, "This is not the address, go to Trinity Ward."

40. Did he tell you where that was?—Yes.

41. Where?—Westland-row.

42. Did you go there that evening to the committee room?—I did.

43. When you went there, were there many people present?—The room was crowded.

44. What were they doing?—They seemed to be organizing bringing up voters.

45. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Upon what evening was this?—The night previous to the election.

46. Mr. Hemphill.] The nomination or the polling?—The day before the polling.

47. Mr. Justice Keogh.] The 17th November?—Yes.

48. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you know any of the persons who were taking an active part in the room?—Not one.

49. Would you know them if you saw them?—I would know the leading men.

50. Was your name called out?—My name was entered as living at 30 Mark-street; my number there is two. A party said he had been looking for me, and could not find me.

51. When the name is called out, did you answer?—I said I was the person.

52. When you said that, did anyone say anything to you?—A party, who seemed to be a conducting man, handed me a paper.

53. What sort of a looking man was that?—A reddish-looking man.

54. Stout or thin?—Medium.

55. Did he show you a paper?—Yes; similar to what Carroll gave me.

56. Was it printed in red or black ink?—I am not sure; I think it was red.

57. Did he ask you to do anything with it?—He asked me, did I sign one, I said, "No;" he then asked, "Would I?" I said, "Yes."

58. Did you sign it?—I did, and he kept it.

59. Did he give you any card?—He did.

60. What was on it?—Four or five persons' names to be brought up next morning.

61. They all lived in Mark-street?—Except one.

62. Is this a portion of the card (fragments of a card were handed to Witness)?—Yes.

63. Did he tell you to go?—He told me to go to the poll in the morning.

64. Did you see similar cards given to others?—Nearly to every other.

65. Did you see the name of any remarkable person on the card?—I saw the name of the provost.

66. The provost of what?—Of Trinity College, and the professor of the University.

67. And was the person who got the card desired to bring the gentleman up?—Yes.

68. Were the names of all the parties to be canvassed, read out?—Oh no; they were merely handed to them.

69. Did you hear the names of the Provost and the Professor of the University read out?—I did.

70. How

70. How was that received?—They all commenced to laugh.

71. Was there anything on that occasion about money?—Not a word.

72. Did the gentleman who handed you the card make any observation about next morning?—He said generally to us, he hoped to see us next morning.

73. Did you the next morning look after the parties upon your card?—I did.

74. Did you go with them to the poll?—I did; I went about nine o'clock, and all had polled.

75. Did you go to Green-street to poll?—Yes.

76. At what hour?—About half-past two.

77. Did you go to the right booth?—No, for the numbers were wrong.

78. Did you meet anyone when you were going into the wrong booth?—No; but when going through Halston-street.

79. Did you know the person?—Yes.

80. What was his name?—Campbell.

81. Do you see him in court?—

Witness looked round, and did not make any reply.

The name of W. J. Campbell was called; he did not answer.

82. Mr. Butt.] I wish the Witness to describe Campbell?—He is a peculiar-looking man, with a big red nose.

83. His features?—Big eyes.

84. Had you a slight acquaintance with him?—I had a slight knowledge.

85. Had you known him some time?—Yes, six or seven years.

86. Did he address you first?—He accosted me; he asked me had I voted. I said I had not. He asked me had I a card? I said I had; said he, "There is money going."

87. Anything more?—He said, "If he got me 5 l., would I give him 1 l. I said I would.

88. What did he do then?—He called me up the courtway, and he wrote some words upon a little bit of paper, I do not remember the words, I was going to take the paper, and he said, "Ah, no, that is for myself." He also said, "Come on, and we'll look for the polling place." The same mistake occurred as on the first time; I went down, and crossing the court a young man crossed; he followed us, and Campbell said, "A card will be put into your hand as soon as you have polled, and take care of it," or something in that way.

89. Was it the young man or Campbell who said that?—Campbell.

90. Did the young man say anything?—Not a word; he went rather before us, looking out for the polling place.

91. Did you, after that, vote for Guinness and Plunket?—I did.

92. After you voted, was anything given to you?—The ticket was run into my hand.

93. What sort of a ticket?—A railway ticket.

94. What railway?—I did not know, for I did not open the ticket till I was down in Capel-street.

95. Who gave you that?—The young man.

96. Whom you had met going in?—Yes.

97. After you got the railway ticket, did Campbell go with you?—We walked out together.

98. Did Campbell tell you to do anything?—He asked me, did I know where to go; I said no, and he told me, 76 Capel-street, and to make haste.

29.

99. Did you go there?—I did.

100. Was there any name upon the house?—Yes; "Espy's Printing Office" was on a label in the window.

101. Was the door open or shut?—It was open, and a chap was standing in the jambs of it.

102. Did you say anything?—I asked him "Was that 76;" he said, without saying anything else, "Have you your ticket?" "I have," said I.

103. Did he do anything then?—He told me to go in; he shut the door after me, he told me to knock at the front-parlour door.

104. Did you?—Yes; then he told me to turn the handle and go in.

105. Did you see any person there?—There were three or four persons.

106. Was there a screen in the room?—Yes, immediately before the door.

107. Was anyone there but the clerks?—Oh, no, not a soul.

108. Where did you go?—I was walking up to the window a one-side. "Knock at that door," said he, pointing to the door dividing the front parlour; that was a single door. I knocked at the door I was directed to; an oval opening was in the centre of the panel, and a hand was put out. A voice said, "Your ticket;" I gave in the ticket, and an envelope in a moment or so was put out and I was told to make haste.

109. In what part of the door was the hole?—The cross bar dividing the panels, the upper part.

110. Was it covered?—There was a black calico over it.

111. Did you, after getting the envelope, leave the front parlour?—I did.

112. What happened next?—I was going out the front door, and the chap in the hall said, "Not this way," and pointed to the back way. I went that way.

113. Where does it open into?—Loftus-lane; I had to pass a couple of yards, and a big long passage like a lane.

114. Did you open the envelope?—I did.

115. Was there anything in it?—Yes.

116. What?—A 5 l. note.

117. Did you show that 5 l. note to anyone?—I did.

118. Of what bank was it a note?—I think it was a Bank of Ireland note.

119. When you left, after this occurred, where did you go?—I went back to my office, where I work.

120. To Mr. O'Toole's?—Yes; between two and three is the dinner hour, and I went out then.

121. Did you show the note to anyone?—Yes.

122. To whom?—To a party of the name of Maloney.

123. Did you show it to Mr. O'Toole?—Yes; I was rather forced to do it.

124. To whom else?—I showed it to a party named Flood.

125. Did you change that note in any place?—I did.

126. Where?—At Ryan's, at the corner of Townsend-street.

127. Was it on the same day you got it?—Yes, immediately afterwards.

128. I suppose you spent some of the money that evening?—I did.

129. Where you the worse for doing so, the next day?—I was.

130. Whom did you treat; or did you treat anyone?—

J. F. Kirk.

23 January 1869.

J. F. Kirk. anyone?—I treated Maloney, Dunne, and Thompson.
 23 January 1869. 131. In what place?—Where I changed the note.
 132. At Ryan's?—Yes.
 133. Is he a grocer?—He keeps a public-house at the corner of Townsend-street.
 134. Did anyone go in with you to change the note?—I was alone.
 135. Did you go out the next day?—I did.
 136. Do you know Andrew Johnson?—I do.
 137. Is he in Mr. O'Toole's employment?—He was.
 138. Is he a compositor?—Yes.
 139. Up to that time, had you done anything with the canvassing ticket?—No; next morning I went to Westland-row myself with the canvassing ticket.
 140. Where did you go?—To the ward rooms, where the meeting was the previous evening.
 141. Did you see anyone there?—There were several persons arriving in the room.
 142. Did you see cards in their hands, like the card you had?—No.
 143. You had a card; did you produce it there?—No.
 144. Did you do anything with it in that room?—I took the card away with me. I gave it to Johnson, the compositor. I told him to go down to Westland-row; I was not very sober at the time, and I did not like to go down myself.
 145. Did he take it there?—He did.
 146. Did you get anything from him when he returned?—Yes, 3 l.
 147. Did he tell you where it came from?—He said he got it at Byrnes's, in Lombard-street.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

148. Had you ever voted before the Dublin election?—I had.
 149. For whom?—For Guinness and Vance.
 150. When you went up to Green-street, that day, what were you going to do?—I was going to vote.
 151. Would you have voted if you had not met Carroll?—Yes; I would have voted for Guinness and Plunket.
 152. Did you vote according to the opinion of the person who canvassed you?—I voted according to my own conviction.
 153. This canvassing card you got in Westland-row?—Yes.
 154. How many were in the rooms?—I would say, at the evening meeting, between 50 and so; as much as the room could hold.

RICHARD BUTLER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

R. Butler. 178. I believe you are a freeman?—Yes.
 — 179. Did you vote for Guinness and Plunket?—Yes.
 180. I believe this is the first time you voted as a freeman?—Yes.
 181. Do you remember before the election being canvassed?—Yes, about a week before the election.
 182. What did you say when you were canvassed?—I said that I would not give any de-

155. Was anybody prevented from going in?—I walked in without prevention.
 156. Were these canvassing cards given publicly?—Yes; given in the room.
 157. To everyone who wanted, or would take one?—I did not see any previously given; mine was last of all; I was the last going in.
 158. Who was the first who spoke to you about giving evidence here, or did anyone?—Yes.
 159. Who was it?—Carroll.
 160. The same man who sent you to Anne-street?—Yes.
 161. How long after the election?—About three weeks.
 162. Did he offer you any money to give evidence?—He said he was the go-between to offer money. He said, "I know you got money, and I have been told to offer you 50 l. to give information to the other side."
 163. Where does Carroll live?—Clarendon-street.
 164. When he offered you money, 50 l., to give information, did he say who would give it?—He said, Mr. O'Shaughnessy; at least he said he was offered to propose the terms to me.
 165. By O'Shaughnessy?—Yes.
 166. Did he say where he lived?—It was he who lives in Gardener's-place.
 167. Did he say he was offered by him to give 50 l., if you gave information?—He did.
 168. Did he say anything about giving evidence?—It was understood, if I gave information, I would give evidence.
 169. What did you say to Carroll when he spoke about the 50 l.?—I said I would not do it for 10 fifties.
 170. Had you known Campbell before?—Yes.
 171. What is the number of the house in Clarendon-street, in which Campbell lives?—I am not sure.
 172. Is this (handing a document) the same kind of paper you signed?—No, it was printed in roman type.
 173. Read the substance, and tell me whether it is, or not?—I think it is a fac-simile.
 174. Read it?—"We beg to place at your disposal our gratuitous services before and on the day of election, in any way you desire, to ensure the return of Guinness and Plunket."
 175. Up to the time of going to vote, except by Carroll, was any expectation held out that you would get money?—No.
 176. When you went to vote, did you expect to get money?—No.
 177. Mr. Justice Keogh.] The document you signed was in plain roman hand?—Yes; roman type, and in print.

cided answer about it; that I should be paid for my time, as I was a working man.

183. Was any reply made by those who canvassed?—No, they did not hold out any prospect whatever.

184. Were you accompanied by anyone?—By a man of the name of Mr. Beckett, and by Robert Smith.

185. Did you see many passing?—There were a good many.

186. How

186. How long did you remain there?—A couple of hours.

187. What were the people doing?—All were in gangs together, all were holding conversation in different batches.

188. Did you see any persons there, whose names you could mention?—I saw the Sillerys of Abbey-street.

189. Do you know Tickle?—Yes.

190. And you did not succeed; do you know Erskine?—I do not.

191. Was anyone with you, when you left the committee rooms; I asked you, when you were going away, who accompanied you?—We went away, and managed to meet the following morning.

192. Was Beckett with you?—Yes.

193. Who else?—Smith.

194. Do you remember Beckett saying anything?—He said to see “me” early in the morning, and if anything was going he would get it for me, as well as for himself.

195. He knew you had voted as a freeman before?—He well knew.

196. Do you remember going to Becketts?—Yes.

197. Where does he live?—28, Upper Liffey-street.

198. At what hour did you go, upon the morning of the polling?—About half-past 7 o’clock.

199. Whom did you see?—Himself and wife.

200. Was your wife with you?—Yes.

201. You were all at breakfast?—Yes.

202. Your wife brought your breakfast to Becketts?—Yes.

203. After breakfast what did you do?—We went out to go in search of Walker.

204. Had you known him before?—Yes, he was a shop mate of mine.

205. Did you find Walker?—We did.

206. Had you parted company with Becket, before you saw him?—We missed of one another.

207. After you had lost sight of Becket, was any message sent to you?—My wife was sent to look for me, she found me; I accompanied him to Halstond.

208. Whom did you see?—Becket, Walker, and Becket’s wife.

209. Do you know a man called Hassett?—I do.

210. Did you see him there?—I did.

211. Had you known him previously?—Yes.

212. About what hour in the day was it when you met these people?—When I was sent for, it was about 12, as near as I can go; I cannot exactly tell the moment.

213. Did Becket say anything?—He did; that he was after getting the tips, and to stand beside him.

214. Was Walker present, when Becket said that?—He was.

215. Did he say anything about that?—No.

216. Which of them voted first?—It was either Hassett or Walker that voted first.

217. Who voted next; did Walker vote before you?—He did.

218. Do you remember Walker, after he voted, coming back and saying anything?—He said he had voted, it was all right, and for us to do what we liked now.

219. Did you go in and vote?—I did.

220. Was anyone with you?—Yes; Walker and a sallow-complexioned man, who came with the card.

29.

221. Do you know him?—I do not. As soon as I voted, we came down together, and he accompanied me through several passages. We went into a lonesome place, and he handed me a card.

222. What kind of card was it?—A railway ticket; the Midland Great Western.

223. Do you remember the colour of it?—I cannot say.

224. Did you observe anything peculiar about the man; had he an eye-glass?—He had.

225. When you got the ticket, what did you do?—I got the ticket in the passage, and I was met by a man; that man I met casually; I do not know his name. He told me to go to 76, Capel-street. I did so, accompanied by Becket, my wife, and his wife.

226. Tell his Lordship exactly what happened when you went there?—I knocked at the door; the door was opened by a young man, and upon that we went in. He pointed to the door of the parlour. Becket went in and came out. Then I went in; he called me. The two of us went out together.

227. When you went into the room, what did you see?—Three or four men at a table close to the window. They were apparently writing. They told me to knock at the door. There was a piece of one of the panels at the top broken, purposely broken, because it was fresh. A hand was put out. I gave the ticket; in doing that he left it inside, and handed me an envelope with the 5*l.*, the note, inclosed.

228. Did any of the clerks in the room say anything to you?—No; we went out on the back way; we turned, went into the hall, then wheeled to the left. Becket was waiting for me, and we went out together by the back way.

229. Do you know where your wife was at the time you were going from Green-street to 76, Capel-street?—Yes; they followed; Becket’s wife also followed.

230. What did they do when you went out into the lane?—They remained within a couple of yards of the place where we went in, and remained there till we came round. Becket’s wife and my wife did that.

231. When you joined them, what did you do?—We went to Morrison’s, in Castle-street, and he bought two hats, one for me and one for himself.

232. Who did this?—Becket.

233. Upon your way to Morrison’s, had you any conversation with Becket or his wife about what he got; it was known that you got 5*l.* a piece?—Yes.

234. What was the price of each hat?—6*s.* 6*d.* if single, but, buying the two hats, he got them both for 12*s.*

235. Who paid for the hats?—Becket.

236. With what money?—The 5*l.*

237. Was there change in the house to give the difference between the 12*s.* and the 5*l.*?—No; he sent to the bank one of his assistants to get the change.

238. Did you know him before?—I did not.

239. Did you take home the hats that day?—No; not for a couple or three days.

240. Do you remember going for the hats?—Yes.

241. With whom?—My wife and Mrs. Becket.

242. When you left Morrison’s, where did you go to?—Directly down to Cork-hill; he brought

R. Butler.

1869.

us in there, into Judge's, the public-house, and we had a treat.

243. Who treated you?—Becket.

244. When you left the public-house, where did you go?—To Bolger's, at the corner of Cole's-lane, Henry-street. I paid him the 6 s. (out of the 5 l.), and I called for a treat.

245. As he treated you, you thought fit to treat him in turn?—Certainly.

246. Who was present when you changed the money?—There were four, and a couple of women.

247. Your wife and Becket were present?—Yes.

248. After you left Bolger's, what did you do?—We bought two bonnets at Burke's, in Mary-street, and paid for them 4 s. 3 d. each.

Cross-examined by Mr. Exham.

249. When did you first hear anything about this; after the election?—It was brought by a man of the name of Farrell.

250. Who is he?—He is a carver.

251. Where does he live?—He lives in Stafford-street.

252. Did he come to you?—Yes.

253. When was it that he came to you; how soon after the election?—I cannot tell the day.

254. About how long?—I could not say.

255. Where did he take it to?—He took it out to Mr. Guinness's.

256. Is that a public-house?—Yes.

257. Was it in the daytime or in the evening?—It was in the day.

258. Did he tell you what he wanted you down there for?—He told me that he was after being down for Mr. Guinness, and that he was offered 3 l. if he could bring a man to Guinness that he could prove that he had received any money, and that I had only to go down and tell him that, and he would get his money.

259. Did you go down with him then?—I did.

260. Then and there?—Yes.

261. Did you go into the shop with Guinness, or upstairs?—Upstairs.

262. In a private room?—Yes, a dining room.

263. Who was in the room?—There was myself and Farrell.

264. I suppose you sat down at the table together?—Yes.

265. Did you drink anything there?—There was some drink brought up.

266. Did you have a drink?—I took some.

267. What did you drink?—I drank some whisky and some brandy.

268. And Farrell with you?—Yes.

269. Did Guinness ask you if you could prove this?—Yes.

270. You told Farrell that you would tell what you know, and get the 20 l.?—I did; I told him the truth.

271. Who was helping you to the drink?—Why, Mr. Guinness helped me to the first, and after that we helped ourselves.

272. Did Farrell say to Guinness, "This is the man that will prove it for you"?—Yes.

273. He introduced you that way to Guinness?—Yes.

274. Did Guinness tell you, what he wanted you to prove; that you got money in 76, Capel-street?—Yes.

275. And Guinness appeared to know all about it?—No, he did not; he did not mention 76 Capel-street until I mentioned it myself to him.

276. Did Guinness tell you he would give you anything for yourself?—It was understood that it was to be divided between the two.

277. That is to say, Farrell was to have given you half?—Half.

278. And that was the understanding between you and Farrell?—Yes.

279. A little private arrangement between you?—It was not private; it was an understanding.

280. You were each to have half of the 20 l.?—Yes.

281. Did he give his word to you?—No, we did not get it.

282. You have not got it yet?—Not until the conviction is proved.

283. That was the understanding between him and you?—Yes.

284. That you should prove it first, and get the conviction?—Yes.

285. And Guinness, I suppose, is not to pay it until the conviction is made out?—That is so.

286. No purchase, no pay?—No purchase, no pay.

287. And then, the very moment that Farrell gets the 20 l., he is to give you the half?—He is to give me the half.

288. Did you ever go there again?—I did.

289. To Guinness's?—Yes.

290. When did you go there the second time?—I could not tell.

291. About how soon after?—It might be about a week after.

292. Who went with you the second time?—This young man Farrell.

293. Was it in the evening?—It was.

294. Did you go up to the same room?—No, not the second time.

295. Did you get drink the second time?—Yes; I called for a couple of treats, and he gave them to me.

296. How much did he give you altogether in the way of whisky and brandy?—I don't exactly know, but I suppose the man can tell that himself.

297. Have you often been in his shop drinking since?—No, not often.

298. About how often?—I don't suppose I have been above twice or three times since that.

299. And you can go in there whenever you like, and get some drink?—Oh, no, I do not understand that now.

300. But you did get drink those two or three nights?—Yes.

301. And did you pay for it?—No.

302. Did you get any money at all; did Guinness give you any money?—Yes.

303. How much?—He gave me a pound, and he gave me a two shilling piece.

304. When did he give you a pound?—About Christmas time.

305. Was it for a Christmas-box?—I don't know.

306. He never gave you a pound, I suppose, before?—No.

307. When did he give you the two shillings?—On Sunday.

308. About how long ago; was it long after that; was it coming on the trial?—No.

309. When was it?—About the Sunday, I think, after Christmas.

310. Did you see Farrell get any money from Guinness besides?—No.

311. Did

311. Did he tell you he got any from Guinness?
—He told me he received ten shillings.

312. Did he tell you whether that was part payment of the 20 l. or not?—No; he had to give, in his handwriting, an acknowledgment for it.

313. Did you give an acknowledgment for your pound?—Yes.

314. An I O U?—Yes.

315. Did Farrel give you any money at all?—He did; he gave me 5 s. out of the 10 s.

316. I suppose you did not give Farrell an I O U for it?—No, it was understood that it was to be deducted from me.

317. And I suppose you are to give credit also for the 1 l. out of the 20 l.?—Yes, I expect so.

318. Besides that, did you ever go anywhere else?—Yes.

319. About this business?—I did.

320. Where?—Mr. Fitzgerald's.

321. Is that Mr. Fitzgerald, the attorney?—This gentlemen here (pointing to a person in court).

322. Was it to his office?—Yes.

323. In St. Andrew's street?—Yes.

324. I am sure he did not bring you there for nothing, because he is a very liberal man?—Not for nothing.

325. How much did Mr. Fitzgerald give you?—Well, he give me 2 l.

326. Did you give him an I O U for it?—No.

327. That was a liberal thing; when was that?—He asked me —

328. He asked you a lot of questions, I suppose?—He did.

329. And did you see him taking it down?—I did.

330. I suppose you were sitting down in his office with him?—I was.

331. And I suppose he told you he would not think of taking up your time for nothing, and he gave you the 2 l.?—Well, yes.

332. He told you, I suppose, that he would want you here during the petition?—Yes.

333. Did he not promise, you more than 2 l.?—He told me I would be satisfactorily settled.

334. When you had proved this matter?—He did not put in that.

335. What was the satisfactory settlement to be for?—For loss of time.

336. In coming here to give evidence?—For coming here, and going over there.

337. Then, I suppose, you did not take the 2 l. as a satisfactory settlement, but there is more to come?—Yes, I expect so.

338. How much more?—I cannot tell that.

339. What do you think would be a fair remuneration to you beyond the 2 l., and the half of the 20 l.—10 l. more at least, I suppose?—Well, I would expect that.

340. That at least?—Yes.

341. How often were you at Mr. Fitzgerald's?—On two occasions.

342. You got 2 l., that is 6 l. for each?—Not three occasions; upon two occasions.

343. Did you get anything on the second time you went?—Yes, I got 2 l.

344. He told you, I suppose, that that was on account?—No, he didn't say that.

345. He told you things would be satisfactorily settled when it was over?—Yes.

346. Did he take down any statement the second time also?—He did.

347. Did he ask you the same questions over twice?—No, they were not the same at all.

348. How long was there between the first interview and the second?—A few days.

349. And who was it brought you the message; was it Farrell?—No, it was a man of the name of Walker brought me over, along with a man of the name of Hagarty; Mr. Hagarty brought me over.

350. Who is Hagarty?—I believe he is a painter.

351. Did you see Mr. Guinness taking down your statement, too?—Yes, he took down a statement.

352. The day you were there?—Yes.

353. Did you see that at Mr. Fitzgerald's, or did he have any paper out when he sent for you; did he ask you questions from any paper?—No.

354. Did he ask you if you were the man that had been at Guinness's?—Not that I remember.

355. Did Guinness offer you any money himself?—No. Offer me! I was to understand that what Farrell got I was to get half of it.

356. That you understood from Farrell?—From both.

357. Then did Guinness tell you that he was to pay Farrell the 20 l.?—He did.

358. And that then Farrell was to divide that with you?—Yes.

359. Was that the first time you went there?—It was.

360. Did he ever say anything to you about 50 l.?—No.

361. Are you sure he never did?—No.

362. That would have been a fine thing to get, would it?—I never heard of it to my knowledge.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Palles applied for a certificate under the Act to relieve the Witness from penalties.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that in every case where a Witness gave his evidence in a manner that was satisfactory to the Court, a certificate would be awarded, and that, therefore, it would be unnecessary to repeat the application.

WILLIAM WALKER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton.

363. ARE you a freeman of the City of Dublin?—I am.

364. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Guinness and Plunket.

365. Do remember going to the ward rooms of Guinness and Plunket previous to the election?—Yes.

366. Where were those ward rooms?—In Dorset-street.

29.

367. Whom did you meet with there?—With several parties. W. Walker.

368. Did you see any one acting as chief or secretary in particular more than the others?—Yes, there was one; his name was Falkener, and he acted as secretary.

369. Did you make any observation to him, when you went there first?—When I went there first, I applied for employment.

A 4

370. What

W. Walker.
23 January
1869.

370. What answer did he give to you; did he ask you any questions?—He asked me was I a voter.

371. What did you say?—I told him I was.

372. What did he say?—He said you will have to act gratuitously.

373. What did you say to that?—I said I would.

374. Did he produce any document?—Yes, a printed one.

375. What did he ask you to do with it?—To sign it.

376. Did you sign it?—I did.

Mr. Litton applied for the document signed by this man to be produced.

Mr. Butt stated that it should be produced.

377. Mr. Litton (to the Witness.)—Did any one witness that?—Yes.

378. By whom was it witnessed?—By a young man named Alfred Rock.

378. Where does he live?—In North King-street.

380. What is the number there?—I think it is 189.

381. After you signed the document, what did the secretary or this gentleman do that handed you the document?—I got a list; it was a canvassing agency that I applied for, and I got a list of names to canvass.

382. Were there many names upon that list?—I think there were about 12 or 13.

383. What was your duty in regard to that list?—To solicit those parties to vote for Guinness and Plunket.

384. When you were there, do you remember knowing any of the gentlemen who were present in the committee rooms when you called?—Yes; I remember them.

385. Can you state the name of any gentleman that was there?—I can.

386. Then state the names?—There was a gentleman there of the name of Lawler.

387. Who else; was there a Mr. Foster there?—There was.

388. Henry Foster?—Yes.

389. Where does he live?—I think in Mountjoy-street.

390. Were you acquainted with him?—No, only seeing him in the committee-rooms.

391. Had you any conversation with him?—I had.

392. Will you state what conversation you had with him?—The conversation I had with him was in his own house.

393. Did you call at Mr. Foster's house?—I did.

394. Was it at his private residence?—At his private residence.

395. In Mountjoy-street?—In Mountjoy-street.

396. Did you see him?—I did.

397. Was anyone with you when you called?—There was.

398. Who was he?—Well, Beckett.

399. Can you state the conversation that passed then between yourself, Foster and Beckett?—Beckett told me, previously to this meeting, at his own place, that Mr. Foster had promised him that he would be "all right" at the election. "Well," said I, "I would like to know that party myself." Accordingly he brought me.—

400. Who brought you; Beckett?—I told Mr. Foster the reason of my calling upon him.

401. What did you say to him?—I told him what Beckett told me.

402. Did you ask him was that true?—Yes; and he replied, "I have nothing more to say to you than I have said to Beckett; you will be all right."

403. On the day of election, what did you do first; did you get any directions from this gentleman who acted as secretary at Dorset-street on the evening previous to the election?—No; only just to be there at seven o'clock in the morning.

404. Had you, up to that time, on each evening reported the result of your canvass?—I had done so.

405. To this same gentleman?—To the gentlemen of the committee; not one in particular.

406. Did you vote the next morning?—I did.

407. At what hour?—I think it was between 11 and 12.

408. Whom did you meet before you voted?—I met Mr. Foster.

409. That is the gentleman upon whom you called in Mountjoy-street?—Yes.

410. What happened at the time you were voting in the booth; before you voted, I think you stated that you met Mr. Foster; did any conversation pass between you and Mr. Foster at that time?—When I went to Halston-street first for the purpose of voting, between 11 and 12 o'clock, I see Mr. Foster there, and he pointed out a gentleman to me, and he said to me, "Go to that gentleman and tell him you want to vote."

411. Did you do so?—I did.

412. Did that gentleman accompany you then to the booth?—Not that gentleman.

413. What happened?—I went to that gentleman, and that gentleman told me nothing at all; then I walked away, and I met two or three others; I met Beckett and Hassett, and a couple more, and I told them what Mr. Foster was after saying. In the interim Mr. Foster walked down; "Oh!" says I, "here is Mr. Foster;" so Hassett then went and he told Mr. Foster, and Mr. Foster beckoned Hassett to come to him; he says, "I want you," so Hassett went up, and he called him on one side, and then after that conversation—

414. That is to say, Mr. Foster called Hassett on one side?—Yes; and then after that conversation we all four, I think, went together along with Hassett.

415. Did you vote?—Yes.

416. After voting, what took place?—There was a gentleman there brought me in to poll.

417. And after you polled, what took place?—He came out of the booth along with me; we walked along Halston-street, and he gave me a ticket.

418. Did you know that gentleman?—I never saw him before or since.

419. What did you do when you had got the ticket; did he say anything to you before you left him?—He did not.

420. Did anybody else make any observations to you, after you got the ticket?—Yes.

421. Who?—Hassett.

422. What did he say?—I said what was I to do with this; he says, "I have another like it; I will bring you to where you will be all right with it."

423. Did you go with him?—I went with him.

424. What sort of a ticket was it?—The fact was was, I did not look at it at all; I never looked at it; I put it into my pocket and never opened it.

425. Where did you go with that ticket?—I went to Capel-street.

426. What number?—I think 76.

427. Did you knock at the door?—Yes.

428. Was the door shut?—Yes, I knocked and the door was opened.

429. By whom?—A young man.

430. Did you make any observation to him?—To the best of my recollection he asked me, "Have you a ticket?" I said, "I have," and he put me then to knock at a side door at the front parlour.

431. Did you knock?—I knocked.

432. Was it opened?—It was opened.

433. What did you do?—Then I walked in, of course.

434. Who were there in the room?—Two or three gentlemen at the table writing, and they told me to knock at the folding door.

435. You went up to the door?—I went up to the door.

436. What happened then?—I knocked, and there was a square hole at the top, and a hand came out, and of course I understood that, and I gave the ticket; it was pulled in, and then the hand shut, and a few minutes after they handed me an envelope.

437. What did you do with the envelope?—I came out into the hall then, and I was directed for to go out backwards, and when I went out I got into the yard, and I tore it open, and I saw there I had a note.

438. What was that note?—A 5*l.* note.

439. Do you remember on what bank it was?—I never looked at that.

440. What did you do with the note; do you know a person of the name of Keegan?—I do.

441. Who is he?—A grocer, in Princes-street.

442. What did you do with the 5*l.* note?—I changed it there.

443. Where?—At Keegan's, in Princes-street.

444. Was anyone with you when you changed this note?—There was; Hassett and Hopkins.

445. Had you any drink?—We had; I called for three glasses of grog, previously to get it changed.

446. Did either of the two persons you mentioned, Hassett or Hopkins, change a 5*l.* note?—Hassett did.

447. A 5*l.* note of his own?—A 5*l.* note he had, at all events; of course it was his own.

448. He had it in his possession, at all events?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Purcell.

449. When was it that you went up to the committee room?—A fortnight previous.

450. And you said that the last time that you were there before the election, was on the evening before; are you sure about it?—I am quite sure of that.

451. Had you ever voted before in Dublin?—Several times; at our previous elections.

452. Did you vote at the previous election?—Yes.

453. How did you vote then?—Always on the same side.

454. Was that the same side as you voted on at this election?—Yes; on the Conservative side.

455. You went up of your own accord to the committee?—Oh yes.

456. And you say you signed the paper?—Yes; I signed that document.

29.

457. And on the day of the polling, you went down to record your vote?—Just so.

458. You had been, I believe, canvassing for a good while previously?—A week.

459. Somewhat more, I believe; well, a week at all events; when you went up to be polled, had you your mind made up how you would vote?—Certainly.

460. For whom were you going up to vote?—For Guinness and Plunket.

461. Had you always determined to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—Always; and for Vance and Grogan.

462. Under any circumstances?—Under any circumstances.

463. I understand, that up to the time you gave your vote, there had been no promise made to you?—I had had no promise from anybody, but that Mr. Foster in that way, that he had no more to say to me.

464. That it was right for you to sign that?—No; this is the interview that I had with Mr. Foster, at his own house; when I went with Beckett; Beckett said, that Mr. Foster told him that he would be all right.

465. But Mr. Foster said, he had nothing to say to you, except with Beckett?—Just so.

466. Was that the whole of the conversation?—That is the whole.

467. Then, until after you had voted, you knew nothing about the ticket?—I knew nothing at all about it.

468. Do you recollect the appearance of the person who gave you the ticket?—I do.

469. What was his appearance?—He was a nice-looking gentleman, with moustache, with a sallow complexion, and an eye-glass.

470. Was he tall or short?—He was something taller than myself; I think he was about five feet seven or eight.

471. And you say you did not know what to do with it when you got it?—Of course, I did not know were to go.

472. Were you spoken to at any time since the election, about what evidence you could give in the case?—Yes, I was.

473. Do you recollect who spoke to you?—I do.

474. Who was it?—A man of the name of Hagarty.

475. When was that?—Well, I think, as well as I can remember, it was last Friday fortnight.

476. Where did you see Hagarty?—I met him in Abbey-street.

477. Was it accidentally?—It was accidentally.

478. What took place when you met him?—I said, "I hear you are going upon the petition;" "Yes," said he, "I am;" said I, "What evidence have you to give?" "Why," says he, "like yourself, I suppose;" says I, "You got the five;" "Yes," he said, "and so did you too;" I said, "I didn't;" said he, "There's no use concealing it at all, you did get it, so come out with me, and you will be all right;" so he brought me to a public-house, and there gave me a pint bottle of ale.

479. Where did you go then?—To Mr. Fitzgerald's.

480. Did you see Mr. Fitzgerald himself?—I did.

481. Were you the better of your visit to him?—Well, I got 2*l.*

B

482. Did

W. Walker.

23 January
1869.

W. Walker. 482. Did you pay him any other visit?—I did.
 23 January 1869. 483. At the same price?—At the same price.
 484. And I suppose you would go every day in the week for the same price?—To be sure I would.
 485. What were you to get, if you did your work properly?—I was not promised any sum; but Mr. Fitzgerald told me I would be liberally dealt with.
 486. If you trusted to him?—Of course, to answer questions put to me.
 487. What do you think is liberal dealing; would a 10 L. note be a liberal sum?—£.20 would be liberal.
 488. Did Mr. Fitzgerald put questions to you, as to what you could prove?—He did just what I am after stating.
 489. Did he know all about it from his questions?—About my statement?
 490. Yes; about what had taken place?—I suppose so.

491. But, from what he said to you, did he appear to know all about it?—I suppose he did.
 492. Did he ask you whether you went to 76 Capel-street?—He did.
 493. And whether you put your hand into a hole?—All that.
 494. He asked you, and you said “yes” to all those things?—Yes.
 495. And, at the conclusion of the time, I suppose he got you to sign a paper?—Yes; I put my name to a paper.
 496. Did he ask you the questions out of any paper before himself?—He did not.
 497. He had it off by heart?—I suppose so.
 498. Mr. Justice Keogh.] When you got the ticket that you said you didn’t look at, was it rolled up in any paper in any way?—It was not.

[The Witness withdrew.

GEORGE HAGARTY, sworn; Examined by Mr. O’Shaughnessy.

G. Hagarty. 499. ARE you a Freeman of the City of Dublin?—Yes.
 500. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Guinness and Plunket.
 501. Were you canvassed before the election?—Oh yes, I was.
 502. By whom were you canvassed?—Both parties.
 503. Do you know the name of the agent who canvassed you on behalf of Messrs. Guinness and Plunket?—I do not.
 504. Did you get a card?—I did; three or four.
 505. Did anyone call upon you, sometime before the election, with regard to your voting, or anything about that?—Yes.
 506. What was the name of that gentleman?—I couldn’t tell the name.
 507. Did anyone ask you to apply at the committee rooms?—Only to send in the name. Am I to consider myself safe with the questions I am asked?

Mr. Justice Keogh.] You are perfectly safe, if you answer the questions truly and honestly.

508. Mr. O’Shaughnessy.] Did you offer your services to the committee in your ward?—I did, gratuitously.
 509. Did anybody ask you to do that?—I was told to do that.
 510. Who told you?—An acquaintance of mine, by the name of McDowell.
 511. Is he a freeman?—He is.
 512. What did he say to you?—He heard about it.
 513. About what?—That that was the best way to do it.
 514. To do what?—To send in to do the matter gratuitously, and work for the cause.
 515. Did you write a letter yourself offering your services gratuitously?—Yes; there is no mistake about it.
 516. Did anybody point out to you the proper letter to write?—McDowell and I had a conversation upon the matter, and he being the better penman, I took a copy of that.

517. Of the form that he suggsted to you?—Yes.
 518. And you sent in that application?—I did.
 519. Did you send it in, or did you leave it yourself?—I left it with Mr. Erson.
 520. What did Mr. Erson say when you gave it in to him?—That he would send it in to the committee room in James-street.
 521. When you presented this letter to Mr. Erson, had he any conversation with you?—He had not.
 522. You merely handed it in to him, and he said he would forward it?—Yes.
 523. Did you see Mr. Erson afterwards?—Yes, I did, many a time.
 524. Did he say anything to you with reference to the election, or to canvassing, or to using your services in any way?—Well; on the morning of the election —
 525. I mean before the morning of the election?—Yes; just to go off a day and do my business.
 526. Do you remember the night before the election?—Yes.
 527. Did you go to the committee rooms that night?—Well, I couldn’t possibly say.
 528. At all events, on the morning of the election, where did you go; did you go direct to Green-street, or go to the committee rooms beforehand?—I went to the committee rooms in Sackville-street.
 529. And what did you do there; at what hour did you go there?—At about seven or half-past seven o’clock.
 530. What did you see there?—I saw Mr. Erson there.
 531. What occurred between you and Mr. Erson; did they send you on to vote?—Mr. Erson said I was to go on and do my business.
 532. And he meant by that, that you were to go to vote, I suppose?—I suppose so.
 533. At what hour did you vote that day?—At eight o’clock in the morning.
 534. What occurred after you voted?—Well, I seen others voting, and brought others up to the the poll also, because I was well acquainted with a great number, which I am.

535. Did you see a man named Stead about the court house?—Yes, I did.

536. Did he say anything to you?—Well, he didn't really say a word to me; he saluted me. Whether it was a recognition of my presence, or not, I really don't know.

537. Did he say anything to you about your voting, or give you any information?—He really did not.

538. He did not speak to you at all?—He did not.

539. What happened after you voted?—Well, I got a hint to get off for to get something.

540. Who gave you the hint?—I could not say the party that gave me the hint for this reason—

541. Can you tell me how you got a hint?—Just a nod from him.

542. From whom?—From Stead.

543. Had you heard anything before, that made you understand the nod that Stead gave you.

Mr. Butt objected to the question.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy pressed the question.

544. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Had you heard anything before, of a signal to be given to you by Stead?—I had not.

545. Mr. O'Shaughnessy.] Or by anyone else?—I had not.

546. Did you hear anything about money going, or the way to secure it?—I did, but I did not know the party.

547. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Tell us what you heard?—That there was something going, and for me to be on the look-out.

548. Mr. O'Shaughnessy.] When did you hear that?—After voting, at about half-past 12 or half-past one o'clock.

549. And then Stead nodded to you; and what did you do then?—Stead went away off; he did not say anything to me.

550. What did you do?—I went to the party who was there, and I got a ticket from him.

551. Did Stead point you a party to go to?—(The Witness hesitated.)

552. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Look at me and answer me. Who pointed that party out to you? You asked me whether you would be safe in giving your evidence. You are safe in giving your evidence, if you give it frankly and with candour; but if you prevaricate you are not. Now answer the question?—Well, it was Mr. Campbell. He sent me up to his booth.

553. Mr. O'Shaughnessy.] But you got a ticket; what did you do when you got the ticket?—I went over to 76, Capel-street.

554. Who gave you the ticket?—A young lad, I did not know who he was, came up to see if I had voted in H booth, and then on the way down he slipped in the ticket.

555. What kind of ticket was it?—A narrow bit of a thing, similar to what I heard them speaking about here; a railway ticket; but I did not look at it.

556. How do you know that you were to go 76, Capel-street?—Because I was told.

557. Who told you?—The young lad.

558. When you got the ticket, you went down there to 76, Capel-street?—Yes.

559. What occurred there?—The door was opened when I knocked.

29.

560. Did you knock at the door?—I did, and went into the front parlour. There were three or four parties there, and I did not know who they were, and I was told to go to the back.

561. What did you do?—I pushed in the ticket, and got an envelope with a 5*l.* note.

562. What did you do then, when you got the envelope?—Well, I went away off.

563. How did you go out?—In the front; I went out in front.

564. Where did you go then, after getting the note?—I went to Bulger's, in Henry-street.

565. Is he a publican?—Yes.

566. What did you do there; did you change the 5*l.* note?—I did.

Cross-examined by Mr. Atkinson.

567. You were not employed at all by Mr. Erson before you sent in your volunteered statement?—I was not.

568. How long before the election did you sign the volunteered statement?—About a fortnight.

Further examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

569. Do you remember the names of any of the people who were at the committee-rooms; do you remember anybody besides Mr. Erson?—Of course I do, all the gentlemen were there; Mr. Erson was one, Mr. McDowell was another, and Mr. Pardon, and Mr. Tickell. I can see them almost all before me now.

570. Did you see Mr. Alexander McNeill the attorney there?—I do not know.

571. You do not know his appearance?—I do not.

572. Did you see Mr. Prescott?—I did.

573. Did you see Mr. McDowell there?—I saw young Mr. McDowell.

574. Did you see Mr. Speedy there?—I did.

575. Is there anyone else whom you remember having seen there?—No.

576. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Were those committee-rooms in Sackville-street?—Yes, North City ward.

Further cross-examined by Mr. Atkinson.

577. There were a great many people there, were there not?—Oh, yes.

578. It was Mr. Erson that came forward and spoke to you about your statement, was it not?—Yes.

579. And you continued to be employed from that time up to the election, as a canvasser?—Oh, yes.

580. At what hour in the day was it that you got the tip or the wink at Green-street?—I think about half-past one.

581. That was the first time you got the tip?—Yes, something about that.

582. You had voted at eight o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

583. You did not know that you were to get a sign, when you were going to Green-street?—Well, I really did not.

584. What was the first time in the day that you saw Campbell?—I did not see Mr. Campbell until about half-past three o'clock in the evening.

585. That was after the whole thing about Capel-street was all over?—Yes.

B 2

586. The

G. Hagarty

23 January
1869.

G. Hagarty. 586. The Capel-street business was all over when you saw Campbell?—I had nothing to do with Sackville-street.

23 January 1869. 587. Did you not go to Capel-street before you saw Campbell?—I did not.

588. At what part of the day did you see Campbell first?—I saw him in the early part of the day.

589. At what time were you speaking to him first?—At about half-past one.

590. At what time did you go to Capel-street?—I think, at about half-past three o'clock.

591. What did Campbell tell you to do?—He did not tell me anything to do.

592. Did you not say, awhile go, that he told you to go to a booth?

Mr. Justice Keogh.] The witness said, Mr. Campbell pointed out the person from whom he was to get the ticket, and that was the young person who took him to H booth, to see if he had voted.

593. Mr. Atkinson.] Do you know a man of the name of Bailey?—I do.

594. Was he with you since the election?—He was.

595. Did he offer you any money for information?—He did, and brought me there.

596. Where did he bring you to?—To Mr. Fitzgerald's office.

597. Whom did you see there?—I saw Mr. Fitzgerald.

598. Did he take a statement from you?—Mr. Fitzgerald did.

599. Did he offer you any money for your statement, before you gave any information?—He did not.

600. Did he wait to see what you said, before he promised you any money?—I made a statement there.

601. Before you went there, did Bailey tell you that Mr. Fitzgerald would give you anything if you made a statement?—I will tell you plainly and honestly what I have done, and I do not wish to make a wrong statement. Bailey came up to my place, and I said I was going to be subpoenaed; I had some work at home, and I went and told him to come up in the evening, and I would see about it. I went over to Mr. Sutton's office in Abbey-street—this gentleman's office here (pointing to a person in court); and I told Mr. Byrne and two other gentlemen there, that Bailey came for me to have me subpoenaed, and that he was to be up at a certain time, and I was told then for to go to Mr. Fitzgerald's office and speak about it, and also to receive whatever they would give me, and say as little as possible. Now, there is the truth, and Bailey is here. There is another party in the gallery of the court, of the name of Egan, of Moore-street, who can give the same evidence; he sent up twice for me to go, and that if I was not paid on the election business, he would put me in the way of doing it; and I mention that also.

602. What was Egan's Christian name; was "Patrick" his Christian name?—Yes.

603. Is he a painter?—No; he keeps a public-house in Moore-street.

604. Had you a second conversation with Bailey?—Oh, several.

605. Did Bailey tell you that you would get 20*l.* for giving information on the election petition?—He did.

606. Was it after that that you went to Mr. Fitzgerald's?—I went to the office in Abbey-street and mentioned that; but this Bailey called for me in the morning, and I told him I could not attend, but to come up in the evening.

607. Did he tell you you would get 20*l.* if you went to Mr. Fitzgerald, or not?—Well, he did.

608. Was it after that that you went to Mr. Fitzgerald?—I did not; I went first to the office in Abbey-street—

609. But I am talking about Mr. Fitzgerald; you went to Mr. Fitzgerald, did you not?—Yes, I did.

610. Was it before or after you saw Bailey that you went there?—After, on two occasions.

611. Whom did you see when you went to Mr. Sutton's office; was that the gentleman there Mr. Williamson (pointing to a person in the court)?—I seen that gentleman there.

612. Was it he that spoke to you?—Yes, and he told me what to do.

613. Was this what he told you, to go and tell the truth?—He told me to go over to the office with this man, and to take whatever money I could get from them.

614. Did he tell you to tell the truth?—No, he did not tell me anything about that.

615. Will you tell us now the conversation you had with Patrick Egan, and who he was?—Egan lives in Moore-street, as I told you, and he is here in the gallery now. I had no conversation with him, but there is a woman who is in the habit of scouring about, and she told me two messages from Egan, that he wanted me down, in case that I was not paid on the election for to go down to him; I do assure you that is the fact.

616. For whom did Egan vote?—I assure you I could not tell you; I do not really know.

617. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Have you told everything you know about this Egan?—Well, my Lord, he is here at present.

618. Have you told us everything that passed between you and him?—Everything I know.

Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

619. How often were you at Mr. Sutton's office?—I think about three times.

620. Who else did you see there besides that gentleman, Mr. Williamson?—I beg your pardon for a moment; I never was at the office in Abbey-street but, I think, once; but I was up in No. 22, Harcourt-street.

621. How often were you were there?—I think twice.

622. How long ago?—Well, I cannot exactly say.

623. Did you give your evidence for this trial?—Yes, I did.

624. Who took down your evidence in Mr. Sutton's office?—I do not know; I do not see him now.

625. How long is it since he took down your evidence for this trial?—Against whom?

626. I do not mean against anyone; how long is it since he took down your evidence for this trial?—I do not know anything about any evidence.

627. Did you tell him the truth as you have told it to-day?—I have told everything; I did.

Further Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

628. You went to Mr. Sutton's office; the election petition-office in Abbey-street, did you not?—I went there to Harcourt-street.

629. Did you go to Abbey-street?—Oh, yes.

630. On your oath, did you tell anyone in that office that Egan was trying to entrap you?—I did.

631. That what he said to you was that Egan, one of the opposite party, had sent to you pretending to be a friend of Mr. Guinness's; was not that what you told him?—I did.

632. And that he had endeavoured to entrap you by saying he would pay you if you were not paid; wasn't that what you told him?—That was what he said; that's the message that I got.

633. Wasn't that what you told him in the office in Abbey-street?—It was; there is no mistake about it.

634. Wasn't it upon that that you were told to go to Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—It was.

635. And to try and counteract that plot?—It was not in Egan's but Bailey's.

636. But it was after you were told about Egan that you were told to go to Mr. Fitzgerald's office. Do you understand what I say; was it after you were told about Egan that you were told to go to Mr. Fitzgerald's office; was it before or after that?—"Well; Egan", I said.

637. Do you understand what I ask you?—I do.

638. Was it before or after you told about Egan, that you were told to go to Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—It was after.

639. Now tell me this; did you tell anyone in that office in Abbey-street that you had got 5 l.?—I did.

640. To whom did you tell that?—To one of the young men there.

641. Whom?—I don't know.

642. Did you tell it to Mr. Williamson, upon your oath?—No, a young man.

643. Did you tell it to Mr. Williamson, upon your oath?—A young man was writing down.

644. Did you see Mr. Williamson there?—I know.

645. Had you not a conversation with Mr. Williamson?—I had.

646. Did you tell Mr. Williamson that you had got 5 l. for voting at the election?—Not to my knowledge.

647. Then you didn't tell him, I suppose?—I did not.

648. Did you tell Mr. Williamson a word about the ticket that you got at the election?—I tell you what I told him; that Bailey had had a ticket.

649. Did you tell him that you had got a ticket; on your oath, did you tell Mr. Williamson that you had got a ticket?—As sure as I am here, I couldn't exactly say that; but I know the young man that was taking down what I was stating, and I told him.

650. Was Mr. Williamson present?—He was.

651. Did the young man take down what you had said?—I don't think he did.

652. Did you see him writing?—I saw him writing.

JAMES HOPKINS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

676. Are you a freeman?—No.

677. What are you?—A rated occupier.

678. Do you remember receiving a circular from the Inn's Quay Ward committee?—Yes.

29.

653. Will you swear that you told that young man that you had got a ticket?—I told him that I had got the money.

654. Was that in Mr. Williamson's presence?—I don't know whether he heard me or not.

655. Was it in Mr. Williamson's presence?—He was in the room.

656. Where was he in the room?—On the opposite side of the table.

657. Could he have heard you?—I don't know.

658. Was Mr. Williamson asking you a question?—He was not; he sent the young man to write down any declaration that I had to make.

659. And did you tell that young man that you got 5 l. for voting?—I did.

660. Do you know who that young man was?—No.

661. Would you know him if you saw him again?—I really would not; he was a big young man.

662. On your oath, was not this what you told him; that "a man of the name of Patrick Egan who keeps a public-house in Four Moore-street, sent for me to go down to him, and that if I wasn't paid at the election he would put me in the way of getting money"; that you would not go, and he has since sent twice for you?—So he did.

663. "Bailey called for me again this morning, the 7th of January, and wanted me to go with him to a place where I could get 20 l. for giving information about the election, and that I would get some in hand at once"?—That is a fact.

664. Did you say one word more than that to any human being in the office in Abbey-street?—That is the truth.

665. Then you did say that, and that was taken down?—Yes.

666. Did you say one word more to him than that?—I cannot exactly say if I said anything more; I don't know I am sure, but there is the truth there.

667. Is that the whole truth now what you had told?—Oh, I told about a party that voted on the opposite side.

668. Who was that party; what did you tell about that party that voted on the opposite side?—Tanner.

669. What did you tell about him?—He wouldn't hear about it.

670. What did you tell?—That he voted with the other party.

671. Did you say anything more about him; come tell on; everything you told in the office in Abbey-street; what did you say about this Tanner?—It was Wheatley said that he voted for Pim and—

672. And was bribed?—No; got a situation.

673. Then you came to the office in Abbey-street to give this information, did you?—Yes; about the information that I got from Egan and from Bailey on three or four occasions.

674. And from Wheatley?—Not from Wheatley, but I was asked about it, and I said it.

675. Did you tell that young man who took down what you said, the word about your having got 5 l. for your vote?—I did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

679. Is that your ward?—Yes.

680. I believe that circular was about the 9th November, about 10 days before the polling?—Yes.

B 3

681. Did

G. Hagarly.

23 January
1869.

J. Hopkins.

J. Hopkins. 681. Did you attend the meeting of the committee?—I did.

23 January 1869. 682. Where was the committee-room?—107, Dorset-street.

683. Do you remember the gentlemen who were present?—I do.

684. Was Mr. Barlow, of George's-street, the attorney, present?—Yes.

685. Was Mr. Lawler present, of Berkeley-street?—Yes.

686. Was Mr. Norwood present?—Yes.

687. Were you asked to canvass?—No.

688. Were you asked to do any work?—No.

689. Did you sign a paper that your services would be gratuitous?—I did.

690. When did you sign that?—On the first night I went up.

691. How many names did you get to canvass?—As well as I can remember, 15.

692. Did you know those people before?—No.

693. Did you know one of them before?—No.

694. Or ever hear of them before?—No.

695. When you got that paper, were Mr. Barlow and Mr. Lawler present?—What paper.

696. The canvassing ticket?—I got a little book, with the list of those names and streets that I was to canvass.

697. Was Mr. Barlow present when that was done?—He was.

698. And Mr. Lawler?—No.

699. The paper you signed, saying you would work for nothing; how many others signed with you?—I think there was about 12 signatures on when I signed.

700. To whom did you give it when you had signed it?—To Mr. Lawler.

701. Did you canvass by yourself, or did you canvass along with some other people?—I canvassed by myself at times, but there was another voter volunteered, of the name of Mr. Walker; he came with me at other times.

702. Is that William Walker, of Dorset-street?—Yes.

703. Had you known him before?—No.

704. Did he introduce himself to you?—No.

705. Who introduced you to Walker, or Walker to you?—Well, when I offered my services in the committee-room, Mr. Walker was next to offer his services, and the two of us there were put together to canvass.

706. Do you know a man of the name of Bailey?—I do.

707. On the day of the election, were you here in Halston-street?—Yes.

708. What brought you here?—I came to walk about, and see parties going to vote that I had canvassed.

709. Freemen?—Freemen that I had canvassed.

710. Of course you didn't vote here?—No.

711. What was your place to vote?—Capel-street.

712. Did you come to see the men vote that you canvassed?—Well, I came to see them if I could, but not by appointment.

713. Were the 15 names you got, 15 freemen?—They were.

714. Did you report at the committee-rooms about the 15 freemen?—I did.

715. Did you see any one of them?—No.

716. Did you see nearly all of them?—I did.

717. Did you report to the committee-rooms that they would vote for Guinness and Plunket?

—I reported those who had promised to vote for Guinness and Plunket, and those who did not.

718. How many?—I think about 10 decidedly promised for Guinness and Plunket.

719. Did those 10 also sign any paper in your presence about working for nothing?—No.

720. Did you on that day bring up any of these men to the poll yourself?—I did not.

721. Was anyone appointed for that duty?—Not to my knowledge.

722. Were you here in Halston-street to see that they voted?—No.

723. What brought you to Halston-street?—From my short acquaintance with Mr. Walker; he is a freeman, and he introduced me to many other freemen, and of course I had an interest at the time in knowing men who were freemen, and had votes; and consequently I took a walk round Halston-street, to see any of those men who might have votes, on my canvass.

724. Do you remember Bailey coming up to Walker in your presence?—I do.

725. Did he ask Walker to write on a piece of paper about a man named Butler, a freeman?—Yes.

726. Did Walker write?—No.

727. What did he ask him to write?—I don't know; I didn't hear what he asked him to write; but I saw Mr. Bailey, with a pencil and paper, go up to Mr. Walker, and then, after, Walker refused it to me, saying his hands were too cold, and asked me would I write it.

728. What did you write?—"Richard Butler, Richmond Hospital. Bailey."

729. Did you yourself give any money upon the day of the polling?—No.

730. Did you see Bailey the day after the polling?—Yes, I did.

731. Did Bailey show you a ticket?—Bailey showed Mr. Walker a ticket.

732. A railway ticket, in your presence?—Yes.

733. Go on, and tell me what occurred about the railway ticket?—

Mr. Butt objected that what Bailey said could not be evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

734. Mr. Heron to the Witness).] First of all, did Bailey show you the railway ticket?—Well, I never saw Mr. Bailey until the day when he handed me the piece of paper to write the name. The following morning, Mr. Walker, who came to canvass with me at times, called up to my house, and I was about going out on business at the time; he ran in in a great flutter, and he says, "I am destroyed." "What's the matter," said I. "Oh," he said, "I am all cut;" and his face was all cut, and I asked him how it happened. He said, "I was knocked down last night in Capel-street, and nearly murdered." I walked out with him, and in going down Capel-street, Walker met Bailey, whom he knew. I didn't know Bailey, and Bailey said to him, "I will go to No. 76, Capel-street, with the railway ticket." Something like a ticket he took out, and showed to Mr. Walker; in a moment Mr. Walker and he turned from me, and went to 76, Capel-street. I remained in the streets.

735. Before they went to 76, Capel-street, was anything said about the 5 l.?—Mr. Bailey said he was going to get 5 l. for that ticket which he was after showing me.

736. Did

J. Hopkins.
—
23 January
1869.

736. Did they go to 76, Capel-street?—Yes.
737. Did you stand watching them?—I did.
738. Had you heard upon your oath about 76, Capel-street before?—Never,
739. Did they come back?—They did.
740. What were they saying there?—

Mr. Butt objected that this was not evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

741. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] What did they say when they came back?—They said, as well as I can remember, that a child had opened the door, and could give them no information about the ticket.

742. Did you then go in the direction of the central committee-rooms, Dame-street?—Yes.

743. Had you been there before?—Yes.

744. At 48?—Yes.

745. How often had you been to the central committee-rooms?—Well, I do not remember.

746. Had you given in any report there?—Never.

747. It was only in your ward committee that you gave in your report?—Those whom I canvassed.

748. Whom had you seen at the central committee-rooms that you knew?—Well, I never had business with any gentleman in the committee-room; but I see Mr. Plunket passing in for one, and I saw Mr. Meredyth for another, and I see Mr. Byrne.

749. And Mr. Sutton?—No; I do not remember seeing Mr. Sutton.

750. Mr. Whitworth?—No; I seen Mr. Hodson.

751. He is the secretary of the Conservative Registration Society?—Yes; I seen those gentlemen passing.

752. Were there any other gentlemen that you remember?—Not that I remember.

753. Before you went down there, had Bailey said anything about why he had not got the 5*l*. on the polling day?—Yes.

754. What did he say?—He said that when he got the ticket, I asked him "Where did you get the ticket?" He said "I got it from a young man in Halston-street." I asked him, "Did he know the young man?" and he said, "Not." Said I, "Why did you not go at once with the ticket?" and he says "I was drunk."

755. Did he say what he lost by that?—£. 5.

Mr. Butt objected that this evidence being a narrative, was not admissible.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

756. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Did not all this occur at the particular time you are speaking of; the day after the polling?—Yes.

757. Did it all occur at the same time, or was it at a subsequent time?—No; I met him on the evening after, and had another conversation.

758. I am not asking you about that; but did all that you have now told us occur at the same time, at the same interview which you had with Bailey?—Yes.

Mr. Butt renewed his objection.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

759. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Is the number in Dame-street 48 or 47?—Both.

760. Did you see Bailey there at the central committee-rooms?—I did not walk all the way with Bailey from 76, Capel-street to Dame-street; I parted with him.

761. Did they get there before you?—They went into a public-house, and I walked on my way towards Dame-street, and they overtook me.

762. Did you then all go into the committee-rooms?—I do not think Bailey came in with them; Walker and I went in with them.

763. Had you talked, then, with either of them about getting the 5*l*. for Bailey?—Not then.

764. How long were you in the committee-rooms?—It was about an hour.

765. Will you tell his Lordship what occurred there about the ticket?—Well, I went into the committee-rooms with Walker; Walker and I separated in the committee-rooms. He got into conversation with some parties, and I got into conversation with others; consequently we separated; we lost sight of each other; and I went about some private business I had to Brunswick-street, and on my way back I dropped again into the committee-rooms.

766. Were you ever in the committee-rooms?—I was.

767. To whom were you talking?—Well, I could not mention the names particularly of any person I was talking to.

768. Name the gentlemen there?—I cannot name the gentlemen there.

769. Will you swear that you do not now know the name of a single person that was there?—I positively swear that I do not remember any particular person that I was speaking to.

770. What did you say about the ticket?—Where?

771. In the committee-rooms?—Nothing.

772. Who next spoke about the ticket?—I spoke.

773. To whom?—Bailey.

774. What did you say to him?—I was coming out, and I met him standing at the door. "Well," said I, "did you hear anything about this mysterious ticket?" "No," he said, "I did not." "Why," said I, "were you not over in Capel-street since?" At the same time believing that he had been there more than once, if what he stated in the morning was true. So I said "You ought to go over, and see about it." So he said he though the would. "So," said I, "You had better come on now." I was going home; it was my way directly home where I was going at the time, and we walked together.

775. Did Bailey give you the ticket?—Not then.

776. Did he give you the ticket between the committee-rooms and Capel-street?—Yes.

777. Did he promise you any money out of it?—Well—

778. Answer my question. Did he promise you any money out of it?—I asked him if he got 5*l*., which I did not believe he would get, what would he give me to get it for him. He was too drunk and muzzy to go up to the door; and I said, "What are you going to give me if I get it?" He said, "I will give you 2*l*. if I get 5*l*., and I will give you 1*l*. if I get 3*l*."

779. Did you not know that there was a difficulty about getting money that day?—I knew nothing whatsoever about it.

780. Did you go back to 76, Capel-street, after this

J. Hopkins.

this occurring?—I went with Bailey, from Dame-street to 76, Capel-street.

781. Did you go with the ticket yourself to 76, Capel-street?—I did.

782. Did you knock at the door?—Yes.

783. Did you ask to see Mr. Forrest?—Yes.

784. Mr. James Forrest?—Yes; that is the name on the door.

785. What answer was given you?—That he was out.

786. Did you call back again?—I did.

787. On your first visit did you leave the ticket at the house?—Yes.

788. How long did you leave the ticket there?—For an hour; I told Mr. Forrest I should be back in an hour; so I left the ticket with the child, saying, "Give that to Mr. Forrest when he comes in, and I will be back in an hour."

789. What did you come back for?—To hear the issue.

790. Not for the money?—Not that I know of.

791. Was it for the money?—For the ticket, or for the money; I never believed Bailey would receive 5*l.* for the ticket, but I was anxious to see if he would.

792. Were you anxious to share it yourself?—No, I was not; I asked him how much he would give me, and he said he would give me 2*l.* if he got 5*l.*, and 1*l.* if he would get 3*l.*

793. When you came back to Bailey without the ticket, did he scold you for having parted with it?—No; he did not look pleased; but he said nothing; upon which said I, "Do not be alarmed, I will stop with you, and if the money does not come for the ticket, I am sure to get the ticket back." We walked about for some time, and it came on to rain, and I asked Bailey in, and I gave him a drink.

794. You treated him?—Yes.

795. Did you go back to 76, Capel-street?—Yes.

796. Did you knock at the door?—Yes.

797. Did you ask again for Mr. Forrest?—Yes.

798. Did they say he was not at home?—Yes.

799. And then did the little girl give you back the ticket?—Yes.

800. And did you give it to Bailey?—Yes.

801. Did you go back to the committee-rooms?—No; I went home.

802. Were you never there since?—I was.

803. The central committee-rooms?—Yes.

804. How often have you been there since?—I think I was there three or four times.

805. What was the business on which you were there since?—I went to try to get employment on the county elections.

806. And did you?—No.

807. How often were you there?—Three or four times, as well as I can remember.

808. How many days were you canvassing?—Nine days, as well as I can remember.

809. And during the whole of that time were you off work?—During the whole of the time I was not off work.

810. Were you a week off work?—No.

811. What is your business?—A bootmaker.

812. Were you canvassing for nine days?—Yes, I was.

813. Did you lose a week by it?—No.

814. And you did that voluntarily?—I did.

815. And you did not expect to be paid a shilling?—No; and never expect it.

816. How much did you make a week; 2*l.* or 2*l.* 10*s.* a week easy?—Yes, not easy; sometimes I may; I work for myself.

817. I mean by honest industry?—Oh, yes.

818. Why did you want work at the county election. You say you went three or four times applying for work; were you to be paid for that, or were you to work gratuitously for the county also?—I never heard a word about it, whether I was or not.

819. When you went to make an application for work for the county, did you expect to be paid for it?—I did.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

820. Did you know that if you were paid for canvassing, you could not vote at the election?—Yes.

821. While you were in the committee-room that day for an hour, you said nothing on earth about the ticket to any person?—Not a word.

822. Who first asked you to give evidence here on this petition?—Mr. O'Keefe, I believe, Mr. O'Shaughnessy's clerk.

823. Did Mr. O'Shaughnessy himself ever ask you?—No; but he called upon me.

824. Did he tell you from whom he came?—No.

825. Were you ever offered money for giving your evidence, or for giving information?—I was.

826. How much?—I was told I would get 20*l.* if I went over to Mr. Fitzgerald, and could give any information.

827. Who told you that?—Walker, that assisted me in canvassing, and a man of the name of Bailey.

828. Were you ever threatened, or ever told that anything would happen to you if you did not give information?—I was.

829. What were you told?—I was told I would be brought direct from my work, and put into gaol, and held over as a witness.

830. Who told you that?—A messenger from Mr. Fitzgerald's office.

831. Have you not an establishment of your own; a shop?—I do business for myself.

832. But you employ other workmen?—I do.

833. Were you ever canvassed by anyone to vote?—No.

834. On either side?—Oh, yes; Pim and Corrigan.

835. Who canvassed you to vote for Pim and Corrigan?—A man I knew to be Mr. Mackin, of 8, Wellington-street.

836. What did he say to you?—Mackin came to me by saying he was a neighbour of mine, and that he hoped I would excuse him for coming on Sunday, but "I want you," said he, "to vote for Pim and Corrigan."

837. Did he say anything more?—I said "I will not vote"; "Well," he says, "do you vote, and a gentleman will call upon you and mention my name and satisfy you well."

[The Witness withdrew.]

*WILLIAM BECKETT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

838. ARE you a freeman in the city of Dublin?
—Yes.

839. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

840. For Guinness and Plunket?—For Sir Arthur Guinness and the Hon. Mr. Plunket.

841. Do you know a man of the name of Richard Butler?—I know two Richard Butlers.

842. Did you happen to be in court to-day when one Richard Butler was examined?—Indeed I did.

843. And you know him?—I do.

844. Do you remember seeing Butler any time before the last election?—Oh, I did; I see him often.

845. And you talked with him about the election?—Oh, no.

846. Generally?—Nothing of any consequence.

847. Did you canvass for Sir Arthur Guinness?—I did not.

848. Did you sign any document for Sir Arthur Guinness?—I did not.

849. Did you suggest to Butler in any way that he might canvass for Guinness and Plunket?—No.

850. The day of the election were you talking to Butler before Butler voted?—No, we were talking in the morning, because he was up with me having a bit of breakfast along with me.

851. Do you know a man of the name of Walker?—Yes.

852. Did you see him before you voted that day?—Yes; I saw a good many.

853. Do you know Hassett?—I know Hassett.

854. Did you see Hassett before you voted that day?—I see him, but I don't know whether it was before he had voted or no.

855. Were you in Halston-street when Butler and Walker and Hassett voted?—I was in Halston-street, but I don't know whether they had voted at the time, because the police was driving them all about, and driving them up and down. The police says to young Butler, "You young vagabone go along or I'll lock you up; this is the sixth time I've told you, and I won't tell you any more."

856. Before Butler voted, you had been talking to him about the election?—Nothing of any consequence.

857. You breakfasted with him?—He breakfasted with me.

858. Did the two of you go down from breakfast to Halston-street?—No, we went up to Sackville-street first.

859. And after you went to Sackville-street did you go down to Halston-street?—Yes, we took a walk down.

860. From the committee rooms into Sackville-street?—I went up that way, but young Butler went in.

861. And you waited for young Butler until he came out?—Yes.

862. And you went up to Halston-street?—I went up to Halston-street and I lost him in Green-street.

863. Did you lose Butler in the crowd?—I did.

864. When did you afterwards see Butler again?—I suppose about three-quarters of an hour.

865. Had you voted at the time you saw Butler?—No.

29.

866. Had Butler voted?—No, not when he came home.

867. Had Hassett voted at the time?—I really don't know. 23 January 1869.

868. Had Walker voted?—I don't know.

869. How soon after you saw Butler did you vote?—I didn't vote for about an hour I suppose after I saw him.

870. Did you or Butler vote first?—Butler, so far as I could judge; I couldn't judge, only I saw him going in.

871. So far as you could judge it was about an hour after Butler came back before he voted?—Yes.

872. If he voted, do you remember seeing him?—I seen him, as I said, about an hour after.

873. An hour after he voted?—Yes; very near it.

874. Was his wife with him?—She was.

875. Was your wife with you?—She was,

876. Where did you go to after that?—After what?

877. You told me you met Butler about an hour after he had voted; did you and Butler go to any place together?—After I voted I went home, because I lost him in Halston-street. The police was driving them all away, and I lost him and I went home.

878. But when you found him again after you had voted, did you go to any place with him?—I did.

879. Where?—Into Fitzpatrick's, in Capel-street.

880. Was anyone else with you except Butler?—My missis, and his missis.

881. What did you do in Fitzpatrick's?—We had a quart of porter.

882. Who paid for it?—I think it was my missis.

883. When you had had the porter in Fitzpatrick's where did you go next?—I went over to Morrison's, in Castle-street, and I bought this hat (tapping his hat upon the crown).

884. Is that all you bought?—Well, afterwards my missis says, "you have bought that hat William, you might as well buy me a bonnet," and I bought her a bonnet.

885. At whose place did you buy it?—It is one between Stafford-street and Capel-street.

886. Mary-street?—Mary-street.

887. Did anybody else buy a hat at Morrison's?—I didn't see anybody buy a hat.

888. What did you pay for the hat?—I paid 12 s. for the two; that is for Butler's and this.

889. There were two hats bought?—Two hats together. His missis asked me to get one for him, and she says, "Mr. Beckett will you buy one for him," and I said, I didn't mind if I did; so I bought the two.

890. Did you take away your hat that day?—No, because there was a crowd outside, and they were all roaring, going down Castle-street, and says I, "If I bring the band-box out, the young blackguards will smash it."

891. About how soon after that date did you get back your hat?—About a couple of days. I was in no hurry about it.

892. Who brought it back for you?—A few days afterwards Mrs. Beckett and Mrs. Butler went over and got it.

C

893. You

W. Beckett.

23 January
1869.

893. You paid 12 s., I think you told me for the two hats?—Yes.

894. In what money did you pay for it?—I paid it with a note.

895. How much was the note?—A five pound note.

896. Do you remember that they had not change in Morrison's for the five-pound note?—Perfectly well.

897. And I believe a boy in Morrison's went out for the purpose of getting change?—He did.

898. And gave you 4 l. 8 s.?—He did, which was natural.

899. Where did you get the 5 l.?—I got it at home in my box.

900. I suppose there were a great number of other five-pound notes where you got that one?—There were not.

901. How long had it been in that box?—I suppose it might have been there about two months.

902. I suppose that there is another five-pound note in the box now?—No. there is not; there may be a few shillings, or the like of that.

903. When you paid for the hats, where did you go to?—We went up to Moore-street.

904. Did you go to any place before that; it's thirsty thing buying a hat?—No; we went to Moore-street; my missis wanted to get something for dinner, and we went into Clarke's, while the women went up to get a bit of steak for their dinner. I had half a glass of port wine, and so did Butler; and after that, we came down to Bulger's, and Butler met a few of his friends, and he brought them into Bulger's to treat them.

905. Who paid for the treat at Bulger's?—Mr. Butler, I think.

906. With what money did he pay for it?—I didn't see.

907. Will you swear that he didn't pay for it with a five-pound note?—I will, for I didn't see him.

908. Did you go to Mr. Sutton for the purpose of giving your evidence?—I had no evidence to give Mr. Sutton.

909. Did you go to Mr. Sutton's; do you know Mr. Sutton?—Oh, I know the gentleman; yes, I do.

910. Do you know where he lives?—No, I do not.

911. Do you know the office in Abbey-street?—I do.

912. Did you go there for the purpose of giving evidence?—No; I had no evidence to give.

913. Do you know his office in Harcourt-street?—I do not.

914. You never went there?—I never meddle, or make—

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Answer the questions you are asked, and don't make a speech.

915. Mr. Palles.] When you went with Butler to Halston-street, did you go to 76 Capel-street?—No, I didn't leave Halston-street with Butler.

916. When did you see Butler next before you bought the hat?—About an hour after I voted, I saw him, and I went over then to Morrison's.

917. Where did you see him first; an hour after you had voted?—In Capel-street.

918. In what part of Capel-street?—It was on the top of it.

919. Did you pass with him by 76 Capel-street?—Yes.

920. Did Butler go in?—Not to my knowledge.

921. Will you swear that he did not?—I will; not in my presence; I didn't see him.

922. Did both of you pass 76 Capel-street, and not go in?—Yes.

923. Were your wives with you upon that occasion?—Yes.

924. Were they walking with you, or behind?—They were behind.

925. Why were they behind?—Oh, I don't know; a man might be walking with another, and he not wishing to be talking to the women.

926. When did they join you?—When we got down to Fitzpatrick's, just at the very corner.

927. And I suppose from Fitzpatrick's to Morrison's, you all walked together?—We all walked together.

928. You of course never saw any railway tickets on the morning of this election?—No, I did not.

929. And Butler never showed you any railway ticket?—He did not.

930. And you didn't get any 5 l.?—No.

931. And you were not in 76 Capel-street with them?—No.

932. And you had no conversation with Walker about this election?—No.

923. Did you ever tell Butler you would give him the tip?—No.

934. Did you know that Butler was inexperienced in voting as a freeman?—I did not.

935. Did you know that he had never voted before?—I did.

936. Knowing he had not voted before, did you the evening before the election tell him that you would give him the tip, and that you would tell him what was to be done?—Bedad I couldn't tell him that. I couldn't tell him what I didn't know myself. If I had known myself, I might have told him.

937. Then it is quite untrue, that you and Walker, and Hasset and Butler, were together immediately before you voted?—Not together. I seen them in Halston-street, that's all.

938. Did you hear Walker say, "It's all right, you may go in and vote"?—I did not.

939. You didn't use the word "tip," of course, upon any occasion at all?—No; bedad, I did not.

940. You wouldn't take money for a vote?—Well, I would not like to be put in prison; and I believe there is an Act of Parliament now for putting people in prison for taking money.

941. Putting aside the Act of Parliament, would you take money for your vote, whether there was an Act of Parliament or anything else?—No.

Mr. Justice Keogh thought the examination was overstepping its proper limits.

942. Mr. Palles.] Where did you get that 5 l.?—In my box at home.

Cross-examined by Mr. Exham.

943. You say the police said that Butler was annoying them, and that they turned him off six or seven times?—Yes.

944. Did he look as if he had been drinking at that time?—Yes; and his face was all scratched; and the night before he was fighting with a man they call Paddy Manock.

945. That was before he voted at all, so far as you know?—Yes; he was a disgrace to be along with, the state he was in.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HENRY BAILEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

946. ARE you a freeman?—Yes.
 947. Do you remember getting a circular to attend at the committee-rooms before the election?—Yes.
 948. Was that the night before the polling?—Yes; on the Thursday night.
 949. Where were the committee-rooms in your ward?—Inns Quay.
 950. Did you go there the night before the election?—I went there in the evening, as I call it.
 951. Were there a number of gentlemen there of the committee?—There were.
 952. Was Mr. Moore, the attorney, there?—Mr. Moore was there and other gentleman; I do not know exactly what his name is.
 953. That is Mr. William Moore?—He was a gentleman with a little impediment in his eye; there was another solicitor with him.
 954. Do you know his name?—I do not know his name.
 955. Did you know a man of the name of William Campbell?—Yes.
 956. Do you know him now?—I would, if I saw him; I met him here this morning.
 957. Did you see him here this morning?—Yes.
 958. In this court house?—No; not in the court house; outside.
 959. Was he in the committee-rooms that evening?—No.
 960. Were you there with any other freemen at the committee-rooms?—I was.
 961. Who were the other freemen?—Boothman and Jessman, who is now dead, and another man, who is a painter; I cannot recall these things; but, however, the four of us went at seven o'clock in the morning.
 962. Had you been there the evening before?—We were there; and we were desired to go at seven in the morning, and we were there.
 963. Were you at the committee-rooms at seven in the morning?—Yes.
 964. Who told you to be there at seven o'clock in the morning?—Mr. Moore.
 965. Did you go up to Green-street?—Decidedly; we were all put up there; myself and Butler, and Warren.
 966. Is Warren the name of the painter?—No, he was the agent that was tallied up with us.
 967. What is his name?—I think it is Benjamin Warren, of Donnybrook.
 968. Were you polled here?—Yes, where we always poll; with the B's.
 969. After you had polled did you see the man named Campbell?—Yes.
 970. Tell his Lordship now what Campbell did?—After I polled at half-past 8 o'clock, I returned and saw Mr. Campbell, and I turned about and asked him what would be done with Butler. This man remains with a broken leg in the hospital, and I took him out of the hospital and polled him, and he turned about from Mr. Campbell to me, and said he to me, "Give me your own name and his together"; with that a friend that was second last on the table described the story that he turned about, and he wrote down names against the panel of the door; that is Hopkins; and doing that he put it into his pocket, and then he turned about after that; I should think it was about a quarter of an hour after when he turned about, and said he to me, says he, "Bailey", says he, "don't go out of the way," he says, "till I see you"; with that I remained for something less than a quarter of an hour, and he walks to me and says to me, says he, "Now," says he, "if I get it you what will you stand?" "You know," says I, "it will be all right." So with that he walked over to this young lad, and I, being a working carpenter, I am so used to the hospitals that I took him for a student, and I went up to him; at least, he went to him and spoke to him first; and he went up to him and put his hand upon his shoulder, and what he said I do not know. This was something like 20 feet from me, and then he says, "Bailey, go up to him now and your business is done," said he. So I forgot the number, but, however, in going as I took it for number three in place of 76, I went to number three a shoemaker's shop; making my mistake I came back again, and Mr. Campbell there represented himself that I should forget myself to make the mistake. "Go where I told you," says he; "give me the number over again," says I; "76," says he. I went for to meet my employer Mr. Mackenzie, and I had got a glass of grog myself and my mate, which he is here, and myself and my mate which he is here in the gallery now.

 971. Do you remember what sort of a ticket you got?—A Midland Railway ticket, I think.
 972. Did you drink some during the day?—I did.
 973. Did you get drunk?—Well, no, not drunk.
 974. Did you go back to 76 Capel-street that day?—No; not till the next morning.
 975. Now, tell his Lordship about the next morning?—Well, the next morning I happened to be going down, and just as I turned out of the Little Green I just came down, and I met Mr. Walker and——what is this other man's name.
 976. Hopkins?—I met Hopkins and Walker, and Hopkins turns about, and says he, "Harry, can you come home?" "Bedad," says I, "I have made a mistake in the number"; "Oh," says he, (that's Walker), "there is 5 l. lost."
 977. Did you show him a ticket?—Yes, I had it in my hand. Then Hopkins turned about; and he said to me, say he, "I will give you 2 l. for it"; "I will take it," says I; with that he passed. We went up to the house, and there was no one there to give us any information.
 978. Do you mean the house number 76?—Yes, number 76. Then we went over to Dame-street, and in going over to Dame-street, I met Mr. Campbell, and Mr. Campbell turned about, and he brought me into the committee-room; and says Mr. Campbell to me, says he, "All right now Bailey," says he; "No," says I; "I forgot myself," says I, "and the number." "Did not I tell you about it," says he; with that I told him about the ticket. "Well now," says he, "You have lost 5 l.; however," says he, "I think I can maintain it for you."
 979. Were you upstairs in the committee-room when Campbell said that to you?—No.
 980. Where were you?—In the back parlour.
 981. Was anyone else present?—No.
 982. Had Campbell brought you into that place?—Yes.
 983. Where

H. Bailey.

H. Bailey.

23 January
1869.

983. Where had Hopkins and Walker gone to?—I could not tell you; they had dispersed.

984. Did you see Hopkins after that?—I did.

985. How long did you remain in the committee-rooms before you saw Hopkins again?—I think it was closing; about three o'clock; between two and three o'clock.

986. Tell his Lordship when you next saw Hopkins, and what occurred after going back to Capel-street?—Well, I met Hopkins, and said he to me, "Well," says he, "Bayley"; I said to him, "I am in a bad situation"; "Well," says he to me, "I think," says he, "I will be able to put it all right, and we will go back"; with that we went back to 76, Capel-street, and he turned about and he took the ticket from me, and he took it in, and he was desired then to retire for an hour, or an hour and a-half, and we remained; which we went in to the corner of Gervase-street; and I had a pint of porter, and he had a glass of porter; we remained for an hour and a-half, and we went back, and the ticket was returned to me of no use; the parties was not there and could not be found.

987. Did Hopkins say anything to you about where the man was that was to pay the 5 l.?—No.

988. Was the name of Forrest mentioned at all; do you mind whether it was or not?—Upon my word I do not.

989. What happened next?—After that I went to Mr. Campbell backwards and forwards, and I could get no result from Mr. Campbell, and he turned about and he asked me, "had I the ticket safe," and I told him, "I had," and I was something about 10 feet distant from him, when he said to me, "You had better give me the ticket, and I will see what I can do with it for you."

990. Did you give him the ticket?—Most decidedly.

990. Mr. Justice Keogh.] To whom?—To Mr. Campbell, who is our Conservative agent.

Mr. Heron applied that Mr. Campbell might be brought forward.

991. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Is that the man (pointing to a person in the court)?—Yes, that is the gentleman.

992. Was that the last you saw of the ticket?—That is the last.

993. And you never got your money since?—None.

Cross-examined by Mr. Purcell.

994. Then you got nothing for your vote?—No.

995. But I believe you have got something for coming and giving evidence?—Yes.

996. How long had you been engaged in collecting evidence in the case?—Four and two is six and two is eight; eight days.

997. Is that all?—To my knowledge.

998. When were you first spoken to about getting evidence in the case?—Well, really I couldn't tell you for the first part; that is to give you exactly the day.

999. About how soon after the election?—I will just calculate.

1000. Was it after Christmas or before?—Well, my impression was that it was before it.

1001. How long before it?—I couldn't exactly say, but I think, as near as we can go, it was about a week; either a week or four days; I am not sure which.

1002. Did you go to anyone about it?—No, I didn't meet a single being, good, bad, or indifferent, but a newsman.

1003. What is his name?—Gayner.

1004. Where does he live?—He lives in Dorset-street.

1005. He came to your house?—Oh no, I met him in a public-house.

1006. What did he say to you?—He said that if I went over to Mr. Fitzgerald I could be decently treated.

1007. Did you go over?—I did.

1008. How soon after?—Three days after, because I wasn't satisfied with the thing at all.

1009. You were not satisfied with what?—That was for to go over.

1010. What were you not satisfied with?—With my mind.

1011. Is it that you did not think that you had any information to give?—Oh, yes.

1012. Or that you hadn't made up your mind about giving it?—That's right.

1013. How often have you been with Mr. Fitzgerald since?—I believe I couldn't tell you.

1014. So often?—Five or six times.

1015. Besides the evidence which you have given to-day, have you been ever since employed trying to get other evidence?—No.

1016. Do you swear that?—I do.

1017. You have not asked other parties?—I have asked them, but I was not obliged to ask them.

1018. How many have you asked besides yourself to come forward and give evidence?—Only one.

1019. Who was that?—Mr. Hagarty.

1020. Did you ever speak to Hopkins?—I did.

1021. Did you ask him?—I did.

1022. That is two; did you ever speak to Bntler?—No, Butler was gone.

1023. Gone over before?—Yes.

1024. Did you ever speak to Walker?—I did.

1025. That's three; you know you said you only spoke to one?—He was gone.

1026. Before then?—Yes.

1027. Did you ever speak to Smith?—No, I don't know Smith to my knowledge.

1028. Did you ever tell him that there was plenty of money to be got by giving evidence?—No.

1029. Did you ever tell him there was money to be got?—I did; but I didn't name the plenty.

1030. How much money have you gotten already yourself, or is it so much that you cannot count it?—Well, then, indeed it is not; for it wouldn't be a week's wages for me.

1031. How much money have you got from Mr. Fitzgerald?—£. 6.

1032. And that would not be a week's wages?—Only a week's wages.

1033. Do you get a pound a day for your work?—No, but on my jobs.

1034. Do you mean to tell his Lordship you get a pound a day?—Often I do.

1035. What are your usual wages?—Five shillings a day, but on my jobs, as a working carpenter, I have earned a pound a day.

1036. That is one of your best jobs?—Decidedly.

1037. Then this is one of your best jobs that you are doing now?—Quite so; I will not interfere with you about that.

1038. Did

1038. Did you ever hear anything at all about a ticket until after you had voted?—No.

1039. At what time of the day did you say you voted?—At half-past eight o'clock.

1040. Up to that time you had not heard anything at all?—No, nor up till one o'clock.

1041. When did you make up your mind how you would vote?—My mind was made up previous to that altogether.

1042. Had you ever voted before?—Yes.

1043. When had you your mind made up how you would vote; you say long before this?—Yes.

1044. How had you it made up?—To vote for Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunkett.

1045. Then when you went up at half-past eight o'clock, you had no doubt whatever how you would vote?—Certainly not.

1046. At that time had you got any promise of any money?—Nothing more than that we would be decently dealt with; that was the word, "decently dealt with."

1047. Who told you that?—Mr. Warren and Mr. Moore.

1048. Do you mean the solicitor?—Yes.

1049. A Mr. Warren of Donnybrook?—Yes.

1050. When did they tell you that?—The evening previous.

1051. Where?—In the tally room.

1052. Where?—On Essex-quay.

1053. What were the very words that were used?—Well, he turned about and told me the four of us where to go and vote early in the morning and to be there at seven o'clock, and then the word was —

1054. What did they say; did they say anything more?—That we would be decently treated.

1055. Which of them said that?—Both.

1056. Were they both speaking at the same time?—I couldn't say that.

1057. Which of them said it?—Mr. Warren and Mr. Moore.

1058. And that was all that passed, and then you voted on the next day?—That was all.

1059. Had you been promised anything for giving your vote?—No.

1060. Were you promised anything additional for your evidence?—No.

1061. Are you to get anything else?—No; nothing that I know of.

1062. You were not promised anything more?—No.

1063. Do you recollect being in Beckett's room when Hagarty called up there one day?—Yes.

1064. Do you recollect asking them whether they could give evidence in the case?—Yes.

1065. Did anybody use those expressions, "Well Bailey! Any money? It is perjury; to-day Pim's money will get a great pocketing"?—No.

1066. Nothing like it?—No.

1067. Did you say, "I do not care for what purpose it is circulated; it is better to have it circulated than lying at the bank"?—No, I deny that altogether, only that I told them this, that I understood that Hagarty would be decently treated if he gave evidence, but no sums of money.

25 January
1869.

Mr. Butt applied to have the Witnesses, Hagarty and Bailey, recalled.

Mr. Heron offered no objection.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that there should be a general understanding on both sides that the Witnesses might be recalled, and that some time should be fixed at which there should be a general recalling of the Witnesses.

WILLIAM ORMSBY, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

W. Ormsby
Esq.

1068. WERE you Sub-Sheriff of the City of Dublin last year at the time of this election?—I was.

1069. Do you produce the various deputations which you received from Messrs. Guinness and Plunket appointing check-clerks and inspectors of booths; are they lodged in your office?—I got a subpoena to produce certain documents, which I brought with me.

1070. But have you got them, because on Saturday we intimated to you that we would want them?—I cannot tell you exactly what I have; I told Mr. Fitzgerald that I would get all that was needed.

1071. Do you produce the account of election expenses sent in by the expense agent?—Yes.

1072. Is this (handing a document to the Witness) the original document?—Yes.

1073. This is "Expenses of the Conservative Candidates, Sir A. E. Guinness, Bart., and the Hon. David Robert Plunket at the election for the city of Dublin, held in November, 1868. Sheriff's account, 519 l. 19 s.; J. Julian, Esq.,

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN WILSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

J. Wilson.

1074. WHAT are you by trade?—A Shoemaker.

1075. Are you a freeman?—Yes.

1076. Is your father a freeman?—He is.

1077. Do you live together?—No.

1078. Had you ever voted at any election before the last?—No.

1079. Do you remember voting at the last election?—I do.

1080. Before the election did anyone call upon you and canvass you?—Several parties canvassed me.

1081. Do you know the names of any that canvassed you for the last election?—I do; must I mention his name.

1082. You must?—Thomas O'Reilly canvassed me for Pim and Corrigan.

1083. Who canvassed you for Guinness and Plunket?—One young man, but I do not know his name.

1084. Did you tell him whom you would vote for?—Yes, I told the young man who called on me "for Guinness and Plunket" that I would vote for them.

1085. How long before the election was it that you said you would vote for Guinness and Plunket?—Some time; O'Reilly, I think, called on me on the Saturday previous to the election; I think it was the Saturday.

1086. And when did the other young man call upon you?—The same day.

1087. Was it on the Saturday before the election that you said you would vote for Guinness and Plunket?—Yes.

1088. Had the young man a book in his hand?—He had a list in his hand.

1089. Did he make some note on the list when he took your name?—With a pencil he marked something on the list.

1090. Was anything said about your father between you and that young man?—No.

1091. Were you ever in any of the committee-rooms?—No.

1092. Did you go on the morning of the polling-day to vote?—I did.

1093. Whom did you first see in reference to your voting on the morning of the polling-day?—I went down to Green-street, or to Halston-street street rather, between 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning, and I seen my father, and I asked him had he voted, and he said he had and for me to do the same, and which I did do so.

1094. For whom did you vote?—Guinness and Plunket.

1095. At what hour was that?—I think closing up to about 10 o'clock, as far as I can judge.

1096. Did you remain long in the neighbourhood of Halston-street?—I did.

1097. Were you here hanging about?—I do not understand that word "hanging about." I was waiting about.

1098. Do you know a man named Campbell?—Not personally.

1099. Had you known him before by appearance?—No.

1100. Did you see him on that day?—I did.

1101. At what hour did you see him?—I think at about one o'clock.

1102. What did Campbell say to you, or did you say to Campbell, which of you spoke first?—I did.

1103. What did you say to him?—I told him I had voted, and he asked me for whom, I said "For Guinness and Plunket." Then he said, I was all right. So in a few minutes after, he brought me up to the corner of King-street, I think it was; that is King-street that runs at the top of Halston-street; and he asked me if he got me 5*l.*, what I would give him.

1104. What did you say?—I said, I would give him 2*l.* out of the 5*l.*

1105. What next happened?—He introduced me to a young man in Halston-street, who gave me a ticket.

1106. Did the young man say anything to you?—He directed me to go to 76 Capel-street.

1107. What did you do?—I knocked at the door there.

1108. Did you go to 76, Capel-street?—Yes.

1109. Just tell his Lordship what occurred?—I went into 76 Capel-street; I was let in by a lad; I was desired to knock at the front parlour door, which I did. There was about a couple of clerks inside writing; they desired me to knock at the back parlour-door, and I handed in the ticket through a slit, and the moment after a hand gave me an envelope.

1110. Did you go away then?—I went away then.

1111. Which way?—The back way.

1112. Who told you to go away the back way?—The lad at the door.

1113. Did you go any where then?—Back to Halston-street.

1114. And did you see Campbell there?—Yes.

1115. What occurred between you then?—I gave him the envelope. He went away then, and came back in a couple of moments.

1116. Had you opened the envelope before?—No.

1117. Did you see him take anything out of it?—Yes.

1118. What did he take out of it?—A 5*l.* note.

1119. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who took it out of the envelope?—Campbell. Then he went away I suppose to change it, and came back again with four half-sovereigns and one sovereign.

1120. Is that all that he gave you?—That is all.

1121. Could you identify the young man that gave you the ticket?—I could not.

1122. Did you see your father after that?—After that I did.

1123. Where did you see your father?—I was with him the whole day up to the time I got the ticket.

1124. Did you see your father about the money?—Not after. Not after I got my money. I got drunk and went home.

1125. But had you seen your father before that?—I seen him up to the time that I got the ticket, but not from the time I got the ticket.

1126. Did you introduce your father to Campbell?—I told my father when I was going back to Campbell, that I was all right, and then my father disappeared. I don't know what became of him after.

1127. Did you point out Campbell to your father?—Certainly not; I did not.

1128. At what hour was it that you told your father that you were all right?—I think it was about one o'clock when I got the railway ticket, and I do not think there elapsed above five minutes.

1129. Had you got the railway ticket when you told your father?—I had not the railway ticket, because Mr. Campbell brought me up to the corner of the street, separate from my father, and he and he asked me then if I got my 5*l.*, what I would give him out of them, and I told him I would give him 2*l.*

1130. It was after that you told your father you were all right?—Oh, yes; after that.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

1131. I think you said your father had voted before you?—He did early, previous to me.

1132. Do you know a man of the name of Gilligan?—I do; Thomas Gilligan.

1133. Do you know where he is?—I cannot say.

1134. When did you last see him?—On Thursday night; I parted with him about half-past 11. Both of us were drunk.

1135. Did Gilligan speak to you about giving evidence?—He did.

1136. When did he first speak to you about giving evidence?—On Tuesday last.

1137. Where did he speak to you?—I first met him in Landy's public-house in New-street.

1138. Did you drink there?—I did.

1139. Did he take you to any place?—We had a couple of glasses of whiskey there, and then on the road down to the town we had a couple more.

1140. One each?—One each.

1141. What time of the day was this?—I think that might be about half-past 12.

1142. Did you take any more after that?—Yes; the last place we took a drink in was William-street, at the corner of the market.

1143. How much did you take there?—Half a glass.

1144. That was two glasses and a-half?—Yes.

1145. Did Gilligan take you there?—Yes.

1146. Did you get any money there?—Yes.

1147. How much?—£. 2.

1148. Did Gilligan get anything?—I cannot answer that.

1149. Did you see him get anything?—No.

1150. Did you give information then to Mr. Fitzgerald?—Not to Mr. Fitzgerald, to Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

1151. Was it written down?—Yes; it was.

1152. Were you sober when you gave it?—Well, strictly speaking, I was not sober.

1869.

J. Wilson.

1869.

1153. Were you promised anything more by any person?—Coming out of the office during the time that I was giving my statement, my father came into Mr. O'Shaughnessy's office, brought up by another person of the name of Byrne, which Mr. Byrne, according to my father's story to me waited there; and, according to my father's word, he said he forced him to come to give evidence.

1154. Were you yourself promised any more money by any person?—By a stranger, I cannot remember his name; I was told that every person I brought up to give evidence I should get 1*l.* for myself.

1155. Were you ever promised 50 l.?—I was, by a man of the name of Quin, a shoe-maker. I was promised 50 l. reward if I gave information on the 30th and 31st of December.

1156. It was after that that Gilligan brought you to Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—Yes.

1157. And then you got 2 l.?—Yes; I got 2 l.

1158. Who promised you the 1*l.* for every person that you brought up to give evidence?—A stranger; I have not seen him since.

1159. Where did you see him?—In the passage of Mr. Fitzgerald's office.

1160. Were you promised for your own evidence any money after the 2 l.?—No.

1161. I am rather curious about that Gilligan; do you know him well?—Well, I am acquainted with him, no doubt, for these three or four years.

1162. Do you know where he lives?—He lives somewhere in Mabbot-street, but I cannot say the number.

1163. Were you looking for him on the Thursday?—I was not.

1164. Have you seen him since?—I have not.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ROBERT WILSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

R. Wilson.

1165. ARE you the father of the last witness?—Yes.

1166. You are a freeman of the city of Dublin, I believe?—I am.

1167. And you voted at the last election?—I voted at the last election, and at many elections before.

1168. And you voted for Guinness and Plunket, I believe?—I did.

1169. Do you remember before the election, going one evening to Guinness and Plunket's committee-rooms in Dame-street?—I do.

1170. About how long was that before the election?—I went several times to look for employment, for I heard they were giving employment.

1171. When did you go first there to look for employment?—About a fortnight or so before the election.

1172. Do you know the names of any of the gentlemen that you saw there when you went to the committee-rooms?—Indeed, I do not.

1173. When you went there, did you ask for anything?—I asked for employment, but they told me they could give no freeman employment as I had a vote.

1174. Did they ask you to sign any document?—Yes; he asked me to sign a paper that I should go up voluntarily to vote of my own free will.

Mr. Palles applied for the paper signed by the Witness.

Mr. Sutton stated that the paper should be produced as far as possible.

1175. Mr. Palles (to the Witness).] Did you sign the paper?—It was given to me to sign.

1176. Did you sign the paper yourself?—Yes.

1177. Was it at the central committee-rooms, or at what committee-rooms did you sign the paper?—In Dame-street.

1178. Do you remember the number in Dame-street?—No.

1179. Was it 47 and 48?—I think it was.

1180. After you had signed that paper, did they give you any list of men to canvass?—Not a word.

1181. Did you canvass for them?—No.

1182. Did you do any work?—I did no work, only on the day of the polling.

1183. Between that day and the day of the polling, were you frequently at the committee-rooms?—I attended two or three meetings.

1184. Can you tell me the names of any persons that you saw at those meetings that you remember?—I could not, indeed.

1185. Do you remember seeing Mr. Erson there upon any occasion?—Never; I don't know the name at all.

1186. Do you know a man of the name of Campbell?—Yes.

1187. Had you known him previous to the election?—I saw him in the committee-rooms.

1188. When did you see him in the committee-rooms?—When I went to look for employment.

1189. That is in the Conservative committee-rooms, when you went first?—Yes.

1190. What was Campbell doing in the committee-rooms when you saw him there?—I think he was filling in papers or giving cards.

1191. Working there as a clerk, I suppose, and assisting in the business?—I thought so.

1192. Do you remember seeing in those committee-rooms canvassers getting cards or lists of people?—No, I do not.

1193. Did you see Campbell giving papers to various people in that room?—I did not.

1194. Did you see Campbell in that room more than once when you called there later, between then and the election?—Only once.

1195. Now, we will come down to the morning of the polling; at about what hour did you come to Halston-street on that morning?—About half-past eight.

1196. About what hour did you vote?—About half-past 10, I think.

1197. What did you do after you had voted; did you remain about the court-house?—I remained, and walked from booth to booth, and saw the people coming up, looking for their letters.

1198. You remained there mixing and talking with the other freemen, I suppose?—Yes.

1199. Do you remember your son coming up to vote after you had voted?—I do.

1200. Do

1200. Do you remember telling him to do anything?—I told him to go and vote.

1201. And showed him the place where you had voted?—I did.

1202. Do you remember, later in the day, your son saying anything to you?—I do.

1203. After your son had said anything to you, did you go to Campbell?—Well, my son told me what he did do, and he told me that he had done wrong in giving his envelope up, and then he introduced me to Mr. Campbell as his father, and that I should just be the same as himself; that is the truth.

1204. Did Campbell say anything to you then?—He bid me go to the devil one time.

1205. Tell us, now, everything that passed between you and Campbell, either in conversation or action?—My son introduced me to Campbell as his father, and he told Campbell that I would do the same as he did himself.

William Campbell having been called, came into Court.

Mr. Justice Keogh directed him not to leave the Court.

1206. Mr. Palles (to the Witness).] You told your son that you would do the same what; next happened?—He showed me to some little man who was going about, and he put a card or something in my hand; it was a little stiff, and I never opened my hand from the time I got it till I went to Capel-street.

1207. Who was it put it into your hand?—I could not tell.

1208. Was that the man that was pointed out to you by Campbell?—Of course.

1209. When you got that card, what did you do?—I was ushered into a parlour.

1210. Was that in Capel-street?—Yes.

1211. How did you know where to go to in Capel-street?—Well, indeed, I was looking for the number, and there was a light at the hall door, and whether he knew me or not I do not know, but he opened the door, and he told me to go into the front parlour.

1212. But who told you to go to Capel-street, or the number in Capel-street?—The man that gave me the card.

1213. When you went into Capel-street what happened?—I slipped in the card to a little slit in the door.

1214. You went into the front parlour, I suppose?—Yes.

1215. Did you see any persons in the front parlour?—I saw two or three clerks writing.

1216. Did you say anything to them?—Not a word.

1217. What did you do when you went in?—I knocked at the side door.

1218. The door between the two parlours?—Yes.

1219. What happened when you knocked; did you see a hole in the wall?—Yes.

1220. And then you put in your ticket?—Yes.

1221. What happened when you put in your ticket?—I got an envelope.

1222. You got the envelope, and before you left the room did any of the clerks say anything to you?—Not a word.

1223. You went out into the hall?—Yes.

1224. And what happened there?—I was told to go out by the back-door.

1225. Who was it told you to go out by a back door?—The person that I saw when I came in.

1226. I suppose you opened the envelope afterwards?—When I got out of the lane.

1227. What was in it?—A 5 l. note.

1228. Look round; is that the man (pointing to a person in court)?—Yes that is the gentleman.

1229. Is that the document you signed (handing a paper to the Witness)?—It is the document.

1230. How long have you known Campbell?—Only a few weeks, I never knew him until the election began.

1231. Do you remember at the time of the registration seeing Campbell?—No.

1232. Did you give that money to any one?—I went home and ate my dinner and my tea and went to bed and never went anywhere else, of course I gave the 5 l. note to my wife.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonough.

1233. Where was it that you asked for employment?—Oh, it was in Dame-street.

1234. Do you know the name of the gentleman to whom you applied?—I do not indeed; I think it was Mr. Sutton but I did not speak to him.

1235. But you did speak to somebody?—Yes, in fact they would not let me upstairs.

1236. In short they told you distinctly you should have no employment if you were a voter?—Yes.

1237. I believe it is a fact that you were not a canvasser at the election at all?—Not at all.

1238. You do not know either Sir Arthur Guinness or Mr. Plunket?—Never.

1239. You never went about canvassing with them?—No.

1240. Did the man tell you when you were refused employment, if you should be a voter, "If you thought fit to give your services for nothing you might"?—Yes.

1241. And it was that that led to the signing of the paper?—Yes.

1242. Were those gratuitous services of yours as you say used at all upon the day of the polling by sending you on a message or anything?—Never, I went for no message only what I did freely by myself.

1243. You made yourself useful, I suppose?—I did as far as was in my power.

1244. That was on the day of polling?—Yes.

1245. Let me ask you at about what hour of the day you voted?—At about half-past 10 o'clock.

1246. In the early morning?—Yes.

1247. I presume that you voted according to your conscience?—I did.

1248. And your principles were the same as those of Messrs. Guinness and Plunket?—Yes I did this year, and in fact all my lifetime.

1249. And when you so voted at half-past 10 o'clock in the early morning is it not the fact that you had neither received a bribe of money nor a promise of money?—It is; I did it voluntarily; I done it neither with fee nor anything that way; I went voluntarily to vote.

1250. Is it not the truth and fact that you then voted according to the principles of your life?—It is.

1251. Without bribe or promise?—Without bribe or promise.

1252. And when your son came to you, did you not then tell him that you had voted, and that he ought to do the same?—I did. I brought him up to vote.

1253. At about what hour in the evening was it when, as you say, you saw this man who told you to go to Capel-street?—About four or half-past four o'clock; coming to dusk at any rate.

1254. Had you applied to anybody for any sort of compensation for your vote?—No; never.

1255. Before you voted, and when you were voting, had you any knowledge at all that you would get anything?—I had not; nor didn't expect it 1256. Did you know any person in the place in Capel-street which you have described?—As a freeman?

1257. No, not as a freeman?—No, I didn't know anyone.

1258. Now, may I ask you when was it that they found you out, that Messrs. Fitzgerald discovered you?—A man of the name of Quin called to me, and he told me that if I knew anyone that got any money, that would get me 50 l., and he would bring me over to head quarters.

1259. That is to say, to General Fitzgerald's?—He did not mention the place, but he told me head quarters, and I did not go. I told him I knew nothing at all about it, and I remained there till last Tuesday, and there was a gentleman called to me two or three times to bring me over.

1260. Who was the gentleman; what was the gentleman called?—Mr. Byrne.

1261. Of where?—He brought me over. He told me there were two fresh affidavits lodged against me and my son, and that I should go forward to vindicate my character; and then he sat in the room until I did go. Last Tuesday he introduced me to Mr. Fitzgerald's office, and Mr. Fitzgerald took the statement down that I am after giving here. I have nothing else to say.

1262. Did Mr. Fitzgerald give you any money?—Well, he did not; but I got 2 l.

1263. Who gave the money?—I think it was Mr. West, who is behind my back here.

1264. Did you ask him for it?—I think I did. I was told I would get the 2 l.

1265. Who told you you would get 2 l.?—My son, for he had it in his hand.

1266. How many days before was it that you refused the 50 l.?—A fortnight.

1267. Who made that offer?—Mr. Quin.

1268. Is Quin here; have you seen him?—I seen him in the street when I was passing by.

1269. This morning?—This morning, when I was coming down here.

1270. When the offer of 50 l. had failed, what was the day when they told you that there were two affidavits against you?—That was last Tuesday.

1271. Then did they tell you that it would be a serious thing for you?—Yes.

1272. And that you would get into trouble?—He told me that if I did not go forward it would be a serious thing, and that I would get two years' imprisonment.

1273. The offer of money having failed, they told you that you would get two years' imprisonment unless you came forward?—Yes.

1274. Did he, at the same time, tell you that you would be well rewarded?—He did not.

1275. When you got the 2 l. were you told that you would get more?—I was not.

1276. Do you expect more?—I do not; I was told I would be paid for my time.

1277. Did they tell you how much?—No.

1278. Did they say they would deal liberally with you?—No; they said I would be paid for my two days, whatever time I should lose.

1279. Who made that promise to you?—I think it was Mr. Byrne.

1280. Was he in Mr. Fitzgerald's office at the time?—No, I don't think he was.

1281. Where was it?—I was told in Mr. Fitzgerald's office that I would be paid for my loss of time.

1282. In addition to the 2 l.?—Yes.

1283. Were you greatly frightened when they told you you would get two years' imprisonment?—He told me there was two fresh affidavits against me.

1284. Did he tell you who had made the two affidavits against you?—That was what brought me over; but I heard nothing about it afterwards.

1285. You went to know who it was that swore against you?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM HENRY MOLONEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton.

W. H.
Moloney.

1286. Do you know a man of the name of John Frederick Kirk?—I do.

1287. Do you work with him?—I did up to two or three days ago.

1288. Do you remember, on the last day of the election, going with him to the shop of a grocer named Ryan?—I did not; I went in after him.

1289. Were you drinking with him; did he treat you?—He did.

1290. Who else was with you and him?—There was Patrick Dunn, James Thompson, and a young lad, an apprentice named Joseph Doyle, and myself.

1291. Can you state the day upon which you were there with him?—The day of the election.

1292. At what hour in the afternoon?—It was about five minutes past three o'clock.

1293. How long were you drinking there?—About two or three minutes.

1294. Who paid for the liquor?—Kirk.

1295. Did you see him pay?—I did.

1296. What did he pay with?—Half-a-crown.

1297. Did he change a note at all that day?—No; that is, not in my presence. I don't know what he did afterwards.

1298. Did he show you a note in his possession at all that day?—He did; I had it in my hand.

1299. What had he in his hand?—A five-pound note.

1300. Where had you that in your hand?—In Mr. O'Toole's office.

1301. What time in the day was that?—Just three o'clock. I suppose it to be that as far as I can recollect.

1302. Did Kirk show you the note in O'Toole's office?—He showed it me on the stairs.

1303. When was that?—It must be before my dinner-hour; I asked him, did he get anything, and he said he did, and he showed it me.

1304. He showed you the note?—Yes.

1305. Then it was after that that you went to Ryan's public-house, and had the drink?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

PATRICK DUNN, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

1306. Do you know Kirk?—Yes.
 1307. Do you remember the day of the election?—I think it was on a Friday.
 1308. Did you see Kirk upon that day?—I did.
 1309. Did you have anything to drink with him?—At Mr. Ryan's public-house, No. 1, James'-street.
 1310. Did you see any money in Kirk's possession that day?—I saw a 5 l. note.

1311. At what hour was it that you saw it with him?—At about ten minutes to three o'clock.
 1312. Did Kirk say anything to you about the 5 l. note?—I asked him what he made by his voting, and he produced the 5 l. note, and I saw it in his hand.
 1313. Did he say where he got it?—No.

P. Dunn.

JOHN O'TOOLE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill, Q.C.

1314. I BELIEVE you have a printing establishment in Great Brunswick-street?—I have.
 1315. Do you know J. F. Kirk?—He is one of my workmen.
 1316. How much does he receive?—Thirty shillings a week; sometimes more, sometimes less.
 1317. Is Dunn one of them?—Not at present; he generally is.
 1318. Did you see Kirk the day after the election?—Yes; I heard a sort of row in the office; I asked, "What is it all about"; I was told it was about Kirk. "What is that," said I; he handed something out, and seemed to be quite uneasy (I heard the men say), at having got it; he said he got it for voting.

 1319. What?—A 5 l. note.
 1320. When was this?—It was about three o'clock, or a few minutes afterwards.

J. O'Toole.

[The Witness was not cross-examined.

ALBERT JOHNSON; Examined by Mr. Heron, Q.C.

1321. ARE you in the employment of the last witness?—I am, or rather I was.
 1322. Do you know J. F. Kirk, who was examined here?—Yes.
 1323. Was he a fellow-workman of yours upon the day of the election?—He was.
 1324. Do you remember his coming into the Private in Great Brunswick-street, upon the day of the election?—Yes.
 1325. Had he anything in his hand?—Yes, a 5 l. note.
 1326. Where did he say he got it?—Upon the election.
 1327. Did you go with him to Ryan's public-house?—No.
 1328. Did you go drink with him?—Not till late in the evening.
 1329. Did you remain with him that evening any time; had you drink with him?—I remained till a late hour.
 1330. Did you leave him at home?—I did; about three in the morning.
 1331. The day after the election did you go to any public-house in Townsend-street?—Yes.
 1332. What house?—Carty's.
 1333. Did you meet Kirk there?—Yes, I remained there some time.
 1334. You were drinking together?—Yes.
 1335. Did you afterwards go to your own residence in Townsend-street?—I did.
 1336. Did Kirk say anything about getting more money?—He said there could be more money got.
 1337. Did he give you anything?—A card.
 1338. Had you a name upon it?—Yes.
 1339. What did he say to you?—He told me to go up to Westland-row, the School House, Guinness and Plunket's committee-room.
 1340. Did you go there?—I did.
 1341. What did you do?—I gave it to a gentleman, and I told him that Kirk sent me up with it.
 1342. Do you know his name?—I do not.

1343. Who were there?—Several people.
 1344. Do you remember the name of any one?—I do not.
 1345. Were they gentlemen?—Apparently.
 1346. Did you get anything there in return for the card?—I got another card.
 1347. What was it like?—It was something like a railway card, but it was rather worn.
 1348. Was anything written on the card?—He told me to go to Byrne's office, in Lombard-street.
 1349. Is that the town councillor?—I think it is.
 1350. Do you know the number?—No.
 1351. It is a pawnbroking office?—Yes.
 1352. Did you go there?—I did.
 1353. Did you go into the office, or knock at the private door?—At the private door; it was open.
 1354. Was any one standing at the door?—A young man.
 1355. Did you speak to him?—I told him that Kirk sent me down with the card.
 1356. Whom did you get it from?—I got it in Westland-row.
 1357. Show it to me; what did he say?—He told me to wait in the hall; he gave me an envelope, and upon opening it there was a 3 l. note in it.
 1358. Did you see any one else at Lombard-street?—Several people; two or three were inside in the room.
 1359. Did you remain in the hall?—I glanced into the room, but remained in the hall.
 1360. How many were there besides?—Four or five; there might be more.
 1361. What were they doing?—Sitting about a table.
 1362. Were there any papers upon it?—I cannot recollect.
 1363. Did you see the messenger who gave the message to the people unseen?—I did.

1364. How far were you from him?—About as far as from here to his Lordship.

1365. Where were the gentlemen, sitting or standing, when he gave it?—In the centre of the room.

1366. Would you know any of the gentlemen if you saw them?—I do not think I would; I did not see them long enough.

1367. Was there a young gentleman there?—There was.

1368. Describe him?—He was a fair-complexioned good-looking young gentleman.

1369. Look around and see whether you can see him?—I do not.

1370. Do you know how any of the gentlemen were dressed; what sort of a coat did any of them wear?—I do not.

1371. Do you know whether any one had any peculiar coat upon him?—I do not.

1372. You said there was one young gentleman?—Yes.

1373. You remember him as being younger and fair complexioned?—Yes.

1374. Do you remember an elderly gentleman?—Yes.

1375. What kind was he?—A low-sized gentleman.

1376. Was he stout or thin?—I think he was stout.

1377. What was his complexion, fair or dark?—I do not recollect.

1378. Had any of the gentlemen a moustache, or were all of them shaved?—I do not know.

1379. What did you do with the 3*l*?—I gave it to Kirk.

Cross-examined by Mr. Exhan, Q.C.

1380. What day was it you went to Lombard-street?—The day after the election.

1381. What hour was it?—It might be 11 o'clock in the morning.

1382. You know Byrne?—Yes; I know the house.

1383. Do you know himself?—I do not.

1384. Did you ever see him?—Not to my knowledge.

1385. Where do you live?—In Townsend-street.

1386. And though you live in Townsend-street you do not know him?—

Mr. Justice Keogh.] He has already stated that he did live in Townsend-street, and I shall not allow a question, once answered, to be put a second time.

1387. Mr. Exhan.] Did you ever see the young man standing there before?—I often saw him before, but not since. I often saw him walking about through town. I did not know his name.

1388. What kind of person was he; dark complexioned; he was not tall?—No.

1389. Was that the only time you ever saw him at Byrne's door?—I never saw him about the door before.

1390. Did he shut the door when he let you in?—No; he left the hall door open.

1391. How far did you go into the hall?—I went in a good distance.

1392. Where was the door; in what part of the hall, right or left?—I do not know which.

1393. The door going into the room where you saw the people?—I cannot tell; I forget it.

1394. Did you tell anybody about it?—I did not make any remark at the time.

1395. Was it far down in the hall, or near the hall door?—It was a good bit down.

1396. Did you walk down to the door or stand near it?—I stood near the hall door.

1397. Do you mean to say that, standing near the hall door, you could see into the room?—Yes, when it was open.

1398. Did the door open at the side of the passage?—It opened at the side.

1399. Were they all sitting at the table?—No; a couple were standing up.

1400. What sort of a table was it?—It was a desk or a table.

1401. Was it a high desk; was any one standing at it writing?—I do not think that any one was writing.

1402. Were there any papers upon the table?—There might have been.

1403. Did you notice it?—No.

1404. Was there a cloth upon it?—There was something like it.

1405. How many were sitting down?—Five or six; the might have been only three; there might be several more standing up.

1406. What did you see?—I might have seen three or four.

1407. Will you swear that you saw three or four sitting?—I will.

1408. How many were standing up?—A few.

1409. Did you see more than three or four?—I might; I do not recollect.

1410. How long were you kept waiting?—Not long; about a quarter of an hour or ten minutes.

1411. When did you tell this story to the other side?—When?

1412. Yes, when?—I do not remember.

1413. Was it ten days ago, about?—Yes.

1414. Did he tell you you should get money?—No.

1415. Did he tell you to go to Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—He did.

1416. Did you go there?—I did.

1417. Did you get any money there?—I did.

1418. How much?—£.1.

1419. Were you there more than once?—I was there a second time.

1420. Did you get anything then?—Yes, 1*l*.

1421. Were you there more frequently?—Yes, I was there three or four times.

1422. Did you get any more?—No.

1423. How much more are you to get?—I do not know.

1424. Were you promised any more?—No.

1425. Were you told you would be recommended?—No.

1426. Were you told you were not to get more than 2*l*?—I do not know.

1427. What do you expect?—Nothing more than 2*l*.

1428. Did you look to the card that Carroll gave you?—Yes.

1429. Was there anything on it; was it printed or written?—There was something on it; I did read it, but I have a bad memory for names; I read the name of Carroll, Dolan, and some other names.

1430. What else was on it; was there anything on it but printing?—There was writing.

1431. What was the writing?—I do not know.

1432. Were there names?—I do not know.

1433. Not before nor since?—No.

1434. Did

1434. Did you look at the card he gave you?
—Yes.
1435. Was there anything on it?—Yes.
1436. Did you read it?—No, I did not.
1437. Had you not the curiosity to read it?—
I did not understand the writing.

1438. What hour was it when you took the card to the committee-room?—About 10 or half-past 10.
1439. The morning after the election?—Yes.
[Witness withdrew.]

BENJAMIN CATHRENS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles, Q.C.

1440. WHERE do you live?—I live at 19, North
Anne-street.
1441. Are you a freeman?—Yes.
1442. For whom did you vote?—I voted for Guinness and Plunket.
1443. Were you canvassed before the election to vote?—Yes.
1444. By whom?—By some gentleman three or four times; I saw one man twice.
1445. Do you know the name of any man who canvassed you?—I do not.
1446. What answer did you give?—I said I would not promise anything; I went to Green-street between 11 and 12 o'clock.
1447. Had you received the usual polling-card?—There was a card left at home; I never got it.
1448. Did you lose it?—I could not lose it, as I never got it.
1449. Where did you go after you got the polling-card?—I went to Green-street; I went up and voted.
1450. After you voted, did you remain about the court-house?—Yes.
1451. After you had waited there for some time, did anything happen?—I got a book.
1452. What else happened?—I was desired to go to Capel-street, and I found there the same as the others did.
1453. Did you get anything to bring with you
there?—A card.
1454. What sort of a card?—Something like a railway ticket.
1455. What, then, did you do?—I went to Capel-street.
1456. What is the number of the house?—76.
1457. What place is that; Espy's?—Yes.
1458. Was the door open or shut?—A man opened the door.

1459. Did he say anything to you, or you to him?—He desired me to go to the front parlour.
1460. Did you?—I went in.
1461. Did you see any people there?—Two or three.
1462. What were they apparently doing?—
Writing.
1463. Did they say anything to you?—To knock at the door.
1464. That was the door between the parlours?
—Yes.
1465. Was there anything peculiar in that door?—A kind of hole.
1466. What did you do?—I handed in my ticket.
1467. It was taken from you by a hand inside?
—Yes.
1468. Did you get anything?—I got an envelope.
1469. Was anything said when you got the envelope before you left the room?—No; I walked out.
1470. Did you meet that young man when you walked out?—He told me to go out backwards.
1471. And when clear of observation you opened that envelope?—Yes.
1472. What was in it?—A 5 l. note.
1473. Of what bank?—I cannot say, but I think it was Bank of Ireland.
1474. Did you change that note afterwards?—
Yes.
1475. Was that upon the day of election?—
Yes.
1476. Where was that?—In Bolger's, the corner of Coles-lane.

B. Cathrens.
—

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt, Q.C.

1477. You had voted early in the morning before you had got that?—I did, sir.

THOMAS BRADY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton.

1478. IN whose employment are you?—In that of Bolger & Co., 53, Henry street, corner of Coles-lane.
1479. Yow know the last witness?—Yes.
1480. Did you see him that day?—Yes.
1481. About what hour?—Between two and three o'clock.
1482. Had he any drink?—He called for drink, and changed the 5 l. Bank of Ireland note; I took the amount, and gave him the balance.
1483. Do you know Butler?—Yes.
1484. Did you see him upon that day?—I did;
Richard Butler, I knew him personally by name.
1485. Had you seen him before; had you seen him in the public-house?—Yes, he called for the drink; he changed the 5 l. note; I asked him did he vote, and he said, "Yes," smiling; I shook my head in return.
1486. Did you know Hagarty?—Yes; I had known him before, but I did not know his Christian name; I knew him to be Hagarty.

1487. Did you see him examined?—Yes.
1488. Did he come into the establishment on the day of the election?—He did.
1489. Had he drink?—He had.
1490. How did he pay for it?—He tendered me a 5 l. Bank of Ireland note, which I changed, and I gave him the balance.
1491. How many notes did you change?—
Three; I took count, knowing the three men, and I suspected—

T. Brady.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] You must not say what you suspected.

1492. Did you know that they were freemen?
—No.
1493. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you recollect
Butler being with any other person there?—His wife, another female, and a male; I recollect seeing the male upon Saturday.
1494. What was his name?—I think he gave his name as Beckett.

T. Brady. 1495. Was he the same person who was with Butler when he changed the 5 l. note?—Yes.
 25 January. 1869. 1496. Are you able to say who paid for the drink; that is, Butler or Beckett?—I had stated that already; I have stated that Butler changed the 5 l. note; I stopt the amount for drink, and gave the balance.

1497. Who paid for Beckett's drink?—Butler treated the whole.

1498. Are you able to say (do not speculate or suspect), but say, if you can, whether Beckett had an opportunity of seeing Butler produce the 5 l. note?—I cannot say that he did see Butler produce the note.

FRANCIS RYAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

F. Ryan. 1499. YOU are an assistant in the public-house?—Yes.
 1500. You remember the day of election?—Yes.

1501. What occurred?—Kirk came in, took drink, and offered a 5 l. note.

1502. Who gave you the 5 l. note?—Kirk.

1503. About what hour was this?—Three o'clock.

FRANCIS WINTER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill, Q.C.

F. Winter. 1504. WHERE do you live?—In 43, Great Britain-street.
 1505. Are you a clerk of Keegan's?—Yes.
 1506. Do you know Walker?—Yes.
 1507. Had you known him before the election?—I saw him.
 1508. Do you recollect Walker coming into your employer's house upon the day of the election?—I do.
 1509. Was anyone with him?—Yes.
 1510. How many?—Two men.
 1511. Did Walker treat those men?—Yes.
 1512. Is it a public-house?—Yes.
 1513. Who paid for the treat?—To the best of my belief, it was Walker.
 1514. He gave you a 5 l. note?—Yes, and I gave the change.
 1515. Was there any talk about the election?

—Yes; he did not say anything about it in my presence; they stopped in the shop about 10 minutes.

1516. Did anyone else change a 5 l. note?—Yes, one of the men.

1517. Can you say his name?—Hassett.

1518. Were any mere 5 l. notes changed?—Not to my knowledge.

Joseph Hassett was in court, and Witness was asked

1519. Whether he was one of the three men who went in with Walker to change the second 5 l. note?—He was one of the three.

1520. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was he one of the men who were with Walker when the two 5 l. notes were changed?—Yes.

JOSEPH HASSETT, sworn.

J. Hassett. Witness.] I HAVE been here for four days, who is to pay me for my time?

Mr. Justice Keogh.] You had better be sworn.

Examined by Mr. Heron, Q.C.

1521. Did you change a 5 l. note at Keegan's on the day of the election?—No; I was there with Walker.

1522. Who else was there?—Hopkins.

1523. He that was examined?—Yes.

1524. You are a freeman?—I am.

1525. At what hour did you go there with the other two men?—I think about 12.

1526. Had you drink?—There was.

1527. How much did you drink?—I had two glasses of whisky; each had two glasses of whisky and water.

1528. How was this paid for?—Walker paid for the first "round."

1529. And he changed a note; a 5 l. note, upon your oath?—Upon my solemn oath, I cannot tell what note.

1530. Do you believe it was a 1 l. note?—I made no remark.

1531. Did you see him get change?—I did, but I cannot tell what.

1532. Was the change in silver or copper?—I cannot say, but I do not think it was coppers. It might have been a 10 l. note for aught I know.

1533. Seeing him get the change, do you swear that it was a 10 l. note?—I cannot say.

1534. Who paid for the second round?—I did.

1535. What did you change?—I cannot say whether it was silver or coppers; I had both in my pocket.

1536. Had you no note?—I had not.

1537. Did you see a second note?—I did not.

1538. Who paid for the third round?—There was not any third round.

1539. And you saw no second note?—I did not.

1540. And you swear there was none there?—How could I swear that; I saw Walker tendering a note, but what it was I cannot tell.

1541. Did Walker tell you he had voted?—He did.

1542. And you had voted?—Yes.

1543. How long were you at Green-street or Halston-street before you voted?—Well, I left the house after my breakfast, at nine; I went round Capel-street, and came in through Green-street, through the court, and it was in some one of the windows in the building that — 1544. Do you know William Campbell?—No.

1545. Upon your oath, do you know the man I mean?—I know many Campbells.

Mr. Heron.] I can tell you the Campbells are coming.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Where is Campbell?

His Lordship was informed that he was absent.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I cannot help remarking, marking, that Campbell is absent or disappears upon every occasion that we require him in court.

Mr. McDonogh, Q.C.] My Lord, I gave orders, as I have already said, to make him remain.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I gave orders that he should remain here.

Mr. Exham.] And he has been here my Lord, for upwards of an hour.

Campbell here made his appearance in court.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Where have you been, sir?

Campbell.] I went to get a sandwich, my Lord.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do not leave court again, sir, without the permission of it; if you do, I shall take very strong measures to enforce your presence.

(Witness looking at Campbell.)

1546. Have you seen him before?—I have.

1547. Did you see him before the election?—I did.

1548. Why did you take such time to consider the question?—I was considering whether it was the morning before the polling or after it.

1549. Did you see him the day of the polling?—Often.

1550. And were often speaking to him?—No.

1551. Where did you see him?—Actively engaged at the town council election.

1552. Did you see him actively engaged at the registration of voters in the Four Courts before Mr. Exham and Mr. Purcell?—I did not.

1553. Were you there at all?—No.

1554. What did you mean by the revision?—The election for town council, I mean.

1555. Where, the last time?—In Abbey-street.

1556. Whose election was it?—Mr. Redmond's and someone else; I forget the other.

1557. What month was it?—It was last week or the week before.

1558. Was he upon the Conservative side?—No; it was just concluded.

1559. Had you ever seen him before?—Yes, frequently.

1560. You did not see him at the Four Courts?—No; I was there, of course.

1561. Where did you see him before?—Through the streets.

1562. And at these town council elections, constantly?—No.

1563. When there was an election, did you see him?—No.

1564. Mr. Heron (to Campbell).] I heard what you have said, and I advise you not to be speaking?—I know him 12 months by eyesight.

1565. By what name did you know him?—I heard his name was Campbell.

1566. Upon your oath, did you not tell me you did not know his name was Campbell?—I told you I knew many Campbells.

1567. And I asked you if you knew Mr. Campbell?—I told you I knew many Campbells, and you said, "The Campbells are coming."

1568. Did you know whom I meant?—I did not; and upon my solemn oath I do not know what his Christian name is, except William.

1569. Did you know he was Campbell with the red nose and the sunken eyes?—I knew that.

1570. Did you see him upon the polling day?—I did.

1571. Did you see him before you voted?—J. Hassett. No; upon my solemn oath.

1572. Did you see him before you went to get the drink?—No. 25 January 1869.

1573. Did you go back to the poll?—No.

1574. Did you see him upon the day of the poll?—I did.

1575. What was he doing?—He was very actively engaged running from one booth to the other; that is all I know.

1576. Did you see the young man with the eyeglass?—What young man with the eyeglass; I did not.

1577. A young man with sandy complexion and eyeglass?—No.

1578. Did you sign the voluntary declaration?—I did not.

1579. You would scorn such an action?—Yes; but I was working outside, and they knew very well from my principles there was not any occasion to sign the declaration. I did not canvass, but I was willing to give any information I could give for Mr. Guinness and Mr. Pim.

1580. Were you in the committee-rooms in Dame-street?—Not twice, from beginning to end.

1581. Were you in the ward-rooms?—I was; every day I was there, three times a week with my work, for one hour or a half each time.

1582. To give information about the freemen?—Anything I knew that would assist the return of Guinness and Plunket.

1583. What was the name of the gentleman who was assisting?—Mr. Lawder was there.

1584. Who was the attorney?—I do not know; nor the name of the gentleman.

1585. Did you get any money?—I did not.

1586. Had you 5*l.* in your possession on the day of the polling?—I had not. I had not, upon my oath; but I could have had five, or six, or seven, if I went and voted for Pim and Corrigan.

1587. Was it up to 7*l.*?—Five, or six, or seven pounds.

1588. Did you speak to Campbell on the day of polling?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh, Q.C.

1589. I believe you were not in any shape or way agent at the election?—Not in the slightest.

1590. Did you vote according to your principles?—Yes.

1591. Without any offer of bribe or promise?—Yes.

1592. Who offered you 5*l.*, 6*l.*, or 7*l.* to vote for Pim and Corrigan?—A man of the name of Barke, of South Anne-street; he met my wife.

1593. What is he?—He is something in the law way; he was active at the election.

1594. You saw him active?—For the Liberal party.

1595. What did he do?—He came to me about the petition. He knocked at the door; my wife opened it; he walked in; he saluted me, "I want to speak to you," he said; "What do you want," said I; "You will get 100*l.* if you give any substantial information about the election petition, and I will give you 10*l.* in hand if you come with me and tell me anything you know about it." "I don't know anything about it," said I; "I can give you no information; I am sorry I did not embrace that offer you made my wife;" "Oh you d—d fool," said he, "why did you not come."

1596. Was

J. Hassett.

25 January
1869.

1596. Was that the same person to whom she referred?—Yes.

1597. When you refused the 100*l.* and the 10*l.*?—I did.

1598. Were you afterwards induced to go to Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—Gaynor, a news-vendor, called upon me; he said that he was Mr. Fitzgerald's messenger, and he had sent him to me; "Is it Mr. Charles Fitzgerald, of Stafford-street," said I; "No," said he, "of 20, St. Andrew-street;" "What is his business," said I; "I have not the honour of knowing him." "He wants you over," said he; "What is his business with me," said I; "About the ticket you got after you voted; we know whom you voted for, but the Conservative agent has given another man your polling ticket to personate you." "Did he do so," said I; "No," said he; "So much the better for himself," said I; "I had two tickets, and I left my polling ticket when I voted for Guinness and Pim when I polled in the booth. How is it that the other party could get it, the Conservative agent, if he had such a thing in his possession; must have stolen it, or it must be a forgery;" "Oh!" said he, "if you do not come over under the new Act, Mr. Fitzgerald has the power, and will put it into execution, to place you in gaol and keep you there till the day upon which your examination takes place; after that you will be handsomely remunerated, and get money the moment you go with me." "At what time does Mr. Fitzgerald leave his office," said I; "At six o'clock," said he; "It is half-past six," said I; "If I go there now, he will be gone;" "Shall I call in the morning?" "No," said I. I went the following morning to Mr. Fitzgerald himself; I saw him, I mentioned my name; he was for a long time before he could understand me. I told him that I had received a message from him through Gaynor. He said he did not authorise him to come to me; "Well," said he, "as you are here here, I recollect the circumstance; you are a voter?" "Yes," said I; "How is it the Conservative agent had got your polling ticket and wanted a man to personate you?" "Well, if it is the case," said I, "it must be stolen, or a forgery." So with that, Mr. Fitzgerald asked me could I give him any information what hour I had voted, and what I had done with the ticket; I told him I had not any ticket.

1599. Did he ask you whether you got a promise?—He asked had I a ticket, or had I received a promise? "No," said I; "Blessed are those who expect nothing, they will never be disappointed." Mr. Fitzgerald thanked me for my kindness in calling upon him; he handed me 3*s.* to get a car or a drink, and he said he would not trouble me any more.

1600. Mr. Heron.] Did you give your evidence to Mr. Sutton?—I did not; I do not know the gentleman.

JOHN CARROLL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

J. Carroll.

1601. I BELIEVE you are in the employment of Mr. O'Toole, of Great Brunswick-street?—Yes.

1602. For whom did you vote at the election?—For Pim and Corrigan.

1603. Do you know Johnson?—Yes.

1604. What is he?—I do not know.

1605. Would you know him again?—I dare say I might.

1606. Do you remember his calling upon you some few days before the election?—I do.

1607. Did he canvass you for Guinness and Plunket?—Yes, I did not see him, my wife sent him down to me.

1608. When he came down, what conversation had you with him?—I think the Friday before the election a man called upon me with a printed form, and asked me would I sign it. I asked him to give me a night to consider it.

1609. That was to vote gratuitously for Guinness and Plunket?—The following morning I walked to Kirk, handed him the form, and said I would not sign it.

1610. Did William Johnson say anything to you about voting, or what you were to get for voting?—I do not know the man who first gave me the paper; he called upon me, asked me had I signed it? "No," said I; he asked me to go up to South Anne-street committee-rooms; I said I would go; he came shortly afterwards, and brought me into the room, where there were 25 men sitting; he asked me, "Was I a Roman Catholic?" I said, "I was"; he asked me "Was I going to vote for Guinness and Pim?" "No," said I, "I do not care for voting for Pim"; I was bound to vote for Corrigan; they said a split vote was of no use, so I parted with them.

1611. Tell me the names of any others but the name of Johnson?—Not one upon that occasion.

1612. Was anything said upon occasion about your being paid to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—He told me if I signed the paper, "Mr. Guinness was a very liberal man." That was all he said.

1613. You said you afterwards went to Kirk?—Yes.

1614. Did you see any canvassing list in Kirk's hand?—I did.

1615. Did you read it?—I did not.

1616. How many names were on it?—Four or five.

1617. Do you recollect upon the day of election, when Kirk returned from polling, his having shown you anything?—No.

1618. Did you see anything with him after he voted?—No.

1619. You were not present at the treating?—No.

1620. You voted for Pim and Corrigan?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

1621. Tell me what was on the ticket?—I was to tender my services for Guinness and Plunket gratuitously.

1622. To act without fee or reward?—Yes.

1623. And you properly desired to vote for Dormick Corrigan, a Roman Catholic?—Yes.

1624. But you also liked Guinness?—I did.

1625. And would be willing to vote for both?—Yes.

1626. And without fee or reward?—Yes.

1627. And you were not offered anything?—I was told that Guinness was liberal.

1628. A liberally-minded man?—That he was liberal.

1629. You would have voted for Guinness, and you you would have thought he would have made a good representative?—Yes; and I do.

1630. Tell me the first place you were brought to?—To No. 4, South Anne-street—

1631. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What business was carried on there?—The ward committee-rooms.

1632. It was placarded?—Yes.

1633. And you said you were willing to sign the paper, and vote for Guinness and Corrigan, but Johnson said that would not do?—I think it was a gentleman in the chair, but it was in the presence of Mr. Johnson.

ELIZABETH BUTLER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton.

1639. You are the wife of Richard Butler?—Yes.

1640. You remember the day of the last city election?—Yes.

1641. Where did you go that day?—Upon the morning of that day I went with my husband to Bolger's.

1642. Where did you breakfast that morning?—At Becket's.

1643. Did you, your husband, Mr. and Mrs. Becket, breakfast together?—Yes; after breakfast I remained there; my husband went out; Becket went with him; they left me and Mrs. Becket behind; we followed after them; then we went to Halston-street to meet my husband; I did meet him.

1644. Before you went to meet him did any one call at Becket's house?—Yes.

1645. What did he say?—He spoke to Mrs. Becket in my presence; he was asking was it there Mr. Becket and my husband lived; he left a small card he said he understood he was to get for Guinness and Plunkett.

1646. Who said that?—I do not know the gentleman.

1647. But it was the gentleman who called?—Yes.

1648. Did he leave the card behind?—Yes.

1649. Where did you go, then?—I went to Halston-street; Mrs. Becket carried the card.

1650. Where did you find your husband?—I found him in Green-street.

1651. Before you went to Halston-street or Green-street, was there any further conversation between you?—We were speaking.

1652. What did they say?—He said he always understood he always voted for one party.

1653. Well, what then?—He seemed to be satisfied.

1654. Was anything said about your being poor?—They said the man was poor, and expected to be paid.

1655. Who said that?—Mrs. Becket.

1656. What reply did the gentleman give to that?—That it would be made all right.

1657. Anything more?—That was all.

1658. Then you went to Green-street?—Yes.

1659. And met your husband there?—Yes.

1660. Had they voted?—No.

1661. Did they afterwards vote?—Yes.

1662. Did you state to your husband what had taken place in Becket's house?—Yes.

1663. Did they state the conversation?—I did not state it, but I believe Mrs. Becket did; I saw her telling about the gentleman's calling.

1664. Did you hear her say what he said?—I cannot say, but I saw her give the card to her husband.

29.

1634. Who said, "If you sign the paper, Guinness is a liberal man"?—Mr. Johnson, to the best of my opinion.

1635. Was that after the person said that would not do?—I think it was.

1636. But you are sure Mr. Johnson said, "If you sign the paper, Mr. Guinness will be liberal"?—Yes.

1637. Did you sign the paper?—I did not.

1638. You left without signing?—I did.

1665. After that did you see them go to vote?—Yes.

1666. And you saw them coming out?—I met them after they came out.

1667. Where did they go to?—To Capel-street.

1668. Did you and Mrs. Becket accompany them?—Yes.

1669. Were you walking with or behind them?—Behind.

1670. Where did you see them go to?—To the hall door.

1671. Did Mrs. Becket make any statement to you?—She did not.

1672. She made no statement while following after?—I do not think so.

1673. You saw them going into a house?—Yes.

1674. Do you know the number?—I do not.

1675. Did you see any name upon the door?—There was a name, but I do not mind what it was.

1676. Did you see them coming out?—Not at the same door.

1677. Did they afterwards join you?—Yes, in the street; further down in Capel-street.

1678. Where did you go then?—We went to Judge's, on Cork-hill.

1679. Had you refreshment there?—Yes.

1680. Where did you go then?—To Morrisson's, the hatter's, in Castle-street; they bought two hats; Becket paid; I saw him.

1681. What did he pay?—He paid it with a note.

1682. Did you see the amount?—No.

1683. Did you see him get the change?—I did, but I could not say how much.

1684. Did you take the hats away?—No, they remained there for two or three days.

1685. Did you afterwards go for the hats?—Yes.

1686. After they left Morrisson's, where did the party go?—We went to Bolger's, in Henry-street.

1687. After you had been there what did you do?—We got refreshment there.

1688. Did your husband change any note there?—Yes.

1689. What was the amount?—A 5 l. note.

1690. Where did you go?—We went to Henry-street, Mary's-street, and in that street, the shop I don't know, we bought bonnets; we gave 8 s. 6 d. for them.

1691. Who paid for the bonnets?—My husband, but I cannot say whether it was out of the change of the 5 l.; Mrs. Becket and her husband were with me at the time.

1692. Did you go to Judge's or Morrisson's first?—To Judge's.

E

1693. What

J. Carroll.

25 January
1869.

E. Butler.

E. Butler. 1693. What is he?—He keeps a public-house.

25 January
1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt, Q.C.

1694. Were you at Fitzgerald's office before you came there as you state?—My husband brought me there; he told me I would be sub-pœnaed; I asked what was that.

1695. He took you there?—Yes.

1696. When were you there first?—I think about a week ago; my husband took me there; that was the first time; I refused upon two occasions to go.

1697. Did your husband threaten you if you did not go?—No.

1698. Did you ever tell any person he wanted you to tell lies?—No; never.

1699. You swear that?—I do.

1700. Did you ever say to any one your husband wanted you to tell lies?—No.

1701. Did you get anything?—My husband got 1 l.

JOHN BURKE, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

J. Burke.

1702. You remember people coming into your shop and buying bonnets?—I remember the last witness, another woman and two men coming in and buying two bonnets.

1703. What did they pay?—I think they paid 8 s., they seemed to be in partnership; one man paid for the bonnets; he gave me a 1 l. note to change.

1704. Would you know the woman?—Yes; I saw her here, there was an elder woman along with her.

Mrs. Beckett was called, but did not answer.

The Witness was not cross-examined.

GEORGE MACDONNEL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

G. MacDonnel.

1705. WHAT are you?—Glass-founder and plumber.

1706. Are you a freeman of the city of Dublin?—Yes.

1707. Is there amongst the freemen a guild of St. Loy?—Yes.

1708. Are you a member of that guild?—I am.

1709. About how many members are there?—I cannot tell.

1710. Are there 25?—I do not know.

1711. Are there 20?—I do not believe I know a dozen of them.

1712. Whom do you know?—I know James Copeland, of 42, Middle Abbey-street.

1713. Did he call upon you at any time before the election?—He called several times.

1714. Did he call a week or ten days before the election?—Yes.

1715. Did he tell what he called for?—There was not one that had not a soliciting card; he had not one, but the man who was with him had.

1716. Did you see any one's name upon the card?—Yes; Guinness and Plunket.

1717. Did Copeland or the young man ask you to vote for Guinness or Plunket?—He wanted a promise from me to vote. The freemen brothers said they expected to be paid for our time.

1718. Did he speak about the guilds?—He asked me to what guild I belonged; and I said to a very ancient guild.

1719. Did you say anything about your connection with the guild?—He told me I should know a good deal about the guilds, and I said I did not.

1720. Did he ask whether you could get any of them to vote?—He asked me where they lived, and I told him I could not tell, but if I saw any of them, I would do my best to get them to vote for Guinness and Plunket.

1721. Was anything said about a promise?—No.

1722. What passed?—A hand was raised, a lot of them, and they said, "You are sure of that."

1723. Did they spread their fingers wide in this form (showing the five fingers)?—Yes.

1724. What did you understand by that?—I understood it to mean 5 l.

1725. Was that when they were canvassing for votes?—Yes; and when coming home that night.

1726. Was it Copeland or the man who was with him?—Not Copeland, but the man who was with him.

1727. Would you know the names of the men if you saw them?—I don't doubt but I would.

1728. Was Campbell amongst them?—No.

1729. Were any of the gentlemen you saw in court amongst them?—No.

1730. Did you attend in the committee-room?—Yes; in Sackville-street.

1731. Did you see any of the gentlemen with Copeland in the committee-room in Sackville-street?—I did not; I did not see a soul of them to-day.

1732. Did you see any in the committee-rooms afterwards?—No.

1733. Are you sure?—I am sure, as far as my eyesight serves.

1734. When the five fingers were held up, did any one speak about getting the other men to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—They said some would get 5 l., that was the general thing.

1735. Did they say anything about making you an agent, to get the other men of the guild to vote; did any one say they should make you an agent, to get the guildsmen to vote?—There were a couple of strange men, who asked me would I be anything of an agent; I am not an agent, said I; they would not allow me.

1736. Did any of the party say you were to be an agent?—No, but that I might be one.

1737. What did the party say?—That I might, if I would be active.

1738. Was there anything at that time said about your being well treated if you voted for Guinness and Plunket?—Oh, yes, we thought that amongst ourselves.

1739. Did Copeland call upon you afterwards?—I believe he did; I was not at home.

1740. Did

1740. Did he make an appointment to meet you?—No.

1741. Did he make an appointment that you and the guildsmen were to go in the evening?—No, it was another man.

1742. Where were you to meet first?—We were to go to the committee-room; we were to meet first at the post-office, I believe about eight o'clock.

1743. Was that on the evening before the polling?—Yes.

1744. Was it Copeland that was to meet you; who were you?—No, they were strangers.

1745. Would you know them if you saw them?—One was a big man, with a hat on.

1746. Was that Copeland?—We understood that he kept a loan-office in Swift's-row.

1747. Was his name Robinson?—Yes.

1748. Is the gentleman in the gallery (pointing) that gentleman?—I believe he is.

1749. Did he appoint you all to meet at the post-office?—He appointed with others, not with me.

1750. You went?—I went.

Mr. Butt objected to hearsay evidence being received.

Witness.] I went with the rest of the men.

1751. Mr. Hemphill] Did you, before going there yourself, see that Mr. Robinson?—I did not.

1752. Did you, at all events, go to the post-office at eight o'clock?—I did.

1753. Did the other guildsmen go with you?—Many of them.

1754. How many of them?—I don't know.

1755. Do you know their names?—I don't know a dozen of them now.

1756. Were there 20 of the guild there at the post-office that evening?—There were not, for it was a very cold evening.

1757. Was there a dozen there?—Very nigh handy.

1758. Did you meet Robinson at the post-office?—I was on before them; I seen him passing me by.

1759. Did you see Robinson that evening at the post-office?—If that is Mr. Robinson, he went up before me; I would not know him if I seen him; I heard there was a man of the name of Robinson to meet, and then I stopped.

1760. Did you meet him there?—Yes.

1761. You had better answer my question, because if not you will not get your protection; was that gentleman at the post-office?—To the best of my opinion he was not.

1762. Then you and the other guildsmen were there?—Yes.

1763. Did you see Copeland at the post-office?—I did not.

1764. That evening?—No.

1765. Were you all assembled under the big clock there?—Yes.

1766. After meeting there, where did you go to?—Up to the committee-room.

1767. In Sackville-street?—In Sackville-street.

1768. Did that gentleman there accompany you?—He was on before me.

1769. Did he go with you?—He was with the rest of them; he was not with me.

1770. But you saw him there?—I saw him there.

1771. And you followed?—Yes.

1772. Had you any conversation on the way; had you any talk on the way among you guildsmen as you were going up from the post-office?—I could not recollect any great conversation.

1773. Was there any talk amongst you?—Not to my knowledge.

1774. Was anything said about what you were to get for your vote?—That was among ourselves.

1775. Was that understood among yourselves?—I heard from the freemen that we expected 5 l.

1776. Was there anything said about the way in which it was to be paid?—There was not.

1777. Was anything said among you as to the way in which that 5 l. was to be paid?—No.

Mr. McDonogh objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh remarked that as the question was answered in the negative it was necessary to discuss the point.

1778. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Did you hear any of the guildsmen, or did you yourself say to that gentleman or any one with him, that you hoped it would be all right this time, and that you would not be treated as you were before?—That was a common word among us.

1779. Did you say that?—I did; I said to the other freemen that Pim used us badly the last time.

1780. And that you hoped you would be treated all right this time?

Mr. McDonogh objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh overruled the objection.

1781. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Did you all go up to the committee-rooms in Sackville-street?—We did.

1782. Did you see Robinson in the room?—I told you that.

1783. Were any others with him?—There was a good deal of people there.

1784. Was Copeland there?—He was.

1785. Did that gentleman there (pointing to a person in court) take down your names in the committee rooms? Did you give him your names?—There was a list; he knew all our names partly.

1786. Did you see him writing them down on a book or a paper?—There were several people writing there; my name was well known, I suppose; he wrote my name down too.

1787. Were your names called out?—No.

1788. Did you see him write down the names of the other St. Loy men that were with you?—Well, only one; when I knew what he was writing down I didn't stay long after that; I got no promise at all from any one.

1789. I am not asking you that at present; when this conversation was had in reference to Mr. Pim not having treated you well, was there anything said about Robertson's or Robinson's loan office in Swift's-row?—They said that we would be all paid at Robinson's.

1790. Did you know that that gentleman had a loan office in Swift's-row?—I did not know.

1791. Did you know that that gentleman had a loan office in Swift's-row?—Very well.

1792. Was it said among you that evening —?—That we would be apt to be there, and that we would be paid.

1793. At Robinson's in Swift's-row?—Yes.

G.
MacDonnel.
—
1869.

1794. At the committee-room did that gentleman or any one else say that it would be all right?—There was plenty of them saying that, and saying that it would be wrong, and I could not name any of them.

1795. I ask you this question, did that gentleman there (pointing to a person in court), when you all went up to the committee-room, say it would be all right generally to all the guildsmen?—I didn't hear him say anything; they were saying they hoped it would be all right.

1796. When they said they hoped it would be all right, did you hear any of the gentlemen who were acting in the committee-room say it would be all right?—I did not, indeed.

1797. What did they say when the freemen said they hoped it would be all right?—I didn't hear them say any more.

1798. Did they say it would not be all right?—I heard them say there would be no money, and that it would be all over; but there was a gentlemen —

Mr. Butt objected to this line of evidence.

1799. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Who was it that then said you would not be paid anything until after the election was over, or words to that effect?—Indeed, I could not tell you who he was, for there were more than a dozen freemen, and free tailors, and free everything there.

1800. But did you hear that from any of the gentlemen in the committee-room?—Not a word.

1801. Did you hear it from Mr. Robinson?—No, nor never spoke to Robinson.

1802. But did you hear it from him?—I did not.

1803. Did you hear it from Copeland?—Copeland had a suspicion of it, too, as well as another; we all suspected it.

1804. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You were asked the question, did you hear Copeland say so?—I did not.

1805. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you ever state that Robison had said in the committee-room that it would be all right?—I never did; certainly not.

1806. Are you sure of that?—Certainly not.

1807. Did you ever state that to any one in Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—I know Mr. Fitzgerald very well. If I did say it to any one it must be to Copeland.

1808. Did you ever state to Copeland that Mr. Robinson said in the committee-room that it would be all right?—I heard so.

1809. What do you mean by saying, "I heard so"?—I heard so from several.

1810. Of the freemen?—Yes.

1811. That Mr. Robinson said that?—No; that we would have to be there, and that we would be all paid.

1812. But did you hear from any one there that Mr. Robinson said you would be all right?—We heard it among all the freemen.

1813. Did you hear from any one there that Mr. Robinson would take care of you all?—Indeed we all suspected that.

1814. It was given you to understand that Mr. Robinson would take care of you all?—Yes.

1815. Was it given to you to understand by the gentleman there (pointing to a person in court) that you would all hear from Mr. Robinson after the election was over?—Either there or somewhere else.

1816. Was a man of the name of George White one of the guild there?—He was there.

1817. Was Benjamin Saul there?—I believe Saul is dead.

1818. Was he there?—He might be there; I saw several of them there.

1819. Answer my question; was Benjamin Saul there?—I cannot say.

1820. Was William Booth there?—He was not; he was at home.

1821. Did you ever give William Booth's name in Mr. Fitzgerald's office as one of the men that were there?—I gave the name of a man of the name of Hagarty as being there; we were called to put down my name, and I thought I might as well put down my name and Billy Booth's name.

1822. Was Booth there that night?—I don't think he was.

1823. Was Archibald Tucker there?—He was, but he left before we went down.

1824. Was James Tucker there?—I do not doubt but he was.

1825. Was Richard Tucker there?—He might be.

1826. Was he?—He might, I think; that is my opinion.

1827. Was George Hagarty there?—I don't know really.

1828. Now did Copeland tell those men whom I have mentioned that they would all get 5 l. for their votes?—He did not; I didn't get a fraction.

1829. But did you not expect the 5 l.?—Oh laws, aye!

1830. Did they not all expect the 5 l.?—That is the truth.

1831. Did you afterwards vote the next day for Guinness and Plunket?—I did decidedly.

1832. Did the other guildsmen of Saint Loy vote?—They voted which way they liked.

1833. How many altogether did you induce to vote of the freemen of your guild, you being an old and influential member?—A few.

1834. How many did you bring up to the poll?—None at all.

1835. But how many did you get to vote?—Says I, "You may as well vote for Guinness and Plunket;" and some of them did, and some of them did not. There was no one with me only myself and George White that voted.

1836. About what time in the day did you all vote?—About 10 in the morning. I went off to work afterwards.

1837. Did you get the tip?—No.

1838. Did you get nothing?—Not a fraction.

1839. You have not got it yet?—I have not; not a fraction.

1840. Did you tell your guildsmen that they would get 5 l. for their votes?—Oh, we all understood that.

Cross-examined by Mr. Exham.

1841. You were talking amongst yourselves, as I understand?—That is surmising.

1842. And you were surmising that Mr. Pim behaved badly the last time?—Yes, we took that.

1843. Did you know this Mr. Copeland before?—I saw him several times.

1844. And he came there to ask you to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—I do not know; he asked for that, but he wanted to know who I would vote for.

1845. And

1845. And you told him you had not made up your mind?—Yes, I was pestered with him.

1846. And there were ever so many coming to you?—Yes.

1847. And plenty of them coming from the other side, too?—Plenty.

1848. And you told him you had not made up your mind?—Yes; that I would vote whichever way I liked on the day.

1849. When you spoke to the other guildmen (you say you used to speak amongst yourselves), did you ever tell them that you had authority to promise them anything?—I had no authority, nor they themselves; we used to ask one another if there was any news.

1850. Is not that the evidence that you have been giving here?—Yes.

1851. But did any of the gentlemen, as you say?—Any of them that did get it did not tell me.

1852. Did any of the gentlemen ever say anything to you about it?—The freemen amongst themselves.

1853. Did Mr. Copeland ever promise you a farthing?—Not a farthing.

1854. Nor Mr. Robinson either?—Not at all.

1855. Did you hear either Copeland or Robinson promise anyone anything?—No, I did not.

1856. You say some of them in the morning, under the Post Office, voted for Guinness and Plunket, and some voted the other way?—Not a doubt of it.

1857. And some that were in the rooms the night before, did they vote for Pim and Corrigan, too?—I do not know which way they voted.

1858. Did anyone go up with you to vote?—Not one.

1859. And did you go away after you had voted?—I did; I went off to my work.

1860. Did you go back again?—I did not.

1861. Who was it brought you to Mr. Fitzgerald's?—A man of the name of Quin.

1862. What did Quin tell you you were to get for going down there?—Some pounds.

1863. Where does Quin live?—He lives in Mabbot-street.

1864. What is he?—A shoemaker, I believe.

1865. And you went over to Mr. Fitzgerald's?—He brought me there.

1866. How much did you get for going there?—£1, that was all I got.

1867. They did not like, I suppose, what you told them; was that it; did you go a second time there?—I did not; if I had thought I was to get another pound I would go.

1868. Did they ask you to go back a second time?—They did not.

1869. How long were you in the committee-rooms the night before?—I suppose about an hour; I was there in the day time, when I was going to put a chandelier in it.

1870. Were there many going in and out during the evening while you were there?—There were not many at all.

1871. A good many?—Sometimes there were about 20, I believe, in that side of the room.

1872. Were there many persons writing at a table there?—I did not go into that room at all; there was not one writing.

1873. There was a desk there, but you did not see anyone writing at it?—No.

1874. Nor taking down any names there?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ALEXANDER FERGUSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

1875. WERE you an elector at the last election?—Yes.

1876. And a rated occupier?—Yes.

1877. And I believe you acted for Guinness and Plunket?—I did.

1878. Do you remember, a few days before the election, attending a meeting at No. 6, Sandymount-avenue?—I do.

1879. Was that a meeting for Guinness and Plunket?—It was.

1880. Was Mr. Askins there?—He was.

1881. Captain Gordon?—Yes, he was.

1882. Mr. Murphy?—Yes, he was.

1883. Mr. Adair?—Yes, that was the secretary.

1884. Was the meeting at Sandymount-avenue at the committee-rooms, or only a board meeting?—The committee-rooms.

1885. And Mr. Adair was secretary?—Yes.

1886. Do you remember the evening before the polling day, that is, the 17th of November, attending a meeting at Haddington-road?—No.

1887. Where did you attend the meeting?—At 6, Sandymount-avenue.

1888. The same place?—Yes, the same place.

1889. Was that called by circular?—The previous meeting was. They were separate.

1890. The evening before the polling, were Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket there?—No; at the Haddington-road meeting they were both.

1891. When was the Haddington-road meeting?—About 10 days, I think, before the election, and they addressed the meeting.

1892. Was Mr. Harkins there?—I don't know; he might be.

1893. Was Mr. Hoskins there?—He is an agent.

1894. Was he acting as agent there?—Murphy and Harkins, or Arkins, were both agents at the committee meeting.

1895. And you say that Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket were present at Haddington-road?—They were; they addressed the meeting.

1896. Do you remember the names of any other gentlemen present at the Haddington-road meeting?—I do not; there was a great crowd.

1897. Did the gentlemen that you have named, Mr. Askins and Mr. Murphy, canvass you at any time?—They did.

1898. Were they the first people that canvassed you for Guinness and Plunket?—Yes, they were.

1899. Was any money spoken of then?—No.

1900. I believe Mr. Peter Clarke is your landlord?—He is.

1901. Had you a conversation with Mr. Peter Clarke shortly before the election as to your voting?—The night before.

1902. What occurred then?—

Mr. Butt objected to this question.

Mr. Hemphill stated that he was not going going to prove an act of bribery by Mr. Peter Clarke.

Witness.] There was a general conversation of the electors.

1903. Did you tell him how you were going to vote?—Yes; I told him I was going to vote for Guinness and Plunket.

1904. On the evening before the election were you at any meeting?—On the evening before the election, as I told you already, I was there; on the 17th; that was before the election, at 6, Sandymount-avenue.

1905. On the day of the election, that is, the 18th of November, up to half past one o'clock, had you voted?—Yes, I voted at, I think, about a quarter to one o'clock.

1906. Before you voted, did young Mr. Vance call on you?—He did.

1907. You live, I believe, at 22, Temple-lane?—I work there.

1908. You work at your business as a jeweller?—Yes; a goldsmith.

1909. When Vance called upon you, did he ask you if you were going to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—He did; he first asked me if I was Mr. Ferguson, and I said, "Yes"; and then he said, "Are you going to vote for Guinness and Plunkett?" "Well," I said, "on conditions I would vote for Guinness and Plunket;" that in the locality where I lived there were a few Conservatives, and I was frightened. But, besides, I owed some rent to the landlord that I would like paid, and he asked me how much I owed, and I said, "A trifle, only 3 l. 5 s." "Well," he said, "it was all right, was I willing to work for it," and I said I was.

1910. Did you mention any other sum besides 3 l. 5 s.; did you say you wanted anything else?—I said if I went to vote he would have to pay me for my time; a pound for that if I was taken out, and he said it was all right.

1911. Was anything said between you about keeping that secret?—Yes, he said I should keep it very secret.

1912. Did you say you would, or what did you say to that?—I said I would, of course.

1913. What did Vance, after that, do with you; what did he say to you?—We went downstairs together, and entered a cab.

1914. Did he bring you to 48, Dame-street, to the central committee-rooms?—He said I was to come along with him in a cab to 79, Dame-street, that is opposite No. 3, the registration. There is Murray, a publisher or bookseller there, at 79, Dame-street.

1915. At 79, Dame-street, were there ward committee-rooms?—I believe a private office.

1916. Was it placarded for Guinness and Plunket?—It was not.

1917. When you went with Vance in the cab, were you brought upstairs?—I was.

1918. Were you brought into a room?—I was.

1919. Was there anyone in the room when you went in?—Oh, yes, several gentlemen; some of them very respectable gentlemen.

1920. Did Vance say anything to the gentlemen that were there when he brought you in?—He introduced me to a gentleman.

1921. Have you since ascertained who that gentleman is?—Yes.

1922. Who is he?—Alderman Manning.

1923. Is he here in court?—He is; I have seen him here on Saturday.

1924. Have you seen Vance in court, here?—He is.

1925. Which of them?—The young gentleman standing up in a grey coat (pointing to a person in court).

1926. When Vance introduced you to Manning, what did Manning do?—He went into the inner office, and I went a part of the way with him, I believe, to put down my name in a paper or a book, I don't know which; but after this was done, he asked me my address in town, and I said, "22, Temple-lane."

1927. Was this Alderman Manning?—Yes; I gave him my address, 22, Temple-lane; and he clapped me on the shoulder, and said it was all right; and I left Alderman Manning then.

1928. Did Alderman Manning say anything else to you about voting?—I was to go and vote.

1928*. Was that what he said?—No.

1929. Was what he said, "All right"?—All right.

1930. Did anyone then, bring you up to the poll?—Yes, a gentleman came in the cab with me to the poll.

1931. Do you know who he is?—No, I have not seen him here; he brought me up to the polling-place, 56, Baggot-street.

1932. Did you then poll?—I did.

1933. For Guinness and Plunket?—I did.

1934. Did you do that in consequence of a promise of payment which you had received?—I did.

1935. Had you signed any papers in the committee-rooms for them?—I did not.

Mr. Heron called for the book in which the witness's name was entered.

Mr. Justice Keogh ordered that the books kept at all the committee-rooms should be placed on the table of the court to-morrow morning.

1936. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Do you remember going to your work after voting?—I do.

1937. After you went to your work, did the same Mr. Vance call upon you again at about half-past two o'clock?—He did.

1938. Did he say anything to you then about your going with him?—He did.

1939. What did he say?—He said I was to come with him in a car; he wanted me for some purpose to go somewhere with him; he didn't tell me what it was for; I got downstairs and went into the cab, and went with him.

1940. Before you went into the cab, had you any conversation then with him about being paid for your time, or about working for him?—Yes.

1941. What did he say?—He said that as I was polled that I was their agent, and he wished me to go with him. I told him, that if I did, I would have to be paid.

1942. What did he say to that?—He said "All right."

1943. Did you then go back with Vance in the cab to 79, Dame-street?—I did.

1944. Did you see Alderman Manning there again?—I did.

1945. Did you talk to him again?—Vance and Alderman Manning were speaking; they wanted me, I think, as a witness to go with them somewhere.

1946. Did you know where you were to go to?—No.

1947. Did

1947. Did you hear Alderman Manning say anything, that you were to go anywhere with Vance?—No; Vance said to Alderman Manning, that he wanted me to go with him to some place, I think it was Crow-street or Eglington street; I didn't know which, but Alderman Manning seemed to object to going for some voters or something.

1948. After that, did you and Vance go to the cab again?—No. I remained there about 20 minutes, or half-an-hour, perhaps; and then I asked him whether he required me any longer. I had not had my dinner at this time.

1949. Where did you go to then?—I left the office.

1950. Where, then, did you go to?—I went back to business.

1951. Did you go back again that day to 79, Dame-street?—I did not.

1952. Then did you see Alderman Manning only on the two occasions?—Yes, on two occasions.

1953. Did you go back in the cab to your place of work, or did you walk there?—I walked there.

1954. Did you see Vance finally on that day; did he say anything to you about what he would do for you; when you left Vance finally did he make any arrangement with you about calling upon you?—No, I told him if he wanted me he could call upon me.

1955. Up to what hour?—Up to four o'clock.

1956. Did he call upon you up to four o'clock?—No, he did not.

1957. On the 19th November, the day after the polling, did you call at 79, Dame-street?—I did.

1958. Before you went to 3, Dame-street, did you see anybody at all?—No; there was a number of young gentlemen there, perhaps about six.

1959. Did you then call at 3, Dame-street?—Yes, on the 14th of December, I did.

1960. On the 19th of December, did you call on anyone?—I called to see Vance at 79, Dame-street.

1961. Did you meet Vance shortly after the election; where did you meet him?—I met him in Dame-street on the 14th of December.

1962. Is that a note that you then put down on the envelope that you have in your hand?—No, it is to-day that I put it down, and just for the date, for fear I might forget.

1963. You must not look at it any more, then; was that the day you saw Vance next?—Yes.

1964. Where did you meet him?—In Dame-street.

1965. What did you say to him?—I asked him if I would be paid for the day, as I was promised to be paid.

1966. Did you call at 3, Dame-street that day?—I did.

1967. Where were you told to go to?—47, Dame-street.

1968. And to ask for any person?—I was told to ask for some person, but I forget his name.

1969. Was he described as a committee-man or secretary?—I could not say.

1970. When you met Vance in the street, did you make any complaint to him?—I did.

1971. What did you tell him?—I told him I was annoyed at not being paid for my time.

1972. What did Vance say to you?—He said I should go and call on these gentlemen at 47, and that I was justly entitled to it.

1973. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Forty-seven, where? —47, Dame-street; that is the central committee-rooms.

1974. Mr. Heron.] Did you call?—I did.

1975. Do you remember the name that Vance gave you to mention?—No.

1976. At all events, did you ask for some one there that Vance directed you to; did you give the message that Vance directed you to give?—I did; I do not recollect that day.

1977. Did you see a gentleman?—I did not.

1978. Did you see anyone there?—I saw Mr. Hudson, the secretary, there; I spoke to him as I could not see the other gentlemen; I said I was Mr. Ferguson, and that I came to be paid for the day of the election that I was promised to be paid for by young Vance; and Mr. Hudson said he did not know me, and asked me "who engaged me"; I said, "Mr. Vance"; then he said, "Go to Mr. Vance."

1979. Was that the last time you called at 47?—It was.

1980. Did you speak to Vance since on the subject?—I did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. MacDonogh.

1981. What you demanded was payment for your day's work, was not it?—It was.

1982. You demanded that from Mr. Vance?—Well, I said I was annoyed I did not get it.

1983. After you had polled he employed you as the agent, did he?—As their agent.

1984. And it was for payment for that agency that you applied, was it not?—It was for the day, for the loss of time.

1985. But you certainly were not asked to be engaged in any way as agent until after you had polled; is not that the fact?—Certainly not.

1986. Did you mention the sum to the gentleman in Dame-street that you expected to be paid for your loss of time?—Which gentleman?

1987. The person whom you have stated you saw when you went to Dame-street?—I did not.

1988. You did not mention the sum?—No.

1989. Did you mention the sum which you expected to be paid when you spoke to Mr. Vance?—Not that day.

1990. Did you on any day?—Yes; on the election day I told him I should have 1 l. for the day.

1991. Then when you applied afterwards, it was for that 1 l. that you made the application?—It was.

1992. You told Mr. Clarke, the night before the election, that you intended to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—I did.

1993. Was it true what you told Mr. Clarke that you did intend to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—True?

1994. Yes?—Yes, of course it was.

1995. Then the night before the polling you had intended to vote for Guinness and Plunket; that is certain, is it; if anything be certain?—Yes.

1996. And did you really and truly mean to carry out that intention?—Oh, I would not say.

1997. But you did intend it. Then you were bribed, were you not?—No.

1998. You were not bribed?—No.

1999. You would not take a bribe?—No.

2000. And you did not understand you were bribed?—No; I got no money.

2001. And let me ask you this: Did you say to

A. Ferguson.

1869.

A. Ferguson. to anybody (for I did not catch the end of the sentence) that there were very few Conservatives in that neighbourhood, and that you therefore wished to have a car; that you were afraid?—I said it to young Vance.

25 January
1869.

2002. Did you say you were afraid?—I said there were very few Conservatives in the locality I lived in, and I was afraid in one sense to vote for Guinness and Plunket.

2003. Unless you were protected, I suppose?—No; I did not say whether I was protected.

2004. But was it after your saying that, that that cab was gotten to take you?—The cab was at the door; I do not know who brought it.

2005. Did you know young Mr. Vance at all times; did you know him before that day?—No; not to speak to.

2006. But you had seen him?—I might have seen him.

2007. Did you see him?—No.

2008. Then do not answer me in that way again. I asked you the facts; did you know his personal appearance, and that he was Mr. Vance?—No.

2009. Did you know on the day of polling, when he took you in the cab, that he was Mr. Vance by name?—Yes, I was told so.

2010. And did you hear Alderman Manning address him as Mr. Vance?—I could not say.

2011. Now, upon your oath did you not ask Alderman Manning to lend you money?—No, I did not.

2012. Did not Alderman Manning say to you, "Why should I lend you money"?—No.

2013. Did you not then say to Alderman Manning that you had been promised money at the election?—No; I never had such a conversation with anyone.

2014. Did not Alderman Manning ask you who it was that promised you?—He did not.

2015. Did not you say that it was a young man, but you did not know who he was; upon your oath?—I said young Vance.

2016. Then you did tell Alderman Manning that young Vance had promised you?—No, I did not.

2017. What do you mean by saying "you said young Vance"?—Speaking of the young man that brought me there; I say young Vance was the one.

2018. That is not my question. My question was on the conversation with Alderman Manning, and I have followed you quietly through the different steps of it; that you asked him to lend you money; that he refused; that you said you had been promised money as a reason why he should lend it; and that he asked you by whom; and that you said by a young man whose name you did not know. Is that true?—It is not.

2019. How much money have you gotten from Mr. Fitzgerald?—Not a shilling.

2020. What had you been promised?—Nothing, that I know of.

2021. Were you at his office?—I was.

2022. Who brought you there?—A man of the name of Hickey.

2023. Did Hickey tell you you would get money?—He did not.

2024. Did he say you would be taken care of?—He did not.

2025. Now I ask you, did you apply to Alderman Manning after the election, as a brother Mason, to lend you money?—Not to lend me money, certainly not.

2026. Did you apply to him as a brother Mason for assistance?—Certainly not.

2027. For what did you apply to him as a brother Mason?—I did not apply to him as a brother Mason; I called upon him.

2028. What did you call upon him for?—To know if I was to be paid the 1*l*. for that day, or if he heard anything about it.

2029. Was that the only time?—Only once I was in Alderman Manning's shop.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Heron asked for the Minute Book of the committee-room at 79, Dame-street, and stated that he proposed by that book to show that Alderman Manning and Mr. Vance who had been mentioned, were named in that book as having been the agents of the candidates.

The book was handed to Mr. Heron, and he stated that at the meetings on Monday the 3rd of August 1868, and on Friday the 13th of November 1868, Alderman Manning took the chair, and that amongst the names of the canvassers was that of William Vance.

JOHN KELLY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

J. Kelly.

2030. I BELIEVE you reside at 37, Exchequer-street?—Yes.

2031. And you are a barber?—Yes.

2032. You are a voter for the City of Dublin?—Yes.

2033. Are you a voter as a freemen or as a lodger?—As a lodger.

2034. You voted on the last election for Sir Arthur Guinness and the Hon. N. S. Plunket?—Yes.

2035. Do you remember some time previous to the election, a person calling upon you for the purpose of soliciting your vote?—Yes; a week previous to the election.

2036. Are you able to state the name of that gentleman?—I don't know his name, and I have not seen him since; I have seen him, I believe, once since, but then I do not know his name.

2037. When he came to canvass you, what did he say to you?—He said, "Well, Kelly, are you going to vote?" "Yes," says I. "Well," he said, "who are you going to vote for?" "Well," says I (I was just in the act of saying "whoever will give the largest cheque," and he took the words out of my mouth and he said it); "Well," said I, "that is right."

2038. What did he say next?—He said, "I will send some one to call on you; I will send Alderman Manning."

2039. Is that practically everything that passed upon that occasion?—Oh, yes.

2040. Did Alderman Manning call upon you before the polling day?—He did not.

2041. But do you remember the gentleman who first came calling upon you a second time?—Yes; he called upon me a second time, and I was busy in the shop, and I went outside the door.

2042. When was that?—On the Monday previous to the polling day.

2043. What

2043. What passed between you then?—He asked me had any one called, and I said not, but I expected that Alderman Manning would. Then he said, “I have your name taken down. I wonder some one did not call upon you.” Then says he, “I will see about it.”

2044. And then he left you?—Yes.

2045. Do you remember any person upon the Wednesday before the polling calling upon you?—No; but on the polling-day, I saw a man of the name of Mr. Coles, of Wicklow-street, a tailor.

2046. What did he say to you?—He asked me if I had seen anybody yet, “No,” says I. “Well,” says he, “I think I can do something for you, but be over at my place at 11.” So I was over at Mr. Coles’ place at 11 o’clock, and I was not long there when Mr. Vance came in.

2047. Had you known Mr. Vance before?—His face was quite familiar to me, but then I had not seen him for some time. I see the gentleman above there (pointing to a person in court).

2048. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What is Mr. Vance’s name?—William.

2049. Mr. Pallas.] Is that the gentleman (pointing to a person in court)?—That is the gentleman.

2050. Where was it you saw Vance on that day?—In Mr. Coles’.

2051. Vance came in there?—Vance came in there.

2052. Did Vance say anything to you in reference to the election?—Yes; he asked me was I going to vote, and he said something like “Would it be for Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket.” “Well,” says I, “I don’t mind,” says I, “but I must have an understanding.” Then he says, “the understanding will be that you get between 3 l. and 4 l.”

2053. When he said the understanding was that you should get between 3 l. or 4 l., did you say anything?—I said where would we go, or who would pay this 3 l. or 4 l. So he said he would introduce me to a gentleman.

2054. Did he name the gentleman?—Alderman Manning.

2055. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who said he would introduce you?—Mr. Vance.

2056. Mr. Pallas.] Did you agree to that?—I was quite satisfied.

2057. During that conversation do you remember another person coming in?—There was another person came in. I waited for a little time while Mr. Vance, I think, went out for awhile, and then another party, a second party, came in.

2058. Was there any conversation then with that other gentleman?—There was; but it was private.

2059. Was there conversation which you heard then, or not?—There was conversation, but I did not hear it.

2060. Who was it spoke to that other gentleman who came in?—Mr. Vance.

2061. Do you know the name of that gentleman?—I do.

2062. What is it?—His name is Mr. Godwin.

2063. When the conversation was over, did they bring you to any place?—Yes; we went to the cab.

2064. There was a cab at the door at the time?—Yes.

29.

2065. And where did you go to?—We went to the committee-rooms, at 79, Dame-street.

2066. Who accompanied you in the cab?—Mr. Godwin, and me, and another gentleman, whose name I don’t know, and I have not seen him since.

2067. Was Mr. Vance with you?—No; Mr. Vance said he would walk down before us, and would meet us there.

2068. Shortly after you arrived at the committee-rooms, do you remember Mr. Vance coming up?—Yes; he was waiting till we got out of the cab.

2069. Was he there before you?—He was there before us.

2070. What happened as soon as you and Mr. Vance went up together to the committee-rooms?—Me and Mr. Vance and Mr. Godwin went up, and we were introduced to Alderman Manning by Mr. Vance.

2071. Did he introduce you as a voter?—Of course.

2072. Did you know Alderman Manning before?—I did not.

2073. Do you know him now?—I know him now.

2074. Do you see the gentleman here (pointing to a person in court)?—I do.

2075. When you were introduced to Alderman Manning, did he say anything, or what took place?—Well, he said “Are you going to work for us to-day?” “Well,” said I, “I don’t mind.” “Well,” said he, “sign this paper.” And I put my signature to a paper.

Mr. Pallas requested Mr. Sutton to produce the paper, or one like it. (The paper was handed to the learned Counsel.)

2076. Mr. Pallas (to the Witness).] Was it a paper like that (handing a paper to the Witness), or was it in ordinary printing?—It alluded to something; I saw something on it: “Not expected to be paid,” or something like that. I did not read it, but I know there was some printing on it like this, and several other signatures.

2077. About how many signatures were there on it?—I cannot say.

2078. When Alderman Manning told you to sign that paper, did he say anything else?—After I had put my signature to the paper, “Well,” says he, “you know we must try to evade the law in this matter.”

2079. Did you then sign the paper?—Yes.

2080. Was Alderman Manning present when you signed it?—He was.

2081. And Mr. Vance?—And Mr. Vance.

2082. And the gentleman that came in the cab?—Yes.

2083. Did the gentleman who came in the cab also sign the paper at the same time?—He did.

2084. As soon as the paper had been signed by you and the other gentleman in the cab, what next took place?—The gentleman that signed the paper along with me went up with another gentleman in the cab to whatsoever polling place he had to go to, and Mr. Vance accompanied me down to Suffolk-street, where I polled.

2085. And you polled of course for Guinness and Plunket?—For Guinness and Plunket.

2086. Where did you go to after you were polled?—Back again to the committee-rooms, in Dame-street.

2087. Were you accompanied by Vance?—

F

Yes,

J. Kelly.

25 January
1869.

J. Kelly.
25 January
1869.

Yes, and he brought me, and said to Alderman Manning, "That is all right, sir"; but I was after polling.

2088. When Alderman Manning was told that you had polled, what did he say to you?—He said, "Do you know any one, or can you do anything?" "Well," says I, "I do not know, but I will try if I know any one." "Well," he says, "come back in an hour." So I went away and took a walk, and walked about for an hour, or two hours; me and Godwin walked back again.

2089. When you went back, did you see Alderman Manning?—Yes, he asked me if I brought up any one, or knew any one, and I said I did not.

2090. Then when you went up, did you ask Alderman Manning about a voucher or a card?—That was in the evening.

2091. Not at that time?—Not at that time.

2092. How many times did you see Alderman Manning, from the time that you voted until the close of the poll at five o'clock?—A second time; that is the first time I was brought and introduced to him; I seen him twice after that.

2093. The first time was before you polled?—And then the second time was about an hour and a half afterwards, in the evening.

2094. Was that before the close of the poll?—I seen him before the close of the poll, in the evening.

2095. Upon any of those occasions was there any conversation between you and Alderman Manning about your requiring a card or a voucher?—That was the last time that I seen him in the evening.

2096. Tell me what that conversation was?—I went over to the table where Alderman Manning was sitting, and I asked him was it requisite for me to have a card or a voucher, or something in that way, and he told me to wait for half an hour; and then I seen the place so full and they so busy that I went away, and did not call any more that evening.

2097. Did he say anything to you upon that occasion as to whether you would hear from him afterwards?—That happened afterwards; that was some time afterwards.

2098. Before I leave the day of the polling, was it in consequence of the promises that had been made to you, as you have stated, that you voted for Guinness and Plunket?—Why the fact of it is, I would have voted for Corrigan and Pim, any more than I was promised this money for voting for Guinness and Plunket.

2099. When did you next see Alderman Manning, and where?—I seen him on the Saturday following.

2100. On the Saturday following the Wednesday where did you see him?—In College Green, and he was going up from the committee-room.

2101. Which committee-room?—In College Green, for Sir Arthur Guinness and the Honourable Mr. Plunket.

2102. What did you say to Alderman Manning?—I spoke to him on the stairs; I said it was a nice way my place had been broken and smashed, that I had been doing nothing ever since; he said he had heard something of it, and did I wish that he should go down and look at it; said I, I thought it was better not; but said I, "I thought I would have had a settlement before this." "Well," said he, "of course you will be looked after, and being a voter, you will not be forgotten."

2103. Did he upon that or upon any other occasion say anything to you to the effect that you could not be settled with at present?—That happened on the day of the municipal election, I think.

2104. When was that?—That was the very Wednesday after the Dublin election.

2105. Where did you see him upon that day?—I seen him in Suffolk-street, and spoke to him there.

2106. What did you say when you spoke to him?—I told him I had not been doing anything, or earning a shilling all the time; that my shop and place was broken; "Well," he said, "we can do nothing at present"; "Well," said I, "I have seen people getting paid in the committee-rooms"; he said, "Those were polling clerks and canvassing clerks, but you, being a voter, you will have to wait for a few days."

2107. Did you see Alderman Manning again?—I seen him in his own place afterwards.

2108. Before you saw Alderman Manning in his own place had you written a letter to him?—Yes, I wrote a letter to him, which I—

Mr. Pallas applied for this letter.

Alderman Manning stated that he had received from this witness several letters of that class, which he had destroyed, because they were worthless to him, and that he had not the letter.

2108*. Mr. Pallas (to the Witness).] What was it you wrote in the letter that you sent to Alderman Manning?—I alluded to the loss of my time, and the way in which my place had been broken, and I had had nothing but being ill all the time, and I would like to hear from him; at the same time I wrote an address in Abbey-street, where I was stopping, if he wanted to send anything, or that I would hear from him to write over to Abbey-street. That is what I stated in the letter.

2109. Did you receive any reply to that letter?—I did not.

2110. Then it was after that letter was written that you called at Alderman Manning's, in Grafton-street?—Yes.

2111. I suppose you first saw some of the assistants in his establishment?—Yes.

2112. And ultimately were you brought up to Alderman Manning's room?—The last time I seen him I sent him my card, and he sent back a reply that I would be heard of in due time.

2113. Was that reply sent to you by Alderman Manning?—No.

2114. Was it sent to you by a messenger when you sent up your card?—Yes.

2115. After that do you remember calling at Mr. Coles' in Wicklow-street?—Yes.

2116. Will you state what took place between you and Coles?—We were often speaking about this thing, not getting paid, and then upon one occasion Mr. Coles said, "If we could get at the money in some way, no matter what money, and you bring me a pint of whiskey if I bring you the money, that will be all the same."

2117. Did you go after that to Mr. Vance?—Mr. Vance, of Suffolk-street.

2118. Either the young gentleman that has been referred to, or Mr. Vance's father?—I went in in and spoke to Mr. Vance's father. I told him the way that I was situated.

2119. What did he say and do; what was it that you said to him when you went in?—I told him how I was situated in the way I was doing nothing, and the place not being ready, and that I expected I would hear through Alderman Manning.

2120. For what?—To get payment for voting.

2121. Did they say anything to you then?—Mr. Vance said he knew there was a great deal of business going on, and that he thought I should wait for a few days, or something in that way.

2122. Do you remember his saying whose fault it was that you were not paid; did he say who was the man to look up after that?—Sure that was Alderman Manning.

2123. But did Vance tell you that?—He alluded to that, that Alderman Manning was the proper person.

2124. As I understand, this was Mr. Vance, senior?—An elderly gentleman.

2125. Do you see him there (pointing to a person in court)?—It is young Mr. Vance's father that I am speaking of.

2126. I know that. Did you know him before?—Oh, very intimately.

2127. After that occasion do you remember again going to Coles', in Wicklow-street, when there was a reference made to the adverse agents being on the look out for cases of bribery?—Mr. Coles said all he knew about it was that he knew when Mr. Pim was up the last time he heard he offered money; he alluded to something in the way of money for voting.

2128. But did Coles allude in any way to persons looking out for proof of bribery as a reason why you should not be paid at present; do you remember anything of that nature?—Well, we had several conversations.

2129. Do you remember his telling you that your name, Kelly, from Exchequer-street, had been mentioned, and that they should be very careful? Did Coles tell you anything like that when you went to be paid: "They are looking out now on the other side for cases of bribery, and you must be cautious and wait?"—Yes; something of that kind. Me and Mr. Coles had several conversations about the affair on that occasion, but I could not altogether say.

2130. Had you frequent conversations with Mr. Coles upon the subject of your being paid for your vote after you had voted?—Yes.

2131. Did Coles state upon more than one of those occasions that the agents of the Liberal party were looking out for cases of bribery?—Yes.

2132. Did he tell you that your name, Kelly, of Exchequer-street, had been mentioned by some of them as a person who was thought to have been bribed?—Yes.

2133. Did he tell you that for that reason they should be very cautious in dealing with you?—That I should mind what I should be saying if I was called upon.

2134. Did any other person except Coles speak to you upon that subject, to "mind your eye" when the Liberal agents came to you?—I do not know; there was nobody had any conversation with me and Mr. Coles and Mr. Godwin about it.

2135. Did you talk to Mr. Godwin about it?—Yes; we had frequent conversations on other matters at Mr. Coles', and we used to be talking there and joking about not getting our money.

2136. You were both disappointed, I suppose?—Yes; something very near it.

2137. Do you remember calling upon Alderman Manning upon another occasion? Upon the last occasion, you know, you told me you were sent down a message by the person to whom you sent up your card.—Yes.

2138. Upon a future occasion did you call upon Alderman Manning and see him?—Yes; that was the last time I saw Alderman Manning.

2139. Can you fix the date of that?—I dare say it might be a fortnight after the polling.

2140. Did you call at his own establishment?—I did.

2141. And you saw him?—Yes, and spoke to him.

2142. Tell me exactly, as well as you remember, what passed between you and Alderman Manning?—I saw an advertisement in the paper for anyone that has anything to do in the way of being bribed or promised money to go forth, as there was a petition lodged. This was the day after the petition was lodged, I believe.

2143. A notice from Mr. Fitzgerald, I believe?—It was from no particular person, I believe; an article was in the paper. So I went down to Alderman Manning and I spoke to him. Said I, "I see an article in the paper; if any one gives you my name," says I, "how am I to act?" "Well, I cannot say," he says; "what can I do?" "Well," says I, "I know I am very badly treated, ever since doing nothing; in fact," says I, "I might have been starving," says I, "for that matter, for not getting settled with for voting." "Well," says he, "I have nothing to do with it; I might be starving myself," he says. "So," says he, "mention my name; and," he says, "you should be cautious how you mention my name; and it would be better for you," he says, "if you kept your tongue more quiet." "Oh, all right, sir," says I; something like that.

2144. Do you remember the Alderman referring upon that occasion to any period of imprisonment?—Oh, yes: he said, "Why if I gave you to the value of a bit of paper," he says, "I might get two years' imprisonment myself."

2145. Did Alderman Manning, upon that occasion which you are now referring to, refer to that paper which you had signed?—Yes; he did refer to it.

2146. What did he say?—He said, "You have signed a paper that you are not to expect anything." That is what he said.

2147. What did you say when the Alderman said, "Why, you know, Kelly, that you signed a paper that you were to act for nothing"?—Well, I said, "Of course that is right," says I, "that is an understood thing."

2148. What was the "understood thing"?—The getting of between 3*l.* and 4*l.* for the vote.

2149. And it was a mere joke your signing this?—Certainly, it was only just an understood thing, as the alderman said.

2150. To obey the law?—To obey the law.

2151. Do you remember being served with a subpoena to attend to give evidence upon this election petition; do you remember that you were served with a subpoena?—I were served with a subpoena.

2152. After you were served with a subpoena,

J. Kelly.

do you remember going to Coles'?—Yes, I did go to Coles'.

2153. Did you see Godwin or Goodwin upon that occasion?—I did.

2154. Do you remember, after you got the subpoena, having any conversation with Goodwin and Coles about going to Mr. Julian's office?—Yes, I do; and Mr. Coles brought me in Abbey-street.

2155. Did anyone except Coles go with you?—No; there was a little girl of my own.

2156. Before Coles brought you to Mr. Julian's office did he tell you anything about what you ought to do; had he any conversation with you about the election?—I went over along with him to see this place; it was more from curiosity than anything else that I went over with him; he said, "Of course what you have to say is that you expect a day's pay." "No," said I, "I expect between 3*l.* and 4*l.*, what was promised. So I went up and saw the gentleman there. I presume this is the gentleman here, I think (pointing to a person in court).

2157. Do you only presume it, or do you believe it?—Yes; I am not sure, it is something like it; I would not swear. I know there was a gentleman there.

2158. Which gentleman are you referring to?—This gentleman here (pointing to Mr. Byrne). Perhaps it is a mistake.

2159. Tell his Lordship now everything that passed between you and that gentleman when you went to Mr. Julian's?—Mr. Coles brought me up to tell him what he had to say, and I told him, and he wrote it down in a book, that "Young Mr. Vance called upon me, and I went with him and was promised between 3*l.* and 4*l.*" Said Mr. Coles, "a day's wages?" "No; between 3*l.* and 4*l.*," said I. "Did you say that?" said this gentleman who was writing in the room. "Yes," says I. "What else?" says he. "I was introduced to Alderman Manning," says I. So then he asked me had I any more to say, and I said "not." So then he asked me what was the gentleman's name that had called upon me. I told him I had been called upon by one of the Liberal party, and I told him I did not know his name. So he said "If you can find his name out, let me know." So I said I would, and I did not call afterwards.

Mr. Heron stated that at the meeting of the 6th of August 1868, Alderman Manning took the chair; that on the 17th of August and the 4th of September, Dr. Vance took the chair; that on the 5th September Aldermen to the chair; that on the 6th of October, the 13th of October, the 16th of October, the 22nd of October, the 27th of October, and the 3rd of November, Dr. Vance took the chair. That on the 10th of November, the 11th of November, and the 13th of November, Alderman Manning took the chair; and canvassers were appointed, amongst whom were William and James Vance.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2160. I suppose that you were a Liberal?—Yes.

2161. And you are?—Yes.

2162. And when you were first canvassed, you were about to say you would vote for the man who would give the largest cheque?—Yes.

2163. And when you were about to say this, you were stopped in the act?—The canvasser himself said it as well, both of us were saying it.

2164. You were in the act of telling him that you would vote for the man that gave the largest cheque?—Yes.

2165. And he said that you would vote for the man that gave the largest cheque?—Yes.

2166. Then he knew you?—Did he, Sir?

2167. Is it the fact, that you would have voted for any man that would give you the largest sum of money?—Yes; I said whoever would give the largest sum.

2168. Well, but it is true?—Yes.

2169. That if the old gentleman from below came up and asked you to vote for him, you would, if he gave you the largest sum?—Yes; sure I would.

2170. Everything that you have said is true what you have stated, that that gentleman, Alderman Manning, said as to evading the law?—Yes.

2171. And you remember that remarkable expression?—Oh, I do.

2172. "You know, Kelly, we must try to evade the law in this matter?"—Yes.

2173. Are you quite sure he said those words?—Yes.

2174. And was that when you signed the paper that you were to give your services without payment?—I did not read the paper, but there was some writing in this copper-plate, something like this here (handing a paper to the learned Counsel). I did not read it.

2175. "We beg to place at your disposal our gratuitous services?"—Something like that.

2176. And you perfectly understood it?—I perfectly understood it.

2177. And you quite understood that that was to evade the law?—Yes; that was what Alderman Manning said.

2178. And you were determined to evade the law?—I were.

2179. Are you a lodger?—Yes.

2180. You were determined to evade the new law that gave you birth, politically, and brought you into existence. You knew it was against the law to be bribed?—I did.

2181. But you were determined to be bribed, notwithstanding?—Yes.

2182. The fact is, you thought the franchise was a fine thing, did you not?—Well, I did not look upon it as any very fine thing to have.

2183. Except for what you would make by it?—Except for what I would make by it.

2184. Now, who was the person (lest I should be under any mistake hereafter) who was canvassing you, and to whom you were about to say, and, indeed, were in the act of saying, that you would vote for the person who would give you the largest cheque?—I do not know his name; I seen him afterwards; I would know him if I saw him, but I do not know his name.

2185. You cannot tell me where he is, or who he is?—I cannot; and I could not find him out since.

2186. You have tried to do so?—No, I have not; but I have not seen him since.

2187. Mr. Coles is a tailor, in Wicklow-street, if I am not mistaken?—Yes.

2188. Up to this you had not seen Alderman Manning?—Up to which?

2189. Up to the time I am speaking of?—Which time?

2190. Up

2190. Up to the time you saw Coles in Wicklow-street?—I seen Mr. Coles nearly every day.

2191. But you had not seen Alderman Manning up to the time when Coles came to you first?—No.

2192. When you saw Alderman Manning, was it upon the very first occasion that he said, "You know we must evade the law?"—Yes.

2193. Had you ever spoken to Alderman Manning before?—No.

2194. Then he and you were complete strangers?—Yes.

2195. At the time he announced to you that you should evade the law?—Mr. Vance was often introducing me to him as Alderman Manning.

2196. And I perceive that you and Coles afterwards differed as to what you had a right to claim; Coles insisted that what you had a right to claim was your day's work?—Yes; but the understanding between me and Mr. Vance was between 3 l. and 4 l.

2197. Which of the Vances do you say agreed for that order, the father or the son?—This gentleman here (pointing to a person in court).

2198. That is the young gentleman?—Yes.

2199. Then, you agreed to sell your vote for 3 l. or 4 l.?—Yes.

2200. And you knew at the time that you were committing an indictable crime that you could be put into that dock for?—I did.

2201. You were very poor, I suppose?—Well, not very rich.

2202. I think the expression of Mr. Alderman Manning was, "Are you going to work for us to-day?"—Yes; I said so.

2203. And it was then that you signed this paper?—Yes.

2204. Now, I come to the time when Mr. Manning asked you, did you know any one that could vote for them. It appears that you were told to come back in half-an-hour?—Or an hour.

2205. That was when you asked whether it was necessary to have a voucher?—Not at that time.

2206. You called three times on Alderman Manning in the course of that day?—Yes.

2207. But it was on the last occasion of those three that the conversation occurred about the voucher?—Yes.

2208. You were told to come back in half-an-hour?—Yes.

2209. But you were so busy that you did not come back?—No, not that night.

2210. And you got no voucher?—No.

2211. And you got no ticket?—No.

2212. Did you not come to the committee-rooms in the morning; take your time to answer?—Which morning?

2213. We will say on the morning after the election?—No.

2214. On the morning of the election, did you come to the committee-rooms?—Yes.

2215. Did you suggest to Alderman Manning that you should be paid for your vote?—I thought there was no occasion for that. When Mr. Vance introduced me to him, me and Mr. Vance had an understanding before that, and then he said, "If you evade the law, I do not want to say anything more about it."

2216. Did you not, as a positive fact, go to the committee-rooms on the morning of the polling?—Yes.

2217. And did you not ask Alderman Manning that you should be paid to vote?—On my oath I never alluded to it.

2218. And you never suggested it to him?—No.

2219. Did not Alderman Manning refuse to have anything at all to say to money; and when you were urging to get the money, did he not insist upon turning you out of the committee-rooms?—On my oath I never mentioned the like. I thought, after being introduced to Alderman Manning, and signing the paper, and Alderman Manning saying it was to evade the law, it was an understanding.

2220. Did you, at any time, ask Alderman Manning that you should be paid for your vote?—I never alluded to money; but then he knew, of course, the purpose I was coming to him for.

2221. Did he turn you out of the office?—No, never.

2222. Did he threaten to turn you out of the office?—No,

2223. Not a word of the kind occurred?—No.

2224. I believe that your furniture was broken by the mob?—Yes.

2225. By your friends; that is to say, the persons that sympathise with you in politics?—I would not say about friends, because I seen none of them. I do not know of any of them.

2226. Did you afterwards apply to Alderman Manning for compensation for the injury done to your house and furniture?—I applied to him for paying me for voting. I had no one else to look to, on account of being introduced to him.

2227. Did he not utterly deny your right to get one penny for voting?—No.

2228. Did he not deny it at the time that he said that if he paid you a single sixpence he might be sent to goal for two years?—Yes; but that was on the last occasion that I spoke to him.

2229. Did he not say, when you applied, in relation to your furniture being broken, that the way to be compensated was by application to the county?—When I spoke to him about the way my place was broken, he said, "Well, of course the city will see about that."

2230. In all your conversations with Alderman Manning, except the one I mentioned about the money, were not the grounds of your application to him always your loss of the day's time, and your house being broken and furniture injured. Were not those the two grounds of claim against Alderman Manning?—On the occasion I was speaking to him, what I alluded to was, that I was badly treated for voting, and not getting a settlement. That is what I said.

2231. That is to say, badly treated by your party?—By voting for Guinness and Plunket, and not getting a settlement.

2232. Then, did you ever apply to Alderman Manning for having voted?—Of course, that is what I alluded to.

2233. That is what you meant?—Yes; I said for voting in Suffolk-street. I told him I was badly treated for voting, and got no settlement, and he said I would have to wait a few days.

2234. Then, did you apply to him to be paid for your vote?—What else would I apply to him for?

2235. And he said you would have to wait a few days?—Yes, and that he would see me settled with.

2236. When you were describing the letters that you wrote to him, I ask you did not that letter, or did not those letters——?—There was only one letter.

J. Kelly.

2237. In that letter did you not complain of your not having been paid the day's wages and for the breaking the furniture?—No, on my oath, I said nothing about my day's wages, but about not being settled with ever since I voted.

2238. Did you use the words "Not being settled with"?—"Not being settled with," and I wanting money and doing nothing for five or six weeks; that is what I alluded to.

2239. And it was a claim for loss of time during five or six weeks?—For voting; he knew that it was an understanding well enough.

2240. Was your claim for compensation for the five or six weeks?—No, for voting.

2241. And did you in the letter ask for the money for the voting?—Of course; it was alluding to that.

2242. But did you write it?—Of course it was for voting; I said for voting.

2243. But you complained of the injury for having voted and being kept out of business?—For not having been settled with for voting.

2244. Do you mean not getting the 3*l.* or 4*l.*?—Yes.

2245. Did you tell him that in the letter?—I stated that in the letter, or alluded to it.

2246. But did you state it?—Somehow or the other I cannot swear which, but it was for voting.

2247. The day you sent in your card, what was on the card?—"John Kelly, hairdresser."

2248. Printed, I suppose?—A printed card.

2249. You did not see Mr. Manning that day?—I seen him speaking to a gentleman at the lower end of the room.

2250. When you saw an advertisement, did you see a reference to Messrs. Fitzgerald's office?—Not in that advertisement, but I did in another one.

2251. Then you know where to go?—I knew where the office is.

2252. Did you go to it?—No.

2253. You never went to it?—I was in it on two occasions.

2254. What did you mean by saying you did not go to it?—Not at the first.

2255. Did you get any money there?—No.

2256. Did you get any money from Messrs. Fitzgerald?—No.

2257. From any messenger of theirs?—No.

2258. From anybody?—I did.

2259. How much?—I got 5*l.* from Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

2260. He is the person who acts for Mr. Fitzgerald, is he not?—Yes, that is the gentleman (pointing to a person in court). I went to him and I told him my shop was near being stopped, and if he would oblige me with a few pounds I would feel obliged to him, and he obliged me with 5*l.*

2261. Did he make you a present or not?—He did not say whether it was a present or no.

2262. Upon your oath do you believe that you will ever have to return it to him?—Well, indeed, I do not expect I shall.

2263. Did he promise you any more?—No.

2264. Look at his honest face; tell me, on your oath, how much more he promised you?—Upon my oath he promised me no more; we had no understanding except that I asked him for the money.

2265. Was anything said about what would be done if you succeeded in putting out the man you voted for?—No; I asked him for 5*l.* and he gave me it at once, as I was doing nothing and wanted to get the place straight.

2266. Did you threaten any person that you would bring many to grief if you were not paid for your vote?—No.

2267. On the day that you saw that article in the newspaper and saw the reference to Mr. Fitzgerald, were you not delighted to see that there was money going?—Indeed I was not.

2268. You were not delighted to see that money was to be got for your evidence?—No.

2269. When you could not get it for your vote?—No.

2270. Did you not, after seeing that advertisement, threaten that you would bring many to grief if you were not settled with for your vote?—No; I never said that.

Mr. JOHN ANDREW HUISH, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

Mr.
J. A. Huish.

2271. ARE you an Assistant in Morrison's shop?—A Manager.

2272. Do you remember the 18th of November last, the day of the election?—I do.

2273. Did you sell two hats to any people on that day?—Yes.

2274. How many people came into the shop to buy them?—Four.

2275. What was the price of the hats?—The price of the hats was 6*s.* 6*d.* each.

2276. What was given to you in payment for them?—A 5*l.* note, I believe.

2277. Did you change the 5*l.* note?—Not in the shop.

2278. Did you send out any one for change?—I did.

2279. Whom did you send out?—A young man of the name of Lawler, whom I had in the shop.

2280. The change was brought back, and you gave it, I suppose?—Yes.

2281. Were the hats taken away that morning?—Not that morning.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that these facts were not controverted.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HENRY DALTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

H. Dalton.

2282. I BELIEVE you live in No. 6, D'Olier-street, in this City?—Yes, I live there.

2283. Have you any calling?—I am what they call a "grinder," a college tutor, and a civil service tutor.

2284. Are you a voter?—I was a freeman always.

2285. But you were not on the list?—There was an irregularity in it, and I lost my vote.

2286. Have you a brother called William Dalton?—I have.

2287. Do

2287. Do you know a gentleman of the name of Mr. Alexander McNeill?—I am not personally acquainted with that gentleman.

2288. Do you know his appearance?—I might or I might not.

2289. Is that the gentleman there (pointing to a person in court)?—No, I have no recollection of him.

2290. Had you a brother before the late election of the name of William Dalton?—Yes; he was in the Marshalsea.

2291. A prisoner for debt?—Yes.

2292. How long had he been in the Marshalsea at this time?—I think about 15 months.

2293. At whose suit was he arrested?—I think he was arrested at the suit of a Mrs. Moran, 32, Dominick-street.

2294. Was she a Miss or Mrs. Moran?—A Mrs.

2295. Do you remember some days before the city election having a conversation about your brother's case at the Sackville-street committee-rooms?—Yes; I went to two committee-rooms in Dame-street and in Sackville-street in reference to my own vote first, and then I stated to a gentleman that I was told was the Conservative agent, that a brother of mine was in the Marshalsea for debt, and that he was a freeman and a Conservative.

2296. Do you recollect was it in Sackville-street that you mentioned this to the gentleman?—It was.

2297. Have you any recollection of the gentleman to whom you made the statement?—I mentioned it to several persons, and they directed me to go to the agent, and they stated to me that the agent was a Mr. O'Neill or Macneill, and that he would enter into the case.

2298. Would you tell us the entire conversation you had with the gentlemen in Sackville-street when you mentioned about your brother being in the Marshalsea?—I told him it was a pitiable case to have a man who would give his vote (I knew it of my own knowledge) to Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket confined there for a few pounds; and I added, moreover, that he could be got out by a single application.

2299. What did the gentleman say to you when you said that?—He asked me if I knew any of the particulars, and I stated to him that my brother communicated to me some; I will mention them if you wish.

2300. Just mention everything that passed?—The particulars that my brother mentioned to me were that the party to whom he owed the money was dead, and that there was no claim for debt upon him whatever.

2301. When you said a single application would suffice to get him out, did you explain what you meant?—I did; I told him it would not cost a shilling to get him out of the Marshalsea; that they would only have to make an application to the governor, and that the party to whom he was in debt being dead my brother stated he could be got out by an application.

2302. Did he say to you that anything would be "all right;" or anything to that effect?—He said he would inquire into the particulars, and if those things were true, he would look to it.

2303. Did you give him to understand that he might be got out if the debt was paid?—No, I gave him to understand that he could be got out if an application was made by virtue of the old lady that had imprisoned him being dead; that was both through myself and an attorney, Mr. O'Malley. I told him that nothing whatever was to be paid, for my brother told me so in the Marshalsea.

2304. What did you tell these gentlemen in Sackville-street?—That it was not a difficult case at all; that it would only need a little exertion.

2305. And that if he was got out he would vote for Guinness and Plunket?—I told him he was always a Conservative, and that they could calculate on his vote.

2306. Did you afterwards see that gentleman?—I did; I called about my own vote again.

2307. Was this all before the election?—It was in Sackville-street.

2308. Did you have any talk with him about your brother?—I had; he told me he had made inquiry into the particulars and found what I had stated to be true, and that he had sent a man for him, and that he would be out in time to vote at the election.

2309. Did he tell you that your brother's vote was secured, or anything to that effect?—He did; and he told me that he actually did vote.

2310. What was the second time you went to him before the election?—It was the day before.

2311. Did he on that occasion tell you it was all right, and that your brother's vote was secured?—Yes, he told me it would be all right, if what I told him was found to be true.

2312. Did he tell you that your brother's vote was secured?—He told me it would be.

2313. Did you ever state to any one that you had ever called on Mr. Alexander McNeill at the Conservative-rooms in Sackville-street?—I did by accident to one of my pupils.

2314. To whom did you state it?—I stated it to the son of Mr. Mead, the builder, who was reading with me for the Surgeons' Hall.

2315. And you stated to him that you had called at the Conservative-rooms in Sackville-street?—I did not state that; I stated the case of my brother.

2316. But did you not state that you had called at the Conservative-rooms in Sackville-street?—I do not think I stated to him, but I conveyed to him that my brother was a voter, and in the Marshalsea.

2317. Do you know Mr. William Campbell?—I do.

2318. Is that the gentleman there [pointing to a person in court]?—Yes, that is the gentleman.

2319. Did you ever speak to Mr. Campbell about your brother being in custody?—I did; I recollect at the Dame-street election committee-rooms also.

2320. When was this?—It was before the election.

2321. And was Mr. Campbell acting there for Guinness and Plunket?—Yes, I believe he was.

2322. What did you tell Campbell about your brother being in custody?—I stated to him that I had a vote, and that it was mismanaged, and that the Conservatives had mismanaged it, and I said my brother was a Conservative elector, and that his vote was a perfect vote and could be got, and that he ought to be looked to.

2323. Did you explain to him that he was in custody?—I did, in the Marshalsea.

2324. What did Campbell say, then?—He told me he had a great deal too much business to attend to, and that he could not attend to it at all.

2325. Did you tell him at any time that he and those

H. Dalton. those who were with him knew how to act in the case?—No, he did not say anything of the kind that I remember.

1869.

2326. At any time?—No.

2327. Did you ever tell any one that Campbell, when you spoke about your brother being in custody, said to you that he knew how to act in the case?—I have no recollection of ever having stated that.

2328. Nor anything to that effect?—No; what Campbell stated to me was, that he had a great deal to do, and to attend to, and that he knew the fact of his being a debtor in the Marshalsea, and he directed me to another place in Sackville-street, to which he said I might go.

2329. Did Campbell or any one say to you at any time that he knew how to act in the matter?—Yes, I think that expression was used, that they knew how to act in the matter.

2330. Was it in the Dame-street committee-room that you had the conversation with Campbell?—It was in Sackville-street.

2331. Do you recollect being in the Dame-street committee-rooms before the election?—I was there.

2332. Were you talking about your brother's case there?—I was talking about it there.

2333. Did any of the gentlemen present state that the sheriff could send him over to vote, or anything to that effect?—No, not there.

2334. Where?—I think it was in No. 3, Dame-street.

2335. When was this?—I think it was some time before the election, in a house where I was directed to go to see about my vote; and I think I could identify him; I think I saw the gentleman on Saturday night in the Leinster-street market.

2336. What is his name?—I do not know his name.

2337. Is he in court now?—I do not see him.

2338. Would you know him if you saw him?—I would.

2339. What did he tell you?—He said he thought he might be sent in charge of one of the warders, and he, as an elector, might have the privilege of going to vote and returning back again.

2340. Was that long before the election?—It was about four or five days that they actually called at the Marshalsea to know whether that was the case.

2341. Do you know a gentleman of the name of Mr. Lindsay Bucknell?—I do.

2342. Was he acting on the committee in Dean-street?—He gave me to understand that he was employed on the committee of the Conservative agency.

2343. Did you mention to Mr. Lindsay Bucknell before the election your brother's case?—I think I mentioned it to him, and to several.

2344. Do not mind the "several," but did you mention it to him?—Well, I think I did; but I cannot say positively.

2345. How soon before the election was it that you mentioned your brother's case to him?—A day or two.

[The Witness withdrew.]

EDWARD HOuseton CAULFEILD, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

E. H.
Caulfeild,
Esq.

2346. ARE you the Marshal of the Marshalsea?—Yes.

2347. Had you in your custody a prisoner named Dalton?—I had.

2348. Have you brought the original book, with the date of his committal and the entry of his discharge?—I have brought the original committal; the book is always required in the Marshalsea, but the book has only reference to the committals and discharges, and is a short epitome of them.

2349. Have you brought the documents?—I have.

2350. How much was he committed for?—He was committed for 11*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.*

2351. On what day?—It was the 7th of August 1867, I think. I could not possibly bring the book, but I brought the documents; I beg to state that this is the original committal (producing a document); this is a copy from the book of the 14th of August 1867, when he was committed.

2352. A record was decreed?—Yes, I think so.

2353. On what day was he discharged?—He was discharged on the 18th November 1868.

2354. That is the day of the polling?—That is the day of the polling.

2355. You knew that that was the day of the polling?—Yes.

2356. At what hour was he discharged?—I should think about half-past three, or between three and four o'clock.

2357. Do you produce the order of discharge?—I have the discharge written by myself (producing a document).

2358. "Sir, I authorise you to discharge William Dalton for Mrs. Moran, on his handing you

4*l.* To the Marshal of the Four Courts, Marshalsea; Dublin, November 17th, 1868." Was that document written in the Four Courts, Marshalsea?—Yes.

2359. By whom?—By myself, in Mrs. Moran's presence.

2360. Is the whole of the document, then, in your handwriting?—That is the whole of the discharge. That is my authority for discharging him. I generally write them myself when the parties come without a discharge. They generally bring a discharge with them, but if they come without a discharge and ask me to write it, I write it for them.

2361. Who gave you the 4*l.*?—No one.

2362. You never got the 4*l.*?—Never.

2363. Then you discharged him without receiving any money?—Yes; the man had been 15 months in my custody, and I was not afraid of trusting him.

2364. Then you let him out to vote?—I let him out to do what he liked.

2365. Did you let him out without receiving any discharge?—I received that discharge.

2366. Is it signed by anybody?—It is signed by Agnes Moran.

2367. What is on the other side of it?—I shall tell you that.

2368. Where is it signed (handing the document to the Witness)?—There (handing back the document to the learned counsel).

2369. Do you know Waller?—Yes.

2370. Did Dalton go off on a car with Waller, on his promise to come back?—Not on his promise to come back.

2371. Did

2371. Did he come back?—I could not take him back.

2372. Whose handwriting is that?—That is mine. Mrs. Moran, of 32, Dominick-street, Lower, gave me her address in order to forward her the money. I said, "If he pays it in a few days I will forward it to you." I expected he would pay it, and then he said he could not pay it for some time, would I trust him; and I said I would; and in accordance with this I paid it, and here is the discharge.

2373. "Received from E. H. Caulfeild the sum of 4*l.* sterling, dated 21st November 1868. Agnes Moran." Did you pay her that money then?—Yes.

2374. Where did you get that money?—I got it from my own pocket.

2375. Did you put it into your own pocket?—I did not; I have not got it to put it there yet; I have not been paid, and I was not the slightest afraid of trusting the man.

2376. Who asked you to pay the 4*l.*?—I did it of my own will.

2377. Did you ever consult Sir Arthur Guinness on this subject?—I never spoke to Sir Arthur Guinness on the subject until I was summoned here. I saw him here by accident, and he said something about my being troubled.

2378. Do you mean to say that you yourself, out of your own money, paid the 4*l.*?—I did, distinctly.

2379. Who came with Mrs. Moran to the gaol?—I do not know that anyone came with her; if there was anyone came I did not know.

2380. Do you know Alexander McNeil?—No.

2381. You do not know his appearance?—If I saw him now, I might know him, but I do not know him by that name. I had seen him before, but I do not know that he ever was with me on business. I do not recollect.

2382. Do you know the Mr. Waller to whom I refer?—I do.

2383. Who is he?—I know nothing about him, save and except that I never saw the gentleman to my knowledge but twice. I saw him on the day that he came to the Marshalsea for a prisoner.

2384. And on what other day did you see him?—I met him afterwards.

2385. Where?—I met him afterwards at dinner.

2386. Tell his Lordship who Mr. Waller is; do you know who he is?—I do not; he is a gentlemanlike good looking man.

2387. Where did you meet him; at dinner?—I met him afterwards at Sir Guinness's. That was the second time that I ever recollect seeing him.

2388. Did he come with Miss Moran on that day?—Indeed he did not.

2389. Did he come to the Marshalsea on that day?—He did not.

2390. Did you see him in the Marshalsea about the release of Dalton?—I never saw him in the Marshalsea in my life up to the present moment.

2391. Did you see him outside the Marshalsea, and did not Dalton go away with him to vote?—I suppose he did; I did not see him travelling away.

2392. Do you know and believe that he did?—I am certain he did, and I do not deny it.

2393. Is not Mr. Waller one of the principal managers, if not the principal one, in Sir Arthur Guinness's establishment?—I believe not; I do not know so much; the only man I know in the establishment is a Mr. Harford, for whom I asked for on one occasion, but he was not there.

29.

2394. Do you mean to say that you do not know that Waller is in Sir Arthur Guinness's establishment?—I believe he does work for Sir Arthur Guinness, but whether he is connected with the establishment or not I have never asked, and I do not know.

2395. Did you discuss this matter, and tell the whole of your evidence to Mr. Cecil Guinness on Saturday?—I did not; I do not recollect having any conversation with him except in there, and I could not have much; I said, "If that is the case they depend on they will not make much of it." That was my observation, that was all I said.

2396. Did you give any money in this way to pay for the release of prisoners between the election of 1865 and the election of 1868?—

Mr. McDonogh objected to the question.

2397. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] For what purpose did you give the 4*l.* to Miss Moran on the 21st?—She was the creditor of Dalton.

2398. Do you mean that it was from an honest wish to pay another man's debts?—From an honest wish to assist a man that I believe^o to be honest, and that I was not afraid to trust.^d 2399. Did he ever pay you since?—He did not, nor did I expect him. He honestly stated, when he asked me to trust him with the money, that he would not be able to pay me for some time; since that he has called on me once or twice, and I was out every time.

2400. Do you mean to say that you did not want to see him?—I was out by accident at the hour he happened to call.

2401. In this transaction was not Dalton.—

Mr. McDonogh objected to Mr. Heron's cross-examining the witness without leave of the Court.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that Mr. Heron was entitled to cross-examine the witness as to every transaction relating to the payment of money by the witness out of his own pocket for the discharge of a voter, who was released, as he stated, for the purpose of going up to vote on that day.

Witness.] There is a note I got, asking me to send him down with an officer; I said I had no power of taking him down with an officer.

2402. Mr. Heron.] Did any officer from the Marshalsea go with him?—Certainly not.

2403. Did anybody go with him except Waller?—I did not see him start.

2404. To your knowledge and belief did anybody go with him except Waller?—Certainly no Marshalsea person, no officer; I could not have allowed him outside the gate, even with myself, without becoming responsible for his debt; and I could not take him back as a prisoner, of course, after he went out.

2405. We all know that perfectly well. Was Miss Moran there at the same time that Mr. Waller was there?—I should think not; I should think it was a considerable time afterwards; I saw Miss Moran, and I think she was in the act of going out, and I suppose it was an hour before.

2406. Did Miss Moran come there before Mr. Waller came there, or not until after Mr. Waller had taken away the voter?—She came there long before, in the morning, about two o'clock.

2407. Will you swear that there was no person with her?—I would not swear that. There were two or three people in the office at the time I happened to go in, and I do not know whether they came with Miss Moran or not. I think there was a person with Miss Moran now I recollect.

2408. Who was he?—I do not know.

2409. What sort of a man was he?—He was rather a stoutish man, and I think he was dark.

2410. Do you know who he was?—I do not.

2411. Could you identify him?—I could not identify him now, nor could I identify Miss Moran; I do not think I could. If I saw them, perhaps I might.

2412. Did not the voter come back into the Marshalsea to sleep that night?—Certainly he did. No prisoner is ever required to go away from the Marshalsea the same day as his discharge comes out, unless he is a very troublesome character. He generally likes remaining in till the next morning, and going early. They like to have time to look for lodgings, and to go away early.

2413. Did he go away next day?—He did.

2414. Why did you not pay the 4*l.* to Miss Moran on that day?—I was not asked at the time. I supposed that he would have got the money. Then, after a considerable time, she went away. When I got this note I went out to him; and when I got this note he then asked me for the loan of 4*l.*, and said he would not be able to get the 4*l.* from Miss Moran for some time.

2415. And you have never asked him since for it?—No; I never saw him till to-day that I remember.

2416. And never made the slightest inquiry after him?—I never did.

2417. Do you expect the 4*l.* to be paid to you by any human being?—I do; I told you all along that I was not in the slightest afraid of trusting him; I would as soon trust him, perhaps, as yourself.

2418. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You are a public officer, in the rank of a gentleman, and you ought to know that you have made a very improper observation to the learned counsel?—I did not mean it as an improper observation. I meant, by that, that I would trust him as soon as any man that I was acquainted with.

2419. Mr. Heron.] Did you pay any other money for any man on this election?—Certainly not; I did not see any money to pay.

2420. Did you speak to Mr. Waller since the 18th of November?—He asked me how I did when he came up. I was not aware of his name, and he shook hands with me, and he then said, "Do you not recollect seeing me on one occasion before?" And that was the only occasion on which I recollect seeing Mr. Waller.

2421. Mr. Waller said to you, "Do you not recollect seeing me on one occasion before?"—He said something of that sort; I could not tell you what, with a lot of people speaking.

2422. Did you say, "Yes, I do remember"?—We had no conversation further than that.

2423. Did you remember that you had seen him?—I recollected that I had seen him before.

2424. Where did you see him?—I saw him at the brewery on one occasion, and on the other occasion, at or near a brewery.

2425. How do you know he was at the Mar-shalsea on the car?—Because I saw him at the door coming up.

2426. You knew what he was coming for?—I knew it.

2427. Who told you he was to come?—He told me himself.

2428. For the voter?—For the voter.

2429. When did he tell you?—He told me the same day.

2430. Then you saw him before on that day?—I did.

2431. Where?—I saw him at the brewery.

2432. Did you go to the brewery?—I did.

2433. About this business of the voter?—Yes, exactly.

2434. Whom did you see there?—I asked whom I could see, and I was told there were none of the gentlemen connected with the election at home, and so I said that was unfortunate. So this gentleman, whom I afterwards found out to be Mr. Waller, followed me a short time afterwards, and he said, "Mr. Caulfeild, I am sorry to say that they are all at Green-street" (I think he said) or "at the hustings." "If it is anything of great importance I will go down and take the message, if you will trust me with it." I said, "Well, possibly it is not of any very great importance; it is only a voter who is with me, and all I have him in for, is 4*l.*, and I know the man to be a highly respectable man. I have had him with me for 12 or 14 months; he is a very respectable man, and I am not afraid of trusting him with 4*l.*" "If you like," says I, "you may take him." "Well," says he, "I will take him." "But," says I, "If you take him, remember," says I, "you must drive him down. I do not think he is stout enough to walk down by himself. You had better take him down." So he said, "Oh, very well, I will take him. Am I to bring him back?" "Oh, certainly," said I. What I meant by that was, that he would have some little matters to settle when he came back to the Marshalsea; and I did not want him to walk back.

2435. At what hour of the day was that?—Well, I should think it was about three or four o'clock. It was about this hour I should say; it was not dark; the days are longer now than they were then, and it was before it was dark; a very short time before.

2436. Did you drive on a car from the brewery?—Certainly not; it is only a few yards.

2437. You went up to the brewery?—Yes, I did.

2438. How did you know that Mrs. Moran was willing to take 4*l.* for a debt of 11*l.*?—A few days before this occurred, this man wrote me a most urgent request that I would allow him to come down with an officer to vote, and he pledged me his honour that he would come back. I sent for him upon that occasion. That was two or three days before the 18th; and I said to him, "You know I could not by any possibility allow you to go down to the court to vote; but you had better send for your creditor; you are in for a very small amount, and perhaps your creditor will settle with you." "Well, sir," says he, "as you cannot allow me to go, I will take your advice," and I thought no more of it; and in a couple of days afterwards (I cannot exactly say whether it was two or three days afterwards), I happened to go into the office upon my business, and I found those parties there.

2439. When did you first communicate to any of Sir Arthur Guinness's friends that you had a voter in custody?—Not until after I got the discharge in my pocket; not in my pocket, but my purse.

2440. That was on the day of the polling?—

Yes, I should think it was; about an hour after; but I cannot exactly say the time.

[The Witness withdrew.

E. H. Caulfeild, Esq.

25 January 1869.

WILLIAM DALTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

2441. You are a freeman?—I am.

2442. And you voted at the last election?—Yes.

2443. For Guinness and Plunket?—Yes.

2444. Before the election you had been in the Marshalsea?—Yes.

2445. For about 14 months I believe?—Yes, with Mr. Caulfeild.

2446. Do you remember some short time before the election having a conversation with your brother with a view to your being released?—Well; one day before the election I mentioned to my brother about the death of Mrs. Moran, and I considered I should be released on that account.

2447. Did you ask your brother to go to any place to see about your release?—I did not ask him.

2448. Did he say he would go to any place to see about your release?—He did; he mentioned he would go and explain it to the Conservative gentlemen to mention about the death of that person.

2449. How long was that before the day of the election, the 18th of November?—I cannot exactly recollect the day but a few days before; I also mentioned it to him at the time that she was buried on the 10th day of October, on a Sunday morning, and the first time he called I mentioned that to him.

2450. It was on the 10th of October that you heard that the lady had died?—Sometime after, but I inquired. I called at the cemetery office on the quay to know the time she died.

2451. You called?—I called.

2452. That was after you got out?—That was after I got out.

2453. When did you first hear in prison that the lady was dead?—A man of the name of Webb called some time after and he informed me of her death.

2454. About when was that?—It was several weeks after.

2455. After what?—After her death; I did not hear it at the time.

2456. You told that to your brother; when did you see Miss Moran after that?—When she called first on me and informed me —

2457. Answer my question; when did you see Miss Moran first?—About a week before the election; she called in company with another lady.

2458. Was Mr. Caulfeild there when you saw her?—He was not.

2459. Did you make any arrangement with Miss Moran upon that occasion?—No, not at that time; a man of the name of Mr. Mead, accompanied her from the corner house of Dominick-street to the Marshalsea.

2460. At what hour did you leave the Marshalsea on the day of the polling?—Well, I did not take particular notice of the hour, but it was just before dark, and in the month of November.

2461. Had you seen Miss Moran upon that day?—I had.

2462. At what hour?—Near two o'clock, before two; she called and remained there half an hour waiting; we were waiting for Mr. Caulfeild; he was out at the time, and I kept them waiting there because he requested —

2463. Never mind that; with whom did you go to vote?—I went with a gentleman of the name of Mr. Waller.

2464. Who told you that you were to go out to vote?—The gentleman called for me.

2465. Who told you that you were to go out to vote?—I was called for, and Mr. Caulfeild sent for me by one of the officers, and I called down, and then Mr. Waller was there; I went off with Mr. Waller.

2466. Who told you to go with Mr. Waller?—Mr. Caulfeild.

2467. What did he tell you to go with Waller for?—He did not say, but I might go where I chose.

2468. When were you to come back?—Of course in the evening.

2469. And you went and voted, and then you came back?—Yes, certainly; I requested Mr. Caulfeild, in consequence of the sharpness of the evening, to let me remain there that night.

2470. How many letters did you write to the Conservative Registration Society in Dame-street, before you went out?—I never applied to them for anything. In the first place I wrote to see that my vote was all right some time before.

2471. Is it not a very simple question to answer; how many letters altogether did you write from the Marshalsea to any of the Conservative-rooms, ward-rooms, or committee-rooms?—Not more than two.

Mr. Palles applied for the two letters to be given to him.

2472. Mr. Palles (to the Witness).] Where did you go with Waller from the Marshalsea?—I was taken to Halston-street, and an accident occurred there with a child —

2473. Never mind the accident?—Then Mr. Waller remained with the police, and he desired another gentleman to take me into the proper place and to see all was right.

2474. Do you know the name of that other gentleman?—I do not.

2475. Do you see him here to-day?—No, I do not.

2476. Is it that man (pointing to a person in court)?—No; it was a young lad.

2477. From voting, where did you go?—I walked to the Marshalsea afterwards, straight.

2478. With whom?—By myself.

2479. Was no one with you?—No one with me.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2480. Did you vote according to your principles?—I did.

2481. For Guinness and Plunket?—Certainly.

2482. Were

W. Dalton.

W. Dalton.

25 January
1869.

2482. Were you influenced by any consideration whatever?—No.

2483. Did anyone to your knowledge pay any money for you for the purpose of releasing you from prison?—They did not.

2484. When did Miss Moran agree to take the sum of 4 l.?—On that day, the 18th day of November.

2485. Was that arranged between you and her before Mr. Caulfeild?—He consented to it. I paid that debt by small sums, and the balance remained of only 4 l.

2486. Did she give you credit for payments you had made to her from time to time?—She did.

2487. And the balance remained 4 l.?—The balance remained 4 l.

2488. And that finally liquidated the whole claim?—It fairly covered all.

2489. And then did you borrow the money from this gentleman (pointing to the last Witness)?—I did.

2490. Are you liable to him for it?—Yes.

2491. And you intend to pay it as an honest man?—Certainly.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Heron stated that of the Sandymount permanent staff, Mr. Henry Ross W. Adair was the secretary, and that under the date of the 20th of October, 1868, a letter was read from John H. Askins, Esq., dated October the 21st, 1868, stating that he would be unable to attend the meeting of the ward committee, but that he had not neglected his duty to Sir A. E. Guinness and the Honourable David Plunket.

WOODLOCK AND FOLEY - - - - - Petitioners.

AND

GUINNESS - - - - - Respondent.

Mr. THOMAS HENRY SANGER, further Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

Witness.] MY LORD, before I produce these telegrams on the part of the 'Telegraph Company, I must object to their production. We have always looked upon a telegram as sacred, and as though a seal were attached to it, and we think this decision of your Lordship will shake the confidence of the public in the telegraph.

2492. Mr. Justice Keogh.] I do not want to hear anything of what you think; you have the documents in your hand, that is all we want?—Of course your Lordship will understand that I only do this as a matter of duty.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Of course, but I do not want to hear whether or not the company think it will shake the confidence of the public.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that he had received a medical certificate to the effect that Mr. William W. D. Freeman was not in a fit state of health to attend the court from day to day.

2493. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] You are the principal officer, I believe, in Dublin, of the Telegraph Company?—I am, of the Magnetic Telegraph Company.

2494. Do you produce the telegrams which were sent in last November during the progress of the election through your office?—I do.

2495. Those are they in your hand?—They are.

2496. How many have you in your hand, have you counted them?—Yes, 70, I believe.

2497. Can you state whether those 70 which you hold in your hand all purport to come from the same party?—I have not inspected them.

2498. From whom does the first come?—The first purports to come from J. Wilson Johnstone.

2499. I will read one of them.

Mr. McDonogh objected to these telegrams being read until agency should have been established.

Mr. Hemphill was heard against the objection on the ground that the telegrams were acts of bribery.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the evidence was admissible in this inquiry.

2500. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] This is one of them, of the 16th of November:—“Station 1621. From John Wilson Johnstone, 24, Dame-street, Dublin, to H. George Campbell, Thompson's Lodging, Bridge-street, Bristol. Letter received. Please be in Dublin on 18th, morning, 29.

and forward accounts of expenses to me. Not time for remittance. Signature of the sender, J. Wilson Johnstone.” This telegram was transmitted through your office in due course?—It was.

2501. Was there any telegram back?—I cannot tell you that.

2502. Have you any books which] would give that information?—No.

2503. Do you keep any record of the answers to telegrams?—Only for a short time. We keep duplicates of them for a short time.

2504. How long do you keep the duplicates?—Three months.

2505. Do you destroy them, or do you send them to any clearing-house?—We destroy them, and I think we shall destroy them much earlier in future.

2506. We are not dealing now with the conduct of your office; since the 18th of November three months have not elapsed, have they?—No.

2507. Have you looked for the duplicates?—No, I was only subpoenaed to produce these.

2508. I ask you whether all the telegrams which you hold in your hand are in the name of J. Wilson Johnstone?—I have not searched them through, but they all purport to be in the name of J. Wilson Johnstone or J. W. Johnstone.

2509. And all from 24, Dame-street, I believe?—No, some from Dublin.

2510. Are they all to the same effect that I have read out?—Well, I have not read the contents, but I believe they are.

2511. Do you know whether those were duly transmitted to the different parties named here?—They purport to have been so.

2512. And received by them?—That I cannot tell you.

2513. Have you no means?—We can trace them, and they are traced. The messages are sent in once a fortnight to a clearing-house that we have, and the forwarded copies of the messages are attached to the received copies, so that if you give notice for the production of the received copies we can produce them.

2514. What was the name of the clerk who took down these telegrams in Dublin?—The clerk in the Counter.

2515. What is his name?—We have two or three there.

2516. Will you give the names of those two or three?—William Nolan, Richard Lennigan.

2517. Have you only the two clerks?—The two clerks.

2518. Then must it have been either William Nolan or Richard Lennigan who received those telegrams?—I dare say I can tell you which it was by the signatures (the Witness looked at the telegrams); I cannot say exactly, they write so much alike.

2519. At all events, it must have been either the one or the other of them?—Yes.

2520. Would you look over these documents (handing some papers to the Witness), and say whether they appear, according to your opinion, to be in different or in the same handwritings?—Nearly all of them appear to be in the same handwriting. There is one that is different.

2521. It is a matter of opinion, you know, but just pick out those which you think are in different writings?—(After selecting some of the papers from the rest.) They appear to be written in various hands; there are 70 of them in all.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2522. Are they all in the same words?—No, not all, but they are all in substance the same.

Re-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

2523. Who brought them, or any of them to your office?—I do not know.

2524. Would it be your duty to know that?—No.

2525. I suppose the receiving-clerks see the parties?—Yes, we merely require the signature of the party who brings the message.

2526. Do you remain in the front office?—I do not; my post is up-stairs.

Mr. Heron applied that the telegrams might be retained in court to prove the handwriting of the different persons who wrote in the name of J. Wilson Johnstone.

2527. Mr. Justice Keogh (to the Witness).] Are those telegrams which you produce in the handwriting of clerks in the office, or of the individuals sending the telegrams?—Of the individuals sending the telegrams. The marks of the clerks are only of the time of receiving and sending the messages.

Mr. Justice Keogh ordered that the telegrams should remain in court.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES CREED MEREDITH, Esq., LL.D., sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

J. C.
Meredith,
Esq., LL.D.

2528. You signed the account of expenses at the election, which was produced yesterday?—I did.

2529. Did you get the bills for the election, in order to make up the return of 10,174 l. 6s.?—I got a number of bills; other items in that account are the payments to clerks, and persons from whom I did not actually get bills, but from whom I have got receipts.

2530. Did you insert in this election account, every bill that you saw?—I inserted in this account every bill which I paid, or which my colleague, Dr. Guinness Beatty, paid.

2531. Have you inserted in this account every bill which you saw?—There are one or two which I saw which I did not insert.

2532. Which are they?—I saw a bill from a Mr. M. J. Brown (I believe the gentleman's name was), who claimed something like 30 l. or 40 l. He said he was a canvasser, but having had some previous knowledge of the gentleman, and knowing that he had not been so employed, I did not insert the bill.

2533. I see the item for canvassers, clerks, and so on, is 2,547 l.; did you yourself personally know that most of those clerks were employed?—Certainly; I may say that a portion of that money was paid to the clerks in the different ward committee-rooms. I was not in every ward committee-room, but I had every reason to believe that the persons paid were employed.

2534. Have you a list of the canvassers paid in each ward?—On the Saturday, one of the gentlemen connected with the ward, would generally bring me in a list of the persons who were to be paid in his ward, and when I was satisfied that that was the correct list for the week I paid the money.

2535. On what bank did you draw your cheques?—On the Bank of Ireland.

2536. Who placed the fund there at your disposal?—My own hands.

2537. You paid it in there?—Yes.

2538. Who gave you the money to carry to the Bank of Ireland?—I received the money, which I so lodged for the purpose of this election, partially from the hands of Sir Arthur Guinness, but principally from the hands of Mr. Samuel Bradburne.

2539. Is he Sir Arthur Guinness' private secretary?—I believe him to be so.

2540. How much did you lodge in the Bank of Ireland?—I lodged 6,000 l.

2541. Did you lodge any money at any other bank?—I did not. Now perhaps you will allow me to explain why I hesitated before answering that question. Dr. Guinness Beatty was joined with me as expense agent, and upon one or two occasions cheques in his favour were handed to me. I waited for a moment to consider whether I lodged those cheques for him in his bank, or whether I handed them to himself to do so.

2542. What is his bank?—The Royal, Foster-place.

2543. Had he a separate account there?—Yes.

2544. How much was lodged there?—I believe the same amount.

2545. £6,000?—£6,000.

2546. Mr. Justice Keogh.] At another bank?—At the Royal, in Foster-place; that is the bank where Dr. Guinness Beatty keeps his account. I keep mine in the Bank of Ireland.

2547. Mr. Heron.] You and Dr. Beatty received separate cheques?—Certainly.

2548. Were you acting zealously for some time before the election?—Well, I have always been a very strong Conservative, and I was very anxious for their return.

2549. When was it that you lodged the first money?—I should imagine somewhere about the 20th of September. It may have been a little earlier; I could not give the exact date.

2550. Had you been engaged in this Conservative Registration Society?—Certainly not.

2551. I do not mean engaged professionally, but were you assisting the business of the registry?—I am in no way connected with the Registration Society. As a friend of the gentlemen whom I knew to be candidates for the representation representation of the city, I went down to court during the revision; and being prevented by the Act of Parliament from acting there professionally, I gave whatever advice was in my power to the gentlemen who were conducting the revision.

2552. Do you know anything about the payment to the Conservative Registration Society?—Nothing whatever.

2553. Who managed that?—I believe Mr. Hodgson.

2554. What is his Christian name?—Robert L., I believe.

2555. Where is his account?—I have no knowledge whatever; I never saw a cheque of his, and do not know what money he had to deal with.

2556. But you knew the people who were working in the Conservative Registration Society?—I knew three or four of them; I cannot say I knew them, because I very seldom went to the rooms of the Conservative Registration Society.

2557. You did go there?—I have been there once or twice; prior to the revision I was there, I think, one or two days.

2558. Were those same persons the persons who afterwards attended in court?—I have seen some of the ward inspectors and the people whose business it was to give evidence in court in reference to the claims of persons for the franchise, in 3, Dame-street.

2559. Do you know that man who was named here yesterday, Campbell?—I do.

2560. What part did he take?—I cannot exactly tell you, except that I think he was the inspector of the north side of Dublin. I am not sure, but I know he was one of the inspectors of the Conservative Registration Society, or I believe him to have been so.

2561. You saw him acting as such?—Yes.

2562. He went from house to house, and ascertained about different matters?—Yes, to get information either about his friends or to disqualify his opponents.

2563. And of course he was paid for that service?—Well, I assume he was, of course; but I am not going to swear it.

2564. Did you yourself pay any printing bills?—I did; about one-half.

2565. Do you know Espie's office?—I do; at least I have heard that 76, Capel-street is Espie's office; I have heard a good deal of it here.

2566. You did not know the name before?—No; and I had never been in that house.

2567. I did not say you were?—But you were asking me had I ever been in the house.

2568. I am only asking you about a very ordinary matter, the payment of a bill, but you never were there?—No.

2569. Have you a list of the amounts which you paid for printing, amounting to 2,449*l.*?—There was no special list; I beg your pardon, 2,449*l.* does not represent the printing.

2570. Printing, stationery, staff, &c.?—Yes, that makes a little difference; there was no list of those bills; the bills came in to us, and when we were satisfied that the amount was to be paid, we paid them, and we subsequently ourselves entered into a book the bills under different heads, for the purpose of making this return to the sheriff.

2571. Have you the book here?—I have.

2572. Show it to me, if you please. (The Witness handed a book to the learned Counsel.)

29.

2573. Are those the names of the printers to whom you paid bills?—Those are the names of the printers who were paid either by Dr. Beatty or myself.

2574. "James Forrest," is that the James Forrest of Espie's office?—That I am not certain about.

2575. "James Forrest, 76, Capel-street"?—That is clearly so.

2576. That is October the 23rd; "James Forrest, 11*l.* 5*s.*; October 31st, James Forrest, 76, Capel-street, 5*l.* 10*s.*"?—Perhaps I ought to be allowed to say why "76, Capel-street" is written opposite his name; it is not done on the other occasion; a number of printers got a certain job to do; James Forrest sent in his bill for 5*l.* 10*s.*; the other bills were sent in at a much larger figure, and they were taxed down to what his bill was, and for the purpose of being able to refer ourselves to where the man's account was who had sent in the fair bill, I marked opposite it in the book, "76, Capel-street."

2577. Does that contain the entire amount of the bill which you paid to Forrest?—No; Forrest was paid a subsequent bill.

2578. Is it there?—It is on the 23rd of December; at least, I believe that to be the same Forrest, but that was paid by Dr. Beattie, and not by me.

2578. On the 23rd of December, "James Forrest, 100*l.*"; is that his receipt for that (showing document to the Witness)?—It purports to be; it corresponds with the date; I believe it to be, but I do not remember seeing it signed.

2580. "City of Dublin Election, 1868, No. 81; Dublin, 23rd December, 1868. Received from the 'Expense Agents' for Sir Arthur G. Guinness, Bart., and the Hon. David R. Plunket, the sum of One hundred pounds, for printing. Paid, James Forrest, 23-12-68, £100." Did you get any detailed account of that?—Certainly, every penny of it; my recollection is that the amount was over 100*l.*, and it was taxed down to that, as most of our printer's accounts were.

2581. Did you also pay the bills of the "Oyster Department"?—No; those were paid by Dr. Beatty; but the "Oyster Department" is not a fair name.

2582. "Red Bank Oyster Establishment, 55, Dame-street, opposite Georges-street. Oysters, 11*s.*; bread and butter, 2*s.* 2*d.*; Bass, 2*s.* 6*d.*; sandwiches, 1*s.* 6*d.*; total, 17*s.* 2*d.* 13th November, 1868." Did you pay all those bills?—They were all paid by my colleague, Dr. Beatty; I may explain that that was merely some of the days on which we were very busy in the office, and the candidates and the conducting agents had their luncheon there; nothing beyond that.

2583. You were at 47 and 48, Dame-street constantly?—I was there every day from the time the revision closed until the election.

2584. You were acting all that time as expense agent?—I was expense agent.

2585. Where was it you got the money; in what place was it given to you?—Some of it I received in 47, Dame-street, and some of it I received in my own house in Upper Mount-street, and one cheque I remembered receiving in the Four Courts; the first cheque.

2586. Who was it drew the cheques for you?—The only cheque that I saw actually drawn was drawn by Sir Arthur Guinness's own hand.

2587. Do you know whose the handwriting was?—I do not.

2588. Do you know Mr. Bradburne's handwriting?—I do not think I do.

2589. Did you receive cheques purporting to be signed by Mr. Bradburne?—Certainly not; every cheque that I received was signed by the firm of Guinness, Son and Co.

2590. Where did they keep their account?—At the Bank of Ireland.

2591. You say that you knew about the payment of the different wards; will you give me the book of South Dock Ward?—I may inform you that I never saw one of those books.

2592. Have you any account of your list of canvassers?—I had no list of canvassers.

2593. But you knew that there were canvassers?—I did.

2594. And you paid them?—I did.

2595. From your personal knowledge, I must ask you about the gentlemen that I shall find to be canvassers here?—A great many were canvassers that were not paid.

Mr. Heron asked for a list of the committee in South Dock Ward.

Witness.] These I know were sent, and a very troublesome job it was to get them.

2596. Is this a list of the general committee. "To Mr. Bastable. Six street lists for canvassing"; who is he?—Mr. Bastable I recollect seeing, but I could not identify him if I saw him again; but I know he was employed as a canvasser in the South Dock Ward.

2597. "To Mr. Hardgrove. Six street lists"; was he paid?—He was.

2598. Is his name Hardgrove?—He signed the receipt as Hargrove.

2599. "Mr. James Richards" appears to have got a great number of streets; was he paid?—I do not remember paying a gentleman of that name.

2600. Did you yourself pay the car hire, or did Dr. Beatty?—I think that was paid in about equal proportions.

2601. I am going to read the car hire for the election: "Order given to P. Lenahan for 1*l.* sterling, for two days, for his car, 1*l.*; Robert Jolley, order given for 1*l.* for two days, for his car, 1*l.*; William Going, order given for 3*l.* sterling, for two days, for three vehicles each day, 3*l.*; Charles Coulter, order given for 2*l.* sterling, for two days, two cars each day, 5*s.* extra, 2*l.* 5*s.*; Joseph Fagan, order given for 1*l.*, for one car for two days, 1*l.*; order given to John Cavendish for three vehicles, for Monday and Tuesday, and one on Saturday, for 2*l.* 10*s.*, 2*l.* 10*s.*; order given to Michael Ryan for 2*l.* sterling, for two vehicles for two days, 2*l.*" This, according to the accounts, was what was furnished to you, and you paid it?—No such document as that ever came in to the head committee-rooms in that form.

2602. That is to say, no document for car hire on the day of election?—I beg your pardon, that is not for the day of election.

2603. Well, listen: "Richard Fagan, car owner, gave his services voluntarily on the day of the election"?—That is on a different page, I believe, and not on the page you were reading before.

2604. Do you know anything about that entry at all?—No.

2605. How do you know it was not on the day of the election?—On the page that you were first reading there is "Joseph Fagan's order given for 1*l.*, for one car for two days"; on the opposite page, "Richard Fagan gave his car for the election for nothing." You are reading two pages together, which is not very fair.

2606. You are not the judge here; I am reading the entry of the man giving his car voluntarily on the day of the election. Do you find that Coulter or Going gave his car voluntarily?—Going appears to have done so.

2607. And Jolley?—I think Jolley did, but I am not quite certain. I remember his appearance.

2608. The South Dock committee-rooms were at Westland-row?—At No. 7.

2609. Who was the head agent at South Dock Ward?—I think it was Mr. William Welch, solicitor; I am not quite certain. I will not swear to that, but to the best of my belief he was.

2610. "Frederick Anketell, paid clerk"?—His is a curious name, and I remember it.

2611. "John Bastable, canvasser," do you know him?—I do not know him personally, but I know there was a man of that name there.

2612. "Robert Hargrove, canvasser"?—I remember seeing his name, but I do not know his appearance.

2613. Was Alderman Durdin on that committee?—I am not aware.

2614. Captain Higginson?—I never heard that name before. I beg your pardon, I have heard it, but I do not remember ever seeing the gentleman.

2615. On the 15th of October there was a public meeting at the committee-room, and resolutions were passed, and the Hon. Mr. Plunket addressed the meeting. When did you first know about the printing of the documents that the voters were to act gratuitously?—I cannot fix the day.

2616. Do you know anything about any payments at 3, Dame-street?—No.

2617. Do you remember hearing that there had been a payment, at 3, Dame-street, of persons, and I.O.U.'s taken?—I have heard it since, within the last fortnight.

2618. From whom did you hear it?

Mr. McDonogh objected to this, as the witness knew nothing about it, except what he had heard during the last few days.

Mr. Heron was heard against the objection.

Mr. Justice Keogh thought that the question might be brought nearer the point.

2619. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Was the gentleman from whom you heard it a gentleman acting on the same side with you?—Yes.

2620. Had you seen him in the committee-rooms?—I say that he was a gentleman on the same side, because I knew, of course, it must have been from some of our own friends that I heard it; but as to who it was told me I cannot tell, further than that the way in which I heard it was that it was alleged that during the preparation for this trial somebody said it had been done.

2621. Then you did not hear that it had been done as a fact?—No.

2622. Do you know Mr. Henry Wade?—No.

2623. "16th

2623. "16th November 1868. Pay agents: Frederick Anketell Clarke, Sam. Perse, messenger; John Rorke, put on by Mr. Durdin, do.; Wm. Duncan, put on by do., do.; John Bastable, canvasser; Robert Hargrove, do.; John Rickards, do.; Edwd. De Lisle, do.; Eyre Ivers, do.; Thos. Popham, do.; John Blundon, do.; Wm. Newbold, do." There is the phrase here, "put on by Mr. Durdin," and put on by do.; is that the same?—I do not know; I never saw that document before.

2624. Of the first four names I read, Anketell is put down as clerk, Perse, Rorke, and Duncan, as messengers, and all the others are put down as canvassers?—But the words "pay agents," clearly relate to their being paid, because there is opposite to them what they are employed to do.

2625. That is what I understand you to mean, that they got money for their services?—But you laid great stress upon the words "pay agents."

2626. On the 18th of November, the day of the polling, F. Anketell is put down as "clerk," and Sam. Perse, John Rorke, and Wm. Duncan, as porters, at 10, Wentworth-place. Was 10, Wentworth-place, the committee-room?—I imagine that 10, Wentworth-place was the polling place for the South Dock Ward; but I am not certain. I know we had a tally-room in Wentworth-place.

2627. Then follow the names of Wade, John Bastable, Robert Hargrove, John Richards, James Richards, George Richards, John Bolton, Robert Brennan, Edward De Lisle, Thos. Popham, John Blundon, William Newbold, and James Thomas; and opposite the names of James Richards, George Richards, John Bolton, and Robert Brennan, are the words "to bring up freemen." Then there is "John Brennan, personating agent"; and these two words are struck out, and these substituted, "appointed at head office"?—All those persons are named there as paid agents.

2628. Have you any general list of the paid agents?—No.

2629. Is the only list, so far as you know, contained in this book?—No answer.

Mr. McDonogh observed that one of the counsel for the Petitioner had another book from which he was taking extracts, and he considered this was not desirable.

Mr. Hemphill said that the book was that of the general agents, and had been handed over by Mr. Williams.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that it had been handed over to Mr. Heron, and it was advisable that some one should inspect the book, to enable him to pursue the examination. The adoption of this course facilitated matters; counsel at the other side had a right to inspect the books.

2630. I find in the "Expense Agent's Book" the payment of agents?—Yes.

2631. The total payment to agents for the South Dock Ward is set down here?—Yes.

2632. It is given as 50 l. 5 s. 4 d.?—Yes.

2633. In the list of wards, committees, solicitors, general agents, printers, &c., page 41, you will see the name W. J. Campbell, blank "address," recommended by —, blank?—Yes.

2634. Upon the same page I read three other names: A. Blackham, J. Hunt, Jas. B. Frazer. At page 46, "runners to poll," Robt. McNeill, recommended by Alexander McNeill; page 51, general agents, I read the names of William Vance, Jas. Warren, Jas. Ferguson (Fownes-street). Upon the last page, which is not paged by a number, "Benjamin Warren," general agent, appears?—

29.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Is that all?

Mr. Heron.] All, my Lord, at present. (Counsel reading.) "Mansion-house Ward Committee Book," Tuesday, 7th Oct. 1868. A meeting at 32, Aungier-street, blank "Johnson" amongst the names.

2635. Do you know Johnson?—I do.

2636. Who is he?—He is some official connected with some of the public churches.

2637. Is he a sexton?—He is something in that rank of life.

2638. Is he the sexton to St. Peter's?—I cannot tell.

2639. "Oct. 17, Johnson moved that Mr. H. Thompson be elected a member of the committee." In the street lists names are given (reads extract). Does it not mean that the men mentioned were to be canvassers from Aungier-street to Cross Kevin-street?—I will not swear it.

2640. How much was paid?—(Referring to book) 26 l. 18 s. Payments in the Mansion-house Ward.

2641. I see the name R. Wickham, five guineas?—No; it is only four guineas.

2642. Can you fix the date that the gratuitous document was gotten up. Was it a fortnight before the election?—I cannot tell; I have no means of telling.

2643. Did you ever see this circular before?—Not this particular one; I have seen many like it. It was brought to me by a gentleman who said it had been sent to him, and he could not find any one to give him anything; I believe it to be a dodge.

2644. You saw one of them?—I think C—somebody, but I do not know.

2645. Turn to the payment to the wards?—(Witness inspects the the book.)

2646. You have a general list of the names of wards?—No; there is a lot of the entire.

2647. What is the amount of the entire sum that was paid to canvassers?—I cannot say.

2648. The entry as to the 2,000 l. and upwards, you see it; what does it include?—It includes canvassers, messengers, presentation agents, tally agents.

2649. What is the payment of 195 l., agents?—Some few of the ward agents and others were paid agents, and were accordingly paid. Some were entered in different wards.

2650. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What about the papers that has been referred to here?—A person came to me and said it had been sent to him, that he could not tell what it was; I said I was in the same condition.

2651. Who was that?—A man of the name of Gannon. He told me he was not a voter of the city of Dublin; he said he had not seen any one to give him money.

2651* Mr. Heron.] I see here a sum of 31 l. 10 s., Toowey (attorney), and another sum, 16 l. 16 s., to another?—There are other items of such a kind as would make up the 190 l. odd.

2652. I think the wards have been alphabetically arranged?—No; in their proper order.

2653. I see the name of John Bastable, 10*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; did you pay that?—No; Dr. Beatty. The other sum was also paid by him.

2654. I see another extract, "Sandymount district;" Magrath, a canvasser, &c., four guineas each paid to persons; in all 29*l.*; also C. K. Kennedy, Moore, &c., paid 1*l.* 10*s.* each; others six guineas each.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I do not see what object can be gained by going through these items except there is some "plant" in the name.

Mr. Heron.] All we require, my Lord, is to obtain permission to give evidence as to the contents.

2655. You know a great many of the persons whose names have been mentioned here, to have been electors?—I believe that none of them were.

2656. I find in your book the payment to Campbell?—I do not think he was a paid agent; I believe him not to have been so. I believe he was not a paid agent at the last city of Dublin election.

2657. Did you speak to him at all?—I have spoken to him.

2658. Did you speak to him about the revision?—I did not, I hardly remember; he was principally in O'Hara's court; I was generally about the other courts. He heard some of the freemen's cases; Mr. Purcell heard others.

2659. Was Campbell in Mr. Purcell's court?—I cannot say; my belief is he was not. During a portion of the time that Mr. Purcell heard the cases of the freemen, I was in the court.

2660. You saw Campbell in the committee-rooms?—Yes.

2661. You saw him in the central committee-rooms?—I believe so.

2662. Had he not an office?—I do not think he had a particular office; there was an office where clerks were, and he was there amongst others; I cannot tell the names.

2663. Had he not a room to himself?—I believe not.

2664. Was he not there with some others?—I rather imagine he was in one of the front drawing-rooms; if so, there were 16 or 18 clerks in that room.

2665. Clerks under him?—I cannot tell that; another man named Walsh, looked after the clerks.

2666. You went in upon business; whom did you address. Did you speak to Campbell upon bringing up freemen?—I do not think I had any business at all connected with the bringing up of freemen.

2667. Mr. Justice Keogh.] That was not the question?—I do not know; I believe that Campbell was at Green-street, on the day of the election; I saw him there.

2668. The whole day?—I was there for an hour in the morning; during that time I saw him.

2669. Active?—As active as any of our agents; as active as myself while there.

2669*. Try to remember who were the people whom you saw in the front drawing-room; were some of the clerks upon the business of the Registration Society?—Some were.

2670. I believe that No. 3, Dame-street was transferred to No. 48, Dame-street?—I believe not; some of the people were taken from one place to the other.

2671. Had a person named Thomas White been acting in the business of the Registration Society?—I believe he came down on one or two days, but he was not one of those who were acting throughout.

2672. Did he upon that come down to No. 48?—Certainly.

2673. And was active there?—Certainly; he was there every day, and I imagine he was one of those who did most for us.

2674. You know Alexander McNeill?—Yes.

2675. When did you know him first?—The first time I went into the committee-rooms after the revision.

2676. Was he in the front drawing-room?—No, I think upstairs; he managed there for a time, left it, and Macknamara succeeded him.

2677. He did not manage the whole business; he was upstairs, further than the drawing-room; he gave orders and lists.

2678. Do you believe that this is the book you saw in McNeill's possession?—I saw a book like it, but I cannot say whether it is the same or not.

2679. I ask you from what you saw of 48, Dame-street, was not the front drawing-room the department for the freemen?—It was originally intended for the freemen to meet, but subsequently we wanted it for the clerks, and I do not believe it was used as such exclusively more than for any other purpose.

2680. There were one or two of the men who, I believe, were freemen?—Working there; they came to give us assistance.

2681. Is there any list of paid agents?—I cannot tell.

Counsel referred to a book in which the names of printers were entered.

2682. If a person came in and recommended a printer's name, it would be put down in a book like that?—Yes; perhaps he would get a job, perhaps not.

2683. Have you any other book of expenses but these?—No.

2684. Did Dr. G. Beatty keep one?—I had a book which I used for the first week; this I divided into wards with different headings. For the first week I entered down the money as I paid it, in a book, but I found that it would not enable me to make my returns to the sheriff, according to the requirements of the Act, and I discarded it.

2685. I think you paid money for telegraph messages to some clerk; I think you gave authority; the amount is 10*l.* 9*s.*?—I cannot tell that; I think I paid about 5*l.*

2686. When did you pay that?—About the 16th of November.

2687. To whom did you pay it; was it to a clerk of Mr. Alma's?—I cannot tell; some of it was paid to Frazer, I believe, one of our own clerks.

2688. J. A. Frazer?—Yes.

2689. He was a paid clerk; where is he?—I do not know; the last time I saw him was on the occasion of the funeral of the late Dr. Gratton Guinness, about the 20th or 21st.

2690. Who was he; did you ever know him before the election?—Never.

2691. What was the duty of people in the office with Frazer?—He was one of the ordinary clerks.

2692. Was

2692. Was he in any particular room?—I do not know that he was.

2693. Do you know Mr. Alma?—I do not.

2694. Do you know Mr. Parkinson?—I saw him once after the election, when he asked me to call upon him before paying a bill which he thought was excessive.

2695. What was the bill in reference to?—To one of the newspapers.

2696. Do you know Mr. Gerrard?—I know gentlemen of that name; one was called to the Bar the other day; I saw him, or them, once in the committee-room, acting on business; he came in one day.

2697. Do you know Mr. Wilson Johnson?—No.

2698. Do you know where 24, Dame-street is?—Yes, it is a house where a number of attorneys have offices: Mr. Howe, Mr. Parkinson, &c.

2699. Was there anything peculiar about it?—Mr. Parkinson conducted business for the company partly there and partly in No. 47, which Mr. Sutton gave him leave to use.

2700. No. 24 is nearly opposite to No. 47?—Yes, half a dozen doors further up, at the opposite side.

2701. Do you know Mr. Johnson, the attorney of No. 3, Palace-street?—I never heard of him.

2702. Do you know Adolphus Mortimer?—Yes, he gave us assistance in Dame-street; I think he was acting for us without payment.

2703. Did you see Mortimer and Frazer together?—I cannot call to mind that I did; but they had the entree there; they were working.

2704. Did you pay all the car hire, 519 l.?—I said it was paid in equal proportions by Dr. Beatty and myself.

2705. Do you know about any other car hire that was paid?—No.

2706. Do you know had Parkinson anything to say to the payment of car hire?—I heard so.

2707. Tell what you heard from anyone in the committee-rooms?—I never heard anything about it.

2708. Do you know Andrew Blundell?—I do.

2709. Is he a working printer on the "Free-man Journal"?—I am not aware.

2710. You gave him 8 l.?—Yes; and I can tell what it was for. He printed some documents—instructions to canvassers, 500 copies—and other things; and that was the bill he was paid.

2711. What did you do with the bill?—I have it not; that bill was paid by Dr. Beatty.

2712. Do you keep all the bills?—We have most of the bills.

2713. Here is an item: Robert L. Hodson, 140 l. 16 s. 8 d. Here also is for the payment of clerks, on the 16th, 17th, 18th November, in 47 and 48, Dame-street?—Yes; some of the clerks were continued in employment there.

2714. The name of George Tickells is mentioned?—Yes.

2715. How much did you give him?—Two hundred guineas.

2716. For what?—He furnished the greater number of our committee and tally-rooms, and sent in a bill for the furniture. At the close of the election the furniture was returned to him, and he was allowed for anything that was not broken or destroyed in the rooms, half-price.

2717. Thomas Stanford, 1 l. 10 s., for canvassing. Paid?—Dr. Beatty paid that.

2718. It is a genuine document?—Yes.

2719. "Dublin, Oct. 1868. Received from 29.

the expense agent, 1 l. 10 s., one week's salary for canvassing Mountjoy Ward"; was he not paid that regularly?—I cannot swear it.

2720. Do you know Mr. Robinson, secretary?—I do not know him personally.

2721. "Received from conducting agent"?—That money was paid by me.

2722. To Robinson?—No; that was a weekly account; one of the ward agents. I think it was paid by me to Mr. Saunders.

2723. Is that Mr. Robinson of the loan office?—I rather think not; I am pretty certain it is not.

2724. As regards the telegrams produced by Mr. Sanger, did you pay for any of them?—I believe not.

Mr. Heron here asked the Court for permission for Mr. Fitzgerald to inspect the books.

Mr. McDonogh suggested that the inspection should not take place till after the Witness had been cross-examined.

Mr. Justice Keogh thought it would facilitate matters that the books should be inspected; and suggested that one of the counsel for the Petitioner should examine the books, and replace them when done.

Mr. Hemphill.] There is no objection to Mr. Foley, who is a member of the Bar, sitting near the other counsel, and inspecting the books with him?

Mr. Justice Keogh.] No, there is not.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy and Mr. Foley then proceeded to inspect the books.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh, Q.C.

2725. I believe the book with which you are acquainted is your own?—Certainly; most of it is in my own handwriting.

2726. The other books I take for granted you know nothing about?—No; of most of them I did not know anything till I saw them in court.

2727. There is one that you can explain. In the book out of which Mr. Heron read, at page 41, the name of Campbell appears. Is that a book recording the names of the applicants for situations, and the persons who recommended them?—So I understood it to be so.

2728. Then you don't understand they were actually appointed?—One of the names read out never was appointed.

2729. Who was that person?—One of the Poleaners.

2730. That book was made out to enter the names of the several committees of wards as well as the names of all persons?—

Mr. Heron objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the line of cross-examination should not be pursued.

2731. Mr. McDonogh.] As you know in this instance (the name read out), the person was not appointed, you draw the conclusion that the book does not record the appointment of agents?—Certainly.

2732. Did you not know that William Campbell was not a paid agent?—Certainly; I believe that to be a fact.

2733. That book is entitled, "List of Wards, Committees,

J. C.

1869.

J. C.

Committees, Solicitors, General Agents," &c.?—
Yes.

2734. With respect to the printed circular, look at it again, and tell his Lordship when it was that Gannon brought a circular similar, to the room in which you were; about what time?—The latter end of the week after the election, or some time in the week following that.

2735. Was that the first time you had ever heard of that printed circular?—Certainly.

2736. And you never paid for the printing of it?—Most decidedly not.

2737. You believed it to be a plant?—I did, and do still.

2738. Counsel reading.] Document, marked private referring to a communication, "You are requested to write your name and your address legibly upon the enclosed card, and present the same to a person who shall be appointed to receive it, at 3, Dame-street, two days after the election." And you say you never heard any such thing, connected with the Conservative side, upon that occasion?—I do not believe it was ever done.

2739. Turn to the first entry of payment to Forest, the first upon the 23rd of October, was that in relation to the election or the registry?—The election.

2740. He was the printer at 76, Capel-street?—Yes; I wrote the name opposite the second item, not the first; the point had not arisen.

2741. And you have stated to his Lordship the true reason for writing that?—I have.

2742. Had you the remotest suspicion that anything wrong had occurred at Espy's or Forest's?—I had no suspicion of it, and I don't believe it.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] You are a member of the Bar, Mr. Meredith; you know the rules of evidence, and I strongly recommend you not to express your "belief" till you are called upon to do so.

2743. Was the dealing at the establishment open, and such as anyone might have had an opportunity of going into it?—Certainly.

2744. And Conservative orders were given to that establishment?—Amongst others; many of them; and to a much larger extent in many others.

2745. Do you remember Messrs. Alley and Reilly getting a large order?—I remember the name, and I thought they got a larger order.

2746. You acted as expense agent?—I did.

2747. Had you so acting, any knowledge (I put the question following his Lordship's suggestion) that, whatever were the practices alleged to have been perpetrated at Espy's, they had taken place?—Not the smallest.

2748. Did you give authority, directly or indirectly, to any human being for the purpose of doing anything of the kind?—Never.

2749. Had William Campbell any authority, directly or indirectly, from you, or as you believe from Sir Arthur Guinness, or any other agent, to do, or be a party to the doing, of any of these improper practices?—None from me, nor from any other person, to my belief.

2750. You used an expression which was somewhat ambiguous in its character, that you had seen Campbell active on the day of the election, as active as any other agent; did you use that expression?—I believe I used an expression similar to that.

2751. Did you mean that he was bribed?—I will tell you what I meant.

2752. You have told me Campbell was not a paid agent at the election?—I believe not.

2753. Did he fill any position at the election?—I am not aware of any particular position.

2754. Was he, or was he not as far as you know, acting voluntarily at the election?—

Mr. Heron objected to the line of examination.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled with him, that the question was not within the rules of evidence.

2755. In what way was he acting?—He was giving assistance as many other gentlemen did, to the Conservative candidates, without being employed by them to do so.

2756. Had he been employed at the Registry-office?—He had.

2757. Was Campbell acting as agent upon that day?—

Mr. Heron objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I have again to remark that the Witness has persisted in using the word "belief."

Witness.] I have used it, my Lord, merely in reference to matters not within my own knowledge.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I did not stop the evidence because I did not see the use of it. If it is thought that mere belief will produce any effect upon my mind, I can assure the Witness that it will not; I form my own conclusions from the evidence; belief is not evidence; if he were an ordinary witness I would not have made any comment, but being a gentleman of the Bar, and adopting such a course, I did comment upon it.

2758. Mr. McDonogh.] As to the carhire paid by you and Dr. Beatty, was that for cars employed prior to the election?—Certainly.

2759. For the wards committee in canvassing the wards?—Yes.

2760. And not for conveying the voters to the poll?—Certainly not.

2761. Did you pay a single fare for a car to convey a single voter to the poll?—Certainly not.

Mr. Heron said that there were a few more documents to which he wished to call the attention of the Witness.

2762. I see the name of Mr. Johnson here?—Yes.

2763. Is it not the countersign or authority of Mr. Johnson to pay that sum?—Yes.

2764. What was he?—He was a person acting in the Mansion House Ward.

2765. And whatever he checked off they paid?—Certainly not; that is a bill for 2s. for the newspaper for the week; when I saw that it had been supplied to the ward I paid the money.

2766. Do you see a printed form for 7s. 6d.?—No; for 7s. 2d.

2767. Was that by your authority?—No; I believe by Mr. Sutton.

2768. What is the meaning of it?—It is stated here to be for attendance to accept appointment, receive instructions, and become generally acquainted with his duties as check clerk.

2769. What is the name of the man?—John Gifford; but it is most likely he is a boy.

2770. "16th

2770. "16th October 1868, received 25 l., &c., to the use of the wards committee for Guinness and Plunkett. J. O'Byrne?"—That money was paid by me, and altogether 115 l.

2771. Mr. Heron.] Who was that White?—The gentleman between Mr. Byrne and Mr. Williamson.

2772. "Received 15th November from the expense agent of Guinness and Plunkett, 43l. 10s., for the purpose of paying money to obtain a hearing at the nomination and declaration of the poll." "Chas. Boushey, 6l. 6s?"—Paid to the secretary of the Rotundo Ward; this was two weeks' salary.

2773. How much was paid altogether to the secretary of the Rotundo Ward?—21 l.

2774. Was that the usual fee of a secretary?—Some were longer employed than others; some were paid at a higher rate.

2775. Was Boushey a solicitor?—He was.

2776. Did he attend at Cherry and Shields?—Yes.

2777. Have you the cash book?—Yes.

2778. I suppose that was the original book in which you made the entries?—Yes.

Dr. GUINNESS BEATTY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton.

2788. You were one of the expense agents of Guinness and Plunkett?—Yes.

2789. How much money did you receive at the election?—£. 6,000.

2790. Who gave you that money?—Mr. Bradburn.

2791. How long before the election?—I think about the 16th September I got the first cheque.

2792. Was it all paid by cheque?—Yes.

2793. Whose cheque?—The firm of Sir Arthur Guinness.

2794. One cheque, I believe, had his own signature; you opened an account?—I added it to my private account in the Royal Bank.

2795. Did you mix your private account with it?—I threw it into my private account.

2796. Did you divide the business of examining the accounts with Meredith; what was your course of dealing?—For the first two or three days we were in separate rooms; we afterwards joined; I sat at the same table, and as people came in we took them alternately. If a person gave me a document I asked was he a voter. A poll runner who had a vote had a ticket signed in the ordinary way, but countersigned as being a voter. I did not pay the money.

2797. Were many of those who made the demand voters?—Not many.

2798. Did you return the paper?—I said, "You are a voter;" and handed it back.

2799. The voters brought papers, and you thought you were not at liberty to pay the money, so you returned it, as it had been countersigned?—The dockets I allude to were countersigned; it was a proof that the men had been appointed to attend at eight in the morning and worked till midnight.

2800. Can you mention the names of any of those who so countersigned the paper?—I cannot.

2801. Have you the bank account in court?—My private account-book and the other accounts are mixed up.

2802. Did you take up the cheque you paid in the Royal Bank?—I did not.

2803. To Mr. Litton.] Was any other account opened by you in any other bank?—No.

2779. Was William Moore the agent in Arran Quay Ward?—He was.

Cross-examination resumed.

2780. The expenses amounted to 10,174 l.?—Yes.

2781. Have you the balance?—No.

2782. Where is it?—I paid it to Mr. Bradburn; my portion I paid back.

2783. Then every sixpence you received, you paid as expense agent or returned to Bradburn?—Yes.

2784. Mr. Heron.] When did you return it?—The day before yesterday; I closed my accounts upon Friday only; as soon as these were closed I returned the money.

2785. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who is Mr. Bradburn?—He is the private secretary of Sir Arthur Guinness.

2786. You said that Campbell was an agent at the registration?—Yes.

2787. Was he a paid agent?—I suppose so; I do not know anything of the payments of the Registration Society.

2804. Do you know of any other?—Mr. Mortimer opened two accounts in the Bank of Ireland.

2805. Any besides Mortimer?—No.

2806. Have you been often in the central committee-room?—Yes.

2807. I suppose you took a warm interest in the return of Sir Arthur Guinness?—I did.

2808. Had you an opportunity of seeing who acted as agents?—Yes.

2809. You saw a good many, and you knew Campbell?—I did.

2810. Have you ever spoken with him?—I have known him some years.

2811. Did you see him actively engaged during the election?—I saw him about five times, perhaps, the whole time.

2812. Where did you see him generally?—Upon the staircase in 47, Dame-street.

2813. What position does he hold now?—I do not know.

2814. You stated you had known him some years; what character did he then fill?—When taking out my freedom I knew him.

2815. Was he engaged as the agent of the Dublin Registration Society?—He was in their office; I do not know his business.

2816. When did you take out your freedom?—It was just prior to the election of 1865 that I took out my freedom.

2817. Had you Campbell in a special office in 47, Dame-street?—No.

2818. Did you see him in the front drawing-room; have you been in it?—I have been in all the rooms.

2819. Is that (the front office) chiefly reserved for the freemen to transact their business?—My belief is I was there once to ask a question, simply to ask a question.

2820. Where were you upon the day of the polling?—I was in 47, Dame-street, up to four o'clock, that is after voting.

2821. At what hour did you poll that day?—I went with my uncle, Dr. Beatty, and his son, about a quarter to eight; we drove from Merion's-square to the poll.

2822. Did you see Campbell about the polling place at that time?—No.

2823. Or any time during that day?—No; I went back again immediately; I was not there five minutes; I slept in and out again; it was less time than that.

2824. As to the telegraphing; did you pay any telegraph account?—I did.

2825. What was the amount; to whom did you pay it?—The receipts are all there; I did not tot up the amount.

2826. To whom did you pay it?—I paid them myself some of them.

2827. Did you pay any to Mr. Alma?—No.

2828. To Parkinson?—No.

2829. To Gerrard?—No.

2830. To W. Johnson?—No.

2831. To J. W. Johnson?—No.

2832. To Thomas Ormsby?—No.

2833. Tell me to whom?—I paid some myself; I ran across to the office, and paid the money.

2834. What telegrams did you send?—I sent one to Sir Arthur Guinness in London.

2835. To whom else?—To Mr. Caterson Smith.

2836. Was that the day of the polling?—Oh, no.

2837. Did you send to Mortimer, or pay any money upon account at the Registry?—No.

2838. Or Frazer?—I gave him some money at different times for telegrams, to the amount of some shillings.

2839. Do you know J. Wilson Johnson, or J. W. Johnson?—No, I do not know any such person.

2840. Had you an opportunity of speaking to Campbell upon the state of the poll?—No, I was not in Green-street more than five minutes, and I did not return there.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt, Q.C.

2841. You got 6,000*l.* yourself?—I did.

2842. Is all that accounted for in your return to the sheriff, except what you have given back to Sir A. Guinness?—Every halfpenny.

2843. Then no part was applied in any other way than appears in the sheriff's account?—Certainly not.

Re-examined by Mr. Litton.

2844. Look to the amount 5*l.* 16*s.*?—That is the amount of several telegrams added; we

Mr. Hemphill stated that this was a case of mistaken identity.

J. M.
Williamson,
Esq.

2852. Where do you live?—I live at Monks-town.

2853. You have an office in Dublin?—I have.

2854. And you are a solicitor?—I am.

2855. Were you concerned for Sir Arthur Guinness and the Honourable David Plunkett at the late election?—I was; I was assistant to Mr. Sutton.

2856. Where was your office during the election?—Nos. 47 and 48, Dame-street.

pinned them together to keep them safe. The amount is in Mr. Meredith's handwriting.

2845. Mr. Heron.] Another document appears here, 4*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*; in whose handwriting is it?—That is in Mr. Meredith's handwriting, too.

Mr. Heron then produced a number of receipts for telegrams; money paid for sending messages by telegrams.

2846. Mr. Litton.] These are the vouchers of the clerks of the telegraph office for telegrams, the cost of which was 1*s.* or 1*s.* 6*d.*?—Yes.

2847. Are these receipts for telegrams sent by J. W. Johnson?—No, I should say not.

2848. Did you ever hear that name before?—I saw it in the newspapers.

2849. When, for the first time?—I cannot say.

2850. Of what telegrams are they the vouchers; for what are they receipts?—I believe they were sent by Mr. Sutton's order.

Mr. McDonogh.] It will not be pretended that they are the same.

Mr. Heron.] I shall identify them. I shall ask his Lordship for liberty to bring these receipts to the Magnetic Office, to have them identified, one by one.

Mr. McDonogh.] I object to their being removed from the custody of the sheriff; all the telegraph officials to whom you refer may be brought here.

Mr. Heron.] I suggest, my Lord, that Mr. Fitzgerald at one side, and Mr. Sutton at the other, shall proceed to the telegraph office, and have the receipts identified as having been given on payment for certain telegraphic messages.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I have the receipts before me; the places to which they were sent are set forth on the face of them. In the absence of supplementary evidence this is sufficient. If a telegram is sent to a particular place on a particular day, it is evidence for me if the receipt and the telegram correspond. It will be quite enough to send the solicitors at both sides to the telegraph office.

Mr. McDonogh.] I cannot spare the solicitor to go to the telegraph office; it is necessary that he should be here. One of the counsel (Mr. Exham is prepared to go) will be sufficient. Mr. Mortimer has said that he has not paid any of these telegrams.

2857. That was the principal office of the candidates?—It was.

2858. Do you know a person of the name of J. William Johnstone or J. W. Johnstone?—I do not.

2859. Did you ever hear that name in connexion with this election?—Never, until after the election was over.

2860. Did you send any telegram yourself in the progress of that election?—Never.

2861. Did

2861. Did you send no telegrams?—Never.

2862. From the 1st of November up to the 18th?—I never telegraphed in connection with the election at any one time, either before or after.

2863. Do you know by whom any telegrams were sent to the country voters?—I do not.

2864. Did you ever hear from Mr. Sutton of any telegrams being sent to any country voters?—I did not.

2865. Were there any country voters who came up to vote for Sir Arthur Guinness, to your knowledge?—Not to my knowledge.

2866. Did you hear Mr. Sutton, in the course of conversation after the election, state that country voters did not come up?—

Mr. Butt objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh allowed the objection.

2867. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Whose duty was it to send any telegrams that might be required during the election?—I cannot say exactly whose duty it was, but Mr. William Johnstone, the solicitor, was in charge of that department, so that it might reasonably fall to his duty to do so.

2868. Are you aware that there was a large sum paid for telegraphic messages?—I have heard it here for the first time.

2869. Do you know Mr. James B. Frazer, of 12, Middle Gardner-street?—I know him from having seen him at the committee-rooms, 47, Dame-street.

2870. Do you know whether he was sent to forward any telegrams?—I do not.

2871. Any telegrams for any purpose?—No, I do not.

2872. Was he active about the election in those committee-rooms?—He was an active clerk.

2873. Was he the clerk to Mr. William Johnstone, of 3, Palace-street?—I do not believe he was; but he was in the room along with him.

2874. Was Mr. Frazer in the same room with Mr. William Johnstone in 47 and 48, Dame-street?—I believe he was.

2875. You have seen him there, at all events?—Well, I am certain I have seen him there, because it was my duty to be in and out of every room in the house to see to the general business.

2876. Do you know Mr. Rudolphus Mortimer?—I do, intimately.

2877. Was he engaged in those central committee-rooms?—He was.

2878. What was his precise duty?—His duty was confined to the same room in which Mr. Johnstone was.

2879. And Mr. Frazer?—Mr. Frazer was, I believe, there as an assistant.

2880. At all events, Mr. Rudolphus Mortimer was in the same room as Mr. Frazer?—Yes.

2881. Do you know that Mr. Edward L. Alma was engaged?—I do not know.

2882. Was Mr. Thomas Henry Parkinson engaged?—I do not know.

2883. Did you see him at all in the central committee-rooms during the election?—Not once during the whole time.

2884. Not during the week prior to the election?—I was there for many weeks prior to the election, and during the week of the election I did not see him there.

2885. He has an office immediately opposite?—He has.

29.

2886. Do you know Mr. Samuel Jerrard, a solicitor?—I do, intimately.

2887. Was he active in the central committee-rooms that week?—He was not.

2888. Was he there at all?—He might have called there with regard to private business on one or two occasions.

2889. Was he in any way acting as a sub-agent for the election?—He was not; he was appointed as an inspector of a booth on the day of the election, but he declined to act.

2890. Was his son, Mr. John Jerrard, acting?—He was not to my knowledge.

2891. Did you, in Mr. Sutton's office, make out any list of the persons who were to act on behalf of Sir Arthur Guinness, as canvassers and agents through the town?—Not of the canvassers; but my duty with Mr. Sutton was to appoint all the agents who were to act upon the day of the election, in the different booths, such as inspectors, poll clerks, and check clerks.

2892. But before that, had you made out any list of persons who were to bring up voters?—No, I had not; that was not my department.

2893. Were you in the habit, or was it part of your business, to open the letters that came from the country during the election?—No.

2894. Did you in fact receive any letters?—Never.

2895. Did Mr. Sutton?—I am sure he did.

2896. Did you ever bring any letters addressed to Mr. Sutton to any party?—I did.

2897. To whom?—To Mr. William Johnstone, of Palace-street.

2898. On what days did you bring those letters?—I brought them at different times.

2899. During the week before the polling day?—Weeks.

2900. And up to the polling day?—No.

2901. When was it?—About a fortnight before that.

2902. Do you mean to say that up to within three or four days of the polling, you did not bring any letters to Mr. William Johnstone?—I mean to say that positively.

2903. You used to bring those letters to Mr. Johnstone, as I understand?—I did.

2904. Were not those letters from out-voters, and persons not residing within the borough?—They were.

2905. What did you bring those letters to Mr. Johnstone for?—At the time we were under the belief that we could pay the expenses of out-voters going back from the poll, but not coming to it. At that time we were making out lists for the purpose of corresponding with those parties, but we were afterwards advised that we could not do that as a legal practice, and I went and got from Mr. Johnstone all the letters that I had brought to him, and Mr. Johnstone's duty then ceased to have anything to say to that department.

2906. What became of those letters?—They were all handed by me to the custody of Rudolphus Mortimer.

2907. When was it that you handed them to him?—To the best of my recollection, more than a fortnight before the day of election.

2908. But when you brought the letters first to Mr. Johnstone, was not it to make out a list of the voters who required their travelling expenses to be paid?—It was.

2909. Then did you see Mr. Johnstone enter their names in a book?—I did not.

2910. Where they in fact entered in a book? —I do not know.

2911. When he received those letters, did Mr. Johnstone write any letters to anybody, in reference to them?—I believe he did not, because he was to take his instructions entirely from me, as to what was to be done.

2912. Did you ever hear from Mr. Johnstone, or Mr. Sutton, that he wrote letters addressed to Mr. Alma, or to Mr. Parkinson, in reference to those?—I did not.

2913. I am speaking of the time when you thought it was legal to pay his travelling expenses?—I did not.

2914. What became of those letters?—They went out of my custody into the custody of Mr. William Johnstone, and he handed them back intact to me, and I handed them over to Mr. Mortimer, who had the custody of all the correspondence of the office.

2915. But you say that Mr. Johnstone had them some time before he handed them back to you, as I understand?—He had.

2916. When was it that you were first advised that it would be illegal to pay those travelling expenses?—About a fortnight before the election.

2917. And up to that time you had been constantly in the habit of bringing those letters to Mr. Johnstone?—Three or four times only, in bundles.

2918. Before they were handed back to you, is it not a fact that Mr. Johnstone sent letters marked "private," to Mr. Alma and Mr. Wilkinson, for the purpose of being forwarded?—I believe Mr. Johnstone did not. He had the most positive directions from me, not to do a single thing, except under the orders which I gave him, namely, to make out the lists.

2919. What was he to do with the lists?—To keep them by him until he got further orders; I brought him a printed list of all the out-voters at the same time, and I handed him the letters of the out-voters, as you call them, in order that he might check those off with that printed list.

2920. Have you got that printed list, or any duplicate of it?—I have not; but I believe there is one in court, in the custody of Mr. Mortimer, who will produce it in one moment; I should think we could get it very easily.

2921. You say that you were constantly in 47 and 48, Dame-street?—I was, for many weeks prior to the election, with the exception of one week.

2922. Did any of the country voters come into the office while you were there?—No.

2923. Are you sure of that?—I swear it.

2924. Did any one to your knowledge, come in and ask to see a Mr. Johnstone?—Not to my knowledge; I have already stated that I have never heard of the name of Mr. J. Wilson Johnstone.

2925. But I am asking for Mr. Johnstone?—No.

2926. You were not in the same room with Mr. Mortimer, I think?—I was not; but I was continually in and out of his room.

2927. Will you look at some of those telegrams (handing some telegrams to the Witness); there is one signed William Johnstone; in whose handwriting do you believe that to be?—I do not know.

2928. Do you know the handwriting?—I do not.

2929. Can you form any belief?—I cannot.

2930. Do you know Mr. William Johnstone's (of 3, Palace-street) handwriting?—I do.

2931. Is that his handwriting (showing some papers to the Witness)?—

2932. Do you know Mr. Fraser's handwriting?—I do not.

2933. Do you know Mr. Mortimer's handwriting?—I do.

2934. Are any of these papers in Mr. Mortimer's handwriting in your opinion (the Witness examined the telegram)?—

2935. Are any of those in Mr. Mortimer's handwriting?—No.

2936. Or in Mr. William Johnstone's?—No.

2937. Can you form any opinion as to whose handwriting they are in?—I cannot.

2938. Do you know Mr. Espie, of 76, Capel-street?—I believe that gentleman has been dead for years.

2939. Who lived in 76, Capel-street?—I really do not know who lives in it, except from some inquiries I have made since.

2940. Do you know James Forrest?—I have seen James Forrest since this trial has commenced.

2941. Were you not aware that James Forrest was printing for the committee?—I was aware, and I will tell you why; the accounts of him and other printers came in, and were submitted to me, and I took exception to the amounts charged, and they were taxed most liberally in consequence.

2942. Are you not aware that James Forrest's name is on a brass-plate on the door of 76, Capel-street?—I do not know, although I have been in his house.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2943. Would you look at that circular which was produced here to-day (showing a paper to the Witness); did you see that in the Conservative committee-rooms, or anything of the kind?—Never.

2944. To your knowledge, was any such circular used upon the part of Sir Arthur Guinness or Mr. Plunket?—To my knowledge, there was no such thing.

2945. Nor to your belief?—Nor to my belief.

2946. Did you authorise at this election, before or after the election, any improper practice in the shape of bribery?—Most positively, I did not.

2947. Were you aware on the day of the polling of the transactions with respect to Mr. Forrest's house?—I was not.

2948. Did you give any authority, direct or indirect, to Campbell, or to any other person, touching that transaction?—I did not.

2949. You were engaged in appointing the agents?—I was.

2950. And you were acting chiefly with Mr. Sutton, who was the chief agent of Sir Arthur Guinness?—Entirely with him.

2951. You have spoken as to your own knowledge. To your knowledge or belief, did anyone of the agents give any authority whatever, in relation to that transaction with Forrest?—They did not.

2952. Now you may give back the circular to my learned friend; were you aware of the instructions that were given to the several persons, who took any part in relation to the promotion of the interests of Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket?

Plunket?—I was; I took part in the preparation of these instructions.

2953. Were they not most distinct, that no act of bribery of any nature, or of any character, should be allowed or tolerated?—They were; they were intended for that special purpose.

2954. And honestly and bonâ fide. so?—Honestly, and bonâ fide.

2955. I believe that you have not been subpoenaed for this trial?—I was not.

2956. Do you produce the instructions given by you and Mr. Sutton, on the part of Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket, to the various agents?—I do.

[The same were delivered in, and were as follows:]

“Instructions to Canvassers.

“Your duty will be to make yourself acquainted with the voters in each district or street, in which you shall be directed by the ward committee to canvass, and daily report the result to the committee; and you are to acquire such information as will enable you to take upon yourself the responsibility of bringing up a certain number of rated occupiers or freemen to the place of polling, on the day of election. But you are, on no account whatsoever, to offer any bribe, promise, or inducement of any kind, for the purpose of obtaining the vote of any person whatsoever; nor are you to pay, or promise to pay, any money for the conveyance of any voter to the poll, either to the voter himself, or to any other person.

“Frederick K. Sutton,

“John Julian,

“Conducting Agents.”

“Further Instructions to Secretaries and Agents at Ward Committee-rooms.

“You will reply to any person, being a voter, who applies for an appointment, that, having regard to the Act of Parliament (a copy of which is posted in your committee-rooms), that such party cannot get employment for payment without involving the loss of his vote; but if such voter be desirous of working and assisting the candidates, he must do so on the distinct understanding that he gives his services gratuitously, and without any promise of payment for same from the candidates, or anyone on their behalf; and you will not employ any person whatsoever, without the authority of the conducting agent.

“You will bear in mind, in sending a recommendation for persons to be employed for any duties, that they must be thoroughly competent to perform them, and must not be recommended for the sake of pleasing any individual or voter; at the same time, the fact of the party recommended being the relation or friend of a voter, does not disqualify such party from being appointed; but in such case, the most scrupulous care must be taken to ascertain that the party recommended is thoroughly qualified for the post he is proposed to fill.

“Frederick K. Sutton,

“John Julian,

“Conducting Agents.”

“Instructions for Ward Committees.

“The committee, on being furnished with street lists of the voters in the ward, and also of the freemen resident therein, will divide the ward into districts, and with the assistance of agents, ascertain each friend and his exact residence and occupation, and where he will be found on the day of polling.

“Some members of each committee should take charge exclusively of the freemen resident in the ward, and communicate all information regarding them, to the head committee-rooms.

“It will also be desirable that, as soon as possible, information should be forwarded to the conducting agents, of the names of such persons as the candidates ought to wait on personally.

“Committees cannot too frequently meet for the purpose of comparing notes and communicating information.

“Two copies of the register of the ward should be kept open for inspection, as also two copies of the freemen’s register, in each committee-room.

“The secretary of the committee will return daily on the canvas lists, furnished for the foregoing purpose, the result of the previous day’s work, first keeping a record thereof on the register, or street list for the ward.

“The committees will let the conducting agents have, on or before the 31st October instant, a list of all such persons as they are well acquainted with, and will recommend for discharging the following duties at the ensuing election, namely, for poll and check clerks and tally agents, stating opposite to each of their names what his peculiar capabilities for the office to which he is recommended are, as great care in the appointment of agents must be observed, having regard to the 8th section of the 31 & 32 Vict. c. 49, a copy of which section is posted in your committee-rooms.”

“Instructions for the Day of Polling.

“First. Inspector at Booths.

“The inspector-in-chief at the booths will remain in charge of same during the entire day; he will see that the several inspectors, poll and check clerks and tally agents, are in their respective places, and if absent, that their places are filled up by competent persons.

“The inspector-in-chief will, each half-hour during the polling, take up from the check clerks in each booth in his charge the slips, seeing that the exact half-hour up to which the slips are taken is marked thereon, and will enclose one set thereof to the secretary of the ward committee, and the other set of slips to the conducting agents in envelopes, which will be furnished to him for that purpose, and give same to the poll runners, who will be in attendance for that purpose; and at the expiration of each hour he will tot up on the slips provided for that purpose, the amount of the gross poll up to the hour, and forward same in like manner to the conducting agents.

Second. Inspector at Rooms.

“You must be in your tally-rooms at 7 o’clock a.m.; you must have two or more corrected clerk of the peace lists of the voters in your ward, and also a corrected list of the freemen’s register; you will see that you have a proper supply of pens, ink, and paper, voter’s cards, &c.; you will see that you have a sufficient staff of tally agents, and that they are in attendance in the tally-rooms at the above hour.

“The duties of the tally agents will be to conduct the voter to the proper booth in which is to be be polled, and as soon as the voter has polled, the tally agent is to return to the tally-rooms, and report himself to the inspector for further duty.

"You will fill up a card for each voter, if he is not already provided with such, with his name and number on registry, &c.

"You will render every facility in your power for the immediate polling of the voter.

"The conducting agent of your polling place will once every half-hour send you a list of all voters who have polled, and it will be your duty, forthwith, on the receipt of such list, to strike out the names of all such voters who have polled in the clerk of the peace list, and you will from time to time, and as often as possible, make out lists of all voters who have not been polled, and send agents to bring up such voters.

"Polling commences at eight o'clock a.m., and closes a five o'clock p.m.; all freemen poll in Green-street.

"Third. Chairman and Committee at Wards.

"The chairman is most earnestly requested to preside in his ward-room during the entire day of polling, and urge each member of his committee to see that the tally agents perform the several duties assigned to them, for sending the voters to the poll from the several districts with which they are best acquainted.

"These members of the committee who have undertaken the canvassing of the freemen resident in the ward, should understand the incalculable importance of having them all sent up to the poll at Green-street, before 10 o'clock a.m., on the day of polling; as also the necessity on receiving from the tally-rooms in Green-street, from time to time during the day, returns of unpolled freemen; of immediately thereupon sending agents to see that the unpolled freemen so returned are sent up forthwith."

2957. Were those instructions given bonâ fide, and honestly by you?—They were given by Mr. Sutton, and endorsed by me.

2958. Were they delivered to the various canvassers and others?—I did not deliver them, but I have knowledge that they were delivered.

2959. Were portions of the Act of Parliament printed and posted in the various ward-rooms?—In the several ward-rooms that I was in, they were printed upon large placards.

2960. What portions of the Act of Parliament?—With reference to bribery.

2961. The instructions to canvassers are, "Your duty will be to make yourself acquainted with the voters in each district or street in which you shall be directed by the ward committee to canvas, and daily report the result to the committee; and you are to acquire such information as will enable you to take upon yourself the responsibility of bringing up a certain number of rated occupiers or freemen to the place of polling on the day of election."

2962. You have heard the gentlemen on the other side refer to the documents which were signed by parties as to their gratuitous services. Take any one of them (handing a paper to the Witness); you know that those were signed, and asked to be signed, by the parties?—I signed one of them myself.

2963. Did every person who was a voter, and who was engaged in any way, sign one of those documents?—They were required to do so.

2964. In order that no voter should be paid at the election?—For that purpose, and that purpose alone.

2965. Were they bonâ fide and honest, and not under the guise of evading the law?—It was for that purpose, and that purpose alone.

2966. Was it, at any time, understood amongst any one of the agents, or announced by any one of the agents in your presence, that the parties who should sign those would be paid a farthing?—Most distinctly not.

2967. You were aware of the Act of Parliament forbidding the payment of voters as agents?—I was, when this was prepared, and I am now.

2968. Was that section of the Act of Parliament also posted up in the committee-rooms?—In every room in the place.

2969. In every ward committee-room?—In every ward committee-room, I believe; I was not in them all, but in every ward committee-room that I was in, I saw it.

2970. As you told his Lordship before, you ascertained that by the present state of the law, the payment of travelling expenses was not legal; and you mentioned to my learned friend, Mr. Hemphill, that it was about a fortnight before the election when you took the advice?—Yes.

2971. So soon as you ascertained that the payment of travelling expenses was illegal, were letters written to every single out-voter, pointing out that under the Act of Parliament they could not be paid?—

Mr. Heron objected to the question as being vague.

Mr. McDonogh.] Ex uno disce—omnes.
Look at that letter (handing a letter to the Witness).

2972. Mr. Hemphill.] Did you send that letter yourself?—I was present at the writing of it, and gave instructions that it should be sent; I am aware that this circular in my hand was prepared by Mr. Sutton's directions; I was present when it was prepared, and I am also prepared to swear that instructions were given in Mr. William Johnstone's office to him and Mr. Mortimer, that this should go to every out-voter.

2973. Who superscribed that letter?—This envelope is in the handwriting of Mr. Mortimer.

2974. The person to whom the instructions were given?—One of the two gentlemen.

2975. And this, I believe, came back through the dead letter office?—This appears to have come back through the dead letter office, as the person could not be found at the address given.

2976. And therefore you have the original letters?—I have both the original letters.

2977. Are you aware that Mr. Mortimer carried out your directions?—I am positively sure he did.

2978. And the authority ceased to Mr. Johnstone to pay any travelling expenses?—He had no authority to do so.

2979. Did you ever afterwards give authority to anyone to pay travelling expenses?—Never.

2980. You told my learned friend, when he asked you if you knew Mr. Espie (he was not aware, of course, that he was dead), that he had been dead several years?—So I believe; I knew him some 15 or 20 years ago.

2981. Directly or indirectly, did you in any manner sanction the illegal practices, or any one of of them, described as having occurred in Forrest's house?—Positively not.

2982. Or even knew of their existence?—I never heard of them.

2983. To your belief, was there a single agent connected with this election acquainted with or acting in that transaction?—

Mr. Hemphill objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the question was not admissible.

The following Letters were delivered in:—

“City of Dublin Election, 1868.

“Sir Arthur E. Guinness, Bart.
and

“The Hon. David R. Plunket.

“Committee Rooms, 47 and 48, Dame-street,
Dublin, 6th November 1868.

“Dear Sir,

“In answer to your letter, . . . we beg to say that it is a subject of great regret to Sir Arthur E. Guinness and the Hon. Mr. Plunket, that by an enactment of the last session, of which an extract is herewith sent to you, they are prevented paying the necessary expenses of conveying their supporters to the poll. But they confidently hope that the great importance of the present struggle, the revolutionary views recently put forth by our opponents, and the fact, which is beyond question, that the election of Sir Arthur E. Guinness and the Hon. Mr. Plunket is safe, if the important section of non-resident electors come forward to support them, will be sufficient to induce you to attend and vote for them at the coming election.

“We remain, yours truly,

“City of Dublin Election, 1868.

“Sir Arthur E. Guinness, Bart.
and

“The Hon. David R. Plunket.

“Committee Rooms, 47 and 48, Dame-street,
Dublin, 12th November 1868.

“Dear Sir,

“We beg to inform you that the polling for the City of Dublin election, will commence at eight o'clock a.m., and terminate at five o'clock p.m., on Wednesday, the 18th day of November next.

“We cannot too earnestly impress on you the urgent necessity of every voter coming to the poll, as the main portion of our strength amongst property-voters consists of gentlemen like yourself, non-resident; we therefore entreat you to come, no matter at what inconvenience to yourself.

“We remain, yours truly,

“Fred. Sutton,

John Julian,

“Conducting Agents.”

Re-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

2984. I asked you for a printed list of out-voters, which you stated you would get for me, or 29.

that Mr. Mortimer should produce it?—That is it (producing a paper).

2985. In those instructions to canvassers about which you have been asked, you have a list of the canvassers to whom those instructions were issued?—They were sent to the ward committee-rooms.

2986. Have you a list of them?—I have not.

2987. Has Mr. Sutton?—I believe not.

2988. Have you any book in which you have your list of canvassers?—I have not.

2989. Is there any book in any of your committee-rooms in which there is a list of canvassers?—I believe not.

2990. How did you know to whom to send those instructions?—The easiest way in the world. We sent them to the secretaries of the ward committees, whose business it was of course to see that the business of canvassing was carried out.

2991. Had the secretaries any list of the canvassers in their different wards?—I cannot tell.

2992. Were all the ward committee-books returned to Mr. Sutton's office?—I really cannot tell.

2993. Are these all the books that were returned?—Yes.

2994. Are you aware that William J. Campbell was a canvasser?—He was not.

2995. Then William J. Campbell never got one of those lists?—Not to my knowledge; he may have got it.

2996. Then if you have no lists of the canvassers, how can you tell that any particular person was not a canvasser?—You are quite right; I could not.

2997. Then how can you tell that Campbell was not a canvasser?—Campbell was employed in particular business in 47, Dame-street, and therefore he was not a canvasser.

2998. How was he employed?—In making out the freemen's lists.

2999. For the purpose of ascertaining which of them were your friends?—Every one of them, friends and foes. He was there for, I think, some weeks before the election. Except when he was engaged in the election he was in the place.

3000. Is he not, generally speaking, employed as the Conservative agent, both for the poor-law and other elections?—I have heard so, but I do not know.

3001. Have you any doubt about it?—I have every doubt about it, because I do not know. I was never concerned in a city of Dublin election before nor in the registration.

3002. Was Campbell ever paid?—He was not.

3003. Has he ever claimed to be paid?—Never, to my knowledge.

3004. In this circular, which you sent, I see the words, “In answer to your letter;” I presume you received letters from the out-voters, asking for their travelling expenses?—There were letters of that kind received; but I did not receive them; I told you before, that Mr. Sutton received all the letters.

3005. Must you not have been aware, when you were preparing that document, that letters were received from out-voters, asking for their travelling expenses?—Certainly.

3006. Are those the letters which you brought over to Mr. William Johnstone?—Certainly; at least, among the many letters that I brought to Mr. William Johnstone, there were a vast number that never asked for travelling expenses. I brought all the letters to Mr. William Johnstone.

I 2

that

3007. I see there is a second circular, dated the 12th of November 1868?—Yes.

3008. Where those circulars sent to the same parties to whom you sent the others?—They were enclosed in the same envelope.

3009. But the first is dated the 6th?—No matter.

3010. Just attend to me; one is dated the 6th, and the other is dated the 12th; am I to understand that those two documents, purporting to bear different dates, were sent in the same envelopes?—They were.

3011. Did you receive any answer to those documents from any out-voters; you have told us that all those letters were sent under your direct supervision; did you receive answers to any of those two circulars which were enclosed in the same envelopes?—There may have been answers received; but I do not know where they went.

3012. Did you see any answer sent by any country voter, after you had forwarded this?—I did not.

3013. Whose duty would it have been to have received this?—Mr. Sutton's, or Mr. Julian's.

3014. Were you at liberty to open letters that you found at 47 and 48, Dame-street?—I should have done so, if necessary; but they were opened, always, before I came to the office.

3015. Were you aware that the decision of the court of appeal from the revising barrister was made on the 16th of November?—I cannot tell you; I think I was.

3016. Have you any doubt about it?—I have every doubt about it; because I do not know it. I am aware that there were certain names ordered to be put upon the clerk of the peace's list, for the purposes of the election, and we never got the names, for we did not know who they were.

3017. Have you any means of telling me how many out-voters, altogether, voted at the election?—I have not.

3018. Have you any other letters that were returned through the dead letter office?—I have not.

3019. Was this the only one returned through the dead letter office?—I will not say that; but it is the only one that I can produce.

Re-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

3020. Can you tell me the precise position that Campbell occupied up to the day of the election?—He was engaged solely, and alone, in preparing lists, in 47, Dame-street.

3021. Did any of the lists come in late?—We got no clerk of the peace's lists until the eve of the election; it, therefore, was necessary for us to make out the lists for canvassing as best we could from such information as was afforded to us by the Registration Society.

3022. And was that the employment that he was engaged upon?—That was the employment he was engaged upon.

3023. And did that cease before the day of the polling?—It did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM JOHNSTONE, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

W.
Johnstone,
Esq.

3024. WERE you engaged, in the business of the election, on behalf of Messrs. Guinness and Plunket?—I assisted Mr. Sutton.

3025. Were you engaged?—No.

3026. Did you assist voluntarily?—Yes.

3027. Had you any department in 47, Dame-street; did you ever see that list of out-voters before?—Yes; I have seen a copy of it.

3028. Had you one of them?—I had.

3029. In your possession?—I had.

3030. What did you do with it?—I left it in the committee-room.

3031. After the election was over?—Yes.

3032. Had you that list in your possession?—This one I had not; but a copy of it I had.

3033. I do not mean that individual list; but had you a copy of it?—I had.

3034. How long had you it?—During the time I was engaged there.

3035. For how long?—During the time I was engaged there.

3036. How long had you it, I ask you?—About a fortnight.

3037. Did you sit in any room in Dame-street?—I did.

3038. In what room?—As well as I recollect, I think it was the third story; a back room.

3039. What people sat with you in that room?—There was a Mr. Mortimer and a Mr. Frazer.

3040. Is that Mr. Rudolphus Mortimer, of 1, Charleville Mall?—I do not know what his Christian name is.

3041. Was Mr. Frazer in the same room with you?—He was.

3042. Was anyone else in the same room with you?—Occasionally there might be; but I think generally not.

3043. Were those two persons employed as clerks under you?—I do not know how they were employed.

3044. Did you speak to them?—Certainly.

3045. About what business?—About the out-voter's business.

3046. Was that about the payment of the travelling expenses for the out-voters?—No.

3047. You never spoke to them about that?—No.

3048. Did you get any letters from out-voters asking for travelling expenses?—I saw some.

3049. Did you get any into your own possession?—None.

3050. How many did you see?—I suppose I saw 30 or 40, but I could not exactly say.

3051. Where did you see them?—I saw them in that room.

3052. Who brought them there?—I cannot tell you.

3053. Will you swear that you do not know?—I do not know.

3054. To whom were those letters directed?—Many of them were directed to the agents, and others had no envelopes, and I could not say to whom.

3055. Did

3055. Did you attend to that department exclusively whilst you were there?—Entirely.

3056. Did Mr. Rudolphus Mortimer and Mr. James B. Fraser assist you exclusively in that department, or had they anything else to do?—That I cannot say. While I was there, they assisted me exclusively.

3057. To what date were you there?—Up to the eve of the election.

3058. Do you mean the day before the polling day?—The day before the polling day.

3059. Did you leave the day before the polling day?—No; after the day before the polling day.

3060. That was the 17th of November?—Yes.

3061. Where did you go to then?—I went home.

3062. Were any letters from out-voters brought in to you up to the 17th?—I think they ceased.

3063. At what hour?—I think they ceased before that.

3064. Are you sure?—Well, I am not quite certain, but I am almost certain of it.

3065. On your list of the out-voters, had you checked off the men who asked for travelling expenses?—No; I checked off the changes of address in this list.

3066. Did you leave behind the list upon which you made marks, at 48, Dame-street?—I did.

3067. Have you never seen it since?—No.

3068. Have you a book in your own office with the same list?—No.

3069. Have you any letters in your office?—No.

3070. What did you do with the letters?—I do not know what became of them.

3071. What did you do with the letters?—I put them into a box in a room, and left them there.

3072. Did you desire that box to be sent to your office?—No; I do not recollect having done so.

3073. Is that all you will say before the court?—That is all.

3074. You will not swear you did not?—I will not.

3075. On your oath, did you not?—I cannot recollect that I did.

3076. On your oath, did you not?—I cannot recollect that I did.

3077. Will you swear that you did not?—I will not.

3078. Was any one present when you put the letters in that box?—As well as I recollect, there was.

3079. Who?—Both Mr. Fraser and Mr. Mortimer.

3080. Where is Mr. Fraser?—I cannot tell.

3081. If you left any direction, was it to Fraser or Mortimer?—I am not sure. If I left any direction, it would be to either of them. I had no communication with anyone else in the room.

3082. What is your office?—My office is No. 3, Palace-street.

3083. Did you see that box there since, on your oath?—I did.

3084. That is the box in which you left the letters?—Yes.

3085. Where is that box?—I cannot tell.

3086. When did you see it?—Not for some time.

3087. How long?—At least — ; I could not exactly say.

3088. Did you give any directions about the box?—No.

3089. What sort of a box was it?—A small tin box.

3090. Was anybody's name on it?—No.

3091. Did you get that in the committee-rooms?—It was in the committee-rooms.

3092. Was it provided for you there?—I found it there; I cannot tell whether it was provided.

3093. Was it full of election papers?—No.

3094. Half full?—No.

3095. Was anything but election papers in it?—Those lists and some letters, which came from the out-voters.

3096. How many?—I cannot tell.

3097. Were there 40?—No.

3098. Was there a book in that box?—No.

3099. Did you enter the names of the out-voters in a book of your own?—No.

3100. Did any one by your direction?—No.

3101. Did you see any book in which their names were entered?—No.

3102. Was none such kept, to your belief, there?—None that I saw.

3102. Did you yourself write letters to the out-voters, on your oath?—To the best of my memory I did not.

3104. Did you sign a letter to the out-voters?—No; I do not recollect having signed any.

3105. Did Fraser?—I do not recollect having signed any.

3106. Did you take the letters to the out-voters?—No, they were sent.

3107. Did you send telegraphs?—Yes.

3108. Is your name William Johnstone?—Yes.

3109. Did you ever hear of any person in existence named Wilson Johnstone?—No; I have heard the name.

3110. On your oath do you not believe there is no such person?—That I cannot tell.

3111. Do you know anything about these telegraphs (handing some papers to the Witness, which he examined)?—If they are all the same as those I have turned over, I do not.

3112. Can you form a belief as to the handwriting of any of them?—I do not. (The Witness examined the paper.)

3113. Do you say you do not observe there are different handwritings?—I do not. (The Witness turned over the paper.)

Mr. Justice Keogh directed the witness's attention to the fact that he had turned over three or four of the Papers together.

3114. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Do you know that handwriting (pointing to a particular paper)?—I do not. (The Witness further examined the paper). I see two or three in my handwriting.

3115. Show me one of them in your handwriting. (The Witness handed a paper to the learned Counsel.)

3116. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Select those that are in your handwriting?—I am doing so (the Witness handed another paper to the learned Counsel); I think these are the only two.

3117. Mr. Heron.] What is your name?—William Johnstone.

3118. Is your name J. W. Johnstone?—No.

3119. But why did you telegraph in a false name?—Because I did not wish my name to appear in the transaction.

W.
Johnstone,
Esq.
—
26 January
1869.

3120. Why did you telegraph in the name of J. W. Johnstone?—Because I had heard of the name of J. W. Johnstone.

3121. Who told it to you?—I heard it in several places.

3122. There is no privilege here. You must tell who told it to you. (The Witness hesitated.)

Mr. Justice Keogh.] You must give the fullest explanation of why you telegraphed in the name of J. W. Johnstone, or in the name of John Wilson Johnstone. (The Witness hesitated.)

Witness.] I heard that a Mr. J. W. Johnstone was in communication with the out-voters, and, therefore, I communicated the telegraphs in his name.

3123. You must tell us who he was; where you heard that he was in communication with the out-voters; and on whose behalf he was in communication with them. You must tell us everything in relation to him?—I cannot recollect who it was that told me.

3124. I must impress upon you the necessity of giving the frankest explanation to the court, no matter what the consequences may be, of your reason for telegraphing in the name of another person who you say you knew was in communication with these out-voters; why you adopted his name, who he was, and where you heard of him. In fact you must, as a professional gentleman, tell me with the utmost frankness all you know of that person; I would strongly recommend you to do so?—As well as I can recollect, I think the gentleman who told me of his name was a Mr. Foster.

3125. Who is Mr. Foster?—He is a gentleman who resides in Mountjoy-street.

Mr. Justice Keogh directed that the two papers identified by the witness should be handed up to him, which was done.

3126. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Who is Mr. Foster?—He is a gentleman that resides in Mountjoy-street.

3127. What is his Christian name?—Henry.

3128. What is he?—I think he has an appointment in the registry.

3129. In the Conservative registration office?—No, in the registry office.

3130. In the office of the Registry of Deeds?—Yes.

3131. In the Four Courts?—At Henrietta-street.

3132. Where did he tell you this, about J. W. Johnstone?—I think in his own house.

3133. What did you go there for?—To ascertain if I could be of any assistance during the election.

3134. How long before the polling day?—I suppose it might be three weeks or a month.

3135. Was it then that he told you about J. W. Johnstone?—No, I think not.

3136. I ask you when he told you about J. W. Johnstone?—Pardon me, I misunderstood you; I thought you asked me when I saw him; it was about a fortnight before.

3137. Before the polling day?—I think so.

3138. What did he tell you about J. W. Johnstone?—That he was in communication, or would be in communication, with the out-voters.

3139. For what purpose?—I could not tell.

3140. Was that after you heard that it was illegal to pay travelling expenses?—Oh! I had heard before, because I had seen the Act.

3141. On your oath, did you believe that John Wilson Johnstone was a real person?—No, I did not.

3142. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You did not believe him to be a real person?—I did not.

3143. Mr. Heron.] Who suggested the name of Wilson Johnstone?—I could not tell.

3144. Was it you?—No.

3145. You say Foster told you this, a fortnight before the polling day?—As well as I can charge my memory with the time.

3146. Who told you to give the false address, "24, Dame-street"?—An idea of my own.

3147. Adopted by Foster, was it not?—I do not know whether it was adopted by Foster or not.

3148. Did Foster speak to you about telegraphing?—No.

3149. Did you write any letter signed "Wilson Johnstone"?—I think not.

3150. Will you swear you did not?—I do not think I did; I am almost certain I did not.

3151. Did you write any signed "J. W. Johnstone" then?—No, I am certain I did not.

3152. You are not certain about the other?—Either in the name of "J. Wilson," or "J. W. W," I do not think, to the best of my memory, I wrote a single letter; any letters I had to send were those circulars.

3153. Will you swear, to his Lordship, that you did not send other telegraphs besides those in a false name?—Without seeing them I could not tell from memory.

3154. Have you sent 20? have you sent 30? have you sent 100?—No.

3155. How many did you send?—About 10, I suppose.

3156. When did you begin sending them?—I could not from memory tell.

3157. A week before the election?—Possibly.

3158. When you say "possibly," do you not mean "probably," and that you are certain of it?—No, I am not certain.

3159. Did you send the telegrams in your own handwriting, in answer to any communication?—No, I think not.

3160. Will you swear that you did not?—I am almost certain that I did not.

3161. I ask you again, where are the letters?—If I had the telegram, I should be able to tell you whether it was an answer to any letter or not.

3162. Where are the letters of the out-voters?—I do not know.

3163. Who has access to your office, to steal the box with the election papers in?—I could not tell.

3164. Was the tin box, with the election papers, taken from your office against your will?—No, I should say not; I do not know who took it.

3165. Could it be taken from your office without your consent?—It might have been.

3166. Was it?—I cannot tell.

3167. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You can tell whether it was taken with your consent or without?—With my consent, of course. I should have no objection to its leaving.

3168. Was it taken with your consent?—I cannot tell; I expressed a wish some time ago that it should be taken away.

3169. I am

3169. I am very sorry I am obliged to caution you a second time as to the evidence you are giving; you were asked repeatedly whether you know anything about what became of that box; you now tell us that you expressed a wish that the box should be taken away; I hope I may not again have to caution you as to the testimony you have given.

Mr. Heron.] Come, sir, out with it; give the name of the person whom you told you wished to come and take away the box.—(The Witness hesitated.)

3170. Mr. Justice Keogh. You must answer the question?—I mentioned the circumstance to a gentleman.

3171. Tell his name?—Mr. Bond.

3172. Explain what took place about that box?—I can say nothing further. I did not see him since.

3173. Mr. Heron.] Who is Mr. Bond?—Bond is a gentleman who has an office in the same house.

3174. What is he?—He is a solicitor.

3175. What is his Christian name?—Thomas.

3176. When did you tell him to take away the box with the election papers?—Some time after I heard of the petition being filed.

3177. How long after the petition was filed?—I suppose a fortnight.

3178. Mr. Bond is no partner of yours, is he?—No.

3179. Was he assisting in the business of the election?—I cannot tell.

3180. Do you swear that you do not know?—I do not.

3181. Who was present when you told Bond to take away the box?—No one.

3182. At what hour of the day was it?—That I cannot recollect; about the middle of the day.

3183. Is Bond connected with you professionally in business?—No.

3184. Is he an intimate friend of yours?—He is.

3185. Does he also register at 3, Palace-street?—He does.

3186. In the same office with you?—No.

3187. In the same house?—Yes.

3188. Now, why did you tell him to take away the box?—Because I was afraid I should have been subpoenaed to bring it.

3189. Do you mean to say that you were afraid to tell the truth?—No.

3190. What was in the box that made you afraid of detection, if the truth came out?—There was nothing in the box but the letters, and the copies of those out-voters lists, and nothing further.

3191. I ask you again, why did you tell Mr. Bond to take away the box?—Because I did not wish to have it.

3192. Did you tell him to burn every shred of paper in it?—No.

3193. Did you convey that to him?—No.

3194. Did you mean that he was to keep it?—I did not want to have it.

3195. Did you mean that Bond was to keep it or to destroy it?—I meant that it should not be there; that I should have nothing further to do with it.

3196. I now ask you to look at his Lordship, and tell him what you said to Bond, and what he said to you?—I said I wished that box was conveyed away, for I did not want to have it, and Bond said nothing to me about it.

3197. Did Bond know that it was election papers?—No.

3198. Do you mean to say that you did not convey to Bond that those were papers connected with the election?—I did not.

Mr. Heron applied for an order for a subpoena at once for Bond, this being the first time of his name being mentioned.

Mr. Justice Keogh acceded to the application.

3199. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] What is Foster's Christian name?—Henry.

Henry Foster was called in answer to his subpoena, but did not appear.

3200. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Do you know now that you sent the telegram in a false name and with a false address?—Yes.

3201. Why did you select 24, Dame-street?—Because I heard Mr. Johnstone had his address there.

3202. Do you intend that as an answer to the question; because you heard Mr. Johnstone had his address there?—I do.

3203. Who told you that?—I have seen letters brought by out-voters, dated from 24, Dame-street, and signed by J. W. Johnstone.

3204. Did you not tell me this minute, or five minutes ago, that 24, Dame-street was your idea?—I think not.

Mr. Justice Keogh directed the shorthand-writer to refer to his notes; and the following question and answer were read:

“Who told you to give the false address, 24, Dame-street?—An idea of my own.”

Witness.] I explain that in this way; I quite forgot at the time having seen those letters brought by out-voters with that address.

3205. Mr. Heron.] Who brought you the letter directed by out-voters to Wilson Johnstone, 24, Dame-street?—The out-voters themselves. They brought me the letter and asked me was it mine.

3206. Where did they bring you these letters?—They brought them to a room where I was.

3207. In 47, Dame-street?—Yes.

3208. Did you direct them then to go to 24, Dame-street, on your oath?—I saw at once that they were wrong, and told them that the address was 24, Dame-street.

3209. What do you mean by that?—I told them that they had come to the wrong place; that this was 47 and 48, and that 24 was the place it was directed to, and where they should go.

3210. Where they should go for what?—To get an answer to the letter.

3211. That is money?—No, in many cases it was not; and I don't remember that in any case it was to get money.

3212. Then a week before the polling-day whenever an elector came to you, an out-voter, with a letter directed to “J. W. Johnstone,” did you always refer him to 24, Dame-street?—If “24, Dame-street,” was upon the letter.

3213. You always referred them to 24, Dame-street?—I always referred them to 24, Dame-street.

W.
Johnstone,
Esq.
—
26 January
1869.

3214. Who do you believe was there to answer the letter?—J. Wilson Johnstone, whoever he was.

3215. Are you serious?—Certainly I am serious.

3216. Did you not know that there was no such person?—I could not tell; there might be a person there of that name, whether assumed or otherwise.

3217. Did you not tell me that you believed there was no such person?—I do not think I did.

Mr. Justice Keogh directed the shorthand-writer to refer to his notes; and the following questions and answers were read:

“On your oath, did you believe that John Wilson Johnstone was a real person?—No, I did not.”

“You did not believe him to be a real person?—I did not.”

3218. Mr. Justice Keogh.] I regret that I have to call your attention to your evidence. You are a professional man and you know the position in which you are placed, and I certainly shall not give you any further caution. You had better now proceed to answer the questions of the learned counsel, or it may be my duty to take some other course?—With respect to that Johnstone, I really did not know whether Johnstone was an imaginary or a real person.

3219. You were asked that precise question, and you said that you believed him to be an imaginary person?—That is what I said.

3220. You are asked another question now, why you referred certain parties to a person who you knew was non-existent. You said you did not know but that there might be a person there of that name?—Answering to the name.

3221. Mr. Heron.] Who told you to refer the out-voters to 24, Dame-street?—No one.

3222. Did you invent that?—No.

3223. Why did you do it?—Because, as I told you before, the letter was handed to me, and I saw 24, Dame-street, upon it and signed, “J. W. Johnstone.” The party had come to me considering that I was the writer of it, and I referred it over then to No. 24.

3224. Did you believe that the letter would be answered at No. 24?—I assumed that it would be; it emanated from whoever J. W. Johnstone was.

3225. Who lives at 24, Dame-street, to your knowledge, among your friends working for the cause?—The house is occupied I know by a solicitor, Mr. Parkinson.

3226. That is Mr. Henry Thomas Parkinson, of 24, Dame-street?—And the Conservative registration rooms for the county.

3227. How many persons live in 24, Dame-street, or have registered offices there?—I cannot tell you.

3228. Do you mean to say that you gave them a roving commission over 24, Dame-street, to find out; on your oath did you not tell them the very room?—No.

3229. Not the identical room?—No.

3230. What room?—I did not tell them any room; I did not know.

3231. Nor suspect?—Nor suspect.

3232. You did not suspect Mr. Parkinson?—I did not.

3233. Nor Mr. Ormsby?—Mr. Ormsby I never heard of.

3234. Mr. Thomas Ormsby, to prevent mistakes?—I never heard of him before.

3235. Do you mean to say you never heard of him before this day?—Never till you mentioned the name.

3236. Who were attending at the Conservative registration rooms?—I cannot tell.

3237. Were you ever there?—I was.

3238. Were you there on the 17th?—No.

3239. On the 16th?—No.

3240. On the 18th?—No.

3241. Were not you there for a week before the election?—No.

3242. Can you tell now the names of any out-voters who asked you for money?—I cannot tell the name of one. I have not a recollection of a single one.

3243. Will you swear that none did?—I will, that none asked me.

3234.* Asked you what?—Asked me for money, either by letter or otherwise, that I got.

3235.* Did you get any money yourself?—No.

3236.* I do not mean for yourself?—Nor for any one else, nor for anything else.

3237.* And you were not paid at all?—No.

3238.* Did you ever telegraph in a false name before?—Never, that I recollect; I never did to the best of my recollection.

3239.* Is that all you will say; do you not think that telegraphing in a false name is a thing likely to impress itself on the memory; will you ever forget this?—Well, I may say that I never did.

3240.* What do you mean by “may say”?—With safety that I—

3241.* That is to say that you could not be convicted?—No, I do not apprehend that; I mean without fear of contradiction, or without apprehension of stating what is not the fact.

3242.* When you say “without fear of contradiction,” do you mean that there is nobody to contradict you?—I mean that I have not done so; I do not recollect ever having done so.

3243.* Can you form no opinion as to the handwriting of the other telegrams?—No.

3244. You say that Mortimer and Fraser were in the office with you?—They were.

3245. Did Mr. Mortimer know about J. W. Johnstone, of 24, Dame-street?—I cannot tell.

3246. Did you ever speak to him upon the subject, on your oath?—On my oath, I do not recollect.

3247. Used Mortimer and Fraser to be always in the room with you?—They used.

3248. And the voters would come in, asking where to go to?—Yes.

3249. And they were present when the voters asked?—They were.

3250. And they were present when you told them to go to 24, to J. Wilson Johnstone?—Any communication I had with any of the out-voters was always in their presence, to the best of my recollection.

3251. Now, will you swear that Mortimer did not know about 24?—I cannot.

3252. Did he not hear you telling the voters to go there?—He might, or he might not.

3253. But did not Fraser hear you?—He might, or he might not.

3254. Where is Bond?—I cannot tell.

3255. Is he in Dublin?—He went down to the funeral of his brother.

3256. When?—On Saturday.

3257. To

3257. To the county Longford?—Yes; I cannot tell where he is.

3258. You say it was about a fortnight after the petition was filed, that you told Bond?—As well as I can recollect, I think so.

3259. On your oath, did you tell Bond to take away the box?—No.

3260. Did you tell him to leave it there?—No; I told him there was a box there, that I wished taken away, or something to that effect.

3261. Did you convey to him that it was about the city election?—No.

3262. And you believe that he did not know it?—I am certain he did not.

3263. Do you believe that Bond has that box forthcoming?—I cannot tell.

3264. Have you ever spoken to him on the subject since?—Never.

3265. Is he Thomas Wensley Bond?—Yes.

3266. Who suggested to you to get rid of that box?—No one.

3267. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Did you see Campbell over these telegrams?—I think I did.

3268. Would you just look at that, and tell me if it was your handwriting, (the telegram being handed to the Witness)?—That is mine.

3269. Then that is another that you did not mention, that was in this bundle?—It is.

3270. I wish you to go over these documents again; you will have an opportunity when you retire from the box, of examining each of them individually, as to whether they are in your handwriting.

3271. Mr. Heron.] Will you read that document (handing a paper to the Witness, who read it); you have read it now?—I have.

3272. That is to Mr. Edward Jeffcock, 170, Queen's-road, Bayswater, London. "Come over at once; we require voters on Wednesday, having not a vote to spare. Letter by post; signature of sender, J. W. Johnstone." Did you send a letter?—I cannot recollect whether I sent a letter, or whether there was one to be sent.

3273. If you sent a letter, did you not sign it "J. W. Johnstone"?—I do not remember that I sent a letter; my own impression is, that I did not.

3274. Who was it that sent the letter?—J. W. Johnstone, I suppose.

3275. Did you tell any one that you had sent the telegram?—No.

3276. If you told no one that you sent the telegram, how was J. W. Johnstone to send him a letter?—There was a list written of the parties who got telegrams, and I believe Mr. Johnstone got them, but how he got them I do not know.

3277. There was a list written of the parties to whom you sent telegrams?—Who got telegrams.

3278. Was that list kept in 47, Dame-street?—I think so.

3279. In whose hand writing was it?—It was in mine.

3280. By whose direction was that list kept, of persons to whom the telegrams were sent?—I think it was Mr. White.

3281. Mr. Thomas Fell White?—Yes.

3282. Had Mr. White permission to come into that room, and see that list?—I believe he had permission to go to any part of the house.

3283. Had he permission to come into that room and see your list; did he come into your room?—He did.

3284. And look at the list?—I don't think he did look at the list.

3285. Who was to see the list but yourself?—I cannot tell who was to see it, but it vanished from the box somehow.

3286. That is to say, the box kept in 47, Dame-street?—Yes.

3287. It vanished from the box at times, but came back again to the box?—No, I think not.

3288. Did you not say sometimes?—At night, I suppose, it was taken out of the box, but I missed them in the morning when I went there.

3289. You used to miss it in the morning?—Yes, sometimes.

3290. It came back mysteriously in the middle of the day?—No, I did not see some of the lists again; I did not see some of the lists at all.

3291. Then there were different lists?—There was a list from day to day.

3292. In your hand writing?—Most of them in my hand writing.

3293. This is a telegram to Mr. Headley, Clonsche, Enniscorthy, "letter sent," look at your telegram, (handing a telegram to the witness); was that true?—I cannot tell whether it was true or not.

3294. In the course of business should there have been a letter sent, when you put that in your hand writing?—There were circulars sent to every man of those electors; I am not sure whether the "letter sent," might not have referred to J. W. Johnstone.

3295. Do you mean the letters signed by the conducting agents?—They were sent.

3296. Do you mean to say, that the telegram in the false name, has reference to the circulars sent by Mr. Sutton?—No.

3297. Then it is some other circular, is it not?—Some other.

3298. What is it?—I cannot tell.

3299. In whose name was it to be sent?—I apprehend in "J. W. Johnstone's."

3300. Why do you apprehend that?—Because I did not send it.

3301. Who was it that let them know that you had sent the telegram?—"J. W. Johnstone," I suppose.

3302. Mr. Justice Keogh.] But who was that "J. W. Johnstone"?—I cannot tell.

3303. But just look at your telegram; you sent a telegram in the name of "J. W. Johnstone," and that telegram says: "a letter sent," and now you are asked who sent that letter; do you mean to say, on your oath, that you do not know what that paragraph in your own telegram meant?—I apprehend that the reason—

3304. I am not asking you what you apprehend, but I ask you, upon your oath, what did you mean?—That letter should be sent by "J. W. Johnstone."

3305. Who was that "J. W. Johnstone"?—I cannot tell who "J. W. Johnstone" was.

3306. Although you telegraphed that a letter was to be sent by him?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

3307. Do you know the hand writing of Mr. Mortimer (handing a paper to the Witness)?—I cannot swear to it.

3308. I am not asking you to swear; do you know

W.
Johnstone,
Esq.

know it as to a belief?—As well as I can recollect, from having seen Mr. Mortimer write, I should think it was his hand writing.

3309. Do you remember having received, or having heard any directions given to Mr. Mortimer, to transmit circulars professing to be signed by Mr. Sutton and Mr. Julian?—There were a number of printed circulars.

3310. You remember, when it was ascertained that it was not legal to pay travelling expenses, that directions were given that those circulars should be transmitted to the out-voters?—You mean this in my hand?

3311. I do; allow me to open it for you. Look at, and read that circular (handing a paper to the Witness)?—Yes, that circular was sent.

3312. Do you remember having heard orders given by Mr. Williamson, in relation to the transmission of those circulars?—I do.

3313. Did you hear him give those directions to Mr. Mortimer?—I think the directions were given to myself; but either to Mr. Mortimer or to myself.

3314. Were you both present on that occasion?—We were.

3315. “We beg to say, that it is a subject of great regret to Sir Arthur E. Guinness, and the Hon. N. Plunket, that by an enactment of the last Session, of which an extract is herewith sent to you, they are prevented paying the necessary expenses of conveying their supporters to the poll.” Do you remember that?—I do.

3316. Do you know whether those circulars were transmitted to the several out-voters?—They were.

3317. Just remember, if you please, the questions which the learned Judge put to you, and also those which my learned friend put to you. At the time that you first were applied to by any of the out-voters, did you then know anything about the existence of J. W. Johnstone, of 24, Dame-street?—I did not, until I got the letters signed “J. W. Johnstone, 24, Dame-street.”

3318. Was it from the voters that you received them, or who was it, that showed you these letters signed “J. W. Johnstone”?—It was the voters, and I apprehend the reason they came to the office where I was, was my name being Johnstone, that they mistook it; as soon as I saw these letters, I then referred to 24, Dame-street, from which the letters were addressed.

3319. And at that time, when you told them to go to 24, Dame-street, had you any knowledge whatever of, whether he was an existing person or not?—I could not tell.

3320. When first did you believe, that he was a non-existing person?—I do not understand the question.

3321. I will not repeat a word, so I must ask you. Did you at first, when the voters produced to you these letters, know whether he was an existing person or an imaginary person?—I believed there was a person who wrote those letters, and was communicating under the name of “J. W. Johnstone,” or that it was an actual name.

3322. When first did you form the belief, that there was no such person as J. W. Johnstone; at about what time?—(The Witness hesitated.)

3323. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Be so good as to answer the question?—I am trying to fix my memory as to the time when I formed that opinion; I do not exactly understand the question.

3324. Mr. McDonogh.] I will try to make you understand it. In order to endeavour to explain what you have been saying, when the voters first came into your office, you having the name of Johnstone, did you not think that there might be a person of the name living at 24, Dame-street, where the address was?—I thought there was a person there of that name.

3325. At that time?—At that time.

3326. Was it not the state of your mind, and did you not begin to believe, that there was no such person?—I began to think that it was a person with an assumed name.

3327. When did you begin to form that idea, that it was a person with an assumed name. I do not mean to fix you to a day, but what time intervened after the first communication with the voter?—I should think it would be about a week, as near as I can recollect.

3328. Now, may I ask you, how came you to take that box out of Dame-street?—It was left behind me in Dame-street.

3329. Did you then take it of your own authority?—No, it was brought to my office the day after I left.

3330. Do you know by whom?—I do not.

3331. Mr. Justice Keogh.] I wish to ask you a question, and, if possible, give me a frank answer; all those three telegrams are in your handwriting?—They are.

3332. You overlooked one of those when you first looked over them?—It might have been stuck to the others.

3333. Possibly that may have been so; you signed this telegram, “Johnstone, Dublin;” you had previously written, “J. W. Johnstone, Dublin,” and you erased the initials, “J. W.”? I do not think I did.

3334. So it appears; that is the telegram to Mr. Jefferock, Bayswater, London. You say “Letter,” by post; come over at once; record your vote; Wednesday morning; not a vote to spare; letter by post.” When you wrote those words, “Letter by post,” what did you mean to convey?—I expected that a letter would have been sent by J. W. Johnstone.

3335. By another person?—By another person.

3336. I ask you for the last time on that matter; can you tell me, believing that a letter would be sent by J. W. Johnstone, who was the person (no matter what his name was), whom you expected to write that letter?—Whoever the person was in 24 Dame-street.

3337. Whom did you believe him to be?—I could not tell.

3338. How was he to know that you sent that telegram?—By the list which was made out.

3339. By whom?—By myself.

3340. And given to whom?—Left in the box at Dame-street.

3341. And taken by whom?—I cannot tell.

3342. To whom?—I cannot tell, unless it would be to J. W. Johnstone.

3343. Unless it would be to an unknown person; the next telegram, signed “J. W. Johnstone,” is also in your handwriting, addressed to Mr. Danagher, 31 Balam-street, Plaistow: “By all means come without fail, in time to vote. Bring James with you.” (Perhaps this would bring the matter to your recollection). “Letter sent.” Can you give me any explanation as to what that letter was, who sent it, by whom it was to be sent, and likewise what it was to contain?

contain?—Likewise by Mr. J. W. Johnstone. Any letters alluded to in those telegrams were to be sent by J. W. Johnstone.

3344. Was he to send the letter without your knowing anything on the subject?—There was a list which I mentioned.

3345. Did the list contain a direction to send a letter?—No, “a telegram sent to the following individuals,” or something of that kind.

3346. The third telegram, signed by J. W. Johnstone, unlike the other two, is dated 24 Dame-street, and you appear to have erased the “24 Dame-street,” why did you erase the “24 Dame-street”?—I do not think the erasure is my doing at all.

3347. It appears to have been erased by you, and that is addressed to Mr. Heatley, Clourouche, Enniscorthy. “Come up and record your vote to-morrow without fail. Every vote required to ensure success, a letter sent.” You make the same answer as regards that?—I do.

3348. Then follow these words, “Mr. Stanford approves.” Tell me what the meaning of that is?—I will. I recollect that that gentleman was engaged upon the survey of an intended line in Wexford.

3349. Who was?—This gentleman, to which that was addressed?—He was engaged under Mr. Stanford, who was the engineer of it; Mr. Stanford had been communicated with, and had given liberty to him to come.

3350. That is a very fair explanation; but can you give me no further explanation as to the “letter sent,” except that it was to be sent by somebody from this list?—I cannot.

3351. Will you go over the whole of these telegrams, and, in the course of the day, inform me whether there are any others of them that are in your handwriting; just look very carefully at them?—I will.

3352. Be good enough also to tell me whether you can form a belief, after inspecting them more carefully than you could have done in a hurried way in the chair, as to whether there is any paper in the whole of them with regard to which you can form a belief as to the handwriting; and I commend you to look at them very carefully.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. RUDOLPHUS MORTIMER sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

3353. WHERE do you live?—At Charleville-mall, North-strand.

3354. What is your business?—Not any.

3355. Have you no way of living?—I have.

3356. What is it?—A little independence.

3357. Are you a voter?—I am.

3358. I suppose you voted for Guinness and Plunket?—I did.

3359. Were you employed about this election last November, in the city of Dublin election?—I was; I volunteered my services on the 4th of October.

3360. Did you continue to act for the candidates Messrs. Guinness and Plunket, up to the day of the election?—I did.

3361. And until after the election?—No, not after.

3362. Up to the 18th of November, the following day?—On the 17th of November, I closed my services with them.

3363. What were your duties in connection with the election?—One of my duties was to receive recommendations made by applicants for offices, and to enrol them in a book.

3364. Have you got that book?—I have not.

3365. Had you anything to say to the out-voters?—Yes.

3366. What was your duty with regard to the out-voters?—To send them letters, requesting them to come as soon as it had been declared what the day of election should be.

3367. Did you receive this, or a similar list of out-voters, from Mr. Sutton?—Oh yes, I had it.

3368. Have you your own list?—I have.

3369. Will you produce it, and show it to me?—I will; it was exactly similar.

3370. But you have a list with your own observations?—Yes, I gave it to Mr. Williamson; not with observations, but alterations in residence; there it is (producing a paper).

3371. Are all these observations that I see on this list, in your handwriting?—No.

3372. Whose handwriting is that, “Those ticked, have replied before the 27th of October”?—I do not know.

29.

3373. Do you mean to tell his Lordship you do not know whose handwriting that is?—No; it was on it when I got it.

3374. When did you first get this list?—I should think about the 8th of November.

3375. You got this list, and this observation was on it then?—Yes.

3376. “Those ticked have replied before the 27th of October”?—I knew nothing of that.

3377. From whom did you get that list?—Mr. Fraser brought it to me.

3378. Do you know where Mr. Fraser is now?—I cannot tell.

3379. Was Fraser working in the same room with you, in 47 or 48, Dame-street?—He was; he was my clerk there.

3380. And Mr. Johnston, the last witness, was also in that room I understand?—He came about a fortnight before the election to assist, as there was a great deal to do.

3381. You were then the principal man in that particular room?—I had been.

3382. With Fraser and your clerk?—Yes.

3383. You got this list about the 8th of November?—Yes, I should think so.

3384. Do you know from whom Fraser received it?—I do not.

3385. Did he not tell you?—No, he did not.

3386. What did he say to you when he handed you that list?—I asked him, had he a list of the out-voters, for I knew I was to send letters, directing them to come as soon as we could ascertain the day of the election.

3387. And he handed you this?—He did.

3388. “Envelopes each, enclosing a yellow and a blue circular were sent to the addresses of the gentlemen on the 13th and 14th of November 1868”?—Yes; that is my handwriting.

3389. Are those the yellow and blue circulars, (producing papers)?—Yes.

3390. Did you keep from day to day, an account

Mortimer.

Mr.

count of the gentlemen to whom you had written?
—They were all done in the one day.

3391. Had you any list of those parties?—
That document that I have given you.

3392. Did you tick it off, or mark it any way?
—I got in four clerks, and I cut those up in sheets, and I gave them a sufficient number of stamped envelopes to direct, and then the stamped envelopes were handed to me; before me were placed a pile of the blue, folded in that shape (describing the same), and a pile of yellow, folded in that shape, and I took one each, and the gentleman that was here last by my side did the same, and we put them into stamped envelopes previously directed; the only one of the envelopes that I directed was that one, and that is my handwriting.

3393. What became of those slips or lists; where they put in that tin box that Mr. Johnstone told us about?—Which slips?

3394. You say you cut up one of those books into slips?—Sure, that is the identical book that I cut up.

3395. And then you sewed it together again?
—Yes, that is the identical one, and I know it from that circumstance.

3396. Did you send any telegram?—I did.

3397. When did you send telegrams first; you know you state in the memorandum that you sent these letters on the 13th and 14th of November?
—I think about that.

3398. Was it not after that, that you sent telegrams?—No, I sent those letters.

3399. When did you send the telegrams?—I think on the 15th and 16th.

3400. Of November?—Yes.

3401. You sent telegrams, as I collect, to the outvoters in the country, or to some of them?—I did.

3402. Who paid for the telegrams?—Mr. Johnstone who was here gave me the money for some of them, and I advanced some money, which he repaid me.

3403. Did Mr. Johnstone repay you what you advanced yourself?—He did, the same day.

3404. And he paid for others at times; in whose names were those telegrams sent?—I sent them first in the name of the Conservative—

3405. Answer the question; in whose name were they sent?—Any that the name was given in I gave to Messrs. Sutton and Julian.

3406. And if in any the name was not given, what did you do?—I said: "The Conservative Agents, 48, Dame-street."

3407. Was that the way you sent them?—Yes.

3408. Did you send any in the name of J. Wilson Johnstone?—Not one.

3409. Did you ever hear of J. Wilson Johnstone?—Not until I received this subpoena.

3410. Do you mean to say that you never heard of J. Wilson Johnstone?—I never did.

3411. Do you know Mr. Henry Foster?—No.

3412. Of Mountjoy-street?—No.

3413. Was he in and out at all there?—No; I never saw him there.

3414. You do not know his appearance?—No.

3415. You know Fraser very well?—I do.

3416. And you do not know where Fraser is now?—No.

3417. Where did you see Fraser last—About a week after the election, and not since 3418. Did Fraser ever mention to you the name of J. W. or J. Wilson Johnstone?—No, he never did.

3419. Did Mr. Johnstone, the attorney, ever mention his name?—He never did.

3420. How many telegrams did you send altogether, yourself?—I think I sent them three times; about 14 or 15.

3421. About 14 or 15 altogether?—Yes.

3422. How many did you send in the name of the conducting agents?—I cannot tell.

3423. Did you send half of them?—I think I did; more than half of them.

3424. Did you go yourself to the office in Dame-street?—To be sure I did.

3425. Did you know the clerk to whom you gave the message?—I do not know his name; I would know him, I think, if I saw him?—I wrote the telegrams that I sent in the telegraph office, with the exception of the last batch.

3426. Did Mr. Johnstone ever mention to you that he had sent telegrams himself; I mean Mr. Johnstone, the attorney, of Palace-street?—He never mentioned it, but I knew he had been sending them.

3427. About the 16th and 17th of November?—Yes.

3428. Did you know in whose name he had sent them?—I did not.

3429. Did he tell you that he had sent telegrams in his own name?—No, he never mentioned anything of the kind, but I know he did; I carried some of his telegrams to the office.

3430. Would you know those telegrams again if you saw them?—Well, I do not know that I would; I do not think I would, because I could not distinguish them.

3431. But they were in Mr. Johnstone's handwriting?—They were in Mr. Johnstone's handwriting.

3432. How many did you carry altogether, do you recollect, in his handwriting?—I suppose I carried eight in his handwriting, in two batches.

3433. That was between the 14th and 17th of November?—I do not think there were any so late as the 17th.

3434. Well, the 16th?—Yes.

3435. You carried two batches of them?—I did.

3436. How many were there in each batch?—I think, four or five.

3437. Were the two batches on the same day, or on different days?—Both on the same day.

3438. I suppose you had one of those block books, or whatever you call them, of the telegraph office in Dame-street?—At the latter part there was, but at first there was not.

3439. And you filled them up in the office in Dame-street?—Yes.

3440. You filled them up to save time; had you the curiosity to look into any of those telegrams which you brought from Mr. Johnstone, the attorney?—No, I did not.

3441. Did you see that the address was given, 24, Dame-street?—No.

3442. You did not observe that at all?—No.

3443. Do you mean to tell his Lordship that you never looked at them?—I did when I was handing them in, and paying for them.

3444. What were they about?—To direct persons to be here on the morning of the 17th or 18th.

3445. Did you post any letters to outvoters at the same time, or on the same days?—No, I sent sent them all along before the printed circulars; I never wrote a letter.

3446. You never sent any but the printed circulars?—Never.

3447. Were you paid for your services at the election?—No.

3448. You were altogether a volunteer?—Yes; I never received a penny.

3449. Where is this independent property of your's?—

Mr. Justice Keogh said he would not allow this question to be put.

3450. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Can you tell the handwriting of any of them?—I have no reason to doubt that they were Mr. Johnstone's handwriting, but I really cannot tell whether they were or not, because it is not the man's natural handwriting.

3451. Mr. Justice Keogh.] But you have no reason to doubt that they are in Mr. Johnstone's handwriting?—No.

3452. Look them all over quietly?—It is utterly impossible for me to tell; I have no reason to doubt that they are Mr. Johnstone's, but there is not one of them that I can identify as his handwriting.

3453. Mr. Hemphill.] You said that you did not know Mr. Foster?—No.

3454. Did you know Mr. Fraser's handwriting?—Well, I cannot say that I did; I can form some idea about it.

3455. Do you believe, or can you form an opinion as to whether any of them are in Fraser's handwriting? (The telegrams were handed to the Witness.)

3456. You know Fraser's handwriting you know?—I cannot form an opinion of which of them is in Fraser's handwriting, but I know that Fraser wrote some telegrams in the very same office in the next box to me, and came into the office after I had been there.

3457. The same day?—The same day and the same hour.

3458. In whose handwriting was that book kept (handing a book to the Witness)?—After the first few names that were written before my time, and which were written by another person, the remainder of each page is in my handwriting.

3459. I am informed that there are some red and black marks opposite different names there?—There are.

3460. Can you tell me who put the red marks and who put the black marks, or were they put by the same person?—The red marks, generally speaking, were put by me.

3461. And the black?—The black, I do not know by whom.

3462. What do the red marks indicate?—That the person had sent an answer to it. In fact this was the register of the answers that I got, and which remained in my custody in a box which afterwards most mysteriously disappeared.

3463. Is that the tin box that Mr. Johnstone spoke of?—No, another tin box that I had containing the letters which were received from the parties. These are the enrolment (if I might so call it), alphabetically, of the letters that I received from the parties to whom the original letters were sent, to request them to come and give their support to Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket; and those letters, after they had been opened by Mr. Sutton, were handed over to me. I attended him every morning at 10 o'clock, or a little after, and he handed them over to me, and I brought them down and entered them alphabetically, and endorsed them, and tied them up and put them into a tin box of which I had the key, and the key exclusively.

3464. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You said something about the box?—Yes, that box has disappeared.

3465. Have you the key of it still?—I have.

3466. Mr. Hemphill.] When did you see the box last?—I saw the box last on the Monday after the election.

3467. Where did you see it?—In the room that I occupied.

3468. In Dame-street?—In Dame-street.

3469. But you have not seen it since then?—No, on the evening but one before the election. There is the key of it (producing a key), and that key was broken in the lock; and when I found that the key was broken I went and bought another lock, and there is the key of that (producing another key). That has been in my possession from that day until the present moment, but the box is gone.

3470. And you do not know where that box is now?—I have not the shadow of any idea, but in trying to arrange another box of papers this book was in that box; I will swear it. In trying to arrange another box of papers I found this book in another box, but the 650 letters that this relates to were never forthcoming; nor the 450 letters of application which were likewise in it, nor the book of applications.

3471. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you swear that that book was locked up in the box of which you had the key?—Most positively.

3472. Mr. Hemphill.] And in what box did you find that book afterwards?—In another box that contained a parcel of blank books.

3473. Where was this box containing the blank books when you found it?—In Mr. Sutton's, 69, Abbey-street.

3474. Then you found that with a parcel of blank books in a tin box at 69, Abbey-street?—I did about eight or nine days ago. On Saturday night I looked over this to ascertain how many persons had made application for expenses, and I think there were very little exceeding 20; and the great majority of those when I received these letters I marked A., stating that they had asked for their expenses, as a mark to myself. I knew that in the first place it could not be done because it was illegal; at last it was posted up in the office over the chimney-piece, and I could not avoid reading it, and besides that of those blue letters that I speak of, I had a thousand in my possession earlier than Mr. Williamson commenced; they were given to me by Mr. White.

3475. When was the last entry made in that book in your handwriting?—I cannot tell you exactly when the last entry was made in this book in the letter A., but the letter was the letter which I have produced directed to "Francis Allan, Esquire, Belfast, care of Mr. R. Stevens, Berkeley-street, Dublin."

3476. That was the dead letter?—Yes, that was the dead letter.

3477. At about what date was it that you made your last entry in this book; was it the 17th of November; you say that your business was done on the 17th of November?—It was.

3478. Was there an entry as late as the 17th of November in that book?—I do not remember that there was.

K 3

3479. Was

Mr.
R. Mortimer.
—
26 January
1869.

Mr. 3479. Was there as late as the 16th?—I think there was.
R. Mortimer. 3480. Can you say when those applications for expenses came?—They came in the letters.
 26 January 1869. 3481. But the dates?—I cannot. They came at various dates.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

3482. I see you say "Those ticked have replied before the 27th. Envelopes, each enclosing a yellow and blue circular, were sent to the address of the within gentlemen, on the 13th and 14th of November"?—Yes.

3483. That was the circular telling that they could not be paid their expenses?—Exactly.

3484. Mr. Justice Keogh.] This book was produced by Mr. Williamson?—It was.

3485. You first saw this book some 10 days ago in Mr. Sutton's office in Abbey-street?—Yes.

3486. And you also tell us that you swear positively that the book was locked up in a box, of which you held the key, and which has most mysteriously disappeared?—That is the truth.

Mr. Justice Keogh thought that it was incumbent upon somebody to produce the box.

3487. Mr. Butt (to the Witness).] If I understand you rightly about these telegrams, except from seeing the signature of Johnstone, you can form no opinion whatever as to whose handwriting they are in?—No, I cannot.

[The Witness withdrew.]

EDWARD LOVE ALMA, ESQ., sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

E. L. Alma, 3488. Do you know who J. Wilson Johnstone is?—I do not.
Esq.

3489. Do you know anything about these telegrams?—Some telegrams were sent by a gentleman of the name of Crossthwaite to certain out-voters. Their names I do not know. He was a stranger to me, and I have never seen him but once since the election, and that was about three weeks since, in the Bank of Ireland, by chance.

3490. Who is the Mr. Crossthwaite you mention?—I never saw the gentleman until a few days before the election, nor do I know where he resides.

3491. Was it in the Conservative committee-rooms at 47, Dame-street, that you met him?—It was not.

3492. Where was it?—I never was in the Conservative committee-rooms but once, and that was in the middle of October. It might be right to state what brought me there then, with the view of saving time to his Lordship and the Court. It was to tell Mr. Sutton of two gentlemen who it might have been supposed would have been doubtful as to the votes that they would give, that if they were asked to vote by Sir Arthur Guinness, they would vote for him. I went there, and I saw Mr. Sutton. I told him the fact; he looked at their names, and I was not five minutes in the room then, nor before, nor since.

3493. Mr. Crossthwaite, you say, you met some short time before the election?—I met him in 24, Dame-street.

3494. You met him there in the registration-rooms for the county of Dublin?—No.

3495. Where?—In a room above the county registration-rooms.

3496. What led you to go there?—I think that either Mr. Parkinson or Mr. William Johnstone told me that there was duty going on there in reference to Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket, and that I could be of service. I said "very well," as I very freely and willingly would give any service to those gentlemen.

3497. Where was it that Mr. William Johnstone told you that?—I think I met him in Dame-street, that is my recollection.

3498. Did he tell you what the duty was?—He and I had some talk about the correspondence, and he said that he was going to 47, Dame-street, and that I could do service in 24, Dame-street.

3499. When you went into 24, Dame-street, was there a room set apart for you there?—There was a room set apart for Mr. Crossthwaite.

3500. Do you know his christian name?—His christian name, as I understood it, was "Davenport."

3501. Did he live in Dublin, or was he a total stranger?—I think he was a total stranger.

3502. Was he the head controlling person in that room in 24, Dame-street?—He was the only person that I saw there then, and I think that two days afterwards there were two young boys or youths with him assisting him as clerks.

3503. Did you know of his telegraphing in the name of "Wilson Johnstone"?—Well, I must say I do.

3504. Will you tell his Lordship all that occurred?—When I went there, I said, "Well, Mr. Crossthwaite, how are you getting on here?" and he said, "I am very glad to see you, for I am not very au fait at these sort of things, and I should be very much obliged to you if you would direct me how to proceed." Then I said, "What are you doing?" "Well," he said, "here is a printed book of names of voters that I have to send letters to;" or something of that kind. I should say it was a copy of this (pointing to a book) and he was preparing from that letters to send to them. I then told him that the proper way, in my opinion, was to make a list of all those persons whom letters went to, and to enter them in alphabetical order for the convenience of reference (he did not seem to know much about business of any kind whatever) and to keep a list of them; and he did so, I believe. I told him also that all letters that came back in reply should be entered in like manner in alphabetical order. He told me he did do so, and I believe he did do so. A great many letters came back in the affirmative, without any stipulation or any condition whatever. There were some came back, I should say perhaps 30 or 40 at the outside (there may be more or less, I cannot undertake to say from memory), calling for expenses. I said that we must be very cautious in anything of that kind, and that in the event of any expenses being paid, they should be measured as much as possible by the railway charges that are taken for tickets, taking 100 miles as the criterion of what the cost would be.

3505. Then, about the name of "J. Wilson Johnstone"?—Well, I said, "Who is Mr. J. Wilson Johnstone?" I think it right to tell you that I found on the table, when I went in, all all the paraphernalia of an office, such as pens, ink, and paper, and 100 or 150, or about 200 lithographed letters with the name of "J. Wilson Johnstone" to them visibly. Those letters were the letters which he had sent out to the different parties.

3506. You asked who "J. Wilson Johnstone" was?—Yes; I said, "Who the deuce is J. Wilson Johnstone?" "Well," he said, "I really do not know;" and he adopted that name all through, and any telegrams or letters that were written from the office were written or sent by this gentleman.

3507. In the name of J. Wilson Johnstone?—Yes.

3508. In addition to that printed or lithographed circular from the office signed "J. Wilson Johnstone," were there envelopes also sent to the elections with the name "J. Wilson Johnstone" printed on them to be sent back again?—I should say not; at least I never saw them.

3509. Did you attend from day to day at that office?—I may say "Yes;" I went there for about an hour or two hours in the day to see what was going on.

3510. Had this man Crossthwaite, or J. Wilson Johnstone, the control of any money?—I cannot say whether he had or not. If he had, he kept it very studiously from me; but of course if he had telegrams to send he must have had money to pay for them.

3511. At all events you were not enlightened on any of the money arrangements?—Not in the slightest degree; I never could ascertain whether there was a fund, or, if there was, where it came from, or whose funds they were.

3512. That discontinued, I presume, on the 18th, and you went there no more?—Well, I think I went after the election.

3513. Did you see that man Crossthwaite writing while you were there?—I cannot say that I did, for this reason; he used generally to go there in the morning about 10 o'clock or so, and I did not go there until one, two, or three o'clock; and he had all letters written, and all entries made, and his lists prepared and written, so that I had no opportunity of seeing him writing, and I never received any letter from him. I could not by any means identify Mr. Crossthwaite's handwriting.

3514. Did you see that book go backwards and forwards between 24, and 47, Dame-street (handing a book to the Witness)?—I never saw this book in my life.

3515. Were you aware of the list passing backwards and forwards between 24, Dame-street and 47, Dame-street opposite?—I do not think that there was any list that I am aware of passing backwards and forwards.

3516. Did you see lists of outvoters in No. 24?—I think there was a list prepared for this.

3517. I mean a manuscript list?—I think there was a manuscript list; it was in dark writing, but there was no heading to it.

3518. Do you know Mr. William Johnstone's handwriting?—I do not.

3519. You never saw him write, or corresponded with him?—Never.

3520. Can you form an opinion as to whose handwriting the list of outvoters, that you saw, was in?—I cannot.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MISS AGNES MORAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton.

3521. WHERE do you reside?—At 32, Dominick-street.

3522. Do you know a person of the name of William Dalton?—I do.

3523. Was William Dalton indebted to you, in December last, for a sum of money?—Yes.

3524. Was he confined in the Marshalsea as a prisoner at the suit of your mother?—Yes.

3525. Do you remember the day before the election any person calling upon you?—No.

3526. Did you get a letter from any person?—On the 18th, I did.

3527. Did you get a letter before that from Dalton?—I think I did, but I do not know what day it was.

3528. Did you go down to the Marshalsea on the 18th November?—I did.

3529. Who went with you?—A friend.

3530. Who was that friend?—Mr. Meade.

3531. When you went to the Marshalsea, did you apply for an interview with Dalton?—Yes.

3532. Did you see him?—I did.

3533. Was anyone else present at the time with Dalton but you and Meade?—Not at that time.

3534. Did you call a second time?—I waited; he told me to wait until the arrival of Mr. Caulfield.

3535. Afterwards, did Mr. Caulfield come down to where you and he and Dalton were?—Yes.

3536. Will you state now, what conversation took place between you and Dalton?—Nothing.

only just he asked me what arrangements I would make; I said what did he intend to do; and then he said he would give me 4*l.*; at first he did not offer me so much.

3537. Did he offer you 4*l.* in discharge of his debt?—Yes.

3538. Was that offer made in the presence of Mr. Caulfield?—Yes.

3539. Did Mr. Caulfield write out in your presence any memorandum or document?—He did.

3540. Did you sign that document?—I did.

3541. Did you read it?—No, I did not.

3542. Did you know what it was?—I did not; I did not read it.

3543. Did you agree to take the 4*l.* in discharge of your debt?—I did.

3544. When were you to take that 4*l.*?—On the 21st.

3545. Where were you when you were paid that?—At 32, Dominick-street.

3546. Who paid it to you?—A man belonging to the prison.

3547. You do not know his name?—No.

3548. Did you give a receipt for it?—Yes.

3549. Did he say by whom he was sent?—Yes; I think he said Mr. Caulfield; I was out at the time, and he had to wait until I came in.

3550. Do you know the name of this man?—No.

3551. Had you ever asked for the 4*l.*, between the 18th and the time you received the money?—I went to him about a fortnight before that, to see if he intended to do anything about it.

Miss
A. Moran.
—
26 January
1869.

3552. What did he say to you?—He said he would try what he could do for me 3553. Whom did he say he would try with?—He did not say so.
3554. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who said this?—Mr. Dalton.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

3555. Was it not to your mother that the debt was due?—Yes.
3556. And your mother died some time ago?—Yes.
3557. How long before the election?—About three months.
3558. That is your receipt for the 4*l.* (producing a paper)?—Yes.

3559. I believe you had received certain monies on account of the debt, which reduced it?—Yes.
3560. Do you remember when you signed this paper: "Sir, I authorise you to discharge William Dalton, on his paying you 4*l.*"?—Yes.
3561. You agreed that he should be discharged?—Yes.
3562. Upon his paying 4*l.*?—Yes.
3563. And is that "Agnes Moran" your signature?—Yes.
3564. Ellen was your mother's name?—Yes.
3565. Although you did not read this, you had agreed that he should be discharged on paying 4*l.*, the amount of the debt?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

WILLIAM FIELD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

W. Field.

3566. YOU are a freeman?—I am.
3567. Are you one of the Guild of Saint Loy?—I am not.
3568. Do you live in Little Strand-street?—I do.
3569. Did you vote for Sir Arthur Guinness and the Honourable David Plunket at the last election?—Yes, I did.
3570. Do you know Mr. Robinson of Swift's-row?—I do know him, perfectly well since the occurrence of the election.
3571. Do you recollect meeting Mr. Robinson by arrangement the evening before the election?—I do.
3572. At the General Post Office in Sackville-street?—Yes, at the hour of eight o'clock.
3573. Was a man of the name of Robert Smith with you upon that evening?—He was.
3574. Is he a freeman?—He is.
3575. Where does he live?—At 52, Great Strand-street.
3576. Was George MacDonnell, a freeman, with you there?—He was there.
3577. And a man of the name of Burgess?—He was.
3578. Was he also a freeman?—He was.
3579. Were there many more freemen there that evening?—There were to the amount of about 18.
3580. Altogether, including yourself?—Altogether.
3581. Will you tell us what Mr. Robinson said to you on that evening?—I will; Mr. Robinson said nothing unto to me, only "Will you rely upon my word?" said he; there was one unanimous voice "Yes," I waited until I heard the reliance, and the reliance was only this "Men, go down and vote at eight o'clock in the morning." I put my two hands in my pocket, and I walked over to the fire, and I stirred it up with the poker, and I sat down and made myself comfortable.
3582. Where was it that you poked the fire?—In the committee-rooms.
3583. Did he say anything to you at the post office?—Nothing whatever.
3584. Did he say anything about relying upon his word at the post office?—Not till he got me into the committee-room.
3585. Did he say anything, either at the post office or at the committee-room, that all would be right the day after the election?—I did not ask Mr. Robinson that question nor did Mr.

Robinson tell me; I did not hear Mr. Robinson say any such thing.
3586. Did you hear anyone say it in Mr. Robinson's presence that evening?—No, I heard the rumour of men through the committee-room of 10 days, but I knew not what it meant.
3587. Was Mr. Robinson present at the time?—I cannot say whether he was or not at that time.
3588. Was anything said about you and the other freemen calling at any time afterwards upon Mr. Robinson?—Not directly to me; I heard a rumour of it.
3589. Did you hear Mr. Robinson tell any of you to call at any time at his place in Swift's-row?—I did not hear him tell it; I did not hear Mr. Robinson tell it.
3590. Who did you hear tell it?—A rumour.
3591. What do you mean by a "rumour"?—Why the freemen about the committee-room.
3592. Did you hear any of the gentlemen in the committee talk about it?—I did not.
3593. Did you afterwards call on Mr. Robinson?—I did.
3594. When was that?—I was passing by one day.
3595. How soon after the election?—A few days.
3596. Was it about 10 days?—Not so long.
3597. Was it eight days?—About five days to the best of my opinion; I think it was about that.
3598. Did you call upon him at his office in Swift's-row?—I did, and went in to see him.
3599. Had you any talk with him?—When I went in I said unto him, "Now, sir, I have not called in to you to ask you any questions." By this time (I am coming to it now) the petition was entered against Sir Arthur, and the conversation we entered into was about the petition.
3600. Well?—That was all.
3601. But you know the petition was not entered in five days after the election?—Oh, but I gave it you on my opinion.
3602. You must answer me?—I will; I will answer you correctly.
3603. Did you not tell me two minutes ago, that about five days after the election you called in at Swift's-row with Robinson?—I did.
3604. Did you do so about five days after the election?—I see that I was wrong in my statement there, but now I am perfectly right.
3605. Now I ask you this; did Mr. Robinson, when when you called in on him, tell you to call again in two or three days?—Wait; let me just think —.

3606. Oh! come?—Well, I cannot say whether he did or not. I cannot answer that question. I did not know. No, I did not hear him say any such thing; or if he said it, I did not comprehend it.

3607. Did he say anything to you?—We were talking about the petition, was not that the case, Mr. Robinson?

3608. Answer my questions; do not mind Mr. Robinson. Did he tell you to call in after two or three days, or after any number of days; a few days?—I did not comprehend his saying that, and I tell you I did not altogether hear him say it. If he said it, it was unknown to me. I did not hear him.

3609. Might he have said it?—I do not know.

3610. What did he say?—We were talking about the petition of Sir Arthur.

3611. What did he say about the petition of Sir Arthur?—We were just simply talking upon it. We thought that it would avail nothing. That was something similar to our conversation.

3612. Did he say anything to the effect, that it would be all right after the petition was over?—He did not say that word to me.

3613. Nor anything like that?—No.

3614. Will you swear that?—I would swear that, but I know how that word came very well.

3615. Very well; tell us how it came?—Well, I consider that this is an unlawful proceeding against me for to make either me or my words convict Sir Arthur by men coming up into my room. He said unto me, “Now, Mr. Field, you are a freeman, and you got no money for your vote,” I understand. Then I said that I had not. “Well,” said he, “come with me, and I will bring you up to a gentleman who will see that you are rightified,” and he brought me up to the “European” hotel, and there was a gentleman there of the name of Mr. Grant, otherwise Carthey —

3616. You were going to say how the words “all right” came to be mentioned?—I want to bring it back now.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] You had better be very cautious, and answer the questions that are put to you, and do not indulge in long speeches of that kind.

3617. Mr. Hemphill.] Was anything said about its being “all right” to you?—It was said in the Committee-room, but not directly, from Mr. Robinson to me.

3618. Subsequently, when you called upon

Mr. Robinson, was there anything said of its being all right?—When I called on him in Swift’s-row?

3619. Yes, when you called on him in Swift’s-row?—I cannot answer that question; I do not think he did.

3620. You will not swear he did not?—I would not swear that he did not, and I would not swear that he did.

3621. Do you know a man of the name of Beckett?—I do.

3622. Do you know of Beckett having got a 5 l. note in a cake shop?—I do not know anything at all about it.

3623. Did you ever hear it?—It was rumoured so.

3624. Do you know Robert Smith?—I do.

3625. Did Robert Smith tell you anything about Beckett?—

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that this question could not be put.

3626. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Did Robert Smith go at any time with you to Mr. Robinson’s office?—He did once.

3627. Had Robert Smith any conversation with Robinson, in your hearing, about Beckett?—I do not know; I did not hear any conversation, but there was a little conversation between Mr. Robinson and him and I, but I did not hear anything about Mr. Beckett mentioned on that day in Mr. Robinson’s presence.

3628. Did Robert Smith say to Robinson anything about Beckett having got a 5 l. note?—I answered that before.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the question was not admissible.

3629. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Had Robinson any conversation at all in your hearing about Beckett?—

Mr. M'Donogh objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh allowed the objection.

3630. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Did Mr. Robinson say anything to you about having Beckett’s name on a list?—

Mr. M'Donogh objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh allowed the objection.

3631. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Was there any list of the freemen mentioned by Mr. Robinson at the time you called?—

Mr. Butt renewed the objection.

Mr. Hemphill argued against the objection.

Mr. Justice Keogh allowed the objection.

[The Witness withdrew.

THOMAS FELL WHITE, ESQ., sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

3632. WERE you working at 47, Dame-street?—I was.

3633. And also in 24, Dame-street?—No; when you say 24, Dame-street, I was working in 24, Dame-street, but not in reference to the city of Dublin Election Petition; I was connected with the county election in 24, Dame-street.

3634. But at all events you were in 24, Dame-street?—I was.

3635. Do you know the little room above-stairs?—I do not.

29.

3636. They did not tell you about it?—Indeed they did not.

3637. And Mr. Alma never spoke to you about it?—Never.

3638. Until recently?—Until after I had been subpoenaed here.

3639. But while the election was going on did they conceal from you the existence of this room?—Certainly; I knew nothing about it, nor of any matters connected with it which have been detailed here.

L

3640. You

W. Field,

26 January
1869.

T. F. White,
Esq.

T. F. White,
Esq.

26 January
1869.

3640. You knew nothing about sending telegrams in false names?—I did not.

3641. Did you yourself assist in the room in 47, Dame-street, in which Mr. William Johnstone was?—No.

3642. Which was your department?—I have been in that room frequently, but Mr. Williamson more especially attended to matters of that kind, and scarcely ever left it; Mr. Sutton and myself, and I without Mr. Sutton, went round through the various wards selecting canvassers, and arranging for their payment.

3643. Then you had the principal share in selecting the canvassers and in arranging their payments?—I should say so.

3644. Do you know Campbell, the man with the red nose, whose name has been mentioned?—I do.

3645. Had you known Campbell before the last election?—I have known him four or five years prior to the year 1865, when I was in the habit of practising before Mr. Shaw at the city of Dublin Revisions.

3646. Was he then engaged as an inspector on the Conservative side?—He was, but not in the court in which I was.

3647. You know he was?—I have no reason to doubt that he was.

3648. Did you assist at the municipal election revisions?—Never at the municipal election revision. The only concern I ever had with the municipal elections was on an appeal.

3649. Did you know Campbell to be connected with them also on the Conservative side as an inspector?—Well, I cannot say of my own knowledge, but I had no reason to doubt it.

3650. Did you see him about the matter?—I never attended at the municipal election, so I cannot tell you.

3651. Did you know him to be connected with the poor law election of guardians?—No.

3652. Did you see him on the polling-day?—I did.

3653. Where?—Once or twice, I think, about Dame street.

3654. Were they freemen in your own department?—Very much in Mr. Williamson's and my department, more than any person else; that is in going through the wards we took especial care to have proper canvassers to canvass the freemen in the different wards, and to bring them up to the poll in Green-street.

3655. Then I may say that you and Mr. Williamson were at the head of that department?—Avowedly so.

3656. In what position did you employ Campbell?—I never employed Campbell directly, but when I went into Dame-street, in, I think the early part of the month of October (I have not the exact date), I found that no street canvassing lists had been made out, and that it was necessary to make out street canvassing lists, the result of which is in that book of the freemen and rated occupiers and lodgers. I applied then to Mr. Goodman on the subject, and as well as I recollect, he mentioned Campbell as a man who was thoroughly acquainted with the freemen, who would check over the street-lists of the freemen, which is a work of very enormous magnitude. Mr. Welsh, I think, as well as I recollect, was employed about the same matter of the rated occupiers, and then I having to leave town, Mr. John Byrne took the supervision of what I had set going.

3657. When did he take that?—Almost contemporaneously with my beginning the work.

3658. When did you leave town?—I was in and out of town. My sessions occur in the month of October, and I was away at my sessions; but whenever I had a spare month, the moment I had spare time, I went to work again as hard as I could.

3659. Had Campbell a sort of office in 47, Dame-street?—No; Campbell was there in the lower part of the house writing out the long freeman's list, and having about 10 or 12 clerks with copies of the different street-lists before them, trying to segregate them into separate street-lists; and it occupied them, I believe, nearly three weeks.

3660. Did you believe Campbell to be thoroughly well acquainted with the freemen?—I believe that he having been an inspector of the freemen, knew them very well.

3661. That is to say, knew them to speak to; knew the cut of a freeman?—Well, I have told you the only reason I had for believing that.

3662. You saw him on the polling day?—I did.

3663. Was he bringing up freemen to the poll, or was he only waiting at Green-street?—I saw him bustling about in Green-street, but not doing anything particular on the one or two occasions that I saw him.

3664. Were there not men employed during the day, to bring up freemen to the poll; that is to say, to go in a car for them and bring them up?—If you said "young men" you would be nearer the mark. There were a number of young men whom Mr. Sutton, Mr. Williamson, and myself appointed the morning before the election, for the purpose of meeting every man when he came up to Green-street, and showing him his booth. The booths were extremely complicated.

3665. Besides those young men, had you others, who were to go to the residences of the voters, and bring them up on cars?—No.

3666. I am not asking a word about car-hire, but had you persons to go to the residences of the voters, and bring them up?—There were canvassers named in different districts of the wards, who were to have seen after a certain number of men in each case.

3667. Campbell was not one of them?—Certainly not.

3668. Was he at Green-street every time you went there that day?—I cannot tell.

3669. Did you see him more than once?—I will swear I did not see him more than twice, and I can only swear positively to the fact of having seen him once.

3670. Were you speaking to him?—Not that I recollect; he may have said something to me; there might have been a passing word, but I cannot recollect.

3671. Your recollection would be, that you did not speak to him?—Certainly.

3672. Do you know a man named George Patrick Nugent?—No.

3673. You do not recollect him at all?—No.

3674. I suppose a number of voters may have spoken to you, and you do not remember their names and appearances?—An immense number of people spoke to me.

3675. Were they not pestering you for employment and for money?—Every person was pestering for employment.

3676. And money?—I do not think any freeman

man actually asked me for money, but various hints were given to me which I indignantly repudiated; they had an old coat to sell, and all that stuff.

3677. Were not you known to be at the head of the freemens' department on the Conservative side?—Yes.

3678. Will you say that 200 or 300 men did not ask you for money directly?—Indeed, I will.

3679. Or indirectly?—I will.

3680. Did you understand, by what the freemen said to you, that the greater number of them wanted to sell their votes to you?—I think there were about 20 or 30 that did apply in person in Dame-street.

3681. For money?—What I understood to be an application for money.

3682. That is, they wanted to be bribed?—They did.

3683. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Where did they apply?—They applied in various parts; there were a great many people on the stairs, and some one or two men would, in the course of the day, say that they wanted to see Mr. White, and called me on one side; I will give you one instance; one man said: "I have an old coat to sell"; and somebody else said something of that kind; and I don't know but the general application was more inferential than direct.

3684. But at what place was this?—At the committee-rooms in 47, Dame-street.

3685. Mr. Heron.] Did you see any of those freemen signing the gratuitous letters?—I did see a good many sign, but not very many.

3686. May I ask was this your idea?—Well, I cannot say exactly that that was my idea; I could not exactly say at this moment whose idea it was.

3687. You are a legal man, was it your idea?—I do not think I could take to myself the credit of it.

3688. I do not mean the credit of carrying it into execution, but the credit of the originality of design, was not that yours?—Well, on my oath I could not tell exactly who originated it.

3689. Were you, at all events, consulted about this gratuitous declaration?—Certainly, it was a matter of conversation, that it was a very desirable thing that it should be done.

3690. How many hundred are there of those?—I cannot tell you; I suppose there are 60 or 70 signed by solicitors employed in the wards, and an immense number signed by poll clerks, check clerks, and others.

3691. Were they all paid?—Not to my knowledge.

3692. But they were signed by solicitors?—Yes.

3693. By all the poll clerks and check clerks?—Yes.

3694. By a great number of canvassers?—Yes.

3695. And all those persons were voters; did a single non-electors sign a single one of those documents?—Certainly not; there may have been, but as a general rule I imagine not.

3696. Were you present when the cabinet-makers undertook to canvass the provost of Trinity College for nothing; do you remember that?—I never heard of it before.

3697. You had enormous trouble in putting them into alphabetical order?—No.

3698. Who directed those gratuitous declarations to be put in alphabetical order?—They were put in alphabetical order yesterday evening for your convenience.

3699. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Can you form any estimate as to the number that were so signed?—I should suppose there were about 300 or 400.

3700. Mr. Heron.] Do you know Mr. Robinson, of Swifts-row?—I know him now, since I have seen him in the Court out and he has been pointed out to me, but I never saw him before.

3701. Then you did not know him to be in any way canvassing the freemen?—No, there may have been a Mr. Robinson among the rest of the canvassers that I did not know of, but I did not identify him with that gentleman; I do not know that gentleman; I think I have seen him before, but if I did I forget his name.

3702. You said you did not remember a man of the name of Nugent, that I asked you about?—That is my answer.

3703. Who is Nugent?—Perhaps you could inform me in what ward he was employed.

3704. George Patrick Nugent, in Arran Quay Ward; did you employ him?—Yes, he was sent by me too; that was intended to be given to Mr. Saunders, (that was the other gentleman in Arran Quay Ward) to employ him to canvass about the 6th of November, and I found afterwards that his name was struck out, he not having acted.

3705. When was it struck out?—That I cannot tell you; but before the day of Election, I should say.

3706. Did he call on you immediately after the Election, on the 25th of November?—I should not know the man if I saw him at the present moment.

3707. Do you know in whose handwriting those two envelopes, directed to Mr. George P. Nugent are (handing two envelopes to the Witness)?—I do not.

3708. Have you any idea?—I have no idea at all.

3709. Did you believe them to be the same, or different?—Well, they are not the same character, so far as I can judge.

3710. You heard a circular mentioned during this trial; you were in court most of the time?—I was.

3711. You know the circular I mean; the mysterious circular?—Yes.

3712. Did you ever see any document like that, before?—No.

3713. Did you ever hear of it?—I never heard of it.

3714. Did any one ever come to you on the subject?—No.

3715. Did Nugent ever speak to you on the subject?—Somebody may have spoken to me on the subject after the election; I think there was some person came into Dame-street, and spoke to me in a somewhat similar way to that detailed by Mr. Meredith.

3716. Did the man speak to you about the circular?—I think some man did speak to me about a circular.

3717. That was soon after the election?—Some three or four days after; it was generally known in 47, Dame-street, that there were people who had gone to No. 3, Dame-street, with those circulars, and that they had found that there was nothing there. It was published in the newspapers, and I saw it in the "Freeman's Journal" the morning after.

T. F. White,
Esq.
26 January
1869.

3718. Were you yourself at all connected with No. 3, Dame-street?—No.

3719. That was the Conservative Registration Society?—It was.

3720. Did you go there at all?—I must premise by telling you that I was connected with the conduct of the County Registration Revision, that is at 24, Dame-street, and in consequence of being requested by Mr. Goodman, I attended the first four days of the revision, when I was not occupied with the county business, and acted professionally before Mr. Purcell.

3721. Have you a list of the young men?—I shall get it for you to-morrow; I think it is in a green book.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt.

3722. Do you know how Nugent voted at the election?—Not now, I do not.

3723. You were asked about this gratuitous declaration, and whether it was your idea or not; when, in point of fact, was that document thought of or prepared?—It was either in the early part of November, or the latter part of October.

3724. Were you present at any consultation about preparing it?—I did not say there was a consultation, but there was a conversation, and it was generally considered desirable.

3725. For what purpose did you think it desirable?—In the first place it was desirable to negative the idea that there was any hiring of any kind for a ward, under the Statute; and in the next place it was desirable that parties should not go all through the city, and then put forward claims afterwards against Sir Arthur Guinness.

3726. So far as you were concerned, was that the only motive you had in preparing that declaration?—That was the only motive, or those were the only motives.

3727. You know what instructions were sent out to secretaries and agents at the ward committee?—Yes.

3728. "You will reply to any person, being a voter, who applies for an appointment, that having regard to the Act of Parliament (a copy of which is posted in your committee-rooms) that such party cannot get employment for payment, without involving the loss of his vote; but if such voter be desirous of working and assisting the candidates, he must do so on the distinct understanding that he gives his services gratuitously, and without any promise of payment for same from the Candidates, or any one on their behalf; and you will not employ any person whatsoever without the authority of the conducting agents:" as far as you know, or as far as your influence could extend, were those instructions carried out?—To the letter, as far as I know.

3729. Do you know of any person who did sign that gratuitous declaration being paid?—I do not.

3730. Who appointed the canvassers?—I appointed the greater portion of the canvassers in the wards.

3731. But was the appointment of the canvassers done by some of the agents?—Yes; in company with Mr. Sutton on one occasion, I went round the wards, and formed a kind of basis for canvassers; they were afterwards added to according to the necessities of the ward and the number of voters to be brought up to poll; some from time to time were added.

3732. As stated here the printed clause of the Act of Parliament was posted in every committee room?—It was.

3733. Before the day of the polling you also issued printed circulars?—Yes, those that are now before you were the first that were sent out.

3734. What agents did you engage on the day of the polling; you had inspectors in the booths of course?—There were inspectors of each district, and the statutable inspectors, at the booths.

3735. In addition to the statutable inspectors at the booths, what do you mean by inspectors of each district?—I mean two gentlemen appointed to each committee, who had charge of working up the matters from the commencement, before I had anything to do with the election.

3736. Had you tally agents?—Yes.

3737. What was their duty?—The tally agents would be the people like those that were at Green-street, that would meet the people and bring them up to vote.

3738. Was it not their duty "to conduct the voter to the proper booth in which he is to be polled, and as soon as the voter has polled the tally agent is to return to the tally rooms and report himself to the inspector for further duty"?—Just so.

3739. Was Campbell, on the day of the election, employed by you in any capacity, whatever, to your knowledge?—Certainly not.

3740. Who appointed those tally agents; whose duty was it to appoint them?—With regard to Green-street there were 40 or 50 appointed by Mr. Williams and by Mr. Sutton, and myself.

3741. Could a tally agent have been appointed at Green-street, according to the practice that you pursued, without your knowledge?—Certainly not. It was my son that made out the list of the agents, and they were mostly young men, students of the college and others.

3742. Had you students at the college who were tally agents?—Yes.

3743. Medical students?—Yes, they were mostly composed of them.

3744. Those were not voters?—Those were not voters.

3745. Those that were not voters did not sign the paper and were paid?—Some of them were paid.

3746. We have heard about 76 Capel-street; did you know at the time of the election anything on earth about 76 Capel-street?—Nothing in the world.

3747. Had you any reason to suspect or believe that anyone was paying money there for votes?—No, certainly not.

3748. Did you know, or had you reason to believe, at the time of the election, so far as your knowledge extended, of any money having been paid on behalf of Sir Arthur Guinness for any purpose of bribery?—None whatever.

3749. Have you any knowledge of those telegrams that you have heard of here being sent in the name of J. W. Johnstone?—No.

3750. I mean at the time of the election. Of course you have heard of them since?—Certainly.

3751. Do you know of any payments of expenses to outvoters?—No.

3752. At the time of the election?—Not at the time of the election.

3753. The business on which Campbell was employed was, as I think you said, in making out the lists?—Yes.

3754. Do

3754. Do you know why Campbell was selected for that?—Because he was the fittest man for the purpose.

3755. Why?—He had more knowledge of the freemen than any other person in the office at the time.

3756. How did he acquire that?—As I have said, he had been inspector of the freemen for some years at the registration.

3757. When were those lists on which he was employed completed?—The perfect register did not come out this year until the 1st of November. We had, in making out these street lists, to rely upon the books that had been used by the different gentlemen practising in the courts, and they were necessarily imperfect; and revised lists had to be made after the register came out, which was about the 5th or 6th, I think, when we first could get perfect copies of the register. It was very hard to get them; and that brought it down to within about the 12th or 13th, or thereabouts; and after that Campbell remained in the same room and received the reports, which he subsequently gave to me, of the results of the canvass of the freemen in the northern district of the county, and in the southern district of the county, which I managed without any committee, there being no committees for that place. He, in point of fact, checked the lists in that place and handed them to me, I not being there on all occasions.

3758. But when were the books completed?—I think about the 20th.

3759. Did he, then, continue doing that other business in the office?—He did up to the day before the election, or a day or two before the election.

3760. Had you ever employed him for anything except that?—No.

3761. To your knowledge, was he employed for any other purpose than what you have stated?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

3762. When my learned friend Mr. Butt asked you about payments to out-voters, did you say, "Not at the time of the election"? Do you mean to say that you never heard of payments to the out-voters?—I never heard of payments to the out-voters since up to within—I do not know whether I am bound to say to what period, but I did hear of it since—I can shortly answer you; I heard within the last three or four days the evidence which Mr. Alma gave here to-day.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM BOOTH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton.

3763. Did any person call upon you upon the morning of the election?—Yes.

3764. Who was that?—A young man that works on the "Express" that I know perfectly well, Mr. Tierney; but I never could see him since, though I have hunted for him.

3765. Do you mean the newspaper?—I mean the newspaper in Parliament-street.

3766. What did he say to you?—I was at work in my shirt sleeves at No. 12, Dame-street, Mr. Kavanagh's, when he came to me and said, "Will you come and vote?" "No, I will not," says I, "unless I am enumerated for my labour." I was stripped at the time. He went away, and he came back again, and all my shopmates said, "Do not go with him;" so I was determined not to go. There is no mistake about it. So he came back again, and then he ran round the back way the whole week after me up to the place where I lived.

3767. Did he bring you anywhere?—Yes; of course he brought me over into 79, Dame-street.

3768. Were you employed there?—Then I saw Mr. Manning, Alderman Manning, and a gentleman, a little man of the name, I think, of Hogan; and I seen a gentleman here to-day, I think that is him there (pointing to a person in court) that polled me, that has the wig on him.

3769. Is it Mr. Byrne?—I think that is the young gentleman who polled me.

3770. Did Alderman Manning say anything to you when you saw him upon that occasion, or did you say anything to him?—Yes; I told him I would not vote unless I got paid for it.

3771. What did he say?—He said that I would be enumerated, and then he ordered a car, and before I went on the car I had to sign a paper; I had not time to read it.

3772. Did you sign in the room?—Yes, of course I did, before Mr. Hogan and Alderman Manning.

3773. Was that before the day of the polling?—That was the day of the polling, before I went to poll, and then I was ordered to come back when I polled.

3774. Did you poll?—Certainly I did, of course—on a car to the door, and then I was employed for the day.

3775. Is that your handwriting (handing a paper to the Witness)?—That is my writing.

3776. When you came back, how were you employed for the rest of the day?—I was going about for voters during the whole day.

3777. When the work was over did you see Alderman Manning?—I asked Alderman Manning himself; I asked him would he be so kind as give me the price of refreshments, for I never done anything the whole day.

3778. You never got anything to eat?—Neither I did, and he said not; but he walked round about, and he put his hand in his pocket and he handed to a man at the door a two-shilling piece, at which the man at the door smiled, and handed it to me.

3779. Do you know who that man was?—I do not, indeed.

3780. Would you know him again if you saw him?—I would not.

3781. Did you call again on the Alderman?—I never called upon him; I went by Mr. Hogan's desire up to the Committee.

3782. Who is Mr. Hogan?—A man co-partner with Alderman Manning; and he told me I would be all right when I came out up in Dame-street.

3783. He told you to go where?—To Dame-street, to the head committee-room.

3784. To the same place were you saw Mr. Hogan?—No; not at all; down lower.

3785. What is the christian name of Mr. Hogan?—I do not know what his name is; I seen him going into the committee-rooms, and he said, "All right, call to-morrow"; and Tierney out of the Cross-examined by Mr. Exham.

3786. Where did you first tell about this?—Well, I could not tell you, but I tell you the truth; I am upon my oath.

3787. Whom did you first tell about this?—The first man that I told about it was Mr. Gillies in Capel-street.

3788. That is the man that keeps a public-house at the corner?—That is the very man.

3789. Did he send for you?—I went voluntarily.

3790. Did you get anything to drink there?—Of course I did.

3791. Did you get anything else besides drink?—I did.

3792. How much?—Fifteen shillings.

3793. That was the first time?—That was the first time.

3794. Before that, did you tell anybody else; the agent?—No.

3795. Did any one offer you any money if you would tell?—No.

3796. Will you swear that?—People offered me money, but I would not speak about it.

3797. But I want to know who did offer you the money?—Why, I got a pound.

3798. Who gave you the pound?—A gentleman in Gardner-street.

3799. Who was he?—Indeed I do not know.

3800. What house is it?—It is in Gardner-street.

3801. What number?—I cannot tell you.

3802. Is it upper, lower, or middle?—It is just a few doors from the corner.

3803. Who took you to that gentleman?—George MacDonnell, the brass-founder.

3804. When did you go to that gentleman?—Last week, last Wednesday, I think.

3805. He gave you a pound?—Yes.

3806. Did anybody else offer you money?—No.

3807. Did you ever get a letter from anyone asking you to call on him?—No.

3808. Never?—Yes, I did, but that was over the way from Mr. —; I cannot tell you his name; he is conductor or head man of the Liberal office opposite to Kavanagh's in Dame-street, where I work.

3809. Do you know that gentleman's name?—I could not tell, upon my oath.

3810. Will you swear that you cannot tell the gentleman's name?—Really, I cannot tell the gentleman's name.

3811. Do you know him?—Yes, I know him as well as I know myself.

3812. Is that the letter you got from him (handing a paper to the Witness)?—That is it.

3813. Do you know now who he is?—I do; I know him perfectly well, if I seen him.

3814. "My dear Booth,—Give me a call here at your first convenience; it may be worth your while.—Yours, B. Connell,—73, Dame-street"; is that the gentleman?—Yes.

3815. That is the gentleman that you say is the manager for the Liberal side?—Yes.

3816. When did you get that letter from him? I could not really tell you the date; it was when I was looking to be paid for my time that I got the letter; after I voted and all.

3817. Was it after you had been at Gillies's or before it?—Oh, long after I had been at Gillies's.

3818. Did you give him a call after you got that letter?—I did not. I never called on him again.

3819. Did you call on Mr. Conwell?—No; I called on the man that came to see me in my shirt sleeves, and by the same token he told me I was a rascal for voting as I did.

3820. Did he offer you any money?—Yes; he said he would give me 50*l*.

3821. If you swore that you were promised to get money, or if you had got money for voting for Sir Arthur Guinness?—Yes, if I said that.

3822. You did not tell him you would not say that because you had not been offered it?—That is the truth.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs. MARY ANN JESSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

Mrs.
M. A. Jesson. 3823. ARE you the widow of Richard Jesson?—Yes.

3824. He is dead, I believe?—Yes.

3825. When did he die?—On the 16th of this month.

3826. Since the election?—Yes.

3827. Do you remember a man named Benjamin Warren calling at your husband's house?—Yes.

3828. Had you any conversation with him?—No; but I listened to what he said to my husband.

3829. What did he say to him?—He told him to vote for Guinness and Plunket, and that he would be decently dealt with. That was the first time he called, and then he came the day before the election and told him to rely upon that, that he would be handsomely rewarded if he went at 7 o'clock the next morning to Inns Quay.

3830. What did he say exactly, or the first time that he called there; did he say besides that he would be handsomely treated?—No; that he might rely upon him that he would be handsomely treated.

3831. And the next time that he called what did he say?—It was the day before the election.

3832. Then he only called twice altogether?—That was all. Warren was brought by a person named James Hall, a freeman.

3833. What happened the second time?—He gave him a bit of a note to go to Inns Quay in the morning, and that he would be handsomely rewarded: to go to Inns quay, and be brought from there to the polling booth; and my husband did go, and my son along with him. My son has no vote, but he was with my husband all through.

Benjamin Warren was called forward.

3834. Mr. O'Shaughnessy (to the Witness).] Was this the man who called upon your husband?—Yes.

3835. And your husband went?—Yes, and voted for Messrs. Guinness and Plunket.

Cross-examined by Mr. Purcell.

3836. When did your husband die?—The 16th of this month. He got cold going out of Warren's house two days after, to see why he was not paid for his vote.

3837. When did you first mention about what you are after telling here to-day?—Not until last Friday.

3838. After your husband's death?—Yes.

3839. Who did you tell?—A man of the name of Walker, who came to my own place.

3840. When did he come?—On Friday last, and a man named Hagarty.

3841. Did they tell you they were getting up evidence about the petition?—No, they did not; they asked me did I hear any discourse between Mr. Warren and my husband, and I said I did about the election.

3842. About money?—About the election; so I told them what I heard, and they took it down on a bit of paper.

3843. And what were you to get?—I was not promised anything.

3844. Now will you swear that they did not say that if you gave evidence here it would be the better for you?—No, they said I would be paid for my time.

3845. Did they tell you what you were to get?—No, they brought me to Mr. Fitzgerald's office, and took my son out of his work.

3846. When you went to Mr. Fitzgerald's office did you get any money?—I got 5 s. for my boy's day and my own.

3847. And did he get anything?—I do not know; 2 s. for the two summonses, my son's and my own.

3848. Had you known Warren before?—I never seen him until he was brought in by James Hall.

3849. Did you ever see him since?—I did.

3850. When?—I saw him in court on Saturday.

3851. And you never saw him from the time that he came to your husband's on that occasion till you saw him here?—No, I did not.

3852. Were you here when Hagarty and Walker were examined?—I was.

3853. Is it the same Walker and Hagarty that were on the table here?—Yes; I know Mr. Walker well.

3854. Had you a talk with them in court since this began?—No, not a word; they never spoke to me.

3855. Were you sitting in the gallery?—I was.

3856. Did you point out Mr. Warren to anybody?—No.

3857. Did anybody point him out where he was sitting, to you?—No, but my son knew him, and I knew him myself.

3858. Did your son point him out, or call your attention to him?—Before I saw him he said "There is Mr. Warren."

3859. He told you that was Mr. Warren?—Oh no, I knew him myself; says he "Mr. Warren is here," and then I looked round and saw him.

3860. And he said your husband would be decently treated?—Yes, and handsomely rewarded, when he left the note to tell him to go to Inns Quay at 7 o'clock on the morning of the polling.

3861. Did your husband get any money?—For his vote?

3862. Yes?—Not one farthing.

3863. Had he been long a freeman?—Yes; he is freeman a good many years; I believe 20 years.

3864. Had he always voted in one way?—No, he had not.

Re-examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

3865. For whom had he voted?—He voted at the last election but one for Mr. Pim, and he always voted on the Liberal side until this election.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOSEPH JESSON sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

3866. ARE you the son of Richard Jesson, the poor man that died lately?—Yes.

3867. And of that woman who was examined just now?—Yes.

3868. Do you know Mr. Benjamin Warren?—Yes.

3869. Did Benjamin Warren call at your shop the day before the last election for the city?—Yes.

3870. Were you present when he called?—I was.

3871. Did you hear any talk between him and your father about voting?—I did.

3872. What did he say to your father?—He said he would be rewarded if he would vote for Guinness and Plunket.

3873. Was there any one present besides yourself and your father; was Hogan there?—Yes, and my mother.

3874. Did your father promise to vote then?—Yes, he did.

3875. Did you go with your father the next day to vote?—Yes, I did.

3876. Did you go first to Dame-street, to any of the ward-rooms, to Inns Quay?—Yes.

3877. With your father?—Yes, I did.

29.

3878. Did you see the gentlemen that were in the room at Inns Quay?—Yes, I did.

3879. Do you know the names of any of the gentlemen that were there that morning?—No, I do not.

3880. After being at Inns Quay did you go up to Green-street with your father?—I did.

3881. Did you go on a car?—No; we walked up.

3882. Did anyone go with you?—Yes.

3883. Who?—That same man Benjamin Warren.

3884. Did they bring you up to the polling-place?—Yes.

3885. About what hour in the morning was it that your father got here?—At about a quarter to nine o'clock.

3886. Did you hear your father vote for Guinness and Plunket?—I did.

3887. When you were walking up from Inns Quay to Green-street did Benjamin Warren say anything to your father about what he would get for his vote?—I do not know.

3888. You did not hear any conversation of that sort?—No.

J. Jesson. 3889. Did you see your father get any money afterwards?—No.
 26 January 1869. 3890. Did you at any time go with your father to see Warren after the election?—I did.
 3891. At Donnybrook?—Yes.
 3892. About how soon after the election was that?—About two days.

3893. Did your father ask Warren for any thing?—No.
 3894. What was said between them?—He was not at home.
 3895. Did he see Warren at any time after that when you were with him?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS HENRY PARKINSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

T. H. Parkinson, Esq. 3896. Your offices are at 29, Dame-street?—Yes.
 3897. Are they the same offices with the Conservative Registration Society or are they different?—They are in the same house.
 3898. But have you different offices?—I have.
 3899. Who keeps the Conservative Registration Society's Office?—I took the apartments. I was then secretary of the Registration Society; and they continued to remain there, and they paid me so much, I being liable for the whole.
 3900. Then you have not the whole house?—No, I do not consider that I have; the premises were taken for the purpose I told you.
 3901. Mr. Justice Keogh.] A great number of gentlemen have separate offices there, have they not?—A great number are registered there.
 3902. Mr. Heron.] Do you know any of the arrangements about the car hire for Guinness and Plunket?—I do not know, because I did not interfere in the slightest degree whatever with the car hire. I had no interest whatever in the matter, nor was I ever an agent in the slightest degree for the election.
 3903. By whom was the car department managed from October 24th?—It was managed, not from my office but in the County Registration Office.
 3904. Who are the gentlemen that have the management of it there?—I consider that Mr. Jerrard—
 3905. Mr. McDonogh.] Do not tell us what you consider but what you know?—I mean only to tell what I know. Mr. Jerrard is the chief secretary of the Registration Society, and being the chief man of the office, I conclude that he is the man that had the management of the car department.
 3906. Mr. Heron.] Is that Mr. John Jerrard or Mr. Samuel Jerrard?—Mr. John Jerrard.
 3907. Who is now a barrister?—He is; Mr. Samuel Jerrard has nothing whatever to say to that establishment and never had.
 3908. Do you know anything about the little room upstairs where Mr. Crossthwaite was?—I do.
 3909. Do you know Mr. Davenport Crossthwaite?—I do.
 3910. Who is he?—He is a person I am acquainted with.
 3911. Where does he live?—I really do not know where he lives.
 3912. Is he a Dublin man?—He is a Dublin man. I have always believed him to be so.
 3913. Is he anything by profession?—I think not.
 3914. When did he come to take up the rooms in No. 24?—He came about the election time.
 3915. How long had you known him previously?—On and off for a length of time.
 3916. Did you know that he was sending telegrams and writing letters under the name of "J. Wilson Johnstone"?—I did not know directly, but I can only say that I believed he was doing so; but I did not see him doing anything, nor was I in the room.

3917. Did you know him to be acting under the name of J. Wilson Johnstone?—I think he must have been because letters came to the house directed to Wilson Johnstone.

3918. Who took the letters?—They got into his hands.

3919. I presume there was no letter-box with "J. Wilson Johnstone" on the front door of the house?—No.

3920. Into whose letter box were they put?—They were thrown into my box. They were sometimes thrown into the other boxes, promiscuously I may say, but whenever I met with them in my box—

3921. When you met with them in your box did you send them up stairs by your messenger to Mr. Crossthwaite?—Yes.

3922. Who told you to do so?—I cannot bear in my recollection, but I knew what it was for; they went to the proper place; they were not for my office.

3923. You yourself never entered that little room above?—I do not say that I never entered it, because the premises are convenient to everyone.

3924. Was that one of your suite of chambers?—It was an empty room, which was very little occupied; in fact, it was unoccupied by myself and the Registration Society.

3925. Did you give it for that purpose?—I think I did.

3926. Who asked you to give it?—I really cannot recollect.

3927. Do you know Mr. William Johnstone?—I do.

3928. Was he over there?—He was not.

3929. Did he ask you?—There might have been some conversation between him and me, but I really cannot recollect how it occurred.

3930. I must ask you to try and remember, and tell his Lordship who asked you to give this room to Crossthwaite?—I did not give it directly to Crossthwaite; I heard there was a necessity that—that there was a correspondence, and that 24, Dame-street, was an open place, and I thought I was serving the business by letting them have the room.

3931. Did you know that the correspondence was carried on in a false name?—I did not, because I never saw such a person as Wilson Johnstone; I do not know such a person.

3932. You never heard of there being such a man in Dublin?—No.

3933. Have you known William Johnstone for a long time?—Yes.

3934. You said you were not an agent for the city election?—No.

3935. You used to be over in No. 47 occasionally?—No; I give you the only instance that I can charge my memory with going; it was when when I went to ascertain what would be a convenient time for the sheriff to fix the day of the election; I felt interested for both the city and for the county; I had the management of the county, and on that occasion I did go over to 47, Dame-street, to consult about the day to be fixed; and further than that I cannot charge my memory, for I had quite enough to do without interfering, nor did I take upon myself in the least degree to interfere.

3936. I presume you were not paid for the use of this little room?—Oh, certainly not.

3937. How was that little room situated as regards your own office?—At the very top of the house.

3938. And separated by the other chambers from your office?—The chambers immediately underneath are mine, and occupied by me.

3939. Immediately underneath that little room?—Yes.

3940. Your chambers must be on the third storey?—Yes.

3941. And this was on the fourth storey?—Yes.

3942. How many rooms had he?—There were two open there for him.

3943. Who were the young men he had with him?—I do not know; I never saw any.

3944. You did not know whom he employed?—I did not.

3945. Did he ask you for any of your own clerks, and did you refuse?—No, he never asked me for any of my own clerks.

3946. When did you last see Crossthwaite?—I have not seen Crossthwaite for, I suppose, a fortnight; I do not know really; you ask me when, but I cannot say that I miss him for more than a fortnight.

3947. Did you miss him?—I do not miss him because he is not a companion of mine; he is not connected with me in any way; but I have not seen him, I think, for about a fortnight.

3948. Do you know whether he lives in Dublin?—I do not.

3949. Have you never heard?—Possibly.

3950. Was it he that introduced himself to you in Dame-street, to tell you what was going on?—He did not tell me what was going on.

3951. Did Mr. Sutton speak to you upon the subject?—No.

3952. Or Mr. Williamson?—No.

3953. Or Mr. Johnstone?—Mr. Johnstone and I had some conversation.

3954. What was it?—About out-voters.

3955. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What was the conversation?—I heard that he was the person to have the looking after that department, and he thereupon suggested that it would be a convenient place for that business to be transacted, in 24, Dame-street.

3956. Mr. Heron.] Do you mean convenient in locality, or convenient for another reason?—Convenient for the purpose that it was intended to carry out 3957. I presume that the rooms at the top of the house of No. 24, Dame-street are not as good as the drawing-room in 47, Dame-street?—I suppose not, garrets are very seldom good rooms.

3958. Do you mean convenient as you understood for the purpose of concealment, in order that it should not be known to Mr. Sutton?—I never had a thought about Mr. Sutton at all.

3959. Did you understand that it should not be known to Mr. Sutton?—I do not say that I never drew any conclusion of that kind.

3960. Was it to be concealed from every one as far as possible?—It was not to be a public thing.

3961. Was it to be concealed?—I considered that it was not to be a public thing; I thought it was better not.

3962. Why?—Because I was under the impression that some questions would be raised about it.

3963. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Mr. William Johnstone spoke to you upon this matter, and said that it would be desirable to have this room; did he mention who the person was that was to be in the room?—He did not.

3964. Then, in fact, why did you give it to Mr. Crossthwaite?—Because Mr. Crossthwaite, or any person who I had any reason to know was coming from the offices for the election on the opposite side of the street, I would have been quite willing to give it to him or anybody else.

3965. Had you reason to believe that Mr. Crossthwaite came from the opposite side of the street?—I drew my conclusion that he was the person; I considered that the moment that Mr. Crossthwaite came I knew that he was the person.

3966. Mr. Heron.] Will you describe Mr. Crossthwaite's appearance?—Rather under stature, round face, and wears spectacles.

3967. What complexion?—I would say darkish.

3968. What age is he?—Perhaps between 40 and 50.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

3969. Did you say to my learned friend Mr. Heron that you did not know the arrangements about the cars?—Pardon me for a moment; I saw that there was business going on in the registration office near my own, but further than that I did not know.

3970. You know nothing about the arrangements as to cars?—I never interfered in the least.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM JOHNSTONE, Esq., recalled; and further Examined by Mr. Heron.

3971. HAVE you recognised any more telegrams as being in your handwriting?—No.

3972. Do you know Mr. Davenport Crossthwaite?—I have seen him.

3973. When did you see him last?—Not since about the 10th of November; about a fortnight before the election.

3974. Did you believe him to be John Wilson

Johnstone?—From what I have heard since I came into court.

Mr. McDonogh objected to this evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] If you wish now to explain anything frankly you have an opportunity of setting yourself right with the court, and I should be glad if you could or would would do so; pray attend to the questions, and speak with the same frankness as you have seen other witnesses do.

3975. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Was it arranged between you and Mr. Crossthwaite that he was to go to 24, Dame-street?—I think not.

3976. You never spoke on the subject?—I think not.

3977. You have already told us what you said to Mr. Henry Foster; was it since that that you saw Crossthwaite last?—I think not.

3978. You saw Foster about a fortnight before the election?—About a fortnight before the election.

3979. And you saw Crossthwaite on the 10th of November?—Do not fix me to the exact day; it is as near as I can recollect.

3980. Why did you mention the date of the 10th of November?—Because I thought it was about a fortnight before the election.

3981. Where was the last interview that you had with Crossthwaite?—I think the last time I saw Crossthwaite was in Eustace-street.

3982. In whose house?—In a house belonging to Mr. White.

3983. Do you mean Mr. White, the tea merchant?—And Mr. Cottell.

3984. What is Mr. Cottell?—He is a merchant.

3985. At what hour of the day?—I should say it would be about 12 o'clock, to the best of my recollection.

3986. By appointment?—No.

3987. By accident?—By accident.

3988. Who else were there?—No one else.

3989. Were you looking then for a man to be in the position of J. Wilson Johnstone?—I was not.

3990. Did you hesitate that time; did you ever look for a man to be in the position of J. Wilson Johnstone?—No.

3991. Who is Mr. Crossthwaite?—I cannot tell.

3992. Had you known him before that time?—No.

3993. Did you ever see him before you saw him at Mr. Cottell's?—I had.

3994. Where?—In my own office.

3995. Did he call upon you?—He did.

3996. And introduce himself to you?—He did.

3997. On whose introduction?—Mr. Foster's.

3998. What name did this man give you as his own name?—I think it was Mr. Davenport Crossthwaite.

3999. Are you sure?—I think he handed me an envelope, as well as I can recollect, with the name of Davenport Crossthwaite upon it, from Mr. Henry Forster.

4000. Now, Mr. William Johnstone, tell his Lordship all that occurred between you and Crossthwaite in that first interview, or will you put me to ask questions in the way that I shall be obliged to do?—I think it was arranged on that occasion that communication was to be had with the out-voters; and what arrangements were made about it I did not know at the time, but it was to be arranged; at that time there was not any arrangement.

4001. Did he then tell you that he was to be the man that was to communicate with the out-voters; those communications that could not come from Mr. Sutton?—No, I was to have had, as I mentioned before, a communication with the out-voters, and Mr. Crossthwaite was to assist me. Afterwards that arrangement was broken off, and I did not see Mr. Crossthwaite from that day to this.

4002. Was that the only time that you ever saw him?—I think that was the last time that I ever saw him; not in my office, but in Eustace-street.

4003. But on that occasion, in your own office, was it arranged that he was to assist you in the out-voters' department?—Yes.

4004. And to be paid?—I could not tell about that.

4005. Do you believe that he was to work for nothing?—I really do think he was.

4006. How soon after that was it that you saw him in Mr. Cottell's?—I think it was three or four days afterwards.

4007. What is the earliest telegram in the name of "Wilson Johnstone"?—I could not say.

4008. On your oath, is it not a fortnight before the election?—I could not say from my recollection.

4009. At the time of the interview in Mr. Cottell's, did you not know that telegrams were going in the name of "J. Wilson Johnstone"?—No, I did not; because I believed there were not any at that time. I did not think there were any at the time I saw him in Mr. Cottell's.

4010. When first did letters come?—Oh, I could not tell that, for the letters had been received in the committee-rooms which were handed over to me.

4011. To J. Wilson Johnstone?—No, I do not know as to that.

4012. Is that all the explanation that you have to give?—That is all the explanation that I have to give.

4013. Have you told the whole truth?—I have told the whole truth.

4014. Did you speak to Mr. Parkinson about taking 24, Dame-street?—There was a conversation between Mr. Parkinson and me, about taking it, and getting the use of one of the rooms in that establishment, but whether it was a suggestion of Mr. Parkinson's or came from myself, I really cannot tell.

4015. Do you mean to suggest for a moment, that Mr. Parkinson suggested the plan?—Well, I do not know; I was at a loss for an apartment which would be convenient and separate from the one where I was working in 47; it was given gratuitously, that is all I know; there was nothing paid for it that I am aware of.

4016. Did you speak to Mr. Parkinson before you saw Crossthwaite, about taking a room in 24, Dame-street?—I did not see Crossthwaite after speaking to Mr. Parkinson.

4017. Had you had an interview with Crossthwaite before you spoke to Mr. Parkinson?—The interview I allude to was before I spoke to Parkinson.

Mr. Hemphill applied to have the bill of particulars amended by inserting the names of Michael Richard Stead and Thomas Coucher. 27 January 1869.

Mr. McDonogh was heard against the application.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that he should allow the bill of particulars to be amended as requested.

MR. RUDOLPHUS MORTIMER re-called, and further Examined by Mr. Heron.

4018. HAD you any money in your possession for the business of the election?—Not a penny.

4019. And you did not give any money for the business of the election?—Not a penny, nor did I ever receive a penny of Sir Arthur Guinness's money in my life.

4020. Do you know 76, Capel-street?—No, I never was there, and I do not know where it is.

Mr. R. Mortimer.

[The Witness withdrew.

PETER LENAHA, PETER MONAHAN, and ANDREW MONAHAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

4021. HAVE the three of you gone over this bundle of papers (handing some telegrams to the Witnesses)?—(Lenahan.) Yes.

4022. Can you trace that bundle to any particular message?—No.

4023. Which of you can identify the receipted docket for those three telegrams (handing some papers to the Witnesses); are those the telegrams to which the receipt docket refers?—(Andrew Monahan.) The receipt might refer to either of those three, or to another which was sent on the same day.

4024. Is that receipt here?—No, it is at Liverpool.

4025. Where is that telegram sent?—There is one of them sent to Shrewsbury; another to Edinburgh; and a third to Bristol.

4026. In whose handwriting is the receipt docket?—(Lenahan.) In mine.

4027. Does that refer to either of those three or to a fourth?—I do not know.

4028. Which of you identified it?—(Andrew Monahan.) I say it may refer to either of them or to a fourth.

4029. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Are all those three sent to the same person?—No; one of them is sent to Shrewsbury.

4030. Were they to different persons?—Yes.

4031. It may refer to any one of those three or to a fourth?—Yes.

4032. Mr. Heron.] This one is to "Jamieson, Belgrave Terrace, Brighton;" which of you identifies the receipt docket as corresponding to the telegram (handing a paper to the Witnesses)?—(Lenahan.) That is mine.

4033. How do you identify the receipt docket with the telegram?—There was no other message sent to Brighton that day but this one.

4034. This is a telegram to "Pickie, Dundalk;" which of you can identify it (handing a 29.

paper to the Witnesses)?—(Lenahan.) I took that message; it may refer to this message, but I could not say; there were two or three sent to Dundalk in the day.

P. Lenahan, P. Monahan, and A. Monahan.

4035. Which of you took this one; this is to Campbell, at Birmingham (handing a paper to the Witnesses)?—(Andrew Monahan.) I took that.

4036. Does that receipt docket refer to the telegram?—This receipt has apparently been changed from 3 s. to 6 s. after it was signed.

4037. When you gave the receipt, did you give the receipt for the 3 s., the true amount?—Yes.

4038. In your own handwriting?—Yes.

4039. Is your handwriting there still visible?—It is.

4040. Has it been changed to 6 s.?—Yes, and another station added on; the message was only for Birmingham, but the receipt has been changed to Birmingham and London; there was no message sent to London.

4041. This (handing a paper to the Witnesses) is one in Mr. Johnstone's handwriting; it is the one to "Enniscorthy." Which of you identifies that?—(Lenahan.) This is mine.

4042. Is that the receipt corresponding to the telegram?—Yes.

4043. This is to "William Thom, Inverness," (handing a paper to the Witnesses); which of you identifies that receipt docket as corresponding with the telegram?—(Lenahan.) That is mine.

4044. Do you identify that as corresponding with the telegram?—Yes.

4045. The next is to "Richard Seymour, Bath;" which of you identifies this receipt docket as corresponding with the telegram (handing a paper to the Witnesses)?—That is mine, too.

4046. That

P. Lenahan, 4046. That is a receipt for that telegram?—
P. Monahan, Yes.
 and 4047. Is there any charge on the docket itself?
A. Monahan.—No.

27 January 1869. 4048. This (handing a paper to the Witnesses) is to "B. H. Danagher, Plaistow, Essex;" which of you identifies this one?—(Lenahan.) That is mine.

4049. Was that the only one sent to Plaistow that day?—That is the only one I saw.

4050. Are there any other charges that you saw on the receipt dockets, except the charges that you mentioned, in your handwriting?—(Andrew Monahan.) Not in the one that I passed; there are several documents that have not been signed by me at all, although my initials are on them.

4051. Can you find them out yourself (handing a bundle of papers to the Witness)?—Those first three receipts (handing back some papers) are not in my handwriting at all.

4052. Will you tell his Lordship what they purport to be?—The first receipt purports to be for a message on the 16th of November to Haddington, 3s. I did not sign it, although my initials are on it.

4053. In whose handwriting is the body of it?—I do not know.

4054. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you mean to say that it purports to be your writing, and that it is not?—Yes.

4055. And that you did not receive that message in the office?—No; I cannot say that I did not receive the message, because I have not searched the book, but I did not sign the receipt.

4056. Do you know in whose handwriting the signature is?—I do not.

4057. It is not yours?—It is not. The next is a message on the same day to Chatham, and I have not signed it. The price is 3s. The next is a message to Liverpool on the same day, and I have not signed it. The other one is not mine.

4058. Are there any more in the same position as regards your handwriting?—There are not.

4059. Mr. Heron.] I presume you send a great many messages to Liverpool and to London, do you not?—Yes.

4060. Which of you received this one to Manchester (handing a paper to the Witness)?—(Lenahan.) I received that one.

4061. Does that receipt docket apply to one out of the three telegrams?—I could not say; there were several messages sent to Manchester that day.

Mr. Justice Keogh inquired for what purpose these documents were being identified.

Mr. Heron replied that he wished to prove that the receipts produced by the sheriffs as returned to him by the election expense agent, were the receipts for the telegrams sent in the false names.

4062. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Is there any receipt and telegram that you can positively identify, or are the others all sent to places to which such a number of telegrams are sent that you cannot identify them?—(Lenahan.) This was the only message to Carrickfergus.

4062*. That is not one of Mr. William Johnstone's?—This is one "from Norman to Stewart, Carrickfergus," (handing a paper to the learned Counsel).

Mr. Sanger stated that he had the book in which the messages were recorded with the names, and that if his Lordship or the learned counsel wished to see it he would produce it.

Mr. Heron handed in certain telegrams numbered consecutively.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

4063. Who is the young gentleman who gave evidence about this telegram to Brighton?—(Lenahan.) I did.

4064. Was it you that wrote the red ink here?—No.

4065. Who did that?—Mr. Delaney.

4066. Who is Mr. Delaney?—Mr. Sanger's clerk.

4067. And this was written after the result of the examination?—Yes.

4068. The words are, "May refer to enclosed, but other messages forwarded to which it would equally apply." Look at that attentively now, (handing a paper to the Witness). Did you not see the clerk of Mr. Sanger write that?—I did.

4069. Was not it true what he wrote?—There was a couple of messages sent to Brighton that day.

4070. Mr. Justice Keogh.] But did you not say that there was no other message sent to Brighton that day to which that could apply?—I do not remember.

4071. Mr. McDonogh.] As to the message to Plaistow, which was the gentleman that sent that?—(Lenahan.) I did.

4072. And you saw Mr. Delaney write that?—Yes.

4073. Upon that also are these words, "Must I think refer to attached, for this message is entered in a book,—London—If there be other message to place on the same day, Lenahan took message." What is the meaning of that?—I took the message.

4074. Then you say that the gentleman said, "There may be other messages to Plaistow that day"?—It is entered in the book as "London."

4075. Mr. Heron.] What is the date of that?—(Lenahan.) The 17th of November.

4076. Mr. McDonogh.] Who is the gentleman who spoke of his letter or figure 3 having been altered?—(Andrew Monahan.) I did.

4077. This obviously is one of the office dockets?—Yes.

4078. And I think I understood you to say that you would not tell his Lordship that you had not taken the message?—I told his Lordship that I would not say I did not take the message.

4079. Suppose there is a great hurry in the office, might not one amongst you sign the initials of others for the quicker despatch of business?—Yes; but this was taken at half-past nine at night, when there would be nobody else but me there. I beg your pardon—this is not the message that I said I was not sure that I did not take, the receipts which are forged or which I did not sign, I said I was not sure that I did not take the messages for them, but that I was positive that I did not give the receipts.

4080. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Is that in your handwriting?—The receipt is in my handwriting, except that the "three shillings" is made "six shillings."

4081. Can you account for any alteration in the telegram that caused the difference of charge?—This is the message to which this receipt refers.

4082. And about that you entertain no doubt?—It

—It is the only message to Birmingham, at least taken by me.

4083. Mr. McDonogh.] If there were other messages taken to Birmingham then by other clerks, that inference would not follow?—If the messages were taken by the other clerks my initials would not be on the receipt.

4084. But if there were other messages to Birmingham that day, your argument would not stand?—Yes; because this is the only receipt for Birmingham signed by me that day, and this is the only message taken by me for Birmingham; and if anybody else took the message I would not sign the receipt.

4085. Are you positive you took this message?—I know my own figures.

4086. How?—I know the money, and I know the date and time.

4087. Can you form any idea as to whose handwriting that “6” is in?—I could not.

4088. “Attached was apparently 3s. If so it will be numbered 253 to Birmingham, taken by Monahan”; that is you?—Yes.

HENRY OLIVER BARKER, Esq., LL.D., sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

4095. ARE you one of the Registrars in the office of the Registry of Deeds?—I am.

4096. Is there a gentleman in your office of the name of Foster?—There is.

4097. What is his Christian name?—Henry.

4098. Where is he at present?—I have not the slightest idea.

4099. Has he been attending at his office for the last few days?—This morning, seeing what was in the papers, I went up to the office, although it was not my day to attend, and I understand that he has been ill for some days.

4100. Who told you that?—Mr. Watson, the chief clerk.

4101. Have you any book in the office showing the attendance of the gentlemen who are bound to attend there?—There is such a book.

4102. Did you look to that book and see when Mr. Foster last attended?—I saw it on Wednesday, but not in the attendance-book, for I do not look at it when Mr. O’Connell is there.

4103. Has he had leave of absence from the office?—If he sends a sick certificate he, without I believe getting leave, is marked “ill.”

4104. Did he send a sick certificate?—Mr. Watson told me he did this morning.

4105. Did you ask to see that certificate?—I did not.

4106. When was that certificate given?—He told me a couple of days ago, or whenever he went away.

4107. Was that a medical certificate?—It was a medical certificate.

4108. Who was the doctor that signed that certificate?—I have no idea.

4109. Do you know where Mr. Foster resides?—Let me explain that I only got the subpoena a Re-examined by Mr. Heron.

4089. Which of you took this one to Plaistow? Is London the telegraph station for Plaistow?—(Lenahan.) It is handed over in London.

4090. Therefore, this is the one “No. 92, Johnstone, Danagher, London, 4 s.”—(Lenahan.) Yes.

4091. There is no doubt about that?—No.

4092. Mr. McDonogh.] The observation which the clerk of Mr. Sanger makes is, “This, I think, refers to attached—but this message is entered in book ‘London,’ and there may be other Plaistow messages in the same way.” That ought to have been “thesame day.”—(Andrew Monahan.) That means that if there were other messages to Plaistow they may be entered in London also.

4093. How far is Plaistow from London?—I do not know.

4094. Mr. Heron.] Is it the station where the change takes place?—Messages for Plaistow are handed over at London to another company.

quarter of an hour ago as I was going out to ride, and I rushed down here at once. I have not been to my office even, or I would have taken care to have brought down the certificate here with me.

4110. Do you know where Mr. Foster resides?—I believe in Mountjoy-street.

4111. Have you ever been to Mountjoy-street at his house?—Never in my life.

4112. Do you know that he got leave of absence for the purpose of attending the election?—I do not.

4113. Or for being absent during the time of the trial of this election petition?—I do not. The Head Registrar is at present in Dublin, and these letters when he is there are taken to him.

4114. Did you hear he had left town?—This morning Mr. Matson told me that he believed he was away.

4115. Out of town?—Out of town.

4116. Was that for the benefit of his health?—I have not the slightest idea.

4117. Did he say where he was out of town?—I asked Mr. Watson “Do you know where he is?” and he replied, “No, I do not, but I believe him to be away.” I wondered at his not appearing when he was called on a subpoena. I thought that even if he was ill he should come up.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that every facility should be given to have this matter proved, and that he would postpone the trial, if necessary, to secure Mr. Foster’s attendance.

Mr. RICHARD O’BRIEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. O’Shaughnessy.

4118. Did you call at the residence of Mr. Foster yesterday?—Yes.

4119. Where is that?—54, Mountjoy-street.

4120. Did you ask for him there?—Yes.

4121. What did you hear?—The servant said he had been out of town since yesterday morning, and she did not know where he was, or when he would be back.

29.

4022. Did she say anything about his being ill?—No.

4123. Had you that subpoena with you when you went to him there?—No.

- Mr. E. Byrne. 4124. ARE you in the employment of Mr. David Fitzgerald?—Yes.
- 27 January 1869. 4125. Did you go last night with a subpoena to Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite's?—I did.
4126. Where does he live?—No. 2, Mander's-terrace, Ranelagh.
4127. Did you find it open or closed?—I knocked at the door, I believe, twice, and it was not answered.
4128. Were there any lights?—There were no lights in the house.
4129. Did you inquire next door?—I did.
4130. Did you ascertain anything about him?—I went next door, and the servant there told me that they were in the house, and that I was to knock.
4131. About what hour was it that you went there last night?—About 20 minutes past eight; that was the first time.
4132. Did you go again last night?—I went again at about 20 minutes to 10.
4133. And at neither time could you get in?—At neither time.
4134. Are you sure it was his house?—It was.
4135. How often did you knock the second time?—The second time I knocked once.
4136. Was it on the first or the second occasion that you ascertained from the next house that the family were inside?—On the second occasion.
4137. Did you go this morning again?—I did.
4138. At about what hour?—At about a quarter before 10.
4139. Did you knock?—I did; and when I was going to the door, I saw a few children going into an inside parlour, and I was kept for some time; finally a servant opened the door.

4140. A female servant?—A female servant. When she opened the door, I asked was Mr. Crosthwaite in the house; and the servant looked astonished and said, "He is not, sir; he is gone away." I asked were any of the family in the house, and she said there was; and I said could I see Mrs. Crosthwaite, thinking Mr. Crosthwaite was married. I was shown into the drawing-room, and the servant came in and said, "Sit down; I will go and tell Mr. Crosthwaite." She came back in a few minutes and said, "There is no Mrs. Crosthwaite, but here is Mr. Crosthwaite's sister." "Well," I said, "his sister will do." She came in, and I asked for Mr. Crosthwaite, and she said, "Mr. Crosthwaite is gone away to London these last few days;" and I handed her a note with a subpoena, mentioning that there was a subpoena, and showing the writing of it. She said, "What am I to do with this?" And I said, "Let him have it as quickly as possible."

4141. When did she say he went to London?—Two or three days ago. I asked did she know what was his direction in London, and she said not; she didn't know where he was going to in London.

4142. Did you hear when, in fact, he did go to London?—Nothing more than that I heard from the servant in the next house that she thought Mr. Crosthwaite was gone.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HENRY CREMER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

- H. Cremer*. 4143. YOU voted for Guinness and Plunket?—Yes.
4144. Do you remember, about three weeks before the election, being canvassed on behalf of Guinness and Plunket?—I do.
4145. Were you canvassed by a man in the employment of Todd, Burns & Company?—I was.
4146. What is he there?—He is what I call an overseer over the workers in the tailoring department.
4147. You do not know his name?—I do.
4148. What is his name?—His name is Mr. Stafford.
4149. Did he canvass you for Guinness and Plunket?—He called on me the night before the election, and he brought me down to the tally-room in Sackville-street.
4150. Was that at No. 48 or No. 79?—The tally-room in Sackville-street.
4151. Whom did you see there?—I saw Mr. Bonghey.
4152. Mr. Bonghey, the attorney?—Yes, and also Mr. Robinson.
4153. Is he the gentleman that has the loan office?—Yes.
4154. Did Mr. Robinson tell you anything?—Mr. Robinson gave me his card, and told me I would be all right after the election.
4155. How much were you to be all right for?—He did not mention any amount.

4156. What did you understand by what he said?—Well, I thought at least I was to get a 5 l. note.

4157. I believe you have a son a voter?—Yes.

4158. That is William Cremer?—Yes.

4159. Was it mentioned in the room there, that evening, about your son's vote?—Mr. Bonghey had told me to bring as many as I possibly could. I told him I had not much influence in the city of Dublin; that I was a foreigner, that I had a son who was a voter, and I would endeavour to make him vote for the same party.

4160. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Of what country are you?—I am a Prussian by birth.

4161. Mr. Heron.] When you told Mr. Bonghey you had not much influence, what did he say?—Mr. Bonghey told me to be early in the morning at the poll, to do whatever I could. I told him I would be there early in the morning, and my son also.

4162. Did Mr. Bonghey then say anything to you as to what you would get?—Yes.

4163. What did he say?—There was nothing further passed.

4164. Your son afterwards voted?—He did.

4165. Were there other voters in the room at the time when this went on?—No, there was nobody present; it was rather late at night; it was between 9 and 10 o'clock, I should say.

4166. Did you afterwards see Robinson?—I did; did; I saw Mr. Robinson the day after the election in Jervis-street.

4167. What did you say to him?—Mr. Robinson told me that morning he was very busy, but that I was to call the next morning at his office; I did call at his office according to appointment, and he called me behind the counter, and he told me to keep myself quiet for 21 days; he took down my address, and also the address of my son.

4168. Was this in the pawn-office, or behind it?—In the loan office.

4169. Did you see Mr. Robinson after that?—In a couple of days after I wrote a letter to Mr. Robinson, stating that I would rather have a few pounds at once than wait for 21 days, according to promise; he made no answer to the letter. I wrote to him again with a friend of mine, a Mr. Carpenter. I sent a letter by Mr. Carpenter stating that it was almost time that he should perform his promise; Mr. Robinson made answer to Mr. Carpenter, stating—

4170. Were you present at that?—No.

4171. Then do not say a word about it; did you afterwards see Mr. Robinson at all?—No, I did not.

4172. Did you call upon him?—I called at his own private residence.

4173. Was he denied to you?—No; I asked him if there was any chance; he said, "There is some movement making about money," and he would remember me.

4174. Mr. Heron.] Is this the card (producing it) that Robinson gave you?—Yes, this is the card.

4175. Who wrote the words upon the back?—I wrote them myself, but I was afraid when I went to Robinson's he would not let me in, so I wrote my name upon the back of the card.

4176. Before your son voted had you any conversation with him about being paid?—No; not the least.

4177. Did you afterwards call upon Bowey?—Yes; and I brought Carpenter with me to know what was the use of promising money to me. It was near Christmas, and I required a few pounds, and he said, "I have not had anything paid for the last few months, but your name is upon the list, and if I am paid you shall be paid." He said that upon a Saturday night before Christmas.

4178. Did you ask about your son's money?—He said that both should be all right; he said that my son was also upon the list.

4179. Did you vote for Guinness and Plunket in consequence of that promise?—I do really believe I was disposed to vote for Pim, because he was a good employer to me, but I was induced by parties to vote.

4180. You are a cap maker by trade?—Yes.

4181. Is your sister in Glasgow?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Butt, Q.C.

4182. Had you ever promised any one to vote for Sir A. Guinness?—Parties came the month previous to the election.

4183. Had you ever promised?—Not particularly?—I might when the parties came up to me, and seemed to press me so hard; I told them to let me alone for a while till I made up my mind.

4184. Did you ever tell any one you would vote for Sir A. Guinness?—No, I did not.

4185. Are you sure?—Confident.

29.

4186. Do you know a man of the name of H. Cremer. Stewart?—Yes.

4187. What is his Christian name?—I cannot tell. 27 January 1869.

4188. Did you ever tell him you were going to vote for him?—I cannot say; I told him my mind was not made up; I cannot swear I told him I would vote for Guinness.

4189. Do you remember telling him you would not vote for any one that disestablished the Church?—I might.

4190. Did you not say it?—I might.

4191. Did you not arrange to go to the poll with him?—He had arranged; I was going about my business; Stewart came up, and said, "You may as well come along with him." I said, "I don't like to lose my time," and I went with him. He did not promise me anything; all I told him was about the card from Robinson the same morning.

4192. Who is your landlord?—Mr. Maloney.

4193. Had you received any money for giving evidence?—£.3, and I got a receipt for rent I owed him; I was hard up during the week for a pound, and I gave my I O U; he did not tell me he would not ask it from me if I gave evidence; he knows me about 25 years.

4194. He has forgiven you the rent?—He has. I cannot pay him.

4195. Did he not ask you to give evidence here?—Not a word.

4196. Did he never speak about it?—Never. I did not see Mr. Maloney till the morning he brought me the receipt. I never spoke to him about the election. The morning of the election he came to ask me to vote for Pim; I was out at the time.

4197. Did you say to anyone he had offered you 5*l.* to vote for Guinness and Pim?—No.

4198. Did you tell Stewart that two men had come to your house after you had voted and told you you had lost 5*l.* by not voting?—Yes.

4199. Was one of these men Maloney?—No.

4200. Who was he?—Walker met me the morning of the election in Capel-street, and said to me, "Do not be in a hurry to vote till I see you." In the course of the day Walker asked my Missus whether I had voted. "He has voted," said she. "Why did he vote?" said he, "I have 5*l.* I could give him."

4201. Did two men come to your house?—Yes.

4202. Were they the two men, Walker and Hopkins?—Yes.

4203. And you never said that one was Maloney, your landlord?—Certainly not; they were Walker and Hopkins.

4204. How did you come to give evidence?—A person came to me by name of Molloy. He told me that 5*l.* were waiting for me in the office of Guinness. He came three times a day, and late at night, and said, "I have 5*l.* for you; I am Guinness's agent; all I have is a card; that is Robinson's card."

4205. Where did he take you to?—He told me to wait a bit. He took me to Mr. Fitzgerald's office the week after, but not the same time.

4206. When you went there, did you expect to get anything; did you expect to get 5*l.*?—I did not expect to get anything. I thought I was in Guinness's office. I did not know where I was. They put me into a cart and dragged me away, and I did not know in the world where I was brought. They put me into a cab and dragged

H. Cremer. dragged me away, and I did not know where I was brought. It was the first time I had a vote, and I did not know what I was about.

27 January 1869. 4207. Did you see Tanty there?—Yes; I know him for several years.

4208. Was it not next morning that Maloney called upon you and gave you a receipt?—Precisely so.

4209. Were you told in Mr. Fitzgerald's office that you would get any money?—Not a word, nor a promise.

4210. That man, Molloy, did not give you the 5*l.*?—Not a penny.

4211. Have you the receipt for the rent?—I have it at home.

4212. What is the date?—I forgot to put it in my pocket.

4213. Do you say positively Maloney said nothing about giving evidence?—Not a word, upon my oath.

4214. Did you ever tell anyone he did?—I cannot say I did. Tanty did not give me anything; he is an old acquaintance, and I called in on business.

4215. Did you ever tell Tanty a different story from this?—Not a word.

4216. (To Mr. Heron.) Where was it you met Walker and Hopkins?—In Capel-street.

4217. What did Hopkins say?—He came with Walker, and he seemed to be very cautious; he shut the door for fear he might be heard, and he seemed to deplore I had been in such a hurry, stating that I had lost my chance. He said I will see to bring your case forward, and have a reward, and have you rewarded; both promised that. They wanted to send for drink, but I told them I would not take anything.

4218. When Molloy brought you to the office, you said you thought they were taking you astray, to Guinness's agent; did you tell the whole story you have told now?—I did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN JAMES MATSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton, Q.C.

J.J. Matson. 4219. YOU have a situation in the Registry Office?—Yes.

4220. Do you know the Register?—Yes.

4221. Who is Henry Stewart?—He is a first-class clerk.

4222. When was he first absent from his duties?—(Refers to book). Upon the 15th January, the present month.

4223. What was the cause of his absence?—Illness.

4224. What book is that you have?—The attendance book. There are three attendance books. He has not attended since the 15th.

4225. In whose entry is the word "ill"?—In mine. I must have received a letter stating that he was ill, and upon the 17th I got the certificate.

4226. From whom?—From Dr. Nolan.

4227. Is it usual to bring all applications of this kind before the head of the department?—Yes; all medical certificates are brought under the consideration of the Register.

4228. In this case, was it brought?—It was put in with the daily returns, and the Register must have approved of it.

4229. Did he make any order?—I am authorised to mark one ill, if the certificate be right.

4230. How long does that extend; have you made inquiries about him since?—I had no doubt about the bona fides of the certificate, knowing that he was suffering from a chronic ailment; he was absent before, and I reported to the Register that I thought the certificate was bonâ fide; I observed some days before that he was looking exceedingly ill.

4231. Do you know whether he is in town at present?—I cannot say.

4232. Have you ever called at his house?—Never. One of the gentlemen said he had a conversation with Dr. Nolan, and he said he thought he was very delicate and should leave the country.

4233. Was that after the petition was filed?—About a week ago.

4234. Had he leave of absence to attend the election?—All the clerks had leave to register their votes, pursuant to the Treasury Minute.

4235. Had he leave before that; had he been in daily attendance before the 18th November?—He was in attendance upon the 14th November; upon the 16th, 17th, and 18th November he was in attendance and left at 11 o'clock, and returned about five minutes past 12.

4236. That is in Foster's own handwriting?—I told the gentlemen in the office that they all might leave to register their votes, and it would not be marked as "leave" against them.

4237. Is there any mark upon the 17th?—No.

4238. There is no evidence of his having left the office that day or before?—That was Monday. No, he signed at four o'clock as having left; there is his signature (referring to book).

4239. Look to the earlier part of November; was he in his office upon the 13th November?—Yes; he was in attendance upon the 12th and 11th November; he was in attendance upon the 10th.

4240. At what hour does the office close?—Four.

4241. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you think it is necessary to ascertain the address of a gentleman in the event of requiring to make inquiry?—Yes; there is an address-book. If they leave their residence they are bound to furnish some clue to where they are.

4242. But if they get leave of absence?—If upon leave, all communications are addressed to their registered place: if the party is absent more than a month we make inquiries as to his state of health, and require a further certificate.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Heron put in a list of the Royal Exchange Ward, with Crosthwaite (Devonport), one of the committee.

CHAS. WM. GODWIN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

4243. WHERE do you live?—Madras-place.

4244. Are you a freeman?—No, I am a householder.

4245. For whom did you vote?—I voted for Guinness and Plunket.

4246. Were you canvassed by anyone before the election?—I was canvassed by the Liberals and Conservatives.

4247. Who canvassed you for the Conservatives?—I cannot tell his name; I do not think I would know him.

4248. Do you know a person named Cole?—Yes. We had been talking about voting for Guinness and Pim nearly three months before.

4249. Had you any conversation with Cole on the day of the election?—Yes; we had words together.

4250. Did you go in a cab with Cole and Kelly?—I did not.

4251. Did you go in a cab to the committee-room in Dame-street, No. 79?—Yes.

4252. With whom?—Kelly; I do not know the other.

4253. Was that the man who was examined?—Yes.

4254. Was there another man in the cab with you?—There was.

4255. Did you go into the committee-room?—I did.

4256. Do you know Alderman Manning?—I never saw him before that day. I saw him there with Kelly; that was before I voted.

4257. Did he ask you to sign anything?—He did.

4258. What was it?—A document to give his services gratuitously.

4259. When he got the paper what did he say?—He asked me, was I willing to work for them that day. I told him I was, but would expect to be paid.

4260. Did he say anything about the law?—I cannot say he did; but Mr. Vance said this was only a thing to evade the law. I cannot give the exact words, but they were tantamount to that.

4261. Was it young Mr. Vance, or old Mr. Vance, that said this?—Young Mr. Vance.

4262. Was that in a committee-room?—Before we went I saw him in Mr. Cole's place. Mr. Vance came to the place where I do business and told me Mr. Cole wished to see me, I went round to some men in the establishment I'm doing business for; I told him I did not feel inclined to vote; but when Mr. Cole came I said I would go; we went. I saw Mr. Vance at Cole's, we got into a cab and went to Dame-street. The persons in the cab were myself and Mr. Kelly.

4263. Was it at Cole's that Mr. Vance spoke about evading the law?—Yes; and I said they cannot expect me to lose my time for nothing. I understood that I was to be paid for my day.

4264. Do you recollect when you went into the committee-room, and saw Alderman Manning, he said anything to the same effect?—No.

4265. Did you after that go on to Green-street?—No.

4266. When did you vote?—About half-past eleven.

29.

4267. Who was with you?—The young man that went with me in the cab.

4268. Did you see Campbell when you were voting?—No.

4269. Did you, after voting, go to the committee-rooms in Dame-street?—About half an hour after I voted I returned in the cab to Dame-street; I was asked by Alderman Manning, would I go and see persons to bring them up to vote.

4270. Did you go?—I did.

4271. Did he give you any list?—No; he simply said, "If you can bring up voters do so." I returned about half-past five. I did not get any money nor ask for it. I went back in expectation that I would get money as a canvasser for the day, but I did not go into the committee-room.

4272. Were you turned out of the committee-room?—I could not get up, there was a great crowd; I did not see any money given; I have not received anything, nor do I expect it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Exham.

4273. Do you recollect anyone coming about the business?—Yes.

4274. Who?—One of Mr. Fitzgerald's agents.

4275. His name?—I do not know; he did not tell me his name.

4276. Would you know him; look around?—He was examined a few moments ago about the subpoena.

4277. Did he tell you he heard you had got money for your vote?—Yes.

4278. Did you tell him you had not?—I did.

4279. He said he would make you swear you did?—Yes.

4280. And Mr. O'Shaughnessy, the attorney; you saw him at your own residence?—Yes.

4281. And the other person, Byrne?—Yes.

4282. Did he tell you he knew you had been paid money?—He said he had information lodged against me that I had promised money; he said he knew that I had not received, but had only been promised money. I told him I merely got payment for the day, and he said he would give me two years' imprisonment if I did not come forward and say I had been promised; I recollect a person of the name of Christy Eustace, a dyer in Weaver's-square, also speaking to me.

4283. Did he threaten you?—No, he asked me was I promised; he said he would give me money if I would give information.

4284. Did you tell him you could not do any such thing?—I did.

4285. That, in fact, it would be untrue?—Yes, it would be untrue.

4286. Do you recollect when Mr. Vance called upon you?—I saw him two nights previously.

4287. But upon the day of the election, when Kelly and you were together, you saw Mr. Vance?—Yes.

4288. When did you first hear about the signing of the document?—When I was in Cole's place he said he would put me upon the list of voters if I signed my name upon the list to give my services.

4289. Upon a list, a printed form; did you sign that document?—I did.

1869.

4290. Was anything said about money in your presence?—There was not.

4291. Was Kelly within hearing while you were there?—He was in the front parlour and I was in Cole's workshop; Mr. Vance and Kelly were talking to each other in the first place; what the conversation was about I cannot tell.

4292. Mr. Hemphill.] After you had the conversation in Mr. Fitzgerald's office, did you go to Mr. Sutton?—I never went to Mr. Fitzgerald's office; I went to Mr. Sutton after a conversation I had with Mr. O'Shaughnessy, and I think I told you what I said to-day, as near as possible; and I then told Mr. Byrne I would not give any information.

[The Witness withdrew.

THOMAS NOBLETT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

T. Noblett.

4293. WHERE do you live?—In Finglas.

4294. Are you a coachman to Dr. Duncan?—No, I work in the garden.

4295. Do you know Henry Foster?—Yes.

4296. How long?—Seven or eight years.

4297. Did you know him about the time of the election?—Yes.

4298. Did you see him about that time?—I did.

4299. Did he employ you?—Yes.

4300. Did he give you 3 l.?—Yes.

Mr. Heron.] I now ask Mr. Merydith to tell me is that amount down in the election expenses?

Mr. Meredith.] I must get some further information before I am able to answer.

4301. (To the Witness.) When did he give you the 3 l.?—Shortly after the election.

4302. After the polling?—Yes.

4303. Where?—In his own house.

4304. That is in Mountjoy-street?—I don't know.

4305. Was any other man with you at that time?—There was another.

4306. His name?—William Kemp.

4307. Did he get 3 l. also?—Yes.

4308. Judge Keogh.] From Foster?—Yes, my lord.

4309. Who else?—I saw no one else; no one but Kemp went with me.

4310. I believe you are not a voter?—No.

4311. When did Foster employ you?—The night before the Dublin election; I happened to meet him, he employed me for the county.

4312. Did you see Foster in Green-street upon the day of voting?—I did, in Capel-street.

4313. 76?—76 or 66, I cannot tell which; I was there from seven in the morning till four in the evening; Foster was not there all the time, he was not there over five minutes.

4314. Were you upon the back door?—No.

4315. Upon the front door?—No.

4316. In the parlour?—Yes.

4317. Were you one of the three in the parlour?—I was.

4318. Who were the other two?—Mr. Kemp and Mr. Watkins.

4319-20. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who was he; was he a policeman?—He was.

4321. He got 3 l., too?—I do not know what he got.

4322. Don't you know that Foster paid him?—I don't know.

4323. Did Watkins tell you he paid him?—No.

4324. Were you sitting in that room the entire day?—Yes.

4325. Where did Watkins live?—In Finglas.

4326. Is his name John?—To the best of my knowledge it is William.

4327. Who told you to go to No. 76?—Foster.

4328. When did he tell you?—The night before the Dublin election.

4329. Where?—In Dorset-street, I think.

4330. In the committee-rooms?—Yes.

4331. Who were present?—I know no one but Watkins.

4332. Was he with you in committee-rooms?—He was.

4333. Was Kemp?—He was.

4334. Did the three of you speak to Foster?—He asked us how we were.

4335. Did he not tell the three of you to go to No. 76?—He did.

4336. Had you ever been there before?—Not to my knowledge.

4337. Nor Kemp?—I do not know.

4338. Who was upon the front door?—There was a boy, and we went in through the hall.

4339. Can you read or write?—I can read my Bible.

4340. But you are not a handy man at the pen?—No.

4341. Can Kemp read or write?—I do not know.

4342. Did you write anything that day?—I did not.

Mr. Heron read an extract in a book from the committee-room, Inns Quay, Henry Foster, Mountjoy-street, General Committee.

4343. Did you see any people coming into the room?—Which room?

4344. Where ye three were sitting; how many?—I cannot tell; between 10 and 20; I sat at the table the whole day; I had no disguise upon me; I was looking into what I was employed for, to regulate the county affairs belonging to Watkins; I did not, to my knowledge, know any of those who came in and out; I never saw any of them before; I was not at all that day in the back parlour.

4345. Was there a screen before the back parlour door?—I saw a screen.

4345*. What was the colour of it?—I don't know.

4346. Was it before the door?—Yes, between the door and where I sat.

4346*. What was the size of the screen?—I cannot tell.

4347. Do you know Fraser?—No; I heard talk of him, but I don't know who he is.

4348. Turn round and see if you can recognise this man—

Campbell, then stood up, and Witness looked at him.

4349. Do you know him?—I do not.

4350. You

4350. You were not in Green-street all day; were you paid 3 l. for that day's work?—Yes.

4351. Did you write a line that day?—No.

4352. Did you see people going behind the screen?—I heard people, when they would come in, go into the next door that was behind the screen, that is to go to the door between the two rooms; yes.

4353. Did you see what they were doing?—No.

4354. You saw a man go behind the screen?—Yes.

4355. How long was he behind it?—Seven or eight minutes.

4356. Did you not hear in the house that the man went out by the back door?—I do not mind what way he went, but from the front window I saw people go into the street.

4357. You already said you did not know what people were doing behind the screen?—No.

4358. Do you know Forest?—I don't know him, but I heard of the name.

4359. Is he the owner of the house?—No.

4360. Did you see him?—Not to my knowledge.

4361. Did you see anyone else, whose name you know?—No; none but the person with me in the room.

4362. Had you any drink there that day?—No.

4363. When the people came from behind the screen did you not see what they had in their hands?—No, I never saw a ha'porth.

4364. You saw nothing of what was behind the screen?—No.

4365. The whole day?—No.

4366. Never went behind the screen yourself?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

4367. I think I heard you say Foster was there for a few minutes?—Yes.

4368. About what hour of the day?—He came in something before nine o'clock upon the Sunday morning.

4369. About how many men came into the room that day?—From seven to four, between 10 and 20, I think.

EDWARD GREER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton, Q.C.

4380. Do you know Joseph Leech?—Yes.

4381. Had you any conversation with him before the election?—I had.

4382. What did he say to you?—He told me that himself and his uncle were two freemen, and they had 24 others; they were, he said, the two head parties, and if he and his uncle went one way, the rest would follow. He asked me, "Was I engaged in the election?" I said, "Not at that time." He said, "If you are, you know where to come, we'll go with you." "What side are you going to vote for?" said I. "For them that will give us the best and most money," said he. "Are you all of the same religion?" said I. "No," said he; "but that is no matter." I knew that his uncle was a Roman Catholic, and he was a Protestant. "I don't care," said he; "we have made up our minds to vote for those who give us the best pay."

4283. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Is Joseph Leech a voter?—He is a voter, and a freeman.

4384. Mr. Litton.] Had you a meeting after that?—Yes.

29.

4370. What were you doing that day?—I was listening to Watkins describing all the places he had been at; he was looking over the registry of the county, and showing the districts to which he had gone. I was generally employed upon the county election; my business was that, and I minded nothing else.

4371. And you had nothing to say to the City election?—Not a ha'porth.

4372. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You said that when persons came into the room, one of the people told another to go to the other door?—Yes.

4373. Whom did you mean when you said the other people?—One of the people with me.

4374. Did you tell anyone to go to the door?—Never.

4375. Then it was one of the other two persons?—I cannot tell rightly.

4376. It was either Watkins or Kemp that told the people to go to the other door?—I never told anyone, but Watkins and Kemp did.

4377. Did you ever see the door?—I never looked where the door was; the screen was between me.

4378-9. Then you did not see the door at all?—I did not.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] This is not a matter in which directly either of the clients in the case is concerned, but the name of Mr. Foster having been mentioned as having been absent on a medical certificate, which, I presume is quite correct, holding the important office which he does in the Registry of Deeds, I think it only fair to him that he should have an opportunity of meeting this case, which involves serious consequences to him, and I think it advisable that he should be, by telegram, or otherwise, brought here; this is necessary for his own interest. It is very important as regards himself, and if his state of health at all admits of it (whether in this country or away, does not appear), he may though in bad health, be within a short distance of this court. It is important, taking into account the evidence that has been given, that he should be here.

T. Noblett.

1869.

4385. What took place?—Leech was there. He said he heard there was a good deal of money going." I said, "I could not say how much money was going; but I heard there was money."

4386. Do you know Mr. Birch, of Molesworth-street?—Yes.

4387. You had an interview with him before the election?—Yes. I went upon the occasion of that conversation with Leech to Mr. Fitzgerald. I told him what he said. I said, "There are 24 voters, but they won't go without money." "I have no money," said he. "Then they won't go," said I. "Can't you do your best with them?" said he. "They won't come forward," said I. "I cannot give it," said he. "I can do nothing," said I. I saw Mr. Birch, and told him about it. "Do you know these people, Greer?" said he. "I do," said I. "Well," said he, "We cannot afford to lose 24, so if you meet me this evening, or rather" he said, "to-morrow evening, below at the office of my brother-in-law, 13, Suffolk-street, I will see you there." I went down down to that office, and Mr. Birch was gone. His brother-in-law told me he had gone out to Bray; "but if," said he, "you call in the morning to the committee-rooms, in Anne-street, you will see him." I went. I saw Mr. Birch in the committee-rooms, and I told him. "What is to be done?" said I. "I do not know," said he. "How much do they want?" said he. I cannot say," said I; "I think 3*l.* each would do."

4388. Mr. Justice Keogh.] These were Guinness and Plunkett's committee-rooms?—Yes.

4389. Counsel.] What more?—"The best thing you can do," said I, "is to let Leech and his uncle come to you." "Well," said he, "we can't afford to lose them; but will you go for his uncle?" He called a clerk, and asked me if I would have any objection to go with him to a car. "I have no objection," said I, "to go;" so I went to the uncle of Leech.

4390. What is his name?—Carolan.

4391. Where did Carolan live?—In 22, Cumberland-street. The young man told me the uncle was in bed, so I waited for him. "I have to go to Dominick-street," said he, "to look for a couple more voters." During the time, Carolan came down, "Have you got the money?" said he. He was a freeman. I said I had not the money, but we would go over to Mr. Birch, and I told him what Mr. Birch said to me. "I will not go to Mr. Birch," said he; "if he does not think it worth his while to come to me I will not go; I was tricked before." I saw Mr. Birch, and I told him. "I cannot help it at present," said he. "What is to be done now?" said he. "I do not know," said I. "You must get Leech," said he. "Well," said I, "he is out in the country." "You must get him," said he. "He will not go without the money," said I. "Well," said he, "with any concessions you make I'll be satisfied, but I can do nothing at present unless we put our hands in our pockets." "This," said he, "is to be kept as if it was in a nutshell. You know me, I know you, and as a gentleman you will believe my word, no matter what expense, time, or trouble, I will pay you, but upon one consideration, bring in Leech. Get a car," said he. "I am not going to walk so far for a car," said I. There was a man with a grey pony; he was going to come with me; they had a conversation. "Go to Dame-street," said he. So I went down there. I saw Mr. Gerrard, and I told him. He called a young man, and sent me along with him up to an office where Alderman Manning was. I told him what was done. "Oh, certainly," said he, "we cannot expect you." He called a young man, a clerk, and he sent him with me to Leech, to Upper Rathmines. When I went into the place there, Leech was at work. He said to me, "Have you got the money?" "No," said I. "Well, I won't go," said he, "without the money." I told him that Mr. Birch had given him a guarantee, and, "as a gentleman, go to him, he'll regulate it; there is the clerk of Alderman Manning." Both went into the room. The clerk spoke to him. He was put on the car. Alderman Manning had said, "When you get Leech on the car, let him remain on it; till you make him vote." He did come and vote. I went back. I did not see Leech for a couple of days. I saw Alderman Manning, and he said, "I'll wash my hands out of it." "You have a right to pay me," said I. He also said, "I have no call out of my own ward, and if Mr. Birch engaged to pay you, he should do so, for he has means enough." I called back on Mr. Birch; he ordered me out. I summoned him before the Lord Mayor. He (Lord Mayor) asked me, had I a written agreement or a witness, and when I said I had not, he dismissed the case.

4392. For whom were you to vote?—For Sir Arthur E. Guinness.

4393. Mr. Birch, you said, observed that nothing could be done?—Nothing done till after the election, but that we should put our hands into our pockets and meet whatever the expenses was; that he knew me and I knew him, and he would pay me; that they could not get any money now because they might be sworn, but if I made any concession, whatever that was, he was willing to pay.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh, Q.C.

4394. As I understand you, you first made an offer of the voters to Mr. Fitzgerald?—Yes; I told him what Leech told me.

4395. You were a Liberal?—Yes.

4396. What day was it you were with Mr. Fitzgerald?—I was there this day week.

4397. How soon after that did you go to Mr. Birch?—I did not go to him since.

4398. You are a Liberal; you had a discussion with Mr. Leech, and then you went to Mr. Fitzgerald's, upon what day before the election were you with Mr. Fitzgerald?—It was about a fortnight.

4399. How often were you there?—I was there myself; I only spoke to him on that occasion about Leech.

4400. How often were you there before the election?—Four or five times.

4401. Were you at the office of Mr. Fitzgerald at the time you say you were in treaty with Mr. Birch for buying the votes?—No; I called upon Mr. Fitzgerald on other business, I wanted to get work.

4402. For yourself?—Yes.

4403. And a little money?—The money was not going.

4404. What brought you the second time to Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—I had a note from Mr. Pim, Sir Dominick Corrigan, and the Rev. Dr. Spratt, to get work.

4405. And you gave the three letters to Mr. Fitzgerald?—Yes.

4406. Were you at the same time in treaty with Mr. Birch?—No.

4407. About a fortnight before the election you were at Mr. Fitzgerald's office when you offered the votes; how soon after that did you get the recommendations from the three gentlemen?—I had the recommendation from Mr. Pim before the election, because he wrote to those gentlemen in Eustace-street, Mr. Watson and Mr. Molloy, to give me employment as soon as the election commenced, and they wrote back to say the first opportunity I should have it.

4408.—Where is that letter?—I do not know what became of it. Now I recollect, I sent it to the committee-rooms to Mr. Molloy.

4409. You sent the letter you received in reply to Mr. Molloy?—Yes; I went to the committee-rooms, I would not be let upstairs, and I had to show my authority; I was not employed.

4410. What brought you to Mr. Fitzgerald's office the third time?—I thought I would get employment; for Mr. Dwyer told me if anything was going at all upon that day I should be employed.

4411. You

4411. You sought employment from Mr. Pim and Sir Dominick Corrigan, though you had agreed to sell the votes?—I did not sell the votes. Mr. Birch the night before the polling bid me meet him in the office.

4412. Was it that night you were to make arrangements?—No; the morning of the polling.

4413. Was that before you went to Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—No, I went there long before that.

4414. Upon the morning of the polling you were there seeking employment; you called to Mr. Birch the morning of the polling. When where you at Mr. Fitzgerald's last, before the election?—About two days before; Mr. Dwyer told me there were too many hands and no money to pay.

4415. Did you let him know you were in treaty with Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunkett?—No; I did not, I was not treating in Sir Arthur Guinness's committee-room.

4416. Not at that time; upon your oath, when you asked money from Mr. Birch did he not tell you he had nothing to say to you, that he had no money, and that if the price of one glass of whisky would buy the 24 votes, he would not give it?—No; he said the contrary, he said I should put my hand in my pocket as well as himself, and keep it like a nut-shell.

4417. Then you understood that he would pay you?—Yes, and the 24 others.

4418. Did you go to Mr. Fitzgerald and tell him that?—No.

4419. They did not send you to Mr. Birch?—No; certainly not.

4420. You went yourself?—No; I met Mr. Birch after my coming out of Mr. Fitzgerald's office, by accident.

4421. How near to the office is it?—Suffolk-street and Mr. Fitzgerald's office are near.

4422. Walking out of Mr. Fitzgerald's office, the office of the solicitor for Mr. Pim and Sir Dominick Corrigan, you met Mr. Birch by accident?—Yes.

4423. And meeting him by accident, of course you introduced the subject of selling the votes of these men?—I had no occasion to sell them.

4424. Did you vote yourself?—At the last election I did, but not for 30 years before.

4425. Did you not summon Mr. Birch before the Lord Mayor?—Yes.

4426. And did you not swear that he employed you to bring up 24 voters?—I told the Lord Mayor that Mr. Birch told me to bring up the 24 voters.

4427. Did you hear Mr. Birch swear before the Lord Mayor?—Yes.

4428. And did not the Lord Mayor say, when you had no written agreement, and depended only upon the word of Mr. Birch, there was not any evidence, and that he should dismiss the case?—I did.

4429. Did not Mr. Birch swear that every word you spoke was a lie?—He denied it, certainly.

4430. Did you not swear before the Lord Mayor, that Mr. Birch agreed to pay each of the 24 voters, 3 l. each?—No, I told the Lord Mayor what I have sworn here; he asked me would 3 l. do; I said that I could not tell, that I would bring them to him; and he said that whatever I did upon my own concession, to do so, but upon no account to lose them.

4431. Do you know what "plant," means?—Yes, and there is a Birch plant to whip a fellow.

4432. You are playing upon the word Birch?—Yes, and he whipped me, because as a gentleman I took his word, and when he got all the value out of me, he walked away.

[Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Meredith was then recalled, and in reply to Mr. Heron said, reverting to the question put to him at a previous stage of the proceedings, that he had looked over the payments made in the three wards, and no such name as that of the witness Noblett appeared in the books.

GEORGE BOOTH, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

4433. WHO canvassed you previous to the last election?—Mr. Warren.

4434. Do you know what his christain name is?—Benjamin Warren.

4435. Did he call at your residence?—He did.

4436. Did you see him the first time he called?—No.

4437. Did you see him the second time he called?—I see him in another person's place.

4438. Where was it that you saw him?—In Mr. Jesson's; the man that is dead.

4439. What did he say to you when you saw him there?—There was very little conversation then; he desired us to meet him at 7 o'clock in the morning.

4440. On what day did you see Warren at Jesson's?—To the best of my opinion it was Tuesday, the day before the election.

4441. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Are you a free-man?—I am.

4442. Mr. O'Shaughnessy.] What did Warren say to you when you saw him on the Tuesday at Jesson's?—He only desired us to call at Inns Quay in the morning.

4443. In the morning you called at Inns Quay?—Yes.

4444. Is that the Ward committee-room?—Yes.

4445. At what hour did you call there?—At about 7 in the morning.

4446. Did you go with anyone there?—Yes, there were four of us went together.

4447. Who were the other three?—A man of the name of Hill, and Bailey, and Jesson, the man that is dead.

4448. You all went up to the Ward committee-rooms?—Yes.

4449. Whom did you see when you went on there; did you see Benjamin Warren there?—Yes.

4450. Were there many others there?—There were; there was another man named Mr. Moore.

4451. Was he a solicitor?—Yes.

4452. What occurred then; did Warren or Moore say anything to you?—Yes.

4453. What did they say?—They desired us to go up to Green-street.

4454. Did they say anything else?—He brought brought the four of us to the Scotch-house, Findlaters, and we had some drink.

4455. Who paid for the drink there?—Warren.

4456. What did he say?—He told us we would be all well satisfied.

4457. Where did you go then?—We came back again and went into the tally-rooms.

4458. Where?—In Halston-street.

4459. Whom did you see there?—Mr. Warren.

4460. Warren was with you all the time?—Yes.

4461. He went up on a car with you, did he? No, we walked up.

4462. What did Warren say to you there?—He told us to go over to Green-street to poll.

4463. Did you all go to poll together?—We did.

4464. For whom did you vote?—For Guinness and Plunket.

4465. What did you do after having voted?—We came out, and we met Mr. Warren again, and we were asking him for some money, and he said he had no money at present; but he gave us some drink, and he told us not to be afraid, we would be well rewarded.

4466. When he said he had no money at present, did he say you would have it at any future time?—Oh, yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

4467. When you were canvassed on the part of Guinness and Plunket, did you promise to vote for them?—Before?

4468. Yes?—No.

4469. Were your principles the same?—No; I never voted.

4470. You never voted before?—I did often.

4471. Were you a Liberal or a Conservative?—Always on the Liberal side.

4472. Had you been at Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—I was, but not till I was brought there.

4473. When were you at Mr. Fitzgerald's?—A fortnight yesterday.

MICHAEL STEED, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

M. Steed.

4493. ARE you a Freeman?—Yes.

4494. Did you vote for Guinness and Plunket?—I did.

4495. Before the last election did you go to the committee-rooms, 48, Dame-street?—I did.

4496. Did you apply for employment there?—Gratuitous employment I applied for.

4497. Did you sign a paper that you were to be employed gratuitously?—Yes.

4498. Who asked you to sign that paper; was it Mr. White, the attorney?—I really could not tell exactly. It was the attorney that bade me to go down and sign the paper.

4499. You saw Mr. White there?—I did.

4500. Was it after you saw Mr. White that you signed the paper that you were to work for 4474. Who called upon you?—A man of the name of M'Quire.

4475. What did he say to you?—He asked me would I go down, and I said I would.

4476. Would you go to Mr. Fitzgerald's?—Yes.

4477. Did he promise you money to go?—He said I would be paid for my time.

4478. Did he threaten you if you did not come?—No, he did not.

4479. Did he say you would be punished if you did not come and give your evidence?—No.

4480. He promised you money, and you went?—I did.

4481. Did you get any money?—A pound.

4482. Were you promised more?—I was promised to be paid for my time.

4483. You got a pound as earnest, you know. How much were you promised for your time?—I was not promised anything.

4484. Except for your time?—Yes.

4485. Except by Mr. Fitzgerald?—Yes.

4486. Had you ever been at that office before the election?—Never in my life.

4487. Were you there a second time?—No.

4488. Then you gave any information that you had to give?—I did.

4489. You did not get any money from Mr. Warren?—No.

4490. Where is Findlater's, the Scotch house?—At the corner of King-street.

Re-examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

4491. For whom did you vote in 1865?—I voted always on the Liberal side.

Mr. Heron stated, that from the minutes of proceedings in Arran Quay Ward it appeared that Benjamin Warren was in the committee.

4492. Mr. O'Shaughnessy (to the Witness).] Where do you live?—In Foster-street, Church-street.

[The Witness withdrew.

nothing whatever?—I believe I signed a paper before, that I would work for nothing.

4501. How many times did you sign a paper that you were to work for nothing?—I signed one in Sackville-street.

4502. And another where?—Another in Dame-street.

4503. On the day of the election did you go to Green-street?—Yes, I did; Halston-street and Green-street first.

4504. At what hour did you go there?—I was there about five minutes before eight.

4505. Did you meet a young gentleman there?—I did.

4506. Would you know him again?—I would not.

MR. THOMAS ORMSBY, was called on his subpoena, and was directed to stand forward.

Mr.
T. Ormsby.

4507. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Did you see that young gentleman there that day?—I did not to my knowledge; I seen a great many, but I do not recollect seeing that man's face at all.

4508. Did you get any list from any young gentlemen?—I got a list list of the books.

4509. And did you work about bringing the freemen to the booths?—I did, from my own mind.

4510. Of course. Did you see a freeman named John Wilson in the middle of the day?—I did; I seen him voting.

4411. Did

Mr.
T. Ormsby.
—
27 January
1869.

4511. Did he tell you he had got any money?
—About half-past two o'clock in the day he showed me money he had got.

4512. Did he get it for his vote?—He voted at about half-past 11 or 11 o'clock.

4513. Mr. Justice Keogh.] He showed you money, and said he had got it for his vote?—No, he said no such thing; he did not tell me that; he showed me money, and he said "Come on, I'll treat you," said he, "on what I've got."

4514. Mr. Heron.] That was after he voted?—After he voted; about half-past 11 o'clock.

4515. Did you see Campbell there?—I see him in the course of the day.

4517. Did you see him after you saw Wilson;—I did.

4517. Did Wilson point Campbell out to you, and you out to him?—I asked Wilson where he got it, and he pointed to a man; he said his name was Molloy, and he pointed out this gentleman to me, Mr. Molloy (pointing to a person in court).

4518. Was that the man he called Molloy?—It was.

4519. Did Wilson then treat you in a public-house in Bolton-street?—He did.

4520. Did he give you the tip to go over to Campbell?—He did not; I did not want the tip.

4521. You knew it?—He told me to go to Mr. Molloy before that.

4522. Did you then go over to Molloy?—I did.

4523. Although you called him Mr. Molloy, did you know him before in another name?—I did not know what his name was.

4524. Did you know him before?—I did not.

4525. Had you seen him before?—I had seen him before.

4526. Had you seen him before at the registration of the freemen at the Four Courts?—I might, but I did not know his name.

4527. But you do remember having seen him down at the Four Courts?—Yes.

4528. And you recognised him by his appearance?—Wilson showed him to me.

4529. Did you go up to Campbell?—Yes.

4530. Had you voted at this time?—I polled at half-past eight in the morning.

4531. Did you ask Campbell for anything?—What I said was, "Will you do the same with me as you have done with Wilson."

4532. Now stand up and describe to his Lordship what Campbell did?—Campbell bid me go to the devil, I think, or something like that.

4533. What did he do next?—He bade me wait awhile; Campbell told me first to go to the devil, and I stood there, and then he bade me wait a while, and about ten minutes after he came up and he pointed out a gentleman, and I went with the gentleman, and I got a bit of a ticket in my hand, and Wilson was after telling me where to go; and I did not wait many minutes.

4534. Of what sort of appearance was the young gentleman that gave you the ticket?—He was a slender young man in a tight jacket.

4535. Do you mean that he was a boy with a short jacket?—What you term a boy man.

4536. About how old was he?—He might be, as well as I could recollect, from 20 to 25.

4537. What did he tell you to do with the ticket?—Not a word; I didn't wait.

4538. Did you know where to go to?—I did.

4539. How did you know where to go to?—Wilson showed me the house.

450. Did you go to 76, Capel-street?—I did.

4541. When you went to 76 Capel-street was the hall-door open?—It was.

4542. Who was there?—No one that I seen.

4543. Did Wilson tell you before you went in anything about his having got the money at Capel-street?—He did.

4544. That he got it behind a screen?—Yes.

4545. Did you then knock at the front parlour?—I did, and opened the door.

4546. Did you see any men in there?—I see a couple of men, but I didn't take time to look at any one.

4547. You knew where to go to?—Yes.

4548. I suppose you have voted at every election since you were 21 years of age?—Since I got my freedom.

4549. Did you go behind the screen; did you go up to the door of the room?—I went to the door.

4550. Did you get a 5*l.* note?—I got an envelope with a 5*l.* note in it.

4551. In the envelope?—Yes.

4552. Did you look at the envelope before you left the house?—Nay, I could not tell you whether there was a direction on it or not; I held my hand this way (describing the same), holding the ticket, and I got the envelope and put it in my pocket, and I went out the back way, and I took and opened the envelope, and I found there was a 5*l.* note in the envelope, and I put it in my pocket.

4553. Now, come back to Green-street for a moment; after you got your ticket, and before you went for the money to Capel-street, did you see George Hagarty?—I did, indeed.

4554. A freeman?—I believe he is a freeman.

4555. Do you belong to any guild among the freemen?—The freemen's guilds are broken up now; there is no guilds at all now.

4556. You saw George Hagarty?—I saw George Hagarty.

4557. You had your ticket then?—I did.

4558. And you knew what it meant?—I did, perfectly.

4559. Did you know how much you were to get?—I did; I knew that there was a 5*l.* note in the envelope.

4560. How did you know how much you were to get?—How did I know; whatever was going.

4561. Did more people tell you what was going besides Wilson?—Nobody told me except Wilson.

4562. And you knew, as a freeman, you were were entitled to it?—Nay, I didn't think I was entitled to it at all.

4563. While you had your ticket, and before you went to Capel-street, you said you saw George Hagarty?—Yes.

4564. Did you point out to him the young man?—He was following me down the street.

4565. Hagarty?—Yes.

4566. To get his tip?—Yes, as much as to say, "There is the man."

4567. Whom did you point to?—The chap that was after giving me the ticket.

4568. Did you see him give George Hagarty a ticket?—Indeed I did not; I did not wait.

4569. Then, you went down and got your 5*l.*, and went home with your 5*l.*?—I did.

4570. And you kept your 5*l.*, and gave none of it to Campbell or Molloy?—Not a farthing.

Mr.
T. Ormsby.
27 January
1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

4571. When were you found out?—I was found out by Wilson.

4572. How long ago?—Do you mean after the election or before?

4573. I mean after the election?—Wilson told me that Hagarty had sworn information against me, and that I would certainly get a subpoena, but I tried to avoid the subpoena, and I went from one house to another, and we went over to Abbey-street, and I spoke to a young gentleman there, and he told me not to avoid any such thing, but to take it.

4574. That was very proper advice. Did you go to Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—I went to Mr. Fitzgerald's office, when I got the subpoena to go to the Four Courts last Thursday; and I read in the "Times" newspaper that it was elections, and I went to see who was to pay me for my day for being in the Four Courts last Thursday.

4575. I hope they paid you?—I met Wilson on the road, and he said I might just as well say the evidence I had to give here, and that I would get 2*l.*, and that he would get 1*l.* for going with me here.

4576. Did Wilson then suggest to you what you should say when you came here?—No one suggested to me what to say when I came here.

4577. Were you promised any more money?—I was promised to be paid liberally; Mr. Fitzgerald told me so, or something of that sort.

4578. How much did Mr. Fitzgerald give you?—He gave me the 2*l.*

4579. What day was it when he told you that?—On Thursday night last.

4580. He had some hesitation about you at first, I believe?—I do not know; they brought down Hagarty's informations and showed them to me.

4581. Then Hagarty had sworn informations?—He had.

4382. And not only did they give you the money, but they brought down Hagarty's informations?—Before they gave me the money.

4583. Did anybody in that office tell you that you would be imprisoned for two years?—No; but I heard through the City that I would.

4584. With respect to the money that you say you got upon the day of the polling, you did not think you were entitled to it at all?—I did not have a halfpenny at two o'clock.

4585. You voted in the early morning, at half-post seven or eight o'clock?—About 20 minutes past seven; I had my mind made up to vote for Guinness and Plunkett a fortnight before that.

4586. That was in accordance with your principles?—Certainly; no one asked me to vote on either side.

4587. And you went and voted?—Yes; to try what I could do for the cause.

4588. Up to two o'clock in the day you had no expectation of getting anything?—No; not a halfpenny, until I met Wilson.

4589. Until you met that person who is said to be Mr. Molloy?—Yes; Wilson told me his name was Molloy.

4590. When he told you to go to the devil, what did you say?—I said nothing.

4591. And it was entirely from what Wilson told you that you knew where to go, was it not?—Entirely from what Wilson told me.

4592. Had you up to that moment the slightest idea that you would have gotten anything for having voted?—No, I had not, until I seen the money in his hand.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES DOYLE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton.

J. Doyle.

4593. WHERE do you reside?—No. 5, Lovelance.

4594. Are you a freeman of the city of Dublin?—I am.

4595. Were you canvassed by any one before the last election?—Two gentlemen called to my house, but I was not at home.

4596. On behalf of whom were you canvassed?—Both sides.

4597. Did they call upon you more than once?—They did.

4598. What answer did you give?—I told them I had not my mind made up.

4599. And you refused to go unless you were paid?—I asked them what was going.

4600. What did they say?—They called to me where my horse was, and I met them.

4601. Whom did you meet?—Both parties.

4602. Which party was it that asked you where was your horse?—No party asked me where my horse was; my horse and myself was on the stand the time they come to me.

4603. You asked some of those gentlemen, was there anything going?—Yes.

4604. Which party was that?—Well, I asked both parties.

4605. What answer did you get?—They said they could not say.

4606. On the morning of the election, did anybody call upon you?—They did.

4607. Who?—I didn't know his name.

4608. From what side did he come?—He came from Sir Arthur Guinness's.

4609. Did he ask you to go to vote?—He did.

4610. Did you go with him?—I did.

4611. Did he say anything to you before you went?—I asked them, would I get anything for my time, and they said they could not say.

4612. Do you know a Mr. Erson?—I do.

4613. Is that Mr. Erson, of Henry-street?—Yes.

4614. Were you introduced to him?—I was.

4615. What did you say to Mr. Erson?—I asked Mr. Erson what was going for a vote, and he said he couldn't do anything; it was not in his power for to do anything.

4616. Did you say to Mr. Erson that you should be paid for your time?—I did.

4617. What did he say in reply to that?—He said it was not in his power to do anything, but he would see after the election being over; if there was anything going he would see me right about it.

4618. Did he say when the election would be over?—Yes.

4619. Did he say you would be all right?—He said if there was anything going he would make me all right.

4620. After that, where did you go to?—I went to Green-street.

4621. Who

4621. Who went with you?—Two young men.

4622. Were those the same two young men who had canvassed you before in the morning on behalf of Sir Arthur Guinness?—Yes.

4623. Did any of those gentlemen hand you a card?—No.

4624. Neither of them?—I voted with my own card. I had a card of my own that I got in an envelope, by post.

4625. Are you able to read?—A little.

4626. Did they state to you that Mr. Erson would see you paid?—No, they gave me no answer to that effect; but they said, "Come up to Mr. Erson;" and he would let me have an interview with him, and when I had an interview with Mr. Erson, Mr. Erson told me what I am after telling you.

4627. But after you had seen Mr. Erson, did they state that Mr. Erson would see you paid?—I had no conversation with him of the sort afterwards.

4628. Did you vote?—I did.

4629. For whom did you vote?—For Guinness and Plunkett.

4630. Did you vote for Guinness and Plunkett, in consequence of what Mr. Erson had said to you?—Well, I cannot say altogether; it was an introduction. I voted for Guinness on the former election.

4631. Was what Mr. Erson said to you an inducement to you to make you vote for Guinness and Plunkett?—Well, it was not.

4632. After the election, did you call to see Mr. Erson?—I did.

4633. What did you call to see Mr. Erson for?—I called on him to see if I was going to get anything.

4634. Was it not to be paid for your vote?—Certainly, I expected so.

4635. Did you not expect to be paid for your vote?—I did.

4636. Did you not go to Mr. Erson for that purpose?—I did.

4637. Did Mr. Erson give it to you?—He did not.

4638. What did he say to you?—He said he could not do anything; it was not in his power.

4639. Did he tell you to call upon him again?—He did.

4640. Did you call upon him again?—I did.

4641. Did he say anything more to you?—He gave me the same reply, to call again.

4642. Did he give you any reason for asking you to call again?—He said there was a petition against us and there could be nothing done.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Heron stated, that in the minutes of the Rotunda Ward, the name of William Henry Erson, appeared on the list of the General Committee.

MICHAEL KELLY, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

4643. ARE you a House Painter?—I am.

4644. What ward are you in?—Arran Quay Ward.

4645. Are you a lodger?—I am a lodger.

4646. Were you canvassed by Benjamin Warren before the last election?—I was.

4647. Was that at your own house?—We met accidentally on the quay.

4648. What did he say to you then?—He shook hands with me, and he said, "Well, how are things going on now?" "Relative to what?" said I. "About the election;" he says, "Are you engaged in it?" "No, I am not engaged," said I, "for I have a vote, and I would not be employed on the Liberal side; Mr. White told me that he would not employ me." "You were very busy at the last election," he said; "Yes, I was," says I, "and I canvassed you at the last election, and you did not vote for me;" "Never mind that," said he, "Will you vote for Guinness and Plunkett this time? I am their agent." "Well, I don't know," said I, "I may do." "Well, make up your mind," says he, "I will call again."

4649. How long was this before the election?—About six or eight days; the next day but one I met him on Ormond Quay, and he said, "You are the very man I was looking for." "Well," says I, "I am here now;" "Well," says he, "have you made up your mind to vote for me; the fact of it is," he says, "I know by hearsay that you are one of the oldest inhabitants in the Arran Quay Ward, and your influence could do a good deal in our behalf; now do you give us your interest, and you would not only be paid largely for your own vote, but you will be paid for every vote that you bring up besides." "Well then," said I, "I think I will."

4650. Was there anyone by while this was going on?—None. The next day but one he came to my own door, where I was standing, and he said, "Well, did you do anything for me since?" "I was speaking," said I, "with one or two parties but they did not promise, because they said that there was no surety of getting anything." "Well now," said he, "stick to them and get them;" and, said he, "Are you idle?" "I am," said I. "Do you get voters," said he, "and you shall not be standing at your shopdoor with your hands in your pocket, you will soon get into good Conservative work, that I promise you, and I will make a written statement," said he, "of your position; and to-night, between 10 and 11 o'clock I am to meet Mr. Guinness and Plunkett in the central committee-rooms in Dame-street, and I will lay your case before them; and," said he, "I am empowered for to tell you you will be well paid; and the two young men," said he, "that are up for the election are very nice young fellows, and as sure as there is a brewery in James's-street, so sure will you be paid." The next day I met him in Queen-street, this Benjamin Warren, and he told me was in a great hurry at that time, but that he had made things right with me so far. He says, "a few plates of glass would be of service to you; how much would half a score come to?" "About 25*l*," said I. "Oh," said he, "that is a mere nothing. Now said he "I am in a great hurry, I have a number of notes in my pocket." He said, "Do you know a man of the name of John Welch of Bow-street, a carpenter by trade?" "I do, well," said I, "many years." "Do you know a man of the name of Stoker, a freeman, living in No. 7, Barrack-street," said he. "I do," said I, "well." "Will you serve those notes on them?" said he.

O

In

J. Doyle.

27 January
1869.

M. Kelly.

M. Kelly.
1869.

In the evening of that day I and my brother went and served Stoker with one of the notes, and the other note we gave to Mr. White, the agent for Mr. Pim and Corrigan. The next morning, the 18th, I was as busy as I could be looking about voters for Pim and Corrigan (for I never intended nor would not under any circumstances vote for the other party), when two men came from the committee-rooms in Dame-street, as they said they were, came to my house; my brother was in the shop, and he said, "What do you want?" They said, "We want Mr. Kelly to come and register his vote for Guinness and Plunket."

4651. Mr. McDonogh.] Were you present?—No, I was not.

4652. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do not tell us what you were not present at!—However, I was coming across the street and I seen them, and they turned short round the corner and I seen them no more; but I did not vote for them any way.

4653. Mr. O'Shaughnessy.] Did you see the letter that you gave over to Mr. White?—I did.

4654. Was it in a form similar to that, do you know (showing a letter to the Witness)?

Mr. McDonogh objected to the question.

Witness.] I know what was in it.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the letter must be produced.

4655. Mr. O'Shaughnessy (to the Witness).] Where did you leave it?—I gave it to Mr. White, standing at his own door on the quay.

4656. Did you see Warren on the day of the polling?—Oh no, I did not go down near their polling at all.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

4657. You told his Lordship that you are a lodger?—Yes.

4658. Who canvassed you first; was it Pim and Corrigan's party?—I never was visited by either party personally, but I got circulars from them until I met Warren.

4659. And you intended to vote from the beginning for Pim and Corrigan?—Unquestionably.

4660. And you carried out that intention?—I did.

4661. Well, you had that intention all through?—All through.

4662. And it was false when you told Mr. Warren, when he asked you would you vote for Guinness and Plunket, that you said you did not know, and that you had not made up your mind?—To a certain degree.

4663. Was it not to every degree false?—It was; it was in order to get any secrets he had.

4664. To communicate those secrets, whatever they were, to the opposite party, of Pim and Corrigan?—No doubt.

4665. And then Mr. Warren spoke in a most unreserved manner to you upon another occasion; he thought 25*l.* a mere trifle?—A trifle.

4666. No amount of money could tempt you,

I suppose, to vote against Pim and Corrigan?—I certainly do believe conscientiously that no promises of either pay, pension, or reward would induce me to vote for Guinness and Plunket.

4667. I suppose 500*l.* would not tempt you in crisp Bank of Ireland notes?—Now such questions as that, you know, is quite irrelevant; there is no such thing, neither can it be said whether there would or no. Consequently there is no use in giving an answer to a thing that I know nothing about.

4668. But I want to see, you know?—But you cannot see.

4669. Conscientiously, suppose a bag of 500 sovereigns were offered to you, would you take it?—There is no such thing, and I cannot answer such questions as that.

4670. Would you take it?—My Lord, am I to answer such questions as that?

Mr. Justice Keogh thought that this question need not be pressed.

4671. Mr. McDonogh.] Now, as you are a conscientious man, it appears that Mr. Warren gave you two letters to deliver?—He did.

4672. May I beg leave, then, to ask you whether those letters were sealed?—No.

4673. And you promised to deliver them to those two persons?—I did.

4674. And you did not mean to keep your promise?—Well, at the time that he handed me the letters I did not decide upon anything. I said to myself, "Now I will give one of these letters; the other will answer the purpose of our committee."

4675. Was it a gummed envelope?—There was no envelope at all; it was such a bit of paper —

4676. And you were on the committee?—I was not indeed.

4677. Why do you call it "our committee"?—Because I belong to the party.

4678. And you thought it conscientious, having promised to deliver a letter to Mr. Stoker, to go and deliver it to Mr. White?—I would not believe myself bound by any promises to the opposite party.

4679. That is your view of what is conscientious?—Yes; exactly; because by referring to the other principles, I was then acting conscientiously.

4680. And you thought it perfectly conscientious to delude and to cheat?—

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that this question could not be put.

4681. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] How much money had you gotten?—About me?

4682. No; your own private affairs I would not touch; but from Mr. Fitzgerald?—I never got a farthing.

4683. But you expect some?—I expect to be paid for my loss of time; and why not?

[The Witness withdrew.]

GEORGE BOOTH, recalled; and further Examined by Mr. Heron.

G. Booth.

4684. Did you get that document from Mr. Benjamin Warren (showing a document to the Witness)?—I did.

Mr. Heron read the following document:—

"George Booth, 9, Henrietta-lane.—Please be at the committee-rooms on Wednesday morning, at seven o'clock, 3, Inn's Quay, Benjamin Warren."

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM WATKINS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

4685. WERE you in the Police?—I was in the old constabulary.

4686. Now, you are a stout fellow, speak up; have you a pension?—I have.

4687. Where do you live?—I live in Fin-glass.

4688. Do you know Mr. Henry Foster?—I do.

4689. Did he ever give you 3 l., on your oath?—He did.

4690. That is Mr. Henry Foster, of 34, Lower Mountjoy-street?—Yes.

4691. Did he give it to you along with Kemp and the other man Noblett?—He did not.

4692. When did he pay you the 3 l.?—It was after the county election.

4693. How long was it after the city election?—Of course the city election was before the county.

4694. The city election was on the 18th November; how long was it after that?—The Saturday following was the county election.

4695. When did he pay you the 3 l.?—Why, it might be a fortnight after; I am not positive.

4696. Have you known Mr. Henry Foster long?—Yes.

4697. Had he ever employed you before?—No.

4698. Where was it that ye paid you the 3 l.?—In his own house.

4699. At what hour of the night?—It was not at night at all.

4700. At what hour of the day?—It was in the evening.

4701. At what hour of the evening?—Well, I cannot say the hour.

4702. Was there any one by?—No, there was not.

4703. The night before the city election did you see Mr. Foster at the committee-rooms?—No; I saw him the night before the election in a room upstairs in a house where the committee-rooms was in, but not in the committee-rooms.

4704. Up in a garret?—No, not in the garret, but in the gentleman that owns the house's own drawing room.

4705. What is his name?—Well, I could not tell you.

4706. Oh, you will, sir?—Well, I am not able to tell you.

4707. Where were the committee-rooms?—They were in Dorset-street.

4708. Who told you to go there?—I met Mr. Foster in Dorset-street, and I went with him into that house and upstairs into the drawing-room.

4709. Were the committee-rooms on the ground floor?—They were.

4710. And the room you were in was the private drawing-room of the house?—Over them.

4711. I mean a gentleman's drawing-room furnished as a private drawing-room?—Certainly.

4712. Who were with you there?—Noblett and Kemp.

4713. Noblett, Kemp, you and Foster, and the gentleman?—I do not say that a gentleman was there at all.

4714. Did you see the gentleman?—No; nor I would not know him if I saw him.

Ward Book, for the purpose of finding out the address. W. Watkins.

4715. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Would you know the gentleman if you saw him again?—I would not.

4716. Did Foster tell you to go to No. 76, Capel-street, the following day?—He told me —

4717. Answer me first; did he tell you to go to 76, Capel-street?—He did, but I want to tell you the cause of it.

4718. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Answer the question; did he tell you to go to 76, Capel-street?—He did.

Mr. Heron stated that the Inn's Quay Ward committee-rooms were at 107, Upper Dorset-street.

4719. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Had you ever been in 76, Capel-street, before?—Well, it was about 12 or 13 years before that I was there; when Mr. Espie that died lived there.

4720. But you had not been there for 12 or 13 years?—No.

4721. At what hour were you to go there?—At eight o'clock in the morning.

4722. Did the three of you go there at eight o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

4723. Did you know you were to get 3 l.?—I did not.

4724. You did not know what you were to get?—No.

4725. You thought you would be liberally dealt with; of course, I mean paid for your work?—I do not know that I thought anything on the subject.

4726. Had you a table there?—Yes.

4727. And were you sitting at it?—We were.

4728. Did people come in and out during the day?—There did.

4729. Were you the only three people that remained permanently in that room during the whole of the day?—Yes.

4730. At what hour did Foster come there?—He came there at about half-past eight o'clock in the morning.

4731. Just to see that you were there; how long did you remain there?—We remained to — 4732. How long did Forster remain?—He did not remain many minutes; he went away again.

4733. Did you see Foster again there that day?—Yes.

4734. Was he in and out?—No, I think he came in the middle of the day and walked in to us, and asked us how we were getting on, and then walked out again.

4735. About what hour of the day was it that he asked you that?—I think it might be about 12 o'clock.

4736. Did you see him backwards and forwards again?—No, not until we were leaving at four o'clock in the evening.

4737. He came back at four o'clock in the evening?—Yes.

4738. How long was he there with you, then?—Not many minutes.

4739. Did he say it was all right?—He did not say so.

O 2

4740. What

27 January
1869.

W. Watkins.

27 January
1869.

4740. What did he say, then?—He said we might go home.

4741. Did you remain sitting at the table the whole of the day?—Well, I did most of the day.

4742. Had you any refreshments there all day?—Not a bit, except a crust of bread and butter that we brought in our pockets.

4743. Do you know Mr. James Forest?—I do not.

4744. Will you swear you have never seen him?—I might have seen him, but I do not know him.

4745. During that day, in the room that you were in, there was no person like the owner of the house, or the master of the establishment?—No.

4746. Then were the three men alone in that room all day?—Yes, except the people that were coming in, and in the other direction, through the door that was leading between the two parlours. There was some people coming in and out there.

4747. Did people come in?—They did.

4748. Strangers?—Strangers to me; I did not know them.

4749. When they came in, did they knock at the parlour door from the hall?—Sometimes they did, and it was generally open on the jar.

4750. And men came in?—Yes.

4751. Did you know any of the men that came in that day?—Not one of them; nor did I see many that came in, for I was sitting at the table with my back towards that.

4752. Did you sit at the table with your back towards "that," as you call it?—Yes, towards the parlour door, coming in from the hall.

4753. When the men came in, did they go over to the screen?—Well, I could not say; some of them did, that I saw, but I cannot say except what I saw.

4754. Say nothing except what you saw with your own two eyes?—Well, that is what I am saying.

4755. Did you see many men go over towards the screen?—I did.

4756. Was the screen before the door that led between the two rooms?—It was.

4757. What size was the screen?—It might be four or five feet wide.

4758. Was the screen so wide that you could not see what was going on between it and the door?—Certainly.

4759. Then you the whole day saw nothing of what went on between the screen and the door?—No.

4760. How long did the men remain behind the screen before they came out again?—Well, I cannot say, but I judged by the sound of their feet going out, that some of them might be five minutes, and perhaps some of them three minutes; but I could not distinctly say.

4761. And they went out by the back door?—I could not say that.

4762. You did not see them?—No.

4763. But did you not hear the "hard word" given to go out by the back door?—I did not.

4764. Do you mean to tell his Lordship you did not know they were going out by the back door?—I did not.

4765. Who let you in in the morning at eight o'clock?—The door was open, and there was a man standing at it.

4766. Would you know him again?—I would not.

4767. You have been in the constabulary and accustomed to know people?—I was, but I am 22 years out, and I have given up the practice; but I tell you candidly that I do not think I would know him.

4768. Would you know him if you went down to Espie's to try and see the boy that keeps the door now?—The boy was not on the door when I went in.

4769. Do you know the boy I mean?—I have heard of a boy being on the door.—

4770. Who told you of the boy on the door?—I have heard it given in evidence, and I say he was not on the door when I went in.

4771. Do you know the boy?—I do not.

4772. Did you see him there that day?—I saw him coming out. I saw him at the house as I was coming out and leaving the place.

4773. Was he on the door then?—He was between the door and the parlour-door in the hall.

4774. Did you know what was going on?—I did not.

4775. Where is Kemp?—I suppose he is at home.

4776. Where does Kemp live?—He lives at Finglass.

4777. Whereabouts in Finglass?—Anyone would show him. He is an under-gardener of Dr. Duncan's.

4778. That is an under-gardener of the same Dr. Duncan whose servant Thomas Noblett is. I thank you for the information?—I tell you the truth, on my oath.

4779. Begin and tell it now?—I have done it all through.

4780. Do you mean to tell his Lordship that you did not know of voters being bribed behind the screen by the 5*l.* notes?—I do positively. I knew nothing whatever about it.

4781. Do you know Campbell?—I do.

4782. Is his name Molloy or Campbell?—Campbell I always knew him by.

4783. How long did you know him?—I knew him many years.

4784. What did you know him as?—I knew him to be engaged in the Conservative Registration Office in Dame-street.

4785. Were you ever engaged on the same department?—I was, relative to the Poor Law Guardians.

4786. You were inspector for the Poor Law Elections?—Yes.

4787. In the same office with Campbell?—Yes.

4788. How much were you paid, and how much was he paid?

Mr. McDonogh objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh allowed the objection.

Witness.] I really could not tell you that.

4789. Mr. Heron.] Before you went down to 76 Capel-street, did you see Campbell in Queen-street?—I did not see him that day, good or bad.

4790.] Did you come out of the front door in the evening?—I did.

4791. Did you hear the name of Henry Stephenson at 107, Dorset-street?—I did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

4792. About how many people came in and out that day?—Why, I think there might be between something about 10 or 15, as far as I can remember.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS WALLER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

4793. ARE you a voter?—Yes.

4794. Are you a freeman?—No, a lodger.

4795. What are you by trade?—A French polisher.

4796. Were you canvassed before the late election by anyone?—I was.

4797. By whom were you canvassed?—By Mr. Ballard and another. I think his name was Wilson. I heard the name, but I did not pay any attention to him—Mr. Ballard, 50, Aungier-street.

4798. Did Mr. Ballard canvass you for Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket?—Yes.

4799. When was it that Mr. Ballard first canvassed you?—About three weeks previous to the election.

4800. What did he say to you?—He asked me would I give my vote to Guinness and Plunket.

4801. And what did you say?—I told him I did not think I would. "At all events," says I, "I will see what money is going."

Mr. Hemphill stated that in the list of the general committee of the Mansion-house ward was the name of Richard Ballard, of 50, Aungier-street.

4802. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] What did Ballard say to you, and you to him, that first time that he canvassed you?—He said we ought to send Guinness and Plunket to Parliament, and all that sort of thing; and we had five or ten minutes conversation; and he took down my name, and so we went; and they came a second or third time, I think, but I cannot exactly say; and then they came again.

4803. What did you say?—I said I would not vote unless I see what money was going.

4804. What did he say to that?—He said, "I think there will be no bribery going, but, at all events, you will be treated decently."

4805. Did he tell you to go to any place then?—He did not.

4806. Did you see him afterwards?—He called up to my room after.

4807. The same Mr. Ballard?—The same Mr. Ballard, and the man that was with him before.

4808. Do you know the name of that man?—I heard it, but I do not remember; I think it was Wilson.

4809. About how long before the election was it that Ballard came to you the second time?—It was afterwards; a week.

4810. What did he say to you this time?—He asked me was I inclined to vote for Guinness and Plunkett still; and I told him I could not say; I did not know whether I would or I would not; I wanted to see on either side what they were about.

4811. When you said that, what did he say?—He told me that a few pounds would be a great lift to a poor man, and I said of course it would, and he told me, going away, that I would be dealt fair with.

4812. Did he tell you to go to any place?—Oh, no, he never told me to go to any place.

4813. After that, did you go to the committee-rooms?—I never went to the committee-rooms at all till the morning of the election, and Ballard came up to me about half-past eight o'clock with another —

29.

4814. Do you know who it was?—No, I do not. I told him I was going to breakfast, and he said he would wait till I was done, and he waited at the hall door for a bit, and he came up again, and I had not done again, so he came a third time, and he said, "Will you come over to my own house." "I will," said I. So I went over to his residence in Aungier-street, and I saw Mrs. Ballard (as I considered it was), the lady in the shop. Says I, "Is Mr. Ballard here?" "He is over in the committee-room." She said, "Will you go over." "No," said I; "I would rather see him here." So she sent a boy (I suppose it was his son), and he came over. She said, "Are you the man from Dean-street that he expected." "Yes, Maam," said I. So he came over and I crossed to the committee-rooms, and Mr. Johnstone was on the step of the door.

4815. That is the committee-room in Aungier-street?—Yes; that was my place; I live in Dean-street.

4816. Then, you crossed over with Mr. Ballard?—I crossed over with Mr. Ballard, and I saw Mr. Johnstone on the step of the door.

4817. Which Mr. Johnstone?—He is sexton of Peter's church; he keeps a servant's registry there.

4818. Do you happen to know his Christian name?—I think it is "Joseph," but I am not sure; I know the man on account of being a neighbour.

4819. Do you know where he lives?—I do, perfectly well.

4820. Where?—In Aungier-street, nearly opposite the church there; he keeps a servant's registry.

4821. Had you any talk with Mr. Johnstone then?—Mr. Ballard called Mr. Johnstone, and I told Mr. Ballard, says I, "Let me hear how it will be." Mr. Ballard called Mr. Johnstone, and Mr. Johnstone came in off the step, and brought me into the back parlour of the committee-room, and there was a man at the head of the table, a gentlemanlike man, and he said, "Have you got a card." I had two cards, one for Price and Corrigan, and the other for Guinness and Plunkett; that came by letter to me. I showed Guinness and Plunkett's card, and he looked at me and handed me to a young man, and said, "Go over and bring this gentleman over to vote." When I got to the hall I was time enough, and a man of the name of Leybourne, of Redmond's-hill, was standing in the hall, and we were glad to see each other. We are all neighbours. So I was waiting there when the big young man came out with me, and told me he was bringing me over to vote. "Wait a moment," said I, "I am time enough." So he lost himself like that I was not going over straight. So Mr. Johnstone came out in a few minutes and said, "Come inside to sit down in the committee-room. I went in, but I returned in the hall again, and then the second time he brings me in the committee-room, and we waited in the hall again. I went down then afterwards to the back door, and Mr. Johnstone says, says he, "Are you going to vote." "I am time enough," says I; "I am waiting to see a man that is named Steel." So Mr. Johnstone told me, "Why do you not go over and vote?" I said, "I am time enough." He told me he would guarantee me 10*l*. if I would vote.

4822. Mr.

T. Waller.

T. Waller.

1869.

4822. Mr. Johnstone said that?—Mr. Johnstone said that; I said that was very good. So with that he brought me in the committee-room again, but I did not sit down again, but I waited in the hall again for it, for it was not my intention to vote for Guinness and Plunkett, for I wanted to vote for Pim and Corrigan, which I did; and he then stands at the parlour door, and says, "Warren go over and vote;" I says "Time enough;" he said, "Warren go over and vote;" I says "Time enough;" he said "Warren, go over and vote, you are all right;" "I am time enough," says I. "I want to see a man named Steel," for I wanted Steel, for Steel told me about the money that was being out, for he said that Guinness's agent told him that he wanted a few thousands to seat the candidates, and they would not give it him; and he said he had but a few thousand pounds to seat the candidates, and "What is that to any one, if I pay freemen for looking at me and smoking." Steel told me this; for "Mr. Guinness," said he to me, "will sacrifice 50,000 l. or 60,000 l. on this new election, for the new voters, he knows, will put him out." Within the last couple of hours of the polling he said there would be 50 who would vote on Guinness's side. So I told

Mr. Leybourne I was going to Dame-street to see Mr. Steel. I did not go to Dame-street, but I turned into my own street and went home, for I was doing two chairs that belonged to a party that was in a hurry; a most respectable man.

4823. Did you afterwards vote?—I voted.

4824. For Pim and Corrigan?—For Pim and Corrigan, about two o'clock. This was about ten o'clock in the morning.

4825. Did you ever get any money from the other side?—Not so much as a drink of water.

4826. Did you afterwards have any conversation with Mr. Johnstone, the sexton, about this matter? Did Mr. Johnstone talk to you about it lately?—He did.

4827. What did he say to you?—He told me not to reveal what passed or he would be punished.

4828. Did he give you any money?—He did.

4829. How much?—Five shillings one night at his own hall-door, when I think he was half screwed.

Mr. Hemphill stated that the name of William Johnstone appeared on the list of the committee in Mansion house Ward.

[The Witness withdrew.]

AUGUSTUS MCCALL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Litton.

A. McCall.

4830. ARE you a freeman?—Yes.

4831. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

4832. For whom?—For Guinness and Plunkett.

4833. Do you know a man of the name of Campbell?—I know his name; I know his appearance.

4834. Is that the gentleman behind you (pointing to a person in Court)?—It is.

4835. Had you any conversation with him?—Never.

4836. Do you swear that?—I do.

4837. Did he ever promise you any money for voting?—Never.

4838. Since you voted?—No.

4839. Did you sign a paper?—No; I did not want to go about it at all.

4840. Did you ever go to the Conservative rooms at all?—No.

4841. Who brought you up to vote?—I brought myself.

4842. Did you vote by yourself?—I did.

4843. Had you seen Campbell that day before you voted?—Never; I never spoke to the man in my life.

4844. How do you know his name is Campbell?—I heard it in the court since I have been here.

4845. Will you swear that Campbell did not take you and bring you up to vote by the shoulder?—Never; I did not know the man in my life till I saw him in court now.

4846. At what time did you vote?—At about half-past ten o'clock.

4847. Did you ever state to anybody that Campbell had promised 4 l. a vote?—Never.

4848. Will you swear that?—I will; if there was any money offered, it was offered on the other side.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonagh.

4849. Who offered the money on the other side?—A man of the name of Molloy met me in Green-street that day.

4850. What did he offer you?—He offered me 3 l. to vote for Pim, and 5 l. to vote for Pim and Corrigan.

4851. And you refused him?—Well, I did.

4852. Would you know Molloy now, if you saw him?—We are acquainted together in business.

4853. Do you know where Molloy is?—I saw him in court.

4854. Did you see him with the other side?—I know he worked for the other side.

[The Witness withdrew.]

GEORGE PATRICK NUGENT, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

G. P. Nugent.

4855. ARE you a freeman or a rated occupier?—A rated occupier.

4856. Do you remember the time of the last election?—Yes.

4857. Did any one call upon you with reference to it?—Mr. Robinson called upon me.

4858. And canvassed you for Guinness and Plunkett?—He canvassed me for Guinness and Plunkett.

4859. How long was this before the election?—About a week.

4860. Did you see him?—No; he was out when I called.

4861. Did you call upon him?—I called upon him; he wanted to see me.

4862. What passed between you?—He asked me, would I give my vote for Guinness and Plunkett, and I said, I did not know. He commenced to speak to me about Guinness and Plunkett of the different meetings they had, and that they were very influential gentlemen, and that if I gave my vote to them I could not give it it to better parties. So, I told him, I had not made up my mind then, and I would see him again; he told me to call at the committee-rooms on Inn's Quay; and I did not call at the committee-rooms on Inn's Quay. I went to the central committee-rooms, in Dame-street. Trade was very bad, and I thought I might get some employment during the election from my own party, and I applied a couple of times, and I got no satisfactory answer. So, then, I went to the Conservative committee-rooms in Dame-street, and I asked for to see the conducting agent, Mr. Sutton; and I was told for to send up my name and address on a bit of paper; so I did so, and after a few moments I was told to go up stairs, and when I was going up stairs I met a gentleman on the stairs, and he asked me my business. So I told him I was going up to Mr. Sutton; he said, "What do you want?" So I told him I wanted to know if anybody would give me any employment in reference to the election. He asked me was I a voter, and I said, "Yes." "Well," says he, "if you can get a letter from any of the gentlemen; what ward do you belong to?" "The Arran Quay Ward," says I. "If you get a letter from any of the gentlemen," says he, "I will get you employment as a canvasser or check-clerk on the day of the election."

4863. Who was this gentleman?—That was Mr. White. So I then went over to the Inn's Quay committee-room, and I asked to see Mr. Robinson, and I was told he was out. So I was told to sit down and might be he would come in. So I sat down, and I was there for about 10 or 12 minutes, and there was a gentleman came in of the name of Mr. Saunders, and he asked me my business, and I told him that I was over in Dame-street inquiring after employment for the elections, and I was told if I got a letter from some gentlemen of the ward that I would be appointed. "Well," says he, "I can appoint you here," says he, "on the books. Are you a voter?" "Yes," says I. "Well," says he, "Are you a Liberal?" I said that I was; but of course, that I applied for employment from them, but I was refused it, and got no satisfaction, and that as I was not doing much work at present, that I would, of course, take up employment from them if they gave it to me. "Well," says he, "I suppose I can depend upon your being a person that will do your work. Do you know the neighbourhood of the ward well?" And I said, "I did." So he put my name down in a book, and said he would send it over to Dame-street to see me appointed, and that he was almost sure I should be appointed; but that I should act gratuitously. "Well," said I, "I should like to know whether I should be paid for my time"; and he said, that he and everybody here were acting under the form of gratuitously; but he assured me that I would be paid, and that he would be paid also; that I might rely confidently upon that; that I would be paid for my time. "And," says he, "I cannot employ you now, here," says he, "we have very many hands waiting about; but," says he, "you will be appointed as a poll-clerk somewhere on the day of the election." I then said, "Well, I am doing nothing at present, and, perhaps, I might get something to do in Dame-street. I was told that if I got a letter I might get employment over in Dame-street." So I got a letter then from Mr. Saunders over to Mr. Sutton in Dame-street. I went then with the letter to Dame-street, and I wrote my name on a bit of paper and sent it up the same as I did before, and I was directed up to the office to Mr. Sutton; and when I went in with this letter I handed it to Mr. Sutton. Mr. Sutton opened the letter and handed it to Mr. White, and Mr. White read the letter; and when he read the letter, he commenced to complain of the way in which they were transacting their business in Arran Quay Ward. So after reading the letter, he said, "You are a voter?" "Yes," said I, "you told me to bring this letter over." So I handed the letter to him, and he looked over it, and says, "Were you appointed?" "Well," says I, "my name was put down in Inns' Quay." So he said, "There is your name down; you are appointed already;" and he wrote on a slip of paper, which I got—4864. Is that it?—That is it. I went over to Arran's Quay Ward to present that to Mr. Saunders: "Set the bearer George Patrick Nugent, to work at once." So it was Mr. Saunders and Mr. Moore, their two agents at Arran's Quay Ward, and I gave it to Mr. Saunders, and he said, "Well, if Mr. White wishes to pay you for doing nothing," says he, "I do not care, so you can stop here; if Mr. White likes to pay you, so much the better for yourself." So I stopped there, and he told me, after stopping there half an hour or so with other canvassers, to call the next morning; but before I called, in the evening I got the letter.

Mr. Justice Keogh requested that questions might be put to the Witness which would elicit more pointed evidence.

4865. Mr. O'Shaughnessy (to the Witness).] Did you get a circular shortly before the election?—I got a circular to go to the office the next morning from Mr. Moore and Mr. Saunders.

4866. At all events you received his letter?—I did, and got a sheet the next morning.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do not speak until you are asked a question.

4867. Mr. O'Shaughnessy (to the Witness).] Did you receive this letter by post?—I did.

4868. And a card enclosed in it?—I did.

4869. What did you do with it?—I kept it.

4870. "Private. No. B 130. Referring to a communication, you are requested to write your name and address legibly on the enclosed card, and present the same to a person who will be appointed to receive it, at 3, Dame-street, two days after the election." When did you get that letter with this card in it?—The day before the election.

4871. What did you do with it?—Two days after the election I went to No. 3, Dame-street, and I presented this card to some gentleman that was in the back office, and he told me to go over to 47, Dame-street. So I went over there to 47, Dame-street, and I could get no satisfaction, but I was told to call back on the Wednesday after. So the next day—

4872. On what day did you call back at 47, Dame-street about the letter?—I went to 3, Dame-street, and I saw Mr. Hodson.

4873. Mr. Robert Hodson?—I think that is his name.

4874. What did he say to you?—He told me I would not be settled with until the Wednesday after. He told me that I might leave the circular and take the card; that the card would do.

4875. Did you agree to that?—I did.

4876. Do you see Mr. Hodgson here in court?—That is the gentleman (pointing to a person in court).

4877. What did he say to you about the card?—He told me to wait till the next Wednesday, and it would be settled.

4878. Did he ask you to leave any of those documents?—He asked me to leave the letter, and the card would do.

4879. Did you leave either with him?—I did not. “I had best,” says I, “take both of them; one would not be of much use without the other.”

Cross examined by Mr. Exham.

4880. You were employed by Mr. Saunders after you took the letter?—Yes.

4881. Do you recollect when you brought him the letter, his showing you anything that was printed on the wall of the office?—He was pointing to something that was printed on the wall of the office, which was called the people’s Act, and he said, “That is not it.”

4882. Did he not tell you to read that?—He did not.

4883. You swear that?—I do.

4884. Did he ask you whether you required any payment for your services?—I told him I did.

4885. Did he ask you whether you required any payment for your services?—He did.

4886. What did you say?—I said, I did.

4887. That you swear?—Yes, I told him that at the first.

4888. Did you do any work after that for two or three days?—I canvassed.

4889. Do you recollect coming back to him two or three days before the election, and asking if you were going to be paid then?—I came back after canvassing and losing my time two days after the election, and the day before the election.

4890. The day before the election?—Yes, the day before the election. I came back to him the day before that. The day before that there were some parties appointed at the committee-rooms in Sackville-street as check clerks and poll clerks, and I did not hear my name mentioned, so I wanted to know when I was not appointed, would he give me any money like, before hand.

4891. Did you, two days before the election, ask Mr. Saunders if he was going to pay you for the work you had done?—I did not; not in that way. I asked him would he not give me some writing assuring me that I would be paid, and he said nothing more than what he did before. He said I would be paid as well as he would.

4892. Did he ask you whether you ever had expected payment?—He did not.

4893. Did he turn you out of the office and tell you he would have nothing further to say to you?—No; but there was a Mr. Moore who said, “Go, now! We do not want your vote. I see what you are at. Go and give your vote to Pain and Corrigan, and I wish you may get 50*l.* for it.”

4894. Was that the day before the election?—That was the day before the election.

4895. Did you come into the committee-room where Mr. Saunders was, and see him on the morning of the election?—I saw him in the tally-rooms.

4896. Did you tell him you had come up to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—I did not.

4897. Did you tell him that you had come to vote?—I did not. He asked me had I voted, and I said, “No;” and he said, “Go and vote for Guinness and Plunket.”

4898. Did you come back in the evening and tell him that you had voted for Guinness and Plunket, and ask him then to pay you?—No, I did not.

4899. Nor the next day?—No, I did not. I went to him and asked him would he pay me for my time.

4900. Did you come after the election at all and tell him you had voted for Guinness and Plunket, and ask him to pay you for your time?—No, I did not.

4901. Did you tell him that you had voted?—I asked him to pay me for my time, and I went over to him to ask him why had he my name scratched off the book, because I went up to the office in Dame-street to Mr. White to get paid for my time. Then I went over to Mr. Saunders that you spoke of, for to ask him for payment for my time, and he said he got my name scratched off the book because I voted against them.

4902. You heard my learned friend ask you the question, Did you get this letter from Mr. White, or from Mr. Moore, or from Mr. Saunders?—I got that letter from Mr. Saunders to bring to Mr. Sutton.

4903. But the letter with the envelope in it: where did you get that?—By post.

4904. When did you get that?—It came on the morning like before the election.

4905. Did you show it to any of them the morning that you came down asking them about your vote; did you show it to Mr. Saunders?—I did.

4906. You went over to Mr. Hodgson afterwards.

4907. Two days after the election?—And you swear that he told you to go over to the committee-rooms and that you would be paid?—He did.

4908. Mr. Justice Keogh.] For whom did you vote?—For Pim and Corrigan.

[The Witness withdrew.

SAMUEL TUDOR BRADBURN, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

S. T.
Bradburn,
Esq.

4909. I BELIEVE you hold some position in reference to Sir Arthur Guinness?—I do.

4910. What is it?—Private secretary.

4911. Was it you who, as we have already heard, brought the cheques to the expense agents?—Some of them.

4912. Had you yourself any authority in the establishment to sign cheques?—No.

4913. Did you only bring those cheques as a messenger. I do not mean by saying “as a messenger” that it was in a manner derogatory to your position, but did you bring them by instructions of your principal?—I did.

4914. Did you bring any other cheques to any other person besides Doctor Beatty and Mr. Meredith?—No.

4915. Do you know Mr. Henry Foster?—I do know him.

4915. How

4916. How long have you known him?—I daresay five or six years.

4917. Have you known him as an intimate friend?—Well, no; he never was in my house.

4918. Nor you in his?—Yes I was. I was in his house.

4919. When were you in his house?—I daresay some six months ago.

4920. Was it on the business of the registration?—It was not.

4921. If it was private business I will say no more about it?—It was. I beg your pardon, when I say it was private business, it was in reference to a party that was put up for a club that I belonged to.

4922. I call that private business; did you bring the cheques from Sir Arthur to the Conservative Registration Society, No. 3, Dame-street?—No.

4923. Who did that?—They may have been sent, but I don't know who they went through.

4924. Do you mean to say that you knew nothing about that part of the business?—I do, most decidedly.

4925. How much was supplied to the Conservative Registration Society?—For what?

4926. For the Conservative Registration Society?—Do you mean the revision?

4927. Yes?—Well, I cannot exactly state the sum, but to the best of my knowledge I should say now from memory it was over 3,000 l.

4928. During last summer?—Yes.

4929. As far as you know?—Yes; I beg your pardon, nothing could come to the Conservative Registration Society without coming through my hands.

4930. So I was instructed; when did your cheques in favour of the Conservative Registration Society cease?—I cannot tell without looking through my books.

4931. Have you your memoranda here?—I have not.

4932. To whom did you give those cheques?—I did not handle them all, but to my knowledge they all came — 4933. In the course of business to whom did they go?—Well, they principally went through Mr. Goodman, who is the secretary of the Conservative Registration Society.

4934. Who was the paymaster at No. 3, Dame-street; was Mr. Hodgson?—I never saw him paying money, but he is the assistant secretary to the Conservative Registration Society at No. 3, Dame-street.

4935. The young gentleman in court?—There he is (pointing to a person in court).

4936. Was Mr. Foster supplied with any money?—No; I can distinctly say that he was not to my knowledge.

4937. You say that you are Sir Arthur Guinness's private secretary; do the money transactions (I do not mean the business transactions of the firm) of Sir Arthur Guinness, pass through your hands in the course of business?—All.

4938. Is there any one else for the business transactions of the firm?—Decidedly.

4939. Who is that gentleman who is the manager as regards the trade?—Well, there is a cashier.

4940. Does any one hold the same position as yourself as regards the firm, if I may so call it?—Yes, Mr. Beer; Mr. Beer has nothing whatever to do with the finance; he is the cashier. Mr. Beer has the same appointment with the firm as I hold as Sir Arthur Guinness's private secretary.

29.

4941. So I understand you to say; do you know Mr. William Johnstone?—Yes; I do know him.

4942. Did you yourself take any part in the business of the election?—I did; I canvassed for Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket on my own account.

4943. Did you know that Mr. William Johnstone was engaged in the committee-rooms?—No, I am not aware of it.

4944. Were you at the committee-rooms?—I was.

4945. But you never saw him there?—I have seen him once there.

4946. In what room did you see him?—In 48, Dame-street.

4947. Do you know the room that he had?—No.

4948. Did you see him in his own room or in the general public committee-room?—I am not aware that he had a room there.

4949. You did not see him in any room which appeared to be his own?—I did not.

4950. Do you know Mr. Parkinson also?—Yes.

4951. Were you at 48, Dame-street?—I was during the county election two or three times.

4952. Were you there before the county election?—No.

4953. You know Mr. Parkinson very well, I presume?—I do.

4954. Were you ever up-stairs in 48, Dame-street?—Certainly.

4955. Were you ever up-stairs in 24, Dame-street?—I was.

4956. Do you know this Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite?—I do.

4957. When did you see him last?—I do not think I have seen him for certainly two months.

4958. Did you see him about the time of the election?—I did not.

4959. Did you see him immediately before the election?—Well, I did not; it is more than two months ago.

4960. Did you see him a little more than two months ago; where did you see him?—I think I met Mr. Crosthwaite at the "Amicable" club, the last evening I saw him. On thinking over it, it is more than two months ago, a good deal.

4961. Have you known Mr. Crosthwaite long?—Yes, some time.

4962. Have you any reason to know where he is now?—I have not the slightest.

4963. You heard the evidence given to-day in court about him?—I did.

4964. You have no reason to know where Mr. Foster is?—Not the slightest.

4965. When did you last see Mr. Foster?—It is certainly four months ago.

4966. Then, you did not see him at all about the time of the election?—No.

4967. You know Mr. Crosthwaite socially as a gentleman?—I do.

4968. Were you ever up in his room in 24, Dame-street?—Never.

4969. Do you know that room?—No.

4970. Did you ever hear of it until the evidence was given here?—I did not.

4971. Then whatever payments were made by that gentleman, Mr. Crosthwaite, in that room, were not made by any money that you supplied directly or indirectly?—Most distinctly not.

S. T. Bradburn, Esq.
27 January 1869.

4972. Did you give any money to any other person except the person that you have named for the election?—I never gave any money for this election except through Dr. Beatty and Mr. James Creed Meredith.

4973. Do you know Mr. John Gifford?—I do.

4974. What is Mr. John Gifford?—He is a clerk in the Great Southern and Western Railway.

4975. He voted for Guinness and Plunket?—I do not think he did; I am certain he did not, because he had no vote at all.

4976. You are quite certain he has no vote at all?—I am quite certain he has no vote at all.

4977. Was he employed at the election?—He was, I believe.

4978. Was it you recommended him to that employment?—I did.

4979. In what capacity was he employed?—Either as tally clerk or poll agent, or something of that kind.

4980. Did you recommend other persons also?—I may have done so, if you will mention the names.

4981. Did you recommend other people?—I answered the question that I daresay I may have done. The fact is, that I have had so many applications from people for poll agents that I really cannot recollect. I wish to say that the reason I asked for Mr. Gifford to be appointed was because I had known him for 20 or 30 years.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN NETTERVILLE GERRARD, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

J. N. Gerrard, Esq.

4982. WERE you engaged in the last election for Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket?—I was, but not by anybody.

4983. Were you acting in their behalf?—I was assisting in the cause.

4984. Where were you stationed?—I was in my own office.

4985. I mean on the polling day?—In my own office.

4986. Where is that?—In 24, Dame-street.

4987. Had you anything to say to paying for cars?—Yes.

4988. How much did you pay for cars on the polling-day?—Well, I think it was somewhere about 250 l.

4989. Did you keep any account of it?—I did.

4990. Did you return that account to the expense agents?—No.

4991. Have you returned any account to the expense agents?—No.

4992. Were you paid that yet?—I was.

4993-4. By whom?—Through Mr. Richard Boyle. If his Lordship wishes, I will explain the transaction.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I would rather you would answer the questions put to you.

4995. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] Do you mean Boyle, Low, Murray & Co.?—Yes.

4996. You were paid that?—I was.

4997. When were you paid that?—Two or three days after the election; it was, I think, about four days after the election.

4998. How many cars were employed altogether?—I do not remember. We paid 1 l. 2 s. 6 d. to each car, and I think it was somewhere about 250 l. I do not remember the exact figures.

4999. Were all those cars used on the day of the polling?—They were.

5000. Did you yourself continue in your office all that day?—I did, except during the time I was away voting, and then the intelligence came from Kilmainham that the county of Dublin election was to take place, and I went upstairs to my own office, to my other rooms above, and commenced work for the county.

5001. Have you an office in 24, Dame-street?—Yes, the county room.

5002. Did the cars then collect in Dame-street?—No.

5003. Was there any particular place?—No; a few had collected in Dame-street.

5004. Did Mr. Boyle pay you by cheque, or how?—He paid me in cash.

Cross-examined by Mr. Purcell.

5005. I believe that at that time you filled the office of secretary to the County Registration Society?—Yes.

5006. Were you engaged either as agent or otherwise in the city election?—No.

5007. Your assistance was altogether voluntary?—Quite so.

5008. You managed, I believe, the entire of the car department on that occasion?—Yes.

5009. Do you know where the money to pay for the cars came from?—

Mr. Justice Keogh said that these questions had already been asked and answered.

Witness.] I myself collected about 50 l. for this fund, and I saw —

5010. I believe you received subscriptions?—I received subscriptions; I received myself to the amount of 50 l., and I saw, I think, upwards of 300 l. handed in evening after evening. Several gentlemen met, and their names were given in and the amounts handed in to Mr. Boyle, and then Mr. Boyle gave it to me.

5011. Were you present when the arrangement was first made as to the supply of those cars?—I was; in fact it was I made the arrangement myself.

5012. Were you present at any meeting when it was agreed that subscriptions should be collected for the purpose of paying this?—I was; I attended a meeting at Mr. Tisdale's, in Sackville-street; a number of gentlemen were present, and several of them handed in their subscriptions, and it was agreed that a fund should be raised, and that each gentleman should go among his friends and get subscriptions for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the cars, as the candidates were not allowed to do so.

5013. At that meeting were agents or any persons employed on behalf of Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket present?—Not that I knew of.

5014. Were any committee-men present to your knowledge?—No, not that I know of.

5015. Do you recollect that it was expressly stipulated that nobody should contribute to that fund who was in any way connected with the Dublin election?—Quite so; the greatest care was was taken to have no one connected with the fund who was connected with the canvass.

5016. Was the supply of cars carried out on the day of the election?—I had the names of all the carmen and their addresses, and each carman knew beforehand that he was to call at the residence of the agent, and the car was to be entirely under the agent, and each of our agents was paid, at least most of them were paid, and the car was to be entirely at their disposal and nobody else's.

5017. And the agents were to be paid out of that fund?—Yes; and they were to get the car and bring the voters to the poll, and the carman was to act under them, and be dismissed in the evening.

5018. Were any of the agents employed by you, also employed as agents under Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket?—None that I knew of.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. THOMAS ORMSBY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

5019. WERE you at Green-street on the polling day?—No, I was not.

5020. Do you know this man Campbell?—I only know him just by appearance; I did not know his name until I saw it in the paper.

5021. But you knew him by appearance before?—I did.

5022. Did you ever speak to him?—I think he came up to the office a couple of times to ask me to take out my freedom.

5023. Before you became a freeman?—I am not a freeman.

5024. How long ago was this?—Well, the first time that he came up was about a year-and-a-half ago.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that he did not want to know about what happened a year-and-a-half ago.

5025. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] You were not at Green-street?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Heron stated that in the lists of solicitors and general agents appeared the names of William Erson, George Tickell, C. H. Bohy, Robert Steel, Hugh McDonnell, Edward Purdon, R. L. Hodgson, Anthony Robinson, William M. Moore, H. G. Saunders, J. Norwood, S. D. Bradburn, Edward Lawler, Frederick Barlow, Peirce Creagh, John Byrne, W. J. Campbell, Arthur Bloxam, J. Flint, J. D. Fraser, William Vance, James Warren, John Ferguson, and Benjamin Warren. He also stated that in the case of the witnesses who had not appeared, he proposed to have the service of the subpoenas deposed to by affidavit; and that he would to-morrow make an application to the Court with regard to Thomas Gilligan, Henry Foster, James B. Fraser, and Davenport Crosthwaite.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that if the service of the subpoenas was proved, every process of the Court should be granted to compel the attendance of the witnesses.

Mr. Heron stated that that was the case for the Petitioners.

Mr. Butt applied to the Court to direct that the witnesses Bailey, Hagarty, Ferguson, and Johnstone should remain in attendance to be further examined.

Mr. Justice Keogh gave orders accordingly.

Mr. Heron applied to the Court for permission to examine other witnesses in case of any fresh discovery of evidence being made.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that any such application made by the learned Counsel would be duly considered by the Court.

Thomas Gilligan was called, but did not appear.

EDWARD DUNNE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

E. Dunne.

5026. Do you produce the original subpoena, dated the 18th of January, in the 32nd Victoria?—Yes.

5027. Turn to the endorsement on the back of it; do you know Thomas Gilligan, of 10 Malpas-street?—I do.

5028. When did you serve him with that subpoena?—On the 19th of January.

5029. Did you give him a copy, and show him the original?—I did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Heron applied for an attachment for contempt against Thomas Gilligan, who had been called in court repeatedly every day of the sitting.

Mr. Justice Keogh directed the order to be signed accordingly, and directed the sheriff to take the necessary steps to make Gilligan amenable.

Henry Forster was called, but did not appear.

Davenport Crosthwaite was called, but did not appear.

Mr. Heron stated that it had been found impossible to serve these witnesses personally with a subpoena, and he asked Mr. McDonogh if he undertook to produce and examine Henry Forster and Davenport Crosthwaite.

Mr. McDonogh stated that he had nothing to do with either of these persons, and had no dominion over them.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that he was of opinion that Mr. Heron was justified in making the application, and that he should require Mr. Heron to prove whatever service had been made upon these persons.

Mr. Heron stated that both last night and this morning every step had been taken to secure the attendance of Foster and Crosthwaite, but without success.

James B. Fraser was called, but did not answer to his name.

Mr. Heron inquired whether Mr. McDonogh intended to produce and examine Fraser.

Mr. McDonogh declined to answer any questions on the subject.

WILLIAM KEMP, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

W. Kemp.

5030. In whose employment are you?—Mr. Duncan's.

5031. That is Dr. Duncan, of Finglass?—Yes.

5032. Do you know Mr. Henry Foster?—Yes, I do know him.

5033. Did he ever give you 3*l.*?—Yes.

5034. Are you still in the employment of Dr. Duncan?—Yes.

5035. What are your wages in that employment?—I have 10*s.* 6*d.* a week.

5036. As a gardener?—Yes.

5037. Can you write?—I am not a good writer.

5038. Can you write?—No.

5039. I suppose you can read a little?—A very little.

5040. How long have you known Mr. Henry Foster?—I have known him these last two or three years.

5041. When did he come to you about any employment for which you were to get 3*l.*?—Well, he did not come to me at all.

5042. Did you see him in the committee-rooms in Dorset-street?—He was there before; I had seen him the evening before.

5043. Where did you see him the evening before?—In Dorset-street.

5044. Is that the committee-rooms?—No; I do not know where the committee-rooms are.

5045. Were you never in the committee-rooms?—No.

5046. What did he tell you?—He told me that there was going to be a contest for the county, and he asked me for to come in and assist, and I done so.

5047. Can you read at all?—No.

5048. Or write at all?—No.

5049. Was there any other gentleman that told you where to go to except Mr. Foster?—Well, there was not. I got a letter then to go at at eight o'clock the next morning, and he took me into the room, and we went in.

5050. Did he take the three of you into a room?—Yes.

5051. Did he put you to sit down on chairs?—Well, he did not put us to sit down on chairs, but we took our seats ourselves.

5052. Had you ever been employed by Mr. Foster before?—No.

5053. How long have you been gardener at Dr. Duncan's?—I have been there these last two years now.

5054. Had you known Watkins a long time before this?—Oh, yes.

5055. And Noblett, your fellow-servant?—Well, he is working in the place along with me.

5056. Did you ask leave of your master to go away?—Well, I did not.

5057. Nor your fellow-servant?—No!

5058. Did Mr. Henry Forster put you down sitting at the table?—He did not, I sat down myself.

5059. Did the other two men sit down?—Yes, they did.

5060. Was a screen up when you went into the room?—It was up.

5061. Of what size was the screen?—I could not describe what size it was, for I did not look at it.

5062. What colour was it?—I am not able to say.

5063. Was that screen hiding a door?—I do not know.

5064. Do you know what was behind that screen at all?—No, I do not.

5065. Were you told not to go behind the screen?—I was not.

5066. Might you have gone there if you liked?—I don't know whether I might or might not, but I didn't go there.

5067. Do you know any of the men who are employed in Mr. James Forrest's printing office?—Yes.

5068. Did you see any of them there that day?—I did not; there was no person in the room, only the two men that were along with us.

5069. And none of the people of the house came into that room?—No.

5070. Who let you in at the door?—Mr. Foster came in along with us.

5071. Where did Foster meet you that morning?—He met us in the street, in Dorset-street.

5072. Outside the committee-room. Did he tell you to be there in the morning to meet him?—He told us to meet him in the street.

5073. In what street?—Dorset-street.

5074. What part of Dorset-street?—Upper Dorset-street.

5075. Near whose public-house?—There was no public-house.

5076. Near whose shop?—It was convenient to Mr. Gilligan's, the dairyman's, that we met him.

5077. Did he tell you to be in Upper Dorset-street?—No, he did not; he did not mention any street to us.

5078. How did the three of you know where to meet him?—We three came in together.

5079. From Finglass?—Yes.

5080. At what hour of the morning did you meet first?—About eight o'clock.

5081. But about what hour did you meet at Finglass?—I think about seven o'clock.

5082. Did you know that morning where you were to meet Mr. Foster?—I did not.

5083. Did Watkins?—He did not.

5084. Do you mean to say that you thought you were to meet him in Merrion-square?—He did not mention any street; he said he would meet us as we came down there.

5085. Did he meet the three of you, and walk with you from Dorset-street to Capel-street?—He met us, and came into the room with us, and regulated us in the house.

5086. How did he regulate you?—There was a table in the floor and we took it over to the window and sat down beside it, and Mr. Watkins was looking over his book.

5087. You were not looking over any book?—I was not.

5088. Nor the other man?—There was papers on the table.

5089. After you went in there, did a few people come in occasionally?—There came persons backwards and forwards through the place.

5090. When a man came in, would he go in behind the screen?—I am not able to tell you, for I did not look.

5091. Come now, how big was the room?—It was a large room; a large sitting-room.

5092. How many windows were there in it?—There was only one; a front window.

5093. When any man came in, did he not get the word to go behind the screen?—Yes; he was told to go behind the screen, but I did not see him.

5094. Hold your tongue for a moment?—

Mr. McDonogh applied that the witness might be allowed to continue his answer.

5095. Mr. Justice Keogh (to the Witness).] Say what you intended to say?—When the men came into the house they passed backwards and forwards through the house, and went in, but I could not tell their business or what they were about. I did not know their business, nor I could not tell the men coming backwards and forwards through the house.

5096. Mr. Heron.] All day?—From the time I went in till the time I came out, passing in and out through the room but I could not tell their business.

5097. Were there plenty of men going backwards and forwards?—Men were going backwards and forwards.

5098. All day?—Yes, but I could not tell their business.

5099. Who gave them the word to go behind the screen; was it you?—No.

5100. Who?—I could not say.

5101. Was it Noblett?—I do not know.

5102. Who else was there?—Mr. Watkins was there, and Mr. Noblett was there, and some other man, I do not know who he was; they passed through backwards and forwards.

5103. Do you know a young lad of the name of Waller?—I do not.

5104. Was there a fourth person in the room with you occasionally?—There was not.

5105. Did you not say this moment there was?—There was three of us employed in it.

5106. Who was the fourth?—Mr. Watkins was there; he was the fourth man; he was there with his book.

W. Kemp.

28 January
1869.

W. Kemp.
28 January
1869.

5107. Name the other three?—I was one, and Mr. Noblett was another, and I do not know who the other man was.

5108. Then there was a fourth man?—Mr. Watkins was there with his book, regulating.

5109. Name the four people?—I could not name the fourth; I did not know the other man's name.

5110. Did you not say this moment that Watkins was the fourth man?—I said there was another man along with us; Mr. Noblett and Mr. Watkins, and another man.

5111. Was it Fraser?—I do not know.

5112. Did you hear Fraser's name that day, on your oath?—On my oath I did not.

5113. How long did the men remain behind the screen?—I cannot say how long they remained behind. They passed backwards and forwards, and in and out, and I could not tell how long they remained there.

5114. You went in at about eight o'clock?—I daresay about eight o'clock or nine o'clock.

5115. Had you any breakfast?—Yes, I took my breakfast at home.

5116. From eight o'clock until about nine o'clock, how many people came in?—There did not come in many.

5117. How many?—I could not say how many.

5118. From eight o'clock until about breakfast time, nine or ten o'clock, how many people came into the room?—I am not able to say; I did not count them.

5119. Did ten?—I do not think there did, to the best of my opinion.

5120. Did one?—Of course there came in more than one.

5121. Two?—I cannot say there did.

5122. Did three?—I could not say; I did not count, and I did not lift my head to count.

5123. At what time of the day were most coming in?—Well, there had not been a good many coming in at any time of the day, at any hour.

5124. At what time of the day were there most men coming up?—I could not say; I could not tell at what hour on that day most men came in.

5125. Was there a clock in the room?—Neither a clock nor a watch.

5126. Do you remember hearing 12 o'clock strike?—I do not know; I did not remark it.

5127. Do you remember Mr. Foster coming in, in the middle of the day?—Well, he did come in once and walked out again.

5128. At what hour?—I do not remember what hour.

5129. What did he say to Watkins?—I do not know what he said to Watkins.

5130. Was Watkins in command of you?—He was not in command of any one in the room; he was minding his business; looking at his business, regulating.

5131. On your oath, did you not know that money was behind that door?—On my oath I did not.

5132. On your oath, did you not suspect it?—I did not.

5133. On your oath, did you not know why the three of you were there?—I was there, of course, but I did not know there was any money behind the door.

5134. For what purpose were you there?—For to help to regulate matters.

5135. What matters did you regulate?—About the election.

5136. On your oath, do you not know that three of you were put there to prevent any attempt on the money behind the door?—I did not know of any money to be taken.

5137. You did nothing at all that day, on your oath?—I done nothing, only sat in the room there.

5138. Do you remember Mr. Foster coming in in the middle of the day?—Of course I do.

5139. On your oath, had there not been 200 people there before he came in?—I could not say whether there were or not.

5140. Why did you not go behind the screen?—I sat where I was left.

5141. Did you not stir from your chair the entire day?—I did not stir, only I had occasionally to go into the back yard, and I walked out and walked in again.

5142. Did you, when going out into the back yard, see any people going out?—Not one; I only saw a boy standing there, and I suppose he belonged to the house.

5143. Standing at the back door?—Standing on the stairs as I went down.

5144. At the back door, going out of the house?—No, he was not at the back door.

5145. Where was he?—On the stairs.

5146. Was it towards the back way where the boy was standing?—It was as I went out upon the back door, just upon the stairs, and I suppose he belonged to the house.

5147. Would you know that boy if you saw him again?—I do not know that I would.

William Waller was called on to the table.

5148. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] On your oath, did you not see that boy (pointing to Waller) on that day?—I do not remember; this is not the boy, I think; I do not think this is him; he seemed to be somewhat fuller in the face than this boy.

George Hawkins was called on to the table.

5149. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] On your oath, was not that the boy (pointing to Hawkins)?—Yes, this is he.

5150. Where was he?—He was standing where I told you.

5151. That is, towards the back door?—He was standing at the foot of the stairs as I went down, but he was not near the door.

5152. How close was he to the door?—Perhaps he was about five or six yards from the door.

5153. Did he speak to you?—Well, he did not, nor I to him.

5154. Had he seen you coming into the room?—No, he had not.

5155. Did you ever tell your master that you were there?—I did not.

5156. Were you paid for your day's wages the same as usual by your master, Dr. Duncan?—I was.

5157. And you never were asked where you spent the day?—No.

5158. Are you and the other man the only two gardeners there?—He is not the gardener; the other is another man.

5159. What is his name?—Mr. Jones.

5160. What

5160. What is the other man, Noblett?—He is a labouring man.

5161. At what hour did Mr. Henry Foster come again?—I had not seen him until leaving the house for to go home.

5162. At what hour was it?—At about 4 o'clock.

5163. What did he tell you?—He told us nothing at all; he told us for to go home.

5164. When did he give you the 3*l*.?—Not for a week after.

5165. Where did he give it to you?—He gave it to us in his own place.

5166. In Mountjoy Street?—Yes.

5167. At what hour of the evening?—I dare say it was about 8 o'clock in the evening.

5168. Was Watkins by?—No.

5169. Who was by?—There was only Mr. Noblett and I.

5170. Who brought you word to go there?—He sent out word to me for to go.

5171. Who brought the message?—No person, only he sent out word for me to go in.

5172. Who told you to go in?—I got a bit of a note for to go in.

5173. In writing?—Yes.

5174. What was in it?—To go in; he wanted to see me.

5175. Did the other man get a bit of a note in writing too?—I could not see what he got.

5176. By whom was the note signed?—There was no name, only my name in it for to go in; he wanted to see me.

5177. Who wanted to see you?—Mr. Foster.

5178. Did it come by post?—Of course it did, I suppose.

5179. Do you know what a postage stamp is?—I do.

5180. On your oath was there a postage stamp on it?—There was not.

5181. Who gave the note?—It was left in the house for me.

5182. In Dr. Duncan's?—No, in my own house. W. Kemp.
1869.

5183. Do you swear that you do not know who brought it to you?—I do not, for I was not there; I was out at my work and I could not tell who brought it.

5184. Would you know the boy that was on the front door?—No, I would not.

5185. Did you see any boy on the front door?—I did not.

5186. Was that the only person connected with the establishment that you saw there that day?—That is all.

5187. Did you see Mr. Henry Foster since?—I did not; I have not seen him since.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

5188. From the time you went there in the morning until four o'clock, about how many men came in?—Well, I am not able to say how many came in.

5189. Did you at first say about 10?—No, I said nothing about it; I could not venture for to say how many came in; I did not look at them, and I did not count them. I did not take any notice as to how many came in. They came in backwards and forwards to the house, and I could not tell how many came in.

5190. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Can you tell, Witness, how many persons came in that day?—I cannot, my Lord.

5191. What are your wages?—10*s*. 6*d*. a week.

5192. And you received as that day's pay 3*l*.?—Yes, my Lord.

5212. During the whole day?—Yes.

5213. Did you see Foster go into the parlour to them?—I did not.

5214. When did you take your stand at the foot of the stairs?—I did not take my stand in any place particular. I was watching in the hall.

5215. Were you in the hall during the day?—I was.

5216. How long?—From morning till night.

5217. Did you see many coming in and going out through the front door?—A great many.

5218. How many?—Not more than 30.

5219. Do you know any of the Freemen?—I cannot say.

5220. Where did the people go?—They went into the front parlour.

5221. Did you direct them to go out the back door?—No.

5222. Was it open?—Yes.

5223. Does it lead into Loftus's Lane?—Yes.

5224. How many did you see go out by the back door?—I saw the half of them go out that way.

5225. You did not see Foster till the evening?—I did not.

G. Hawkins.
28 January
1869.

5226. Do you know Mr. Devonport Crowthwaite?—No.

5227. Nor Mr. Baxter?—No.

5228. Was there a boy at the front door?—I am that boy.

5229. There was not a second boy?—No.

5230. Was that young man (pointing) there?—No, he was working in the printing-office.

5231. That is detached from the front house?—It is at the rear.

5232. Was the door left open, the hall-door, all day?—No.

5233. When people wanted to get in, how did they do so?—They had to knock.

5234. Did you open the door?—I did.

5235. What is your general business with Mr. Forest, are you a printer?—Yes, I am a pressman; my business is in the printing-office.

5236. You were never in the habit of standing in the hall?—Of opening the door when there was ringing and knocking at it.

5237. During this business?—There was no business for me going on.

5238. Was there any printing going on?—Yes.

5239. Did you see Mr. Forest about the place?—He came in once; he did not go into any room; he went down stairs.

5240. Who was in the back parlour?—I do not know.

5241. Did you see any money going?—I do not know.

5242. Did you get any wages?—Yes.

5243. From Forest?—Yes.

5244. How much?—5 s.

5245. What were your general wages?—Upon piece-work I am paid.

5246. Did you get any printing orders that day?—I did not, a gentleman came looking for him.

5247. You saw one gentleman coming?—Yes, about 11 o'clock.

5248. What was he like?—He was a tall, thin young man.

5249. Had he an eye-glass or not?—I don't know.

5250. Had he dark or fair hair?—I cannot tell.

5251. How was he dressed?—He had a black suit of clothes on him.

5252. How was he dressed?—To the best of my opinion, black.

5253. Had he a hat?—No, he had not.

5254. He went out bareheaded?—Yes, he went out and returned in about five minutes.

5255. Was the door locked?—It was.

5256. Did you hear him turn the key when he got in?—I did.

5257. When did you see a second man?—About an hour after.

5258. What was he like?—He was much the same person as the other.

5259. Was he in the rank of a gentleman?—Yes.

5260. Were both of them gentlemen?—Yes.

5261. Did you ever see them before?—No.

5262. Were you in the habit of going to committee rooms?—No.

5263. Did you get any money?—No.

5264. Nothing but the 5 s.?—Nothing.

5265. Did the other gentleman, the second man, go out?—Yes.

5266. Did he remain out?—No.

5267. Had he his hat on?—No.

5268. Had he anything in his hand?—I think he had a pipe.

5269. When did they leave in the evening?—About half-past four.

5270. They went out by the back door?—Yes.

5271. Had they anything in their hands besides the pipe?—I cannot tell.

5272. Come, tell the truth, sir?—I cannot tell.

5273. Did you see those gentlemen speaking to Mr. Forest at all?—I did not.

5274. Did you see Mr. Forest go into the back room?—No.

5275. Did he go into either of the parlours?—I did not see him.

5276. Were you in the hall from eight to half-past four?—I was.

5277. When any of the men knocked, what did they say?—They asked for Mr. Marquis.

5278. How did they come in?—Some of them knocked and walked in, some walked in without asking, others asked for Mr. Marquis.

5279. Had they anything in their hands?—They had tickets.

5280. Like railway tickets?—Yes.

5281. Did they show you those tickets before you directed them in?—Two or three did.

5282. Had you received instructions to admit into the parlour anyone whom you saw with a ticket?—No, they did not show them; I seen them in their hands.

5283. Had you any pass words as to whom you were to let into the parlour?—No.

5284. Who asked for Marquis?—I cannot tell.

5285. Did you hear from Mr. Forest that he was in the house?—No.

5286. Did they go to the front parlour to ask for Mr. Marquis?—No, the name was printed.

5287. How; painted or printed?—Printed in black ink.

5288. Who put the name up?—I do not know.

5289. Had you received any other instructions as to the persons that you were to let in?—None.

5290. But you would not let in anyone who did not ask for Marquis?—No.

5291. Who told you what to do?—Mr. Forest first told me to show those who first asked for Mr. Marquis into the office.

5292. When did Forest first tell you to answer the door?—At half-past seven.

5293. Tell all he said to you?—He told me to mind the door, as he thought he would be out for a great portion of the day, and he told me whenever the float came for the goods, to deliver them. I did deliver them, and got a receipt.

5294. He told you nothing about Marquis, nor that he expected a good many to call that day?—No.

5295. Who directed you to print the name of Marquis, and put it upon the parlour door?—Mr. Forest gave it to me.

5296. Did he write it?—It must have been set up in type before it came to me.

5297. Who sent it to you?—I do not know.

5298. Was Forest in the office?—Yes.

5299. You are a pressman?—Yes.

5300. Look at that document (handing document), was it printed in Mr. Forest's establishment?—No.

5301. Look carefully?—I do not recollect.

5302. Is

5302. Is there any mark which would enable you to say it was printed there?—I do not think it was.

5303. Is there anything in the character of the type that would enable you to say so?—No.

5304. Look at that document (a second document handed to Witness). Is not the "O" in out-voters, in the same type as the "O" in eight o'clock; this document, you say, was printed in the establishment?—Yes.

5305. When was this document printed; was it printed since the election?—Yes.

5306. How long ago?—I think I did these about three weeks ago.

5307. Looking at the two documents, and the two "O's," do you not know this was printed from the same font of type as the small paper?—No, different type.

5308. Was it not printed in the same place?—I do not recollect it being done.

5309. Is it not the same "O" in the same papers?—This "O" (pointing to the document) belongs to the same font, but the other "O" does not.

5310. Is not the "O" in this document (pointing) like a broken "C"?—Something.

5311. Look at the circular, is that a "C," or a broken "O," in the word "Card"?—It is a "C."

5312. Is it not the same type as the "O" in the others?—It is.

5313. Did you print this, or was it printed at Forest's?—I think it was.

5314. Did you see the paper itself?—Yes.

5315. Where is it made?—I do not know.

5316. Look at it through the light?—(Witness inspects the document, and reads the words "Extra superfine"); the name is torn.

5317. Mr. Heron.] The words "Jas. Allen, extra superfine," are as plain as possible?—They are.

5318. (Another of the circulars handed to Witness.) You see the same words here?—Yes, "Jas. Allen, extra superfine."

5319. Mr. Hemphill.] Are not these documents printed from the same reams of paper?—No, two different weights.

5320. Are they of the same manufacture?—Yes.

5321. Of the same size?—Yes.

5322. How do you see that the weights are different?—By the feel of them. (Documents, the circulars, handed to Witness.)

5323. Have these been printed upon the same paper as that upon which the notice to the Aldermen of Skinner's-alley were printed?—No, one were done upon better paper than the others.

5324. When were they printed?—I think I done them a week before the election.

The documents identified by Witness as having been done a week before the election were handed up to the Court, and marked by the register No. 1, 2, 3. (Notice to the Aldermen of Skinner's-alley.) The other documents, similar in their character, and marked A, B, C, D, and F, consisted of the circular in form as follows:—

"(Private.)

"Addressed to Jas. E. Kenny,

"3, Nottingham-street,

"North Strand.

"Referring to a communication, you are requested to write your name and address legibly on the enclosed card, and present the same to a person who will be appointed to receive it, at 3, Dame-street, two days after the election."

5325. Mr. Hemphill.] Look at this card (handing card), and see the printed portion, number, name, and address, and tell me whether the card, so far as the printing is concerned, was printed at Mr. Forest's?—I do not know.

5326. Have you any way of knowing?—I cannot tell.

5327. Does he print cards?—He does.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh, Q.C.

5328. You are sure you printed the document for the Aldermen of Skinner's-alley?—Yes, about three weeks after the election.

5329. With respect to that, is it an unusual type?—No.

5330. Are you able to say whether you printed that or not?—Yes, I printed that.

5331. Those documents are numbered 1, 2, 3; they are similar; you printed all. (Circulars handed to Witness.)

5332. Did you print these?—I do not think I did.

5333. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you know any person of the name of Marquis?—I do not.

5334. How long before the election did you print the name Marquis?—I think it was upon a Monday.

5335. Upon what day was the election?—Upon a Wednesday.

5336. How many did you print?—A dozen.

5337. With the name of Marquis?—Yes.

5338. Upon what size paper were they?—Quarto, medium.

5339. Take a paper and fold it into the size?—This (showing a newspaper that he had folded) is the size, but not so long.

5340. And you printed a dozen of these?—Yes.

5341. One of these was put upon the front door?—Yes.

5342. Was there any other door upon which the name was put up?—No.

5343. Was any name put upon the back door?—No.

5344. What did you do with the dozen copies that were printed?—They were taken away.

5345. By whom?—By Mr. Forest.

5346. Did he tell you what they were?—No.

5347. Was the backdoor kept closed the entire day?—Yes.

5348. And locked?—Yes.

5349. Are you still in Mr. Forest's employment?—Yes.

5350. Have you ever gone into the front room since that day?—Yes.

5351. And into the back?—Yes.

5352. Does your business bring you there?—It brings me into the front room.

5353. When were you last there?—This morning.

5354. What was in the room this morning?—Nothing strange.

5355. What furniture was there?—A table, sofa, and chest of drawers.

5356. Was there a screen?—No.

Q

5357. When

G. Hawkins.

28 January
1869.

*G. Hawkins.*28 January
1869.

5357. When were you last in the back room?

—I think I was there upon Monday.

5358. What furniture was there then?—A bed and a wardrobe.

5359. Was it a bedroom on the day of election?—Yes.

5360. Was there a bed?—Yes.

5361. It was not removed?—No.

5362. Who slept in that room?—Mr. and Mrs. Forest.

5363. Had they slept there the night before the election?—No.

5364. The night but one?—No.

5365. Did they sleep the night before?—No.

5366. Why was this; was not this the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Forest?—Yes; but it was occupied by a gentleman named Donaldson, who was stopping there some time; he left in about two days after the election.

5367. Had he slept the night before the election?—He had.

5368. Did he sleep there the night of the election?—I am not sure.

5369. Where does he live?—At Newcastle.

5370. Where is that?—He is from that place; he is the gentleman who has the printing machines in Dublin.

5371. Is Newcastle in Wicklow?—I cannot tell.

5372. Is it Newcastle in England; Newcastle-upon-Tyne?—Yes.

5373. You have been in both the front and back room of the house?—Yes.

5374. Were you in the front room the day after the election?—I was.

5375. What were you doing?—I was getting some paper; we keep a stock of paper in the press.

5376. Was the screen removed?—There was no screen.

5377. Do you say there was no screen the day before the election?—No.

5378. Nor after it?—No.

5379. You swear there was no screen upon the first day of the election in the front room?—I do.

5380. Do you swear that positively?—I do.

5381. Have you heard the three persons examined, and did you hear them swear there was a screen?—I did.

5382. Did they swear falsely?—They did.

5383. Did you see the door between the two rooms?—Yes.

5384. Did you observe it the day of the election?—No.

5385. The day after?—Yes.

5386. Was there any hole in that door?—There was.

5387. Where?—In one of the panels.

5388. Was there anything to conceal it?—The wardrobe press was put across; that was put across in the bedroom.

5389. In which room?—In the front room.

5389*. Was that removed upon the day of the election?—It was.

5390. Was that wardrobe press put between the door and the window?—It was.

5391. Was that the screen to which the men alluded?—There was a wardrobe.

5392. Which acted as a screen?—Yes.

5393. There was an aperture in the door?—There was.

5394. When was it made?—I do not know.

5395. When was it closed up?—About a fortnight or three weeks after the election.

5396. Is it now closed up?—It is.

5397. Who did it?—I do not know.

5398. Is there a new panel in it?—Yes.

5399. Entirely new?—Yes.

5400. When did you first see the aperture?—The day after the election was over.

5401. You had never seen it before?—Never.

JAMES FOREST, sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron, Q.C.J. Forest.

5402. Do you know Henry Foster?—I do.

5403. When did you see him last?—About the 1st of December.

5404. Where?—I really cannot say whether it was in his house or in mine.

5405. It was either?—Yes; I am able to fix the time, by the fact that the aldermens' summonses are ordered about the first of the month; he brought a copy, or I went for it.

5406. Then all the business of the aldermen of Skinner's-alley is done in your house?—The Monthly Circular is.

5407. Is Henry Foster an alderman?—I suppose he must; he brings me the order.

5408. Are you one of the brotherhood?—No.

5409. Do you know Jas. B. Frazer?—I saw some one named Frazer during the election, but whether it was the same or not I do not know.

5410. Who pointed him out; did Foster point him out?—He was in company with a Mr. Kirkwood.

5411. Is he a printer?—Yes; the man's name was Frazer, but his Christian name I do not know.

5412. Do you know Mr. Devonport Crosthwaite?—No; I never heard of him before this trial.

5413. Who is Donaldson?—He is a printing machine manufacturer; he was one of the parties in the cause of Nugent v. Donaldson, which was going on in the Courts; whenever he comes over to Dublin he stops with me.

5414. Did you see Henry Frazer before the election?—I did.

5415. Did you know that he was working for Guinness and Plunket?—I did not.

5416. Did you print the name of Marquis?—Yes.

5417. By whose order?—Mr. Foster.

5418. How many did you print?—I think 25.

5419. Was the word "office" underneath?—Yes; "Marquis Office."

5420. Who was Marquis?—I do not know.

5421. Do you believe there is any such person?—I cannot say.

5422. When did you get the order?—It was upon a Saturday evening.

5423. You received the order for printing along with other things?—Yes.

5424. Who paid the money?—Mr. Foster.

5425. Not Merydith?—No; there was other printing; committee-rooms, or committee-room, I am not sure which.

5426. Who paid you for printing those circulars?—Mr. Foster.

5427. Mr. Heron.] Here is the private circular, marked marked B.; from what copy did you print this?

—From a manuscript copy.

5428. In whose handwriting was it?—I cannot say, or I suppose it was Mr. Foster's.

5429. He gave you the copy?—He did.

5430. How much did he pay you altogether in money?—I think it was 2*l.* odd.

5431. Is that all?—£. 2 16 s.

5432. I do not mean for printing, but how much altogether?—That—that was all he paid me.

5433. What were you going to say?—I was going to say that Marquis paid me for the room; that is what I was going to say.

5434. What did Marquis pay you?—The night he took the room.

5435. When did he pay?—The night before the election; the night he took the room; upon the Tuesday evening he said that a gentleman was likely to call, and he wanted committee-rooms for the day of the election, and he asked would I have any objection to let them; I said not; and upon that evening a gentleman did call, he did not mention his name, and asked me what I wanted for the room next day. I said a pound; he paid me there and then. He came back that evening and brought writing materials with him, and some of the bills I had printed, and put them about the place; I pinned them up round the parlour, shop, and on the wall; that was the second time he was there, and did not return; that was between eight and nine upon Tuesday evening.

5436. Did you sleep in the house that night?—I slept in the kitchen, because my bedroom was occupied by Mr. Donaldson.

5437. Did any carpenters come in?—Not that I am aware.

5438. When did you see the slit in the door?—Not till between eight and nine o'clock upon the evening of the election.

5439. Who gave the key of the back parlour upon the day of the election?—There is only one key for the front and back door.

5440. Marquis had the key of the front?—I do not know; the key was in it.

5441. He might have taken it out?—Yes.

5442. It has been said that the door was locked?—I cannot say; the day of the election; I went home, and returned between 11 and 12 o'clock.

5443. You have heard the wardrobe described; was it part of the furniture of the back parlour?—It must have been brought from the back.

5444. Could it have been brought through the door?—Yes; because it was standing inside the back parlour door.

5445. Was it you who got the door repaired?—No.

5446. Who did it?—A man came; the door remained that way three weeks; Marquis called in a few days, and said he would send a man to repair what damage had been done to the place; it remained so for three weeks, with a piece of paper sticking upon it.

5447. For what did you get 100*l.*?—For printing.

5449. Where were you the whole of the election?—I left at 20 to 8 o'clock a.m.; I went to Kilmainham, to call upon Mr. Harolds, of Reversdale.

29.

5450. You remained away the whole day?—No; I came back between 11 and 12 o'clock.

5451. Have you a man named Dundon in the office?—I have.

5452. And James Leathem?—Yes.

5453. Did you give them leave of absence?—Yes, on the previous evening.

5454. And they were paid their wages?—One is only an apprentice; the other was paid his wages. I sent them away because I would not be there myself; we had been working very late every previous night; the place was in confusion, and unless I was there nothing would be done.

5455. Were you absent the entire day?—I was not; I was there twice.

5456. What was the first hour you came back?—Between 11 and 12 o'clock.

5457. At what hour did you get up that morning?—I was in the committee-room at six o'clock; I received a job to have done at six.

5458. Whom did you let into the house that morning?—I did not let in anyone. A carman was to call me at seven o'clock; the car was standing at the door; the door was opened, and two gentlemen, Marquis and another, came in.

5459. Did you not know Marquis to be a false name?—I did not.

5460. Did you not believe it to be so?—I did not; I had no reason to do so.

5461. Describe the appearance of Marquis?—He was tall, without having any whiskers.

5462. How old was he?—About 25 or 27.

5463. What was his complexion?—Sallow, if anything; if he had whiskers they were very small.

5464. Did you see him since the election?—He called in a couple of days after about the repairs of the place.

5465. Describe the other gentleman?—He had sandy whiskers, he wore a muffler about his throat, and his coat was buttoned up.

5466. Did you see him since?—No.

5467. Did you see either of them in court?—No.

5468. Would you know either of them?—I would know Marquis, but I would not know the other, from the way that he was muffled up; to the best of my belief I would know Marquis.

5469. Do you know Alexander McNeill?—I have seen him in the committee-rooms, Dame-street.

5470. Was he in No. 76, Dame-street?—Not to my knowledge.

5471. What was the entire amount received by you for your services that day?—£.1.

5472. What is the entire amount that Henry Foster gave you?—He paid me for printing; the amount is 2*l.* 16 s.

5473. Did you give the whole of the 25 printed documents to Henry Foster?—I did.

5474. Upon what day?—Upon Tuesday.

5475. How many of the documents will you say he put about the office?—I do not suppose he put more than half a dozen.

5476. When first did you see the screen?—I did not see it at all.

5477. Had Donaldson slept in the back room the night before?—Yes.

5478. He was not there during the day?—I met him once or twice through the town; we passed upon cars.

5479. At what hour did he leave in the morning?—About 20 minutes to eight o'clock.

Q 2

J. Forest.

28 January
1869.

5480. Did Donaldson see the two gentlemen who came in?—I cannot say.

5481. Did Marquis and the other gentleman breakfast in your house?—No.

5482. Did they bring in any meat?—Not that I saw.

5483. When you came in was the back door locked?—Not that I could see.

5484. Did you see any person coming?—Not one.

5485. Then no one came in during the day?—I cannot say; I was not more than 10 minutes each time there.

5486. When did you hear that the back door was open?—It must have been the next day; I did not see George till then.

5487. And he told you that some had gone out that day?—He did.

5488. Did you see any of the railway tickets?—Upon my oath, I did not.

5489. Were you told about that immediately after?—I heard a party had come with a ticket.

5490. Who?—I do not know; I did not hear who came.

5491. When did Marquis leave the place?—I cannot say.

5492. Did you sleep at home the night of the election?—Yes, in the kitchen; Mr. Donaldson occupied the bedroom.

5493. Were not Marquis and the other man who was with him in your house the night of the election?—No.

The Witness was not cross-examined.

5494. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say that Mr. Foster told you a gentleman would call in reference to the rooms, and stated that he would want committee-rooms?—The words he made use of were, he would be likely to call.

5495. And that he would require a committee-room?—Yes.

5496. Was that for one or two rooms?—For two, the bedroom and the parlour; one door leads into the other.

5497. He took both rooms?—He did.

5498. At what time was he to get possession?—He said he would be there at half-past seven.

5499. For how long was he to have them?—No time was named, but he said he would not want them for more than a day.

5500. Did you go into the rooms any time during the evening?—I was not home except between eight and nine o'clock; I was home twice, between 11 and 12 o'clock, and between two and three o'clock.

5501. You did not go into either of the rooms?—I did.

5502. Was the name "Marquis" upon the back door?—No, upon the back parlour.

5503. Did you go into the front or back room that evening?—I did.

5504. When?—Between eight and nine o'clock.

5505. Which of them?—The front room.

5506. Was a wardrobe there?—No, it had been removed.

5506*. Did you go into the back room?—I did.

5507. Did you see the aperture in the door?—I did, and I was surprised to see it.

5508. You saw Marquis since, and you said he called about three weeks?—I said he called in two days, but the damage done to the door was not repaired for three weeks.

5509. Who repaired it?—A carpenter came and brought the panel ready painted, and put it in.

5510. Did he say for what he came?—No.

5511. Had he been there to measure the panel? I think he was there, but I saw him only upon the one occasion.

5512. And he did insert the panel?—Yes.

5513. Painted?—Yes.

5514. The same colour as the door?—Yes, but of course it is newer.

5515. Have you ever seen Marquis since?—Not since; either two or three days after the election.

5516. You swear positively you never saw him except the twice?—Three times; twice before the election, and once, two or three times afterwards.

5517. But never before nor since then; you swear that?—I do.

5518. And you swear you have no knowledge of who that person was?—I have no knowledge, and it was at the recommendation of Foster that I let him the place.

5519. Do you swear you had no knowledge?—I do.

5520. Wait till you know what you are swearing to?—I had not any knowledge of Marquis.

5521. That was not what I was going to ask you. Do you undertake to swear that when Foster bespoke the printing of those papers at your office, with the name of Marquis upon them, you had no knowledge of the use he intended to make of those two rooms?—I do; I had no idea it was Marquis who was to take those rooms.

5522. How then did you know it was Marquis who had come?—When he came he said he was Mr. Marquis, and I connected him with the bill.

5523. And you swear you had no knowledge of what he was?—No.

5524. Had you ever let the room before?—I had for a day?—The front and back rooms for a day. At the time they were let before, there was no bed there.

5525. Who occupied it?—It was occupied during the municipal election.

5526. Have you ever let it since it was used as a bedroom?—No, I don't think I have.

5527. Did it not seem to be extraordinary that a gentleman should take it for a day, and not use it for the night?—It did not seem strange; what he stated was, it seemed to be most convenient to the booth, and he wanted the room for the election.

5528. The city election?—I do not know.

5529. Are you clear that he wanted it because it was convenient to the booth?—I cannot say.

5530. Was that said by Foster or by Marquis?—By Marquis. What Mr. Foster said was, a gentleman was likely to call upon me; he first asked me had I any objection to let the room to the committee.

5531. Did you tell him there was a gentleman sleeping in the back room?—I did not, but I told Donaldson I had let the room, and I should ask him to separate a little earlier at night.

5532. Do you know the name of the carpenter?—I do not.

5533. Had you any knowledge of the person who came with Marquis?—I had no knowledge.

5534. You

5534. You saw them both enter?—They went into the parlour, front and back.

5535. Did you hear the key turned?—I did not.

5536. Did you see them afterwards?—No, my wife had no room exactly ready when they first came. She had not regulated the sweeping of the room. We were both there: the carman was waiting.

5537. Who was it that removed the wardrobe?—I do not know.

5538. Who moved it back?—I think my wife.

5539. When you saw Marquis the second time, did you say to him that you were greatly surprised at the hole or aperture?—I said so, and he laughed.

JAMES CREED MEREDITH, Esq., LL.D., recalled; and further Examined by Mr. Heron.

5540. Do you know where is the account of Mr. Forrest, the printer?—That account I believe to be in the possession of Dr. Beatty, by whom the 100*l.* was paid; we have only sent in the receipts that we took.

*J. C.
Meredith,
Esq., LL.D.*

5541. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Is Dr. Beatty here?—He will be here immediately.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. EDWARD BYRNE, recalled; further Examined by Mr. Heron.

5542. Did you go out to Mr. Foster's to-day?—This morning.

5543. Did you go last night also?—I went yesterday evening.

5544. What occurred when you went out yesterday evening, to call on Mr. Foster, in Mountjoy-street?—I knocked twice and I could not get in; there was no light at all apparently in the house.

5545. At what hour was it?—I think on or about a quarter past seven.

5546. You could not get in?—No.

5547. This morning did you go?—I did.

5548. At what hour did you go this morning?—At nine o'clock; when I went at nine o'clock that morning, the servant opened the door, and I asked, was Mr. Foster in the house, and she said not; Mr. Foster was away. I was giving a note with an envelope, and the subpoena to the servant, and she seemingly knew what it was, and would not take it from me, but she did take it from me, and handed it back again to me; when a lady came downstairs, and she asked me what I wanted, and I said, "I wanted to see Mr. Foster. She said, "Mr. Foster is away." I said, "Do you know where he is gone?" She said, "I believe he is gone to France;" and she would not take the subpoena from me, and I had to leave it on the hall table, with the servant, and I went away.

5549. Do you know the lady's name?—No.

5550. Then you came away?—Yes.

5551. Did you go also to Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite's house?—I did.

5552. When did you go there?—I went there at about eight o'clock yesterday evening; when I went there, there was no light either, and I was not let in there either. I went this morning, at a quarter before 10 o'clock, and when I went, I saw the same servant who answered me yesterday morning; I asked her was Mr. Crosthwaite in the house, and she said he was away; I asked, could I see the same lady that I gave the note to yesterday morning, and she said not, and the door opened, and an elderly gentleman came out of the parlour, and said, "What do you want?" I said, "I want to see Mr. Crosthwaite," and he said, "Mr. Crosthwaite is not here." I handed him the subpoena, but he would not take it from me. He said, "This is not Mr. Crosthwaite's house at all;" so he would not take the subpoena from me.

5553. Was the place that you went to No. 2, Manders's Terrace, Ranelagh?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

*Mr.
E. Byrne.*

MRS. MARTHA FORREST, sworn; Examined by Mr. Hemphill.

5554. WERE you in your house, No. 76, Capel-street, all day, during the day of the election?—Yes; only for about 20 minutes.

5555. And the day before?—Yes.

5556. Did you see the gentlemen that took your parlours?—No.

5557. Not at all?—No.

5558. Were you in the parlour that day yourself?—Not till about six o'clock that evening.

5559. Was the wardrobe in the same place when you saw the parlours?—No, I put it back, me and George Hawkins, both of us.

5560. Had it been placed in the front room before the door?—I do not know who placed it there.

5561. But you found it there?—Yes, when I went up.

5562. Do you mean to say that you did not see either of these two gentlemen at all?—I did not.

5563. Did they require anything at all?—No.

5564. Where were you during the day?—In the kitchen.

5565. Did not you go upstairs that day?—No, my business keeps me in the kitchen; I am always there unless when I go up to clean the rooms.

5566. Did you hear any noise that day?—I did not, more than usual; I heard feet of course, but I did not hear how many.

5567. Do you swear positively that you do not know who they were?—I do positively swear.

[The Witness withdrew.

*Mrs.
M. Forrest.*

Mr. Justice Keogh directed the witnesses named named yesterday to be in attendance, and requested to be furnished with the number of gratuitous service papers, and with the number of all the names signed, and whether they were freemen or rated occupiers.

28 January
1869.

The Sub-Sheriff stated that the attachment against Thomas Gilligan had been sent out, and that the person named therein had not been at home for some days.

Mr. Justice Keogh ordered every exertion to be made to find Gilligan and to bring him before the court.

Mr. McDonogh was heard to open the case on behalf of the respondent.

During Mr. McDonogh's address,

Mr. Heron stated that Fraser was now in Court.

Mr Justice Keogh stated that he should be examined at once.

Mr. JAMES B. FRASER sworn; Examined by Mr. Heron.

J. B. Fraser. 5568. WERE you in the office with William Johnstone in 47, Dame Street, and with Mr Mortimer?—I was in a room in 47, Dame Street.

5569. How long before the election were you there?—For some days.

5570. Who employed you?—I was employed by the Conservative Registration Society.

5571. To go there?—No, I had been employed previously.

5572. And were you transferred to 47, Dame Street?—I was employed by Mr. Hodgson, and brought over by Mr. Hodgson there a few days previously to the election.

5573. By Mr. Sutton, who is in Court?—Yes.

5574. Were you engaged in the out-voter's business (the Witness hesitated)?

5575. Were you engaged in preparing lists of the out-voters?—I prepared no list.

5576. Were you engaged under William Johnstone?—Mr. Johnstone was in the room for some days with me.

5577. What was your business?—I corrected the addresses of some of the voters.

5578. Do you know Mr. Mortimer's book?—Yes.

5579. Did you make corrections in that?—Show me the book and I will tell you.

5580. Were you engaged in the sending of the telegrams?—I sent some telegrams.

5581. Of course you know your own handwriting?—Well, I think I would.

5582. Did you send telegrams in the name of Wilson Johnstone?—Show me any one of them (some papers were handed to the Witness) My Lord, am I to look over all these?

5583. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Yes, say if any of them are in your handwriting?—(After having examined the telegrams) I believe that is in my handwriting.

5584. Mr. Heron.] That is from "J. W. Johnstone, 24, Dame Street, to Sir George Campbell, Birmingham,—Come and record your vote on Wednesday; not one can be spared. Letter sent and telegraph to Bristol; signature, J. W. Johnstone." Is that your handwriting?—I believe it is.

5585. Who told you to telegraph in a false name?—I did not know that it was a false name.

5586. Who told you to telegraph in the name of J. W. Johnstone?—A copy I got on the desk.

5587. In whose handwriting?—I could not tell.

5588. Then you copied that from a copy left for you on the desk?—Yes.

5589. Who told you, "24, Dame Street"?—From the copy I got it.

5590. Were you ever in 24, Dame-street?—I have been there.

5591. Were you in Mr. Parkinson's office?—I was never employed there.

5592. Were you in his office?—Except the County election I never was.

5593. Were you up stairs in the room where J. W. Johnstone lived?—I was up stairs in a room where I saw outside the door "Mr. J. W. Johnstone's chambers"

5594. What did you go there for?—I went there to look for Mr. Johnstone.

5595. Did you find him?—No, he was not in.

5596. Do you know Mr. Devonport Crosthwaite?—I do not.

5597. Did you ever hear that name before?—Not until I read it in the paper this morning.

5598. Where have you been living this last three or four days?—In town.

5599. What is your address?—Sometimes I stopped in Gardner-street; sometimes I stopped at my brother in law's at Bray, and sometimes I stopped elsewhere. I have not been in Gardner-street for some days.

5600. Were you in the employment of the Conservative Registration Society from last summer?—I suppose from the latter end of July.

5601. When you ent into the chambers marked "J. W. Johnstone," whom did you find there?—There was a gentleman there, and when I asked for Mr. Johnstone he told me he was just gone out.

5602. What was the name of the gentleman?—I could not tell, I never saw him before or since.

5603. Did you know Mr. Parkinson's clerks?—I know all the staff.

5604. Is there any one named Johnstone?—Not that I know of.

5605. You know Watkins, the policeman?—I suppose you saw him standing beside me in the gallery.

5606. Were you speaking to him?—I was.

5607. Did you speak to him before?—No.

5608. Have you ever spoken to him in your life?—Oh yes, I have.

5609. Do you know Watkins?—I knew him years ago, when I lived up in Glasnevin myself.

5610. Have you known him a long time?—I have known him four or five years.

5611. Did you know Mr. Henry Foster?—I do not.

5612. Did you never speak to him?—Not to my knowledge. I do not know the gentleman.

5613. On your oath, were you never in 76, Capel-street?—Never; I never heard of it until I read your statement in the paper.

5614. Then you did read my statement in the paper?—Yes.

5615. Did you not know the policeman, Watkins,

kins, in reference to the election, at all?—I did not; I knew him in reference to the county election.

5616. Do you know Mr. Campbell?—I know Mr. Campbell.

5617. This long time?—I know him these six or eight months.

5618. Did you bring telegrams across to 24?—Twenty-four; where?

5619. Twenty-four, Dame-street; did you bring messages across between 48 and 24, Dame-street?—I never brought any messages.

5620. Did you go between the two places more than once; what brought you upstairs the day you went there?—To where?

5621. To 24, Dame-street, to Mr. J. W. Johnstone's chambers?—To look for Mr. Johnstone.

5622. Who told you to look for him?—I wanted to see him myself.

5623. For what?—He told me he would get me employment on the county election, and I went over to see him for that purpose.

5624. Who told you?—Mr. Johnstone that was in the office with me.

5625. William Johnstone?—Yes, I believe that is his name.

5626. Who told you of "J. W. Johnstone"?—He told me that he was going out, and that if I wanted to see him I was to go over to 24, Dame-street. In the interim, I heard there was to be a contest in the county, and I went over to 24, Dame-street, to see if I could see Mr. Johnstone about it. In going upstairs at 24, Dame-street, I saw pasted on the wall a white bill, with large black letters printed on it, "Mr. J. W. Johnstone's chambers upstairs," and I went upstairs, and I was asked, "Is it Mr. Wilson Johnstone you want?" and I said it was Mr. William Johnstone. So I was told he lived at No. 3, Palace-street.

5627. Do you know William Johnstone's handwriting?—I do.

5628. Is that his (handing a paper to Witness); the body of it?—I believe it is. That is my own (handing a telegram to the learned Counsel).

5629. That is "Johnstone to Seymour Bath"?—That is mine also (handing a paper to the learned Counsel).

5630. "J. W. Johnstone to William Thom, Inverness, letter by post"?—I do not know in whose handwriting that is (handing a telegram to the learned Counsel). That appears to be Mr. Johnstone's. That is mine.

5631. "Johnstone to Jamieson, Brighton. Come at once on receipt. Vote to-morrow; do not fail"?—That is mine (handing a telegram to the learned Counsel).

The Witness examined a number of telegrams, and finally identified 10 of them as being in his handwriting.

5632. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] In reference to those telegrams in your handwriting, was the course of business this, that you found a copy of the telegram written out on the desk?—I got a copy of the telegram; it varied at times in words.

5633. Did you conduct the correspondence?—I never corresponded any.

5634. Were you entrusted with any money arrangements?—No.

5635. How much were you paid for your services there?—I suppose on an average about 30s. a week.

5636. Was that all?—Not much more, I think.

5637. That was all you got?—That was all.

5638. Had you anything to do with the list of freemen?—Nothing whatever.

5639. How long were you in that office altogether?—In the committee-rooms in Dame-street?

5640. Yes?—I was on the revision from, I think, about the 12th of July to the—5641. Mr. Justice Keogh.] We are not talking about that?—I mean I was on the revision business from the 12th of July up to, I think, sometime in October; I forget the date; and then Mr. Hodgson brought me over and said I was wanting in 47 Dame-street, and I went with him.

5642. Who wrote the letter by the direction of William Johnstone, to the outvoters?—I did not know there were any letters.

5643. Did you know nothing about it?—Nothing about writing letters.

5644. Who received the letter directed "J. W. Johnstone;" did you see them in the box?—No.

5645. Did you see them at all?—I have seen gentlemen coming into the room, and bringing a letter signed "J. W. Johnstone;" and when Mr. Johnstone was there, he looked at the letter, and said, "This letter is not for me, my name is William Johnstone; you may find Johnstone across the street."

5646. At 24?—I do not know that he mentioned the number, but he said "across the street."

5647. Were you in Campbell's room in Dame-street?—Never; I had nothing to do with the room.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. McDonogh was further heard to address the Court on behalf of the respondent.

Mr. M^cDonogh was further heard to address the Court on behalf of the Respondent.

Mr. JOHN BYRNE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Purcell.

Mr. J. Byrne. 5648. I BELIEVE you are a Member of the Town Council?—Yes.

5649. Where do you reside?—At 10, Lombard-street, Dublin.

5650. You voted, I believe, for Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket, at the last election?—I did.

5651. In what ward is Lombard-street?—In the Trinity ward.

5652. Was there in that ward any Conservative committee?—There was a committee; there has always been a committee in the Trinity ward.

5653. Was that formed for the purpose of the election?—No; it was formed for the purpose rather of conducting the revision.

5654. Had it been in existence long prior to it?—Oh, yes.

5655. Were you a member of that committee?—I was; I am, at least; it is in existence still.

5656. How long has it been in existence?—Well; the nucleus of it has been in existence for some 12 or 13 years to my knowledge, and I have been a member of it during that time.

5657. Did you take an active part at the last election in support of Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket?—I did, in that ward.

5658. Was that an independent committee; a ward committee?—Yes; it also looks after the Poor Law elections and municipal elections.

5659. Were all those matters going on at that time, as well as the election?—Oh, yes; we have municipal matters discussed as well.

5660. Did you attend it frequently?—I attended almost every meeting.

5661. Every evening?—Every meeting.

5662. During any of your attendances did you ever, to your knowledge, meet with a person there of the name of Kirk?—Well; I might have.

5663. But do you recollect meeting him?—I have no distinct recollection of it.

5664. In that committee-room, previous to, and during the time of the election, were there any notices, extracts from the Act of Parliament, as to the penalties for pursuing illegal practices, posted up?—There were; there were copies posted about breast high on each of the four walls in the hall by which the committee-room was approached; and there were cards upon which they were also printed, lying on the table.

5665. Could anyone go into those committee-rooms without seeing them?—Not unless he were wilfully blind.

5666. Were there in the Trinity Ward committee any of those papers for the purpose of being signed by parties who were willing to give their gratuitous services to the candidates?—There were.

5667. What was the object of those papers, to your knowledge?—Well; the object that I had in having them signed—

Mr. Hemphill objected that what was passing in the witness's mind had no bearing one way or the other.

Mr. M^cDonogh argued in support of the line of examination.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the witness might be asked why he had these papers signed.

Witness.] Upon anybody who was a voter applying to be allowed to assist the committee, I brought this paper under his notice, and directed his attention to the section of the Act of Parliament, which was posted in the room. I told him I could not avail myself of his services unless he signed one of the papers; and I insisted on his reading the paper before he signed it; and I stated to him that the Act of Parliament was so strict that in order to prevent all possibility of misconception, he should sign that paper before I should allow him to become an active supporter of the candidates, or to assist at the committee. That statement applies to such of the papers as were signed when I was present. I was not present when they were all signed.

5668. Were you present at the signing of a great majority?—I was present at the signing of a large number.

was no understanding but what was the plain meaning and purport of the papers.

5670. Were those papers intended for any other purpose than that which you have stated?—I did not intend them for any other purpose.

5671. And to your knowledge, were they so intended by the committee?—Certainly not.

5672. Do you know whether the committee met on the day after the election?—Well, my belief is that they did not; I was not there the day after the election. There was no business to be done.

5673. Were you at your own house upon the day after the election; that is, the Thursday?—I was.

5674. In the early part of the day?—Yes, I was.

5675. Up to what time were you in your own house?—I left shortly before 12 o'clock to attend a meeting of the Board of Guardians, and at about a quarter past 12 I was there.

5676. At what time, do you think?—It would be, I think, about three o'clock; between three and four o'clock.

5677. Up to the time that you left, were there any persons assembled in your house, either in your parlour, or in any other room, upon matters connected with the election?—No; nor was there any arrangement for any such assembly.

5678. Mr. Justice Keogh.] That was the day after the election?—Yes; there was no business connected with the election done at my house at all at any time.

5679. Mr. Purcell.] Up to the time that you left your house, what persons were in your house?—None but my own immediate family, and my servants.

5680. Just tell me who they are?—Mrs. Byrne, my son Edward, and a housemaid, and a cook, I believe.

5681. There were no strangers?—There were no strangers whatever.

5682. While you were there, did any person come to your house with a card?—No.

5683. Did you ever hear, before you came into court, or read it in the papers, any such statement?—No; and I am surprised that anyone could have come on this table and sworn anything of the sort; I could not help being surprised.

5684. Did you on that day give to anybody or instruct any person to give to anybody the sum of 3*l.* on a card?—Emphatically no; nor any other time whatever.

5685. Were you in court when Albert Johnstone gave his evidence?—I was not; I came here when a messenger came for me, and the police at this door would not allow me in.

5686. This is the evidence of Johnstone. Just attend to me, if you please, while I read it:—"Did Kirk say anything about getting more money?—He said there could be more money got. Did he give you anything?—A card. Had you a name upon it?—Yes. What did he say to you?—He told me to go up to Westland-row, the school-house, Guinness and Plunket's committee-room. Did you go there?—I did. What did you do?—I gave it to a gentleman, and I told him that Kirk sent me up with it. Do you know his name?—I do not. Who were there?—Several people. Do you remember the name of anyone?—I do not. Were they gentlemen?—Apparently. Did you get anything there in return for the card?—I got another card. What was it like?—It was something like a railway card, but it was rather worn. Was anything written on the card?—He told me to go to Byrne's office in Lombard-street. Is that the town councillor?—I think it is. Do you know the number?—No. It is a pawnbroking office?—Yes. Did you go there?—I did. Did you go into the office or knock at the private door?—At the private door; it was open. Was anyone standing at the door?—A young man. Did you speak to him?—I told him that Kirk sent me down with the card. Whom did you get it from?—I got it in Westland-row. Show it to me; what did he say?—He told me to wait in the hall; he gave me an envelope; and upon opening it there was a 3*l.* note in it. Did you see anyone else at Lombard-street?—Several people; two or three were inside in the room. Did you remain in the hall?—I glanced into the room, but remained in the hall. How many were there besides?—Four or five; there might be more. What were they doing?—Sitting about a table. Were there any papers upon it?—I cannot recollect."

5687. Could anybody in your hall see persons standing in the centre of your parlour?—No; I may tell you first that so far as that statement concerns me or my house, to my knowledge, from the beginning to the end, it is an unmitigated lie.

5688. The room is on the left-hand side as you enter the hall?—It is.

5689. I believe the door entering the parlour is at the extreme end of the hall?—It is at the extreme end of the partition wall which divides the parlour from the hall. I have drawn a rough plan of it here, in order to let his Lordship see the position of the premises (handing a plan to his Lordship). That square in the centre, 8 feet 4 by 4 feet 8, is a large telescopic dining table, capable of being made still larger by the introduction of leaves, and it has never left that position for the last 12 or 14 years.

5690. Was that table standing in its usual place in the centre of your parlour?—It has never left that since it was put there 14 years ago; it was sometimes larger, but never smaller.

5691. Now let me call your attention to another part of this evidence. He says: "Do you remember an elderly gentleman?—Yes. What kind was he?—A low sized gentleman. Was he stout or thin?—I think he was stout." So far as that applies to you, was there any truth in it?—

Mr. Justice Keogh remarked that the witness could not answer the question more completely than he had already done.

Witness.] So far as concerns me or my house, it is entirely untrue.

5692. Was there in your parlour a stand-up desk?—No.

5693. Nor a desk at all?—No.

5694. Was there at that time?—No.

5695. Do you balance your cash every night?—Yes.

5696. Was there any entry in any of your books, or any return made to you, of a payment of 3*l.* upon that day?—Not at all.

5697. Was the cash deficient upon that day?—No; I never have cash transactions in my private house.

5697. The

Mr.
J. Byrne,
—
29 January
1869.

Mr.
J. Byrne.

29 January
1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

5698. The committee-rooms of Guinness and Plunket were the school-house of St. Mark's, Westland-row?—Yes.

5699. When was it opened for the purpose of the Parliamentary election?—I do not know exactly the time, but I can tell you the circumstances; I suppose you want to know the whole truth.

5700. Yes; but shortly as you can?—In July we were lent the rooms for the purpose of the revision; they were never wanted for the election at all. In the ordinary way, from the 1st of November we were recognised as the committee of Guinness and Plunket; I was a member of the ward committee, an honorary secretary of it. It was I that organised it.

5701. From whom did you receive the printed circulars?—Some of the messengers brought them.

5702. Did they come from Mr. Sutton?—I believe they did.

5703. Have you any doubt of it?—I have not.

5704. Was Mr. Sutton or Mr. Williamson in the habit of going into your committee-rooms?—I never saw Williamson; Sutton occasionally came down to know if we wanted information.

5705. Did the candidates go to the committee-rooms?—I think I saw them there upon one or two occasions.

5706. Did you attend a ward committee meeting the night before the election when canvassing cards were distributed; I speak of Trinity Ward?—There was a meeting every night.

5707. A precise evening. Were you present at the meeting?—I was.

5708. Were you present when canvassing cards were given to voters?—They were given every night, not canvassing cards, but separate lists of voters, of which they were to take charge, to see that persons voted, and to represent who had and who had not voted.

5709. Did you see Kirk?—I would not know him.

5710. Who made out those lists?—One of the clerks in the room.

5711. Did you see the lists before they were given out?—I believe they were printed lists.

5712. Had you seen them?—I had.

5713. You saw the provost's name?—Every elector's name in the ward was given to such persons as had offered their services, to see whether the electors had voted, and report who had not voted, that they might be got to vote.

5714. These you employed as canvassers?—No, they volunteered to do the work; they were to see that voters had voted, and report to me.

5715. Were they not also to bring up voters?—Yes, if they could influence them.

5716. Whose duty was it to distribute the lists?—It was my duty principally.

5717. You were the honorary secretary of the committee?—Yes.

5718. Did any money pass through you for payments incidental to the ward?—Not so much as a farthing.

5719. Did you make any return of the stationery or the car hire?—Not any return.

5720. Whose duty was it to do so?—The stationery was sent from the centre office.

5721. But there must have been expenses incidental to that; whose duty was it to pay the money in this instance?—I may tell you, we had no cars engaged.

5722. Was no money spent in reference to Trinity Ward from the 1st of November?—No.

5723. Who paid the clerks?—I certified the week's wages upon their account; they furnished the accounts to me, they were sent up to Dame-street, and I presumed that they were paid there.

5724. Do I understand that no money passed through your hands?—Not so much as a farthing.

5725. Does your son Edward live with you?—No.

5726. Does John Ousley Byrne live with you?—I have six sons; he lives with his brother in Westland-row.

5727. Did he live with you during the election?—He partly lived with me, and partly with his brother in Westland-row.

5728. He was engaged as a paid agent for Guinness and Plunket?—I believe not.

5729. The sum of 115 £. is one of the items that have been returned?—My notion about it is, he got no money for his own services.

5730. For what did the 115 £. go?—I cannot say; you had better ask himself. So far as I am aware, he got no money for himself.

5731. Your pawnbroking establishment is not in your private house?—My pawnbroking establishment is in No. 11, my private house No. 10.

5732. And the hall is between them?—(Witness described the position of the hall and the two houses, and handed in a plan.) There is a private door from No. 10 to No. 11; without going into the street a person could get into No. 11.

5733. I think you said you went away about 12 o'clock, and did not return between three and four o'clock upon the day of the election?—Yes.

5734. What assistants have you?—I have a clerk, a foreman, and an assistant.

5735. How many clerks have you?—Four.

5736. Therefore, when you said that none were in the house but your son Edward Byrne, your wife, and the cook, you meant No. 10?—Yes; my business people do not come into No. 10.

5737. Is there any private office behind either of your houses?—There is, in the inner hall of the pawnbroking establishment, a partition five feet square, to screen persons who do not wish to go to the shop where the public resort; there is a small table in that.

5738. Where does it open into?—It opens into the pawnbroking office.

5739. But is there any door into any hall from that?—There is only one door, and that opens into the pawnbroking office.

5740. Would a person standing at the door of the private room be able to see into the room?—No; it is at the extreme end of the other.

5741. Could not people see into the room?—No more than a man could see from the jury box into the court.

5742. He could do that?—I mean from the grand jury room; it is in a different building, and walls 18-inches thick, are between.

5743. You tell me there is a little room behind the pawnbroking establishment?—There is a room in connexion with the centre.

5744. Suppose a person were standing at the door of the pawnbroking establishment, could they see into the room?—It is a part of the hall that is separate; a part of the back hall.

5745. Therefore, a person standing in the hall could could see into it; if the door were open, of course. The pawnbroking establishment is a private house adapted to such an office; the original and back hall are there undisturbed, and a cross door divides the back from the front, inside that is a small nook where a person who does not choose to stand at the counter amongst the ordinary run of people, may come, if they please; there is a small table and one chair.

5746. Mr. Purcell.] The door of the pawnbroking establishment is always open?—Yes; the front portion, what originally constituted a parlour and a hall, were thrown into one; a portion of the parlour and the hall constitute the place where the public are; the other place, at the back of the fire-place, my office and that of my assistants, but it is no longer in the form of a hall, it is an open shop.

5747. Upon that day was there any meeting for election purposes in No. 11?—No. 11 is my business house, and no such thing could occur.

5748. Did you authorise anyone in the establishment to make any payment for election purposes?—Emphatically, no; because the foreman doing business in the pawnbroking establishment is a Roman Catholic lad, and a Radical, and he feels with Pim and Corrigan.

5749. Would the story about Johnson receiving the 3 l. be equally false, whether in reference to No. 10 or No. 11?—No doubt of it, so far as I am concerned.

5750. How many persons could stand; could five be assembled about the table in that room?—No; at the utmost two.

5751. Is there a high desk with four legs?—No, a small table 18 inches square, and a chair; a common kitchen square; that is the whole of the furniture.

5752. How many persons upon that day were in your establishment?—My foreman, Thomas Magennis; he has left me and gone into business for himself at Newbridge; another lad, a second assistant whom I still have, and two others, Crowe and Lamb.

5753. Listen to another portion of Albert Johnson's evidence, and tell me could it apply to your house of business: "Did he (meaning Byrne) shut the door when he let you in?—No he left the hall door open. Did you go far in?—Yes. How far did you go into the hall?—I went a good distance. Where was the door, on what part of the hall; upon the side of the hall; right or left?—I do not know which. The door going down into the room where you saw the people?—I cannot tell; I forget it. Did you take any notice of it?—I did not make any remark at the time. Was it far down in the hall, or near the hall door?—It was a good bit down." Could that apply to your business house; is there a door from the hall into the parlour, a good bit down in your business concerns?—There is no door going from the private house into the house of business, except the door upon the plan, and that is behind the counter; he would have to get across the counter to do that.

5754. Referring to Evidence. "Do you mean to say that standing near the hall door you could see into the room?—Yes, when it was open. Did the door open at the side of the passage?"—Would that description apply to your business premises?—He could not see into the private parlour from the hall of the business house.

5755. Has not the hall been thrown into a shop?—The hall partly still exists, a portion of the partition stands, and a large opening has been made in the partition in which there are two folding doors, which are open from half-past 8 to 7.

5756. Then no person going into your business premises could see into the parlour?—They would see nothing of course but an open shop. The door of my office was opened at half-past 8, and was not closed till the business had concluded, at 7.

5757. Mr. Hemphill.] It would be desirable if the witness were to make a plan of the whole premises.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] He can expand the sketch, if he please.

Mrs. BYRNE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Exham.

5758. Do you recollect the last election for the City of Dublin?—I do.

5759. Do you remember the morning after that?—Yes.

5760. You know the parlour in your house, off the hall?—Yes.

5761. Were you in that room upon that morning?—I was.

5762. From what o'clock and till what hour were you in the room that day?—I was in all day, from the time I got up; I was not out at all.

5763. Did you breakfast in that room with your family?—I did, and continued in all day.

5764. Is it a fact that there were any number of men in the room that day?—Oh, it is a great lie, sir.

5765. Was anyone, to your knowledge, but your husband and your own family there that day?—Not one.

5766. Was there a desk in that room upon legs?—No, there was not.

5767. Were there any number of persons after breakfast sitting any time during the day at a table, or standing up in the room?—No.

5768. Or were any of the young men in your husband's place of business in the room that day? Mrs. Byrne.

—No.

5769. Did any person bring you in any ticket into that room?—No.

5770. Or did anyone in your presence give an envelope with anything in it to anyone, that day?—No.

5771. Could there have been any number of persons, three or four, in that room, without your knowledge?—There could not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Litton, q.c.

5772. Of what day are you speaking?—The day after the election.

5773. What was the day of the month?—A Thursday.

5774. What was the month?—I cannot tell.

5775. All this has reference to your private house?—Yes.

5776. Did you leave the room all that day?—Of course I did.

5777. For how long were you away at times?—A few minutes.

5778. An hour?—Never.

5779. Half

Mr.
J. Byrne.
29 January
1869.

Mrs. Byrne. 5779. Half-an-hour?—A quarter; not hardly that, I suppose.
 29 January 1869. 5780. Did you go into your business establishment?—I always go in, if Mr. Byrne is out, of course, to give money.

5781. Was he not out?—He was.

5782. Did you go in and out?—I did.

5783. About what hour did he go out?—He went out at 12 o'clock, and returned about four o'clock.

5784. How often did you go in during that interval?—Well, I think five times.

5785. And the rest of the time was spent in the parlour?—Yes.

5786. How much of the four or five hours during that day were you in the parlour, how much in your place of business; you only left occasionally?—Yes; ask the question again.

5787. For four hours you said you were going into the shop to see parties, how much of that time did you spend in each place?—More in the parlour than in the office.

5788. Might not three or four young men be in the business department?—No, they could not, without my seeing.

5789. You could not see from the private parlour into the shop?—No, unless you opened the door.

5790. Was the door open all the day?—No.

5791. Might not three or four young men be in the parlour while you were in the shop?—There could not be, because I could see them; you could not get into the shop without opening the door to get in.

5792. Do you ever shut the door after you when you return?—Always.

5793. Suppose the door were shut and you were in the parlour, could you see them in the shop?—No.

5794. Might there not have been three or four in the shop without your knowledge?—There might upon business, but there was no meeting.

5795. I am not asking you about that; who was in the parlour with you upon that day?—Edward, and a cook that I was getting home.

5796. Was John Ouseley Byrne, your son, at home?—No; nobody but Edward.

5797. Where was the maid?—I suppose in the kitchen.

5798. Did they stay in the parlour with you all that day?—No; they never came into the room.

5799. You hired a cook?—Yes, she was coming home; she was with me at half-past 10; she then left, went for necessaries, and returned at 12.

5800. Is there any other communication between the places?—No.

5801. Is there an entrance to the business establishment from Lombard-street?—Yes, through the hall door.

5802. And that is the hall door to No. 11, as well as that to No. 10?—There is a hall door from 10 to 11.

5803. Is there a private entrance from Lombard-street into the pawnbroking establishment?—No.

5804. When you enter from Lombard-street, is there a private door through which a person who did not wish to get information might go?—Yes.

5805. Would a person standing there be able to see into a small room if the door were opened?—The place is so small that, if the door were open they could see anyone that was there.

Cross-examined by Mr. Exham.

5806. At what hour in the morning is the pawnbroking establishment open?—Always at half-past eight.

5807. Can you say it was open that morning?—Yes, positively, and was kept open till seven.

5808. That little room at the end of the pawnbroking establishment, is there a door to it?—Yes.

5809. Could four or five people be in that room?—No; about two.

5810. What was the size of the table?—It was very small; it could hold a few papers and accommodate one or so.

BRIDGET DUFFY, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh, Q. C.

B. Duffy. 5811. You were a servant in Byrne's establishment, Lombard-street?—Yes.

5812. Do you remember the last election?—I do.

5813. Do you remember the morning after the election?—I do.

5814. Were you in the house upon that day; in the private house?—Yes.

5815. Were you in attendance upon the concerns of your mistress and master that day?—Yes.

5816. Did any person call at that private house and give you any ticket upon that day?—No, sir, not that I remember.

5817. Did you get from your mistress, or from any human being, a sum of 3*l.* to give to that person?—No, sir, I did not.

5818. Did you get an envelope or anything of the kind?—No, sir.

5819. Will you tell us who were in the private house on that day?—I remember the mistress, the master, and the cook, and a charwoman.

5820. Do you know Mr. Edward?—I do.

5821. Was he there any part of the day?—I do not remember.

5822. And were these the only persons in the house that day?—These were all that I remember.

Cross examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

5823. You are a servant of Mr. Byrne's?—Yes.

5824. Are you the cook?—No.

5825. Then you did not come home upon that day?—No.

5826. What day was that?—The day after the election.

5827. What day?—Thursday.

5828. What was the day of the month?—I don't know.

5829. Who answers the door when there is a knock?—I do.

5830. Did any one knock there that day?—No, sir.

5831. Did you see any railway tickets or tickets of any kind about the place that day?—No, sir.

5832. Were you in the parlour that morning?—Part of the morning.

5833. Did

5833. Did you see anyone there but the members of the family?—No, sir.

5834. Is there any other sitting-room but the parlour?—Yes, there is the back parlour.

5835. There is a front parlour?—Yes.

5836. Is there any communication between them?—There is a door leading from one into the other.

5837. And also a separate door leading into the hall?—Yes.

5838. Is there any communication between the parlours without going into the hall?—No, except to go into the hall; you could go from one parlour to the other.

5839. What size is the back parlour?—It is not large.

5840. Were you in it often that morning?—Not that I remember.

5841. Was the door between open?—I cannot remember.

5842. I suppose it is sometimes open and sometimes shut?—Yes.

5843. Were you out that morning?—Not that I remember.

5844. Are you not in the habit of going out of messages?—Not often; I do not remember.

5845. Of what does the furniture consist?—A table.

5846. A round table?—Yes; a piano, a press, a desk where there are books kept.

5847. Was there any place for writing?—There is a small desk for writing.

5848. Was it one you could lift up, or upon two legs?—It is a desk you could lift up, and there were no legs to it.

[The Witness withdrew.]

B. Duffy.

29 January
1860.

EDWARD BYRNE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Exham.

5849. Do you recollect the last election?—Yes.

5850. Did you live with your father at that time?—I did.

5851. You breakfasted there that morning?—Yes.

5852. At what hour did you get out?—Not till after one o'clock.

5853. Where were you in the morning?—In the back parlour, sitting and lying down upon the sofa, until after one o'clock.

5854. Was any one in the back parlour except a member of the family?—No.

5855. What members of the family were there except yourself?—My mother, I think; she was in and out.

5856. Were you in the front parlour?—Yes; I was in and out between the two.

5857. Up to one o'clock, is it possible there could have been three or four persons in the front room, except a member of your own family?—It is impossible it could be.

5858. Did you see any one bring a railway ticket, or any ticket into either of the rooms?—No.

5859. Did you give an envelope in, or without anything in it?—No.

5860. And you did not leave till one o'clock?—I did not.

5861. Were any of the young men in either of the rooms?—No; not while I was there.

5862. Or any other person?—No.

5863. Were you in and out of the business establishment?—No.

5864. Mr. Hemphill.] Were any of your brothers at home?—They were there from breakfast.

5865. Did they come in at dinner?—I was out from one to four.

5866. Were you active about the election?—I was a little interested in it.

5867. Were you engaged as a canvasser, to look after voters and whip them up?—I had been.

5868. Had you been engaged sometime before the polling?—I was not exactly engaged; I gave my services voluntarily.

5869. Were you at the committee-rooms every day; did you attend your father's ward, of which he was the honorary secretary?—I attended every day he was there.

5870. Had you any duty to do in keeping books?—At what time?

5871. A week or a fortnight before the election?—

5872. From the 1st of November?—I had not.

5873. Were you there the night the lists were given to the canvasser or street agents?—I don't think I was.

5874. Did you see any railway tickets about your father's places?—No.

5875. Any tickets?—No.

5876. Were you yourself paid anything for your services?—I was not.

E. Byrne.

SARAH KNIGHT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Purcell, Q.C.

5877. ARE you the care-taker of the school-house of St. Marks?—Yes.

5878. Where is that?—No. 1, Westland-row.

5879. Do you recollect the Conservative meeting held in that room?—I do.

5880. Do you recollect the day of the election?—I do.

5881. The committee were in attendance there that day?—They were.

5882. You recollect the day after?—I do.

5883. Did you lock up yourself the place, on the night of the election?—Yes; I am never in the place, only from 11 until half-past two, unless while the election lasted.

5884. And you saw them all out upon the night of the election?—I did.

5885. The day after did the committee meet at the school-house?—No.

5886. Do you recollect Mr. Winton upon the following day coming and taking away the box with the papers?—I do, perfectly well.

5887. At what hour?—Before 10 in the morning; he brought a boy and took away the box; and after that he saw no more of it. I left the house at half-past two, locked it up as usual, and up to that there were no persons in the room; not any one of the committee except Mr. Winton.

S. Knight.

S. Knight. 5888. Before Mr. Winton came for the box at half-past 10, were any of the committee there?—No.
 29 January 1869. 5889. Was he the first person that came?—He was the first person I saw.
 5890. And the last person?—Yes.
 5891. And the only person?—There were people who came to the hall-door, but that was my business, as I was there to care the house, and take directions for the clergyman.
 5892. But these were the only members of the committee?—Yes.
 5893. Do you recollect anybody calling that morning to the committee-rooms, or asking for the committee?—I do.
 5894. Did you direct anybody to go to Mr. Byrnes, of Lombard-street?—I did.

Cross-examined by Mr. Litton, Q.C.

5895. Are you the only person in charge of the school-house?—Yes; it is an empty house; in consequence of the schoolmistress dying, I am the only person there. I come at 11 o'clock, and remain till half-past two. During the time of the election I was in every morning at nine o'clock.

5896. How long were you acting?—From the time the fires commenced my business was to go in to have the fires kindled.

5897. Did you go into the room while a committee was sitting?—Certainly not; I never went in, except while the fires were being kindled, or dusting the tables.

5898. Do you remember the day of the election?—Yes.

5899. And the day after?—Yes.

5900. What time was it?—The election was upon the 18th.

5901. At what time did you come the day after the election?—About nine o'clock; the place was in a rough state.

5902. Do you know any of the committee except Mr. Winton?—I cannot say I do; I heard several names called, but I cannot say which was which.

5903. You say that he took away the box?—Yes.

5904. Was there not more than one box?—There was a box in each ward.

5905. What do you mean?—I mean that there was one in Trinity Ward, and one in the South Dock.

5906. Did both wards meet in the school-house?—There were two boxes there.

5907. One for each of the wards?—Yes.

5908. Did any one at all come after Mr. Winton?—No.

5909. If anybody knocked at the door, was there anyone to open it but yourself?—No.

5910. Did you leave the door open during any part of the day?—No; when people were coming backwards and forwards, the door was opened while the committee was there; but I never left the door open while any one was in the house but myself.

5911. But did the committee come there the day after the election?—No.

5912. Will you swear that anybody knocked at the door the day after the election but Mr. Winton?—I do not recollect anybody; two or three knocked, but it was about the clergyman's business.

5913. Did nobody come but Mr. Winton?—I believe one man came and asked, "Are any of them here?" I said, "Oh, no, they are all gone; they have left this; they have no more to do with this place."

5914. Do you know Mr. Byrnes, of Lombard-street?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Purcell, Q.C.

5915. Do you recollect anyone coming and asking for the committee?—Yes, and I told him they were all gone; that they had all gone out of that, and had no more business there.

5916. Did you, upon that occasion, give a card or anything else to anybody who called and told you to go to Mr. Byrnes?—Never; there was no card.

5917. Did the person who called tell you his business?—No.

5918. Or say anything with reference to the committee, as to who they were?—Not a word.

5919. Do you know who that person was?—I do not.

5920. Did anything more take place than simply to ask were the committee there?—Nothing whatsoever.

5921. Did he show you the card?—He did not.

5922. Nor ask you anything about a card?—Not a word.

WILLIAM MOORE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Exham.

W. Moore. 5923. What are you in the establishment of Mr. Byrnes?—I am his assistant.

5924. And you were so during the last election?—Yes.

5925. Who was the head man?—Magennis.

5926. You recollect the day after the election?—Yes.

5927. At what hour did the business commence?—At half-past eight.

5928. Were you there then?—Yes.

5929. During the whole day?—Yes.

5930. Was the door of the shop opened in the same way as upon any other morning?—Yes.

5931. And did it remain open?—Yes.

5932. Were you in the private house of Mr. Byrnes that day?—I was in the office all day.

5933. No. 11?—Yes.

5934. Were you in the house during dinner time?—Yes.

5935. And breakfast time?—Yes.

5936. Who was with you at breakfast?—I breakfasted by myself.

5937. Did you go into the business place?—Yes.

5938. Did you remain there till dinner time?—Yes.

5939. Did you dine there?—Yes.

5940. Who dined?—One of the boys.

5941. With that exception, a breakfast and dinner, were you in the private house during the day?—I was in the office.

5942. Were you in the private house?—No.

5943. Were any number of persons during the breakfast breakfast or dinner hour collected in that private house?—No.

5944. Were you or anybody else, to your knowledge, sitting in any room of that house at a table?—No.

5945. Were any sitting at any table or standing in any room?—No.

5946. Do you know the little room where persons go who do not want to be seen?—The private room.

5947. During that day were any persons in that room?—On nothing but business.

5948. Pawnbroking business?—Yes.

5949. Would it be possible for three or four to be in that place?—Not unknownst to me.

5950. Did you see any person bring any railway or other sort of a ticket that day?—No.

5951. Did you see any envelope given?—No.

5952. Did you give it?—No.

5953. Did you give any money?—No, except paying in pawnbroker's matters.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

5954. Have you been long in the employment of Mr. Byrne?—Five months.

5955. Did many people call about the election during those five months, November or December?—No; not any more than usual.

5956. You are in the business part of the establishment; you are there all day, except at meal times?—All day.

5957. When did you go to dinner?—At three o'clock.

5958. When did you take your breakfast?—At nine o'clock.

5959. How long were you away altogether?—About a quarter of an hour.

5960. Did you do much business in the pawnbroking establishment that day?—There were a good many people coming in; the same as usual.

5961. How many were there?—Twenty or 30 coming in and going out; more than 20 came in every day.

5962. That little place behind the shop?—I knew it.

5963. You knew it?—I knew it.

5964. How many would it hold?—Five or six, if pushed in together.

5965. Did you send any people into it upon that day?—No.

5966. I mean upon pawnbroking business?—Yes; I attended upon one person at a time.

5967. You must have left the shop then?—It is only off the shop.

5968. What is the furniture in it; is there any way of writing in it?—There is only a chair; there is no way of writing; there is a little table.

W. Moore.

1869.

JOHN RICHARD O'BRIEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Atkinson.

5969. Do you remember the day of the election?—Yes.

5970. Do you remember calling at 7, Westland row?—Yes, at 20 minutes after 11.

5971. Was it open or shut?—Open.

5972. Whom did you see?—The housekeeper.

5973. For whom did you ask?—I asked for Mr. Wintor; she told me he was not there; she also told me if I wanted anything about the committee to go to Mr. Byrne.

Not cross-examined.

Mr. McDonogh said that he would not call any more witnesses in reference to this part of the case, but reserved his right to call others, if necessary.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] At present you appear to have covered the hall, the house, and all the premises.

*J. R.
O'Brien.*

WILLIAM PERCIVAL, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

5974. WHAT is your business?—A manufacturing jeweller.

5975. Do you know Alexander Ferguson?—I do; he was in my employment.

5976. Was he there about the time of the election?—He was, and till very lately; in fact, I may say he is still in my employment, but I have given him notice to quit.

5977. Had you any conversation with him after the election; after he was subpoenaed?—Yes.

5978. What did he say as to whether he had been promised or given money at the election?—He said he got no money, and no promise; he asked me what he would do about the subpoena; I said, nothing but tell the truth, if he had nothing to be afraid of.

5979. Neither money nor promise?—Yes.

5980. Where did he tell you that?—In my office; he came into the workshop.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill, Q.C.

5981. You say he told you he got neither money nor promise?—Undoubtedly.

5982. Was anyone present but you two?—No.

5983. Did he mention anything about rent?—

29.

Well, previous to the election, I think he did. I asked my men to vote for Guinness and Plunket.

5984. It was not compulsory?—No; some of them voted for Mr. Pim and Sir Dominick Corrigan.

5985. What did he say about the rent?—He stated that he owed some 3*l.* rent, and would wish to vote for Guinness and Plunket but was afraid to do so on account of his landlord.

5986. I think you said he was a Roman Catholic?—I am not quite certain.

5987. Did he tell you that the rent was to be paid, or anything to that effect?—No.

5988. Or at any time; try and recollect?—No; he expressed himself as if he was afraid of his landlord for voting for Guinness and Plunket.

5989. But did he afterwards say he was to be all right about the rent?—No.

5990. Nor that he expected 1*l.*?—No.

5991. You voted for Guinness and Plunket?—I did.

5992. When was it you had the conversation with Alexander Ferguson?—Since he was subpoenaed.

5993. Do you mean to say he told you he got neither money nor promise?—Undoubtedly.

5994. What was the whole of what he said to you?—

W. Percival.

W. Percival. you?—He showed me the subpoena, and asked me what he would do. I had not time to read the subpoena; "Leave it," I said, "and I will look over it." I thought he seemed frightened.

29 January
1869.

5995. Did he not give you to understand he could give evidence against Guinness and Plunket?—Certainly not.

5996. Why consult you about it then?—I really cannot say.

5997. Have you any idea why he consulted you?—

5998. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Pray answer the question?—To tell you the truth I cannot say why he spoke to me; he did not seem to like the subpoena, or having his name in the papers.

5999. Did he not give you to understand he could give evidence against Guinness and Plunket; that he was paid for it?—But he did not say.

6000. Did you offer him 100 £, if he did not come into the witness box?—Not a word of the sort.

6001. Nor a penny offered?—No.

6002. If he did not come into the witness box, nor held out any expectation whatsoever?—No.

6003. You have dismissed him from your employment?—Yes; I told him I could not have confidence in any man who would take a bribe to give evidence.

6004. And that is the reason you dismissed him?—Yes.

6005. How long did you keep the subpoena?—About two hours.

6006. What did you do with it?—I spoke to Mr. Sutton.

6007. Which; Mr. Byrne or Mr. Sutton?—Byrne or Sutton?

6008. Did you return the subpoena to Ferguson?—I had it in my office; I met him upon the stairs.

6009. Did you offer him a penny not to give evidence?—No.

6010. Upon any occasion?—Certainly not.

6011. What did you say to him when giving back the subpoena?—I referred him to Mr. Sutton.

6012. What did Mr. Sutton tell you to do in reference to him?—I think he said to send him over, and I told him to call over to Abbey-street.

Re-examined by Mr. McDonogh, Q. C.

6013. You say that Roman Catholics in your employment voted for Pim and Corrigan, and you never interfered with them I suppose?—Not at all.

Mr. Hemphill.] I shall ask your Lordship to have Ferguson called, and ask him did Mr. Percival ever offer him any money not to come forward and give evidence against Guinness and Plunket.

Mr. McDonogh objected to the procedure.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I cannot see the use of doing so.

Alderman JOSEPH MANNING, sworn; Examined by Mr. Purcell.

Alderman
J. Manning.

6014. WERE you upon the committee of Guinness and Plunket?—Not to my knowledge.

6015. Have you ever seen Alexander Ferguson before?—Yes.

6016. Where?—I saw him in my place of business in Grafton-street.

6017. Was that the first time?—That I have any recollection of.

6018. Upon what day do you recollect you saw Ferguson?—I believe it was upon the day that the notice appeared of Mr. Fitzgerald offering to pay for evidence; I think that was the day.

6019. To pay for information?—Yes.

6020. When was that?—Considerably after the election.

6021. A long time?—Oh, a very long time.

6022. I asked you whether you were upon Sir Arthur Guinness's committee?—Yes; I am not aware that I was.

6023. Were you upon any committee?—Upon the South City Ward committee.

6024. Was that formed for the purposes of the election?—I have been connected with it for 20 years.

6025. Do you know where that committee holds its meetings?—That committee held its meetings formerly; we got the use of the rooms in Church-lane, when it was in existence; we held some meetings there; we held other meetings in No. 3, Dame-street; and latterly for revision and other purposes, in the school-house, in St. Andrew's parish.

6026. Did that committee ever meet in 79, Dame-street?—No.

6027. Do you recollect any day prior to that election, being there?—Yes.

6028. For what purpose?—I went in and out to get information.

6029. You were not engaged in 79, Dame-street?—Oh, not at all, they had official people.

6030. Were you ever spoken to by Ferguson, there?—I have no recollection of speaking to Alexander Ferguson; that man, in 79, Dame-street.

6031. Did you at any time before the election, or immediately afterwards, hold a conversation with Alexander Ferguson about paying him money for his vote?—No.

6032. Did you ever promise, or hold out any inducement, before the election, to get him a vote for Guinness and Plunket?—Neither before or after the election, in any shape or form.

6033. Then I understand you to say you had no recollection, before or after the election, of any conversation with him?—I have not the slightest recollection of a conversation with him, till he called at my place; and I can give your Lordship a reason; I think it unlikely I had seen him before, because, when he came in, I said to the clerk, "Good gracious, is that Coridan."

6034. Do you mean the Fenian?—Yes; I had been summoned to attend the court-house, and having seen the man, I thought the likeness of Ferguson to him was very strong; I do not know whether your Lordship can perceive the likeness.

6035. What took place?—He came and asked for me; I came forward to meet him; I made this remark; he said he had been badly treated, that he had been promised to be paid, and never got a farthing; I said, "Who promised you?" "I don't mean to say," said he, "that you promised me anything, but I was promised by the young man that came to look after me, to pay me for the day;" I said, "You had better go to him"; do you know his appearance?" "I know him," he said.

"Then,

"Then," said I, "if anybody promised you money, he did a wrong thing, because there are special injunctions not to do so." He then said, that he knew I had not promised him anything; but he thought that as a brother mason, I would try to get him righted. I said, "You are not a Freemason." "I am," said he. I looked again at him; "I don't think you are," said I. "I do not belong to an Irish lodge," said he; "I belong to a Scotch lodge." "I do not know anything about it," said I; and this was the entire of the conversation.

Mr. Purcell read from the evidence of Alexander Fergusson, to the effect. "He then took me off in a cab to No. 79, Dame-street, where I was introduced to Alderman Manning, who asked me my address; I said No. 22 Temple-lane, and the Alderman wrote my name in a book, put his hand upon my shoulder, and said, 'It's all right.'" 6036. Did any such transaction as I have read to you, occur between you and Fergusson?—Not a word of it.

6037. He then is asked, "Was this Alderman Manning?" and the answer is, "Yes; I gave him my address, 22, Temple-lane, and he tapped me on the shoulder, and said it was all right, and I left Alderman Manning then." He is asked then, "Did Alderman Manning say anything else to you about voting?" And his answer was, "I was to go and vote." "Was that what he said?" "No." "Was what he said, 'all right'?" and the witness's answer is, "All right." Did any particle of that transaction take place between you and Fergusson?—Emphatically, no.

6038. Is it from beginning to end untrue?—So far as I am concerned.

6039. Did you ever have a conversation with him at 79, Capel-street?—I do not recollect.

6040. Did you ever see him on the subject, and tell him it was all right?—At 79.

6041. Or anywhere?—Certainly not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Litton.

6042. You are a Member of the Town Council?—I am.

6043. And you took an active interest in the election of Sir Arthur Guinness?—Well, not so much as I have been given credit for, because I happened to be only in and out of the committee-rooms like anybody else.

6044. Not so much as you would have liked?—I do not know what you mean by "liked."

6045. You stated you were a member of the ward committee, I think?—Yes.

6046. Did you attend there very frequently?—I attended very frequently, as it appears by a book you have there, because it is a matter of courtesy, whenever we have a board meeting, that the alderman of the ward should preside in the chair; and I presided some evenings.

6047. I think I understood you to say that you did not know whether you were a member of that committee, or not?—Of what committee?

6048. You admit that you were a member of this ward committee?—Certainly, for 20 years.

6049. And you signed the minutes on several occasions?—Certainly.

6050. When was this ward committee constituted into a committee for the return of Sir Arthur Guinness?—I think about the time of the 29.

revision. I did not say that it converted itself into a committee for Sir Arthur Guinness. It was for many purposes, municipal and parochial purposes, and other things as well as that.

6051. Where did this committee meet?—Lastly they met in the schoolhouse of St. Andrew's parish.

6052. Were there placards outside that schoolhouse?—No; there were no placards either inside or outside that schoolhouse.

6053. Is that your handwriting (handing a paper to the Witness)?—I signed it as chairman.

6054. Was not that in reference to the election of Sir Arthur Guinness?—I will read it (reading the paper). Yes, I see something about Guinness and Plunket.

6055. Is there any doubt in your own mind, upon your oath, that you were on that committee actively supporting Guinness and Plunket?—Not the slightest.

6056. Amongst the persons there present was Mr. Williamson; was that Mr. Williamson, the conducting agent?—Not at all; he is an engraver.

6057. Were not the canvassers appointed at that meeting for Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket?—They were canvassers for—; what date was that?

6058. Was that the 13th of November?—I was not at this meeting, in the chair, "Alderman Manning, in the chair."

6059. Will you swear you were not at that meeting?—I would not swear; it is likely I was.

6060. Have you any doubt in the world, that you were?—Well, I have.

6061. You have a doubt?—I have; because sometimes my name was put in the chair if I went in at the latter portion of the evening, when the business was done, or nearly done, when they were taking the minutes.

6062. Who kept this minute book at that ward?—It is in the handwriting of different people, I believe.

6063. Were you chairman of the ward?—No, I was not chairman of the ward, but as a matter of courtesy, when I was present, I generally took the chair as I explained to you; it is in different handwritings; whoever was there acted as honorary secretary on the occasion.

6064. Look at the committee book for 47, Dame-street; do you see your name there on the top of the page?—Yes, I see it here.

6065. Is that a true statement of the fact?—It is not.

6066. You were not the president?—I was not to my knowledge; there was no president; the president of the South Committee Ward Club was the late Alderman Atkinson, and there was never a president appointed since.

6067. I do not want to go into these antecedent matters?—Well, but I want to explain to you; since Alderman Atkinson's death there has been no president; it is a Conservative Club, and we used to dine once a year until then, and we have not since Alderman Atkinson's death; we have no president.

6068. Here is the minute book which says "11th November, President Alderman Manning in the chair." Is that your signature?—Yes, that is my signature.

6069. Then were you present?—I suppose so.

S

6070. Where

Alderman
J. Manning.

29 January
1869.

Alderman
J. Monning,
29 January
1869.

6070. Where was the stationery for the use of the club provided?—By ourselves.

6071. During the time of the election?—I do not know.

6072. Had you canvassing cards and other documents such as are usually used at an election?—No, not there; I will relieve you of that; we had it at 79, Dame-street.

6073. And you had the circulars at 79, Dame-street?—They were there; I was not at 79, Dame-street; they had them at 79, Dame-street.

6074. Whom do you call "they"?—Whoever were acting officially in 79, Dame-street, for the South City Ward for election purposes.

6075. But you were acting according to this book at the same time?—We were holding our own parochial meetings in St. Andrew's parish, in the schoolhouse.

6076. And as a committee interested for the return of Sir Arthur Guinness?—Most decidedly.

6077. You stated that you had never known Alexander Fergusson before?—I have stated that.

6078. When he came to you at 79, Dame-street, did you ask him to sign?—He did not come to me there.

6079. Where did he come to you?—At my own place of business.

6080. Had you any of those volunteer circulars there for the purpose of being signed?—Those were at my own place of business.

6081. Where you first met Fergusson?—In my own place of business.

6082. Yes?—Decidedly not.

6083. Used you to go frequently to 79, Dame-street?—I had been there very active on the day of the election.

6084. Had you a book there in which you got persons to sign their names?—Decidedly not.

6085. Did you ever see a person there signing his name in the book volunteering his services?—I saw a number of persons signing a paper.

6086. What was the number of persons?—I think I saw about three.

6087. Did you ever get any persons to sign their names?—Never.

6088. Or ask them?—Never.

6089. Did Fergusson ever sign one in your presence?—I never saw him signing a paper.

6090. Where are those papers that you saw signed?—I do not know; I have had nothing to do with them; there were gentlemen officially connected as I understand.

6091. Did you put Fergusson's address down in a book?—No.

6092. Was there in 79, Dame-street, to your knowledge, any book for putting down the addresses of persons who had promised to vote?—I had nothing to do with the books or papers in 79, Dame-street, and to my knowledge I knew of no such book.

Re-examined by Mr. Purcell.

6093. I understood you to say that, except upon the occasion of his calling at your place in Grafton-street —

Mr. Justice Keogh.] If you understood him to say that, there is no necessity for repeating it.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN M. WILLIAMSON, ESQ., recalled; further Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

J. M.
Williamson,
Esq.

6094. Do you remember George Hagarty's cross-examination on the 23rd?—I do.

6095. Is a Mr. Hamilton in your employment?—Yes, he is in the employment of Mr. Sutton as clerk.

6096. Did you hear George Hagarty examined here on the 23rd?—I did.

6097. Did you hear him cross-examined?—I did.

6098. Did George Hagarty call upon you in reference to any subject after the election?—He called at the office some days before the commencement of this trial for the purpose of giving information as I understood.

6099. Did he give information?—He did.

6100. Was that taken down in writing?—It was.

6101. By whom?—By Mr. Hamilton.

6102. Have you that writing here?—It is in the box.

Mr. Hemphill objected to Mr. Hamilton's evidence being given through Mr. Williamson.

6103. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] Was it in your presence?—I was present when Mr. Hamilton was taking it down.

6104. And you know that it was taken down correctly as you heard the man state it?—I believe it was.

6105. Did you hear the man state that?—I did.

6106. And did you not see what the man wrote?—I did.

6107. Was it taken down correctly?—I am certain it was.

Mr. Hemphill objected to the Witness reading Mr. Hamilton's statement.

Mr. Justice Keogh allowed the objection.

6108. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] Are you able to tell, without reference to that paper at all, the substance of what Hagarty said upon that occasion?—I think I am. You refer to one particular fact, that Hagarty swore on the table as to a particular portion of the evidence he gave us, and that is impressed upon my mind, and that I consider is the subject I am about to be examined upon.

6109. What is that particular portion of the evidence?—He swore on this table that he informed me and Mr. Hamilton that he had received a bribe of 5*l*. He never stated such a thing either to Mr. Hamilton or to me, at least he never stated it to me in Mr. Hamilton's presence. Mr. Hamilton will speak for himself.

6110. Did you read this paper at the time that Mr. Hamilton wrote it?—I read it the same day.

6111. Did you see him writing it?—I did.

6112. And did you look at him while he was writing it?—I was sitting or standing beside him at the time.

6113. Are

6113. Are you able to swear that he took it down correctly?—I believe it is a thoroughly correct account of what occurred.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that on the Counsel for the Respondent undertaking to call Mr. Hamilton the paper might be used now.

Mr. Hemphill assented.

6114. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] Will you read out that paper?—"Mr. George Hagarty, 12, Moore-street, a freeman of the City of Dublin, voted on the last election for Guinness and Plunket; about a week before Christmas a man named Henry Bailey, Henrietta-lane, carpenter, a freeman of the city, who voted for Guinness and Plunkett, called on me. He asked me had I got anything for my vote, I said no, that I did not expect anything. He then said because we did not get any he believed there would be a petition against the return of Mr. Guinness. Another man of the name of Patrick Egan, who keeps a public-house in 4, Moore-street, then sent for me to go down to him. If I was not paid for the election he would put me in the way of getting money. I would not go, and he has since sent twice for me; Bailey called for me again this morning, 7th January, and wanted me to go with him to a place where I would get 20*l.* for giving information about the elections, and that I would get some in hand at once; he also asked me if I was busy at present."

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessey.

6115. Is this document signed "G. Hagarty"?—We got no witnesses that came in to give information to sign any document, we took down what they stated.

6116. Did you read this over to him?—Certainly we read this over to him.

6117. Where is the other half sheet?—I cannot tell you where the other half sheet is, but that is the whole of his evidence as it was; I will account for the other half sheet if you will allow me. The evidence of another witness was written on the same page but it was cut off afterwards and sent to the printer for the purpose of convenience; we never asked any witness to sign any document that we took down from their word of mouth, we merely wrote it down as they told it to us.

6118. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say that the lower part of this was cut away and sent to be printed?—Yes.

6119. Was this upper part printed for the brief?—It was.

6120. Why was not the whole cut away?—Each of the parts of the evidence was printed on a separate sheet, and it was cut off, I believe, at the printers for the purpose of the men dividing the work which was very laborious.

6121. Where is that?—I think I can supply your Lordship with it.

Re-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

6122. Was Hagarty twice on two different occasions in your office or Mr. Sutton's office?—I think I saw him on more than two occasions.

6123. In reference to this evidence?—Not with reference to this evidence, for after we took it down, we never spoke to him afterwards.

6124. But you saw him on two or three occasions in the office?—My recollection is, that I saw him on one or two occasions either on the landing or outside the office; I didn't find the other portion of this evidence, but I mention to your Lordship the fact.

6125. Mr. Justice Keogh.] It is a very extraordinary thing; why did not the other part of it come back?—A great quantity of evidence did not come back from the printer to us.

6126. Why did not it come back?—Well, I cannot answer that question.

6127. Did you cut off the other part?—I did not.

6128. Where was it cut off?—I presume at the printer's office.

6129. Can you venture to swear that it was cut off at the printer's office?—I only say that I could account for it only in that way.

6130. Do you know anything about this piece that came off?—I do not.

6131. Then you do not give any explanation of it, because now I understand you know nothing about it?—I was asked the question, was there any other writing on that paper, and I said, I believed there was; the evidence of another witness which was taken down at the office on a subsequent occasion, and that it was sent to the printer, and that it was cut off for the purpose of subdividing it.

6132. Then it was a mere speculation?—It was.

6133. Then you ought to distinguish, when swearing before the Court, between what you speculate upon and what you know?—I can swear there was no other evidence on that paper than there is now.

6134. Can you tell me whose evidence was on the other part?—I cannot.

6135. Can you tell me whether there was anything at all upon it?—I believe there was.

6136. Why do you believe it?—Because we were in the habit of writing the evidence of two or three witnesses on the same side of the paper if it was short.

6137. Why was there no evidence on the other side of the paper?—I don't know.

6138. Will you show me any other sheets of paper that were treated in the same way on which the evidence of witnesses was taken down?—There were a vast number.

6139. Were those that you have in your hand all returned to you from the printers?—All.

6140. Point me out any one or more that have been cut in the same way that that had been cut?—(After examining the papers.) There is one sheet containing the evidence of three different witnesses.

6141. It is rather remarkable that this sheet containing the evidence of three witnesses was not cut, and that the other containing the evidence of only one was cut?—There was part of another sheet that was cut up in that way.

6142. That is not a sheet cut in the way that the other is?—It is not. There is a piece that has been cut off (producing a paper).

6143. I am asking for a sheet of paper part of which has been taken away while the rest remains; perhaps by going to the printing office you might get that paper?—I will go myself by-and-by.

Mr. McDonogh stated that, if necessary, he could produce the very person who actually cut it off, who would state the reason why it had been cut off.

J. M.
Williamson,
Esq.
29 January
1869.

Witness.] I don't find that there was any other sheet of paper cut in the same way.
Mr. Justice Keogh.] That makes it all the more singular; that out of that immense mass of documents there is only one sheet treated in that way.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. WILLIAM HAMILTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

Mr. W.
Hamilton.

6144. WERE you in the office with Mr. Williamson when that man Hagarty came in?—I was.

6145. Did he state his evidence in your presence and in the presence of Mr. Williamson?—I took it down.

6146. Will you kindly attend to what I say: did he state it in your hearing?—He did.

6147. And in the hearing of Mr. Williamson?—He did.

6148. Did you reduce to writing that evidence?—Yes.

6149. Did you truly reduce it to writing as he spoke it?—I did.

6150. And is the whole of what you took down from Hagarty on that paper?—Yes; every word.

6151. Do you know what was on the rest of the page?—It was some other man's evidence; I could not exactly say whose it was.

6152. But had what followed any reference to Hagarty at all?—None whatever.

6153. Did you know a man of the name of Stafford?—Yes.

6154. Does the recollection of his name bring to your memory whether or not it was his evidence that was on that paper?—No, it does not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

6155. Was not Hagarty, on two occasions, giving you information at Mr. Sutton's office?—I think not.

6156. On how many occasions?—I could not say.

6157. Will you swear that you saw him there only once?—I will not.

6158. Did you read this out to him, or did he read it?—I read it, I suppose, a couple of times to him.

6159. Did you not ask him to sign it?—I did not.

6160. Is it not usual, when you take down evidence to be used against a man, to ask him for his signature?—It was not to be used against him.

6161. Did you, after you took this down, tell him to go to Mr. Fitzgerald's office?—He may have told me that Mr. Fitzgerald had sent to him, and I told him to go to Mr. Fitzgerald's office if such was the case and tell the whole truth.

6162. Did you, or did Mr. Williamson in your hearing, tell him to get as much money as he could out of Mr. Fitzgerald?—I cannot say that I did.

6163. Will you swear that?—I will not.

Mr. WILLIAM LEDGER ERSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

Mr. W. L.
Erson.

6182. WHAT are you?—A Druggist.

6183. Living where?—In Henry-street.

6184. Do you know a man of the name of Hagarty?—Yes.

6185. Have you seen him here?—I have.

6164. Will you swear that you did not hear Hagarty, on some occasion, tell you or Mr. Williamson, in Mr. Sutton's office, that he had got 5 l. for voting?—I will swear that I did not.

6165. Why did you take down this statement from him?—That was my business.

6166. Was he acting for you or as an intended witness for you?—He was not; he came into the office and he volunteered that statement.

6167. Are you in the habit of taking down the statement of anybody who comes into the office?—In reference to the election.

6168. Did you tell him to give as little information as he possibly could to Mr. Fitzgerald?—I did not.

6169. At this time was not Hagarty constantly in and out of Mr. Sutton's office?—Show me the man and I will answer the question; but I could not otherwise.

6170. Then you do not, at this present moment, recollect the individual?—I do not.

6171. Then for anything you say you may be talking of a different person?—No, you may not; I speak of that evidence, and nothing else.

6172. But it may be some one that called himself George Hagarty for anything you know; we will see when the man comes?—That is the man (pointing to a person in court).

6173. Did you not see him on more than one occasion in Mr. Sutton's or Mr. Williamson's office?—I do not believe I saw him more than once.

6174. Did that man tell you that he had got 5 l. for voting?—He did not.

6175. Did you read the whole of this statement to him?—I did.

6176. Just look at it (handing a paper to the Witness); was there any other young man in the house besides you taking down those statements; I mean any clerk or assistant?—Yes, there was.

6177. Who was it?—In my absence up here for the last couple of days there has been a young man.

6178. But the day you took down that statement, was there no one else in the office except Mr. Williamson?—Mr. Sutton and Mr. White were in there occasionally.

6178*. Was there any young man taking down evidence?—I cannot say; Mr. Byrne might have taken down the evidence.

6179. What Mr. Byrne?—The Mr. Byrne that was here a minute ago.

6180. Mr. John Ousley Byrne?—Yes.

6181. Was he engaged in taking down the evidence of witnesses also?—He might have done if I was absent for a minute.

[The Witness withdrew.]

6186. Did you make any promise or hold out any expectation of reward to that man in reference to his vote of any nature or kind?—Never.

6187. He says "I went to the committee-rooms rooms in Sackville-street—(Q.) And what did you do there; at what hour did you go there?—(A.) At about seven or half-past seven o'clock. (Q.) What did you see there?—(A.) I saw Mr. Erson there? (Q.) What occurred between you and Mr. Erson; did they send you on to vote?—(A.) Mr. Erson said I was to go on and do my business. (Q.) And he meant by that that you were to go to vote, I suppose?—(A.) I suppose so”; do you remember anything occurring between you and him at all?—Yes; I do.

6188. What did occur?—I did not see him at all on the election day.

6189. What did occur?—I had seen him frequently before the election. He volunteered to aid us, and he seemed very anxious to assist us. He told me that he was a great Protestant, and very anxious to help us, and I asked him “Would he kindly act as personation agent, as he knew so many.” “Yes,” said he, “I am the man that prevent dead men from voting”; and I understood from his phraseology as personation agent.

6190. And that was what occurred between you?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

6191. You are in the North City Ward?—I am the secretary.

6192. Of the committee?—I am.

6193. For the election?—For the Municipal, Parliamentary and Poor Law elections.

6194. And you are so still?—Yes.

6195. And Edward Purdon is the president?—Yes.

6196. And James H. Monahan and John Franklin, vice-presidents?—Yes.

6197. The solicitors in charge were Thomas Picton Reede and John Mason?—Yes.

6198. And assistant secretary, Robert N. Hodgson?—Yes.

6199. Was the place of meeting 40 Upper Sackville-street?—Yes.

6200. Is that a correct list of the committee (handing a paper to the Witness)?—Yes; quite correct.

FREDERICK G. SAUNDERS, Esq., sworn; examined by Mr. Exham.

6219. I BELIEVE you are a Solicitor?—I am.

6220. I believe you were acting for Guinness and Plunket in the Inns Quay Ward?—I was.

6221. And I believe you acted gratuitously?—I did.

6222. Mr. Moore was your colleague?—He was.

6223. Do you know a person of the name of Bailey?—Yes; at least, I have seen him.

6224. Do you recollect seeing him in the committee-rooms of that ward?—I do.

6225. Do you recollect seeing him there the night before the election?—I think so, certainly.

6226. Was Mr. Moore present?—He was; we were all there.

6227. Did Mr. Moore on that occasion say to him to go up the next morning to the poll, and that he would be decently dealt with?—Decidedly not.

6228. Nor anything to that effect?—Nothing to that effect.

6229. Did any one else say to him, in your presence, any such thing?—No.

29.

6201. You canvassed?—I did; very much.

6202. And canvassed the freemen?—No; I canvassed the Catholic gentlemen principally.

6203. Was that your department?—It was chiefly.

6204. Then you never canvassed Hagarty at all?—Never.

6205. Did you ever tell him to go and do the business?—Never.

6206. Nor do any business?—Never.

6207. Did you employ him as a personation agent?—I cannot say I employed him. I asked him to be one. I gave him that department.

6208. That is what I call employing a man; how long before the election was that?—Several days.

6209. Was he to be a personation agent in North City Ward?—He was not to be a legal one; he was to be a voluntary one. I had several.

6210. Did you get him to sign a paper?—No.

6211. Who got that done?—I do not know.

6212. Did you get the paper signed?—I saw it signed.

6213. How many papers did you see signed?—I saw a great many.

6214. Did you see 100?—No.

6215. How many had you in your ward?—I cannot tell; I never counted them, but every voter that worked signed a paper, so that there might be no misapprehension about the law; I signed one myself.

6216. But you did not ask the non-electors to sign that?—Certainly not.

Re-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

6217. You say that you had them signed to prevent any bad memories?—Yes, in every case, to prevent any misapprehension; I made several sign.

6218. Did you do that bonâ fide and honestly?—Decidedly; I got orders not to employ any voter whatever that would not certify that he expected nothing afterwards, and I carried it out to the very letter.

[The Witness withdrew.]

6230. Do you know the witness, George Patrick Nugent?—I do.

6231. Do you recollect seeing him in the ward?—I do.

6232. Do you recollect his applying to you for employment?—I do.

6233. Now listen to this: “So I sat down, and I was there for about 10 or 12 minutes, and there was a gentleman came in of the name of Mr. Saunders, and he asked my business, and I told him that I was over in Dame-street, inquiring after employment for the elections; and I was told if I got a letter from some gentlemen of the ward that I would be appointed; ‘Well,’ says he, ‘I can appoint you here,’ says he ‘on the books; are you a voter?’ ‘Yes,’ says I; ‘Well,’ says he, ‘are you a Liberal?’ I said that I was, but, of course, that I applied for employment from them, but I was refused it, and got no satisfaction, and that as I was not doing much work at present, that I would, of course, take up employment from them if they gave it to me; ‘Well,’ says he, ‘I suppose I can depend upon your being a person that will do your work; do you know the neighbourhood of the ward well? And I said I did; so he put my name down in a book, and said he would send it over to Dame-street to see me appointed, and that he was almost sure I should be appointed, but that I should act gratuitously; 'Well,' said I, 'I should like to know whether I should be paid for my time'; and he said that he and everybody here were acting under the form of gratuitously, but he assured me that I would be paid, and that he would be paid also; that I might rely confidently upon that, that I would be paid for my time; 'And,' says he, 'I cannot employ you now here,' says he; 'we have very many hands waiting about'; did that occur?—It did not.

6234. Did you never tell him that you were acting yourself under the form of acting gratuitously, but that you were to be paid?—I did not; he asked me, would he be paid, and I distinctly told him that he could not be paid, and would not be paid, and that I would not be paid either; that I was working gratuitously, and that, if he chose to act gratuitously, we would be very glad of his services.

6235. Was that all that occurred?—That was all that occurred.

6236. Did he ever sign that printed document?—He did; it is a most extraordinary thing, but I cannot find it; I have a number more, but I cannot find that.

6237. Did you call his attention to the Act of Parliament before he signed it?—I did; I read him an extract, and called his attention to the Act of Parliament, and showed him an extract from the Act of Parliament on the wall of my office.

6238. After he signed it do you recollect his coming back to you with any letter from Mr. White?—He did.

6239. Did you see that document produced the other day?—I saw it at a distance, but I had not it in my hand; it was, "Set the bearer to work at once"; and I did put him to work at once.

6240. He says, "I went over to Arran Quay Ward to present that to Mr. Saunders; 'Set the bearer, George Patrick Nugent, to work at once'; so it was Mr. Saunders and Mr. Moore, their two agents at Arran Quays Ward; and I gave it to Mr. Saunders, and he said, 'Well, if Mr. White wishes to pay you for doing nothing,' says he, 'I do not care, so you can stop here; if Mr. White likes to pay you, so much the better for yourself'; is there a word of truth in that?—There is not.

6241. Did you ever say anything to him to that effect?—Not to the like effect.

6242. He says later, "I got a circular to go to the office the next morning from Mr. Moore and Mr. Saunders"; and then he described what that circular was with a card enclosed in it; the circular was in these terms, "Private, No. B. 130: Referring to a communication you are requested to write your name and address legibly on the enclosed card, and present the same to a person who will be appointed to receive it, at 3, Dame-street, two days after the election"; did you ever send him any such circular or any such card?—Never; such a card never emanated from my office.

6243. Did you ever hear or see such a thing until you heard of this proceeding?—Never, and I have not seen it yet.

6244. Did you ever write him any such document, or do you know anything about it?—I never saw it before, and it did not come from our office.

6245. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Is that the Dame-street circular?—It is.

6246. Mr. Exham.] Did you ever hear of such a circular until these proceedings?—Never until I saw it now.

6247. How long was it before the election that he brought you the letter from Mr. White?—I should say it was about 10 days.

6248. Do you recollect afterwards noticing that he did not come to the committee-room?—No, he was two days at work canvassing as an extra canvasser, and he came to me one morning, and he said that he had been in Dame-street the night before, and had ascertained there that he would not be paid; and he said he would not do any more work unless I gave him a written assurance that he would be paid. I turned him out of the office at once, and discharged him.

6249. Did you see him on the morning of the election?—I did; I never saw him afterwards until the morning of the election.

6250. What passed then?—He came to my tally rooms and said he had come to vote, and I turned him out of the tally rooms, and told him to go and vote as he liked.

6251. Do you recollect seeing him afterwards?—Yes; after I returned from the Sligo election he called on me at my office, and he said he came for payment, as he had voted.

6252. Did he tell you how he had voted?—He did; he said he had voted for Guinness and Plunket, and I said I would have nothing to say to him, and requested him at once to leave my office; as a matter of fact he voted for Pim and Corrigan; I believed him at the time, till I found it out afterwards.

6253. From first to last did you, directly or indirectly, hold out the slightest promise or inducement to Nugent to vote?—Neither directly or indirectly to Nugent or to anybody else; those were my instructions.

6254. And you obeyed them?—I obeyed them.

Cross examined by Mr. Hemphill.

6255. In what department were you?—I was agent in the ward committee, a working agent.

6256. In what ward?—In Arran Quay; the committee-room was in my own house.

6257. I suppose you gave up a great deal of time to it?—I did, indeed.

6258. I suppose you know a good many of the freemen by appearance?—I do not know many of them.

6259. Do you know any of them by appearance?—I think those men that came to my ward I would know again.

6260. Do you remember on the evening of the election your attending a meeting of the committee at Inns Quay?—In my own rooms.

6261. Did not a great number of freemen attend that night?—Well, I should say there were five or six; I should say not more.

6262. Do you know a man of the name of Jesson?—He may have been there.

6263. Did you tell those whom you did see there to go the next morning to vote?—I told them to be early in the office the next morning, at seven, to meet me and Mr. Moore, to go and vote.

6264. What

6264. What is Mr. Moore's Christian name?—“William N.” There is the gentleman (pointing to a person in Court.) He is my colleague.

6265. Was not Nugent acting for you three or four days in your room?—Two days, to the best of my knowledge.

6266. Making out lists?—Yes.

6267. What was he doing?—He was canvassing; I gave him a list, as I said, before we were full of hands, and he was sent to be employed there; and I gave him Church-street to canvass, it being a bad neighbourhood, and it being his own street.

6268. Did you give him this to canvass only just to occupy his mind and to keep him in good humour?—To try and get as many votes as he could.

6269. Or to keep him in good humour?—To get as many votes as he could.

6270. You were authorized to canvass for Guinness and Plunket?—Decidedly.

6271. And that was part of your duty?—Yes.

6272. Can you tell me in whose handwriting that is (handing a paper to the Witness)?—I have not the remotest idea; it is not mine.

6273. Would you look at that (handing another paper to the Witness)?—It is written by my instructions.

6274. By whom?—By a young gentleman of the name of Alexander, in my house.

6275. “Dear Sir, Mr. Moore and Mr. Saunders will be obliged by an early call on your part to-morrow; pro Secretary, Mr. George Patrick Nugent.” That was on the 11th of November; then had you heard at this time of Patrick Nugent? This was some days before the election?—He had been with me the day before.

6276. And you desired him to call again?—I desired him to call again.

6277. Was it after that that he signed this circular?—It was not; it was prior to that.

6278. When did you first meet him?—I cannot tell the day at all.

6279. Was it before you wrote this letter?—It was.

6280. What was your object in writing that letter?—I had work for him to do at that period.

6281. Do you recollect his afterwards bringing that circular to your office as a sort of reminder?—No.

6282. Will you say that he did not bring it to the committee-rooms?—No; individually to myself.

6283. At the committee-rooms?—He never brought it to me.

6284. But he may have brought it?—Upon my word he may; but he never brought it to me.

6285. Do you mean to say that you have never been paid anything yourself?—Not a farthing.

6286. And you had no claim?—Not a fraction, I am sorry to say.

6287. You told me that you knew nothing of this private circular?—No, not anything.

6288. Were you in the habit of attending the central committee-rooms in Dame-street?—Towards the close of the election; I was a little anxious, and went there to make my reports.

6289. Did you ever see Campbell then at 47 and 48, Dame-street?—I never saw him at all; I never knew the gentleman until I saw him produced here.

6290. To what rooms did you go?—I always went to Mr. Sutton's rooms.

6291. Did you ever see the members themselves in 47 and 48, Dame-street?—Very frequently.

6292. In and out, I suppose?—In and out.

[The Witness withdrew.]

F. G.
Saunders,
Esq.

29 January
1869.

WILLIAM M. MOORE, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Exham.

6293. ARE you a Solicitor?—Yes.

6294. I believe you were acting in the Arran Quay Ward, for Messrs. Guinness and Plunket?—Yes.

6295. Did you act gratuitously?—Certainly.

6296. And you were associated with Mr. Saunders?—Yes, I was very anxious for their return.

6297. Do you know Henry Bailey?—No, I cannot say that I do. I do not know him.

6298. Did you ever, to any person in that room, or out of it, say that he was to go up for Guinness and Plunket, and that he or they would be decently treated?—Certainly not.

6299. Nor anything to that effect?—Nor anything to that effect. I never held out any inducement, directly or indirectly, to any voter.

6300. Did you, from the first to the last, hold out any promise or inducement, to any voter whomsoever, to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—Certainly not.

6301. Were those your instructions?—Oh, I did not require to be instructed in a matter of that kind. It is not the first election that I have attended to.

6302. Do you know George Patrick Nugent?—I do; I have seen him in the committee-rooms in Arran Quay.

6303. Did you see him, or did you hear him speak to Mr. Saunders?—I did; I heard Mr. Saunders's evidence.

29.

6304. Did Mr. Saunders, in your presence, say anything about Mr. White's paying Nugent, if he chose to set him to work there?—Certainly not.

6305. Did Mr. Saunders, in your presence, say anything to him about going there and signing a paper to act gratuitously, but that they were to be paid?—Certainly not.

6306. You never said anything of that sort to him?—Certainly not; I never asked anyone to sign a paper. Mr. Saunders attended to the office details, and was always in the office, and he got those papers signed.

6307. Do you recollect Nugent coming to yourself, and asking you for money?—No; I recollect his coming into the office, and he went over to Mr. Saunders, who was in the centre of the table where our clerk usually sat, and he said, “I have been to the nomination, and I have been told something to the effect that unless I get a promise from you, Mr. Saunders, I will not be paid for my services here.” Mr. Saunders said, “Leave the office, sir; how dare you speak to me in that way?” or something of that kind, and turned him out of the office.

6308. Do you recollect seeing him after that morning?—No, I never recollect seeing him after that occurrence; Mr. Saunders was more in the committee-room than I was.

6309. When he was turned out he went away?—When he was turned out he went away.

6310. And

W. M.
Moore, Esq.

W. M.
Moore, Esq.

29 January
1869.

6310. And you never saw him afterwards?—
I never saw him afterwards.

Cross-examined by Mr. Litton.

6311. I think you said you did not know Henry Bailey?—Certainly not; I have no recollection of any person of the name. If a man was put on the table, and I was asked if I ever saw him before, I might have a recollection of him.

6312. But Mr. Saunders might have had many interviews with Nugent, and Nugent with Mr. Saunders, without your knowledge?—Of course he might.

[The Witness withdrew.]

BENJAMIN WARREN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Exham.

B. Warren.

6313. WHERE do you live?—At Harmony Cottage, Donnybrook.

6314. Are you a voter for the city of Dublin?—Yes.

6315. Do you recollect acting at the last city election at all?—Yes.

6316. Before you acted, did you sign a paper?—I did.

6317. At the time you signed that paper, did you read it?—I did.

6318. Did you read the section of the Act of Parliament about it?—I did, long before.

6319. Did you sign that paper bonâ fide, intending to act gratuitously?—Certainly.

6320. Was there any understanding or promise that you were to be paid, notwithstanding your signing it?—Not the slightest.

6321. Do you know a person of the name of Henry Bailey?—I saw him on the morning of the election in Green-street.

6322. Do you recollect at any time being present at Arran Quay Ward when Mr. Moore was present; you and Henry Bailey?—I do not remember Henry Bailey being there.

6323. Did you ever ask Henry Bailey to vote for Guinness and Plunket, and tell him if he did he would be decently treated?—Never; Bailey was on my list as I was canvassing the freemen; and the other canvassers told me he had removed to, I think, Henrietta-street, and I did not see him.

6324. Was Henry Bailey, in point of fact, living in Church-street at the time?—The other men told me, not.

6325. Then you did not canvass him in Church-street at all?—I did not see him until the morning of the election.

6326. Did Mr. Moore say that to him in your presence?—I never saw him speak to Mr. Moore or Mr. Moore to him.

6327. Did you see him on the morning of the election?—I did.

6328. Where did you see him?—At Halston-street.

6329. Had he voted at the time, or was he going to vote?—I do not think he had voted.

6330. Did you that morning say to him that if he voted for Guinness and Plunket he would be decently treated, or anything to that effect?—I do not think I said that.

6331. Did you, or not?—I do not think I said that word. I do not remember speaking to him at all that morning particularly; but they had all come down to vote, and there was no question about it then.

6332. Do you know a person of the name of Michael Kelly?—I do.

6333. Was that the man who was examined here?—It was.

6334. Was that man's name on your list as a canvasser?—Not at all. He was a lodger; he was canvassed, I think, by a gentleman of the name of Woolsley. I had nothing to do with canvassing the lodgers.

6335. Did you ever canvass that man?—Never.

6336. Now, had you never any conversation with this Kelly about the matter?—Not about voting; about elections I had.

6337. When was that?—I think about a fortnight before the election. I met him at Cork-hill one day; he said, "I have changed my mind." "What do you mean?" said I, knowing that he was always a very strenuous man on the opposite side. "Oh," he says, "I am not satisfied with Mr. Pim; he has deceived the people, and I am going now to vote for Guinness and Plunket." Then I saw him at the booths subsequently, and he said the same thing.

6339. But did you?—No.

6340. Before you entered on this canvass at all, had you received printed instructions as a canvasser?—Certainly.

6341. Would you know the instructions you got if you heard them read?—I have read them.

6342. Was that the one you got (handing a paper to the Witness)?—Similar to that.

6343. Did you receive any other instructions with regard to canvassing except what are contained in this printed paper?—Some further instructions.

6344. Look at the one about bribery?—Yes, I got both of them.

6345. Did you get any authority from any person whatsoever to hold out any inducement or any promise to any voter?—Certainly not; my instructions were that if a shilling were asked to be given by the members, I could never promise it. Those were my instructions from Mr. Moore and Mr. Saunders both.

6346. Did you get those instructions verbally or in writing?—I got them verbally as well as written.

6347. Did you ever give Kelly any letters, and ask him to deliver them?—I gave him two memoranda the day before the election; I was passing over the street and I met him, and I asked him if he knew a man named Welch, and he said he did very well; and I said, "Will you give him that note?" and he said, "I will."

6348. Who was the other?—I forget the other now, but I gave him the 2 l.

6349. Is it true that you said to that man that 25 l. was a trifle?—No, it is not.

6350. He asked me "How much a dozen plates of glass cost, as I was a poor man," and I said "25 l."; and he said, "Oh, that is nothing." Did any such conversation as that take place?—No; I will tell you what took place. He said, "I am a poor man could; I get half a crate of glass?"

glass"? I think I said, "What is half a crate of glass"? and he said, "5 l."

6351. What did you say?—I just left it so; I could not promise anything.

6352. Do you know a person of the name of George Booth?—I saw him also on the day of the polling.

6353. But previous to the day of polling, did you canvass the man?—No; he was gone to Dorset-street, I was told.

6354. He was originally on your list?—He was.

6355. You did not canvass George Booth?—No, I did not go after him to Dorset-street.

6356. Did you at any time tell that George Booth anything to the effect that if he would vote for Guinness and Plunket he would be well satisfied?—Certainly not.

6357. Did you tell him that you had no money at present, but that a time would come when money would be going, or words to that effect?—Sure I had no money to give to any man.

6358. Did you tell him that?—No.

6359. Do you know Jesson?—I called upon him.

6360. He was on your list?—He was.

6361. Did you ever promise Jesson any money?—Not a penny.

6362. Did you ever tell Jesson that it would be better for him to vote for Guinness and Plunket, or that he would be well treated if he did?—When I went to Jesson, he received me very favourably, and was glad I called; he said he had made up his mind to vote for Guinness and Plunket.

6363. Did you on that occasion tell Jesson he would be well treated, or decently treated, or paid, if he voted?—I do not remember speaking to Jesson afterwards at all.

6364. But did you that day say that, or anything to that effect?—I did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

6365. Are you a freeman yourself?—No.

6366. You are a voter, though?—Yes.

6367. What is your trade?—I am a retired Government officer.

6368. A pensioner?—Yes, a pensioner.

6369. Where do you live?—Harmony Cottage, Donnybrook.

6370. You were employed as a canvasser for Guinness and Plunket?—I was.

6371. When were you first employed?—Two or three weeks before the election.

6372. Of course you acted gratuitously?—I did, and have done so for the last 30 years.

6373. And you signed that paper?—I did.

6374. And you never got any appointment, or any money, or anything?—Not a penny.

6375. You hold no appointment now?—No appointment; I receive some rents.

6376. For whom do you receive rents?—For the Miss Littons, North Great George's-street.

6377. Very good people. You say that you got charge of the freemen?—Yes; but there was another and me together, both of us.

6378. In what ward of the city were you?—Arran Quay.

6379. Where did they meet?—At Inn's Quay; Mr. Saunders's House.

6380. And the freemen were allotted to you?—To him and me.

6381. Who was the other man?—Mr. Aldridge.

29.

6382. And your business was, I suppose, to canvass and secure as many freemen as you could?—Yes.

6383. I see you were canvassing in Church-street?—I was.

6384. And Bailey's name was on the list for Church-street?—It was.

6385. But you did not find him?—No.

6386. Do you know Bailey, now?—Yes, I saw him.

6387. Did you ever have any talk with Bailey before the election?—I think not, except that morning.

6388. Where you with him when he voted?—I do not say I was in the same booth with him when he voted.

6389. Did you see him there?—I am not certain.

6390. Did you see him after he polled?—I think I did, but I would not be certain.

6391. Did you see Campbell about the polling-booth on the day?—I think I did.

6392. Where did you see him about?—I saw him in the booth.

6393. Did you see him talking to any of the freemen?—At a passing glance I did not see him speaking to any freemen that I can remember.

6394. Was not he there all day?—Backwards and forwards.

6395. Did you hold any meetings of the freemen before the polling-day, or did you address them in anything like a body, or speak to them?—I said that the morning of the election they were to come down.

6396. Were you in the habit of collecting them together in tens or twenties?—Not at all.

6397. Not at any time before the election?—Not at all.

6398. Do you not know that they are in the habit of voting by batches and like to go together?—I have heard so.

6399. That they very often go in tens and twenties and vote for the best man?—Yes.

6400. You know what "the best man" means, do you not?—Whoever they wished to vote for.

6401. Whoever is the best?—Yes.

6402. Did you happen to be present when there were any number of freemen collected in that way before the election?—Not until the morning of the election at Green-street and Inn's Quay.

6403. About how many had you at Inn's Quay?—I suppose about 10 or 12.

6404. Was Bailey among them?—He may or he may not have been. I am certain I do not remember.

6405. Whether he was there or not, was there anything said that they would be decently treated?—I did not say anything of the kind.

6406. Was anything said by Aldridge, that they would be decently treated?—I think not.

6407. Will you swear that there was not something to that effect?—I did not hear it.

6408. Now tell us all the truth?—I am on my oath.

6409. There is no charge against you?—I do not think there is.

6410. Do you think they expected to be decently treated?—If the law would allow it.

Mr. McDonogh objected.

Mr. Justice Keogh thought that the witness should not be asked to speculate.

1869.

B. Warren.
—
29 January
1869.

6411. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] At all events, you do not think that was said?—I do not.

6412. Michael Kelly was a lodger and he was not on your list?—He was not.

6413. You had a conversation with him on Cork-hill, and he told you that he had changed his mind?—Yes, I knew he was always a strenuous supporter of the other side, and he said “I have changed my mind.” “How is that?” said I. “Oh,” he said, “Mr. Pim has disappointed the people, and he is a hypocrite,” that is the very word he said.

6414. Did he give you to understand how Mr. Pim had disappointed the people?—No; he did not.

6415. On your oath, did he not give you to understand that Mr. Pim had broken some promise?—That is what I understood; that he had disappointed the people.

6416. Did you not understand that he had promised something that he did not give?—Perhaps so.

6417. You said it would be a different story now, did you not?—I did not; I never canvassed the man at all; it was long before the election.

6418. What did you say to him when he said he was not satisfied with the way in which Mr. Pim had gone on?—I do not know.

6419. You must have said something?—I may have said something, but I said nothing about securing his interest for Guinness and Plunket; he said he was going voluntarily to vote for Guinness and Plunket the next election, because he was not pleased with the others.

6420. Did he not say that he would be better treated, and that they would stand better to their words?—No, he did not say that Guinness and Plunket would stand better to their words.

6421. Did he give you to understand that?—No, he did not.

6422. You gave two letters to this Kelly, you say?—Two small memoranda.

6423. When you were giving them to him he said he was a poor man?—He did.

6424. What did he mean by that?—I suppose he meant that he would like to get some money from them; but I could not give it him, I could not give him 5d.

6425. Was Booth a freeman?—He was.

6426. He was on your list?—Yes.

6427. Was he one of those you had at Inn’s Quay the evening before the day of election?—I do not remember whether he was or not.

6428. Had you issued notices to those freemen whom you had canvassed to attend at Inn’s Quay on the morning of the 18th?—Some of them asked me where they would go, and I told them I would let them know.

6429. And you sent circulars to some of them?—I did to some of them.

6430. And you sent one of them to this George Booth?—Yes: “Please be at the committee-rooms on Wednesday morning at 11 o’clock, at Inn’s Quay; Benjamin Warren.”

6431. They were there?—Some of them.

6432. And he was there?—I suppose so.

6433. Did you give him to understand upon that occasion that he would be well satisfied?—I could not promise anything.

6434. You did not promise, but did you give him to understand that he would be well satisfied?—I did not.

6435. What did you say to him?—Very little was said to him that morning.

6436. Did you give them any breakfast?—No breakfast; they were all coming in a body.

6437. Did you give them a tip in any shape?—Not a word.

6438. Did you bring Booth and three others into a public-house that morning?—I suppose they came in, but I will tell you how that occurred.

6439. Did you take them into a public-house?—They brought me up there, and one man said, “It is a very cold morning; give me a glass of ale or a glass of porter,” he said, “I have not got my breakfast,” and he came up to Findlater’s, and then one and another followed him, and they came up there.

6440. You took them in?—I did.

Mr. McDonogh objected that there was nothing in the bill of particulars as to treating.

6441. Mr. Hemphill (to the Witness).] This was before they voted?—It was.

6442. Did you, when they were drinking in this public-house, tell them they would be satisfied?—I did not; the house was full of people.

6443. Did you tell them anything to that effect?—I did not.

6444. Nor Booth; had you any talk with him?—Three or four remained afterwards, but there was no talk; I had not time to have a talk with them.

6445. After they had voted did you tell any of the party to whom you had sent notice that you had no money, but that the time would come when all would be right, or words to that effect?—I did not.

6446. Did you give them to understand that the time would come when all would be right?—I did not.

6447. You called on Jesson the evening before the election at his house, did you not?—I think not.

6448. Will you swear that you did or did not?—I do not think I did.

6449. Did you see his wife there the evening before the election?—I do not think it was the evening before.

6450. Did you tell him to go to Inn’s Quay?—I perhaps sent him a note; I might have sent him a note.

6451. Was he one of those that you went to Halston-street to vote with?—He was.

6452. Were you there when he polled?—I did not see him poll, but I believe he polled.

6453. Did you leave any message for him when you called at his house?—When?

6454. Before his election?—Did I not see him at his house?

6455. When you saw him at his house did he receive you favourably?—I asked him whether he would vote for Guinness and Plunket, and he said he was glad I called.

6456. Did he say he was a poor man?—He did not say anything about poverty; he said he was very glad to see me.

6457. Did you see his son there when you called, the little boy that was examined?—I think I did see a boy there.

[The Witness withdrew.
Mr.

Mr. Alderman JOSEPH MANNING, recalled; further Examined by Mr. Purcell.

6458. Do you know or do you recollect seeing a person of the name of William Booth?—No.

6459. Listen to this: after stating that he had been canvassed by a person of the name of Tierney, he says, "He brought me into 79, Dame-street." He is asked, "Were you employed there?" and his answer is, "There I saw Alderman Manning and a gentleman, a little man of the name, I think, of Hogan, and I seen a gentleman here to-day," and he points you out. Then he is asked, "Did Alderman Manning say anything to you when you saw him on that occasion, or did you say anything to him?" (A.) Yes, I told him I would not vote unless I got paid for it. (Q.) What did he say?—(A.) He said that I would be 'enumerated,' and then he ordered a car, and before I went on the car I had to sign a paper; I had not time to read it. (Q.) Did you sign in the room?—(A.) Yes; of course I did; before Mr. Hogan and Alderman Manning." Did you, upon any occasion, ever tell any voter, William Booth or otherwise, in answer to an enquiry of his, that he would be remunerated?—In any case during the election, from the beginning to the end, I never promised fee or reward to any person on earth, and I had the most strict injunctions to that effect, because I happened to go, in company with the Mr. Hogan alluded to there, to the head committee-rooms on one occasion, and I saw Mr. Sutton, Mr. Julian, and Mr. White together in a room. It was with reference to the arrangements to be made in 79, Dame-street, the South City committee-rooms, and upon that I heard Mr. Hogan getting the most precise instructions from Mr. Sutton or Mr. White, by word, or deed, or thought, not to have any promises made to anybody.

6460. Then do you say that that statement of William Booth's, that you told him that he would be remunerated, and ordered a car to send him up to poll, is untrue?—I never, to my knowledge, saw William Booth previously to my seeing him upon this table, and it is perfectly untrue that I promised him or anybody else.

6461. He is asked, "When you came back how were you employed for the rest of the day?"—(A.) I was going about for voters during the whole day. (Q.) When the work was over did you see Alderman Manning?—(A.) I asked Alderman Manning himself; I asked him would he be so kind as give me the price of refreshments, for I never done anything the whole day. (Q.) You never got anything to eat?—(A.) Neither I did, and he said not; but he walked round about, and he put his hand in his pocket, and he handed to a man at the door a two-shilling piece, at which the man at the door smiled, and handed it to me." Do you recollect anything of that kind?—During his giving his evidence I forgot all about it, but I taxed my memory afterwards, and I remembered this fact: at four o'clock, having been in and out of the committee-rooms all day long, I went home to my private house in Harcourt-street and had some refreshment there. I was naturally anxious to hear how the poll had ended, and I went down to the rooms in Dame-street. There was a crowd about the door, and I could not get in, and I went to 79; but there were a number of gentlemen standing about. One gentleman that happened to go up the staircase with me was apparently very anxious about it, and I sat down at the table to find out whether anybody had heard anything about the state of the poll. While sitting there a young man (I did not know his name, but I think he was a medical student who had been at work for us) came and tapped my shoulder. He said, "There is a poor devil outside that has been running errands for us all day, and he wants the price of a drink or refreshment." I said, "Do you not know that we have no money here?" "Well, sir," he said, "he looks very poor, but if Mr. Hogan were here he would give it to him; he is a voter, and he has not sixpenny-worth of clothes on him." I put my hand in my pocket, and I looked, and I had not a sixpence or anything but a two-shilling piece, and I said to the gentleman near me, "Is that right?" and I handed it to the fellow. That was at six o'clock in the evening after the election, and I never laid eyes on the man since.

6462. At the time did you know or believe that he was a voter?—On my oath, if I had known that he was a voter I would not have given him the two shillings.

6463. Then you did not give it him as having voted for Guinness and Plunket?—As a pure act of charity.

6464. On the representation that you have mentioned?—Quite so.

Cross-examined by Mr. Litton.

6465. You were going in and out all day?—Yes.

6466. And therefore you might have had interviews and conversations that you do not now remember?—I might.

6467. And you do not recollect this William Booth?—No.

6468. And therefore I take it that you would not contradict a statement that he made on his oath, unless you were very sure?—I contradict any statement that I made a promise of reward.

6469. Would you contradict a statement that you ordered a car for anybody?—On my oath, I did not get a car for anybody; if a voter came up, there were gentlemen standing there, and they offered their services.

6470. Might you not have said to some of the gentlemen standing there, "Take a car for this man," not knowing who he was?—I asked the question at the committee-rooms, was there a car.

6471. I do not want to know what you asked; but might you not have said it to some gentleman standing there?—I was informed that it was illegal.

6472. Is it possible that you could have sent in that way?—Utterly impossible, and I can explain the reason.

6473. Would you swear you did not say to any gentleman standing by, "Get a car, and go up to Green-street"?—No; I called out, "Is there any gentleman here has a car at our disposal?"

6474. You may have said that?—I have said it.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr.
Alderman
J. Manning.
29 January
1869.

WILLIAM CALDWELL HOGAN, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Purcell.

W. C.
Hogan, Esq.
29 January
1869.

6475. You are a Solicitor, I believe?—I am.
6476. Were you acting in connection with any ward committee during the election?—The South City Ward.

6477. Is that the one to which Alderman Manning belongs?—It is.

6478. I suppose in that committee-room, as in all the others, you had up all those extracts from the Act of Parliament?—Certainly.

6479. And had you the instructions that were produced here to day, and were they also furnished to your committee?—They were.

6480. And observed?—And observed.

6481. A person of the name of Booth was examined as a witness here, and I just call your attention to this part of his evidence. He says, after mentioning his being canvassed, that he was brought to a particular place, and he says he saw Alderman Manning there, and saw you, and that he signed a paper in your presence and that of Alderman Manning, but that he did not read it; have you any recollection whatever of anything of that description taking place?—He might have done that, but I have no recollection of any man of the name of Booth doing that.

6482. After mentioning that Alderman Manning had given the two-shilling piece, he says that some man handed it to him, and he does not know who he is, and would not know him again. "Did you call again on the alderman?" "I never called upon him; I went by Mr. Hogan's desire up to the committee." "Who is Mr. Hogan?" "A man, co-partner with Alderman Manning; and he told me I would be all right when I came out up in Dame-street." "He told you to go where?" "To Dame-street, to the head committee-room." "To the same place where you saw Mr. Hogan?" "No, not at all; down lower." "What is the Christian name of Mr. Hogan?" "I do not know what his name is; I seen him going into the committee-rooms, and he said, 'All right, call to-morrow.' Did you, on any occasion, have that interview with a person of the name of Booth?—I have not the slightest recollection of it, not the slightest.

6483. Do you recollect telling him to go to the committee-rooms in Dame-street, or telling him that it would be "all right"?—Certainly not.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. ALDERMAN JOSEPH MANNING re-called; and further Examined by Mr. Purcell.

Mr.
Alderman
J. Manning.

6484. Do you know any person of the name of Godwin, a voter at the last election?—No.

6485. Do you ever recollect asking any voter to sign one of those papers offering his services gratuitously, and making the observation that it was necessary to evade the law?—I never got a paper signed in my life; Mr. Hogan did, I believe, that was here last.

6486. Did you ever on any occasion make use of such an observation as to such a paper being signed?—I never did, I emphatically say "no."

6487. Do you know anything about a man named Edward Greer?—If you bring it to my recollection I might, I do not know the man personally.

6488. During the whole of the time that you were acting in support of Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that this question had been already asked and answered.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. WILLIAM JOHNSTONE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Atkinson.

Mr. W.
Johnstone.

6489. Do you know a man of the name of John Carroll?—I do not.

6490. You are the Sexton of Peter's Church, are you not?—I am, and I keep a Servant's registry office.

6491. Do you know Thomas Waller?—I do not know the man or what his name was, only I saw him here giving evidence yesterday or the day before.

6492. Did you recognise him then?—I did recognize him, I saw him the day of the election.

6493. Where did you see him then?—I saw him walking about the Conservative rooms of the Mansion House Ward in Anngier-street.

6494. Did he ever call upon you about the election?—He did not.

6495. Had you had no conversation whatever with him about the election?—I had not, except to remove him away from the steps of 32, Anngier-street, Mansion House Ward, and the reason why was I never saw the man before until that day.

6496. Is that all you know about him in reference to this election?—All that I know about the man is that I ordered the man away from the steps of Mansion House Ward; I never saw him before, I never canvassed him and I never saw his face until then.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

6497. Were you engaged in canvassing on behalf of Guinness and Plunket?—I was.

6498. And very active?—I was.

6499. And I suppose you canvassed a great many people?—Yes.

6500. Was Digges-street your district?—It was not; but I canvassed Digges-street after hours in the evening on account of the men not being at home during their working hours.

6501. You canvassed a good many, I suppose?—I did.

6502. And you never saw this Waller till you saw him here?—I did not, I saw him on the steps of the Mansion House committee-rooms, and I said it was a man that I did not know anything about, and I ordered him off the place; he was walking about opposite the Mansion House Ward, and never seeing the man in our committee-rooms or anywhere else I did not know him, and therefore I was suspicious of him, he was hanging about.

6503. What did you say to him?—"Have you a vote?" said I, "I have," says he, "then," says I, "wherever you have a vote, go and vote, but do not stay here, for I will not allow you to be near the place."

[The Witness withdrew.

WILLIAM GEORGE SLOANE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Atkinson.

6504. Do you know a man of the name of John Carroll?—I canvassed a man of the name of John Carroll who lived in Clarendon-street.

6505. When?—Some weeks previous to the election.

6506. Will you just describe what occurred on that occasion when you canvassed him?—I called one morning and I went to his room and I saw his wife and I asked for Mr. Carroll, she said he was just gone out.

6507. What occurred with himself when he was present?—That is the evening before the election; on the morning I went I left the card of Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket, mentioning that I had called to canvass, and the wife told me he had given up work, and had gone out to see what he could make by the election. I stated he could make nothing by the election, inasmuch as if he got a penny by the election he could get nothing from our side. I thought he was one of our party, and I left a card, asking him to call at the committee-room; but on the night before the election I was sitting in the committee-room beside the chairman, and this man's name was mentioned, and the man came in. We did not like his appearance, and the chairman said, "What is your name"? He said he came by desire of some of the committee. The chairman insisted on knowing his name, and he gave his name. The chairman said, "Who will you vote for"? and he hesitated a little, and then said, "Sir Arthur Guinness and Sir Dominick Corrigan"; and the chairman said, "You are not wanted here; we want no split votes." He began talking then that he had been sent for, and I stated that I had sent for him, believing that he would vote for our two candidates; and after a little while he went away, saying that he would not vote for Mr. Pim, but that he would plump for Sir Dominick Corrigan.

6508. Did he sign any paper?—Certainly not.

6509. Did you directly or indirectly make any promise to induce him to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—Certainly not.

6510. You were a canvasser?—No.

6511. You had no authority to make any promise of anything to anybody to vote?—I was distinctly informed to promise nothing, and to offer nothing, and I did not do so to any person whatsoever.

[The Witness withdrew.

RICHARD BALLARD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Atkinson.

6512. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Walker?—No, I did not.

6513. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Waller?—I do.

6514. Did you canvass him before the election?—I did.

6515. For Guinness and Plunket?—For Guinness and Plunket.

6516. When?—Some weeks before the election.

6517. What occurred during your canvass between you?—He told me he would vote for Guinness and Plunket.

6518. Did he make any conditions whatever about giving his vote?—None. I went a second time to him.

6519. What did he say then?—He said, "Is there anything going"? I said I was not aware of anything.

6520. Had you any authority to make any offer of any kind?—Not the slightest authority.

6521. Did you make any offer?—No; I made no offer.

Cross-examined by Mr. Litton.

6522. When he asked you was there anything going, what answer did you give?—I told him I did not know of anything; I was not aware of anything going, but I verily believed there was not.

6523. Did you say that he would be "decently treated"?—No.

6524. Did you not say that Sir Arthur Guinness was a decent young man?—I did. I said that exactly.

6525. Did you not say that he was a liberal young man?—I do not know whether I did.

6526. Did you say whether he was a rich man; you need not say that, because everybody knows it?—No, I did not.

6527. But that he would keep his word if he gave it?—I did not.

6528. But you said that he was a decent young man?—I said that he was a decent young man.

[The Witness withdrew.

W. G. Sloane.

29 January 1869.

R. Ballard.

Mr. WILLIAM ROBINSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Purcell.

6529. WHERE do you reside?—At No. 2 Margaret-place.

6530. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Arthur Guinness and the Hon. Mr. Plunket.

6531. Did you take an active part in their support at the last election?—I did.

6532. Was it as an agent or as a volunteer?—As a volunteer.

6533. Were you engaged as an agent on their behalf at the last election?—No.

6534. How long before the election did you begin to exert yourself?—Some few days; not many days before the election, but I cannot tell you how many.

29.

6535. Do you recollect what was your first act in their support, and how you first began to exert yourself?—In consequence of treatment that I received from Alderman Joynt—

6536. I did not ask you why, but what did you first do in the matter?—I went to Mr. Goodman.

6537. What communication had you with him?—I simply complained of the manner in which I had been handled; and I said if they had confidence in me I would exert my influence in the committee, and do what I possibly could.

6538. Was that all that took place?—Mr. Goodman was very silent, and he remained so, I suppose with the view of hearing what I had to say; and then I remarked that of course I was not

not known to the different committees, and if I got an introduction I should gladly go and see what I could do.

6539. In consequence of that did you get an introduction?—Not then; Mr. Goodman I think told me to call next evening or next morning.

6540. Did you do so?—I did; and Mr. Goodman was not there.

6541. Did you see him afterwards?—I did.

6542. What took place then?—Mr. Goodman was smoking a cigar——

6443. Never mind that; did he give you any letter of introduction?—He did.

6544. Have you that letter?—I have.

6545. Was this the letter: "City of Dublin Election, committee-rooms, 47 and 48 Dame-street, 30th November, 1868. To the secretaries of ward committees. Allow Mr. Robinson to look over the list of unpledged names in your ward. John Fox Goodman"?—Yes.

6546. After you got that letter did you examine the lists?—I did.

6547. Did you ascertain what votes were unpledged?—Yes; a good many.

6548. Did you then make any application to those voters?—I did.

6549. To whom did you first go?—I could not tell you.

6550. Did you make any appointment with anybody to meet you at the post-office the night before the election?—I did.

6551. With what man?—A man of the name of Dogherty, I think. His Christian name is Edward.

6552. What did you say to Dogherty when you made that appointment?—I had a conversation in the daytime with Dogherty, and I simply spoke to him about giving his vote. Before that he had promised to vote for Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket, and when I saw him that day, he was rather silent; and I said, "If you want employment, I think I can get you some"; and he said, "Well, I could." "Very well," said I, "meet me under the post-office at eight o'clock, and I will be there, and I will see what I can do for you."

6553. Did he meet you himself?—Himself only, and that is all.

6554. Was anything said about any other persons meeting you?—No.

6555. Did you go to the post-office?—I did.

6556. Had you made appointments with anybody else?—Nobody.

6557. When you went there did you find Dogherty?—I did not; I was late. I was there at a quarter past eight, and some men came up to me and said, "Sir, Dogherty has been here." "Where is he?" said I; "Oh, he's gone away," he said. When I stepped out of the cab those men came up; and I think it was a man of the name of Smith who said, "There are a lot of us here." I think that was the expression he used. "Who are you?" said I. I did not know the man. "I am a freeman," he says; "and there are others here." "Very well," says I; "come along with me"; and I walked along Sackville-street up towards the committee-rooms.

6558. Was that all that took place under the post-office?—That is all.

6559. Was anything said by you under the post-office when you met those men, or on your way up to the committee-rooms, about their being made all right?—Not a word; on the contrary, I was very silent. I do not think I exchanged half-a-dozen words with them.

6560. Were you at that time aware of the law with reference to promising money for votes?—I was very well.

6561. At about what hour in the evening was it that you met the men and walked up with them to the committee-rooms?—Well, about half-past eight o'clock.

6562. When you went up to the committee-rooms did the men go up with you?—They did.

6563. How many do you think that there were?—Upon my word, I could not tell you.

6564. Were there a dozen?—I can give you the exact number by referring to a document that I have in my pocket.

6565. Well, just tell us how many there were that met you at the post-office?—(After referring to a document which he took from his pocket) I think there were 16 or 17. There were certainly that number in the committee-room with me.

6566. When you went up there?—When I went up there.

6567. But you are not sure whether they all accompanied you from the post-office?—I am not, but there were a good many.

6568. But you say that on the way there you had no conversation?—No.

6569. In your hearing was anything said about their being paid for their votes?—Not a word.

6570. On the way?—Not a word; I may mention that I really was under the impression that the men wanted to try to get employment.

6571. When you went up to the committee-rooms, what took place when you arrived there?—I walked down to a large end room, and I took this paper from my pocket, and my pencil, and I took down their names and addresses.

6572. On that occasion was there anything whatever said by you about money, or about their being treated decently, or about its being all right?—At that place?

6573. Yes.—Not a single word.

6574. Had you any authority whatever to hold out any inducement or promise to anybody for their votes?—None.

6575. Had you ever had any communication with those employed for Sir Arthur Guinness or Mr. Plunket, except what you stated took place between you and Mr. Goodman?—No.

6576. Did you, or did anybody in your presence, on that occasion, hold up his hand, with the four fingers and thumb spread out?—On my solemn oath there was no such indication upon that occasion, or upon any other occasion.

6577. Do you know, as a matter of fact, whether all those people that went with you there voted for Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket?—I don't know.

6578. Was any application made to you, or were you asked to give any promise to the men?—By those men?

6579. Yes?—Not by those men.

6580. Did anybody say anything to you as to reward for voting upon that occasion?—Not upon that evening.

6581. Was there any conversation, or any application made to you about money for a vote?—Not by those men.

6582. By anybody?—Yes.

6583. By whom?—A man of the name of Thomas Clare, of No. 3 Mabbott-street.

6584. When

6584. When did he speak to you?—He came to me.

6585. When?—The day of the election.

6586. Will you state what took place between you and him?—He was in company with some other men, and he said he had a vote; “Well,” said I, “are you aware that I am interested in the return of Guinness and Plunket?” and I wrote his name down, and took his address, and I simply asked him, “Will you do as I tell you?” “I will,” he says; I said, “Will you vote for Guinness and Plunket?” “What will you pay me?” says he; “Be off now,” says I, “and do as you like.”

6587. And what did you do with his name?—I drew my pencil through it in his presence; and then he called again, and asked me what I would do, and I said, “Go about your business: I know nothing at all about you.”

6588. Had you a man of the name of Copeland in your list?—Yes; I met Copeland at 42 Middle Abbey-street.

6589. Was he there that night?—He was, or somebody that answered to the name.

6590. Did Copeland say in your presence that the men would get 5*l.* for their votes?—I never heard anything of the like at all, not a syllable, until I came into this court; if it be the same James Copeland that I have here; but I could not identify him.

6591. Did you ever tell either of the men that met you that night, and accompanied you to the committee-rooms, or any men in the committee-rooms that night, or on any occasion before the polling day, or on the polling day; to call upon you within ten days, and that you would make all right, or that all would be right?—No, but I will tell you what occurred when I was leaving those men; I may mention that I took a list of those men, with a view of going to see and get them employment, as I really thought they wanted employment; and when I had their names all written down, I said, “Will you rely upon me?” and there was a unanimous answer, “Yes”; and some man (I think it was Smith) came and said in an undertone, “Oh, sir, they will all vote for Guinness and Plunket”; and then I turned round; I was rather taken by surprise, and I said, “Well, gentlemen, are you all going to vote for Guinness and Plunket?” and there was a unanimous answer “Yes”; as I was leaving some person said, “When shall we see you, sir?” I said, “In a week or ten days.”

6592. Was that the whole of what took place?—That is all that took place.

6593. Was a man of the name of Cremer one of the persons amongst those who accompanied you on that evening?—No.

6594. Did you canvass Cremer?—No.

6595. Did you see Cremer at the committee-rooms?—Yes; I did.

6596. Had you brought him there?—No.

6597. You met him there accidentally?—Yes.

6598. On what day was that?—On some evening before the day of election.

6599. Do you remember who was present?—I was talking with Mr. Boughey, the solicitor, at the time Cremer walked in.

6600. Had you known Cremer before?—Many years; 10 or 15 years.

6601. When Cremer walked in, did he say anything?—No; he stood there, and I bid him good evening.

6602. On that evening, did you say anything to Cremer holding out any promise or inducement to him as to how he should vote?—No, I did not; I simply said, “Good evening, Mr. Cremer;” and I followed it on by saying, “Are you going to vote for Guinness and Plunket?” “I will, sir,” said he.

6603. Was that the whole of what took place?—No; he then advanced towards me and said his son had a vote; would I wish him to vote, or something of that kind; and I said, “Yes, bring up as many as you can.” Then he turned away; and, as he was leaving, he said, “If I want to see you, sir, where will I go?” I was sitting in conversation with Mr. Boughey, and I put my hand in my pocket and took out my card-case and handed a card to him.

6604. In handing that card to him, did you make use of any observation or expression, or sign?—Not in the slightest; I made no remark whatever; I never stopped talking to Mr. Boughey.

6605. Did Cremer afterwards call upon you or write to you?—No; I met Cremer after the election in Jervis-street.

6606. Had he any conversation with you then?—He had.

6607. Did he ask you for any money?—No; he afterwards stopped me (I was rather in a hurry), and he said, “We, both myself and my son, voted for Guinness and Plunket.” I said, “All right, I am very much obliged to you.” When I was leaving he said, “Mr. Robinson, I am very poor; will you assist me?” “If I can,” I said, “I shall have great pleasure in so doing.” Then he said, “I might have got 5*l.* for my vote; may I call upon you?”

6608. Did you part then?—We parted then.

6609. Did he subsequently write to you?—He did.

6610. Was it a letter asking for money?—Asking me would I do that, or would I keep my promise; it was a whole lot saying that he was a true blue, and would not desert his colours, and all that.

6611. Did you answer that?—I did not; I understood the man to ask me to use my influence to get him something to do, or something that way.

6612. Do you know a man of the name of Field?—I do.

6613. Was he one of those that met you?—Yes; William Field, 16 Little Strand-street.

6614. Did he call upon you subsequently?—Well, I think he did; I met with so many people.

6615. You made no promise, or held out no inducement?—No; I knew the serious responsibility attached to it too well.

6616. Was there any single one of the persons who accompanied you up that evening to the committee-room to whom you held out any inducement?—Not one; I should have mentioned that Cremer called at my house afterwards.

6617. Do you know Mr. Archibald Tucker?—No, I do not.

6618. You never heard of him before?—No, I do not know him at all; I saw a letter in the paper from him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

6619. I believe you keep a loan office?—I am connected with a loan office.

6620. Where?—In Swift's-row.

6621. You were acting as a canvasser for Guinness and Plunket?—I was canvassing.

6622. You

Mr. W.
Robinson.

29 January
1869.

Mr. W. 6622. You undertook to procure votes for them, if you could?—If I could; I was determined to do my utmost.

Robinson. 6623. I believe, on a former occasion, you had 29 January 1869. voted on the other side?—Indeed, I did.

6624. However, you changed your mind?—Mr. Fitzgerald knows about it; I have been a severe sufferer by it.

6625. And you resolved to vote on the other side?—I did; you will see “Robinson against Joynt” in the paper occasionally.

6626. Were the freemen allotted to you particularly to look after?—Indeed, they were allotted.

6627. Was not it frequently after the freemen of the ward that you did look?—Indeed, I did not.

6628. Have you many customers among the freemen?—No, not a single man; not a single man of those who met me that night had I ever had dealings with.

6629. But generally amongst the freemen; it is no harm?—I know that, but really I am not aware.

6630. Have you counted the number of men that are on this list?—I have; I think I counted 16, but there were more than 16 there.

6631. Did all the men on this list go that evening to the Post-office?—No; those whose names are ticked off were present that evening.

6632. They went to look for employment?—That is what I thought.

6633. And they were to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—So they said.

6634. Why did you select the Post-office as your trysting place for them?—On my oath I had no meaning.

6635. Why did you not tell them to come up to the committee-rooms at once?—Well, I did not tell any of them to come.

6636. Did you not state (if I am wrong, the shorthand writer's notes will correct me), “I appointed Dogerty to meet me under the clock”?—Yes.

6637. Why did you appoint Dogherty to meet you under the clock?—I had no meaning; I might as well have named McSweeny at the opposite side of the way. I positively swear I had no meaning in it. I drove up there in a cab, and I think I came from Mr. Croker's on the North Strand.

6638. Did you expect to meet any others, when you went there?—On my solemn oath, I did not, and I was quite surprised at it.

6639. But you did meet those men that you mentioned?—I did.

6640. Did you know that Copeland was there that evening under the clock?—I had the name of Copeland on there. I take it for granted that he was.

6641. And George McDonnell; do you remember that old man?—Yes; I thought I recognised the man when I saw him on the table.

6642. You say you were very silent?—I was.

6643. Having met them under the clock unexpectedly, what made you walk all the way up to the committee-rooms with them?—Because I thought they wanted employment, and I had no power to employ them.

6644. When you got to the committee-rooms, did you find any of the committee-men there?—There were a great number; the place was thronged as I passed down.

6645. Was that your own ward?—Upon my word I do not know really what ward I am in; it is Mountjoy Ward.

6646. Your name, I think, is on the committees of some of the wards?—Not at all; I went down to a room that seemed to be a general room.

6647. Had you ever been in that room before?—Never.

6648. What gentlemen did you see there in that room that evening?—I saw a whole crowd of persons, not one of whom I knew.

6649. Were they committee-men?—No; I do believe they were.

6650. Were they voters?—I do not know, I did not know one of them; some of them were smoking, and some of them were chatting.

6651. Was there any one that seemed to be taking the lead there?—No.

6652. When you got there, did you do anything?—I simply wrote down the names, 6653. On a circular, or on a book?—On this paper (producing a paper).

6654. Did you give this to Mr. Sutton?—No.

6655. What did you do with it?—I took that for the purpose of giving it to submit the names to some of the gentlemen inside, and to see if they would employ them.

6656. Did you go in?—I did, but that was not necessary when I found they were all going to vote for Guinness and Plunket.

6657. Did you submit this list to any gentleman inside?—I did.

6658. What is the name of the gentleman?—I do not know; I think Mr. Tickell was one. I am not sure, but I know that I submitted that to some one.

6659. You were aware of the law, you say?—It was very well placarded through the city.

6660. Did you not know that it would be illegal to employ voters?—I knew that if they were employed they would not vote against us. I wanted to do as much service as I possibly could.

6661. Did you expect that if they were employed they would not vote for either one side or the other?—I knew they could not vote.

6662. What did Mr. Tickell say to you?—He looked at the list, and he said, “Some of those have promised to vote for us already.”

6663. What did he say as to those who had not promised?—Some person interrupted the conversation. I cannot tell you anything further. There was somebody talking to Mr. Tickell at the time round about them.

6664. You, of course, had voted on former occasions?—Only once.

6665. Had you been aware that it was generally thought that those freemen expected something for their votes?—On my oath, I do not know anything at all about it.

6666. You never heard that yourself in the city of Dublin?—I did not, indeed; for I was not actively engaged at all until after the trial with Alderman Joynt.

6667. You did not know whether there was an idea, either ill or well founded, that those freemen did expect to be employed and be paid for their votes?—I thought, of course, that they would not refuse employment.

6668. You said that you did say, “Will you rely on me”?—I did.

6669. In what room did you say that?—The room in which I was.

6670. Was

6670. Was that before you went in to Mr. Tickell with the list?—It was.

6671. Were they in the room when you came out from breakfast?—No, I never saw them afterwards.

6672. Had they left before you came back?—I do not know, indeed.

6673. Had they left you when you said, "Will you rely upon me"?—No; immediately after writing the names I said that.

6674. And then you went in to Mr. Tickell?—Yes.

6675. And you saw them no more that evening?—Yes. My meaning was that if I endeavoured to get them an appointment—

6676. I am not saying you were wrong, but I only want the facts; you said, "Will you rely upon me," in that lower room?—I did.

6677. And they then unanimously said, "Yes"?—Exactly.

6678. Was it after that that you took the list in to Mr. Tickell?—It was.

6679. Then you did not see them any more that evening?—I did not.

6680. When was it you told them to call again in a week or 10 days?—Immediately after. I did not say that; somebody said, "When will we see you, Mr. Robinson?"

Mr. McDonogh objected that this was going over the same ground.

Mr. Justice Keogh remarked that evidence was not made more distinctly by repetition.

Re-examined by Mr. Purcell.

6681. You were asked, were you allotted the freemen; were you allotted anything?—No, I was not.

6682. Did you ever get any instructions at all?—None whatever; I voluntarily went to Mr. Goodman's.

6683. After you left that evening, did you see any of those men before the polling?—No, I did not.

6684. Nor until after that?—No.

6685. Mr. Justice Keogh.] This list contains, I think, the names of about 18 or 19 men; how did you take those names down; was it by asking each man what was his name?—Yes.

6686. And to every name that is here there was a man answering?—Those ticked off were present.

6687. How did you get their names?—Relations, such as a father, would say, "I have a son at home, will I bring him"? and so and so; all that.

6688. That was the way, then?—That was the way.

6689. Then you took those names from the mouths of the persons who were there?—I did; and those who were ticked off were present.

6690. You say that you brought those men in order to get them employment?—Yes.

6691. Did you ask for employment for them afterwards?—No; because the appointment I had was under the post-office, with Doherty. I made the appointment with Doherty with the view of trying to get him employment, and when I went there Doherty was not there, and those men all met me, and I brought them down to the committee-room.

6692. To get employment?—Yes, as I thought.

29.

6693. Did they ask you to get them employment?—No, they did not.

6694. Why did you bring them to the committee-rooms to get employment if they did not ask you to get them employment?—They told me that Doherty had been there and was gone.

6695. Is that the usual way in which men ask for employment?—I had an appointment and the person was not there.

6696. I am asking you, why you took these men to the committee-rooms to ask for employment for them, if they asked you to get them none?—I thought they wanted employment.

6697. Why did you think that they wanted employment?—Having made an appointment with Doherty.

6698. So that having made an appointment with Doherty, whom you did not meet, you presumed that a number of men whom you did meet wanted employment; is that your explanation?—It is.

6699. Then you showed them to the committee-rooms to get them employment?—I did.

6700. Why did you bring them there for that purpose?—Smith or some other person came and said in an undertone, "We will all vote for Guinness and Plunket." That took me by surprise, and I said "Well, gentlemen, will you all vote for Guinness and Plunket"? and there was a unanimous cry of "Yes."

6701. And therefore you did not ask for employment for them?—I did not.

6702. And you took them up to the committee-room, although you did not ask for employment for them?—Yes.

6703. What did you mean by saying to those men, "Will you rely upon me"?—If they got an appointment would they rely upon my having them paid.

6704. Paid for what?—Paid for their services.

6705. For what services?—I did not know what.

6706. But you did ask them whether they would rely upon you, and you intended to convey to them that they might rely upon you for having them paid?—Yes, if they were employed, but I did not know whether they would be employed or not.

6707. Did you ask for any employment for them?—No; because I took down the names first to go into the committee-rooms.

6708. And you asked them whether they would rely upon you?—I did.

6709. What did you mean by that?—That if I succeeded in getting them employment would they be satisfied that they would be paid.

6710. Then some of them asked you when they should call upon you?—Some person said, "When will we see you"?

6711. And you said "In a week or 10 days"?— "In a week or 10 days."

6712. What was that for?—There was nothing at all in it. If they wanted to see me they would see me.

6713. For what?—I did not know for what.

6714. Had they ever had any transaction with you before?—I think not.

6715. Had they had no business with you?—They had no business with me.

6716. But after you said, "Will you rely upon me"? they said "When shall we see you"? and you said "In a week or 10 days"?—Yes.

6717. What did you mean by that?—There was no meaning beyond that if they wanted to see me they would.

U

6718. Do

Mr. W.
Robinson.

29 January
1869.

Mr. W.
Robinson.
29 January
1869.

6718. Do you consider that you are giving your evidence frankly when you assert that you had no meaning at all in that?—I had not; I was only going off at the time.

6719. What did you expect that they were to see you for?—I did not take any time to consider.

6720. Will you let me ask you what you meant by giving this man Cremer your card?—My lord, I had no meaning at all. Mr. Boughey was present at the time, and he saw everything that passed.

6721. Had you had any transaction with Cremer; did he know you before?—He did; he knew me many years before.

6722. Did he know where you lived?—I do not think he did.

6723. Had you ever had any dealings with him?—I had.

6724. What was the nature of those dealings?—He owes me money.

6725. Where did he borrow it from you?—Out of the office.

6726. Then he knew where your house was?—He did.

6727. Then what was the meaning of your giving him your card?—(The Witness was silent.)

6728. Did he owe you money at any time?—Yes.

6729. Was it borrowed out of your office?—Yes.

6730. And you gave him your card that night?—Yes.

6731. What did you give him your card for?—I just simply put my hand in my pocket, and I pulled it out, and gave it to him.

6732. What did you give it to him for?—I had no meaning beyond giving him my card.

6733. And you had no meaning in that either?—I had not.

6734. Then do I correctly understand the result of your evidence to be this: that you had no meaning in fixing the post-office as the place for meeting this man?—I had, because I thought I would get him employment. That was Dogherty.

6735. Why did you fix upon the post-office?—On my solemn oath I had no more meaning in the matter than that: at the post-office.

6736. Then I understand you to say that you had no meaning in telling them that they might call upon you in a week or ten days; do you swear that?—I do.

6737. And you swear that you had no meaning in giving your card to Cremer?—I had not.

6738. Mr. Purcell (through the Court).] Was that card one of your office cards or one of your private cards?—

Mr. Justice Keogh said the card was in court, and spoke for itself.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. WILLIAM JOHN VANCE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Atkinson.

Mr. W. J. Vance. 6739. WERE you a canvasser at the late election for Guinness and Plunket?—I was.

6740. Did you get the regular instructions?—I did.

6741. Did you call upon a man of the name of Alexander Fergusson?—I did.

6742. Did you bring him up to vote?—I did.

6743. You had no authority to make any promise to anybody?—I had directions to the contrary.

6744. Did you make any promise of reward or employment, or money to Alexander Fergusson, or any other voter that you canvassed?—Not to my knowledge.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

6745. What do you mean by saying "Not to your knowledge"?—As far as I can recall to memory I made no promise, and when I got directions to the contrary I was quite determined not to make any promise.

6746. What do you mean by saying, "Not to your knowledge"?—Because I cannot recall having promised anyone.

6747. Were you with Fergusson?—I was.

6748. Was he with you in your presence with Alderman Manning?—I cannot swear.

6749. You will not swear that he was not?—I will not.

6750. You will not swear that he did not see you and Alderman Manning together?—I will not.

6751. Then it may be true what he said; you heard him swear that?—Heard him swear what?

6752. Swear that he saw you and Alderman Manning at 79 Dame-street?—He might have seen me and Alderman Manning.

6753. You will not swear that he did not?—I will not.

6754. Do you know Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite?—I never heard of him in my life.

6755. Do you know Mr. Henry Foster?—I never heard of him in my life.

6756. Do you know Campbell?—The first time I saw him to my knowledge I saw him in court.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES COPELAND, sworn; Examined by Mr Atkinson.

J. Copeland. 6757. Do you know Mr. William Robinson?—I have seen him on the table, but I do not know him personally; I know him now.

6758. Do you know a man of the name of George McDonnell?—I do.

6759. Were you under the Post-office with Mr. Robinson a few nights before the election?—No.

6760. Did you on any occasion ever offer

George McDonnell any money for voting for Guinness and Pluckett?—Never.

6761. Were you a canvasser?—I was.

6762. Had you received instructions not to bribe any person nor to make any promise whatever to them?—I did positively.

6763. Did you adhere to those instructions?—I did.

6764. Did you hold up your finger this way (describing the same)?—Never.

Cross-examined by Mr. Litton.

6765. When did you first know George McDonnell?—On my canvass.

6766. Did you know him before your canvass?—No.

6767. When did you first know him on your canvass?—I suppose a week before the election.

6768. Did you canvass him on behalf of Guinness and Plunket?—Yes.

6769. What did he say to you?—He said he thought he should not vote for Pim, he voted for him the last time but Mr. Pim endeavoured to disfranchise the freemen, and he would not vote any more for him.

6770. Did you press him then to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—Yes, I used my persuasions.

6771. He was at first unwilling to agree?—No; he said he would vote for Guinness and Plunket.

6772. Did he require much persuasion?—Well, J. Copeland. he did not.

6773. Did you meet under the clock at all with this Mr. Robinson on any occasion?—Never. 29 January 1869.

6774. On no occasion?—On no occasion.

6775. You were not one of the men that he brought up to the committee-rooms?—No, I was in the room that night.

6776. Did you see George McDonnell there?—I do not recollect whether I saw McDonnell there.

6777. Did McDonnell come in about the same time with Robinson and the rest of them?—I do not recollect seeing McDonnell that night at all.

6778. Will you swear that you did not hold up your hand that way (describing the same) when you were persuading him?—I do most positively.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. EDWIN BIRCH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Atkinson.

6779. Do you know a man of the name of Edward Greer?—I do.

6780. Were you a canvasser for Guinness and Plunket?—I was.

6781. Were you regularly appointed?—I was a volunteer.

6782. Did you get any paper?—No.

6783. You did not?—No.

6784. Did you sign a paper that you were a volunteer?—None at all.

6785. Did you get printed instructions from the committee?—None at all.

6786. You were entirely on your own account?—I was on the committee, and I simply had the names of the parties in one or two wards.

6787. Had you a conversation with Edward Greer before the election?—I had.

6788. Did you make any agreement with him upon that occasion to bring up 24 voters at 3*l*. a piece?—Certainly not.

6789. Had you no conversation with him?—No.

6690. Nor with any other person?—Certainly not.

6791. Did you on any other occasion offer any bribe or inducement to any person?—Never.

Mr. E. Birch.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

6792. Do you know this Greer at all?—I do.

6793. Were you very actively working for Guinness and Plunket?—I was.

6794. Were you on the ward committee?—I was.

6795. And you were anxious to get as many votes as you could?—I was.

6796. Did this Greer bring you before the Lord Mayor?—He did.

6797. For how much did he summon you?—£1.

6798. Do you know any of those other men?—I do not.

6799. Do you know Joseph Leach?—No.

6800. Have you ever heard of him before; did you know him before the election?—No.

6801. Did you ever see him at all?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Saturday 30th January 1869.

WOODLOCK and FOLEY - - - - - Petitioners,

AND

GUINNESS - - - - - Respondent.

30 January
1869.

Mr. Heron asked for particulars as to the payment to Forrester, the printer, of 100*l*.

JAMES CREED MEREDITH, Esq., LL.D., recalled; further Examined.

*J. C.
Meredith,
Esq. LL.D.*

6802. Mr. Justice Keogh.] HAVE you or has Dr. Beatty the vouchers for all these charges?—The Sheriff has the charges, but we were bound to keep the vouchers, and we have done so.

6803. But you say you have the accounts of William Forrester?—Certainly.

6804. In like manner I suppose you have the accounts furnished for all the different items?—For most of the items.

6805. There is one item for “canvassing clerks, tally agents, &c., at 47 Dame-street”; have you the accounts furnished under that head?—For the sums that came through my hands no accounts in writing were furnished; we were instructed that a certain amount of money was to be paid to A., B., C., D., and so on.

6806. Who are “A., B., C., D.”?—The different persons the payments to whom made up that amount of money.

6807. Did you take receipts from them?—Certainly.

6808. So that, as regards the canvassing clerks’, messengers, and similar accounts, the receipts for 2,547*l*. are in the sheriff’s hands?—They are, for every penny of it.

6809. In like manner in reference to “printing, stationery, and stamps,” there is a sum of 2,549*l*.?—There is.

6810. Were there not accounts furnished for those?—For almost all; I think I may say for all.

6811. Those I should like to have?—Very well.

6712. Of course it is quite impossible that a thing of that kind can be done at a moment’s notice, but I should like to have this on Monday?—Certainly, my Lord; all the documents in my possession, or Dr. Beatty’s, we will pick out, and you shall have them on Monday morning.

Mr. Heron applied that the book which Mr. Meredith produced, and which appeared to be a detailed statement, should be handed to him. (The book was handed to his Lordship.)

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Heron applied for a detailed list of the men who furnished the gratuitous information.

Mr. McDonogh stated the total number was 385, of whom 200 were freemen, 137 property-holders and rated occupiers, and 48 lodgers.

WILLIAM BOUGHEY, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

*W. Boughey,
Esq.*

6813. I BELIEVE you are very unwell at present?—I have a severe attack of influenza, and I was obliged to leave my bed to come here.

6814. You are an Attorney, I believe?—Yes.

6815. Do you know a person of the name of Cremer?—I do not; I had heard the man’s name, but I did not know him at all.

6816. I find here that he says that he called upon Mr. Boughey, and that Mr. Boughey stated that he had not received any money yet, but that when he did Witness would be paid: is there any truth in that?—None whatever.

6817. Had you any authority whatever to offer or promise payment to any human being?—None whatever; I was agent for the Rotunda Ward, and I never offered a shilling, nor could have done so.

Cross examined by Mr. Heron.

6818. You were for the Rotunda Ward?—I was agent, but my son was secretary; I took no active part, except inspecting from time to time how the returns went on.

6819. Was Mr. Robinson there?—No; he had no matters in our ward.

6820. But had you not one joint committee-room for the three wards?—No.

6821. Where was your committee-room?—In Sackville-street; there were separate committee-rooms.

6822. Were they in the same house, Cherry and Shields?—Yes.

6823. What were the other two wards?—I believe the Mountjoy and the North Dock.

6824. And you saw Mr. Robinson; do you know Mr. Robinson?—I do, intimately.

6825. Did you know him to be canvassing the freemen?—No.

6826. Do you mean to say that you knew nothing at all about Mr. Robinson canvassing?—I did not.

6827. Who was the canvasser for the freemen in your ward?—We had three canvassers, but those men canvassed generally. The secretary can tell you better than I can.

6828. Was the president Edward Hodgson?—Yes.

6829. “Vice-

6829. "Vice-President, John J. Butler, Esq.; Honorary Secretary, George Tickell, Charles Boughey; Solicitors in charge, John Matthews and William Boughey:" is that so?—Yes.

6830. Is that 33, Hardwicke-street?—Yes.

6831. Do you know a Mr. Williams, who is a clerk in the Registry of Deeds?—I know that there is such a man in the Registry, but I am not intimately acquainted with him. I think there is a gentleman of that name.

6832. Thomas Williams?—I believe it is Thomas Williams.

6833. Do you know Mr. George A. Young, another gentleman?—No.

6834. Did you know of Mr. Robinson bringing any freemen to Cherry and Shields?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. WILLIAM ROBINSON, recalled; and further Examined.

6835. Mr. Justice Keogh.] I wish you to hand in that paper which you had yesterday with the names of those voters?—This is it (handing in the paper).

6836. Mr. Purcell asked me yesterday evening to put to you a question, and on thinking over it since I feel it right to do so. You gave Cremer a card with your private residence?—I did.

6837. Your place of business is in Swift's-row?—Yes.

6838. What business do you carry on there?—A loan office.

6839. In which you lend money?—Yes.

6840. Have you lent any money and when to Cremer?—I think it is fifteen or sixteen years since he got some money out of the office.

6841. Has he ever had any transaction with you since then?—No; it was a debt of 20 l., and I sued him in the Recorder's Court, and I got a decree against him, and I took it from him at 3 s. a week, and still I think there is close on 10 l. due.

6842. You knew where he lived, I suppose?—Never, till I saw him that evening in the Rotunda committee-room; at that particular time I did not.

6843. How long before that had you seen him with reference to business or otherwise?—Well, I could not tell for a long time; I used to see him sometimes in the street.

6844. Having reference to that state of the relations existing between you and him, he being in your debt to the extent of 10 l., what was the meaning of you giving him your card?—I assure you I had no meaning whatever in it; I do not know really what prompted me to do it; he asked me where he should go if he wanted to see me.

6845. You say you sent these men up to the committee-rooms in order to seek employment for them?—I did.

6846. You took down upon a list the names of persons who were not there at all?—I did.

6847. Were you seeking employment for them also?—Well, I did that; and it may appear strange in your Lordship's eyes —

6848. I do not want now to ask you what appears strange or otherwise, but I want to know why, if your object was to seek employment for those men, you took down their names at all?—Their names were mentioned —

6849. But I want to know what they were mentioned for?—They might have been mentioned as voters.

6850. With what object were they inserted in your list?—(After some hesitation) With the object, I suppose, if they had a vote, to vote for Guinness and Plunket.

6851. Why did you put them on your list; you did not know them?—I did not.

6852. What did you put them on your list for?—They must have been mentioned by those who were present.

6853. That I assume to be so, as you said; but why did you put them on your list?—(After some hesitation.) I cannot give any other explanation.

6854. Of course, if you cannot give any explanation, you cannot; that is the reason I have recalled you; now, you were to have met Dogherty that evening by appointment, under the Post-office?—I was.

6855. Where did you make that appointment with Dogherty?—In Liffey-street.

6856. When?—That day.

6857. What did you appoint to meet him for?—With a view of getting him employment; I solemnly swear it.

6858. Where were you to get him employment?—I was to go to the committee-rooms in Sackville-street, to bring him there, and introduce him to some gentlemen there.

6859. Why did you not say, "Meet me at the committee-rooms, in order that I may introduce you?"—I cannot give you any reason; the only reason that suggests itself to my mind —

6860. Do not give me any reason that you cannot give, because that is a contradiction; why did you appoint to meet him at the Post-office?—The Post-office is a prominent place, and it may have occurred to my mind—it may have occurred to my mind—that he did not know the committee-rooms.

6861. Well, then, he did not meet you?—He did not.

6862. But a number of other men did?—They did.

6863. Had you ever seen those men before?—I had not.

6864. What did you say to them?—Smith came up, and said, "There are a lot of us here." I said, "Who are you?" "I am a freeman, sir," said he; and he mentioned, I think, that the others were freemen.

6865. Did they say anything else?—No; I said to Smith, "Follow me."

6866. Why did you tell him to follow you?—Well, having appointed with Dogherty with the view of trying to get him employment, I thought he had communicated that fact to the others.

6867. That he was to get employment?—Yes.

6868. Why should that communication influence your mind to ask a number of strange men to follow you; I miss the connection between the two things; can you supply the missing link?—I cannot.

6869. That is exactly what I have recalled you for; you had an engagement with a man named Dogherty, whom you were to meet at the Post-office

W. Boughey,
Esq.

1869.

Post-office in order to get employment for him ; you did not meet him, but a number of other men, strangers to you, met you, and told you they were freemen, and you said at once, "Follow me;" why did you then seek employment for those men who had not spoken to you on the subject?—I never saw those men before.

6870. Had one of them spoken to you on the subject?—No.

6871. Then what was your reason?—I can give no other explanation.

6872. None whatsoever?—None whatsoever.

6873. You made use of the remarkable expression that you did not seek to get them employment the moment you understood they were secure for Guinness and Plunket?—That is true.

6874. Now I ask you (and it is the only question I mean to put to you), was your proposition to get them employment in order to secure them for Messrs. Guinness and Plunket?—It was.

6875. Mr. Purcell (through the Court).] Had you ever had any previous connection with the committee-rooms, or been there before that evening?—None whatever.

6876. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you recollect your telling me that your first connection with these transactions was a meeting with the gentleman whom you pointed out as Mr. Goodman?—Yes.

6877. Was he acting as agent for Messrs. Guinness and Plunket?—Oh no, my Lord; I saw Mr. Goodman in his office.

6878. Was he acting, during the election, for Messrs. Guinness and Plunket?—Yes, I think he was.

6879. When you saw Mr. Goodman what did you say to him?—I complained of the way I had been treated by the other side, in consequence of some misunderstanding between us, and I told Mr. Goodman that if he had sufficient confidence in me, I considered I was in a position to be of service to the cause.

6880. To what cause?—To the Conservative cause.

6881. At the election?—At the election.

6882. What took place?—Mr. Goodman was rather silent, and after some moments he said, "Very well; come to me in the morning."

6883. What took place then?—The appointment was for 10 o'clock in the morning. I called at Mr. Goodman's office and he had not arrived, and in the middle of the day I think I saw Mr. Goodman, and he handed me a letter.

6884. Did you ask him for any letter?—I did; I think I did.

6885. What was the letter you asked for?—I asked for a letter of introduction to the different wards.

6886. To whom?—To the different wards, with a view of looking over the unpledged names.

6887. Did you get that letter?—I did.

6888. You have already produced it?—I have.

6889. Was that your first connection with the election proceedings?—It was.

6890. And it was in consequence of that that you interfered?—It was.

6891. In consequence of a communication with Mr. Goodman?—Oh no; I do not think I spoke to Mr. Goodman afterwards.

6892. But was that your first introduction?—That was my first introduction.

6893. And having got that letter, you acted as far as you could for Sir Arthur Guinness and Mr. Plunket?—I did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. FRANCIS ROBINSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

Mr. F.
Robinson.

6894. WHAT are you?—A clerk.

6895. Clerk to whom?—To Mr. T. W. Bond, of Palace-street.

6896. Is he an attorney?—He is.

6897. Do you produce a box in court?—I do.

6898. Is that the box (pointing to a box)?—It is.

6899. Where did you bring it from?—From No. 3, Palace-street.

6900. Had you that box in your care?—I had.

6901. When did you get it?—I got it about a week before the trial here.

6902. Has it remained ever since in your possession?—It has, unless at night time.

6903. I presume you go home at night to your own domicile, wherever it is?—Yes.

6904. And return to the office the next day?—Yes.

6905. Is the box in the same state now as it was when you got it?—I believe so.

6906. Did you ever open it?—I did not.

6907. Who told you to take possession of that box?—Mr. Johnstone.

6908. What is that gentleman's Christian name?—Mr. William Johnstone.

6909. Is the box locked now?—It is.

6910. Was it locked when you got it?—It was.

6911. Have you the key of it?—I have.

6912. Was the key given to you?—Not in the first instance.

6913. What do you mean by that?—When it was handed to me at first, he did not give me the key, but without the key; but upon the day it was opened here in court he gave me the key.

6914. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was the key handed to you in court?—No; in Palace-street.

6915. When?—The first day that Mr. Johnstone was subpoenaed here; I think it was about three days ago.

6916. Was it since he was examined?—I think it was that day, that evening; the evening of the day that Mr. Johnstone was examined I think he handed me the key.

6917. Mr. McDonogh.] Did you ever use that key since by opening that box?—Oh, no.

6918. Did you ever part with the key out of your possession?—I did not.

6919. Is that the whole of what you know about this transaction?—That is the whole.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

6920. You got this box, as you told us; where did you keep the box?—At No. 3, Palace-street.

6921. That is Mr. Bond's office?—Yes.

6922. It is in the same house with Mr. William Johnstone's?—Yes, a storey higher.

6923. Where are your private lodgings?—At No. 2, Lower Merrion-street.

6924. Did you at any time take that box to No. 2, Palace-street?—Never.

6925. Did you ever take it from Palace-street?—Except to the Court.

6926. You used to leave Palace-street in the evening?—Yes.

6927. And

Mr. F.
Robinson.
1869.

6927. And left the box behind you?—Yes.
6928. At what hour do you generally leave Palace-street?—At five o'clock.
6929. And at what hour do you generally go in the morning?—At half-past ten o'clock.
6930. And of course you do not know anything about the key in the meanwhile?—Oh no; the key was in my possession the last four days.
6931. Did Mr. Johnstone tell you, when he was sending you the box, what was in it?—He did not.
6932. What did he say to you?—He called me downstairs, and said that he wished me to take charge of that box, and I was not to allow any one to touch it, but to keep it safe until he wanted it again.
6933. Was that all he said?—That was all.
6934. He said nothing about the quay, then?—Of course not the quay.
6935. Did he tell you what was in the box?—He did not.
6936. Did he tell you that it was connected with the election?—Oh no.
6937. And you asked him no questions, I suppose?—I did not.
6938. Do you know the handwriting of these telegrams, or any of them (handing some telegrams to the Witness)?—I do.
6939. In whose handwriting is the first?—Mr. Johnstone's.
6940. To whom is that addressed?—"Edward Jeffcock, 170, Queen's-road, Bayswater."
6941. Will you turn to the next; to whom is that addressed?—To "Heatley, Esq."
6942. Where?—"Civil Engineer, Clonroche, Enniscarthy."
6943. Do you know the handwriting of that?—A portion of it is Mr. Johnstone's, but I do not know whose the other part of it is.
6944. Do you know the handwriting in which the others are?—I do.
6945. Just mention the name?—They are in Mr. Johnstone's handwriting.
6946. Are they all?—Those three that I have looked at; I don't know any of them but those first three.
6947. Turn them over, and look at the writing as you turn them over?—I don't know them (examining the telegrams).
6948. Do you believe that in any of those (never mind the first three) you recognise Mr.

Johnstone's handwriting, whether a disguised or a true character?—I do.
6949. Do you think they are written by Mr. Johnstone?—I do.
6950. The whole of them?—Possibly.
6951. Do you believe that the whole of them are written by Mr. Johnstone?—Not all of them.
6952. Any of them, except the first three?—No, they are none of them, except the first three, in Mr. Johnstone's handwriting.
6953. Do you know a Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite?—Oh no.
6954. You do not know anything about him?—No.
6955. Can you form any opinion as to who wrote those other telegrams, except the first three, which we have disposed of?—I have not the slightest idea.
6956. Do you mean to tell his Lordship that Mr. Johnstone did not mention to you for what purpose he was giving you that box?—He did not.
6957. Not in any way?—Not in any way whatever.
6958. Did you yourself feel astonished as to his giving you the box?—No; I thought it was a private matter.
6959. Just look at those telegrams (handing some telegrams to the Witness). Can you form any opinion as to those?—No.
6960. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was there any one present when you got charge of that box, except Mr. Johnstone?—No; no one but Mr. Johnstone and myself.
6961. You are a clerk of Mr. Bond's?—Yes.
6962. Was Mr. Bond present?—He was not.
6963. And Mr. Johnstone called you down and gave you charge of that box?—He did.
6964. But he kept the key?—He did.
6965. And he only gave you the key since he was examined here?—Yes.
6966. Do you know that to be the fact?—I do.

Mr. Justice Keogh remarked that, as the evidence at present stood, the counsel for the Petitioner were not justified, as representing this box, to be the one to which Mr. Johnson had alluded.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. WILLIAM JOHNSTONE, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh, Q.C.

6967. You are already sworn?—I am.
6968. Look at the box that you see upon the table.—Yes.
6969. Do you know, or can you recognise or identify that box?—I can.
6970. Look at this young man (pointing to Robinson)—Yes?
6971. Do you know him?—Yes.
6972. Is he a clerk in the employment of Mr. Bond, the attorney?—He is.
6973. Is Mr Bond in Dublin?—He is.
6974. Is he at his office, at his place of business at present?—I don't know whether he is there or not; he was there this morning.
6975. Are you able to say whether this is the box or not you spoke of when last examined before his Lordship?—It is, to the best of my belief.
6976. To whose custody did you put it?—I asked a clerk to take it away; I did not give it into any one's custody.

6977. What clerk did you ask to take it away?—The one just examined.
6978. The last witness?—The last witness.
6980. Where was the clerk when you told him to take it away?—He was in my office; I brought him downstairs to show him the box.
6981. And when you brought him downstairs, did you show him the box?—I did.
6982. Did you see him take it?—No.
6983. Do you know that he did take it?—It was not there afterwards.
6984. Did you give him the key at that time, or keep the key?—I kept the key.
6985. When did you part with the key?—As soon

Mr. W.
Johnstone.

Mr. W.
Johnstone.
—
30 January
1869.

soon as Mr. Bond was supposed to bring the box here.

6986. When was this?—I think it was upon yesterday; I am not sure as to the date, but whatever was the day, he was supposed to be here; I gave him the key.

6987. To which of them did you give the key, to him or the clerk?—I think it was to the clerk.

6988. To whom did you give the key?—To the clerk.

6989. From the time that box was taken from your office, did you ever see it again until you saw it now?—Yes; I saw it in the clerk's hands, going down to the Court yesterday morning.

6990. When coming down here?—Yes.

6991. During the time you had it in your possession, did you open it or take any papers out of it?—I opened it, took papers out of it, put papers into it.

6992. Mr. Justice Keogh.] When?—A considerable time ago, shortly after the county election.

6993. After you had opened it and put papers into it, did you ever again open it till you have delivered it and told the clerk to take it?—I did.

6994. You did open it?—Yes.

6995. When was that?—Before sending it down here.

6995* Was it yesterday or to-day?—Two or three days ago.

6996. Did you then take any papers out of it?—I did.

6997. Two or three days ago?—Yes.

6998. What were they?—Papers that were returned to it since; the telegrams that were sent upon the business of the county Dublin and bank papers connected with the city; I returned them; they had been in the box coming down here; I took the telegrams which had reference to the county Dublin election.

6999. Did you restore to that box the papers that you took out the day before yesterday?—I did.

7000. Are you enabled to say that when you thus restored these papers, that box contained the identical papers which had been originally in it?—It does.

7001. Without any subtraction or diminution?—It does, and contains every document which was in it when it came from the committee-rooms in 47 Dame-street.

7002. Have you the key?—It is there.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

7003. Did you ever speak to Mr. Bond when upon the subject?—I did; before the box was taken away, I signified to him I wished they should be taken away.

7004. Why did you not mention the clerk before to day?—My memory at the time was very confused. I was labouring under very, very, great illness at the time, and I really had not a just idea, I think, of what I was saying.

7005. You kept the key?—I kept the key.

7006. Why not tell that to the court?—I was not asked the question.

7007. Did you consider it of importance that you had kept it?—I was not capable of considering anything at the time.

7008. Did you speak to Mr. Bond when you went home?—No.

7009. When you went home from court after you had been examined?—No.

7010. Did you speak to the clerk (Robinson)?—No.

7011. Did you know where the box was when you were examined, upon your oath?—I did not.

7012. Did you believe it to be in Dublin or the county Longford?—I could not tell whether it was in the office or out of it; all I know was it was not in my possession.

7013. Do you remember the day you were examined?—I do.

7014. Did you open the box that evening, upon your oath?—No.

7015. Upon the following day, upon your oath?—I think so.

7016. What hour of the day?—In the morning.

7017. Who was present?—The clerk.

7018. Robinson?—Yes.

7019. And you took some papers out of it?—Yes.

7020. What did you do with them?—I put them in my press.

7021. Your private press, your safe?—No.

7022. The private press to which none of the clerks had access?—I locked them up and kept them there.

7023. How long had you them in the press?—Till next day.

7024. Did you give your evidence to Mr. Sutton or give him any idea as to what you were going to say?—No.

7025. Did you take advice about restoring anything you had abstracted from the box?—I told Williamson.

7026. Then you told him what would be the purport of your evidence?—No.

7027. When did you tell him you had taken the papers out of the box?—Thursday or Friday, I am not sure.

7028. Friday was yesterday; what day did you take the papers out and lock them in your private press?—I cannot charge my memory; the clerk will be able to tell you, it will be either Wednesday or Thursday.

7029. Probably Wednesday?—I cannot tell.

7030. Perhaps it was Thursday?—I think Wednesday.

7031. Where had you a conversation with Williamson?—In his office.

7032. Then you went to his office to tell him what you had to say?—To know whether, when sending the box down, the documents I had put into it should be taken out of it or not, the documents connected with the county Dublin election, which had nothing to say to the documents when they were brought to me from the committee.

7033. Did you not say there were other forms connected with the city of Dublin; did you take them out?—I did.

7034. Why did you do so?—Because they were blank paper, which you will see.

7035. Do you swear to the court, you took out the papers because they were blanks?—I do positively; and your Lordship will see it when the box is opened.

7036. What harm is there in blank forms?—Encumbering the box.

7037. Do you mean crowding the box?—Yes.

7038. What do you mean by encumbering the box?—I was under the impression that there was not any occasion to send them down.

7039. What do you mean by encumbering the box?

box?—I can give you no definition of the words; I am not a Johnson nor a Walker.

7040. Did you believe there was any harm in the blank papers?—No.

7041. Why take them out and lock them up?—Because—

7042. Answer, sir?—My Lord, if this is not bullying—

Mr. Justice Keogh.] It is in every way justified by a witness being subject to cross-examination, and you are not justified in using the word “bullying” to anything done in my presence; I am not likely to allow any counsel to do so. Mr. Heron has been justified in everything he has said; he might have gone further; he is far and away within the limits.

Witness.] I have given every explanation, my Lord, with regard to the blank-papers, and I cannot satisfy him.

7043. Mr. Heron.] How many blank forms did you take out?—There are 300 of them.

7044. How many blanks did you take out?—I cannot tell, but I can account for everything in the box; I looked upon them as waste-paper.

7045. Why lock them up, then?—Because they were connected with the election.

7046. Did you take them out of the box because they were waste-paper?—Because I looked upon them as of no use either to petitioner or respondent, because they were connected with the election papers.

7047. Look at these figures (handing document to Witness).—These figures are mine.

7048. Is the handwriting that of Frazer?—I do not know.

7049. Do you see these figures going the whole way; are they not yours?—They are.

7050. See the observations after the name, 40 and 41?—Here (pointing to paper); I do.

7051. Is this in your handwriting?—No.

7052. Whose name is it?—I do not know.

7053. Did you keep the list?—No.

7054. Did you put the numbers?—I cannot tell you at present.

7055. Look at this, No. 41, “Execution against him for 70 L., but if expenses paid, try to come.” Whose handwriting is that?—It is not mine.

7056. What is the meaning of the figures?—This I cannot tell you at present, but it is very likely I shall be able to do so.

7057. Then, No. 40, “Wants expenses and cab to meet him at the train.” In whose handwriting?—It is not in my handwriting.

7058. Can you form a belief?—I cannot form a belief whose it is.

7059. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Are your figures upon it?—Yes, the figures upon the margin along the side of the paper are mine.

7060. Mr. Heron.] These lists at the head of each sheet of paper, as “require expenses,” or require expenses, &c.; you have left off the numbers; these are not in consecutive numbers, they are 16, 17, 13, 19, 20, upon this page. Do these figures in your handwriting refer to any book?—No, I would say not, unless it would be that of out-voters; I cannot at present tell.

7061. Do you not know that the numbers 41, &c., do not refer to it?—I cannot at present tell to what they refer.

7062. Whose business was it to write out that list?—Frazer or Mortimer.

7063. The handwriting is different?—I would not know the handwriting; it appears to be all in the same; I cannot tell whose it is.

7064. Are these the lists that went backward and forward between No. 48 and No. 24?—I never saw that sheet since I put the figures upon it, and what was done with it I cannot tell; I fancied that my own lists had passed, for I missed them in the box.

7065. Then your own sheets passed between the places?—Where they went to I do not know.

7066. Did they not go to J. Wilson Johnstone?—My suspicion is they did, but I do not know anything about it.

7067. In whose handwriting are these words: the Rev. Mr. —?—This appears to be the same, but I do not know.

7068. Was it the business of Frazer or Mortimer to make out these lists?—

7069. Mr. Justice Keogh.] He has already stated that it was. (To the Witness.) I want to call your attention to the evidence you gave on a previous day; you were asked, “What did you do with the letters?” you replied, “I do not know what became of the letters.” “What did you do with the letters?” you answered, “I put them into a box in a room, and left them there.” “Did you desire that box to be sent to your office?” “No, I do not recollect having done so.” “Is that all you will say before the court?” “That is all.” Then the examination proceeds; you are asked, “Where is your office?” you state in reply, “My office is in No. 3 Palace-street.” “Did you see that box there since, on your oath?” “I did.” “That is the box in which you left the letters?” “Yes.” “Where is that box?” “I cannot tell.” “When did you see it?” “Not for some time.” You are asked, “How long?” you answered, “I cannot say exactly.” Then comes the question, “Did you give any directions about that box?” and you answer, “No;” you recollect having been put that question?—I recollect that.

7070. And you answered distinctly, “No.”—Well, in that I was quite wrong.

7071. The examination goes on, “What sort of a box was it?” “A small tin box.”—Yes, I think I said it was about half the size of a box that was on the table at the time.

7072. But you said distinctly that you gave no directions about the box?—I did.

7073. You are asked, “Where are the letters?” and you swear, “I do not know.” “Who has access to your office, to steal the box with the election papers in it?” and your answer is, “I cannot tell.” You are asked, “Was the tin box with the election papers taken from your office against your will?” you reply, “I should say not; I do not know who took it.” Is that the box (pointing to the box on the table) as to which you swear you did not know who took it?—It is; I did not know who took it. I gave directions about its being taken away, but I did not see it taken, and I could not tell who took it.

7074. Do you know Francis Robinson?—I do, but I was not in court when he was examined.

7075. If he swore that you gave him the box, and retained the key, would he swear falsely?—No, perfectly true.

7076. Then you persist in saying that you do not know who took it?—No; because I do not know whether he took it, or directed some person else to take it; I gave it to him.

Mr. W.
Johnstone.

30 January
1869.

Mr. W. 7077. And he took it?—I do not know whether Johnstone. he took it away or not.

— 7078. Did you not give it to him?—I showed 30 January him the box; but whether he took it away or not 1869. I cannot say.

7079. Then that is what you meant by saying that you did not know who took it?—It was.

7080. You are asked, "Could it have been taken without your consent"? and you say, "It might have been." Is that possible to be true, you having requested him to take it?—A person might get into my office, and take it without my knowing anything about it.

7081. You cannot tell whether it was taken with or without your consent?—I cannot tell.

7082. You were asked as to whether you knew what had become of the box, and you replied that you expressed a wish some time ago that it should be taken away, and you swear distinctly you expressed it to Mr. Bond, and not to any other person; had you the key in your possession when giving the evidence here upon the last day?—I had.

7083. Was it in your pocket?—No; I had it in my office.

7084. And did you consider you were telling the truth when, knowing you had that key in your possession, you made that statement?—
With respect to giving that box away?

7085. With respect to what became of that box?—I did not know what became of it, except it was taken from my office. I was not aware whether it was in No. 3 Palace-street, or not, or whether it might have been carried away to the residence of any other person.

7086. Why did you not go to the place next day to examine where the box was?—The next day I asked Mr. Bond what had become of the box, and he did not tell me.

7087. (To Mr. McDonogh, Q.C.) You have told Mr. Heron that your figures are upon each of these pages?—So far as I see, they are my figures. I want your memory to assist me in this point.

7087*. Did you ever authorise this (showing document) paper to be handed over to Mr. Fitzgerald, the attorney?—Certainly not; I did not know where that paper was.

7088. Did you know how it got into his possession?—No; and but that my figures are upon it, I would be inclined to say I had never seen it before.

7089. Looking at the figures and names, is your memory recalled in any way, or re-touched, as to what the document was?—I would say it was for the purpose of communicating with persons resident in different places, inquiring after their names so as to see that they voted.

7090. Look to the handwriting; try if you can recognise the handwriting of Mortimer or Frazer?—I would not know the handwriting of either gentleman.

Mr. McDonogh, Q.C.] We propose now, my Lord, to open the box and see what is in it.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] If you like, you may.

(Witness here opened the box).

7091. Show the blank papers you refer to?—
(Papers produced.)

7092. Are these they?—They are.

7093. Show the telegrams connected with the county Dublin election?—Here they are (papers in blue covers produced).

7094. What are these documents that remain?
—These are all connected with the city of Dublin election; all that I got from Dame-street.

7095. Do you see the name Thomas J. Cran-field, Enniscorthy, on the paper?—That is in my handwriting.

7096. What is the meaning of these red and blue marks?—You have brought the matter to my recollection. Circulars were sent out to each of these gentlemen, and according as the names appeared, a circular was marked for one, then another, and, as well as I recollect, Mortimer kept a book in which the names were checked off.

7097. Which circular was signed by Sutton, which by John Wilson Johnstone?—Neither of them was signed by John Wilson Johnstone; not from 47 Dame-street; no circular was signed by him.

7098. Did you hear or know of one going?—
No, I did not hear or know of it.

7099. Do you mean to say that document refers only to the circular sent by Mr. Sutton?
—I do swear that.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I wish to know whether this box is the same as that to which Mr. Mortimer referred; recall him; he is here.

RODOLPHUS MORTIMER came on the Table.

R. Mortimer. 7100. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you recollect — in your evidence, so clearly and so frankly given, speak of a box that had mysteriously disappeared;
these were the words you used: "Is that the box"?—No, it is not.

7101. It was another box?—Another box.

7102. Of which you have the key still?—I have.

Mr. McDonogh, Q.C.] I now ask Mr.
Fitzgerald to come upon the table.

MR. D. FITZGERALD, sworn.*

Mr. D. 7103. You are Solicitor for the petitioner?—
Fitzgerald. Yes. (Documents handed to Witness.)

7104. You produced that paper to-day?—
Yes.

7105. Where did you get it?—I got it in
Capel-street yesterday evening.

7106. From whom?—From Frazer.

7107. He who was the clerk of J. W. Johnstone?—Yes.

7108. How much did you pay him?—Nothing.

7109. Have you given him any money?—None.

7110. Any promise?—None.

7111. Did you know it was a document that had been kept in the Conservative rooms?—
Yes.

7112. And you knew that belonged to the gentleman conducting the election for the Conservatives?—Yes.

7113. And

7113. And you thought it right to procure that paper from one of the persons employed in that office?—Yes.

7114. Let me ask you did you meet Frazer, and did he ask him for it?—He came to me about three weeks ago. He wrote me a letter in the name of Thompson, seeking an interview with me in my own house upon that evening. He showed me that document yesterday; he gave it to me in Capel-street as I was walking from the Court, having told me that he would.

7115. Have you the letter which the clerk wrote to you in the name of Thompson?—I have it in my office; two or three letters.

7116. Did you know him to be Frazer?—No.

7117. Did he say he was the clerk that gave information?—He came for the purpose of giving information in support of the petition.

7118. Did you know him?—I did not know him till the night he was called in Court; a gentleman told me he was in the gallery.

7119. Did you ask him for the document?—I did not ask him to give the document, because he said when he came back next evening he would bring more important documents.

7120. Did you promise him anything?—I did not.

7121. Did he express any expectation of getting payment?—In his first letter he said he expected to be paid; he asked for an interview. I wrote back replying that he could see me next evening at eight o'clock, and he called that evening.

Mr. Bond was then called to give evidence, but

Mr. Justice Keogh said that it was not necessary to examine him, as the evidence was consistent, so far as consistency went.

Mr. D. Fitzgerald.
1869.

Mr. J. S. GOODMAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Purcell.

7122. You are the Secretary of the Conservative Registration Society?—One of the honorary secretaries.

7123. How long have you been connected with the society in that capacity?—In that capacity somewhat over two years.

7124. You conducted the Parliamentary revision in Dublin?—I had the principal management of it.

7125. The offices of the society are in No. 3 Dame street?—Yes.

7126. And I believe Mr. Hodgson is your assistant secretary?—Yes.

7127. Was Sir Arthur Guinness a subscriber to the fund?—Yes.

7128. To whom were those subscriptions paid, by whom received?—By me.

7129. How much altogether did you receive from Sir Arthur Guinness as his subscription towards that object?—I received altogether during the present year 3,850 l., for the purposes of the revision.

7130. In what way was that payment made?—I received 150 l. in the early part of the year.

7131. About what time?—February, I received a sum of 100 l., 600 l., 1,000 l., 2,000 l.

7132. Were those payments made to you personally?—Yes.

7133. By whom?—All, except one, by Sir Arthur Guinness himself.

7134. Who gave the other?—The other was from the hand of his brother.

7135. When you received those monies from time to time, what did you do upon receipt?—They were lodged.

7136. To whose credit?—To mine.

7137. At your own bank?—Yes; Guinness and Mahon.

7138. Besides the sum contributed by Sir A. Guinness there were other funds, I believe?—Yes; there are a good many subscribers who contributed small amounts; these were received by a collector.

7139. But, in addition to what you mention about Sir Arthur Guinness, you received another sum of 100 l.?—Not from Sir Arthur Guinness.

7140. Was that also lodged to the same account?—Yes.

7141. Were the monies subscribed by Sir Arthur Guinness and his brother subscribed bond 29.

fide for the purpose, the exclusive purpose of the revision?—Certainly.

7142. Were those monies paid by you, with the exception of the blanks which you hold, to the credit of the society?—Yes.

7143. But out of that fund did you pay the revision of the last election?—Yes.

7144. How much was expended for that purpose?—2,800 l. odd.

7145. Within what period was that expenditure made?—Made from time to time, commencing at the revision and ending after it had closed.

7146. Do you recollect when the last expenditure was made?—I do not.

7147. About what time?

7148. Mr. Justice Keogh.] I have allowed you to go into this matter just so far, but I am afraid it would tax our time too much were you to go into all the intricacies of this revision and expenditure: how much were subscribed by all the rest of the world to the revision?—I have mentioned a sum of 100 l.; in all about 400 l. or 520 l.

7149. Mr. Purcell.] Did you apply any portion of the fund subscribed to any other purpose but that of the revision?

Mr. Justice Keogh.] If you want to know my state of feeling on the subject, I am quite sure the money did not find its way into any other quarter. Having left the pocket of Sir Arthur Guinness, the money was not diverted from its original intention.

Mr. Purcell.] There was a charge made.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] It would be hard to convince me of that Mr. Purcell.] I understand.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I am quite sure the gentlemen who got the money kept it, and did not apply it to any other purpose of Sir A. Guinness.

7150. Mr. Purcell.] Have you acted as agent for Sir Arthur Guinness?—Not exactly as agent; but I gave all the assistance in my power from the position I hold as honorary secretary.

7151.—The last revision was a laborious one?—Yes.

Mr. J. S. Goodman.

Mr. J. S.
Goodman.

1869.

7152. After it was completed, and the work in Court was completed, did you still find any work for your assistants to do?—Of course I was bound to submit to the society the work that had been done to show whether and in what manner the relative position of the wards had changed, and I directed a large portion of the staff to be retained; I directed one for each ward, say twenty.

7153. Were any of them employed by you, or their services given while so employed for any but election purposes?—No.

7154. Did you carry on a portion of the revision work at 47 Dame-street?—No, I was obliged to go to Sessions after that (the revision); I had other business to attend to, and I do not know what was done.

7155. Had you any authority to appoint canvassers?—Certainly not.

7156.—Upon behalf of Guinness and Plunket?—No.

7157. Have you any knowledge whatever, or had you until it appeared here, in the course of the petition matter, of any proceedings at 76 Capel-street?—A few days before I had heard about it, but I have no knowledge of what took place there before.

7158. You know Foster?—Yes.

7159. How long?—A few years.

7160. Do you know of any connexion that Foster had, or may have had, with 76 Capel-street?—None whatever.

7161. Was any portion of the fund in your hand given to Foster or received by him for you?—No.

7162. Had you any authority to give money to any voter, or to hold out any inducement to bring him up to vote?—Certainly not.

7163. Have you any knowledge of any case of the kind?—No.

7164. Do you recollect any box being sent to No. 3 Dame-street?—I do not, except that it was mentioned the box was to leave and go to No. 3 Dame-street, and I asked Williamson or some one whether they had made arrangements that the assistant-secretary should take them over, and I was told "Yes."

7165. Did you see any box broken open at No. 3 Dame-street?—I did not.

7166. Or any papers?—I was away at the time.

7167 (A document handed to Witness). Did you ever see a document like that?—Not to my knowledge.

7168. Were you aware as to arrangements having been made to bring home out-voters?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron, Q.C.

7169. I believe that the address of Mr. Guinness was issued in July or August?—Yes.

7170. Immediately after that the subscriptions began to come in?—About that time.

7171. You were at the head of the department in conducting the affairs of the election?—I had control.

7172. You had the money, and appointed different people under you?—I had the appointment of persons.

7173. Of the 3,850 l., how much was spent in the payment of rates and taxes?—Not a shilling, to my knowledge.

7174. Do you mean to say that they were not being paid?—I do not.

7175. And that was not in your department?—I know they were tendered.

7176. Who did it?—Somebody in my office.

7177. Paid for voters?—Yes.

7178. How much?—I do not know how much, but all were refused.

7179. Do you know the name of the man who tendered them?—I do not.

7180. But that was the money of the association?—Yes.

7181. What was the name of the clerk whose business it was to tender the taxes?—I do not know, but I directed the tender to be made.

7182. Was there not a list of non-taxpayers made out?—The books are always searched.

7183. Did you not find out by the list that numbers had not paid their taxes?—Yes.

7184. Do you not know that 1,500 l. were tendered?—I would say considerably under 30 l. or 40 l.

7185. Was a list kept?—1,500 l. was not tendered; 20 l. would be the outside.

7186. You know Mr. Robinson, of the loan-office?—I saw him upon two occasions before, to my knowledge, when he came and got the letter; I had not seen him before—I had never seen him before.

7187. He said he got the letter upon the second occasion?—That is so.

7188. You had never seen him before?—I had; he got the letter on the second occasion.

7189. Tell his Lordship the conversation that took place between you?—As far as I can remember he came with an introduction from Mr. Purcell, Mr. Theobald Purcell; he said he knew him.

7190. Had Mr. Purcell been a member of the Conservative Registration Society?—Yes.

7191. And was counsel to it?—He was not counsel that I knew of.

7192. The introduction was in writing?—Yes.

7193. What became of it?—I have not the slightest idea.

7194. You recommended him as a handy man?—No.

7195. What became of it?—Perhaps I have it.

7196. Did he come to you at 3 Dame-street?—I think he came to my private office; it was written to me, and brought to my office by Robinson.

7197. What was on it, according to your recollection?—It was simply saying he had been badly treated by the opposite side, and was anxious to vote and do all he could for us; that, I think, was the whole thing.

7198. Did Robinson speak to you on the occasion of the first interview about the freemen?—No, nor upon any occasion.

7199. Are you certain?—Positive he did not; I did not intend him to be paid.

7200. Did you intend him to go to every ward?—Yes.

7201. And he had authority to canvass?—He had no authority to canvass from me, as far as I understand the meaning of "authority to canvass."

7202. You know Campbell?—Yes.

7203. He was employed in the Registration Society?—Yes, for years.

7204. Was it not Campbell who tendered the taxes to the collector-general?—I dare say it was, but I cannot say whether it was he or Cooper; I dare say it was.

7205. Do you swear that Robinson never mentioned mentioned about the freemen?—No, as far as I remember; if he had mentioned about the freemen, I would not have given that letter; the freeman's list is a separate thing from the wards altogether.

7206. Do you know George A. Young?—I know an old gentleman of the name of Young.

7207. He is a clerk in the Registry of Deeds Office?—I do not think I know him.

7208. In the list of the Inns Quay Ward the names of Samuel Faulkner, G. E. Williams, and George A. Young appear?—I know the appearance of Williams, but I cannot say I know him personally; I cannot say that I know Young.

7209. Do you know Henry Foster?—Yes.

7210. Did you ever give Mr. Henry Foster any money?—No.

7211. Did you ever give any money to any person for him?—No.

7212. Do you know Mr. John Judkins Butler?—I do, well.

7213. Did you give or lend him any money?—I do not think I did; I think he asked me one day for a pound.

7214. I am not speaking of that at all?—Except a pound, I did not ever give or lend Mr. John Judkins Butler any money.

7215. Did any one give Mr. Butler any money to your knowledge?—Nobody gave him any money for any purpose connected with this election, nor anything of the sort, that I know of.

7216. Did anybody give him any money at all in your presence about this time?—No.

7217. Did Mr. Bradburn give him any money?—I never saw Mr. Bradburn give Mr. Butler a shilling.

7218. Did you pay weekly the men employed on the staff in Dame-street?—I myself did not.

7219. Who was the paymaster?—Mr. Hodgson.

7220. He is in court?—He is, or he was.

7221. Do you remember, before the gratuitous declarations were signed, the payments in 3 Dame-street, when voters were paid in 3 Dame-street and I O U's taken from them?—I heard of it since; I did not hear of it at the time.

7222. Who took the I O U's from them?—Mr. Hodgson.

7223. How many?—They are entered in a list that I got him to give me.

7224. Have you the list?—He has it, I think. He put into my hands I O U's, exactly as the transaction stood, and I adopted it, and gave Mr. Hodgson credit for it.

7225. That is credit for the invention?—Not credit for the invention, but credit for the amount so paid.

7226. Mr. Justice Keogh.] When were those payments made?—The payments were made as well as I remember, on the 17th and 24th of October; the I O U's entered amount to the sum of 38 l. 15 s. 10 d.

7227. Mr. Heron.] To amount forward 825 l. 2 s. 2 d.; paid clerks, 674 l. 9 s. 1 d.; I O U, 38 l. 15 s. 10 d.?—Yes.

7228. Not I O U's at all?—That is a mistake, because that is the amount. There are several I O U's in it.

7229. Those seem to be without date (showing some papers to the Witness)?—There are receipts for every shilling here.

7230. It is books without date?—Books without date.

7231. And this document is without date?—Yes, and without names too.

7232. What I wanted was the list of the names?—I directed them to have the I O U's themselves in court.

7233. Have you a list of the names when the I O U's were paid?—I have not.

7234. How do you fix the date?—That is the last entry in the book; that is the last page that is written on in the book.

7235. Does that represent all the expenditure?—No; it does not.

7236. What is that book?—This is the book; the expenses of clerks, the expenses of car-hire, the expenses, I see, of furniture and all those small things which were paid through Mr. Hodgson, are entered in this book; but independently of that, I paid several sums myself.

7237. Did you keep a book yourself?—No; I paid them by cheques.

7238. Does that represent what Mr. Hodgson paid?—That represents what Mr. Hodgson paid.

7239. Now, give the explanation about the I O U's?—The explanation about the I O U's was this: my business commenced immediately after I had been occupied with the revision about the 10th of October. All the hands were away from the office after the 6th, and before that day, and I directed that the work of ticking them off should be done in a shorter time than usual, and I directed that at least one man should be kept for each ward. Among those men kept on, there were a good many voters, and it being spoken of that voters should not be paid for services at the election, Mr. Hodgson thought it better to pay them for bonâ fide work for two weeks, and take their I O U; I said that he had done perfectly right, and I would adopt that payment and enter it in the book as a payment.

7240. Were the men who were now electors and were employed in 48 Dame-street, paid in 47 Dame-street?—I do not know; I suppose they were; I understood that some of those men had been so kept on at work at 47 Dame-street during that fortnight; and there is a question whether revision work is strictly election work, and I believe that that raised the point in Mr. Hodgson's mind.

7241. The men comprised in the I O U were working at 48 Dame-street?—Some of them.

7242. And paid for two weeks?—They were paid for two weeks.

7243. When did you last see Mr. Henry Foster?—Well, I do not remember; it is a considerable time since.

7244. Have you seen him since the election?—I think I did.

7245. When first did you get information about the hole-in-the-wall business, in Capel-street?—I should say perhaps two days before this inquiry commenced, and a good while too after being engaged in the defence of Sir Arthur Guinness.

7246. Have you heard it was alleged by the men that they had been paid 5 l. there?—I did.

7247. And that Mr. Foster was mixed up in it?—I did not hear Mr. Foster's name until I heard of his being mixed up.

7248. And Campbell's name?—I heard Campbell's name before.

7249. How long before this trial?

Mr. McDonogh objected to the question.

Mr. J. S. Goodman.

Mr. Heron said that the Witness was not an attorney in the case.

Witness.] I am not the attorney on the record, but I am acting with Mr. Sutton.

7250. Do you claim any privilege?—I do not; but I do not think it would be fair to ask me those questions.

7251. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Are you acting as the agent of Sir Arthur Guinness?—I am assisting Sir Arthur Guinness's agent.

7252. Are you acting as the agent of Sir Arthur Guinness?—Along with Mr. Sutton, and Mr. Williamson, and Mr. White, in defence of this petition.

Mr. Justice Keogh remarked that anything that the witness might have heard, for the purpose of maintaining the case of his client, was privileged.

7253. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] You say you saw Mr. Henry Foster after the election?—I think so.

7254. Did you see him before the election?—Both before and after the election.

7255. Did you know him to be acting in Inns Quay Ward?—I did not.

7256. Do you mean to say you did not know him to be acting in the election at all?—No.

7257. Were you on the previous election of Sir Arthur Guinness, when he was unopposed?—No, I was not.

7258. Did you know Mr. Henry Foster then, at the time of the previous election?—Of course I did.

7259. Did you know him at the election of 1865?—I think I did.

7260. Did you not know on each of these occasions that he was acting for the Conservative side?—I did not.

7261. Are you a member of the Amicable Club, with him?—I am.

7262. And is Mr. Bradburn a member?—He is.

7263. And is Mr. Falconer a member?—Not that I know of; I think not.

7264. Is Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite a member also of that club?—He is.

7265. Is Mr. John Bradburn?—I do not know anybody of the name of John Bradburn.

7266. Where does the Amicable Club meet?—At the "Gresham" hotel, in Sackville-street.

7267. It is a dining club, is it not?—It is.

7268. Are you also an alderman of Skinner's-alley?—I am an alderman.

7269. And Mr. Henry Foster is an alderman?—He is.

7270. And Mr. Bradburn is an alderman?—I cannot say that he is.

7271. When did you last see Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite?—Well, I cannot really say I see him particularly often.

7272. When was the last meeting of the Amicable Club?—I think it was in December.

7273. At that meeting were all these gentlemen I have mentioned there?—I recollect Mr. Crosthwaite was; I do not know about the others whom you have mentioned.

7274. Was Mr. Foster?—I do not know.

7275. At the last meeting of the aldermen, were all these people there?—I was not at the last meeting of the aldermen.

7276. When was the last meeting?—In January.

7277. Were all these same people at the same meeting?—I think both Mr. Crosthwaite and Mr. Foster were at the December meeting of the aldermen.

7278. And Mr. Samuel Tudor Bradburn?—I do not think he was an alderman of Skinner's-alley.

7279. Have you been in Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite's house?—Never.

7280. Have you been in Mr. Henry Foster's house?—I was.

7281. When were you last there?—I do not exactly recollect.

7282. Have you been there since the election?—I do not think I was.

7283. Is Mr. Foster married or single?—I do not know; I believe him to be single, in fact I think he is.

7284. Were you ever in 76 Capel-street?—I was in 76 Capel-street.

7285. Before the election and since the election?—Never, to my knowledge, before the election; I was in it since the election.

7286. Did you see the little hole in the door?—No, I did not, but I saw the door.

7287. And when you saw it it was a perfect door?—It was.

7288. And the door was going to be produced here, was not it?—I do not know what you mean.

7289. The door was going to be produced in court as a perfect door, was it not?—I do not understand that question, really.

7290. Was not the door going to be taken off the hinges and brought before the court as a perfect door?—By whose advice?

7291. Yours.—Certainly not.

7292. You say you went into 76 Capel-street after the election; how soon was it after the election?—It was within the last few days.

7293. You have known Mr. Forrest a long time?—No, I do not think I knew him at all until the last few days.

7294. You were never in 76 Capel-street until within the last few days?—Not to my knowledge.

7295. Do you know Thomas Williams?—I do not think I do; I know the gentleman standing there that I have seen from the Register of Deeds Office, but more than that I do not know.

Re-examined by Mr. Purcell.

7296. Were the I O U's given for wages for work done for the revision?—Certainly, bonâ fide work done, and very well earned.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that Mr. O'Connell, the Chief Registrar of Deeds, had a communication to make to the court with reference to Mr. Henry Foster.

Mr. McDonogh demurred.

Mr. Heron applied that Mr. O'Connell might be examined.

After some discussion Mr. McDonogh acquiesced.

MORGAN O'CONNELL, Esq., sworn.

7297. MR. Justice Keogh.] A GENTLEMAN of the name of Henry Foster has been mentioned in this inquiry, who is stated to be a clerk in your office; do you know anything as to his present abode, or where that gentleman at present is?—No, nothing more than from the date of a letter which has just reached another clerk in my office from him, asking to get his salary from me during his absence; the salaries are payable this day.

7298. Are you acquainted with Mr. Foster's handwriting?—I am not, but Mr. Matson is.

7299. Do you produce that letter now?—I do (producing a letter).

7300. Has it come in due course of post?—It was dropped in the letter-box of the office, I understand, by Mr. Foster's sister, directed to Mr. McCartney, who is a clerk in my department, and he handed it to Mr. Ray, second Assistant Secretary at the office.

7301. Does that communication enable you to say where Mr. Foster is?—Well, he dates from Torquay; it bears no post-mark; it came by the post to his sister.

7302. That is the communication?—That is the communication.

7303. Is Mr. Foster absent by your permission from his office?—He is on sick certificate.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN MATSON, Esq., recalled; and further Examined.

7304. MR. Justice Keogh.] ARE you acquainted with Mr. Foster's handwriting?—I am.

7305. That letter states that he is at Torquay?—That letter states that he is at Torquay, I presume in England; there was no post-mark on the letter; the envelope was addressed to one of the junior clerks in the office.

7306. When was this letter put into the box?—This letter was brought down to the court not 10 minutes ago.

7307. When was it received?—It was received in the registry-office about a quarter of an hour since; Mr. Foster's sister was seen dropping it into the letter-box, and one of the gentlemen communicated that fact. When the letter was opened, the clerk who got it communicated the contents to the assistant registrar, and he directed it to be brought into the court for your Lordship's information.

Mr. Justice Keogh remarked that the letter and envelope were not in the same handwriting.

[The Witness withdrew.

J. Matson,
Esq.

DAVID FITZGERALD, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

7308. WAS the first letter which you received from Mr. Fraser on the 29th of December?—Yes.

7309. Had you written to him before that?—No.

7310. "Strictly private and confidential; 29th December 1868; Re-petition; Sir, the writer —"

Mr. Hemphill objected that this was going into a collateral issue, and that this was a privileged communication.

Mr. McDonogh urged that the communication was not privileged.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that it was too late to claim the privilege, as the letter had been already handed over.

7311. Mr. McDonogh.] "The writer could give most valuable information, facts and names of witnesses to summon; but will not be a witness himself. The information will be supplied to you in writing, upon your writing a guarantee to pay a certain sum upon the information which will be given, or part thereof turning out correct on the hearing of the petition (the payment to be in proportion). If you think this worth notice, a line addressed, Mr. Thompson, General Post-office, Dublin (to be called for), will receive attention from me." Did you not write him two letters?—Yes.

7312. Those are the copies of them?—Yes.

7313. This was the first. "Re-petition, 1st January, 1869; Sir, in reply to yours of the 29th December, I have been out of town until yesterday; I shall be glad to see you, upon the understanding mentioned in your letter. An affair of this nature cannot be arranged in correspondence." I quite agree with you there. The next letter is as follows:—"6th January, 1869. Sir, In reply to your note dated 5th, but received this evening, as you prefer it; please call at my residence to-morrow evening at eight o'clock. Yours obediently, David Fitzgerald." In this other letter of the 5th of January, he says, "I have just received both your letters." How could he, on the 5th of January, have received yours of the 6th? Must there not have been another letter?—There was another letter, now I recollect.

7314. Have you that other letter?—No.

7315. What has become of it?—He wrote me a letter, as well as I recollect, stating that he had missed getting this first letter of mine of the 1st, and there was a second letter making an appointment.

7316. You wrote that second letter?—Yes.

7317. Have you a copy of that second letter?—Unless it is here now, I have not; but it was merely making an appointment.

Mr. Justice Keogh remarked that it was Mr. Fitzgerald's duty to receive these letters and to reply to them.

[The Witness withdrew.

D.
Fitzgerald,
Esq.

JOHN M. WILLIAMSON, Esq., recalled; and further Examined by Mr. Butt.

J. M.
Williamson,
Esq.

30 January
1869.

7318. Do you ever remember going into No. 3 Dame-street, the office of the Registration Society, to look for any papers?—I do.

7319. Will you tell the Court upon what occasion you went there?—Upon the 1st of January last.

7320. When you went there did you search for any papers?—I did.

7321. Had either you or Mr. Sutton to your knowledge before that time asked for any papers from the registration office?—We both had.

7322. Had you got them?—We got over some two or three or four boxes (I cannot exactly state the number) from No. 3. They were brought by Mr. Hodgson, the assistant secretary of the society.

7323. Did those boxes contain all the papers that you wanted?—They did not.

7324. Did you ask for any more?—I did.

7325. In consequence of that you went to look for them yourself?—I did.

7326. When you went there, state what room you went to to search for them?—I went to the front bedroom, the room in which I understood, and had been informed, that all the papers belonging to the City of Dublin election of Sir Arthur Guinness should have been removed to. I found two children in the room, and I knocked at the door, and went in. I went on to examine, and I found the boxes in the room all broken open, and the books and papers lying strewed about in different parts of the room. In another part of the room I saw a heap of paper torn up which evidently appeared to be the remains of papers belonging to Mr. Sutton.

7327. Do you remember a book that Mr. Mortimer spoke of as having been in the box that mysteriously disappeared?—I found this book (producing the same) among the papers.

7328. Where did you find that book?—I found that lying on the floor under a mass of papers.

7329. Not in any boxes?—No.

7330. And the boxes broken open?—And the boxes broken open. There was one box evidently forced open, and the padlocks had been taken off all the others, and they had been opened.

7331. What did you do with the fragments of papers that you found upon the floor?—On my own responsibility, acting on Mr. Sutton's behalf, I bundled all the papers of every kind and description that were in the room, and removed them to 70 Middle Abbey street.

7332. Are they there now?—I believe they are.

7333. As to these fragments of torn paper; have you taken any pains to ascertain what they are?—Yes; I have looked through them generally. A number of them were the débris of the papers used at the election on Sir Arthur Guinness's side.

7334. Had Mr. Fraser access to that room?—I really do not know who had access to the room.

7335. Did you at any time discover that any of these election papers were in any other place?—I did not; I heard afterwards.

7336. You cannot say what you heard; did you make inquiries to ascertain whether they were in any other place or not?—I did not. I mentioned the fact to those that ought to have made the inquiries.

7337. You recollect the bit of paper we had some discussion about yesterday?—You may remember that yesterday his Lordship asked for some information as to that paper; Mr. Hewitt has had the custody of that paper since; I have since looked among all the papers that were sent to the printer, and if your Lordship will test that piece of paper (producing a paper), you will find that that will correspond with the other, and I think it will speak for itself. The man Hogarty, whose information was taken down after he had finished that statement, gave information as to other matters which had connection with Mr. Plunket's petition, and not the case which is now before your Lordship. It is now quite evident to my mind, that in making up the briefs in order to identify the evidence for the two petitions, we cut off that portion, and that the one part referred to Mr. Plunket's petition, and the other part to Sir Arthur Guinness's petition. You will find that it relates to the same man, Hogarty, and that Hogarty gave information as to such and such a person.

7338. Mr. Justice Keogh.] It appears to fit exactly?—It does, no doubt.

7339. Mr. Butt.] Did you get the first portion of that evidence printed in a brief?—We did.

7340. In what brief?—In the brief of the present petition.

7341. In the second case have you briefed it at all?—We have that also in Mr. Plunket's petition.

7342. In the brief in the petition of which Mr. Plunket is the petitioner and Mr. Pim the respondent?—Yes, we have, with the addition of the bit fastened on with gum.

7343. Mr. Justice Keogh.] The bit fastened on with gum does not belong to the sheet at all?—It does not.

7344. The underneath portion appears to belong to the other sheet of paper?—I may state that I received that from a printer in a parcel which I never opened till this morning.

7345. If you had been able to say that you had seen that cut off originally I should never have dreamed of asking you a question about it, because I have known you long enough to place the most implicit confidence in you?—I am much obliged to your Lordship.

[The Witness withdrew.]

FREDERICK SUTTON, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

F. Sutton,
Esq.

7346. You were the conducting agent for Sir Arthur Guinness at the election?—I was.

7347. Were you the person who engaged the other professional gentlemen—the attorneys, Mr. Williamson and Mr. White?—I was. I requested them to assist me in the conduct of the election.

7348. During that election did you give the most peremptory instructions, that not a single shilling should be spent in bribery, and not a single promise made?—I did, and I said on several occasions that if one farthing would save the election it should not be given nor promised.

7349. Mr. Goodman was also assisting you and and Mr. Williamson?—Mr. White and Mr. Williamson; Mr. Goodman was not an agent, but as a friend he did come in.

7350. And he has been now assisting in the defence of this petition?—He has.

7351. As one of the attorneys?—As one of our staff; he has been for some time assisting.

7352. During the whole period of the nomination before the election, or during the election on the polling day, did any case of an improper character of bribery, either by money or promise, came under your knowledge or not?—Not one; nor did I believe that there was any such case.

7353. Have you any knowledge of that house, 76 Capel-street?—Not in the least; not the most remote.

7354.—Nor any improper transaction going on there?—Not the most remote; in fact, if I had been asked whose house it was I would not have known until I heard it. Of course, on reference to the Directory I should have seen it, but I never heard one word about it.

7355. Did you give any authority to any human being to expend money, or to make a promise for votes, or to influence a voter?—I did not; but I gave express authority that none should be given.

7356. You have heard the election expense agents examined?—I have.

7357. Did you place any sum of money whatever in the hands of the election expense agents, or any other person's hands for the purpose of the election?—I did not; I never expended a shilling on the election, nor one farthing except my own personal car hire, which I never charged to any one.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill.

7358. Do you happen to know a gentleman of the name of Captain Grey, of Sunnyside, Westport?—I do not.

7359. Now that I mention his name, do you know who I mean?—I think I saw a person outside the door who told me his name was Grey, either yesterday or the day before; I do not recollect having seen him.

7360. Are you aware whether Captain Grey voted or not at the late election for Guinness and Plunket?—I am not.

7361. Did you send any telegrams to voters at the late election?—Not myself, nor was I aware of the nature of any of the telegrams at all.

7362. Would you just look at this telegram (handing a telegram to the Witness); perhaps that may refresh your recollection; is your name Frederick Sutton?—My name is Frederick Sutton; this purports to come from me, but I never saw it before.

7363. "Westport Station. Received the following message from F. Sutton, Dublin——"

Mr. McDonogh objected that this was not evidence, as the Witness had denied its authenticity.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that this line of examination was inadmissible unless it could be shown that the telegram was from the Witness.

Witness.] I never sent that telegram; I may mention that I did not know that there was a Captain Grey living there at all.

29.

7364. Were there any telegrams sent from your office (I am not speaking now of John Wilson Johnstone's telegrams at all) on the 16th of November?—I did not see them myself, but I may add that I understand that telegrams will be produced here in court that did go from the office.

7365. From the office in 47 and 48 Dame-street?—Yes.

7366. In reference to the business of the election?—In reference to the election; I did not see one of the telegrams, and I am very sorry that I did not.

7367. Did you authorise any one to send any telegrams?—I did not give any authority, nor was I aware that they were going.

7368. That any telgrams were going at all?—I might guess in the general way of business that some telegrams might go, but I had no idea that so many would go as did go.

7369. Do you know Dr. Barker in Dublin?—I know a Dr. Barker of Hatch-street.

7370. Did he, two or three days before the election, hand you a letter which he had received under cover to him from Captain Grey, of Sunnyside, Westport?—I have not the smallest recollection of it.

7371. Did any one hand you a letter in reference to coming up to vote for Guinness and Plunket?—I have not the smallest recollection of the letter being given me; but I may add that in the multiplicity of letters that come at election times, such a thing might happen.

7372. That is a telegram, dated the 17th November 1868 (handing a paper to the Witness); do you know anything about that telegram?—I never heard the name of "J. Wilson Johnstone" before the election at all; I disown everything of that kind.

7373. Do you know Mr. Henry Foster?—Very little.

7374. Did you know him?—I do know him, but very little, I say.

7375. Previous to the election?—Previous to the election, of course; as a public officer; I know him.

7376. Have you been concerned in the Dublin election for the Guinness family?—I was concerned in the election of 1865 for Sir Benjamin Guinness; and also I was concerned for the election in June for Sir Arthur Guinness.

7377. I believe that you are the law agent for the family?—I am the law agent.

7378. Are you aware that Mr. Henry Foster was one of the committee?—I was not, indeed.

7379. Was not a book kept?—That book was in Dame-street, but I never looked into it; I admit that his name is in the book.

7380. Do you know his appearance?—I would know him if I saw him.

7381. Did you ever speak to him?—I have spoken to him.

7382. Are you an acquaintance of his?—No.

7383. Do you know Mr. Foster?—My acquaintance with him is very slight indeed.

7384. When did you hear last of him?—Well, I cannot say.

7385. I am not speaking of what occurred in the progress of this trial; but when did you hear last of him before this trial commenced?—I really could not say that I have heard of him for a long time, but I really could not say how long, because he is no acquaintance of mine; or, at least, I mean that he is no acquaintance that 7386. Do you know James Forrest, of Capel-street?—No, I never knew him before I saw him here the other day.

7387. Did you not know that the printing went to him?—I knew that some of the printing went to Forrest's, and the amount of it I saw.

7388. Was that printing connected with the election?—It was printing connected with the election.

7389. Are you yourself an alderman of Skinner's-alley?—I am; I attended one meeting, and but one.

7390. Where did they generally meet?—I dined once, and that was in the concert-rooms in Brunswick-street.

7391. Do you know Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite?—If I saw him there I would not know him. The only time I ever dined at Skinner's-alley, or rather with the aldermen, he was there; that is all I know about him.

7392. Did you see him?—I am told that he was there, but I would not know him if I saw him.

7393. Was not he a musical gentleman?—I did not hear him or his name.

7394. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Mr. Johnstone, who has been examined here to day, was assisting at the committee-rooms in Dame-street?—He was.

7395. In a room, I think he said, upstairs?—He was on the third storey, in No. 48, and I think Mr. White, Mr. Williamson, and myself had a small back room on the fourth storey in 47 Dame-street.

7397. Then you availed yourself of his services to assist in some matters connected with the election?—He was brought in to assist.

7398. In the general management?—In the general management, because I could not do everything myself.

7399. You knew of his assisting, and so far as was necessary you gave him authority to assist?—I knew of his assisting, and of course he had authority, but not to do anything that was not strictly correct.

7400. Did you know those gentlemen who acted as clerks of his there, one of them being Mr. Mortimer?—Mr. Mortimer I knew, and I saw very constantly, because he was with me nearly every day; Fraser was in the room, and I had heard of him there, but I would barely have known him.

7401. Did you occasionally go into what we will call Mr. Johnstone's room?—Very seldom; I have been in two or three times, but every morning I would generally be in the committee-room from nine o'clock to half-past nine o'clock. I opened all the letters, and Mr. Foster handed me all the letters, and I gave him a large part of them.

7402. For Mr. Johnstone?—Well, they were entered in the book.

7403. Were you in the habit of sending those letters to Mr. Johnstone?—Yes; they went down to his room.

7404. Was he in the habit of making reports to you upon any matters if he thought necessary to do so?—He did not; he never made a report to me at all.

7405. Nor conversed with you upon the subject of the election?—I do not think he spoke to me of the election.

7406. But still he had full access to you?—He had full access to me, but still I am very sorry he did not come more frequently; everybody in the house had full access to me.

7407. Then he was aiding and assisting you at the time of the election?—There is no doubt that he was, but I must say that he had no authority.

7408. I assure you that if anybody told me that you gave him authority to do anything in the world of a doubtful character, I should be more surprised than I can express, having known you for so many years.—I feel that in the conduct of an election it is quite necessary to be perfectly pure.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. WILLIAM J. CAMPBELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Butt.

Mr. W. J. Campbell.

7409. HAVE you been long in the employment of the Conservative Registration Society?—Well, some 10 years.

7410. In what capacity were you employed by the Conservative Registration Society?—I have been employed in many ways; I have been employed as chief clerk in the Conservative Registration Society.

7411. How long have you been chief clerk?—For 10 years.

7412. Was that your last employment?—That is my last employment.

7413. You are still in that employment?—I am, certainly; I have been permanently there for the last 10 years.

7414. Of course you were in that employment under the Conservative Registration Society at the time of the last Dublin election?—Yes, I was.

7415. Were you desired by any officer of the Conservative Registration Society to do anything in relation to the election?—Quite the reverse.

7416. Did you do anything in relation to the election?—Never, emphatically never.

7417. Did you take any part at all in helping or assisting at the election?—I did, certainly.

7418. Were you preparing any books, or doing anything of that kind?—I was.

7419. Where were you doing that?—In 47 and 48, Dame-street.

7420. When did you go to 47 and 48 Dame-street to do it?—To the best of my recollection I was transferred from 3 Dame-street to 47 and 48 Dame-street, on or about the 8th or 9th of October: it was as soon as the revision was over.

7421. By whom were you so transferred?—Mr. Hodgson, the assistant secretary, came and told me to go over there.

7422. What were you to do in 47 and 48 Dame-street?—My duty in 47 and 48 Dame-street was to make out a street list of the freemen; I had upwards of 18 or 20 clerks under me.

7423. Was that the same kind of business that you have been doing in the registration office?—For years.

7424. Did you in point of fact in the registration office, as part of your duty there in former years, years, make out the same list?—I did always; in fact, I succeeded a man, Mr. Keating, who died.

7425. Did you do that for very long?—I did that for eight or nine years.

7426. Was it the same work that you did in 47 and 48 Dame-street which you had been in the habit of doing for the Conservative Registration Society?—Certainly.

7427. It was after each revision that this list was made out?—Always.

7428. And were the 20 clerks the clerks of the Conservative Registration Society?—Some of them, some of them were not; I knew nothing about how they were employed if they were there.

7429. Did you receive any appointment, as agent during the registration, from the candidates?—Certainly not, quite the reverse; I have been at a very serious loss.

7430. Did you apply for it?—I did not apply; I have been at very serious loss in consequence of being there, because I had other business to attend to.

7431. You did not receive it?—I certainly did not.

7432. Were you in any way paid for any services at the election distinct from the registration?—I was not.

7433. I suppose you receive your salary as clerk to the Conservative Registration Society as usual?—Yes, I do.

7434. You have been in court during a good deal of this trial, and have heard the evidence?—I have heard some of it, and read other portions of it.

7435. Were you in Green-street or Halston-street on the day of the election?—I was in both places.

7436. What were you doing there?—I was endeavouring to see that every man who was a voter was brought up to his proper booth to vote, because there were a number of freemen, and consequently a number of booths. It was my duty, knowing those freemen, to bring those men, or to see that the parties who were employed brought them up to the proper places to record their votes.

7437. Did any one send you to do that on that day?—No, no one sent me; I did it of my own accord.

7438. At that time did you know anything of what you have heard has been going on at 76 Capel-street?—I have heard so much that I cannot answer that question; I have heard of a great many things, and I was really astonished at them.

7439. Did you ever send any voter to 76 Capel-street?—I never heard a word about 76 Capel-street that day.

7440. On the day of the election did you send any voter to 76, Capel-street?—On my solemn oath, I did not, nor was I aware that 76 Capel-street was in existence that day, or at least that such a thing was going on; I swear that positively.

7441. On the day of the election had you any knowledge whatever that any voter was paid at 76 Capel-street?—I had not the slightest or the remotest idea of it.

7442. Or that any money was paying there?—Well, I heard that there was money paying there; I tell you the truth.

7443. Mr. Justice Keogh.] At 76 Capel-street?—No; but by Pim and Corrigan.

29.

7444. Mr. Butt.] Did you hear that any money was paying at 76 Capel-street?—I never heard a word about 76 Capel-street the whole day, upon my solemn oath.

7445. Did you know any one of the name of Molloy in Green-street that day?—I did.

7446. Do you know for whom Molloy was acting?—Well, he is Mr. Davids' (now Alderman Davids) clerk or traveller; I know that man was there all day; he was Mr. Davids' representative.

7447. Are you aware that it was sworn here that you went to a freeman and asked him what he would give you if you could get him 5*l*., and that you sent him to a person, and that you brought him back part of the money?—Certainly not; emphatically, no.

7448. On your solemn oath, did anything of that kind occur?—On my solemn oath, as I hope to approach Heaven, if it were my dying moments it never occurred; never.

7449. Did you direct, by sign or gesture, any voter to a fair-haired man?—Never.

7450. Did you do anything, directly or indirectly, by sign, or gesture, or word, to send any person to be paid for his vote?—Quite the reverse.

7451. Is Molloy here?—Yes, I saw Molloy here; I can recollect he was there the whole day; a tall man.

7452. Did you upon that day, directly or indirectly, promise money to any voter or freeman?—Never; quite the reverse, as I told you before; I can tell you this, that I told them to go to the deuce; I must tell your Lordship this, that a great many did apply to me, and I told them to go to the devil or to hell, or to some place else, because they were annoying me.

7453. But you never assented to any such application?—No, certainly not.

7454. And you never sent any person to get money?—Neither directly nor indirectly; I was not aware that there was any money going, except from Pim and Corrigan's side; I was told that, and there is no question about it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

7455. Are you an alderman of Skinner's-alley?—I have not the honour of being an alderman of Skinner's-alley.

7456. But you were ten years chief clerk?—Chief clerk and inspector.

7457. And inspector of freemen?—Certainly, I must tell the truth; I am the principal man for the freemen; I succeeded the man that was there before me in the same position.

7458. And you know every freeman in Dublin?—Well, I do not know every man, but I know a great number of them.

7459. And you know how much they will take?—Certainly not; I do not know anything about that.

7460. That is not in your department at all?—I know nothing at all about it.

7461. Were you an inspector of freemen in 1865?—I was; I do not know what you mean; I have been inspector of freemen, with an assistant, for many years.

7462. Who is the assistant?—I really cannot tell you.

7463. Who is your assistant now, your head beadle?—That is, assisting me in looking after —; you must put the question properly, if you please.

Y 2

7364. Who

Mr. W. J. Campbell.

30 January 1869.

Mr. W. J.
Campbell.

1869.

7464. Who is the man, not named, but who you said was your assistant?—I have had a great number of assistants, because why? I will tell your lordship; the Conservative Registration Society only keeps three or four permanent clerks; I am certain to tell you the truth; I have the charge of the freemen.

7465. And you may appoint an assistant one year, and dismiss him after the revision, and appoint another next year?—That is the fact.

7466. Who is your assistant?—Who is my assistant when; what do you mean?

7467. Who is your assistant now?—Mr. Cooper was my assistant.

7468. At the last election?—At the last election.

7469. What is his Christian name?—William.

7470. Was he at Green-street the day of the election?—He was not.

7471. Where was he?—On my oath, I believe he was in North City Ward, and was not at all with the Freemen.

7472. What is your salary as chief clerk?—My salary as chief clerk is about 100 l. a year.

7473. And perquisites?—Oh, perquisites! what I mean is that perquisites and salary is about that; but then I have a great many other things; poor law and municipal matters.

7474. For the poor law, how much?—About 150 l.

7475. For municipal matters, how much?—It might be less or more; suppose you stood to get in the Corporation, you might give me 20 l. for my day.

7476. In addition to your permanent salary; that is about 200 l. a year?—I did not say my permanent salary was 200 l. a year; quite the reverse.

7477. What do you mean by perquisites?—I mean, if you came to me, and asked me to get you into the town council, as Mr. David frequently did, you might give me a small sum for acting for you on the day of the revision and election, or give me 10 l. for the whole.

7478. How much did you get from the candidates on that day?—Not a penny.

7479. You would not take it?—All I can tell you is that, on the contrary, I have been money out of pocket by the present candidates from the 1st of October till the time of the election.

7480. You are like Dogberry; you have had your "losses"?—A great many losses since the end of the revision.

7481. Do you mean to say that you are the only man in this expenditure of £13,000 by Sir Arthur Guinness who has lost a pound a week?—I mean to say, upon my oath, that I have from the time I was transferred from 3 Dame Street up to the time of the election, and including the day of the election, never received one penny; but, on the contrary. I am a married man; I had to dine in town; I should remain in town to dine there and to be back at my office; I was there at seven o'clock in the morning and I had to be back at six o'clock coming from my dinner, and I say that I have been at a loss from the time of the election, regulating the election up to the time of the polling day.

7482. Do you know Kirk, a freeman?—No, I do not.

7483. Had you never heard his name before?—I did hear his name.

7484. Do you know Richard Butler, a freeman?—I do not.

7485. Do you know Bailey, a freeman?—I do well.

7486. Do you know Thomas Walker, a freeman?—I do not.

7487. Do you know Michael Steed, a freeman?—I do not.

7488. Do you know Hagarty?—I do well.

7489. Do you know Cathrens, a freeman?—I do not.

7490. Do you know Gilligan?—I do not; I never heard of him before.

7491. Did you ever call at his house?—Never in my life.

7492. Did you canvass the freemen?—I do not know what you mean by canvassing the freemen?—You will have to ask me that question in another way?

7493. Do you know the meaning of "canvassing"?—In what way?

7494. At an election?—I do; but I never did canvass at an election, and that is your mistake.

7495. Did you never ask a man for his vote?—I do not believe I ever did.

7496. Do you know Robert Wilson, a freeman?—I do not.

7497. Do you know John Wilson?—I do not.

7498. Will you swear that of those 10 men that I have named to you?—You have not named 10, with great respect to you.

7499. There is Kirk, Butler, Bailey, Walker, Steed, Hagarty, Caterens, Gilligan, and two Wilsons?—Ten.

7500. Did I not name the 10 men to you?—Yes.

7501. You were transferred to number 48 Dame Street, and you had 20 clerks under you?—I had at least, I may say, from 10 to 20.

7502. Who paid those clerks?—Mr. Hodgson; he is the assistant secretary.

7503. In what month were you transferred?—Well, I think it was about the 8th or 9th of October, immediately after the revision in the Four Courts; I was very actively engaged there, and immediately after that I was transferred from 3 Dame Street, to 47 and 48 Dame Street.

7504. Then down to the 18th of November the payment in the office was conducted by Mr. Hodgson?—Certainly.

7505. How long after the 18th of November did Mr. Hodgson continue to pay them?—I cannot tell that Mr. Hodgson was the paymaster of every person there.

7506. Were you to be paid by Mr. Hodgson?—Never; I tell you, upon my solemn oath, that I was 1 l. per week at my own expense in place of being paid; I never received one penny from Mr. Hodgson, or any other person there; quite the reverse.

7507. You said that you did not know Kirk or Butler?—Not to my knowledge.

7508. Do you know Bailey?—Yes, I have very good reason to know him; he was tormenting me for about a fortnight or so.

7509. And Hagarty?—Yes, I saw Hagarty the day of the election, but not since.

7510. And you know none of those men?—On my oath, I do not.

7511. Did you see a young man with an eyeglass upon the day of the election?—I may have seen a young man with an eyeglass; but really I cannot swear that I saw a young man with an eyeglass.

7512. Up

7512. Up to what hour did you remain at Green-street?—On the morning of the election I left my own house at seven o'clock. I drove in a car from there to 47 and 48 Dame-street. I met Mr. Goodman at 47 and 48 Dame-street, who was the honorary secretary of the Conservative Registration Society there; he was assisting a Mr. Welch, who was also in the office, in folding and directing a number of objections to parties who had been previously admitted by the court. Lodgers, that is when they came up to the court, they were objected to by the inspector. He was in the act of doing that, and I assisted in doing that, and when I ceased doing that, I went straight to Green-street.

7513. At what hour did you arrive there?—I should say about a quarter before eight o'clock.

7514. At what hour did you leave?—I should say at all events it was about five o'clock, because I did not leave till the last moment.

7515. Probably it was a little after five?—It may have been, because I certainly remained there a little at the last.

7516. Do you know Mr. Bradburn?—Certainly.

7517. Do you know Mr. George A. Young?—I do not.

7518. Do you know Mr. Henry Foster?—I do.

7519. How long have you known him?—I have known Mr. Foster for the last ten years.

7520. How have you known him?—In the first place I had known him when I worked as inspector: Shortly after my employment as inspector in the Conservative Registration Office, I called on Mr. Foster in my duty as inspector. The first time I ever saw Mr. Foster was in his own house.

7521. You have known him ever since?—I have.

7522. And he has assisted you in the business of the society?—Never.

7523. How have you known him ever since; did you speak to him?—Always; he is an affable gentleman, and always salutes me when he meets me in the streets, but nothing more.

7524. Have you never been in his house since?—I have never been in his house these last nine years, upon my oath.

7525. Do you know Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite?—I never heard of him until I heard of him here, nor would I know him this moment.

7526. Do you know Mr. Thomas Williams?—I do not.

7527. Do you know Mr. John Bradburn?—I really do not. I know a brother of Mr. Bradburn's, but I cannot tell whether his name is John or not.

7528. A young gentleman?—I really cannot tell whether he is young or old.

7529. Do you know Mr. Edward Lawler?—I do.

7530. How did you know him?—Because he lived within a few doors of me; that is some years ago. When he lived next door to Mr. Gibson, I lived next door to Mr. Gibson myself.

7531. Did you see any Midland Railway ticket?—Never.

7532. Never in your life?—I think I did on one occasion.

7533. That is when you travelled on the line?—Decidedly.

7534. And you remember that?—I do. I do not know what the ticket was, but I suppose I got a ticket, but I would not swear that I did, it was a long time since.

7535. Do you know what "giving the tip is"?—Well, I really do not know.

7536. Oh, Campbell?—On my oath I never gave a tip to any man, according to what I heard sworn here.

7537. Do you know what "giving the tip" means?—Really, it appears from what I have heard sworn here—

7538. Do you know what it means?—I do not.

7539. Do you know what "the hole in the wall" means?—I do not.

7540. Who gave the tip in 1865?—In 1865; what do you mean?

7541. You know what I mean?—I do not.

7542. Do you know Dr. Duncan?—I have heard of a gentleman called Duncan. There are two Dr. Duncans, father and son; but I really never saw either of them to my knowledge, on my oath.

7543. Do you know Watkins, the policeman?—I do; I have known him for some years.

7544. Do you know the two gardeners who were examined?—I never saw them in my life, until I saw them examined here.

7545. How long have you known Watkins?—Well, I have seen Watkins on many occasions.

7546. Have you seen him in the Conservative Registration Society?—I have.

7547. As what?—Coming in as a canvasser, and giving me his list. Mr. Watkins was the canvasser of the freemen, and Mr. Watkins, on one or two occasions, came to me and showed where such-and-such a man was, and whether he could be got here or any other place.

7548. How long has Watkins been a canvasser of the freemen?—I think never before the last election, to my knowledge.

7549. But he was at the last election?—Certainly.

7550. Was he paid?—I know nothing about that.

7551. Used he to call at 48 Dame-street?—He called in to me to show me his list that he had to canvass.

7552. How many had he?—He had the district to which he was appointed.

7553. What was it?—Finglass, and other places round about.

7554. How many were there, 200?—I believe not.

7555. One hundred and fifty?—I believe not.

7556. One hundred?—I really cannot say, upon my oath.

7557. Do you know Mr. Marquis?—I heard of the name, but really I do not know the gentleman.

7558. Did you see any of Marquis's placards on the day of the election?—I can tell you this, that I was much surprised at hearing of such a thing.

7559. You do not believe that it occurred?—I would not swear that it did not occur, but I was certainly much surprised to hear of its occurring.

7560. Did you never hear the name of Marquis before?—I have heard the name of Marquis before, but not in connection with the election.

7561. It is not a tip?—I know nothing about tips.

7562. Where is Bailey's ticket?—I cannot tell you that.

7563. Do you know what I mean?—Indeed, I do not.

Mr. W. J. Campbell.

30 January 1869.

Mr. W. J.
Campbell.

30 January
1869.

7564. You do not know?—Certainly not.
7565. You do not know anything about Bailey at all?—I do know a great deal about him.
7566. Did Bailey speak to you on the day of the election?—He did.

7567. Look here, did you do that (making motions with his hand)?—Certainly not.

7568. Did he speak to you at Green-street?—He did.

7569. Was there a young man watching you?—There might have been a good many young men watching; that man might have been watching me for all I know.

7570. Do you mean that you gave him the tip that day?—Well, I don't know; you might get a tip in another way.

7571. What did you say to Bailey that day?—Am I to enter into an explanation of what occurred between Bailey and myself; because, if your Lordship wishes, I will enter into it?

7572-3. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was it anything about the election?—Yes, it was on the day of the election.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Then answer the learned counsel's questions?—

7574. Mr. Heron.] Did Bailey speak to you on the day of the polling?—He did.

7575. At what hour?—I really cannot tell what hour.

7576. Had you seen him vote?—I had not.

7577. Did you know he had voted?—I did not.

7578. Did you know he had voted before he spoke to you?—Certainly not.

7579. Did you see Bailey the day after the election?—I cannot say; I certainly saw him after the election, but whether it was the day after or ten days, I could not swear.

7580. Was Hopkins with him?—No; I never saw Bailey with any one, except by himself.

7581. Did you not hear Hopkins examined?—I did; but Hopkins never swore that he came to me.

7582. Were you with Bailey at the committee-rooms, at 48 Dame-street?—I never saw Bailey until the day of the election.

7583. But I mean the day after the election?—Nor the day after.

7584. Do you mean to say that you did not get poor Bailey's ticket from him?—Certainly not; most positively not.

7585. You had no such conversation?—There was a good deal of conversation occurred between Bailey and myself, but certainly not about a ticket.

7586. Do you know Hopkins?—I did not know him until I saw him in court.

7587. Do you know who he is?—Now, I know who he is.

7588. Do you believe that Hopkins told the truth?—I do not know whether he did or not.

7589. About you?—I do not believe that Hopkins said a word about me; you must be misinstructed. I believe he did not; not that I heard; I read the paper, and I did not see anything at all of the kind.

7590. When did you see Mr. Foster last?—Well, I really can not tell you when I saw Foster last.

7591. Did you see him after the election?—I think I did.

7592. Where?—I think I met him in Westmoreland-street.

7593. What did you talk to him about?—I did not talk at all. Mr. Foster saluted me and I saluted him. Mr. Foster and I are not friends, at least we are not intimate.

7594. Did you see Mr. Foster in any of the committee-rooms?—Never.

7595. Have you now the lists which you had prepared of the freemen?—Well, they are in a box in my office.

7596. Were they not given over to Mr. Sutton?—I do not know whether they are or not; but there is a box, wherever it is, and I have the key of it up to the present moment.

7597. Where is the box?—The box is kept in my office.

7598. Do you know Walker?—Really, I do not know any one of the name of Walker; that is to know him personally.

7599. Did you go to Henrietta-street to look for Mr. Foster?—Never.

7600. Were you in No. 76 Capel-street, since the election?—I was.

7601. When?—It may have been probably the week after the election.

7602. What brought you there?—I happened to be the secretary of some clubs.

7603. What clubs?—Of several clubs.

7604. Will you name them?—I will address myself to his Lordship.

7605. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You must answer the question?—I will. I had got to 76 Capel-street, probably a month after the election.

7606. You said, that you were secretary of several clubs; you were asked, what clubs; state them?—The Rotunda and Mountjoy.

7607. What clubs are they?—Municipal clubs.

7608. Mr. Heron.] A month after the election, you were in Capel-street?—Probably; I really cannot say upon my oath.

7609. Did you go into the front-parlour?—That is where I always go, in all the places where I do go.

7610. Did you see a hole in the door?—Never.

7611. Was the panel in all right then?—I know nothing about the panel; I have not the remotest idea of a panel, either inside or outside.

7612. Go on now and state your business there?—My business there was, that I called on Mr. Forrest. The Rotunda Municipal Club owed me some money, and I was endeavouring to get a meeting called for the purpose of getting myself paid, and Mr. Forrest printed some circulars for the club; and, previous to the meeting being called, I called for his bill, so that I might be able to produce that bill.

7613. On the previous election of 1865, were you at Green-street from eight o'clock to five o'clock?—I was.

7614. And at every election since, you have been appointed chief clerk; have you been there from ten o'clock to five o'clock?—I do not know what you mean; there have been only the two elections.

7615. Was that the only occasion on which you were there since the election?—Certainly.

7616. Where did you first hear of the hole in the door?—I heard it here with great astonishment.

7617. Did you give your evidence to Mr. Sutton?—I did not; I gave it to Mr. Williamson.

7618. How long before the trial?—Well, I will tell you; I was actively engaged in assisting in compiling a poll-book of the voters, who voted at at the last election. After the compiling of that in manuscript —

7619. Was your department there, the free-men's department?—Certainly; but this is independent.

7620. Independent of what?—I am endeavouring to state what was previous to that: Mr. Goodman called on me, and said, I had better go to Mr. Williamson and state what I knew, and Mr. Williamson then took down my evidence in black and white.

7621. Did you know that you were charged with being the man that gave the tip?—I heard them; Mr. Goodman told me previous to going.

7622. That you were charged with "giving the tip"?—As you call it, but I really do not know what it means.

7623. You are charged with being the man that intimated that it was all right?—So it appears.

7624. How long was that before the date of the trial here?—It cannot be long; I verily believe that it is not more than a fortnight ago.

7625. Who did you hear tell of your having given him the tip; was it Hagarty?—I cannot tell that.

7626. Was it Bailey?—I cannot tell that.

7627. Do you know Thomas Gilligan?—I do not.

7628. I thought you knew almost every freeman?—I know a good number of them, but really I do not know Thomas Gilligan.

7629. How does it happen that out of 10 men named you only know two?—If you will read them over again I will answer it.

7630. Kirk?—I know there is a freeman on the list of the name of Kirk.

7631. Butler?—Butler I do not know.

7632. Bailey?—Bailey I do.

7633. Walker?—I don't know him.

7634. Michael Steed?—I don't know him.

7635. George Hagarty?—I do know him.

7636. You say you were at Green-street attending to your duty; did any one define your duty to you?—There was no definition; only my duty.

7637. Did any one tell you to do anything on that day?—Certainly not.

7638. Then you acted of your own accord?—I did.

7639. What was your duty?—There was a lot of gentlemen who had a list of the booths, and my duty was to see that they brought up the various voters into the proper booths, because there was 15 or 16 booths (if I do not mistake) in Green-street in compartments, and it was not easy for every person to know where to bring a person to; and my duty was, knowing the freemen and knowing the locality, to bring them, in fact, into their proper booths.

7640. How long have you known George Hagarty?—I never saw him until I saw him on the day of the election.

7641. Did you speak to him then?—I did.

7642. What did you say to him?—I said nothing to him, but he said something to me.

7643. Did he speak to you?—He did several times.

7644. Did he ask you for something?—He did, decidedly.

7645. For money, or the way to get it?—Well, he did not exactly say money, but he said that he had voted, and he thought that he ought to be paid, or something like that.

7646. Did you hear Hagarty examined?—I did not hear Hagarty (as you call him) examined, because I was out of court, for which I am very sorry.

7647. But he asked to get paid for his vote, did he not?—He did, decidedly.

7648. You were shocked?—Well, I really was astonished.

7649. You never heard of such a thing in Dublin before?—I did hear it; I heard it that day.

7650. Only on Pim and Corrigan's side?—Decidedly, that is quite right.

7651. You never heard of bribery in Dublin until Pim and Corrigan stood?—I have heard of a great many briberies in reading the papers.

7652. What did Hagarty say to you; did Hagarty say, "There is something good going"?—He said something similar to that, but, upon my oath, I never knew the man before.

7653. He came to you?—He did not come to me; he was introduced to me.

7654. By whom?—By a man of the name of Digges.

7655. What Digges?—Well he is the sexton of Trinity church.

7656. You have been the first gentleman to mention his name.—I am telling the truth; of course I don't care about mentioning any gentleman's name.

7657. Is he a freeman?—He is.

7658. Is he an alderman?—I do not know; I have not the honour of being an alderman.

7659. Do you not know that the freemen still keep their old guilds?—I believe they do not; quite the reverse.

7660. You heard about St. Loy here?—I heard a great deal of trash here.

7661. You do not believe in St. Loy?—I do not believe in anything of that kind, because I do not believe there is anything of the kind going.

7662. You knew of no money?—Money I say nothing about.

7663. You scorn the action?—I scorn the action certainly.

7664. Digges, I suppose, is a gentleman of the old school?—I do not know; I know him, and that is all about it; I have known him several years.

7665. Is he an inspector of freemen too?—I do not know.

7666. Did he come up and say "Allow me to introduce Mr. Campbell to Mr. Hagarty? Mr. Campbell, Mr. Hagarty, Mr. Hagarty, Mr. Campbell"?—He came up, and said, "This is Hagarty, a freeman"; and I said that he and Mr. Hagarty might go to the devil if they liked; Hagarty wanted to be paid for his day, I suppose.

7667. Digges said nothing, I suppose?—Not to my knowledge.

7668. What is his Christian name?—I really cannot tell you his Christian name, but he is Mr. Digges.

7669. "Henry Digges, Trinity Church, 637, Guinness and Plunket"?—I know he is the sexton of Trinity Church very well.

7770. Do you not know that he voted for Guinness and Plunket?—I do not; when a man is certain to vote for Guinness and Plunket there is no necessity for looking after the man.

7771. You knew Digges was certain?—Yes.

7772. Digges came to the diggins, did he not?—Hagarty came to me about 20 times that day, and every time that day he came to me I told him I did not know what he wanted me for, and that that he was to go to the devil or to some other place.

7673. Did any of the other men I have mentioned speak to you that day?—You will want to mention them again, if you please.

7674. Mr. Justice Keogh.] The names have been read three times.

7675. Mr. Heron.] Do you know Mr. John Judkin Butler?—Particularly well.

7676. Was he at Green-street that day?—I did not see him; I believe he was there because he was a freeman; but I never saw him.

7677. Do you know young Mr. Butler, that is in the Midland Railway Office?—I do.

7678. Well?—Perfectly well.

7679. Did you see him there that day?—Certainly not.

7680. Will you describe that young gentleman's appearance?—He is a grandson of Mr. Butler; I know he is a grandson of Mr. Butler, and he is a young gentleman who is married, and, if I do not mistake, has two or three children.

7681. You did not see him there?—I did not.

7682. Do you know another Midland Railway clerk of the name of Malley?—I never heard of him before.

7683. You do not know him?—I do not.

7684. And of course not hearing of him, or knowing him, you did not see him there?—Certainly not.

7685. Where did you go to from Green-street that day after five o'clock; the battle was over at five o'clock; was it not?—It was; I will tell you; I got on my car and drove from Green-street into Capel-street; there were about 2,000 people collected there; a mob.

7686. On the wrong side?—When I got into the centre of the mob they said, "That is Guinness and Plunket's agent." The horse was stopped, and I was beaten in this way that my leg was for a fortnight afterwards not able to walk; a rug off the car, worth 30s., was stolen and I had to stand up and say, "Hurrah for Pim and Corrigan," and I believe were it not for that I should have been murdered; that is upon my oath a solemn fact, and was is not that a man brought me round by Ryder's-row out of the mob I would have been murdered.

7687. You passed by 76 Capel-street?—No, you have to go to Ryder's-row before you come to 76, Capel-street.

7688. Did you go after that to the committee-rooms?—I will tell you where I went; I took this young man who afterwards told me he was a Roman Catholic.

7689. And saved your life?—I believe he did upon my oath; I took him up on the car, and I said, "My dear fellow, how can I thank you for so doing?" and I gave him half-a-crown.

7690. You went and had a drive?—Yes.

7691. Did you go to the committee-rooms?—I was at the committee-rooms, but I could not get up; I had no communication with the committee-rooms after that.

7692. Did you never go to the committee-rooms after that?—I was there the next morning; I remember from being maltreated.

7693. You are quite recovered now?—Decidedly.

7694. I am very glad to hear it; whom did you see there the next morning?—I cannot tell exactly whom I saw, but they were vacated.

7695. And you are vacated now?—What do you mean?

7696. What do you mean?—You ask me what I mean; I say that the committee-rooms on that morning were vacated, there was nobody there.

Re-examined by Mr. Butt.

7697. You were asked, and you did not answer the question, as to what Bailey said to you in Green-street on that day; just tell what passed?—I will; Bailey came up to me, I knew before that Bailey had voted had voted for Mr. Pim, and he says, "I'm after voting for Guinness and Plunket"; a thing I did not scarcely believe. He then says, "There is a Mr. Butler in the hospital with a broken leg"; and he says, said he, "If you will get me a cab I shall go for Butler who is certain to vote for Guinness and Plunket. I then called a man, of the name of Lowndes, and I put Bailey and Lowndes into a cab, and they both went for Butler; and Butler voted, as far as I understood for Guinness and Plunket. Bailey afterwards came to me and I thanked him very much, because it was a thing I did not expect. He came to me several times to my own house, and also to the office, and I told him I could not do anything for him; it was really impossible. He asked me for the loan of 5 s., because he said his child had died, and he came crying to my house in North Strand; I said, "Bailey I should very much like to, but I cannot do it, if you will come afterwards, I will do it"; and I did not do it, and this man has been hunting me for months; that is the only transaction I had with Bailey.

7698. And the only time you were in 76 Capel-street was to get cards for the Rotunda Club?—I was there getting printing done for the municipal elections.

7699. You had no conversation with Mr. Forrest about the election then?—I had no conversation with Mr. Forrest about the election.

7700. Is this the first time that you were ever charged with "giving the tip"?—I really did not hear it until I came into the court.

7701. Mr. Justice Keogh.] The only question I want to ask you is with reference to one which Mr. Butt has just put to you: you were asked whether you did not go into the front parlour in 76, Capel-street, and you said, "It is there I always go"; are you in the habit of going to 76 Capel-street?—Certainly.

7702. How long have you been in the habit of going there?—Mr. Forrest has been in the habit of doing printing for me in the municipal elections for many years, because he is a voter of the Rotunda Ward, and I gave him the printing.

7703. But you have been in the habit of going to 76, Capel-street for some years?—I have.

[The Witness withdrew.

GEORGE COOKE, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

G. Cooke.

7704. ARE you from the "Telegraph" office?—I am.

7705. Do you produce several telegrams?—I do; I hand in 25 telegrams (producing a bundle of papers).

[The Witness withdrew.

JAMES CREED MEREDITH, Esq., LL.D., recalled; and further Examined by Mr. Exham.

7706. Do you recollect after the election the witness Bailey having come to you?—I do.

7707. Did he make any application then to you for money as expense agent?—He did.

7708. What did he say?—He stated to me that he had performed some service in reference to bringing a voter (whose name I now remember he mentioned to me at the time) to the poll; some sick man.

7709. Did he say where he had brought him from?—I think he said a hospital; but he said he brought a sick man to poll.

7710. Did he ask for money for that?—He did.

7711. Did you give it to him?—Certainly not; I told him I had no authority to do so.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

7712. Is the amount of Forrest's account 125*l*.? —I think it says 125 l 5 s.

7713. Is that paid?—No.

7714. How much is paid?—The 100*l*. which you saw in the other receipt; we simply got written at the foot of most of the bills that we paid, "Paid, with stamped receipt;" and the stamped receipt shows the amount actually paid. This bill was reduced by deductions to the amount of 100 l.

RICHARD TUCKER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Exham.

7715. ARE you a voter for the city of Dublin? —I am.

7716. Did you hear a man of the name of McDonnell state that you were under the Post Office the night before the election?—I saw it in the newspaper, and heard it also.

7717. Was it a fact that you were under the Post Office the night before the election?—It is not.

7718. At any time that evening?—Never; I never met him at all.

R. Tucker,

Cross-examined by Mr. Litton.

7719. Is there any other Richard Tucker in Dublin that you know?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES TUCKER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Exham.

7720. ARE you a voter?—Yes.

7721. Is it a fact that you were with McDonnell under the Post Office the night before the election?—No.

7722. Nor at any time that evening?—I was not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemphill

7723. Were you in the Sackville-street rooms that evening?—I was not.

Re-examined by Mr. Exham.

J. Tucker

7724. Do you know McDonnell at all?—I do.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Sir ARTHUR EDWARD GUINNESS, Bart., a Member of the House of Commons, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

7725. YOU are the sitting Member for the city of Dublin?—I am.

7726. Was Mr. Sutton your confidential and conducting agent?—He was.

7727. Did you give instructions to that gentleman that he should transmit instructions to all the subordinates that there should be no manner of bribery at this election?—Decidedly.

7728. By word or by promise, or by money? —In any way.

7729. So far as your knowledge extended, were those instructions carried out on the day of the election?—So far as I am aware or believe, they were fully so.

7730. Were you aware of any such transactions as those at 76, Capel-street?—I was not.

7731. I believe you have been in court, listening to all the evidence?—I have.

7732. Were you aware that any single one of the alleged acts of bribery occurred at that election?—I was not.

7733. And you neither sanctioned nor authorised them?—On the contrary, I forbade them in every way that was in my power.

7734. You have heard the two expense agents state the amount of money entrusted to them?—I have.

7735. Were those the only sums of money for either of the candidates which were applied by you for the election?—That was all.

7736. Were the monies which you gave to Mr. Goodman during the course of the year for registration purposes?—Solely.

7737. And not to be used at the election?—Certainly not.

7738. Did you know, besides those monies, of any money being advanced for the purposes of the election?—I know of none being advanced.

7739. By any person whatsoever?—By any person whatsoever.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

7740. Who has the power of drawing cheques?

—There is no one that has the power of drawing cheques for money except myself, and my brother now; he had not then.

7741. He had not then come of age?—My brother has since come of age.

7742. And he has now the power to sign cheques?—He has now the power to sign cheques.

7743. Do you know Mr. Henry Foster?—I believe I have seen the gentleman, but I would not know him again.

7744. Where do you believe that you have seen him?—I think on one occasion I met him when canvassing, or in company with some one or other, but I merely knew his name; I had no idea who it was.

7745. You knew his name as having been mentioned as one of the gentlemen canvassing with you, and assisting you?—Certainly not; I believe I met him on one occasion, and was introduced to him, but I will not positively swear even that.

7746. Do you remember who introduced you to him?—I have not the slightest idea.

7747. Nor where it was?—Nor where it was.

7748. Might it have been on the occasion of your being at the Inns Quay Ward committee-room?—It might have been.

7749. Did you yourself look over those lists of the working committees?—I did not.

7750. Did you ever see this book (handing a book to the Witness)?—I do not know what the book is; I never saw this book before.

7751. Do you know the president?—Very well.

7752. Who is the president?—John Norwood, Esq.

7753. Who is the vice-president?—The Rev. Benjamin Gibson.

7754. Do you know him?—I do.

7755. Do you know the next two?—The assistant secretary is Samuel Falconer, G. A. Young, and T. Williams.

7756. Do you know those gentlemen?—I do not know Mr. Falconer; there is a Queen's Counsel of that name.

7757. That is Mr. Frederick Falconer?—I may have met the other gentleman, but I do not attach their names to their appearance in any way.

7758. Then comes the honorary secretary, Samuel Tudor Bradburn?—I know that gentleman.

7759. He is your private secretary?—He is; the occasion on which I may have met Mr. Foster at the Inns Quay committee was at the time of the revision; it was not at the time of the election if I did meet him.

7760. Do you know Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite?—I do.

7761. How long have you known him?—Well, it might be two years that I have known him; I have met him on two or three occasions.

7762. Have you met him in society in the position of a gentleman?—I met him at a club.

7763. At what club?—At the Amicable Club.

7764. Are you an alderman of Skinner's-alley?—I am not an alderman, but am a member of the Amicable Club.

7765. When did you last see Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite; was it at the last meeting of the Amicable Club?—The last meeting that I attended; I may have seen him in the street since, but not to speak to him.

7766. You saw him at the meeting in December?—It was shortly previous to the election, not very long before; it may not have been the last meeting previous to the election, but it was one previous to the election.

7767. And you have not seen him since?—Never; unless I may have met him in the street, but not to speak to; I have not in any way recognised him since.

7768. Were you also during your own canvass taking an interest in the county election?—Yes; I do take an interest in the county.

7769. Were you over in No. 24, Dame-street?—I went there to ask whether my vote was duly registered.

7770. Were you aware of the arrangement of the car hire being paid for you by the county gentlemen?—I was not.

7771. Did you think you paid your own car hire?—No; I did not think I paid my own car hire; I believed that it was defrayed by the subscriptions of the public, or of the parties on the Conservative side.

7772. On the occasion that you went over to Mr. Parkinson's, did you see the painting on the wall, "To Mr. Wilson Johnstone"?—It was; I may tell you, on the morning of the county election that I went to No. 24, Dame-street, for the purpose of knowing whether my vote was all right, and whether I might go to Kilmainham to vote; that is the only occasion on which I was at 24, Dame-street; I beg your pardon, I was there some fortnight or three weeks, or perhaps a month, previous to the county election, at least as soon as the contest was expected.

7773. How much did your uncontested election cost you?—I cannot answer that off book, but I can easily let you know.

7774. How many thousands?—I doubt if it cost 1,000*l.* at all; I cannot answer the question, I will answer it from book, if it is required.

7775. You do not remember?—I do not.

7776. Was Mr. Sutton your conducting agent then?—He was.

7777. I will not ask you whether you know the man Campbell, but did you ever see the man Campbell?—Oh, frequently, 7778. In the committee-rooms?—Yes; I may mention that I was the secretary for some time of the Conservative Registration Society, and in that way I have seen him frequently practising as a clerk.

7779. Did you ever speak to him about the the business of the Association?—I have.

7780. You knew that he was the inspector of freemen?—I knew he was one of the inspectors; I believe there was more than one inspector.

7781. During the last contest that you conducted and won, did you see Campbell at 48, Dame-street?—I did.

7782. Did you know that he had a room?—I was not aware of that.

7783. But you have heard him say that he had 18 to 20 men under him, and of course you have no reason to doubt that is true?—I have no reason to doubt that is true.

7784. In conducting the election, did you ever go into that room?—What room was it he said it was in?

Campbell.] The front drawing-room.

Witness.] It is very possible I might have done.

7785. You knew that he was then acting as the agent for the freemen?—I knew that he was acting for the Conservative Registration Society in preparing lists which were always used for the election.

7786. Used

7786. Used for you?—Used for all elections.

7787. And that he then was in 48, Dame-street, working for the election as hard as he could?—He was working for the revision; compiling the list of the revision.

7788. For the purposes of the election?—The revision is altogether for the election purposes.

7789. But for the election?—He was working for the Conservative Registration Society, and the object of that work would be that it should be used for the election.

7790. Then your money was paid both for the revision and the election?—Well, I cannot say that it was altogether mine.

7791. Do you know 76, Capel-street?—I never saw the house.

7792. Did you know that printing was being done there for you?—I did not.

7793. Did you ever see that bill before which Dr. Beatty kept?—No; there were two agents, and I had enough to do without that.

7794. Was there 2,000 l. worth of poetry, songs, and ballads?—I was not aware of that.

7795. Was the last time you saw Mr. Crosthwaite, at the meeting of the Amicable Club that you referred to?—I would not say that it was.

Mr. McDonogh objected that this had been already referred to three times.

7796. Mr. Heron (to the Witness).] Was the last time that you saw him at the Amicable, or did you see him since the election?—I did not see him since the election, and to my knowledge I believe the Amicable dinner party was the last time I saw him.

7797. Had you ever received a letter from Mr. Crosthwaite?—I have.

7798. When was the last letter?—The last letter was asking me to dine on that day (and I did dine there), mentioning that he was in some way connected as an officer with the club, and notifying to me that the dinner-party was to be on such an evening.

7799. Did you ever receive a letter from Mr. Henry Foster?—Never.

7800. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Where does this Amicable Club meet?—I believe it generally meets at the Gresham.

7801. Do you happen to know what is the number of members; is it large, or is it small?—It is over 60 certainly. Colonel Taylor and Mr. Hamilton are both members.

Mr. Sutton stated that he believed the cost of Sir Arthur Guinness's uncontested election was under 300 l.

Witness.] It cost me the same amount that Mr. Sutton returned; I paid it by cheque.

7802. Mr. Heron.] You said it was under 1,000 l.?—It was 300 l.; any information that I can give you upon the subject I shall be happy to give.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. McDonogh stated that that was the case for the Respondent, but that with the permission of the Court, he would reserve the right to call further evidence, if it should be necessary.

Mr. Justice Keogh assented to this, and said that he should be perfectly prepared on Monday morning to hear from Counsel on either side anything that they might think proper to offer, as regarded Mr. Henry Foster.

7803. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you produce the book for which I asked you on Saturday?—I do (handing in a book).

7804. I see an entry here, “A. T. B., do.”, amongst the inspectors; what is the meaning of those initials?—I entered those from the receipts. I could not read the handwriting of the gentleman who signed it.

Mr. McDonogh stated that the expenses of Sir Arthur Guinness’s uncontested election had amounted apparently to 300 l., but that the real expense had been 233 l. 1 s. 1 d., and that Mr. Sutton had handed to Sir Arthur Guinness the balance of 66 l. 18 s. 11 d.

Mr. Heron applied for Mr. Meredith’s banking book.

Mr. Justice Keogh having ascertained that the banking book contained no private matters, ordered that it should be produced.

7805. Mr. McDonogh (to the Witness).] The entire amount of Forrest’s account was 125 l., was it not?—Yes.

7806. And you stated that you taxed it down to 100 l.?—I taxed it down to 100 l.

7807. The first item is “To account rendered”?—£. 40. 15 s.

7808. He asked for that, and there it is?—Yes.

7809. Then there are two items of sums of 15 s.?—Yes.

7810. Did you find that in a subsequent account he included those two sums of 15 s.?—In a subsequent account those two sums of 15 s. were entered as if they had not been included in the 40 l. 15 s.

7811. That made you look sharp and tax his bill?—Every printer’s bill was taxed.

[The Witness withdrew.

7812. MAY I ask you what position you fill with respect to the Amicable Club?—I am merely a member; formerly I was president.

7813. Is that (handing a paper to the Witness) a list of the members of the Amicable Club?—Yes.

7814. Are you able to state whether this gentleman called Foster was a member of that club?—He is not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron.

7815. Are you also an alderman?—Of what?

7816. Of Skinner’s-alley?—No.

7817. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Mr. Davenport Crosthwaite is a member of this club, I see?—Yes.

7818. I see that there are in all 71 members of this club?—Yes.

7819. Then Mr. Foster is not a member, nor was he in that year?—No.

7820. He has never been a member?—He has never been a member.

7821. What is the nature of the Amicable Club; is it merely a social club?—It is loyalty and good feeling principally.

7822. But it has no special object connected with elections?—Certainly not; it is generally of one political feeling.

7823. But beyond that, it is not a club instituted for registration, or anything of that kind?—Certainly not.

7824. It says, “Business to be transacted”; what does that mean?—The election of members, and so forth.

[The Witness withdrew.

JAMES CREED MEREDITH, Esq., LL.D., recalled; and further Examined.

J. C.
Meredith,
Esq., LL.D.

7825. Mr. Heron.] I DO not see any 4,500 l. entered in this book?—I do not believe that that book was written up by the bank since the last lodgment. There are several cheques drawn by me since it was last written up by them. Out of this book, by cheque, I paid I believe to the 18th or 19th of January.

7826. Mr. Justice Keogh.] But as to the lodgments?—The last lodgment is not written up, 7827. I thought you said that the 31st of December was the last lodgment?—On the 31st of December the book was written up, and about two or three days after I believe I lodged the last cheque that Sir Arthur Guinness gave me. I only got the money from Sir Arthur Guinness from time to time as the bills came in. I would have had it written up, but I only got the subpoena to produce it the night before the trial.

7828. Mr.

7828. Mr. Justice Keogh.] I understand that in the aggregate, Sir Arthur Guinness had made deposits by different cheques in favour of Mr. Meredith and Dr. Beatty for 6,000 l. each, and that of that there was expended up to the time when Mr. Meredith gave his evidence, 10,174 l., and that the balance of the 6,000 l. was paid back to Sir Arthur Guinness?—It was; I handed a cheque to Mr. Bradburne for the balance, and Dr. Beatty did the same.

7829. Then the difference between 12,000 l. and 10,174 l. was paid back to Sir Arthur Guinness?—It was.

7831. Mr. Heron.] How do you ascertain the balance, without striking it in the book?—Because I always know what I have to my credit at the bank; I do not depend upon the bank account to know what credit I have; my lodgements were always a day or two after I got the cheques, and sometimes the same day. On the 18th September, there was 300 l.; on the 23rd October, 700 l.; 16th November, 250 l.; 23rd November, 1,750 l.; and the 7th December, 1,500 l.; and as I mentioned before, the remaining 1,500 l. was about the 2nd or 3rd of January.

7832. Mr. Justice Keogh.] In fact there was 1,250 l. before the election, and the rest since?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN GUINNESS BEATTY, Esq., re-called; and further Examined.

7833. Mr. Justice Keogh.] WHEN were the dates upon which you received the cheques?

—Almost upon the same dates as Mr. Meredith. J. G. Beatty, Esq.

[The Witness withdrew.

SAMUEL TUDOR BRADBURNE, Esq., re-called; and further Examined by Mr. Heron.

7834. WERE you ever in 76, Capel-street?—Never.

7835. Do you know who the person is who called himself “Marquis” on that day?—I do not.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Justice Keogh inquired whether the Counsel for the Petitioners proposed to withdraw any of the cases of bribery.

Mr. Heron replied, that he did not intend to withdraw any case.

Mr. Butt was heard to address the Court on behalf of the Respondent.

Meredith,
Esq., LL.D.

7836. Mr. Justice Keogh.] I SEE in your book the names of canvassers with a large "B" after them; what does that "B" mean?—Those were some that were on a list of the different wards that were sent to me after the election was over; different lists.

7837. But why is "B" put after those names? —I merely added that distinctive mark; to some of the others there is a date put; that means "canvassed up to such a date," or something of that kind. The "B" meant that it was one of a class appointed to get a certain fixed sum.

7838. The "B" indicated the amount of payment?—It referred to a list that I had that was sent to me.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Hemphill was heard in reply.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] The evidence in this case is of immense extent, ranging, I think, over nearly 2,000 pages of the shorthand-writer's notes; and I feel it to be my duty, before I come to any conclusion on the case, carefully to read and examine every passage in that evidence, not trusting to mere memory. Though I am anxious to determine the case as soon as may be, still I do not think I could give it the consideration it requires, form a conclusion, and give judgment upon the matter sooner than Friday morning next. If, in considering the case, anything that requires further consideration should present itself to my mind, I will not hesitate to postpone my decision, but I hope to give judgment at that time.

Mr. McDonogh stated, that notice of intention to withdraw this Petition had been lodged in the Court of Common Pleas, and that application for leave to withdraw would be duly made to the full Court, with the assent of the Counsel on both sides.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated, that as the Court of Common Pleas was not now sitting in banco he would himself hear the application on Saturday the 13th instant.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE - - - - - p. 1

R E P O R T.

THE PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

To the Right Honourable the Speaker of the House of Commons.

I, Sir Samuel Martin, Knight, one of the Barons of the Court of Exchequer, and one of the judges for the time being for the trial of Election Petitions in England, do hereby, in pursuance of the said Act, certify—

1. That upon the 14th day of January instant, and several days following, I duly held a court at Norwich for the trial of, and did try, the Election Petition for the City of Norwich, between Jacob Henry Tillett, petitioner, and Sir Henry Josias Stracey, respondent.

2. And in further pursuance of the said Act, I certify that at the conclusion of the said trial I determined that the said Sir Henry Josias Stracey, being the member whose return and election were complained of in the said petition, was not duly elected, and that his election was void, and I do hereby certify in writing such my determination to you.

3. And whereas charges were made in the said petition of corrupt practices having been committed at the said election; in further pursuance of the said Act, I report as follows :

4. That no corrupt practice was proved to have been committed by or with the knowledge or consent of any of the candidates at the said election; and further, that it was proved to my satisfaction that neither the said Sir Henry Josias Stracey, or the other candidates at the said election, had any personal knowledge or connection whatever with bribery or any other illegal or corrupt practice.

5. And I further report, that the names of persons who were proved at the trial to have been guilty of corrupt practices are Robert Hardiment, Arthur Hunt, Robert Callow, and Thomas Hutchins.

6. And I further report, that corrupt practices did prevail at the said election, and that there is reason to believe that corrupt practices did extensively prevail at the same, and that they were of the nature stated in my special report, which follows.

7. And I do further, in pursuance of the said Act, make this special report as to matters which arose in the course of the said trial, an account of which ought, in my judgment, to be submitted to the House of Commons.

At the middle of the day of polling, Sir William Russell and Mr. Tillett, the Liberal candidates, had a considerable majority, and there is no reason to believe that up to this time any corrupt vote had been given on either side, but from thence until the close of the poll I believe that bribery was extensively committed, in order to procure the election of Sir Henry Josias Stracey. So far as the evidence went, the voters who were bribed were of one class, viz., workmen, or labourers for daily wages. These people did not go to work that day, but collected in considerable numbers in and about public-houses and beer-shops, and there waited to be bribed. Some of them either of themselves thought, or it was suggested to them by others, that it was reasonable and just they should be paid their day's wages by the candidate for whom they voted. It may be that in some instances this feeling was honestly entertained, but in the great majority of instances it was a mere pretext in order to obtain bribes. A number of these voters went to the poll in a gross state of drunkenness, some of them so drunk as not to know for whom they came to vote; and I have no doubt that a very considerable number of bribed voters gave their votes between two and four o'clock of the day of polling. I expected that there would have been a scrutiny, but it was abandoned on behalf of Mr. Tillett, and I am therefore unable to state the number of the bribed voters. I am also unable to state who the bribers were, with the exception of the man Hardiment, who absconded after the petition was presented, and the man Arthur Hunt, who was examined at the trial. Another man, called Warledge, also absconded after the petition was presented, and he probably was extensively employed in bribery. The sum paid to each bribed voter was small. One pound to each was the sum proved to have been paid by Hardiment, and seven shillings and sixpence each to the voters bribed by Hunt. I am also unable to state what amount of money was spent in bribery, and I failed to obtain any information as to the source from whence the money came, or the persons by whom it was supplied to the bribers, but I believe that there was a corrupt agency at Norwich by which the money was supplied. Both Sir H. J. Stracey and a gentleman (Mr. Patterson), who was an active supporter of his, and also Mr. Chittock, the election agent for Sir Henry, all stated upon their examinations that they did not know, and had no suspicion, from what source or quarter the money used in bribery came. I regret that I am unable to give further information upon this matter, but the trial before me was confined to evidence as to bribery (one instance being sufficient) on behalf of Sir H. J. Stracey, or an agent for whom he was responsible, or by Mr. Tillett, or an agent for whom he was responsible. The case of general bribery therefore arose only incidentally. If it be deemed right to have this matter further investigated, it can only be done under the provisions of the 15 & 16 Vict. c. 57.

The claim to the seat by Mr. Tillett was abandoned for reasons satisfactory to me, and I believe the election was on his part perfectly pure.

A copy of the evidence taken by the deputy of the shorthand writer of the House of Commons accompanies this, my certificate.

22 January 1869.

SUPPLEMENTARY REPORT.

THE PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

NORWICH ELECTION PETITION.

To the Right Honourable the Speaker of the House of Commons.

I, Sir Samuel Martin, Knight, the judge who tried the said election petition, and made my report to you of my determination thereon, dated 22nd January 1869, further report, that I determined that Sir Henry Josias Stracey, Bart., was not duly elected, and that his election was void, because he, by his agent, was guilty of bribery at the said election.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN before the Honourable Mr. Baron Martin, on the TRIAL of the ELECTION PETITION for the BOROUGH of NORWICH, at the Shire Hall, Norwich.

Friday, 15th January 1869.

TILLET	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	Petitioner.
STRACEY	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	Respondent.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine, Mr. Keane, Q.C., and Mr. Simms Reeve appeared as Counsel for the Petitioner. Messrs. Ashurst and Morris, and Mr. Abel Tillet appeared as Agents.

Mr. Rodwell, Q.C., Mr. Serjeant Sleigh, Mr. E. L. O'Malley, and Mr. Cooper Wyld appeared as Counsel for the Respondent. Mr. Thomas Knox Holmes, Mr. James S. Skipper, and Mr. A. J. Collins appeared as Agents.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine was heard to open the allegations of the Petition.

Mr. GEORGE ALDEN STEVENS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

1. You were engaged in this election in ascertaining the state of the poll from time to time?—I was.
2. In each of the wards?—I was about from ward to ward. I was agent to Mr. Tillet.
3. There were eight wards?—Yes.
4. And the state of the poll was made up half-hourly?—Half-hourly.
5. Have you looked through the poll and compared it with the poll register?—Yes; I have in each ward.
6. Will you tell me what was Tillet's majority at 11 o'clock, if he had a majority then?—He had.
7. What was his majority at that time?—According to our return his majority was 470.
8. What was it at two o'clock?—At 2.30 it was 300 and three or four.
9. And at half-past three what was it?—100 and one or two more; I am speaking of general figures, without the units.
10. Can you say how many had polled for Sir Henry Stracey during the half-hour before three o'clock?—Between half-past three and four I can tell you; 540 votes were polled for Sir Henry Stracey.
11. Was there any portion of that day during which the half-hourly polling for Sir Henry Stracey declined?—It was declining until about one o'clock; about one.
12. From what time?—From about eleven.

13. And then from half-past one?—It gradually increased.
14. Until the last half-hour?—Yes; 540 votes were polled.
15. Was the declining in particular wards or generally?—More especially the increase was most noticeable.
16. I am coming to that presently; but tell me about the increase you spoke of?—The increase was more especially in the Third, Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Wards.
17. In the Third Ward, can you tell me the number that polled for Sir Henry Stracey between three and half-past three?—Forty in the Third Ward.
18. And between half-past three and four?—One hundred and twenty-one.
19. Take the Sixth Ward; how many polled for Sir Henry Stracey between three and half-past three?—Forty-three.
20. And between half-past three and four?—One hundred and three.
21. In which of the half-hours of the day before three o'clock had the polling in that ward been the most numerous for Sir Henry Stracey?—At half-past ten in the morning.
22. How many had polled?—There had been eighty.
23. Mr. Baron Martin.] What?—Votes polled for Sir Henry Stracey.
24. In the Sixth Ward?—Yes.

Mr.
G.A. Stevens,
15 January
1869.

25. Mr.

8.

Mr.
G.A. Stevens.
15 January
1869.

25. Mr. Keane.] Now take the Seventh Ward between three and half-past three; in the Seventh Ward, how many polled for Sir Henry Stracey?—Sixty-six.

26. And between half-past three and four?—One hundred and twenty-three.

27. In which of the half-hours of the early part of the day, before three, had there been the highest polling for Sir Henry Stracey?—At 10.30; eighty-four votes.

28. Now take the Eighth Ward; in the Eighth Ward, how many votes were given for Sir Henry Stracey between three and half-past three?—Twenty-one.

29. And between half-past three and four, how many?—Seventy-three.

30. In which of the earlier half-hours of the day had he the highest number?—At nine o'clock; the number then polled for him was thirty-four.

31. Had you anything to do with the canvassing for the election?—I assisted in keeping the canvass books.

32. Can you tell me what was the feeling in those wards before the election?—As far as the whole of the city generally is concerned there was, according to our canvass books, a considerable majority in favour of Mr. Tillett and Sir William Russell.

33. Did you compute the number?—It was something like 4,600 which they had marked, I think, for Tillett and Sir William Russell. I do not think that we could make more than 3,000 and some odd numbers for Sir Henry Stracey, according to our canvass books.

Mr. Rodwell.] I must ask for the canvass books.

Mr. Baron Martin.] You will cross-examine upon them.

Mr. Rodwell.] Yes.

Witness.] The numbers were about 4,500 or 4,600.

34. Mr. Keane.] For Mr. Tillett; there were about 4,500 or 4,600 for Sir William Russell and Mr. Tillett, and for Mr. Tracey something over 3,000. (To the Witness.) There were less than 4,000?—Yes.

35. According to your knowledge and acquaintance with Norwich, were those wards Conservative or Liberal—the Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Wards?—The Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth have always been considered Liberal wards. I should qualify that by saying, as far as the Sixth Ward is concerned, that, prior to the last election, it was considered a Conservative ward, but at the election previous to this one there was a majority, I think, in favour of the Liberals in that ward; at the last election I think there was a slight Liberal majority.

36. In the Seventh and Eighth Wards, how was it?—They have always been considered Liberal Wards.

37. What was the Third Ward?—At the election before this there was a considerable majority Liberal in the Third Ward; it always has been considered, for some time past, a Liberal ward.

38. What was the result of the polling in the Third Ward, comparing the Liberals with the Conservatives?—According to the sheriff's return, 1,200 in 1868 for Russell, 1,249 for Tillett, and 1,163 for Stracey.

39. Now, the Sixth?—855 for Russell, 883 for Tillett, and 665 for Stracey. I should say, respecting that Sixth Ward, that in the last few years a large manufactory has been established there, and they employ something like 400 or 500 or 600 or 700 persons who were voters, and the Messrs. Colmans are supporters of Mr. Tillett and Sir William Russell, and a large majority of their men would be with them; and that has made that ward much more Liberal in the last few years than it was before.

40. Now, the Seventh?—The Seventh Ward, 886 for Sir William Russell, 864 for Mr. Tillett, and 879 for Sir Henry Stracey.

41. Now, the Eighth Ward?—488 for Sir William Russell, 467 for Mr. Tillett, and 369 for Sir Henry Stracey.

42. You were going about from ward to ward in the day?—Yes.

43. I presume you passed several public-houses?—I did.

44. Did you notice how things were going on at the public-houses?—I saw many houses that I knew to be Conservative pretty full, and a great excitement going on about the doorways.

45. Were the people there drinking?—I cannot say whether they were drinking; I did not go into any of them.

46. Could you tell from their appearance whether they exceeded?—They appeared to be doing a very good business.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

47. Did your curiosity lead you to look into the state of the persons at the Liberal public-houses?—Yes; I was backwards and forwards there several times.

48. Was there a good business going on there?—Yes.

49. It was not merely Conservative?—Certainly not.

50. Much the same thing was going on on both sides?—There was more excitement in the Conservative houses than in the Liberal, both outside and inside.

51. You did not go in?—As far as I could see.

52. There was much more going on, a little more excitement, in the Conservative houses?—There was no great difference between the two.

53. Did you go into a public-house which was kept by a person of the name of Mackley in Barrack-street?—Yes.

54. Was there a good deal of excitement there?—No, there was not; very little.

55. What did you go in there for?—(No answer.)

56. Was it the "Marquis of Granby"?—Yes.

57. What time did you go in there?—I think it was about two or three in the afternoon.

58. Close upon three, was it not?—I was down there close upon three; I had been there prior in the course of the day, earlier.

59. How many times had you been there during that day?—I think I was there twice that day.

60. For what purpose did you go?—On the first occasion, a report came from the Eighth Ward, I think it was to the then committee-room, that certain suspicious votes had been polled in the Seventh Ward, and they were fearful that some bribery was going on in the Seventh Ward.

61. I was

61. I was asking you about the Seventh Ward?—The “Marquis of Granby” is in the Seventh Ward; I went down to the committee-room in the Seventh Ward first.

62. Where was the committee-room?—In Magdalen-street; the Liberal committee-room.

63. When you got there, what did you do?—I inquired about it, and they said I should hear something of what was going on if I went down and saw a man of the name of Mackley who lived at the “Marquis of Granby.”

64. That was the first time?—Yes; I went down to the “Marquis of Granby,” and inquired for Mackley: I was told that he was up in the city. I afterwards went down again and saw Mackley, and he told me that he had a considerable number of men either in his house or about his premises who would come and vote for the Liberal candidates; they only wanted to be paid some money; and I told him it was not our intention to do anything of the kind. I left him and went down again, and I inquired what had become of all those men.

65. Of whom did you inquire?—Of Mackley; and he said they were dispersed.

66. At the time that you were at the “Marquis of Granby,” did you see any of your friends there?—Yes; either the first or the second time, I forget which; I saw two or three gentlemen standing by the “Marquis of Granby” outside.

67. Who were they?—I saw Mr. Daynes who went down with me.

68. Who was he, and what had he been doing?—He was assistant to Mr. Coaks, who was Sir William Russell’s legal agent.

69. Had he been acting for Mr. Tillett in the election with Sir William Russell?—Yes; there was a joint action between Mr. Tillett and Sir William Russell, to a certain extent.

70. I suppose that Mr. Daynes went with you down to the “Marquis of Granby” to look after the voters?—Certainly not; we went to see if there was any truth in the reports that we had heard, that bribery was being committed by the Conservative party.

71. Was Mr. Womersley there?—Yes.

72. Did he go with you?—He did not; I saw him when I reached there.

73. Did he take an active part in this election?—I should say he did for Mr. Tillett.

74. He is connected with Mr. Colman, is he not?—He is.

75. As manager?—In some department.

76. Where was Mr. Womersley when you went down to the “Marquis of Granby”?—He was standing there with two other gentlemen, also supporters of Mr. Tillett; Mr. John Kitten and Mr. Joseph Smith.

77. Were they in the house?—No; they were outside.

78. Did you see them go in?—No.

79. Did you see them in the house at all?—I did not; they were standing just past the doorway of the house when we drove up; I got out of my cab and went up to them.

80. Did you go into the “Marquis of Granby” then?—After talking with them they dispersed, and I went into the “Marquis of Granby.”

81. Into a back room?—No; merely into the bar, I think, with the door open, and stood by the counter; I had a bottle of lemonade, I think.

82. Did you see any voters there?—There were two or three, but I did not inquire.

83. Did you see Mr. Fisher Campling there?—I do not know him.

84. Do you not know Mr. Fisher Henry Campling?—I know the Camplings, several of them, but I do not know the one you allude to; I saw no one whose name I knew to be Campling.

85. Did Mr. Daynes stop there after you got there, or did he come away before you?—He went with me and returned with me. I think on the second occasion Mr. Daynes was with me, and when we had an interview with Mackley, he asked us to come into his yard, and he took us into it to a skittle-ground; and then he said that he had a number of voters about his place that he could get if we wanted them. I said, in the first place, that I strongly objected to anything of the kind, and, in the second place, that my instructions were positive to do nothing of the kind.

86. Did Mr. Daynes return with you then?—Yes; we went in together and came out together, and got into the cab together, and drove to the committee-room together.

87. Did you leave Womersley there?—I think not; I think he was standing there when I went in, and he had left when I came out.

88. You have given us these returns, and you have stated that these were the numbers you had given, which appear by your returns; have you compared these returns with the poll clerk’s checks?—I have done this; I had an analysis of our poll books prepared, and I checked that with the poll books themselves, with the ward poll registers.

89. You have given us the numbers?—The numbers I have given; the votes in the wards are from a memorandum that I made when I cast up the sheriff’s poll book; I attended with him, and cast up the official poll books, and I then took notes of the numbers in the different wards.

90. You say that there were about 4,600 promises for the Liberals, and 3,000 and something for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

91. The whole number of voters, I believe, is 13,000?—It so appears on the register, but that has to be reduced by the double entries; I should say the number was about 11,000.

92. Is it not notorious that, upon the canvass, there were many voters who said they would not promise at all?—Yes; I think in every canvass at Norwich that it would be so.

93. Was not the difficulty found in ascertaining the views and opinions of the voters increased by the number of new voters on the register?—Clearly so.

94. The number of 4,600 and 3,000 is quite a loose estimate, is it not?—Yes; our canvass on both sides must be loose.

95. Is it not the fact that at 11 o’clock, and during the day, the Liberal party put out a false number?—They put out an incorrect number, not a false number, and it arose in this way: that the gentlemen who kept the central poll received returns every half-hour from the ward committee-rooms, where the ward polls were kept, and they totted up the numbers from the different wards into one book, which, of course, contained then the whole numbers; those returns were to have come half-hourly, to have given the half-hour’s poll, but by a mistake of some of the poll-keepers they sent the gross poll, and the number of voters that had polled at the half-hour instead of giving the number of votes that had polled within that time; consequently the numbers got wrong, and a statement of a larger number was put out than had actually voted, but that was corrected immediately the mistake was discovered.

96. It was placarded, was it not, that there was a majority at 12 o'clock of something like 600 for Tillett?—Something like that, but ultimately the mistake was corrected.

97. It was sent round the city on a carriage, was it not?—I did not see it, but I know it was posted up.

98. When you gave us the number of votes which had been polled for Sir Henry Stracey at a later period of the day, did you know that there had been 70 plumpers polled for Tillett within the last half-hour?—I have heard so; I think it was between 60 and 70.

99. In the last half-hour there were 60 or 70?—I have been told so.

100. Have you any reason to doubt it?—No, but I have no immediate knowledge of it.

101. Had he polled anything like that in any half-hour before in the day?—That I cannot tell you.

102. What is your recollection about it?—I should say that he did not poll as many plumpers before as he did in the last half-hour.

103. At what hour did you vote yourself?—I voted, I think, between half-past 10 and 11; as soon as I could spare time to go, I went down and voted.

104. How many committee-rooms had Mr. Tillett?—Ten or 12.

105. With regard to those gentlemen; Mr. Daynes, for instance; did he attend a committee-room, or which did he attend?—The central committee-room.

106. And Mr. J. D. Smith?—The central room in the Seventh Ward.

107. Mr. Joshua Womersley?—I think the Seventh and occasionally the central.

108. And almost every one?—I saw him in the Seventh and in the central; he was very active.

109. Mr. Robert Dawes, where was he?—He would confine his attention, I suppose, to the Third; he is a town councillor of that ward.

110. Then Mr. Edward Natthias Ballard?—I saw him several times in the central committee-room.

111. What was he doing there?—I think he was assisting there.

112. Then Mr. S. W. Berry?—He was engaged in the Third Ward.

113. Mr. William Gilbert, where was he?—In the Eighth Ward.

114. W. S. Gilbert, where was he?—Also in the Eighth Ward.

115. Mr. Joshua Harper?—In the Seventh or Eighth Ward, but I think the Seventh.

116. Mr. Henry Colman?—I do not know; I never saw him in the course of the election, that I am aware of; I know him, and I should think he would have been engaged in the Second Ward.

117. Then Mr. Copeman?—Mr. John Copeman, everywhere.

118. Mr. Thomas Hitchen Palmer?—I never saw him in connection with any election.

119. You told my learned friend that the Third Ward had the character of being a very Liberal ward; is that so?—It is so; a considerable Liberal majority, I said, was at the election previous to the last; there was a considerable Liberal majority then.

120. It had the reputation of being a Liberal ward, and it got that reputation in consequence of there being a Liberal majority at the election prior to the last?—Yes.

121. When was that?—In 1865.

122. Who were the Members then?—Sir William Russell.

123. And Mr. Warner?—Yes.

124. Is it not the fact that out of six town councillors there are five representing the Conservative interest now?—I think there are that number, but the constituency for electing town councillors is different from the constituency for electing Members of Parliament.

125. Is it not the fact that in that ward there are five out of six town councillors who represent Conservative views?—I think that that is the case; I know that there is a preponderance.

126. Are there more voters now of the same class who vote for municipal elections than there used to be in former days; prior to the present Act of Parliament?—That has made no difference in what has taken place in municipal matters yet.

127. Are there not more voters now for the borough who were previously only voters for municipal offices than there were before the present Reform Bill?—That I cannot say.

128. What was the name of the poll-keeper at the central room?—Mr. Coaks.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

129. You had an opportunity of seeing these men at the "Marquis of Granby"?—Yes, I saw several there, but who they were, or what they were doing, I do not know.

130. Do you know how any of them voted?—I cannot tell you that.

131. You have been asked by my learned friend about plumpers being given for Mr. Tillett, I suppose that would leave him practically with Sir William Russell?—Yes, it would; there was an idea that they should be kept, if possible, level.

132. So that when the position was altered between them, one or the other had a good many plumpers?—That is how I understood it.

133. You told Mackley that you would not be a party to paying any money, that you were forbidden to be so, was that the fact?—Entirely, most decidedly. My instructions were most positive to do nothing that might be illegal, or to sanction anything that might be illegal.

134. As far as you know, was there a single farthing laid out except upon the proper expenses of the election on the part of Mr. Tillett?—I know of nothing that can be called in question.

135. Mr. Baron Martin.] You are an attorney?—I am not an attorney, but I am under articles, and will be admitted, I hope, shortly.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. JOHN ABBOTT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

136. WHAT are you?—I am a Clicker or Manager to Worledge.

137. What is his Christian name?—Thomas.

138. Where does he carry on business?—In Colegate-street, St. Clement's.

139. Does he live there?—No, he lives in St. Saviour's-lane, St. Saviour's parish.

140. Was he a supporter of Sir Henry Stracey on the last election?—I believe he was. I happen to differ from him in politics, that is the reason I said believe.

141. You know him to be a warm supporter of Sir Henry Stracey?—I saw him on the election day.

142. Do you know him to be a warm supporter of Sir Henry Stracey?—From what I have heard.

143. Do you know him to be a warm supporter of Sir Henry Stracey?—I cannot say.

144. Is he a warm supporter of Sir Henry Stracey?—He is a warm supporter of Sir Henry Stracey.

145. Where is he?—I cannot say.

146. Do you know that an endeavour was made to serve him with a notice?—No.

147. Have you not heard of it?—Yes.

148. You have heard of it; when did he go away?—I cannot say.

149. But about when?—I saw him on the 22nd of December myself.

150. Was he in good health then?—Yes.

151. Mr. Baron Martin.] Is he a man in business as a leather cutter?—He is a shoe manufacturer.

152. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Have you never seen him since?—No.

153. Is he a married man?—Yes.

154. Is his wife at home?—Yes.

155. Mr. Baron Martin.] Have you never seen him since?—No, I have not.

156. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] It will come sooner or later, where is he?—I cannot say.

157. When did you hear from him last?—I have not heard from him; Mrs. Worledge receives all letters.

158. Have you seen no letters from him?—I have seen some from him.

159. Mr. Baron Martin.] You have seen letters from him?—Yes.

160. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] In his own name?—Yes.

161. All of them?—Yes.

162. All of them?—Yes.

163. Have you never seen letters from him in another name?—No.

164. Mr. Baron Martin.] Where did the letters come from?—From London.

165. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] That probably leads you to think that at the time the letters were sent he was in London?—I do.

166. London was not the only address; his wife, of course, would want to know something about her husband; where is he?—I cannot say.

167. What was his address in the letter from London?—I have seen some others besides London.

168. What others?—Manchester.

169. Mr. Baron Martin.] Do you mean that the address in the letter, or the date of it, was simply "London," without the street?—There was no street.

170. Was the other date simply "Manchester"?—Yes.

171. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] When did the Manchester one come?—I saw one yesterday from Manchester.

172. What did it say?—It contained an order that I was to get executed as soon as possible.

173. He carried on his business at Norwich, but he is staying at Manchester; is that convenient?—I do not know his reason.

174. Did he ever carry on his business in that way before?—No.

175. Cannot you tell me anything more; pray do say a little more?—No.

176. Try; for instance, have you received a telegram from him?—No, I have not.

177. Have you seen one from him; you must speak the truth?—I do not wish to conceal the truth.

178. Have you seen a telegram from him?—I have.

179. What was it, when was it first of all?—I cannot say.

180. About when was it?—I received one at the shop, the other day.

181. What day was that?—Monday, I believe.

182. What did it say?—"Do not communicate at present," not knowing the address; I believe they were the words, but I will not be sure.

183. Mr. Baron Martin.] Was it addressed to you or to his wife?—To Thomas Worledge, the telegram was.

184. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Who is he?—My employer.

185. Was the telegram from "Worledge" to "Worledge"?—No, it was from "Squires" to "Worledge."

186. Mr. Baron Martin.] Has Worledge any partner?—No.

187. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] What did you understand by "Squires"?—That was the person who sent it.

188. From where?—London.

189. Mr. Baron Martin.] You said it came from Squires?—I was asked if I had received a telegram

190. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Have you received a telegram from him?—No.

191. Have you the least doubt that that telegram came from him?—I have no doubt that it came from Squires.

192. Who is he?—He is a machinist in Graham-street, Macclesfield-street, London.

193. Mr. Baron Martin.] To whom was the telegram addressed?—To Thomas Worledge.

194. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Who opened it?—Mrs. Worledge.

195. Was it sent to the shop?—Yes.

196. Was it a telegram to the house, or a telegram to the shop?—A telegram to the shop.

197. Directed to whom?—To Thomas Worledge.

198. Who opened it?—Mrs. Worledge.

199. How came that?—

200. Mr. Baron Martin.] Do you suppose that Squires fancied he was at home?—I cannot say that I know that Squires believed it.

Mr.
J. Abbott.

1869.

Mr.
J. Abbott.
—
15 January
1869.

201. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] How came his wife to open this telegram which was sent to the shop?—She opens everything.

202. Does she come to the shop?—Yes.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] I must ask your lordship for an order to compel her attendance.

Mr. Baron Martin.] I do not think I have any power to grant you an order; you must reach this woman by a subpoena; you may have a subpoena issued from this court.

203. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine (to the Witness).] Give an example to your fellow townsmen of candour, and tell us whether Worledge told you why he was going away?—He said that he was going to buy some cheap lots.

204. Did you know at that time that the subpoenas were issued?—I did.

205. He told you that he was going to buy some cheap lots?—Yes.

206. That you heard?—Yes.

207. Did he tell you nothing else?—He said that he should try and get some orders.

208. Nothing else?—No.

209. Nothing was said about the election, not a word?—No.

210. Did you ever know him to be away for that length of time before?—No.

211. Did you ever know him to be away without knowing his address?—No.

212. Should you have known where to write to him?—Yes.

213. Where?—To Squires.

214. You were to write to Squires, were you?—Yes.

215. So that when he sent the telegram not to communicate at present, you quite understood what that meant?—There was no further address for me to write to.

216. You were not to write to Worledge?—I was not to write to Squires.

Mr. Baron Martin.] It is clear enough now.

217. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] When do you expect him back again?—I wish he was here now.

218. You could not get him here, could you?—I did not try.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. HENRY TAYLOR, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

Mr.
H. Taylor.

219. Is your Christian name Henry?—Yes.

220. What are you?—A shoemaker.

221. Living at Norwich?—Yes; in Coburg-street.

222. Are you a voter?—Yes.

223. Which way did you vote?—I voted for Tillett and Russell.

224. Do you know the "Trumpet" public-house?—Yes.

225. Which is kept by a man of the name of Fuller?—Yes.

226. Were you near the "Trumpet" in the afternoon of the day of the election?—Yes.

227. What time were you there; from what time to what time?—Pretty well all day.

228. Did you see what was going on there?—Yes.

229. I suppose you know Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

230. Did you see him there?—Yes.

231. At what time?—I should think about two o'clock, as near as I can tell; it might be a little later; but that is about the time, I think.

232. Did he come alone?—No; some more gentlemen came with him.

233. Did you know them?—I heard them say one was Mr. Bignold; there was another gentleman or two with them.

234. You did not know them?—No.

235. Where were you when Sir Henry Stracey came?—In a room.

236. Mr. Baron Martin.] In the house?—Yes.

237. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] What room was it?—What they call the market-room.

238. Were there many there?—There were 24 or 25 persons; there might be more.

239. What were they doing?—Drinking beer.

240. Anything else?—No.

241. Who supplied them with the beer?—It was brought into the room by two or three different ones.

242. Did you see it paid for?—No.

243. Was it ever paid for within your observation?—That I cannot say.

244. Did you see anyone pay for the beer which was supplied to him?—No.

245. Were they drinking at the time Sir Henry came in?—Yes.

246. What did he do?—He spoke to them, and asked them "Why they did not come and vote."

247. Did any of them say anything?—A few remarks were made that they had to pay rates, and so on.

248. Do you remember any other remark being made?—"You know what we want," that is what they said.

249. Did Sir Henry say anything?—He said, "Come and vote, it is no use stopping here."

250. What became of Sir Henry Stracey then?—He walked outside in the passage.

251. With the other gentlemen?—Yes.

252. Did you go out also?—Yes, I went out.

253. Did you see anything occur in the passage?—No; I only heard them talking; whispering together.

254. Who were the persons that were speaking together?—I know Sir Henry Stracey and the others; I do not know only what I was told, and what I heard them say when they came into the room; Bignold was one.

255. Did you know any of the others?—Mr. Stracey.

256. The son of Sir Henry?—No, the old gentleman, Mr. Stracey the Member.

257. Sir Henry you mean?—Yes.

258. Did you hear any words that fell from them; I suppose you were trying to hear?—I did not hear any particular words, because I was not close enough.

259. What occurred after the whispering?—Some of them came into the room again, and said what we could have for the votes.

260. Did you return to the room?—Yes.

261. Who was the somebody?—Mr. Smith.

262. Do you know his Christian name?—Samuel, I believe.

263. What

263. What is Samuel Smith?—A fowl dealer; he asked us whether we would take 5*l.* for our votes with him in the room.

264. That means the lot?—Yes; about 25 were in the room, and whether they would take 5*l.*

265. Mr. Baron Martin.] Do you mean 5*l.* a-head, or 5*l.* for the lot?—£. 5 for the lot.

266. Mr. Sergeant Ballantine.] Had you heard anything about the 5*l.* before Mr. Smith made that observation?—No.

267. Nothing at all?—No.

268. Had you seen Smith speaking to anybody?—Yes; I saw him speaking to several gentlemen.

269. Did you see him speak to Sir Henry, or to Mr. Bignold?—When they went out of the room he followed them, and was talking in the passage.

270. And then he came back and offered the 5*l.*?—Yes.

271. Did anybody make an answer to that?—Yes; they said they should not take it; all of them in the room said they should not take it.

272. Did they take the offer politely, or use any particular expressions?—Some expressions were made use of.

273. What were they?—Some of them said, "It is not bloody likely. You don't buy us for that."

274. What became of Smith then?—Then they told us we need not stop for beer.

275. Who said that?—Mr. Smith and others too.

276. What happened then?—Then they went out again, and then young Mr. Stracey came in.

277. Do you know his Christian name?—No, I do not.

278. Did he say anything?—He spoke to us.

279. What did he say?—I do not know exactly; there was so much noise in the room.

280. Can you tell us anything you heard?—He asked us why we did not come and vote, and they made the same reply to that as to his father.

281. Mr. Baron Martin.] What was it?—About "We have to pay rates."

282. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Well, what then?—Some gentlemen with them made a little sort of speech to us, and they retired from the room.

283. Just give us what it was?—That I cannot recollect.

284. Cannot you tell me any part of it?—It was something about Tillett and others as well.

285. Praising Tillett?—No; not that.

286. It was expressing an opinion about Mr. Tillett?—Just so.

287. Did they go out again?—Yes, they went out again; they all retired from the room, and then we were offered three half-crowns then.

288. By whom?—By Smith.

289. Do you mean that he came about

290. Mr. Baron Martin.] Do you mean three half-crowns a man?—Yes.

291. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Did you take that?—Yes.

292. They accepted that?—Yes.

293. Do you know anything of its being paid?—Yes, I saw it paid.

294. By Smith?—No; Smith kept watch upon them it was given to.

295. Who gave it?—Mr. Hunt.

296. Did you get 7*s.* 6*d.*?—Yes.

297. Which way did you vote?—For Tillett and Russell.

298. Had you gone to that house for any purpose, or what had taken you there?—I was asked to come in.

299. By whom?—By a great many.

300. You accordingly went in; had you ever voted before for the city?—Yes.

301. In the same way?—Yes.

302. Were there any others that you knew who had voted there before on former occasions?—That I am not able to say.

303. Is that all you saw that day?—Yes; I believe that is pretty well all I saw.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

304. What time did you go into the "Trumpet" that morning?—About nine.

305. Did you stop there till you saw those people come in?—I stopped there till a quarter-past three.

306. Drinking all the time?—Yes; I did not drink a sight myself.

307. I suppose you had had quite enough beer?—I had had what I wanted.

308. Did you get a little fresh?—No, I never get so.

309. Did you hear persons ask Sir Henry Stracey for money; did they in terms say to him we want so much for a vote?—No; I heard them say, "You know what we want."

310. Do you remember what Sir Henry Stracey said?—He said, "Come on together, it is no use stopping here."

311. Did not Sir Henry Stracey say, "I will not give a glass of beer or one single farthing"?—I did not hear him.

312. Will you swear he did not say so?—I will swear that I did not hear him.

313. Will you swear he did not say so?—I cannot swear to what I did not hear.

314. Did you hear him say anything, beyond what you have said, about going to vote?—No; I did not hear him say anything more; he retired.

315. How long was he there?—I think about not five minutes, I do not think; that is the furthest, I believe, as far as I can think.

316. Had Smith been there the whole morning?—Yes, except at intervals.

317. And Hunt?—Yes, the same.

318. The whole morning?—Yes.

319. I suppose they had both been drinking?—They had been drinking, I dare say; I did not see them drinking much in the room where I was.

320. Who gave you the 7*s.* 6*d.*?—Mr. Hunt.

321. What did you say to him before he gave it you?—I did not say anything to him.

322. What did he say to you?—Smith came up and said, "Come up in this room together, and we will pay you; don't make a noise."

323. What were you paid for?—I do not know what I was paid for.

324. Do you mean to swear that?—I was paid for, I suppose, to go and vote for them.

325. Why then did you say you did not know what you were paid for?—To go and vote for them.

326. When did you vote?—About half-past three

Mr.
H. Taylor.

three, it might be five minutes different; from a quarter to half-past.

327. Had you always made up your mind to vote for Tillett and Russell?—I had so.

328. What did you go into the "Trumpet" for that day?—I went into the "Trumpet," because people said there was not going to be any bribery; I thought perhaps I should see something.

329. What was going on?—I believe so.

330. Who sent you there?—No one; I went of my own accord. I should not have known that there had been any, if I had not been asked to go.

331. Did you see any one of Tillett's or Russell's people before you gave your vote?—Not one.

332. When did you tell anyone what you had seen and heard at the "Trumpet"?—I cannot say; it was after the election; it might be a day or two after, or pretty well a month, I dare say.

333. When was it that you told anyone about what you had heard about Stracey, and Smith and Hunt at the "Trumpet"?—I think it was about three weeks ago.

334. Whom did you tell first?—I did not tell anyone in particular; it was mere talk in my own room.

335. To whom?—To parties that came there who were concerned in it; I did not give the information to anybody.

336. To whom did you speak about it?—I did not speak to anyone at that time; they did not know which way I had voted; some clerk came to me.

337. This was about a month ago?—Yes; a month ago.

338. What is his name?—I do not know that; I think his name is Lane.

339. Had you spoken to no one from the time it took place till a month ago?—No; I do not know that anyone knew how I had voted; a man of the name of Grimshaw, I believe, went down to Tillett's house to ascertain how I had voted; he thought I had voted for the Tory party.

340. How had you voted before?—For the Liberal party.

341. Always?—Yes.

342. When this gentleman came to you, did he take down in writing what you said?—There was only a word or two; I did not say anything to him particularly, only told him how I voted.

343. Who was the first person that you told, till you have told it here to-day?—This clerk, Mr. Lane.

344. At your own house?—Yes.

345. Until you told him, you had told no one what you had seen and heard?—No.

346. How came he to come to you?—I do not know; I was at work when he came.

347. What are you?—I make up the shoes.

348. You make them up to sell?—Yes.

349. You do not know why he came to you?—No, I do not know.

350. Did you expect that he was coming?—No; I did not know that he was coming.

351. Had you told him what you have told us to-day?—No, I did not say anything to him.

352. When did you tell anyone what you have told us to-day?—I told that down at Tillett's.

353. When?—A fortnight ago, or something like that.

354. Was it at Tillett's office?—Yes.

355. Did you go of your own accord there?—Yes.

356. What for?—I went to see how I had voted, because they contradicted me.

357. Who was the first person to whom you told what had happened at the "Trumpet"?—Lane was the person I told, first of all; I suppose that is the name.

358. Did Lane tell you to go to Tillett's?—No; not to the best of my knowledge, I do not think he did.

359. You must be able to tell his lordship what took you down to Tillett's?—Grimshaw asked me to go, and I went down with him.

360. He took you there?—Yes.

361. Who is he?—He lives not far off from me.

362. He came, and took you down to Tillett's?—Yes.

363. There you said what you have told us to-day?—Yes.

364. And that is a fortnight ago?—Yes; or three weeks.

365. Some time after you saw Lane, and told him about your voting?—Yes; I know it was after; how long I cannot tell, but several days.

366. When Grimshaw came, what passed between you and him?—Several questions upon this subject.

367. What is he?—A shoemaker.

368. When he came to you, what did he say to you about going down there?—He asked me whether I was going down about my vote; he said, if I was, then I should go and make a clean breast of it, and tell all I knew; and then I went.

369. And you told them what you have told us to-day?—Yes.

370. That is, about taking the 7 s. 6 d.?—Yes.

371. That is what you mean by making a clean breast of it?—Yes.

372. Did Grimshaw tell you that they knew all about what you were going to say?—Yes.

373. Did you talk it over with him going to Tillett's?—To the best of my knowledge, I did not.

374. In your house, did you not tell him?—No.

375. Did you tell Grimshaw what you have told us to-day, before you came to Tillett's office?—No.

376. It was of your own will that you gave this statement to Tillett?—No.

377. Were you asked any questions there?—I do not know that I was asked any particular questions; he asked me what I had seen, just what I have been asked now.

378. I ask you again; you say you do not remember Sir Henry Stracey saying that he would not give a glass of beer or any money; did you hear him or anybody else say that?—No; not to the best of my belief.

379. How many times did those people say, "You know what we want;" did they not say so three or four times?—No; I believe they did not say it, only once.

380. What was the answer given?—The answer was, "Why do not you come and vote, it is no use stopping there;" that is about what I can tell you.

381. Was not this added, "You will get nothing"?—I never heard it.

382. Upon your oath?—I am upon my oath.

383. It

383. It was said, you will go and vote?—Yes; “Come and vote” (those were the words), “it is no use stopping there.”

384. I ask you again, and particularly, this question, whether it was not added to that, “You will get nothing for your vote; you had better come and vote at once; I cannot give you anything”?—If it was spoken, I did not hear it; there was so much confusion in the room after that, they said they had to pay rates, the same words as I said before.

385. It may have been said and you may not have heard it, owing to the noise?—It might and it might not.

Re examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

386. When did you receive the subpœna?—I think about a fortnight ago.

387. Was it after that that you made a clean breast of it, after or before you received the subpœna?—Well, sir, I think it was about the same time.

388. Had you spoken of the matter among your friends in the town?—I do not let anyone know my secrets, not even my own wife.

389. When any one applied to you, you say that you did not tell him this; what did you tell him?—I said that I voted for Tillett and Russell.

390. Anything else?—Not anything. He said that that was not the proper place; and he said, “You will have to be subpœnaed, and then you will be forced to tell.”

391. You were subpœnaed, were you not?—Yes.

392. Mr. Baron Martin.] As I understand you, you voted for Tillett and Russell?—Yes.

393. You took the 7 s. 6 d., they expecting you to vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

394. Were you challenged for not having voted for him?—Not at all.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. ROBERT CALLOW, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

395. WHAT are you?—I am a shoemaker.

396. Were you at the “Trumpet” public-house on the day of the election?—Yes.

397. At what o’clock did you go there?—About 10 o’clock in the morning.

398. How long did you stay there?—Till about three o’clock in the afternoon.

399. Where did you go then?—To the Guild-hall, in the market-place, to vote.

400. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Stracey.

401. Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

402. Had you seen Sir Henry Stracey in the course of the day?—Yes; I saw him in the “Trumpet.”

403. What room were you in when you saw him in the “Trumpet”?—In the market-room.

404. What room was he in?—He was in the market-room too.

405. What time was it when he came?—I should say it was between half-past one and half-past two; I would not be sure to a minute.

406. What were you doing between 10 o’clock in the morning and half-past one?—Smoking, drinking, and talking.

407. Were other persons there?—Yes.

408. About how many?—I should say about from 14 to 16, or something like that.

409. What were they doing?—The same as I was, drinking.

410. Did you pay for what you had?—No.

411. Did you see any of them pay for what they had?—I saw one or two pints paid for in the first of the morning.

412. Then the paying ceased?—Yes.

413. For how long did the drinking and smoking go on; till three o’clock?—Up to the time when I went away, three o’clock.

414. Was it going on when Sir Henry Stracey was there?—Yes.

415. When Sir Henry was there did he say anything?—Yes, he said something; he leant on the table and said something; I do not remember what it was; I was rather elevated at the time.

416. You do not remember what he said?—I do not know a word that he said.

417. Mr. Baron Martin.] You mean, I suppose, that you were a little drunk?—Yes.

418. Mr. Keane.] I understand you to say that drinking was going on while Sir Henry was there?—Yes.

419. Who was with him?—Several gentlemen, but I cannot recall any by name.

420. Did you know any of them?—No.

421. Did they go away with him, or stay?—They went away with him.

422. While you were there, was anything said about money?—Yes.

423. What was it?—At first some one offered them a crown to vote for Mr. Stracey.

424. Do you mean a crown a-piece?—Yes.

425. Was that before Sir Henry came there, or after?—After.

426. Do you remember who made that offer?—I believe it was Mr. Hunt.

427. When that offer was made, was any answer made to it?—We all said we would not take it.

428. Was it said pleasantly, or indignantly, or how?—Not indignantly exactly.

429. Was there any swearing about it?—No particular swearing.

430. Was there a general swearing?—No particular swearing.

431. Was there a general swearing?—I do not know that there was any swearing at all at the time.

432. When you said that you would not take the crown, was any other offer made?—Yes.

433. By the same persons?—Yes; three half-crowns.

434. What was the effect of adding the half-crown to the first offer?—We went into another room, and I took it.

435. Mr. Baron Martin.] Was that up-stairs?—Yes.

436. Mr. Keane.] Did you go all together or singly into the room up-stairs?—All together; as fast as we could get up-stairs.

437. When you got to the room, whom did you then find there?—Mr. Hunt, and two men of the name of Smith.

438. Did you get the three half-crowns?—Yes.

439. Did they all get them?—I do not know; I took mine first, and left immediately.

440. Who was the person who gave you yours?—Mr. Hunt.

441. The Mr. Smith who you saw there was one of them; a cow dealer?—Yes.

Mr. R. Callow.
15 January 1869.

442. You knew him?—Yes.
443. Did you see any money there besides that which was given to you?—When I first entered the room I saw a quantity of gold on the table.
444. Mr. Baron Martin.] In the room upstairs?—Yes.
445. Mr. Keane.] Was it left on the table?—It was removed as soon as we entered.
446. Who removed it?—Mr. Hunt.
447. What did he do with it?—I think he put it into his pocket.

448. Did you see the gold?—Yes.
449. What gold was it?—I could not say whether it was sovereigns or half-sovereigns.

Mr. Rodwell stated that he had no question to put to the witness.

450. Mr. Baron Martin.] How soon did this occur after Sir Henry Stracey left the room?—Not more than half-an-hour.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MICHAEL GEORGE GILBERT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Simms Reeve.

M. G. Gilbert.

451. You live in Starling-place, St. Stephen's?—Yes.
452. In the Fifth Ward?—Yes.
453. On the day of the election, did you see Robert Walker?—Yes.
454. And Granville Bygrave?—Yes.
455. Did you go with them to the "Trumpet" in the afternoon of the election day?—Yes.
456. At what time?—Somewhere about half-past two and three.
457. Do you know George Gowing?—Yes.
458. While you were at the "Trumpet" did you see him?—Yes.
459. Did you see Hunt at the "Trumpet"?—Yes.
460. Did you see Gowing and Hunt together?—Yes.
461. Did they go anywhere?—Yes, they went into a back room from the bar; we were standing at the bar.
462. How long did Gowing and Hunt stay together?—I should say about 10 minutes; somewhere about 5 or 10 minutes, or something like that.
463. Did you see Gowing leave?—Yes.
464. After Gowing left, did you see Hunt?—Yes.
465. Did Hunt say anything to you?—He said, "My boys, now look here, come on, here is something to drink together."
466. Mr. Baron Martin.] Addressing the people in the room?—Yes.
467. Mr. Simms Reeve.] Where you and the others were?—Yes.
468. Can you tell me about how many persons there were in the room with you?—There were about 16 persons.
469. What did Hunt say?—He said, "Have any of you voted?"
470. Did he get any answer?—We said, "No, we have not."
471. Did Hunt then say anything?—He said, "I tell you what I have; I have 5s. each for you."
472. Did he count the money there?—Yes.

473. Did he say anything more than "I have got 5s. for you"?—They grumbled at the 5s., and said that they would not have it.
474. During that time was Smith, the fowl-dealer, in the room?—He was.
475. Upon the grumbling taking place, did Smith say anything?—He said, "My boys, I shall be a sovereign out of my own pocket, and give you 2s. 6d. each more, which will make it 7s. 6d.; I will be 2s. 6d., and make it up 7s. 6d. each for you."
476. You are sure that he made use of the word "boys"?—Not exactly; I was in the room, and heard them talk; it was something to that amount.
477. That he would make up the 7s. 6d.?—Yes.
478. Upon Smith offering to make up the amount to 7s. 6d., did any persons in the room accept it?—They then said that they might as well take it, for if they did not take it they should get nothing.
479. Can you tell me how many of them took the three half-crowns?—No, I cannot.
480. Did you?—No.
481. Did any of them?—That I do not know.
482. Mr. Baron Martin.] You did not take it yourself?—No, my lord.
483. Mr. Simms Reeve.] After that, did some of the voters leave the room?—They did.
484. Do you know whom they left with?—Smith.
485. Which way did they go?—Some went down St. Stephen's, and some St. Peter's Ward, which is at the back of the fields.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.

486. What was it that Smith said about the sovereign; that he would be a sovereign out of his own pocket?—Yes.
487. Where was it that Smith was making this offer to you; was it in the market room?—Yes.
488. How did you vote?—I did not vote at all.
489. You are a voter?—Yes.

ARTHUR HUNT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

A. Hunt.

490. WHAT are you?—A Dealer.
491. Where do you carry on your business?—In the country and the city as well.
492. Where is your house?—In St. Peter's.
493. You deal in what?—Fowls and pigs.
494. Have you a vote?—Yes.
495. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes.
496. You never canvassed any voters for him?—No.
497. You never asked anybody to vote for him at all?—I did not.

498. You know the "Trumpet" public-house?—I do.
499. Were you there on the day of the election?—I was.
500. Was Smith there?—I cannot say.
501. Do you know Smith?—I know two or three Smiths.
502. Was any man of the name of Smith there?—I cannot say; there might be.
503. Samuel Smith; was he there?—I saw him there.
504. You remember that now?—Yes.

505. Did

A. Hunt.
—
15 January
1869.

505. Did you see Sir Henry Stracey there?—
I did.
506. Did you see young Mr. Stracey there?—
I saw him out of doors, outside.
507. Did you see him inside?—I did not.
508. Do you know Mr. Bignold?—I know
Mr. Bignold of Surrey-street.
509. Mr. John Bignold?—I do not know his surname.
510. Did you see any Mr. Bignold there?—I did not.
511. Should you know him if you saw him?—
I know him in Surrey-street, and Mr. Bignold in Ipswich-road; I did not speak to Mr. Bignold.
512. Who was with Sir Henry?—Mr. Patterson; they told me it was Mr. Patterson; I never saw the gentleman before.
513. Who told you it was Mr. Patterson?—I was told afterwards it was Mr. Patterson.
514. By whom?—By the people in the house, by the landlord, and other people.
515. Any other gentleman?—Not that I am aware of.
516. Where did you see Sir Henry Stracey?
—I saw him come into the “Trumpet” Inn.
517. Come into the public room?—Yes.
518. Were there many people there?—Sixteen or 20 of them.
519. What were they doing?—Enjoying themselves, I presume; they were drinking and smoking.
520. Did Sir Henry Stracey say anything when he came in?—I do not know what he did say; I never heard him speak; I took no notice of him at all; I was tipsy at the time; I do not remember what he did say.
521. You were tipsy at the time?—Yes.
522. Did you get tipsy at the “Trumpet”?—
I did.
523. Who paid for it?—I, myself.
524. Out of your own pocket?—Yes.
525. With your own money?—I did.
526. And you cannot remember what Sir
Henry Stracey said?—I cannot.
527. How long did he remain in?—Perhaps three or four minutes.
528. He said something?—What he said I do not remember.
529. You remember that he did say something?
—He did speak, but what, I am not aware.
530. Have you no idea what it was?—No, I have not.
531. What were the people waiting there for?
—I cannot say.
532. Was there any talk about money?—Not that I know of.
533. Do you swear that?—I do.
534. There were a great many people there?—
Yes; there were from 16 to 20.
535. Some of whom have been called. You say there was no talk about money, upon your solemn oath?—I do not remember it.
536. Will you, upon your solemn oath, say there was no talk about money?—I do not remember.
537. May there have been, and you forgot it?
—I was tipsy when Sir Henry Stracey came in.
538. May there have been some talk about some money?—I do not remember there were.
539. Will you swear there was not?—I do not remember there was any talk about money.
540. Did you have any conversation with Sir
Henry Stracey?—Not a word.

541. You never spoke to him?—Not a word.
542. You did not go out into the passage to him?—I did not.
543. Did you speak to him outside the house?
—I did not.
544. You say that you were very drunk?—I were drunk.
545. Mr. Baron Martin.] Did you say you were drunk, or very drunk?—I were drunk, and very drunk.
546. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Were you too drunk to remember anything that took place, or to notice any thing that took place; is that what you mean to represent?—I was so drunk that I did not know what I was a-doing of myself.
547. Being so drunk that you did not know what you were a-doing of, may you have spoken to Sir Henry Stracey without knowing it?—I did not speak to him at all.
548. But you say you do not know what you did do?—I did not speak to him; I do not remember speaking to him.
549. You are certain you do not know what you did do; will you swear you did not?—I do not remember it; I do not think I did.
550. Will you swear you did not?—I would not like to swear anything; I was so drunk.
551. You may have talked to him and have forgotten it?—I do not remember.
552. You will not swear you did not?—I will not swear I did not, and I will not swear I did;
I do not remember speaking to him at all; I was drunk at the time.
553. If you spoke to him, it is gone out of your head?—It is; but I do not think I did.
554. Why do not you think you did, if you have no memory?—I remember seeing him come in.
555. And say something?—He said something, but I do not know what he did say.
556. What were you there for?—That is the place I have; I hire a stable at that place; that is my home, I consider.
557. The public room, or the stable, which?—
I use no other house than that; I entirely use this house, and no other.
558. That is why you were there?—I was there enjoying myself along with other people.
559. Did you see the other people pay for what they had?—I believe we clubbed a penny or two-pence each around.
560. Did you club a penny or two-pence each?
—I believe we did; first glass we did.
561. You swear that?—Yes.
562. You remember that?—Yes.
563. What did you club?—It was a penny or two-pence, I will not say which.
564. You remember that?—I do.
565. When did your memory go?—That was about half-past 9 or 10 in the morning.
566. When did your memory go; just before
Sir Henry Stracey came in?—Before dinner; I was tipsy before dinner, and it was after dinner,
I believe, that Sir Henry Stracey came in.
567. Did you go up into an upper room?—
Yes.
568. Did you walk up?—Yes.
569. Your legs were all right?—Yes, most decidedly.
570. It was only the head that was effected?—
It was affected, I can assure you.
571. But your legs were all right?—Yes.

A. Hunt.

15 January
1869.

572. What did you go upstairs for?—I very often go upstairs.

573. Tell us like an honest fowl dealer?—I am an honest fowl dealer.

574. What did you go upstairs for?—There is a room up stairs; anybody may go upstairs.

575. Had you any particular business up stairs?—Yes, I hung my harness upstairs.

576. You went to hang your harness upstairs, did you?—No, I did not.

577. There is no harness there?—Yes, there is.

578. You did not go to hang your harness upstairs?—I very often go upstairs; there is a bagatelle table up there.

579. Did you go to play bagatelle?—I did not.

580. Then we have got rid of the harness and the bagatelle; what did you go there for?—It is a public room; there was people drinking upstairs as well as below.

581. Did you go to drink?—Yes.

582. Did you drink when you got up?—Yes.

583. Out of the penny?—I did not pay for it out of the penny; perhaps I might get a pint to myself, or half a pint.

584. Did you?—I did.

585. Who brought it up?—The landlady.

586. Mrs. Fuller?—Yes; she or her sister; I don't know which.

587. You ordered it?—Yes.

588. They brought it up?—Yes.

589. And you paid for it?—Yes.

590. You remember all that?—Yes.

591. Cannot you remember some things on the other side; you had paid for the beer; who else went up?—Lots of people.

592. All of them?—Not all of them; some four or five, or six or seven, perhaps.

593. What for?—I don't know.

594. Did they have beer?—I cannot say.

595. Had they harness there?—I cannot say.

596. Did they play bagatelle?—Sometimes they do.

597. Did they that day?—I cannot say; it was before dinner time; that was in the morning time.

598. Did you go up in the afternoon?—Very likely.

599. Were you not speaking of the afternoon; do not put morning before it?—I did not go up in the afternoon.

600. You just now swore you did?—I did not go up in the afternoon.

601. Did you go up in the afternoon?—Very likely I did; I was tipsy in the afternoon.

602. Did any go up?—I cannot say whether I did go up in the afternoon or not; I was drunk after dinner, and did not know what I was doing of.

603. You have not the slightest conception of the risk you are running at this moment; do you mean to swear before my Lord that you do not know whether you went up in the afternoon, or not?—I do not.

604. What do you think; you know your fowls will be left without a master if you do not take care?—I came to speak the truth.

605. What do you think; do you think you went up or not?—I do not like to expose things; there is a water-closet upstairs; we are obliged to go up there for that.

606. I see you are an intelligent and thoughtful man; you went up, did you, to the water-closet?—Yes, two or three times during the day, during the forenoon.

607. You went up in the afternoon, did you?—Very likely I did; I cannot say.

608. Why did you mention that?—I was tipsy, as I said before; I was drunk.

609. Why did you mention the water-closet?—Because I do go up there very often.

610. Did you go up this afternoon in question?—Very likely I did; I did in the forenoon; I will not say I did or did not.

611. Then it was not the harness, and it was not the bagatelle, but it might be the water-closet?—Very likely.

612. There is no other reason that could have taken you up?—I think not.

613. Do you think you went up?—Very likely I might do; I cannot say I did not.

614. Do you think you went up?—I would not say; I was drunk.

615. What do you think; that you did or did not?—I cannot say.

616. You remember a great many people say they saw you there?—That might be; there were people there all day.

617. Were you in the room upstairs?—Yes, in the morning.

618. In the afternoon?—I might go up, or I might not; I was tipsy.

619. Might somebody have put some half-sovereigns in your pocket while you were tipsy?—I wish they would; I should have found them the next morning.

620. Not necessarily; that depends upon whether you parted with them in the afternoon?—I parted with some, I am well aware.

621. That afternoon?—It was in the afternoon; I should not do it when I was sober.

622. You become liberal when you are drunk?—Yes, that is quite right.

623. What money had you?—£. 8 or 9 l.; 9 l. or 10 l., perhaps, in my pocket.

624. Bless my soul and body, fowls sell well in the neighbourhood of Norwich?—I have a good friend.

625. So I should think?—Who lends me 10 l. when I want it.

626. For my own sake, tell me who did it; I want to know who it is?—Lots of people.

627. Who did?—Mr. Fuller, at the "Trumpet," where I was at.

628. Did Mr. Fuller, at the "Trumpet," lend you this 10 l.?—It was my own.

629. Why did you mention the 10 l.?—Because you might think I had not the money in my pocket.

630. Do you think I doubt you at all?—I do. That was money of my own which I had in my pocket.

631. Had you any the next morning in your pocket?—Some.

632. How much?—Between 5 l. and 6 l.

633. How much had you in the afternoon?—Between 9 l. and 10 l.

634. Then 4 l. or 5 l. went?—Yes, 3 l. or 4 l. went somewhere.

635. Where did that go; down the water-closet?—I will tell you where it went; I come here to speak the truth; I acknowledge that I did give men money.

636. Mr. Baron Martin.] How much did you give?—I cannot say; I had between 9 l. and 10 l., and the next morning I had between 5 l. and 6 l.

637. Mr.

637. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] How much did you give away?—£. 3 that I thought about. I messed it away somewhere.

638. Have you no notion where?—People tell me that I gave money to vote.

639. You know that you gave money?—I acknowledge that I gave money.

640. In the room upstairs?—I cannot say where, nor when I give it.

641. Mr. Baron Martin.] You gave money for what purpose?—They were talking about electioneering after Mr. Stracey came in.

642. For what purpose did you give money?—I gave it to those people. I did not give it for the vote particularly. I said, "Go vote for Stracey, and I will give you so and so."

643. Did you give them money to vote for Stracey?—Certainly not; I said, "Will you go and vote for Stracey," and I said, "Go on, and I will give you so and so"; I will give you 7 s. 6 d. a piece.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Three half-crowns each.

644. Mr. Baron Martin.] You said, "If you will go and vote for Stracey, I will give you money;" is that correct?—Yes.

645. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] You remember giving them money?—I do not; I remember giving money away, but I do not know who I gave it to.

646. After you had so generously given the money, have you tried to get it back again?—No.

647. What became of you then; I want to ask you because you have told us probably quite enough for our purpose; you had better now be cautious; do you know a person of the name of William Flat?—I do.

648. I ask you whether you did not see Sir Henry Stracey outside the house, and tell him that you had got from 20 to 30 voters; and did not he say to you, "Then bring them up"?—He did not.

649. Did you speak to him at all outside the house?—I did not.

650. Did you say to Sir Henry Stracey outside the house, "I have got some 20 to 30 voters;" and did he say to you, "Then bring them up"?—He did not.

651. How soon after you had given the money did you go out of the house?—I cannot say.

652. You cannot tell me that?—I cannot tell what time I did go home.

653. What coin was it that you had; what was the money in?—In silver and gold too.

654. Where did it come from?—I earned it.

655. Where did it come from that morning?—Out of my own pocket.

656. When did you put it into your pocket?—I was five or six weeks or a month perhaps, or five or six months perhaps, earning it.

657. Mr. Baron Martin.] Do you mean that you had any of this particular money six months in your pocket?—Yes.

658. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] The whole of it?—Yes; I cannot say the whole; we will say six months I had some of it in my pocket.

659. May you have had the whole of that money for six months?—No, I do not say that I had; I earn money every week, or I ought to do.

660. And I suppose you spend money every week?—Yes.

8.

661. Money does not keep in men's pockets as far as my experience goes; how long had you kept it in your pocket?—I cannot say how long I had kept it in my pocket; I never am without money.

662. How long had you the whole of it?—Perhaps three or four days previous.

663. And you had it in your pocket the whole of that time?—Yes.

664. Where had it been before?—Circulating about; I get my living with it. If I see a chance to earn a shilling, I do so in market.

665. Where had it been three or four days before?—In my pocket.

666. Where did you get it from?—I earned it.

667. Not all at once?—No, I do not; I am more than a year old, and I am not supposed to be without money. It was money that I dearly earned.

668. How long had you been earning it?—I cannot say how long I had been earning it. I have been in business for some time.

669. You were always successful, and always can keep yourself comfortable?—Yes.

670. What do you want then with friends who lend you money?—Sometimes I go and find a bargain that I have not got sufficient money to purchase, and I go and borrow sufficient.

671. You sometimes borrow from Fuller?—Yes.

672. Who else?—No one; There are others that would lend me a pound.

673. Who are the others; tell us?—I do not know.

674. Do you know Mr. Webster?—I do not. (A person in the court rose up and exclaimed that he was willing to lend the Witness 5 l. at any time.)

675. Who is the man who has offered to lend you 5 l.?—I do not know him; I never spoke to the man before in my life.

676. Let me give you a piece of advice. When you go out of court, see whether he will?—Mr. Cullingford will lend me 10 l.; he has done it.

677. You do not know Mr. Webster, or any one of that name?—I do not.

678. Were you at the "Maid's Head" on the day of election?—I never was there in my life.

679. Do you know the landlord of the "Maid's Head"?—I do not.

680. I gave you an opportunity of considering; am I to understand you to swear that you never spoke to Sir Henry Stracey outside that house?—Never in my life; I did not.

681. That afternoon?—I did not.

682. Where did you go to that afternoon?—I never went any further than the "Trumpet" that I know of.

683. Did you remain in the "Trumpet" all night?—I suppose till 10 or 11 o'clock.

684. Where did you go then?—I went home.

685. I thought you remained at the "Trumpet"?—I occupy the stable, and have my things at the "Trumpet."

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

686. Do you keep a horse and cart?—I do.

687. I understand you go trading about the country fowl dealing?—Yes.

688. I suppose you have no account at the bank?—None at all.

689. The money that you have in your pocket, B 3 8 l. or

A. Hunt.

1869.

- A. Hunt.* 8*l.* or 10*l.*, or what, whatever it is, is your capital that you carry on your business with?—
 15 January 1869. Yes.
 690. Mr. Baron Martin.] When you were sober, that morning, what money had you in your pocket before you got drunk?—I cannot tell to a shilling; but I had between 9*l.* and 10*l.* in my pocket.
 691. Was it silver or gold?—Some silver and some gold.

SAMUEL SMITH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

- S. Smith.* 695. WHAT are you?—I am not in business now.
 696. You are out of business, and living upon your means?—Yes.
 697. What were you when you were in business?—A fowl dealer.
 698. Have you known Hunt for a long time, you being both in the same trade, apparently?—I have known Hunt, perhaps, 8 or 10 years; I should say I never had no dealings with him.
 699. But he knows you very well?—I dare say he do.
 700. Were you at the “Trumpet” upon the day of the election?—Yes.
 701. What were you doing there?—I was drinking there.
 702. Did you see Sir Henry Stracey come in?—Yes; I did.
 703. Were you sober?—No.
 704. Were you too drunk to remember anything?—To remember what?
 705. I only want to know, to save trouble to the court; were you in such a state of drunkenness that you cannot remember what took place?—I recollect hurrahing of him; that is all.
 706. Was that about the 7*s.* 6*d.* or the 5*s.*?—I never see no money.
 707. Did you hear of any?—No; I never see no money gave; I heard of none.
 708. Did you see Sir Henry Stracey leave?—Yes; I was in there when he did leave.
 709. And was nothing said about 5*s.*?—I never see none and never heard none. I never heard a word about 5*s.*, nor about 7*s.* 6*d.*
 710. Did you go to an upper room at all?—Where?
692. About how much in silver?—About 14*s.* or 15*s.*
 693. Not more?—Not more, I think.
 694. I confine you to when you were sober; had you not more than 14*s.* or 15*s.* in silver?—I think not; I would not say positively exactly what I had; I could not tell anybody exactly what silver I had in my pocket.

WILLIAM FLAT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

- W. Flat.* 727. WHAT are you?—A shopkeeper.
 728. What shop do you keep?—A general shop.
 729. Were you at or near to the “Trumpet” public-house on the afternoon of the day of the election?—My shop is a very short way from it.
 730. Were you in the street?—Yes.
 731. Which way did you vote?—I have no vote.
 732. Then you were not in the “Trumpet”?—No.
 733. Being near to the “Trumpet,” do you know a person, a fowl dealer, of the name of Hunt?—Yes.
 734. Did you see him?—Yes.
 735. In the street?—Yes.
 736. Did you see anybody else there?—Lots of people.
 737. Did you see Stracey there?—Yes.
 738. Sir Henry?—Yes.
 739. About what o’clock was it when you saw Sir Henry Stracey?—I would not be certain about the time. I think it was between one and two. I think near two.
 740. May it have been a little later?—I will not be certain about that. I think it might be after two; it was as near two as possible.
 741. Did you see Hunt speak to Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.
 742. What did he say; could you hear?—Yes, perfectly well I could hear.
 743. How was it you managed to hear?—Because I stood very near.
 744. What did you hear said?—I heard Sir Henry Stracey in his carriage say—
 745. I ought to have asked you, did you see Sir Henry Stracey come to the house?—No.
 746. Did you see him go out of the house?—Yes.
 747. And his carriage was there, was it?—Yes.
 748. And he got into his carriage?—Yes, he got into his carriage.
 749. You can tell me whether any other persons sons were with him?—I will not be certain about that. There was a gentleman in the carriage, but who it was I cannot say.

750. Who did Sir Henry Stracey address?—He addressed the assembly around the carriage.

751. Was Hunt there?—Yes, afterwards.

752. What did he say to the assembly round the carriage?—He said, “Westminster is won, and so is Norwich.” I made answer, and said, “Not for you, sir,” but I do not suppose he heard me, because the congregation around there were of course Mr. Stracey’s upholders, so they would not let me say anything of course.

753. You are not one of his upholders?—No, I am not.

754. What took place after you said “Not for you, sir”?—After that, Mr. Hunt went to him and said, we have 40 now ready to vote for you, sir. He said, “Bravo, my fine fellow; do you head them to the poll?”

755. Then I suppose he drove away?—He drove away, and of course a lot of them hurred.

756. Then what became of Hunt?—I cannot tell you anything more than that.

757. Could you see whether Hunt was drunk or sober?—I do not know.

758. Was there any appearance of his being drunk?—I think not; he did not appear anything like that.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

759. What made you tell my learned friend when he asked you whether Hunt was drunk or sober, that you did not quite know?—I do not know.

760. May he have been drunk?—I do not know.

761. You have just told my learned friend that he was not; which was he?—I do not know whether he was drunk or sober. I did not see any appearance of the man being drunk.

762. What made you say, in the first instance, that you did not know whether he was drunk or sober?—No more I do not.

763. How long did you see him, and was he in your company?—I suppose about four or five minutes.

764. How long was Sir Henry Stracey, according to your account, with him?—No longer than I have been telling you the tale.

765. Where was Sir Henry Stracey, in the carriage, or out of it?—In his carriage.

766. Was any gentleman sitting beside him?—There was a gentleman by the side of him, but I do not know who the gentleman was.

767. Was there any one sitting by the side of him when he addressed Hunt?—I think there was.

768. Do you know?—I am certain there was a gentleman in the carriage.

769. Then why did you say that you think?—I am certain there was a gentleman; but who he was I do not know.

770. You tell me there was a gentleman; was there more than one?—That I do not know.

771. Was it a two-horse carriage?—Yes.

772. Driven?—Yes; by a coachman.

773. Did you see Sir Henry Stracey again on that day?—No.

774. What were you doing about the “Trumpet” this day; you were not a voter; what were you doing there?—The same as the other people were, from curiosity.

8.

775. Do you recollect anything else that took place that day particularly, but what you have told us?—No.

776. That is all you recollect of what took place?—All I recollect of what took place that day.

777. How long were you there altogether yourself?—I should think about 9 or 10 minutes.

778. You were perfectly sober, I suppose?—I never go into a public-house.

779. You only keep outside?—I keep outside; I always think that is the best place.

780. When did you tell anybody that you had heard this conversation?—I do not know whether it was the same evening, or whether it was the day after, I told it to a neighbour of mine by the name of Mr. Maw, that keeps the chapel in Chapel Fields; I think I told that gentleman so, and I think I told it to Mr. Gilbert, not thinking it was of any consequence at the time; I am not here, I can assure you, on my own responsibility, and thinking I should like to come here.

781. Were there many people round Hunt at the time you say he said this?—I should think there was 100 people round the carriage.

782. How near was Hunt to the carriage?—A great deal nearer than I am to you.

783. Were there any other people closer to him too?—Yes.

784. You have stated that Hunt said this; are you sure it was nobody else but Hunt?—I am certain it was nobody else but Hunt.

785. Did anybody else say anything to Sir Henry Stracey but Hunt?—Not while I was there.

786. You say the whole of this took three or four minutes?—Five or six minutes; no longer than a man could speak it.

787. It did not take five or six minutes to say what you have told us: “I have got 40 voters here”; and then Sir Henry Stracey said, “Bring them up and head the poll”; what else took place whilst the carriage was there?—I did not take any notice of anything else; I know the carriage drove away when I was there.

788. Did you hear anybody else speak?—No.

789. Did you hear Sir Henry Stracey say any other thing than that?—No.

790. Did you hear the gentleman with him say anything?—No.

791. That is all the conversation you heard?—Yes.

792. Who went away first; Hunt or Sir Henry Stracey?—I believe Hunt was descending the street when Sir Henry Stracey’s carriage drove away.

793. Who was next to Hunt at the time Hunt said this; can you give me the name of the person?—No.

794. Can you give me the name of any one person who was near enough to hear what passed between Sir Henry Stracey and Hunt?—No, I cannot.

795. You know the people pretty well?—Yes.

796. Cannot you tax your memory with the name of one person who was within hearing of Sir Henry Stracey and Hunt upon this occasion?—I cannot; I cannot recollect a person that was there.

797. You can recollect the name of no person, except Hunt, out of the 100 people that you say you saw there?—I cannot.

798. How long have you known Hunt?—I have

W. Flat.

15 January
1869.

W. Flat. have known Hunt, I should think, these seven or eight years.
 15 January 1869. 799. And you cannot tell us any other person that you knew there?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

800. You were saying that you were not here willingly; did you volunteer your evidence in any way?—No.

801. How was it that you were brought here?—I was brought here in a cab this morning.

802. I suppose you have been subpoenaed, have you not?—My wife was subpoenaed last night, at eleven o'clock.

803. That was a most improper time to have disturbed either you or your wife, and I am very sorry for it, but when were you subpoenaed?—This morning.

804. For the first time?—Yes.

805. Have you mentioned this amongst your friends?—Yes, I have mentioned it to a friend of mine, Mr. Maw, that keeps the chapel in Chapel Fields.

806. Had you no intention of coming up?—I had no intention of coming up; I would sooner have been out of it.

GRANVILLE BYGRAVE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

G. Bygrave. 807. WHAT are you?—A Painter.
 808. Are you a voter?—I am a voter; but I did not vote.
 809. Do you know the "Trumpet"?—Yes.
 810. Were you there on the day of the last election?—Yes.
 811. What time did you go there?—Half-past two in the afternoon.
 812. How long did you stay there?—About three quarters of an hour, or half an hour; I will not be positive.
 813. Did you see Sir Henry Stracey there?—No.
 814. Did you see Hunt?—Yes.
 815. And Samuel Smith?—Yes.
 816. Where you in the public room there?—Yes.
 817. Were there many persons there?—Sixteen in number, at the time I was there.
 818. Did you count them?—They counted them.
 819. Who did?—Hunt counted them.
 820. Did you hear Hunt say anything to the people in the room?—Yes.
 821. What was it he said?—He said, "Come in; shut the door; are you a voter; are you agoing to vote for Stracey?" and they said "Yes."

822. Did you hear the answer he got?—Yes.

823. What was the answer?—He said, "Look here;" he says "there is 5 s. a piece; there are 16 men; I have got 5 l."; and Mr. Smith made a reply. After that there was a dissatisfaction to the price, and he said he would be 1 l. out of his own pocket, and make it up to three half-crowns each.

824. I understood you to say something about dissatisfaction at the price?—Yes. Some were agreeable to take it, and some were not; I left the house.

825. Did you see them take it?—No.

826. There was an expression fell from you about dissatisfaction at the price?—Some were dissatisfied at taking 5 s.

827. Did they say so?—They said that was not enough.

828. Then it was that they spoke about 7s. 6d.?—Then Mr. Smith made a reply, and said he would be 1 l. out of his own pocket, and make it up to three half-crowns a man.

829. Then you went away?—I went away.

ROBERT WALKER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Sims Reeve.

R. Walker. 830. ARE you a voter?—Yes.
 831. Where do you live?—I am only a voter under this new Act.
 832. I want to know where you live in Norwich?—I live in Crook's Place.
 833. On the election day, were you at the "Trumpet"?—Yes.
 834. What time did you go to the "Trumpet"?—I went into the "Trumpet" about half-past two, as near as I can say.
 835. Did you see Bygrave there?—Yes, I did.
 836. Mr. Baron Martin.] Half-past two or three, was it?—I will not be certain whether it was half-past, or a little more it might be.
 837. Mr. Sims Reeve.] Did you see Hunt?—Yes.
 838. And Samuel Smith, the fowl dealer?—I see a man who they said was a fowl dealer; but I did not know his name.
 839. Were there several persons in the room?—Yes.
 840. Did any person count those who were in the room?—I believe there was 15 or 16 of them.

841. Did you hear anything said by Hunt about money?—Yes; he said were they all voters for Stracey?

842. What answer did he get?—They said, "Yes, yes."

843. After that, what did Hunt say?—He said he would give them 5 s. each.

844. What did the people say to that?—They grumbled at it.

845. Upon their grumbling, did you hear any further offer made?—They said, "I will give you 7 s. 6 d. each."

846. Who said that?—I believe it was Hunt.

847. Did that give satisfaction to any of them, or not; did they say so?—I do not exactly know.

848. What did you do after the offer of 7s. 6d. was made?—I did not stop.

849. You left the house?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.

850. How long were you there that day?—I might be there, perhaps, about half-an-hour.

851. You went in about two o'clock?—I went in about half-past; it might be a little more than that;

that; I did not leave my house till about half-past two.

852. Did you tell us what business you carry on?—Yes, I carry on gardening likewise; I am a bootmaker by trade.

853. Were you at home that day till two or half-past two?—Yes, I was.

854. Had you had anything to drink before you went to the “Trumpet”?—No, I had not anything to drink; that is what I went in there for.

Mr. GEORGE FULLER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

859. ARE you the landlord of the “Trumpet”?—Yes.

860. And were you so at the time of the last election?—Yes.

861. You had a good many people in your house, had you not, during that day?—Yes.

862. And there were so in the afternoon?—Yes.

863. Have you a wife attending to your business as well as yourself?—Yes.

864. And anybody else?—No; I might have some one else, occasionally, a servant.

865. Had you, that day, anybody else?—Yes, I believe I had; I have always a servant running about the house, as far as that goes.

866. Have you a room upstairs; there is a public room, is there not?—Yes.

867. Were the people drinking in the public room?—Well, no, I do not know that they were; there might be some.

868. You began by answering, “Well, I think there were.” Then you say “Well, I do not,” and so on. Give yourself a moment’s time to think; give a little time to it; it will be of importance to you; were there people drinking?—I cannot recollect; there might be.

869. Hunt has been here, and his memory is very bad, and so is Smith’s. I hope your house is not infected with bad memories?—I should not like to say that there had been some upstairs, if there was not.

870. I want to know what you do say?—There might be a glass or two, but there was not much ale went upstairs that day.

871. I am talking of the public room; you know what I mean?—Yes.

872. There were 16 or 18 people there, were there not, in the afternoon?—I had my house full of people all over the house, except the bed rooms.

873. It is no use having people in your house, unless they drink?—No; certainly not.

874. Were they drinking?—They were drinking all over the house; I cannot say how much they had up in the club room.

875. I suppose it was quite unimportant how much?—I do not recollect.

876. You did not keep any account that day?—No.

877. How did you know what you were to be paid then?—I took money for what I drew; and that is all I know.

878. Do you swear you were paid by the people who had the beer, for what beer they had at the time they had it?—Yes.

879. That you swear?—Yes.

880. You were yourself paid?—No; I do not say that, myself; I was not paid for all the beer that was drawn then.

855. Then you went into the market room, I suppose?—Yes, I did; I was in the bar, and I went into the market room,

856. Did you drink there?—I had nothing there but what I paid for.

857. Did you tell us whether you are a voter or not?—Yes; under the new Act I believe I came in.

858. You did not tell us this; did you vote upon this occasion?—No, I did not vote at all.

881. Who was?—My wife, of course, received money as well as myself.

882. Did you receive any money?—Yes; I did receive some money.

883. How much?—I cannot say.

884. Do not you keep any books?—No.

885. Do not you know how much money you received that day?—I might; I always count it up every morning, but I let it go after that, and I do not bring it to my memory.

886. Did you see Hunt there?—Yes.

887. Was he very drunk?—Yes, he was.

888. How did he get drunk?—By drinking ale.

889. At your house?—Yes.

890. Did he pay for it?—Yes.

891. Every time he had it?—Yes; there was one time in the morning, I recollect, that he had a quart of ale; and he said, “I will come and pay you in a minute”; that is all.

892. Did he?—He did directly after, for what I know.

893. Have you a license?—I believe I have.

894. Do not you know whether you have got a license or not?—Yes; I certainly do know that.

895. Why cannot you say you have got a license?—Yes.

896. I suppose that is granted every year?—Yes.

897. Just remember that, if you please. So you served him with a quart, and he promised to come down in a minute, and pay you?—Yes; I believe he did.

898. Do not you know whether he did?—Yes, he did pay me.

899. How much?—He paid me 8 d.

900. Hunt has been labouring under the idea, that he only paid a penny or two-pence at the most; that is the evidence I have?—He paid me 8 d. at one time, I believe; at least I took half a gallon of ale in at one time, and he said he would bring me the money in a minute, and he came, and brought me the 8 d.

901. Did he pay you anything more during the day?—No, not that I know of. I do not know that he did.

902. Were you paid any more during the day?—Yes, I took a lot.

903. What did you do with the money?—I put it in the till.

904. How much had you next morning?—I do not know.

905. You know Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

906. Did you see him at your house that day?—Yes.

907. Was he in the room where the men were?—Yes, I followed him into the room.

R. Walker.

1869.

Mr.
G. Fuller.

Mr. G. Fuller.
15 January 1869.

908. Do you know Mr. Bignold?—I know Sir Samuel Bignold.

909. I ask you whether you know Mr. John Bignold?—Is it a lame man?

910. I do not know?—I do not know, I am sure; I do not know him.

911. Was one of the Mr. Bignolds with Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

912. Will you swear he was not?—I should not like to swear that he was not.

913. Was the lame one there?—I saw him some time in the day, I believe.

914. At your house?—Yes; some time in the day.

915. What time in the day?—I cannot say.

916. Yes, indeed you can, and you will say?—I should not like to say.

917. About what time in the day did you see the lame Mr. Bignold?—I cannot say what time he was there; some time in the day.

918. About when?—I cannot say.

919. Was it 10 in the morning?—No.

920. Was it two in the afternoon?—I cannot say. I was so muddled with business that I should not like to tell you wrong.

921. Might it have been two in the afternoon?—I will not say.

922. Do you think it was about two?—I cannot say.

923. Was it in company with Sir Henry Stracey?—No; I do not think he was.

924. Will you swear he was not?—No, I should not like to swear it. I do not know.

925. Was he in company with young Mr. Stracey?—I do not know.

926. Do you believe he was?—I do not believe anything about it, because I do not know.

927. What is your belief?—I do not know, I am sure, whether he was or was not; I had so many people in my house.

928. You do not often have customers like Sir

Henry Stracey and Mr. Bignold; they do not come into the public room?—I must say I saw Sir Henry Stracey there.

929. Did you see Mr. Bignold there as well as Sir Henry Stracey?—I did.

930. Do tell me what time?—I did see him, but what time of day I cannot say. I should not like to tell you it was 10, if it was three or four o'clock.

931. I am very unwell; just for my sake tell me; it was the afternoon, was it not?—I do not know.

932. It was just about the time that the voters were beginning to think that they had been treated shabbily?—I cannot remember when he came in, but I do know I saw him there.

933. Do you remember the voters thinking the time was come for them to receive something?—I do not know anything of that.

934. Do not you know that they were waiting for him?—No.

935. Had you not heard anything said about it?—No.

936. Will you swear that?—Yes.

937. You swear that you had not heard a word from one of them about their expecting money?—Yes.

938. Not a word?—Not a word.

939. You have no notion what they were there for?—No.

940. Or that they were expecting money?—No.

941. Did you see Samuel Smith there?—Yes.

942. And Hunt?—Yes.

943. Hunt was very drunk, was he not?—Yes.

944. You let people get very drunk in your house?—I do at times.

945. And you heard not one word about money?—No.

Mr. WILLIAM WEBSTER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

Mr. W. Webster.

946. I BELIEVE you are the proprietor of the Hotel, the "Maid's Head"?—Yes.

947. And have been so for some time?—Yes, for several years.

948. The hotel that the Bar patronise when they come to the assizes?—Yes.

949. And have for a very long time with very great satisfaction?—Yes.

950. You are a large cab proprietor?—Yes; I keep the carriages and cabs.

951. Did you let many of them out upon the day of the election?—My men went out in the regular way in the morning at 10 o'clock.

952. Did you let many of them out, you yourself; do you know of many of them being let out to private individuals?—No; I let one carriage to Mr. Allen for the day.

953. The doctor?—Yes.

954. He was the only one, was he?—Yes, it was a private carriage; that was the only one that I let.

955. You voted, I suppose?—Yes, I did.

956. You voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, I voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

957. What time did you vote?—I voted, I think it was between 9 and 10 in the morning.

958. You are a very warm supporter of Sir Henry Stracey?—I do not know; I have known

Sir Henry Stracey for many years, and Sir Henry Stracey has known me ever since I was a boy.

959. You are a very warm supporter of his?—As regards that, I did all that I possibly could for his interest; I never canvassed.

960. I am now going to endeavour to show what you did do; after voting, did you come back to your own house?—Yes.

961. How long did you remain in your own house, before you went out again?—I was in and out attending to my business; I do not know that I left for any distance after coming from voting; I cannot tax my memory that I went any distance.

962. You cannot remember going to any place in particular?—I remember going; I forget whether it was before I voted, or after; but I went out with one of my flies or cabs on to St. Augustin's-road; that is all.

963. After voting, did you learn, about two o'clock, or sometime in the middle of the day, that matters were going badly for Sir Henry Stracey?—I heard for and against; I do not know that I can remember exactly.

964. Do not let you and me have any mistake about these matters?—I should be very sorry, sir.

965. Do you mean that you do not remember going going to any place in particular, that afternoon?—I was at my own house.

966. I am treating you now in accordance with what all my friends tell me, that you are a thoroughly respectable man, and I give you the opportunity, if it be the fact, of telling me so without dragging it from you; are you not aware that you did go to some place in particular that afternoon?—I am quite aware of that.

967. Where was it?—I went to the bank.

968. I was quite sure you would not drive me to anything unpleasant. Whose bank?—Harvey and Hudson's.

969. What time was that?—I should say about noon time.

970. Later than that?—I cannot tell you, otherwise I should be happy to do so.

971. About one, was it?—It might be so.

972. Did you go to pay money in?—No.

973. Did you go to take money out?—I went to get money out.

974. How much?—£. 200.

975. Upon your own cheque?—Yes, upon my own cheque.

976. That is so, is it?—Yes, my own, "to self."

977. Was it your own drawing?—My own cheque from my own cheque book.

978. What did you take it in?—I took it in half-sovereigns.

979. What did you do with it?—I took it home, and gave 50*l.* to my wife, and kept the rest myself; I have got some now.

980. You gave 50*l.* to your wife; what for?—To give change, and to pay the small bills or anything of that kind.

981. Was it not rather an inconvenient day to be seized with a fit of paying small bills?—I should have got it before, but the fact is, I had no change in the house, and I require a great deal of change; I mostly keep a good deal of change.

982. You took all this in half-sovereigns for the convenience of the thing?—I did not ask for half-sovereigns. They said they had got 200*l.* worth of half-sovereigns ready counted up, and I said, "Very well then, that will do".

983. It so happened that Messrs. Harveys' Bank are Conservatives in the town?—I do not know; yes, I think they are.

984. Think! Mr. Webster. No, Mr. Webster, you do not think. Is he not one of the staunchest of your lot?—That is true, so he is.

985. So it happened, that at this staunch Conservative Bank there were 200*l.* in half-sovereigns that happened to be counted up?—Just so.

986. And you happened to go with a cheque for exactly that amount?—I was not going—

987. Did you not think it very odd?—I did not ask for half-sovereigns.

988. You must have been very much surprised?—I do not know; I wanted small change.

989. Four hundred half-sovereigns; think, Mr. Webster; how did you take it home?—I did not find any difficulty in taking it home.

990. How did you do it?—I took it in my pocket.

991. In a bag?—I took a bag.

992. Did you take a bag for it?—Yes.

993. How came you to do that?—I thought that I should require a bag.

994. Why?—I mostly do.

995. Not unless you contemplate having half-sovereigns, do you?—I beg your pardon.

996. So this happened to be ready counted out and then you took it?—Yes I did.

8.

997. Fifty pounds you gave to your wife?—Yes.

998. We shall probably be obliged to call her unless you save her the trouble which I dare say you will be glad to do; had you and your wife arranged how that money was to be spent, or to whom it was to be paid?—Not at all; she wanted it; she has one cash-box, I have another, and she pays her bills ready money, and I do the same; and she requires money to give change for cheques and notes.

999. Did you hand over any of that money to anybody else that day?—I did not.

1000. Did it remain in the house, the whole of that 150*l.*, that day?—I did not pay anybody that day.

1001. Did you part with any of the 150 sovereigns that day?—No, not any.

1002. Not any?—No.

1003. Do you know Hunt?—I cannot say that I do.

1004. Arthur Hunt?—No.

1005. Do you know Samuel Smith?—No.

1006. Did you go out after you had handed these 100 half-sovereigns to your wife?—No, only just into the street, or just on to Tombland, the first polling place.

1007. Does Allen live near you?—Yes, Mr. Allen, the surgeon, does.

1008. Did you see him that afternoon?—Yes.

1009. Before or after you got the 400 half-sovereigns?—I saw him in the morning, and I saw saw him in the afternoon.

1010. Then you saw him both before and after?—Yes.

1011. How soon before?—I cannot say; I saw him passing in his gig.

1012. To speak to him, I mean?—I did not see him to speak to him in the morning; I saw him on Tombland in the afternoon.

1013. At what time?—It might be about two o'clock or a quarter past two, or something like that.

1014. Had you any talk with him about the election?—Not two words; I merely said, "Well how are you going on," or something of that kind.

1015. You did not tell him of this remarkable flight of half-sovereigns from Harvey's Bank into your pocket, did you?—No, I did not.

1016. You never mentioned that?—No.

1017. Have you ever mentioned it?—I thought there was no occasion for it.

1018. Have you ever mentioned it?—No.

1019. Not to anybody?—No.

1020. This is the first time you have ever told it to anybody?—Yes.

1021. You never mentioned it to Sir Henry Stracey or to any of those parties?—Certainly not.

1022. You are quite sure about that?—Yes, I am quite sure about that.

1023. That you never mentioned it to anybody?—Yes.

1024. Did you tell your wife?—I gave her 50*l.*; therefore she knew.

1025. Did you tell her you had got the whole of that money in half-sovereigns?—Yes.

1026. You say you have got some of it now?—Yes; between 20*l.* and 30*l.*

1027. You have been spending from it since?—Yes but I have more than that in my cash-box.

1028. Had you nothing in your cash-box when you went for these half-sovereigns?—No.

c 2

1029. It

Mr.
W. Webster.
15 January
1869.

Mr. 1029. It was empty when you went for these
W. Webster. half sovereigns?—Yes, it was empty; there was 15 January neither cheque nor gold in it, nor yet in my 1869. pocket, nor yet had my wife any then.

1030. Sir Henry Stracey always stays at your house?—He does not always come to my house, because the distance is only five miles; Sir Henry Stracey comes in, but he does not stop at my house.

1031. When he stops anywhere, he stops at your house?—Sometimes he goes to the “Royal”; and Sir Henry Stracey would not go to mine perhaps once in 12 months.

1032. He held his first meeting there, did he not?—Yes.

1033. And his sons are constantly there, are they not?—Yes.

1034. Did you see either of his sons that day?—I saw them all.

1035. Did you see them before you got this money?—I saw them morning and afternoon.

1036. Had you any talk with them about the election?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

1037. You said that you mostly do take a bag; do I understand that you are in the habit of going to the bank for a quantity of small money?—Very frequently.

1038. Was this an unusual thing, your going for a quantity of small money at the bank?—I cannot say that I ever went for that large amount before; I cannot tax my memory with it; but at all events when I have notes and cheques I take them to the bank, and I take a bag and bring money, so that I can give change for them.

1039. Do you cash cheques sometimes for your customers?—There are gentlemen coming there both night and morning; and I am obliged to keep a certain amount of gold by me, else I should not carry on my business.

1040. You did not ask yourself for the half-sovereigns, but it was suggested by the clerk as I understand?—I did not ask for half sovereigns; certainly not.

1041. With regard to the meeting at your house, you have got one of the largest rooms in Norwich?—Yes, a very good room for the purpose of a public meeting.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

1042. My learned friend seems to know something about it; he mentioned a clerk who was the clerk at the bank who gave you these 400 half-sovereigns?—When I went into the bank I mostly go to Mr. Lownd; he was not there; and as I was going to the clerk opposite he waved his hands to me, as much as to say, “You go to the other;” I went and I put down the cheque first, and I said I wanted change for 200*l*.

1043. Who was the clerk to whom you said that?—Todd, a small man, was the one that gave it me.

Mrs. MARY HARDIMENT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

Mrs. Mary 1044. WHAT is the name of your husband?—
Hardiment. Robert.

1045. What is he?—A fellmonger.

1046. Living in Norwich?—He is.

1047. When did you see him last?—About three weeks ago.

1048. Where did you see him then?—He left me in my house.

1049. To go where?—I do not know.

1050. Did you not ask him before he went?—I never ask him.

1051. You let your husband do what he likes without inquiry?—I do.

1052. Do you know where he is?—I did when I last heard from him.

1053. Where was he?—In Paris.

1054. When did you hear from him last?—I think about a week or 10 days back.

1055. What is he doing there?—I do not know.

1056. You let your husband go to Paris, not knowing what his business is?—He is often out.

1057. When is he coming back?—I cannot say.

1058. Do you know where to write to him?—I do not.

1059. When he was in Paris, what hotel was he at?—Not any.

1060. Where then?—He is staying with friends of mine.

1061. What are their names?—Laing.

1062. Where do they live?—In Paris.

1063. Where?—I cannot say.

1064. Did he get a subpoena?—I did.

1065. And did he?—No.

1066. Did you get a subpoena for him?—Yes.

1067. When?—Last Saturday night.

1068. Not before?—No.

1069. Have you any idea when he will come back?—I cannot say.

1070. But are you not anxious about him?—No.

1071. You know, do you not, that he is accused of bribing the electors?—I do not know anything about the election; I had nothing to do with it.

1072. Do you mean that you do not know that your husband is accused of bribing the electors?—Only what I have heard to-day.

1073. You have heard that?—Yes.

1074. Do not you know that he is out of the way to avoid being called?—No.

1075. Do you believe he is?—No.

1076. Upon your solemn oath, is he not keeping out of our way to your knowledge?—No.

1077. And for the purpose of avoiding being examined?—No; I do not think he is out of the way for this.

1078. Have you the least doubt he is?—No.

1079. Have you the least doubt that he is keeping out of the way to avoid this inquiry?—I do not know what he is away for.

1080. Do you not, upon your solemn oath, believe that he is out of the way to avoid this inquiry?—No; I do not think he is.

1081. What do you think he is out of the way for?—After business when he left me.

1082. Do you mean to say that you believe that he is away upon business?—Yes, he is.

1083. And not to avoid this inquiry?—No; I do not think he is.

1084. Do you know where to write to him?—No.

1085. Have you written to him?—No.

1086. Not

1086. Not ever since he has been away?—
I cannot write, so that I could not write to him.
1087. Have you got any children?—No.
1088. But is there anybody who does write for you?—No.
1089. You have a manager of the business, have you?—Yes.
1090. Thirkettle is his name?—Yes.
1091. Can he write?—I believe he can.
1092. Do not you know?—Yes, I think he can write; that is what we have him for.
1093. Is he here?—Yes.
1094. Had you a letter from your husband?—
No, I have not had any.
1095. Then how do you know he is staying with your friends?—Because I have an aunt in Paris.
1096. That was a letter from your aunt, was it?—Yes.
1097. You do not know where she lives?—I cannot tell you; not the number, and that like.
1098. Can you tell me the street?—No, I cannot tell you the street.
1099. Can you tell me her own name?—Her name is Laing.

1100. Her Christian name, I mean?—
Elizabeth.
1101. She wrote to you, did she?—Yes.
1102. What did she say?—She was here; she came to see me at Christmas.
1103. Mr. Baron Martin.] Has she gone home again?—I do not know.
1104. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Where did the letter come from?—From her.
1105. You must know whether she has gone home or not?—I have not heard, because she has been staying in London.
1106. She is staying in London, and your husband is visiting her in Paris; is that what you mean; your husband cannot be with Mrs.
Laing in Paris, if Mrs. Laing is in London?—Mr.
Laing is there.
1107. Have you heard from Mr. Laing?—
No.
1108. Have you not heard about your husband since he has been away?—Yes, about the business.
1109. Would you mind showing me Mrs.
Laing's letter?—No, I have not got it.

Mrs. Mary
Hardiment.
1869.

EDWARD THIRKETTLE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

1110. You can read and write?—Yes.
1111. And you are the manager of this business, are you, of Mr. Hardiment?—I am clerk to him.
1112. Where is he?—I do not know.
1113. What is he doing?—He is gone from there.
1114. You being his confidential clerk, what is he gone for?—After business.
1115. Where to?—To Paris.
1116. Have you heard from him in Paris?—
Yes.
1117. When did you hear last?—I heard from him last, I think, on the 6th of January.
1118. Have you got the letter?—I think not.
1119. When is he coming back?—That I do not know.
1120. Do you think he will be back before this inquiry is ended?—I wish he might, for I want him.
1121. There seems to be a combined wish;
cannot you get him back?—If I could find him,
I would write to him.
1122. Do not you know where to write to him?—I do not.
1123. Where did he write to you from before?
—No. 122 Rue de Bas.
1124. At whose house?—At the house of
Mr. Laing.
1125. Did he tell you when he was coming back?—No.
1126. Did he say anything about when he was coming back?—No.
1127. Did he say why he was away?—No.
1128. You do not know why he is away?—No.
1129. Not the least?—No.
1130. Mr. Baron Martin.] I thought you said he was away upon business?—Yes.
1131. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] You know he is charged with extensive bribery?—I have heard so.
1132. When did you hear so?—Some time ago; it is common talk.
1133. Before he went, or after?—I did not hear much of him before; I have had plenty of inquiry since he has been gone.

1134. Did you hear of it before he went?—
I did not know that there was any charge against him before he went.
1135. Did you, before he went, hear the people say that he had been bribing?—Yes, I have heard talk of that kind; public house talk.
1136. I suppose he heard of it too?—That I cannot say.
1137. Have you a doubt?—I cannot say that.
1138. You know that he is pretty extensively charged with it?—I have heard plenty of talk upon it now; it is the talk through the city.
1139. Have you heard that he is charged with bribing as many as 40 people?—I have not.
1140. Have you heard that he is charged with bribing as many as 60 people?—I have not.
1141. How many have you heard that he is charged with bribing?—Not any particular quantity.
1142. But a goodish lot?—I cannot say; I know it is extensively circulated.
1143. Did you know of a subpoena being sent to your master?—Yes.
1144. Have you let him know of it?—No.
1145. Why have you not?—Because I cannot communicate with him; I do not know where he is.
1146. Have you written any letter to Laing?
—No.
1147. Why have you not?—Because I have not wanted; I have only written to him when I have been requested to do so.
1148. You say the last letter was directed Rue de Bas that came from Laing's?—That is the name of the people who reside in the house.
1149. You have not heard from him since?—
No, I have not.
1150. There has been a subpoena served at his house?—There was one came by post.
1151. You know he is charged with bribery; why did not you write to Laing's?—There was no necessity to do that.

E.
Thirkettle.

E.
Thirkettle.
—
15 January
1869.

1152. Not when your master is accused of this crime?—I am not mixed up at all with it.

1153. You ought, as a good servant, to let him know?—I have not done so, because it is no business of mine.

1154. Is it not because you know perfectly well he is keeping out of the way?—I do not know that.

1155. Are you not perfectly confident that he is keeping out of the way?—I am not perfectly confident he is keeping out of the way.

1156. Have you any doubt about it?—Yes, I have very great doubts; he is gone upon business, and I had a business letter from him.

1157. Why did not you write to him?—I did when this letter required an answer.

1158. Do not you believe that he is keeping out of the way to avoid this inquiry?—I do not.

1159. Do you believe it?—I do not.

1160. Upon your solemn oath (you are before your townspeople) I ask you, upon your oath, do you not believe he is keeping out of the way?—I cannot say.

1161. Do not you?—Not according to what he told me. If he is, it is more than I know.

1162. What did he tell you?—He told me he was going to Paris on business.

1163. Does your mistress correspond with him?—No; she cannot write.

1164. Never does write?—I have never seen her write. I have always heard her say she cannot.

MR. JOHN TIMOTHY TODD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

Mr.
J. T. Todd.

1165. ARE you a Clerk in Messrs. Harvey & Hudson's Bank?—I am.

1166. And have been so for any length of time?—Eleven years and more.

1167. Were you at the bank on the day of the election?—Yes.

1168. You have only just this moment been subpoenaed, I believe?—Just five minutes since.

1169. Have you had communication with anybody since?—No.

1170. Nobody has spoken to you about it; be cautious?—Spoken about what; about this subpoena?

1171. Had anybody had communication with you about the reason for your subpoena, since you received it?—No.

1172. Do be cautious?—There is no occasion to be cautious; nothing more was said than that I just mentioned; that I was coming up here, and the manager said "Go"; that is all.

1173. That is all that passed?—That is all.

1174. Have you not spoken to anybody else about it?—To no one.

1175. You are quite sure about that?—I do not think it is necessary to answer that question.

1176. You are quite sure that you have spoken to no one?—I decline to answer it again.

1177. Has anybody spoken to you?—I came with our cashier; the other one who is summoned with me.

1178. Have you and he talked about what you were summoned for?—We have not come to any detail about it.

1179. Do you know what you are summoned for?—I did not read the summons.

1180. Do you know the reason why you are coming here?—I suppose it is to be questioned about anything you like to ask me about. The election inquiry is going on here; that is all I know.

1181. Do you know anything about 400 half-sovereigns?—I know about a very great many half-sovereigns. If you will ask me something definite I will answer you; you can ask me a definite question.

1182. You are obtaining the applause, I have no doubt, of some thorough Conservatives. Just attend to me. Do you know anything about 400 half-sovereigns that you paid upon the day of the election?—I paid 400 half sovereigns on the day of the election.

1183. To whom?—To William Webster.

1184. How came you to pay it in that particular form?—Because he asked me.

1185. Had you them ready, or what?—No.

1186. How did you get them?—Out of our safe; it is an iron one.

1187. You counted them, of course?—Yes.

1188. Did you pack them up in any way?—No; I think he brought some purses for them himself. I had nothing to do with that.

1189. Did you see him put the half-sovereigns into the purses?—Yes.

1190. Can you tell me whether there were more than one purse?—I think there were two; but that I paid very little attention to.

1191. Did you mention to anybody in the house that those 400 half-sovereigns were wanted?—Yes; I had to ask our head cashier for them. I had not so much with me.

1192. And you got them from your head cashier, did you?—I did.

1193. Your head cashier delivered them to you?—He did.

1194. Is he the gentleman who is here?—Yes.

1195. Did Mr. Webster say why he wanted it in this somewhat peculiar form?—No, not a word.

1196. Can you tell me the time of day it was?—No, I do not know the time.

1197. Could you give me any idea what time it was; I suppose you could tell me by your entries, could you not, about the time?—I should think it was about two o'clock; I am not sure to half an hour.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

1198. I believe you voted for Tillett and Russell, did you not?—I did not.

1199. Did you vote at all?—No.

1200. Did you take any part in the election?—Not at all.

1201. Will you tell us exactly how long Mr. Webster was in the bank when he came for this money?—I should think five minutes.

1202. Were those half sovereigns loose when you did them up for him, or were they in rouleaus in the safe?—

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] He said he had not the amount; he had to go to the cashier and take it from him.

Witness.] We keep our gold in 100 l. I should suppose it took about a minute to count 100 l.

1203. Mr.

1203. Mr. Rodwell.] What did Mr. Webster say when he came in?—"Will you cash me this cheque?"

1204. What did you say to him?—How will you have it; and he said, "In half-sovereigns."

1205. That is the best of your recollection what passed?—That is all that passed.

1206. You got it for him?—Yes.

1207. Had you seen him in conversation with any other of the clerks in the bank?—No.

1208. Did he go to the chief clerk himself?—No.

1209. He has banked some time with Harveys I believe?—Yes, I think so. I cannot tell how long, but some years.

1210. Did you make any observation to anybody in the bank at the time he had those half-sovereigns?—I went and asked our head cashier for the half-sovereigns.

1211. After you had got the half-sovereigns, did you say anything to Mr. Webster or to any of the clerks, after those half-sovereigns had been given to him?—I did not say anything to Mr. Webster at all.

1212. Did you say anything to anybody else?—I told our cashier what I had done; that is all.

1213. You made no remark of any kind or description?—No.

1214. Did you see those half-sovereigns taken out of the safe?—No.

1215. In what state were the half-sovereigns when you received them; were they done up or loose?—As we usually keep them, in 100 l.

1216. Then you handed them over to him?—I counted them first, and handed them to him.

1217. But when you put them on the counter from the safe, they were done up in 100 l. each?—Yes, as we usually keep them.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

1218. What is the name of the cashier?—Mr. Lownd.

Mr. WILLIAM CHARLES LOWND, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

1219. You are Cashier in Messrs. Harveys' bank?—I am.

1220. You remember the day of the election?—Yes.

1221. Do you remember the last witness coming to you for some money?—Yes.

1222. To cash a cheque of Mr. Webster's?—Yes.

1223. Did he ask you for any particular coin?—For half-sovereigns.

1224. What number of half-sovereigns were you obliged to give him?—Four hundred half-sovereigns.

1225. Are they kept in bags, 100 in each bag or not?—£. 100 in each bag.

1226. So that you gave him two bags of 100 l. each in half-sovereigns; was any reason given that you heard for his taking it in that particular way?—No.

1227. I suppose you did not ask for any?—I did not.

1228. You did not make any inquiry; I dare say you knew the reason what it was wanted for?—No; I passed them on, as I was requested to do, without any remark or comment.

1229. Except, I dare say, in your own mind?—That is in my own mind.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

1230. Whom did you give them to?—To Mr. Todd.

1231. How many hundred half-sovereigns had you at that time in the safe?—I do not know.

1232. You keep them for your customers?—Yes.

1233. It is unusual in Norwich to have money in half-sovereigns?—No.

1234. I suppose persons engaged in business require those small amounts, and that is why you keep them?—Yes.

RICHARD MACKLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

1235. You keep the "Woolpack" Inn; is that an inn or a public-house?—The "Woolpack" Inn, St. Mary's, Duke-street.

1236. Do you recollect the day of election?—Yes.

1237. Were many persons at your house?—There were several persons backwards and forwards in the course of the day.

1238. Do you know how they voted?—No.

1239. Did you vote?—I did.

1240. For whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

1241. How many voters do you think were at a time in your house?—I could not say that; I was busy at my bar, drawing refreshments; there might be 10, or 20, or 30; they were going backward and forward; I could not say the number.

1242. The same persons, or fresh persons?—Fresh, and going backwards and forwards; they did not keep there all day.

1243. Was a gentleman of the name of Allen there?—I do not know the name.

1244. Dr. Allen?—I know Dr. Allen very well, but he was not there on the day; he is my own doctor; he was not there on the day.

1245. Was Hardiment?—He might go backward and forward, but I do not recollect seeing him.

1246. Would you venture to say he was not there?—I believe he was not there.

1247. Would you swear he was not?—I would say yes, but I did not speak to him.

1248. You will not swear he was not there?—I would not say that; at my bar I might be drawing and giving change.

1249. Was there a person called Henry Bradbury there?—Yes.

1250. Does he go by the name of Big-headed Ben?—No, I believe not; I think he goes by the name of Tin Ribs.

1251. Is he called Pot-headed Bradbury?—Sometimes.

1252. Is he sometimes called Old Bob?—That I do not know.

1253. What was Bradbury doing there?—Sitting about there, getting his half-pint, as usual. He is next door neighbour to me.

R. Mackley.

1869.

1254. Had he a good number of half-pints that day?—I should think not.

1255. Do you know?—I should say about two or three half-pints.

1256. Were the voters there when he was there?—There might be some of the voters, but they were not all voters; some of them were voters.

1257. Who paid you for the beer that was drunk?—Those that ordered it.

1258. Come, nobody else?—Nobody else.

1259. Do you mean to say that all the beer you gave out that day was paid for by the persons that drank it?—I am on my oath; it was in sixpences and threepences. The persons that came to my house for a glass of ale, I gave them change for sixpence or threepence, whatever it might that they paid, or a shilling; I had no orders from any persons whatsoever to give away one pot of beer that day.

1260. Do you mean to swear that every person that was served with liquor at your house that day, paid for it himself?—I say so; I was asked the question, "Did all persons that came to my house on that day, paid for their own refreshments," and I said, "Yes, they did do so"; they did pay for their own refreshments.

1261. Every one of them?—Every one of them.

1262. Did Bradbury pay only for what he himself had?—I do not know what he paid; he paid me for what he called for.

1263. Did he pay for anything but what he himself had; you know perfectly well what I mean?—He never paid me no more than for about three half-pints that day; that is what he had himself; he might have given my son-in-law half-a-pint when I was not in the room; I do not know about that; I am speaking about myself.

1264. Did Bradbury go away with any of the voters?—That I do not know.

1265. Did you see him go away with any of them?—I did not; I kept to my bar.

1266. Did you see persons come for the voters, and Bradbury prevent there going to them?—I did not.

1267. Are you quite certain of that?—Quite certain.

1268. Did you prevent their going to them?—I did not.

1269. Can you tell me of any persons who were present of those voters; you have told me Dr. Allen was not, and then I understand you to say Hardiment was not; was Mr. Wiseman there?—Mr. Wiseman was not there.

1270. You did not see him at all?—I did not see him.

1271. Will you say he was not there; do I understand he was not there at all?—I did not see him.

1272. Do you go further than that; you did not see him?—I do not say anything further than that; I did not see him in my house.

1273. There are two Wisemans, I think, father and son?—Yes, I know them both, and neither of them was there.

1274. Was John Staff, of Queen Caroline-yard, there?—He lives next door, and is backward and forward every day in the year.

1275. William Browne, of Golden Gate-street, was he there?—No doubt he was there.

1276. Emanuel Senior Howard?—I do not know that; I did not see him.

1277. Do you know Alfred Money, of Rose-yard?—I do not.

1278. You do not know him at all?—No, I do not.

1279. Do you recollect in the afternoon of the day of election, about a quarter past three, or, say, between three or half-past three, some of the voters being in the bar and the tap room?—Yes, many of them.

1280. Do you recollect somebody coming and saying, "He is here now"?—No.

1281. Do you recollect a rush upstairs of the voters at that time?—There was parties in the room; in all the rooms on the day; the bar was not big enough to hold them, consequentially they went whence they could find a seat; there were some upstairs and some in the bar.

1282. Do you recollect about a quarter past three some of the voters making a rush upstairs?—There was no rush; no noise and no rushing at all, but they got into a place where they could sit down.

1283. At that time did not somebody call out, "Come up-stairs"?—I do not know; I did not hear it.

1284. Was a baker of the name of Freestone there?—I do not know him.

1285. Does any room of yours up-stairs hold about 20 people?—Yes.

1286. Do you recollect that room that would hold 20 people being full about a quarter past three that afternoon?—I should think my rooms would hold 300.

1287. I ask you do you recollect some 20 people in the room at a quarter past three?—No.

1288. Did you see anybody with money?—I did not.

1289. A bag of money?—I did not.

1290. Did you hear the persons told to go upstairs one by one?—No.

1291. And did the persons go up one by one on the landing?—They went up as they could get up. I do not know whether they went up one by one. I was at my bar. I could not say.

1292. You remained in the bar?—Yes, I remained in the bar right against the door; joining on the door to go up-stairs.

1293. Was a person of the name of Bart there?—I do not recollect.

1294. A person of the name of Betts?—No.

1295. A person of the name of Goodwin?—Yes.

1296. What is Goodwin?—A man that makes shoes for me.

1297. Is he a voter?—Yes.

1298. Had you any processions from your house about that time?—No.

1299. Before the election?—Yes.

1300. That would be about the time, would it not?—No, long before.

1301. How long before?—Say a fortnight.

1302. None after a fortnight?—No.

1303. You swear that, do you?—Yes, I swear that.

1304. None from your house at any time after that?—Only one, and that was a few flags that I had of my own; that is all.

1305. They did not go by themselves, did they?—No.

1306. Who carried them?—I carried them myself.

1307. More

1307. More flags than one?—Yes, half a dozen.

1308. Were you the whole procession?—I do not say that.

1309. Who else was there with you?—I took them into the market-place, and give them to one to carry, and another to carry, any little boys;—boys a foot high, or anything like that.

1310. There is rather a small population there?—Rather so, and very needy.

1311. Only boys a foot high?—Three or four feet high.

1312. Cannot you tell about some other processions?—No.

1313. You swear there was no other?—I do not know about other people. I know what I done myself, that is all I know.

1314. Processions with bands?—Various times in the city at different places, not at mine.

1315. Torches?—No, not at mine.

1316. Was there a committee room of the Conservatives at your house?—No.

1317. Did any Conservatives meet there?—No.

1318. Was not it the Conservatives' head quarters in that part of the town?—I do not know; I did not attend to them.

1319. You let no rooms to them?—I let my rooms to the opposite party for about three months, if that is what you mean.

1320. You know what I mean; I am asking you whether you let it to the Conservatives; you know that?—I say no.

1321. You swear upon your oath you did not let it to them?—I am upon my oath; I say no.

1322. Now, reminding you of it, do you persist in the answer that you did not?—I did not let my room to the Conservatives during this election.

1323. Had the Conservatives the room for nothing?—They never were there; they did not come there.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.

1324. You were telling my learned friend something about the other party at your house just now when he stopped you; used the Liberal Association for promoting Mr. Tillet's election to assemble at your house?—Yes.

1325. And hold meetings there?—Yes.

1326. Did they call themselves the Electoral Union for promoting the return of Mr. Tillet; was that the name they went by?—I think they called it the organisation, that is what they called it; it was for the purpose of sending Mr. Tillet to Parliament, that was the ground-work of it.

1327. How long before the election came off had those meetings been held at your house, the organisation meetings?—They were there three months.

1328. Was Mr. Harper there; you know him, do you not?—I know Mr. Harper; I think he was chairman or something of that sort.

1329. He was chairman or something of the kind of the Organisation Society for the promotion of Mr. Tillet's election?—Yes.

1330. And they had been meeting there for three months; had they been holding meetings of an evening?—Once a week; I think it was on the Thursday evening.

1331. The week before the election were the meetings more frequent?—They gave me what they called a turn for three months, and they took it elsewhere after that.

1332. Upon the day of the election, about which my learned friend has been asking you, did Mr. Harper come about two or three o'clock in the afternoon?—Mr. Harper came to my bar and saw me waiting upon my customers; he did come.

1333. At that time, when Mr. Harper came, there were the persons whom you have described to my learned friend, a great many people, drinking in the house?—Yes, and standing about.

1334. When Mr. Harper came there about that time in the afternoon, and those people were standing about, what did he say?—Mr. Harper said, "What are the men doing here, Mackley?"

1335. What did you say to that?—I said, "Harper, they are all working men, and they want a day's pay to go and vote." I told him I had no money to pay the men with.

1336. You said that to Harper?—Yes, I said that to Harper; I said, "It is no use you speaking to those men, unless you are in a position to give those men a day's pay."

1337. What did Harper say to that?—Harper, he asked me whether I would give him a quarter of an hour.

1338. Did he say what for?—Till he would go and see his committee. He returned again in a quarter of an hour, and he asked me whether I would let him go and see the men.

1339. The men were still in the house, were they?—Yes; I then said again, "It is no use unless you are prepared with a day's pay for every man that is in the house."

1340. What did he say to that?—He said, "That is all right now, Mackley." I then denied him a-going in the room. I said, "I might get myself into a muddle." When he told me it was all right, he asked me to go and see the men. I refused to let that man go in the room.

1341. You said something to him when you refused to let him go and see the men after he had said, "It is all right"; he had got the money; what did you say?—I said I should be liable to get myself into trouble; it looked like bribery to me. I will not allow you to go.

1342. Then what did you do?—He said then, "If you will not allow me to go, it is all up. We have lost the election." And he walked away.

1343. When he asked you to let him have a quarter of an hour to consult his committee, when he came back again, I want you just to tell me again what was it he said when he said it was all right?—He said it was all right now. I did not know what he meant; he did not show me any money; I saw nothing.

1344. Then you had said to him, "It is no use unless you can give each of these men a day's pay"?—Yes.

1345. He then said to you, "Let me have a quarter of an hour to see my committee." I want you to recollect exactly what it was when he came back and said, "It is all right now, Mackley"?—He wanted to go up and see the men; then I repeated the same words again, "It is no use unless you can pay the men a day's pay." He said, "It is all right."

1346. When he said, "It is all right now," did he say anything about having got the money?—

D

No;

R. Mackley.

15 January
1869.

R. Mackley. No; he said, "That is all right; I can settle with them now." That is all he did say.
 15 January 1869.

1347. While Harper was there, and the men were round about the bar, did you see Harper take out any money, or put any money upon the counter?—I did not speak to the men on the day.

1348. While Harper was there, coming in and out, talking about going to his committee, and so forth, did you see him?—I understood the word wrong; I thought you were speaking about the men at that time. It is all right about Harper.

1349. Did you see Harper put any money on the counter, or offer any money to any voters, while he was coming in and going out?—I did not.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

1350. You had a strong objection, as I understand, to bribery in your house?—I do not understand that.

1351. I understood you to say that you would not let him go upstairs because you thought there might be bribery, to which you objected?—I thought that I might get myself into a muddle; that is what I said about it. I did not wish him to do so.

1352. Will you tell me why, if you objected to bribery lest you should get yourself into trouble, you mentioned that none of the men would vote unless they got a day's pay?—The men said so; and he told me they would rather go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey plumpers before they would go and vote for Mr. Tillett, if Mr. Tillett did not pay them; this was the whole argument, "If Mr. Tillett's party don't pay us a day's pay in the afternoon between three and four o'clock, we will all go and plump for Sir Henry Stracey"; and they stuck to their words.

1353. What I have asked you as an intelligent witness is, why, if you did not want to countenance bribery, did you mention to Harper that they would not vote without a day's pay?—It was common to all.

Mr. JOSHUA HARPER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

Mr. J. Harper. 1365. HAVE you been sitting in court the last 20 minutes?—Yes.

1366. You heard what that gentleman who has just left the box said about you; is it true?—Not all of it.

1367. Tell us what the true part of it is?—The quarter of an hour is not true.

1368. Did you go there in the afternoon?—I went twice.

1369. What was the first time you went?—The first time I went was about half-past one.

1370. Had you any conversation with the last witness?—I had.

1371. Mr. Baron Martin.] What happened when you went there at half-past one?—I said to Mackley, "Mackley, what about these voters you have got here?" he said they wanted something. I said, "We cannot bribe"; after two or three words (I cannot say what passed), he takes me into his back room. I said, "Mackley, you do not want to be afraid, tell us what you want"; and I think I said to him at that time, "How many voters have you got?" he then said, "From 30 to 40." "Well," I said, "what 1354. But why did you mention it?—They mentioned it to me.

1355. Why did you mention it to Harper?—Because the men asked me to do so; they asked me whether they could get a day's pay. I said, "I have got none, you must go to Tillett's party; I have got none here." I said, "Here they are backward and forward." I had got four in the room; Mr. Gilmore was one: I said, "Go and ask those men, and they will tell you."

1356. Mr. Baron Martin.] They asked them to go to Tillett's party, what for?—To get this day's pay; they would not go without.

1357. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] You did mention it to Harper?—The man was there; I told him of it myself.

1358. Why did you tell him of it?—There was a man standing right against him to ask him the same question.

1359. Why did you tell him?—I might as well tell him as the man.

1360. Did you tell him for the purpose of getting a day's pay?—It was no benefit to me; I said they will not vote unless they can get a day's pay.

1361. Did you tell him that, that the men might get a day's pay?—I left it to his own opinion whether they did or did not.

1362. Why then, when he came back and said he was ready to arrange things, did you not let him go in?—I did not let him go in; I did not want him to go in and get myself into no muddle.

1363. Why did you mention what the men wanted?—Because he asked for a quarter of an hour to go home after something; that is the cause why. Then I thought he had got the money to get and do it with.

about them"? There was some hesitation about his answer, and I said, "Come, now, tell us what they want." "Well," he said something about a day's work, the exact words I cannot give you; but he said afterwards, "They must be half-sovereigns or sovereigns." "Well," I said, "I will see you again," and I left the house. I went again about three o'clock, and I saw a man keeping the door, or a short distance from the door. I have been told since his name was Madge, or some kind of a name of that sort; a flat-nosed man.

1372. Mr. Keane.] Not Tin Ribs, or Pot-headed Bob?—No; that is not the man. I said to Madge, "Whose cart is that at the door?" I knew whose cart it was, but I was determined to make out where it was. He said, "That is Hardiment's cart." I said, "I want Mackley"; he told me he was indoors, and some one went in for him to tell him that I was waiting to see him. Upon his not coming I went in. I got out of the trap that I was in and went indoors. I pushed on through the crowd to the entrance to the staircase. I said, "I want to see Mackley." I saw a Mr.

a Mr. Vines there, against the door of the staircase. I also saw a larger man than Vines, with a very large head and thick neck, against the chamber door.

1373. Was that the man known as Big-headed Ben?—I can only describe him.

1374. That description would suit him, Big-headed Ben, would it not?—Large head and thick neck. Some one called out, "It is no use your coming here, Harper." I do not know who that was. Mr. Vine said, "Mr. Harper, it is no use your coming here, we go in to win." I said, "I shall not go till I have seen Mackley." They brushed about and seemed anxious to get rid of me; and some one called out, "Mackley is in the front room." I went to the door that is entered from the street; some one in the yard adjoining the house said, "Here is Mackley." I walked to Mackley and said to him, "Mackley, what do you mean? You are selling us." He replied, "It is all your own fault, you could have had them." I said, "Ah, by buying them." I said, "Mackley, you have deceived us; you have now got Hardiment up in your chamber buying voters." He said, "Yes"; then I jumped into the cart and left.

1375. That is about everything that occurred?—That is about the history of Mackley in regard of me.

1376. Did you ever spend anything in bribery?—Not a penny.

1377. Nor authorise any expenditure?—Nor authorise, not a fraction.

1378. Neither at this election nor any other?—Not in my life. I neither treated a party with beer, nor money, nor nothing else; if I knew any one else did I should be the first to let it out.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

1379. What did you mean when you told Mackley, "Mackley, you have sold us"?—I said "You are selling us."

1380. What did you mean by that?—I meant that he was selling his voters that he had talked to me about in the morning, to Hardiment or the other parties.

1381. And not selling them to you?—Not selling them to me; he would not sell them to me.

1382. Why did you ask the question, "What do the men want"?—I had a mind to know whether bribery was going on or no. I went for the purpose.

1383. How did that help you to know what they wanted?—It helped me to the fact that they really wanted money.

1384. He told you before that they wanted their day's pay?—I am now alluding to the first time I met him.

1385. So am I. I want you to explain why, when you first met him, when he told you that the men wanted their day's pay, or something of that sort, did you go on with the conversation with him and say, "What do they want"?—I had a mind to know the price that they asked.

1386. He had told you a day's pay?—He said something about a day's pay; but after that he said, "They must be half sovereigns or sovereigns."

1387. Then you went back to your committee room?—No, I went about the city.

1388. What doing?—I wanted to see if I could find any more haunts of bribery.

1389. You went out bribery hunting?—Yes.

1390. Did you see any of your committee, or any of the leaders of your party, between the time you had first been to Mackley's and when you came back?—Not to speak to them.

1391. Had you told anyone what was going on at Mackley's about those voters?—Yes.

1392. Who?—I cannot say. I spoke of it, I think, in the Seventh Ward Committee Room.

1393. To whom?—I spoke it openly.

1394. What did you say?—I think I said, "They are buying like mad."

1395. What time was that?—It must have been about two o'clock.

1396. Did you say to anyone, "If we did not buy, the election will be lost"?—I did not.

1397. Or words to that effect?—Not to that effect; nothing that could be twisted into that.

1398. You know Vines?—I know him as I had been told; they call him the Conservative working man; I only know him by that.

1399. Was he present at the time that you had the conversation with Mackley?—No.

1400. No part of it?—No part of it.

1401. Who was present?—I do not know that anyone heard me, unless Mr. Robert Fisher did, for I was at the side of the cart when I spoke the words.

1402. Did you go to this bribery place all alone?—I did not; Mr. Fisher went with me.

1403. Is Fisher in a condition to prove the correctness of your statement of your conversation with Mackley?—He might have heard him; I do not know whether he did; Fisher could tell you that; I think he could have heard him.

1404. You know Mackley's statement is somewhat different from yours?—Yes, it is.

1405. The contradiction consists in this, that he says that when you came back you said, "All right; I can settle with them now"?—He said I came back in a quarter of an hour, that is untrue; it was an hour or more.

1406. The words that he imputes to you are, "All right; now I can settle with them"?—I never uttered them.

1407. He has sworn you did; you deny it?—I do.

1408. Would you tell me why, when he said he had a lot of voters there who wanted their day's pay, after you had asked what they wanted, you also asked, "How many have you got"?—I wanted to know how many voters there were marketable in that locality. I had heard, previous to my going about the city, at the central committee-room, that there were voters congregated in different public-houses, and I wanted, if possible, to deter them from buying them.

1409. Will you tell me why you went the second time?—Yes; I wanted to see if I could see any bribes.

1410. Did you expect to see more the second time than you did the first?—I did.

1411. To what other public-house did you go besides this?—I went to John Mackley's, at the "Marquis of Granby's," and after I left Mackley's, to the "Woolpack."

1412. Is Mr. Fisher here?—I think not; I have not seen him to-day.

1413. Was Mr. Gilmore present upon the occasion when you were at Mackley's?—I did not see him; I saw Gilmore on St. Mary's Plain at the first time I started for Mackley's.

1414. You did not know whether he was there when you were talking to Mackley?—I do not know; I did not see him.

1415. Did you have any conversation with any voters

Mr.
J. Harper.

voters yourself with Mackley?—None, only with Vines, as I have told you, and I did not speak to him till he spoke to me.

Re-examined by Mr. Keane.

1416. I presume you received nothing for what you did in going about to those persons?—Not a fraction.

1417. You were acting as a preventative policeman, if possible?—I was.

1418. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine (through the Court)?—Do you know whether Hardiment was a canvasser for Sir Henry Stracey?—He was.

ALFRED MONEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

A. Money.

1419. I THINK you live at Rose-yard?—Yes.

1420. Do you know Mackley's, the "Wool-pack"?—Yes.

1421. Were you there on the day of the election?—Yes.

1422. In the afternoon?—Yes.

1423. About what time was it?—A quarter past three.

1424. Were there many persons there in the bar and in the tap-room?—A great many.

1425. Which room were you in?—I went in the bar first.

1426. While you were there, did a man come to the door and say anything?—Yes.

1427. Do you recollect or did you know who he was?—No.

1428. You did not know who he was; do you know now?—No.

1429. What was it that he said?—"He is here now."

1430. Did he say anything more than, "He is here now"?—No.

1431. What was done upon that?—A great many of them went upstairs.

1432. Did you go upstairs?—Yes.

1433. When you went upstairs did you find anybody on the landing?—Yes.

1434. Who was it?—Mr. Hardiment.

1435. Was there anyone else besides Mr. Hardiment there?—Yes, there was a great many people there.

1436. Standing upon the landing, I mean?—Yes.

1437. Who was it?—Mr. Freestone.

1438. He is a baker, I think?—Yes.

1439. Did they go from the landing into a room upstairs?—Yes.

1440. And did you?—Yes.

1441. Tell my Lord what was done in the room?—There was a man counting how many was there.

1442. And what was the result of the counting?—They said something about 1 l. a-piece.

1443. How many people were there?—Twenty-one.

1444. Was anything said by anybody about what he wanted?—Yes.

1445. What was it?—Some of them said they wanted 3 l. a-piece.

1446. And as to others; what sum was asked?—£. 1.

1447. Was any sum fixed between them and Hardiment?—Yes.

1448. What was fixed on?—£. 1 a-piece.

1449. By whom was that fixed?—By Mr. Hardiment.

1450. Did Hardiment appear to you to have any money with him?—He had some in a bag.

1451. Did the bag appear to be full?—Not quite.

1452. Did you see any of the money that was in that bag?—I saw it after he took it out.

1453. What money was it?—Sovereigns.

1454. What did Hardiment do with the money?—He paid some to me.

1455. What did he pay you?—A sovereign.

1456. And where did he pay it to you?—On the landing.

1457. While you were being paid, where were the others?—Some in the room, and some close by on the landing.

1458. Did you see any of the others paid as well as yourself?—Yes.

1459. How many?—I should think about five or six.

1460. Then you went away, did you?—I then went away.

1461. When Hardiment paid you a sovereign, can you tell me whether or not he made a note of it?—He put it in a pocket book.

1462. Did he do the same with the five or six others who were paid before you went away?—Yes.

1463. Were there any persons there from the Third Ward?—Yes.

1464. Did they get any money?—No.

1465. Did Hardiment give any reason for not paying money to the two men from the Third Ward?—Yes, he said they did not belong to his ward.

1466. Did he say they could get it from their own ward?—Yes.

1467. Was Freestone, the baker, present while this money was being paid?—Yes.

1468. Did you hear him say anything to Hardiment at that time?—I heard Hardiment say to him, "Have you got a man that will go and see whether those men vote?"

1469. What did he answer?—He said, "Yes"; and so he appointed me to go and see that they voted.

1470. Did you go and see them vote?—No.

1471. Did you vote yourself?—No, I have not one.

1472. You went out with them when they left?—Yes.

1473. Before they got to the poll you left them, I suppose?—I did so.

1474. Do you recollect seeing a person of the name of Clark there?—I heard a man give his name as Clark, but I cannot say that was the name.

1475. Betts?

1475. Betts?—Yes; I cannot say that was the name, but they were strangers to me.

1476. And Goodwin?—They gave that name in.

1477. Mr. Baron Martin.] What part of the town is this?—In St. Martin's.

1478. Do you know where the "Trumpet" is?—Yes.

1479. Mr. Keane.] What ward is the "Wool-pack" in?—The Eighth Ward.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

1480. What are you?—A shoemaker.

1481. You are not a voter, I think?—No.

1482. You got 1 l.?—Yes.

1483. What did you get 1 l. for?—Mr. Hardiment gave it to me.

1484. Not for your vote?—No, he never asked me whether I had one; anyone that was there he put the name down and give it to him, and I thought I had as much right to it as others; so I took it.

1485. I suppose you went and gave information to the other side of what you saw?—Of course I did.

1486. And what have you been paid for it; anything?—I have been paid for my day's work.

1487. How much have you been paid?—Five shillings a day.

1488. For how long?—About eight days.

1489. What have you been doing the eight days?—Walking about.

1490. Enjoying yourself?—A little, for that.

1491. What have you got the 5 s. a day for; have you been paid your 5 s. a day?—Yes.

1492. Who has paid you?—The gentleman that sits there (pointing to a gentleman in the Court).

1493. Has he got a name?—I do not know his name.

1494. Let me introduce you to Mr. Vernon; he has paid you 5 s. a day?—Yes.

1495. You seem to have been doing as much for him as you did for Mr. Hardiment then. What are you paid 5 s. a day for; for your evidence?—I do not know; for walking about.

1496. When was it you gave information first?—I think it was somewhere about last Monday week, I think.

1497. Whom did you go to?—To Mr. Harper.

1498. How did you come to make the bargain or the agreement that you were to have 5 s. a day; who made it with you; Mr. Harper?—Yes, Harper.

1499. What did Harper tell you when you came and gave him this information; or rather, what did you tell Mr. Harper; did you say, "I have got something that will damage Sir Henry Stracey?"—I told him and said what I have now repeated.

1500. Did you ask to be paid anything?—No; he said he would give me a job.

1501. What job did he give you?—To walk about, I suppose, to see if I could learn any more.

1502. Did you ask what you were to have?—Yes.

1503. What did you tell Harper you wanted for your evidence?—Five shillings a day.

1504. Did you say to him, "I will tell you this if you will give me 5 s. a day;" is that what took place?—No; I told him what I have sworn here before I came to any agreement.

1505. Then did you say you must have 5 s. a day?—No; he said he would give me 5 s. a day if I would go about and ascertain any more.

1506. Have you ascertained any more?—I have not.

1507. When you were at this public-house had you been drinking yourself?—I got one pint of ale.

1508. What did you go there for?—For a pint of ale.

1509. Was that all you went there for?—Yes.

1510. How long did you stop there?—About 20 or 25 minutes.

1511. All that took place was done in that 20 minutes?—That was so.

1512. Had you never told anybody else before you told Harper about what you had seen?—Yes, I had.

1513. Who was it?—Mr. Nunn, of St. Augustine's.

1514. What is he, a barber?—Yes.

1515. You went and told him at the barber's shop what you told Mr. Harper?—Yes.

1516. Did he advise you to go to Mr. Harper?—He did.

1517. And did you go with him to Mr. Harper's?—Yes.

1518. And this took place at the time of the election which you have been telling us to-day; what day was the election, it was the 17th of November I believe?—Yes.

1519. And are you quite satisfied that your memory is correct upon what took place?—Yes, I think it is.

1520. Did you talk over this to anybody except the barber, before you mentioned it to him?—That I cannot exactly say.

1521. Did you say anything to Hardiment about it?—I never saw him.

1522. Do you expect to get anything more for your evidence?—No.

1523. Have you a promise of anything more?—No.

1524. Do you know any other persons who have been paid 5 s. a day for walking about?—Yes, taking out subpoenas and that like.

1525. You have not been taking out subpoenas?—No.

1526. Do you know any persons that have been paid as you have?—Not that I know of.

1527. You are a shoemaker; where do you live?—In Rose-yard.

1528. Did you take any part in the election yourself?—No.

1529. You did not canvass?—No.

1530. Nor get any votes for either side?—No.

1531. Did you see Harper upon the day of the election?—No.

1532. Were you in other public-houses besides this one on the day of the election?—At the "Flower in Hand" in — street.

A. Money.

1869.

EDMUND ADCOCK, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

E. Adcock. 1533. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—
 Yes.
 1534. Did you get anything for doing so?—
 Nothing.
 1535. You were paid nothing at all?—
 Nothing.
 1536. You are quite sure, are you, about that?—
 Yes.
 1537. You did not receive any money from Hardiment?—No.
 1538. Do you know Mr. Skipper?—Yes.
 1539. A solicitor?—Yes.
 1540. Is he in court?—Yes (the Witness pointed to Mr. Skipper).
 1541. You know him quite well, do you not?
 —I know him personally, by seeing him.
 1542. Is that all you know of him?—Yes.
 1543. Have you received any money from him?—Yes.
 1544. From his own hands?—No.
 1545. From whom?—From one of his agents.
 1546. What is his name?—I cannot say.
 1547. Should you know him if you saw him?
 —Yes.
 1548. Can you see him now?—Yes (pointing to a person in the Court).
 1549. The gentleman in the white neckcloth looking like a clergyman?—Yes.
 1550. What have you received from him?—I cannot say.
 1551. When did you first receive any from him?—That I cannot tell you.
 1552. Yes, you will?—But I do not think I can.
 1553. About when; I have got something under your own hand; perhaps you do not know that?—That I do not.
 1554. You will see it presently?—Very well.
 1555. When did you begin receiving any money?—I cannot say the day of the month.
 1556. Was it three months ago?—No.
 1557. Two months ago?—No.
 1558. Six weeks ago?—Let me recollect; it is not six weeks ago.
 1559. About that?—It was just before
 Christmas.
 1560. How much did you get from him?—I do not know exactly.
 1561. Mr. Baron Martin.] Surely you must tell; it is only three weeks ago?—I got 5*s.* a day for running about errands and delivering messages.
 1562. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] What errands?—Letters, or any messages he liked to send by me.
 1563. And you got 5*s.* every day for that?—
 Yes.
 1564. For three weeks?—I do not know whether it is three weeks exactly; it was before Christmas.
 1565. And you got this 5*s.* a day for running on messages?—Yes.

1566. What are you by business?—A horsehair weaver.

1567. Were there any other persons who were at the “Woolpack,” or were you at the “Woolpack” on the day of the election?—Yes.

1568. Just tell me; were there any other persons employed by this gentleman who were at the “Woolpack” upon that day?—Employed by Mr. Skipper?

1569. Yes?—I cannot say.

1570. You saw him, did you not?—I saw several people there.

1571. Did you not see ten or a dozen people who had been at the “Woolpack” who were employed by Mr. Skipper?—No, I saw several people, but no one employed by Mr. Skipper, to the best of my knowledge.

1572. Did you see any other persons employed upon the same errands with yourself by Mr.
 Skipper after the day of the polling; after the election day. Did you see the people that you had seen at the “Woolpack” employed in the same business with yourself by Mr. Skipper?—
 No.

1573. Did you show this to Mr. Skipper or to Mr. Skipper's clerk. Look at that (handing a Paper to the Witness). Just take a good look at it; do you know the handwriting?—No.

1574. It is not your handwriting?—No.

1575. You are quite sure about that?—
 Yes.

1576. Have you never seen it before?—
 No.

1577. Did you give any paper to a person of the name of Brown?—No.

1578. Not any of any kind?—No.

1579. That you are quite sure about?—
 Yes.

1580. And you received no money?—No.

1581. You are quite sure this is not your handwriting?—Yes.

1582. Is it like your handwriting?—No.

1583. Not the least?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

1584. You have been employed, if I understand, since the election?—Yes.

1585. You began about three weeks or a month ago?—Somewhere at that time, I believe.

1586. You were not employed at the election?
 —No.

1587. What have you been employed by Mr.
 Skipper as?—For running errands and messages, and carrying letters and things of that sort.

1588. It had nothing to do with the election matters?—No.

THOMAS HUTCHINS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

T. Hutchins. 1589. WHERE do you live?—In St. Mary's.
 1590. What are you?—A cordwainer.
 1591. Do you know Mackley's-place, the “Woolpack”?—Yes.

1592. Were you there on the day of the election?—Yes.

1593. What time in the day?—I was there several times in the course of the day.

1594. Were

1594. Were you there in the afternoon?—I believe I was.

1595. Did you see Hardiment there?—Yes.

1596. Did you see the last witness, Edmund Adcock?—I saw him just go out.

1597. Did you see him there that day?—Yes.

1598. Was he there in the afternoon?—Yes.

1599. Did Hardiment give money in your presence to anybody?—Yes.

1600. To whom?—To him and to me, too.

1601. And to some others?—I believe so.

1602. You are certain about Adcock and yourself?—Yes.

1603. What was the money you got?—I got a sovereign, if I must speak the truth.

1604. What did Adcock get?—As much as I, I believe.

1605. Did you see anybody that got money get anything but one pound?—No.

1606. Each of them got one pound?—I did.

1607. Mr. Baron Martin.] How many were there?—I cannot say; there were several of them.

1608. Mr. Keane.] About how many; half a dozen, or more?—More than that.

1609. Was Freestone there; do you recollect seeing him?—I cannot say.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

1610. You used the word, “You believed that the others had a sovereign”?—Yes, I know they had.

1611. Do you mean that you saw it paid to them?—Yes.

1612. Who was paid first?—I dare say I was.

1613. Can you tell us where about it was paid?—Some was paid upstairs and some downstairs.

1614. Were you paid first or last, or who was paid just before you?—There were several paid before me, but I do not know who they were.

1615. When was Adcock paid?—The same day I was.

1616. Were there others paid the same day, besides you and Adcock?—Certainly there were.

1617. Can you name them; are those the names you have given my learned friend?—I name only myself; other people were there as well as I.

1618. Do you know that Adcock has denied it?—I cannot help that; I am telling you the truth. T. Hutchins.

1619. You say you saw Adcock receive a sovereign?—Yes, he got the money as well as I. 15 January 1869.

1620. Did you see it paid into his hand?—Certainly I do not say I see it paid into his hand.

1621. Did you see it paid into his hand?—I cannot say that, but I know right well it was paid into his hand.

1622. If you did not see it paid him, how do you know it was paid him?—If I did not know, I should not tell you surely; I know he was paid.

1623. Did you see him paid?—He was paid.

1624. Did you see him paid; did you see the coin passed?—Yes, it was passed.

1625. Mr. Baron Martin.] Did you see it pass?—Yes, I did see it passed.

1626. Mr. Rodwell.] Into his hand?—Into his hand.

1627. By Mr. Hardiment?—Mr. Hardiment himself.

1628. Was he paid before you, or after you?—Before me.

1629. Next before you?—I went after him.

1630. Were you in the room when he was paid?—Yes, I were.

1631. Did you go up one at a time?—No, there was some of them went twice.

1632. Did you go up with Adcock?—No, I did not.

1633. Did you go into the room when he was there?—We was all in the room together.

1634. Were you standing next him when he was paid?—I followed a certain man, and a man got 1 l. as well as I.

1635. The Judge put the question to you, “Did you see the money pass into Adcock’s hands”?—I did.

1636. What was it?—A sovereign.

1637. Not two halves?—No.

1638. But a sovereign?—Yes.

1639. That you swear distinctly?—I am on my oath, and I speak the truth.

1640. When did you first mention this about Adcock?—I never mentioned it at all till it was mentioned about me.

1641. When you mentioned it about you, you mentioned it about other people?—Most certainly I did.

1642. Have you been paid for any information or evidence that you can give?—No, not a farthing.

ANDREW FREESTONE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

1643. WHERE do you live?—In St. Augustine’s.

1644. What is your business?—A baker.

1645. Were you at the “Woolpack” on the day of the election?—I called upon Mr. Hardiment on the day of the election at the “Woolpack.”

1646. What time of the day was it that you called upon Mr. Hardiment?—About three or something like that; I cannot say for half an hour; I called to speak to Mr. Hardiment; I had his pony.

1647. Was it Hardiment’s pony you had?—I believe it was.

1648. Did you find Hardiment at the “Woolpack”?—Yes, I found Hardiment there.

8.

1649. Did you speak to him there?—I told him that I was going home, and I wished him to take the pony. A. Freestone.

1650. Whereabouts was he?—Hardiment was upstairs in the room when I went and spoke to him.

1651. Were there any persons there besides Hardiment?—Several persons were there.

1652. Were they voters to your knowledge?—I do not know, I am sure.

1653. Did you see the landlord, Mackley, at that time?—No, I do not know the landlord in particular; I have not been in the locality more than three or four times in my lifetime.

1654. What was Hardiment doing when you saw him upstairs?—He was speaking to several men in the room; there were several there.

D 4

1655. Was

A. Freestone.

15 January
1869.

1655. Was it confined to speaking only?—No; there was plenty of noise in the room and drinking going on; I never looked to see what was going on; there was plenty of noise.

1656. Did you see him give any of them anything?—No.

1657. Nothing at all?—No; I was not there hardly a minute.

1658. Did the men who were there go before you or with you?—Not any one.

1659. Did you leave him there?—I left Mr. Hardiment there and I left the men there.

1660. Did you see any money pass there?—Not any.

1661. Did you see any money not passing?—Not any money passing.

1662. Did you see that Hardiment had money with him?—No.

1663. Had he a bag?—I cannot say.

1664. Was there a bag there?—I do not know; I never see any.

1665. Do you say that there was none there, or that you do not recollect that you saw any?—Hardiment was in the room; "I said I want to speak to you;" I wanted him to take charge of the pony; he referred to some one that was there; I wanted to go home about my business. He said, "So-and-so will take my pony or my man," I do not know who it was.

1666. You were there upon the whole about a minute or so?—I merely went upstairs and spoke to him, and came back again; I do not suppose I was in the house five minutes altogether.

1667. Was anything said about whom those persons were going to vote for?—I did not wait long enough to hear anything; some man mentioned to Hardiment, "Who was to see these men go to the poll;" and I saw a man of the name of Money there, and I said, "Money I suppose will see the men go to the poll." He was the only man I knew in the house barring Mr. Hardiment.

1668. What was said to you when you pointed out Money as the man; what was it Hardiment said?—There was some talk respecting the men going to the poll; "Do you know anyone to go to the poll with these men?" I looked round and did not know anyone in the room barring a man of the name of Money, and I said, "There is Money, I suppose he can go with them." Then I left the place.

1669. "Is there any man to go to the poll with those men" that was addressed to you, was it?—I do not know whether it was addressed to me; there were several standing there.

1670. You answered it?—Yes.

1671. Mr. Baron Martin.] I understand you knew Money, and he said that he would go?—Yes, that was the only man I knew in the place.

1672. Mr. Keane.] I think I have asked you before, but did Money go with them before you went?—I cannot say; I do not know whether Money went away or stopped there.

1673. You left him in the room?—I believe I left him there; I would not swear he went away; I came away myself; I cannot say whether he went out or not.

1674. Did you canvass at all?—No.

1675. Did you accompany anybody who was canvassing?—I was coming home that day and I met several of my friends, and I stopped in Pitt-street about 10 minutes or a quarter of an hour.

1676. Did you canvass with Hardiment at all?—No, neither that day nor any other.

1677. With whom were you canvassing; do you recollect the names of your friends who were canvassing?—I saw Mr. Delph and two or three other parties. I had a little business to do with one man, and I said, "How long will you be?" and he said, "Half an hour;" and I said, "I will wait with you till you go home," and I walked with them till they had finished.

1678. Who was the one you had business with?—I was going a little way with Mr. Wiseman; young Mr. Wiseman.

1679. Was Mr. Wiseman canvassing?—I cannot say.

1680. How long were you with that party that were canvassing?—I went out three o'clock, and was in again by four.

1681. Were they canvassing for Sir Henry Stracey?—I believe they were.

1682. Were you on that day at Clarke's beer-house at the corner of Jenkin's-lane, Hope-street?—I do not remember; I do not know the name.

1683. Do you recollect going with Mr. Hardiment and Mr. Robert Wiseman into any beer-house or public-house during that hour?—I went into one or two beerhouses; my business lies a great deal in beerhouses; I cannot say whether the name was Clarke.

1684. At the corner of Jenkin's-lane?—I do not know where it is. I never saw Mr. Hardiment and Wiseman together that day; I saw Mr. Wiseman that afternoon as they were coming home, and came home with him.

1685. Did you go with either of them to a beerhouse?—I believe I went into a house and had a glass of ale (where it was, I cannot say) with Mr. Wiseman.

1686. What was done at the beerhouse while you were there?—I think it was a man of the name of Newman, at the sign of the "Cherry Tree."

1687. What was being done while you were there?—There was no one there in particular; I went in and had a glass of ale, and waited for him.

1688. What were they doing?—Mr. Newman and his wife, and Mr. Gilbert, I believe, was there; they came in, and we had a little laugh about the election.

1689. Did they do nothing more than take refreshment?—Nothing else. There was a little laughing about the election one with another; not with me alone particularly; they were all talking and laughing about it.

1690. Do you know a person of the name of Robert Mitchell?—Yes, I think I know a party of that name; I let him a house a little time ago in St. Mary's.

1691. Did you take him to the poll?—I carried him as far as St. Mary's Plain; I do not know where he went to then.

1692. Did you or not go with him to the poll?—I went as far as St. Mary's Plain; I do not know whether he went to the poll or not.

1693. I do not know exactly where it is; can you tell me?—It is a strange place to me; I carried him as far as St. Mary's Plain.

1694. Is St. Mary's Plain a polling place?—There is one not very far off.

1695. How far off was the other polling place?—About 100 yards.

1696. Did you give him any money yourself?—No.

1697. Or promise him any money?—No.

1698. Had

1698. Had you given him money before?—No.

1699. Did you treat him in any way?—No.

1700. Do you know a person of the name of Thomas Robins who lives in Fuller's Hole?—Yes, I know him; he rode down St. Martin's with me.

1701. Did you go with him to the poll?—No.

1702. Or to some place very near to the poll?—No, no nigher than with the other man; they both got out of my cart together.

1703. Did you give him any money?—No.

1704. Any promise of money?—No.

1705. Did you treat him in any way?—Not anything.

1706. Do you mean to represent that you had nothing to do with bribing at all?—Nothing at all.

1707. Not the slightest?—Not the slightest.

1708. Neither with Mitchell nor Robins?—No, not with anyone.

1709. You mean to swear you saw nothing; nothing took place in your presence?—I swear I saw nothing of the kind with anyone.

1710. Did you know from Hardiment that he had something to do with bribery?—

Mr. Baron Martin.] I cannot allow any leading question of that question to be put. 15 January 1869.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.

1711. You are a baker I understand?—Yes.

1712. You were driving a cart upon the day of the election?—I saw Mr. Hardiment, and he asked me whether I would accompany him a little way; I had no objection, and I rode with Mr. Hardiment.

1713. You were driving the cart that day?—He was driving the cart, and I rode with him.

1714. Nearer than 100 yards to the polling booth you did not go with anybody?—Yes, I went nigher with some man; I do not know what the man's name was, for Mr. Hardiment.

1715. There is no pretence for saying that you bribed?—No, nothing of the kind; I went very near the poll, but what for I do not know; there was no bribing going on with me.

[Adjourned to To-morrow, at Ten o'clock.

Saturday, 16th January 1869.

Mr. ROBERT WISEMAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

- Mr. 1716. WHAT are you?—A Builder.
R. Wiseman. 1717. Living at Norwich?—St. Mary's.
 ----- 1718. What ward is that?—The Eighth Ward.
 16 January 1719. Were you engaged at the last election?
 1869. ---Yes.
 1720. Had you been engaged at previous elections?—Never.
 1721. This was the first time you were engaged at an election?—Yes.
 1722. In what capacity were you engaged?—Manager.
 1723. Manager of the Eighth Ward?—Yes.
 1724. Who engaged you?—A body of gentlemen, in a large room at the "Swan." It was proposed and seconded by a body of gentlemen.
 1725. Who appointed you; were you appointed by resolution?—Yes.
 1726. Were you present at the time of the resolution being passed?—Yes.
 1727. Who were the parties to it?—I cannot recollect.
 1728. You cannot forget, I suppose?—It was not my intention to be nominated or proposed.
 1729. That is not the question?—I do not know who they were; it was done momentarily.
 1730. Is your son here?—I think he is.
 1731. Do not you know your son?—Yes.
 1732. Is he here?—I have not seen him since I have been here.
 1733. Is he in court?—I do not know.
 1734. Was there anybody in the chair in the room?—Yes, Mr. Patteson, the brewer.
 1735. Who else was there there?—I think it was a master grocer, in St. Stephen's.
 1736. When was it?—I do not know.
 1737. Was Mr. Bignold there?—I think not.
 1738. Was the name of the master grocer Stockings?—No.
 1739. You cannot tell whether Bignold was there or not?—I think not.
 1740. Were any of the Straceys there?—No.
 1741. About that you are quite sure?—Yes.
 1742. You were appointed general manager; was the appointment in writing?—No.
 1743. What were you to do?—Stick to the committee-room, and attend to all that was required.
 1744. Were you to canvass?—No.
 1745. Were you to appoint canvassers?—No.
 1746. Who was to do that?—I do not know.
 1747. Yes, you do. You are in a position to make this a little perilous; you were the general manager?—Generally so; all the time I was manager of the Eighth Ward.
 1748. Yes, you were manager of the Eighth Ward; then you were to arrange everything that was usual and necessary during an election?—Not in the slightest.
 1749. What were you to manage?—On the election day to fill up the cards, and send them in, to a minute, every half-hour.
 1750. When were you appointed?—A day or two before the election.
 1751. Be cautious?—I think the meeting was two or three days before.
 1752. How many days?—Three.
 1753. Had there been canvassing before that?—I think there had, but I do not know.
 1754. Mr. Baron Martin.] Be cautious. You do not know whether you had been canvassing before this day?—That was not the question, my lord.
 1755. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Do you know whether there had been any canvassing?—I think there had; I am sure there had.
 1756. Then, why did you swear, a minute ago, that you did not know whether or not there had been canvassing, when you now swear that you know there had been?—I was not with them.
 1757. Why did you swear that you did not know; that was false?—I really do not know of my own knowledge. I have no doubt that they were canvassing.
 1758. Had the canvassers to report to you?—No.
 1759. To whom did they report?—I do not know. If you allude to the Eighth Ward, certainly not. I should say that they were not canvassing, previous to my management, in the Eighth Ward.
 1760. Did they canvass afterwards?—Yes.
 1761. To whom did they report?—I suppose to the central committee, but I do not know.
 1762. Do you mean to swear that you do not know to whom the canvassers reported?—Certainly.
 1763. You have no idea?—No.
 1764. Did you ever see the reports or the canvassers?—Not the reports; I saw young Mr. Stracey and Hardiment, and, I think, a Mr. Dowson.
 1765. Hardiment is a man having business in Paris, is he not?—I do not know.
 1766. Mr. Baron Martin.] Who was the third person?—Mr. Dowson.
 1767. They were canvassers?—Yes, and I saw them only once.
 1768. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Did you know of their appointment?—No.
 1769. Which Mr. Stracey was it?—The elder son.
 1770. Did Hardiment and he canvass together?—Yes.
 1771. You can tell me a good deal, cannot you?—I was shut up all the time; I will tell you all you ask me.
 1772. How do you mean shut up all the time?—I was in the committee-room all the time.
 1773. What time did you go there?—At nine in the morning.
 1774. And remained till when?—Some time between 9 and 10.
 1775. At night?—Yes.
 1776. That was the two days before the election?—Yes.
 1777. You know that you are tolerably well known in Norwich, and therefore I just ask you this question; do you mean that you remained the whole of each day in the committee-room?—Certainly.
 1778. That

1778. That you swear?—Yes.
 1779. And you never moved out of it?—No.
 1780. Not during the whole of that time?—No.
 1781. Where was the committee-room held?—In Calvert-street, at Smith's, the shoe manufacturer's.
 1782. Upstairs or below?—Below.
 1783. Upon the first day of your attendance, which of the committee were there?—Mr. Hardiment, Mr. Dowson, and Mr. Lake.
 1784. You mean the same Mr. Hardiment?—Yes.
 1785. Was he there at the starting?—Yes.
 1786. What time did he leave to canvass?—I should think about half-past 10.
 1787. Mr. Hardiment was there at starting, and at half-past 10 he went out to canvass?—Yes.
 1788. Was he alone or with anybody?—He was with Mr. Stracey.
 1789. Who else?—Mr. Hardiment and Mr. Dowson.
 1790. Mr. Baron Martin.] Are there two Hardiments, or only one?—Only one.
 1791. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Had they the books?—Yes.
 1792. Did you see Sir Henry Stracey there ever?—Not once, only one day.
 1793. Only his son?—Yes.
 1794. At what time did Hardiment return to the committee-room on the first day that you were there?—Half-past one at noon.
 1795. Did he mention the result of the canvass?—No.
 1796. Did he produce the books?—Yes.
 1797. To whom did he show them?—To Mr. Thirkettle.
 1798. Was he one of the committee?—He was a clerk in the committee-room.
 1799. Mr. Hardiment's servant, you mean?—Yes.
 1800. Mr. Baron Martin.] I want to see that man, do not let him go away if he is in court. (To the Witness.) He manages Mr. Hardiment's business, and I wish to ask him a question?—Yes.
 1801. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] He was a clerk?—Yes.
 1802. And the books were shown to whom?—
 1803. Mr. Baron Martin.] Mr. Thirkettle was clerk to the committee?—Yes.
 1804. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Then, the books were produced, was it one book or more?—I think there were four books, street registers.
 1805. Was this a very large room?—About 12 feet square.
 1806. I suppose you heard everything that was said?—Yes.
 1807. What did he (Hardiment) say when he returned at half-past one on the first day?—He laid down the books, and Mr. Thirkettle took them up and began to draw them out; I began to put them on to a sheet of paper.
 1808. Mr. Thirkettle entered something from those books into another book, and then what did you do?—No; I placed them on to a sheet of paper; the numbers as he told me, after drawing them out.
 1809. So as to show whose were the promises?—For and against.
 1810. And whose were the refusals?—Yes.
 1811. After that was done, did he go out again?—The next day, I think.
 1812. Did he not go out the same day?—I think not.

1813. Did Mr. Stracey return with him?—No.
 1814. The next day he went out again?—Hardiment?
 1815. Yes?—Yes, and the other two or three gentlemen without Mr. Stracey.
 1816. Did he come back at half-past one again?—No; I think it was three o'clock.
 1817. You see how much you were mistaken in your memory; you have as good a memory as any man in court; about half-past three what took place?—I went through the same process.
 1818. Will you tell us how you came to say that you only knew of his canvassing once?—Mr. Stracey.
 1819. No; Mr. Hardiment?—No; I beg your pardon.
 1820. Then my memory was bad; now the same process was gone through then?—Yes.
 1821. Now the next day?—I think Mr. Hardiment canvassed alone that day.
 1822. What time did he return on this third day?—I did not see him all that day.
 1823. Why did you say that you think that he canvassed alone?—He said, "I shall do a part of St. Martin, at Oak, to-day, because this is my business day; I will take St. Martin's alone."
 1824. When did he say that?—When he started at 10 or half-past 10 in the morning.
 1825. You saw him that morning?—Yes.
 1826. Was the next day the day of the election?—I think it was.
 1827. The day on which he attended to his own business, was that the day of the nomination?—Yes.
 1828. Mr. Baron Martin.] By the next day, do you mean the nomination day or polling day?—The next day, I think, was the polling day.
 1829. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] At what time did you go there in the morning?—At a quarter past seven.
 1830. Was your son there?—No.
 1831. Was he there at all?—He came in two or three different times.
 1832. What time did you leave on the day of the polling?—Nine at night.
 1833. Did you hear from time to time the state of the poll; was it reported to you?—Yes.
 1834. Who were present in the committee-room on that day?—Mr. Samuel Lake at different times, and Mr. George Gedge.
 1835. He is a very strong partisan, is he not?—Yes.
 1836. He is an influential and wealthy man here, is he not?—He is thought to be so.
 1837. Who else was there?—Mr. Thirkettle.
 1838. And Mr. Hardiment?—The poll-keeper, Mr. Mayes.
 1839. Give me another name?—Mr. Dowson.
 1840. Is that all?—Yes.
 1841. Was Hardiment there?—No.
 1842. Was he there in the morning?—No.
 1843. Did not you see Hardiment on that day?—No.
 1844. That you swear; that you did not see Hardiment on that day. Be very cautious; you have sworn it, but do not let that prevent you telling the truth?—No.
 1845. Did you see Hardiment that day?—No; I saw him at nine o'clock at night.
 1846. When you swear that you did not see him that day, do you mean to imply that you did not see him until nine?—That is it.
 1847. When does your day stop?—At six o'clock.

Mr.
R. Wiseman.
 16 January
 1869.

Mr. R. Wiseman. 1848. And, then, from six o'clock you call it night?—Yes.

1849. But you were at work at the committee-room at nine?—Yes.

16 January 1869. 1850. And you saw him at the committee-room?—He came in just as we were upstanding and ready to leave the room.

1851. What did he say?—"Glorious victory!"

1852. Mr. Baron Martin.] That was at nine o'clock at night?—Yes.

1853. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] When he alluded to "glorious victory," who were present; the same gentlemen that you have mentioned?—Yes.

1854. All of them?—Yes.

1855. Did the committee thank Mr. Hardiment for his exertions?—Yes.

1856. They told him, did they not, that the result was very much attributable to his exertions?—I did not hear any more; his health was proposed, and he gave us a very nice speech. The work was done, and we left the room.

1857. I suppose it was not only proposed, but drunk?—No; we waited till we got out.

1858. Who proposed his health?—I think it was Mr. Sam Lake.

1859. As he was only a canvasser for a couple of days, why were they so grateful to him?—He is well known.

1860. Who is?—Mr. Hardiment.

1861. Why should they not have drunk your health?—I do not know.

1862. You had been a most constant sitter at the committee?—Yes; that was the very reason they did not, I suppose.

1863. You had done no work outside?—No.

1864. What had Hardiment done for which they proposed his health and drank it outside; how did they manage that?—It is easily done.

1865. Where did they drink his health?—I think we went to the "Shakespeare," opposite St. George's Church.

1866. Do you know the "Woolpack"?—No.

1867. Have you heard of it?—Yes.

1868. Is it in the Eighth Ward?—Yes.

1869. Do not you know it?—No; the truth you will have.

1870. Let us have the whole truth for the future; do not you know the "Woolpack"?—Yes, I know the house.

1871. Is it a pleasant house inside?—I do not know.

1872. Have you never been in it?—No.

1873. Never in your life?—Yes.

1874. Then what did you mean by saying "Never"?—Not during the election.

1875. But you have been pretty often in the "Woolpack"?—Yes; I altered it for the owner; I made it into a public-house for the owner.

1876. And you know it thoroughly well, do you not?—Yes.

1877. Do you remember the "Woolpack" being mentioned before the committee; I will tell you the hour; somewhere about one o'clock?—Not a syllable.

1878. What hour was it?—I never heard it mentioned at all.

1879. Never?—Not once; never.

1880. Never at all?—No.

1881. Did you hear it mentioned that Tillett was in a majority of from 400 to 500?—I heard there was a placard of 645 for Tillett and Russell, I think, going round the city.

1882. At what time was it?—It was, I think, half-past 12.

1883. Who mentioned it?—I think, one of the messengers that carried the cards to and fro.

1884. Then, I suppose, you had a discussion. You were the manager at the Eighth Ward. Here is an important state of things; when you heard that that was the state of things, did you discuss the question?—No; we had so much to attend to.

1885. You had only the election to attend to?—And cards to send to and fro every half-hour.

1886. Was not the question discussed as to how this should be modified?—No, not a word.

1887. There was not a word said about how it could be remedied?—No.

1888. Nothing of the kind?—Not a word.

1889. Did Thirkettle go out of the room within a quarter of an hour from that time?—He was there on the election-day; he was the sheriff's clerk.

1890. Did any one leave the room after that announcement?—Not any one.

1891. Where was your son on that day?—I saw him in the morning at seven o'clock.

1892. Was that the only time in the day you saw him?—I saw him two or three times in the committee-room.

1893. At what hour?—At 11 o'clock and at one o'clock.

1894. He came in after the announcement of those numbers, did he?—Yes, I think so.

1895. Did he go out soon afterwards?—He had nothing to do with the room.

1896. What did he come in for?—To see how things were going on.

1897. To look after your health?—Yes.

1898. He was anxious about you?—No doubt about that.

1899. I suppose he asked you how you were?—No, I had no time to speak to him.

1900. What did he say to you?—Nothing.

1901. He only took a look, to satisfy himself that you were well, and then went out again?—Yes.

1902. That you swear?—Certainly.

1903. Do you mean to swear that that was all that took place at one o'clock with your son?—Yes.

1904. That he never said a word?—Before God and man.

1905. Then before God and man you swear that your son never spoke a word at that time?—Not a word.

1906. What did he do?—I did not see him for many seconds; he went about his business.

1907. What business?—Getting up voters, I suppose; I did not see him.

1908. That was his business, was it?—Like other people.

1909. You know that was his business, do not you?—No; I suppose so.

1910. You have said so; was that his business on the day of the election?—Not a business.

1911. Was that his employment with the knowledge of the committee?—He was not employed.

1912. Was that his employment, with the knowledge of the committee, on the day of the election?—He did as he liked.

1913-14. Was that what he did?—I do not know.

Mr. Baron Martin.] I do not wish to interfere with the course of the trial, but, in my opinion, this man has proved agency against Hardiment up to the hilt. If there is any act of bribery that you are able to prove against this man, you can proceed further to examine him.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] We have no act of bribery as committed by this man that we know of; indeed we have no instructions.

1915. (To the Witness.) Just tell me this; do you know of any money that your son had on that day?—No.

1916. I suppose Mr. Hardiment and you are acquaintances?—No, I have had nothing to do with him.

1917. You know him?—I have seen him.

1918. And you have talked to him?—Sometimes I do not see him for a month together. I merely say, "How do you do."

1919. Have you any notion where he is now?—No.

1920. Or why he went away?—No.

1921. Have you made any inquiry?—No; and I do not wish to see him any more; I never had anything to do with him.

1922. Is that the general feeling of your party?—I do not know.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Rodwell stated that in consequence of his Lordship's expression of opinion that agency had been proved against Hardiment up to the hilt, he would rather anticipate the course he had intended to pursue, by calling his Lordship's attention to the fact that neither in the allegations nor in the prayer of the petition was there a single syllable as to bribery by agents, except the words "by other persons on his behalf;" and that the judges had laid down, that before a person could be made responsible for the acts of another person who had been acting in his behalf, it must be shown that the act had been done with the privity, knowledge, and consent of the party for whom it was done; in other words, it must have been done at the special request or instance of the principal; he must have been the person who had furnished the money, and who had given special orders to another to use it, before he could be made liable for the act of the other person. That this principle had been acted upon in several cases to which he referred his Lordship; and submitted that in this case Sir Henry Stracey was not called upon to answer any charge except the charge of personal bribery, and that his learned friend was not entitled to charge Sir Henry Stracey with acts of agency.

Mr. Baron Martin.] I am clearly of opinion that under the 3rd section of this petition, it is competent for the petitioner to go into any act of bribery by Sir Henry Stracey himself; and further, to go into acts of bribery by any person for whom in law Sir Henry Stracey is responsible, whether he be an agent directly appointed by Sir Henry Stracey, or whether he be a person who, by reason of the construction put on these Acts of Parliament (or, I may say, the law that was laid down by Committees of the House of Commons; a construction which, to some extent, is binding on us) was acting on his behalf. The allegation in the 3rd clause, "other persons on his behalf," means every person for whose act or conduct he is responsible. In the Act of Parliament the terms are very express: "Every person who shall directly by himself, or by any other person on his behalf:" and it is perfectly clear that the meaning intended to be given in the Act of Parliament to "other person on his behalf," is every person other than the candidate for whose act he is responsible. I may add, that Mr. Justice Willes and Mr. Justice Blackburn, and myself, came unanimously to the conclusion that any person authorised to canvass must be regarded as an agent; that it does not in the least signify whether he was forbidden to bribe, even though the candidate had said to him honestly, "Do not bribe; I will not permit it, nor be responsible for it; I forbid it:" if that man committed bribery, that bribery would affect the candidate.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine stated that, with regard to the position of Hunt in relation to the "Trumpet" public-house, he wished to see what evidence he could offer, and it would be convenient if his Lordship would adjourn for half an hour.

Mr. Baron Martin stated that he would adjourn the court for a quarter of an hour.

Mr. EDWARD THIRKETTLE recalled, and further Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

1923. Do you keep the cash of Mr. Hardiment?—Yes.

1924. Did you keep it last November at the time of the election?—No; I was not in his employment then; I went into his employment on Saturday the 5th day of December, and I finally commenced on Monday the 7th.

1925. Who kept his cash during the time of the election; do you know;—I do not know.

1926. Do you know No. 5 Committee-room and the Ward?—No.

1927. You do not know where it is?—No.

1928. Or where it was?—No.

1929. Who was chairman of it?—I do not know.

1930. Do you know a man of the name of Hunt?—No.

1931. Or Samuel Smith?—I do not know whether his name was Smith in the committee-room in Calvert-street.

8.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

1932. You say that Hardiment was a canvasser?—Yes.

1933. My learned friend made a suggestion, and you seem to have adopted it, that he was appointed a canvasser?—No, he was not.

1934. Do you know of any appointment of Hardiment as a canvasser?—Never any; he volunteered it; he never was appointed at all.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

1935. I understand that you were appointed to keep the books and to attend there?—Yes.

1936. And that Mr. Hardiment came, as I understand you, on those two or three days and reported to the committee what had occurred?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. ALFRED STOCKINGS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

Mr.
A. Stockings.
16 January
1869.

1937. WHAT are you?—A Chemist.
1938. Residing in Norwich?—Yes.
1939. Were you acting at all upon the last election?—Yes.
1940. On behalf of Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.
1941. I think yours is No. 5 Ward?—Yes.
1942. Were you chairman of the committee at No. 5 Ward?—No.
1943. Were you upon the committee?—I was agent for the Fifth Ward.
1944. Agent for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.
1945. Who was the chairman of the committee?—Mr. Sparrow.
1946. What other members were there upon that committee?—Mr. Samuel Bignold, Mr. Frederick Watson, Mr. Edward Field, and Mr. Emerson.
1947. Do you know Mr. Bignold, the gentleman who is lame?—He was not on the committee.
1948. Was he a canvasser?—I cannot say; I did not see him during the election.
1949. What is his christian name; I mean the lame gentleman?—I did not know that there was one lame; I hear it is John.
1950. Do you know a man of the name of Hunt?—Yes.
1951. A fowl dealer?—I do not know what he is.
1952. Do you know a man of the name of Samuel Smith?—Yes, I know two Samuel Smiths.
1953. Do you know Samuel Smith who is a fowl dealer?—No, I do not know him.
1954. You do not know whether he is or not?—Certainly.
1955. Mr. Baron Martin.] Do you know Mr. Samuel Smith who was examined here yesterday as a witness?—Yes.
1956. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Did you see those persons on the day of the election?—I saw Mr. Smith.
1957. Where did you see him?—He came into the committee-room.
1958. At what time?—In the morning, twice.
1959. When was the latest time?—About noon.
1960. Was it 12 or 1?—I cannot say.
1961. Was it about that time?—I say noon; I cannot say whether it was near 12 or 1.
1962. Was he sober?—Tipsy.
1963. What did he say?—I cannot say.
1964. He said something?—He did.
1965. What was it he said?—I cannot say.
1966. What was it like?—I cannot say.
1967. Have you no memory?—I have.
1968. Upon this point?—Upon all points.
1969. Do you mean by “you cannot say,” that you will not say?—I saw many gentlemen in the committee-room that day, but I cannot answer for what one of them said.
1970. Do you mean to say by, “you cannot say,” that you will not say?—I do not mean to say so. I would say if I did know.
1971. Do you mean that you do not remember what Samuel Smith said when he came into the committee-room?—No; I do not know that he even spoke to me.
1972. Am I to understand that you do not remember what he said?—I do not remember what he said.

1973. Have you no recollection of it?—I have no recollection of what he said; there were many people in the room. I have not the faintest idea.

1974. You have no recollection one way or the other?—No.

1975. Was it anything about money?—No.

1976. How do you know that?—I heard no mention that was made of money in the room during the day.

1977. How do you know that money may not have been mentioned?—It might have been mentioned, but not in my hearing.

1978. You remember enough of what Smith said, to know that he did not mention money?—Not in my hearing.

1979. How long did he remain there?—Five minutes at the utmost.

1980. To whom did he talk?—I cannot say.

1981. What did he do?—I cannot say.

1982. Did he sit down?—I did not watch the movements of all the gentlemen who came in.

1983. You do not know whether Smith continued sitting there, or what he said or whom he spoke to; is that what you mean to swear?—Yes.

1984. You have no knowledge of it at all?—No.

1985. Who were the canvassers for your ward?—There was Mr. Donnett.

1986. Was there anybody else?—There was Mr. Fisher.

1987. Was there anybody else?—There was Mr. Samuel Smith, the jeweller.

1988. Anybody else?—Yes, Mr. Henry Wilding.

1989. Was there anybody else?—There was Mr. Henry Thompson and William Norgate.

1990. Go on; can you mention anyone else?—And Mr. Shields.

1991. I suppose you got reports from those gentlemen from time to time?—I did.

1992. And you learned. I suppose, that Mr. Tillett was ahead at 12 o'clock?—I did.

1993. Was it after you had learned that, or before, that Mr. Samuel Smith came in?—I cannot say.

1994. You have no notion?—No; not the slightest.

1995. Were you in the committee-room all day?—I was.

1996. You never went out at all?—I never went out of the room.

1997. Was there any money in the committee-room, to your knowledge?—Not a farthing.

1998. You are sure of that?—I will take my oath of it.

1999. You mean to say that you cannot tell me one single word that passed when Smith came in?—I cannot.

2000. Was he not asked what he came for?—I did not ask him; I was busy marking off.

2001. Did anyone else who was there ask him?—I cannot say.

2002. Do you know a gentleman of the name of Gowing?—No.

2003. I mean Mr. George Gowing?—I may know him by sight, but I do not know that I know him.

2004. Is he a farmer?—I do not know that I know him.

2005. Just

2005. Just tell me this; were you at the "Trumpet" public-house?—No.

2006. Did you see Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

2007. Did you see him at the "Trumpet" public-house in the Fifth Ward?—Yes.

2008. Was he in the committee room?—He came once.

2009. When did he come?—He came a little before three o'clock.

2010. What did he say?—He asked how we were getting on.

2011. Was that all that he said?—Yes.

2012. What did you say?—We gave three cheers for him, as anyone would do.

2013. What I understand you to say is, that sometime at noon Samuel Smith came in?—He did.

2014. And went out again after a few minutes' stay?—He did.

2015. And that you have no recollection of what passed?—Not the slightest.

2016. From that time you began to get on better?—I cannot say that we did in our ward.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. GEORGE GOWING, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

2017. WHAT are you?—I am a Farmer.

2018. Where is your farm situate?—At Trowse.

2019. Have you a vote for Norwich?—No.

2020. Were you in Norwich on the day of the election?—I was.

2021. You took a good deal of interest for Sir Henry Stracey, did you not?—I did.

2022. Not being a voter, in what way did you exhibit your interest?—In getting all the votes I could for Sir Henry Stracey.

2023. And taking the voters up to the poll?—Yes.

2024. I suppose you learnt at 12 o'clock that things were going badly?—I heard that there was a false report out.

2025. But that false report was that things were going badly; was it not?—Yes.

2026. Then it was necessary to mend matters?—Yes; that is quite right.

2027. Then you put on, I suppose, a little increased energy?—Yes, as much as I could.

2028. And argued with the voters?—I did.

2029. And convinced the minds of those who wavered?—I tried.

2030. And you were very successful, I suppose?—In a measure I was.

2031. And you very soon knocked down Tillet's majority?—I helped, I tried.

2032. I believe that you have been most cordially thanked for your exertions?—Only by letter; I have never seen Sir Henry Stracey to speak to him.

2033. Do you know the committee-room in the Fifth Ward?—Where is it situated?

2034. Am I to understand that you do not know it?—I know where I went to; I went to two or three places; but I know only St. Stephen's and Bear-street.

2035. St. Stephen's will do?—Yes.

2036. Is that the ward where that gentleman, whom I last saw, was the clerk or manager?—Who was he?

2037. I mean Mr. Stockings?—I do not know; I did not go in there.

2038. I thought you went into the committee-room?—No.

2039. Do you know the "Trumpet" public-house?—Yes.

2040. Were you there during the day?—I went in at the latter part of the day.

2041. About what time of the day did you go?—From three to four o'clock; between three and four.

2042. Did you take up any voters from there?—I did not.

2043. Were they all gone?—No; they were not all gone.

2044. Did you try to take any voters up to the poll?—No, I did not often take anybody up.

2045. Why did you not?—Because they were all sitting in the room; but a great many were standing outside.

2046. Was it because they were in the room that you did not attempt to take any?—No; they did not appear willing to go.

2047. Did you try?—Yes.

2048. And persuaded them?—Yes, and they would not go.

2049. Did you see Hunt there?—You mean, I suppose, the fowl dealer, a tall man.

2050. Yes?—Yes.

2051. Was he there at that time?—Yes.

2052. Had you known him before?—I had seen him before.

2053. He was active, was he not?—He did not appear to be very active; I thought he was rather past being active when I was there.

2054. Do you mean that he had been enjoying himself too much?—He appeared to me like it.

2055. Had you seen him in the early part of the day?—No.

2056. Did you see Smith there?—Yes; the retired fowl dealer.

2057. Was he drunk too?—I do not say that either of them was drunk; but he appeared to me to have had quite enough; I thought that they had had quite sufficient.

2058. You do not call them drunk?—I do not know; they appeared to me as if they could not walk very steadily.

2059. Did they seem to know what they were about?—I do not know; I did not talk much to them; but I talked to them.

2060. What did Hunt say about that 10*l.* that was so diminished?—I never saw anything about 10*l.*

2061. What did Hunt say?—Not a word to me; I heard nothing about it, only what I have heard here.

2062. Then yesterday it came to your astonished mind for the first time?—Yes; and it was likewise to yours, I daresay.

2063. Do you remember my learned friend Mr. Keane, and the cow that earned 800*l.* a year?—Yes, and a very good cow it is.

2064. I suppose Sir Henry Stracey gave you that cow?—No, he did not, but he has been a very kind landlord to me.

Mr. Rodwell stated that he had no question to put to the Witness.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr.
A. Stockings.

1869.

Mr.
G. Gowing.

Mr. WILLIAM RATCLIFFE, sworn ; Examined by Mr. Keane.

Mr.
W. Ratcliffe.
16 January
1869.

2065. WHERE do you live?— In Powden-square, Union-place.

2066. What are you?—I am a Land Surveyor.

2067. You are, I believe, in the office of Mr. Wright, of Bank Chambers?—Yes.

2068. Where were you on the day of the election?—I was in the Seventh Ward.

2069. Did you go about much?—No, I kept there.

2070. You remained in the Seventh Ward?—Yes.

2071. Did you see what was going on in that ward?—Yes, I did.

2072. Did you notice any voters in that ward?—Yes; I noticed several of them were intoxicated in the latter part of the day.

2073. About what time did you notice that?—It was between two and half-past three.

2074. Did you notice the voters earlier in the day, and was there any intoxication to be seen then?—I did not notice them much earlier in the day.

2075. Not so much as later in the day?—No.

2076. I presume that you noticed those voters who voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes; I particularly noticed those.

2077. And the voters who plumped for him?—Yes.

2078. In what state were those voters?—They were intoxicated principally.

2079. Do you mean considerably gone?—They could stand up.

2080. Were they able to walk steadily?—Yes, some of them were.

2081. And others were not?—I did not particularly notice that, not after they went away from the window.

2082. Were they noisy?—Yes, some of them were very noisy.

2083. Were they red in the face?—Yes; they were quite intoxicated.

2084. As to the intoxicated men who plumped for Sir Henry Stracey in the last hour, did they come in a body?—No, not particularly in a body; one at a time.

2085. Was there a long row of drunken men, or was there a sober one put in here and there?—They were not all intoxicated.

2086. Here and there there was a sober man?—Yes.

2087. Did you notice whether they were accompanied by some gentleman, to see what they did at the poll?—Yes; I noticed that one was accompanied by a gentleman; I particularly noticed that.

2088. Who was the gentleman?—He was at the brewery.

2089. Do you mean Mr. Patteson?—No; he is at the brewery; he is one of the clerks; but I cannot call his name to mind.

2090. Was his name Lamb?—Yes.

2091. And he, you say, was accompanying a drunken man?—I will not be sure whether he was intoxicated—the one that he was with.

2092. Did you see anybody with an intoxicated man?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

2093. As I understand you, these intoxicated men were able to walk up by themselves?—Yes, but they reeled to and fro; I did not notice how they went away, being inside the public room.

2094. What was it that you noticed?—As they came up to the window they reeled backwards and forwards.

2095. Were you told to watch them?—No.

2096. Were these the first voters you had seen that day that reeled?—Yes, it was after two o'clock.

2097. How many of the voters will you undertake to say were drunk out of the lot that you saw?—I could not undertake to say any number.

2098. Were there 30, 40, or 50, or 10 or 12?—I cannot say, to a certainty.

2099. Can you say within 10 or 12?—Perhaps 15.

2100. Do you know the names of them all?—No.

2101. Do you know the men by sight?—No.

2102. Do you know how each of them voted?—They plumped for Sir Henry Stracey, most of them did.

2103. How many of the 15 do you think plumped for Sir Henry Stracey; will you venture to say that more than half of them did?—Yes.

2104. Then how many did?—I have not taken any account, not at the time, and I cannot say.

2105. You have come here to say that you know that Mr. Lamb brought up a voter who was not drunk, and there were 15 of them who were drunk, and most of them plumped for Sir Henry Stracey; how did the others vote?—They voted the other way.

2106. Were you check-clerk?—Yes.

2107. Appointed, I suppose, by Tillett and Russell?—Yes.

2108. I suppose you noticed the voters who voted for them as well as those who voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—I did not notice any particular voters.

2109. But you noticed those 15 men whom you have mentioned?—Yes, I did.

2110. You say that most of them voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

2111. For whom did the others vote?—For the Liberals.

2112. For both of them?—I did not particularly notice.

2113. If a man plumped for Sir Henry Stracey, you could tell me, perhaps, whether he also plumped for Tillett and Russell, or split his vote?—They voted for Tillett and Russell.

2114. Were there no plumpers for Tillett?—No.

2115. That you will take upon yourself to swear?—No, I will not swear it.

2116. You say that there were 15 drunken men who came up to vote, and that more than half of them plumped for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

2117. How many of them plumped for Tillett?—I could not say positively.

2118. Can you say at all how many?—No.

Mr. Baron Martin.] You had better refer to the poll-book.

2119. Mr. Rodwell (to the Witness).] Were there not as many men who were drunk who plumped for Tillett and Russell as plumped for Sir Henry Stracey?—No.

2120. What

2120. What was the difference; were there half-a-dozen voters who were drunk who voted for Tillett and Russell?—Perhaps not more than two or three.

2121. Were there as many as two or three?—I will not be positive, but I particularly noticed at the time those who plumped for Sir Henry Stracey.

2122. Did you not notice men who plumped for anybody else?—No.

2123. Why not; why did you notice the others so particularly?—Because there appeared to be such a quantity.

2124. Was there not a “quantity” who plumped for Tillett, too?—No; I did not notice them.

2125. Will you swear that there were not as many who plumped for Tillett as for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes; I will swear that a good many more plumped for Sir Henry Stracey than for Tillett and Russell.

2126. Of those 15 drunken men?—Yes; but I will not be certain about the number.

2127. Mr. Baron Martin.] In what department were you?—In No. 1.

2128. Mr. Rodwell.] Was Lamb’s name down?—Lamb did not vote.

2129. What is the name of the voter that he brought up?—I do not know.

2130. Can you mention any voter of the 15th who was drunk?—No.

2131. Did you hear them asked any questions?—Yes; to know what their names were, and where they lived.

2132. Did they understand it?—Yes.

2133. Did you make any observation about those men being drunk afterwards?—No.

2134. When were you first asked whether you had noticed that those men were drunk, and who suggested that they were drunk?—I noticed it at the time.

2135. You did not mention it to anybody, did you?—No, but I heard some of them say that many of them were intoxicated.

2136. Who were they?—Several of them who were in the booth remarked that there were many intoxicated people who came to vote.

2137. I suppose there were many intoxicated people in Norwich that day?—I do not know.

[The Witness withdrew.

MR. JAMES JOHN BAYNE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

2138. WERE you a candidate’s check clerk on the day of the election?—I was.

2139. Where were you check clerk?—In the Sixth Ward, fourth compartment.

2140. By whom were you appointed?—I was appointed by the Liberal committee.

2141. Between 9 and 11 o’clock which was in the majority?—

Mr. Baron Martin.] Just get the poll-book of that compartment.

The poll-book was handed in.

2142. Mr. Keane.] For which side was the majority?—Russell and Tillett.

2143. Mr. Baron Martin.] Up to what hour?—Up to 11 o’clock.

2144. Mr. Keane.] Between 11 o’clock and half-past two had the polling been active?—No, very slow.

2145. Did you notice a change after half-past two?—Yes, half-past two; I should say, from about three o’clock a great number of voters came up, and most of them were intoxicated.

2146. For whom did they vote?—Almost to a man, for Sir Henry Stracey.

2147. Those voters that were intoxicated voted for Sir Henry Stracey; did they come up alone, or with any one?—There seemed to be a great number coming together; I did not notice any one conveying them up, they all came together; a very great many came, but I did not see how they came.

2148. Was that after half-past two?—That was after three, I should say.

2149. Did you hear any views addressed to them; did you recognise a speaker?—I could not recognise any speaker, but there was a general shout, “Vote for Stracey; now then, my boys, you plump for Stracey;” “All right, I will plump for Stracey.” One man came up, he was certainly drunk, and somebody said, “Now then, you vote for Stracey;” and some one behind him said, “You have got to plump for Stracey;” “I shall not do anything of the sort, I shall plump for Tillett and Stracey, as my trade lies between the two, and I will vote for Tillett and Stracey.”

2150. How did he vote?—He voted for Tillett and Stracey; he certainly was drunk, but not so drunk but what he knew what he was about; he seemed to argue his point pretty well.

Mr. Rodwell stated that he had no question to put to the Witness.

[The Witness withdrew.

MR. C. J. DODD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Simms Reeve.

2151. WERE you a card writer in No. 2 Compartment, Seventh Ward, at the election?—Yes.

2152. Who appointed you?—Mr. Stevens.

2153. What state were the men in, as to drunkenness or sobriety, that voted from two to four o’clock?—A good many were drunk.

2154. Who did those men vote for?—Chiefly for the Conservatives.

2155. That is, for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

2156. Did you notice what time the drunken men happened to come up?—About half-past two.

8.

2157. Up to what time did they come; till four?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

2158. Is this a compartment of the Seventh Ward, Compartment 2?—Yes.

2159. You say that during the last part of the time they principally voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

1869.

Mr.
J. J. Bayne.
—

Mr.
C. J. Dodd.

Mr. C. J. Dodd. 2160. There were more during the last half hour who voted for Mr. Russell and Mr. Tillett than voted for Sir Henry Stracey; are you aware of that?—The last half hour?

16 January 1869. 2161. Yes; out of the last 22 voters I find that there are more who voted for Mr. Russell and Mr. Tillett than had voted for Sir Henry Stracey?—As near as I could judge, I judge the other way.

2162. Here is the book?—

2163. Mr. Baron Martin.] Do you know who was the poll-clerk at the place?—Mr. Maynes, I think.

2164. And Henry Gedge?—Yes.

2165. Mr. Rodwell.] I will take the last page to begin with: where do you show this; with the exception of one page, it seems that they had been running pretty evenly?—So they had in the first part of the day.

2166. You came here to say that a great many drunken voters came up during the last half hour, and most of them voted and plumped for Sir Henry Stracey?—I did not say “plumped.”

2167. What did they do?—Some of them voted for Stracey and Russell.

2168. They voted chiefly, you say, for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, as well as Mr. Russell; I cannot say the whole of them, but as near as I can judge.

2169. Had not Mr. Tillett drunken voters?—There might have been.

2170. Why did you notice so particularly the others?—Because we seemed to poll more during the last hour for Stracey than for the others.

2171. Do you say that there were more drunken people who voted for Sir Henry Stracey than for Mr. Russell and Mr. Tillett, because more people voted in the last half hour for Sir Henry Stracey than for the other two?—No; I noticed drunken people coming up to vote, and they seemed to vote more for Stracey and Russell.

2172. Mr. Baron Martin.] Have you got your own poll-book?—No.

2173. Did you mark the hour in your own poll-book?—No.

2174. Mr. Rodwell.] Should you be surprised to know that out of the last 22 voters more voted for Mr. Tillett and Mr. Russell than for Sir Henry Stracey?—It did not seem so to me.

2175. Therefore you would be surprised to know that such is the fact?—Yes.

2176. Knowing that to be the fact that there were more who voted for Mr. Russell and Mr. Tillett than for Sir Henry Stracey in the last 22, are you still of opinion that more drunken people voted for Sir Henry Stracey than for Mr. Russell and Mr. Tillett?—It seemed so to me when I was checking the votes off, sitting in the room, for Stracey and Russell; they split the votes, several of them. I cannot say that they were all for Stracey.

2177. Did you take any part in politics?—None at all; I was only just an officer for the occasion.

Mr. ROBERT WISEMAN, junior, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

Mr. R. Wiseman, Jun. 2178. You are the son of Mr. Robert Wiseman, are you?—Yes.

2179. Which committee-room was your father's committee-room; in the Eighth Ward?—Yes.

2180. Is that the ward in which the “Wool-pack” is; I dare say you do not know it?—Yes, I believe I do.

2181. It is a question of belief with you?—No; I do know it.

2182. You know it well, do you not?—I know where it is, but I never use it.

2183. Have you never been in it?—Very rarely.

2184. Were you in it on the day of the election?—No.

2185. Were you near it?—I passed it several times.

2186. Did you go into the committee-room at all where your father was?—Yes.

2187. How often?—Perhaps once or twice.

2188. What for?—Merely to see him, or to see how they were getting on.

2189. Do you remember going in between 12 and one o'clock?—I might have gone in at that time; I am not certain about the time.

2190. You do not remember anything that took place?—There was nothing particular that took place.

2191. Did you speak to anybody?—I spoke to all of them; I dare say only common conversation. I cannot remember what I said. I did not say anything particular to recollect.

2192. Had you any money with you that day?—No; no more than I usually take.

2193. No half-sovereigns?—I do not think I had; certainly no half-sovereigns.

2194. How much money had you there; I mean, when you started in the morning?—I could not be certain about that. I might have had 15 s. or 16 s.

2195. Not more?—Certainly not.

2196. Did you get any that day from anybody?—Certainly not.

2197. Do you know Clarke's beerhouse?—Whereabout is that?

2198. Do you mean that you do not understand my question?—I do not know where it is.

2199. Why did you ask me where it was?—Because I did not know.

2200. You do not know where Clarke's beerhouse is?—No; there are lots of “Clarke's” about.

2201. It is in Jenken-lane, at the corner of it?—I must confess that I do not know where Jenken-lane is.

2202. St. Martin's at Oak?—I know that.

2203. Do you know Clarke's beerhouse there?—I might know the house, perhaps, though I do not know the man.

2204. Do you know a house called Clarke's beerhouse?—There is a Clarke in St. Matthew's.

2205. I am talking of St. Martin's at Oak?—I do not know it. I know the beerhouse there; but I do not know the man's name.

2206. Were you near that beerhouse on the day of the election at all?—I should like to understand where this house is. Where is Jenken-lane? I certainly do not know it myself.

2207. It leads from St. Martin's at Oak into Quaker's-lane; does that inform your mind?—Yes, it does. I know where it is now. I was in that house.

2208. Did you not know that before?—I know I did not. I did not know Jenken-lane.

2209. Were you employed upon the election at all?—No.

2210. Did

2210. Did you act upon it?—No.

2211. Before the people in this court, do you mean, upon your oath, to swear that you did not act upon this election?—Certainly not.

2212. Not in any way?—No. I met the different gentlemen upon the canvassing. On several occasions I met them canvassing, and I walked with them, perhaps, for half-an-hour or an hour.

2213. For the pleasure of walking about Norwich?—No; for the pleasure of walking with gentlemen. I considered that a pleasure.

2214. It was on account of their company that you walked with the canvassers?—Yes.

2215. Am I to understand you to swear that you took no part whatever in assisting Sir Henry Stracey upon the day of the election?—Yes, I did.

2216. Why did you swear, then, that you did not?—I did not swear that.

2217. You did not understand what I meant, I suppose?—I do not think I could. I will answer as straight as I can.

2218. Did you not act?—If “act” means “employed,” I was not employed. As to acting, I did all I could to promote the return of Sir Henry Stracey.

2219. You were doing so when you were walking with those gentlemen, were you not?—I had some chat with them going along.

2220. It was as much for Sir Henry Stracey as for the pleasure of their company, that you walked with them, was it not?—I did not consider myself to be in an official position.

2221. At the same time you were accompanying the canvassers and assisting Sir Henry Stracey?—Mine was only a casual meeting.

2222. You were assisting Sir Henry and accompanying the canvassers?—I did not go out with the canvassers.

2223. Were you accompanying the canvassers and assisting Sir Henry Stracey as much as you could?—I did all I could for him.

2224. You walked about with the canvassers for the pleasure of their company?—Yes; mine was not a legitimate canvass; I did not go out with them.

2225. You mean to say that you did not charge for it?—I do not suppose that any of them did.

2226. What is the difference between you and them?—Mine was only a casual meeting with those gentlemen; if I got out of my gig and had a chat with them, and walked with them for half-an-hour, I should not call that canvassing.

2227. Not if you asked for a vote?—I might do that.

2228. You do not call that canvassing?—Hardly; that is a strong meaning to put upon it.

2229. Did you canvass in this beershop?—Yes.

2230. You found a good many people there, did you not?—Not many.

2231. Mr. Baron Martin.] Upon what day was this?—The day of the polling.

2232. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Had you been in Clarke's beerhouse, between 12 and 1 o'clock?—That I cannot say.

2233. I am curious to know, and if you could possibly inform me I should be obliged?—I will try.

2234. Were you there between 12 and 1 o'clock?—I cannot tell you; I do not know.

2235. Were you there when a person came in and announced that the numbers for Mr. Tillet were 400 or 500 above Sir Henry Stracey?—I did not hear him.

2236. You heard some one say so, did you not?—No; I knew it.

2237. Where did you learn it?—In the street.

2238. Afterwards, did you go to your father's committee-room?—No, I should say not.

2239. Will you swear you did not?—I should not tie myself to that; I do not know where I was at a certain hour.

2240. Did not you go to your father's committee-room, after you had heard the state of the poll about 12 o'clock?—I think I did go after that.

2241. What did you say to your father?—I am sure I do not know.

2242. You came to inquire about his health, I suppose?—I am always happy to see him looking well; I went in there quite as a casual call in my passing.

2243. After you had heard the state of the poll?—I did not tell him that.

2244. Did you hear it mentioned?—No.

2245. I suppose there was not much conversation went on?—I dare say they were all chatting.

2246. There is a way of understanding, without chatting, in these committee-rooms?—I do not know; I was never in the rooms.

2247. You never said a word about the election when you went there?—I dare say I did.

2248. What did you say?—That I cannot tell you; it was only common conversation; the election was all the talk on that day.

2249. How soon after that was it that you were at Clarke's beerhouse again?—I think about an hour and a half.

2250. After you visited your father, things began to improve, did they not?—So they talked.

2251. You knew that, did not you?—I believe I did.

2252. You were not the least surprised at that, were you?—According to my opinion I was not surprised.

2253. There were many people who required very much persuasion, did not they?—A great deal.

2254. You did your little utmost, did you not, to persuade them?—Yes, of course I did.

2255. With 16 s. in your pocket?—I had spent some of that then. I wanted some refreshment before that time.

2256. Then it was only your eloquence that prevailed?—That was all I used, whether I have much of it I do not know.

2257. Do you know Mrs. Boyce of Calvert-street?—No.

2258. You never knew such a person; do you know a gentleman named George Nobbs?—Yes.

2259. Did you see him on the day of the election?—Yes.

2260. Did you see him in Calvert-street?—He is doing a building there, and I saw him standing against the door of that building; I was considerably further off than I am from you now.

2261. Is he a voter?—I believe he is.

2262. Do not you know?—He voted.

2263. You have no doubt of it?—No.

2264. Did he vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, I believe he did.

2265. You know that he did?—I believe he did.

2266. Had he voted when you saw him?—I do not know that.

Mr.
R. Wiseman,
Jun.
1869.

Mr.
R. Wiseman,
Jun.
16 January
1869.

2267. Do not you know whether he had or not?—No.

2268. You saw him in a street; you were doing all you could for Sir Henry Stracey; did not you speak to him?—No, I can explain; he was a man in our employ some short time since, and he was guilty of what I thought rather a dirty transaction, and we had not spoken for about two years.

2269. And you did not speak upon that occasion?—Certainly not.

2270. Even your public spirit could not get over your private opinion?—I do not know about that.

2271. You did not speak to him?—No, certainly not.

2272. Did you communicate with him in any way?—No, certainly not, not the slightest thing in any way.

2273. Your hand was not near to his?—Certainly not, not at any time whatever.

2274. Had you any money in your waistcoat pocket?—No.

2275. You did not, while looking at the building, happen to put your hand into your waistcoat pocket and take out half-a-sovereign?—No.

2276. You are quite sure about it?—Quite certain.

2277. It could not have occurred?—It could not have occurred.

2278. Do you know a man of the name of Platfoot?—No.

2279. Do you know a man of the name of Colman?—No.

2280. You do not know whether any person of the name of Colman or Platfoot were at Clark's house on the day of the election?—I do not.

2281. Did you go at all to the "Royal Oak," which was kept by Benfather?—I believe I walked in there.

2282. Did anybody follow you there?—Not that I am aware of.

2283. Did somebody say to you that you would never go on without your money bag?—No.

2284. Nothing of the kind?—No.

2285. Did you say, "Don't make a noise; do you want half-a-sovereign"?—Decidedly not.

2286. Nothing of the kind?—No.

2287. Did you take up any voters?—No; at least I did take up three or four.

2288. Do you know whether you did or not?—Yes.

2289. Why then did you say no?—I was just considering; it was a little error of mine.

2290. You did take up some voters?—Yes.

2291. At what time?—I think about 11 o'clock in the morning.

2292. Did you take up any in the afternoon?—No.

2293. You are sure of that?—Yes.

2294. You say that in the morning you did take up some voters?—Yes.

2295. In a cab?—Yes.

2296. Where from?—From St. Martin's.

2297. From this house?—Which house?

2298. The beerhouse?—I do not know exactly the sign; there are two public-houses in St. Martin's. I think they came from the one opposite Sussex-street.

Mr. Rodwell stated that he had no question to put to the witness.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs. ELIZA BOYCE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

Mrs.
E. Boyce.

2299. WHAT are you?—A married woman.

2300. What is your husband?—He is a manager for Gamble and Davis's firm.

2301. Do you know the last witness, young Mr. Wiseman?—Yes.

2302. You know him by sight?—Yes, I know him quite well.

2303. Did you see him on the day of the election?—Yes.

2304. I do not ask you anything in particular at present; where were you to enable you to see him?—At my door.

2305. How far is your door; is it near Clark's beerhouse; where is your door?—Opposite Cross-lane in Calvert-street.

2306. Did you see him often on that day?—Yes; two or three times.

2307. What was he doing?—Passing up and down the street; sometimes riding and sometimes walking.

2308. What did he appear to be doing?—He appeared to be very busy with the election with other people, talking of it, during the day.

2309. Do you know a man of the name of Mobbs or Nobbs?—Yes.

2310. Did you see him upon that day?—Yes.

2311. Do you know his Christian name?—No, I do not.

2312. Did you see him on that day in Calvert-street?—Yes.

2313. Did you see him at the same time you saw the last witness, Mr. Wiseman?—Yes.

2314. Where was he?—He was in the buildings opposite our house, at his work.

2315. What was he working at?—At work, I suppose.

2316. He was on work there, apparently?—Yes.

2317. Did you see Mr. Wiseman speak to him?—Yes.

2318. Is it true that Wiseman kept at a distance some yards from him, or go close to him; just describe what you saw?—I was standing at our front door, and I saw Mr. Wiseman, Mr. Dunn, and some other gentlemen come down Calvert-street, and come opposite our door. I was there, and Mr. Dunn went across to the buildings and called Nobbs out, and Nobbs came out, and Mr. Nobbs and Mr. Dunn stood talking, I think, for five minutes.

2319. Where was Wiseman standing then?—Close by with some other gentlemen.

2320. After this conversation, what did you see take place?—After Mr. Dunn had done talking with Mr. Nobbs, Mr. Wiseman and Mr. Nobbs were talking together.

2321. How long were they talking together?—Some minutes.

2322. Did you see anything take place?—Yes.

2323. What took place?—I saw Mr. Wiseman put his hand in his waistcoat pocket and take something out and give it to Nobbs, and he put it into his trousers' pocket.

2324. Mr.

2324. Mr. Baron Martin.] You saw that?—Yes.

2325. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] What took place then?—Then Mr. Wiseman turned round, and he took his watch out of his pocket, and he said it “was 20 minutes past 3 o’clock, there was no time to spare.”

2326. To whom did he say that?—To those that were with him, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Nobbs; he went to put his coat on, and he said, “I will be there in a few minutes;” he said, “I must go for my coat,” or jacket; he went in and brought his jacket out, and was putting it on his shoulders just behind Mr. Wiseman, going up the street.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

2327. Where were you standing all this time?—At my front door.

2328. They could see you?—Yes; Mr. Wiseman nodded to me as he came down.

2329. You are friends?—Yes; my husband and he are very friendly; he has been backwards and forwards at our house lately, doing work there.

2330. You are on intimate terms with him?—Yes.

2331. Did Mr. Dunn or Mr. Nobbs speak to you?—Mr. Dunn came across to speak to me; I do not know Mr. Nobbs, only by seeing him.

2332. You are sure it was him?—Yes.

2333. Who does he work for now?—I do not know; he is at a shoe warehouse, for some time, to work.

2334. What were you doing while you were looking on?—Standing at the door seeing the election.

2335. Was there any one with you?—My little boy of two years old.

2336. Was there no one else during all that time?—No.

2337. You say that you were looking on for 20 minutes or half an hour?—Yes, or more; I was there during the day.

2338. Whatever they did you had a full opportunity of seeing?—Yes, certainly.

2339. And could hear what they said?—Yes.

2340. Did they look towards you at the time?—Yes, I said to Mr. Dunn, “You did that very nicely.”

2341. Is Mr. Dunn here?—Yes; he said, “You were mistaken, Mrs. Boyce;” I said, “I am not.”

2342. Was anything more said?—No; he wished me a good afternoon and went.

2343. You cannot tell what it was he (Wiseman) took out of his waistcoat pocket?—It was money.

2344. What was the coin?—I should not like to say; it was a piece of money.

2345. What do you think it was?—It was in one piece; I could not say whether it was gold or silver.

2346. Try and remember; how do you know it was that one piece?—It was not half-a-crown or a 5 s.-piece, or I should have seen it; it was smaller than that.

2347. How far were you off from them?—I was as near to Mr. Wiseman as I am to you, I suppose.

2348. Were you as near as that?—It was but very little different; I was not three yards from our door.

2349. It was his right-hand waistcoat pocket, was it?—Yes.

8.

2350. Did he look at it before he gave it?—No; he rather looked towards me when he gave it.

2351. To show you what he was doing?—No; I rather did that.

2352. He looked at you at the time full in the face and then gave it?—Yes.

2353. When did you first mention this transaction to anyone?—I spoke to Mrs. Campling, a neighbour of ours, directly afterwards about it.

2354. Is that the wife of Mr. Campling?—Yes.

2355. Mr. Campling was one of Mr. Tillett’s agents, was not he?—I do not know.

2356. Where does Mrs. Campling live?—Close by us.

2357. You told Mrs. Campling the next day?—No, it was five minutes afterwards.

2358. You told her what you had seen?—Yes; I went across to know how they were going on, and she told me.

2359. How was he going on?—How the election was getting on.

2360. On which side were you?—I was on Mr. Tillett’s side.

2361. You were anxious about the election I suppose?—Yes, the same as other people.

2362. And Mrs. Campling too; I suppose you told Mrs. Campling, “I have got a case now against them”?—No.

2363. What did you say to her?—She saw the people there as well as me; she said, “Well, we are so many behind; I believe there is some bribery going on;” I said, “If you had been at our front door, you would have seen so-and-so;” I told them what I saw there; then Mrs. Mallett came in at the time, and she heard what I said; she said, “Yes, I saw Mr. Wiseman and Mr. Nobbs there together.”

2364. Did not she say that she saw money?—No; she saw that there was a bribe going on.

2365. What do you mean by that?—She was further away than me.

2366. How does a person see that a bribe was going on?—They fancied it I suppose.

2367. It was Mrs. Mallett’s fancy?—Yes.

2368. You three gossiped it over?—No; I never spoke a word to Mrs. Mallett; she came in, and I was leaving the door when she came.

2369. How long were you and Mrs. Campling closeted together?—Ten minutes.

2370. You talked it over, and went away?—Yes.

2371. Mrs. Campling was rather pleased at it, was not she?—Yes.

2372. You thought that if Mr. Tillett did not get a majority, you would have something to say then against Sir Henry Stracey?—Not at all.

2373. Why were you pleased then?—Because other people seemed pleased at anything of the kind, and I was the same.

2374. What was there to please you?—No doubt Sir Henry Stracey’s party was pleased to hear what was going on.

2375. Why were you and Mrs. Campling pleased at what you say you saw?—We were, and we laughed and parted; I laughed it off, and we parted.

2376. When did you begin to talk about this seriously to anyone?—Never since; I have never spoken to anyone since, without it was my husband; I told him of it when he came home.

2377. Have you been examined by anybody about this?—Yes.

F 3

2378. By

Mrs.
E. Boyce.
16 January
1869.

Mrs.
E. Boyce.
16 January
1869.

2378. By whom?—By a gentleman that came to our house.

2379. How long was that after what you have stated took place?—I do not know; I suppose it was about a month or six weeks after; I think it was Mr. Baker.

2380. You told him, did you, what you have stated to day?—Yes.

2381. Did you speak to Mr. Wiseman about this?—No.

2382. Or to Mr. Nobbs?—No.

2383. Or Mr. Dunn?—No.

2384. Or have you spoken about it to Mrs. Campling since?—Yes.

2385. Yesterday?—Yes, since, I was subpoenaed.

2386. You talked it over again with her?—There was nothing named; just a word or two; she said, "I heard you were subpoenaed, Mrs. Boyce; and I said, "Yes;" she said, "Of course you know what you said to me;" and I said, "What I said to you of course I saw."

2387. You went to tell her that you were subpoenaed, or did she come to you?—I told her; I went for ale for supper.

2388. You told her that you should tell what you had told her, did you not?—I said, "I was subpoenaed;" she said, "Well, you know what you said to me;" and I said, "I did," I said, "What I told you was correct;" and my statement is just the same.

2389. Have you received any money from anybody?—No, indeed I have not.

2390. Have you or not received anything?—No.

2391. Nor been promised anything?—No.

2392. I believe that you were in some little distress about six months ago, were you not?—I was.

2393. Did you and your husband disagree, and did you go and make an application at the workhouse?—Yes; when my husband and me disagreed, but that has nothing to do with the election.

2394. Did you apply within the last six months for admission into the workhouse?—To speak the truth, I did.

2395. Did you or did you not?—Of course I did; well, I did.

2396. Why did you not answer me?—Because I do not consider it has anything to do with the election.

2397. But it does a good deal; why did you apply for admission into the workhouse?—I am not supposed to tell what my husband and me disagree upon.

2398. Why did you apply to the workhouse for relief?—Because my husband and me disagreed.

2399. Was it from want of money that you applied to the workhouse?—Of course; I merely went.

2400. Was it for want of support and relief?—I said, if we disagreed he should support me.

2401. Did you apply for relief?—No.

2402. What did you apply for then?—Yes; when we disagreed of course I did. I was away several days; I had a baby, and it was very ill.

2403. You left your husband; where did you go then?—I went away in the morning; I went to my woman, a girl that was living at our house, at her mother's, and stayed there.

2404. Were you in distress at the time?—No; I had a trifle of money with me.

2405. Did you not apply at the workhouse for relief for yourself?—I did.

2406. Was that because you had not any money?—No; I had money.

2407. What did you state then to the guardians; was not it that you wanted relief?—I told Mr. Worledge that I had left my husband, and that he should support me unless we came to some arrangement.

2408. Were you without funds at the time?—No; I had a trifle with me.

2409. But you wanted an order of the guardians to compel him (your husband) to support you?—Yes; we disagreed.

2410. Are you living together now?—Yes.

2411. Well, did the guardians refuse that application?—No.

2412. Did they give you relief?—Yes.

2413. What did you accept?—I almost forget.

2414. You did accept relief?—Yes.

2415. Upon the ground that you had no means of subsistence; was that so?—Yes.

2416. You think that Mr. Baker was the person you spoke to?—He was the first gentleman that came to our house.

2417. I ask you, had anything been said about any remuneration, with regard to your coming as a witness?—No.

2418. Have you been paid anything?—Nothing at all.

2419. Has anything been said about your giving evidence?—No; I have not heard a word.

2420. Cannot you tell his Lordship whether it was a half-sovereign or a sovereign, that you saw?—I cannot.

2421. Mr. Wiseman is a respectable man, is he not?—Of course he is.

2422. And you would believe anything that he stated, would you not?—Yes.

2423. You say that you will swear that there was a coin passed?—Yes.

2424. But you will not say what it was?—No.

2425. Have you no idea what it was?—Of course it was money.

2426. Why, if you did not see what it was, are you able to swear that it was money; is it not imagination on your part?—No; it is no imagination.

2427. But you never saw it?—He would not put his hand in his waistcoat pocket, and take it out and it give to a man without it were money.

2428. Did you see it when it went into Mr. Nobbs' hands?—Yes, it was one piece.

2429. What was it?—I do not know whether it was silver or gold.

2430. I suppose Mr. Nobbs and Mr. Wiseman have been to you about it?—No; I have never seen them on that account; I have seen them pass.

Re-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

2431. If Mr. Wiseman swears that he never went near Mr. Nobbs, or spoke to him, would you believe him?—No.

2432. Is that false, as far as your observation goes?—Yes.

2433. If he has sworn it, you will not believe him again?—No.

2434. Is your husband in a position to support you thoroughly well; what wages does he get?—He gets so much a week.

2435. You

2435. You had a quarrel with your husband; at that time you had an infant, how old was it?—The child was then not two years old.

2436. Then the child went to a friend's house?—Then I had a baby at the time that was 12 weeks old.

2437. Were you nursing it?—Yes.

2438. You took the baby?—Yes; I went to a girl's house and remained till I came back again.

2439. You have since that time gone back to you husband's house, and are now living with him?—Yes.

2440. You are living very comfortably with him?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs.
E. Boyce.
1869.

Mrs. RACHELL MALLETT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

2441. ARE you married or single?—Married.

2442. Have you ever left your husband or gone to the workhouse?—No.

2443. Where do you live?—In Calvert-street, St. George's.

2444. What is your husband?—A brush-maker.

2445. Were you at your own house on the day of the election?—Yes.

2446. Do you know a man of the name of Nobbs?—Yes.

2447. Do you know Mr. Wiseman, the younger?—Yes.

2448. Do you know Mr. Dunn?—Yes.

2449. Did you see Mr. Wiseman, the younger, and Mr. Dunn in the afternoon of that day?—Yes.

2450. Did you see Mr. Nobbs in the afternoon of that day?—Yes.

2451. What was Mr. Nobbs doing?—Talking with Mr. Wiseman.

2452. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

2453. How near to him were you?—I suppose I was within about 15 yards of them; I was standing at my own door.

2454. How near were Wiseman and Nobbs together?—They were very close.

2455. And apparently talking together?—Yes, they were.

2456. Did you see anything occur between them?—No.

2457. Did you afterwards hear something from Mrs. Boyce?—Not for some time, and then I heard her say——

2458. Are you perfectly certain that they were close together?—Yes.

Mrs.
R. Mallett.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

2459. As close as I am to you?—Yes, and closer.

2460. How long were you watching them, and looking at them?—I was watching, I suppose, from 5 to 10 minutes.

2461. Do you mean to say that they were from 5 to 10 minutes talking together?—Yes.

2462. Did you hear what they said?—No.

2463. Did you try to hear?—No; I did not give it a thought.

2464. Then, I believe, Mrs. Boyce came into you some time afterwards; how long afterwards?—I heard of it at Mrs. Camplings; Mrs. Boyce was there.

2465. How long after was that?—I think it was the same night, but I never heard the truth of it, and I never paid any regard to it till afterwards.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs. HARDIMENT, re-called; and further Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

2466. You recollect, I suppose, when the election took place?—I do.

2467. Who kept your husband's account books?—He kept them himself.

2468. Who kept them after he went away?—Thirkettle kept them since he has been in our service.

2469. Who kept them before he did?—Mr. Hardiment.

2470. He left, did he not, before Thirkettle came into your service?—I cannot say that.

2471. But he has said it, and I suppose you do not contradict him?—I do not want to contradict him.

2472. And so you will not contradict him?—No.

2473. Who kept the books after your husband went, and before Thirkettle came?—There was not anyone.

2474. Who took the cash?—I do not know that anybody did.

2475. There were no books kept?—No.

2476. Mr. Baron Martin.] What is your husband?—He is a fellmonger and tanner.

2477. That is, he buys and sells skins?—Yes.

2478. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Then nobody kept your husband's books?—No.

2479. I understand that you have got now a letter from your husband?—Yes.

2480. When did it come?—It came this morning, and I was told by the parties it came from, that I was compelled to bring them, and that if the judge thought proper, he could come into my house; if he likes to come, I shall be very happy to see him.

2481. Mr. Baron Martin.] Who was it that told you this?—One of Tillett's men, and he said that I was compelled to bring Hardiment's letters, but I have only one.

2482. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Do you mind my seeing it?—No, I do not.

2483. Do you know when your husband is coming home?—I do not know; my husband does not acquaint anyone with his business; he lets me not know anything, neither do I wish; if the judge thinks proper to come into my house I shall be very happy to show him.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs.
Hardiment.

Mr. THOMAS JOHN SCOTT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

Mr. T. J. Scott. 2484. I BELIEVE you were check clerk in the Eighth Ward on the day of the election for Norwich?—Yes.

16 January 1869. 2485. You had a particular compartment, I think, or were you general check clerk?—I was general check clerk.

2486. Mr. Baron Martin.] Did you act for the sheriff or the mayor, or did you act for one of the candidates?—I acted for one of the candidates.

2487. On which side were you?—For the Liberal candidates.

2488. Mr. Keane.] Will you tell me whether or not you noticed on the day of the election that a number of drunken persons came up to vote at one time?—Yes, I did.

2489. At what time of the day did that commence?—It was about two o'clock.

2490. For whom did those persons vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

2491. Did they appear to you to be coming together unconvoyed or was some one convoying them?—Some one was convoying them.

2492. They came up convoyed?—Yes.

2493. Under whose convoy were they?—Mr. Hardiment's and Mr. Worledge's.

2494. Have you any general notion how many there were that you saw at one time under the convoy of Hardiment and Worledge?—About three or four at a time.

2495. Did you see any tipsiness or drunkenness, or what was it like?—Most of them were tipsy.

2496. Did they know for whom to vote when you observed them?—Some of them did not.

2497. How did you notice that?—When the poll clerk put a question to them, they replied for "Stuart" and "Patteson" in one or two cases.

2498. They are, I believe, brewers?—Yes.

2499. I may take it, I suppose, that their ale must have been drunk on that day?—Yes; probably it was that.

2500. Do you recollect by whom they were corrected?—The poll clerk put the question to them, and then they gave the names of the candidates; in several cases when they were brought up, Hardiment replied for them and said that they voted for Sir Henry Stracey, to which I objected; I objected to his doing that.

2501. Did they after that say "Stuart" and "Patteson"?—No, they did not say that then, they said "Stracey;" but the word was put into their mouths for them.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

2502. How many cases of this sort were there?—About two or three of persons who said that they voted for "Stuart" and "Patteson."

2503. Not more than that?—No.

2504. And then they were corrected?—Yes; the poll clerks read the names over to them, and then they said the name, "Sir Henry Stracey."

2505. Hardiment, you say, interfered; in how many cases did he interfere?—I think in perhaps six or eight altogether.

2506. How many voted from two o'clock to the close of the poll?—I cannot say the number, because I had never seen the statistics of the poll, but I know that a majority of them voted for Sir Henry Stracey.

2507. Then the sober people voted for Tillett and Russell, and those who were not sober voted for Sir Henry Stracey; that is what you mean, is it?—Yes.

2508. No people at all who were intoxicated voted for Tillett and Russell?—I do not remember that.

2509. Are you sure of that?—I am quite sure that I do not remember one.

2510. You do not take any part in politics?—No.

2511. Were there many persons who voted plumpers for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—Yes, a large number, particularly towards the close of the poll.

2512. Mr. Baron Martin.] What was your number?—I think it was No. 2; it was at Mr. Atkins's.

2513. Mr. Rodwell.] Was it so early as two o'clock?—Yes; after two o'clock nearly all voted for Sir Henry Stracey; very few voted for Tillett in proportion, but I cannot say the number.

Mr. Keane.] I have the hours now before me, and I find that for Sir William Russell, in the last hour, the number was 69; for Mr. Tillett, in the last hour, 76; and for Sir Henry Stracey, in the last hour, 116.

Mr. Baron Martin.] Where do you get those numbers?

Mr. Keane.] They have been taken, my Lord, from our books, and perhaps I ought to have mentioned that before.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. JACOB HENRY TILLET, sworn; examined by Mr. Keane.

Mr. J. H. Tillett. 2514. You are the Petitioner in this case?—Yes.

2515. You have for many years been a solicitor practising in Norwich?—Yes.

2516. You are also the proprietor of one of the Liberal newspapers?—I am one of the proprietors.

2517. I believe you have been made acquainted with certain lists, which have been furnished by the other side, of persons declared to have been bribers on the Liberal side at the last election?—Yes.

2518. And you find there your own name?—Yes.

2519. Is there any truth in that?—Not the slightest.

2520. In any form do you know of any corruption or treating, or intimidation, or anything wrong having been done?—I know of no case of corruption; I have made inquiries, and I have heard of no cases of corruption; I do not believe that there was one single shilling spent corruptly on my side, or that there was anything given away with a corrupt intention; I have not even heard heard it from any of my friends that there was anything of the sort, but entirely the contrary.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

2521. I believe you had several committee-rooms?—Yes; we had.

2522. You will probably confirm the statement that has been made by Mr. Stevens as to the part which several gentlemen, whose names I went through, took; I mean as to their being active partisans and agents of yours?—Yes; quite.

2523. Do you know a person of the name of Dodd?—Yes; there is a Mr. Dodd who keeps the asylum; the Bethel.

2524. Did you see him during the election?—No.

2525. I do not mean on the election day, but during the time of the election, did you see him?—I do not think I did at all.

2526. You did not see him in any of your committee-rooms?—No; and I am not aware that he took any part in the election.

2527. You know the man that I mean, as he is the keeper of the Bethel?—Yes.

2528. I believe Mr. Colman was a very active supporter of yours?—Yes; he proposed me.

2529. He is the gentleman who, it was suggested by witnesses examined yesterday, when he came into a particular ward there was a great deal of opinion expressed upon political matters?—He established a factory there, and employs a large number of hands, and is very highly respected; he is now deputy mayor of the city.

2530. Mr. Womersley is his principal manager, is he not?—Yes.

2531. He was a very active partisan of yours, was he not?—Yes; I should think so quite.

2532. Did you canvass Mr. Colman's men yourself?—Not individually; Sir William Russell and I went down to the factory, and they assembled on two occasions; that is we had a meeting in Mr. Colman's school-room and Mr. Colman was present. On another occasion I met them when Mr. Colman was not present.

2533. You are aware, I suppose, that a great many of his men voted for you?—Yes; I have no doubt that a vast majority did, but a good many voted the other way; at least several voted the other way, but Mr. Colman most distinctly told the men that they were perfectly free to vote as they pleased, and that we should respect them just as much if they voted for the Conservatives as if they voted for the Liberals, and it was publicly reported in the newspapers at the time.

2534. You have disclaimed any improper act during the election, and do not you know that Sir Henry Stracey spoke in the strongest possible language against any improper act being done?—Yes; I believe he did.

2535. Do you know whether Mr. Colman's men had a holiday given them on the day of the election?—So far as I know they had just the time given to them to go up and vote; say two or three hours; I believe that that is the fact, but they had no holiday for the day.

2536. Do not you know that a great many of them lost half-a-day's work?—Whether they made it up afterwards, I cannot tell you, for I do not know.

2537. On the nomination day, were they allowed to go up on that day?—I believe they did go up in the same way that other workmen did.

2538. Do you know whether they lost all that day?—That I cannot speak to.

2539. Is Mr. John Boyce a man who took an active part for you in the election?—I think he did.

2540. Is he the person of whom the woman who was examined spoke?—No; he is a partner in the brewery; there is a large brewery here; Bullard's.

2541. This is the first time, I believe, you have stood for Norwich?—Yes.

2542. But you are an old hand at electioneering?—I have been employed in a good many elections, certainly.

2543. I believe you were examined on the Sudbury trial?—No; I was not, indeed.

2544. You were not there?—Yes; I was.

2545. You were employed in that election were you not?—I was there, and I should wish to state for what purpose, and what I did.

2546. Were you there?—Yes, and I will now explain what I went there for, and what I did; Mr. James Coppock was a Parliamentary agent, who had been connected with Norwich in a good many matters, corporation and other matters, as Parliamentary agent, and he employed a Mr. Wilde, who lived at Norwich at that time, to go over and manage the election at Sudbury; I was then only a young man, and Mr. Wilde asked me if I would go over and keep the poll; I knew of no intention to bribe, and I had nothing whatever to do with bribery. I went over for a specific purpose, and I did that, and nothing else; I never spoke to a voter of a corrupt character, so far as I knew it; no money passed through my hands, and I had nothing whatever to do with the bribery.

2547. I do not impute that to you; I merely mean that you were concerned in that election; is that it?—That is it; to that extent.

JEREMIAH JAMES COLMAN, Esq., sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

2548. You were Mayor of Norwich last year?—Yes.

2549. And you are one of the partners in the firm of Colman whose conduct at the time of the election, Mr. Tillet has been describing?—Yes.

2550. Is his account of what you said, or caused to be said to the men in your employ, correct?—Perfectly correct; it was reported in the newspapers verbatim at the time, and I wished the men to understand it.

2551. If we understood Mr. Tillet aright, they were at liberty to vote for which candidate they pleased without having to look for any displeasure, or any treatment one way or the other by you?—Most perfectly.

2552. Will you tell me was any arrangement made about the day of nomination?—It was understood, I believe, on both sides that the nomination should be perfectly free; that is to say, no men engaged, as I dare say has been the case upon some former elections, to go to the nomination, and I stated to our own foreman that if any of the men wished to go to the nomination upon that morning they were at liberty to do so.

2553. On either side?—Yes, certainly.

2554. And the same privilege on the day of the election?—Yes, the day of the election the same;

Mr.
J. H. Tillet.
—
16 January
1869.

J. J. Colman,
Esq.

J.J. Colman, Esq. same; they were all allowed to go if they wished.

16 January 1869. 2555. If any arrangement was made for making up the time, was it quite the same with regard to the persons favouring the different candidates?—Yes, most perfectly so.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

2556. That is, all your men had liberty to go and take a holiday?—Perhaps you will allow me to explain how the matter stands; what I have to say is this, that we have different departments; some men are on piece work and some are not on piece work; I directed the managers of our different departments to proceed in the matter precisely as they had been accustomed to do upon

Mr. ALFRED MASTER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Sergeant Ballantine.

Mr. A. Master. 2557. You are a medical gentleman residing and practising at Norwich?—I am.

2558. And I believe in partnership with another gentleman of the name of Johnson?—I was till the 31st of last month.

2559. You were one of the active supporters, I believe, of Sir Henry Stracey?—I was.

2560. And so was also your partner, Mr. Johnson?—Yes.

2561. On the morning of the day of the election was there a large breakfast party at your house?—I can hardly call it a large breakfast party; you said in your opening that there were 30 people, I think.

2562. I was so instructed?—I have been racking my brains and I cannot make out more than 23.

2563. I am quite sure that what you say upon the subject is more likely to be correct than any vague information that we have obtained; there were about 23, you say?—I think so.

2564. Were they voters for Sir Henry Stracey?—The majority of them were.

2565. Can you give me an idea of the minority?—The minority is one, I think; one voted for Tillett and two had no votes at all.

2566. One voted for Tillett and the others had a proper view of their political principles?—I consider it so.

2567. They had an exceedingly good breakfast, had they not?—I should be very sorry to sit you down to such a breakfast; I may say that I made no order at all about it; I had a circular came to me the night before to say that our friends were going to meet opposite my house, and with that I simply gave my servant directions to have some coffee ready that morning.

2568. And your servant, who knows the moderation of your orders, but the liberality of your wishes, what did he do?—I can tell you exactly what they had, for I made no preparation whatever; first of all, Mr. Johnson, whose name has been brought prominently into this question, had nothing at all, unless you call warming himself at the fire something.

2569. It was December, was it not?—It was November.

2570. Then I do call it something; of course, I never suggested that he was bribed?—But you suggested in your opening, I think, that he gave it.

2571. What had you?—We had some coffee, and I believe afterwards there was some beef and former occasions; that is to say, when any holiday was required, I believe as a rule the men made up their time; but at the same time I should say this, that I saw a statement in the newspaper a few days before stating that the Government had given notice that the Admiralty yards would be closed, the men having a holiday with no deduction from their pay for the day of the election; and therefore, in exceptional cases where it was difficult for the men to make up their time at piece work as they ordinarily could they were to proceed, so that the business of the works should not be at all interfered with; I believe as a rule the men made up their time. The wages books are perfectly at your service, and the clerk who paid them may be here at any time.

some bread, and it might have been some butter, but I do not know of anything more.

2572. Did you all go up in a party to vote?—No, not at all.

2573. They left and voted?—The only reason Mr. Johnson was there was, that he had been ill in bed several days, and he came in rather than wait upon the plain.

2574. Did Mr. Johnson go with them?—No, he went by himself, I believe.

2575. Did he leave with them?—No, certainly not; at no one time were there more than five people in the room.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

2576. It was not a large breakfast party?—Not at all.

2577. Mr. Sergeant Ballantine.] Were any of the committee with you?—I do not know who the committee were.

2578. Was Mr. Johnson on the committee?—I do not believe Mr. Johnson ever got into a committee-room.

2579. Was Mr. Gilbert there?—Mr. Gilman was there.

2580. He was one of the paid agents, I believe?—He was a friend of mine; I do not think he was paid.

Mr. Rodwell.] The suggestion by my learned friend is, that Mr. Johnson, your partner, was corruptly influenced by this breakfast of yours.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] No certainly not.

2581. Mr. Rodwell.] Had Mr. Johnson's breakfast anything to do with his vote?—He had no breakfast.

2582. But the warming by the fire; had that anything to do with his vote?—Upon my word I do not know how to answer such a question.

2583. Why were those people asked to breakfast?—I never asked them at all; they were waiting shivering upon the plain, and I asked them to breakfast, or to take a cup of coffee.

2584. Upon a cold morning, instead of being shivering outside you asked them to come in and have a cup of coffee?—That is all.

2585. Was there any intention upon your part, or was there any effect produced upon the minds of those voters by what you gave them?—I deny it it altogether; I never asked a single person in the house for their vote, nor did I do anything beyond what you say; merely gave them a cup of coffee.

2586. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] I do not in any way charge you with anything of the sort, or impute any such motive?—Then you will take off the stigma from me, if you please.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] I will take it off with pleasure, and I may tell his Lordship that I do not pursue that case any further.

Mr.
A. Master.
1869.

ROBERT BOND, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

2587. WHERE do you live?—In St. Martin's, at Palace.

2588. What are you?—A gardener; a labourer in a garden.

2589. Are you a voter?—I have a vote.

2590. For whom did you vote at the last election?—Sir Henry Stracey.

2591. Mr. Baron Martin.] Are you a freeman, or one of the new voters?—I am a new voter under the new Act.

2592. Mr. Keane.] Do you know Edward Fraxton, who lives in the Cathedral Close?—No, I do not.

2593. I beg your pardon; I mean Edward Traxton?—Yes, I know him.

2594. Did you see him before the election?—I did see him once, and that was in the fore part of the morning.

2595. The very same day?—Yes, the very same day.

2596. Mr. Baron Martin.] You mean the day of the polling?—Yes.

2597. Mr. Keane.] Did he say anything to you about the election?—No.

2598. Not at all?—No.

2599. Did he do anything about the election?—I never see him do anything.

2600. Did you not get a shilling from him?—No, not a fraction.

2601. Mr. Traxton did not give you a fraction?—None.

2602. Are you quite sure that he did not offer you a shilling?—Perfectly sure of it.

2603. And as much beer as you like?—I never see any of it.

2604. To vote at the "New Tavern," Tombland?—No; what I had I paid for.

2605. Probably you rejected the offer; I am curious about Traxton; I want to know whether Traxton did not offer you a shilling, and as much beer as you liked to drink at the "New Tavern," Tombland, if you would vote?—Most decidedly he did not.

2606. Nothing of the kind?—He did not.

2607. Have you seen anybody on the other side since this petition; I mean the other side to myself?—I do not know that I did.

2608. The side of the Respondent; yesterday, for instance; 24 hours ago, say?—I see so many, I do not know who I see.

2609. Did you see anybody who appeared to come from Sir Henry Stracey's or his advisers, or who came in his favour?—No.

2610. Nobody at all?—No.

2611. Did you see Mr. Vines?—No.

Mr. Baron Martin stated that this was not evidence bearing upon the issue before the Court.

2612. Mr. Keane.] Do you know a person of the name of Furze?—Yes.

2613. Where does Thomas Furze live?—I have known him for years; he lives at the corner of Queen-street.

2614. Did you see him on the day of election?—I did.

2615. Had he anyone with him?—There was some one with him.

2616. Do you recollect who it was?—I recollect a little what the man was; I did not pay much regard.

2617. Do you know a person of the name of Colby?—If I should see him I might know him; I do not know whether I should or should not know him if I were to see him.

2618. You are quite uncertain who Colby is?—I know it was a man with dark whiskers.

2619. Has the man you know of the name of Colby dark whiskers?—Yes.

2620. Did Furze offer you any money on that occasion?—No, not one farthing.

2621. Did he put any money into your hands?—No, I asked him whether he would lend me half-a-crown.

2622. On the day of the election?—Yes, on the day of the election; he said "I have not one in my pocket." I had borrowed money previously to the day of the election, you know.

2623. How long before the day of the election?—It might be two or three months, or two or three years ago I borrowed money.

2624. How shortly before the election?—I dare say about two or three months I borrowed a couple of shillings of him; I have a sickly wife and I wanted the money.

2625. On the day of the election you borrowed half-a-crown?—Yes.

2626. What time of the day was it?—I believe I had voted then.

2627. Are you certain?—I would not swear it. I come here to speak the truth; I would not swear whether the man asked me before I had voted or not; I do not remember exactly whether I had borrowed it before or after; but the man Mr. Furze never asked me.

2628. Did you ask him to lend it you?—I asked him whether he would lend me half-a-crown.

2629. What was he doing when you asked him whether he would lend you half-a-crown?—I see him in St. George's Church Alley; he was walking, and I said, "I wish to speak to you a minute"; he said, "What do you want, Bond?" I said, "Lend me half-a-crown, I am short of money." I never asked him who I was going to vote for.

2630. What ward was this?—No. 1 Ward.

2631. Had Mr. Furze anything to do with the election?—I cannot answer that question.

2632. Cannot you tell me whether he was a canvasser?—I do not know anything about it.

2633. Whether he was one of the committee?—I do not know anything about him whether he was Whig or Tory.

2634. Did he see you vote?—No, that he did not. If he did I did not see him there; that is the question. If he see me, I did not see him.

2635. Did

R. Bond.

1869.

2635. Did Furze speak to the person who was with you about giving you money?—No, there was nobody gave me any money.

2636. You call it lending, I call it giving?—I repaid it afterwards honorably.

2637. When?—I paid it in Mr. Grey's shop.

2638. When?—I paid it last Monday morning; I could not get it before, because I had been out of work, and I paid it as soon as I could get it.

2639. Last Monday morning was an unfortunate day; did Furze say to you that he had not got the money?—He said something of that purport, whether he said he had not got half-a-crown in his pocket I could not say.

2640. Did he not tell somebody else to pay it to you?—I borrowed half-a-crown, and I should have paid it on Saturday night, but being out of work, I had not the means.

2641. On the morning of the election I mean?—It was in the afternoon.

2642. In the afternoon of the election, when you met Furze walking with somebody else who you cannot identify as Colby; did he tell the person who was walking with him to give you any money, whatever it was?—No; I believe Mr. Furze borrowed it of this man to lend it to me; I think he did, but that I would not be sworn to. I come to speak the truth as near as I can.

2643. Were you at a public-house called the "Ribs of Beef" on that election day?—I was.

2644. What time of the day were you there?—Different times; morning and afternoon, too.

2645. Who is the person who keeps that house?—The name I think is Eccleston.

2646. Did you see any voters there?—No, I did not. I did not know who was voters and who was not voters.

2647. Did you recognise persons there as voters?—No, that I could not.

2648. Were there many persons there?—Lots.

2649. Were they drinking?—Of course we all had some beer.

2650. Were they all paying for their drink so far as you saw?—I was paying, and the other people paid; I paid for mine.

2651. Did you see that the others paid for their drink?—That I did not notice; I paid for my own, at all events.

2652. Out of the half-crown?—No, that was the afternoon, and I had money in the forepart of the day.

2653. Do you know a person of the name of Jonathan Flower, of Wensum-street?—I know Mr. Flower very well.

2654. Did you see him there?—I did.

2655. Do you recollect his coming in?—I do.

2656. Were there many persons there when he came in?—There was a lot of people in.

2657. Did he say anything about their having beer?—I never heard it asked whether they were voters or not voters.

2658. I asked whether he said anything about beer publicly?—There was some kind of asking him, "Are you not going to stand treat this morning?" I never heard the men asked whether they had voted or had not voted or not.

2659. I am not asking about voting; I am asking whether he said anything about beer?—

He said, "They must have a little beer, I suppose;" but I never sees no money paying for anything; I paid for me.

2660. Did he say, "They must have a little beer, I suppose"?—I hardly know what he did say.

2661. See if you can recollect whether he said this, "You can all have what beer you want"?—I never heard that.

2662. You swear you did not?—I am supposed to be here to swear the truth; he might have had a barrel given away, but what I speak to you I speak the truth.

2663. You say so, and I dare say it is so; and I want to know for that very reason whether you swear he did not say, "You can all have what beer you want"?—I do not recollect.

2664. You will not swear that he did not?—No, and I will not swear that he did.

2665. You have never said that Mr. Jonathan Flower there said to the men assembled, "You can all have what beer you want"?—Not in my presence, to my knowledge; if I did, I am quite unaware of it; that is all I can say.

2666. Have you never said to anybody that he said "You can all have what beer you want"?—I do not know.

2667. I am asking you whether you have not said to somebody that Mr. Flower on that occasion that you are talking of, said, addressing the men there, "You can all have what beer you want"?—If I did I am not aware of it.

2668. I will show you a gentleman to whom I say you said it, and I must ask you to be careful. Do you see this gentleman here (pointing to a gentleman in the Court)?—My eyesight is bad.

2669. He is Mr. Arthur Vernon; did not you say to that gentleman who is now standing by your side that Mr. Flower addressed the men that were there, and said to them, "You can all have what beer you want"?—I am sure I cannot recollect if I did.

2670. Try and recollect; here is the gentleman, and I have given you the time?—Will you oblige me by putting the question to this gentleman, whether I was sober at the time or whether I was tipsy, "Fair play is a jewel."

2671. Until the gentleman comes, I cannot put the question to him; and I prefer to put the question to him then. Will you venture to say that you did not say to that gentleman who is now standing by your side that Flower addressed the men and said to them, "You can all have what beer you want"?—When a man has got a drop of beer, he does not know exactly what he says all the time.

2672. When was it you saw the gentleman and spoke to him upon the subject?—I have seen him above once.

2673. Tell me the last time?—Blowed if I know.

2674. Can you tell me the first time?—That I could not. I saw him two or three times since the election, but I cannot say the day. I have seen him before Christmas and after Christmas; I know that.

2675. You are all right to-day, are you not?—Yes, and I hope I shall pray to-morrow.

2676. Are you perfectly sober to-day?—Yes.

2677. You mean to say that Mr. Flower did not say, "You can all have what beer you want"?—I do not recollect it; upon my word I do not.

2678. Do you mean to say that you did not tell that gentleman who was just near you that Flower did did, on that occasion, say, "You can all have what beer you want"?—I would not swear I did or did not. I cannot recollect; I cannot say I did not, and I cannot say I did.

2679. Were there any persons in the top room of that house upon that occasion?—There were several in.

2680. Were they taken out into the lower kitchen down some steps by Flower?—No, I never saw it.

2681. Have you not said so?—I know better.

2682. But have you not said so?—Where? I do not know.

2683. Here is Mr. Vernon; have you not said so to him?—I am here to speak the truth, I suppose.

2684. I want you to do it?—I cannot speak only the truth.

2685. Will you answer me that question; did those men go one at a time from the top room with Mr. Flower down some steps?—I see them go down, but I do not know that I see Mr. Flower go down with them.

2686. Into the lower kitchen?—They were there for their own convenience, I suppose. It is on the lower floor, and they wanted to go that way.

2687. Was Dr. Allen in the kitchen?—I see Dr. Allen.

2688. Was he in that lower kitchen?—He went down, but I never see him speak to nobody.

2689. Was he there?—He was there on the day of the election.

2690. Then you told Mr. Vernon he was there?—Yes, I believe I did.

2691. Was it true?—Yes, he was; he never asked the people to give them anything.

2692. When they got down to the lower kitchen where Dr. Allen was, was the door closed?—I do not know; that I cannot answer.

2693. You have said so?—No, I cannot answer that question.

2694. Yes, you can. Surely you can tell my Lord whether or not you have said that when they got down into the lower kitchen, where Dr. Allen was also, the door was closed?—That I do not know.

2695. But do you tell my Lord you never said so?—I cannot tell my Lord I said so if I do not recollect saying so.

2696. Were you sober when you saw Mr. Vernon?—I do not know exactly whether I was or not.

2697. How long did they stay? have you not said that they stayed with Dr. Allen?—I do not recollect as I did.

2698. That the persons who went into the kitchen with Dr. Allen stayed there for a short time?—I do not recollect it.

2699. Perhaps you recollect this; when they came out of the kitchen where Dr. Allen was, did they go off to the poll?—That I do not know.

2700. Have you not said so?—I cannot say that at all.

2701. Cannot you say whether you have said so to Mr. Vernon?—Well, that I cannot say.

2702. Have you said that there was somebody there waiting outside to take them off to the poll?—I do not believe I ever said such a word.

2703. Have you not said so?—They might get up a prejudice if they think proper. I know I cannot say what I did say; having a drop of drink in me, I do not think I have done any harm.

2704. Do you mean to say that you do not know whether you said it or not?—No, I do not.

2705. Did you not tell Mr. Vernon that you yourself had been bribed to vote?—No, most decidedly I did not. I am on my oath.

2706. Did you say that Dr. Allen was the person, for he came out of the house and stood close beside you while he drank some beer?—I saw Dr. Allen drink some beer, but he never asked any one else to drink. I saw him drink out of a quart mug, I believe. I never heard him ask anybody to drink out of it, nor I do not remember anybody asking him whether he would stand treat or not.

2707. Did Dr. Allen come out from the place where he had been and stand close by the side of you and drink some beer?—He was standing in the top room, close against the doorway. It is a very small room.

Mr. Baron Martin stated that it was quite contrary to all the rules of evidence for Mr. Keane to cross-examine his own witness to any extent.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

2708. How many times has Mr. Vernon been to you?—I have seen him two or three times.

2709. Where have you seen him?—At the "Compasses."

2710. Has he sent for you?—No; I happen to have been in when he came in.

2711. Did he take down in writing what you said to him?—I expect he did.

2712. Had he pen, ink, and paper at the time?—That I hardly noticed.

2713. Do you know who he is?—I know the gentleman again.

2714. You do not know where he comes from?—No, I do not.

2715. Did he ask you a good many questions?—No.

2716. All that my learned friend has asked you about, did he ask you about when you were with him?—I did not know nothing. I could not answer him in any shape whatever. He said, "Beware, and do not tell any lies," and I said I should speak nothing but the truth.

2717. My learned friend asked you questions about statements which you are said to have made to him; did he upon any occasion ask you questions about Dr. Allen and Mr. Furne, and so on?—I am sure I cannot say.

2718. Had that half a crown that you borrowed anything to do with your vote?—Not a bit; not a hap'orth; and I have repaid it.

Mr. Jonathan Flower having been called, and not answering to his name, Mr. Keane stated that he must call him upon a subpoena.

R. Bond.

1869.

THOMAS BENFATHER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

2719. WHERE do you live?—In St. Martin's.

2720. What are you?—I am a licensed victualler.

8.

2721. What is the name of the house you keep?—The "Royal Oak." T. Benfather.

2722. Are you a voter?—Yes.

G 3

2723. Did

T. Benfather. 2723. Did you vote at the last election?—

Yes.

16 January
1869.

2724. For whom?—Sir Henry Stracey.

2725. Do you know a beerhouse kept by William Clark at the corner of Jenkin's Lane?—I know there is a beerhouse at the corner of Jenkin's Lane, but who do keep it I do not know. I never see the man that I know on; I may have seen him, but I do not know him; not personally.

2726. Were you there at the corner on the afternoon of the day of the election?—I believe I was.

2727. About what time?—I should think it might be about three or four o'clock in the afternoon.

2728. Was it between three and four?—It might be so; I do not know what time exactly, but about that time.

2729. May I say about between three and four?—I say yes, about that time.

2730. What did you say when you went in there?—I did not say anything there; I only went to see my friends about there the same as I might go into another public-house.

2731. Were your friends that were about there voters?—I do not know that any one of them were voters. I went in there on the day of the election, being as I was excited, because I voted for Mr. Stracey; that was perhaps the cause; but I do not know that any of the people that were there were voters.

2732. Was a person of the name of William Clare Thorpe there?—I do not know.

2733. Are you sure he was not there?—I do not know that he was there; I do not know such a name.

2734. We probably shall be able to produce him. Was there anyone else there that you knew?—Yes, I believe there was. I tell you who it was; an old aged uncle, I should think 84 years of age, and had not had a voice for 20 years. I am certain sure he had not had a voice for 20 years; not to say a voice in the Legislature.

2735. Am I to understand that 20 years before he had a voice in the Legislature?—No; I said I looked upon him as such because he had not a voice now.

2736. You mean that he had not a vote?—He had no vote.

2737. Was there anyone else that you knew?—I do not know of anybody else being there that was a voter.

2738. Was there a person of the name of John Warren?—Not that I know of.

2739. Was there a person of the name of Benjamin Sayer?—I do not think he was there. I know Benjamin Sayer very well, but I do not think he was there.

2740. He was a voter?—He was a voter, I believe, but he was not there when I was in Mr. Clark's.

2741. Was there a person of the name of Daniel Sayer there?—I do not know such a name.

2742. Daniel Sayer, the landlord of the back yard?—I thought you said Mr. Daniel's. Daniel Sayer I know quite well. He was not in Mr. Clark's house during the forenoon, but he had voted then.

2743. He was not at Clark's?—I never see him in Mr. Clark's?

2744. Was a person of the name of White there?—I do not know who you mean. I have never heard such a name as that before in all our parish.

2745. Was a person of the name of Moss there?—Yes, I believe he was. I tell you my uncle John was there, my old uncle, that is my uncle 84 years of age, and had not had a voice in the Legislature not for 20 years.

2746. Did you call any persons into the back room there?—No.

2747. In the presence of somebody, as I will show you, I hope, directly, when Mr. Thorpe was standing at the bar, did you not call some persons into the back room?—No. What do you call the back room? It is like this. Here is the front part of the house, and of course you can walk to the further part, and you can call that the back room, if you think proper, but I never called nobody into no room whatever.

2748. I beg your pardon; I fancy I am wrong. Is there a baking-room there?—No, certainly not; they do not carry on no baking establishment whatever.

2749. I do not ask you that; I want to know whether there is a baking room there?—That I must leave; I never see no baking going on when I was there.

2750. Did you call any persons into another room at all?—No, I did not.

2751. Not at all?—Not at all whatsoever.

2752. Did you say to the persons there, "I will call you in separately"?—No.

2753. Did you offer any money?—Not a farthing; I had none to give; I am only a poor man; I have got nothing to give.

2754. But you might have some to pay?—No, nor yet nothing to pay; as I told you, I have nothing to pay, and nothing to give.

2755. That is very possible; I understand you; you neither gave nor offered money to anybody?—No, and never took any; I wish I did, and I should have been better off than I am now.

2756. Not to a person of the name of Thorpe?—No; where is Mr. Thorpe; why does not he come in the front?

2757. John Warren; did any money pass between you and John Warren?—Not a farthing, or anyone else.

2758. Or any offer?—No, nor yet no offer. Who is John Warren?

2759. I really cannot tell you; you do not suppose I know him; the name is given to me?—I do not know John Warren no more than I know Adam, and I never knew him I am certain.

2760. Perhaps you will see him before this inquiry is over. Did any of the persons that were there go off in a cab from the place while you were there?—I am bound to speak the truth here. I expect as—I am on my oath, am not I? but I will tell you this much, that I did ride from St. Martin's down to the polling place, where I went and voted for Stracey; but who the cab belonged to I do not know.

2761. You did not pay for it, I gather from you?—No, certainly not; I could not afford it.

2762. Did any other person?—I never see nobody pay for it.

2763. Did any other person go from that beerhouse in a cab to vote?—No.

2764. To your knowledge?—No, not with me.

2765. But did you see them go into the cab for the purpose of voting?—I did not know what they were going for.

2766. You

2766. You did see some persons go from there in a cab?—I say I went from there.

2767. Did you or did you not see others go in a cab from that place in order to vote?—I cannot say whether they went to vote or no.

2768. Then you did see some persons go in a cab from that place?—I see some persons in a cab, but whether they came out or not I must leave.

2769. Were they at the door when you saw them?—No, they were in a cab.

2770. Was the cab standing still?—No, it was a-going.

2771. Did you see where they went from?—No, I did not.

2772. Am I to understand that you did not know whether they were coming back to the public-house, or not?—Certainly not; they might be coming from the “Norfolk-hotel,” for all I know.

2773. Is that in the direction of the “Norfolk-hotel”?—That is in St. Martin’s.

2774. You do not represent that you believe that it came from the “Norfolk-hotel”?—It might have come from there for what I know of; I did not take that amount of notice about the cab.

2775. You say you do not know Thorpe?—I do not know till I see him. I may know him by sight, but I do not know him by name. Let the man come in front of me.

2776. I just want to show you John Warren, and see whether you recollect him?—I may know him.

John Warren having been called, did not answer to his name.

William Clare Thorpe was called.

2777. Mr. Keane (to the Witness).] Look at the gentleman on your right hand?—I know the man.

2778. What is his name?—I believe he goes by the name of Thorpe.

WILLIAM CLARE THORPE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

2792. WILL you tell me what you are?—A Florist in St. Augustine-street.

2793. Where do you live?—In St. Martins-at-Oak.

2794. Are you a voter?—Yes, a freeman of the city of Norwich.

2795. Did you vote at the last election?—No.

2796. Were you in Clark’s beerhouse at a quarter past three on the day of the election?—Yes.

2797. Were there many persons there at the time?—Yes.

2798. Were they persons whom you knew to be voters?—I knew some of them to be voters.

2799. Did you see Thomas Benfather, who a few minutes ago was standing by your side; did you see him there?—Yes.

2800. Was he in there when you first came in, or did he come in after you had got there?—I was there before him, and I see him afterwards.

2801. When you first saw him did you notice whether he came into the room suddenly and opened the door, or did you suddenly see him without knowing how he came in?—He came into what they call the shop, and then he called people into another room.

8.

2779. I have asked you several questions about Thorpe on the day of the election; did you see this man on the day of the election?—I believe I did.

2780. Did you see him in Clark’s beerhouse?—I think I did.

2781. With regard to all the rest, you persist in your denial as to the purport of it?—I do not comprehend what you say.

2782. Your denials, with the exception of your not knowing Thorpe, were all correct, were they?—I did not know him, not till I see him, personally.

2783. Then the rest you persist in, or does your seeing him alter your evidence?—I say that I never gave Mr. Thorpe either money or beer on that day.

2784. Or offered any?—No, nor yet offered any.

2785. Did not you say this to him, “If 5 s. is of any use to you, you can have it”?—I never said such a thing.

2786. Nothing of the kind?—Nothing of the kind.

2787. Was not his answer to you that it was of no use to him?—He never said no such thing to me; I never offered the man no such thing.

2788. Did he say also it was against his principles to take money?—I never heard him say such a thing; certainly not. I had no conversation with him about electioneering affairs on the day of the election whatever.

2789. Do you mean to say you did not call Thorpe into a room and offer him money?—No.

2790. And whether he was not the last of many persons you called in?—I say so now.

2791. Was not he the last of several persons that you called into the room?—I never called him into no room at all whatever. I think I have dissolved your question.

2802. Was there another room on the same floor as the shop?—Not the same floor, a little higher, what they call the bake office.

2803. Is there any baking business carried on there?—No.

2804. Then it is a room in which formerly there was baking?—Yes, it was a bake office.

2805. Is it at the back or the front?—That is at the back, and there is another room by the side of it.

2806. Into which room was it that he called the persons?—The bake office.

2807. Did they all go in together?—No; there was six of us went into the bake office.

2808. Were you one of them?—Yes.

2809. What was done there when they came in?—Of course, he came from the shop, from the beerhouse first, and then he went from there to what was a bake office, and called six of us to the back, that is a room at the side of the bake office. He then called one in at a time. Then, of course, I was the last one.

2810. I do not know why of course you were, in fact, the last one?—Yes, I was.

2811. As to those persons that went in before you, did you see what happened between him and them?—Yes.

2812. What was it?—They said they would not take it.

G 4

2813. What

T. Benfather.
1869.

W.C. Thorpe.

*W.C.Thorpe.*16 January
1869.

2813. What happened; did you hear what was said by him?—No.

2814. Did you see what he did when they were there?—No, I stood in another room.

2815. The door was closed?—Yes.

2816. How long did each of them stay?—It was all done in a little time. They all went one by one. I cannot say what time.

2817. Did each stay about the same time there?—Yes, about there same time.

2818. When you went in, what occurred to you?—He offered me 5 s., and I said I would not take it.

2819. Just tell me, give me as near as you can, the words in which he offered you the 5 s.?—I will tell you. He said to me, "Is 5 s. any use to you?" I said, "No."

2820. Anything further?—No.

2821. Was nothing said what the 5 s. was for beyond that?—Of course, it was said to me about the 5 s. to induce me to vote for Stracey.

2822. That you believe?—I believe it myself.

2823. Was that said?—Mr. Stracey's name was not mentioned.

2824. Mr. Baron Martin.] That is what you said, that you said, "Vote for Sir Henry Stracey," and that you had an offer of 5 s. to do it?—Yes, I was offered 5 s.

2825. Mr. Keane.] What is Benfather, is he a Conservative or a Liberal, or what?—He is a Conservative.

2826. And you knew that at the time?—Of course I did.

2827. When the persons who had been in the room with Benfather, and the door was closed, came out, do you know where they went to?—Yes: I see some of them go.

2828. How did they go?—By a cab.

2829. Was the cab sent for, or was it waiting at the door, or how was it?—It was waiting at the door.

2830. Did the voters go in the cab, or did Benfather go with them?—I see some of the voters go.

2831. I want to know whether they went by themselves, or whether Benfather went with them?—I cannot say about Benfather going; I know that one went.

2832. How long did you stay in that beer-house after this occurred, after you had refused the money in the room?—Till half-past four.

2833. Did Benfather remain there, or did he go away?—He went away.

2834. How soon after you came out of the room was it, that he went away?—He went away before me a long while; I cannot say how long.

2835. How early were you at that beerhouse, on that day, the first time that you were there?—A quarter past seven.

2836. Did you see Moss there?—Yes.

2837. Cutlock?—Yes.

2838. And Brandish?—Yes.

2839. Do you know whether all those voted?—There was one not voted.

2840. Which was that?—Cutlock.

2841. When you were there, at a quarter past seven, how long did you stay?—Till half-past four; I went away to breakfast, and I went to dinner.

2842. Did you see Thomas Worlledge there?—Yes.

2843. What time did he come?—It may be a little after 10.

2844. Were there any voters there then?—Yes.

2845. Do you recollect how many?—There might be four.

2846. Did Worlledge say anything to them?—Yes.

2847. What was it?—He came in and said he had got some tickets; he said he would give them to the non-electors, and not to the electors.

2848. Then, were there some non-electors present?—Yes; they were sixpenny tickets, that I know.

2849. Did he produce the tickets?—Yes.

2850. From where?—He took them out of his own pocket, and gave it to them.

2851. How many tickets did he distribute?—He gave two to one; two to another, and two to another, and three to the last one; that is nine tickets.

2852. Mr. Baron Martin.] What were the tickets for?—For beer; sixpenny tickets.

2853. Mr. Keane.] Did he say so, or did you see it was so?—I see it come in.

2854. Who brought the beer?—Mr. Clark, that keeps the house; there is no name on the house, so I cannot say.

2855. The tickets were given to the non-electors, and when the beer came, how did the non-electors deal with the beer?—They served it all round.

2856. To the electors as well?—Yes, as well.

2857. So that the non-electors, and the electors, joined together in drinking the beer for which nine sixpenny tickets had been given to the non-electors?—I had to pay for my beer my own self.

2858. But did you see that done?—I see it served.

2859. Do you know a person of the name of Robert Hardiment, the fellmonger?—Yes.

2860. Was he there?—Yes.

2861. At what time of the day did Hardiment come there?—Just after 11.

2862. And was anyone with him when he came?—Yes; there was Mr. Freestone, and Mr. Wiseman.

2863. Was that Wiseman, junior, or Wiseman the father?—Wiseman, junior.

2864. When Hardiment came in, what did he say?—Bring a gallon of beer in.

2865. That was done without tickets?—Yes.

2866. Was it brought?—Yes.

2867. Did Hardiment say anything more?—No.

2868. Did Wiseman?—No.

2869. Was anything said about polling cards?—No.

2870. Not by anybody?—No.

2871. Who paid for the beer?—I did not see nothing paid for the beer.

Mr. Keane.] If your Lordship pleases, I will not go into the scrutiny at present.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

2872. You paid for your own beer?—Yes.

2873. Did you have any of the non-electors' beer?—Of course, I drank with them.

2874. Then you had?—Yes; but it was very little I drank along with them.

2875. Why had you so little; had the others more than you?—Of course, they had.

2876. Why, of course; you paid for your own beer?—Yes.

2877. And

2877. And you had some of the non-electors' beer?—I drank some of it, that is all.

2878. Much?—Not much.

2879. As to those six people; who were the six people that you say went into the room?—Charles Moss was one.

2880. Now, the others?—Richard Ross was another one; I cannot mention no more, only myself; I do not know the other three.

2881. Why did not you vote?—Because I did not intend to vote that day.

2882. Which day did you intend to vote, then?—Not at all.

2883. You made up your mind?—I did not intend to vote at all.

2884. You never intended to vote at all?—Not that day.

2885. That was the only day you could vote upon?—I did not intend to vote at all.

2886. Why were you up at Clark's beerhouse?—I went for a pint, just the same as other people.

2887. You were there pretty nearly the whole day?—Of course, I was.

2888. Were you drinking the whole day?—Yes; I was drinking.

2889. Were you drunk?—No.

2890. You were there, drinking all day?—Yes, I was drinking all day.

2891. Did you ever offer your vote to anybody, if they would give you more than 5 s.?—No.

2892. Did you ever ask for anything?—No.

2893. Never?—No; and do not intend as long as I live.

2894. Are you a florist?—Yes.

2895. Do you mean an artificial flower maker, or a gardener?—A gardener.

2896. In work now?—Yes.

2897. Were you in work the day you went up to Clark's beerhouse?—Yes.

2898. Is it your own garden, or do you work for others?—Mr. Nunn's, of St. Augustine's.

2899. What did you go into the room for, that you talk about?—What room?

2900. You tell us that Benfather called you into a room?—I paid for a pint of ale; he called six of us; "Come in together; go into the other room at the back of the room; go on together."

2901. Why did you go into that room?—I did not go myself; I was looking what was going on.

2902. Did you go into the room yourself?—No; yes, I went, what I call myself as far as the door, and Benfather came to my face and asked me, "Is 5 s. any use to you?" and I said, "No."

2903. Had you told him in the morning that you were not going to vote at the election?—I had never seen him that morning.

2904. Was it known that you were not going to vote?—No; not that morning.

2905. Had you been asked for your vote?—Yes; about two o'clock, and I said I would not vote at all.

2906. It was well known, was it not, in Clark's beerhouse, that you would not vote?—Yes.

2907. Can you tell me why you went into that room when the 5 s. was offered; did you know, when you went into that room, what you were going in for, if your story is true?—Yes, I was looking what was going on.

2908. Do you swear that you went in to see what was going on, and for that sole purpose?—Yes; I can swear that I only see what was going on; I said, "I will go and see what is going on."

2909. You were watching, then?—Yes, I was a-watching.

2910. You did not take any great interest in the election?—Yes, I was looking after the election all the same for that.

2911. Did you care much which side got in?—Yes; I thought myself if Mr. Tillett got in it would have been a good thing for me.

2912. Why did you not vote for him, then?—Of course I was standing out; not for money I was not.

2913. What do you mean by "standing out"?—Not for money.

2914. What for, then?—I said to myself I did not intend to vote at all.

2915. You told me this moment the reason you did not vote was, you were standing out; what were you standing out for?—Nothing at all.

2916. And yet you wished Mr. Tillett to get in?—I should have liked to have seen him get in one way.

2917. Can you give me any other reason than that you did not wish to vote?—I did not intend to vote at all.

2918. Then, when you used the words "standing out" just now, it meant nothing?—It meant nothing at all.

2919. Then you went to watch?—Of course I was a-watching.

2920. You went to watch?—I was not a-watching in one way, and yet I was, you may say.

2921. Just whichever you please; did you go there to watch or not?—Of course I go there, and get just a pint of ale with other people.

2922. Did you go there to watch what was taking place at Clark's beerhouse?—Of course I was looking on.

2923. Did you go there for the express purpose of seeing what was doing there?—I went there to see what was a-going on.

2924. Did you tell what you saw there afterwards to anybody?—No.

2925. You must have told it to somebody; you have told it before to-day?—Yes, of course I have; I went and told it at Mr. Tillett's office.

2926. When?—I cannot say the day of the month.

2927. Was it the next morning?—No, not the next morning.

2928. Was it the morning after that?—No; later than that.

2929. About when was it; was it three days after that you went to Tillett's office with this story?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2930. Mr. Baron Martin.] Was it a week or a fortnight after?—A fortnight or three weeks after the election.

2931. Mr. Rodwell.] How came you to go there; what induced you to go there?—I went myself.

2932. Why?—Of course I see a lot of things going on.

2933. To give the information?—Of course.

2934. You went to Clark's beerhouse for the purpose of getting information to take to Tillett's side?—Of course I went there.

2935. That was really the object?—Yes.

2936. When you got information, what did you say when you got to Tillett's; "I have got something to tell you"?—I said the truth.

2937. You told them you had got something worth knowing, I suppose?—No, I said nothing about that.

2938. Whom did you see?—I cannot say; I do not know the name.

2939-40. You did not go into the office, and tell all this before all the clerks, did you? Whom did you see at Tillet's?—I see a clerk there.

2941. What is his name?—I cannot say.

2942. Do you see him now?—I can see one of them.

2943. Which is he?—That gentleman up in the corner (pointing to a person in court).

2944. What did you tell him, then?—I told him the truth.

2945. Did you tell him what you have been telling us to-day?—Yes.

2946. Was anything said about money at that time; about your having any money?—What money?

2947. Was anything said about your expenses as a witness?—Nothing was paid me for expenses.

2948. Was anything said about your being paid?—No; I had not had no expense.

2949. Have you been paid anything by anybody?—No.

2950. Or been promised anything?—No.

2951. Have you ever asked for anything?—No.

2952. Have you received any money for doing anything since the election?—No; not a half-penny.

2953. Why did not you go before; why did not you go the next morning to Mr. Tillet?—That was my business; I could go when I liked.

2954. Was not there a person came to you, and advised you to go to Tillet's?—No.

2955. No one at all?—When?

2956. Never mind when; I ask you whether there was not a person came to you, and told you that it would be good for you to go and tell at Tillet's what you had seen, or what you had said you had seen?—No; I did not see anybody.

2957. Do you mean to swear that you have had no conversation with anybody, and that a person had not advised you to go to Tillet's and give this information; was that so or not; say "yes" or "no"?—There was one.

2958. Who was it?—I do not know his name.

2959. Is he in court?—I do not see him.

2960. Was it in consequence of what he told you that you went to Tillet's?—No.

2961. Had you not gone before you had seen him?—No; I had not.

2962. How soon after you had seen him, was it that you went to Tillet's; the next morning, was it not?—Yes; the next morning.

2963. Do you mean to say that you cannot tell who it was?—If I were to see him I could.

2964. Mr. Baron Martin.] Can you or not?—If I see him I could.

2965. Mr. Rodwell.] In consequence of what he told you, you went to Tillet's?—Yes.

2966. Did he not tell you that if you went to Tillet's, and gave information with regard to the election, you would get well paid; did he not tell you that, or words to that effect?—No; not to me nor to nobody else.

2967. What did he say to you?—"Meet at Tillet's office next morning."

2968. Did you meet him?—I see that gentleman again.

2969. With that gentleman too (pointing to a gentleman in court)?—Yes; I see him along with that gentleman and all.

2970. When he advised you to go and give this information to Tillet's, I want to know what did he say to you?—(The Witness hesitated.)

2971. Do tell us, if you please?—He told me of course to "speak the truth," that is all.

2972. Do you mean that a man came to you and said "speak the truth," and that is all?—Yes; that is all.

2973. How long was he with you?—Half-an-hour.

2974. Was not the whole of that half-hour's conversation about what you said you saw at Clark's?—Not the whole half-hour, I sat there a long while before I went in.

2975. Looking at one another?—No; he was there along with me waiting.

2976. He came to your house, did he not?—No; not my house, I beg your pardon.

2977. Where did you see him?—Where I work.

2978. He came to you where you work?—Yes.

2979. How long were you having a conversation with him?—Not five minutes; not in the garden, he left me.

2980. He came to you first?—Yes; and he left me afterwards.

2981. He came to you first, and he asked you about Clark's, did he not?—No; not about Clark's, he did not.

2982. About Clark's beer house?—Not the first time.

2983. What did he ask you the first time?—Of course he came to me, and asked me to meet in St. Andrew's, Mr. Tillet's office, at 11 o'clock on that morning, and I went.

2984. Go on; what then?—Of course I went, and I see him there.

2985. Did he not tell you what you were to go to Tillet's for?—No.

2986. Did you not know what you were going to Tillet's for on the following morning?—I did not.

2987. Do you mean to say, upon your oath, that you did not know what you were going to Tillet's for?—I knew what for.

2988. For what?—To inform.

2989. I ask you again whether the person who told you to go to Tillet's office, had not told you that your information was very valuable?—Not at all.

2990. What did he say, was it merely "come to Tillet's"?—He said nothing to me.

2991. And that is what you ask us to believe; that you would not have gone to Tillet's unless it had been for him?—Yes, I should have gone all the same for that.

2992. Why did you not go before?—Of course I did not want to go for a day or two; I did not think about going for a day or two.

2993. Why did you say just now that it would have been good for you if Mr. Tillet had been returned; why would it have been good for you?—So of course it would now.

2994. Had you any particular reason, or merely upon public grounds, is that what you mean?—I mean in politics.

2995. Did the man who came to you, tell you why he came to you?—No.

2996. Not

2996. Not a word?—No, not a word.
 2997. Is he a Norwich man who came to you?
 —Yes.
 2998. Where does he live?—I do not know.
 2999. How do you know that he is a Norwich man?—I know he lives in Norwich, that is all I know.
 3000. Do you know him by sight?—Yes.
 3001. Do you see him about the streets?—Yes.
 3002. Is he a gentleman or a working man, or a what?—He may be a working man, or he may be a gentleman. I cannot say that.
 3003. You can tell me whether he was a person like a lawyer's clerk or a working man, one of your own class?—He might be in my own class.

 3004. Do you know?—He may be in my own class.
 3005. Is he?—He may be; not in the class; I do not say that; he may be a working man.

Re-examined by Mr. Keane.

3006. I understand you received nothing at all?—Nothing at all.
 3007. From anybody?—No.

GEORGE SEXTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

3008. Do you live in Barrack-yard, Saint Michael's, at Coslany?—Yes.
 3009. Is that in the Eighth Ward?—Yes.
 3010. Are you a voter?—Yes.
 3011. What business are you?—A shoe-maker.
 3012. For whom did you vote at the last election?—For Sir Henry Stracey.
 3013. Do you know a man of the name of Green, who is a plasterer?—Yes.
 3014. Whereabouts does he live?—In St. Miles's.
 3015. Did you see him in the afternoon of the day of the election?—Yes.
 3016. What time?—About three or a little after three.
 3017. Had you voted at that time?—Yes; not the first time I had not.
 3018. What was the time you first saw him that day?—Three or a little after three.
 3019. And you had not voted then?—No.
 3020. Did anything about money pass between you and him?—Yes.
 3021. What was it that passed between you and him?—He asked me whether I had voted, and I told him "No." He asked me whether I would go and vote for Stracey, and I said, "No, I shall not."
 3022. What was the next thing he said?—He said, "You might as well; it will only help the Conservative cause one little bit, and Stracey cannot win the election." Then I said, "What will you give me?" And he said, "Half-a-sovereign;" and I said, "I want 1 l."
 3023. When you told him you wanted 1 l., what did he say?—He said he would go and hear whether he could get me 1 l.
 3024. Did he go away?—Yes.
 3025. Did you see where he went to?—He went towards St. George's Colegate Church. I do not know whether he went in; he went that way.
 3026. Was there any appointment for you to see him again?—Yes.
 3027. Where were you to see him again?—If he got me the pound he was to go into his house, and I was to follow him.
 3028. Were you to keep him in sight?—I was to keep about that part.
 3029. And if he got 1 l. for you, he would go into his house, and you would follow him?—Yes.
 3030. Did you keep about that part?—I went from that part up to St. George's Plain, so I did not go away.

3031. Did you see him again?—Yes.
 3032. Did he go into his house?—No.
 3033. Did he come up to you?—Yes.
 3034. What passed between you and him?—I asked him how he got on, but he told me he could not get me more than three half-crowns, and the other half-crown he would give me out of his own pocket.
 3035. Did he?—He gave me half-a-sovereign then; after I had voted he gave me half-a-sovereign; not before I voted.
 3036. You were to go and vote first?—Yes.
 3037. Was that half-sovereign given you in the form of a half-sovereign, or was it three half-crowns?—In a half-sovereign.
 3038. Was it a new one?—I do not recollect.
 3039. Had you anything to drink?—A glass of porter.
 3040. Whereabouts?—At the "Shakespeare," I believe.
 3041. Mr. Baron Martin.] About what o'clock did you vote?—About 20 minutes to four.
 3042. Had you seen Green before interfering with this election?—About a week before he asked me whether I would vote for Stracey, and I told him "No."
 3043. He canvassed you, in fact?—I saw him in the street.
 3044. About a week before, was it?—About a week before.
 3045. What did you say then?—I said, "No; I should not vote for Stracey at all."
 3046. Did you see him address any other electors about it?—I cannot say that I did; I saw him with Mr. Balls on the day of the election.
 3047. Who is he; was Balls a voter?—Yes.
 3048. Did you see any money pass between them?—No.
 3049. What was he doing with Balls?—He was in conversation along with him.
 3050. What is Balls?—A tailor.
 3051. A master tailor?—Yes.
 3052. Is he an Eighth Ward man?—Yes.

G. Sexton.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

3053. And what is Green?—A plasterer.
 3054. Mr. Baron Martin.] Are you a new voter or a freeman?—A new voter.

JEREMIAH TILLET, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

J. Tillet.
 16 January 1869.
 3055. WHAT are you?—A Tory.
 3056. I mean, what is your trade?—A fish-monger.
 3057. Where do you live?—St. Augustine, in Middle-street.
 3058. Are you a voter?—Yes.
 3059. For what ward?—The Eighth Ward.
 3060. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.
 3061. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.
 3062. What time did you vote?—Between three and four o'clock.

3063. Do you know a place kept by Henry William Cartwright, a general shop in Rosemary-lane?—No.
 3064. Do not you know Cartwright?—No.
 3065. Do you know Hardiment?—No.
 3066. And you were not at Cartwright's?—No.
 3067. Did you receive any money that day?—No.
 3068. From nobody?—No.
 3069. Mr. Baron Martin.] You received no money for your vote?—No.

JOHN WARREN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

J. Warren.
 3070. Do you live in Plumber's-yard, St. Martin's, or did you?—Yes.
 3071. Did you vote on the day of the last election?—No.
 3072. Do you recollect being in Clarke's public-house, in Oak-street, on the day of the election?—Yes, quite well.
 3073. Were you drinking there?—Yes.
 3074. Were many persons there?—Yes.
 3075. How many?—I might say 30, or perhaps more.
 3076. Were they voters, or some of them?—Twenty of them were voters.
 3077. Did you see Wiseman and Hardiment there?—Yes.
 3078. Were they there more than once?—Yes.
 3079. How often did they go and come in the course of the day?—If I said a dozen times I should not tell a story.
 3080. May I take it at least a dozen times?—Yes.
 3081. Do you recollect the time between three and four o'clock; were you there then?—Yes.
 3082. Was Hardiment there then?—During the time; he was not there altogether during the afternoon, only in and out, as you might say, like a dog in a fair.
 3083. But, during a portion of that hour between three and four, was he there?—Yes.
 3084. Were you called into a room?—Yes.
 3085. By whom?—By Mr. Thomas Benfather.
 3086. Did you go?—Yes.
 3087. And whom did you see there?—I saw Mr. Thomas Benfather and some friend he had with him, but who he was I could not tell; I do not know who that friend was.
 3088. Did Thomas Benfather want you to do anything?—Yes.
 3089. What occurred?—We was allowed 5s. of course a-head, and that was supposed to be for a day's work.
 3090. What was the day's work you did?—I am a brushmaker by trade.
 3091. Was it for brushmaking you were to have it?—No.
 3092. What was the work you were supposed to do?—For taking this 5s., we were supposed to vote for Sir Henry Stracey.
 3093. How many of you got the 5s., to your knowledge?—Five.
 3094. On the supposition that they were having a day's work, and that day's work was to go and vote for Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

3095. Can you give me the names of the five?—No.
 3096. Cutlock was one; did you go towards the poll at all?—Yes; we went to the poll, and the Blue party was so strong that when the fly drove up, the Blue party would not allow us to vote till the time was up; in fact, they kept us out.
 3097. How did you go to the poll; did you go in a cab?—Yes.
 3098. How many in the cab?—Five of us.
 3099. How many of those five voted?—I cannot say; none of them did not vote, because they kept us off, and would not allow us to vote till the clock had struck.
 3100. Till it was too late?—Yes.
 3101. Is the Blue party the Liberal party?—Yes.
 3102. Mr. Baron Martin.] Is Stracey yellow or blue, or what?—Orange and purple is Stracey's colours.
 3103. Did you see Worledge at all on that day?—Yes; several times during the day I saw him; Mr. Thomas Worledge, I mean.
 3104. Did you see this Worledge canvass?—Yes.
 3105. Did you see a person of the name of Green canvassing?—I cannot say as I did.
 3106. I mentioned to you the name of Cutlock; he was one of them?—Yes, Frederick Cutlock.
 3107. Was Joseph Engall one?—Yes.
 3108. Do you know a person of the name of Thorpe?—Yes.
 3109. Was he one?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

3110. What did you see Worledge do?—I did not see him do anything, no further than canvassing for Sir Henry Stracey; what he did to each individual, I cannot say.
 3111. You say you saw him canvass; did you see him canvass any one voter?—Of course; he was canvassing throughout the parish.
 3112. But you did not see him canvassing throughout the parish?—It is true, I did not.
 3113. I want to know what you saw Worledge do in the way of canvassing; what voters did you see him go and canvass?—I cannot say that I did any.
 3114. So that when my learned friend asked you whether you saw Worledge canvassing, you merely go by what you have heard?—But what you might suppose, because we was none of us allowed; allowed; there was not two of us allowed in at a time; there was only one allowed in at a time, so you cannot say what each individual done.

3115. With the exception of what you saw then, you had not seen Worledge canvassing throughout the city?—I had seen him many times in the parish of St. Martin's during the day.

3116. And you did not vote yourself, at all?—No.

Re-examined by Mr. Keane.

3117. Did I correctly understand you to say that only one of you was allowed in the room at a time?—That is all.

Mr. Keane stated that he had a great number of witnesses to produce who would give evidence to the same effect.

Mr. Baron Martin stated that the main question being whether Sir Henry Stracey was duly elected or not, he did not think that Mr. Keane was forwarding his case by adducing any more evidence of that class, the question of scrutiny being a totally different one, upon which Mr. Keane could afterwards proceed or not as he might be advised.

Mr. Keane stated that that concluded the evidence which he had to bring forward upon the first branch of the case.

Mr. Rodwell was heard to open the case on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey.

Monday, 18th January 1869.

Sir HENRY JOSIAS STRACEY, Bart., sworn; Examined by Mr. Rodwell.

Sir H. J.
Stracey,
Bart.

18 January
1869.

3118. You are the sitting Member for the City of Norwich?—I am.

3119. Will you state the period at which you first consented to become a candidate for the representation of Norwich, and under what circumstances?—I fancy, to the best of my recollection, that it was about a fortnight before the election took place.

3120. Had you received deputations from influential parties in Norwich previously to your coming forward?—I had received two deputations previously to the one when I consented to come forward.

3121. Was Mr. Patteson one of the gentlemen who came to you?—No.

3122. Who were they?—The first gentlemen who came to me came from the Eldon Club.

3123. Did you upon that occasion, in your communication with them, state the terms upon which you would come forward?—As soon as I heard their invitation to me to stand, I told them, "Before entering upon business, gentlemen, I wish you to understand that I will neither countenance nor recognise any illegal act of any kind, nor will I pay one shilling beyond the legal election expenses."

3124. From the short period that there was between your acceptance of the invitation to become a candidate, and the day of election, I believe, you did not make a personal canvass?—Not an individual canvass at all.

3125-6. What did you do?—Whenever I had an opportunity of hearing of many being together—

3127. Mr. Baron Martin.] You mean many voters?—Yes, my Lord; I addressed them en masse.

3128. Mr. Rodwell] On any occasions previously to the election, when you were addressing them, or had been in their company, were any overtures made to you, or was anything said to you about giving something for a vote?—Yes.

3129. Can you name the day when that was?—It was the previous day—to the best of my recollection, and I believe I am right—to the election itself.

3130. What took place?—I had been addressing the persons congregated in front of the balcony.

3131. What balcony?—Of the "Waterloo Tavern." On coming into the room, a small man came up to me saying, "Some one," he muttered in a very low tone of voice, and he said, "I wish to speak to you aside, Sir Henry." I told him, "That will not do for me, sir; speak up before everyone." He then came forward, and in the hearing of the gentlemen immediately about me, he said, "Some one has offered me," his expression was, "ten bob for my vote, and now he refuses to pay me." I then said, seeing at once that it was merely a plant upon me, "I know nothing, sir, of any ten bob, but I tell you this, and I tell all in the room"—I saying it loudly in the room, and everyone in all probability hearing me in it—"if I hear of any illegal practices going on in my favour, I will that moment withdraw."

3132. Had you, previously to this, made inquiries as to whether any improper practices were going on, of your agent?—

Mr. Baron Martin.] The day of polling was on Thursday, the 19th, I think?

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] The 17th, my Lord; on Tuesday.

3133. Mr. Rodwell.] That was the nomination day, was it?—I dare say it was; I fancy it was the day before the election.

3134. Mr. Baron Martin.] Tuesday the 17th was the polling day?—Yes.

3135. Mr. Rodwell.] I was asking you whether before this you had ascertained, as far as you could, whether anything like a corrupt practice had been carried on in your behalf, or any improper practice?—To the best of my belief it was subsequently to the election taking place to the nomination and canvassing, and so on, at the meeting at Sir Samuel Bignold's to which, I think, you allude.

3136. Mr. Baron Martin.] Was that before the election?—Yes, a fortnight before the election, or thereabouts. A gentleman was proposed to me as an election agent. There were several gentlemen in the room; Sir Samuel Bignold was in the chair, and I said, "Then I must request that this gentleman may be sent for, so that I may speak to him before the gentlemen present."

3137. That was Mr. Chittock?—Yes.

3138. And was Mr. Chittock the gentleman who had the conduct of your election on the occasion in question?—Yes; and I told him at that time, in the presence of the gentlemen, and in the hearing of them all, "You are recommended to me, sir, as my election agent, and I wish to tell you, before the gentlemen present, that I will not recognise or countenance any illegal act. I will not pay one shilling beyond the election expenses, and every shilling I do pay must bear the strictest scrutiny."

3139. Have you, directly or indirectly, spent one farthing, or know of the expenditure of one farthing, except for the legal purposes of this election?—I will take my oath I have not.

3140. Until you came to this court and heard the evidence given before his Lordship, had you any notion that in any way such practices had been carried on?—No.

3141. Did you take every means in your power to discountenance and prevent anything of that kind occurring?—Whenever I had an opportunity I told the men assembled that I would not pay anything but the legal expenses. I, particularly particularly in one instance of a man, said that I would not countenance any kind of illegal expense, and I did not.

3142. I will now go to the "Trumpet." Do you remember going there on the day of the election?—I do, not knowing it was called the "Trumpet," but I remember going there, and it was accidental, quite, our going.

3143. You say that your visit to the "Trumpet" was quite accidental; how did it take place?—It was called the central committee-room, though I had no committee, but it was so called. Some man said to Mr. Patteson and myself, "There are several voters at the 'Trumpet;' who say they will vote for Sir Henry Stracey if he will only ask them." Mr. Patteson then proposed to me to go there, and I assented.

3144. Can you fix the time?—Between two and three, I believe. I do not feel quite confident, but I believe that was the time.

3145. How did you go?—I think we walked there.

3146. Did you walk or go in your carriage?—I believe we walked; the carriage, I think followed, because I remember being in the carriage afterwards.

3147. What took place when you got to the "Trumpet," what did you see going on there?—When I got to the "Trumpet," there was a certain crowd about the door. I went into the room which was full of men (whether voters or not, I do not know, but I supposed they were). I believe I said either these words, or words to this effect, "My friends, I understand you want me to ask you to vote for me. I shall be obliged to you to do so, and if there be any questions you may like to put to me, I shall be very happy to answer them."—Some man or other, or men, said, "Cannot you give us something to drink?" I answered, "I cannot give you one farthing, not even half a pint of beer."

3148. Was that said loud enough for all of them to hear it?—Every one.

3149. Did you know at that time a man, who has appeared here, by the name of Hunt?—I never saw him before, to the best of my recollection, and I did not know his name was Hunt.

3150. Did you have any conversation with him?—To the best of my recollection, the only conversation I had with him was immediately after getting into the carriage. He said, "There are several voters here" (I am not sure whether he did not mention the number, that I cannot remember), "all of whom will vote for you;" and to the best of my recollection I said, in consequence of his being a fine large looking fellow, and very much flushed with liquor, "Then my fine fellow you go and head them to the poll."

3151. You did not know his name at that time?—Not a bit. I never saw him before, to the best of my recollection.

3152. You took him to be a voter?—Yes, I suppose so.

3153. What state was Hunt in at that time?—He was very much flushed with liquor, and he gave me the idea of being three parts drunk.

3154. I believe there were a good many men about in somewhat a similar condition?—Not only there, but throughout the town at that time of the day.

3155. It has been said that, when you went to the "Trumpet," you whispered to Hunt on going out into the passage; is that true?—It is totally false. I never whispered to any man in any passage, or in any room, during the whole of the election day, or at any time, to the best of my recollection.

3156. Did you whisper upon that occasion, or did anyone there whisper to you, as has been suggested?—No one that I heard or saw.

3157. How long altogether were you there?—A very few minutes.

3158. Do you recollect using this expression, as you were driving off, "Westminster is won, and so is Norwich"?—I think I did say "Westminster is won." I could not have said "Norwich is won." "Norwich will be won," I might have said. I could not have said "Norwich was won."

3159. Did you visit the "Trumpet" upon any other occasion that day?—No.

3160. Had you been to the "Trumpet" before during the election?—Never, I believe, in my life. I did not know there was such a place as the "Trumpet," to say the truth.

3161. Did you there go into any back room, when you were there, or into any private room?—Never.

3162. Were you in company with Mr. Patteson from the first moment that you went into that house till you came out of it?—I was.

3163. Did you object, and did you decline going on any occasion by yourself to where there was a company of voters?—I do not remember declining to go to any one.

3164. Was it your practice to go alone?—I do not remember that I ever went alone.

3165. You never did go alone?—I do not remember that I did; I am sure I never went alone.

3166. You took Mr. Patteson advisedly with you on this occasion?—I took him; he very kindly came with me, and proposed to me to go there.

3167. With regard to another portion of this transaction, a man by the name of Hardiment has been mentioned throughout the whole of this inquiry very often; do you know such a man?—I not only do not know him, but, to the best of my belief, I never saw him.

3168. Or have you ever had any communication with him, directly or indirectly, of any kind whatever?—I am sure I never have.

3169. Were you aware, until this inquiry, that such a person as Hardiment had ever been engaged in any sort of way with regard to the election?—I never heard it from Mr. Chittock; I never heard his name mentioned; to say the truth, I did not know there was a man of that name living in Norwich, or anywhere else.

3170. The statements that you have heard made in court with regard to your proceedings at the "Trumpet," as far as any intercourse with Hunt is concerned, you say distinctly are utterly untrue?—Totally false.

3171. Mr. Baron Martin.] Had you no communication with Hunt otherwise than what you have stated?—Not otherwise than what I have stated.

3172. Mr. Rodwell.] You heard what my learned friend said in his opening, that you supplied the means for carrying out these corrupt practices at the election, and that these things were organised and done with your approval; is there a syllable of truth or ground for that statement?—I beg to say that the learned gentleman's remarks—

Sir H. J.

3173. You had better answer my question first?—I beg to say, if I may be permitted, that those remarks were totally inapplicable to me, and that they were false as far as I was concerned.

3174. Mr. Baron Martin.] As I understand your evidence, you have stated that you did not provide any funds of any kind for paying illegal expenses, or for the purpose of paying for anything at Norwich?—I supplied no funds whatever, my Lord, for any illegal expenses.

3175. Mr. Rodwell.] Nor were any funds supplied, directly or indirectly, for such purposes with your knowledge, consent, or privity?—Certainly not, with my knowledge, consent, or privity, connivance or knowledge of any kind.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

3176. Do you know a person of the name of Dumbleton?—I did know a person of the name of Dumbleton at Yarmouth.

3177. He was a person who figured constantly at Yarmouth, was he not?—Yes, I believe so; and a very respectable man.

3178. He was the person who figured there, and, as you say, was a very respectable man?—Yes; to the best of my belief.

3179. Did you know that he was scheduled among the bribers?—

Mr. Rodwell stated that he must take his Lordship's opinion, as Dumbleton's name had been mentioned by his learned friend, who was embarking in an inquiry connected with the Yarmouth Election Petition, whether he could pursue such a line of examination.

Mr. Baron Martin stated, that as it had been imputed to Sir Henry Stracey that he had been concerned in bribery at the Norwich Election, he had no means of stopping the evidence; that he had already intimated as clearly as he could what he considered to be the real question, and that he hoped the cross-examination would be confined to that as nearly as possible.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine stated that he believed the question in this case was as to agency in relation to particular parties, and as to direct complicity on one particular occasion; that to these two questions he proposed to confine himself, and that he was now about to examine the Witness as to the latter.

3180. (To the Witness.) You say that Dumbleton was a respectable man; I ask you whether you do not know that he was scheduled as one of the bribers on your election at Yarmouth?—No, I do not know that.

3181. Have you never heard it?—No.

3182. Do you really mean to say that you do not know whether he was scheduled as a briber?—I do not know whether he was.

3183. Do you know that he was charged with being one of the bribers?—No.

3184. Am I to understand that in a matter of such grave importance to you, you do not know that Dumbleton was not only charged, but actually scheduled, as a briber?—I tell you that I do not know it.

3185. Have you never heard it?—Never.

3186. Then this is the first time that you have heard it suggested?—It is.

3187. Have you not read the report?—What report?

3188. Of the Yarmouth Election?—No, I have not.

3189. Not a word of it?—Not a word.

3190. You know that there you were charged with very extensive bribery?—I know I was.

3191. Without troubling you to go through a variety of details, you substantially admitted it, did you not?—I sat, and there was a petition, and the decision upon the petition was in my favour; that is in Sir Edmund Lacon's and in my favour; we sat in consequence.

3192. And afterwards there was a Royal Commission?—Yes, there was; eight or ten years afterwards.

3193. Did you, in substance, admit that you were aware that bribery was going on during the progress of that election?—No, I did not; I did not in substance admit it.

3194. Mr. Baron Martin.] You were not Member for Yarmouth when the Royal Commission was issued?—No; a Parliament had intervened.

3195. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] You had not stood upon the second occasion?—No.

3196. This was a commission to inquire into the practices of the borough at the time when you were a Member, was it not?—No; it was not for that purpose; it was to inquire into the practices of the election when Mr. Goodson, the railroad contractor, and Sir Edmund Lacon, were returned.

3197. Do you not know that the Royal Commission found "That the said election was conducted on behalf of Sir Edmund Lacon, and by and on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey, in a corrupt and illegal manner;" do not you know that that was found in relation to yourself upon that inquiry?—I believe it was so found; not that I ever saw it.

3198. You never saw it, but you believed it was found?—I never disputed it.

3199. That is just what I asked you?—No; you put a leading question as to that; I never acknowledged it. I think, my Lord, that as the petitioner was allowed to make some statement with reference to Sudbury, you will perhaps allow me to make certain statements in case of being reflected upon afterwards as to Yarmouth.

Mr. Baron Martin.] No; I do not think we will try to set off one against the other.

3200. (To the Witness.) In 1859 you were elected Member for Yarmouth; was there any petition against you then?—Yes.

3201. The petition was in favour of the sitting Members?—Yes.

3202. At the following election there was another petition?—There was another petition, and a Royal Commission was recommended, which sat, and then the Members at the previous election were examined, and I was one of them.

3203. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] And then the two elections were inquired into?—Yes.

3204. And this report is the finding of the Commissioners upon the facts as to the two elections?—Yes.

3205. At all events, you were examined upon that occasion; was that so?—Yes.

3206. Were you asked this question; "I suppose suppose I may take it that you deliberately abstained from inquiring into the expense, because you felt assured part of that expense would go in an illegal manner?" And was not your answer this: "You know I know nothing of any individual instance of illegality, and I made a point of never inquiring anything about it; but if you ask me what was my opinion, in fact, what was my conviction at the election, I have stated my conviction was, that there was corruption going on, although I knew nothing about it?"—True enough, that was my conviction, but I afterwards supposed that I was wrong; I never had any bill.

3207. You say that you never had any bill?—No; I said that my opinion altered; it was a perfectly correct one at first, but it altered, because I had received no account of the expenses for at least a year and a-half afterwards; but I may say a few words upon that, and I will put it in this way: Sir Edmund Lacon, after I had consented to stand, waited upon me, I may say, and he asked me, "Am I right in supposing that you agree to stand with me?" and I said, "Yes, I will." Then I told him, "I will pay half the expenses." I said this, certainly, unguardedly, because by reason of this; because Mr. Preston, upon whom I relied, and whom we looked upon as the leader of the party there, and another gentleman, Mr. Reynolds, said that there would be no opposition if I, who had previously represented the county, would stand there, and stand with Sir Edmund Lacon, who was a banker and brewer in the town. Upon that, and with the full conviction that there would be no opposition, I said that I would pay half the expenses. We went on with our canvass, and to my surprise I saw men going about the town, and as the learned counsel asked me what was my opinion of the conduct of these men, truthfully I told the Royal Commission that my opinion was that those men were going about bribing on both sides. Afterwards I thought this opinion was wrong, because I did not receive any account of any additional expenses than the election expenses for a year and a-half afterwards. But when I did receive this extra account I felt and saw clearly that my opinion at that time was right; I could not call off, as I had told Sir Edmund Lacon "I would bear half the expenses," and consequently the election went on, and we were elected; we were petitioned against, but we sat, and it was not for a year and a-half afterwards that I knew of any illegal expenses having been entered into.

3208. Were you examined?—Yes, but I did not state all that I have stated now.

3209. Before you came to Yarmouth, were you aware of the character of that borough?—Perfectly.

3210. I will read your answer to Question 25,028. "I think the heads of the party have always struck me as being enlightened to a degree as a constituency, and most worthy and respectable men, but my belief is, that I heard that there were nearly one-fourth of the electors venal; that is my impression. When I say one-fourth, I believe it was more than one-fourth of the electors were represented to me as venal?"—Perfectly right.

3211. Then you were asked, "You deliberately abstained from inquiring?" and your answer was, "Not deliberately, but I made a point of not doing it?"—I did answer so.

3212. That is true, is it?—Yes; I dare say I did give that answer; I believe I did.

3213. Why did you make a point of not inquiring?—You may draw your own inference from that; that was quite enough for me.

3214. Then you were asked, "When did you settle up with the bankers; when did you ascertain the whole that it cost you?" and you answered, "It is some seven or eight years since, and I do not remember?"—That is true.

3215. Then you go on to say, "I never ascertained what it cost me, as I tell you there were so many different things to settle?"—I believe that that was the case too.

3216. Then you say, "I am not sure whether I had not bought land at the time. There were so many different things that I arranged with my bankers, and put my account in a proper state, and from, I presume, some securities which I had, and the balance at my other bankers; that I do not accurately know, but I know that I put it all straight and proper?"—Quite right.

3217. Then there were some other questions, with which I will not trouble you?—Do, if you like.

3218. I will not; I will do it if you like it?—No.

3219. Then there is this question, "How did you pay Mr. Reynolds" (your agent) "when he asked you for a sum or account?" You say then, "At that time he was paid through my bankers, and he had a carte blanche at my bankers to be supplied with any money that was requisite for the election expenses?"—Perfectly true; but will you allow me to say this: When I agreed to stand, it was said to me by Mr. Preston, "Well, to carry out the election expenses we must have the money, some one of us; and perhaps you will give, or both." I think he said, "An order upon your bankers;" and I said, "Yes; for what amount?" He did not tell me, and I requested my bankers, having full confidence in the honour of those gentlemen, to forward them what amount they required; my banker, I understand, says, "I have no doubt he is right;" and he told me it was necessary to mention a certain limit, and he proposed that that limit should be 1,500 l. I have no doubt that he was perfectly right.

3220. Mr. Harvey was your banker?—Yes; now Sir Robert Harvey. That answer that I gave you is the answer that I gave to the Royal Commission.

3221. It was Mr. Preston, was it not, who told you what a corrupt place Yarmouth was?—Quite so; everybody knew it, and you know that as well as anyone.

3222. When you gave Mr. Reynolds a carte blanche to draw what he liked, you authorised the banker to pay him?—I authorised both Mr. Preston and Mr. Reynolds.

3223. Have you ever settled the matter up?—Yes, every shilling, as soon as I was told what was required.

3224. What were the expenses?—I cannot give you that.

3225. Can you give me an approximate notion?—No.

3226. Within 1,000 l.?—No, I do not think I can.

3227. Within 2,000 l.?—No; and the reason is because I bought land, and I settled other things.

3228. You must give a reason; your evidence is is in direct contradiction to the other evidence? —It is in direct contradiction to Sir Edmund Lacon's evidence.

3229. You must settle that with him; he is Member for Norfolk now, is he not?—Yes.

3230. And he has a petition against him?—That has nothing to do with this question.

3231. Cannot you tell me within 2,000*l.* what your expenses were?—I do not think I can.

3232. Can you within 5,000*l.*?—I dare say I can. I do not remember the amount. I have had accounts at different bankers, and all I can say is that I have a large family, and whatever the expenses were, I do not know what they were.

3233. Mr. Baron Martin.] Surely you can say whether it was 5,000*l.*?—It was not 5,000*l.*

3234. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Will you give me an approximate sum?—I cannot, if it comprehends several other things.

3235. What did you pay; what did the Yarmouth election cost you?—I cannot tell you.

3236. Did not it cost you more than 5,000*l.*?—It did not cost me anything like that, to the best of my belief.

3237. Do you undertake to say that it did not cost you 5,000*l.*?—I do.

3238. Did it cost you 4,000*l.*?—I do not know; I do not believe it did at all.

3239. Here is Question 25,051, with which I will conclude this part: "Was it understood at the time that you were to share both the legal and illegal expenses?" and the answer is, "I never referred to the illegal expenses, nor did he. I knew nothing about that. All I know is that I determined to pay half the expenses, whatever they were?"—Who gave that answer?

3240. You?—I did, and it is perfectly right, but not applying to illegal matters at all.

3241. Do you know that there was a person of the name of Dumbleton who was examined upon that Commission?—No, I do not.

3242. You did not know that he was scheduled?—No, I did not.

Mr. Baron Martin.] Is that the report of the Royal Commission that you have been reading from?

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Yes, my Lord.

3243. (To the Witness.) You say that you knew Dumbleton to be a respectable man?—And I believe him to be so now.

3244. Do you know that he was employed on this election?—No.

3245. Do you know of his having been employed?—I never heard of it.

3246. Are you sure of that?—I should not answer decidedly unless I was sure of it.

3247. Have you never seen him since the election?—No.

3248. Have you written to him?—I have; that is to say, I have answered a letter of his.

3249. When was that?—He told me that he was subpoenaed, but that is all that I know of it; and I wrote to him saying that I was sorry he should have the trouble to attend, and nothing more than that.

3250. You are sure about that, are you?—I really believe it was so. I do not remember every word of the letter, but I am quite sure that was the purport of it.

3251. Did he not say that he had been active for you?—No; I am sure that he did not.

3252. Or that he had been canvassing for you?—No; I do not think that he said anything about it.

3253. Have you got the letter?—No, I have not.

3254. When you say that he did not mention the services he had done for you, do you mean that in your letter you did not thank him for those services?—I beg your pardon. If it was a matter of courtesy, I am sure that I did thank him for them; but I do not believe that he made any boast of any services he had done for me in that letter.

3255. What I want to know, Sir Henry, is this: in writing back to him, did you not thank him for those services that he had performed for you?—I have no doubt that I did, although I do not remember that I did, if he alluded to them.

3256. Have you any doubt that you did do so?—Upon my word I cannot say that I have any doubt about it, if they were referred to.

3257. Do not you believe that you did?—I dare say that I did, but I do not know whether I did or not.

3258. You will not say that you did not?—No.

3259. You know the letter may be in existence?—Then let it be brought forward; I shall only be too glad. I am telling you what I believe to be the truth.

3260. Then you may have thanked him for his services?—I tell you that if he had told me that he had acted for me, and that he had exerted himself for me in any way, I am sure that I should have said I was much obliged to him for it.

3261. Do not you now believe that he did allude to the services he had given you, and that you thanked him for them?—I do not believe the least in the world about it; I do not remember it.

3262. Did you not a few minutes ago declare that you were not aware that he had done anything whatever for you?—Yes, I did, and so I do now.

3263. But you cannot recollect whether he reminded you or not of the services he had done?—I am sure of this, that they were not of that material nature that they would make any impression upon me or anyone else; but I remember this, that he congratulated me upon my success, and he said that he had been subpoenaed. I believe that was the substance of the letter.

3264. I think I can remind you now of what it was, and I ask you whether in answer to that letter you did not thank him for the material use he had been to you towards that success?—I do not remember doing so.

3265. Will you undertake to say that you did not thank him for the material use he had been to you?—No, I will not undertake to swear that; but I do not remember it.

3266. Is this man's name Robert Dumbleton?—I do not know.

3267. Do you know a man of the name of Bunn?—Yes, I know one man of that name, James Bunn.

3268. Charles Victor Bunn?—No, I do not know him.

3269. Did you never hear of him?—No.

3270. Was not he one of the Yarmouth people?—I know the name at Yarmouth.

3271. Are you equally ignorant as to whether he was scheduled as one of the bribers?—I am.
I never

I never heard of his acting upon the election, and I never saw him.

3272. You have stated that you did not know Hardiment, either by name or by sight?—Yes, certainly.

3273. Have you made any inquiries about Hardiment since this petition was filed?—No, I have not.

3274. Or have you directed your agent to make any inquiries?—No.

3275. Did you know that it was charged against Hardiment that he had been a very extensive briber on your behalf?—I have only heard it since this petition has been filed.

3276. Mr. Baron Martin.] Since the trial commenced?—Yes.

3277. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Am I really to understand that you have never been told that Hardiment was charged as being an extensive briber until this trial commenced, and has been going on?—Quite so. I never heard of it.

3278. Neither from Mr. Chittock, nor from anybody else?—No, nor from anybody else.

3279. And you had not heard of his name before this trial?—Never, to the best of my remembrance; nor did I know that a man of that name lived in Norwich.

3280. Let me ask you this, did your dog-cart go to the election?—No.

3281. Did any dog-cart go up to the election in charge of a groom of yours?—I do not know, but I think not.

3282. Did you send any dog-cart up, or was any sent to your knowledge?—No.

3283. To your knowledge Hardiment was not using a dog-cart of yours?—Certainly not.

3284. As I understand you, you have made no inquiry either one way or the other about Hardiment?—I made no inquiry whatever.

3285. Do you mean to say, as you seem to have done at Yarmouth, that you have abstained from making any inquiry on purpose?—I knew nothing of Hardiment, and I know nothing of him, and, consequently, I have made no inquiry about him.

3286. You were the sitting Member for Norwich, and I understand you to say that you have not ascertained from your agent what the charges against you were, and who the parties were who made those charges?—I have not.

3287. You have made no inquiry upon the subject?—No; here is my election solicitor sitting near me, and I have made no inquiry about Hardiment or anybody else.

3288. Assuming yourself to be entirely free from any imputation upon these matters, you have not even asked the names of the men who brought these charges against you?—Never.

3289. You have made no inquiry whatever?—No.

3290. You have not made the least inquiry as to the nature of the charges brought against you?—I have read them in the newspapers.

3291. Have you not referred at any time to your own agent in relation to the nature of the charges brought against you?—Indeed I have not.

3292. Have you never asked a single question about them?—I do not think that I have put one question upon them; indeed I am sure of it.

3293. How does that happen?—That is your affair to find out; I have not done it, and I cannot give you any reason for not having done it, any further than I have already done.

3294. You made pretty much the same answer in the Yarmouth matter, that you had made no inquiry; but your reason there we did find out?—

Mr. Rodwell.] That is not so.

3295. Mr. Field.] Let me ask you this: why did you make no inquiry?—I can only suppose this, that I wished to have my mind perfectly free so as to be able to give my answers conscientiously and truthfully, as I trust I always have done, and shall continue to do, consequently perhaps that was the chief reason why I did not make myself acquainted with anything about it. As to the man you have referred to, Hardiment, I never heard of his name before this trial.

3296. But you would have heard of the name if you had made any inquiry?—Yes.

3297. You deliberately avoided making any inquiry?—I beg pardon, I never thought of it.

3298. And I understand from you that your reason was that you wished to keep your mind perfectly clear?—Yes; and perfectly unbiassed.

3299. You then deliberately abstained from making any inquiry?—Yes; I do not mean to say that I had anything to fear; I had nothing to fear as to the inquiry, but I did not think it necessary to concern myself with that of which I knew I was perfectly guiltless.

3300. How could you know that you were perfectly guiltless until you had heard what you were charged with?—I beg your pardon, I did see it in the newspapers.

3301. Then you had seen Hardiment's name, had you not, in the newspapers?—No, I did not; I have only seen it since the trial; I have only seen the alleged charges against me by the Petitioner since then.

3302. You know, do you not, that it was alleged you had been guilty by yourself and agents of bribing; and am I to understand that you made no inquiry as to the particulars of those charges?—You are perfectly to understand that.

3303. Was Worledge an acquaintance of yours?—I never saw him in my life, that I know of, nor did I ever hear his name mentioned, to the best of my recollection.

3304. Do you know a person of the name of Stanley?—I know a Mr. Stanley, who is a stonemason, and I also know his son, who, I believe, is a respectable solicitor in the town.

3305. Was he with you that day, the election day?—I do not recollect seeing him at all on the day of the election.

3306. Try and recall this to your memory, and say whether he was not in your company at the "Bull and Butcher"?—Not that I know of; I do not remember it, and indeed I did not know that there was such a house.

3307. I will tell you where it is; it is upon "Grapes Hill"?—I do not know where that is.

3308. Do you know where the committee-room was?—Upon my word I cannot tell you; I will answer you in a straightforward manner to every question, and you need not suppose for one moment that I am not answering you as directly as a gentleman can answer you. You have been most unscrupulous and most unjustifiable,

Sir H. J. Stracey,
Bart.

able, I think, in the remarks you have made towards me.

3309. You used in your examination-in-chief the term "committee-room," but you corrected yourself and said, "although in reality I had no committee"?—That is true enough.

3310. What room did you then refer to?—The central committee-room, as it was called. It was at a place which was an hotel, called the "Swan;" I believe it is now unoccupied.

3311. You have stated, I think, that you do not know any house that is called the "Bull and Butcher"?—I do not.

3312. I mean the committee-room, as it was called, in the third ward?—I do not know it.

3313. Were you at that time in any public-house with Stanley?—I do not remember it.

3314. Can you say whether you were or not in a public-house with Stanley?—No, I cannot.

3315. Do you know a man of the name of Fuller?—No.

3316. Did you not go to all the committee-rooms, or to all those that were called committee-rooms, during the election?—Yes, I believe I did; I believe I went to all the ward rooms.

3317. That is to say, to the whole eight, for I believe there were eight ward rooms?—I believe I went to all of them; I am not sure, but I believe I did.

3318. Can you tell me where the committee-room was of No. 3 Ward?—I am sorry to say I cannot; I ought to know more, but really I do not know it.

3319. Had not Stanley the management of No. 3 Ward?—I am sure I do not know.

3320. You went to all the committee-rooms, and did you not know the persons who had the management of them?—I did not.

3321. Do not you know that Stanley was active there?—No.

3322. Do not you know that you saw him at the third ward?—No, I do not.

3323. And you do not know where the committee-room was?—No.

3324. Are you able to say whether, when you went in, you saw Stanley or not?—No.

3325. Did not Stanley go in with you to that committee-room?—I do not remember it.

3326. Will you swear that he did not go in with you?—No, I will not.

3327. You will not say that he did not?—I have already answered the question.

3328. I ask you upon that, did you not learn upon the occasion of Stanley going in with you, that the state of the poll was going in favour of Tillet?—Not that I remember.

3329. Can you say that you did not learn it?—No; but I do not remember it; not a shade of it.

3330. You were told it by somebody, were you not?—Indeed; I do not know that; I do not remember it.

3331. You do not recollect that?—No.

3332. Was Mr. Patteson, who keeps a large brewery in Norwich, there?—Yes.

3333. Was he with you at the time I am referring to, at that committee-room?—I fancy that he was; he went with me, I believe, to all of them.

3334. Then I ask you this: When Mr. Patteson was with you, was not Stanley with you also?—I do not know that he was; I do not remember him, but Mr. Patteson went to all of them with me on that day.

3335. Did not Stanley say this: "You are losing very fast, and you have but one alternative"?—I am quite positive that he did not say so in my hearing, nor do I believe that he could have made that observation in my friend Mr. Patteson's hearing.

3336. But the question I have put to you refers to your own hearing?—I am sure that he did not; I never heard him say so, nor anything approaching it.

3337. Can you remember whether he said that you were losing very fast?—I told you just now that I never heard him say anything approaching it.

3338. You heard nothing of that kind?—No.

3339. I ask you whether, after that had occurred, you did not go straight from there to the "Trumpet"?—I did not return to the "Trumpet," to the best of my recollection.

3340. I am assuming a transaction to have taken place before going to the "Trumpet," and I ask you whether, after a remark of that kind, but which you deny, had been made, you did not, accompanied by Mr. Patteson and others, go to the "Trumpet"?—I never heard the remark made, to the best of my belief. We went direct from the committee-room, the central committee-room, to the "Trumpet."

3341. Was Mr. Bignold with you that day?—No; but I do not know which you mean.

3342. Any Mr. Bignold?—I do not know that he was, and I do not think that any Mr. Bignold accompanied us.

3343. Was there a Mr. Bignold at the "Trumpet"?—I do not think there was; I have no recollection of it.

3344. You are not sure of it?—No, I have not the least recollection of it.

Re-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

3345. My learned friend has asked you some questions founded upon some extracts from the Evidence given before the Royal Commissioners at Yarmouth as to the expense of the election for Yarmouth. You were asked a question, and I think you gave this answer, that you could not give a very definite answer as to the amount?—Yes.

3346. What were the reasons which made it difficult to you to state the expenses connected with the Yarmouth election?—To the best of my recollection I had bought some land, as I have told you. I have sons in the army, and other expenses to meet. I do not know exactly the answer that I gave, but all I can say is that as soon as I heard the amount which was owing to the banker, which made my account consequently on the wrong side, I at once, from other securities, or from my accounts at other bankers, made up that amount to Sir Robert Harvey.

3347. Is it the fact that at that time there were mixed up with the overdrawn account the expenses for your previous county election, which were unpaid?—True enough, I believe they were.

3348. You have stated that all those expenses were under 5,000 £., but that they may have been as much as 4,000 £.?—It is very possible. I do not know that they were not.

3349. My learned friend has suggested to you, as to the proceedings at this election, and as to the persons who were engaged in it, that you made a point never to inquire anything about the election. I see in your answer to Question 25,029, which was "I suppose I may take it that you deliberately abstained from inquiring into the expense, because you felt assured part of that expense would go in an illegal manner." You say, "You know I know nothing of any individual instance of illegality, and I made a point of never inquiring anything about it." Now I ask you whether you did not in this case, during the course of the election, make it your business to inquire as to what was going on in Norwich?—Yes.

3350. Whatever you may have done as to Yarmouth on this point, you pursued an exactly opposite course in the case of Norwich?—Yes, that is perfectly right; I put a question to Mr. Chittock after having cautioned him before Sir Samuel Bignold and others as to every shilling that had been spent bearing the strictest scrutiny; I put the question to him when the election was going on as to whether he was sure there had been no illegal practice or not, and he told me, "I do not believe that there has been any illegal practice of any kind going on, Sir." Then at the end of the election I again said to him, "Has there been any illegal practice?" and he said, "I know of none, and I believe there has been none." I then said to him, "Then am I to understand that this is a pure election?" and he said "Perfectly pure, to the best of my belief."

3351. My learned friend has asked you as to your conduct since this Petition has been started, and he has asked you whether you have made any inquiry as to the charges that were made against you, and I understood you to say that as to there being a charge of personal bribery and acts done with your knowledge, you know nothing, and therefore can give, no information?—I will take my oath that I know nothing, and consequently can give no information.

3352. Further that you have put the matter into Mr. Skipper's hands, and you have left the case for him to deal with?—Yes, totally.

3353. Beyond that you have not shut your eyes to anything that was going on?—I have not shut my eyes, nor opened them, to say the truth; I have avoided nothing.

3354. With regard to the Yarmouth election, I think, I understood you to say that when you made that arrangement with Sir Edmund Lacon, your belief was then that there would be no contest?—Certainly, fully.

3355. Did you intend at that moment, or did you convey to Sir Edmund Lacon that you were ready to embark with him in any illegal expenditure for that election?—Not the least in the world; I had agreed to bear half the expenses, and after that I felt it a matter of duty to adhere to my agreement as a man of honour.

3356. And as a man of honour you did so?—Yes.

3357. You have been asked about Dumbleton. Am I to take it from you distinctly that if he made a claim to have done anything for you, you are perfectly unconscious of his having done so?—Yes. I am perfectly unconscious of his having done anything for me.

3358. Do you know him?—I know him by sight.

3359. Did you, during the election, see him in Norwich?—Never.

3360. I do not know what the suggestion meant, but I am bound to ask you this question: I believe that Mr. Stanley is a solicitor in the town?—Yes.

3361. Did you upon any occasion see him during the election, or not; were you in communication with him occasionally?—Indeed I do not remember having any communication with him; I might have seen him, and in all probability I did, but I do not remember any conversation that I had with him, and I do not believe that I had any.

3362. Mr. Baron Martin.] I think you have stated that you know nothing of Hardiment?—True.

3363. He is a stranger to you entirely?—Totally.

3364. You have made no inquiry as to who he is, or what he is?—Quite so; I have made no inquiry as to who he is, or what he is. I have heard his wife give her evidence, and that is all I know.

3365. He is a fellmonger in this town, is he not?—He may be, but I do not know it; I heard his wife say so.

3366. Is he in such circumstances as not to be able to advance money out of his own funds?—I know nothing about that.

3367. Have you any suspicion or belief as to where the money came from with which that man bribed?—I know no more than I have stated; I do not know from whence it came; I have no idea that he did bribe.

3368. You have heard the evidence as well as I have; have you any suspicion as to where the money came from with which that man bribed?—No, I have not indeed.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Will your Lordship be kind enough to ask the same question with regard to Hunt?

Mr. Baron Martin.] No, I think not.

The Witness.] Pray do.

3369. Mr. Baron Martin.] You may make any statement that you think fit, if you desire to do so?—I have nothing more to say as to Hunt or any other person, unless your Lordship wishes it. I may say that I never saw him, to the best of my recollection. I am sure that I have not seen him since I saw him there; and I was doubtful, when I saw him in the witness-box, whether it was the same man or not, because when I saw him before I think he was in his shirt-sleeves, and he was very much flushed; he appeared to me to be three-parts drunk, and looked a very fine, large fellow; I was rather surprised to see the diminished man that he appeared in the witness-box.

[The Witness withdrew.

Sir H. J.
Stracey,
Bart.

1869.

Mr. HENRY STANIFORTH PATTESON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.

Mr. H. S.
Patteson.

18 January
1869.

3370. You carry on business, I believe, in this city as a Brewer?—I do.

3371. Were you one of the deputation who waited upon Sir Henry Stracey to ask him to stand for this city?—No, I was not.

3372. Were you present at a meeting at Sir Samuel Bignold's of the friends of the Conservative cause, when Sir Henry Stracey was there?—I was.

3373. Do you remember what Sir Henry Stracey said in reference to accepting an invitation to stand for the borough?—Sir Henry Stracey said that there had been one or two deputations who had waited upon him to ask him to come forward, and he said that if he had the support of all the heads of the party he would do so; and consequently he came and met many gentlemen at Sir Samuel Bignold's, and we all said that we would give him our support if he came forward. Upon that we suggested to him Mr. Chittock as his agent, and he requested Mr. Chittock to be sent for. When he came into the room, Sir Henry Stracey said that the gentlemen had recommended him very highly as a fitting person to conduct the election, and he wished before the whole party to say the terms upon which he meant to come forward; and those terms were, that he was quite willing to throw himself into the hands of the Conservative party, and to come forward. He stated that he would pay all the legitimate expenses of the election, but that he would not sanction or pay one farthing for any matter that was illegal, or in any way to corrupt the constituency.

3374. Did you, upon various occasions, accompany Sir Henry Stracey during the progress of the election?—I did, constantly.

3375. Did you happen to be present when he was addressing people from the window of the "Waterloo" tavern?—I was not there that day.

3376. Upon the day of the election, the polling day, do you remember that?—I might say that I was not in the room; I was passing through the market-place just at the end of the speech.

3377. Did you happen to hear some person come and say anything to Sir Henry Stracey?—No, I did not hear that.

3378. Upon the day of the polling, in the afternoon, were you present when some person came to Sir Henry and said that there were some voters at the "Trumpet" public-house who would vote for him if he would go and ask them?—Yes, I was.

3379. Perhaps you will be good enough to tell his Lordship what occurred upon that. What did Sir Henry do upon having it communicated to him that if he would go to the "Trumpet" and ask those who were there, they would vote for him; but, first of all, where was it that this person came up to Sir Henry and made that communication to him about the men at the "Trumpet"?—It was coming out of one of the committee-rooms.

3380. Which committee-room?—We had just come from the central committee-room; we were then coming out from the committee-room of the Fifth Ward, in St. Stephen's.

3381. Were you walking at that time?—We were just coming out of the committee-room, and going to get into the carriage to drive to another committee-room; there was a great crowd, and some person, I should know his face again, but not his name, came and said: "There are several voters at the 'Trumpet' who are inclined to vote for Sir Henry Stracey; if he will go and ask them they will vote for him." I said: "Will you go?" and he said that he had no objection.

3382. Did you and Sir Henry walk to the "Trumpet," or did you go in a carriage?—We walked, and the carriage followed us; it was about 50 yards or 100 yards from the committee-room.

3383. Can you state what passed at the "Trumpet"?—There was a great crowd round the door, and great cheering. I went in first and said to the landlord, I think it was, "I understand there are some voters here who have not voted, is that correct?"

3384. Mr. Baron Martin.] About what o'clock was this?—Somewhere about a quarter to three, so far as I can remember, or between two and three, I cannot say exactly; perhaps it was half-past two or a quarter to three; and he said that there were several voters who had not voted. I said, "Where are they?" and he said, "Through there, in that room," to which he pointed. We all went in, there being a great many behind hurraing and cheering; there was a great crowd, and I saw several men sitting in the room. I said to them, "Is it true that you have not voted?" and some of them said that they had not. I said, "Why have you not voted?" and they said that they "had not made up their minds." I then said, "When are you going to make up your minds?" and they said that they did not know, and that there was "plenty of time." I said, "There is no time;" and further, I said, "Who do you wish to see returned—'Tillet' or 'Sir Henry'?" and they said, "We will have nothing to do with 'Tillet.'" I said, "You will have him returned if you do not go directly and vote for Stracey." Sir Henry Stracey then said, "My friends, will you give me your vote?" and then they said, "Oh, we should wish for you, Sir Henry; cannot you give us a drop of beer?" and he said, "I will not give you a farthing, nor yet half a farthing;" and he said, "Come along, let us go."

3385. Was anything said at that time about rates?—Yes, Sir Henry Stracey said, "Is there anything that I can explain to you about the rating clause?" and they said, "No, we do not want that."

3386. Did you accompany Sir Henry Stracey from the room, and go out?—Yes.

3387. Did he speak or whisper to any person in the passage, or outside the "Waterloo Tavern," or did any person whisper to him?—I never saw it, and I do not believe that anything of the kind was done.

3388. Could it have occurred without your seeing or hearing it?—It might, because I was walking out in the front, but I am quite sure there was nothing of the kind.

3389. Did you get from the room in which those men were out to the carriage as fast as you could?—Yes, as fast as we could get through; we went through, and got into the carriage.

3390. When

3390. When you got into the carriage, did you see anything of a man of the name of Hunt?—The same man who was here? I did not know his name till I was in court; he was standing by the door, and cheering, among many others.

3391. Did you see him whisper to Sir Henry Stracey, or Sir Henry Stracey whisper to him?—No, nothing of that kind.

3392. What did Hunt say, do you recollect?—I believe he cheered, and said, “We will bring you in”; I did not hear him say anything myself.

3393. I believe the state of the poll at Westminster was known at that time at Norwich, and that Sir Henry Stracey said, “Westminster is won”?—I believe he did.

3394. Did you see Mr. Stanley upon the day that I have been mentioning, at any time when you were with Sir Henry, come up and speak to Sir Henry?—No, I have no recollection of his coming up to speak to Sir Henry at all; I recollect seeing him going into one of the committee-rooms, but I do not remember which it was.

3395. Did anything of this kind pass between Sir Henry Stracey and Mr. Stanley; Mr. Stanley saying, “We are losing fast, Sir Henry, and you have only one alternative”?—I never heard him say that.

3396. Did you go to the different ward-rooms during the day of the polling?—I did.

3397. With Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes.

3398. How would that happen?—Sir William Russell and Mr. Tillett were driving about frequently in their carriage, to their different committee-rooms, and I thought it was advisable, and that it would help Sir Henry’s cause, if he showed himself more about the town; and I suggested that he should drive round to the different committee-rooms.

3399. It was at your suggestion, was it, that he drove about to the different parts of the town?—Yes; Sir Henry did not in the least know where the committee-rooms were situated, and he had to be told when we went round.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

3400. You know Stanley, do you not?—Yes, quite well.

3401. Was he the manager of No. 3 committee-room?—I did not know it till I heard to-day that he was; I thought that another person was.

3402. Did you see him?—Yes, during the day; but I cannot quite recall to mind whether it was in that committee-room.

3403. Can you recollect seeing him in company with Sir Henry Stracey?—Yes, once during that time.

3404. Can you recollect his saying anything to you?—Nothing at all.

3405. Not about the state of the poll, or that you were losing on your side?—No, I never heard anything at all of the kind.

3406. What was said about explaining the subject of the rates, to the party of not very sober people at the “Trumpet”?—The great feeling in the town was upon the subject of the rating clause, because Mr. Tillett had stated generally in his speech that the Conservative party had been the cause of the rating; that was his point upon almost all occasions, and Sir Henry said therefore, to the men, “Is there anything that I can explain to you to satisfy you and make you willing to vote for me?”

3407. Nothing was said about the rates?—No, not a word was said by any of them.

3408. Did you leave the room and go into any passage at all?—No passage at all, it was quite through; it led from the room to the street-door.

3409. Mr. Baron Martin.] Do you know Hardiment at all?—No, I never saw him, and I do not know him.

3410. Do you know the man at all by name or by reputation?—I have heard of him, but I do not know him.

3411. I suppose you have heard of him since this trial has been going on?—Yes.

3412. Have you no suspicion as to where that man got the money to bribe with?—I have not the slightest idea; I have not the least idea where it came from.

[The Witness withdrew.

MR. JOHN CARSAY CHITTOCK, sworn; Examined by Mr. Rodwell.

3413. You are a Solicitor, practising in Norwich?—Yes.

3414. Were you appointed managing agent for Sir Henry Stracey at the last election?—I was.

3415. What means did you adopt for the purpose of securing his election, with regard to the agents and persons to carry on the election?—The city was divided into eight wards, and one of the wards being a very large one, I divided it into two parts; I appointed nine managing men to those ward-rooms, and head clerks or managers; I sent a sufficient number of clerks to those ward-rooms, and messengers, and I remained at the central room myself.

3417. What were their duties?—They were always to be at the ward-rooms; they were to send me in any information which they might obtain in the wards themselves; they were to send out all circulars and notices of meetings, and the voting cards, and everything connected with the election. I prepared generally all the papers at the central room, and then sent them out into the wards for circulation.

3418. Had you at that time engaged or employed any canvassers whatever on behalf of Sir Henry Stracey?—I never did engage or employ a canvasser for Sir Henry Stracey; almost immediately after I was appointed I told Sir Henry Stracey that there was no time for making a regular canvass of the city, there being only about a fortnight, and therefore no canvassers were engaged.

3419. Did you attend those separate wards yourself yourself occasionally, or not?—Very seldom I went round; I did go round.

3420. As to those rooms; were many people in the habit of going in in the course of the day?—I have no doubt that there were.

3421. Did you see many people there?—When I was there I had always seen people there; different people, or any person connected with a ward went there for information.

3422. Did many go there merely for gossip?—Judging from my experience, more went in for gossip than for any other purpose.

3423. What number of persons did you see go in and out in a day at the central committee-room?—I think I should not be exaggerating if I said from 400 to 500 a day; I have no doubt that at least half came in for no business whatever, and made no excuse to come, but just to say "How are you getting on," or "Will you give me a report of the last meeting," and so they went on.

3424. We understand that a man named Wiseman was the manager of the eighth ward?—He was.

3425. Who appointed him?—I did.

3426. In an answer which he gave?—I do not know whether it was reported.

3427. Mr. Baron Martin.] That was the man who was examined first on Saturday morning, was it not?—Yes.

3428. Mr. Rodwell.] He stated that Hardiment appointed him, is that correct?—Certainly not; I do not remember his saying that, and I heard his evidence.

3429. You appointed him, did you?—Yes; I appointed him; he might not know it in this way; probably I can explain what he meant; I allowed those who were in the different wards to suggest names to me, and after I had approved of them I appointed them, but Wiseman was not there, and he did not know who suggested him, and I do not know who suggested his name, but I appointed him.

3430. Will you say that Hardiment did not suggest him?—I do not remember that he was there.

3431. Had you any knowledge of Hardiment's exertions during the election?—Certainly not.

3432. Had you directly or indirectly any communications with him with reference to the election?—Certainly not.

3433. I do not know whether you know him?—I do; he has been a client of mine.

3434. What is he?—A fellmonger.

3435. What are his means?—I am not able to say that. I have trusted him myself; I should say that he is such a man that I should say I would trust him with 50 l. if he asked me to lend it him.

3436. Is he in a good way of business?—He does a good deal of business, I have no doubt; I do not mean to say that he is not worth more than 50 l.

3437. He would have no difficulty, I suppose, in getting 50 l. if he wanted it?—That is my opinion.

3438. Would you say that Hardiment was or was not a man of property?—Whether he has any real property I cannot say, but in his business I have no doubt that he is a man of property.

3439. Had Wiseman any authority from you to appoint any persons to act in that ward room where he was?—Certainly not.

3440. Was an application made by him or other persons in a similar position to appoint persons for that room?—The only application that I had was very shortly before the election, for the purpose of delivering out the voting cards; I was told that they had not a sufficient staff of messengers to get them delivered, and that the post could not deliver them; therefore I said, "If it is necessary for you to have an extra messenger or two to deliver those voting cards, you must find one or two;" but beyond that they had no authority.

3441. Did you manage all the financial part of the election?—Yes, I did.

3442. Are you aware of one sixpence having been spent in anything but a legal and proper manner?—I do not know of so much as a penny. I have delivered my accounts to the sheriff, and I will swear that; those accounts include every penny that I have spent.

3443. You heard Sir Henry Stracey examined this morning, did you not?—I did.

3444. Did he give you the instructions which he stated he gave you as to the expenditure, and did he also inquire of you as to whether there had been any improper expenditure?—He did.

3445. Did he evince as sincere a desire as possible to prevent anything like an improper expenditure of money?—He did. I am quite sure, from what he told me, that if he had heard that one penny had been expended improperly he would have withdrawn.

3446. You say that you believe that?—He told me so, and I believe it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

3447. How long has Hardiment been a client of yours?—I should think for about three years.

3448. Did you know that he was going abroad?—I did not. I may say that I have done no business for him, I should think, for nine months.

3449. There is nothing going on between you now of any kind?—No business whatever.

3450. And you did not know that he was going abroad or away?—Not the slightest.

3451. I suppose you knew that he had gone away?—Until a day or two ago, when this petition commenced, I did not know that he was gone away.

3452. Were you aware that he was one of the persons to whom it was imputed that he had been guilty of bribery?—I was not aware that it had been imputed to him that he had been guilty of bribery until, I will not say the precise day, but I believe that I was not aware of it till the day his Lordship came here.

3453. You had no notion of it at all?—No.

3454. Was Hardiment one of the central committee?—He was not; there was no central committee.

3455. Was he in No. 8 committee room?—I am not aware that he was.

3456. Was not his name posted up as one of the committee-men?—Not that I am aware of.

3457. I may take it, I suppose, that as you only so recently knew about Hardiment, there have been no means taken to bring him home?—Certainly not; I am not conducting the defence here.

here, and therefore I have taken no part whatever in it.

3458. Mr. Baron Martin.] You are not engaged in this inquiry?—I am not engaged in defending the seat.

Re-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

3459. In fact, you know nothing about the case, or that Hardiment was implicated in any way?—Nothing whatever; he was not concerned in the election.

3460. Mr. Baron Martin.] You are not concerned in the petition as a professional man?—No, my Lord.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Rodwell stated that he was now going into the recriminatory case.

EDWARD HENRY ANDREWS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.

3461. Do you carry on the business of a Blacksmith?—Yes.

3462. Do you live in Magdalen-street, Norwich?—Yes.

3463. Is that in the Seventh Ward?—Yes; in the parish of St. Paul's.

3464. Is there a yard close to this street, called Morgan's-yard?—It joins the street.

3465. Did you vote at the election, or are you a voter?—Yes.

3466. For whom did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

3467. You were out and about upon the polling day, like other people?—Yes.

3468. In the course of the afternoon of that day did you go into Morgan's-yard?—I did.

3469. About what o'clock was it?—About two o'clock, as near as I can guess. There I saw Mr. Womersley.

3470. Besides Mr. Womersley, in Morgan's-yard, whom else did you see there; how many people?—Three or four people besides.

3471. Did you know them as voters?—I knew one of them.

3472. As a voter?—Yes.

3473. Do you know what his name was?—Henry Moore.

3474. Did you hear Mr. Womersley speaking to Moore, or Moore to Womersley?—I heard Womersley say to Moore, soliciting him for his vote, he said, "Go and vote at once; call upon me in a day or two afterwards, and I will oblige you with what you ask."

3475. What did Moore say to that?—Moore said, "he wanted it now"; he said, "I want it now."

3476. What did Womersley say in reply to that?—"I cannot give it to you now, my dear fellow, but call upon me in a day or two afterwards, and I will oblige you."

3477. Did you make any observation upon hearing this pass?—I went to Mr. Womersley directly, and told him that it was bribery.

3478. What did he say to that?—He said it was not; "Could not he oblige me, or that man, or any other man, without it being termed bribery."

3479. Did you say anything to Womersley about it, or about who he was?—Yes; I told him to act honourably with him, and that I knew him; I said, "Your name is Womersley, you live at Thorpe, and you are manager for Colman's Starch Mill."

3480. Did you tell Womersley who you were?—I told him to go further still; that my name was Andrews, and that I lived in Magdalen-street, and offered him my card.

3481. Did he accept it?—No.

3482. Had you seen Womersley about the City during the election?—Not previous.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

3483. How did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

3484. When this matter took place in Morgan's-yard, there were other persons present, were there?—Yes.

3485. Did you know them?—Only one; I knew one man that was standing against the door.

3486. Who was that?—Henry Moore was the one that I knew up the yard; but one was standing against the yard to keep the yard, as I suppose, clear.

3487. Was that Smith?—No.

3488. Was it Kitton?—No.

3489. Do you know the people; I mean, Smith or Kitton?—Yes.

3490. Was either of them there?—I did not see them.

3491. Could they have been there without your seeing them?—I did not notice that they were; I did not see them.

3492. Could they have been quite close by you without your seeing them?—It was according to which way I was looking.

3493. Do you mean to represent that they may have been close to you, and you not see them?—They might have been; I do not say close; if they had been close, I must have seen them.

3494. I mean so close that they could hear everything that passed?—I should say not.

3495. Will you swear that they were not close?—No; I will not swear, for I did not see them.

3496. Did you call at Womersley's house about a fortnight ago?—No.

3497. Is Moore here?—I believe he is.

[The Witness withdrew.

3500. Leading out of Magdalen-street?—Yes.

3501. Were you there on the afternoon of the polling day?—Yes.

8.

3502. At what time?—Just at three o'clock, or somewhere about three o'clock.

3503. When you went there, did you see other persons in the yard?—Yes.

3504. Can you tell me the names of any of these persons?—Yes.

K

3505. Who

J. Nichols.

J. Nichols. 3505. Who was one of them?—Mr. Womersley was one of them.
 18 January 1869. 3506. Give me another?—Mr. Smith was one.
 3507. Do you know a man of the name of Moore?—Yes.
 3508. Was he there?—Yes.
 3509. Did you hear any conversation there, between Womersley and Moore?—Yes.
 3510. Who began it?—They wanted 5 s.
 3511. Who?—Mr. Moore.
 3512. Mr. Baron Martin.] Moore wanted 5 s.?—Yes.
 3513. Mr. O'Malley.] What did Womersley say?—He said, if he would go and vote, he might call upon him to-morrow, or another day, and he would oblige him with what he asked for.
 3514. Do you know a man of the name of Andrews?—Yes.
 3515. Did you see the last witness?—Yes.
 3516. Was he there at this time?—Yes.
 3517. Did you hear him say anything?—Yes.
 3518. What did he say?—He asked Mr. Womersley whether it was bribery; and he said, "No, that is nothing;" that is what Mr. Womersley said.
 3519. What did Andrews say to that?—He said, "I know you, Mr. Womersley, you work for Mr. Colman's, you are foreman at those works"; he said, "My name is Andrews, the blacksmith, here is my card," but he refused to take it.
 Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.
 3520. When did you mention this matter to anyone?—That afternoon.

3521. The same afternoon?—Yes.
 3522. Whom did you tell?—Mr. Andrews went up to the committee for him to come down directly.
 3523. He had heard that?—He did not know that the men were in Morgan's-yard till I went and told him.
 3524. Then Andrews came down?—Yes; along with me.
 3525. After Womersley had come in?—No; I heard them in the yard, and went to the committee-room.
 3526. Have you been staying in Norwich since that time?—Yes.
 3527. Ever since?—Yes.
 3528. You are sure about that, are you?—Yes.
 3529. You swear that you have been in Norwich since that time?—Yes.
 3530. And you have not been staying anywhere else?—No; I have not been out of the city.
 3531. Have you not been staying at Yarmouth?—No.
 3532. Did you see Kitten there?—On the opposite side, along with Jerrold.

Re-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

3533. How far were they off?—Fifteen or 16 yards.

3534. Was he alone?—There was a man of the name of Gerrold, they tell me, and Mr. Smith, and Mr. Womersley, went and joined Mr. Kitten's company.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HENRY MOORE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Rodwell.

H. Moore. 3535. WHAT is your name?—Henry Moore.
 3536. What are you?—A Weaver.
 3537. Where do you live?—In Paddick on Silver-road.
 3538. Are you a voter?—Yes.
 3539. Were you canvassed by any one for your vote?—When I was there in the afternoon, I saw a man standing there, and I said, "I will go and vote."
 3540. Were you canvassed for your vote by any one; were you asked to vote?—No, I was not.
 3541. No one asked you to vote?—No; only one man.
 3542. Who was it?—Mr. Chapman; he said, "Which way are you going to vote?"
 3543. What time of the day was this?—Before eight o'clock in the morning.
 3544. What did you tell him on the election day?—I told him that I was going to vote for Sir William Russell or Mr. Tillet; one of the two.
 3545. What time did you vote?—It might have been I was a little intoxicated; at three or half-past three o'clock.
 3546. You added something; what was it?—I was a little intoxicated.
 3547. For whom did you vote?—For Mr. Russell.
 3548. Whom did you go to the poll with?—Nobody; I walked up alone.

3549. Where did you come from?—I had been standing about the street, close by Mr. Morgan's pawn shop.
 3550. Is there a yard next to Mr. Morgan's pawn shop?—Joining on to it.
 3551. How came you to go to Mr. Morgan's yard?—I went to Mr. Morgan; when I said, "I will go and vote," two gentlemen came and said, "Which way are you going to vote?"
 3552. What did you go to Mr. Morgan's yard for?—I will tell you if you will give me the liberty to tell you.
 3553. I want that information?—I am telling you.
 3554. What did you go there for?—I got called in the yard.
 3555. Where were you when you were called in?—I might be a yard or a couple of yards from the yard.
 3556. What took you within a yard or two of Mr. Morgan's yard; how came you to go there?—I had been standing about there.
 3557. How long had you been standing about there?—Not but a very few minutes; I had not been staying about there.
 3558. Where did you come from to there?—Close against the Golden Dog-lane.
 3559. Did you come from the workhouse there?—No.
 3560. Where had you been getting intoxicated?—At Mr. Cooper's.

3561. What

3561. What is the sign of his house?—The “Man Loaded with Mischief.”

3562. Did you go alone up to Mr. Morgan’s door?—Within a yard or two of Mr. Morgan’s yard. There were several in the yard.

3563. Did you go up there by yourself?—I went in the yard, but there were several in all, at one time.

3564. Did you go there alone?—There was two.

3565. Who went with you?—That I cannot tell; I only go by their saying; I did not know the men.

3566. Neither of them?—Neither of them; I never saw them before in my life.

3567. Have you seen them since?—No.

3568. How came you to go to Mr. Morgan’s yard with those two strangers?—When they came and asked me, “which side do you vote for?” I said, “That is my business,” and I went walking on, and one of them said, “Come here, let me speak to you”; he said, “who are you going to vote for?” And I said, “I shall vote for Tillet or Russell.” “That is right,” he said, “go and vote like a man, for principle,” and I said, “I think that every man ought to have 5 s. for his day’s work; every man.” “That is right, go and vote like a man”; he said, “I dare not give you a farthing,” and we came out of the yard.

3569. Did you get the 5 s.?—Certainly not; he said, he “dare not give a farthing”; I said, “I did not say you durst”; I said, “Every man ought to be paid 5 s. for his day’s work.”

3570. Were you waiting to be paid before you voted?—No, certainly not.

3571. Then you went up to vote?—Yes; I went up to vote; it might be half an hour afterwards; I stood about the street till I thought proper to go my way home, and I voted, as I went.

3572. Do you know a man of the name of Henry Edward Andrews, a blacksmith?—I know a blacksmith in Magdalen-street, I do not know whether that is the man.

3573. Do you know the man?—I should know him if it is the man I saw here this morning.

3574. Do you recollect his coming up?—I do not remember it.

3575. Will you swear that he did not come up to the men that spoke to you?—Certainly; I will not swear that he did not.

3576. Do you remember whether it was Andrews or not, who came up when you talked about the 5 s., and said something about bribery?—I do not remember it.

3577. Will you swear that he did not come up?—I will swear that.

3578. Did no one come up?—I will swear that no one never asked them to give any money.

3579. When you had this conversation about the 5 s.; or whatever it was, do you remember anybody coming up and saying anything?—I think there was a man of the name of Seeman, who came up at the same time.

3580. I am talking of Andrews; did you see him come up?—I did not.

3581. Will you swear that he did not come up?—Certainly not.

3582. Will you swear that he did not say to the men you were speaking to, “That is bribery”?—I never heard any such word.

3583. Will you swear that he did not say that?

8.

—No, I will not swear that he never said it, but I never heard it.

3584. Do you remember a man being there, and taking a card out of his pocket?—I do not remember it.

3585. Did you see one man offer a card out of his pocket to another man?—No, I do not remember it.

3586. Will you swear that you did not see it?—I can swear that I do not remember any such thing.

3587. But you will not swear that it did not take place?—I do not remember it.

3588. Were you very drunk at the time?—I was intoxicated.

3589. Were you very bad?—Yes; I was; I had been ill for a long time, and a little beer took effect upon me.

3590. You cannot tell us which man, or who it was whom you asked for those 5 s.?—I never asked for 5 s.

3591. You said that just now, did not you?—I did not; I said, “A man ought to be paid 5 s. for his day’s work,” those were my words. “I dare not give a farthing,” he said. I said, “I did not say you durst.”

3592. What did he say to that?—We came out of the yard.

3593. Was anything said after the election was over?—I never heard anything.

3594. Will you swear that it was not said?—No, I will not swear that it was not said; but I never heard it.

3595. Will you swear that these words were not spoken to a man that you were talking to: “Come my good fellow to me to-morrow, and you shall have what you ask”?—I never heard any such thing.

3596. Will you swear that it was not said?—No; I will not swear that it was not said, but I will swear that I never heard it.

3597. Have you tried to find out who those two men were?—No. I never thought any more about it till this paper came here. I have kept to my work, and I did not trouble anything about it.

3598. Have you not seen a single person about this matter?—No; I do not know a man.

3599. Have you seen any one at all, or been to any one about what took place in Morgan’s yard?—Yes; Mr. Webb and Mr. Jervis, and another man, but I cannot recall his name.

3600. When did you go to them?—I did not go to them; they came to me.

3601. Was there anybody else besides those three; have you been to anyone else about this matter?—No.

3602. Not anyone?—No.

3603. You are positive of that, are you?—Yes.

3604. Have you been to Mr. Colman’s starch manufactory about this?—I was never in the place in my life.

3605. Have you been nowhere about this at all; about what took place at Morgan’s yard?—Not anywhere.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

3606. I observe that my learned friend did not go much further into it. When Mr. Webb and Mr. Jarvis came to you, what did they want with you?—They came and asked me what I knew about Morgan’s yard, and I said the same as I have now stated.

K 2

3607. Did

H. Moore.

18 January
1869.

H. Moore. 3607. Did you tell them what you have told us to-day?—Yes, the same.
 18 January 3608. What did they say?—They said, “You must know something different to that.” I said, “Do you want me to tell a lie, or what?”
 1869. 3609. And what did they say?—They got angry, and so did I, and I said, “Don’t get angry, I am telling you the truth”; that is what I said.

3610. You told them the same story that you have told us to-day?—Yes; I told the same story.

3611. Are you sure that you never went to the house of Mr. Womersley?—I do not know where the man lives; I never knew the man.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. JOSEPH METCALFE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.

J. Metcalfe. 3612. Do you reside in Peacock-street, in the Seventh Ward in this City?—Yes.
 3613. You are an elector, I suppose?—Yes.
 3614. Did you happen to be passing by Morgan’s yard on the afternoon of the polling day, and did you go into the yard?—Yes.
 3615. Did you, on going into the yard, see some people there?—I saw three or four there.
 3616. Did you know any of them?—I did not know any of the parties that were there, but I knew a gentleman that was with them.
 3617. What was the name of that gentlemen?—Smith was one of them.
 3618. Was there anybody else?—Mr. Womersley was outside.
 3619. Did you hear Mr. Womersley speak to those persons there?—I heard him speak to one outside, that came out of the yard.
 3620. Did you see the witness who has been examined just now, there?—I saw him, the man that I passed.
 3621. Was he one of the men in the yard?—No.
 3622. Was he outside the yard?—I went and fetched him, Mr. Andrews, I mean.
 3623. You went and fetched Mr. Andrews?—Yes, from the committee-room.
 3624. Mr. Baron Martin.] From where?—From the committee-room, or I met him at the outside.
 3625. Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.] When you and Mr. Andrews went to Morgan’s yard, was Mr. Womersley there then?—Yes; outside on the pavement.
 3626. Now, tell us the whole of what you heard Mr. Womersley say to any of those people about voting?—He told this man he “might as well vote first as last.”

3627. What did the man say to that?—I could not hear what he said; he whispered something to him.

3628. Who whispered something to him?—This man.

3629. To whom?—To Mr. Womersley.

3630. Did you hear Mr. Womersley say anything to him after he had whispered to Womersley?—Yes.

3631. Will you oblige me by telling me what it was?—He said, “I cannot promise you to-day, but I will to-morrow, or some other day.”

3632. Did you hear Andrews say anything to Womersley upon this taking place?—Mr. Andrews said, “That is bribery.”

3633. He said that to Mr. Womersley?—Yes; “a case of bribery.”

3634. Go on; what else was said?—Mr. Womersley said, “Why can’t I oblige him, or you, or any other man?”

3635. What did Mr. Andrews say to that?—He said, “I know you, your name is Womersley, and my name is Andrews.”

3636. He offered him his card, did he not?—Yes, which he did not accept.

3637. What became of this man who had been whispering to Mr. Womersley?—I left, and then they went back to the committee.

3638. You left them in the yard, did you?—Outside.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine stated, that he had no question to put to the witness.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. WILLIAM NEWTON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.

Mr. W. Newton. 3639. Do you live in Barrack-street, Pockthorpe?—Yes.
 3640. Is there a public-house in that neighbourhood called the “Marquis of Granby,” and kept by John Mackley?—Yes.
 3641. On the day of the election, the polling, were you at that public house?—Yes.
 Mr. Baron Martin.] It is not the same man that keeps the “Woollpack,” is it?
 Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.] No, my Lord.
 3642. (To the Witness). When did you first go to the public house?—Between twelve and one o’clock.
 3643. In the course of that afternoon were there other people who were voters there, besides you?—Yes, there were about five or six there when we first went in.
 3644. You are a voter, are you?—Yes.
 3645. Do you know the names of any of the persons who were there upon your first visit?—Yes; when I first went there, I was along with five or six men; Mr. Dent, Laws, Mr. Moy, and Mr. Edwards.

3646. Was there anybody else?—Mr. Moy, and myself.

3647. Did any of those men, or anybody else, there call you out of the room and speak to you?—Yes; I was called out of the room, and we went into a back yard.

3648. Who were “we”?—The men whom I have mentioned; Mr. Laws, Mr. Moy, Mr. Dent, and me; we walked into a yard along with the gentlemen.

3649. Who called you out into the yard?—Mr. Womersley, and Mr. Smith, and Mr. Brownfield.

3650. Did any one of those gentlemen speak to you in the yard?—Yes; they asked us whether we were voters.

3651. Who did?—The three gentlemen that were there; and we said, “Yes, we was”; some of us what was there were voters; but not all of them.

3652. Go

3652. Go on?—They asked us “whether we had voted,” and we said, “No, we have not voted;” and they asked us “what we wanted,” and we told them “we wanted 2 l. each;” and they said, “It was too much”; they said, “Perhaps if we waited half-an-hour perhaps we might get 1 l.”

3653. Can you tell me which of the gentlemen said that?—No, I could not be on my oath, as they were talking together; they all appeared to me to be speaking at one time, so I could not say which it was.

3654. They were all together, were they?—Yes, in the yard.

3655. What became of you then, after they said if you were to wait half-an-hour you might get 1 l.; was anything said to you by either of them as to what you were to do?—They told us to go inside, and we went inside, and we had some beer.

3656. Did you pay for it?—No.

3657. You went inside; where do you mean?—In the tap-room.

3658. Do you know what became of those gentlemen?—They went round out of the back way; where they went to, I do not know.

3659. Before they went away, did either of them say anything to you about other voters?—They asked us “whether we knew of any more voters,” and we said, “Yes.”

3660. Was there anything more said?—When I went into the house, after I was there a short time, there were several men come into the room; the room was pretty well full; after 20 minutes or half-an-hour, there might be 20 or 30.

3661. Did you know them to be voters, or most of them?—There was a great many who had votes, and parties who had not votes at all.

3662. Did you see anything of either of those gentlemen whom you have named presently; afterwards?—No; I did not see any more of them; I never spoke to any of them after that.

3663. How long did you wait in the tap-room?—I think I might have waited, from the time that I went in, for about an hour, and then I left the place.

3664. Did either of those gentlemen, after you had waited there for about an hour, before you left the place, come back; did one come back?—No; I never saw anything more of them.

3665. With respect to the other men who were in the room when it was pretty nearly full; was any drinking going on?—Yes; we had some beer to drink.

3666. Did you see any of them pay for it?—I saw none of them pay for it; I do not know who paid for it.

3667. As to this house called the “Marquis of Granby,” what house was that; a “Tillett” house?—That I could not say; people who voted for the Whig party was at this house.

3668. Have you been in Norwich ever since the election, or have you been away part of the time at Yarmouth?—I have been at Yarmouth some of the time since the election.

Mr. Baron Martin.] What has that to do with it?

Mr. Rodwell.] You will hear, my Lord.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

3669. Did you vote for Sir Henry Stracey, or for whom?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

3670. Most of the other people who were in that house voted in the same way, did they not?—That I cannot say.

3671. Do not you know whether they did or not?—No; some of them voted for Sir Henry Stracey, and some for the other party.

3672. Did you see a man of the name of Deans there?—If he was there, I could not swear to him; there were many people, and I do not know.

3673. Was Mr. Stevens there?—I do not know.

3674. I want to know whether you people did get any money?—I never received anything, and I never saw anybody else take anything.

[The Witness withdrew.

WILLIAM MOY, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Malley.

3675. Do you live at the “Seven Stars,” Pockthorpe?—I live down that yard.

3676. Do you know the “Marquis of Granby”?—Yes.

3677. Which is kept by Mr. Mackley?—Yes.

3678. Were you there on the day of the election?—Yes.

3679. What time did you go there?—At half-past 12 o'clock.

3680. And you remained there, I suppose, some time?—For an hour and a-half or an hour and a-quarter.

3681. Did you see a number of persons there?—They was not there when I was there.

3682. But while you were there?—Yes.

3683. Can you tell me the names of some of them?—Yes; I saw several gentlemen that I knew; Mr. Smith, Mr. Womersley, Mr. Brownfield, Mr. Herring, and Mr. Campling.

3684. Those were the gentlemen you knew; now the others?—I saw one of them; I did not know all of them; I saw Laws there; I saw Mr. Butcher; that is all I knew.

3685. Did you see the last witness, Mr. Newton, there?—Yes.

3686. While you were there, did any of those gentlemen come in and speak to you?—Yes; they came and asked me; not only me; they asked “what we wanted”?

3687. Mr. Baron Martin.] Who were “they”?—I saw Mr. Brownfield come in.

3688. He spoke to you?—No; he came in and spoke to the whole of us.

3689. Mr. Brownfield spoke to you?—Yes.

3690. Mr. O'Malley.] What did he say?—He asked us “what we were all waiting for”; he said, “Are you all voters”?

3691. You said before that there were some gentlemen, and you mentioned their names; now you say that Mr. Brownfield came in and spoke?—Yes.

3692. Were those other gentlemen with Mr. Brownfield?—Some were outside, and some were in the backyard; they were not altogether.

3693. Can you mention some of those who were with Mr. Brownfield?—Yes, but not inside the house; I never saw them in with Mr. Brownfield; I see Mr. Smith standing in the door; when Mr. Brownfield spoke he was along with Mr. Barber.

3694. Now give me another?—Mr. Womersley stood in the back yard along with several more.

Wm. Moy.

Wm. Moy.
18 January
1869.

3695. Did you go into the back yard?—Yes; after Mr. Brownfield came in.

3696. When you went into the backyard with Mr. Brownfield, what was said?—They said, "Are you all voters?"

3697. Mr. Baron Martin.] Who was it that spoke in the backyard?—Several of them; not one alone.

3698. Mr. O'Malley.] What did the others say?—We said, "Yes, all but about two or three"; they said, "What are you stopping for?" And they said, "To get paid for our day's work."

3699. Did you go out then?—Yes, I stood against the door.

3700. Were you drinking beer there?—Yes.

3701. Did the others drink also?—Yes.

3702. Did you pay for it?—I never paid for anything.

3703. About the talking in the backyard, what else happened?—I told them that we wanted 2*l*. for our day's work.

3704. Who did you tell?—I told them all; they were altogether then.

3705. You told them all, did you?—Yes, three or four of them; I do not say that they were all there. They said "they could not think about giving on it to us." Mr. Barber came to me and said, "You had better stop about 20 minutes, and I think you will get 1*l*."

3706. At the "Marquis of Granby," which party was it for?—The Liberal party; Mr. Mackley hired it.

Cross examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

3707. Which way did you vote?—For Sir Henry Stracey.

3708. You waited 20 minutes, did you?—Yes.

Re-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

3709. Why did you wait 20 minutes?—Because if I could have got the money I should have taken it.

[The Witness withdrew.]

GEORGE ENGALL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Rodwell.

G. Engall.

3710. You are a voter for Norwich?—Yes.

3711. Where do you live?—In St. George's, Middle-street.

3712. Do you remember the day of the election?—Yes.

3713. Do you know the "Marquis of Granby," which was kept by John Mackley?—Yes.

3714. Were you there on the day of the election?—No, the Thursday after.

3715. Mr. Baron Martin.] The election was on the Tuesday, was it not?—I believe it was.

3716. Mr. Rodwell.] You say that you were not there on the day of the election?—No, the Thursday after, with a stock of rabbits on my back; I am a rabbit seller.

3717. Have you seen Mr. Wormersley since the day of election?—No; I do not know him.

WILLIAM DENT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.

Wm. Dent.

3718. ARE you a voter?—No.

3719. Do you live at Pockthorpe?—Yes.

3720. What ward is that in?—The seventh Ward, I believe.

3721. Do you know the "Marquis of Granby," kept by Mackley?—Yes.

3722. Did you happen to go there on the day of the polling?—Yes.

3723. About what o'clock?—Between 12 and 1 o'clock.

3724. Did you find any people there?—Yes, there were several people.

3725. Voters?—Yes, they were nearly all voters, I believe.

3726. And some not, I suppose?—Yes.

3727. Were there any gentlemen whom you knew by name?—I knew two or three; Mr. Wormersley, and Mr. Smith, and Mr. Brownfield.

3728. Did you hear either of those gentlemen say anything to the people who were voters?—They asked whether they were all voters.

3729. Who did?—Mr. Brownfield and Mr. Smith, and Mr. Wormersley too.

3730. What did they say?—They says, "Yes."

3731. Was anything asked about whom they were going to vote for?—They asked if they had voted, and they said, "No."

3732. Were those gentlemen all together?—In the back yard.

3733. When they said they had not voted, was anything else asked of them, whether they were going to vote?—They said they wanted to be paid for their day's work.

3734. Did anybody ask them what they wanted?—Mr. Brownfield and Mr. Smith asked what they wanted. They said 2*l*. They said that they was to remain, and if they waited 20 minutes they might perhaps get 1*l*.

3735. What became of the gentlemen after they said that, after they asked them to wait 20 minutes?—They went away; I never see no more of them.

3736. Just tell me about how many were there all together, as well as you can remember, at the time this conversation took place; how many voters I mean?—Between 20 and 30 there might be.

3737. Was there any beer drinking going on? Yes, there was a little beer on the way.

3738. Did you see anybody pay for it?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

3739. Was Dr. Allen in your room at all?—I never see him.

3740. Whom did you vote for?—I have no vote; I did not vote at all.

3741. Did you wait?—I waited half-an-hour and more.

3742. To see if any sovereign came?—No, I never see no money at all.

3743. When somebody said, "Wait, and you may get 1*l*," who did you say was present; was Mr. Brownfield present?—Mr. Brownfield and Mr. Smith.

JAMES TOMLINSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.

3744. You reside at Pockthorpe?—Yes.
3745. Were you at the “Marquis of Granby” on the polling day?—Yes, I was at work for Mr. Mackley at the time that morning.

3746. Towards the afternoon of that day, were there many people in and out of that house?—Yes, up to 40 or 50.

3747. Voters and non-voters, I suppose?—Yes, but the biggest part voters.

3748. Did you see any gentlemen there whom you knew by name?—Yes.

3749. Tell me who they were?—Mr. Womersley, Mr. Smith, the chemist, and Dr. Brownfield.

3750. Did you hear either of those gentlemen say anything to any of the men who were there?—Mr. Smith came into the yard to me, and axed me where the men were; whether Mr. Mackley had them in his house? I said, “There is no men here; if you want men,” I says, “you can soon have them.” He said, “Go. and fetch the lot”; he said, “I want to see them.”

3751. What did you do upon that?—I went; I left my employment, and went and waited on Mr. Smith, and told a lot of men there was some gentleman wanted to see them at Mr. Mackley’s, for what purpose I did not know.

3752. Were they voters?—Yes.

3753. Where did you find them?—Some in one public-house and some in another.

3754. When you brought them up to Mackley’s, to the “Marquis of Granby,” did you find Dr. Brownfield and the other gentleman, Mr.

Smith, there then?—No, I did not; I see Mr. Womersley walking outside the door with a great stick in his hand, but where Mr. Smith was I do not know. J. Tomlinson.
18 January 1869.

3755. Did you hear either of the gentlemen you have named speak to those people whom you brought to the house, the voters?—No, I did not hear them speak to them, but the job was this, that we were to have 2*l.* a-piece.

3756. Who said anything about 2*l.*?—It was mentioned among the people that was there that we should have 2*l.*

3757. Was anything said by any of the gentlemen about it?—If we waited 20 minutes we should get 1*l.*

3758. Who said that?—I am not able to say what gentleman said it; it was told to me by the voters.

3759. Just tell me this, did any gentleman pull his watch out?—Yes.

3760. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Was that told to you?—No; I see the watch pulled out.

3761. Mr. Serjeant Sleigh.] Who was it pulled his watch out?—I am not able to say.

3762. Was it one of the gentlemen whose names you have given us to-day?—No, I do not think it was.

Cross-examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

3763. Which way did you vote?—I never voted at all.

JACOB WATSON, sworn; Examined by Mr. O’Malley.

3764. ARE you a Marine Store Dealer?—Yes.

3765. Are you a voter in Norwich?—Yes.

3766. Where is your place of business?—Lower Westbrook-street, St. Lawrence.

3767. What ward is that?—The Second Ward.

3768. What time in the day did you vote?—It was either a quarter past three or half-past three; I cannot say.

3769. Before that had you said anything about which way you meant to vote?—No.

3770. Before you voted, did any men come down to you to your place?—Yes.

3771. Can you tell me what their names were?—I can tell what name one gentleman’s was; it was Mr. Boyce.

3772. With Mr. Boyce who else came?—I do not know the gentleman’s name; I do not know that ever I had seen him before that; I mean the one along with Mr. Boyce.

3773. Before they came to you, had you not said something about which way you went to vote?—No.

3774. About which way you did not mean to vote?—I left them, and did not say anything at all about which way I intended to vote.

3775. What did you say you told them?—When they came to me, I did not tell them any way that I intended to vote.

3776. Not then, but before?—I had no one solicit me for my vote till Mr. Boyce came and the other gentleman.

3777. What did Boyce say?—He asked me whether I would vote for Tillett, and I said “No, I had not made up my mind.” J. Watson.

3778. You had not made up your mind to vote for Tillett?—For Tillett and Russell.

3779. What did Boyce say then; did you not tell him why you had not made up your mind; what reason did you give him?—I told him he never obliged me in any way not in regard of doing business with me; for that reason I never intended to oblige him.

3780. Whom did you say that to?—To Mr. Boyce.

3781. When the other man was there?—Yes.

3782. Had Mr. Boyce had any dealings with you?—No.

3783. But the other man, had he?—No.

3784. What did you mean by that, then?—About 12 months ago I used to supply Mr. Boyce’s firm or Mr. Bullard’s firm.

3785. Who is Mr. Bullard?—Mr. Bullard, the brewer.

3786. Mr. Bullard was there with Mr. Boyce, was he not?—No.

3787. You had supplied Mr. Bullard’s firm?—Yes, with mops; and I said that I did not see that I had any occasion to oblige him, being as he did not oblige me.

3788. How was it that he did not oblige you?—At one time I used to supply him with materials down at the brew office, and he did not take them of me; not the latter part of the time; he stopped taking them of me.

3789. And you said you would not vote for him?—I told him I would not oblige him in regard

J. Watson. gard to the vote. I had not made up my mind which way I would vote; I told that to Mr. Boyce.
 18 January 1869.

3790. After you told that to Mr. Boyce, did those men go away, Mr. Boyce and the others?—Yes, they did.

3791. Did they all go away?—Yes.

3792. Did one of them stop?—No, they both went away together, for there was some goods came to the shop, whereby I was obliged to wait upon the goods that came, to buy the goods that came to the shop, and of course the gentlemen went away, and left me to do my business.

3793. There were more than two with him, were there not?—No; they went away, and I never see no more of them for some time.

3794. Do you mean that Mr. Boyce and the other man came alone?—Yes, the first part of the time, about 11 or 12 o'clock.

3795. I am speaking of when Mr. Boyce came to you?—Yes, when they went away I got the got the goods that I bought, and they went away when the things come for me to buy at the shop; they left me to do my business at the shop.

3796. Who came to buy at the shop?—A lot of things came to the shop for me to buy.

3797. Who were the people?—People out of the country, with a cart-load of goods.

3798. But they were not the only people, were they?—Yes, they were the only people.

3799. Did Mr. Boyce come in again in the course of that day?—No, I never see no more of Mr. Boyce that day.

3800. Whom did you vote for?—Mr. Tillett and Russell.

3801. What made you change your mind?—I said I had not made up my mind which way I should vote for.

3802. What made you make up your mind then?—There was no particular reason at all.

3803. Between the time when Mr. Boyce called upon you and you voted, did you not see Mr. Bullard?—I see one of the Bullards.

3804. What time of the day did you see that one Mr. Bullard?—I cannot say; I see him some time in the forenoon, and then at that time I was busy.

3805. When you saw that Mr. Bullard, he spoke to you, did he not?—He asked me whether I had not voted; I told him, "No, I had not voted, I was busy"; he said, "Have you made up your mind to vote?"

3806. What did you say?—I told him, "No, I had not made up my mind to vote."

3807. You told him the reason why, I suppose?—No, I did not, then.

3808. Why not?—He never asked me any question about the reason why I did not intend to vote.

3809. What did Mr. Bullard say to you?—He asked me whether I had voted, and I said, "I have not made up my mind yet."

3810. Did he say anything more?—He said, "Will you oblige me;" I said, "I will not oblige you."

3811. Did you not say you would oblige him if he would oblige you?—I said so to Mr. Boyce.

3812. Had you said that to Mr. Boyce before you saw Mr. Bullard?—Yes; I said that to Mr. Boyce in the fore part of the forenoon.

3813. That you would oblige Mr. Boyce if Mr. Bullard would oblige you?—No; I did not say anything at all about Mr. Bullard.

3814. Mr. Boyce and Mr. Bullard are partners, are they not?—Yes, they are.

3815. The same concern?—Yes, I believe they are.

3816. You said to Mr. Boyne, "If he would oblige you"?—I said, the firm never obliged me.

3817. Then Mr. Boyce told you he would oblige you?—No, he did not.

3818. Then how came you to vote?—I voted to oblige Mr. Colman, the grocer; he came with Mr. Bullard at the latter part of the forenoon; and he came to me and said, "Watson, have you voted?" I said, "No"; he said, "Why is the reason you have not voted"; I said, "I have not made up my mind to vote at all"; he said, "You better oblige me, for I very often oblige you with changing cheques for you, and so on, and for that reason"; he says, "Come in and vote along with me"; and me and Mr. Colman went up to the Cross, and I voted for Tillett and Russell. I did not vote at all to oblige Mr. Bullard's people.

3819. Though you said you would?—I said I would not oblige Mr. Bullard's people. I obliged Colman, the grocer, by voting.

Mr. Rodwell.] I believe, my Lord, on this part of the case, that is all the evidence I have to offer. Of course there are other cases that we have for another purpose, but with regard to this recriminatory charge, that is all the evidence which I think it worth while to lay before your Lordship.

Mr. Baron Martin.] Am I to understand you to say that your case is closed with regard to what we may call the preliminary inquiry as to the capacity of Sir Henry Stracey to be elected and returned, and the capacity of the Petitioner, Mr. Tillett, to be elected and returned?

Mr. Rodwell.] That is all; I have no other witnesses to call.

Mr. JOSHUA WORMERSLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

Mr. J. Wormersley.

3820. WHAT are you?—I am a Paper Maker.

3821. And do you live in Norwich?—I live in Norwich.

3822. Were you active on the day of the election?—I was active.

3823. Are you a friend of Mr. Tillett's, and a warm supporter of him?—I am a friend of Mr. Tillett's.

3824. And a supporter of the Liberal party?—And a supporter of the Liberal party.

3825. You, I suppose, divided your vote?—I divided my vote.

3826. Upon the day of the election, was some information given you in relation to what was going on at the "Marquis of Granby"?—There was an intimation given me.

3827. There was some intimation given you in consequence of which did you call upon Smith, at shop?—I did not come to his shop; I called at Mr. Kitton's.

3828. Besides you, Mr. Kitton, and Mr. Smith; was anybody else with you?—I and Mr. Smith, Mr. Kitton, and Mr. Brownfield, we all, I believe,

I believe, went, along with Mr. Harper (I think he was with us), to the "Marquis of Granby."

3829. When you were at the "Marquis of Granby," did you find any men there?—Very few.

3830. But you found some?—I found some there.

3831. Did either you or Mr. Brownfield say, or was anything said, about 2 l., in your hearing?—I never heard such a thing mentioned; neither 2 l. nor yet 1 l.

3832. Did either you or Mr. Smith, or Mr. Brownfield, or Mr. Harper, in your presence, say anything about waiting for 20 minutes, and then they might get the pound?—I never heard such a thing.

3833. Is there one word of truth in it?—Not a bit of truth; it is a fabrication from beginning to end.

3834. After leaving the "Marquis of Granby," did you go to Morgan's-yard?—Mr. Smith and I went arm-in-arm down Magdalen-street, and as we were going down Magdalen-street, there was some one came up to us, and said, "Here is a voter."

3835. Did you see Mr. Kitton?—Mr. Kitton was with us, I believe.

3836. You do not quite recollect; but, at all events, Mr. Smith was with you?—Yes; he had hold of my arm.

3837. Did you go to Morgan's-yard?—Yes; we went to Morgan's-yard.

3838. What for; was it in consequence of what had been said to you?—It was in consequence of what had been said to us.

3839. When at Morgan's yard, did you promise, or did anybody in your presence promise, anything to those people for their vote?—There was not anything mentioned about a promise in any shape or form.

3840. By any one of you?—Not by any one of us.

3841. Or to anybody?—Not to anybody; I never heard of it.

3842. Did you promise it?—Not at all.

3843. There is a man of the name of Moore, (I think that is the man's name who has been sworn) who was called?—Yes; he is a voter; he is a man who was brought to us by two or three, who was waiting, and they would say, "Here is a voter."

3844. What state was he in?—I think he was intoxicated; he spoke very low and very hoarse.

3845. So he did to-day?—I thought he was intoxicated; he seemed like it.

3846. What was said about Moore; they said, "Here is a voter"?—Yes; "Here is a voter that has not voted;" I said, "Go and vote, my man."

3847. Did anything else take place?—He said something about he wanted 5 s. for a day's work, and I said, "I shall not give you a farthing."

3848. And did you say anything to him, or in his hearing, about if he waited a day or two, or that you might in a day or two give him the money?—Not at all; not a word of the sort was said.

3849. Not that you might oblige him in a day or two?—I never said such a thing, and never heard such a thing mentioned.

3850. You had no sort of instruction, I presume, either to promise or to pay a single farthing?—Not any instruction at all, and we kept to it all day. We never paid a farthing; I do not believe there was a farthing spent at all.

3851. Or a promise?—Or a promise.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rodwell.

3852. Do you recollect a person coming up, and saying to you, "Here is my card"?—I do not remember seeing a card.

3853. Do you recollect a person coming up, and saying to you, "Here is my card"?—I do not recollect such a thing. Such a thing was never put before me, to my recollection.

3854. You say, to your recollection, of course that is tantamount to saying that it never did take place?—I do not know for that.

3855. I really do not quite understand you?—I do not recollect such a thing.

3856. Do you mean to say that it is possible that a person may have offered you a card, and said, "My name is Andrews," and you have forgotten it?—There was a lot of people round about at the time, and there was a good deal of excitement, and I do not remember a card being presented to me. I never saw a card, to my recollection, presented to me by anybody.

3857. Do you know Andrews?—I do not know Andrews. I know this person that calls himself Andrews. I saw him that day, and I have seen him here this morning, and so of course I know him.

3858. Andrews is his name?—I suppose it is if he says so. I know no more about it than that.

3859. Did any one come and say to you, "That is bribery, Mr. Wormersley"?—I cannot recollect it; it may have been said so. There was a good deal said; I did not pay any regard to anything of the kind.

3860. When you were in Morgan's yard, do you remember or do you not remember a person coming up and saying, "Mr. Wormersley, I know you; that is bribery"?—A person never said to me in Morgan's yard, and I do not remember hearing such a thing said as "That is bribery" during the day of the election. I say so positively on my oath.

3861. You say that that never did take place?—Mr. Smith was with me at the same time, and was close to my side, and if there was anything of that sort heard, he would hear it as well as myself.

3862. Did Andrews upon any other day say that it was bribery?—I have never seen Andrews from that day to this, till now.

3863. It might have been before?—Not before the election. I did not know there was such a man in existence.

3864. I understand you distinctly to deny what Andrews has said?—I deny it in toto.

3865. You do not mean that it is a question of memory?—It is not a question of memory, and I believe that I never saw the man.

3866. Have you known either of the other two men who were called since, Nichol, for instance?—No; they may have been there; there was a great crowd there at the time, because this voter was a little elevated, and he was brought to us by some people as we were passing, and I think the last word that was said to him was, "Go and vote," and we left him, and went away.

3867. You were at the "Marquis of Granby," we hear from Mr. Stephens, the first witness who was called?—I have told you so since I have been here.

L

3868. Who

Mr. J.
Wormersley.
18 January
1869.

Mr. J. Wormersley.
18 January 1869.

3868. Who went up with you there?—I have told you, Dr. Brownfield, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Harper.

3869. Was Dr. Brownfield an active person during the election?—I do not think he was. I believe he is one of the quietest men in an election that there is in Norwich.

3870. He exerted himself, did he not?—I do not think he did. He went with me to see if there were any voters; that was the only place I saw him that day.

3871. That was exerting himself?—That was not any exertion.

3872. Which ward did he belong to?—I do not know. I suppose the 7th Ward; he lives down that way.

3873. Was he on the committee?—I do not think he was.

3874. Did you see him in the central committee-room?—I do not think I did.

3875. Do you know Mr. Barber?—Yes.

3876. Did you on any occasion accompany him on the canvass?—Yes, I did.

3877. How many people did you canvass with Barber?—I cannot say.

3878. A good many?—Yes.

3879. You canvassed pretty nearly the whole of the ward with him?—Yes.

3880. Who else went with you?—I went mostly alone; but Barber went with me on one or two occasions.

3881. Were you aware that anything had been said before this election petition came on for trial, that you had been charged with having done anything improper in this Morgan's yard?—I am very sorry that I have been charged, and most scandalously so. There are two or three gentlemen here who ought to have been ashamed of themselves. That is what I say.

3882. I have nothing to do with them, of course?—I shall have something to do with them.

3883. Have you heard this charge before?—Yes, I have heard this charge before, many times, and I had a person come to me when I was going out of here the other day; he has been a witness to-day; he put his fist in my face last Friday in a most abominable way; I expect he was employed by some of them, I will not say by whom. I have been treated most shamefully, and it is a disgrace to Norwich that a respectable man should be imposed upon as I have been.

3884. Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.] Do you know what man it was?—He gave his evidence here to-day.

3885. Mr. Baron Martin.] Has he been a witness here to-day?—Yes, I believe he was the first witness called; I should know him again if I saw him.

Mr. Baron Martin stated that it had better be understood that if any person insulted any of the witnesses who had given evidence before the Court, he would send them to prison.

3886. Mr. Rodwell.] Whilst they are looking for that witness, perhaps you can tell me this; have you had any communication with Moore at all, the man who was called here to-day?—I do not remember. There was a person came to me last Sunday week night, and called me out; it was, I suppose, about nine o'clock, and I went into the passage of my house. Outside the house there is a passage.

Henry Edward Andrews came into Court.

3887. Is that the man?—That is not the man.

3888. Who was that man who came to you on Sunday?—I do not know his name; I could not see the man; it was dark; but I will tell you what he said.

3889. I know nothing about it; it may be something private, for all I know?—I will let you know, if you ask for it. He told me that there was three or four persons paid 5 s. a piece to go to Yarmouth to be kept there out of the way, and to come up here on evidence if they was wanted, and that he was subpoenaed; and they came and wanted him to identify a man, and described me to him; and he said he could not recollect such a man. This man said, "Do you remember Morgan's yard?" and I said, "I do remember Morgan's yard." He said, "These three men said to me, 'Was not there a person spoke to you about your vote?' and he said, 'Yes, there was somebody spoke to me about my vote,' and he said, 'Was not there somebody asked you about giving him something after the election?' and he said, 'There was no person came to me and gave me anything of that sort.' I told him that if he was subpoenaed, he must go and speak the truth, and nothing but the truth.

3890. Did not you find out his name?—I never asked his name.

3891. Why did not you ask his name?—I do not know his name.

3892. Did you not ask him?—No, I did not.

3893. He told you that the men at Morgan's yard were gone away to Yarmouth?—Yes, were gone away to Yarmouth, and had 5 s. a-day.

3894. One witness was asked, my learned friend did not ask the other; but did you hear that witness say that he had been at Norwich the whole time, and never had been to Yarmouth?—I heard a witness say so; I should like to see that person brought forward."

Mr. Baron Martin.] If you find him, get one of the policemen to bring him in here. I will engage that he will not insult you again. It is one of the most gross contempts of Court that can be committed.

JOSEPH DE CARL SMITH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Keane.

J. De Carl Smith.

3895. I BELIEVE you are a wholesale Druggist, at Norwich?—I am.

3896. And you have lived there all your life?—I have.

3897. Were you in court during the examination of Mr. Wormersley?—I was.

3898. Were you also in court during the examination of the witnesses to whom he referred?—I was.

3899. Do you or do you not agree with him in denying the statements that were made respecting him?—I perfectly agree with him, as far as I know anything about them.

3900. Did you see any card handed to him?—Certainly not; I do not think there could have been any card without my seeing it.

3901. I believe you went with Mr. Wormersley, when he went to Morgan's yard, remained there while while he was in the yard, and went away with him; is that so?—I was the means of Mr. Wormersley going into Morgan's yard.

3902. You were there the whole time?—Yes; I was the means of his going into it. About three o'clock in the afternoon, on the day of the election, as near as I can remember (I would not say that was the exact time, or a quarter past or a quarter before), I was going from the committee-room in Magdalen-street with Mr. Wormersley and Mr. John Kitton, direct to the central committee-room; when we arrived nearly at Morgan's yard, a man came running after us, and said to me, "Mr. Smith, here are some men who have not voted"; I turned back immediately, and there were two men, and they appeared to me to be excited from what they had taken. I said, "They tell me you have not voted; why have you not voted?" "Well, look here sir, if you will give us a day's wages, we will vote"; I said, "Come out of the crowd," and I took the men myself, or a man, I do not know exactly how many there were, into the yard, and Mr. Wormersley followed me; and I said, "Now, why do not you vote"?—They said, "If you will give us a day's wages we will vote"; I said, "I would not give a day's wages for a gross of you"; "Go now and act like men, and vote"; that is all that passed; and I left the yard, and so did Mr. Wormersley.

*J. De Carl
Smith.*
18 January
1869.

Walter Newton was brought into court.

3903. Mr. Baron Martin (to Mr. Womersley).] Is that the man who put his fist into your face?—Yes, that is the man.

3904. Mr. Baron Martin (to Newton).] Is it true that you put your fist into that gentleman's face the other evening when leaving this court?—I will be on my oath upon it, and will bring witnesses to prove that it was not.

3905. Mr. Baron Martin (to Mr. Womersley).] Will you state what this man did to you?—I was leaving this court last Friday after the court was over, and as soon as I got out of the place there was a good deal of yelling and hooting at me as soon as they saw me, and this person steps out before me and came to me, and says, "Hoo! hoo!" in my face as I was going down, and I particularly looked at him at the time.

WILLIAM NEWTON, sworn again.

3906. Mr. Baron Martin.] WHAT do you say to that; you have heard what Mr. Womersley said?—Mr. Womersley said I insulted him on last Friday evening; I will bring a witness to prove that I did not.

3907. What do you say yourself?—I never spoke to the man.

3908. You said that did not occur which he has stated?—It did not; I will be upon my oath upon it; I am here to speak the truth; I have not spoke to the gentleman that I see at Mr. Mackley's.

Mr. Baron Martin.] It is not usual in these matters to go into the question of proof; if a person who is charged with contempt of court denies upon his oath the contempt imputed to him, it is usual for it to drop.

Mr. Rodwell stated that he felt that those who instructed him had been most grievously and unfortunately misled by the statements of other witnesses, and he did not think that he should be justified in occupying the time of the court by proceeding further with that part of the case.

W. Newton.

Mr. JOSEPH DE CARL SMITH, recalled; further Examined by Mr. Keane.

3909. I THINK about 12 o'clock on the election day you were induced to go to Mackley's at the "Marquis of Granby"?—I think it must have been later than 12; I should think nearer one than 12.

3910. Will you tell us why you went down, and what you saw there?—I went down because I was informed by Mr. Wormersley, and I think by Mr. Harper, when I was engaged with Mr. John Kitton in his counting-room on business, that there were a great many people at the "Marquis of Granby" who were waiting there to be bribed; I could not believe it, but I said "I will go with you where, and ascertain the fact, and do all I can to prevent it." I immediately went with those gentlemen to the "Marquis of Granby," and if his Lordship will allow me I will tell him exactly what took place; I went immediately with the gentlemen down to the "Marquis of Granby;" I went into the house; it seems that the entrance into the house is a sort of bar where they sell liquor, a narrow passage; Mr. Wormersley stopped in the passage; I did not; I went through into the yard to see where the voters were; I there met a man who has given evidence this morning, and I said to him, "Are there many voters here?" He said, "No sir, they are not here, but if you want them I can soon get them"; "Well," I said, "You go and get them"; I do not know his name; he left to collect those voters together; I went round and came outside into the street, and I said, I think it was to Dr. Brownfield, "Doctor, it is no use our staying here; those men want to be bribed; there is no question about the fact; I shall go." In less than a minute or two Dr. Brownfield, Mr. John Kitton, myself, and Mr. Wormersley, walked away from the place, and we did not go back; I did not, nor did any of those gentlemen to the best of my knowledge; I want as much as any man in Norwich to stop the corruption that surrounds us.

Mr. Rodwell stated that he ought to make the same remark with regard to this case as the other, that there must have been some grievous mistake.

Witness.] There was not a word said to Dr. Brownfield, in my hearing, about money at all; the voters were not there; we did not see them even.

Mr.
*J. De Carl
Smith.*

Mr. JOHN BROWNFIELD, sworn ; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

Mr. J. Brownfield. 3911. ARE you by profession a surgeon?—
I am.
3912. And registrar I believe of this district?
—Yes.

18 January
1869.

3913. I conclude that you have been in practice for a great number of years?—Yes.

3914. Were you at the “Marquis of Granby” upon the day of election?—Yes.

3915. Were you also at Morgan’s yard?—No.

3916. You were at the “Marquis of Granby” only?—Yes.

3917. Did you promise a single farthing, or mention any money in any way whatever there?—Certainly not.

3918. Is there one single word of truth in what has been imputed to you?—Not one.

Mr. JOHN KITTON, sworn ; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

Mr. J. Kitton. 3919. WHAT are you?—A wholesale grocer at Norwich.

3920. Have you carried on business for many years in Norwich?—Yes.

3921. Have you heard what has been stated in relation to Morgan’s yard and the “Marquis of Granby”?—Yes.

3922. Is there one word of truth in it?—Not one word.

Mr. SAMUEL DAYNES, sworn ; Examined by Mr. Serjeant Ballantine.

Mr. S. Daynes. 3923. WHAT are you?—I am a printer by trade.

3924. On the day of the election were you at the “Marquis of Granby” at all?—I was.

3925. Were you at Morgan’s yard at all?—I was not.

3926. At the “Marquis of Granby” did you offer any money, or promise any money, or talk about it in any way whatever?—I did not, except in one respect I talked to some gentlemen that I have seen here this morning; the occasion of my going there was a rumour that had reached us, and I went down to ascertain the truth of it, and, in a conversation which I had with Mr. Smith and Mr. Wormersley, we altogether repudiated the idea of bribery being even considered on our side.

3927. Mr. Baron Martin.] As far as you know it was a pure election on the part of Mr. Tillett?—I know of no act in connection with the election on the Liberal side but what was perfectly pure.

Mr. Serjeant Ballantine stated that that was all the evidence which he had to offer upon that part of the case.

Mr. Rodwell was heard to address the court again with regard to the case on the part of Sir Henry Stracey, with a view to exonerate him from the charge of cognizance of bribery, and also upon the question of agency.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE - - - - - p. 1

R E P O R T.

THE PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

THE SLIGO BOROUGH ELECTION PETITION.

IN the matter of the Petition of Michael Foley and Joseph Foley, Petitioners Major Lawrence Edward Knox, M.P., Respondent.

THE matter of this Petition (of which I annex a copy) came on to be tried before me, at Carrick on Shannon, on the 19th day of February last, and continued four succeeding days, in presence of the parties, their counsel and agents; and having heard the evidence, and what was offered on both sides, I did then determine and do accordingly certify,

That the last election for the said borough of Sligo was a void election.

That the said Major Lawrence Edward Knox was not duly elected to serve in Parliament for the said borough of Sligo.

That the said Major Lawrence Edward Knox was by his agents guilty of bribery at said election; and I hereby report,

That it has not been proved before me that such bribery was committed by, or with the knowledge or consent of, the said Major Lawrence Edward Knox; and I do further report,

That John Shiel, a voter, did, immediately before said election, receive money and goods to the amount of 8*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.* from Stephen M. Cherry, acting on behalf of the said Major Lawrence Edward Knox, and did agree to receive a further sum of 31*l.* 13*s.* 10*d.* from the said Stephen M. Cherry, for agreeing to refrain from voting at said election, and was guilty of bribery.

That Patrick Neilan, Patrick Flynn, Martin Mulligan, and Charles Tiernan, received money for agreeing to vote for the said Major Lawrence Edward Knox at said election, and were guilty of bribery.

That, in addition to the persons whose names I have so reported, it was proved by the evidence of the said Major Lawrence Edward Knox, and other testimony, that divers of the electors of said borough, from 30 to 40 in number, were in the habit of applying for payment of money directly to the said Major Lawrence Edward Knox, and to other persons acting on his behalf, in consideration of their agreeing to vote for, or to refrain from voting against, the said Major Lawrence Edward Knox.

That Thomas Brennan, Stephen M. Cherry, John H. Galbraith, Robert Stokes, William A. Woods, and Joseph L. Woods, were proved to have offered and promised various sums of money to divers electors of said borough in order to induce said electors to vote for the said Major Lawrence Edward Knox, or to refrain from voting for Captain John Flanagan, a candidate at said election, and were guilty of bribery.

And I do report that corrupt practices have extensively prevailed at the said election for the borough of Sligo; and

That a system of intimidation and violence was organised and carried out for months previous to and during the said last election for the said borough of Sligo, subversive of freedom of election, and endangering the lives and properties of the electors; and outrages were committed previous to and during the said election, which were calculated to deter, and did in fact deter, electors from exercising their franchise at said election, but such intimidation and violence was almost entirely practised by large mobs of persons acting in opposition to the said Major Lawrence Edward Knox; and it was proved before me, that such intimidation was continued in said borough of Sligo from the time of said election down to and during the trial of said Election Petition.

Given under my hand this Second of March, One thousand Eight hundred and Sixty-nine.

WILLIAM KEOGH,

Judge of the Court of Common Pleas on the Rota for the Trial of Election Petitions in Ireland.

To the Right Honourable
The Speaker of the House of Commons.

THE copy of the evidence taken at the trial, as furnished to me by the House of Commons shorthand writer, who was duly sworn before me faithfully to take down the same pursuant to the Statute, accompanies this my certificate.

WILLIAM KEOGH.

IN THE COMMON PLEAS.

THE PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS ACT, 1868.

ELECTION for the Borough of Sligo, holden on the 19th day of November, in the Year of our Lord 1868.

THE PETITION of Michael Foley, of Water-lane, in the Borough and County of Sligo, and Joseph Foley, of No. 8, Knox's-street, in the Borough and County of Sligo aforesaid, whose names are subscribed.

1. Your Petitioner, Michael Foley, is a person who voted at the above election, and your Petitioner, Joseph Foley, is a person who voted at the above election.

2. And your Petitioners state that the election was holden on the 19th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1868, when John Woulf Flanagan and Lawrence Edward Knox were candidates, and the returning officer has returned Lawrence Edward Knox as being duly elected.

3. And your Petitioners say that before, during, and after the said election, the said Lawrence Edward Knox, by himself and his agents, and by other persons on his behalf, directly and indirectly, did give and lend, and agree to give and lend, and did offer and promise, and did offer and promise to procure, and did promise to endeavour to procure, money and other valuable considerations, and also offices, places, and employment to and for divers persons having votes at the said election, and to and for other persons on behalf of such voters, in order to induce such several voters to vote, or refrain from voting, at the said election; and did also corruptly make such gifts, loans, and promises of many and other valuable considerations, and of offices, places, and employments to divers voters at the said election, and to other persons on behalf of such voters, to induce such voters to abstain from voting, or on account of such voters having voted, or refrained from voting, at the said election; and did also make such gifts, loans, offers, and promises as aforesaid, to divers persons, in order to induce them to procure, or endeavour to procure, the return of the said Lawrence Edward Knox to serve in the present Parliament for the said Borough of Sligo; and did also advance and pay, and caused to be paid, money to and to the use of certain persons, with the intent that such money, or some part thereof, should be expended in bribery at the said election.

4. And your Petitioners say that the said Lawrence Edward Knox, by himself and his agents, and other persons on his behalf, directly and indirectly, did pay and give, and agree to pay and give, or promise to pay and give, monies to divers persons, and to divers other persons having votes at the said election, on account of the conveyance of voters who voted at the said election, contrary to the provisions of the Statute in that behalf.

5. And your Petitioners say that before, during, and after the said election, the said Lawrence Edward Knox, by himself and his agents, and by and with other persons on his behalf, directly and indirectly, corruptly gave and provided, and did knowingly allow to be given and provided, and was accessory to the giving and providing of, and did wholly or in part pay for, meat, drink, entertainment, and provisions to and for divers persons having votes at the said election, and to and for other persons on behalf of such voters, in order to be elected, and for being elected, and also for the purpose of corruptly influencing such persons and other persons to give, or refrain from giving, their votes at the said election; and did also so do to divers persons on account of such persons having voted, or refrained from voting, or being about to vote, or refrain from voting, at the said election.

6. And your Petitioners say that the said Lawrence Edward Knox did, by himself and his agents, and by other persons on his behalf, directly and indirectly, make use of, and threaten to make use of, force, violence, and restraint, and inflicted and threatened the infliction of injury, loss, damage, and harm, and did in divers other ways practice intimidation dation on certain persons having votes at the said election, in order to induce or compel such persons to vote, or refrain from voting, or on account of such persons having voted, or refrained from voting, at the said election; and did, by abduction, duress, and other fraudulent devices and contrivances, impede, prevent, and otherwise interfere with the free exercise of the franchise of divers voters at the said election, and did thereby compel, induce, and prevail upon such voters either to vote, or refrain from voting, at the said election.

7. And your Petitioners say that the said Lawrence Edward Knox, by himself and his agents, did influence and procure several persons to vote, and to record their votes, in favour of the said Lawrence Edward Knox, although the said persons were at the time of so voting, to the knowledge of the said Lawrence Edward Knox and his agents, prohibited and disqualified by Statute from voting.

Whereupon your Petitioners pray that it may be determined that the said Lawrence Edward Knox was not duly elected or returned, and that the said election was null and void.

MICHAEL FOLEY.
JOSEPH FOLEY.

Present when signed by the said Petitioners,

PAT KEIGHRON, J. P.

Received this 12th of December 1868.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN before the Right Honourable Mr. Justice Keogh, on the TRIAL of the ELECTION
PETITION for the BOROUGH of SLIGO, at the Court House, Carrick-on-Shannon.

Friday, 19th February 1869.

MICHAEL FOLEY and JOSEPH FOLEY - - - - Petitioners.
Major LAWRENCE EDWARD KNOX - - - - Respondent.

Mr. Coffey, Q.C., Mr. Palles, Q.C., Mr. Waters, Q.C., and Mr. O'Loughlin appeared as Counsel for the Petitioners. Mr. Michael Molony appeared as Agent. 19 February 1869.

Mr. Macdonogh, Q.C., Mr. James Robinson, Q.C., Mr. W. H. Kay, LL.D., and Mr. Hartigan appeared as Counsel for the Respondent. Mr. William Lawder appeared as Agent.

Mr. Coffey was heard to open the allegations of the Petition.

JOHN SHEIL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

1. I BELIEVE you are a voter for the borough of Sligo?—Yes.

2. What occupation are you?—I am a Chandler.

3. In whose employment?—John Connolly's.

4. That is Mr. Connolly of Sligo?—Yes.

5. Do you know a Mr. Stephen Moor Cherry, or Mr. Stephen M. Cherry?—I do.

6. Does he reside at Sligo?—Yes.

7. What trade does he carry on?—A general drapery.

8. In the end of last year, 1868, before the election, did you owe Mr. Cherry any money?—I did.

9. How much?—£.5 10s., or thereabouts.

10. Do you remember seeing Mr. Cherry at any time before the election; was any message brought to you to go to Mr. Cherry?—There was.

11. Were more messages than one brought?—There were.

12. Did you go to him more than once?—I did, two or three times; I was sent for each time.

13. We will take the first time. About how long before the election was that?—The Monday week before it I was sent for.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] What day of the month was it?

14. Mr. Palles.] The nomination was Tuesday, the 17th of November, and the polling on Thursday, the 19th. You say the Monday week before that?—Yes.

15. Will you tell his Lordship what passed between you and Mr. Cherry the first time you went there?—I did not go to him when I was sent for the first time, and when I went to him he brought me upstairs, and he told me that I was an old customer of his, and he would wish to do something for me; that he had it now in his power. He would not ask me to vote for Major Knox, but if I would leave the town he would make it worth my while. I said that if I would do that I might not come back to town again; and he said, "Oh, it was no matter about that, for he had been speaking to the Major about me on the evening before, and he said that he himself would find me employment, no matter whether it was at my own or not, should it interfere with my business in Sligo."

16. What did you say to that; tell us all the conversation?—I said that I would speak at home about it. He told me not to speak at home about it, for that would ruin all; but to think over it till the next morning at breakfast time, and go back and tell him. I did not go back until he sent for me.

17. Have you substantially told me everything that you remember about that first interview?—Yes.

18. Was there anything about America in the first interview?—No.

19. You then left; when did you go back to him?—He sent for me, I think, the following day or the day after.

A

20. That

John Sheil.

John Sheil.
19 February
1869.

20. That would be Tuesday or Wednesday?—Thursday. I did not go to him at first until Wednesday; when again on Thursday he sent for me, and it was arranged then.

21. Then you went to him?—I went to him.

22. Where was it that you saw him the second time?—The boy came to Mr. Conolly's shop for me the second time. I happened to be in the shop at the time, and went down to Mr. Cherry.

23. Do you know the name of that boy?—I do not; I know him well by eyesight.

24. You know him by appearance?—By appearance.

25. Do you know in whose employment he is?—Mr. Cherry's employment.

26. And has been so for some time?—For years.

27. Would you know him again?—Yes.

28. Where was it that you saw Mr. Cherry the second time; in his own house?—He was in his own shop, and he brought me upstairs again.

29. To the same room?—To the ware-room.

30. Tell us all the conversation that occurred between you and Mr. Cherry on the second occasion?—He had a decree against me for a balance of a large amount, and I was afraid that he would put me into gaol on the head of that decree if I would not go according to what he wanted me to do; therefore, I took in hand for to leave Sligo, and he was to give me 40 l.

31. When you took it in hand, what did you tell Mr. Cherry, or what did Mr. Cherry tell you?—He told me that if it would interfere with me, either in my business, or in any way even to my safety, he would look after it, and I would not be a loser by it. This decree was then in existence, and I thought the best way for me to do was to say that I was going to America, in order for to get a clear receipt.

32. Then you told Mr. Cherry that you were going to America?—Yes.

33. Go on, and tell me everything that Mr. Cherry said to you and you said to Mr. Cherry, as well as you remember?—Well, he said he could give me a letter to a friend of his in America, and that he was sure he would do all he could for me, and that was the whole of it.

34. Did he say anything about money; tell me what he did say about money; you said something about 40 l.?—At first he offered me 30 l., which I objected to.

35. What did he offer you the 30 l. for?—For to leave the town during the time of Major Knox's election.

36. You refused the 30 l.?—I did.

37. What did he offer you then?—He said he would put 10 l. more to it; that was 40 l.

38. What did you say to the 40 l.?—I agreed to it.

39. Was there any talk between you as to how that 40 l. should be paid?—There was.

40. Tell me, as well as you remember, everything that took place?—The balance that was due, along with a little extra goods and 1 l. of cash, he gave me a receipt for, and in that receipt there are pencil marks from that to the difference of 20 l.

41. Look at that receipt, and then give it to me back if that is the document (handing the receipt to the Witness); is all that in Mr. Cherry's handwriting?—It is.

[The document was put in and marked, and is as follows:]

"33, Castle-street, Sligo,
November 1868.

"S. M. Cherry."

42. Do you see those figures 20 at the bottom?—I do.

43. And the deduction from it?—£. 8 16 s. 2 d. deducted from it.

44. I see that the amount of that account is 7 l. 6 s. 2 d.; did you owe that sum to Mr. Cherry at the time?—Yes.

45. Part of that, you say, there was a decree for?—Yes.

46. I observe a sum of 1 l. under that; did he give it you on that occasion?—Yes.

47. That bill is receipted; did you give Mr. Cherry money in any way for that 8 l. 16 s. 2 d. I observe at the bottom 8 l. 16 s. 2 d., and a balance brought out; did you see Mr. Cherry write that?—I did.

48. Did he say anything to you when he wrote it?—He said he would not put a date to it, for it might be taken for election purposes.

49. You were not paid at that time the 11 l. odd?—I was not.

50. Was there any conversation between you and Mr. Cherry as to how that 11 l. odd should be paid?—There was; it was to be paid to my friends at home.

51. Who are your friends?—Two sisters. When I was to leave for America, he was to send that money.

52. Did you ask Mr. Cherry, or how was it, that this balance, 11 l. 3 s. 10 d., was to be given to your sisters and not to yourself?—It was my own request that he should pay it that way.

53. I suppose you had been the support of your sisters?—Yes.

54. That was only 20 l.; was there any conversation as to how you were to get the other 20 l. to make up the 40 l.?—There was.

55. What was it?—He read a letter to me to some merchants at Dublin, with a bank order in it for 24 l. or 25 l., I do not remember which; they were to take a balance that he was due to them out of it, and I was to get 20 l. on the morning after the election at Sligo.

56. You were to call on them?—I was to call on them.

57. Do you know the names of those merchants that you were to call upon?—I disremember it now.

58. Look at that envelope (handing one to the Witness); do not take out what is inside it; he gave you that envelope at that time?—He did.

59. Did you see him write it?—I did not.

60. He gave it to you?—He gave it to me.

61. Do you know whose handwriting that is in; if you are not sure, do not say so?—I am positive positive it is his handwriting, for I have seen a great deal of his handwriting.

62. At the time he gave it to you, did you see him put anything in that envelope?—I did not.

63. Did you open that envelope afterwards?—I did.

64. Did you see in it that card (shewing one to the Witness)?—I did.

Mr. Palles stated that the card had upon it, "Mr. Stephen M. Cherry" in ordinary copper plate, and the initials "S. M. C."

65. Do you know in whose handwriting those letters "S. M. C." are?—I will swear to his initials.

66. Did you also find this document (shewing one to the Witness) in the envelope when you opened it?—I did.

[The document was put in, and marked, and is as follows:—]

"MEMORANDUM.

186 .

From Stephen M. Cherry, Sligo, to —.

Mr. Palles stated that the envelope was addressed, Messrs. Cooter, Brodie & Co., wholesale stationers, 16, Lower Ormond Quay, Dublin.

67. Did he tell you what you were to do with that envelope?—I was to deliver it to the address, that is all.

68. The day after the election?—I do not know that; but as soon as I would go to Dublin, of course I would give the paper that I had to the parties they were for.

69. The 20*l.* was to be paid to you the day after the election?—Yes.

70. You say that you saw him put a bank order into an envelope?—I did.

71. Did you see that envelope directed yourself?—I did not.

72. Did he tell you to whom he was sending that envelope?—Coster, Brodie & Co.

73. He did not give you that letter; it was sent some other way?—He held it in his hand while he read it to me across the counter in the ware-room.

74. What was in the letter that he read to you?—It was telling them that he remitted so much money, that they were to keep the balance of so much; 4*l.* or 5*l.* odd, I disremember which, and the remaining 20*l.* was to be given to me, and above all for to watch that I should not get it for to return to Sligo before the election.

75. Will you look at that envelope directed to Mr. Hughes; did he give you that document?—He did.

76. What did he say when he gave it to you?—I was to call at that address.

77. When you called at Hughes's address, what were you to do, or what were you to get there?—"And you'll be seen all right when you get there."

78. This is addressed, "Mr. Hughes, 23, Queen-street, Dublin." Do you know in whose handwriting that is?—I do not; it is not his.

79. Had he this envelope written before you came in, or did he go again out of the room, do you remember?—He had it in his breast pocket.

80. You yourself, I suppose, do not know Mr. Hughes?—I do not.

81. Was it arranged that you were to stop at

Mr. Hughes's when you were in Dublin?—Until after the election, unless that I could get a vessel for to bring me to America before the election was over. In that case I was to get the money before it.

82. Was there any conversation with you at that time as to how you were to leave Sligo?—There was.

83. What did Mr. Cherry tell you?—That he wanted me at the time when he saw me first, at least the second interview, for to leave on the spot, and not wait until the end of the week, because that there might be a look-out for voters, and I said that I could not leave before Sunday, and then it was arranged that he would have a car from Mrs. Buchanan's for me, and it was to meet me outside the town, or at least it would be there waiting for me, and I could ask the driver if that was the way to the "Gold Rappers;" and he was to answer, "All right, jump up." However, I got out of the town.

84. I am asking you the conversation you had with Cherry; was it arranged by which route you were to go to Dublin?—It was.

85. Which was it?—By Manorhamilton, "Black Lion," Enniskillen, and then by train to Dublin.

86. You were to drive to Enniskillen?—Yes.

87. You were not to go out of the town by a car, but to be overtaken by a car; were you told where you were to stop the first night?—In the "Black Lion."

88. Look at that document (handing one to the Witness)?—This is it, "Mrs. Buchanan, Black Lion."

89. Mr. Cherry gave you that upon that occasion?—Yes.

90. Do you know in whose handwriting that document is?—I do not.

91. Had he that ready prepared when you went in?—Yes.

92. About how many miles is it from Sligo to Enniskillen by Manorhamilton?—I think it is 34 or 35 miles.

93. Irish miles?—Thirty Irish miles, I have heard it called.

94. You told me there was a conversation about your going to America; did he give you a letter to take to a friend in America?—He did.

95. That is the letter, and the envelope (handing them to Witness)?—This is it.

[The letter was put in, and marked, and is as follows:—]

"Sligo, 14 November 1868.—Dear Mr. Logan, —The bearer, John Sheils, is an old customer of mine, whom you doubtless remember. If you can do anything by way of getting him a situation, I will feel greatly obliged. I should have replied to your last much sooner. You have got your election over, and Grant returned. The right man, I say. We are on the eve of our elections here; next week they begin. Do anything you can for the bearer. All well here. —Yours, very sincerely, S. M. Cherry." (The envelope is addressed, Mr. John Logan, Broadway, and 10th street, New York).

96. It was arranged that you were to go away upon the Sunday at six o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

A 2

97. Did

John Sheil.

19 February 1869.

John Sheil.

97. Did you, on the Sunday morning, walk out of town?—I did.

19 February 1869. 98. Were you afterwards overtaken by a car?—I was.

99. You had not ordered that car yourself?—No.

100. When you were overtaken by the car, what happened?—I mentioned the words I was told, and he told me to get up.

101. You did get up?—I did.

102. Can you tell me the name of the man who drove that car?—I believe it was Dan M'Gowan.

Daniel M'Gowan, called.

103. Is that the man?—It is.

104. Did he give you a document?—He did.

105. Is that it (handing one to Witness)?—That is it.

106. Do you know the handwriting; if you are not sure, do not tell me?—Well, I think it is.

107. You think it is whose?—Mr. Cherry's.

[The document was put in, and marked, and is as follows:—]

"Go on to Enniskillen without stopping. The driver will tell you where to stop there. Pay for your bed, &c.; it will be settled in Dublin. This was arranged since I see you."

108. Was there any person else on that car?—There was, an old lady.

109. Do you know her name?—I heard the landlady of the hotel in Manorhamilton call her Mrs. Cole.

110. Where did you go in that car; did you go to Enniskillen ultimately; first you went to Manorhamilton?—To Manorhamilton, and changed cars at the hotel in Manorhamilton, and went into Enniskillen straight.

111. Who was it that arranged about getting another car; was it you?—The driver.

112. The man who was produced to you?—Yes.

113. He drove you on to Enniskillen?—He did not.

114. You did not pay for the second car?—I did not.

115. Do you know the name of the person in Manorhamilton from whom that second car was got?—Johnson, I believe.

116. What were the words that you were to tell M'Gowan when he overtook you?—"Was that the way to the 'Gold Rappers'?"

117. And he was to say "all right"?—"All right."

118. I believe that ultimately you did return to Sligo?—I did.

119. You did not go to Dublin?—I did not.

120. You voted for Captain Flanagan?—I did.

121. When was it you returned to Sligo?—On the Tuesday morning before the election.

122. That was on the day of the nomination, I suppose?—Yes.

123. I suppose you paid your own expenses back to Sligo?—I did.

124. Tell me, were you offered by any person money since the election to give up those papers?—I was.

125. By whom?—That is what I do not know. I do not know the man.

126. Would you know his appearance if you saw him again?—I would.

127. Do you know Mr. Thomas Wilson?—He is very like the man, but not him.

Thomas Wilson, called.

128. Is that the gentleman?—It is not.

129. What was it this man told you?—He told me that I had papers upon the Saturday night.

Mr. Macdonogh objected to the question.

Mr. Palles stated that he might afterwards be able to prove agency, and in the meantime the evidence was admissible.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that an isolated act, and not a portion of the alleged bribery, but a transaction altogether of another nature, was not admissible till agency had been proved, in which case he would allow the Witness to be recalled.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

130. Well, Mr. Shiels, had you any intention of going to America?—Not the slightest.

131. You were telling a little fib?—Exactly.

132. And you were telling that for the purpose of deceiving Mr. Cherry?—Yes.

133. So that the purpose you had in view was deception, and the thing was a lie; do you not assent to both? Quite right; and it was all humbug about giving the money to your sisters?—It was not.

134. You intended to stay away, and that they should get the 1 l. a-week?—No; this is what I intended; that they should have money at any time that they wanted it, even before the election, and that was the words.

135. And you got a letter of introduction to a man of the name of Logan, in America, I see?—Yes. (The letter was placed in Witness's hands.)

136. When did you open the envelope?—Immediately after I got home.

137. Do you mean after you got home from Dublin?—I did not go to Dublin; when I got home from Enniskillen.

138. Who was present when you opened the letter addressed to another man?—Mr. John Connolly; it was him who opened it.

139. And broke the seal?—Yes.

140. Mr. John Connolly broke the seal of a letter addressed to one Logan?—Yes.

141. Mr. John Connolly was your landlord, was he not?—No; my employer.

142. How much did you get for coming back?—Nothing.

143. How much were you promised?—Not a penny.

144. Then while you were negotiating with Cherry, and getting the 1 l., and procuring these documents, you never intended to come and vote for Major Knox?—I did not.

145. You were humbugging Cherry?—Because he thought to humbug me.

146. He thought to humbug you, and you humbugged him?—He had an iron rod over my head, and I thought I might as well get from under it.

147. You got from under it?—I did.

148. You got the money besides?—I did.

149. And you intended to deceive him?—Certainly.

150. And

150. And you were bribed?—You may call it what you like.

151. I will make you call it; were you not bribed?—I do not know.

152. Will you swear you do not know whether you were bribed or not?—I will swear.

153. You will swear that when you were forgiven a debt, and got money and a promise of 20*l.* more, that you were not bribed to abstain from voting?—Yes.

154. When did you arrange this plant for Cherry?—I never arranged it till he sent for me.

155. And then did you communicate with anybody in order to do it?—No, certainly not.

156. You did it all from your own head?—Exactly.

157. You did not tell it to Connolly?—I did.

158. Did you tell him that Cherry had sent to you, and was talking to you, and wanted you to go away?—I told him he offered me 40*l.* to leave the town.

159. You told him that before you finally agreed with Cherry?—Certainly.

160. I am trying to find out of my own head, by guesswork, what you did; did Connolly tell you that was a good job?—He did not.

161. Did he tell you to go on?—He did not.

162. What did he tell you?—He advised me off it.

163. That it was a bad business?—Yes.

164. Did he tell you it was a disgraceful thing to be bribed?—He told me nothing about it; but he told me it would not do for me to do that.

165. To do what?—For me to leave town at such a time.

166. And you said you would not; that you would pretend to leave?—Just so; I did not tell him that I would pretend to leave town.

167. Did you tell him that, though you would pretend to agree with Mr. Cherry, you would vote for Captain Flanagan?—I did not.

168. Did he advise you to vote for Captain Flanagan?—He advised me to stay at home, and not go.

169. And you came back?—Yes.

170. And with Mr. Cherry's money in your pocket you voted for Captain Flanagan?—Certainly.

171. Who is Mr. Cherry?—Who is he.

172. Yes; what part of the town does he live in?—He lives in Castle-street.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mr. Justice Keogh, at the request of Mr. Pallas, stated that if the witnesses told the truth fairly, a certificate of indemnity would be given them.

DANIEL MCGOWAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

173. WERE you in the employment of Mrs. Buchanan in November last?—Yes.

174. Mrs. Buchanan lives in Sligo?—Yes.

175. Does she keep post cars?—She does.

176. Did you get any orders with reference to taking a car on the road to Enniskillen, after a man named John Sheils?—I got no orders to take a car after a man of the name of John Sheils; I did not hear his name mentioned before I heard it to-day; I did not know the man's name.

177. Did you receive orders to go after a man who was to say some passwords?—I remember, one morning, I was going to Manorhamilton with a lady (I do not know the day of the month), and I was told if I were to meet him on the road I was to lift him, and so I did.

178. Who told you that?—My mistress; my own employer.

179. Did she tell you that the man in the road would say any words to you, or how were you to know him?—Well, I must think of that, for I did not keep it much in memory; I did not pass any remarks upon the thing at all.

180. Have you thought of it now, and are you able to tell his Lordship?—I drove parties from time to time, and I never passed any remarks upon them; I must think if there was anything.

181. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Just think, and answer the question?—I beg your pardon, what was the question?

182. Mr. Waters.] How were you to know the man in the road?—The man was to ask me, I think, the way to the "Golden Rappers," and I was to tell him to get up; I think that was it.

183. Do you mean to say your mistress told you that?—Yes.

184. Was anyone in her company when she told you that?—I think not.

185. Are you sure, now; your memory does not seem good; try again?—There might; I think not at that time she told me that.

186. When did she tell you that?—Well, it was the night before, I think; she generally gives the orders when we are going out at night, if there are any early orders.

187. Are you quite sure there was no one in her presence when she told you that the man was to say these words?—I think not.

188. Do you know Mr. Cherry?—It is very lately since I knew him.

189. Do you see him now (Mr. Cherry called)?—I do.

190. How long have you known him?—I drove him one time to The Point myself with some ladies, and that was the first time I knew him. I heard he was Mr. Cherry.

191. How long ago was that?—It was long before the election.

192. Did you see him with your mistress that evening?—Well, I saw him; I do not know whether they were both together or not; I do not recollect.

193. Did you see him in your mistress's place?—I did not.

194. Not at any time?—Not that evening.

195. That day?—I did not.

196. The day before?—Not the day before.

197. When did you see him in your mistress's place?—I do not think I did see him there in my life to my knowledge; never.

198. Or in the yard?—Or in the yard, to my knowledge.

199. Or anywhere near it?—Or anywhere near it.

200. Did you get a piece of paper to give to the man?—I did.

201. Who gave you that?—It was Mr. Cherry, I think, to the best of my opinion.

202. When did he give you the piece of paper to

John Sheil.

1869.

D.
McGowan.

D. to give to the man?—He gave it to me that night.
 McGowan. 203. Where did you see Mr. Cherry when he gave you the piece of paper to give the man?
 19 February 1869. —I saw him in Mr. Stokes's.

204. That is, Mr. Stokes, the saddler?—Yes.

205. Who else was there; was Mr. Stokes there?—He was there, I think, part of the time.

Mr. Stokes called.

206. That is Mr. Stokes behind you?—It is.

207. Who else was there besides Mr. Robert Stokes?—There was another gentleman; I do not know who he was.

208. Did you ever see him before or since?—Not to my knowledge, since or before.

209. What sort of a man was he?—He was a gentlemanly looking man.

210. Was he a tall man or a short man; did he wear a moustache?—Well, I disremember whether he did or not.

211. You swear you do not know his name?—I did not know his name.

212. Was he a large stout man?—Middling.

213. Where were you in Mr. Stokes's house when Mr. Cherry gave you this piece of paper; were you in the shop or in the room off of it, or upstairs, or where?—I was in some part of the house; I think it was in a room.

214. Was it upstairs?—No, I think not; not to my knowledge.

215. It was in a room behind the shop, was it?—Well, I think so.

216. Is that the piece of paper you got from him (handing one to the Witness)?—Well, I could not say; I did not pass any remarks upon the paper.

217. Did you read it?—I do not know whether I did or not.

218. Did you read it?—I do not think I did.

219. At any time?—I do not think I did at any time.

220. Before you gave it to the man?—I do not mind whether I did or not; I kept the piece of paper, and gave it to the man.

221. Can you read?—A little, not much; some writing I can read, if it is plain writing; other writing I cannot.

222. Who gave you instructions to provide a car for a man you were to take up in the road to the place where you stopped, Manorhamilton?—I think it was myself partly said I would not go on any further than Manorhamilton with my horse, and I said I would get a car there for him; that is all I said.

223. To whom did you say that?—I suppose to the people that were present.

224. Did you say it to Mr. Stokes and Mr. Cherry?—I should think so.

225. Tell me how it was that you went to Mr. Stokes's house; who sent for you?—Well, I do not know who sent for me; I could not say that.

226. Who told you to go to Mr. Stokes's house?—Well, to the best of my opinion, I think it was the mistress.

227. When you went into Mr. Stokes's house, just tell us what passed between Mr. Cherry, Mr. Stokes, and you?—Indeed, I could not tell you that.

228. Have you no recollection of anything that occurred?—I did not mind of much that occurred at all; I could not tell it to you if I was on my oath.

229. Not anything that happened between you?—I do not mind.

230. Are you able to tell me, for instance, whether you went in at the front door or at the back door; which was it, the door that opens into Thomas-street or the door that opens into Castle-street?—I do not exactly mind what door I went into; but I came out by the other door.

231. Which door?—The door that opens down next to the hotel.

232. That is the back door, is it not?—I do not know whether it is the back door, the hall door, or what it is.

233. Is it the door of the shop?—No, it is not.

234. Who let you out there?—I think it was Mr. Stokes; I do not know; the door was open, and I went out.

235. Did Mr. Stokes go with you to the door, and let you out there?—I cannot remember whether he did or not.

236. Do you recollect where you left Mr. Stokes?—I do not know whether he was in the room or not when I left.

237. Were you paid anything by Sheils for the car?—Sheils gave me 1s.

238. Was that payment for the car; how many miles did you drive him?—He gave me 1s. to drink something, I think.

239. Who paid for the car?—I do not know.

240. Did you get payment for it?—No.

241. Did you take a bill for it up to anyone?—No.

242. Did you get any money from anybody else for yourself besides Sheils?—No.

243. Did you get money from Mr. Stokes or Mr. Cherry?—No, not for that.

244. For what did you get money from them?—I never got any money from Mr. Cherry in my lifetime, only the day I drove him to The Point along with the ladies; I think, if I remember, he gave me 1s.

245. Did you get money from Mr. Stokes?—No, never.

246. Were you driving much about the election time?—Yes, I was driving at the county election.

247. I am speaking about the borough election now, and you need not trouble your recollection by going beyond that; do you know two men of the name of McMullen?—I do not know two men named McMullen.

248. Do you know one man named McMullen?—I saw a man named McMullen.

249. What is his Christian name?—I do not know.

250. Is he a dyer by trade?—I think he is.

251. Did you drive him lately?—Well, I think I did drive him.

252. Where did you drive him; come, answer the question?—I drove him to Bondoran.

253. How long before the election did you drive him to Bondoran?—I could not remember; I did not pass any remark upon the time or date.

254. You must tell me the date; was it a month before?—I do not think it was.

255. Was it the day before?—I do not mind what day it was, right.

256. Was it before or after you drove Shiels?—Before.

257. How many days before you drove Shiels did you drive McMullen to Bondoran; was it the day before?—I do not mind whether it was the day before or the day before that; I do not remember.

258. Have

258. Have you seen McMullen since?—No.
 259. Where did you leave him in Bondoran?
 —I left him on the street, just.
 260. Did you leave him at any house; opposite any house you know?—I could not let him down in Bondoran rightly without leaving him opposite some house.
 261. What house did you leave him opposite?
 —We were in a house of the name of Moffatt's awhile, where we put up the horse.
 262. Do you know whether he stopped in that house?—No, he did not stop long.
 263. Do you know where he did stop in Bondoran?—I do not. I knew no more about him. I did not know where he was going or what his business was.
 264. Do you know whether he went to any place besides Bondoran?—I do not know, I did not axe him where he went.
 265. Did you see where he went?—I did not; when I was done with him I was attending to my horse, and I do not know where he went.
 266. What time did you reach Bondoran?—I do not know; I had no watch.
 267. It was between six o'clock in the morning and six o'clock at night, I suppose?—I had no watch.
 268. What time did you leave Sligo?—A little before day in the morning. I do not know what o'clock it was.
 269. How far was he out of Sligo when you picked him up?—He was not very far.
 270. How far?—I could not exactly tell you.
 271. Was he half a mile, a mile, or two miles?—I did not measure it.
 272. How far was he; was he half a mile, a mile, or two miles out of Sligo when you picked him up?—I do not think he was a mile, not more than half a mile.
 273. What was the password with him?—I do not know that he had any password; I was to call at a house for him; I do not know the name of the house.
 274. Who told you to call at a house for him?
 —The mistress.
 275. How many men were in the car the day you drove McMullen?—Two.

276. Who was the other man?—I do not know.
 277. Did you ever see him before?—I do not know that I ever saw him to my knowledge before; I did not know the man at all.
 278. Have you seen him since?—I am not long in Sligo; I did not know all the people in it, nor half of them.
 279. Have you see him since?—Never.
 280. Was he an older or a younger man than McMullen?—I thought he was younger looking.
 281. Had he a reddish beard?—I think he had.
 282. On your oath, do you know he was McMullen's son?—I do not know, on my oath, and did not at that time.
 283. Who paid you for that car?—I was not paid for it.
 284. McMullen did not pay you nor the other man?—No.
 285. Were you paid by anybody else?—No.
 286. Did you get any directions or instructions from anyone but your mistress with reference to McMullen?—No.
 287. Did you from Stokes?—No.
 288. Or Cherry?—No.
 289. Or from anyone but your mistress?—My mistress.
 290. Had you any conversation with anyone but your mistress about taking McMullen to Bondoran?—I had no conversation with anyone about taking McMullen to Bondoran, for I did not know whom I was going with, or where I was going.
 291. Have you, since you took him?—No.
 292. Do you know a man named Thomas Morrow?—I do not.
 293. A man that was in the police?—I do not.
 294. Do you know any man of the name of Morrow?—There are plenty of the name of Thomas Morrow, I suppose.

Mr. Macdonogh stated that at present he would not cross-examine this Witness.

[The Witness withdrew.]

PATRICK FLYNN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

295. Do you live in Sligo?—I do.
 296. Are you a voter of the borough there?—Yes.
 297. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.
 298. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Brennan?—I do.
 299. Do you know where he lives in Sligo, usually?—No; he cannot be seen at present in it.
 300. When did he disappear?—After the election.
 301. Before that, had he been living in Sligo all his life?—He had.

Thomas Brennan, called. (No answer.)

302. Did you see Brennan shortly before the day of the election?—I did.
 303. Had you any conversation with Brennan?—I had.
 304. What did he say to you?—Oh, it is a long time before the election; in June last.
 85.

305. In June last you had a conversation with Brennan you say?—I had.
 306. What was that conversation?—There was an ejectment upon me for a year's rent for 10 l.
 307. Did you say anything to Brennan about that circumstance?—I did.
 308. What did you say?—He told me, before I spoke to him at all about it, he was sorry for it; he told me Knox was a very good man, and if I would authorise him to write to Major Knox he might get me out of it.
 309. What did you say to him when he made that offer to you?—I told him to do so.
 310. Did he tell you the result of the communication, or whether he had any communication with Major Knox on the subject?—He did.
 311. How soon after that first conversation did you see him?—That was upon Thursday, and he had a letter from Major Knox on Sunday morning to me.

D.
 McGowan.
 19 February
 1869.

P. Flynn.

P. Flynn.

19 February
1869.

312. He told you so?—I have seen the letter.

313. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say the letter; what letter?—The letter he got from Major Knox.

314. Mr. Coffey.] Did he show you that letter?—He did.

315. Did he read it for you?—He did.

316. Were you able to read it yourself?—A little.

317. Did he allow you to read it?—No, I saw him with a letter from Major Knox, and he read it.

318. What was it he purported to read from that letter?—I had promised to Mr. Brennan that I would vote for Major Knox if I would get myself secured; and accordingly he wrote to Major Knox, and he got an answer on Sunday morning.

319. What did he tell you or read to you, as the purport of Major Knox's reply?—Major Knox said, so far as I could learn, in the letter that he was happy to have it in his power to serve me, as I had become a friend of his.

320. Did you say anything to Mr. Brennan upon that?—I did; I told him I would vote for Major Knox, and no mistake in it.

321. Had you seen him at the chapel before that, on that same day; that Sunday that you refer to?—No.

322. Did you see him outside or near the chapel?—He called me coming from the chapel; I was out before him; and he said "I have good news for you; I have got a letter from Major Knox."

323. Did he read anything to you from the letter about paying the rent?—He did.

324. What was in the letter about paying the rent?—It stated that Major Knox was happy it was in his power to serve me, as I would vote for him.

325. Was there anything said in the letter about paying the rent?—Yes.

326. What was it?—Mr. Brennan was to pay the rent; he authorised him to pay the rent.

327. Did the letter say that he had authorised Brennan to pay the rent?—Yes.

328. When were the sessions to commence after that conversation?—About four or five days after that; this was on a Sunday; and the Thursday evening the money was paid for me in the court.

329. Were you present when the money was paid?—Yes.

330. To whom was the money paid?—Attorney Pollock.

331. Was he the attorney in the ejectment?—He was.

332. Who paid him the money?—Brennan.

333. How much was the money paid?—I have the receipt here; 10 l., and the expenses attending it.

334. Had you taken any defence to this ejectment?—No.

335. When was it that you got the receipt that you have handed me now?—I got it in January last.

336. The last January of all?—Yes, last month.

337. It purports to be dated "23rd January 1869; No. 872, High-street, 10 l. Received from Mr. Patt Flynn, 10 l., one year's rent, due the 'Viscountess Palmerston,' the 25th day of March 1868 (eight), out of the above holding. Received this 23rd day of January 1869, Stewart and Kincaid, J. C. Delf Fox;" you say you saw that money paid in June last?—I did.

338. Do you know what became of the ejectment in the June Session; was anything done upon it?—It was called, and Mr. Pollock authorised Mr. Utrid Knox to let it stand over.

339. Who was Mr. Utrid Knox?—He was clerk of the quarter sessions.

340. Clerk of the peace, I suppose?—Yes.

341. What relation is Mr. Utrid Knox to Major Knox?—I cannot say; but I have seen him at the house.

342. Have you seen them together?—Yes.

343. Constantly?—I have been at Major Knox's, and seen him with him.

344. Did you ascertain or inquire what became of that ejectment that was postponed as you say from June?—I did in the following session, in October, after I was informed that it was not crossed out and settled for; and I spoke to Mr. Pollock to know why it was not crossed out and settled.

345. You found it still in the book at the October sessions, and you spoke to Mr. Pollock?—Yes.

346. What did you say to Mr. Pollock?—Mr. Pollock when he came into court made Mr. Knox cross it out.

347. How came you by this receipt?—I went twice before I got it.

348. To whom?—To Mr. Fox, my own agent.

349. Mr. Fox is the local agent for Stewart and Kincaid?—Yes.

350. You went twice to him?—Yes; he said he did not get the money from Mr. Pollock; I then went to Mr. Pollock, and brought an order down to get it.

351. From Mr. Pollock?—Yes.

352. What was the order?—A bit of a note.

353. When the bit of a note was handed from Mr. Pollock to Mr. Knox, he gave you this receipt?—About that time; some time after he sent his under bailiff to me.

354. Is that Tom Smith the bailiff?—The very man, Tom Smith.

355. Did you ever give a farthing for this to anybody?—No.

356. The 10 l. mentioned in that receipt; was that the 10 l. you saw paid by Brennan to Mr. Pollock?—It was; he paid more than 10 l.; something for expenses.

357. He paid something over the amount?—About 11 l. 10 s., or something like that.

358. Have you ever paid back any of the money?—Not a shilling.

359. Did your acquaintance with Brennan continue from that time in June down to the day of the election?—It did; not to the day of the election; after the revision ceased.

360. Did you receive any sums of money from Brennan from the time of that transaction of the 10 l. down to the revision?—I did.

361. What money did you receive from Brennan?—About 5 l. or 6 l. entirely, off and on, just.

362. Do you recollect what was the first sum you received from him?—I think it was 17 s. 6 d.

363. Did you get any direction with respect to that 17 s. 6 d.; what you were to do with it, or what did you get it for?—To keep it for my pocket, of course.

364. When was the next sum you got?—About a week after.

365. How much did you get?—Fifteen shillings.

366. What

366. What was that for?—For my pocket.

367. Was anybody present when you got the 17 s. 6 d.?—I think so; they were a little back from me.

368. Who were the people?—I think a man named M^r. Mulligan.

369. Is he a voter?—He is.

370. Do you know a man of the name of James Gray?—I do.

371. Was he present when you got either of these sums?—He was.

372. Which of them?—Not the 15 s.; the last one.

373. The 15 s.?—No; but the last sovereign I got he was present.

374. On what occasion did you get that sovereign?—We met at Mr. Fox's, at Clevers, and got that sovereign.

375. Is that Fox, the bailiff's place?—The agents.

376. What money did you get?—A sovereign.

377. In his house?—It was not in the house; it was in the avenue.

378. In whose avenue?—Fox occupies it now.

379. Did Fox occupy it then?—Yes.

380. Mr. Justice Keogh.] It was not in Fox's presence?—No.

381. Mr. Coffey.] Who was present?—Kilcullen.

382. Is he a voter?—Yes.

383. And James Gray?—Yes.

384. Is he a voter?—He is not.

385. Anybody else?—Kilcullen's son too, I think.

386. Did you take the sovereign from Brennan, or did Brennan give it you?—He gave it to me.

387. What did he say to you?—"Here's this for you," said he.

388. And, nothing loth, you took it?—Certainly.

389. Did the other men that were there with you present upon this occasion get any money?—Kilcullen's son got a sovereign, too, the same night.

390. Is Kilcullen's father a voter, do you know?—He is.

391. And did you get any other sums of money, that you recollect, from Brennan, but these sums of money?—Well, I might; I remember I got 5 l. or 6 l., backwards and forwards; he sent money by Gray too.

392. I will ask you that presently: was there any one present when you received these sums of money, 5 l. or 6 l. on that occasion, except the men that you have mentioned?—I think not.

393. Do you know a man of the name of James Gray?—I do.

394. Did you get any money from him?—Yes.

395. Did James Gray bring any money?—He did.

396. How much?—Well, he brought 5 l., not for myself, but to divide.

397. Tell me what occurred; you were the man that got the money?—I got an order to get the 5 l. from Mr. Harloe Phibbs; I would not go myself; I sent Gray for the money, and he brought it to the house.

398. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You got an order from whom?—Mr. Harloe Phibbs; it was a card I got; I do not know what was on it.

399. Mr. Coffey.] Begin and tell us the whole of the transaction with respect to that 5 l.; did anybody come to you and speak to you about 85.

money?—Mr. Harloe Phibbs came up to my house upon a Saturday. P. Flynn.

400. In what month?—I think it was September. He brought me over the road and gave me a card. There was no writing on the card, but he said, "Pat," said he, "bring this to Tom Wilson." I said I would not go to Tom Wilson, but I would send it by Gray. So Gray went down and brought back 5 l. to my house for the card.

401. Was there anything remarkable about that card?—It was a small round card, a paper. There was a hole, I think, in the middle of it.

402. What did you do with the 5 l.?—It was divided; I got 10 s. of it.

403. What did you do with the 4 l. 10 s.?—It was divided between nine or ten of us; eight or nine of us; Kilcullen got 10 s. of it.

404. Is Kilcullen a voter?—He is; Gray got 10 s.; Kilcullen's brother got 10 s.; and a man of the name of Scanlon got 10 s.

405. Had you any talk with Mr. Utrid Knox after that?—I had that evening. When the sum of money came, and it was only 5 l., we thought it was too little.

406. Who were "we"?—Well, Kilcullen and Gray, and I and a few more.

407. Where did you see Mr. Knox?—At his own house.

408. Did you go there yourself?—I did.

409. Was there anybody with you?—There was Kilcullen.

410. Is that old Kilcullen?—Yes, the voter.

411. What did you say when you saw Mr. Knox?—I told him 5 l. was of no use to us.

412. What did he say to that?—"Well, Flynn," said he, "we cannot give you any more. Do you want to get all the people drunk, as they were last week?"—I said, "No, we did not." "Well," he said, "When that is out you shall get more."

413. Did you see Gray soon afterwards?—On the Saturday following Gray got the same card as we supposed it was.

414. Did you see the card that Gray got on the following Saturday?—I did not, but he told us it was the same card, and he brought another 5 l. to my place back again.

415. What did he do with that 5 l.?—He divided it.

416. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Did you get that other 5 l.?—No, Gray, the man that I sent with the card first.

417. Did you get any part of the 5 l.?—I did.

418. How much?—Ten shillings.

419. Who else, to your knowledge, got any part of that 5 l.?—Kilcullen.

420. When was this other 5 l. got?—Saturday evening.

421. Were you present?—When the money came into my house I was not present, at the getting it into the house.

422. Mr. Coffey.] Will you mention the names of the persons among whom that 5 l. was divided?—The very same party that got it before.

423. Do you know a man of the name of Martin Mulligan?—I do.

424. Did he get any of it?—Not to my knowledge.

425. I must ask you who is Mr. Harloe Phibbs?—He is a gentleman, an attorney in Sligo; he canvassed me along with Major Knox.

B

426. When

19 February 1869.

P. Flynn.
 19 February 1869. 426. When was it that you saw these two gentlemen, Major Knox and Mr. Harloe Phibbs?—The day they canvassed me.
 427. About what time; before the election was it?—I think it was in July or August.
 428. Do you recollect a regatta being held?—I do.
 429. Was it about that time?—It was exactly that time; it was in July, the time of the assizes; I remember now.
 430. Where did they meet you?—In my own house.
 431. Did they both come into you?—Yes; and Mr. Pollock with them.
 432. Is that the gentleman whose receipt you got?—Yes; he received the money.
 433. These three were together when they went in to canvass you?—They were, and Mr. Brennan.
 434. Is that Thomas Brennan?—Yes.
 435. Were you introduced to Major Knox?—Yes.
 436. By whom?—By Thomas Brennan.
 437. What did he say to you?—He said to Major Knox, "This is Mr. Flynn." I had the pleasure of bringing Major Knox into a small apartment we had, and he sat down, and Mr. Pollock sat down.
 438. Did anybody else go into the small room besides Mr. Pollock and Major Knox?—No. He told me anything he had the power to do in the way of serving me he would do to serve me; and Mr. Brennan told me he would get me the price of a score of sheep.
 439. Brennan was not there at the time?—He was outside, in the shop.
 440. Did he ask you for your vote on that occasion?—He did.
 441. Was Major Knox present when there was any conversation about the sheep?—No, he was not present.
 442. Was that upon another occasion?—Upon another occasion Brennan told me.
 443. Was it before or after that interview when they canvassed you in the small room?—It was after that.
 444. What did Brennan say to you?—He told me he would get me the price of a score of sheep.
 445. Did he say from whom he would get you the price of a score of sheep?—From Major Knox, he said.
 446. Did you see Major Knox and Mr. Brennan much together before the election?—Yes; I got them into the house together the day I went to look after the price of a score of sheep.
 447. Then you went up to look after this promise?—Certainly; I did surely.
 448. Where did you go?—To Mr. Utred Knox's house.
 449. Did you find Major Knox there?—Yes.
 450. Where was Brennan?—Along with him.
 451. Along with Major Knox?—Yes.
 452. Did Major Knox see you?—He did.
 453. Where did he see you?—In Mr. Knox's house.
 454. I mean to say in what apartment, in the parlour or upstairs?—In the hall.
 455. Had you a letter with you at the time?—I had.
 456. What was that?—Saying I was a man that had come to him on business.

457. Was that a message of your own to Major Knox?—Yes.
 458. Did you hand the letter to Major Knox?—I did.
 459. Did Major Knox read it?—He did.
 460. Did he talk to you about its contents?—He read it over, and I answered all questions about it.
 461. What did he say?—He told me "Flynn, I am prevented by my friends of the town to give any more money to freeholders, voters." He said, "I have sent you some money before from Dublin." "I got that," said I, "from Mr. Brennan." "All right," said he, "that is settled so far."
 462. Was that in reference to the 10*l*. rent transaction?—That is what he meant.
 463. Did Brennan say anything about the application of the money he got from Major Knox for you?—Yes; he said he had paid that money for me.
 464. Did he say how he had paid it?—For the rent.
 465. Are you quite sure he said that in Major Knox's presence?—I am.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

466. Who did you say was by when this letter was read by Brennan to you?—Nobody but myself; he brought me out to the garden on Sunday morning.
 467. Brennan's own house?—No, my own house.
 468. He took you into the garden?—Yes.
 469. And no one was there?—Yes.
 470. Can you read and write?—He did not give me the letter at all in my hands.
 471. Did you see the letter?—I did.
 472. I understood you to say you read it while he had it in his hands?—I was just looking over it; he read it to me however.
 473. There is no mistake about it?—There is no mistake about the letter.
 474. And you will swear that Major Knox said in that letter that your rent was to be paid?—I did not say that.
 475. What did he say?—He said he was happy to have it in his power to serve me, something the like of that, and to pay the rent, as I had become a friend of his.
 476. Did he not say in his letter that Brennan was to pay the rent for you; that is a simple question?—No.
 477. Nothing of that kind?—He authorised him to pay it for me, or something the like of that; and he told me himself in Mr. Utred Knox's house.
 478. Never mind that at present; what day of the month was it that the 10*l*. was paid to Mr. Pollock?—It was on Thursday.
 479. What month?—I think in June or July; I cannot swear.
 480. Was the quarter sessions going on?—I think it was the 2nd of July, or something like that.
 481. Was not the quarter sessions in June?—It was the latter end of June, or the beginning of July.
 482. It could not be July; do you mean to say it was the quarter sessions?—Yes.
 483. Upon your oath, was not that in June, whatever it was?—I inquired before I came here, here, and I was informed it was the 2nd of July.

484. Who did you inquire from?—I went to Mr. Macknieth, and he told me something like that.

485. Will you swear it was not in June, whatever it was?—Well, I will not swear that.

486. Where was the money paid to Mr. Pollock?—In the court-house.

487. Who was by?—I was.

488. Who else?—Mr. Macknieth was by looking at it.

489. Is Mr. Macknieth here?—I do not know.

490. He was by, and saw this money paid?—Yes, and Mr. Pollock himself will not deny it.

491. And this money was paid by Brennan?—Yes.

492. Did you not apply to Major Knox yourself personally in July last, to give you some money, and did he not refuse you?—I did, with reference to what Brennan promised; the price of a score of sheep.

493. Did you not apply to Major Knox in July, and he refused it?—He did.

494. Did you not abuse him because he would not give it to you?—Never.

495. Do you mean to swear that?—I do; I never spoke an angry word to Major Knox.

496. Was the ejectment postponed, as you said, to October?—It was.

497. Who was it got it postponed to the session of October?—Mr. Pollock.

498. Was that before or after the 10*l.* had been paid?—After it was paid.

499. After the 10*l.* was paid to Mr. Pollock, he got the ejectment to stand over till October?—He did.

500. When did you get that receipt for the 10*l.*; on the day it bears date, I suppose?—No, I think after that.

501. And you got it from the person whose name is to it?—No, Thomas Smith.

502. With respect to the sum of 17*s.* 6*d.*, you say that was paid in the presence of a man of the name of Mulligan?—Yes.

503. Is Mr. Mulligan a voter?—He is.

504. Who did he vote for?—For Flanagan.

505. And Brennan paid this, I understand, in Mulligan's presence?—He did.

506. Was anyone else by?—There were people present when he paid more than that.

507. Never mind more than that; you say this 17*s.* 6*d.* was paid in Mulligan's presence?—It was brought in and put in my hands.

508. Is there anyone else now living, who was present?—Gray was there. He might not have seen it given to me; he was a piece away from me. It was brought and put into my hand.

509. Will you swear that anyone else was present, when the 17*s.* 6*d.* was given to you?—Gray was there. He saw the man put it in my hands.

510. Will you swear that he saw the 17*s.* 6*d.* paid?—He saw a piece of paper put into my hand.

511. Is Gray a voter?—No.

512. Was 15*s.* afterwards paid in Gray's presence?—No.

513. In whose presence was it paid?—I was by myself.

514. Was anyone by?—It was the road side.

515. And no one present?—No.

516. What did he give you that for?—For to keep.

85.

517. What month was that in?—Well, it was in July.

518. Was that after Major Knox had refused you the money?—Yes, he gave me money after the Major had refused me.

519. What month was the 17*s.* 6*d.* paid in?—That was the first money I got.

520. When was it; in September?—No, in June I got that money.

521. In what month was the 1*l.* paid?—In October, at the revision.

522. You said, I think, that Kilcullen was by at that time?—Yes.

523. Was anyone else?—Gray was by, and Kilcullen's son.

524. Is Kilcullen a voter?—He is.

525. Who did he vote for?—For Flanagan.

526. The son has no vote?—No.

527. And you told me that Gray has no vote?—No.

528. Did anyone else see the money paid on that occasion?—No, not to my knowledge.

529. This sum of 5*l.* you have spoken of, who did you get it from?—Gray brought it to the house for me.

530. James Gray?—Yes.

531. Is he here?—He is.

532. What did he say to you when he brought it?—He said, "Here's all I've got, 5*l.*"

533. What month was that in?—September, I think.

534. In September, he gave you that and said, "Here's all I've got for you"?—He did not say for me in particular.

535. "Here's all I've got"?—"Here's all I've got."

536. What did you do with it?—It was divided.

537. It was drunk?—No, it could not be all drunk; we got 10*s.* a man of it.

538. Do you mean to say you do not know this was paid for a mob?—I do not know.

539. What did you understand him to mean when he said, "Here's all I've got"?—That it was to be divided.

540. Will you swear that all the men it was divided amongst were voters?—I will not.

541. I am asking you whether you will swear that?—No.

542. There were nine men, upon your oath; how many of those nine men were voters?—Only two.

543. Then there were seven persons who had no votes?—Just so.

544. Upon your oath, do you mean to tell his Lordship you did not understand what he meant?—Yes, I do; this money was to divide between us.

545. For what?—To put to any use we wished to make of it; to drink, if we wished.

546. And seven of them had no votes at all?—Yes.

547. Did all these nine of you live together?—No.

548. Did the nine form a mob in the town?—Some of them did.

549. Were you one of the mob yourself?—No.

550. How many of the nine formed part of the mob?—Five or six, or seven.

551. Upon your oath, were there not eight?—I cannot swear; there might be some of them part of the mob.

B 2

552. Whose

P. Flynn.

19 February
1869.

*P. Flynn.*19 February
1869.

552. Whose mob were they?—They were Knox's that time.

553. Then if there were a mob at that time, Knox's mob, do you mean now to repeat the answer you originally gave, that you did not know what he meant when he said, "Here's all I've got"?—I do repeat it.

554. Do you ask his Lordship to believe that?—Yes; 5 l. he brought.

555. With respect to this other 5 l. you speak of, was it at your house?—Yes.

556. You were there when Gray brought it?—Yes.

557. Was it divided among the same nine men?—Yes.

558. And for the same purpose?—I suppose so.

559. Will you swear you did not know the purpose for which it was given?—What purpose was it?

560. Was it for the same purpose?—I suppose it was.

561. Have you a doubt about it?—Not a bit.

562. Could you not have said so; as a matter-of-fact, were you not one of Flanagan's mob at the time of the election?—No.

563. Yourself?—No.

564. Will you swear that in the presence of the Court and your neighbours?—I do.

565. You were not one of them at all?—No.

566. You said you were at Major Knox's house; that Brennan was there, and Pollock was there with Major Knox when canvassing?—No; at my house they were.

567. They were there in your house, and the Major was canvassing?—He was.

568. And I suppose you saw him canvassing, often going through the town?—No.

569. Had he asked you before for your vote?—No; I had never seen the man till that day.

570. Did he ask you for your vote?—He did.

571. What did you say?—I said I would vote for him.

572. And there was an end of it?—Yes.

573. When did Brennan offer you the score of sheep?—It was not at that time; it was before that, and after it.

574. Who was by when Brennan promised you the score of sheep, before the Major asked you for your vote?—No one.

575. What month was it when you were asked for your vote?—July.

576. Was it before the Major asked for your vote that you were promised the score of sheep?—Before and after.

577. Who was present when you were promised the score of sheep before the Major asked you for your vote?—No person but myself.

578. Where was it?—When we were walking together.

579. In the town?—Yes.

580. You were walking together, and the Major said he would give you a score of sheep?—No, he did not say that, but Brennan said he would get me the price of a score of sheep; and he said moreover, if I would vote for the Major, he would get me a house down in the town, and set me up, and every one of the Conservative party would deal with me.

581. It was after the promise in June by Brennan of the score of sheep, that you asked the Major for the price, and he refused it?—Yes; it was in July.

582. And you never abused him in your life?—No, I defy that.

583. You say you went to Major Knox then, and you gave him a letter, and he read it?—I did.

584. Who was by when that letter was read?—Thomas Brennan.

585. Who else?—That was all.

586. And he told you, as I understood you to say, he was advised by his friends not to give any money in the town?—Not to give any more money to the freeholders, the voters.

587. And just in the same conversation, he said there was a talk between Brennan and you and him, about the rent, and the Major said the rent was settled for?—No; he ordered Brennan to settle it. He said, "I sent you some money before," and Brennan said that money was for the rent.

588. And I understood you to say that was settled for?—Yes; Brennan said that went for the rent.

589. There was no doubt about that?—No doubt about that at all.

590. You said something about Mr. Utrid Knox. Where was it you saw Mr. Utrid Knox?—In his own office.

591. Who was present; I think you told us already?—There was Kilcullen.

592. You and Kilcullen went together there?—Yes.

593. And saw Mr. Utrid Knox?—Yes.

594. Were no one but the three by?—That is all. He came up from his dinner to me.

595. You asked for money?—Yes; I said that 5 l. was no use for us.

596. The 5 l. you got among the two voters and the seven others. You were a thirsty soul?—Yes.

597. And he would not give it to you?—He said when that would be out he would give more.

598. Did you not understand that he was to pay the mob?—No; he did not name anything about the mob at all.

599. Did you not say already that he said he would give no more money, that you made the people drunk, and he would have nothing more to do with it?—No. He said, "Flynn, do you want to get them all drunk, as they were before last week?"

600. Who do you think was the man that put them in that state the last week?—I could not tell you.

601. Was it not yourself?—No.

602. You voted for Captain Flanagan?—I did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JAMES GREY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

J. Grey.

603. I BELIEVE you live in Sligo?—I do.

604. But you are not an elector?—No.

605. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Brennan?—I do.

606. Do you remember him at any time giving you some money?—I do.

607. When was it he gave you the first money?—In January 1868.

608. How much was it?—He gave me half a sovereign, and he gave eight more men half sovereigns a-piece.

609. That

609. That would be 4 l. 10 s.?—He gave 16 men half-sovereigns a-piece.

610. And you a half-sovereign also?—Yes.

611. That makes 8 l. 10 s.?—Yes.

612. Do you know a man named Martin McMulligan?—I do.

613. Was he one of those men?—He was.

614. Is he a voter?—Yes.

615. And Dominick Kilcullen, do you know him?—Yes.

616. Did he get 10 s.?—Yes.

617. He is a voter?—Yes.

618. Are you able to mention the names of any others of the 17?—He gave to Patrick Scanlan, Thomas Lenahan, Patrick M'Goldrick, and James M'Goldrick; I do not remember, it is so long since it happened.

619. What M'Goldrick was it; Pat M'Goldrick and James M'Goldrick?—Pat M'Goldrick and James M'Goldrick.

620. Do you know whether any of the 17 you saw there, with the exception of Kilcullen and McMulligan, were voters?—No.

621. Do you know a voter by the name of Michael Rooney?—I do.

622. Do you remember at any time getting 1 l. from Brennan for the purpose of giving it to Rooney?—I do.

623. When was that?—It was the time of the sowing of the oats in spring. I disremember the month.

624. I do not know what months you sow oats in this country?—I disremember the month, but I know Rooney told me that he wanted 1 l. that Brennan sent, for to get 1 l. from me, that he wanted to buy a bag of oats.

625. Then you went to Brennan?—He brought me to Brennan.

626. Then did Brennan give you the money?—Rooney told me that he could not give me the money, that he meant to have it from me.

627. Who was present?—No one but them both.

628. I am asking what passed between you and Brennan; what did Brennan tell you about this 1 l.?—Rooney went for me.

629. Never mind that; did you see Brennan?—I did.

630. Tell me what you told Brennan; and nothing else?—Brennan gave me 1 l., and I gave it to Rooney.

631. What did Brennan say?—He put it from his hand into mine, and I handed it to Rooney.

632. Did he say anything about not giving money himself?—He said he could not give money himself.

633. Did he say why?—For fear he might be brought up for it.

634. Did he mention whether he had any connection with Major Knox or not, as his reason?—He often said that.

635. What was it?—That he was an agent of Major Knox.

636. Mr. Palles.] Do you remember upon another occasion Brennan giving you a sum of 20 l.?—Yes.

637. When was that?—It was at the time of the revision.

638. Did he tell you what you were to do with it?—He did.

639. What was it he told you?—To divide it among the men.

640. Did he tell you the names of the men that were to get it?—He did; he had them down in a book.

85.

641. Do you know Pat Flynn?—I do.

642. Was he one of them?—Yes.

643. Tell me the names of the others, as well as you remember?—Dominick Kilcullen and myself; all the men that were in the habit of getting it; that I told you.

644. Was there any talk, when that 20 l. was given, of it not being enough?—Yes.

645. Who was it said that?—Brennan, himself.

646. What was it he said?—Brennan gave me a letter the night before that, to go to Major Knox's; I went to Major Knox with the letter; Major Knox and I had some conversation about it; I told Major Knox that the men got no money since Brennan went to Dublin, and I told him that Captain Flanagan's men were getting money, and that we got no money, and I told him that Captain Flanagan's men got 100 l. He asked me what did I think as to whether Brennan was dividing the money fairly; I told him I thought he was; he said, "Send Brennan to me to-morrow, and there will be a man here to meet him, and you must get the money."

647. Was that before or after the 20 l. was distributed?—The night before we got the 20 l.

648. And you were to send Brennan to him?—Yes.

649. Did you tell that to Brennan?—I went to Brennan that night to Cleveley, where he was in Fox's house, and told him what Major Knox had told me, and told him to go at 10 in the morning, and he would meet Major Knox there; in the morning, when I met Brennan myself and Kilcullen, there was a man of the name of Gillan, a man named Caveney; he had only 20 l. for us. We were not satisfied with the 20 l.; I said Major Knox told me last night that we would get more money than this, this would be no good to us, you had better go back to Major Knox, and say "We will not take it"; we were just standing in shade of a tree, and we saw Major Knox and some man come with him; when we were in Cleveley we met Major Knox, four of us, and we complained of the money; Major Knox told us to divide that 20 l., and we would get as much more the next day, so I divided it.

650. Tell me the names of those four men?—Michael Caveney, John Keenan, Dominick Kilcullen, James Gray, and myself; there was Major Knox and another man, I don't know who he is.

651. You say there was another person with Major Knox, was he a gentleman by appearance?—Yes.

652. Just give me a description, was he a tall man or a short man?—He was a fair-sized man, about five-feet-eight or ten.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] That description would not be sufficient to satisfy me as to identity.

653. Mr. Palles.] You remember the time of the races?—I do.

654. Did Brennan ask you to put your name on a bill, at the time of the races?—In July he did.

655. How much was that for?—He did not axe me to put my name to the bill.

656. Did you put your name on the bill?—He told me that he gave Dominick Kilcullen 25 l. one evening, and I asked him for some money for myself; he told me he had no money for me, and that he would get a bill in the bank for me; "I will put your name to a bill in the bank," said he, "and I will get it for you"; "I am satisfied, sir," said I; so in the course of a week he got the bill in the bank for me.

657. How much is the bill for?—He told me 20 l. he got.

658. Did you sign your name on that bill, yourself?—I did not.

659. He told you he would get 20 l.?—He told me he would go to the bank and get 20 l.; when I met him in a week after, he told me what to do with the 20 l.

660. Did he give you the 20 l.?—No, he gave me 14 l. of it.

661. Did he tell you what you were to do with that 14 l.?—He did.

662. What was it?—He told me to keep 5 l. of it myself, and to give 3 l. to Martin McMulligan, and 3 l. to Patrick Scanlan, and 2 l. to Caveney, and 1 l. to Pat McGoldrick.

663. Did you give that 3 l. to McMulligan?—Yes.

664. In fact, you gave the money to the persons directed?—Yes, the same as I used to see himself give it.

665. Did you on any occasion see Brennan give Pat Flynn any money?—I saw him give him a sovereign. I do not know what money it was. I saw him one night giving him a sovereign at the time of the revision.

666. Where was it you saw him give him the sovereign?—At Cleveley.

667. You say that on another occasion you saw him give him money, and you did not know what it was?—Yes.

668. Do you recollect what the last witness said about the card?—I do.

669. When was that?—In September.

670. Take the first card?—I saw him give it to Pat Flynn. Pat Flynn gave it to me, and told me what to do with it.

671. What did he tell you to do with it?—To bring it down to Mr. Wilson, and give it to him.

672. There are more Mr. Wilsons than one in Sligo; who is that Mr. Wilson?—He is a book-seller.

673. Is he in court?—Yes, there he is (indicating him).

674. Just describe that card; I understand it was a round card?—A small card, round; one of the corners of it cut, and a little hole in the middle.

675. Was there any writing on it?—No writing at all.

676. You brought that down to Mr. Wilson?—I did.

677. Who did you give it to?—To himself.

678. Did he give you any money for it?—£. 5.

679. What did you do with it?—Brought it up to Flynn and Kilcullen, and said, "Here's what he has given me, 5 l."

680. Were you present when the money was divided?—I was.

681. Did you have any of it yourself?—Yes.

682. How much?—I got a pound of it myself. There were nine men got of it.

683. That would be 10 s. a-piece, and one to yourself?—Yes.

684. Did Kilcullen get any of that money?—Half-a-sovereign.

685. And Flynn?—And Flynn.

686. Do you remember what day of the week that was?—On Saturday.

687. Upon the next Saturday did any person give you another similar card?—The next Saturday, after I heard that a man named Morrow, a policeman, was looking for me.

688. You cannot tell me what you heard, but did you get a card upon the Saturday?—I did upon the Saturday after.

689. Who did you get it from?—From Morrow.

690. Who is Morrow?—He is a policeman. He was a policeman a good while in Sligo; he is now out of the police, I think; he is a detective, or something of that.

691. What passed between you and Morrow when you got that card?—He gave it into my hand.

692. You went to him?—No, he sent a messenger to me, and brought me down. When he saw me coming he handed me the card fore-nest another man.

693. What is the name of the other man?—Scanlan; he sent Scanlan for me.

694. And gave you the card when Scanlan was present?—Yes.

695. What did he tell you to do with it?—He told me to go down where I knew with the card.

696. You went to Wilson's?—Yes.

697. You got 5 l. that day?—I got 10 l.

698. Was it from Wilson himself you got it?—To himself I gave it each time.

699. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What month was that in?—In the month of September.

700. Mr. Palles.] What did you do with that 10 l.?—I kept 5 l. of it myself, and divided the other 5 l.

701. Did you give Kilcullen any of that money?—Yes, half-a-sovereign.

702. The old man?—Yes.

703. Did you give Flynn any of it?—Half-a-sovereign.

704. Did you give McMulligan any of it?—No.

705. Did you see money given on any other occasion?—Well, I have seen money given often; I do not remember the date.

706. Had you any conversation with Brennan about the price of a score of sheep?—He told me that he would get the price of a score of sheep for Flynn at different times.

707. When was it he told you that?—Some time, I am not right certain as to the date.

Cross-examined by Dr. Kaye.

708. What is your trade or business in Sligo?—Well, I deal in pigs and kill pigs.

709. Who was it told you that 100 l. had been given to Flanagan's men?—I told it myself to Major Knox.

710. Who told you?—I heard it rumoured about the town.

711. Did you believe it?—I could not give it credit; I did not know whether it was fact or not.

712. What do you believe that 100 l. was given for?—I do not know; I could not say.

713. Will you swear you do not know?—I do not know what it was given for.

714. Was it not given for the purpose of having a mob?—I could not swear that.

715. What do you believe?—I do not know.

716. If there was 100 l. given at that time, what time was it that you told that to Major Knox; at the time of the revision or before the revision?—Some time about the revision.

717. Do you not believe that was given for the purpose purpose of having men to shout about the town, and all that kind of thing, for Captain Flanagan?—Well, it might be so.

718. Did not you believe that?—It might be so.

719. What was the first sum of money you got?—I got a half-sovereign first in January 1868.

720. And 16 other men got the same?—Fifteen or 16 men.

721. And only two of those were voters?—Two of them were voters.

722. Were you not to act with the men as a mob for Major Knox?—I was to act with Mr. Brennan; to do all I could for Mr. Brennan.

723. All you could?—Yes; all I could in the way of serving Major Knox.

724. And did you serve Major Knox down to the time of the election?—I served him as far as I could up to the time of the revision.

725. And did all these other men do the same?—Well, they seemed as if they did do as much as they could, as I think.

726. Were you often together with these men?—Sometimes; sometimes I am not with them.

727. But you were at times together?—Yes.

728. Were you in the habit of drinking together?—Well, I don't drink very often; I am temperate 12 months in the year; I don't drink too often.

729. Were you drinking at this time?—No.

730. Did you get into a scrape at all?—I did.

731. About what time did you get into the scrape?—I got into a scrape at the time of the election.

732. What kind of a scrape did you get into?—Well, I was taken innocently for assaulting a voter, which I have to stand on my trial before his Lordship in Sligo for.

Re-examined by Mr. Palles.

733. What is the name of the voter you were charged with assaulting?—Peter Harrison.

734. Had you any conversation with Brennan about that?—No.

735. And you say you are wrongly charged for that?—Yes, wrongly charged.

Further cross-examined by Dr. Kay.

736. Who did Harrison vote for; did he not vote for Major Knox?—I do not think he voted at all.

[The Witness withdrew.]

(A short adjournment took place.)

THOMAS COLLINS BRODIE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

737. ARE you a member of the firm of Coster, Brodie & Son?—I am.

738. Are you general stationers?—Yes.

739. You are wholesale stationers, I believe?—Yes.

740. Do you know Mr. Stephen M. Cherry, of Sligo?—I do not know him personally.

741. By correspondence?—Yes.

742. He is, I suppose, a customer of yours?—He is.

743. Do you recollect getting a letter from him in the month of November?—I do.

744. Did that letter enclose a cheque, or a letter of credit, or a cash credit of some kind?—It did.

745. To what amount?—£.24 5s. 3d.

746. Was that by a letter of credit, or cheque, or what was it?—It was a letter of credit, as well as I remember; I am not quite positive.

747. A letter of credit on a Dublin bank?—On a Dublin bank.

748. Did you get instructions how you were to apply that money?—

Mr. Macdonogh.] I beg pardon; was it in writing?—

749. Mr. Waters.] Did you get instructions how to apply the letter; was it in writing?—We did.

750. Was that in writing?—It was in the letter.

751. Have you the letter?—No.

752. May I ask what has become of the letter?—It was returned to Mr. Cherry.

753. Did you get any communication from Mr. Cherry in receipt of that letter when it was returned?—I did.

754. Have you that letter?—I have.

[Letter produced and read, as follows:—]

"Gentlemen, "Sligo, 17 Nov '68.

"You will please send me, per return, the 20*l*. which I sent you, as the person is 85.

not now going to America, as I understood he was. You will also enclose my letter of instructions, as I want to have it in my possession. Please excuse the trouble. Should I have an opportunity of serving you, you may command me.

"Yours very truly,

"S. M. Cherry.

"Messrs. Coster, Brodie & Co.,
"Dublin."

755. Did you endorse it?—I did.

756. Is the endorsement in your hand?—It is in my hand.

757. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Did you send back the 20*l*.?—

758. Mr. Waters.] Did you send back the 20*l*.?—We did.

759. What did you do with the 4*l*. 5s. 3d.?—It settled Mr. Cherry's account with us, 4*l*. 5s.

760. You applied it to his credit?—We did.

761. You sent back the 20*l*. on receipt of that letter?—We did.

762. What were the contents of Mr. Cherry's letter?—I cannot exactly recollect.

763. As well as you recollect, what was the substance of it?—It was telling us that the enclosed cheque was to pay our account, and the balance of 20*l*. we were to hand to a person who would call upon us.

Mr. Macdonogh objected; but the objection was overruled.

764. Mr. Waters.] Did the letter contain any instructions by which you would recognise or know the person to whom you were to give the money?—I cannot speak positively about it. I took no particular notice of the letter at the time.

Mr. Macdonogh.] Unless you can recollect, do not say.

765. Mr. Waters.] To the best of your recollection?—No, I cannot be positive about it at all; I took no particular notice of it at the time.

T. C.
Brodie.

19 February
1869.

766. Did he say where it was to be paid in the letter?—Not that I remember.

767. Of course you would recognise that letter again, if you saw it?—I very probably would; it would, probably, have my endorsement on it.

768. Do you recollect the date of that letter that you got from him?—I have an acknowledgment of it. (Letter produced.)

Mr. Cherry was called, and stated, in reply to Mr. Waters, that he had not got the letter about him.

769. Mr. Waters.] Have you it here?—I have not it about me.

770. Have you it at home?—No.

771. Where is it?—

Mr. Macdonogh objected; and Mr. Justice Keogh said, if the questions were to be put, the Witness must be on oath.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Has he been called upon to produce the letter?—

Mr. Waters.] No, my Lord; we did not know anything about it till this moment.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Then he cannot be expected to do it now; but I shall expect, if it is required, that this letter shall be in Court to-morrow. It is now proved by this Witness, and traced back to Mr. Cherry; and he will do well to produce it if he has it.

Mr. Macdonogh.] Certainly; but he says he has not it.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] He used a very curious expression; in answer to the first question, he said he had not the letter about him, which implied that he had it elsewhere. You had better search wherever you keep your letters, when you return to-night to Sligo, and be here in the morning with it.

Mr. Macdonogh.] I have taken the liberty, my Lord, of advising him to do so.

[Mr. Cherry withdrew.]

772. Mr. Waters.] The last question put to the witness was as to when he got the letter, and he says he got it on the 17th of November; (to the Witness,) so that you would have got it on the 17th of November?—It came a couple of days before that. It was addressed to Mr. Coster, as well as I remember, and I did not open it for a couple of days, because I expected Mr. Coster home.

773. And you sent him back the 20th?—Yes.

774. I suppose by a letter of credit?—Just so; by a letter of credit.

ELIZA BUCHANAN was called, but did not answer.

EDWARD WELSH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

E. Welsh.

775. MR. WELSH, what position do you occupy in Sligo?—Governor of the Sligo prison.

776. Is that a prison for debtors as well as criminals?—Yes.

777. Do you recollect the day upon which the last election at Sligo took place?—Yes.

778. We are told it was the 19th of November?—The 19th of November.

779. Had you a person of the name of Curragh in your custody as a debtor upon that day?—Yes.

780. Will you just look to any memorandum that enables you to state what is his Christian name?—Henry J. Curragh.

781. What time was he put into your custody?—Forty minutes past 10, on the 19th.

782. When was he discharged from your custody?—At 40 minutes past 11.

783. Was it upon payment of the debt for which he was detained, that he was discharged?—Yes.

784. Who was the person who received the amount of the debt for which he was detained; who paid it; was it paid into your hands?—Yes, it was paid into my hands by the debtor, and the amount was handed to him by Mr. Alexander Gilmore.

785. The amount of the money you got from the debtor was handed to the debtor by Mr. Alexander Gilmore?—Yes; the amount handed to him was 16 l., and the amount on the decree was 15 l. 9 s. 4 d.; 1 l. was returned, and the debtor himself paid the 9 s. 4 d.

786. Did you get the notes into your possession?—Yes.

787. Take these two notes into your hand (handing two bank-notes to the Witness); did you endorse them?—I did.

788. That was in the course of your duty and business?—It was.

789. Do you recognise your endorsement?—Yes.

790. Tell me, who is this gentlemen, Mr. Gilmore, who handed these notes to the debtor, and the debtor handed them to you; what position does he fill in the town of Sligo?—He is a magistrate; he is mayor of the town at present.

791. At present?—Yes.

792. And then, I suppose, you allowed your prisoner to go away about his business?—Yes; I allowed him to go after it was paid me.

793. Now, was there any conversation whatever that passed between this gentleman, Mr. Gilmore, and the debtor, about where they were going after he was discharged; was there any conversation; just tell us what occurred, as near as you can recollect?—I do not remember that anything was said between them.

794. It was election time, you know; was anything said about the election; I know you will tell us frankly if you recollect?—Certainly; "I pay the money, and the man is there, and you may ask him; I did not ask him who he would vote for."

795. I know you did not; I do not impute it to you in the slightest degree?—No; but that was the observation made by Mr. Gilmore.

796. What was the observation made by Mr. Gilmore?—The money is paid and the man is there now, and you can ask him, if you please, if I asked him who he would vote for; I think that was the substance of the observation, and that was the only observation he made.

797. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Mr. Gilmore said that?—Yes.

798. "The money is paid; the man is there; you can ask him, if you please, if I asked him for whom he would vote"; is that it?—Yes, that was was the substance of it as well as I can recollect.

799. He said that to you?—I think he addressed himself to me.

800. Mr. Waters.] Mr. Gilmore said, "You can ask him if you like, if I asked him for whom he would vote;" is that the substance of it?—Yes.

801. Was there any reply made to that?—No; I made no reply; it was no affair of mine.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

802. Who was the plaintiff in the civil suit on the decree?—Mr. Maurice Condrey.

803. And he was an ardent supporter of Captain Flanigan, was he not?—Yes, I think he was.

804. And Mr. Maurice Condrey arrested this man on the very day of the polling, did he not?—He was arrested on the day of the polling.

805. At the suit of Maurice Condrey, an active supporter of Captain Flanigan?—Yes.

806. And I believe that was 40 minutes past 10 precisely; you are an accurate man, you see, as to the time of it?—Yes.

807. He was in your custody at that hour?—Yes.

808. Was he not arrested whilst he was actually going to the poll to record his vote?—

809. Mr. Caffey.] Were you there at the poll?—I cannot answer that question.

810. Mr. Macdonogh.] Then you cannot answer that?—No.

811. I cannot ask you what you believe?—I will tell you frankly the thing I know.

812. At 40 minutes past 10 he was arrested by Mr. Condrey; you would have voted for Captain Flanigan yourself, if you had thought proper to vote at all?—

Mr. Pallas.] You need not ask that question; he did not vote.

813. Mr. Macdonogh.] I know he did not; I am only showing how impartial a gentleman he is, as I have no doubt he is. (To the Witness) Was it not to you that the Mayor, Mr. Gilmore, addressed himself, "The money is paid now; the man is there, and you can ask him whether I have ever asked him to vote or not?"—I think it was.

814. It was to you?—Yes.

815. And you did not ask any questions?—No, certainly not.

816. You did not trouble yourself further?—No.

(The decree was handed in to the Registrar, and marked.)

WILLIAM WAUGH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

817. Do you know Henry J. Curragh?—I do.

818. Did you serve a copy of this subpoena upon him?—I did.

819. How, and when did you serve it?—(Subpoena handed to Witness).

Witness.] No, this is not it.

820. Do you remember when you served him?—On this morning week.

821. Where?—About a mile and-a-half from the town of Sligo.

822. At what hour of the day did you serve him?—At 10 or 15 minutes past seven.

823. Will you tell his Lordship how you served him?—I was after him for 12 or 14 days.

824. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You were looking for him?—Yes; I rapped at his house several times, and could not get an entrance; I went several times to the railway, to the car office, and on this morning week I went to the car office and got an intimation that he was on his way to Enniskillen.

825. From information that you received, what did you do?—I took a fare on the mail car to Hazlewood, the distance of about a mile and-a-half from the town. I saw him on the left-hand side of the car. When I came up, he was standing with his hands in this way (illustrating). There were three horses in the car. He took a certain turn; I jumped down and followed him; he jumped up where I was, on the car; I put my hands down and produced the subpoena, with 5 s., and laid it on the cushion; he took his hand and gave it a slap, and threw it on the road; I stooped down as the car was going on, and took up the paper and threw it into the well of the car, and said, "There, that is for you my lad."

826. He went on, on the car?—He did.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

827. Did you arrest this man, Curragh, on the day of the polling?—I did.

828. Where was he when you arrested him; on what spot?—He was going in with Mr. Gilmore, on the steps of the court-house.

829. Was he going in to vote?—I suppose so.

830. Who was it told you to go and arrest him?—I got the decree from Mr. O'Loughlen.

831. Was that Mr. O'Loughlen, the barrister, who was managing the election?—Yes.

832. How long before the actual arrest did you get the decree?—The night before.

833. Did he tell you to arrest this man as he was going to vote?—No; lest he should break his promise to Captain Flannigan. I went up to his house, and said to him in the morning, "Mr. O'Loughlen expects you to go down." He said, "I won't," says he.

834. What did you say?—Nothing.

835. You saw him on the steps of the court-house, and seized your bird as he was going in; you did not arrest him in the morning, of course?—No.

836. When you saw him with Mr. Gilmore; was it Mr. Gilmore he was with?—Yes.

837. You knew it was all up with Captain Flannigan, and so you did your business?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARY DALE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

M. Dale. 838. ARE you the wife of Henry Dale?—
 Yes.
 19 February 1869. 839. Is your husband the captain of one of the steamers that plies between Sligo and Liverpool?
 —Yes.
 840. Or Glasgow?—Yes.
 841. Which is it, Glasgow or Liverpool?—
 Liverpool and Westport.
 842. Where is he at present?—I expect he is on his way from Liverpool to Westport.
 843. Do you recollect at the time of the election, was your husband in command of this steamer?—Yes, he was.
 844. Who were the owners of the steamer?—
 Messrs. Middleton and Polexfel.
 845. They are the principal owners?—Yes.
 846. They have the management of the steamers in Sligo?—Yes.
 847. The employment and disemployment of the men?—Yes.
 848. Do you know when the steamer will be back in Sligo?—I do not know; he is not on his own boat at present; he has been altered since the election; he plies between Liverpool and Westport, and calls at Sligo occasionally.
 849. Do you know when he will reach Westport?—I think he left Liverpool this morning, and he will not be in Westport till Sunday morning, I suppose.
 850. He was in command of a steamer at the time of the election?—Yes, a steamboat called the "Glasgow."
 851. Do you recollect his being canvassed by Captain Flannigan?—He never saw Mr. Flannnigan himself.
 852. You saw him, I suppose?—Yes.
 853. Do you recollect when he sailed from Sligo, immediately before the election?—He sailed on the Saturday before the election.
 854. In the ordinary course of his voyage, when would he have been back in Sligo?—He would have been back on the Wednesday night,
 the Wednesday night previous to the election.
 855. Do you recollect what time he sailed that morning?—He did not go by the boat at all that morning; he remained at home.
 856. Did he leave Sligo in the boat?—He went as far as the point, down the island.
 857. Then he sailed from Sligo with his vessel?
 —Yes.
 858. In command of his vessel?—Yes.
 859. Did he come back again that day?—Yes, he came back about an hour after he left.
 860. Did he walk or drive back?—He drove back.
 861. Do you know whose car he came upon?
 —Michael Galwin's, at the Point.
 862. Did he remain at home until the election?
 —Yes.
 863. Was he canvassed by any persons in the interval between his return from the commencement of that voyage and the election?—No, he was not.
 864. Did any person come to him on the day of the election to go to vote?—No, they did not.
 865. Did you get a note that day from anyone?—No, I never received a note.
 866. Did your husband receive a note?—I do not know; I could not say.
 867. Do you know Mr. Polexfel?—Yes, of course I do.

868. Did a note come from Polexfel to your husband's house that day addressed to you at your husband's; do you recollect that?—I do not know; there came no note to me; I received no note.

869. Did you see a note from Mr. Polexfel in your husband's house that day?—I could not say it was from Mr. Polexfel.

870. Had you a note in your hands that day, that came into your husband's hands that day,
 from somebody or other?—I saw it in my husband's hands, it was not my hands; I could not say who it was from.

871. Did you get it into your hands?—No, my husband got a note into his hands.

872. Did you tear up a note on that day, on your oath?—Oh, no; he would not allow me.

873. Did you see any note torn up in your presence that day?—My husband tore a note up, but I could not say who it was from; I could not swear to Mr. Polexfel's handwriting.

874. Did you read it?—I did.

875. What was in that note?—I cannot say now what was in the note.

Mr. Macdonogh objected to the question;
 the objection was allowed.

876. Mr. Waters.] Who brought the note?—
 There were two or three men came down with the note, two or three men from the court-house;
 I do not know what man handed it to him.

877. Who were they?—There were two young men of the name of Johnson.

878. Who are they?—Blacksmiths belonging to Sligo.

879. And who were the rest?—I do not know the others, only the two brothers, the Johnsons.

880. Do you mean you do not know who the others were?—No, I do not, indeed.

881. Did you see that letter yourself?—I saw the note; it was a small scrap of paper.

882. By whom was it signed; was there any signature to it?—

Mr. Macdonogh objected.

883. Mr. Waters.] Was there a signature to it?—I could not say; I looked at the note over his shoulder.

884. Was there a name to it?—I could not tell.

885. On your oath, was there a name?—I am on my oath, of course.

886. Was there a name to it; I ask you on your oath?—I am on my oath, of course.

887. Well, was there a name to it?—I could not say; I could not swear to it.

888. I do not ask you to swear to the writing at all; was there a name to the foot of that note?
 —I could not tell.

889. Do you mean to say you cannot tell?—
 No, I could not tell, indeed.

890. Did you see Mr. Harlowe Phibbs that day?—I minded him coming down in the trap with them to ask my husband to go up to vote.

891. Did he come to your husband's house?—
 Not inside the door.

892. Did he come to the door?—Well, he was at the door, but he was outside the door; he never came into the house.

893. Were

893. Were the Johnsons with him?—No, they were not.

894. How many came with the Johnsons when they came with this note?—I think it was two or three; I knew the two brothers Johnson, but I cannot tell the others.

895. How many were there?—Only three; the place was quiet at the time.

896. What did they do when they came in?—They did not come in at the door; they handed my husband the note.

897. Did they not come into the house?—No, it was a man in the shop insulted Johnson, at the time.

898. Then they did not come inside your door?—No, they did not come into my door.

899. Did you see anything in their hands besides the note?—No, not at that time when they handed in the note.

900. At any time that day near your house, did you?—No; they were but once near the house.

901. Did you see anything in their hands then?—No; they handed in the note, and then this man insulted Mr. Johnson.

902. Did you see anything in their hands?—No, I did not, only the note, when they came down from the court-house.

903. Did they say anything to your husband?—No.

904. Did they say anything to him?—They called him a coward when he refused to vote.

905. Did they call him a coward?—Yes.

906. Now, I have to ask you on your oath, had they a pistol; had one of them a revolver?—I did not see a revolver.

907. Had he a revolver in his hand?—No.

908. Nor a pistol at all?—I cannot say.

909. Did you yourself see a pistol?—No, I never saw a pistol. I shut the door, but I heard people say afterwards —

910. Did you yourself see it?—No.

911. How long was the note in your husband's house before it was destroyed?—It was not there many minutes.

912. Did you read it more than once?—No.

913. How long after the election did your husband remain in the employment of Messrs. Pollexfel?—The next morning he went to join his ship at Liverpool.

914. Was he dismissed from the service afterwards?—Yes, he was.

915. How long was he disemployed; was he dismissed from the service afterwards?—Yes, he was.

916. How long was he disemployed?—A few days, not long, sir; a few days in Liverpool. A ship arrived, and he got charge of it.

917. Then he got charge of another vessel?—Yes.

Mr. Waters proposed to ask the Witness as to the contents of the letter.

Mr. Macdonogh objected, and the Judge ruled that the question was inadmissible.

Mr. Waters proposed to ask the Witness if there was anything in reference to voting in the letter.

Mr. Macdonogh objected, and the learned Judge allowed the objection.

918. Mr. Waters (to Witness).] You saw these persons bring the letter to your husband?—Yes.

919. Had they a conversation with him at the same time?—No, they had not; they asked if he was going up.

920. Going up to where?—To the court-house.

921. Was that to vote?—I do not know whether it was to vote or not.

922. To the court-house?—Yes.

923. I ask you now, on your oath, did you ever tell anybody that note was written by Mr. Pollexfel?—I could not swear to his handwriting.

924. Did you ever tell to anybody that that note was written by Mr. Pollexfel?—I thought it might be from Mr. Pollexfel.

925. Have you any doubt about it?—I have not; but I will not swear to his handwriting.

926. Do you believe it came from Mr. Pollexfel?—Of course I could not say; I thought at that time that it did.

927. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Did your husband tell you it was from him it came?—No, he did not, my Lord.

928. Mr. Waters.] What is it you believe; do you believe it came from Mr. Pollexfel?—I did believe it at the time.

929. Do you know Mr. Pollexfel?—Yes.

930. What was the letter about?—I do not know.

931. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You must not prevaricate; if you do, I have considerable power over you, and I may use it; do not let me have to caution you again; you said you read it over your husband's shoulder?—I did; there were only a few lines of it.

932. What was in it; can you not tell us?—I cannot.

933. You are not asked to tell the whole contents; was it to come to the court-house?—Yes.

934. What was it?—It did not mention to do anything.

935. Did it refer to your husband's wife and children?—No; there was nothing about a wife and children in it.

936. How did it commence?—"Captain Dale, come up at once."

937. What was the rest?—I cannot recollect the contents.

938. Can you tell us the substance of it?—There was nothing else that I can recollect.

939. Were there these words in it, "Don't be a coward"?—Yes.

940. Do you recollect, "Remember your wife and children"?—No, there was nothing of that kind.

941. Did it say, "If you do not vote, you won't have a house over your head"?—No.

942. There was nothing said there about the house?—No.

943. Was there any threat?—No; it said, "Come up at once, and don't be a coward."

944. On your oath, you cannot recollect more than that?—No.

945. Did you ever tell anybody that it referred to your house, and that there would not be a house over your head?—No; there were only about two lines in it.

946. Was there anything about his family?—No, nothing at all.

947. Or his house over his head?—No.

Cross-examined by Dr. Kaye.

948. I believe there was a considerable crowd in Sligo that day?—There was.

949. There was a great number?—Yes, a great number.

JOHN FEENY, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loughlin.

J. Feeny.
 19 February 1869. 950. WHERE do you live?—Sligo.
 951. Are you a voter?—Yes.
 952. Do you know a man named Michael Price?—I did.
 953. In consequence of any message he brought to you before the election, did you go to any place?—I did.
 954. On what day was it?—It was a week before the election.
 955. Can you give the precise day?—I could not.
 956. Where did you go?—Into Mr. Leech's.
 957. That is in Castle-street, Sligo?—Yes.
 958. Whom did you see there?—When Price came and told me to go down —
 959. Never mind that; did you go down?—Yes.
 960. In consequence of anything Price told you, did you go to the Hall doors?—I did.
 961. Did you knock?—I did; three smart raps.
 962. Was the door opened?—Yes.
 963. Who opened the door?—I could not say; Price was the first man I met inside.
 964. Did you go upstairs?—Yes; Price showed me the way upstairs.
 965. What door did you go into?—I do not know; it was the left-hand side. I never was there before.
 966. Whom did you see there?—Price called him Mr. Knox.
 967. Major Knox?—No, he called him Mr. Knox; Major Knox was not there for about a minute or two.
 968. Was it in the front room that you went?—Yes, on the left-hand side.
 969. After you were there with Mr. Knox for some time, did Major Knox come in?—Yes.
 970. When Major Knox came in, what did he do?—He stood up and said to Mr. Knox, "Here is my friend," said he; "Come in," and he shook hands with me.
 971. And, when he shook hands with you, did he say, "Did he say anything to you;" did he ask you to sit down?—No; he asked me what my figure was. I did not understand him.
 972. Before he did that, did he offer you anything?—No; not before that.
 973. Did he offer you any wine, or anything of that sort?—After that he did.
 974. What did he say?—"Here is a friend," he said to Mr. Knox; "John," said he, "what is your figure?" I did not understand a word.
 975. The Major said that himself?—Yes; I did not understand a word; after I studied awhile, he asked me if 50*l.* would do. I said, "I suppose it will;" but if they were giving any more I supposed I was entitled to as much as another, and he said he supposed I was.
 976. Had you any other conversation?—I had not.
 977. How long did you stay there?—About 15 minutes.
 978. When Major Knox said that, was Captain Knox there?—I do not know the Captain.
 979. Mr. Knox?—He called him Mr. Knox. He was sitting at the end of the table.

980. And Major Knox called him Mr. Knox?—Yes.
 981. And after that, did you get anything?—He asked me to have a glass of wine, and I had some.
 982. How long did you stay?—About 15 minutes altogether; and when I was going out he called me back to have a glass of brandy. I would not have it.
 983. Do you know a person of the name of West?—I do.
 984. Is he a voter?—He is.
 985. Do you know how he voted at the last election?—I cannot tell you; I do not know.
 986. Did you see West on the following day?—Yes.
 987. Where did you see him?—He came into my own place, into my own home.
 988. What time of the day was it when he came in?—Something about one o'clock, to the best of my belief.
 989. Was there anyone in your house when West came?—There was.
 990. Who was in the house at the time West came there?—He ordered them out of the room, and they walked out; my wife and daughter were there.
 991. You have a public-house?—Yes.
 992. Where did he ask you to go to?—He asked me to go to Dublin.
 993. When he came into the house did he ask you into the kitchen?—No, into my tap room, he crossed out of the door.
 994. What did he say to you then?—He told me if I would go to Dublin, the agents were in Sligo, and I could get an order for 50*l.*, and get goods on it; he said I was to go to the City of Dublin Brewery —
 995. He said he would give you an order for 50*l.* to go to the City of Dublin Brewery to get porter there, goods?—Yes.
 996. Did he say anything else to you?—No.
 997. What did you say to him?—I told him I was not prepared.
 998. To go?—Yes.
 999. Did you say anything else?—No, not at that time.
 1000. Did he say anything to you about Mr. Allen?—He is in Dublin Asylum, and I do not wish to say anything about him.
 1001. I am afraid you must tell us all that occurred?—Young Mr. West is in an asylum in Dublin, and I do not wish to say it.
 1002. Mr. Macdonogh.] He is in a mad-house?—He is.
 1003. Mr. O'Loughlin.] You must tell us, I think?—Well, I will tell you then what he said.
 1004. He came in?—Yes.
 1005. What did he say to you?—Young Mr. West promised me 50*l.* to go down to Allen's and not to vote on either side.
 1006. What day was this?—The week before the election.
 1007. Before or after you had seen Major Knox?—It was afterwards.
 1008. What did you say to Mr. West then?—I told him I would vote, I would give a right vote; I did not say I would go either side, that I would vote; that was the very word.
 1009. Did

1009. Did you say for whom you would vote?
—No, I did not; I said I would vote.

1010. Did he say anything in return to you then?—He said if I went down to Mr. Allen, I would be well cared for, till after the election was over.

1011. Did he say anything else?—He said that was better.

1012. What was better; did you say you would vote for Major Knox?—No, I did not; I did not mention it; he said that was better than to go away; I told him I would not go away.

1013. On the same day that you had that conversation with Mr. West, junior, do you remember being in Mr. Green's, in Castle-street?—Yes; that was on the Friday.

1014. Do you know a gentleman of the name of Edward Chisholm?—I do.

1015. He is a voter in Sligo; what is he?—He is a tradesman.

1016. What trade does he carry on?—He has a grocer's shop.

1017. What trade is Mr. Green in?—He also has a hardware shop.

1018. And I believe his establishment is in Castle-street?—Yes.

1019. And is Mr. Chisholm's establishment in Castle-street also?—Yes.

1020. Did you see Mr. Chisholm that day in Green's shop?—Yes.

1021. Had you any conversation with Mr. Chisholm there?—I had; I was going out with two panes of glass; Mr. Chisholm came out and called me back, and asked me if I would go to Dublin, and he said he would give me an order. I said I was not prepared. He said "What do you want?" I said "I have no clothes." He said, "Go up to Mr. Lyons, or to Mr. Williams, and I will give you an order for a suit of clothes."

1022. Is that Mr. Henry Lyons?—I suppose so; I could not tell.

1023. He said, at all events, "Mr. Lyons or Mr. Williams"?—Yes.

1024. And there is a gentleman of the name of Lyons in the trade?—Yes.

1025. And there is another gentleman of the name of Williams?—Yes.

1026. What did you say?—I told him I would give him an answer in an hour and a-half's time. I had two panes of glass to put in at the barracks.

1027. Was Mr. Green present when that conversation took place between you and Mr. Chisholm?—He was.

1028. Do you recollect the day of the nomination; do you recollect the day of the polling?—I do.

1029. That was on Thursday; do you recollect the Tuesday previous, the day of the nomination?—I do, well.

1030. Do you recollect Wednesday, the day before the polling?—I do, very well; that was the night before.

1031. Do you recollect going to your own house on that evening?—Yes.

1032. That is, the evening before the polling?—I know it.

1033. When you got to your own house, did you find any one there before you?—There were two gentlemen up in my room.

1034. Would you know those gentlemen again?—I think I would; I never spoke to them before.

85.

1035. Is that one of the gentlemen up there (pointing to the gallery)?—Yes.

1036. What is that gentleman's name?—I could not tell his name; that is the gentleman.

Mr. L. Waugh was told to stand up.

1037. Mr. O'Loghlin.] What is your name?—(Mr. Waugh.) Mr. Waugh

1038. Mr. O'Loghlin (to the Witness).] Was there anyone with Mr. Waugh?—Yes.

1039. Did you know him?—Mr. John Fawcett.

1040. Is he a Sligo man?—He is.

1041. When you went to your own house on the evening before the polling who told you, or did anyone tell you that those gentlemen were up-stairs?—Mary Gourlay and Mary Smith.

1042. Are they here?—They are.

1043. Did you, in consequence of anything that was told you, or that you heard, go up into your upstairs room?—Yes.

1044. And did you find Mr. Fawcett and that gentleman you have just pointed out there?—Yes.

1045. When you went up will you just state to the Judge exactly what occurred?—I will; they had two tumblers, I do not know whether it was of porter or of ale.

1046. At all events there was something on the table?—Yes; I was not there when they called for it. When I went up I went into my own room, and Mr. Fawcett was the first man I met, and he said "We are sent on a message." "What is that?" said I. Said he "Will you come down to Mrs. Hall's with us?"

1047. Do you know who Mrs. Hall is?—Yes.

1048. Who is Mrs. Hall?—She lives at the Court-house; she is the court keeper, I think.

1049. Is she the court keeper?—She is.

1050. After he said that what did you say; just go on and tell us?—I told him I had not time at that time. "Now," said he, putting his left hand into his breast pocket, "Here is 50 l. for you if you will go." He laid down the 50 l. in squares; I do not know that it was all notes, but there was one note on the top.

1051. You say he put his hand in his pocket and took something out of his pocket and laid it down?—Yes, notes.

1052. What was it he took out of his pocket?—There was a note on the top of it; but I could not tell the amount of it.

1053. What did he say when he took this out of his pocket?—He said if I would go, these notes would be mine; they were my money. I said, I could not go for half-an-hour.

1054. At what time of the night was this?—It was nine o'clock; between half-past eight and nine.

1055. Was that gentleman you have seen in the gallery present on that occasion?—He was.

1056. Did anyone say anything on that occasion about your price or your figure?—No.

1057. Was there nothing said about that?—No.

1058. Did you tell either of these gentlemen on that occasion that you had been offered anything?—Yes, I did.

1059. Whom did you tell?—No, not at that time, I did not.

1060. Did he say to you when you would get the money?—He did; he said he would give me it at that time if I would go.

1061. Did

J. Feeny.

19 February 1869.

J. Feeny.
19 February 1869. 1061. Did he ask you to go along with them?—Yes, on the spot; he wanted me to go down to Mrs. Hall's, and knock at the hall door two small raps, but I did not go.

1062. Did he tell you that if you went there it would be your money?—Yes.

1063. Did he tell you anything about the hour?—Ten o'clock, to be at Hall's.

1064. Were you to be at Hall's at ten o'clock?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

1065. Now Mr. Feeny, before I ask you anything, I should like to ask you, did you get any money?—No.

1066. You did not; how often was your virtue assailed?—Virtue; I do not understand that.

1067. You don't understand; I will tell you. On the first occasion you went to Mr. Leech's?—Not without an order.

1068. But you went to Mr. Leech's?—I deny it.

1069. You deny it?—Yes.

1070. You deny that you went?—He sent for me.

1071. He invited you?—Yes, there came a man of the name of Price to me.

1072. And you went; and now will you tell me, was that the first time you ever saw Major Knox?—No, he canvassed me.

1073. How long was it before this that he canvassed you?—It was long before.

1074. How long was it?—I do not know.

1075. When he canvassed you, did you promise him?—I did.

1076. There was no mistake about it?—No, Mr. Phibbs and he were together.

1077. They were together; he canvassed you; he asked you, and you promised?—Yes.

1078. And as a manly fellow you meant what you said?—Yes.

1079. And you intended to vote for Major Knox?—No.

1080. When you promised to vote for him you did not intend it?—No, I had no intention of the sort; not a bit of it.

1081. What made you tell the lie?—It was no lie; he was the first that came; and, of course, I did not send him off with a sore heart, it would not do.

1082. However, he understood you that you meant to vote for him when you promised?—Yes, he did.

1083. When you came into Leech's house, where Major Knox lodged, you say Mr. Knox was sitting at a table, writing?—He was.

1084. Can you identify that gentleman?—No.

1085. Would you know him if you saw him?—I think not. I would not swear to him.

1086. That gentleman was there the whole time?—He was.

1087. You had promised Major Knox before?—Yes.

1088. Tell me exactly what he said; now exactly?—I will. I went up to his room and stood there for a minute or two. I was not two minutes, and he came out of the right-hand side of the door, and he said to Mr. Knox, "This is one of my faithful friends," said he; and he had a shake of the hands with me, and said, "John, what is your figure?" I did not understand that.

1089. You really did not understand that?—I did not.

1090. Well, go on?—Said he, "Will 50 l. do for you?" I said, "I suppose it will do; if you are giving any more, I am entitled to it as much as another."

1091. Then you understood him?—Yes, when he said 50 l.

1092. You knew that was 50 l. for your vote?—Yes; he asked me for my vote. He gave me a glass of wine, and I took it, and no mistake; and as I was walking out he called me back and wanted me to have a glass of brandy, and I would not have it. The man is there himself, and he would not tell a lie about it (pointing to Major Knox).

1093. Now, look here, sir; look at that gentleman (pointing); do you remember his being there the whole time?—No.

1094. Will you swear he was not?—No, but I would nearly swear he was not there, because the man who was there had big black whiskers.

1095. I should like to know the extent of your swearing; you said a moment ago that you would not swear, and then you nearly would. Now, will you swear he was not there?—No, he had big black whiskers.

1096. Will you swear he was not there?—I will not; he might be under the table.

1097. Don't joke with your oath; take my advice; you agreed to take the 50 l., provided there was not a larger sum going?—Exactly.

1098. If there were a larger sum going you expected to get it?—Yes.

1099. Did you ask when you were to get it?—No.

1100. There is no doubt about it; and the Major spoke so as to be heard?—Yes.

1101. And loud enough to be heard by Mr. Knox?—There was only three in the room.

1102. The door was closed; you did drink the wine?—I did.

1103. Why did you refuse the brandy?—Because there was about a noggin of wine, and I thought that was enough for me.

1104. Was it the next day that West came to you?—No.

1105. When was it?—It was before.

1106. Are you sure?—Yes.

1107. When was it?—It was about a week before the election.

1108. Are you sure it was a week before; we must fix the time with you accurately; what was the time you were at Leech's when you saw Major Knox and Mr. Knox?—It was the week before the election.

1109. Was that on Saturday night?—No, it was not.

1110. Or Monday?—I could not tell.

1111. Will you tell me when was West with you?—He was with me on the Saturday before.

1112. When was that?—On the Saturday before the election.

1113. Tuesday was the nomination day, was it?—It was; I will answer you if you will give me fair play.

1114. Then West promised you 50 l.?—He did.

1115. And that upon the terms of your going to Dublin?—Yes.

1116. Young Mr. West had been twice before in a lunatic asylum, had he not?—Yes.

1117. Was it he offered you 50 l. to go to Lyon's?—And his father told me the same.

1118. Did

1118. Did both of them tell you?—Yes.
 1119. And you refused?—I did.
 1120. Why did you refuse it?—I did not want it.
 1121. You would not take it, would you?—I would not.
 1122. You would not take it from the Major when he offered it?—I would not.
 1123. You swear that?—I do.
 1124. No money would tempt you?—No.
 1125. If he handed you down five crisp 100*l.* notes, would you not take them?—I would not take 1,000*l.*
 1126. Would you take 2,000*l.*?—No.
 1127. Would you take 10,000*l.*?—If you bestowed it on me I would take it.
 1128. But suppose you got 2,000*l.* in crisp bank notes for nothing?—For nothing; I would take it, I suppose.
 1129. Would you take it for your vote?—No, I would not.
 1130. Suppose the bank notes, crisp, and nice and new, were offered to you, would you take the money?—I would not take 10,000 l., not for all I am worth in the world; I would not sell my country for it.
 1131. You would not, if 10,000 golden sovereigns were put before you, take them?—I would not sell my fellow-creatures.
 1132. Yet you said to the Major you would take the 50*l.*; and if more was going you would expect to get it?—Certainly.
 1133. Now we come to the next time your virtue was attempted; you know this is three times; the two Wests, the poor mad fellow, and the father?—Yes, and 20 times too.
 1134. Chisholme was the next; we will have every one of these gentlemen?—Yes.
 1135. You are perfectly sure he said he would give you a suit of clothes and 20*l.*?—Yes, certainly.
 1136. And did you go for the clothes?—No, I would not take them.
 1137. You said you would not take them?—No.
 1138. But you said you would?—I said I would come back in an hour and a half; the man will tell the same thing.
 1139. You said you would vote for Knox?—Yes.
 1140. Is Fawcett in the Sligo Rifles?—No.
 1141. Is he here?—No.
 1142. Did you know his name that night?—They told me his name.
 1143. There is no doubt whatever that Fawcett took out the 50*l.* and the notes?—I won't swear he took out 50*l.*; I know there was a note over; it was money.
 1144. He desired you to go down and give three little raps?—Little ones, indeed!

1145. Look at that gentleman (pointing)?—J. Feeny.
 I won't swear to him.
 1146. You won't swear to him; look at him; look at Captain Knox here; look at that gentleman: will you swear that gentleman was called Mr. Knox; look at him; will you swear?—I will not; I will swear he was not there.
 1147. Were you ever in the army?—No.
 1148. I wish to know, as a matter of fact, on your oath, do you not know that it requires the oaths of two persons to convict a man of perjury?—I suppose so.
 1149. Do you happen to know that?—I suppose so.
 1150. Look again, and tell me was that the gentleman?—I won't swear to him.
 1151. Now, will you tell me, my friend—we have had a little of this in this case lately—had anybody been sending you to these people to try to get something out of them; a promise or something else?—They never did.
 1152. You had no communication with anybody who was actively engaged on behalf of Captain Flannagan?—Never in my life.
 1153. When did you tell them the story?—What story?
 1154. The repeated occasions when your virtue was tempted; the story that you have been telling his Lordship now?—They asked me.
 1155. To whom did you tell it?—To my neighbours about.
 1156. Did you tell it to any attorney?—Never.
 1157. Did you tell it to any clerk of an attorney?—No, never in my life.
 1158. You never told it to anybody who wrote it down in a brief?—I do not know anything about it.
 1159. Did you tell it to anybody who took it down from your lips and put it into paper writing?—I might.
 1160. But did you?—Yes; I do not know.
 1161. Is he here, in court, at this moment?—Yes.
 1162. What is his name?—I could not tell (pointing to a gentleman); Mr. Mollony.
 1163. I thought you said you could not tell his name?—I do not know his exact name.
 1164. When did you tell that gentleman, whoever he is?—Long after the election.

Re-examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

1165. You were asked if that gentleman were in the room?—He was not in the room at the time.
 1166. Are you positive there were only two people in the room?—I am; he was not there at all.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARY GOURLAY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

1167. I AM told your name is Mary Gourlay?—Yes.
 1168. Do you live in Sligo?—Yes, I do.
 1169. Were you in Mr. Feeny's employment in November last?—Yes, I was.
 1170. Do you recollect two gentlemen coming there one evening in November, just before the election?—I do.
 1171. Did they inquire for anybody when they came to Feeny's house?—Yes, they did.
 85.

1172. Who did they inquire for?—They came to the shop to Mrs. Feeny herself; to the bar.
 1173. Were you there?—Yes, I was there; they brought a sergeant from the barricade in with them.
 1174. A sergeant of police?—No, a soldier; and they gave him something to drink, but how much I could not tell; they brought in some drink, whatever it was, and they said to Mrs. Feeny, "Is Mr. Feeny in?" and she said "No, sir,"
 c 4

M. Gourlay.

M. Gourlay. 19 February 1869. sir," to the young men; "Have you any place," said they, "where we can sit down till he comes?" She called upon her daughter, Mrs. Smith—she called twice—and she did not come, and I, being in the kitchen——

1175. We do not want all that; we want to shorten this; did she send them upstairs to wait for Mr. Feeny?—She did.

1176. Did she?—Yes.

1177. Would you know one of the gentlemen?—Yes, there is one of the gentlemen there (pointing), and the other was Mr. Fawcett.

1178. Did you know Mr. Fawcett before?—I did.

1179. That is Mr. Fawcett, of Sligo?—Of Sligo.

1180. And those two gentlemen went upstairs?—Yes, and I brought the light up.

1181. What became of the sergeant?—He returned out when he got his glass of liquor.

1182. He did not remain?—No.

1183. Did you serve those two gentlemen upstairs with any drink?—I did.

1184. What did you give them?—What they asked me.

1185. What was it?—Bitter ale; they asked if we had bitter ale; I said "No," but we had good draught ale; and, said they, "that would do."

1186. Did you give them any ale?—I brought two glasses of ale up.

1187. The best you had in the house?—I did.

1188. Did you see how long they remained there before Feeny came into the house?—Only a few moments; ten minutes; that is the young man that asked me (pointing).

1189. Did you tell Feeny when he came into the house that there were two persons waiting for him upstairs?—I did.

1190. Did you see Feeny go up?—I did.

1191. How long did those three people remain upstairs together?—I could not say, where I was in my business in the kitchen; I could not tell; I know no more about it; that is all I have to say.

1192. Can you see from the street into the room into which they were shown?—Yes.

1193. Was there a fire there, or a light there?—There was a light on the table, and this young man said to me, "Can we be seen off the road?" I said "Yes." He said, "Can you blind the window?" I said "Yes," and he sent me to do it. I met Mrs. Smith, and I asked her to get a blind, and she took off her apron, and put it on the window.

1194. Was this done by the directions of that young man?—By directions of that young man in the presence of me.

1195. Did you see Mrs. Smith here to-day?—Yes, she is here to-day.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARY SMITH, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loughlin.

M. Smith. 1196. Do you recollect the night before the election?—Yes, I do.

1197. Were you at Feeny's house that night?—Yes, I was.

1198. Did you see any person come to Feeny's house that night?—Yes, I did.

1199. Who came there?—Two young gentlemen.

1200. Did you know them before?—I knew one of the gentlemen there.

1201. Who was the one you knew?—Mr. Fawcett.

1202. Would you look at that gentleman there (pointing); was that one of the gentlemen?—I do not know; I would not swear; I did not pass any remark.

1203. But you knew Mr. Fawcett?—Yes.

1204. Were Mr. Fawcett and the gentleman with him upstairs?—Yes.

1205. Did you do anything that night with the window?—Yes, I blinded the window.

1206. What do you mean by that?—Putting a blind up.

1207. Was that in consequence of what these gentlemen asked?—Yes, they asked.

1208. What did they ask?—The first thing was, if Mr. Feeny had come in; and I said "No." The next thing was, would I tell him that they had a message from the commanding officer for him, and then they asked me if they could be seen off the street.

1209. That is in the room in which they were?—Yes.

1210. And you said they could?—Yes.

1211. And what did they say?—They asked me to be kind enough to blind the window.

1212. And afterwards, did you blind the window?—I did.

1213. And afterwards, did you see Feeny come in?—I did.

1214. Did you see Feeny go upstairs to the room where those gentlemen were?—Yes.

1215. And how long did they stay?—Very nearly a quarter of an hour, I think.

1216. Did you see him come down?—Yes.

1217. Did you see the gentlemen come down?—Yes, and go out.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN KEARNS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

J. Kearns. 1218. I BELIEVE you are an elector of Sligo Borough?—Yes.

1219. Do you know a man of the name of Pat Barry?—I do.

1220. Is Pat Barry also an elector?—He is.

1221. You also knew a man of the name of Thomas Brennan?—I did.

1222. Do you remember one evening you and Mr. Barry going to Mr. Henry Lyons?—Yes.

1223. You went to his house?—We did.

1224. Was that in consequence of some previous communication that you had received; do not mind what any person told you, but did you go there of your own accord, or had you received a message, a message from anyone to go?—Thomas Brennan gave the message to Pat Barry.

1225. You cannot tell me that, but had you some some conversation with other people before you went to Lyons'; is that so?—(No answer.)

1226. Did you get the message from Barry?—I did.

1227. And in consequence of that you went with him to Lyons'?—Yes.

1228. About what hour in the evening was that?—At half-past six.

1229. I believe Mr. Lyons resides outside the town of Sligo?—He does.

1230. He was not in when you got there?—No.

1231. And you remained till he came in?—We did.

1232. Tell us what happened; before Lyons came did you meet him before he entered his house?—Mr. Lyons came to his own door; he tapped at the door; the servant opened the door, and we three walked in, Barry, Mr. Lyons, and I; and he then showed Barry into one room, and he showed me into another.

1233. I believe you were left alone in the room by yourself?—Yes.

1234. After a few minutes, do you remember Lyons and Barry coming into the room where you were?—Yes.

1235. What took place when he came in; tell us everything that took place, slowly?—Mr. Lyons said that we would get 50 l. a-piece in an envelope, in half notes.

1236. Were you to do anything for the 50 l.?—Well, I objected to it; I said that in electioneering times I would not take half notes.

1237. Half notes for what; did Mr. Lyons say that you were to do anything for which you were to get the 50 l. in half notes?—He did.

1238. What did he tell you?—That we were to leave the town.

1239. You objected to the half notes; I suppose you would have preferred whole notes?—Yes.

1240. What next happened when you objected to the half notes?—We were to go at seven o'clock the next evening, and he would see what could be done.

1241. Was there any talk on that occasion about travelling expenses?—There was something said about 5 l.

1242. You were to get 5 l. each for travelling expenses?—Yes.

1243. Was that to be in half notes or whole notes?—There was nothing said about it.

1244. Are you able to fix the day when that took place; the first conversation?—As well as I recollect, it was the 9th of November.

1245. Will you tell me the day of the week in November?—I cannot.

1246. Do you know a Mr. Stokes?—I do.

1247. Do you remember, upon the next evening after this, Mr. Stokes coming to your house; did Mr. Stokes call at your house the next evening?—He did.

1248. In the meantime, before Stokes called, had you got any message in reference to Mr. Lyons, whether you were to keep to your appointment with him or not?—Mr. Barry told me—

1249. You had some communication with Barry about the appointment with Mr. Lyons?—Yes.

1250. And on the next evening Mr. Stokes came?—Yes.

1251. Were you in when he came?—I was.

1252. When Mr. Stokes came, tell us what took place?—He brought me out to the gable of 85.

the barn, and he asked me if I would go a message for him. J. Kearns.

1253. Before he asked you to go on this message, did he make any reference to your talk with Lyons the night before?—He did. 19 February 1869.

1254. Tell me everything in the order in which you remember it?—He said he had understood that I had a conversation with Lyons the evening before.

1255. What did you say to that?—I told him I had.

1256. Was it then that he asked if you would go on a message for him?—It was.

1257. Did you say you would go?—Yes.

1258. Did he tell you what the message was on which he wanted you to go?—He said it was that I was to go to Dublin or elsewhere, and not to return till the 23rd.

1259. Did he tell you what the message was, on which you were to go to Dublin or elsewhere?—He said it was to bring him a walking staff or a switch.

1260. Was anything said about the amount you were to be paid for performing this interesting commission?—No; he did not say.

1261. He did not say what the amount was to be?—No.

1262. Did you agree to go to Dublin?—I did.

1263. Was there any arrangement made with a view to a further meeting?—No.

1264. Do you remember having made any reference to consulting your wife?—I did.

1265. What were you to do after consulting your wife; I am not asking you what you said to your wife; but when you had consulted your wife, were you to see this gentleman, the saddler, Mr. Stokes, again?—He said—he told me that he was going into the town for a stamp and pen and ink; and we were to get 50 l. each, Barry and I.

1266. But was he to meet you again; where were you to get the 50 l. from him?—He was to return in about half-an-hour.

1267. Did he tell you what it was the stamp was required for?—It was for signing the bond.

1268. What for?—For the 50 l., of course.

1269. Was there anything said about your signing an agreement not to come back till the election was over?—Till the 23rd.

1270. You went into your house, and consulted your wife; you must not tell us what you said to her, or what she said to you; but after this, did Mr. Stokes return?—He did.

1271. Had Barry gone away in the meantime?—He had; he went home.

1272. What happened when Mr. Stokes came back?—I told him.

1273. Where had you the conversation with him; did he knock at the door?—He tapped at the door.

1274. Did you go out?—We did.

1275. Where to?—We went out into the road, opposite my door, and I told him I had consulted the wife, and that she would not agree that I should leave home, and that I would have nothing more to do with it.

1276. Then you did not sign the stamp, whatever it was?—No.

1277. And you did not get money?—No.

1278. Was there any talk between you then, about Barry?—I made a remark to Mr. Stokes, that Mr. Barry told me to direct him down to his house, and so I did.

D

1279. Is

*J. Kearns.*19 February
1869.

1279. Is it at the river side that Barry lived?

—Yes.

1280. When you told him that, what did Mr. Stokes say?—He said he did not wish to go down by the river side.

1281. What did you say then?—I said I would take him down to Barry's house.

1282. And you brought him to Barry's?—I did.

1283. And did you leave him there?—I did.

1284. Did you go into Barry's house before you left?—I did.

1285. Where did Mr. Stokes go in Barry's house?—Mr. Stokes and Mr. Barry went into a room; I could not account for what passed between them; I was not there.

1286. Did you remain till Mr. Stokes left?—I sat in Barry's kitchen till Mr. Stokes went.

1287. How long were they together before Mr. Stokes came out?—I do not think they were 10 minutes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

1288. I think you said; but can you tell us precisely when it was that you saw Lyons?—I think, as well as I can recollect, it was on the 9th.

1289. Of November?—Yes.

1290. Where was he?—At his own house.

1291. Was he in his own house?—No.

1292. Where was he?—At the town.

1293. Where was he when you spoke to him first?—He was at his own door.

1294. Was he walking?—He was coming down the town to his own door.

1295. And you spoke to him there?—Yes.

1296. Then you and Barry and he went in?

—Yes.

1297. At any conversation that occurred there, were you present?—We were.

1298. Was anyone else there?—No.

1299. Was that the first time you spoke to him about the election?—It was.

1300. Was it the last time you spoke with Lyons about the election?—It was.

1301. Was anyone else present at the time of this conversation?—No one but he and Barry and I.

1302. What was it Mr. Lyons said about 50 l.?—Mr. Lyons said we should get 50 l. each in an envelope.

1303. If you would leave the town?—Yes.

1304. You would get 50 l., and he said that before Barry?—He did.

1305. Did you hear from Barry that Lyons was with him in the month of November?—Barry told me next day that Mr. Lyons came to him about 12 o'clock, and he gave up the conversation that passed between Barry and I.

1306. He gave up the conversation that passed between Barry and you?—Yes; Barry told me.

1307. What do you mean by that?—I cannot say.

1308. That he gave it up?—Yes.

1309. But you do not know what he said to Barry?—No.

1310. Barry can tell us at all events?—Yes.

1311. If he chooses to tell?—Of course.

1312. You never spoke to Lyons after that day about the election?—Never; not a word; I did not see him afterwards.

1313. You voted for Captain Flannagan?—I did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

PATRICK BARRY, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loughlin.P. Barry.

1314. Do you know Thomas Brennan?—I do.

1315. Was he in the habit of being in and out of your house?—Yes.

1316. Frequently?—Frequently, before ever the election took place at all.

1317. About a month or so previous to the election was he in and out of your house daily?—Not daily.

1318. Nearly every day?—No; no such thing.

1319. Was he frequently there?—He might be coming up on pleasure trips, the same as any other young men in the town.

1320. Did you ever see him pay money in your house?—I never did, except seeing him pay for a glass of grog or a tumbler of ale, but no payment of money I never saw to any man.

1321. Did Brennan ever give you a message that Mr. Lyons wanted you?—He did.

1322. When was that?—It was on the 9th as far as I recollect.

1323. The 9th of November?—Yes, November.

1324. In consequence of that message that you got from Thomas Brennan, did you go to Mr. Lyons?—I did.

1325. Had you anybody with you?—I had John Kearns.

1326. That is the witness last in the box?—Yes; he is a neighbour of mine.

1327. Did Thomas Brennan tell you anything about Kearns?—Not one word.

1328. Did he tell you to bring Kearns?—He did.

1329. Then in consequence of the message you got from Brennan to go yourself with Kearns, you went down to Mr. Lyons?—We did, both together.

1330. Did you see Mr. Lyons that evening?—We did.

1331. When you went down to Lyons' house was he there?—He was not.

1332. You came down and waited, I suppose, on the road?—We did.

1333. When he came down, did you and Kearns and Mr. Brennan go into Mr. Lyons' house?—We did.

1334. Do you recollect; did Kearns go into one room?—He did.

1335. And what did you do?—I went in with Mr. Lyons to another room.

1336. When you were with Mr. Lyons in that other room, did any conversation take place between you and Mr. Lyons; what did Mr. Lyons say to you?—Mr. Lyons and I had a conversation as far as this, that I was to vote for Major Knox, and he asked me as to the amount of money I would go for. I told him I was not going to vote at all; that I should not vote on either side.

1337. When you went down to Mr. Lyons, did Mr. Lyons tell you, or ask you, what he had said to you before; did he tell you that?—He asked me, would we come into the town; he heard we were were going to leave town, and not vote on either side, and I told him we were.

1338. Just repeat that; "He said he heard you were both going to leave the town?"—Yes.

1339. What did you say?—I said we were both ready for going.

1340. What did he say to that?—He asked me then what was our demand on doing so, and I said 50*l*.

1341. To do what?—To leave town for 50*l*.; that we should get 50*l* and our travelling expenses.

1342. Did he say anything then about Major Knox, or voting for him?—He never did to my knowledge.

1343. Was there anyone present at that conversation that took place between you and Mr. Lyons in that room?—None but us both.

1344. What did you say?—I told Mr. Lyons that Mr. Kearns was in another room, and that he was a neighbour of mine; and "Sir," said I, "Mr. Kearns might think I was taking an advantage of him, and" said I, "I would wish that anything you have said to me you would come into the room where Mr. Kearns is, and express the same to both of us."

1345. Did Mr. Lyons and you then go into the room in which Kearns was?—We did, both of us.

1346. Just tell us what occurred between you, Mr. Lyons, and Kearns?—There was something about 50*l*. in half notes, and we were to get them in an envelope.

1347. Who said that?—Mr. Lyons did; we said we would not go without the money; we said it was electioneering times, and we were determined to get the money before we would go.

1348. What did Mr. Lyons say to that?—Mr. Lyons then said he thought we should take his own word for the amount.

1349. Was it to you or to Kearns he said that?—To both of us.

1350. That you ought to take his word for the amount?—Yes, and I said I would take his word for three times the amount; but that in electioneering times it was contrary, and there was always shuffling.

1351. Did Mr. Lyons then say anything to you about what you were to do?—He said we should call on him the next evening at seven o'clock.

1352. Did any more conversation pass between you and Mr. Lyons?—No, not that I know of.

1353. What is Mr. Lyons' Christian name?—His name is Henry Lyons.

1354. Can you recollect anything else that passed between you and Mr. Henry Lyons?—I do not, that night.

1355. Had you any other conversation with Mr. Henry Lyons about the election?—I did the next day; I saw Mr. Lyons.

1356. Did you see Mr. Lyons on the following day?—I did.

1357. Where did you see Mr. Lyons on the following day?—I saw him at the head of the rails of my own house.

1358. You live at the river side at Sligo?—I do.

1359. And is it at the side towards Cleaver, or the side of the bridge to the town?—Towards Cleaver.

1360. That is towards the country; it is out of the town?—Not out of the town.

1361. Did you go over to him?—I was on my own land doing some business; I was on the brink of the bank, and I saw Mr. Lyons coming on.

85.

1362. Did you speak to Mr. Lyons?—Mr. Lyons spoke to me.

1363. What did Mr. Lyons say to you there?—Mr. Lyons told me that any transaction or any word that passed the night before, he had nothing to do with it; he withdrew all conversation of the sort; he cleared himself out of it.

1364. Did he say anything else?—No, not one word; he walked away; it was not two minutes altogether.

1365. In consequence of that, did you send any message to Kearns?—I went myself.

1366. Did you go yourself?—I did.

1367. When you went to Kearns did you, on that evening, see Mr. Stokes?—I did.

1368. Where first did you see Mr. Stokes?—I saw him opposite my own door on the river side.

1369. What time was this?—About dusk; in the evening, I think.

1370. Was there anyone with him?—No one but myself.

1371. Did any conversation take place between you and Mr. Stokes?—Yes.

1372. Tell me, had you previously known Mr. Stokes?—Yes, I had.

1373. Previous to that occasion had he spoken to you about the election?—Never.

1374. On that occasion what did he say to you?—I brought him into the room.

1375. What room?—Into my own room, by the shop.

1376. What did he say to you?—He asked me the question as to whether there was not a conversation between Mr. Lyons and I with regard to going out of town; I said there was.

1377. What did he say then?—He said, "As you are going I am going to give you a message;" Well," said I, "what is that?" he said, "I want you to purchase 50*l*. worth of hair, as I am in that line."

1378. That is curled hair?—I do not know what sort of hair; I made the remark, "Why, it will be a difficult thing for me, as I do not know of whom you take the hair; I do not know anything about the hair, and a couple of boxes in the train would not convey it"; and he said if I brought the pull of my pipe after the 23rd of November that would satisfy him.

1379. What did you say to that; did you say that you would go, or you would not?—Oh, go; I said I was determined to go, and I was; there was no mistake about that.

1380. That is for the 50*l*.?—I asked him the question where it would be; would there be any change in any place where I would go for that hair.

1381. What did he say to that?—"Well," said I, "I have written to my son in Dublin, and," said I, "I have got in answer his note, that if I go myself, or any other friend I bring there, he would secure us in Dublin."

1382. Had you a son in Dublin?—I had.

1383. And that statement you made to Mr. Stokes was a true statement?—It was; I had a note from my son that I was to be secured by him.

1384. Where is your son in Dublin?—I forget now.

1385. Is he in employment there?—He is.

1386. Do you know in whose employment he is?—I forget now the name.

1387. What is he?—He is in a large establishment in Dublin.

1388. But

P. Barry.

19 February 1869.

P. Barry.
19 February
1869.

1388. But what trade is your son in?—He is in a hosiery trade in Dublin; it is Switzer and Ferguson.

1389. How long has he been there?—I think now about six years off and on.

1390. On the evening that you had the conversation with Mr. Stokes, did you see Kearns; do you recollect Kearns coming to your house?—I do.

1391. Had you a second conversation with Mr. Stokes?—I had.

1392. When Mr. Stokes came to you, was it towards evening?—It was a dark evening.

1393. Did Mr. Stokes and you go into your little room?—We did.

1394. Was there anyone there when you and he went in?—No one but us both.

1395. When you went into that room did Mr. Stokes do anything?—Mr. Stokes laid down pen and ink on the table.

1396. Where did he get the pen and ink?—I do not know.

1397. Had he it about him?—I think so.

1398. It was not your pen and ink?—As far as I can recollect it was not.

1399. Had he any paper there?—I saw some paper on the table.

1400. Do you know what a stamp is?—I do.

1401. Had he a stamp there?—I could not swear it was a stamp; I did not handle it; I saw pen, ink, and paper on the table.

1402. Where did it come from?—Mr. Stokes brought it with him.

1403. Was there anything else?—I do not know; I thought it was something like—

1404. I do not want to know what you thought; did you see anything else?—I cannot say.

1405. What was it; will you swear what it looked like?—I could not swear that.

1406. When Mr. Stokes brought pens, ink, and paper, did he put them on the table?—Yes, he did.

1407. Tell his Lordship what happened then?—I questioned Mr. Stokes; "Mr. Stokes," said I, "have you brought the travelling charges?" "No," said he. "Well now, Mr. Stokes," said I, "what have you brought?"

1408. What did he say he brought?—He did not say anything of the kind; he never mentioned it.

1409. You asked him if he had brought the travelling charges?—That was the question; I told him I would take what was fair. He said, "You are getting what is fair, 50 l." He would not provide travelling charges; I demanded them from him; he said I was getting 50 l., and that was sufficient.

1410. Did anything else pass?—Nothing else; he walked out on the spot.

1411. What did you say to him?—I said, "What brought you in here, walk out again," and with that he walked out according to my directions.

1412. What became of the paper?—I do not know what became of it.

1413. Did he take it away?—It was not there on the table.

1414. Had he anything with him beside that paper?—I cannot swear anything of the sort.

1415. I only want you to swear what you recollect of it?—I will not swear to any money; I will to the pen, ink, and paper; I did not notice anything else.

Cross-examined by Dr. Kaye.

1416. What business are you?—I am a publican, and I am also a farmer.

1417. When did you make up your mind that you would make 50 l. by the election; when did you make it up that your price was 50 l.?—On that spot, the moment I was talking to Mr. Lyons.

1418. You never thought of it?—Never.

1419. You never thought of making anything of it?—I meant to make that that I demanded.

1420. But you had never thought of it before you met with Mr. Lyons?—Never.

1421. Where was it you met Mr. Lyons first?—I met him at his own door.

1422. And had Mr. Lyons ever spoken to you about the election before?—Never.

1423. And Mr. Lyons was going into his own shop; his place of business?—Not his own shop.

1424. His dwelling-house?—I did not think he was living there; but at any rate that was his house; he was the owner of it.

1425. He was going in, and it was by accident you met him?—No, I waited on him.

1426. You were waiting there till Mr. Lyons was coming home?—He came in from the town, or I suppose so; he was at his own house then.

1427. How long had you been waiting at Mr. Lyons' house?—About a quarter or a half an hour, I think.

1428. And Mr. Lyons was just going in at his own door?—We saw him coming over, and we just met in the street together on the spot.

1429. Did you ever vote at an election for the Borough of Sligo?—I did so, several times.

1430. Did you ever make anything by your vote?—I made 15 l. when Mr. Armstrong's election was; that is all I ever made.

1431. Did you vote at the last election?—I did.

1432. And who did you vote for?—Captain Flanagan, and I was determined for Mr. Knox up till the last minute.

1433. What?—But for the travelling charges I would have gone the same morning away from the district, not to vote at all.

1434. Then it was only a difference of 5 l.?—Something of the kind; I do not know how much it was; I demanded it.

1435. You would not go without your travelling charges?—I did not say what the amount might be, but I said travelling expenses; I was prepared to go.

1436. Had you your portmanteau and your clothes packed?—My portmanteau is just here; on me.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ANN PETITT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

A. Petitt.

1437. Did you come from Sligo to-day?—Yes.

1438. Do you know Mrs. Buchanan?—I do.

1439. Did she travel with you?—Not in the same carriage; the same train.

1440. Did she travel with you?—Yes.

1441. She came out at Carrick?—She got into the train at Sligo; I only saw her there; I did not see her when we got here.

1442. What time did you get in?—The eleven train, or whatever time the train was.

1443. Did

1443. Did you see her since at Carrick?—I did not.

1444. Did you see her get off at Carrick?—I did not.

1445. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say this lady got into the carriage at Sligo?—She did into another carriage; not the same carriage I was in.

1446. Did you see her after she got into the carriage?—I did not; she came in the bus to the train, but I did not see her afterwards.

1447. You did not see her in the station at Carrick?—I did not.

1448. Did you see her get out at Carrick?—No.

Mr. Phibbs stated that he had left Mrs. Buchanan in Sligo that morning; she did not get into the train at all, but only came to the station with another lady to inquire if they could be telegraphed for.

The Witness.] They were both in the bus; I did not see them get into the train.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] That explains it.

1449. Mr. Waters (to the Witness).] Your husband, I believe, is a voter in Sligo?—Yes.

1450. Was he living in Dublin or in Sligo at the time of the election?—He was living at Dublin.

1451. Did he come down from Dublin to vote?

1452. I believe you have a son living in Dublin also?—Yes.

1453. What is he engaged at?—I could not tell you what; he is in the "Times" office.

1454. Is he in Major Knox's employment?—Certainly.

1455. How long is he there?—Well, I really cannot tell that; he is about nine months there, I think; he is that or better, I think, to the best of my opinion; whether it is more I cannot say.

1456. Do you know what his employment is there?—I do not know; some kind of a clerk they call him.

1457. Is he doing anything at all there, do you know?—I know he is.

1458. You say your husband came down to vote?—Yes.

1459. Who paid his expenses?—Himself of course.

1460. Did you write for him?—I did not write for him.

1461. Had you any communication with any one about bringing him down from Dublin?—I had not, unless on the day of the election.

1462. Who had you communication with on the day of the election?—He went to Dublin after the election, and I wrote for him to come here; two gentlemen, I do not know who they were, were looking for him, something about the county election.

1463. But about the borough election, had you any communication with any gentleman in Sligo about bringing him down?—No, not a word.

1464. Were you in Dublin yourself?—No, in Sligo.

1465. Were you in Dublin any time before the election yourself?—I was often in Dublin.

1466. But I mean just before the election?—No.

1467. Did anybody call at your house just before the election, about your husband coming down?—No, nobody called at my house.

1468. Did Major Knox ever call at your house?—He did, and Mr. Phibbs.

1469. When?—A long time before the election; Mr. Phibbs introduced me to Major Knox and said he came to solicit Petitt's vote, and I said, "You may rest assured Petitt's vote is secured, because he would not vote for any man but a Conservative;" those are the words.

[The Witness withdrew.]

CHARLES TIGHE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

1470. I BELIEVE you are an elector for the Borough of Sligo?—Yes.

1471. In what trade are you?—I am a cooper by trade.

1472. I believe you are in the employment of Mr. Gormand, of Sligo?—I am.

1473. Do you recollect Mr. Stokes coming in to Mr. Gormand's yard?—I do.

1474. That is Mr. Stokes, the saddler?—Yes.

1475. Did he say anything to you when he came in?—He did.

1476. What was it he said?—"Good day," said he; "Good day," said I. He said, "I want to talk to you." Mr. Gormand was standing near the turf-house at the door, and said he, "No, I have nothing at all to do with it; go and mind your own affairs."

1477. Did you go into the turf-house with him?—I did.

1478. When you were in the turf-house, what was said?—He looked up, and asked if anybody could see. I said, "No." There was another house leading away from the turf-house, where the hens and cocks roost, and there was a large door. He said, "I believe you have a vote." "I have," said I. He said, "Who do you vote for?" I said, "My mind is not made up yet."

85.

He said, "What would you take for your vote?" "I do not know," said I. "I believe some are getting forty, some more, and some less." Well, he took a bit of stick, and on the door he marked out thirty-five strokes, and said, "Would thirty-five strokes please you?" "What do you mean by those thirty-five strokes?" said I. "Oh! something handsome," said he. "Well," said I, "I have not made my mind up yet, but will you allow William Fallon in?" He said, "I cannot allow a third person by." "Well," said I, "if you will not allow William Fallon in, will you allow my own son in?" "No," said he, "I will not; I cannot allow a third person in; I will not allow any one in," said he, "but to please you I will put five strokes more to that to please you, and you will have many smiling faces when you come home."

1479. Did he tell you what you were to do?—He said to vote for Mr. Knox. I said I had not my mind made up to vote for Mr. Knox or any other man. He said, "Will you take security?" I said, "I would," and he said, "Would you not take your employer's word for it?" "Not for three straws," said I. "For what reason?" said he. "Because," I said, "I could not be fighting with my employer when I got home."

1480. Is that the substance of what passed between

C. Tighe. between you and Stokes on that occasion?—It was.

19 February 1869. 1481. Do you remember anything else?—He went out through the house, and there was a nearer cut through the office; he went out, and said to Mr. Gormand, "That is all right," or "That will be all right." "Well," said I, "you would not allow my son to come in, and I have not made up my mind." The same evening I was passing, and there was a great crowd round Mr. Stokes's house, and Mr. Stokes came to me, and said, "Well, Mr. Tighe, did you see Mr. Gormand?" "I did not," said I. "Will you come in this way?" said he. I said, "Not in that way." "Oh," he said, "it makes no odds." He brought me into a small room to the right; I could not say whether it was his wife or not, but there was some one sitting at the fire, and she got up and withdrew out of the room. He said, "Have you your mind made up?" "I have," said I. "Well," said he, "where would you like to go, to Liverpool or to Scotland." "I would like to go to Dublin," said I, "but what will I do without the money; who will give it to me?" He said, "You will have a man meet you in the train in the morning; you will go to Dublin, and you will meet a man at the train, and that man will give you money, and you will be well taken care of along with the rest." Well, I sat down and thought, and said I, "You are making a fool of me." "Oh, no," said he, "if you are not going to agree with me, I suppose we will have to part." So I got up, and wanted to walk out through the door I went in at. "No," said he, "you will go out here; this is where the rest of them went."

1482. That is a sort of back entrance?—Yes, the parlour door.

1483. The principal entrance is through the shop?—Yes. "So," said he, "as we are not going to agree, we will part." "Good night," said he; "Good night," said I; and we parted.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

1484. May I ask you, were you in earnest with reference to getting the money?—No.

1485. Then, in short, you were making a fool of him?—No, he was making a fool of me.

1486. Then you would not have taken the money, and gone away?—No.

1487. And you would not have taken the money, and voted for Major Knox?—No.

1488. And you never meant either?—No.

1489. And you meant to take the money, and vote for Captain Flanagan?—No.

1490. What did you mean to do?—I would not vote for Major Knox if he gave me all the money he is worth in the world.

1491. You would not?—No, as I told him when he came into my house, that was my principle.

1492. You were like the former gentleman, I suppose, you would not take 10,000 l. to vote for Knox?—No, I would not; I am a poor man, but I would not take all the money he has in the world, or you either, or any man in court, to vote for him. I told him that, and he is there now.

1493. When you were bargaining with Stokes, and said you had not made your mind up, you never did intend, whatever he gave you, to gratify him with a vote?—No.

1494. You never did?—No.

1495. No matter what he gave you, you would not go away from the town and abstain from voting?—No, I would vote for Flanagan.

1496. And you really did not intend then to take the money and leave the town?—No.

1497. You did not?—No.

1498. Were you ever sent by anybody to hold these conversations with Stokes?—No.

1499. What made you do it?—Just to please my own mind.

1500. Was it to make a case against Major Knox?—No, I had nothing at all against Major Knox.

1501. But suppose you contemplated that if the election went against you, you would have a case against Major Knox; do you know what that means?—I do.

1502. And was that your object?—It was.

1503. I believe you voted for Captain Flanagan?—I did.

1504. And you were in his mob?—No, I am no mob-man, never was; perhaps you might be if you like the name.

1505. Were you or were you not a very violent person at the election?—No.

1506. How much did you make by the election?—Not a farthing, nor a bottle of pop, nor a pint of porter; I can swear that, as I am on my oath.

1507. When did you enter into the design that in case Captain Flanagan was unsuccessful you would have this case of bribery against Major Knox; when was it that that thought, that brilliant thought, occurred to your mind?—Always, from the beginning to the end; I would never vote for him.

1508. Have you been summoned for your violence at the election?—No.

1509. Do you not know there was an information sworn against you?—No, I deny it; I never was before a bench of magistrates since I was born.

Re-examined by Mr. Palles.

1510. You say you were canvassed by Major Knox, and told him that nothing would induce you to vote for him?—Yes; Mr. Phibbs was with him and Mr. Brennan; they are both in court; I told him I would not, and that is my principle.

[The Witness withdrew.]

PETER TIGHE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

P. Tighe. 1511. ARE you a son of the last witness?—Yes.

1512. Were you at work at Mr. Gormand's in November last?—Yes.

1513. Do you know Mr. Stokes, a saddler?—Yes, I do.

1514. Do you recollect seeing him come in there?—Yes.

1515. Did you see him in conversation with your father?—He brought him into the turf-house.

1516. Was the door open or shut after they went in?—Open.

1517. Did they remain there long?—About ten minutes, I suppose.

1518. Were

1518. Were you there yourself?—I was in the shed working.

1519. I mean in the turf-house?—No.

1520. You did not hear what went on there?—No.

1521. Had you a conversation with Mr. Stokes?—No.

1522. After they came out of the turf-house, did you see where they went?—Mr. Stokes came in and asked Mr. Gormand why he did not buy a saddle from him; he bade good evening to my father, and said he wanted to speak to him. He asked Mr. Gormand to go with them, but Mr.

Gormand said he would have nothing to do with it. They then went in together, and as he came out he told me —

1523. Do not tell me that; what did Mr. Stokes do then?—He went out again.

1524. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What business does Mr. Gormand carry on?—He is a butter merchant.

1525. Your father and you are in his employment?—Yes.

1526. As coopers?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.

DOMINICK OATES, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

1527. ARE you an elector of the Borough of Sligo?—Yes.

1528. Do you know a man of the name of Shaw?—I do.

1529. Is he a clockmaker?—Yes.

1530. Do you recollect having immediately, or a short time, before the election some conversation with Shaw?—Yes, he came to clean up my clock. It was not going; I told him, and he said he would call and see it.

1531. Never mind about the clock; had you a conversation with him in your house when he was doing something to the clock?—I was in bed.

1532. Did he say anything about your going away?—He said it was not in bed that I should be; I am up at night, and I sleep in the evening.

1533. Had you some conversation with Shaw that night about going away?—No, but he said if I got the cash would I go; and I said I heard there was a good deal of it going, but I had seen but very little of it.

1534. Did Shaw make an appointment with you after that to call upon Mr. Stokes the saddler?—He did not mention his name at that time, but he said he knew a man that was a great favourite, and could do great things for Major Knox, and that he could bring me word what figure was going.

1535. Did he afterwards accompany you to Stokes's house?—Yes, he did; he came for me.

1536. Did he accompany you to Stokes's house?—He came for me.

1537. And you both went together?—Yes, I was sitting at the fire when he came into the shop.

1538. Did you see Stokes when you went there?—Yes.

1539. Did Shaw introduce you to him?—He did.

1540. Where did Mr. Stokes show you when you went into his house with Shaw?—He just happened to be at the door when we three walked in; we went into a room at the left; there was a woman there in the room, and she got up and walked away.

1541. Tell his Lordship what Stokes said when you three were together?—He said, "You have a notion of going across the water;" I said, "Yes," that all my brothers and sisters were there. "Well," he said, "would you go to-morrow morning?" "That is too short a sentence," said I.

1542. About how many days before the election was this?—Tuesday week, because the boat was going out the following morning.

1543. What did he say to that?—He said, "If you would not like to go then, you could go up to Dublin a few days, and you would be left there and sent across to Glasgow.

1544. What did you say when he offered you this pleasant trip?—I said I did not know about going till I knew what I was going for. He said I should meet a man on the quay at Glasgow who would give me a hearty reception and a kind shake of the hands till the 21st, and that he would give me my cash on that day.

1545. Did he say how much cash he would give you on that day?—Yes, he said, five-and-twenty. I said I did not understand that style of speaking, and Mr. Shaw then said, to the best of my opinion, that it was 25*l*. I said I would not put on one of my shoes for it, that I could earn it whilst the election was going on, baking bread and supplying my customers.

1546. What did he say to that?—He said I intended to bake a great deal if I made that profit while the election was going on. He said, "You think nothing of 25*l*.; I think it a good thing." So I said then that I thought it would be time to go out; I was long enough there. He said, "You think it nothing, but I think it is a very good thing for you to get for leaving your work for a few days, and you have nothing to get on your own side but a blessing from some of the clergy," and I said, "That is better than all you can give."

1547. Did he say anything about any weekly allowance while you were away?—No, but the man who was to meet me on the quay was to give me a kind reception, and I was to get my travelling charges.

1548. Did anything afterwards occur between you and Mr. Stokes?—No, he came out; he opened the door and looked up and down, and told me I might go out. Shaw did not come up to me at all. I was up at the head of the street, and he said, "You lay too much value on your vote; Mr. Stokes says you are laying too much value on your vote." On the following Sunday he called me in, and insisted that I was settled to it, and I said I was not.

1549. Who insisted?—Shaw did.

1550. Tell me, did you, after this transaction or conversation with Mr. Stokes, see Mr. Brennan?—Yes, I was brought.

1551. Mr. Stokes is here?—Yes.

1552. And probably Brennan is here?—Yes, I saw him there (pointing)—Thomas Brennan; he is there beyond; he was there a few minutes ago.

1553. Is that the man (pointing)?—Yes.

1554. When did you see Brennan after this conversation?—On the Wednesday night.

D. Oates.

D. Oates.
19 February
1869.

1555. On the Wednesday night?—Yes, Wednesday or Thursday night, one of the two.

1556. Did anybody bring you to Brennan?—Yes.

1557. Who was that?—Thomas Leonard.

1558. Is Thomas Leonard a voter?—He is not.

1559. When Leonard brought you to Brennan, what did Brennan say?—He said it was a good while, and that I was late, but as I was a poor man he would see and do the best for me.

1560. Did he make any proposal?—He asked me whether I was not at Stokes's, and I said, "Yes," and he said, "What did he offer you?" I told him. He said, "You must get the same as every other man that is going;" and he said, "We do not need the like of you though, now, except for the honour of a great majority; we have plenty now."

1561. Did he say what the others were getting?—He did not.

1562. Who did you vote for at the election?—Captain Flanagan.

1563. And you never had any notion of voting for any one but Captain Flanagan?—I never spoke to any man; Captain Flanagan was not in the house.

1564. You never spoke to him at all?—No, never since I was born.

1565. And you never spoke to any one on his behalf?—No.

1566. And were never asked by any one on his behalf to vote for Captain Flanagan?—No.

1567. And you were always determined?—If I had to walk the world bare-footed to get a job I would vote for him.

1568. Had you ever any talk with any one that you never intended to vote?—No.

1569. Had you ever any conversation with any one, that it would be a useful thing to have some talk with somebody?—Not a word.

1570. Who did you tell this story to first, after the day it occurred?—After the day it occurred?

1571. Yes?—I could not say who it was to; some man like myself.

1572. Did you tell any of Captain Flanagan's people about it?—Not one.

1573. At any time?—After the county election I was asked about it.

1574. By whom?—I think it was Leonard spoke to me.

1575. Did he speak to you for Captain Flanagan?—He asked me would I give down what I had said; what I knew about the other man.

1576. Would you give down what you knew about the other?—Yes.

1577. Were he and you alone?—No.

1578. Who was there?—A lot of children in the street.

1579. But was any grown man there?—No.

1580. Did Leonard say it would be better for you if you had?—No.

1581. Was there any talk of money at all?—No.

1582. Not one penny?—Not the hundredth part of a penny.

1583. Did anybody hear what passed between you and Stokes?—Shaw.

1584. He was your friend?—I suppose so.

1585. He heard the whole thing?—He heard it all.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MICHAEL BURKE, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

M. Burke.

1586. You are a voter of the Borough of Sligo?—I am.

1587. And I believe you live in Ratcliffe-street?—I do.

1588. When did you first get a vote?—I first had one 20 years ago, but I got one this year.

1589. You were not on the register last year?—No.

1590. Do you recollect the time of the revision; were you a claimant to have your name put on the list?—I was, on the supplementary list.

1591. That is the new list?—Yes, the new list.

1592. Do you know Mr. Stokes?—I do; he is my landlord.

1593. On the occasion of the revision had you any conversation with Mr. Stokes?—I had.

1594. Will you tell his Lordship what the conversation was?—He came to me and told me not to register; that I would be better off not to register.

Mr. Macdonogh objected to this evidence.

1595. Mr. O'Loghlin.] Did anything else pass between you and him with reference to the registration?—He told me that if I would not go to the court-house—

1596. To prove your case?—Yes, to prove my case, he would give me the price of a good cow. I asked him what that price would be, and he said about 12 l.

1597. Did you agree with him then not to register?—I did.

1598. I believe you are a butcher?—I am.

1599. And Mr. Stokes, you have said, is your landlord?—He is.

1600. When he said the price of a good cow, you said you agreed not to register?—I did.

1601. Did you in fact leave Sligo?—No, I did not go to the court-house.

1602. Then you did not appear to register your vote?—I did not appear at all.

1603. Were you sent for to go and register?—Yes.

1604. And you did not go?—I did not go.

1605. Was that in consequence of the conversation you had with Mr. Stokes?—It was in consequence of the conversation I had with Mr. Stokes.

1606. I believe your name was put on?—It was put on the Saturday after the revision commenced.

1607. It was put on, I believe, behind your back?—Without my knowledge, directly or indirectly; I gave no assistance.

1608. After your name was on the register, and before the election, had you any other conversation with Mr. Stokes?—I had.

1609. Will you tell his Lordship what it was?—I think it was on the Saturday before the election, my son went over to pay the rent, and he told my son to send me over—

1610. Do

1610. Do not tell us that?—I did not go over, at all events; but on Sunday evening I was walking round—

1611. You got a message from your son?—I did.

1612. You did not attend to that message?—No.

1613. On the Sunday evening did you see Mr. Stokes?—I was going down the street; Mr. Stokes was standing at his own door, at the gable end of the house.

1614. When you went in, where did you go to?—Just into the hall.

1615. Did any conversation then take place?—Yes; he said he wished I would stop there that night, and I said I would never be a prisoner while I lived, unless there was an execution against me.

1616. Was that on the Sunday before the election?—Yes.

1617. When he asked you that, did any other conversation take place?—He said he thought I would be better not to stop in the town, but to go away.

1618. To go away from the election?—To go away from the election.

1619. Did he say anything else to you?—I cautioned him not to say anything in case of committing himself.

1620. Did he say anything to you?—He said he would give me “forty thanks.”

1621. Who said that?—Mr. Stokes.

1622. What was that to be given to you for?—For my vote; at least, not for my vote; for going and abstaining from voting.

1623. When he said that, what did you say?—I said I would consult my wife, and think about it.

1624. Did you then refer to what had taken place about the revision?—Before that I had asked him about the 12 l., and he said unless I voted for Major Knox I would not get it.

1625. When he said about the “forty thanks,” was there anything else about the revision?—He said he would give me a letter to go to Longford and Dublin.

1626. Where were you to go?—To Longford first, and meet the man there.

1627. And where were you to go with that man?—To Dublin, I believe.

1628. Did he say what the man was to do?—Only to take care of me, as if I had been in Sligo.

1629. How long were you to stay away?—Till after the election.

1630. Did you ever say anything about “This will be like the promise I had about the revision,” or anything of that sort?—I did not consent to all; I said if I did go I would never like to come into Sligo again.

1631. And then I think you said you would consult with your wife?—Yes, I said I would go with public opinion.

1632. And was that all the conversation that passed between you?—Before that he told me if I would sign a document I did sign at the time of the revision—

1633. What did he say to you about the document; did you, in fact, sign a document?—I consented not to go on the register; there was something about signing a document, that was at the time of the revising barrister’s court, that I did not want to be put on the register. When I said I would not sign it, he said he would turn me out of the house, that is the house I am living in. I went away, and consulted some of my friends, and I came back and signed it.

1634. You did, in fact, sign a document?—I did, not to be put on the register.

1635. Before you signed that document, did Mr. Stokes say he would put you out of the house if you did not?—He did.

1636. And had he previous to that promised you the price of the cow?—Yes.

1637. Did you sign a document undertaking not to register?—I did; I did not appear at the court-house.

1638. At the second conversation with Mr. Stokes did you refer to that document; did you mention that document?—I do not think I did; I am sure I did not.

1639. When you said you would consult your wife about the “forty thanks,” did you ask him what “thanks” were?—Oh, I guessed myself what they were.

1640. Then, I believe, you left Mr. Stokes?—I said I would see him the next day, but I never saw him again till after the election was over. He sent a man of the name of Garner to me.

1641. Repeat it?—He sent a man of the name of Garner, a nailer, to me the next day, that was Monday, and the answer I gave him was final, that I would not comply.

1642. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who is he?—Garner, a nailer.

1643.] Mr. O’Loghlin.] What is his Christian name?—James.

1644. You gave your final answer to Garner?—Yes.

1645. Did he tell you he was sent to you by Stokes?—Yes.

1646. I believe you went out of the back door?—Yes, the same way; I did not want to be seen, to tell you the truth.

Cross-examined by Dr. Kaye.

1647. What rent do you pay?—I pay 4 s. 7 d. a week; that is, 12 l. a year.

1648. Had you ever a vote in your life before?—I had in 1847, 1848, and 1853.

1649. And I suppose you always voted for the popular candidate?—Yes, I think so always, except I voted one time for Mr. Hartley, and he was a waylay; he came in for another purpose; he came in to support Summers.

1650. You never intended him to win?—I think not.

1651. I suppose you were very proud when you found you were on the new register?—No, I would as soon be off it, because I would not leave the roll if I was very fond of getting on.

1652. You never consented to leave the town?—I never consented to leave the town.

1653. You never acceded to or accepted the proposition which was made to you of “forty thanks” by Mr. Stokes?—Never.

1654. You never did?—Never; I knew the “forty thanks” were 40 l., but I would not take 100 l.

1655. You would not take it?—I would not.

[The Witness withdrew.]

M. Burke
19 February
1869.

PATRICK HENNESSEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

- P. Hennessey.* 1656. You were a voter at the last election for Sligo?—Yes.
- 19 February 1869. 1657. Are you a tenant of Mr. Stokes?—No.
1658. Do you know Mr. Stokes?—I do.
1659. Do you know a man of the name of Jenkins?—Yes.
1660. Do you know a man of the name of Jenkins, a bailiff?—I do.
1661. Do you remember meeting Jenkins in Sligo shortly before the last election—Oh, yes; I meet him occasionally.
1662. Do you remember Mr. Stokes passing upon one occasion when you had met Jenkins in the street?—Yes; I saw Mr. Stokes in Knox's-street one of the days I happened to be there.
1663. Did he say anything to you; tell us everything he said?—He bade me the time of day, and he asked me how I was, and so on, and I said I was very well. I believe that Mr. Stokes, as far as I recollect, stated that he understood I might be going away, and if I would I would be made as comfortable as ever I was before. That is the amount of what he stated.

1664. Was the conversation interrupted by any person passing by?—Well; there were passers-by, I daresay, and I was rather inclined to be going away.

1665. Was that all that passed?—There was nothing of any consequence.

1666. I believe you had been in trade in Sligo; was not that so?—Yes.

1667. Have you been well off in trade?—I was pretty fairish at one time.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hartigan.

1668. You voted for Captain Flanagan?—I did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN MCTIGHE, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loughlin.

- J. McTighe.* 1669. You reside in Sligo?—I do.
1670. Do you recollect the month of November last?—I do; the Monday previous to the election.
1671. Where were you at work?—In the butter market.
1672. Did any one come to you at the butter market?—My own little son, a fellow about 10 years old.
1673. In consequence of anything your son said to you, did you leave the butter market?—I did; he said his mamma sent him for me.
1674. Did you go up to your house?—Yes.
1675. Did you find any one there?—There was no person till after I went in a few minutes.
1676. About what time of the day was this?—About half-past one.
1677. In a few minutes did anyone come in?—A man of the name of Armstrong.
1678. Who is Armstrong?—George Armstrong; he lives a few miles out of the town.
1679. Do you know what trade he is?—He is a farmer.
1680. Did Armstrong say anything to you?—He said—
1681. Do not tell us what he said; did he make some communication to you?—He did.
1682. Mr. Macdonogh.] Who did?—Armstrong.
1683. Mr. Justice Keogh.] At your house?—Yes, he said he was sent with a message.
1684. Mr. O'Loughlin.] In consequence of that message did you go anywhere?—I did not; I told him I would have to go back to the market again; I could not go sooner than in the course of the evening.
1685. Did you go back to the market?—I did; I had to go because of the butter.
1686. In the evening did you go to any place?—At four o'clock.
1687. At four o'clock?—Yes.
1688. Was he at your house?—He was.
1689. Was that by appointment?—It was.
1690. Did you go to any place that evening?—He told me to go to Mr. Stokes, and he would settle with me.

1691. Did you go to Mr. Stokes?—I did afterwards.

1692. Did you go into his shop?—I went into the front door.

1693. When you went into the front door was the shopman in the shop?—He was.

1694. Was Mr. Stokes in the shop himself?—No, he was not.

1695. When you went in and saw the shopman, did the shopman take you to any place?—He bade me the time of night.

1696. Did he take you to any place?—He took me down a large entry to where the missus was, and he said it was not her he wanted, but Mr. Stokes.

1697. Did he then show you in to Mr. Stokes?—Mr. Stokes came out, and we stood in the hall.

1698. What passed between you and Mr. Stokes?—He bade me the time of night, and asked me what I was going to do, and I told him I did not know.

1699. Did you ask him about having sent for you?—I told him Armstrong was there for me, and that he was to settle something.

1700. Just tell us, as well as you recollect, what it was you said?—As well as I recollect, he asked me what I would take for my vote, or something in that way.

1701. Did he say something about abstaining or going away?—"Well," said I, "I do not know, 50/-, or something that way is little enough."

1702. What did he say to that?—The girl was coming down the stairs, and he brought me down another entry.

1703. Farther down?—Yes; there are two doors in Thomas-street, and at the lower door there was a little place where there was turf, and he brought me in there.

1704. Did he say anything about Dublin or anywhere else?—He said he would give me forty thanks.

1705. What for?—I got excited when he said that.

1706. What were you to get forty thanks for?—To go to Dublin.

1707. How

1707. How long were you to remain in Dublin?—He did not say.

1708. Was anything said about the election?—I got surprised to know what he meant by this. He tapped me on the shoulder, and, said he, "You will have to go in the train to-night to Dublin, and I will give you your expenses."

1709. Did he say anything about each thank being a pound; that each would be a pound?—When I came back from Dublin, then he said he would give me my costs to Dublin that night, and I had better go.

1710. Do you know some people of the name of Macdonogh?—I do; my brother-in-law and my wife's uncle.

1711. Are they both voters?—They are voters.

1712. Did you to Stokes say anything about the Macdonoghs?—I did.

1713. Was anything you said to him about the Macdonoghs in consequence of anything that Armstrong had said to you that morning?—It was.

1714. The Macdonoghs do not live in the town?—No, they live in Rushill.

1715. How far is that from Sligo, a half-a-mile or a mile?—About a mile.

1716. In consequence of anything that had been said to you by Armstrong, had you an interview with any of the Macdonoghs?—I had that night; her own son ran up to Rushill.

1717. Tell me what you said to Stokes about the Macdonoghs?—I said I did not know whether they would go or not.

1718. Did he say anything about them?—He did.

1719. Tell us what he said about them?—He said there was my brother-in-law. I said I did not know; her son went up to the house for me, but I did not know whether he would or not.

1720. Did he say anything about what they were to get?—No, he did not.

1721. At the time when he said that every thank was a pound, when you returned, was anything else said?—I was to go to Dublin that night, and come back at once, and he would give me my costs.

1722. Then how much was he to give you to go to Dublin?—He did not mention the sum, but I told him—

1723. Did you go to the Macdonoghs?—I did not.

1724. Were you a voter before this year?—Never in my life.

1725. On what list of voters were you, do you know; were you on the list of claimants at the revision?—I was.

1726. Did anyone offer you anything not to register?—

Mr. Macdonogh objected to this evidence being given, on the ground that it did not come within the scope of the Act of Parliament.

Mr. Justice Keogh ruled that the evidence was admissible.

1727. Mr. O'Loghlin.] You know Mr. Harloe Phibbs?—I do.

1728. Did he conduct the revision?—I saw him in court.

1729. Was he acting in court?—He was.

1730. Did you see Major Knox at the revision?—I did.

1731. Was Major Knox in court at the revision?—He was.

85.

1732. How many days were you there at the revision?—I was a whole week.

1733. Did you see, during the whole week, Mr. Harloe Phibbs conducting business at the revision?—I did.

1734. And you saw Major Knox at the revision?—I did; I saw him in the galleries.

1735. Did anyone make you any offer not to register your vote?—There was a man one Monday evening—

1736. Would you tell me his name, if you recollect it?—Mr. O'Farrel.

1737. Mr. O'Farrel, I believe, is the poor-rate collector?—He is.

1738. He has a house in Sligo?—He has, in Jail-street.

1739. Was Mr. O'Farrel attending the revision as poor-rate collector?—I saw him there.

1740. Was he sitting under the judge?—Yes.

1741. During the week of the revision did you meet him at the foot of the street?—I did, one Monday evening.

1742. What did Mr. O'Farrel say to you?—

Mr. Macdonogh objected to the question.

1743. Mr. O'Loghlin.] Is O'Farrel a voter?—I do not know.

1744. Were you in Sligo at the time of the election?—I was.

1745. Do you know Mr. O'Farrel's house?—I do.

1746. I believe the next house is called Heggarty's?—Yes.

1747. Do you know how Mr. O'Farrel's house and Mr. Heggarty's house were used during the election?—I saw guards outside of them.

1748. Guarding what?—They said there were voters inside.

1749. In Mr. O'Farrel's house?—Yes; I did not know he was living there at the time at all, because he was living over in George's-street before.

1750. With the exception of this Mr. O'Farrel's, was any other offer made to you not to register?—No, indeed there was not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

1751. You got no money?—No, I got no money from anybody; not a shilling.

1752. You did not get the 50 l.?—I never shared a shilling from man or mortal at the election.

1753. And were you anxious to get 50 l.?—I was not; I thought it was better to mind my own business.

1754. Would you have taken 50 l., and voted for Major Knox?—I would not.

1755. Would you have taken the 50 l., and then have gone away?—No, I would not go from my family at any time.

1756. Then, in short, you did not mean at all, in this conversation or communication with Stokes, to take the money and go away?—I did not intend to take any money from any man to go from my own place; no, no, no, I did not.

1757. And did you agree to take 50 l. from Mr. Stokes?—I did nothing of the sort.

1758. You did not accept his offer?—I did not; I never returned to the gentleman from that day to this.

1759. Did you really intend to try to have a case in reserve against Major Knox, if Mr. Flanagan should be defeated?—It never crossed my thoughts, it never did; it never crossed my thoughts; I never thought of a petition or anything else; I only thought of the election.

1760. When he talked of forty thanks, or 40*l.*, did you not say that 50*l.* was little enough?—I never said the like.

1761. You never said the like?—I never said it at all. “Forty thanks,” were the words he used. Yes, I beg your pardon.

1762. Did you not say that 50*l.* was little enough?—I did.

1763. Now, did you really forget that, when you said you did not recollect anything of the kind?—I did.

1764. And you remember distinctly what occurred at the time of the election?—This very moment I forgot it.

1765. And what did you mean that 50*l.* was little enough when he offered you 40*l.*?—Well,

I just wanted to get away out of the place, and know no more about it.

1766. He agreed to 50*l.* afterwards?—I walked out.

1767. Did he not advance from 40*l.* to 50*l.*?—£. 40 is what he said; I said 50*l.*

1768. You refused?—I walked out. He said I had better go to Dublin that night; I said I did not like to go to Dublin that night; I said, “Would not Carrick do?”

1769. Did you not say that your brother-in-law’s people, the Macdonoghs, might be got to go away also; did you not tell him that?—Hear their testimony.

1770. But did you not tell Stokes about the Macdonoghs?—He asked me about them, and I told Mr. Stokes I could not be sure of what any man said.

[The Witness withdrew.

Adjourned to To-morrow at Ten o’clock.

Saturday, 20th February 1869.

Mr. Sanger, of the Telegraph Company, handed in some telegrams, which it was arranged that the Counsel for the parties should have an opportunity of inspecting. 20 February 1869.

JAMES CARNEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

1771. I BELIEVE you are a voter for the borough of Sligo?—Yes.

1772. Do you live upon the Mall?—I do.

1773. Do you know Mr. Stokes?—I do; he is my landlord.

1774. Is he landlord of the house you live in?—Yes.

1775. Do you recollect the last revision in Sligo?—I do.

1776. Had Mr. Stokes any conversation with you in reference to that revision?—He had a little; not a great deal.

1777. Well, whatever the little is, did he come up to your house to you?—He did.

1778. Did he go into the house?—Yes, he did.

1779. Into what part of the house did he go?—He went into the front of it, as you might imagine; a shop.

1780. You are in trade in Sligo, are you not?—In humble circumstances.

1781. What is your trade?—I am a dealer in cattle, sheep, and all sorts of stock; wool sometimes.

1782. When he went into your shop, did he speak to you about the revision?—No, not then; he asked me if I would speak to him, and I walked with him to his own place.

1783. Did you go into his own house?—I did.

1784. Will you tell his Lordship exactly what occurred?—He intimated to me the coming election.

1785. Mr. Justice Keogh.] When was it that this occurred?—Previous to the revision; a few days.

1786. Mr. O'Loghlin.] What did he say?—He said to me that this gentleman was a friend of his.

1787. Who was that?—Major Knox; he said he would wish to render any possible support he could to him.

1788. Did he say anything else?—Well, he said that I might arrive at the benefit that would be attained in the matter.

1789. Did he tell you what the benefit was?—He did.

1790. What was it?—£. 15.

1791. To do what?—To leave Sligo.

1792. During the revision?—Before the revision.

1793. To leave at what time?—That night, or as convenient as possible to myself.

1794. Will you tell us, as nearly as you can recollect, what he said?—He said nothing more than that; he just asked me if I was inclined to accept of the proposition; and I was just very cool, and I said I would give him an answer.

1795. How long were you to stay away from 85.

Sligo?—He did not mention how long, but it was my impression it was during the revision; I understood that.

1796. Was that for the purpose of remaining away from registering?—It was.

1797. You said you would consider of it?—I said I would consider of it.

1798. Did you see him afterwards?—I did.

1799. Did you then say anything about what you would do?—I gave him no decision.

1800. Did he come to ask you for it?—He asked me, I dare say, once, did I make up my mind.

1801. Where did he ask you that?—Well, I dare say it was about his own place.

1802. I want you just to recollect, as well as you can?—I could not exactly say where he asked me.

1803. But you recollect having a conversation with him?—He asked me if I had arrived at a decision.

1804. Who was to give you that 15*l.* if you stopped away?—Well, I suspect —

1805. What did he tell you, I want to know?—Well, he told me there was a benefit of 15*l.* admitted for such purposes, and that I would get that.

1806. You say “for such purposes;” for what purposes?—For the purpose of absenting voters from the revision, or claimants for votes.

1807. Was the word he used “benefit”?—I do not remember that he used that word.

1808. Can you tell us just the word that he did use?—He engaged to me that I would get 15*l.* if I absented myself during the revision; not to be qualified, I suppose, as a voter.

1809. On the occasion, when you say he asked you if you had made up your mind, had you any other conversation?—It was very simple.

1810. What did he say?—I know I answered him to that effect, but I do not remember what he said then; but he spoke to me on another occasion.

1811. We will come to that just now, but on that second occasion did he make any observation about the folly of your conduct or anything of that sort?—The folly of my conduct.

1812. Yes?—Oh no, not a word such as that.

1813. You were put on the registration, I believe?—As you ask me that question, “Perhaps you may have no vote,” said he to me; “With regard to that,” I said, “I don't care much, in one sense, whether I have or not.”

1814. Was that at the time when he asked you whether you had made up your mind or not about the 15*l.*?—It was afterwards.

1815. Had you any other conversation with Mr. Stokes before the election?—He spoke to me about voting on that side.

J. Carney.

J. Carney.

20 February
1869.

1816. Where was that?—I do not exactly remember the date; I did not take any precise notice.

1817. Was it up in your own house?—No.

1818. Where was it?—In his own house.

1819. Were you in his own house between the revision and the election?—I was.

1820. In what part of the house was it?—In his shop; I have a general resort there; I pay him rent; he was always kind enough to give me admission to his place if I wanted to go in and out.

1821. Had you any conversation with him in the shop with regard to your vote?—He asked me with regard to my vote.

1822. What did he say?—He said to me that he would be able to give me 20 L., or something about that.

1823. If you did what?—One day; and he said another day I would get 25 L.

1824. If you did what?—Voted for this gentleman.

1825. Who?—Major Knox.

1826. Did he say anything else?—Not that I remember at that interview.

1827. But had you more interviews with him?—I declined entirely afterwards.

1828. But on the first occasion that he spoke to you about money for your vote, was that in his shop?—It was.

1829. Will you tell us exactly what occurred; what he said to you, and what you said to him?—I said I did not wish—

1830. What did he say to you first?—He said I was a fool not to avail myself of what would be useful to me; it would be considerably useful to me to get money, or the like thing; that it would be an addition to my circumstances; such things as that.

1831. What was it he did say?—It was after that manner that he spoke to me.

1832. He spoke to you in that way?—Yes.

1833. How much did he offer you on that occasion; was that the first occasion that he spoke to you about money for your vote?—It was.

1834. How much did he offer you, on your oath?—Well, he spoke to me, I believe, about it the second time.

1835. On your oath, how much did he offer you the first time?—£. 20.

1836. To vote for whom?—For Major Knox; I said to him on that occasion, that the gentleman never asked me, or solicited me for my support, and if he did I might give an answer to another effect, or something like that.

1837. How many conversations had you with Mr. Stokes about your vote altogether?—Well, I could not say to that, what amount.

1838. Had you three or four?—Three or four, or six perhaps.

1839. Did he, on those three or four, or six occasions, on each occasion offer you any money?—Not on each occasion, but he wanted to have an assent from me, and I used to speak to him, and he to me, and anything more than these little matters did not pass, unless just what I say to you.

1840. Did Mr. Stokes ever go more than on the one occasion up to your house?—Never; and when I declined the thing he never made any further—; he did not interfere with me after.

1841. Will you tell me on what day it was you gave your final answer?—Well, I did not give him a final answer to say I would say one thing or another that I recollect; but I declined, and he knew and understood me quite well.

1842. When was that?—A few days previous to the election; he quite understood that I would not.

1843. Will you, just as well as you can recollect, tell me how long before the election was the last time he offered you money?—I dare say it was a week, to the best of my knowledge.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

1844. Now, Mr. Carney, you got no money?—No money whatever.

1845. You would not take it?—No, I would not; on my oath, I would not.

1846. You see how readily I understand an honest man; you would not take it?—I would not.

1847. You see that gentleman, Major Knox; you say that he never asked nor solicited you for your vote?—Never, as a gentleman. I admit everything that is just; he never did.

1848. Major Knox never came near you?—He never did.

1849. Then it was before the revision that the first conversation between you and Mr. Stokes took place?—It was; and it appeared as if it was a matter of simplicity with Mr. Stokes; he did not appear to be serious with it at the first interview.

1850. Is he a simple-minded man?—He is a first class man of great abilities.

1851. A first-class man, of great abilities?—He is in trade, of great abilities.

1852. And a respectable man?—With regard to respectability I do not know; it is in the power of courts of justice, or the Legislature, or some one superior to me in position, to give a character of him I dare say.

1853. But really it seemed a simple thing about the revision, and you thought him not in earnest?—The first stage of the proceeding was simple.

1854. Did you attend the revision?—I did.

1855. And you were placed upon the roll?—I was.

1856. And you voted, I suppose?—I did.

1857. For Captain Flanagan?—I did.

1858. And Mr. Stokes, when he understood your mind, never interfered with you?—Never.

1859. Nor threatened you?—He used his interest to solicit my support, as far as in him lay, as a friend of Major Knox.

1860. That is what he told you, as a friend of Major Knox?—He did.

1861. But after you had given him to understand what your wishes were, he never interfered with you?—Never; he understood finally from me that I would not in any case; it was nothing else in the world but my own conviction.

1862. I am not in the least finding fault with what you say, but did you at any time give him to understand that you would take the 25 L.?—Never.

1863. Never at all?—No.

1864. You had made up your mind you would not, at the commencement or at the conclusion?—I would not give any mention of any terms.

1865. Before the election, had you been communicating with any person on the part of Captain Flanagan?—I pledge, on my oath, that I had never an intimation or communication, public public or private, with regard to deriving benefit from the contest of the two gentlemen.

1866. That is not what I mean?—Well, I just wished to mention to you the circumstance.

1867. I wish to have just a single word, and I have done. Did you ever tell these conversations with Stokes to any person before the day of the election?—On my oath, I did not, to my knowledge, nor was I disposed to tell them; and I never expected to appear in this Court in the matter.

1868. When did you tell it?—I never told a word of it for the purpose of a hearing in the case.

1869. Have you a recollection of having told it to any person?—We might on some occasion have been speaking to one or the other in company, and I might have said I could get money if I liked; I did say that.

Re-examined by Mr. O'Loughlin.

1870. You got a subpoena?—I did.

1871. Was it this morning that you made a statement as to your evidence?—It was.

1872. Had you made any statement before as to this 15th?—On my oath, on my solemn oath, I never did, to any party or parties.

1873. Did you not, in point of fact, refuse to make any statement?—I did.

J. Carn ey.
20 February
1869.

Further cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

1874. One word, and it is very simple; it was this morning, in the town of Carrick?—It was; I was asked what I would say.

1875. To whom did you say it?—To one of these gentlemen.

1876. Which of them?—Mr. Moloney.

1877. This day, in the town of Carrick, for the first time?—For the first time.

1878. That was the first time you spoke of it?—Unless in common conversation with my neighbours.

1879. You never told them till to-day?—Never.

1880. How did they find out that you were a person alleged to be bribed by Stokes, and put you in the Bill of Particulars?—Well, I suppose it was a universal affair that bribery and corruption was made use of, and the return of Major Knox or Captain Flanagan was quite an impossibility; corruption was never so rife in any country.

[The Witness withdrew.]

Mrs. ELIZA BUCHANAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

1881. HAVE you brought your books with you?—Yes.

1882. You have them here in the box along with you I suppose?—Yes.

1883. You keep some cars in Sligo, I believe, for hire?—Yes.

1884. Have you a little hotel there as well?—Yes.

1885. Do you know Mr. Stokes, of Sligo?—Yes.

1886. He is a saddler, I understand?—Yes.

1887. Do you know Mr. Henry Lyons?—I do.

1888. Perhaps you know Mr. Cherry?—Yes.

1889. You know all these gentlemen, and I presume you know Mr. Gilmore; they are all townspeople?—I do; I know him; I am slightly acquainted with him.

1890. I will just ask you, how much money did you receive for the hire of your cars for the election?—I never received a farthing for car hire during the borough election, never.

1891. Were your cars engaged by any of these gentlemen during the borough election?—There was one engaged by Mr. Stokes.

1892. How soon previous to the day of the polling was the car engaged by Mr. Stokes?—I could not exactly say.

1893. About how many days?—Well, I suppose it was about a week; I could not exactly say really.

1894. Perhaps your book would enable you to tell. Have you any entry; just look at the month of November?—(After looking at the book.) It was on the 14th of November.

1895. I suppose the car was hired from you the day before it went?—Yes.

1896. Who have you charged there?—It is charged to Mr. Stokes.

1897. Just let me look at it, if you please?—

85.

There it is (handing the book to the learned Counsel).

1898. I suppose, Mrs. Buchanan, you are not an early riser yourself?—Not very early.

1899. I mean to say, not before eight or nine o'clock. What time in the morning were orders given for the car to leave your establishment?—Well, I am not exactly sure; early in the morning.

1900. You have a driver of the name of McGowan in your employ?—Yes.

1901. It was you who gave instructions to McGowan, I suppose?—I did.

1902. Who was it told you the hour at which the car was to leave?—Mr. Stokes.

1903. What hour did he tell you to have the car ready to leave?—To the best of my knowledge, it would be between four and five o'clock.

1904. In the morning?—Yes.

1905. What instructions did he give you to communicate to your driver; what did he say?—The instructions he gave me were for the boy to go down to Ballytiven; that he would meet the party there who wanted the car.

1906. I beg pardon for asking you again?—That he should go down to Ballytiven, and that he would meet the parties there.

1907. What parties?—I do not know who the parties were.

1908. Did he tell you how the boy was to know the parties?—He never told me anything more than that.

1909. You are quite sure of that?—Quite sure indeed.

1910. How was your car driver to know the parties at Ballytiven?—He was to meet them there.

1911. Do you know a place called the "Golden Rappers"?—I do.

1912. Where

Mrs. E.
Buchanan.

Mrs. E.
Buchanan.
20 February
1869.

1912. Where are the "Golden Rappers." That is the sign of some inn or some place, I suppose?—Near Hazlewood.

1913. When did you know that there was such a place as the "Golden Rappers"?—When did I know it?

1914. Yes?—Since I first came to Sligo.

1915. Did Mr. Stokes say anything to you about the "Golden Rappers"; try and recollect now?—I do not remember him saying anything to that effect about the "Golden Rappers." It was only to send to Ballytiven.

1916. Is Ballytiven the direct road into Enniskillen?—It is not.

1917. But you can go that way round, I am told, by the lunatic asylum?—You can go round that way certainly.

1918. I will try and refresh your recollection. Did Mr. Stokes say you were to tell your man that the person he was to meet would be known by his asking the way; did he know the way to the "Golden Rappers." Try and recollect what Mr. Stokes said to you about how this man would be known?—The "Golden Rappers"? He did not tell me one single word about the "Golden Rappers" that day.

1919. Did you tell your driver to go to Mr. Stokes?—Well, I may have told him to go.

1920. Do you think you told him to go for further instructions to Mr. Stokes?—Well, I think to the best of my knowledge, I did.

1921. Just take that in your hand (passing a document to the Witness); do you know the writing upon that?—No.

1922. You never saw it before?—Never.

1923. Then you did not give it to your driver?—I never saw that piece of paper before.

1924. Do not imagine I am doubting what you are saying; but you never saw this before?—Never.

1925. Now point out to his Lordship, and hand it to him, the entry that you say was for that car?—The 6^s.

1926. Will you tell me why it is altered to Mr. Starkie instead of Mr. Stokes?—It was a mistake in writing down the name.

1927. Was it not altered afterwards. You will see the alteration in it?—

1928. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who is Mr. Starkie?—It was a mistake in writing down the name. The children were working at it.

1929. Who is Mr. Starkie?—I do not know.

1930. Is there a Mr. Starkie?—It is put down for Stokes, just by mistake in writing it down.

1931. Mr. Coffey.] Who is Mr. Starkie; is there such a person in existence at all?—No.

1932. There is an entry upon the 15th for Mr. Starkie, this imaginary gentleman. This is a mistake I suppose for Stokes also, is it not Mrs. Buchanan; come, be frank and candid with me?—Yes, it is.

1933. Are these entries in your writing?—Sometimes they are made by the young person in the shop.

1934. These are your entries (pointing)?—Yes.

1935. Your writing?—Yes, I have no person to do anything for me. Very often I am called away, and make mistakes and blots.

1936. Tell me, did you not write it Stokes and then alter it to Starkie afterwards; take the entry in your hand?—It was the hurry of business made me put it down in that way; I would be very often called away.

1937. Look at these entries that you made yourself; do you not see the word "Stokes" was written first there?—I see the word "Starkie" written in mistake by myself.

1938. But do you not see that Stokes was written first?—I do not see Stokes written first; I see Starkie first.

1939. Tell me, and answer me frankly, as I know you will, did Mr. Stokes go to you after you had made that entry in your book?—He did not.

1940. What made you alter Stokes, the proper person's name, to Starkie?—I did not alter it.

1941. Who altered it?—It was writing it down the first day that I did it.

1942. Where did the car go to that is charged in the second entry to Mr. Starkie?—I can't tell you that.

1943. Look at the book and tell me?—There was a lady friend of mine.

1944. Look at the book?—Where did it go to?

1945. Yes?—It went to Manorhamilton.

1946. No?—It did.

1947. Did not one of these cars go to Bundoran?—Yes.

1948. And the other to Manorhamilton?—Yes.

1949. One on the 14th, and the other on the 15th?—Yes.

1950. And they are both charged to Mr. Starkie?—Yes.

1951. What were the instructions you got about the second car, the one to Bundoran?—The Bundoran car; I explained all I had to say about it.

1952. But I am asking you who ordered it. What was it entitled you to enter that Bundoran car to Mr. Stokes?—It was him that employed the car.

1953. For whom?—For whom, I do not know.

1954. Do you know a person named McMullen?—I have seen him, but I was not aware that it was McMullen who wanted it.

1955. Did you not ascertain that it was McMullen travelled on that car to Bundoran?—

1956. Mr. Justice Keogh.] The witness has already explained the car to Bundoran; I take it that the car to Manorhamilton is the car to Enniskillen, is that so?—It is the car to Manorhamilton.

1957. Is that the car that went to Enniskillen?—I could not say that it went on to Enniskillen; there was a lady friend of mine in the house, and she was going to Manorhamilton; I happened to be passing round by Mr. Stokes's; he said there was a gentleman wanted a car to go to Manorhamilton; I said that a friend of mine was going, and he might go on the car with her to Manorhamilton.

1958. Is that the car that took the gentleman to Enniskillen, or is it, as the man stated, that he took the car to Manorhamilton to go to Enniskillen?—That is the one.

1959. What is the one to Bundoran?—I sent the car to Bundoran, and that is all I know about it.

1960. It was engaged by Mr. Stokes?—It was.

1961. In the book there is the entry quite plain and perceptible, and there is no difficulty about it, because I will get a magnifying glass at once. There is an entry to Stokes. Why did you you alter it to Starkie?—It was a mistake of mine in doing so.

1962. Mr. Coffey.] Did you pay for the car that went from Manorhamilton to Enniskillen?—I never heard anything of that car. The gentleman did not send for the bill for it.

1963. Are you liable for it?—I am not liable.

1964. Did you order the man to engage a second car forward to Enniskillen from Manorhamilton?—Yes.

1965. Who told you to do that?—Mr. Stokes did.

1966. This car that went to Bundoran, who was it that went upon it?—I did not know who went upon it for more than a week.

1967. After the week, who did you ascertain went upon the car?—It was my own servant in the kitchen that I heard say it was the McMullens.

1968. Who did you ascertain went on that car to Bundoran?—I do not understand what you mean.

1969. What are the names of the men who went on the second car, that you ascertained the week afterwards?—I heard they were the McMullens.

1970. The two McMullens?—I could not answer. I do not know whether they were the two or not; but I heard they were the McMullens.

1971. Had you any cars ordered to go to Ballysedare two or three days before the election?—No.

1972. You live close to these McMullens, do you not?—Pretty close.

1973. Quite close?—Yes, it is round the corner from my place.

1974. Had you seen them from the time of the election till yesterday?—No.

1975. Do you not know that they are away from Sligo?—I believe so.

1976. Is not their place shut up?—It is.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

1977. Look at the name “Starkie, 14th November;” was that “k” that is there, written when you wrote down the name originally?—It was all done together.

1978. It is manifest that “k” was written at the same moment, with the same ink and the same pen——

Mr. Justice Keogh.] What I wish to call your attention to is, that the word “Stokes” was, at all events, written before “Starkie.”

Mr. Palles.] “K” is common to both.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] It is common to both “Stokes” and “Starkie,” but the “k” is there.

1979. Cannot you tell us frankly; did you write “Stokes” first?—I did.

1980. Did you alter it into “Starkie”?—I did.

1981. You have given me a very frank answer; tell me this, when did you make the alteration?—A few days ago.

1982. Who asked you to do it?—Myself.

1983. No one but yourself?—No one but myself.

1984. Did anyone speak to you about it?—No, indeed.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. CHERRY, called; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

1985. Do you produce the letter that was asked about yesterday?—I cannot produce what is not in existence.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that the gentleman could be sworn and examined as to what took place if the Petitioners thought proper.

Mr. Palles stated that they did not intend to examine Mr. Cherry.

ROBERT M'CULLOUGH, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

1986. You are Manager of the Ulster Bank?—Yes.

1987. You were served with a subpoena to produce the books?—I was.

1988. Have you the books there?—No.

1989. When did you get the subpoena?—On Thursday.

1990. Have you extracts from the books?—There is not an entry in the bank books relating to what is on the subpoena.

1991. Do you know Mr. Thomas Brennan?—I do by appearance.

1992. Has he an account in the bank?—No.

1993. Had he an account at the bank?—Never.

1994. Did he ever get a bill cashed in the bank?—Never.

1995. Was there ever a bill cashed with his name on it?—Never; he never had his name on the bank books.

1996. Have you got the books for November 85.

here?—I have not brought any of the books here.

1997. Will you tell me why you did not?—Because I searched them over carefully, and could not find his name in them.

1998. Were you subpoenaed to produce the books?—I was, with reference to a certain matter.

1999. Have you got a copy of your subpoena (it was handed to the Judge); do you know Mr. Griffith?—Mr. Henry Griffith?

2000. Yes?—I do.

2001. Has he any account with your bank?—He has not.

2002. Was there any money paid on his behalf, in the month of November last, through your bank?—Not that I am aware of. I think not.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that the subpoena was merely with reference to a particular transaction, and the Witness had done right in not bringing his books.

Mrs. E. Buchanan.

20 February 1869.

Mr. Cherry.

R. M'Cullough.

ELLEN FOX, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

E. Fox.

20 February
1869.

2003. I BELIEVE you are at present in Mrs. Hall's employment?—I was.

2004. Have you left it?—I left it yesterday morning about six o'clock.

2005. You were in her employment in the month of November last?—I was.

2006. Has she a house in Sligo, next the Court-house?—She has.

2007. Do you know a person of the name of Mary Caveney?—I do.

2008. Was she taken in as a servant at Mrs. Hall's house immediately before the election?—Yes, she was taken in as an assistant.

2009. To assist you?—Yes.

2010. Do you know Mr. Harloe Phibbs, a solicitor, of Sligo?—I do not know him, but I heard of his name.

2011. Would you know him by appearance?—I would not.

2012. Do you remember how Mrs. Hall's house was occupied a few days previous to the election?—The Saturday before the election I saw Mr. Knox and Mr. Lawder coming there, and they went out and asked for the keys of the grand jury room, to go and look at the court. They went out to the court; some other person, I don't know who, came and asked for the keys of the door facing the street.

2013. The door of Mrs. Hall's?—No, of the Court-house.

2014. Who was it asked for the keys of the door of the Court-house?—Mr. McKame.

2015. When you say Mr. Knox, do you mean Mr. Utrud Knox or Major Knox?—Major Knox.

2016. That was on the Saturday?—On the Saturday before.

2017. Were Mr. Lawder and Mr. Knox in that house on the Saturday?—They were.

2018. Did you see them speaking to your mistress, Mrs. Hall?—I did.

2019. Previous to the Saturday, were there any persons excepting Mrs. Hall's family occupying the house?—I saw several people coming in there.

2020. Previous to the Saturday?—Yes, on Saturday.

2021. Before Saturday did you see any coming in?—Yes, I did.

2022. Did many people come in on Saturday? Well, I cannot say how many.

2023. But did several people come in on Saturday?—Several people did come in on Saturday.

2024. And stopped there on Saturday night?—No, not on Saturday night.

2025. Nobody stopped there on Saturday night?—Nobody stopped there on Saturday night.

2026. Did anyone stop there on Sunday night?—Yes, two voters.

2027. Do you know their names?—The name of one was Lindsay, and the name of the other McCoy.

2028. Do you know whether they are voters or not; can you give me their Christian names? I do not know their Christian names.

2029. Do you know where they live?—I may have heard them say where they lived.

2030. Did anyone sleep there on Monday night?—Yes.

2031. How many slept there?—I do not know how many.

2032. Did 10 sleep there?—I cannot say how many.

2033. About how many?—I cannot say.

2034. Were there more than two?—There were more than two.

2035. Were there 10, do you suppose?—I do not know how many.

2036. Five or six?—I think there were.

2037. Were all the rooms occupied, as well as you can remember, on that Monday; was the house full?—It was not.

2038. On Monday were there many there?—I cannot say how many.

2039. On Tuesday were there several there?—There were.

2040. And on Wednesday, the day before the polling, were there several there?—There were.

2041. As many as the house would hold?—There were a great many.

2042. Did any person move out of the house before these persons came in, or did any person change his room for the purpose of accommodating these people?—Yes.

2043. Whom?—Mr. Robinson.

2044. What night was that?—I cannot say whether it was on Tuesday night or on Wednesday night that Mr. Robinson did it.

2045. Are you able to give the names of any of the persons who were there with the exception of the two that you have already stated?—I can.

2046. Give me the names of any persons you can?—Paddy O'Brien, Johnny Reid, the two Grays, the two McGoldrick's, McGuirk, Gallagher Fallon; I don't remember the next.

Mr. Justice Keogh inquired the point at which the present evidence was directed.

Mr. Palles stated that it was directed first to the allegations of treating, and secondly to agency.

2049. Mr. Palles.] How were those men supported during the time they were in that house; did you see provisions coming in?—I did.

2048. Can you tell me the persons from whom those provisions came in?—I can.

2049. Who are they?—We got beef and mutton from Mr. Feeny. I do not know where the bacon was got. The tea and sugar were got at Mr. Crawford's. That is according as I heard the mistress say.

2050. Was there any drink brought in there?—Yes.

2051. Much?—I cannot say how much.

2052. Did you see Major Knox and Mr. Lawder frequently at Mrs. Hall's during those four days?—I did.

2053. Did you see them there every day?—I did.

2054. More than once; I suppose every day?—I saw them every day, however.

2055. Did you see them making arrangements how the rooms should be occupied by the different voters.

Mr. Macdonogh objected to the question.

2056. Mr. Palles.] What did you see them doing?—I saw them doing nothing but going in and and coming upstairs to where those men were in the rooms.

2057. Going into the rooms?—Going into the rooms.

2058. You say you do not know Mr. Harloe Phibbs's appearance?—No.

Mr. Harloe Phibbs called.

2059. Did you see that gentleman in there?—I cannot say;—I have heard his name at different times.

2060. Did you hear his name mentioned by Major Knox or by Mr. Lawder?—I did not.

2061. But you saw persons there calling him Mr. Phibbs?—I did. They said, "Mr. Phibbs, come in here."

2062. Do you know Mr. Cherry?—Yes.

2063. Did you see Mr. Cherry there?—I did.

2064. Was he there often?—Every day almost.

2065. What did you see him doing there?—I saw him coming there, paying great attention to the voters.

2066. He was taking care of them, I suppose?—Yes.

2067. Did you see him there at any time when Major Knox and Mr. Lawder were there?—I did.

2068. Did you see him speaking to Major Knox and Mr. Lawder?—I cannot exactly say.

2069. Do you know Mr. Gilmore, the mayor?—I do.

2070. Did you see him there frequently?—I did.

2071. Can you tell me the names of any other persons you saw from time to time going in there during these four days?—Lyons.

2072. Henry Lyons?—I did.

2073. Try and tell me the names of any others?—Tom Woods, Campbell, the cabinet maker, coming in there with the voters.

2074. Do you know Mr. Stokes?—I do not know him; I heard his name.

2075. Do you know Mr. Williams?—I do; the man with big whiskers.

2076. I understand he has whiskers; is he in court?—

Mr. Williams called.

2077. Can you see the gentleman here?—I see one, Mr. Williams.

2078. Is that the gentleman you saw there?—I saw him coming there, but I did not know him at the time.

2079. Did you see him there often?—I saw him there, but I cannot say he was there at the election; I will not say it.

2080. Do you recollect that on one occasion Mr. Cherry directed a ladder to be brought to the back yard for the purpose of some men getting over it?—Yes.

2081. When was that?—On the Monday night.

2082. Was that the Monday before the election?—Yes.

2083. Who brought the ladder?—I, myself.

2084. Was Mary Caveney with you?—She was at the time.

2085. What was it Mr. Cherry told you to do?—He told me to bring the ladder and put it up against the wall.

2086. When you brought the ladder there, what was done with it?—I put it against the wall.

85.

2087. Did you see any man either go up on that ladder, or come down it?—No, I did not; I saw Mr. Cherry at the time.

2088. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What did you say about Mr. Cherry?—I saw Mr. Cherry going up on the ladder, looking across the wall. He said that would do, thanked me, and gave me a shilling.

2089. Mr. Palles.] Then you left?—Then I left.

2090. Whom does the yard on the other side of the wall belong to?—I do not know.

2091. Did you observe by what doors the voters used to leave the house?—Used to leave the house?

2092. Yes; on the morning of the poll, did you observe any voters go by the front door?—

Mr. Macdonogh.] People, not voters.

2093. Mr. Palles.] Did you observe any persons going by the front or by the back door?—I saw the Protestant voters going out by the hall door.

2094. And the other voters?—I saw them go by the court; they were standing there; the door was locked at the time; I did not see them going in.

2095. Was there any communication between the side or back of Mrs. Hall's house and the court-house?—Yes.

2096. What is that communication; where does the door lead out to?—There is a door that leads from Mrs. Hall's house into the court-house.

2097. Do you know McGuirk?—I do.

2098. Do you know his wife?—I do.

2099. Do you remember taking a message from McGuirk's wife to him?—I remember that McGuirk told me to go down and see his wife.

2100. Do you remember bringing up a message?—His wife told me to tell him—

2101. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Did you take a message from him to her?—I did.

2102. Mr. Palles.] Was he stopping in the house at the time?—He was.

2103. How long had he been in the house?—I cannot say what time he came in.

2104. Late on the day of the polling do you remember Major Knox coming into Mrs. Hall's house?—I do.

2105. Did you hear him speak to him?—I did.

2106. What was it he said?—He came up and asked him how he would vote.

2107. What did McGuirk say to that?—He said he would not vote. He asked him why. He said he had a reason of his own for it.

2108. Did the Major say anything when he refused to vote?—He said, "Remember, McGuirk, you will be sorry hereafter."

2109. Did you at any time see any persons looking over accounts in that house?—On the Monday after the election I remember Mr. Cherry coming up. I remember Mrs. Hall coming into the kitchen to say that Mr. Cherry was in the parlour.

2110. You cannot tell me what Mrs. Hall said; did you go into the parlour?—I did not.

2111. Did you see Mr. Cherry when he was in the parlour?—I did not.

2112. When these men were in the house, did they get everything they called for?—They did.

E. Fox.
1869.

2113. Whenever they asked you for anything, I suppose you went down and got it for them, if it was in the house?—I did.

2114. How many meals a day had they?—Three meals, and lunch if it was required.

2115. And had they plenty to drink the whole time?—According as they asked for it.

2116. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas R. Wilson?—No.

2117. Do you remember a few days ago being asked to go in and witness the payment for any of this?—I do.

2118. How many days is that ago?—I disremember the day.

2119. Was it a week ago?—Maybe it is a week. It is no more.

2120. Who was it asked you to go in and witness that?—Mrs. Hall.

2121. What did she say to you?—She asked me to go in and see the money paid.

2122. Tell me what you saw when you went in?—I did not go in and see it at all.

2123. You refused to go?—I did.

2124. Were the men brought down to the kitchen where you were?—They were.

2125. Will you tell me what you saw?—I cannot say, because I shut my eyes.

2126. You would not look at them?—No.

2127. You know the men who were there?—Young Gray.

2128. Was there anyone else except young Gray?—No; and Mrs. Hall and the girl.

2129. Who was the other girl?—I forget her name.

2130. You do not know her name?—Jane Blake.

2131. Did you tell me Mr. Wilson was frequently there?—I do not know.

Mr. Wilson called.

2132. Was that gentleman there, do you remember?—I don't remember.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

2133. You said you saw a ladder brought out and Mr. Cherry get over the wall?—I did not say he got over the wall.

2134. What then?—I say he went up on the ladder and came down, and said that would do; and he thanked me and gave me a shilling.

2135. That was all you saw of that particular transaction; at the time this occurred was not there great disturbance in the town; were there not violent mobs going through the town?—I believe there were.

2136. Have you any doubt about it; did you not see them yourself?—I saw crowds of persons.

2137. Did you not see people shouting, hurrahing, driving past the place and rushing up to Mrs. Hall's?—I saw them at Mrs. Hall's door, at the Court-house.

2138. Did not you see a large tumultuous crowd at Mrs. Hall's door?—I did.

2139. At the time this occurred?—Yes.

2140. Will you swear that Major Knox was ever in the room you say these men were in?—I would swear he was in the room they were in.

2141. You say the first day these people came to the house was Saturday?—They first came on the Sunday.

2142. You saw more come in on the Monday, and the Sunday was the first?—Yes.

2143. What day was it that you saw Major Knox going up into the room where these men were?—I saw him go up on the polling day, and I saw him going up before that.

2144. What day before that; Thursday was the polling day?—I cannot say. I saw him going in to them at different times during the election.

2145. You cannot fix the day?—I cannot fix the day, but I will swear I saw him.

2146. And you will also swear that you saw Mr. Lawder go up?—Yes.

2147. With him?—With him and without him.

2148. Will you swear you ever saw Major Knox in that place, except on the polling day?—I did.

2149. You said something about Mr. Henry Lyons?—Yes.

2150. Will you swear you saw him in the room with these men; there he is in the gallery, looking at you?—I cannot say at the time. I said I did not see him at the election.

2151. Then you now change your mind, and say you cannot swear you saw him at the election?—I cannot swear, there were several.

2152. Do you say you saw that gentleman, Mr. Lyons, at any time in Mrs. Hall's house during the election?—I cannot say.

2153. Do you not know he was not there?—I do not know whether he was or not; they were strangers to me.

Mr. Williams called.

2154. Do you swear Mr. Williams was ever in Mrs. Hall's house during the election; here he is?—I cannot swear; they were strangers to me. I heard his name mentioned.

Mr. Gilmore called.

2155. Will you swear Mr. Gilmore was in the house during the election?—He was.

2156. When?—Several times.

2157. What part of the house?—In every part of the house; in the parlour and in the drawing-room.

2158. Was it in the drawing-room that the men were?—They were in the back room until you left the drawing-room, and went down to the lower parlour to accommodate them.

2159. Had not Mr. Gilmore a friend; was there not some gentleman who lodged in the parlour?—Yes, Mr. Mossom.

2160. Was he not a personal friend of Mr. Gilmore's?—Well, they are friends.

2161. And great friends?—They seem to be such.

2162. Was there a day before the election, as far back as you know, that Mr. Gilmore was not in there to speak to Mr. Mossom?—He always came to see him.

2163. Did you not see Mr. Tighe, the mayor, there during that time?—I saw him on the poll day there.

2164. Upon your oath, did you not see him before the poll day there; do you swear you did not see him before the poll day, there?—I do not recollect that I did.

2165. Will you swear that you did not; I ask you, upon your oath, did you not see him there several times before the polling day?—I disremember.

2166. Did you not see Mr. Cogan, the sub-sheriff, there day after day?—I saw him there.

2167. Going

2167. Going through the house?—Yes.
 2168. Going up and down?—Not upstairs.
 2169. He avoided that; he never went up at all?—He went into the lower parlour.
 2170. And went out through the door between that and the court-house?—He did.
 2171. Did you see him there more than once? I did.

2172. You said that when some money was paid to Mrs. Hall the other day you shut your eyes; why did you shut your eyes?—I said I would not look at it.

2173. Why?—I wanted to see no more about it.

2174. And you shut your eyes; where was it paid?—I do not know where it was paid.

2175. To go back to the earlier part; upon your oath, did not several of the men tell you they went into that house to save themselves from violence?—They never did.

2176. Will you swear it?—I will swear it.

2177. Not one of the men you mentioned said such a thing to you?—I never talked to them on the subject.

2178. Did you not hear it in the house when you were there?—I heard Mrs. Hall say it.

2179. She said they went in there to avoid the violence?—She did.

2180. You said something about Major Knox and Mr. Lawder getting the key?—Yes, they asked for the key.

2181. And they got it?—They got it.

2182. Were not Mr. Cogan, the sub-sheriff, and Mr. Tighe, the mayor, with them when they asked for the key and got it?—I do not know who got it; I cannot say.

2183. Did you shut your eyes to see those two, and not to see the others?—I know I saw those two; I do not know about the others.

2184. Were not Mr. Cogan and Mr. Tighe, the mayor, with them when the key was got?—On my oath, I could not tell.

Re-examined by Mr. Palles.

2185. When was the first time that you saw any mobs or disturbance in the streets; do you remember the day of the polling?—I do.

2186. That was the Thursday?—Yes.

2187. Before the day of the polling did you see any mobs or disturbance in the streets?—I never was on the streets to see the mobs.

2188. You told Mr. Robinson there were mobs and a disturbance on the street, did you see that till the Thursday, the day of the polling?—I cannot say, because I saw persons at the court-house, as they generally are there, on the poll day and the day of nomination.

2189. This Mr. Mossom, that was a friend of Mr. Gilmore, did not he stop in one of the parlours?—He did.

2190. And you saw Mr. Gilmore frequently going upstairs during this time?—Yes.

2191. I suppose you never saw him before this election time going upstairs when Mr. Mossom was only in the parlour?—I cannot say; occasionally he would go upstairs if the mistress wanted him upstairs.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARY CAVENEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

2192. WERE you engaged as an assistant in Mrs. Hall's house during the election?—I was.

2193. Do you recollect the day you went there?—I do.

2194. What day was it?—On Saturday.

2195. Was that the Saturday before the polling?—It was.

2196. What hour did you go there?—I went in the morning, and then I went home and did not come back there till Monday.

2197. Do you know Mr. Harloe Phibbs?—I do.

2198. Did you see Mr. Harloe Phibbs in the house on the Saturday?—I cannot say; it was late when I went.

2199. Did you see him in the house?—Yes, he was in several times.

2200. What part of the house was he in?—He came into the parlour, and he was upstairs.

2201. Was he in the bedrooms?—I cannot say.

2202. Tell me the names of any other gentlemen you saw coming in there?—There were Mr. Campbell, and Mr. Cherry, Tom Woods, and Mr. Gilmore.

2203. Did you see Mr. Cherry there more than once?—I did.

2204. How many times do you suppose that you saw him; every day?—He was there occasionally, but I cannot say that I saw him every day.

2205. On Tuesday evening before the polling, you saw Mr. Cherry there?—Yes, I did; he came in.

2206. What time did he come?—It was in the dusk of the evening.

2207. Tell his Lordship what occurred when he came in?—He came in, that was on Monday evening; and the ladder was taken down and put in Mrs. Hall's yard that night; it was put against the wall, and then I carried it from the wall to the yard.

2208. Who told you to do that?—Mr. Cherry. I came down. The ladder was there, and Mr. Burrows went up the yard with him.

2209. With whom?—With Mr. Cherry, because he was up there that night with him.

2210. Do you know where that Mr. Burrows lives?—At the Cemetery.

2211. Did you see the ladder put up against the wall?—Yes, I put it myself up against the wall.

2212. Did you see anyone come down that ladder?—I cannot say that they came down the ladder, but Mr. Cherry went up the yard to Mr. Burrows.

2213. What I asked you was, did you see anyone coming down the ladder?—I did not see them coming down the ladder, but they were in the yard.

2214. Did you see them coming from the yard into the house?—They came into the house; the kitchen door was half shut-to; I cannot say who came in; they were in the yard, but when I went upstairs there were two men that I did not see before that, Johnny Reid and Paddy O'Brien.

1869.

2215. Were you downstairs when they went upstairs?—Yes I was.

2216. Could they have come in the door without your seeing them or knowing them?—If the door was open I might have seen them; but the door was shut.

2217. I mean through the front door. Could they have done so, without your seeing them?—They might have come in through the front door without my seeing them, because I did not open the door at all.

2218. Was the front door open just before they came in?—The door was open for Mr. Robinson's men.

2219. After that, till these two men came, was the door opened?—No, only when the man went out.

2220. Did you see any other men there; do you know a man named Fallon?—Yes.

2221. Gallagher?—Yes.

2222. Did you see them come in?—They came in at the front door, I think, on the polling morning.

2223. How many men were there altogether in the house on the morning of the polling?—I do not know whether it was 21 or 22.

2224. Did they sleep there the night before?—Well, they did not all sleep there the night before.

2225. About how many slept there the night before?—I cannot say.

2226. About how many; 10 or 12?—There were 18 or 19, I think.

2227. How many days had they been in the house?—There were some there on the Sunday night; I was not there you know on the Sunday night, not till the Monday morning. There came two on the Monday morning; there were four at breakfast on Monday morning.

2228. Tell me the names of those four?—There were Mr. Gilmore and Mr. McCoy, and I do not know the other parties' names, and the two Mr. McGoldricks, and Mr. Campbell that came in with them.

2229. You say Mr. Campbell came in with them?—He did, in the morning.

2230. Did you see any others come in; after that on the Monday?—There came more between that and night.

2231. Tell us the names of those you recollect?—I could not think, for we were all in a fuss. I know the names of nearly all that were there.

2232. I want you to tell me the names of those you saw in the house in addition to those you have mentioned?—The two McGoldricks, the two Grays, Doherty, and Mr. Fallon.

2233. Do you recollect any other names besides those?—Paddy O'Brien, and Johny Reid, and McGuirk, and Mr. Gethins.

2234. Did you see a person named Lindsay there?—Yes, he was there.

2235. Did you see a man named McCoy there?—Yes, he was there.

2236. Did you see quantities of provisions come into the house?—Yes; there came beef on Saturday, and there came groceries and bread.

2237. All sorts of provisions, bread and everything?—Yes.

2238. Were these men fed in the house?—Yes.

2239. And did they get drink when they asked for it?—Yes; but Mrs. Hall was not willing to give them too much of it.

2240. But they got a reasonable share of it?—They did.

2241. Did you see Major Knox there?—Yes, I did.

2242. Did you see him more than once?—I have seen him a few times, but I cannot say for certain the times I saw him; but I saw him on the poll evening.

2243. The evening of the polling day?—Yes.

2244. Did you see him before that?—I saw him in and out, but I cannot say how many times I saw him.

2245. In what part of the house did you see him?—I and Ellen were looking out of the window; Mr. McGuirk was sitting in the middle of us; we were looking at the voters going in; he was looking down. Mr. Knox came in and said to McGuirk, "Are you going to vote?" He said, "No." "What is the reason?" he said. He said, he had a reason of his own for it. Upon that, McGoldrick came in and said, "Are not you going to vote?" He said, "No, I am not;" and he said, "I am after voting for Major Knox;" and McGuirk said he would not vote.

2246. Did you hear Major Knox say anything?—He said, "McGuirk, you will be sorry afterwards, and mark the consequences."

2247. I want to know whether the McGoldrick you mentioned in the last conversation was one of the McGoldricks you have mentioned already, that came in with Mr. Campbell?—Yes.

2248. Did you see mattresses sent to the house for the men to sleep upon?—Yes.

2249. Who sent them in?—Mr. Cherry.

2250. Did the men sleep in the sitting-rooms as well as in the bedrooms?—Yes, they slept in the drawing-room.

2251. Did you see Major Knox in the room that these men occupied?—Yes, he went into Mr. Gethin's on the day he was talking to Mr. McGuirk; on the poll evening; when McGuirk did not vote, he went into them.

2252. You do not know what occurred?—The door was shut. There was one with Mr. Knox; one who lodged at Allingham's; I do not know his name; I saw him in the back parlour and another, a big stout man.

2253. Would you know him again if you saw him?—Yes; and Mr. Woods was in with him; Mr. Joe Woods.

2254. Did you see Mr. Gilmore there?—Yes.

2255. Is that Mr. Gilmore that you see there?—It is.

2256. Did you see him there frequently?—Yes. There was Mr. McCoy, a voter, there.

2257. In what part did you see Mr. Gilmore; upstairs?—I think he went into the back parlour; I got a message from one of the voters to take to him.

2258. You saw him in the back parlour?—No, when I saw his son, I told him; I saw Mr. Gilmore there after.

Cross-examined by Dr. Kaye.

2259. You have mentioned a man of the name of Burrows?—Yes.

2260. Is Burrows the assistant of Mrs. Hall, in keeping the Court-house?—He is.

2261. You know Mr. Mossom to live with Mrs. Hall?—Yes.

2262. He occupied his rooms during the election?—He did not occupy his bedroom during the election.

2263. Was

2263. Was he not in the parlour?—He was adjoining the parlour.

2265. Did you see Major Knox and Mr. Lawder there?—They were not both together; but I saw them there.

2266. Did you see Mr. Tighe, the mayor, there?—Yes, several times in the parlour, and they were there on the morning of the polling day.

2267. And you saw Mr. Cogan?—I saw Cogan come to search for the voters in the Court-house.

2268. Did you see Mr. McKee; do you know him?—I know him, but I do not remember seeing him; I know that he did not go upstairs.

2269. Are you living with Mrs. Hall now?—No, I am living with Dr. Little.

2270. When did you leave Mrs. Hall?—I left after the county election.

2271. Did you see Mr. Cogan speaking to the people that were in the house?—No; he went looking for them in the court outside; if they were not in the court outside, he did not mind searching Mrs. Hall's house.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ANN HALL, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

2272. Do you recollect the Saturday before the election?—Yes.

2273. Do you know Mr. Harloe Phibbs?—Very well.

2274. Did you see him on that Saturday?—I saw him, to the best of my knowledge, passing the street. He is a particular friend of mine, and he often comes in to see me.

2275. Was he in the house that day; upon the Saturday?—I could not say.

2276. Who did you make the arrangement with about these lodgings?—With the men themselves.

2277. Whom did you make the arrangement with first?—Paddy O'Brien.

2278. When did you see Paddy O'Brien?—He came a few days before the election.

2279. Did you know they were coming?—I heard some talk about it through the men themselves.

2280. Who did you hear it from first?—From the men themselves; some of them were saying they would be happy if I could give them shelter.

2281. Tell me which of them spoke to you first?—O'Brien came from the court; he was engaged in the Court-house. I was passing out by my own back door, and he said to me, "Mrs. Hall, you will be so kind as to take a few of us in, to save our lives; we will be all murdered if you don't."

2282. What day was it he said this to you?—To the best of my opinion it was a week or ten days before the election.

2283. What did you say to him?—O'Brien said he had another few friends, naming a man of the name of Reid and some others, that could not possibly go through the street. They said they were so badly treated at the other election, it would be a great charity on my part to take them in.

2284. Do you know Mr. Cherry?—Yes, he is a very particular friend of mine.

2285. Did you speak to him about this business?—Nothing particular.

2286. Did you speak to him at all about it?—Well, I might be saying these parties were coming in.

2287. I do not ask what you might say, but did you speak to him?—To the best of my opinion—

2288. Upon your oath, did you speak to him?—I might.

2289. I do not want to know what you might, but did you speak to him about this business?—I said, I likely might have done, but I could not say; because I have a very bad recollection. I might have said to him, which to the best of my opinion, I did, that these men were likely to come to me; were about coming to me.

2290. Did you speak to Mr. Cherry?—I might have done so; I could not swear to it.

2291. Did you ask him for mattresses?—I asked him when they did come to me; not then, but after they did come; I had no beds to put them in. He is a very great friend of mine, and I asked him if he would kindly let me have half a dozen mattresses, and he said, yes, or anything in the house to oblige me.

2292. He did send you some mattresses?—He certainly did, very kindly.

2293. During the time these people were there, did you happen to see your friend, Mr. Cherry, in the house?—Certainly; he comes in to see me very frequently.

2294. But, during the time these people were there?—Sometimes; I could not say how many times.

2295. Did you pay him for the use of the mattresses?—Certainly not; he would not accept such a thing.

2296. Did anyone else lend you anything for that week?—Let me see; well, I do not know; I might have borrowed a pair of blankets or so.

2297. Do you know Mr. Williams?—I do.

2298. He lent you anything?—He did not; I have got a very good supply of these things myself.

2299. Did you ever settle any accounts about this matter?—None whatever.

2300. What arrangement did you make about being paid?—The men were to pay me.

2301. You made that arrangement with whom?—Every one of them.

2302. Did anyone of them say to you he was to pay you?—None whatever.

2303. Do you know Mr. Lindsay?—One of the voters?

2304. Yes?—Yes.

2305. Did you know him before?—I do not know that I did; but I know his father and mother and family.

2306. And you never saw him; he never stopped in your house before that week?—Never; I am in the habit of having gentlemen at my place.

2307. He was not one of those?—He was a voter, and I pitied him, and just felt for him.

2308. Was Mr. McCoy one that you pitied also?—

M. Caveney.

1869.

Ann Hall.

Ann Hall. also?—He was the first man who came on the Sunday.

20 February 1869. 2309. McGoldrick never stopped in your house before?—Never.

2310. Neither the father nor the son?—Never.

2311. Did Paddy O'Brien ever stop in your house before?—Certainly not.

2312. Did Johnny Reid ever stay in your house before?—Certainly not.

2313. Or McGuirk?—Certainly not.

2314. Did any single one of them ever stop at your house before?—Certainly not.

2315. You made the arrangement with each person as he came?—Certainly.

2316. Upon your oath, who told you to do that?—Myself told me; I thought it right to do so.

2317. Did you open the door to each one as he arrived?—Not I; I have servants to do so.

2318. Did you open the door to anyone?—Frequently.

2319. What did you say to them when you opened the door to them?—I asked them to make their arrangements before I would let them upstairs.

2320. Is it not a fact that you opened the door yourself for some of these voters?—I could not say; I have opened it often, because my servants do it for me, but I might; I will tell you what I did; I used to go out and receive them, and ask them to arrange before I would let them upstairs, and know if they were agreeable to my arrangements.

2321. What was the arrangement you made with each of them?—My arrangement was 5 s. a day.

2322. And what were you to give them for that?—I made no arrangement about it.

2323. Did you use the word "protection" to any one of them?—They asked me to protect them.

2324. Did you ask them if they wanted protection?—I did.

2325. Who told you to ask that?—No one.

2326. Then it was yourself asked them if they wanted protection?—No; they said they came for protection.

2327. Did you ask anyone if he wanted protection?—They came and asked me would I take them in to protect them; some of them said they were going to stay with me till the election. I said, "You want protection;" they said they did; they were afraid to go through the streets, the mob was so violent.

2328. Did you then say, "You must agree to pay 5 s. a day each"?—No; I asked them would they agree.

2329. Were they willing?—Were they willing?

2330. Do you keep books?—I do not.

2331. Have you any book at all connected with this election?—I have no book whatever.

2332. Have you any book connected with your house?—Just when the men came to me, in order that I should know their names, I got their names entered into a book which I had.

2333. Where is that book?—It is a common account book which I had for putting down. There was some entry before it, and I just took it out before I entered their names.

2334. You took out the entry?—It is my own private affair.

2335. That was not to be examined?—Yes.

2336. When did you tear out this page?—Just as I entered the names; or at least my clerk entered part of it, and I entered other names myself when my clerk was not convenient.

2337. Who is your clerk?—A young lad that I have for writing when I require some writing done.

2338. Tell me where is the book for November?—I have no book about that.

2339. Upon your oath, was there any entry in that book with reference to November at any time?—With reference to November?

2340. The last entry there is January 1869; upon your oath was there any entry in that book with reference to November last?—All I can say is—

2341. Will you answer that question; upon your oath, say yes or no?—There are the bills of some parties that have not paid me as yet. As to that book, I could not say, because it was a temporary entry.

2342. Is there any entry in your book for November; say yes or no?—No.

2343. Did you answer me a minute ago that you wrote down their names according as they came?—After they came.

2344. How long?—Perhaps it might be a day or two.

2345. Where did you enter that?—In that book.

2346. Where is it now?—This is all the entry that ever I had.

2347. Take that book and show me now the entry you made the day or two after they came, these 21 people?—I do not keep a regular entry.

2348. Show me the entry?—All the entry I made was when I was going to serve them with their bills; and then I put down a few names here that paid me. That is all the entry that I made; on my oath.

2349. Did you make an entry in the month of November last, according as they came in?—I did not; the entry was made when I wanted to send them their accounts. I wanted to keep an account of who paid me and who did not.

2350. Did you swear to me a minute ago that you took down their names the day or the day but one after they came?—Well, if I did—

2351. Did you swear that?—You excite me so, and you will not allow me time to think of what I am to say.

2352. Did you swear that?—All that I swear is—

2353. Did you swear that, Mrs. Hall; did you?—I do not know; you do not give me time to consider what I say.

2354. Did you make an entry?—I made no entry but that, on my oath; and that was made when the men paid me.

2355. Did you make any entry in November?—No.

2356. How did you know who to charge?—I got the names.

2357. From whom?—From Mr. Cherry; I asked him for their names.

2358. When did you get them?—I could not say.

2359. Upon your oath, was it the Monday after the election?—Not at all.

2360. When was it?—I could not say; I know I got their names.

2361. Was

2361. Was it at the time of the election?—I could not say.

2362. Did you get them in writing; did he give you a list?—I asked him for the names.

2363. Did he give you a list?—No.

2364. Did you take them down?—No, I just got the names, and I entered the bill; so many bills; I kept no account.

2365. Where did you enter the names you got from Mr. Cherry?—Where did I enter them?

2366. Yes?—Here they are in the bills I made out. The men have got the remainder, and here are the rest that the men did not pay me. I entered some bills; I made out some more, because I cannot always be in attendance on writing; there are five bills there.

2367. When did you get your list from Mr. Cherry?—I could not say exactly.

2368. About when; I am not asking you exactly?—I really could not say.

2369. In November?—I really could not say; I kept no account of it.

2370. Is that the only answer you will give me?—I assure you I kept no account of it.

2371. Was it before Christmas?—It was.

2372. Was it between the election and Christmas?—I could not say; I kept no account of it. All I can say is, if you will allow me to tell you, I just got a few bills written out for some of the men who were in the country, when they would call on the 21st December. I think the dates are there, are they not?

2373. Whose handwriting is that (handing a document to the Witness)?—My clerk's.

2374. Who is your clerk?—A young lad in Sligo.

2375. What is his name?—Aleck Grant.

2376. Do you see that bill marked "paid"?—Yes, because I had them ready when the men would come to pay me, and they have not come to pay me.

2377. Do you see the date of that?—Yes, 21st.

2378. Was it before that you got the list from Mr. Cherry?—Yes.

2379. How soon after you made out these bills on the 21st did you get the list?—Well, I do not know exactly; it was very soon before it. I must say I am very negligent in matters of this kind.

2380. When you got the list from Mr. Cherry?—He gave me the names.

2381. Till he gave you the names, you did not know who were in your house?—I knew some of the parties; I did not know them all by name. Those I did not know, he very kindly gave me their names.

2382. Will you look at that bill (handing one to Witness). Do you know any name in that bill?—Yes.

2383. What name is it?—My own name.

2384. The debtors?—Mr. Gilmore.

2385. Who is Mr. Gilmore?—One of the voters.

2386. Do you know him?—No.

2387. Who told you who Mr. Gilmore was?—I heard nothing more about him than that he was a voter.

2388. Who told you that?—I am not quite sure; it might be Mr. Cherry. I do not know who told me.

2389. Did you ever see Mr. Gilmore to speak to him in your life?—Not to my knowledge.

He might have been in the room, and I not have seen him. I may have seen him.

2390. Did you make any arrangement with Mr. Gilmore what you were to charge him?—There were arrangements made with all the parties, and I sent up my friend, Mr. Mossom, to ask them all were they agreeable to the arrangement. He came down from their room, and told me they were quite agreeable.

2391. Never mind what Mr. Mossom said; did you ever make an arrangement yourself with Mr. Gilmore?—I made arrangements with all the men.

2392. Did you with Mr. Gilmore?—I do not know Mr. Gilmore in particular.

2393. Do you know Mr. Burrows?—Yes; a painter.

2394. Did you make any arrangement with him?—Yes.

2395. When did you make the arrangement with him?—Going up the stairs that night.

2396. Who is Mr. Beattie?—He is a gardener at Ballytiven.

2397. Was he a voter?—Yes.

2398. Was he stopping in your house?—Yes.

2399. When did he come there?—I could not say the day.

2400. Mr. Cherry kindly gave you the names, you say?—Yes.

2401. How did Mr. Cherry know who were in your house?—Of course he was a visitor of mine, and he saw these men, every one of them.

2402. Then he was in the house when they were there?—He was.

2403. And he gave you the names of the people who were in your own house?—I asked him to do so, kindly.

2404. Do you know a person of the name of Feeny, a butcher?—There is such a man in Sligo, I believe.

2405. Did you get your meat from him that week?—I get meat always from him.

2406. Did you get your meat from him the week of the election?—I did.

2407. Have you paid him?—I have paid him some money.

2408. How much was your account with him for that week?—I cannot answer that question.

2409. Have you paid him for the meat he supplied you that week, on your oath?—No, I have not paid him all. I owe him some balance.

2410. Did you pay for that week?—I paid him some money; I could not say.

2411. Where did you get your groceries that week?—From the lady I always get them from.

2412. Who is that?—Why, I get some from Mrs. Robinson, and some from Mr. Crawford.

2413. Did you get from them that week a quantity?—Well, you know, I get a supply of groceries.

2414. Did you buy any tobacco that week?—Of course; I might have given these men, if they asked me for it, a little tobacco.

2415. Did you; I am not asking what you might have done?—Very probably I did.

2416. Upon your oath, did you not?—Yes; I think there was some tobacco got.

2417. Where was it got?—At Mrs. Robinson's.

2418. Did you pay for it?—I keep a pass-book, an account there with them.

2419. It is not paid for?—I could not say; I think not.

2420. Did you supply these men with every-G thing

Ann Hall;

Ann Hall. thing they asked for?—They were very easily supplied.

20 February 1869. 2421. Did you supply them with everything they asked for?—Of course I did.

2422. With drink?—Very little drink.

2423. You gave them what they asked for?—Well, it was very little. They were very moderate.

2424. Did you give them what they asked for?—I always supply my lodgers with everything they want.

2425. How many slept in the same room?—As many as I could accommodate in my bedrooms. I had Councillor Robinson and some others staying, and as many others as I could accommodate.

2426. Did not Mr. Robinson kindly give up his room?—Mr. Robinson?

2427. Yes?—Certainly not. Mr. Robinson kept his own bedroom. I should not deprive him of his room.

2428. When did you first get any payment for these lodgings?—I think the first money I got was from Clancey.

2429. When?—I think it is entered in the little book.

2430. Take your book, if you please (handing it to Witness); will you tell me, as a matter of curiosity, when did you tear out these pages?—When I was entering, or getting some of these entries in; Mr. Coleman, the collector of Excise, lodges with me, and I supply them with matters they require for the house; and there is Miss Coleman's name there, I just put a pen over it; you would ask me for it; I did not want to talk of this matter; I supply these people with anything they require; I just tore the piece out, on my oath, and entered these people that paid me; I kept no entry of the voters, or any one thing connected with them.

2431. Did you see these little bills?—Yes.

2432. Did you write them in Mr. Cherry's presence?—No.

2433. Where did you write them?—In my private sitting-room, with my clerk.

2434. How did you know the names; had you any paper with a list on?—I had.

2435. Who gave you that?—Mr. Cherry; of course I burned it when I made the bills.

2436. Of course you burnt it?—When I made out the bills I did not want it.

2437. You did burn it?—I think to the best of my opinion I did.

2438. Do you know Major Knox?—Scarcely.

2439. Do you know his appearance?—Yes.

2440. Did you see him in your house?—Just about once or twice; he passed through with some gentlemen that wanted to see the court-house.

2441. Do you know Mr. Gilmore?—Which Mr. Gilmore?

2442. The Mayor?—I do; I have the pleasure of knowing him.

2443. Was he in your house during the week?—Mr. Gilmore is a constant visitor.

2444. I am not asking you whether he is a constant visitor?—I know; I say he is a constant visitor; I could not say exactly whether he came that week any more than another week; he is constantly coming to see Mr. Mossom.

2445. Do you know Mr. Joseph Woods; young Mr. Woods?—Yes.

2446. Was he in your house?—I could scarcely say.

2447. Do you know Mr. John Fawcett?—No, I do not.

2448. Was Mr. Phibbs in the house?—I did not see Mr. Phibbs during the election.

2449. Do you know Mr. Lawder?—I barely know him.

2450. Did you see him there?—I just saw him passing through one day; he came in to inquire for a room for Mr. Robinson.

2451. Besides Clancey, has anyone else paid you?—Yes, all these men have paid me.

2452. Will you tell me who they are?—Who they are? I know nothing about them, but they paid me.

2453. Nobody paid you then until January?—No; to the best of my opinion none of them paid me until January.

2454. Did you apply for payment to any of them?—No; several of them; there was a process server.

2455. Michael Doherty?—Yes; he called once or twice; he went up very nicely to the servants, those two girls that were here, and gave them a shilling each for house money; he came and asked me for the account, and I told him not to be in a hurry till the other parties would have paid, and it would be paid altogether; the money would be more useful then when I had it all.

2456. You did not apply to anyone?—Not until they paid me at the time.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2457. "Received from Mr. Clancey"; did I rightly take you to say that Mr. Clancey was the first who paid?—Yes.

2458. Accordingly he is entered "first; do you see the entry 5s.?—Yes.

2459. Was he but one day with you?—But one day.

2460. You received 1*l.* 15*s.* from the two McGoldrick's?—Yes.

2461. Do you happen to remember how many days the Grays were with you?—Their entry is there, 30*s.* they paid me; that is three days each, 5*s.* each; that is for the father and son.

2462. I see "Received from Mr. McGuirk"?—Yes.

2463. Did he pay you himself?—He did not come to me, he sent it.

2464. Mr. Gethin?—Mr. Gethin sent it also to me when I sent the bill to him.

2465. Mr. Gallagher the same?—Yes.

2466. And each of these I see varies in point of amount?—It does; according to the days they came I charged them.

2467. "Mr. G. Ferguson, 15*s.*."?—Yes.

2468. And another 15*s.*?—Yes.

2469. Where does this end?—There (pointing).

2470. Each and every one of these persons lodged at your house?—Yes.

2471. And did each and every one of these persons make an agreement for himself?—Yes.

2472. You say you met several of them coming in and made the agreement yourself?—Because I would not allow them into my house unless they would agree to pay me what I charged; at least, I made a mistake, I might not have asked them all round whether they agreed to my proposal.

2473. Lest there should be any inadvertence?—Yes, Mr. Mossom came down and said, "You may rest satisfied; they are all quite delighted to get into the house, and to pay any charge you make."

2474. Were you, of your own knowledge, aware aware of the turbulence and the untranquil condition of the town?—Certainly I was; the morning of the election I thought they would break down the house. The greatest war was outside my door, so much so that I went into the court-house hall, and begged of the police officer to come out, and keep the house from being broken in.

2475. But before that, I think it was the Saturday or the Sunday previously to the day of polling that the first of the men came to you?—It was.

2476. Had the state of the town been disturbed before that?—Certainly it was.

2477. I believe so a considerable time?—Yes; the night before I had a gentleman, a very high-up gentleman, that paid me a very large amount. He left my house, he was so frightened at the breakage of Miss Allingham's windows. He was a London gentleman.

2478. What evening are you referring to?—The Sunday before the election, to the best of my opinion.

2479. On the day of the nomination, was there great tumult?—Oh, fearful; I was so much alarmed that I was nearly fainting; I could hardly stand through my house, the uproar was so much.

2480. Then, from your own knowledge of the state of the town, did you really and verily believe that these persons required to be protected?—I solemnly declare I did, and I thought they would be in danger of their lives if I did not give them room.

2481. Had you a guard of police?—I had in my own house, I was that alarmed; and one of the nights of the election a friend of Major Knox, a tall gentleman, I forget his name now, that was travelling with him, was coming in to visit Mr. Robinson, and there was a stone thrown after him; I thought he was killed.

2482. Is that the gentleman (pointing to a gentleman in court)?—That is him.

2483. You happen to know he is an English barrister?—Yes; Mr. Morrison. And I called out to one of my servants, and said, "I hope Mr. Morrison is not killed." It was the last girl who was examined, to the best of my opinion. She said, "Oh no, he was just in when the stone was thrown." And he was going in to see his friend, Mr. Robinson. I was dreadfully alarmed about him. He came to my house faint. I had to give him some wine two or three times.

Re-examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

2484. Although you were so desperately alarmed, was there a single pane of glass or anything broken in your house?—The police guarded that.

2485. Was it so or not?—It was not.

2486. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Just bethink yourself: do you, or does your clerk for you, keep any book of entries of accounts in connection with your establishment?—Not in connection with the election.

2487. I did not ask you that question, as you would have found if you had paused to consider; I again beg of you to do so; do you, or does your clerk, keep any book in which there are entries made in connection with your establishment?—Certainly.

2488. Where is that book?—At home. It has nothing to do with the election.

85.

2489. Were these different papers that I have in my hand entered in that book?—No.

2490. You see these different papers that you have produced here?—They are parts of bill-paper that I write out bills upon when I am in a hurry.

2491. You are proceeding to give me information which I am not asking?—But they are not anything belonging to the account book.

2492. Will you be kind enough to wait till you have heard my question; were they originally on one sheet of paper?—They were; that I bought at Mr. Gilmore's a few days before I wrote them out.

2493. I am not asking you where you bought it; but were they originally on one sheet of paper?—Certainly; a sheet of paper that came in from the shop.

2494. Afterwards you cut them apart?—Yes.

2495. Were they all from one sheet of paper?—I could not exactly say; there might have been two different pieces of bill paper on the table, and I might have taken a piece of one, and not the other.

2496. They were originally together, and then they were separated?—Yes.

2497. Were they in the handwriting of your clerk?—Yes; with my own name signed.

2498. Did you sign this as paid the 21st of December?—I signed them as paid in order that the men might come, and it would be convenient just to hand the bills to them.

2499. To each one as he came?—Yes.

2500. If you intended that each should pay as he came, why did you say to Doherty that it would be more convenient to wait till all came and paid together?—I had no particular reason. He was wishing for his bill, and I just thought that if all the men would just come and pay the money, it would be more acceptable to me than getting a few shillings; 10s. I think his money was.

2501. You did not know their names?—Not until I got them entered in the bills. I knew a few of these men by sight; I knew a few of them to know, and some of them by sight, but I did not know their names.

2502. You did not know their names until you got all their names?—I knew some.

2503. You did not know all their names, I understand you?—Certainly not.

2504. Will you just wait to hear my question before you answer it; you did not know all their names, I understood you to say, until you got the bit of paper upon which entries were made by Mr. Cherry; is that so?—Yes.

2505. Not knowing their names, to whom did you intend to look for payment, if you did not know their names when you accommodated them?—I knew my friend Mr. Mossom would find their names for me; he knew them all, every one of them.

2506. Then why was it you applied to Mr. Cherry?—Because Mr. Mossom is engaged in his office, and I do not like troubling my gentlemen in the house.

2507. Is Mr. Mossom engaged in Mr. Cherry's office?—No, in his own office; he is constantly out, and I could not just get him at the time; and Mr. Cherry is a great friend of mine.

2508. Did you allow these people all to go away?—I did; I could not speak about money matters,

Ann Hall. matters, the town was in such a state I was not able to.

20 February 1869. 2509. In point of fact you did not know the names of them until afterwards?—I knew the names of some of them.

2510. But not of all?—No, certainly not.

2511. Have you any more of these papers about you?—How many are there there?

2512. There are five?—The rest paid me, I think, to the best of my opinion.

2513. Have you any more?—None.

2514. I thought I saw one more with you?—No; five.

2515. Mr. McDonogh.] I think there is one that Mr. O'Loughlin gave you?—I think I handed it back; you will see how many there are entered; that will tell you.

2516. Mr. Justice Keogh.] There are five here?—Then how many entries are there in the book?

2517. Nineteen?—Nineteen and five.

2518. No, nineteen in all; how many were there in the house?—I thought there were twenty.

2519. That is very nearly the same; the girl Ellen Fox who was here, was in your establishment at the time?—Yes.

2520. When did she leave your establishment?—She has not left me; she only came up; I gave her leave to come up here.

2521. She is still in your employment?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARY BURKE, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

M. Burke. 2522. Do you live in Sligo?—Yes, presently.

2523. Were you there in November last?—I was at Mr. Leech's

2524. Was there any gentleman lodging at Mr. Leech's in the month of November?—Major Knox and Mr. Knox, and Mr. Morrison.

2525. Was there any other gentleman but those two?—No, except Mr. Knox's servants.

2526. Is that the gentleman (pointing to a gentleman in court)?—Yes, that is Mr. Morrison.

2527. How long was Major Knox lodging there during the whole month of November?—I think he came on the 3rd or 4th of November.

2528. What apartments did he occupy in the house?—He engaged the drawing room and dining room; two large front rooms.

2529. All I want to know is, did he have two sitting rooms there?—Yes.

2530. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Brennan?—I do.

2531. Did you know Thomas Brennan very well?—I did; I knew him for two or three years before.

2532. During the time that Major Knox was occupying these apartments did you see Brennan in and out there frequently?—I think about three or four days after Major Knox came, but he came there frequently.

2533. Did Major Knox allow him to have his meals or refreshments there?—Yes, he dined there.

2534. I suppose in one of those little rooms?—A third sitting room that was engaged for him; there were two rooms first engaged, and a third was prepared for these people who might be coming in and out; Thomas Brennan and Michael Doherty.

2535. I suppose Thomas Brennan came there every day?—Yes, twice a day sometimes; I do not know the days of the month.

2536. Was Michael Doherty there pretty often?—I saw him there some days in the morning, some days in the evening; some days I did not see him at all.

2537. Do you know Henry Lyons?—Yes, of Market-street.

2538. Was he continually in and out with Major Knox?—I saw him frequently with Major Knox.

2539. Was he almost daily there?—Yes, every day he would go out and come back.

2540. He would go in the town and then come back?—I saw him go out.

2541. Do you know Mr. Stokes?—I do.

2542. Was he a daily visitor of Major Knox?—Well, in the morning sometimes I would see him coming and at night, sometimes, but I did not see him during the course of the day except in the morning and evening.

2543. Was his habit to come there in the morning and then to come again in the evening?—Yes.

2544. He remained frequently with Mr. Knox some time?—He would go into Major Knox's room.

2545. Do you know Mr. Williams?—I do.

2546. Was he a frequent visitor of Major Knox?—He was.

2547. The same as the others, in and out?—Yes; sometimes he would come there, and Major Knox would be out.

2548. Did you know Mr. Harloe Phibbs?—I have heard his name frequently.

(Mr. Harloe Phibbs called.)

2549. Is that the gentleman?—Yes.

2550. Was Mr. Phibbs there frequently?—He was.

2551. Do you know Mr. Cherry?—I do; I only know him since before the election.

2552. Was Mr. Cherry a frequent visitor of Major Knox's?—Yes, but I did not see him in and out there so often as the other gentlemen.

2553. But you did see him there with Major Knox?—I did.

2554. Did you see him repeatedly there?—I did several times, day after day.

2555. Do you know Mr. Pollock, the attorney of Sligo?—I do.

2556. I believe that gentleman was frequently there?—He was.

2557. Do you recollect the day that the election took place?—I do, Thursday the 19th of November.

2558. Do you recollect the day the nomination was?—On Tuesday, I think; that was about the 17th.

2559. A day, or two or three or four days previous to the nomination, the latter end of the week previous, did you see a woman coming there inquiring for Major Knox?—I did; I think it was either the day of the nomination or the day after, the Wednesday morning about nine o'clock.

2560. Did you know who that woman was?—Well, I did not know her before, but I heard people people repeat through the house that she was Mrs. Armstrong of Knox's-street; I saw her afterwards in Knox's-street, and knew her to be Mrs. Armstrong.

2561. Was there a man named Michael O'Neill in the house at the time that she called?—There was.

2562. Had she and O'Neill some conversation?—I think so.

2563. Did Michael O'Neill then, show her upstairs?—Yes, upstairs.

2564. To Major Knox's sitting-room?—To the little sitting-room where Thomas Brennan used to dine.

2565. After she had been up there, did Major Knox go to see what her business was?—Mr. Henry Lyons; I saw him in the room with her.

2566. Of course you did not hear what Mr. Lyons was saying?—No, I passed into the room; Mr. Lyons and her were standing quite close; I went in with some fire; of course I left the room; I did not hear what was said.

2567. What occurred after Mr. Lyons and she had remained there; how long were they there?—Well, I suppose, a quarter-of-an-hour, that is as far as I can recollect.

2568. Did anybody join them?—I went downstairs; I did not know who joined them.

2569. Did any other person come, after Mrs. Armstrong had been there, to the lodgings of Major Knox that evening?—I think not, not that I remember.

2570. Did you see Major Knox go into that room while Mrs. Armstrong and Lyons were there?—He might have gone in without my knowing it; I did not see him for I went downstairs.

2571. Do you know a man of the name of Sweeny?—Yes; Hugh Sweeny.

2572. Did he call at Major Knox's lodgings?—He did, one night.

2573. Did Major Knox see Sweeny when he called?—Yes, he was shown into Major Knox's sitting-room.

2574. How long was Sweeny with Major Knox on the occasion you speak of; how long did he remain?—As well as I can recollect, he came between 12 and one o'clock at night.

2575. And how long did he remain?—I think until about two.

2576. Until about two o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

2577. Do you know a man of the name of Price?—I do not.

2578. Do you know a man with sore eyes?—I do; with red eyes; I saw him there once.

2579. Did you know a man of the name of Feeny?—No.

2580. Do you know Feeny by appearance?—I know him now, but I did not know him before the election.

2581. But you ascertained who he was after?—I did.

2582. Did you see him at Major Knox's lodgings?—I do not recollect seeing him.

2583. Did you ascertain the name of the man with sore eyes afterwards?—I did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

2584. I suppose during the time that Major Knox was in Leech's house, you saw the whole town almost come in to see him?—Not the whole town.

2585. Was there not a great crowd?—There were Mr. Gilmore and Henry Lyons.

85.

2586. Did not all his own supporters come in to see him?—I do not know about all his supporters coming to see him.

2587. How many a day came in to see him?—People came in repeatedly.

2588. Did not many others come in as well as those?—Not to my recollection.

2589. No one else besides those came in to see him?—No.

2590. Will you swear that?—I will swear that I saw Mr. Gilmore.

2591. Will you swear that any other person came in to see him?—I do not know of any other person coming in to see him.

2592. You said there was some private room in which he and a man of the name of Doherty dined?—Doherty did not dine; but Brennan dined there for one week, and then on one or two days.

2593. Was not the room in which Brennan dined the room that a man named Cooke had for his own use?—No; he did not use it for his own use; he breakfasted, dined, and supped in the kitchen.

2594. Where was it this man dined during that week?—He dined in a sitting-room by himself.

2595. Do you swear that that was with Major Knox's knowledge?—I got directions to prepare the room; Michael O'Neill said to me, "Major Knox wants a third sitting-room," he had two already. Michael O'Neill brought me word (he was Major Knox's butler), to prepare a third sitting-room, that Thomas Brennan was to dine there.

2596. You know this Michael O'Neill pretty well?—Only since he came to Sligo with Major Knox.

2597. I suppose not; still during the time you did see him in Sligo you were very intimate with him?—Of course, as far as being with him, there was no other imputation.

2598. Do you mean to swear you know nothing of him, except to see him in the house in that way?—I did not know anything else about him.

2599. Will you swear that?—I do.

2600. Will you swear that you were not intimate with him?—I was, as I would be with any other servant in the house.

2601. And would you be intimate with every servant in the house?—I just passed on and laughed with him sometimes.

2602. Did nothing ever pass between you and O'Neill?—No.

2603. Will you swear that?—I do.

Mr. Justice Keogh intimated, that he did not think this line of cross-examination was justifiable.

Witness.] There was nothing between me and him, my Lord.

2604. Mr. Robinson.] Were windows broken in this house?—There were.

2605. Were there many of them broken?—Windows in the front room were broken; in the drawing-room there were three panes broken in one window, and in the dining-room there was one pane, I think.

2606. That was the whole?—Over the hall door there was another pane.

Re-examined by Mr. Coffey.

2607. You have been asked a question about your relationship with O'Neill, Major Knox's butler; upon your oath did anything improper occur

M. Burke. occur between you and that man?—Upon my oath there never did.
 20 February 1869. 2608. And is that a scandalous imputation upon your character?—I just think it is in a court of justice.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that he was bound to say there was not the shadow of a foundation for the slightest imputation on the Witness's character, and that it was not proper to assail the character of the Witness in that way, upon the trial of an election petition.

[The Witness withdrew.]

PATRICK NEELIN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

P. Neelin. 2609. HAVE you a house and shop in the town of Sligo?—Yes.

2610. I believe you formerly carried on business there as a Baker and Grocer?—Yes.

2611. Did you give up your business about two years ago?—Yes.

2612. I believe you voted at the last election for Captain Flanagan?—I did.

2613. Do you remember in the month of January last having a conversation with a Mr. Thomas Brennan?—I do.

2614. Is he a next-door neighbour?—He is.

2615. Did you go to him, or did he come to you?—He came to me.

2616. Was that at night?—Yes.

2617. Tell me what he said to you?—He came into the house and said, "I am writing to Major Knox, and you had better drop him a line."

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who came into the house?

Mr. Palles.] Thomas Brennan.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] When?

Mr. Palles.] In January 1868.

Witness.] Oh no, before that time; it was about that time between eight and nine o'clock at night. He had a pen in his hand, and he said, "You had better drop a line; I have sent 30 names off to Major Knox and you in the number, you had better drop him a line, and I will recommend you very particularly to him. I will recommend you," said he.

2618. Did he say for what he would recommend you?—He mentioned nothing.

2619. Did he mention nothing about your affairs at the time?—Not to me; he was aware of my embarrassment.

2620. Were your affairs embarrassed at the time?—They were; I was not able to pay my rent or taxes.

2621. When he advised you to write a line, what did you say?—I said I would not; "I would not like to do that; but anything you can do for me yourself, of course, I would make no objection to."

2622. Did you say anything about a situation?—No; I made a remark that I would sooner that a situation be got for me than anything in the light of—. I did not mention money; but I insinuated money, it was understood that that was what I meant.

2623. Do you remember after that writing a letter to Major Knox?—I did.

2624. State what was in that letter that you wrote to the major?—I beg to remark that before I wrote the letter, I said I would not write a letter, and had no notion of doing it, but I expected that Brennan himself would do something, and that it would turn up in the meantime. When it did not, and my rent and taxes were pressing upon me, he came into me in the kitchen one day.

2625. Brennan?—Brennan; he had a list of names in one hand; he was going to read them for me; a list of the names of non-voters, and 2 l. in the other hand; and he said, "Here's a few pounds for you"; "No," said I, "I don't want it."

2626. Was that before you wrote the letter to Major Knox?—Yes.

2627. Was that the only occasion on which Brennan offered you money before you wrote to the major?—Yes.

2628. What was in the letter you wrote?—I beg to remark I would not take it; I felt a little indignant, and said, I would write myself.

2629. Did you tell him why you would not take the 2 l.?—No, I made no observation, but refused it.

2630. Without making any other observation; tell me what was in the letter?—The substance is just this: "At the request of a particular friend of yours I drop a line (or write) to say that I am not able to pay my rent and taxes, and I am in a destitute way (or something like that), poor, and in hopes that you might be able to do so, that I will be grateful for, and manifest my gratitude one way or the other."

2631. Did you get an answer?—Yes.

2632. How long after was that?—A week, or eight or nine days.

2633. Have you got that letter?—No.

2634. What did you do with it?—I cannot say; I looked for it, so did every one of my family; when I was from home it was in my clothes.

2635. Do you know Major Knox's writing?—Yes.

2636. Was it in Major Knox's handwriting?—It was.

2637. Will you state what was in that letter?—It was acknowledging the receipt of mine, and stating that early next week I would hear from him; that was all.

2638. Do you remember another conversation with Brennan in which he made some observation to you about getting provisions at the shop of a man of the name of Bolde?—No, but at the time I refused the 2 l. he said, "Anything else you require you can call at Bold's," meaning provisions, bakery, grocery, or the like of that, that is what I understood him to mean.

2639. Do you remember some time after you got Major Knox's first letter receiving from him another letter?—Yes.

2640. About how long was that after the receipt of the first letter?—Well, it might be, I think it was, some time in the early part of February I got that letter.

2641. Have you got that letter?—No.

2642. What became of it?—I do not know in the world.

2643. Have you searched for it?—I have.

2644. Now state what was in it?—It said, "Call and see Mr. Pollock on the subject; I think he

he has been attending sessions, holding his professional engagements at sessions," or something to that effect; the signification was that he would have written sooner, and that was apologising for not doing so; that is the sense I took out of it.

2645. Did you call at Mr. Pollock's office?—I did.

2646. Did you see him?—I did.

2647. Tell me what passed between you and Mr. Pollock?—I had two interviews.

2648. Take the first interview first?—Just so; at the first interview I saw Mr. Pollock as he was just going through the hall door; I waited outside to see him; he came out; I approached him and said, "Have you any commands for Mr. Neelin?"

2649. Was this to Mr. Pollock?—Yes, from Major Knox; "Are you the person?" said he, "I am," said I; then he opened the door and we walked in; "Have you a line or anything," he said; I handed him the letter.

2650. Which letter did you hand him?—The letter authorising me to call upon him.

2651. That is the second letter?—The second letter.

2652. What occurred next after you handed the letter to Mr. Pollock?—Said he, "I will give you 12 l.;" "That will not do me," said I; "I will make it 14 l.," said he; "It will not do," said I; "It would not suffice for what I require it for;" "Well, sir, I cannot do anything more;" I retired and went away; then as I was going out of the door he told me to call in a few days and to see my friend in the meantime, meaning Mr. Brennan.

2653. Did you call on Mr. Pollock on a subsequent occasion?—I did.

2654. How soon after the first?—I asked him what time I should call. He said, about the end of the week. I called on the Saturday, and he said to the effect that he had no communication; that he had heard nothing since.

2655. Mr. Pollock said that?—Yes, something like that, I remember. On the Tuesday following, I asked him again. He said he had not. I wondered at it. He said something like that Mr. Knox was in London, or he might have said that he was from home, or something like that.

2656. You called once or twice, and he said nothing was done?—Yes.

2657. Did you call a fourth time?—I called at home; my stepmother brought me word from Mr. Brennan.

2658. Did you go to Mr. Pollock on another occasion?—I did.

2659. Tell me what took place on that other occasion?—I went to him, I think, on the 15th of February on a Saturday; I went into the office, and he handed me 20 l.

2660. Did anything else take place then?—Yes, he wrote down three capital letters "I O U," I think nothing more than that, and he said, "Sign that."

2661. Mr. Pollock did?—Yes.

2662. Did you sign that?—I did.

2663. Are you able to state what sort of notes that money was paid in; was it paid in large notes or small ones?—They were large notes.

2664. Were there any 5 l. notes?—They were all 5 l., I think.

2665. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Will you fix the time of this; when was it?—Saturday; I think 15th February 1868.

2666. Mr. Palles.] In the meantime between the first time that you saw Mr. Pollock and the last time when he gave you the 20 l., did you see Brennan?—I did.

2667. Tell me any conversation you had with Brennan in the interval?—After I wrote my letter to Mr. Knox, Brennan came into the house and asked me out, and we went to a place called the Cemetery. It began to rain. We put our backs to a wall, and he asked me how much money I would require. Brennan did. I said nothing. He stated just merely that himself. I was very delicate on the matter. He said, "You were stating something about 10 l.," because the day he offered me the 2 l., I said it would take 10 l. to meet my present difficulties. "You said something about 10 l.," said he. I said nothing. "Would 15 l. do?" said he, then. "That would be very good," said I. "It will, I suppose, then," said he. "It is better not to expect too much, unless it might be looked upon unfavourable." He made use of some expression, "Lest it might be thought a grab," or some such term as that, and then I came home; and when I went into the house I took a little summary of my state, and I sent for him. I said, "Did you write?" "No," said he. I said, "You had better write down 20 l., for less than that will not do, and I would rather not have it."

2668. You were a voter at that time in January and February 1868?—I was.

2669. Did Brennan say anything to you about your vote on any occasion?—No.

2670. Did Mr. Pollock say anything to you about your vote?—Not a word.

2671. You knew, of course, that Major Knox was a candidate?—I did; but I said to Mr. Brennan that I would vote for Major Knox.

2672. When did you say that?—On the night that he came into the house.

2673. The first night?—Yes, the first night; no, at the time that I told him to say the 20 l., I said, "I will vote for Major Knox," and that was my intention; I was quite sincere.

2674. That is, if you got the 20 l.?—Well, of course, I will say it was my intention to vote for him, and I was quite sincere when I said so to Brennan. Of course, I changed my mind.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

2675. Then it is a fact that Brennan never spoke to you about your vote?—No, he never mentioned it.

2676. He never asked you to vote for Major Knox?—Never.

2677. Neither did Mr. Pollock; neither the one nor the other?—Neither the one nor the other ever alluded to it all.

2678. Will you fix the date particularly when you got the 20 l.?—I think it was the 15th of February; I took no note, but that was the date of it.

2679. Was that in the year 1868?—Yes.

2680. There was no election coming on then?—No.

2681. Do you remember when Parliament was dissolved?—I think I do.

2682. When?—I am not certain, I think it was some time in the summer.

2683. However, this transaction you have been detailing occurred and was complete in February, 1868?—It was.

2684. You really intended to vote for Major Knox?—At that time.

2685. And in no respect did Brennan stipulate,

P. Neelin.

20 February 1869.

P. Neelin. or Mr. Pollock either, that the 20*l.* was to be a consideration for your vote?—No, there was no mention made of me voting, or what I would do, but he silently handed it to me.

20: February
1869.

2686. When was it you mentioned the circumstances you have told his lordship the judge to-day?—When was it that I mentioned—

2687. When was it you mentioned what you have proved here to-day, and I have a reason for asking this that you will understand by-and-bye?—First mentioned, where?

2688. When was it you first told what you have said to-day in relation to Brennan, and the letters, and the 20*l.*?—

Mr. Justice Keogh inquired what number in the bill of particulars this evidence referred to.

Mr. McDonogh said the case was not in the bill of particulars, but late at night a notice was served that an application would be made to include two additional names.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that he would accede to the application.

2689. Was it not this morning that you mentioned to Mr. Molony what you would have to prove?—No.

2690. When was it?—Yesterday.

2691. And for the first time?—Well, I spoke to him before that, but that was the first time to the parties.

2692. You never spoke to Mr. Molony before?—No, nor to any party on the opposite side; and I had no communication with them, never a word about it till yesterday. I was most anxious to avoid coming here.

2693. You voted for Captain Flanagan, I take it for granted?—I did.

2694. Why did you refuse to take the 2*l.* and the list of non-electors from Brennan?—He did not offer me the list of non-electors, but, as I considered, it was merely for a pretext that he brought it in his hand; it was to read to me, and perhaps to accommodate me and please me, and to show he was doing something in another line, and to give me a little idea of the things that were passing; so it appeared to me.

2695. Will you please to tell me was the 2*l.* to be distributed amongst the non-electors?—Not at all.

2696. You refused the 2*l.*?—I did; I expected it would be a great deal more, and indeed, that he would have done something himself, for at the time that I said I would not write to Major Knox, I said, "But anything you can do yourself"—

2697. You said you would not write to Major Knox?—Not at the time he asked me.

2698. How long before the February when you got the 20*l.*?—It was some time, I cannot say, either a week or so or a fortnight, either before Christmas or after Christmas, some time at the beginning of the year, or at the close of the old year.

2699. Then it was either the close of the old year, 1867, or the beginning of the new year, 1868?—Yes.

2700. You had represented your dreadful state of circumstances to Brennan, I suppose?—No, never; but he told me he was a friend of Major Knox. "Did you hear the news?" said he, "I am Major Knox's land agent, I am sure you will be glad to hear it." This was the introduction of the matter. Said he, "He has purchased Mr.

Tennysen's property for 18,000*l.*, and I am appointed his agent without soliciting, would you be glad of it?" "I would," said I. Shortly afterwards he came to say that I had better drop a line. "I have sent your name," he said, "with 30 more." I thought it very presumptuous of him, without coming to me to say would he do it.

2701. But, thinking it presumptuous of him, did you scold him for it?—Not a word.

2702. Although you thought it presumptuous?—I did indeed; it was a liberty.

2703. A liberty with you?—Just so.

2704. A very great liberty?—Indeed it was.

2705. Did you so express yourself?—No, but I thought he might very well guess it.

2706. Guess from your manner?—Just so.

2707. How soon after that did you write to Major Knox?—After refusing the 2*l.*

2708. You thought this man was very presumptuous, to send your name to Major Knox?—I did, unquestionably.

2709. Had not you refused to write to Major Knox, and said, "Do for me yourself something"?—No.

2710. You had not?—I do not understand what you mean.

2711. I will try to make you understand; did not Brennan tell you to write to Major Knox?—He did.

2712. Did not you refuse and say, "I will not write to him, you do something for me yourself"?—I did.

2713. Did you not by that convey that he should write to the major?—I left him to his option.

2715. Perhaps he did that?—That is what he did do. He selected out the names of other parties, whether he had their sanction or not, I do not know; but he classed my name with other parties as he told me himself. Certainly, I felt indignant with him for doing that. That was a different thing from leaving him himself to write to the major, knowing I was embarrassed, and could not pay my rent and taxes.

2716. You would have thought that all right?—I would have had no objection.

2717. Did you ever see the letter he wrote to the major?—Never.

2718. But you were quite disposed that he should have sent your name to the major as a man in destitute circumstances?—Yes; but not as a man open to corruption; that was the point he had in view. "Write you then," said he. That was to corroborate what he had done, to establish the fact with the major. You know I take it for granted that when he sent my name, he meant to say, "Why, here is a man; here is a fellow"—

2719. Did not you immediately afterwards write; in the first place, I ask you, is there a word of truth in this, that Brennan told you that he had written that you were a man open to corruption?—No, he never told me that; I only infer that.

2720. Did you not write to Major Knox; you say, "I wrote to him to say I was in a desperate way; I was oppressed by rent and taxes, and I would be grateful for anything he could do for me"?—Yes.

2721. Then

2721. Then you wrote yourself to Major Knox that you were in desperate circumstances?—Yes; that is just the very words.

2722. I took it down from your lips?—Yes, that is it.

2723. That is strange; first of all, you refused to write to the Major; then you said Brennan might do anything for you, intending him to write?—Yes.

2724. Then you were vexed and thought him very presumptuous in sending up your name?—I did.

2725. Then you wrote yourself, telling him the desperate condition you were in, and about your rent and taxes, and that you would be grateful?—I did.

2726. And you did not say a word about voting in your letter?—No.

2727. How came it unfortunately that you lost both Major Knox's letters?—Well, I cannot say.

2728. You say you showed one to Mr. Pollock?—I did.

2729. And he gave it back to you?—He did.

2730. Did the Major in his first letter say that he would be glad to do anything for any poor man in Sligo, but that he could give no money?—No; not a word of it.

2731. Have you any recollection of what was in it?—I have.

2732. Tell me the substance of it?—Which letter?

2733. The first letter?—The first letter was acknowledging the receipt of my letter, and he said that I would hear from him in the early part of next week.

2734. And the second letter was a reference to Mr. Pollock only?—That is all. "Call and see Mr. Pollock."

2735. You say that is the substance of the two letters; on your oath, did you call on Mr. Pollock and solicit him to give you a loan of money?—No; never.

2736. Do you know what an I O U is?—I do.

2737. And you gave an I O U to Mr. Pollock for the money?—Yes; and I put my name to it.

2738. And you say that you promised to pay it?—Yes.

2739. Did you intend to pay it?—Well, certainly, I did not know that I would be called upon to do it; and in case I did, I thought I might be able to refund it, perhaps.

2740. To refund it, perhaps?—Well, I thought, if I was able, I would.

2741. Then you really did, if you were able, intend to pay the money?—I did.

2742. And you were in business, were you not?—Not these two years.

2743. But you had been in business?—Yes.

2744. You have seen many an I O U in your day?—Not many.

2745. How many?—I have never seen but two of them in my life.

2746. You know it was an acknowledgment of a loan of money?—Certainly.

2747. And you meant to repay it if you could?—I did.

2748. Now, did not you apply to Mr. Pollock to lend you money?—Never. Mr. Pollock is here.

2749. Then you mean to convey to his Lordship, that it was a present of money?—That it was a present of money?

2750. Yes?—I imagined that I received the money from Major Knox through Mr. Pollock's hands.

2751. You imagined that?—I did; and was certain of it.

2752. You intended to pay it?—I certainly would like to do it, and I have done all I could to get it refunded and taken up.

2753. You made every effort to do it?—I did; that is a fact.

2754. Did you borrow money for the purpose of repaying it?—I did not borrow money, but if I could borrow —

2755. Did you not ask some one to lend you money for the purpose of repaying it?—I did not.

2756. Did you ask anybody to assist you in repaying it?—No.

2757. What were you saying; did you not proceed to utter these words: "But I"; did you ask anybody of Captain Flannagan's side to redeem it?—Well, I made a remark to a certain person; I said to a certain person, a certain respectable person on the Liberal side, that I would be very glad that the I O U would be taken up; that I certainly then would vote for Captain Flannagan with all my heart if that was done, if that was removed. I was very susceptible on that point. I would be very glad if Major Knox would get his money, that it would be taken up; and I would not like it at all, that it was dishonourable and discreditable.

2758. When did you say that?—Before the election.

2759. To whom?—Well, I —

2760. On your oath, to whom?—Will, I —

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Yes.

Witness.] I would not like to mention the name.

2761. You must mention the name?—Well, I mentioned it to my director.

2762. Mr. Macdonogh.] Was it anything sub silentio?—It was.

2763. I will get the fact; you mean to say it was solely and entirely to your spiritual director, and under the seal of confession; because, unless it was, you must mention it?—It was in the confessional; it was there I mentioned it, in hopes —

Mr. Justice Keogh.] If it was anything you said to your religious director in that way, you need not mention it.

Witness.] I mentioned the matter.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] If it was anything you said there, you are not bound to say it.

Witness.] I know that, my Lord.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was it said in that way?—

Witness.] It was not.

2764. It was not said in that way?—I think it was outside of it.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Then, if it was outside of it, you are bound to tell it.

2765. Mr. McDonogh.] Now, then, upon your oath, to whom did you mention what you have told us about paying this money?—I mentioned it to my director, I say.

H

2766. Who

- P. Neelin.* 2766. Who is your director; mention the name of the gentleman?—Father Andy.
- 20 February 1869. 2767. Did you mention it to anybody else on the Liberal side?—No; I mentioned to the Liberal side that I owed the money.
2768. To whom on the Liberal side did you say you owed the money?—I mentioned it to Dr. Gillooley.
2769. To whom else did you mention it?—To no other person; I never spoke of it at all to any one, with the exception of the two gentlemen that I have mentioned.
2770. Then, of course, in speaking to the reverend gentleman you first named and the right reverend the bishop, you spoke the truth; you would not dare to tell them a lie?—No.
2771. Then, it was true you told them you owed the money?—I did.
2772. And that you wished to have it repaid?—Surely.

2773. That it was really a loan to you in your distress?—I simply told the thing as I told it here. I wrote to Major Knox; he wrote to me to call on Mr. Pollock; that I received the money; it was on Major Knox's account, and I wished it to be given back.

2774. Did you get any money to repay Mr. Pollock?—Not at all.

Re-examined by Mr. Palles.

2775. Had you ever any business transaction with Mr. Pollock before?—No; never any business transactions before.

2776. Did anyone on the Liberal side ever promise to pay you any part of the 20 l.?—No, never.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN KEARNS, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

- J. Kearns.* 2777. You are a voter, I believe, of the borough of Sligo?—Yes.
2778. You did not vote at the last election?—I did not.
2779. Were you in Sligo on the day of the election?—I was.
2780. Where do you live?—In Temple-street.
2781. You are in trade, I believe?—Yes.
2782. In the butter trade?—I am.
2783. Do you know Mr. Lawder?—I do.
2784. He is Major Knox's conducting agent?—Yes.
2785. How long have you known him?—A length of time.
2786. For several years?—For several years.
2787. Have you had business transactions with him?—No, never.
2788. Do you do any business in Carrick-on-Shannon?—I do.
2789. On the day of the election did you see Mr. Lawder?—I did not.
2790. Where were you on the night before the election?—I was in an hotel.
2791. What hotel?—Miss Allingham's.
2792. When did you go to Miss Allingham's hotel?—At three o'clock in the evening; the evening before the election.
2793. The evening of Wednesday?—Wednesday.
2794. Who was in the hotel, do you know; was Mr. Lawder there?—He might be in there, but I did not see him then.
2795. Did you see him at all in the hotel?—No, not that evening, I did not.
2796. Did you see him next day, the day of the election?—I did.
2797. Where did you see him, was it in the hotel?—I have seen him in the hotel.
2798. On your oath, were you speaking to him?—I was. He asked if I would vote; I told him I would rather not, but if he pressed me hard I would vote for him.
2799. If he pressed you hard?—Yes; I would vote for him, there is no mistake in it.
2800. Had you previously promised anybody your vote?—No, never.
2801. Do you know John Macdonogh?—Yes, I do, well.

Mr. Macdonogh called.

2802. Is that Mr. Macdonogh?—Yes, that is him.

2803. Did you see him on the day of the election?—On the day of the election, I did not.

2804. On the day before the election?—I saw him the evening before the election.

2805. Did you tell him that you were going to Miss Allingham's to see Mr. Lawder?—Well, I did.

2806. Did you tell him you were going to see Mr. Lawder for the purpose of telling him that you were going to vote for Captain Flanagan?—I did not tell him any such thing.

2807. What did you tell him?—I told him I wanted to see him, nothing more than that.

2808. To see Mr. Lawder; what for?—Just to tell him that I would vote for Major Knox if I was required.

2809. Do you swear that?—I do swear that, positively.

2810. Who paid for your bill at Allingham's?—I paid it.

2811. When?—I paid it just the day after.

2812. Did you get a letter on the day of the election?—No, I did not.

2813. Did you hear there was a letter for you?—I did not.

2814. Did you hear there was a letter sent to you, and that it would not be delivered?—I did not.

2815. You got no letter?—I got no letter.

2816. Did you remain the entire of the day at Allingham's?—No, I was down in the Butter-market at three o'clock.

2817. The day before?—Yes.

2818. The entire day of the election did you remain at Allingham's?—Yes.

2819. Did you sleep there that night?—Yes.

2820. Where did you stay at Allingham's?—Where did I stay?

2821. Yes?—I stopped in the hotel, of course.

2822. Where in the hotel?—In a room in the hotel.

2823. In what room?—I do not know the number of the room.

2824. Was it a bed-room?—A bed-room.

2825. Was

2825. Was the door shut?—No, it was not.
 2826. Then you remained the entire day in a bed-room?—No, not the entire day; I walked about through the place.

2827. Did you see Major Knox that day?—No, I did not.

2828. Did you see Mr. Phibbs?—No.

2829. Did you see Mr. Pollock?—I did not.

2830. Did you see Tom Brennan?—No.

2831. Were none of them in the house that day?—They were not.

2832. Did you remain in the house that day of your own free will?—I did, of course.

2833. Of your own free will?—Certainly.

2834. Did you give any directions to anybody to intercept any message that came for you?—No, I did not.

2835. You ordinarily live in Sligo?—Yes.

2836. You have a house in Sligo?—I have.

2837. And your family are in Sligo?—Yes.

2838. And your wife?—Yes.

2839. And she was living there on the day of the election and the day before?—Yes.

2840. Have you a receipt for what you paid Miss Allingham?—I have; do you want to see it?

2841. If you please?—

The receipt was handed to Counsel by the Witness, and is as follows:—

“ Victoria Hotel, Sligo, 21 November 1869.

“ Mr. John Kearns,

“ R. Allingham, Proprietress.

				s.	d.
“ November 18.	Two Dinners	-	-	4	-
	Bed servants	-	-	3	6
“ 19.	Two Breakfasts	-	-	3	-
	Two Dinners	-	-	4	-
	Bed servants	-	-	3	6
				18	-

“ Paid, A. H.”

2842. Who dined with you on the 18th?—No one dined with me but myself.

2843. Who dined with you on the 19th?—Myself in person.

2844. Did anyone dine with you?—No.

2845. Who breakfasted with you?—No one but myself.

2846. You paid your own bill?—I did.

2847. Did you pay anyone else's bill?—No, I did not.

2848. Will you take that bill in your hand; do you see two dinners on the 18th?—That is when my son came down to the hotel to see me.

2849. That is on the 18th?—Yes.

2850. Do you see two breakfasts there?—Yes.

2851. Is that for your son also?—Yes.

2852. Two dinners on the 19th?—I do.

2853. Is that for your son also?—Yes.

2854. Was your son with you then on the 18th and 19th?—He was.

2855. Did you see your son on the 19th; I mean did he stop in the house with you?—He did.

2856. Did he bring you any message from anybody?—He did not.

2857. What took him down there to you?—I sent for him to me, not to stop in the house.

2858. Did you swear to me a minute ago that you dined by yourself?—I did not swear that; you asked me if any strange man did.

(The shorthand writer read the previous answer of the Witness.)

2859. Who met you on the door of Allingham's hotel when you went there?—I do not recollect who met me.

2860. Do you swear that?—I do.

2861. Did you meet Mr. Lawder?—No.

2862. Were you speaking to him on the steps?—I was not.

2863. Did you ever tell any one you could not leave the hotel, that you were not allowed?—That I could not leave the hotel?

2864. Do you hear my question?—I do.

2865. Did you ever tell any one you were not allowed to leave?—I did not tell any one; never.

2866. Do you know Mr. McDonogh?—I do.

2867. Did you tell Mr. McDonogh that you were going to vote for Captain Flanagan, but that you would see Mr. Lawder first before you did so?—I did not say such a thing, because I did not promise any one of them.

2868. Did you get any letter from Mr. Lawder?—I did not.

2869. Then when you went to the hotel you did not promise Major Knox?—I did not promise any of them at the time.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

2870. As a matter of fact, was not your house broken during the election?—It was.

2871. Smashed to pieces?—Smashed to pieces and put out of business altogether, and my family were hunted out of the house too.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARY DUNLEVY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

2872. Do you know Major Knox?—I did not know him till Mr. Pollock introduced him to me.
 2873. Did he call at your house, then, with Mr. Pollock?—He did.

2874. When was that, do you recollect?—To the best of my opinion it was some time in the middle of July.

2875. Did he ask for your husband?—Yes.

2876. Was he at home at the time?—No.

2877. Is your husband a voter of the borough of Sligo?—Yes.

2878. What did they ask you about your husband when they called?—When they called the Major asked me was my husband at home? I said, “No.” He asked where he was; I said he was working at Lanvern Chapel. He asked me what work he was doing; I said, he was a stucco plasterer by trade, and Major Knox stepped into the shop a little bit more, and spoke some few words, and Pettitt beckoned me; Mr. Pollock stood by the shop door.

2879. What did Pettitt say to you?—Pettitt asked me if my husband would take a situation in Dublin; I said, I would much rather he

M. Dunlevy. would get one at home. The Major then asked me if he would be a supporter of his for the borough of Sligo election; he said, "Would you write for him"; I said, most likely he would be at home on Saturday night. I told him then we were very poor, almost the poorest of voters in the street. He told me if I wanted an interview with him I would see him at Mr. Knox's on the Mall in the afternoon.

2880. Did you go there in the afternoon?—Yes.

2881. On the same day?—Yes.

2882. Did you see Major Knox there then?—No, not that evening.

2883. When did you see him next?—On the next morning.

2884. Where?—In Mr. Knox's hall on the Mall.

2885. You called again the next morning?—Yes.

2886. What occurred then?—After a few minutes' delay in the hall, the breakfast things were on the table; I saw him, he shook hands with me, gave me a chair to sit down, and asked me if I wanted him particularly; I told him I was embarrassed to the extent of 9*l.* or 10*l.*, and the particular reason I had for asking it; I showed him what I wanted the money for, for fear he might think I was rather covetous in so soon asking him. Mr. Pollock came in at the saying of the word; he asked Mr. Pollock how it could be arranged to get me the money without an injury of the law. Mr. Pollock said, perhaps the thing could be managed in a way that the law could have no hold of, and Mr. Pollock knowing me these many years—

2887. What did Major Knox say to you?—Major Knox told me in the presence of Mr. Pollock that he would have matters arranged, and that he would get me the commands. "I will see all about it," he said. I returned again to show Mr. Pollock what I wanted with the money, and he said, for goodness sake not to show him any more for he would see matters arranged for me.

2888. Did you go again?—Yes.

2889. Before you went, were you told to go anywhere with reference to this application that you made?—No.

2890. Were you afterwards?—Yes, the Major called at the house the next week.

2891. What did he say when he called?—He bade me good morning, told me he was about to go to Dublin, and that he wished to let me know that he was going to Dublin, and that he left my commands with Mr. Pollock, 10*l.*; that I was to call for it in the afternoon; there was a young man present at the time, and sure the gentleman present here himself knows.

2892. Who is the young man?—John Dowd; he is a young man that came with a message for my husband, which caused him to be standing there.

2893. Did the Major go away then?—Yes; I wished him a happy journey to Dublin.

2894. And did you go to Mr. Pollock afterwards?—Yes.

2895. What did Mr. Pollock say to you?—I did not see Mr. Pollock at that time.

2896. Did you call again to see him?—Yes, I did, and Mr. Reddie his son told me that he could not see any one; I thought that an insulting answer, and I promised that I would never call again.

2897. Do you recollect at the time of the revision Major Knox coming to your house again?—Yes.

2898. Was any one with him on this occasion?—No one else.

2899. Where were you at the time he came into the shop?—I was standing at the door, and my husband was blaming me at this time.

2900. Was he at home?—He was at home the week of the revision.

2901. Just tell us shortly what occurred when the Major came to your shop?—He shook hands with me, and he said he got on successfully in court; I said, I was very glad to hear it, but I was greatly disappointed in the promises he made me. "How is that?" he said; I said, "you never left the commands that you said you left with Mr. Pollock for me"; I said, "Major Knox, it grieves me to see this after the election is concluded." He gave me 10*l.*

2902. How did you get the 10*l.*?—It was in single notes; sure the gentleman himself will tell you.

2903. I ask you to tell us yourself?—I am on my oath; I will not tell a lie; it was 10 single notes.

2904. Was your husband in the house at the time?—He was.

2905. You said something about shaking hands?—My husband shook his hand at me; he did not approve of what I was doing; he did not wish me to take money, for fear of getting his vote broken. He told me after; I did not know what he meant by shaking his hand.

2906. Did he see Major Knox give you the money?—He was in the view of seeing it.

2907. Where was your husband?—In the kitchen.

2908. Where were you?—With my back to the counter.

2909. In the shop?—In the shop.

2910. Can a person see from the kitchen into the shop where you were standing?—Certainly so.

2911. Is there a door between?—There is a door, and a large glass window.

2912. What occurred after you got the money?—He told me to be very cautious, and never to speak of that, for that my husband would get two years' imprisonment.

2913. Who said that?—Major Knox, his own honour.

2914. Did anything occur about any more money?—He asked me if my husband would be a supporter of his other borough. I said with all the influence I could use I would make him do what was right. I asked him at the same time was that all we were going to get for the vote. He said "No, Mrs. Dunlevy, you will get 50*l.* after the election is over; with 10 acres of land you will soon be very comfortable on it, you will get it at a reasonable rent."

2915. Did he say what land it was?—He told me he was going to purchase part of Colonel Tennyson's property, round Sligo. He called my husband out of the kitchen, and said he would get him the plastering of the Town Hall.

2916. Had your husband had an interview with him?—Before that, at least, my husband told me he was up at Mr. Knox's.

2917. Did anything further pass on that occasion; did Mr. Knox go away soon after that?—Yes.

2918. Between that, and a short time before the the election, did you ever see Major Knox?—No, I did not see him, unless I saw him passing the street in a car.

2919. You had no interview with him?—No, not any more.

2920. Do you recollect a short time, some three weeks before the election, Mr. Woods coming to you?—No, but I recollect about a week before the election.

2921. Did Mr. Woods come to your house?—He did.

2922. About what?—He came about manure.

2923. Which Mr. Woods was that?—The oldest man, the father.

2924. Had he bought manure from you?—Yes, but he made no bargain about it.

2925. He came on this day?—Yes.

2926. When he came to you did you transact this matter about the manure, did you arrange it?—He came on Saturday, and he told me that he had called sooner, but I was lying sick, for I was getting very bad health at the time.

2927. When he was with you on the Saturday, did he say anything to you except about the manure?—He asked me to show him the place where the manure was taken out, and he would see the depth of the pit. I told him it was quite inconvenient on Saturday, but there was time enough to settle for it. He asked me if he could speak privately to me, for there were country people about in the kitchen and the shop.

2928. Did you take him then anywhere out of the shop?—I studied for a minute, and asked him if it was anything particular. He said, "Yes, could I go upstairs; was there any person upstairs." I said, "No one is up yet," said I; so he went upstairs, and into my front room.

2929. When you got into the room was there any one there but you and Woods?—No, but a small little child, going into four years old.

2930. What did he say to you on going into the room?—His first words were, "Mrs. Dunlevy, Frank is not at home." "No," I said, "he is not." He asked where he was; I said "in Tipperary." He asked, "What is he doing there?" I said, "I understood it was the repairs of a building," and then he laid his two hands on my two shoulders, and he said, "Mrs. Dunlevy, what would you think of having Frank left away till the election is all over?" "I do not know," I said, "I would sooner he came home, for I am very delicate, and I wish he would come home."

2931. Did he say anything about a reward?—He began and said a good deal about the interest he took in my husband, about the plastering in the Town Hall. He was talking about money, how he was sending it to me, and the like of that; and he said, "You will be handsomely rewarded if you leave him away, for the town is greatly excited." I studied for a minute, and I asked him what would the reward be; he said, "I do not like mentioning it." I said, "I will not leave my way till I know what my reward will be." "You will be handsomely rewarded," said he. He told me then he would give me his handwriting for 50 £, if I would let Frank be away. He asked me if I would take his word till after the election; I told him I wanted ready cash. He said he knew that Francis would take his advice, that he could use that influence on him.

2932. Did you give him his address?—I refused at that time to give him his address; but I said if he called afterwards I might give it to him.

2933. At this time did you owe a man named Galbraith any money?—Something like 10 £. 10s. or some odd.

2934. There was a decree against you?—Yes, the decree is over us.

2935. Against your husband?—It is for my husband.

2936. Galbraith is your landlord?—No, but he is security for the rent of the house.

2937. Did any person come and give you a message?—On that evening Mr. Galbraith's boy came for me.

2938. Did he give you any message?—Yes.

2939. In consequence of the message he gave you, did you go anywhere that evening?—I went up to Mr. Galbraith's house.

2940. Where is that?—In Market-street, Sligo.

2941. When you came to the house, what did Mr. Galbraith say to you?—He bade me good-night. He asked me was I not getting good health. I said I was not, that I was not well; he asked me if Woods was with me; he asked me why it was I would not comply with his wishes.

2942. Did you say anything to that?—I said I would not till I knew what it was I was to get.

2943. Did anyone come in?—Mr. Joseph Woods.

2944. Is that the son of Mr. Woods who was with you?—Yes, young Mr. Woods.

2945. When he came in, what did he say?—He also bade me good night, and he said to Mr. Galbraith, "This place is too much exposed; it is a place where I generally buy little fancy things."

2946. Did you go upstairs?—Yes.

2947. What did Mr. Galbraith say or do then?—I think Mr. Galbraith said, "Will you be kind enough to come up this way?" So I went up a flight higher, to a little fancy wareroom with a lot of little fancy goods in it.

2948. Were you, Galbraith, and Woods in this wareroom by yourselves?—Quite.

2949. Was the door open?—No; Mr. Galbraith closed the door.

2950. When you got in, what did Mr. Galbraith say to you?—He gave me a chair and made me sit pretty close to the fire. Some cheering occurred up the street; he said, "Now, Mrs. Dunlevy, you had better consent to leave your husband away than to have him mixing along with such annoyances going on in the street." I did not say to it or from it. He said, "I did not consider you would have a vote; you would have been blankly refused your house but for me. Leave Francis with me, me and Mr. Woods are kind friends; we are not likely to do him any injury; leave him with me till after the election is over, and you will be rewarded." I said, "I heard that before, but what will the beauty of the reward be?" He said, "You know Major Knox is a kind gentleman; he acted kindly to you before. If he says anything, you may depend he will perform it. Leave him away and you will get 50 £." I said, "Will I get it in my hand?" "It is impossible," said he, "to get it in your hand, but wait till the election is over." I said, "I will have to go in the country with my children; I would not like to stay amongst my neighbours, acting so mean."

2951. Tell us, as far as you recollect, those words he said to you; you said you would require money to go to the country?—Yes.

2952. What did he tell you then?—He said I would

M. Dunlevy.

20 February
1869.

M. Dunlevy. would get 20*l.* at once, at all events. "Would that supply you?" he said. "Oh yes," I said.
 20 February He asked me would I write a letter to my husband?
 1869.

2953. Did he take money out of his pocket?—He did.

2954. How much?—I do not know; I never counted it.

2955. What was it?—A roll of notes, but he did not give them to me; he left them on the table to show that he would give me money out of it.

2956. What did he say about writing the letter?—If I would write a letter to his satisfaction; I told him I was so delicate I could not hold the pen well.

2957. Did you write a letter there yourself?—According to his statement, I wrote a letter.

2958. Who gave you the paper?—Mr. Galbraith furnished me with paper, pens, and ink.

2959. Is that the letter (handing one to Witness)?—That is the letter.

2960. That is written by yourself?—That is the letter I wrote according to Mr. Galbraith's directions to me in the presence of Mr. Joseph Woods; but it was not I that directed it.

[The letter was put in, and is as follows:—]

"No. the 12 (1868.

Francis, i have eranged Matters with with friends in Sligo i am quite satisfied with you to go when you get the letor with the partey ho bring it to you dear Francis you May be quite Satisfied i have all things made rite to your Satisfaceton.

So dont com home.

No more re your Mary Donoley."

2961. I forgot to ask you where your husband was at this time?—At Roscrea, county Tipperary, in the employment of Mr. Morris.

2962. Did you tell Mr. Galbraith that?—Oh yes, he asked me that.

2963. Did you get an envelope besides this?—No.

2964. What happened when you wrote this letter?—When I wrote the letter I was to get 20*l.* from Mr. Galbraith to clear myself and children away out of the town till the place was quiet. He still kept the money moving in his hands. Young Mr. Woods was opposite to him; he took the letter to dry it at the fire, and I never got it afterwards.

2965. Did you see the letter put into the envelope?—Yes; it was directed by Mr. Joseph Woods; it was Mr. Joseph Woods' own hands that wrote the directions to Francis Dunlevy.

2966. Did you see it after Mr. Woods wrote the direction?—No, he would not allow me to go out of the room till he went away with it.

2967. Did you observe, I ask you, after Mr. Woods wrote the directions on the envelope, did you see it again; had you it in your hands again?—Not to my knowledge.

2968. You are not able then to say what Mr. Woods wrote?—I do not know the young man's handwriting, but I saw him write the directions on the envelope, and he took it away and posted it himself.

2969. After he took the letter in that way, just tell his Lordship what occurred?—Mr. Joseph Woods took the letter, dried it at the fire, enclosed it in an envelope, and wrote the directions, "Roscrea, Rock Forest, county Tipperary, for Francis Dunlevy."

2970. Did you tell him the directions to write?—Yes, he asked me the directions.

2971. And he wrote from what you told him?—Yes.

2972. After that, what became of the notes?—Mr. Galbraith put them in his pocket, and said he would see me all right.

2973. What did you say to him about the letter?—I asked Mr. Galbraith was he going to treat me in that way? He said he would make me all right; he asked me how much I was getting a week. He said as I was getting 16*s.* from my husband I could not be much pressed after what I got from the Major. I saw Mr. Galbraith taking up the money; I asked Mr. Woods to be kind enough to give me the letter and let me say a word or two to my own husband. Mr. Galbraith reached me over a sheet of paper and said I could write anything I chose in a letter privately to him myself; that Mr. Woods had written to a friend in Dublin that would have my husband taken from Roscrea. I asked him where he would be; he said he would be secured in Dublin; he would be brought to Dublin.

2974. He did not give you back the letter?—No, the letter was taken away.

2975. You remained a short time?—I talked to Mr. Galbraith; he said he had it in his power, and that we should have been blankly refused the house but for him.

2976. Did anything else occur after that?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

2977. Where is your husband now?—He is in court.

2978. As I understand you, the first time you saw Major Knox he was in company with Mr. Pettitt?—With Mr. Pollock and Mr. Pettitt, both. The three came in together.

2979. Pollock, Pettitt, and Major Knox?—Yes.

2980. Was Mr. Pollock within hearing when Pettitt asked you about your husband taking a situation in Dublin?—Mr. Phibbs came forward to the door, and the two gentlemen were just right at the step of the door, talking something privately amongst themselves.

2981. Do you mean to say that Mr. Harloe Phibbs was there?—Yes, because I always took him for Mr. Merton before that day.

2982. I will ask you to tell his Lordship how many were there?—Mr. Pollock, Mr. Pettitt, the four gentlemen; but they were a while in before Mr. Phibbs came in, because he remained asking me a little while afterwards who lived in the cooper's house, and what was his name.

2983. Did these gentlemen hear Pettitt asking you whether your husband would take a situation in Dublin?—I cannot say.

2984. Were they within hearing or near enough to hear?—They were just in conversation at the door amongst themselves; I cannot say whether they heard or not.

2985. What size is your shop?—A middling size; as fair a shop as there is in the street.

2986. And Pettitt spoke just as you are doing now?—No, he spoke quite low.

2987. You saw Major Knox afterwards at Mr. Pollock's?—No.

2988. I beg your pardon, I think I was mistaken; taken; you went to the Mall where Major Knox is staying?—Yes.

2989. After some conversation you have described, when he asked you what you wanted, and you said about 10*l.*, you say that Mr. Pollock came in and heard that; is that the gentleman (pointing to a gentleman in court)?—Mr. James Pollock came in, he saw me; I showed him what I wanted the money for, pawn-office tickets. Mr. Pollock put his hands to his two eyes, and said, “Mary, do not show me anything, for the matter will be arranged.”

2990. That is the gentleman who put up his hands to his eyes and said the matter would be arranged?—Yes.

2991. Why did you not think of telling us that when you were examined by that gentleman about Mr. Pollock putting his hands to his eyes?—As far as my conscience will allow me to go I will go, and go no further.

2992. You are quite sure Mr. Pollock was there, and said the matter would be arranged?—He was sitting in the parlour.

2993. And Major Knox said it would be arranged?—Yes.

2994. Then the next time you saw him was when he said he was going to Dublin, with the exception of his saying that he had then left 10*l.* for you?—Yes.

2995. With whom?—Mr. Pollock.

2996. You did call at Mr. Pollock’s?—Yes.

2997. You said a young man was present when the Major said that?—Yes, a young man was present.

2998. What young man?—One Dowd.

2999. Is he here?—I cannot say.

3000. What is he?—A labouring man; he came to ask my husband, if he was at home, about some work he had left undone for Mr. Campbell.

3001. He was present?—Yes, standing at the door, and he never left till the Major went out.

3002. He must have heard the Major; he did not whisper?—Indeed he did not.

3003. Was Dowd near enough to hear the Major?—Dowd was at the door; I thought it a very ignorant part for Dowd not to withdraw when he saw the gentleman come in.

3004. However, the Major spoke out and said that he had left the 10*l.* for you with Mr. Pollock?—He did.

3005. When you went to Mr. Pollock you were greatly disappointed that you did not get it?—I never got a halfpenny from Mr. Pollock on election matters.

3006. I know; but you went there for the purpose of getting it?—Yes.

3007. And you asked for it?—I asked to see Mr. Pollock.

3008. Did you see him?—No, not on that occasion.

3009. Did you see him at all on the subject?—I have not seen him.

3010. Did he give you the 10*l.*?—He did not.

3011. Did he not tell you to be off out of that?—Quite the contrary, his son, Mr. Reddy, brought me the last message.

3012. The next time you saw the Major was it at your own shop?—Yes.

3013. There was a window, of course, looking into the street?—There are two.

3014. And the Major stood between the two windows, a little in the shop?—There are two shop windows, two counters; it is a large wide shop.

3015. It was on that occasion he handed you the 10*l.*?—I do not know what occasion it was he was coming upon.

3016. Was there anyone present with the Major?—None on that day but myself.

3017. Where was he standing in relation to those two windows when he handed you the 10*l.*?—He was standing sideways up at the counter; this way (illustrating).

3018. Were you behind the counter?—I was not; but just stood in front of the gentlemen.

3019. In what part of the shop was your husband?—He was not far away.

3020. Was he behind the counter?—He was not.

3021. Could anybody, looking through either of the windows, see the Major handing the money?—In the street?

3022. Yes, supposing anybody in this court was there on that occasion?—If they wished; there were no screens.

3023. It could be seen?—If they wished to look in.

3024. And there were 10 single notes?—There were. The gentleman himself is there, and he knows they were.

3025. Do you mean to tell me the notes were opened, not tied up together or fastened?—He loosened his pocket-book, and I think it was not a lady’s place to stand and look at a gentleman’s pocket-book; he opened his pocket-book and gave me the money.

3026. But he took the money out of his pocket-book, and did you see him count it?—He gave me 10*l.*

3027. Did he count it?—It is likely he counted it before he gave it to me, and he said, “Here is 10*l.*, Mrs. Dunlevy, and provided your husband be a supporter of mine for the borough of Sligo.”

3028. Is it likely your husband heard it?—It is likely he heard it, because he could not be deaf.

3029. On that occasion he also told you not to say a word about it or your husband would get two years?—Yes, and that he himself would be punished according to the law too; and I never did intend to speak about it. I am on my oath. Suspicion was in the minds of my neighbours that I did get it, and I denied it to one and the other.

3030. How many times?—Many a time I denied it to my neighbours.

3031. Look at Mr. Gilmore, the Mayor of Sligo?—I see him.

3032. Did you not go to that gentleman and complain bitterly that Major Knox never gave you a farthing?—At first.

3033. Did you at any time?—On my oath I never made a complaint of a gentleman that I never saw between my two eyes at the time.

3034. On your oath, I ask you again, did not you go to that gentleman and bitterly complain of Major Knox’s conduct, because he refused to give you any money?—On my solemn oath, I never complained of Major Knox, a gentleman I had never seen; how could I make a complaint of a gentleman I had never seen?

3035. Long after. What time did you get the 10*l.*?—The week of the revision, whatever week that was.

3036. The week the revision was going on?—Yes.

3037. After the revision, a long time after, did you not go to Mr. Gilmore and say, “You are a friend

M. Dunlevy.

20 February 1869.

M. Dunlevy. friend of Major Knox's," and complain bitterly of the bad treatment you received?—On my solemn oath I never brought my foot inside Mr. Gilmore's door to complain of Major Knox. Before, long, long before, I told him to write a letter to Dublin to Major Knox for me, that I was embarrassed, and would be a supporter of his at the borough if he would do so; but that was long, long before the revision, and long, long before I had seen his face.

3038. You deny it now?—I am on my oath, and I will not be coming here —

3039. I cannot listen to those speeches?—I am on my oath —

3040. Will you now positively swear that you did not go to Mr. Gilmore after the revision and complain bitterly that you could get no money from Major Knox?—On my oath I never did.

3041. On your oath did you complain to Thomas Brennan that Major Knox gave you nothing?—On my oath I never did complain to Thomas Brennan in my life, telling him that Major Knox gave me no money.

3042. On your oath were you not persecuting Major Knox for money constantly?—No.

3043. Did you not go 20 times after him?—After him? I would not go after a better gentleman than him. I never went after him, Mr. McDonogh.

3044. I mean for money; did you not repeatedly go?—Upon my solemn oath I never went the length of that long (illustrating), only he asked me to go up to his house.

3045. Did he not refuse to have anything to say to you?—No; but fornenst the whole public he received me, took off his hat, and shook hands with me. If he offered me one insult, he would never offer it again.

3046. I ask you, did you not attack him and abuse him because he would not give you money?—I never did; I deny that charge, and there is not a neighbour in all Sligo but knows that Major Knox always paid me the highest respect, so far as passing.

3047. When was it he promised to give your husband so many acres of land?—That very time in my presence in the shop.

3048. When he gave you the 10*l.*?—Ten acres of land at a reasonable rent. He asked me, as my husband was from home, would I be able to manage it myself. I said I was better accustomed to land than my husband was.

3049. Did you ever apply to Mr. Harloe Phibbs for money?—For the cost of the revision; and the answer Mr. Phibbs gave was, that the Major did very well, and would do better for me when all was over.

3050. What was the answer he gave you?—The answer Mr. Phibbs gave me as to the cost of the revision week; I told him the cost to my husband was 30*s.* for the week —

3051. What was the answer he gave you?—That Major Knox had done very well for me, but that he could not pay any money under any circumstances for awhile.

3052. What else did he say?—I don't recollect of anything else that he said.

3053. Mark! there is the gentleman?—I see the gentleman well.

3054. You say that he said Major Knox had done very well for you; was that about the 10*l.*?—Whatever he meant, he said he had an interview with the Major the evening before, and the Major had done very well, and would do better.

3055. How often did you call on Mr. Phibbs?—Either once or twice.

3056. Were you not frequently, repeatedly, with Mr. Phibbs?—No, I could not be, unknown to my own self.

3057. But we are ascertaining now the fact? did you ever complain to John Farrell after the revision that you had got no money from Major Knox?—If I have seen the gentleman.

3058. I am told he is a rate collector?—No, on my oath, I never did; I never did make the slightest complaint since I was born to that man about any election matters.

3059. I ask you on your oath; as I shall not repeat the question again, just hear it before you answer it: did Major Knox tell you on one of the occasions when you applied to him he would have nothing to say to you, and did you then become offensive and abusive to Major Knox?—Upon my solemn oath, in the presence of God, I never did offer Major Knox, since I was born, the slightest insult.

3060. Did you apply to Mr. Utrid Knox for money?—Never for money.

3061. You are sure of that?—Oh, quite certain; I could make no applications unknown to myself.

3062. Did you go up to Dublin shortly before the election?—Yes.

3063. What brought you to Dublin?—To bring my husband home.

3064. When?—I went through Dublin to Roscrea Rock Forest part of the way, and I met him on his journey.

3065. How soon before the election?—The Tuesday night before the poll.

3066. Did you get money in the train from anybody?—No.

3067. Did you get any money from any person?—I got a few pounds.

3068. How many?—I got 4*l.*

3069. For what purpose?—To pay my expenses up.

3070. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Morris; he is stopping it now from my husband's weekly earnings, and he told me at the same time that it was as an advance on account he was giving it; I was getting 16*s.* a-week since my husband has been at the job, and I have never since received more than 8*s.* or 10*s.*; he is stopping it weekly.

3071. Do you not know that your husband's vote was objected to most strongly by the agent of Major Knox at the revision?—He will be able to answer that himself. I think he retained his vote without the slightest hesitation; according as I heard.

3072. Was that Mr. Woods the elder that you have been speaking of?—Both Mr. Woods.

3073. Where does he live; is it in Castle-street, near Mr. Leech's?—Yes.

3074. Is he in this court; have you seen him?—I have seen him to-day.

3075. Will you tell me when it was that gentleman said you should have 50*l.*?—The Saturday before the election.

3076. What day will you fix, if you please, when young Woods came in?—On Monday morning; the Monday before the poll.

3077. Will you fix the day when Mr. Galbraith took out the roll of notes and placed them on the table?—On the Saturday night before the poll.

3078. Did you ever see the letter you stated you you wrote; who dictated this letter for you?—Mr. Galbraith directed me to the words I wrote.

3079. May I ask you when you told this story first about Major Knox and the 10*l.*, and the neighbours, and the Galbraith transaction?—The neighbours were constantly tormenting me, and saying I had got the Major's money; I used to deny it until the week before the county election.

3080. And you always denied that you got any money out of Major Knox up to that time?—I denied it to my neighbours.

3081. Who did you tell it to the week before the county election?—I cannot say how it was circulated, but I was sent for.

3082. By whom?—I told it to Mr. Molony.

3083. He is the attorney on the other side?—Yes; I suppose he is an attorney; I am not sure.

3084. How much money have you got since then?—From whom.

3085. How much have you got from Captain Flanagan's party?—I have got no money, on my solemn oath, to the value of a bottle of pop, from Captain Flanagan's party.

[The Witness withdrew.

FRANCIS DUNLEVY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

3086. I BELIEVE you are a Stucco Plasterer?—Yes.

3087. And you are a voter for the borough of Sligo?—Yes.

3088. Was the last election the first election at which you had a vote?—It was.

3089. Do you remember at one time before the revision seeing Major Knox?—I do.

3090. About when was that?—About June or July; my wife wrote me, and said he wanted me.

3091. Before you saw Major Knox, had you heard that he had been at your house?—Yes, I got a letter from my wife.

3092. I do not ask you what was in it; in consequence of something that you heard from your wife, you went to Major Knox?—Yes.

3093. Did you see him?—No; he was upstairs dressing, and he was going to dinner, and he told the servant that if it was to cost him 120 guineas he could not see me.

3094. Did you see him on that first occasion?—I did not.

3095. Did you afterwards call on him?—On the Monday following.

3096. Did you see him on that occasion?—I did.

3097. Where was it?—At Major Knox's house, on the Mall.

3098. Tell me, when you saw Major Knox on that Monday, what passed between you?—I told him I was the man; that my wife wrote for me that he wanted to see me, to have an interview with me. He said, "Oh, you are very welcome."

3099. Did you tell him your name?—He asked me my name. I said it was Francis Dunlevy. He said, "I expected you would be a supporter of mine at the borough election." I said I had no objection. He asked me what was my living. I said I lived by my trade. He said, "With regard to how you would like to live for the time to come." I told him I could live pretty well if I had a bit of land or a little living; that I could make a home for my family. He listened and he said, "Have you any one you would like a situation for?" I said, "No, but my father lives in Dublin, he is an old man now, and I do wish that he could get into a constant and easy employment"; for the man was getting advanced in years. He said, "I will get him that. I expect I can do it, at least."

3100. Get what?—He expected he could get him employment that was easy enough. He said, "Have you any idea what he could be got into?"

85.

I said, "I dare say Mr. Guinness, who keeps the brewery, keeps men in his way perfectly." He said, "I know Mr. Arthur Guinness perfectly well, and I really think he will do that much for me, and I will get him in there."

3101. Was there any other conversation?—He said he would get me 10 acres of land undoubtedly, and leave me a comfortable man.

3102. Did he say what rent you were to get the 10 acres of land at?—A moderate rent; that I was to live comfortably.

3103. Did he say what land he intended you to have?—He said he was buying Mr. Tennyson's property.

3104. Do you remember what he said about the Town Hall?—Yes; he said he thought it was a job that would suit me; that he was intimate with Mr. Crow and those connected with the Town Hall, and he believed he could get the job of plastering for me. I said I would take that. He said, "I believe I can get that for you. I am almost sure of it."

3105. Did he tell you anything about funds being provided?—Yes, he said they were going to get a grant from Government to finish it.

3106. Do you remember anything else that he said then?—He asked me, would I like to live in Dublin, or get into business? I said not; that I would much rather live at home.

3107. Do you know a man of the name of Jenkins?—I do.

3108. What is he?—A summons server, or a decree or process server.

3109. Do you remember meeting him after that on the day you went to Mr. Galbraith?—I met him in Oxford-street.

3110. Was that after the conversation you had with Major Knox?—After that.

3111. About how long?—In a very short time after.

3112. In consequence of what Mr. Jenkins told you, did you go to Mr. Galbraith?—Yes, I was afraid; I had to go.

3113. At the time, had Mr. Galbraith a decree against you?—Yes, and has still.

3114. For how much?—£. 10 and odd.

3115. When you went to Mr. Galbraith, it was to his own house?—Yes, his own shop, upstairs.

3116. Where did you first see him?—Behind the counter upstairs.

3117. Did you afterwards leave that and go to some other room, or was the conversation you had with him in that room?—It was there.

3118. Tell us what passed?—He said, "I suppose pose

M. Dunlevy.

20 February
1869.

F. Dunlevy.

F. Dunlevy. pose you have a whole lot of money for me." I said, "I have not, for I am idle presently, but I expect after that things will be made all right." He said then, "How are matters doing about the election?" "I dare say," I said, "they are doing pretty well. Major Knox was talking to me not long since." "In that case, I suppose," he said, "you will make things all right shortly." "I dare say I will," I said, in that kind of a way. "Well," said he, "don't be deceived; anything the Major promises he will pay it undoubtedly, whatever it may be, for he is a real gentleman."

3119. Was that the substance of the conversation you had with Mr. Galbraith?—Yes.

3120. Were you absent from Sligo, off and on, up to the week of the revision?—Yes.

3121. Were you in Sligo the week of the revision?—I was.

3122. Do you remember, in the week of the revision, upon one occasion Major Knox calling at your house?—Yes, he came across the street diagonal from the other side.

3123. Where were you when he came in?—I was in the shop with my wife. She was outside, and I was inside, quite near.

3124. In a kitchen behind the shop?—It is much like a little parlour; like as if it was a shop that they had run a single partition between.

3125. Is part of the partition glass?—Yes, the principal part of it.

3126. And the rest is a door?—Yes, a glass door in the half of it.

3127. Is there an uninterrupted view from the parlour or the kitchen to the shop?—No, you can see right through it.

3128. What came of this interview with Major Knox?—I believe my wife was quite disappointed with his promises.

3129. Did you hear that?—Yes; she said the commands left for her with Mr. Pollock she did not get. He said he would make matters all right. I withdrew immediately.

3130. Where did you withdraw?—I just went back into the shop.

3131. When you went into the shop, were you able to hear what they were saying?—No, but I could see anything that passed.

3132. What did you see?—The Major gave my wife some money in my presence.

3133. In what way was it given, in gold or in notes?—It was in notes.

3134. When the Major went away, did your wife show you what he had given?—When I saw the money I was annoyed at her taking it, for though I was poor I did not like it. I held my hand up and threatened her, but bedad she held the money; my wife ran in and said, "Look at what the Major has given me."

3135. Did you count the money on that occasion?—I did.

3136. How much was it?—Ten 1 l.-notes.

3137. Had you any other conversations with Major Knox, except these you have mentioned to me; just remember?—I am just thinking.

3138. Upon either of those occasions you have mentioned, or the last time you saw him in his own house in the Mall, did he say anything to you about your vote?—He said he hoped I would be a supporter of his; I was afraid I would be sent to jail, that is why I was forced to say I would, but I never had any intention of it.

3139. Did you remain in Sligo after the revision week?—No, for I cut away immediately after that.

3140. Where did you go to?—Lanfarnen.

3141. Where is Lanfarnen?—Away in county Leitrim.

3142. How long did you stay there?—About a fortnight.

3143. Did you come back to town?—I came back to town, and worked for about nine days, a mile from the town; I got uneasy, and I cut away to Tipperary, to work for Mr. Morris, a builder.

3144. About how long after the election was it that you went to Tipperary?—About five or six weeks, as far as I can guess the time.

3145. Do you remember while you were there getting that letter (handing a letter to the Witness)?—Yes, I got this letter.

3146. Look at that envelope (handing an envelope to the Witness); is that the envelope you got it in?—I could not identify the envelope, but I can the letter.

3147. Was it in an envelope you got it?—Yes, I got it of course in an envelope; I got several letters, but I threw them away, tore them up.

3148. Of course you know your wife's writing?—Oh, I am certain of that.

3149. Do you know the writing on the envelope; just look at it?—I could not say.

3150. Are you able to say whether it is your wife's?—That is not my wife's, certainly.

3151. Do you know whose it is?—I never saw it before to know it, except the once that I received it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

3152. About this last matter first; I understood you to say you got several letters?—Yes.

3153. From your wife?—Yes.

3154. Have you got them?—Yes.

3155. Are they all here?—Oh, no; there was nothing in them but family affairs, nothing concerning this, or anything like it.

3156. Did you get them about the same time you got this?—The same time?

3157. Yes?—I got them both before and after.

3158. How many did you get in the same week that you got that?—I suppose I got two or three.

3159. Do you swear that that is the only one that had reference to this matter?—Yes, I do, that week.

3160. You cannot recognise that envelope?—No, I could not to be clear of it.

3161. Are the other letters in existence still?—Well, I could not say.

3162. But do say?—Well, they are not, I suppose.

3163. Are they in existence; I am asking you a simple question?—They are not.

3164. Then, you destroyed the other letters?—Yes, because they were family matters, and I tore them up on that occasion.

3165. You destroyed them when you got them?—Immediately after I read them.

3166. You kept that?—I lost some of them, and I put this in my working trousers pocket, and that is how it came that I had it.

3167. You kept that, at all events?—I put it in when I read it, in this kind of way, into my pocket, and it remained.

3168. And you kept it?—Yes.

3169. When

3169. When you got that letter, you came to Sligo?—This letter?

3170. Yes?—I did not.

3171. Where did you go when you got that letter?—I remained there.

3172. You came to Sligo after you got this letter?—Yes, but it was not on that letter I came.

3173. I did not ask you whether it was on that letter you came, but you came to Sligo after you got the letter?—Yes.

3174. And you say on the Monday following you saw Major Knox?—That is not the letter I came on.

3175. What was the letter you came on?—It was a letter sent to Lanfarnen, and that was sent to Tipperary.

3176. Where is that letter that brought you to Sligo?—Oh, I have not that.

3177. This is not the letter that brought you to Sligo?—No.

3178. The other was?—Yes.

3179. And you have not that?—No.

3180. When you came to Sligo, you say you saw Major Knox in Mr. Knox's house in the Mall?—Yes.

3181. How often did you see Major Knox in that house?—Once or twice.

3182. Upon your oath, did you ever see him in that house but once?—I did.

3183. You will swear that?—Yes.

3184. Did you go beyond the hall?—Yes, I did.

3185. Where to?—To a room upstairs; I think it is the drawing-room.

3186. You will swear that?—Yes.

3187. Do you know Major Knox's servant?—Yes, I do.

3188. Is it not a fact that, when you came there to the house, Major Knox desired his servant to put you out?—No, but he told me that any time I came, I was to be let in.

3189. I ask you, as a matter of fact, did not Major Knox, when you did go to the hall of his house, desire his servant to put you out?—No, I never could hear the like.

3190. Did anything of the kind occur?—Nothing of the kind.

3191. Who did you see when you went to Major Knox's house?—I saw his maid or house-keeper.

3192. What did you say to her?—I said I was the man the Major ordered my wife to write for.

3193. And you were at once shown up?—No, she called to the Major.

3194. What did she say to him?—"Dunlevy is here"; he was dressing for dinner, and could not see me on that evening; I was to call again.

3195. And you called again?—Yes.

3196. Where did you see him that day?—That evening?

3197. Yes?—I saw him in the hall, and he took me upstairs.

3198. Who saw you when you came that evening to the hall, besides the Major?—Of course he had seen me going in.

3199. Did any one else, besides the maid and the Major, see you that evening?—I could not account.

3200. He told you about the Town Hall and all those matters?—He did, of course.

3201. Did you get the contract for plastering the Town Hall?—No, but I would be glad I would. F. Dunlevy.

3202. Was it before the revision, or after it, or when it was going on, that this sum of 10 l. was given?—When the revision was going on. 20 February 1869.

3203. You went out of the shop when you saw the Major about to speak with your wife?—When I saw that he was going to have something to do with money matters, I withdrew back; still I was near at hand enough to see it.

3204. You did not wish your wife to take money?—I did not.

3205. Did you tell her so in the Major's presence?—I did not; I only shook my hand at her.

3206. You shook your hand at your wife?—Yes.

3207. Why did not you wish your wife to get the money?—Because I never intended to vote for him; I did not want to do it for fear my vote would be broken.

3208. Did you ever ask any one to get money from the Major for you?—Did I ever ask?

3209. Yes; on your oath did you: answer this, did you ever ask the Major to give you some money?—No.

3210. You will swear you never did?—Yes.

3211. You were not in want of money?—Well, I was in want of money, undoubtedly.

3212. And you did not wish your wife to get the money?—No, I was afraid of the law, and I understood it.

3213. How did you know the Major was going to give her the 10 l.?—I saw him put his hand in his pocket; he said he would make matters all right, as she was disappointed in Attorney Pollock.

3214. When she was disappointed you were disappointed?—I do not know about that.

3215. Did you say to the Major, "I will not allow my wife to get this money"?—No such thing.

3216. You shook your hand and went away?—Yes.

3217. Was any one in the shop but the Major and your wife; and you were looking out of the glass door?—I was looking out of the door that was opened.

3218. And you saw everything that passed?—Yes.

3219. The Major took out his pocket-book?—Yes.

3220. Was there much money in it?—I could not account for how much.

3221. Were you near enough to see it?—I was near enough to see it, but I would not stand on my tip-toes to look at it.

3222. Were you anxious to see what passed?—I could see it without being anxious.

3223. You did see it?—Yes.

3224. Were there many notes in his pocket-book?—I could not account for what money is in a man's pocket-book, but I saw the money coming out.

3225. A roll of notes?—Something that way.

3226. Was it a long roll of notes?—Not a very long roll.

3227. Something in that way (illustrating)?—Something in that way.

3228. The Major could not have counted his money?—I could not count it; in this sort of way it might be (illustrating).

I 2

3229. As

F. Dunlevy. 3229. As far as you can judge?—Yes.
 — 3230. As far as you can trust to memory, you 20 February 1869. saw him do like this (illustrating), and when he had done he gave the money to your wife?—
 Yes.
 3231. He said, “Here is 10 l.”?—Yes.
 3232. You could not be mistaken in that?—
 No.
 3233. He did this openly in the height of day, and in the middle of the shop?—Yes; his back was to the door.
 3234. What street do you live in?—On the Mall.
 3235. Was any one else in the shop at the time?—Not one.
 3236. What time in the day was it?—Between one and two o’clock, as far as I can understand.
 3237. And at Galbraith’s house, who did you see but Galbraith?—His boys were there, but I did not know them.
 3238. Who was in the place?—There were some.
 3239. Give me the name of any living man?
 —I could not, for I do not know.
 3240. You are a native of Sligo all your life, and you do not know the name of any one who was in the shop then?—No, not one; several parties were in the shop that I did not know.
 3241. Did you ask Mr. Gillmor, the mayor, (look at this gentleman) to get money for you from Major Knox?—Never.
 3242. You will swear that?—I will.
 3243. Is it not a fact that the attorney employed on Major Knox’s behalf objected to your vote at the revision as strongly as he could?—I could not account for that.
 3244. Did he not?—They only started one or two questions.
 3245. But was it not by Major Knox’s agents that the questions were started?—Of course it
 was.
 3246. Were you not opposed by the agents of Major Knox?—Yes.

MICHAEL JAMES KEIGHRON, sworn; Examined by Mr. O’Loghlin.

M. J. Keighron. 3258. You are a son of Mr. Patrick Keighron, a Magistrate?—Yes.
 3259. Has your father a place of business in Sligo?—He has.
 3260. You know Dunlevy?—Yes.
 3261. You know the house in which Dunlevy lives?—Yes.
 3262. Is your father’s place of business at the other side of the street?—On the same side, immediately below it.
 3263. Do you know Mr. William Woods?—
 I do.
 3264. Do you know Mr. Joseph L. Woods?—
 Yes.
 3265. Dunlevy is a plasterer, I believe?—
 He is.
 3266. Do you recollect, a few days before the election, seeing Mr. William Woods go into Dunlevy’s house?—I do.

JOHN WARD, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

J. Ward. 3273. Do you live in Dublin?—I do.
 — 3274. Do you know Mr. William Hughes?—
 I do.
 3275. Do you know how he is occupied?—He is standing on the landing-stage course, taking postings for the “Irish Times.”

3247. Did they not do as much as they could to break down the vote?—I do not know.
 3248. You say you could not account for it?
 —There were several questions which might have been asked me, which were not.
 3249. Tell me one of them?—They asked certain parties, did not my wife give up my house when I was in Dublin, and they did not bring it forward.
 3250. Who was the gentleman who asked the questions at the revision?—Mr. Sibley.
 3251. He was employed by Major Knox?—
 Yes.
 3252. He started the questions?—Yes; and another thing, I could have got money from
 Mr. — and would not take it.

Re-examined by Mr. Palles.

3253. From whom could you have got that money?—I could have got it from Mr. Stokes; he called me in passing; he said he would do the same with me as with Brian MacMorrow. He said, “I have offered to bribe him with 15 l. not to register his vote, and I will do the same with you.”

Further cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

3254. Where was it Mr. Stokes made that offer you spoke of?—At his own house.
 3255. What month was that in?—It was in the week of the revision.
 3256. Before the revision?—While the revision was going on.
 3257. Who was present when he made you the offer?—There was none. He brought me in a bit just.

[The Witness withdrew.]

(A short adjournment took place.)

3267. About how many days before the election was that, as well as you can recollect?—
 About four or five days before the election.
 3268. Was that Mr. William Woods, the father?—The father.
 3269. About what time of the day did you see him going in?—It was early in the day, I think.
 3270. You say you know Mr. Joseph L.
 Woods?—Yes.
 3271. Did you, before the election, see Mr.
 Joseph L. Woods go into Dunlevy’s house?—
 I did.
 3272. How many days about, before the election?—I think one or two days before the election.

[The Witness withdrew.]

3276. Advertisements for the “Irish Times”?
 —Yes.
 3277. Is he a canvasser for the “Irish Times”?
 —He is.
 3278. Mr. Justice Keogh.] For advertisements?—For advertisements.

3279. Mr.

3279. Mr. Waters.] Do you know his handwriting?—Yes.

3280. Is that his handwriting to those bills (handing some bills to Witness)?—Yes, to the best of my belief that is his handwriting.—(The bills were handed in.)

Cross-examined by Dr. Kaye.

3281. Do you know this Mr. Hughes?—I know him well; I saw him in court, at least coming up to the court. J. Ward.

3282. You know as a matter of fact that he is a notary's clerk to some of the banks in Dublin?—He may be that after his time for what I know; I believe he is from what I know myself. 20 February 1869.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MICHAEL O'HARD, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loughlin.

3283. ARE you a voter for the Borough of Sligo?—I am.

3284. Do you recollect the time of the revision?—I do.

3285. Were you then upon the list of claimants?—I was not.

3286. Upon what list were you?—I was on the list of claimants, but my vote was not passed.

3287. Do you know Mr. Stokes?—I do.

3288. Had you any conversation with Mr. Stokes about registering your vote?—No.

3289. Had you with anybody?—Nobody but one.

3290. Who was that one?—That was Mr. Petrie.

3291. Is that Mr. William Petrie?—Yes.

3292. Is that the gentleman there?—It is.

3293. What conversation had you with William Petrie about the registration?—I had no conversation at all with him, only a week or fortnight before the time; he told me if I would not register my vote he would befriend me, and he was a good friend to me long, with all.

3294. Did he tell you how he would befriend you?—Well, he told me he would get me 25 l. after the revision would be over.

3295. Who told you that?—Mr. Petrie.

3296. Did you abstain from registering your vote; did you go away?—I did not go away; I went to the court-house for two days and waited the two days, Wednesday and Thursday I waited, and I got so much excited that I said I would never go back again to be registered.

3297. I believe you did not go back?—I did not.

3298. Did you happen to leave Sligo?—I did, on my own business.

3299. Where did you go?—I went first and foremost to the quay at Sligo to ship sheep, and I went, secondly, up before my sheep to Ballymora, no farther.

3300. How long did you stay away?—From 11 o'clock till half-past 9 or 10 o'clock.

3301. Until the court was closed?—No, until the train came back.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

3302. Who was present when Petrie spoke to you?—No one.

3303. Where was it?—In my own house.

3304. And no one was present?—No.

3305. This was when the revision was going on?—It was not; it was before, and they had no occasion to bring me here at all; right or wrong, it has hindered me 20 l. in money.

3306. You voted for Captain Flanagan?—I did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MICHAEL MULLAGAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loughlin.

3307. ARE you an elector of the Borough of Sligo?—Yes.

3308. Do you know Mr. Stephen M. Cherry?—Well, I did know him when I had sight.

3309. Do you know his voice?—I think I would.

3310. Had you any conversation with Mr. Cherry prior to the election?—I had a little; I had some conversation.

3311. Will you tell his Lordship what the conversation was that you had with him, the first conversation; do you know where he lives in Castle-street?—I do.

3312. Do you recollect being in Castle-street?—I was.

3313. Do you recollect standing on Mr. Cherry's door?—I do; I was one night going over street in Castle-street, and I was talking to a boy of his at the door; he is a boy grown grey that was reared in my own neighbourhood.

3314. Did Mr. Cherry come to you at the door?—He did.

3315. Did he talk to you there?—I do not know whether it was out of the house, or across the street.

85.

3316. Had you a conversation with him?—He bade me good-night, and asked how I was.

3317. Will you tell his Lordship what conversation passed between you?—He asked me into the shop; he asked me, had I not a vote. I said yes, I believed so; we then went into the shop; he asked me if I wanted a hat, or a handkerchief, or something like that, to buy it; I said I did not mind.

3318. You said what?—That I did not at present.

3319. What else did he say to you?—He began to talk then, and we had some talk; he told me he would like to befriend me.

3320. Now you are on your oath?—I will tell the truth. He asked me if I would be inclined to—

3321. To what?—To leave the road.

3322. When?—A few days, that he would do something for me.

3323. What would he do for you?—He did not mention it at that time.

3324. Did anything else pass between you?—I told him I would make up my mind in a few days.

I 3

3325. How

M. Mullagan.

M.
Mullagan.
20 February
1869.

3325. How long before the election was that? —I think a week or something more; something about a week.

3326. Did you tell him on that occasion that you had promised Mr. Flanagan to vote for him? —Not at that time.

3327. Did you on any occasion?—Then I went home, and I promised to come in a few days again and make up my mind.

3328. Promised whom?—Promised Mr. Cherry, and in the day I promised I did not come that night.

3329. You did not come back to Mr. Cherry the day you promised?—I did not come back the night I promised.

3330. Do you know Mr. Cherry's shopman, the man who is in the shop?—I do not know.

3331. Did any one come to your house with a message to you?—There did, the night after I promised to go.

3332. Who was that?—I do not know.

3333. In consequence of that message did you go back to Mr. Cherry?—I did that night.

3334. What passed between you and Mr. Cherry on that second occasion?—We went upstairs, I think, to the ware-room.

3335. Upstairs in Mr. Cherry's house?—Yes.

3336. Was there any one in the room with you and Mr. Cherry?—I do not suppose there was.

3337. But at all events you heard no one there, to your knowledge?—Not to my knowledge.

3338. Tell me what passed between you and Mr. Cherry?—Well, he told me that if I would go he would serve me.

3339. If you would go?—Yes, if I would leave the town until the election would be over; of course, I must tell the truth.

3340. Was it on that occasion that he told you that if you would leave the town till the election would be over he would serve you?—Well, I understood it was.

3341. Did you then upon that occasion say to Mr. Cherry that you had promised to vote for Captain Flanagan?—Not until the conversation went on a little farther.

3342. Was that the whole conversation that occurred?—We talked over some difficulty in getting money. Major Knox passed my door several times and never asked for my vote; I am a poor person; I never like to break my word if I make a promise, and Major Knox never asked me for my vote, "Well, then," said he, "you will get thirty thanks." That is all.

3343. If you did what?—If I left the town till such time as the election was over.

3344. Did anything else occur between you and Mr. Cherry on that occasion?—Well, he appointed Longford.

3345. Where were you to go?—To Longford.

3346. Did he tell you where to in Longford you were to go?—He did not; he did not remark any particular place, but there would be some person there to meet me.

3347. Did anything pass between you and him as to your expenses?—Yes; he told me I would get some money to bear my expenses.

3348. Did he say who would bear your expenses?—He told me if I would send my little boy to him with a bit of a note——

3349. To whom?—To himself.

3350. Mr. Cherry?—Yes.

3351. What would he do?—That he would give me some money to bear my expenses.

3352. What day was this before the election? —I think it was two, three, or four days.

3353. Mr. Justice Keogh.] How many days before the election?—I am not very sure; I think it was three or four days or more; a few days before the election; I did not think it would have come to this or I would have kept it in mind.

3354. Did you ever tell it to anybody?—No, not to my recollection.

3355. Not until to-day?—No; I did not think it would come to this.

Cross-examined by Dr. Kaye.

3356. You voted for Flanagan?—I did.

3357. You did not agree to accept thirty thanks or whatever it was?—No, I did not; I told him I would not agree to go. He asked me this, would he put down my name to go.

3358. You did not accept his offer?—I told him then I would consult with the wife, and I went home then.

3359. Do not tell us what passed between you and your wife?—I did not return from that forth.

3360. You did not send the boy the next morning?—No, I did not; I would not take it because I made a promise to Captain Flanagan, and I would not break my word.

[The Witness withdrew.]

DOMINICK KILCULLEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

D.
Kilcullen.

3361. ARE you a voter for the Borough of Sligo?—I am.

3362. I may as well come short at it; have you a letter in your pocket?—I have.

3363. Out with it?—

[The Witness produced the following Letter, addressed to Dominick Kilcullen, Esq., Sligo:—]

"53, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin,
"January 25th, 1868.

"Dear Sir,

"WOULD you kindly let me know what appointment your son would wish to have, as I will do my best to obtain it for him, and it will afford me pleasure to further your wishes regarding him.

"I remain, dear Sir,

"Yours faithfully,

"Lawrence E. Knox."

"Dominick Kilcullen, Esq."

3364. You voted at the last election, I suppose?—I did.

3365. Who did you vote for?—Captain Flanagan.

3366. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Brennan?—I do.

3367. Had you any conversation with Thomas Brennan about Major Knox?—In 1867, I think.

3368. It began in 1867?—Yes, he sent for me one night to my own house; my own son and I came across the fields to him, and I met him in the Mail Coach-road, and he brought me up Carne, and we came down in Carne, and he said he had to call at Paddy Mahon's; he had been to Mahon's and employed Mahon's cars; he had given him 5 l., five 1 l. notes to Patrick Mahon, and he wanted me to take one of them, and he said it was as an agent of Major Knox.

3369. What did he give the 5 l. for?—For retaining the cars as Major Knox's agent. He was thinking thinking of getting Colonel Tennyson's property at the time. That is what he told me himself.

3370. Did you see Brennan after that?—I did.

3371. Did you see any money with him?—In January 1868 he wrote to Major Knox and got money.

3372. Did you see any money with him?—I saw him pay money in Martin Mulligan's house.

3373. How much did you see him pay in Mulligan's house?—He paid 17 men a half-sovereign a man; that was 8 l. 10 s.

3374. Was there a man of the name of Flynn among them?—Flynn was not in.

3375. Will you mention to his Lordship the name of any voter you know?—Ne'er a one but myself and Mulligan in the whole of the house.

3376. You said something about Brennan having told you he had written to Major Knox?—He told me he had written for money.

3377. And did he say he had got any reply from Major Knox to that letter?—Only that he had got money and paid it in in January 1868.

3378. I suppose you are in the habit of seeing Brennan constantly?—Sometimes I used to get tobacco every day when I came from the market.

3379. On any other occasion did anything pass between you and Brennan about money besides what you have told us?—He said he would get me a good share of money to go away to befriend Major Knox as well as I could, and that he would like to help me, being a man that he knew.

3380. Did he say anything to you, or you to him, about a situation for your son?—Not a word ever till he proposed it first himself, and said Major Knox would get it for me.

3381. What was the proposal he made about your son?—He went to Dublin about that time, and he came down and told me that Major Knox would get a situation for my son.

3382. What were you to do for his getting a situation for your son?—Not a ha'porth that I know of in all the world.

3383. What were you to get for going away?—There was no talk of going away at that time—long before the election.

3384. When was it that you had the conversation about going away?—The whole summer round we had the conversation about it.

3385. It began early?—Yes.

3386. Major Knox was a long while canvassing in the field before the vacancy?—He was not; I never saw the gentleman canvassing, only one evening.

3387. Did you get that letter (handing a letter to Witness)?—I am no scholar; but I got that letter, and held it in my possession since till I gave it to Mr. Muloney.

3388. Mr. McDonogh.] Can you read and write?—No.

Major Knox admitted the handwriting.

The letter was put in.

3389. Mr. Coffey.] Did Brennan tell you he had been in Dublin speaking to Major Knox about your son?—He told me he was in Dublin, and that Major Knox would get a situation for my son.

3390. Had you received at that time any money from Brennan?—No.

3391. Then the letter was the first transaction?—No; I got money before the letter.

3392. How soon before you got the letter did you get any money?—In the same month, 85.

I think, I got half-a-sovereign, and my son another.

3393. From Brennan?—From Brennan.

3394. Who did Brennan tell you that money belonged to?—He did not tell me it was Major Knox's.

3395. What did he give you the money for?—To assist him as well as we could.

3396. In what?—In the election that was coming.

3397. In whose election that was coming?—In Major Knox's.

3398. Why do you not say so like a man?—So I have.

3399. You got half-a-sovereign yourself, and your son half-a-sovereign?—Yes.

3400. After that Brennan went up to Dublin?—After he came down; I got this money down by letter.

3401. Did you not tell me a minute ago that before you got that letter, you got money from Brennan?—I did, in January; the letter came in the same month.

3402. You got money before?—I got half-a-sovereign, and my son got another half-a-sovereign.

3403. After that Brennan went to Dublin?—No, it was before that; at the time he paid Mahon the car-hire he came to Dublin.

3404. But were you at that time a voter on the roll?—After several remonstrations like, I got on.

3405. Did Brennan tell you what inducement he gave to Major Knox for him to get a situation for your son?—He did not say a word, but that Major Knox would get it.

3406. For your son?—Yes.

3407. How soon after that letter was gone did you get the money?—I got it before I got that letter.

3408. Do you recollect the regatta having occurred?—Yes, I do.

3409. Did you get any letter from Brennan?—Yes, I did.

3410. To whom was the letter addressed?—To Major Knox.

3411. And did you know what was in the letter?—No, I did not.

3412. What conversation had you with Brennan about giving the letter to Major Knox?—He said he would send me over myself to see him.

3413. For what purpose?—To thank him for getting a situation for my son.

3414. And he gave you a letter?—He did.

3415. And did you bring it to Major Knox?—I did.

3416. Did Major Knox read it?—He did, I suppose.

3417. Did you not hand it to him?—I did not; it was his girl that brought it into the room to him.

3418. And came out again?—Mr. Hunt was in the room before that.

3419. She brought it in?—She brought it in after Mr. Hunt left the room.

3420. What Hunt is that?—Mr. Michael Hunt, of Market-street, or High-street.

3421. What did he say to you when she brought it in?—He asked me if I was a friend of Brennan's, as he had spoken well of me. I was not a drop of blood akin to him. Major Knox asked me what he could do for me. I said, I did not want his Honour to do anything for me.

3422. That is what brought you there?—I told him I did not want his Honour; but I thanked

D. Kilcullen.

20 February 1869.

D. Kilcullen. thanked him for his kindness; he is here himself.
 20 February 1869. 3423. What did he say to that?—We had many words; I thanked him.

3424. Did you, upon your oath, get any more money from Brennan?—I did, of course.

3425. What did you get; cannot you tell me?—I went back again; Brennan came for me then.

3426. I am speaking after the regatta?—This is after the regatta, and when I got the letter was after the regatta.

3427. Go on, and tell us?—Brennan came for me, and brought me from my own house across the river, and we went out to the Mall Fields and into Mr. Knox's. I did not go in at all, but stopped outside. He stopped a considerable time in Mr. Knox's house in the Mall, and when he came out he said he had got no money, and would come away home. The next night he called for me again, and we went over again, and he was a good while with Major Knox inside. I was at the Model School gate. He came to me, and said he had got money; he did not say what sum, or what anything. After that, he went to my house, and threw me 25 l. on my own plat, my own field, and paid 17 men a 1 l. a man.

3428. Tell me the 17 men he paid?—There were only two voters, myself and Mulligan also; he threw 2 l. to Pat; he threw 25 l. to me.

3429. Did Brennan say what he got that money for?—I asked him the question.

3430. What did he say?—He said for my loss of time, not one word about my vote.

Mr. Brennan called:

Witness. That is the man; he said it was for my son's loss of time, and for my own, that Major Knox sent me that.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

3431. For whom did you vote?—I voted for Flanagan.

3432. You had always intended to vote for Flanagan, I suppose?—I do not say, but I surely intended to vote for him; I am on my oath.

3433. You had all along determined?—Yes; but at the same time when the election started with Major Knox, there was no talk of Captain Flanagan; it was Captain Armstrong.

3434. When did you get on the register?—After Serjeant Armstrong's election.

3435. Then you were placed on the register for the first time?—Just so.

3436. These men that Brennan gave the money to, a half-a-sovereign a man, were they for the purpose of protecting in the revision, shouting in the streets, and cheering?—I believe they were non-electors, except myself and Mulligan.

3437. And I believe that was the employment of those men; they were employed to go about at the revision to cheer and assist the people, and make themselves useful?—I believe so.

3438. A sort of little mob; a very small mob of 17. Was not the 25 l. to be distributed also for the loss of time of those people?—No; it was given to myself by Brennan for my own loss of time, and my son's.

3439. And you really had lost time?—I often lost more, but I lost a good deal of time with him; he is here in court.

3440. You had done service?—I did not do any if I did not vote.

3441. I was not speaking of a vote; did Major Knox never ask you for your vote?—Never in his life.

3442. But you applied to him as a generous, kind-hearted man, to get a situation for your son?—No, never in my life; Brennan did it.

3443. And he wrote you that courteous letter which has just been read?—Yes.

3444. And it was to thank him for that?—Yes.

3445. And you never dreamed to sell your vote for money?—I never did, though Brennan told me I would get another 100 l., and the other 50 l. At the same time, I had a notion of voting for Major Knox, when Serjeant Armstrong was in the field; a fellow might take a queer turn in 24 hours.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARTIN MULLIGAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Falles.

M. Mulligan. 3446. ARE you an elector of the Borough of Sligo?—Yes.

3447. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Brennan?—Yes.

3448. Did you get any money from him prior to the last election?—Yes.

3449. On more occasions than one?—I did.

3450. When first did you get money from him?—In January 1868.

3451. How much did you get?—Half-a-sovereign.

3452. Were other people present at the time that you got it, and did they get half-a-sovereign also?—Yes.

3453. Do you remember the names of any of these people?—I do.

3454. Was Kilcullen one?—Yes.

3455. Was Flynn another?—No.

3456. You got 10 s. on that occasion?—I did.

3457. Did Brennan tell you what you got that for?—For to assist the election.

3458. You knew at that time that Major Knox was going to stand at that election?—I did.

3459. When was the next time you got money?—I think it was in July; the latter end of July.

3460. You remember the regatta?—Yes.

3461. Was it before or after the regatta?—It was before.

3462. How much did you get then?—A pound.

3463. Were any others present when you got it, and did they get the pound also?—They did.

3464. How many?—It was 17.

3465. Can you tell me the names of any of them?—Kilcullen was one; he was the only one voter.

3466. He and you were the only two voters?—Yes.

3467. Was that the time that Kilcullen got the 25 l.?—No.

3468. How was that 1 l. given to you; was it given into your hand?—No.

3469. How was it?—He took it out of his pocket-book and threw it on the plat where he stood; stood; he told me he could not give it into my hand, as he was an agent of Major Knox.

3470. And you took up the 1*l*.?—Yes.

3471. Did you see him throw down another 1*l*., or Kilcullen pick it up?—No, I did not see Kilcullen's 1*l*.

3472. Did you see the other men get their 1*l*. a piece?—I did.

3473. Did you get any other money from Brennan after that?—I did.

3474. When?—I could not say in what month.

3475. Was it before or after the revision?—It was after.

3476. Was any person present when you got it?—James Gray.

3477. How much did you get?—I got 3*l*. from James Gray.

3478. Was Brennan by you when you got it?—No, he was not.

3479. What did you get that 3*l*. for?—Of course it was for voting.

3480. Before you got that 3*l*., had Brennan told you he would send you money, or give you money?—He told me he would give me money.

3481. When did he tell you that?—After the election would be over.

3482. When was it he told you he would give it to you?—I think it was in August.

3483. What was it he said to you, and how much did he say he would give you?—£.40.

3484. After the election was over?—Yes.

3485. For your vote?—Yes.

3486. Was anyone present when he told you that?—There was.

3487. Who was?—Gray and Kilcullen were present.

3488. Did you get any money on any other occasion from anyone?—I did.

3489. When?—Well, I cannot say in what month.

3490. Was it after the 3*l*.; you see you have already told me of 10*s*., 1*l*., and 3*l*.?—I got 9*s*. another time.

3491. Who did you get it from?—From Brennan.

3492. For what?—I do not know for what purpose.

3493. Did any other person get it?—Gray got 10*s*.

3494. You only got 9*s*.?—Yes.

3495. That makes 5*l*.; did you get money on any other occasion?—I disremember; I am sure I got more money, but I disremember at what time.

3496. I do not mind the time; did you get any other money from Brennan?—Yes; I never got any money but what I got from him.

3497. How much money did you get from him?—I think I got 6*l*. just.

3498. Do you know a man of the name of Doherty?—I do.

3499. Did you not get money from him?—No, no money.

3500. Nor a promise of money?—No.

3501. Had you any conversation with Doherty about getting money from him?—I was by at the time Doherty paid money.

3502. To whom?—Gray.

3503. How much money did Doherty pay Gray?—£.3.

3504. Did you hear Doherty tell Gray what that 3*l*. was for?—He told him it was for the men.

3505. Did you get any part of that 3*l*. from Gray?—I did.

3506. How much?—Five shillings; three at one time and two at another time.

3507. Was that long before the election?—I think it was in June.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

3508. You were part of Knox's mob at the time you got these moneys?—I was with Mr. Knox.

3509. Were you not one of the 17 or 19 men that were Knox's mob at that time in June?—Yes.

3510. Were not you one of Knox's mob up to the time of the revision?—No, I was not.

3511. Will you swear you were not?—I will; I never met Mr. Knox.

3512. Did I say a word about meeting him. What did you get these sums of money for; what services were you rendering when you got this 10*s*. and the 1*l*.?—Of course it was for my vote.

3513. Who told you it was for your vote?—Brennan.

3514. What did he tell you?—He told me I would get 40*l*. if I would go to Dublin and not vote at all.

3515. The 19 men; some of them were non-electors; all of them but two?—Yes.

3516. And you and they all got some sums of money?—I do not know that.

3517. Do you not know that the money was equally divided among them all?—The 17*l*.?

3518. Yes?—Well, it was. I do not think it was. I disremember.

3519. Will you swear it was not?—No.

3520. Who was it divided the money?—Brennan.

3521. Were the whole of you by when the money was divided?—We were.

3522. Who did you vote for?—I voted for Captain Flanagan.

3523. Did you ever ask for this 40*l*. from Brennan?—Never.

3524. Although he said he would give it to you?—Never.

3525. You did not agree to take the money from Brennan at any time?—I never told him I would take it.

3526. You never wished to take it?—But it is a great temptation.

3527. You did not agree to take it?—I never said I would not take it.

3528. You never asked him for it afterwards?—Never.

[The Witness withdrew.]

DANIEL BUCKLEY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

3529. WERE you in the employment of Major Knox, of the "Irish Times"?—Yes.

3530. What position did you hold there?—Assistant editor.

85.

3531. When did you leave it; from what date to what date were you there?—From the 7th of September to the 5th of December.

3532. Was that 1868?—1868.

M.
Mulligan.

20 February
1869.

D. Buckley.

D. Buckley.
20 February
1869.

3533. During that time were you daily at the office?—Yes.

3534. Did you know Thomas Brennan, of Sligo?—Yes.

3535. Is he here?—Yes, I have seen him here.

3536. Did you see him frequently at the “Irish Times” office coming to Major Knox?—Yes.

3537. On the occasions that he came to the “Times” office, where did he usually see Major Knox?—In his private office. He did not always see him when he came. He sometimes did not succeed in seeing him.

3538. But he came there frequently?—He came frequently, and saw him frequently.

3539. Did you know any other Sligo man in the “Irish Times” office?—Yes, I knew a Mr. McGoldrick there.

3540. What is his name?—James McGoldrick.

3541. When did he come to the “Irish Times” office?—I do not know; he was there before I went there.

3542. What was his occupation there when you came?—I could not tell you; I do not think he was doing any duties; any tangible duties.

3543. Did you see him?—I saw him there copying lists.

3544. Do you know who he was paid by?—No.

3545. Did you ever see anybody else there. Do you know young Pettitt?—Yes.

3546. Was he in the “Irish Times” office?—He was.

3547. What was he doing there?—I could not tell you.

3548. Had he any position that you can name?—I think he was collecting printers’ accounts, or something of that kind.

3549. How long was he there?—He was there before I went there.

3550. Do you know Mr. Hartford?—Yes.

3551. Was he in the “Irish Times” office?—Yes.

3552. Is he also a Sligo man?—Yes.

3553. What was his occupation?—Something like McGoldrick’s; he was keeping some accounts.

3554. Are you able to say what salaries they were paid?—No, I cannot say.

3555. Do you know a man of the name of Feeny?—No.

3556. Do you know of any money being paid to any of those men?—Oh, yes; I knew Mr. McGoldrick’s to be paid on Saturdays.

3557. That is his regular wage?—Yes.

3558. Do you know if young Pettitt was engaged in any other way than in the work of the office while he was there?—No, I do not.

3559. Do you know of his going away from his office to any place?—McGoldrick went away.

3560. Why was that?—He went to get lessons from a teacher to prepare for the Civil Service.

3561. Do you know who was that teacher?—His name was Coates.

3562. Was he preparing for an examination?—He was.

3563. Do you know who paid Mr. Coates for his teaching?—He told me Major Knox paid him; I saw him paid money by Major Knox.

3564. In the office?—In the office.

3565. Do you know John Pettitt?—Yes.

3566. That is the father of young Pettitt?—Yes.

3567. Do you recollect seeing him a few days before the election?—I do.

3568. Where?—In the “Irish Times” office.

3569. What was he doing there?—He came there several days inquiring whether any instructions had come from Major Knox to him from Sligo.

3570. Anything about a telegram?—He was disappointed that no instructions had come; he sent a telegram to Major Knox; he wrote a telegram. I suggested to him to telegraph, as he said there was not sufficient time to reply to a letter; I suggested that he would telegraph, and he wrote out a telegram, but it was very long, and I wrote a short one for him, and he approved of the one that I wrote, and he said he would send that.

3571. To whom was that telegram sent?—To Major Knox; I could tell you the words I wrote.

3572. After the election, did you see Thomas Brennan in the office?—I did.

3573. When?—I think about a week after the election or some days after the election.

3574. How frequently did you see him in the office after the election was over?—Oh, I suppose five or six times.

3575. During what intervals, as well as you can recollect, from the first time to the last time, have you seen Brennan at the office after the election was over?—They were always in the same week; I should say within one week.

3576. Had he interviews with Major Knox during that time?—No; I could not say he had.

Cross-examined by Dr. Kaye.

3577. You say that Brennan saw Major Knox in his private office?—Yes.

3578. Is not that the office where he usually receives visitors that come?—Yes, those that come on private business; he sees the others in the outer office.

3579. Any gentleman that comes?—No, not every gentleman; he would see several in the outer office.

3580. Were not you dismissed from the “Irish Times” office?—I was; they told me they did not want me.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN PETTITT, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

J. Pettitt.

3581. You are an Elector of the Borough of Sligo?—I am.

3582. You voted at the last election?—I did.

3583. And you voted for Major Knox?—I did.

3584. You have been living in Dublin before that?—Yes.

3585. Before you went down to the election, did you call at the “Irish Times” office?—No.

3586. Never?—No.

3587. You saw that last witness?—Oh, I beg your pardon; I often called at the “Irish Times” office.

3588. Did you call at the “Irish Times” office office a few days before the election and see Buckley, the last witness?—No.

3589. Never?—Never.

3590. Had you ever any conversation with him about a telegram?—No.

3591. Did you ever write a telegram, and show it to Mr. Buckley to see whether it would do or not; did you ever write out a draft of a telegram, and show it to Buckley that Buckley might approve of it?—Yes.

3592. Did Buckley approve of it?—I do not know, indeed.

3593. Did he alter it?—I do not know, indeed.

3594. Under what circumstances did you bring that telegram to Buckley?—I really don't recollect anything about it; I recollect writing a telegram, but I do not recollect the circumstances.

3595. Whom was that telegram to?—It was to Major Knox.

3596. How long before the election was that?—I think it was about four days.

3597. Did you write that in the "Irish Times" office?—I did.

3598. Why did you go to the "Irish Times" office?—Why did I go there?

3599. Yes?—Why, I go there mostly every day.

3600. Why did you go to the "Irish Times" office on that occasion?—Indeed I do not recollect why I went there.

3601. Did you expect a message from Major Knox?—I did.

3602. Were you disappointed at not getting that message?—I was.

3603. What message did you expect?—To say whether I was to go down or not.

3604. And you were disappointed at not getting the message from Major Knox, saying whether you were to go down or not?—Yes.

3605. Did you write to Major Knox to know whether you were to go down or not?—No.

3606. Why not, when you had four days before the election?—Why did not I?

3607. Yes?—I did not write to him.

3608. Why did not you, if you had four days before the election, and were disappointed at not getting the message?—I did not write to him.

3609. I ask you why you did not?—I could not say.

3610. Did you send a telegram to him?—I did.

3611. What was in that telegram?

Mr. Macdonogh objected to the question.

3612. Did you send a telegram to Major Knox himself?—I did.

3613. Did you get an answer to it?—I did.

3614. Where is that answer?—Indeed, I do not know; I have not it.

3615. What have you done with it?—I could not tell you; I suppose I destroyed it.

3616. You could not say whether you did or not?—I could not indeed.

3617. You destroyed it?—Yes.

3618. What was in the telegram that the Major sent to you?—I could not tell you; I could tell you this much, that he asked me to come down at once.

3619. And you did go down at once?—I went down upon Sunday morning.

3620. Do you know a man of the name of Francis Quin?—I do well; he is a friend of my own.

3621. How much did it cost you to go down to Sligo?—My fare was 11s. 2d., and 11s. 2d. Quin's.

3622. Did you pay Quin's expenses?—I did.

3623. Is Quin a voter?—He is.

3624. Did you pay your own expenses back?—Yes.

3625. Did you pay Quin's back?—No.

3626. Who paid Quin's expenses back?—He paid himself, I believe.

3627. How long were you in the town of Sligo for the purpose of voting?—I left Sligo the day of the declaration.

3628. Were you under any expense at Sligo?—Not at all; my own house and family are there.

3629. Was Quin with you in the "Irish Times" office?—No.

3630. At any time?—No.

3631. Did you ever ask Major Knox to pay your expenses to go down to Sligo?—No.

3632. Do you ever expect to be paid?—Never.

3633. Why were you anxious to get the telegram from him?—I told you that already; to know whether I was to go down.

3634. Were you ever repaid that money you paid for Quin going down?—Never.

3635. Do you expect to be paid?—Indeed I do not.

3636. You paid it out of your own money; merely out of love for Major Knox?—Indeed it was not.

3637. For what did you pay it?—My principles; and I would do the same thing to-morrow, if you wish to know that.

3638. Did you get money from Mr. Ethelred Knox at any time?—Never.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

3639. Did you vote in accordance with your principles?—I did.

3640. Have you ever voted on the same side at all times?—I believe I need not tell Mr. Macdonogh, for I think you ought to know yourself that those are my principles.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS LEONARD, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

3641. You live in Sligo, I believe?—Yes.

3642. Do you know a person of the name of Thomas Brennan?—Yes.

3643. That is the man who was here to-day?—Yes.

3644. Did you ever get any money from Thomas Brennan?—I did.

3645. When first did you get money from 85.

Thomas Brennan?—On a Saturday night; I got half-a-sovereign from him.

3646. When?—One Saturday night; I do not remember the month it was in—

Mr. Justice Keogh.] This man is not a voter?

Mr. O'Loghlin.] No.

T. Leonard.

T. Leonard.
20 February
1869.

3647. About how long ago was it?—I think about July.

3648. Do you know a man of the name of Henry?—I do; he is a brother-in-law of mine, John Henry.

3649. And he is a voter?—He is.

3650. And he lives in Pound-street?—He does.

3651. Did you at any time get any other money from Brennan?—I did.

3652. When?—I got a sovereign from him in Boheen-lane; something like the 2nd of October, I think.

3653. Did you get any more money from him?—I did.

3654. What?—I got 3s. one time in Mr. Taylor's lane.

3655. Do you know Clevera?—Yes.

3656. Do you recollect being in Clevera?—I do.

3657. Was anyone with you in Clevera?—There was.

3658. Who was with you in Clevera?—Dominick Kilcullen, James Gray, Patrick Scanlan, and Patrick McGoldrick.

3659. What did you do there?—I was sent down to Mr. Knox's house by Thomas Brennan to have some money to pay the men that night.

3660. Did you see Thomas Brennan?—Yes.

3661. Did you see him pay money?—Not that night.

3662. When next did you see him paying money?—The day after.

3663. To whom did you see him paying it?—I saw him paying it to Gray, Hurly, Cone, and myself.

3664. Did you ever meet Major Knox at Clevera?—Never.

3665. Do you recollect a short time before the election seeing Major Knox?—I have seen him several times before the election.

3666. Do you know Mr. Leech's?—Yes.

3667. Were you at Leech's house?—Frequently.

3668. Was Major Knox there at the time?—I never went there but when he was there.

3669. Do you recollect the Saturday before the election?—Yes.

3670. Did Major Knox give you any money?—He did.

3671. How much did he give you on that day?—£. 7.

3672. That was on Saturday?—Yes; no, not on Saturday. I beg your pardon; he gave me 2 l., not on Saturday.

3673. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who did?—Major Knox.

3674. Mr. O'Loughlin.] Where did he give you that money?—In Leech's parlour, or drawing-room.

3675. Mr. Justice Keogh.] On what Saturday?—I do not recollect the day of the month.

3676. Mr. O'Loughlin.] Was it the Saturday before the election?—No, Saturday, the week before that.

3677. The Saturday before that?—Yes.

3678. Do you recollect the day of the nomination?—I do, well.

3679. Do you recollect the evening before the election?—I do, very well.

3680. Was your brother-in-law Henry engaged at any place that day?—He was, at Mrs. Hall's.

3681. What was your brother-in-law doing at

Mrs. Hall's?—I do not rightly know what he was doing, but he was there at all events.

3682. Did you on that day see Major Knox?—I did on the evening of that day.

3683. This is the Monday evening?—Yes.

3684. Had you any conversation with Major Knox?—Yes, I had.

3685. Was it respecting your brother-in-law, Henry?—Yes.

3686. What conversation had you with him?—He asked me was John Henry housed, and I told him he was, and that his wife came from Mrs. Hall's and brought him from it.

3687. From Mrs. Hall's?—Yes; and "She is a very cross woman, I am told," said Major Knox; "She is," said I. "Well, what is the best way to come about her, to get them housed again?" "I don't know, your honour," said I, "what we will do with them; but I think some money is best given." With that he gave me 2 l. for my own trouble, and gave me 5 l. to give John Henry, to give his wife, and that that would be nothing out of what he was to give him for his vote.

3688. Was that a single note?—It was.

3689. A 5 l. note?—Yes.

3690. Had you any other conversation with him on that evening?—I had. He told me that was nothing out of what he promised him; he sent him two letters from Dublin; he wrote off to get him a pension which he knew himself he would do his work for him.

3691. What did he tell you do with that 5 l. note?—He told me to give it to John Henry to give to his wife.

3692. For John Henry?—Yes.

3693. I believe you did not do it?—I did not.

3694. Did you get drunk that night?—Well, not too drunk; I drank something.

3695. Do you know Mr. Donovan, the pawnbroker?—I do, well.

3696. Has he a pawn office, or a branch pawn office in Old Market-street?—He has.

3697. Did you take that 5 l. note to that pawn office?—Yes.

3698. Did you give that 5 l. note to a person in the pawn office?—I gave it to Mr. Donovan's clerk, Martin Kelly.

3699. Had you at that time anything in pawn?—I had.

3700. On the evening before the election, did Mr. Donovan's clerk give you any money?—He gave me 7 s. 6 d.

3701. Did you leave that 5 l. note with him?—Yes.

3702. On the following day; the day of the nomination?—I got 3s. 19s. and something, I think.

3703. Did you release the things that were in pawn?—Yes, a watch, a coat, and a vest.

3704. Did you release these things out of the money you got from Major Knox, and that you were to have given to Henry?—I did.

3705. Did you happen to know what bank-note that was; do you know whether it was an Ulster or a Bank of Ireland note?—To the best of my opinion it was an Ulster bank note, I think.

3706. Was there any writing on the back of that note?—There was.

3707. What was written on the back?—I showed it to a party on the way, and he told me.

3708. Mr. Macdonogh.] You cannot read?—I cannot.

3709. Mr. O'Loughlin.] I just want to know whether whether there was any writing on the back?—There was.

3710. Did you go to Henry?—I did.

3711. Did you tell him that you were sent to him by Major Knox?—I did.

3712. Do you know Mr. Morrison?—I do, well; I have seen him; he is there.

3713. What did you say to Henry with reference to what Major Knox had said to you?—He told him to vote for him, and that he wrote off to the War Office or Chelsea Hospital to get him a pension. I asked him if he got a letter from Major Knox the day before that; he said not. “Did you get any letter from him?” He said, “I got two, and it was nothing concerning the pension.”

3714. Mr. Robinson.] When did you tell this story first?—After the election; a couple of days after.

3715. Mr. O’Loghlin.] Do you know a man of the name of Feeny?—Canteen?

3716. Yes?—I do.

3717. Do you know a man of the name of Price?—Yes, I do, well. He was a man of Brennan’s.

3718. Did you on any occasion hear Mr. Brennan tell Price to go to Feeny?—I did.

3719. Did you see Price, when he got that message, going to Feeny?—I saw him going and coming back?

3720. Can you say what day that was?—I cannot.

3721. During the time that you were in and out of the house in Castle-street, did you see the people which were there?—Which house was that?

3722. Leech’s house?—I saw several parties there.

3723. Did you see Mr. Cherry there?—I saw him once.

3724. Did you see Mr. Gilmore?—Yes.

3725. Did you see Mr. Woods?—I did.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] In whose house?—

Mr. O’Loghlin.] In Major Knox’s house.

3726. Did you see Mr. Gilmore there more than once?—I saw him several times.

3727. Did you see Mr. Woods there more than once?—I saw him a couple of times, I think.

3728. Do you know Mr. Stokes?—Indeed I do, well.

3729. Did you see Mr. Stokes in and out of that house?—Not very often that house; I have seen him once in that house; I have seen him in Mr. O’Farrell’s house several times.

3730. Do you know where Mr. O’Farrell lives?—I do, well.

3731. Was there a vacant house, at the time of the election, next to O’Farrell’s house?—Haggerty’s house.

3732. Whose house is it?—I believe it belongs to Major Knox.

3733. Is that house divided from O’Farrell’s house by a garden or a wall?—There was a wall, but there was a door made between the two places.

3734. When was that door made?—Two or three days before the voters were got into it.

3735. There was a communication then between O’Farrell’s and Haggerty’s?—Yes.

3736. During a few days before the election was there any voters in Haggerty’s house?—There were.

3737. Who were the voters there?—Tom Brennan, McMurragh, John Armstrong, Tom 85.

Burrows, and a few others. I do not mind their names. T. Leonard.

3738. Had they beds there?—They had, and Walter Henderson. 20 February 1869.

3739. Do you know who supplied those beds?—I know, well.

3740. Who supplied them?—Mr. Hignell and Mr. O’Farrell.

3741. Mr. O’Farrell is a poor-rate collector?—He is.

3742. Was Mr. Hignell with Major Knox in Sligo?—He was.

3743. Do you know who Mr. Hignell is?—I do, well.

3744. Who is he?—If I saw him I should know him; there he is; I see him there (pointing).

3745. Who were the voters that were in O’Farrell’s house?—Tom Brennan and Tom McMurragh.

3746. And Henderson, you say?—No; Henderson slept in Haggerty’s house.

3747. Who supplied the eating and drinking in that house?—Mr. O’Farrell got beef from Mr. O’Hara’s; Mr. O’Farrell supplied them with everything.

3748. Do you know Mr. Hignell?—I do, well.

3749. Do you know Mr. John McGrath?—I do.

3750. Is he a publican?—He is.

3751. Did you see Mr. Hignell make any purchases?—Once only in my life.

3752. Where was that?—In Michael Hunt’s.

3753. What did he buy?—A barrel of beer.

3754. Where was it sent?—Down to O’Farrell’s.

3755. Did you see it afterwards in O’Farrell’s house?—I did, and drank of it.

3756. Did you see in O’Farrell’s house, during the week of the election, Mr. Henry Lyons?—Yes.

3757. Did you see Mr. Williams?—I did.

3758. Did you see Mr. Wilson?—I did.

3759. Did you see Mr. Cherry?—I did.

3760. Did you see Mr. Joseph Woods?—I did.

3761. Did you see Mr. Petrie?—I did.

3762. Did you see Mr. Gilmore?—I did.

3763. And Mr. Stokes?—Oh, he was frequently there.

3764. At O’Farrell’s?—At Haggerty’s house, the committee-rooms.

3765. That is the empty house that belongs to Major Knox?—I saw them in the place they called the committee-room.

3766. What kind of committee-room?—Mr. Stokes and Mr. O’Farrell were there together.

3767. Did you see them together?—I did.

3768. How often did you see Mr. Stokes in that house?—Very often.

3769. Every day?—Every day; and twice, three times, and four times a day.

3770. In Haggerty’s house were they in the habit of having meetings?—Every night, every evening.

3771. Was there any furniture in the room?—Some chairs.

3772. Was there a table?—A table, and candlesticks left on the table.

3773. Did they sit round the table?—They did; the chairs were arranged all round the table.

3774. Had they paper and pens there?—They had.

T. Leonard. 3775. Was there a sentry at the door?—There was.
 20 February 1869. 3776. Who was the sentry?—Myself often.
 3777. Anybody else?—There was.
 3778. Who?—Two Currys; James and Edward Curry.
 3779. Do you know the McMullens?—I have known them a long time.
 3780. Did you see them in Sligo a few days before the election?—I did not; I have seen them before the election.
 3781. Have you seen them since?—Never.
 3782. Were they both voters?—They were, I believe.
 3783. Have you been at their house lately; have you been in the streets lately?—Several times.
 3784. Is the house shut up?—It is.
 3785. Do you know Mrs. McMullen, the wife?—I do not.
 3786. Is she in Sligo, do you know?—I believe not; she is in a place called Labrockins, down from Sligo, a little above a mile.
 3787. Do you know a person of the name of James Devany?—I did know him.
 3788. Did you see him in Sligo the night before the election?—The night before the poll.
 3789. Have you seen him since?—I have not.
 3790. Have you had any conversation with James Devany?—Several times.
 3791. Had you any conversation with him the night before the polling?—I had not.
 3792. Do you know Mr. Joseph L. Woods?—I forget whether I do or not.
 3793. Do you see him here?—I do.
 3794. Was he in Haggerty's house?—He was.
 3795. Did he attend the meetings?—Yes.
 3796. Do you know anyone of the name of Galbraith?—I do.
 3797. Did you see Galbraith in Haggerty's house?—Not to my knowledge.
 3798. Do you know Mr. Lawder?—I do, well.
 3799. Did you see him?—I did.
 3800. Was he in and out of Haggerty's house?—He was.
 3801. Did you see him attend these meetings?—I did.
 3802. Did you see Major Knox there?—Oh, several times.
 3803. Did you see Major Knox there at the time that the gentlemen you have named were in the room?—I did, indeed.
 3804. Did they sit round the table?—They did.
 3805. And were Major Knox and Mr. Lawder sitting round the table also?—Certainly; the one as well as the other.
 3806. You said you were on guard?—I was.
 3807. Who were you to guard?—The few voters they had in the house, for fear anyone might take them away, or that they might make off.
 3808. Had you any instructions about letting people in and out?—I was to let no one in, except those I knew.
 3809. Were you to let anyone out?—No.
 3810. From whom did you get these instructions?—From Mr. Brennan, O'Farrell, Mr. Grubb, and Mr. Hignell; four of them.
 3811. Was Brennan in and out of that house?—He stopped there; he ate and drank in it.
 3812. Had you instructions to allow no strangers, except those you have mentioned, into the committee-rooms?—Nobody at all was to go in and out, except those that were in it; except a voter to come and stop there; no spectators whatever were to be allowed in there.

 3813. No strangers?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

3814. This money you spoke of having got from Major Knox originally, you got some money from him?—I did, indeed.
 3815. You were not a voter?—I was not.
 3816. And you were one of the mob?—I was a messenger.
 3817. I know you did his work, and you were paid for it?—I did.
 3818. And that is what you got the money for?—Some of it.
 3819. All you got besides this 5*l.* you got for your own services?—I did.
 3820. Where was the Major standing?—He was sitting.
 3821. Where was he sitting?—In Mr. Leech's parlour.
 3822. What time of the day was it?—About six or seven o'clock.
 3823. Who was by?—Well, there was nobody but myself; he and I.
 3824. He was sitting?—He was.
 3825. Who showed you into the room?—His servant.
 3826. Has he a name?—Well, I know him if I see him; I do not know his name.
 3827. Is he in court now?—I see him now; there he is (pointing to O'Neil).
 3828. Is that the man who showed you in?—Yes.
 3829. The Major was sitting?—Yes; when he was paying the money he was sitting.
 3830. When O'Neil showed you in, you and the Major were left alone in the room?—I went in before the Major; the Major followed me into the room.
 3831. He gave you 2*l.* yourself, and told you to give 5*l.* to Henry's wife?—To Henry himself.
 3832. With respect to this barrel of beer that you saw, that Hignell sent to O'Farrell's house, were you present when it was ordered?—I was in Mr. Hunt's when it was ordered.
 3833. Who ordered it?—Mr. Hignell and O'Farrell.
 3834. Which was it, O'Farrell or Hignell, ordered it?—Hignell.
 3835. Did he pay for it?—He pulled out money; I do not know whether he paid for it or not.
 3836. Did he pay for it?—I am not sure whether he paid for it; he pulled out the money.
 3837. With respect to this Haggerty's house, do you mean to say that there was a committee there?—They called it the committee-room.
 3838. Who called it so?—Mr. O'Farrell, Mr. Hignell, Mr. Grubb, and the whole of the party, called it the committee-room.
 3839. Did you ever see committee-men there in your life?—I have seen the parties go into it, and sitting there.
 3840. Those you have told already?—Yes.
 3841. Had you any conversation with Hignell?—I had.
 3842. On the 19th January?—I do not know the day of the month.
 3843. Had you a talk to him?—I had.
 3844. About what you could swear here?—I will tell you on the spot the truth.

3845. Did

3845. Did you tell him the very reverse of what you have sworn here; what did you tell him?—He axed me if I was going to swear that Major Knox gave me a 5 l. note for Henry; I said, "Och, never heed what you hear."

3846. Was that all that passed?—Listen and I'll tell you. He said, "I was told by a friend of yours in Dublin that you were going to swear that I said there may be truth and lies going; don't believe what you hear."

3847. Anything else?—I told him I was in a notion of leaving the country. He said, "Where are you going?" "To Scotland," said I. "Well," he said, "when are you ready to go?" "The first time the boat is going out," said I. "When," said he, "will that be?" "On Tuesday, I expect," said I; "and only that I have a bit of law on hand, I would have been away last Tuesday."

3848. "What is that," said he?—I pulled out a summons from my pocket and showed it to him; it was a bit of a row with a man named Gilligan that I had in Sligo. "Never mind that," he said; "I am here and I will quash that; and when the law is all over, and you have got dismissed out of the case, come down to me, and I will give you what will bear you out of the country."

3849. Did you tell all that to the gentlemen on the other side?—Never; I never intended to speak of it; you pulled it out of me.

3850. You never told it to the attorney on the other side?—I did not; never.

3851. Who was by in the conversation?—Gillmor, I, and his son; his son was standing behind the counter.

3852. You were going out of town?—Yes, to look for employment; I was disemployed in Sligo.

3853. You told Mr. Gillmor not to believe all he heard?—I did.

3854. Had you a talk with Mr. Williams about this matter; about Henry's 5 l. note?—Which Mr. Williams?

3855. You know very well which I mean?—I never spoke to a man in my life except Mr. Samuel Williams; he called me in; he and I were friends, and we always spoke together.

3856. Did you say to Mr. Williams that you would swear the Major out of his shoes?—Never, on my oath; I never spoke a bad word to Major Knox or behind his back in my life.

3857. Were you in the mob at the last election?—I was not.

3858. You were not in the streets at all?—I might be in the streets, but never in the mob.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARTIN KELLY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

3859. ARE you an Assistant of Mr. O'Donovan who keeps a pawnbroker's office in Sligo?—I am.

3860. Do you know the last witness, Thomas Leonard?—I do.

3861. Do you recollect his coming to your master's office in November?—I do.

3862. What day was it he came?—The Monday evening before the election.

3863. Had he any articles in pawn in your master's office at that time?—He had.

3864. Were you the person who spoke to him when he went into the office or shop?—I was.

3865. What did he do; did he produce any money?—He gave me a 5 l. note, and asked me if I had the change of it; I looked into the till and I had not; then I gave him a 1 l. note, and he asked me if I had the change of that, and I said not; I counted the silver; all I gave him was 7 s. 6 d. "Then," said he, "keep the 1 l. note till morning, and give me the 7 s. 6 d."

3866. What did you do with the 5 l. note you got from him?—I brought it down with the other money and gave it to the master.

3867. Do you keep entries in your books of the transactions of the shop?—I do.

3868. Did you make an entry of the receipt of that 5 l. note in your book?—I took an entry of the things he took out that evening.

3869. Just look at the entry, is it the 16th or 17th?—It was the 17th he released them.

3870. Could you tell me from any other book what description of note it was that he gave you, what bank it was issued from?—I cannot say what bank it was.

3871. But you gave it up to your master, whatever it was?—I did.

3872. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You know it was a 5 l. note?—It was, my Lord.

3873. Mr. Coffey.] He took some articles out?—He did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS O'DONOVAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

3874. ARE you the master of the last witness, Martin Kelly?—I am.

3875. Do you remember the 16th November debiting him with a 5 l. note?—On the evening of the 16th November he brought me a 5 l. note.

3876. That was the only one he brought you?—The only one.

3877. Are you able to say what it was?—An Ulster note.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN HENRY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

3878. Do you recollect Major Knox calling upon you in Sligo?—I do.

3879. Who was with him?—Thomas Brennan and this gentleman here.

3880. Mr. Pibbs?—Yes.

3881. Were you introduced to Major Knox by anybody?—Thomas Brennan.

3882. Did he say anything to you after he introduced you to Major Knox; tell me shortly what he said?—Yes.

3883. Tell me shortly what he said?—I was behind my counter and he said, "Here is Major Knox."

3884. But after that?—"I introduce Major Knox to you, John." He said I was a very poor man. Said he "That is no matter; never mind that," said the Major.

3885. Did

T. Leonard.

20 February 1869.

M. Kelly.

T. O'Donovan.

J. Henry.

J. Henry.

20 February
1869.

3885. Did he say anything about voting?—Yes, he axed me if I would give him the interest I had in the coming election.

3886. To whom?—To Major Knox.

3887. What did you say to that?—I said my mind was not made up. Major Knox said that he got all the votes there were in the street promised to him. I said if every one in the street votes for you, I will not be any worse than any other.

3888. Some short time before the election, do you recollect coming out of chapel and seeing any one?—I do.

3889. Who was it?—Thomas Brennan.

3890. What did he say to you?—He said he wanted me round at McGrath's.

3891. Did you go to McGrath's?—Yes, I walked up Market-street, down the Jail-street, passed the Barracks, to McGrath's.

3892. What did he say to you at McGrath's?—He said he was going to Dublin, and would write a letter to tell me the place to take the train, as I was to vote for Major Knox.

3893. Where did you intend to take the train?—At Ballysodare.

3894. For what purpose?—To quit the place. Moreover, he told me it was better for me to go away and not to stand my ground. He said there will be military here; if you stop in your own house, and they resist and take you out of it, the military will not allow it, and there will be only bloodshed at the door.

3895. What would the mob do?—They would try to pull me out of my place.

3896. And then that the military would oppose that, and there would be bloodshed?—There would be bloodshed at my door, and it would be better for me, he said, not to have any person injured at any door.

3897. Did you agree to go away with him, or what did you say upon it?—No; I said my mind was not made up.

3898. About what time did that occur before the election?—Something like a fortnight or three weeks, to the best of my opinion.

3899. A short time, between that and the election, did any one else come to you?—There did.

3900. Who was it?—Mr. Petrie.

3901. What occurred with him?—He axed me if I had a vote. I said, "Yes." "Who are you going to give it to?" he said. "I do not know yet," I said. "Now or never," he said, "as you are a poor man, is the time; now or never is the time for to make your shop full." I made answer and said, if I had only 4½, I was able to earn my living without filling my shop.

3902. Did he ask you if there were any men going away from Sligo?—He did. I said I knew no man's mind no more than he knew mine.

3903. Did he mention a sum of money?—£. 30.

3904. What did he say about 30£.?—He mentioned 30£.; he said he would give it. "I will get it for you," he said.

3905. Did any one else call for you or send for you?—Yes.

3906. Who was that?—The night before the poll he sent for Thomas Leonard.

3907. Mr. Macdonogh.] Who did?—Petrie sent for Thomas Leonard to know if I was all right.

3908. Mr. Waters.] Did you know this?—The man sent for me.

3909. What was it he said?—He axed me if I would go to the tally-room; to O'Farrell's or Mrs. Hall's. I said, "No."

3910. Was Thomas Leonard your brother-in-law, who was examined last?—Yes.

3911. He asked you to go?—He asked me to go to either O'Farrell's or Mrs. Hall's. I said, "No." At the same time he pulled a revolver from his breast, and he said if I did not it would be a sereful job for me.

3912. Mr. Macdonogh.] Who said that?—Thomas Leonard, a paid man of Major Knox's.

3913. Mr. Waters.] Were you in Mrs. Hall's?—Yes, frequently in there.

3914. Who did you see there?—I have seen Mr. Cherry there.

3915. When was that?—The day before the poll.

3916. What time of the day?—Well, to the best of my opinion, about three o'clock, or between two and three o'clock.

3917. What occurred between you and Cherry at Mrs. Hall's?—When I went in to Mrs. Hall's, the first words said was, that she had two creatures; that is the way she brought it out; that she had two creatures upstairs. "Have you, ma'am?" said I. "Yes," she said; "and I expect to have you too."

3918. Were you employed there?—I was always employed in the Grand Jury pantry.

3919. She said she would expect to have you too?—Yes; and that I was to render every assistance I could during the election, and she would pay me.

3920. What occurred between you and Mr. Cherry?—Mr. Cherry asked me if I was going to vote for Major Knox; and I said, "Yes."

3921. Did he say anything to you about staying at Mrs. Hall's, or going out?—He did; he said, if I went out on the street, I would get my head broke. I made reply that I had never done anything in Sligo to get my head broke. He said I would be locked up if I went out. I said I would not be locked up; in fact, if I was locked up, my tongue would not be locked.

3922. Did he say by whom you would be locked up?—The Liberal side.

3923. Did he say what would be done if you stayed in?—That I would be protected.

3924. Anything else?—That I would be well rewarded.

3925. Did he say how you would be rewarded?—He did not make mention of any money whatsoever, but that I would be well rewarded.

3926. Have you got any letters from Major Knox?—I have.

3927. Where are they?—In my pocket.

3928. Will you show them to me?—Moreover, when I was in Mrs. Hall's, word went up to my wife.

3929. Did your wife come to Mrs. Hall's?—Yes.

3930. Did you hear her asking for you?—I was away in the pantry, but when she came I was denied to her.

3931. Do you know that yourself?—I do for a fact.

3932. Did she finally insist on seeing you?—She did.

3933. Did you see them saying or doing anything to her?—Mrs. Hall admitted her in, and she said, "Mrs. Henry, you will be well paid, and your husband will be minded."

3934. Were

3934. Were you present?—I was present in the bottom room, down-stairs.

Mr. Macdonogh stated that Mrs. Hall was not a person charged; that she was not asked respecting the subject of the present examination.

Mr. Justice Keogh said he considered there was an ample description in the bill of particulars, and if the parties applied to him for permission to insert Mrs. Hall's name, he would grant it.

Witness.] My wife came in, and she got into the room. I was standing up by the table. Said Mrs. Hall, "Mrs. Henry, your husband will not go out the night; he will stop here with me, and your husband will get well paid for it." Mr. Cherry then came in, and he said, "Mrs. Henry, your husband will be better in nor out."

3935. Who said that?—Mr. Cherry. Wait till I see. There he is, in the corner (pointing him out).

3936. Was Mr. Cherry present at this conversation?—He was.

3937. Mr. Waters.] What did your wife say to you?—The word she said was, that if she got all the money in England, Ireland, and Scotland, and to fill the room she stood in with gold, her husband she would have home with her.

3938. After she said that, did Mr. Cherry say anything to you about waiting anywhere, or running anywhere?—Yes; as I came out of the hall he met me in the face, and said, "Bolt up-stairs, and we will deny you." "No," said I; "wherever my wife is, I will be. I am a man of my word." That is all I made mention of.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

3939. Are you the brother-in-law of that Leonard?—I am.

3940. Did you know that he betrayed you; got 5*l.*, and did not give it to you?—No, nor I never received a halfpenny of any kind of money in this world from any man, neither Liberals nor the other side.

CHARLES TIERNEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

3957. Do you recollect being canvassed for your vote by Major Knox?—I do.

3958. When were you first canvassed by Major Knox?—I think it was in February last.

3959. February 1868?—February 1868.

3960. Who accompanied him on the occasion when he canvassed you?—Mr. Harloe Phibbs, the solicitor.

3961. Was there any one else with him?—None.

3962. Did you, upon that occasion, promise Major Knox to vote for him?—I did.

3963. I believe, at that time, Captain Flanagan was not a candidate, in the field?—I was not aware of it.

3964. After that, do you recollect having any conversation with Major Knox?—Yes.

3965. When did you next see Major Knox?—A few days afterwards he called on me, secondly, unaccompanied with Mr. Harloe Phibbs, the solicitor, but he had the clerk of the peace with him.

3966. The first time he called it was with Mr. Harloe Phibbs?—Yes.

85.

3941. He was the fellow that took out the revolver to you?—Yes.

3942. Are you married to his sister?—No. I will tell you how it is; we are married to two sisters; that is the kindred I am to him.

3943. Was any person present when he took out the revolver?—There were about 20 lodgers in my own house.

3944. You tell me you had been employed in the pantry?—Yes, very often in the pantry.

3945. And Mrs. Hall knew you for a long time?—She did, and I am sure she never knew anything bad of me.

3946. She was a friend of yours?—She was a friend, by my doing my work.

3947. A very good way to earn friendship?—It is a very good way; and, another thing, I am under no compliment to her or any one.

3948. You may be the most independent man in Sligo, if you like?—I am just about the independentest poor man in Sligo.

3949. Did Mrs. Hall really express anxiety about your personal safety?—She did.

3950. Was not the town in a dreadful condition?—I never saw anything.

3951. It was all in perfect serenity?—I have seen people cheering, through the street, and seen military there, but I never saw any rows in it.

3952. Do you positively swear that Mr. Petrie?—I do positively swear that Mr. Petrie, even; I owed him 16*s.* 8*d.*

3953. And he called upon you?—I owed him 16*s.* 8*d.*, and I went down to his office for to pay him 8*s.* 4*d.*, that is half the price of a barrel of herrings; I paid it to him. He pulled a chair for me alongside the grate; he tapped me on the shoulder, and he said, "Come here; a word with you?"

3954. I want to get a distinct affirmative or negative from you; do you swear that Mr. Petrie ever called upon you?—I will, on my oath.

3955. Do you swear positively, on your oath, Mrs. Hall said, "You will be well rewarded"?—On my oath.

3956. Rewarded for what?—For stepping in, and passing my vote for Major Knox.

3967. The next time he was with Mr. Utrid Knox?—Yes, the clerk of the peace.

3968. Do you know whether he is his cousin?—I am not aware of it.

3969. What occurred between Major Knox and you, on this occasion?—Just a few minutes, and I will not detain your Lordship much. I told him I was labouring with a little difficulties, pecuniary difficulties, and that I suffered on former elections by my voting. "Oh," he said to me, "I will make amends for all this, Tiernen, on conditions that you will vote for me;" and he told me, my Lord, "Call on the clerk of the peace, at 11 o'clock, on such a day, and he will make recompense to you for what losses you have sustained in former elections."

3970. Did you tell Major Knox, on that occasion, what your difficulties were?—I did.

3971. The amount of them?—My rent and taxes; I was labouring under difficulties of rent and taxes.

3972. Do you know Mr. Thomas H. Wilson?—I do.

3973. Bookseller and stationer?—Yes.

3974. Do you recollect the day on which you were to call on the clerk of the peace?—As to the day, I cannot recollect.

3975. Had you any conversation afterwards with Major Knox. If you do not recollect it, do not say anything about it?—I do not recollect it.

3976. Did you go to Mr. Utrid Knox's?—According to the Major's direction, at 11 o'clock on the following day.

3977. Did you call on Mr. Utrid Knox?—I did.

3978. Did you see him?—I did, in his own office.

3979. In his own office?—In the clerk of the peace's office.

3980. In the court-house?—Yes.

3981. About what time was this?—I think it was February.

3982. February last?—I think so, to the best of my opinion.

3983. Did you get any money from Mr. Utrid Knox?—He handed me a 5*l.* note, five sovereigns; I beg your pardon, three sovereigns, and two in half-sovereigns, making 10*l.*; and in the Provincial Bank of Ireland I changed the 5*l.* note.

3984. Did you pass any I O U, or receipt, or any document, for that 10*l.*?—I did, which he can produce in court. I think he is in court.

3985. Was it an I O U?—It was drawn up by his own hands.

3986. Were you ever asked for payment of that I O U before the election?—No.

3987. Had you ever any other money transactions with Mr. Utrid Knox?—Never.

3988. I believe your house is in Ratcliff-street?—Yes.

3989. Who paid your taxes for you?—Mr. Thomas Wilson, of Ratcliff-street, the stationer.

3990. How much did he pay for you?—To the best of my opinion, I think it was 3*l.* and some few odd shillings; he gave it to the rate-collector to pay my rate.

3991. Was that Mr. O'Farrell?—Mr. O'Farrell.

3992. Is that the gentleman who lives in the house next to Mr. Haggerty's?—It is.

3993. When did Mr. Thomas Wilson pay that for you to Mr. O'Farrell?—I am not aware.

3994. Some months ago?—Some months ago; before the election.

3995. Mr. Macdonogh.] Were you present at the payment?—I was present myself.

3996. Mr. O'Loughlin.] Where was the money paid?—In Mr. Wilson's office.

3997. Before the election?—Before last November, for the revision, in order to qualify me for my vote.

3998. Did you get a receipt for the taxes?—I did, from Mr. O'Farrell, the rate-collector.

3999. Was any of the money for which you got that receipt your own money, or was it Mr. Wilson's?—Mr. Wilson's.

4000. How did it come that Mr. Wilson paid that for you?—Well, to the best of my opinion—I am on my oath—it was for the purpose of voting for Major Knox.

4001. I mean, did O'Farrell come to you, or did he make any suggestion to you to go to Mr. Wilson?—Mr. Wilson called me himself.

4002. That is what I want to know; did you make any application to Mr. Wilson until Mr. Wilson called on you?—No, not the slightest.

4003. You never applied?—Never to Mr. Wilson.

4004. To pay the taxes for you?—Never.

4005. Did Mr. Wilson come to you and volunteer to pay your taxes?—I was passing by his door, he called me in, it was near the expiration of the time for paying the rate, near the last day; the rate-collector happened to be standing in his shop, and he called me in to pay the rates.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

4006. In this conversation you had with Major Knox, was there any talk at all about the election?—There was.

4007. What month was it in?—I think it was in February 1868.

4008. And you say there was a talk about the election?—There was; to the best of my opinion that was the time.

4009. Who was by except Mr. Utrid Knox?—Nobody, only Major Knox and myself.

4010. And when you went to Mr. Utrid Knox you gave him the I O U for the money?—I did.

4011. And he lent you the money?—He gave me 10*l.*

4012. As a mere matter of fact, did you not often apply to Major Knox for money?—Only on one occasion.

4013. When was that?—It was previous to the election.

4014. What month was it in?—Well, I believe that it was about the same time that I got it.

4015. Did you ever send him a begging memorial?—I did.

4016. What month was that in?—It was in the same month.

4017. That was in February?—My Lord, I was in difficulties at the time, and I got a requisition drawn up, signed by a few of the electors of Sligo, and they attached their names to it, which I presented to him, and he said he would see me, and he did call and paid me the money.

4018. Did he ever pay you anything after you sent that memorial in to him?—It was after I sent the memorial that I got the money.

4019. You did send in a begging memorial to Major Knox; do you remember in what month?—Well, he was on his canvass previous to his election.

4020. Can you tell me the month?—I think it was February, to the best of my opinion; I am not positive.

4021. Did you send him in a memorial more than once?—Never, to my recollection; it was signed by a few electors of Sligo.

4022. Did you ever intend voting for Major Knox?—I never did intend voting for him, that is a positive fact, upon my oath I never did; but I sustained losses at former elections by voting for the Conservative party.

4023. Do you know Mr. Arr, of Arrnamore?—Perfectly well.

4024. Did you ever ask him to interfere to get your rates paid?—Not to my knowledge.

4025. You must know if it is true?—I never did.

4026. You swear that?—To my recollection.

4027. You know him perfectly well?—Perfectly well.

4028. When you and Mr. Wilson were together who was present?—No one but the rate-collector himself.

4029. What is his name?—O'Farrell.

4030. That

4030. That was prior to the revision?—A few days previous to the revision.

4031. So I understood?—He is in court himself.

Re-examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

4032. You were asked, "Did you ever intend to vote for Major Knox?" Had your answer reference to after the period that Captain Flanagan came into the field. Before Captain Flanagan came into the field, did you intend to vote for Major Knox?—I did not.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Waters stated that he omitted to obtain from the last Witness some letters, which he would now read. The learned Counsel read the letters, as follow:

"53, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin,
"9 October 1868.

"My dear Sir,

"I WILL by this post forward your memorial, with a strong recommendation from myself to the Governor and to the Secretary of the Royal Hospital; and I will ask Lord Strathnairn to give it his support, and will use all the additional influence

I can. I have every hope that it will be successful.

"My dear Sir,

"I WRITE a line to say that I have received a letter from the Commissioners of the Royal Hospital, Chelsea, saying that the memorial I have forwarded for you shall receive immediate attention.

"I am sure a good deal will depend on its being influentially pressed, and you may rely on my doing everything possible to ensure its succeeding.

"I know similar cases to have succeeded, so I have every hope that your application will be successful. Several non-commissioners and men who served with me in the Crimea were, on the return of our regiment home, granted temporary pensions; but I know that in different instances these pensions were extended and made permanent.

EDWARD KELLY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

4033. ARE you a voter of the Borough of Sligo?—Yes.

4034. Do you recollect in November last being at Mr. Woods' shop?—I do.

4035. Did a conversation pass between you and Mr. Woods with reference to your vote?—I was working for him some few days before that. I was doing some carpentering work for him.

4036. When you were in the shop with Mr. Woods in November, what passed between you and him about your vote; what did he say to you, and you to him, about your vote?—He sent for me to go out of town to work some 9 or 10 miles, and I came to him under the impression that I was going to work, and he brought me down to the rear of the shop, and out on the back door; he brought me into the stable, and asked me what I was determined to do at the coming election; I said I had not made up my mind yet, but I did not promise my vote to any person.

4037. What did he say to that?—I then said that at the revision I was told by a person in the street that I would get 15 l. for my vote if I would not register. I told him I was offered 15 l. or 20 l. for my vote, not to go to the revision, to go on the panel.

4038. Did he make any reply to that, when you said you had been offered money not to go to the revision?—He asked me I think who did I intend to vote for; I said I did not promise to any party yet.

4039. Did he say anything about mahogany?—After I spoke of the offer that was made at the time of the revision, he said, "Understand me," said he, "would 20 feet of mahogany repair this partition?"

4040. Did he point to any partition?—It was a partition between the horses; it was a three-horse stable.

4041. What did you say to that?—I asked him was it superficial feet or cubic feet he meant.

4042. What did Mr. Woods say?—We then spoke on cubical measure after that.

4043. What was the result of it; did he make an offer?—I said that it would take more than the 20 feet to repair the partition.

4044. How much did you say you thought it would take?—He asked me if 25 would repair it; I said no; he asked me if 30 would repair it; I said no; he went on to 35 and to 40.

4045. And did you stop there?—I did. Then we retired from the place out into the shop.

4046. And you came to the conclusion that 40 cubic feet would be about the thing?—No.

4047. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Are you a carpenter?—Yes, my Lord.

4048. Mr. Coffey.] Was there any conversation between you about the rising market?—Yes, there was; I said I thought the market was rising.

4049. And did you think 40 the top price at that time?—No; I said it would take 50 to manage the affair.

4050. I believe that was the general idea; that about 50 was the ticket?—Just so.

4051. Did he send for you again?—Yes.

4052. Did you say anything?—We went into the shop then.

4053. Did anybody join you in the shop; did any gentleman come in then to the shop?—Yes; Mr. Joseph Woods, his son, was present in the shop.

4054. Was there anybody else came in?—None there at that time. He then told me that he did not mind much how the election would go; but he would like to help me and my family, and he said he was not instructed to give any more than 40 cubic feet; "but," said he, "if you will wait for about half-an-hour, I will have an account whether you can get more or not."

4055. Did you wait the half-hour?—Just immediately after Mr. Woods said these words, Mr. Phibbs, the solicitor, came.

4056. Do you see him here?—Here he is (pointing);

E. Kelly.

E. Kelly.

(pointing); he canvassed me along with Major Knox for my vote before the revision.

4057. You say Mr. Phibbs came in?—Mr. Phibbs just came in on the moment, walking very quickly; he turned into the office. “Oh,” said Mr. Woods, “now I will have a word for you in a moment.

4058. Did Woods and Phibbs retire?—From the outside.

4059. They left you outside?—Yes; and in a very few minutes, when he came in, he told me the 50 was all right.

4060. The 50 cubic feet?—I am not aware whether it was 50 cubic feet.

4061. On the 19th, did you get a message by one of Mr. Woods’ boys?—No, on the 9th I think it was.

4062. Did you get a message by one of Mr. Woods’ boys?—The thing was finally arranged then, or prematurely arranged, that I was to go home and consult the mistress.

4063. Had you been sent for a distance of 10 miles to come in to him?—No.

4064. Upon Monday the 9th, did you see him again?—I went home then.

4065. And did you consult the mistress?—I told the mistress there were offers made to me, and she did not appear to think well of it.

4066. You cannot tell us anything about that, but did you see Mr. Woods after that; did you see him a second time?—I did.

4067. Where did you see him?—I saw him at his own door.

4068. Had he sent you a message to come in to him?—Yes.

4069. Did he send you the message by one of his own boys?—Yes.

4070. When you saw him the second time, tell his lordship exactly what conversation occurred between you and him?—I met him at the door, and I had a bit of a note written which I thought I would drop into the letter-box. Meeting him at the door, I handed to him the note and told him to read it.

4071. You handed him this note?—Yes; I told him to read it. He took me by the shoulder and brought me upstairs.

Mr. Coffey. Give me that note, Mr. Woods.
Mr. Woods.] I never got such a note.

4072. Mr. Coffey.] Which Mr. Woods did you give it to?—To Mr. Abbott Woods, the man who spoke last.

4073. Had you written that note at home?—Yes.

4074. Had you written that note to him after consultation with your wife?—Yes.

4075. Did your wife see you write the note?—Well, she knew I wrote it; I went upstairs to write it.

4076. Upon your solemn oath, did you take the note that you say you wrote again, and bring it for the purpose of delivering it in the letter-box of Mr. Woods?—I did.

4077. And did you hand it into his hands?—Into his hands.

4078. Did he read it?—He read it in the drawing-room, or in the ante-room before the parlour.

4079. Did he take it with him into that room?—He did.

4080. Inside?—Inside.

4081. Then what passed between you and him on that occasion?—I refused to go in; my feet,

I expect, were not too well prepared for walking on carpets at the time.

4082. You were walking in the road, and did not like to go into his private parlour?—Yes; he forced me in.

4083. You went in?—I went in.

4084. Was there anybody there along with Mr. Woods?—Joseph Woods, his eldest son.

4085. Was he present?—He was.

4086. Will you tell his Lordship what occurred between you and Mr. Woods, the father and the son being present?—My own son, a boy of 11 years of age, was along with me, and he stood in the grand hall while I was upstairs.

4087. Your little boy went in with you?—Yes; he saw me hand in the note; my little boy, my eldest son of 11 years of age, was with me in the grand hall, while I went into the drawing-room; he was standing along with me when I gave the note to Mr. Woods.

4088. Is the little boy here?—He is not.

4089. Is he at home?—He is.

4090. When you went upstairs, your little boy being left in the hall, tell his Lordship what passed between you and Mr. Woods?—He brought me in, and told me that the stuff was ready for me.

4091. Which of them said that?—Mr. Woods.

4092. The elder one; the father?—Yes.

4093. What did you say to that?—That the principal member of my family was unwell, and I could not go till they were better in a few days; that was on the 9th of November.

4094. What else did he say?—He said I should go; he appeared very much determined in sending me off.

4095. Did he tell you where you were to go, or by what route you were to go?—He said I was to go to Dublin. I was to go to Ballysedare; that there were parties watching the like of me in the streets, and that I should go a little out of town.

4096. As far as Ballysedare, and then by train?—Then by train.

4097. When he insisted on your going, what did you say to him?—I said I could not go under existing circumstances.

4098. Did you leave him then, or did anything else happen between you?—He told me then I should go; for the full intent and meaning of sending me away at that time was in order that Flanagan and his party would hear I was gone, and it would prevent them from going to the poll at all.

4099. Did you go away then and leave them?—Yes.

4100. After that interview did you see him again, or his son?—I promised to call back in a night or two after.

4101. Did you call back?—I did not call back afterwards. Two days afterwards I was in at Mr. Green’s, getting two panes of glass; and as I was passing by Woods’ door, his eldest son, who was inside, called me in.

4102. What did he say to you?—He brought me into the office, and asked was I prepared to go.

4103. What did you say?—I said I did not like going, for I did not like taking words in electioneering transactions; that I should get the hard cash if I would go.

4104. What did he say to that?—He said I should not doubt his father’s word.

4105. What

4105. What did you say to that?—I said nothing would do but the money.

4106. Did you ever see Mr. Woods after that occasion; I mean until after the election was over?—I had no conversation with Mr. Woods himself afterwards.

4107. Had you any conversation with anybody else, on the day before the polling or on the night before the polling?—There was a groom, a servant in his house, that came to me; but I had no further conversation.

4108. What I want to know is, had you any conversation with Mr. Woods himself or with his son after what you spoke of last?—Not to my recollection.

4109. What you were now going to tell me was something that took place between you and the servant boy?—Yes.

4110. Who was it offered you money at the revision, not to claim your right to vote?—He only told me that there was this money to be got if I would not vote.

4111. Who was it?—He is a man named James Tondra, a voter.

Cross-examined by Dr. Kaye.

4112. You spoke of having been in Mr. Woods' shop when Mr. Phibbs came there?—Yes.

4113. I want you to fix exactly the date when that took place?—I think it was about the Thursday or Friday before the 9th; I am not exactly sure.

4114. But it was the Thursday or Friday before?—It was a few days I think before, to the best of my recollection.

4115. And you saw Mr. Phibbs passing through the shop?—Oh, I did; I know him well.

4116. Was young Mr. Woods, the commissioner, there?—The commissioner?

4117. Yes, the commissioner for taking affidavits?—I do not know that he is that.

4118. Was Mr. Joseph Woods there?—He was in the shop at the time Mr. Phibbs came in.

4119. Did he accompany Mr. Phibbs into the office?—Who?

4120. Did Mr. Joseph Woods?—I did not see him going in at that time.

4121. Did he go in at all during the time you were there?—Mr. William Abbott Woods went in after him very quickly.

4122. After Mr. Phibbs?—Yes.

4123. Did he leave Mr. Joseph Woods out in the shop?—He did; he was with me at the time.

4124. And Mr. Joseph Woods did not go into the office at all during the time that you were there?—Not as well as I recollect. I think not.

4125. Will you swear he did not?—I am not quite sure; but, to the best of my belief, he was there along with me.

4126. You voted for Captain Flanagan?—I did.

4127. I suppose you had never any intention of doing anything else?—Well, I had not my mind made up until Captain Flanagan canvassed me in a day or two after the 9th.

4128. And at the interview that you had with Mr. Woods, you did not agree to do anything; either to vote for Major Knox or otherwise, until you had first consulted your wife?—Well, I told her about it.

[The Witness withdrew.]

TERENCE FITZPATRICK, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

4129. WERE you a voter for Sligo at the last election?—I was.

4130. You know Mr. Stokes, the saddler?—I do.

4131. Do you remember meeting him one evening during the revision?—I do.

4132. Where was it you met him?—On the Dublin road; the new road we call it.

4133. Was it by appointment you met him?—Not at all.

4134. State what he said to you?—I met him on the new line.

4135. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What day?—On one of the evenings of the revision. We walked up the new line, and he said to me, "Fitzpatrick, have not you a family?" "I have," said I. "You would like to see that family very comfortable," said he. "Of course," said I, "I would." "Well," said he, "you have not revised yet." "I have not," said I. "What would you take not to go forward and get yourself revised at all?" said he; "no one would be the wiser for it." I thought it a very queer question to ask me, for I had never heard the like at all. I told him, "I would take 50*l*." "Oh," said he, "that is too high a figure; I am not allowed to give so much as that; I will tell you what I will do: I will give you 15*l*." "No," I said, "I will not; I will not." Well, we talked down the road again; he told me to consider of it, and we parted. The morning following he sent a man of the name of Shaw, a watchmaker, who told me that Stokes sent him to me, and to tell me he would give me 20*l*. if I would go down and sign a document which he had below.

4136. Did he tell you what the document was which you were to sign?—Mr. Stokes himself told me after that.

4137. Did you go down to Mr. Stokes?—I never went to Mr. Stokes. I told Shaw I would not go to him. In fact, I did not want to have anything to do with the affair, for if he gave me the 50*l*. I would pass my vote and vote against Major Knox. I walked down. I saw Mr. Stokes waiting opposite the court-house; he came across to me; he said, "Fitzpatrick, did you see a messenger I sent to you to-day?" I said, "I saw Shaw." "What do you think of that?" he said to me; "Well, I do not want to think anything about it," said I. "You are going on to get revised," said he; "I do not know whether you will be revised or not." "Why should I not be revised," said I, "when my taxes are paid, and I am rated." "Do not go in, and I will give you 25*l*." said he. "I will do no such thing," said I. "Go down and sign the document," said he. "Nobody would be the wiser; the substance of the document, if they insist upon bringing it up and it is produced, is a request to the revising barrister that you do not want to have yourself inserted on the burges-roll." I said, "I will have nothing at all to do with it." "Well, you are going in?" "I am going in;" "I do not know whether you will be revised or not;" "Well, I will run the chance." I went into the court-house for about 10 minutes, when Shaw came in and beckoned me out again. I went out to him; no, I beg your pardon; after he had offered me the 25*l*., "Oh," said I, "I would would not take one of your words at all for money." "Well," he said, "if you sign the document I will go across and lodge the money in one of the banks, and the money and the receipt may remain in the manager's hands until it is passed by; you can draw the money as you think proper." I said, "That has nothing at all to do with it." I went into the court. Shaw followed me in. In about 15 minutes afterwards I was in the side box; he beckoned to me to come down; I came down, and went out into the street from the court-house. "Mr. Stokes has sent to you," he said, "and he will not mind a few pounds if you will come and sign the document—30*l.*" "I will not take it; tell Mr. Stokes I will not have anything at all to do with it." I went in and I got revised.

JOHN JENNINGS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

J. Jennings.

4138. Do you remember the evening of Sunday, the 8th of November last?—I do.

4139. Did a man of the name of Gray come to you?—He did so.

4140. Did he give you any message from any one?—I was in bed on the Sabbath-day, the 8th of the month, after being up at night, and a boy of the name of Pat Gray came to me. It was about one o'clock in the day; he told me Mr. Brennan wanted me.

4141. You are a night watchman in Sligo?—I am.

4142. Are you a voter?—I am.

4143. Where did you go?—I went up to the Colonel's fort.

4144. Where is that?—Near my own land.

4145. Who did you meet there?—Mr. Brennan.

4146. When you went there, what did he say to you?—He asked me to vote for Major Knox.

4147. Did he say that anything would be done if you did?—He told me there were about 30 people that were to go away; and that there were 15 of them to vote for Major Knox, and the rest to go away, and if I would do the same he would give me 50*l.*

4148. Which did he ask you to do?—He asked me first to vote for Mr. Knox.

4149. Of the 30, you say that 15 were to vote, and 15 to go away?—Yes.

4150. Which did he ask you to do?—He asked me first of all to promise to vote for Major Knox. I told him I would do no such thing.

4151. When you refused, what did he ask you to do?—He said he would get me a week's leave to go from Sligo.

4152. In what employment are you?—In the Commissioners'.

4153. What did you say?—I told him I would leave it to the day of the nomination to consider it.

4154. Did he say you would get anything for going away?—A free ticket, and expenses paid; and he would get me 50*l.* when all would be over.

4155. Did you agree to do that?—I told him I would see him between that and the day of the nomination.

4156. Did you see him again?—Yes.

4157. When?—On the 10th.

4158. What occurred on the 10th?—I saw him on the boat-house at Cleverd.

4159. Whose boat-house was that?—Mr. Martin's.

4160. What occurred then?—He gave me the same preference there.

4161. Did anything further occur than what you told us before?—There did not.

4162. Did you see him after that again before the election?—I saw him several times before the election.

4163. Did any conversation occur between you again with reference to your going away?—Several times a conversation passed between us.

4164. Have you anything to say beyond that; you have told his Lordship as to what occurred between you and Brennan?—Yes; only that he asked me several times had I any land on Mr. Tennyson's property. I said I had not, only under Colonel Barrett. He said he was the agent for Colonel Knox, for his house property in Sligo.

4165. Did he say anything then with regard to this place?—He said that Mr. Knox purchased Mr. Tennyson's land, and that he could do me a good turn; and I told him I had no land in that place; all I had was under Colonel Barrett.

4166. Did any other person say anything to you about going away besides Brennan?—No.

4167. Do you know a man of the name of Doherty?—I do, well.

4168. Did he say anything to you about it?—Never.

4169. Do you know Mr. Chisholm?—I do.

4170. Did he speak to you about it?—He might have spoken to me; he told me simply that I was at present in a public situation, and it would be best for me not to vote at all.

4171. I ask you, did he ask you anything about going away?—He did.

4172. Tell his Lordship what he said to you about it?—He said that as I was at present in a public situation, it would answer me best not to vote.

4173. Just say what he said about your going?—He asked me if I would go away.

4174. Did he tell you what you would get?—He never said anything about money.

4175. He only asked you to go away?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

PATRICK MACNEITH, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

P. Macneith. 4176. You are a Solicitor, practising in Sligo?—Yes.

4177. Do you practise at Quarter Sessions?—Yes.

4178. Do you recollect the June Sessions, last year?—I do.

4179. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Brennan?—I do.

4180. Do

4180. Do you know a man of the name of Patrick Flynn?—I do.

4181. Do you recollect an ejectment pending in which Mr. Pollock was the solicitor, and Patrick Flynn the defendant?—It was the suit, I think, of either the Rev. Mr. Sullivan, or Lady Palmerston.

4182. I mean, do you recollect that case distinctly; was that case called?—It was.

4183. When the case was called on, did you see Mr. Harloe Phibbs?—I did.

4184. Was he in court at the time?—He was.

4185. Did you see Mr. Harloe Phibbs and Mr. Thomas Brennan speaking to Mr. Pollock when the case was called on?—I did.

4186. What was the result of their conversation?—Whatever the conversation was I was at the off-side of the court; I could not hear just what passed, but I had a sharp eye to business, being anxious for my own friend, Serjeant Armstrong, on the other side; the result of the conversation was that the case was withdrawn; and I said at the same time, "You are dealing very tenderly with this gentleman; he is likely to be a voter for Major Knox."

4187. Who did you say that to?—Openly in the court.

4188. To Mr. Pollock?—To the parties engaged in the negotiation.

4189. Do you recollect another ejectment immediately after?—I do, distinctly; Thomas Gullovan, at the suit of the same party; next door, indeed, I might say, to Patrick Flynn.

4190. Was that ejectment immediately after moved?—Instantly.

4191. Did you make any observation then to Mr. Pollock about that?—I said, in the same jocular spirit, "You ought to extend your charitable intentions to this poor fellow as well as the other man, but I suppose you will not, as he is not likely to go with you."

[The Witness withdrew.]

MICHAEL CLANCY, sworn; Examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

4192. Do you know a voter in Sligo of the name of Mahan?—I do.

4193. Do you know the house?—I do.

4194. Do you recollect being in his house upon any occasion upon which Major Knox came there?—I do.

4195. When was that?—In July.

4196. Who accompanied Major Knox there?—Thomas Brennan.

4197. Was any one else with him?—There were people outside, but I did not take any heed of them.

4198. Was Mr. Phibbs with them?—He was not that far at my time.

4199. What did you happen to be doing at Sligo?—Getting a pair of wheels shod at a blacksmith's.

4200. When Major Knox and Brennan came in, was Mahan in the house?—No.

4201. Was Mrs. Mahan there?—She was.

4202. Did you hear Major Knox say anything to Mrs. Mahan?—He asked if her husband was in; she said not; he left her a little ticket, and he put his hand out and handed, apparently, a sovereign to Thomas Brennan to hand to Mrs. Mahan, and said he would be there in the evening.

4203. Did you see Thomas Brennan give that money to Mrs. Mahan?—I did.

4204. And was it on that occasion you heard Major Knox ask Mrs. Mahan to use her influence with her husband for his vote?—He said he hoped she would make the master stand to him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

M. Clancy.

4205. You are not a voter?—No.

4206. Do you remember there being a large mob of women outside the door on that day?—There were large crowds of women following.

4207. Were not they surrounding the door?—They were outside of the door.

4208. Did not they say they would not let the major out unless he gave them something?—They said no such thing.

4209. Did you hear them say that to the major?—I did not.

4210. Where did you hear them say it to the major?—When he went into John Wallond's house; John Wallond let him out.

4211. To escape that mob?—A lot of women.

4212. How many hundreds of them were there?—Well, indeed, I did not count them.

4213. You saw the sovereign?—I did.

4214. On your oath, was not the sovereign given to distribute amongst the women, in order to get out of the house?—On my oath, it was not given to distribute among women, nor among any people; only to hand to Mrs. Mahan, and I saw no distributing of it; I left the house.

4215. Tell me what was said when the sovereign was given?—He said he would come there in the evening, and that he hoped she would make the master stand.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS BRENNAN (Ex-Constable), sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey, 4216. Do you know your namesake, Thomas Brennan, very well?—I do.

4217. Do you recollect the time the election took place, when Major Knox was elected?—I do.

4218. Did you see letters with Thomas Brennan?—I did.

4219. Did Thomas Brennan show you those letters?—He did.

4220. Did he read them for you?—He did; some of them.

4221. I am not going to ask you the contents of them; but did he tell you who the letters were from?—He did so; I saw Major Knox's name on them.

4222. Were they about election matters, those that you read?—Well, I could not answer that question.

4223. How many of those letters did you see?—Well, I saw three or four.

4224. Do you recollect what they were about?—

Thomas Brennan was called, and declined to produce the letters, as he had received no notice.

FELIX FARRELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Palles.

F. Farrell.
20 February
1869.

4225. WERE you at any time offered by any person any money in connection with either the election or the revision?—I was at the election, but not at the revision.

4226. Who was it that offered you the money?—John Derrig.

4227. What was it Derrig said to you?—He asked me had I a vote. I told him I had; and he asked me would I have a mind to vote for him; I told him I was promised to the Liberal party, and he told me that if I would take his advice he could give me something that would serve me. I asked him what it was, and he told me. He asked me what I would take a day for 10 days; I paused when he started the question, and he said to me then, “Will you take 3*l*. a day for 10 days when the election is over?”

4228. What did you say to that?—I told him I would not.

4229. Was there any other conversation between you on that occasion, when you refused the 3*l*?—None.

4230. Did you ever see him again?—I did.

4231. When was that?—The Saturday night before the election.

4232. What did he then tell you?—He came in and he axed me was I ready to go where he was speaking to me about: I told him, no.

4233. Did he tell you to do anything?—He told me then to go down to his house on Sunday, that he wanted to see me.

4234. Did you go on the Sunday?—No, I did not.

4235. Do you remember the Friday before the election seeing a man of the name of David Frizell?—I do.

4236. Did you get a message to go to him?—I did.

4237. Where did you go to?—To the “North” Hotel.

4238. “Buchanan’s” Hotel?—Yes.

4239. Was any one present besides yourself and Mr. Frizell?—There was.

4240. Do you know his name?—Pat Connor.

4241. What did he say to you?—He asked me what I would take; I told him I would take half a glass of spirits.

4242. Did he ask you anything about the vote?—After we had drunk the spirits he asked me who I was going to vote for.

4243. Was it with Brennan you had the conversation?—No, with Frizell.

4244. Was West present?—Connor was present and Frizell.

4245. When did you give this information to Mr. Moloney?—Not till after I was served with a summons.

4246. Yesterday, or the day before?—On Thursday evening.

[The Witness withdrew.

BRIDGET MAHAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Waters.

B. Mahan.

4247. ARE you the wife of John Mahan?—I am not; I am the wife of Pat Mahan.

4248. Is your husband a voter in the town of Sligo?—He is.

4249. I believe you keep a public-house?—Yes.

4250. Do you recollect Major Knox coming to canvass at your house?—Yes.

4251. Who was with him?—Thomas Brennan.

4252. Anybody else?—No one that I saw.

4253. When Major Knox came into the house, did he ask for your husband?—He asked was he in.

4254. What did you tell him?—I told him he was not.

4255. Did any conversation take place between you then?—Not a word; he handed me the card.

4256. Did he say anything about a vote, or about your husband voting?—He did not.

4257. Did he say one thing about calling back again?—He said he would call in the evening in passing.

4258. What did he do then?—He handed me a pound.

4259. What did he say when he gave you the 1*l*?—Nothing, but he turned out of the house back again.

4260. Did he say nothing to you at all?—Not a word.

4261. What did he say about your husband?—Nothing about my husband; but he asked if he was in; I told him he was not. Then he handed me his card, and a sovereign after.

4262. And did he say nothing when he handed you the sovereign?—Not a sentence.

4263. Did he come in again?—No; I did not see him from then.

4264. Did you ever get any money from Thomas Brennan?—No, never.

4265. Did your husband get it from Thomas Brennan?—My husband did.

4266. In your presence?—Not in my presence.

4267. Did Major Knox say what he wanted your husband for?—No, he did not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

4268. Did you ask the major to leave money for a drink for the women?—Yes; that is what he gave me the sovereign for.

4269. There was a crowd about the door?—A few persons came in, and I gave them drink for it on the spot.

4270. There was a great crowd of women?—Crowding about the door.

4271. Were they crowding about your house?—They were, until I gave them the value of a sovereign to drink.

4272. They would not let the major come out?—Indeed he was not far away before they got the drink for it.

4273. Did you hear them asking for money?—No, I did not hear them ask; the major handed me a sovereign, and I gave them drink for it.

4274. Do you know what it was intended for?—I suspected nothing else.

4275. Did you hear of Mr. Harloe Phibbs being there at the time?—I did not.

[The Witness withdrew.

PATRICK MAHAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

4276. You are the husband of the last witness?—I am.

4277. Do you know Thomas Brennan?—I do, well.

4278. Did you get any money from Thomas Brennan?—I did; 5*l*.

4279. Who was present?—Dominick Kilcullen, one of the witnesses examined here.

4280. What did he say when he gave you the 5*l*?—He said he wanted to retain my cars for Major Knox.

4281. Was that all that passed?—That was all that passed.

4282. And you put the 5*l*. in your pocket; had Major Knox the use of your cars for the election?—No, he did not call upon me.

4283. You are a voter for the borough?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Robinson.

4284. You voted for Captain Flanagan?—Yes.

4285. What year was it that this matter occurred about the cars?—1867.

4286. What time in 1867?—About January.

Re-examined by Mr. Coffey.

4287. January 1867 or January 1868?—No; 1867.

4288. Are you sure what year it was?—I am sure it was in 1867.

4289. Mr. Justice Keogh.] How long ago was it?—Nearly two years ago.

Numerous telegrams were admitted, and handed in for inspection.

[Adjourned to Monday, at Ten o'clock.

4343. Did you see your father on Saturday night?—I did.
4344. After he came home from this place?—
No; my father was not here.
4345. Then was your father in Sligo on Saturday?—He was.
4346. And you did not know he had been here?—No.
4347. Did your father ask you, did you remember having been at Mr. Woods'?—No.
4348. Did your father speak to you about having been there?—No; he did not.
4349. Did he speak to you at all on Saturday night?—No; he did not speak to me.
4350. You did not speak to him at all?—He did speak to me.
4351. Did he ask you if you remembered anything about Woods?—No; he did not.
4352. What did he say to you?—He said nothing in that way at all.
4353. Did he speak to you on Sunday?—He did.
4354. Did he ask you then whether you remembered being at Woods'?—He did not.
4355. Did

4355. Did he speak to you at all about it?—No; he did not.

4356. Did he tell you you were to come to Carrick?—Yes.

4357. When?—When he came home on Saturday night.

4358. Then he told you you were to come to Carrick to-day?—Yes.

4359. Did you ask him for what?—I did.

4360. What did you ask him?—He said I was to come as a witness.

4361. Did he tell you what you were to prove?—No; he did not.

4362. Did he tell you what you were to be a witness about?—Yes.

4363. What did he say?—He said about Mr. Woods.

4364. What did he say about Mr. Woods?—He said nothing at all more than to tell all that I had seen whilst I was in it, and heard.

4365. That is at Woods' house?—Yes.

4366. Did he ask you did you remember seeing that a letter was given to Mr. Woods?—He did.

4367. And that it was given by your father?—I knew that myself.

4368. And he asked you did you remember it, and you did remember it?—I did remember it, of course.

4369. Did he bring you to Mr. Moloney, the attorney, that gentleman there?—Yes.

4370. When?—To-day.

4371. This morning?—Yes.

4372. And did he speak to you again to-day about it?—No, he did not speak, he took down on a paper.

4373. Do you know the nature of an oath?—I know that it will be perjury to break it.

4374. Perjury to swear falsely?—Yes.

4375. And you know what punishment you will receive?—I do.

4376. What is it?—Purchase damnation for myself.

4377. Let me ask you, will you swear you saw your father in the hall of Mr. Woods' house that night?—I will.

4378. And you will swear you saw Woods at the hall door?—Yes.

4379. And it would not be true if it were said that he was upstairs the whole time, and that your father would have to go up to him?—No, he was standing at the door.

4380. And you saw the letter given to him in the hall?—Yes.

4381. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What time of the evening was it?—It was about 10 o'clock.

4382. Do you recollect what month it was in?—In November.

4383. How far does your father live from Mr. Woods?—He lives in Holborn-street, and Mr. Woods lives in Castle-street.

4384. How far is Holborn-street from Mr. Woods?—Castle-street is the main street of the town?—Yes.

4385. Where does your father live?—In Holborn-street, the other side of the town.

4386. Are you sure you went out with your father that night?—Yes.

4387. Mr. Macdonogh.] Ten o'clock at night?—Yes.

4388. Mr. Justice Keogh.] How long were you from home altogether?—In Farley?

4389. No; how long was it from the time you left your house before you got back again?—About three-quarters of an hour.

4390. And your father came back with you?—Yes.

4391. And you went to bed when you came back?—No.

4392. Why not?—We sat at the fire awhile.

4393. How long?—About a quarter of an hour, or half an hour.

4394. A quarter of an hour?—Yes.

4395. Had you anything to eat or drink when you came back?—I had.

4396. What had you?—My supper.

4397. What had you for supper?—Tea and bread.

4398. Was your mother up then?—Yes.

4399. Did she remain up till you came back?—She did.

4400. You are sure you did not have your supper before you went out?—I did not.

4401. You had it after you came back?—Yes.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MARY HENRY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Coffey.

4402. Do you recollect the evening before the last election?—I do.

4403. Did you go in search of your husband in some place?—I went to the court-house, to Mrs. Hall's, in search of him.

4404. Did you see him there?—I knocked at the door first, and the girl came to the door, and she said that he was not there.

4405. He was denied to you at first?—The servant came to the door and said he was not there; then I stayed a few minutes longer, and I knocked again. When she next came to the door, I told her to let Mrs. Hall know that Mrs. Henry was there, and that I wanted to see my husband; and then Mrs. Hall desired her to let me in, I think.

4406. Did you see your husband ultimately?—No, I did not see him at that time at Mrs. Hall's when I went in. When I went in that time, I asked was my husband there; she said yes, but that he was not to go out of that place until after the election would be over.

4407. Who told you that?—Mrs. Hall did.

4408. Did you see your husband at last?—I did.

4409. I want to know was there any gentleman there when your husband was there?—There was.

4410. Who was that gentleman?—I asked my husband who he was, and he told me it was Mr. Stokes and Mr. Cherry.

4411. Was Mr. Cherry there standing by?—He was.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

4412. Mrs. Mary Henry is your name, I think?—Yes.

4413. Did Mrs. Hall say to you that the state of the town was very dangerous?—She did; Mr. Cherry too said it, and that he would be safer to be there inside than he would be out; that he

M. Henry. might get a blow of a stone, and be injured in another way, may be.
 22 February 1869. 4414. May I ask you, did your husband go home with you that night?—He did, indeed.

4415. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was there anything said about rewarding; what was that?—He said—

4416. Mr. Macdonogh.] Who said?—Mr. Cherry said if my husband would stop in there he would be highly rewarded, and that it would be better for him to leave him there.

4417. Did Mrs. Hall say anything of that kind?—That it would be better for him to leave him there until after the election would be over.

4418. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Did Mrs. Hall say so?—Mrs. Hall told me it would be safer for him to be there until after the election would be over.

4419. But she did not say anything about reward?—No, she did not, I cannot say it; but she was present at its saying.

[The Witness withdrew.]

A number of telegrams were handed in, and read by the Judge.

Mr. Macdonogh was heard to address the Court in behalf of the Respondent.

Dr. MACNAMARA, sworn; Examined by Mr. Robinson.

Dr. Macnamara. 4420. You are Vice-President of the College of Surgeons, in Dublin?—I am.

4421. Are you connected with Meath Hospital in any way?—I am surgeon to it.

4422. Do you know a man of the name of Thomas Brennan?—I know a man of the name of Brennan; I do not know his Christian name.

4423. Do you remember seeing him at your hospital?—Mr. Brennan called on me at night, at my own house, where I first saw him, with a letter from Major Knox, requesting me to prescribe for him.

4424. Do you remember what month it was, or what time it was?—No, but I think it was early in December.

4425. Of last year?—Last year.

4426. When you got that letter from Major Knox, requesting you to prescribe for Brennan, what did you do?—I examined the man very carefully, and found that he was labouring under considerable excitement.

4427. Just describe the state the person was in?—It was in some respect resembling delirium tremens, but it was distinct delirium tremens. This induced me to make a further examination, and I found that he had extensive erysipelas of the left leg; one leg certainly, I think it was of the left leg, with two or three wounds upon the ankle, which were the cause of the erysipelas. These wounds, he informed me, he had received at the Sligo election; he had an impression that he had killed a great number of men during the period of the Sligo election. I prescribed some remedies, which I considered suited his case, and communicated with Major Knox next day, that a due regard to his life would require his being introduced into a hospital, or some place where he could be kept under proper control. Major Knox coincided in this view, and I had him admitted into Meath Hospital, giving strict injunctions that nothing of an exciting nature whatsoever should be allowed to approach him. He was exceedingly violent at first, and presented all the symptoms of high delirium, so much so that the gentlemen on duty at the hospital, my resident pupils, informed me that they thought it would be necessary to have him removed out of the hospital. He showed an inclination to get out of the ward, and began to run in his shirt along the corridor, where the females were, and gave such evidence of delirium as that I represented to the man the dangerous condition that he was in, and I made a moral impression on him, which I think resulted in his being more quiet; and with the administration of medicines which tended to reduce the delirium, he gradually progressed, and in the morning, to my astonishment, on my going to the hospital, I found that he had left the hospital without my permission or sanction, or, I believe, without the permission or sanction of any person connected with the institution.

4428. During the time that he was there did you prevent anyone seeing him?—I did, most decidedly.

4429. Who did you prevent; do you remember?—I prevented a man, a gentleman, I believe, whom I am aware was connected with Major Knox, who represented himself as coming from Major Knox; I distinctly declared that I could not let this gentleman see him, inasmuch as, in my honest professional opinion, I considered that to talk to him on any subject connected with the election, in which he fancied he had killed or slain so many men, would be highly injurious to his health.

4430. Did you consider it necessary to prevent anyone from seeing him; externals, if we may use the word?—Yes; a gentleman called, and asked permission to see him; I also refused that gentleman, in the conscientious discharge of my duty, and the gentleman will excuse me for stating that he had the cheek to give me a subpoena, and ask me to serve it; and I said I would not turn myself into a process-server for anybody.

Cross-examined by Mr. Coffey.

4431. How soon after the interview with this gentleman who had the cheek to serve you with a subpoena?—Excuse me, it was a subpoena to serve on another party.

4432. How long after was it that the patient disappeared?—Excuse me for one moment; all I mean to state is, that I cannot say how soon it was exactly, to a day or two; but I never saw the patient from that day till he went next to the hospital, and I attended him again.

4433. Was he labouring under the delirium tremens?—He was not labouring under delirium tremens.

4434. What resembled it?—It was traumatic delirium, an affection that you might have tonight if you fell down and broke your leg; it is not fair to the man's character to state that he had delirium tremens when it is a disease that he might have from accident.

4435. Did you consider that he had been drinking?

drinking?—I did think so, but I know the delirium was not the delirium of delirium tremens; it was traumatic.

4436. Did you form your opinion and judgment after seeing him in the hospital, that he had been drinking, and drinking freely?—Well, I was under the impression that the man had been taking more stimulants than had been good for him.

4437. Stimulants; we'll call them alcohol?—Yes, stimulants.

4438. Excuse me, I do not mean it invidiously or offensively, you are on intimate terms with Major Knox?—I have had the honour of knowing Major Knox for many years, and I entertain the very highest respect for him.

4439. I do not quarrel with that, and so do I; but did you give direction that nobody was to see this patient?—I have already stated that.

4440. Without a written order from you?—Really I cannot tax my memory whether the words were "without a written order;" but I know the fact to be that I refused to let anybody see him.

4441. And you gave instructions to your assistants to that effect?—I gave instructions to every person in the hospital who had connection with him, that no one should be permitted to see him.

4442. How long had you been visiting him yourself?—Seven or eight days.

4443. How soon before the interview you had with Mr. Maloney had you seen him?—Well, I may have seen him that morning or the morning before.

4444. You would see him every day, I suppose?—I cannot swear that I saw him every day. I might not have been one day at the hospital; every day that I was there I saw him.

4445. Who was the next man in command to yourself?—The resident pupils.

4446. Who was the resident pupil particularly interested in the treatment of this patient?—There was none of them interested in the treatment of the patient, neither the one nor the other. I give all the directions myself. The nurse carries them out. The only thing is, that if any sudden emergency arises the pupil would be sent for.

4447. Did you think it necessary to communicate to Major Knox, Mr. Maloney requiring you, if necessary, to serve the man with a subpoena?—Allow me to think.

4448. I do not imagine for a moment that you will not tell me what passed?—I believe I did communicate the fact to Major Knox.

4449. When did you communicate it to Major Knox?—I could not tax my memory with that at all.

4450. Try now; did you the same day?—I could not swear.

4451. This is a curious incident in your profession?—Not at all. On more than one occasion this thing has occurred. I have found it necessary to interfere with people visiting patients in the hospital.

4452. Did you communicate with him in writing or verbally?—I cannot answer that question.

4453. Perhaps you have the voucher or the letter that Major Knox entrusted this man to give to you?—Decidedly I have not. I took the fee out of the letter, and threw it into the waste basket.

4454. You did not throw the fee into the waste basket?—No, certainly not; I put that into my pocket.

4455. Can you tell me whether it was in writing or verbally that you communicated with Major Knox?—I cannot tax my memory whether it was in writing or not. I am in the habit of seeing Major Knox very frequently. Major Knox will tell you at once. If he tells me which it was, I will tell you.

4456. What did you do with the notice that Mr. Moloney brought?—The subpoena for the man?

4457. The notice, or whatever document it was?—That was given to me by Mr. Moloney?

4458. Yes?—I either sent it to Major Knox, or I gave it to him, I think.

4459. Had you any communication with Mr. Lawder, verbally or by letter, on the subject?—The first time I had the pleasure of speaking to Mr. Lawder was about 20 minutes ago.

4460. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You did not see the man after you had that conversation with Mr. Moloney?—No, my Lord, when I went up to the hospital the next day; I think it was on the Friday that Mr. Moloney was with me; I did not go on Saturday or Sunday. When I went up, on Monday I think it was, I heard that the bird had flown, and no more about it.

4461. Mr. Coffey.] I suppose all the pupils had access to this man?—Of course they had; every pupil had access to him.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN FAWCETT, sworn; Examined by Dr. Kaye.

4462. I BELIEVE you are Assistant Master in the Diocesan School at Sligo?—Yes.

4463. Do you know a man of the name of John Feeny?—I do not exactly know him; I met him on one occasion only.

4464. I believe he has a public-house in the town of Sligo?—Yes.

4465. Do you remember going there in the month of November with Mr. Waugh?—I do.

4466. I believe it was the evening of the 18th of November?—The eve of the election; I do not remember the date.

4467. Was Feeny at home when you went there?—He was not.

4468. Were you present in court when he was examined?—I was not.

85.

4469. Did you go upstairs with Mr. Waugh?—Yes.

4470. Had you some drink?—Yes, whilst we were waiting for Feeny I believe some drink was got up.

4471. Feeny after some time came in?—Yes.

4472. Will you tell us what occurred after Feeny came in?—Mr. Waugh handed Feeny Major Knox's card, and said he expected to see him that evening. Feeny said he was afraid to go, and Mr. Waugh asked him to come down at once. He said he could not come down immediately, but that he would come in the course of half an hour or an hour after. He said he was afraid he would be beaten on the way down.

M 3

4473. Mr.

Dr.
Macnamara.
22 February
1869.

J. Fawcett.

J. Fawcett. 4473. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was that the night before the polling?—Yes.
 22 February 1869. 4474. Dr. Kaye.] Was there anything said about a sum of 50*l.* on that occasion?—Not a word.

4475. If he said that you or Mr. Waugh offered him 50*l.* on that occasion, would it be true?—Decidedly not.

4476. Was there anything said about a sum of 20*l.*?—Not a syllable about any money whatever. There was nothing said but what I mention.

4477. Was there any money laid down?—None whatever.

4478. There was nothing said, either by you or Waugh, upon that occasion to this effect, "Here is 20*l.* for you if you come"?—No.

4479. Is that true?—Yes.

4480. Have you told us all that occurred?—My conversation with the man consisted of five words. When I was leaving the room, I told him not to come. I would not know the man now if I saw him. I have never seen him since. Nothing was said about it. I heard the whole conversation between him and Mr. Waugh.

Cross-examined by Mr. Palles.

4481. You went, I suppose, to Feeny to induce him to vote for Major Knox?—Well, I did not go—

4482. Why was it you went?—Mr. Waugh asked me to go up to the barrack to see a person there; I believe he is what is called canteen master of the barrack.

4483. Who is the canteen master?—This Mr. Feeny.

4484. They thought, I suppose, a little gentle pressure—?—I do not know anything at all about that; I did not ask any questions about it. I went up to the barrack; I knew nothing about the barrack; I thought the canteen master might be some other name for the officer in command. The town was in such a state, I thought it might be well to get down some soldiers; this canteen master lived out of the barracks, and a man brought us to his house.

4485. Were you accompanied down to the canteen master's by a serjeant?—Yes, he accompanied us to the house; we did not know it.

4486. You said there was some message from the barracks?—No.

4487. Did you go up on some other occasions with Mr. Waugh?—Never; I was never in the house before or since.

4488. Who did you speak to first when you went into the house?—Some woman; I don't know who she was.

4489. How long were you up-stairs before Feeny came in?—I should say ten minutes.

4490. What were you doing there?—Drinking a glass of beer.

4491. There was nothing in the world said about money at all?—Not a syllable.

4492. There was no money produced?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.

AARON WAUGH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

A. Waugh. 4493. Do you know the last witness, Mr. Fawcett?—I do.

4494. Do you remember your going to Feeny's house?—I do.

4495. Accompanied by Fawcett?—It was.

4496. About what hour was that?—I think it was between eight and nine o'clock.

4497. Was Feeny at home when you went?—No.

4498. You went up-stairs?—We were sent up-stairs.

4499. And while you were there did he come in?—He did.

4500. Tell us the conversation that occurred between you?—I told him that Major Knox met me at the "Victoria Hotel," at least I was passing there, and Major Knox called me over and said, "I understand a man named Feeny wants to see me; tell him that I cannot go up there; it is a bad locality," or something of that sort, and "I will be disengaged at nine o'clock;" it was to apologise to him for not calling on him.

4501. Did you convey that message to Feeny?—I did.

4502. What did he say?—He said he would come down.

4503. What next happened, if anything else?—Well, there is nothing of interest or importance afterwards.

4504. Did you offer him any sum of money for his vote?—No.

4505. Did you offer him a sum of 50*l.*?—Never.

4506. Did you offer him a single shilling?—There was not a word about it.

4507. Was there anything said that he should receive money if he voted?—No.

4508. Were you present in court when you heard that man say that?—I was.

4509. Was there a word of truth in what he stated?—Indeed there was not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Waters.

4510. I believe you have been some time in Major Knox's employment?—I have.

4511. When did you come down to Sligo?—I was down very often; I was down at the revision.

4512. Who conducted the revision for Major Knox?—I really cannot tell you that.

4513. I will help you; did Mr. Phibbs?—I do not know.

4514. Was he engaged for Major Knox at the revision?—I heard so, but I cannot say.

4515. Were you in court every day?—Yes.

4516. And you are unable to tell his Lordship who conducted the revision for Major Knox; was it Mr. Pollock?—I saw him in court.

4517. Will you answer my question; was Mr. Pollock engaged for Major Knox?—I believe he was, but I do not know.

4518. You were there every day?—Yes.

4519. Did you see Mr. Wilson there every day?—I saw him there very often.

4520. Was he engaged for Major Knox?—I heard so.

4521. Will you have the goodness to tell me how how much money you received from Major Knox, or from anyone on his behalf, directly or indirectly, in connection with the Sligo election?—The only sum I received was a sum of about 12*l.* 10*s.*

4522. What was that for?—Expenses in canvassing.

4523. Is that the money for which you gave the receipt?—It is.

4524. Did you get any other money, directly or indirectly, from anybody, but that?—None but that.

4525. Did you see Major Knox canvassing?—No.

4526. Did you never accompany him?—No, never.

4527. Did you know a house in Hulbert-street; I think it is called Haggerty's?—I do.

4528. You have been in the house?—Yes.

4529. Frequently?—No, once.

4530. Were you in that house about the time of the election?—I was.

4531. With whom?—Mr. O'Farrell asked me in, to have a liquor.

4532. I am speaking of Haggerty's house?—O'Farrell's house.

4533. Were you never in Haggerty's house?—Never.

4534. Do you know who owns Haggerty's house?—I understand it belongs to Major Knox.

4535. You were a canvassing agent?—Well, I did my best.

4536. Who canvassed with you?—No one that I know of. I did my utmost with my own friends.

4537. Who ever went with you canvassing?—Nobody.

4538. Do you mean to swear that you never were accompanied on any occasion by any men canvassing for Major Knox?—No.

4539. Whom did you canvass?—I canvassed my own personal friends.

4540. Will you give us the names of some of them?—I have a brother-in-law, and other friends.

4541. How many did you canvass?—Every one that I knew.

4542. Will you say how many; was it two or twenty?—I think it was three or four, or half-a-dozen.

4543. No more than that?—Well, every person I knew.

4544. Will you tell us how many?—I really could not name the number.

4545. Not more than three or four?—Perhaps there were more.

4546. Were there or were there not?—I could not really state the number exactly.

4547. Would you say that there were more than five?—Perhaps there were.

4548. Will you say whether there were or were not; sure, you know whom you called upon, and can you not tell his Lordship shortly?—A number of my own personal friends.

4549. You canvassed a number of electors for Major Knox?—I think about half a dozen.

Re-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

4550. Did you repeatedly come up and down from Dublin?—I did.

4551. And you canvassed these people?—I did.

4552. Were you down as a reporter also?—I was.

4553. And the whole amount you received was 12*l.* 10*s.*?—It was.

4554. Was anything said when you went to Feeny's, as to Mrs. Hall's house?—No.

4555. Was there no mention of Mrs. Hall at all?—No.

4556. Were you at Mrs. Hall's that evening?—No.

[The Witness withdrew.]

ALEXANDER GILLMOR, sworn; Examined by Mr. Robinson.

4557. ARE you Mayor of Sligo?—I am.

4558. Have you been in court during the inquiry here?—I have.

4559. You remember what has been sworn as to Curragh's?—Yes.

4560. Were you in court on the morning he was arrested?—No, I never saw him till he was arrested. I was 20 yards from him at the time.

4561. You actually saw him arrested?—Yes.

4562. On the polling morning?—Yes.

4563. About what time did you see him arrested; was it soon after the poll was opened?—I rather think it was after 10.

4564. Where was he standing, or what was he doing, when he was arrested?—I saw him going to the court-house, going up the steps, when he was pounced upon by two men.

4565. He was going up the steps to vote?—So I understood or imagined.

4566. After he was arrested, what did you do?—I endeavoured to approach him, seeing him arrested by those two men, who I knew were not sheriff's bailiffs at all, and the minute I did so I was struck and nearly knocked down. I collected myself and made another effort to approach him. The mob surrounded me, and I was altogether driven away from him; so he was carried off to gaol by those two men.

4567. What did you do after that?—I went to the prison in about an hour, I should think, afterwards. I saw the man. I said I thought he was very rudely treated, and that I came to him to say that, as a friend, I would lend him as much money as he had been arrested for.

4568. Did you, in point of fact, lend him the money?—I did.

4569. Was anyone present when you lent him the money?—Well, I think the governor of the prison was in the office at the time.

4570. We have the amount already; that amount was paid by you?—Yes.

4571. The man was liberated?—Yes; he had some portion of the amount in his pocket. It was 15*l.* I think I lent him.

4572. Do you know how much it was; what was the whole of it?—There was some silver.

4573. Some small amount beyond the 15*l.*?—Yes.

4574. And you lent the difference?—Yes.

4575. Did you ask him to vote for anyone?—No.

4576. Did you ever act as agent or canvasser for

A. Waugh.
—
22 February
1869.

A. Gillmor.
—

A. Gillmor. for Major Knox during the election?—Not at all.

22 February
1869.

4577. Before you paid that money, had you any conversation about the payment of it with Major Knox or Mr. Lawder?—Not at all. I did not see them in the meantime at all.

4578. You were in court when Mrs. Dunleavy was examined?—Yes.

4579. Did she ever make any application to you?—Several.

4580. I mean in reference to Major Knox?—Several.

4581. What did she ask you to do?—To get a loan of money from Major Knox for her.

4582. Can you remember what month or months it was in?—I think it was about July and August; she came repeatedly.

4583. What did you say?—I said I could not do such a thing; I would not attempt to ask Major Knox for such a thing.

4584. In point of fact, did you ask Major Knox for money for her?—Not at all.

4585. You told her distinctly you would not?—Certainly.

4586. Do you remember seeing her after the revision?—I do.

4587. Did she make any complaint to you when she saw you after the revision?—She did.

4588. What was her complaint?—She complained, I thought rather bitterly, that she had been refused by Major Knox the loan of a few pounds, as she termed it, when she had got a vote, as she had not previously when she applied.

4589. She complained of that?—Yes.

4590. Do you know her husband?—I do.

4591. Did he ever speak to you about Major Knox?—He did; he came with the same purpose to me.

4592. Do I understand you by that to mean that he came to suggest the same interference on your part?—Exactly.

4593. That is, to get money from Major Knox for him?—Yes, protesting that he would vote for him, and he swore 50 oaths to that effect.

4594. Did you, when he had so represented or protested to you, offer him any money?—I did not; I would not ask Major Knox for such a thing.

4595. And you took no action on his request?—Never.

4596. Had Mrs. Dunleavy ever any communication with you after this, as to whether or not she had got money from Major Knox?—Not after the last occurrence I mentioned, after the revision, when she complained of not being successful in her application to Major Knox.

4597. That was after the revision?—Yes.

4598. Do you know a man of the name of Leonard?—Yes.

4599. Had you any communication with him in January 1869?—Yes.

4600. What was it?—I was told he was looking for me. I came down to my shop and saw him. He said he was very badly off, and could get no employment in the town. I asked him what he wanted. He said, on account of being one of Major Knox's men, he could not get employment.

4601. On account of what?—Being one of Major Knox's men, and that he intended to go to Scotland to look for employment. In fact, he said he was almost starving, and begged a few shillings from me.

4602. Did anything pass in that conversation, or in any other conversation, about money?—I asked him when he was going to Scotland. He said he could not go till after the following Monday, inasmuch as there was a summons against him for an assault on some person. He came after the Monday, and said a second time he was going away, and asked me to give him a few shillings to assist him in paying his passage. I did so. I think it was 5s. I gave him. He then said he supposed I had heard the rumours as to his having made a statement to the effect of his getting money from Major Knox. I said, as he mentioned it, I did. "What did you hear, sir?" he said. "I heard," said I, "that you would represent that you got 5*l.* of Major Knox to bring to your brother-in-law, Henry; is that the case?" He said, "Most decidedly not; who told you that?" "I cannot exactly tell you," said I; nor could I, indeed, at the time; "but is it true or false?" "It is perfectly false," he said, "Major Knox never gave me such a thing." I asked him if he gave him any money for any other person. He said, "No, I never got anything for him, but a few pounds for my own services."

4603. But was anything said by you to him, that you would quash a summons; that you were mayor, and that you would quash a summons?—It is almost ridiculous to answer such a question. I never did. I should not do so either.

4604. At all events, it is untrue?—Perfectly untrue.

4605. With respect to Mrs. Hall's house, it was said, as I understand you, by one of the witnesses, that you were going in there every day, or the like of that?—I have been going in for years.

4606. Have you known Mrs. Hall for years?—I have.

4607. Have you known a gentleman of the name of Mossom for years?—I have.

4608. Have you known him intimately, and have you been in the habit of going to him for years?—He is a personal friend of mine.

4609. Did you ever see Major Knox, or Mr. Lawder, during the election week, in the house of Mrs. Hall?—Never.

4610. To your knowledge, was there any committee formed for Major Knox, or were you a member of any committee of his?—No committee whatever.

4611. You were not a member of any committee?—Certainly not.

4612. During those two or three days, we will say for a fortnight, from the time of the revision up to the time of the election, in what state was the town?—In a very disturbed state.

4613. A short time before the election, and during the election, in what state was the town?—In a perfectly frightful state. On the Sunday previous, I considered it was in a perfect state of siege; no man's life was worth anything, any supporter of Major Knox, who would venture to go round the town.

4614. How far back from the nomination day would you say that extended?—Well, I would say it was a fortnight it was bad, but for a week previous, especially the Sunday night previous, to the election, it was a terrible state of the town.

4615. What

4615. What day was the nomination?—The 17th; the polling was on the 19th.

4616. As a matter of fact, were not houses wrecked in the town?—Yes, 23 panes were smashed in my own house that night.

4617. I asked you about Curragh; what was done to Curragh's house?—I did not see it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Coffey.

4618. You were an active supporter of Major Knox?—Well, I was anxious for his return.

4619. Were you not an active supporter of his?—Yes, I should say so.

4620. Did you use your influence with your friends and fellow-townsmen to induce them to vote for him, as far as that influence extended?—Yes.

4621. You canvassed everybody that you came across?—No, I do not know that I did.

4622. Nearly every one?—I might have had casual conversations with them.

4623. Did you not do your best to secure the election of Major Knox?—I did everything in my power that I considered legal and proper to do.

4624. About a week or so previous to the election, was Mr. Knox with you at your house?—He was in my house several times.

4625. About how long was he in deliberation with you about the election, and the number of votes that you supposed you would be able to secure to him?—He never asked me such a question.

4626. I did not ask you that, but how long were you in deliberation about the election?—I cannot fix any particular occasion. He was in several times, as I was telling you.

4627. You said that about a week before the election Major Knox went to you after his arrival from Dublin; do you recollect the day he arrived from Dublin?—No, he did not come to me the day after he arrived.

4628. The day after?—Now, it occurs to me it was two days after he came that I saw him.

4629. Where did you retire; into the drawing room or the parlour, or where was it?—I could not tax my memory with it at present.

4630. Tell me where it was you went to; you and him together?—I dare say it was the front or back drawing-room.

4631. How long did you remain together on that occasion?—Really I could not tell you.

4632. I do not want to pin you to the exact time?—Sometimes he might have stopped an hour, sometimes not a minute.

4633. Was it an hour, to the best of your belief?—No, I do not believe he ever stopped at one time an hour.

4634. We will say half an hour?—He might have stopped that time.

4635. Upon your oath, did you not converse about the number of pledged voters there were, and about the prospects of the election. First, let me ask you, had you a list before you?—I had a list.

4636. A list marked off?—I had a list marked.

4637. Had you a list of the doubtful voters, the promised voters, the Catholics, and the Protestants?—No.

4638. How is it marked?—I made it into two columns for my own private information, and kept it by me.

4639. What did the two columns consist of?—I am sorry I have not the list.

4640. Did you ever submit that list to Major Knox?—No.

4641. Do you mean to say you never showed your own private list to him?—No, I never showed him that list.

4642. Do you mean to say you never showed him any list?—Never.

4643. You will swear that?—Yes.

4644. Did you tell him the result of your calculation?—In casual conversation I might have mentioned to him how many would be likely to support one and how many the other.

4645. Upon your oath, did not you tell?—If you go so close as that I might have mentioned the number.

4646. I will not be satisfied with that, did you tell him?—It is possible I did.

4647. I do not want what is possible, I want the fact?—I will not swear distinctly.

4648. Will you swear indistinctly?—I might have mentioned the numbers to him.

4649. Do you not know you did?—I do not.

4650. Tell us what was the result of your calculation?—Indeed, I do not remember.

4651. But now I ask you, Mr. Gillmor, as a gentleman of position in the town of Sligo, what do you tell us is the result of your calculation?—I could not tell the numbers; but I put them down as exceedingly close.

4652. Did you tell him that?—Very likely, but I do not recollect now that I distinctly told him.

4653. Did you consult with Mr. Stokes upon the election?—I might have spoken to him, but I never had any actual consultation with him.

4654. I ask you as a gentleman, did you not consult and speak and discuss with Mr. Stokes about this election, the chances and the prospects of it, in the interest of Major Knox?—I think I might.

4655. Did you consult with Mr. Cherry upon this election, and the chances of it in the interest of Major Knox?—Well, as far as casual conversation might go, I might have done so.

4656. Did you not, as a matter of business, consult with Mr. Cherry, Major Knox's chances and prospects, and what each of you were doing?—It is likely I did.

4657. Did you not consult with Mr. Harloe Phibbs, as a matter of business, on the chances of the election and its prospects, and what each of you were doing, and the results of the inquiries?—Nothing beyond casual conversation.

4658. Was it not with a view to ascertain how the matter stood as to the result?—I think it probable that all his friends, when they casually met, would talk of it to one another.

4659. Did you not meet frequently together?—I recollect no meetings.

4660. Had you any letters from Major Knox a fortnight or three weeks previous to the election, or did any conversation pass between you and Major Knox?—I daresay there did.

4661. Have you any of the letters here?—No.

4662. What has become of them?—I never thought a word of them, I destroyed them. I do not keep letters.

4663. Mr. Macdonogh.] Have you been called upon to produce any letters?

N

4664. Mr.

A. Gillmor.

22 February
1869.

A. Gillmor. 4664. Mr. Coffey.] May I ask you when you destroyed Major Knox's letters?—Perhaps the very moment when I read some of them.

22 February 1869.

4665. But when did you destroy the correspondence?—As a rule generally at the time.

4666. A fortnight or three weeks previous to the day of nomination, were there letters passing between you and Major Knox?—I do not think so close as that; I think he was a week or a fortnight in Sligo, or a month.

4667. When do you destroy the letter; at the time you receive it?—I might keep it two or three days in my pocket, and then destroy it.

4668. Were not these letters on the subject of the election, and upon the voters who were doubtful and those who were secure?—Yes, not all the letters; there might be allusions in the way you have mentioned in some of them.

4669. Were there not?—Yes, allusions in some of them.

4670. I will name one of the letters; was there not one letter received by you from Major Knox, in which he thanked you in warm terms for the exertions you were using in his behalf, in very warm terms; that will recall it to your recollection, "My dear Gillmor"?—He might have, thanked me for something that appeared in my newspaper in support of him.

4671. I am not asking you that?—I do not recollect him thanking me for any personal exertions.

4672. Will you swear he did not?—No, because he has been very kind in writing in a friendly way to me occasionally.

4673. Did Leonard take upon himself to communicate the result of his litigation?—I knew the result; I was presiding at the petty sessions when his case came on; I know the case myself, it is hanging over him at this moment.

4674. Not disposed of?—No.

4675. You gave him 5 s. to assist him to Scotland?—Yes, it was after the sessions.

4676. You knew how Curragh was going to vote, did not you, upon your oath?—He told me the night before, for the first time, how he was going to vote.

4677. Did you go to him and ask him?—No.

4678. He came to you?—I was standing in the public street; a man came up to me and said, Mr. Curragh wanted to see me.

4679. Was Curragh a friend of yours?—No.

4680. Did you ever see him write?—I do not think I did; oh, I saw him sign his name.

4681. What did he sign?—I think his name is Henry.

4682. What was the document he signed?—An I O U he gave me for 15 l.

4683. When did he give you the I O U?—Before I lent him the money.

4684. Was it in the gaol?—Yes.

4685. Have you got it with you?—Yes (producing it).

4686. Whose handwriting is that?—Mine, excepting his name.

4687. You got none of it since, I presume?—I applied to him for it, and he promised to pay it.

4688. Where is Curragh now?—I do not know indeed.

4689. When did you see him last?—I am not sure, it was a month or six weeks perhaps.

4690. Have you had any communication with him?—No, except writing and asking for payment of the money.

4691. Where did you write?—I wrote to his home.

4692. Where?—In Sligo.

4693. Did you not know he was not there?—I did not know, because I have an answer in my pocket.

4694. Mr. Robinson.] He is there at this moment?—I believe so.

4695. Mr. Coffey.] Do you know in whose handwriting that is?—I do not know.

4696. Did you ever see it before?—No; I never saw that before.

4697. Are you sure you can form no idea of whose handwriting that is?—No; I never saw it before.

Re-examined by Mr. Robinson.

4698. Did you do the printing work for Major Knox during the election?—Yes; a good deal of his work was done in my office.

4699. His address, and matters of that kind, were printed there?—Yes.

4700. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you know the house called Haggerty's house, said to belong to Major Knox?—I do.

4701. Did you attend there at any meetings?—I pledge you my oath, I never sat there as a committee-man, nor at any meeting whatever.

4702. Did you go there at all?—I was in it.

4703. During the election?—Yes.

4704. What time used you to go there?—I was in it on one occasion.

4705. What time of the day?—I think, as nearly as I can recollect, the Saturday previous to the election; I went in it at about two o'clock in the day.

4706. Who were there when you went in?—I think I saw Mr. Brennan in it.

4707. Who else?—I think Leonard was in it, and perhaps one or two other men who were not voters.

4708. Who else?—I think there were two other men named Curry in it.

4709. Who else were there?—There were very few in it on that occasion; I think perhaps I might have seen Mr. O'Farrell in his own house next to it.

4710. I am talking of that house, not the next house; did you go there on any future occasion?—Once or twice I might have passed into it.

4711. After that?—After that.

4712. What time would that be?—In the day-time; I never was there at night.

4713. Do you recollect whom you met when you went once or twice?—Well, I recollect Brennan being in it; I saw McMorrow in it afterwards; I saw a man named Knaggs in it, and those other managers of the mobs.

4714. What brought you there?—I went in to see these people.

4715. What people?—Knaggs or Brennan, or McMorrow.

4716. You expected to find them there?—Yes; I heard they were there.

4717. What brought you there; what was your object in going there?—I had no particular object; just to see they were there.

4718. You said you went two or three times, what was the object you had in view in going there?—I had no particular object, except to see these parties.

4719. What did you go to see them for?—Indeed I could not say particularly now, it was to see they were there, just to talk to them.

4720. When you went two or three times to see see a particular person, one would suppose you had some particular object in going?—I assure you I had no particular object in going except just to pass into the house.

4721. You expected to see the same men there each time?—Yes, I dare say I did; I saw more on one occasion than on another.

4722. Did you ever see Mr. Stokes there?—No.

4723. Mr. Cherry?—Never.

4724. Did you ever see Mr. Wilson there?—Never.

4725. Mr. Williams?—No.

4726. Mr. Petrie?—No; I never saw Mr. Petrie.

4727. Mr. Lyons?—No.

4728. You never saw Mr. Lyons there?—No.

4729. At any time you were there?—No.

4730. Were you ever there in the evening?—Never.

[The Witness withdrew.

WILLIAM PETRIE, sworn; Examined by Dr. Kaye.

4731. ARE you engaged in business in Sligo?—Yes.

4732. Do you know a man of the name of Michael O'Hara?—I do.

4733. Did you ever on any occasion say to O'Hara that if he did not register his vote, you would get him 25*l.* after the revision?—Never.

4734. Did you hear him examined?—I did.

4735. Was that false that he swore in that box?—It was.

4736. Did you say anything to the like effect to him?—He buys a good deal of cattle for me; he has been doing so the last 10 years. I live two miles out in the country, and I pass his door every morning going down to my own place, to the fishing; he said several times to me that he did not know how to do about this election, that he had ruined himself before, and so had his brother James, and he did not wish to mix himself up in it at all, and he thought he would go away, and not register his vote at all. "Well," I said, "if that is the case, Michael, you had better not pursue politics any further."

4737. Is he an old man?—An old man.

4738. Did you make him any offer?—Never.

4739. Or hold out any inducement to him not to register?—Never.

4740. Or not to vote?—I never spoke to him after that.

4741. You never spoke to him after that?—Not upon that subject; this was at the time the register was going on. I never mentioned the election to him after that.

4742. Do you know a man named John Henry?—I do know him.

4743. Did you see or hear him give evidence in the box?—I did.

4744. Did you hear him swear that you called on him, and asked him who he was going to vote for?—Well, there was a portion of his evidence that I did not hear.

4745. Did you call on him?—I pass his door going up and down twice a day when I am at home. Last July I was coming down; he was due an account for herrings. I asked him if he was going to pay it; it was 18 months old. I said, "Henry, are you going to pay that?" He said, "I will, bye-and-bye." Major Knox had been in the town canvassing before that; the conversation turned upon it. He said to me at that time, he was going to vote for Major Knox. I said to him, "You scoundrel, is that the way you are going to use Serjeant Armstrong, after all the trouble he has had with you?"

4746. You had been a supporter of Serjeant Armstrong?—I was, and we expected him back at that time.

4747. What was his reply?—Well, he said the Major was an old soldier, and he thought he would be more for him than anybody else. Perhaps I might tell what the Serjeant did for him, what he tried to get for him. He was a pensioner, his pension was taken from him.

4748. Did he say that at the time?—No; but that is what caused my answer to him.

4749. No matter about that, did you, upon that or any other occasion, say to him now or never was his time, that as he was a poor man he might make his shop full?—I never said such a word, and I never saw him from that till about a month before the election, when he came down to the office to pay some of the account.

4750. He did pay some of it?—He did, about a month before the election.

4751. Nothing of that kind occurred between you and him?—Nothing of that kind occurred.

4752. Did you say he would get 30*l.* for voting, or not voting?—Never a word about it.

4753. The statement that he made to that effect was false?—Entirely false.

4754. In the particulars which are furnished there, I see your name mentioned in connection with a man named Michael M'Goldrick, as having bribed him. Did you ever bribe M'Goldrick in any way?—Never in my life. I never spoke to him on election matters.

Cross-examined by Mr. Palles.

4755. Of course you voted for Major Knox?—I did.

4756. I suppose you supported the Major from the time you heard Serjeant Armstrong had retired?—No.

4757. When did you first join the Major?—I was never asked to join the Major.

4758. When was it you first joined his cause or approved his principles?—I never joined his cause.

4759. Nor approved his principles?—I do not know anything about his principles.

4760. How many people did you ask to vote for Major Knox?—I never asked one.

4761. Did you think it would be a prudent thing for a man to get away during the election?—I never thought at all about it.

4762. Did you think it was a tolerably convenient thing for any poor man not to be registered?—I never thought at all about it.

4763. Did you, in a joke, ever tell these people not to register, that it was not a convenient thing?—Never.

4764. Were you never in Major Knox's rooms at Leech's?—Never but once; I was once up there.

4765. When was that?—It was some time before the election.

4766. It

A. Gillmor.

22 February
1869.

W. Petrie.

W. Petrie.

22 February 1869. 4766. It must have been before the election, a week before?—I think it was about eight or 10 days before the election.

4767. What did you go there for?—I had no particular business, there was some other friend asked me up to see him.

4768. What friend?—I think Mr. Balfour.

4769. He asked you to go and see the Major at Mr. Leech's?—I met him in the street, and he asked me.

4770. You went?—I did.

4771. You saw some other gentlemen there?—I was not thinking at all about it.

4772. How many gentlemen did you see at Leech's, with the Major?—There were two or three there, and Mr. Pollock came in just as I was leaving.

4773. You cannot tell me the name of any one of those two or three gentlemen?—No, they were strange gentlemen, not townsmen at all.

4774. How often were you in Haggerty's?—Three times.

4775. When first?—I should think five or six days before the election, the first time.

4776. The second time, a couple of days before the election?—No; the second day after that or so.

4777. And the third time, shortly before the election?—Three or four days before the election.

4778. Who did you see at Haggerty's the first time you went there?—I first saw Mr. Grubb there.

4779. Anybody else?—I saw Henry Lyons there once.

4780. This is the first time I am asking you?—I am on the first time.

4781. Who else?—There was his son.

4782. Can you think of somebody else?—Mr. Williams and Mr. Woods were there also.

4783. What Mr. Woods?—The old gentleman, W. A. Woods.

4784. Anybody else?—Not that I remember of just now.

4785. Somebody that you don't remember. You did not meet Mr. Stokes there?—I never met Mr. Stokes there.

4786. Did you ever meet Mr. Cherry there?—No.

4787. What did you go there for?—I was up at Mr. Balfour's; I had my tea with him, and he said, "Come away down till we see Mr. Grubb, an old friend of mine;" it was he that took me away there first.

4788. Was he located there?—He was in the room.

4789. Was that where he was living?—I do not know.

4790. What were the gentlemen doing when you got there?—Just standing talking.

4791. The entire time?—The most of the time I was talking to Woods at the top of the stairs.

4792. What were you talking to Woods about?—A field of grass seeds I had bought from him.

4793. You were not talking about the election?—I was blowing him up about some bad seed I had.

4794. Were there any chairs in the room, or were they all standing?—I think there were chairs and a table.

4795. Were they all sitting down?—Nobody was sitting down while I was there.

4796. Was it spirits and water, or a pen and ink, they had?—Spirits and water?

4797. Yes?—I never saw any.

4798. Pen and ink?—No, I never did.

4799. What were they doing, those four or five gentlemen?—I went in, Mr. Balfour introduced me to Mr. Grubb; we talked three or four minutes, but almost all I did, was standing at the top of the stairs talking to Mr. Woods.

4800. You are not able, then, to tell me what the other gentlemen were doing there?—No.

4801. What hour of the evening was this?—About eight o'clock at night the first time.

4802. How long would you say you were there altogether, before you left?—I should think it would be an hour, fully.

4803. Did any persons come in and out of the door during that hour?—No.

4804. You were talking to Woods about this little dispute. The second time, can you tell me the names of any other persons you have not mentioned before, that you met there?—The second time, about the middle of the day, when I went up and saw him, there was nobody but Mr. Grubb there.

4805. The third time, who did you see there?—Well, really, I do not remember, but there were only one or two there that day. I think Mr. Hignell was there.

4806. Anybody else?—Mr. Grubb.

4807. Grubb, Hignell, and—?—Myself. I do not remember anyone else; I do not think there was anyone else there.

4808. How long were you there on the third occasion?—A few minutes.

4809. That, I suppose, was in the light?—It was in the day; I could not go out at night about that time.

4810. You know Mr. Gillmor, the mayor?—I do, well.

4811. And you were often in Mr. Gillmor's establishment?—I would go there on business a good deal.

4812. Were you ever in there when Major Knox was there?—I think about 10 days before the election, I was in Mr. Gillmor's shop, and Major Knox came in.

4813. When Major Knox came in, did he retire with Mr. Gillmor?—Mr. Gillmor asked us both up.

4814. And did you go up with him?—I did.

4815. How long did you stay there altogether?—About 15 minutes, I suppose.

4816. Tell us what you said, as well as you remember?—I was talking to the Major about fishing, and about Fishing Bills.

4817. Anything else?—Nothing else.

4818. The Major said nothing to anybody, except about fishing?—That was all the conversation between us.

4819. There was not a word about the election?—I did not hear a word about the election.

4820. When was it he asked you to vote?—In July.

4821. Who was with him?—Mr. Phibbs came to my house with him.

4822. Did Mr. Phibbs introduce you to the Major?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Dr. Kaye.

4823. I believe you have a very extensive salmon fishery?—I have.

4824. Under Lord Palmerston?—I hold under a great many landlords, in one way or another.

4825. You said, in answer to a question by my friend, you could not at that time go out at night?—Through the day and in the evenings, when I was going along, I was three times attacked, and I had to take shelter about two miles out of the town. I slept at my son's; his windows were smashed. The night before the election, I had to go and stop at an hotel.

was

4826. The state of the town was so agitated?—At one time I would take shelter in one Burns', a shoemaker, and other times I would be walking the street.

4827. Your own residence is a short distance out of town?—Two miles out.

4828. Did anything happen in your own house at all?—All the windows were broken.

[The Witness withdrew.]

W. Petrie.

22 February
1869.

THOMAS BRENNAN, sworn; Examined by Mr. McDonogh.

4829. I BELIEVE you live with your mother, in the town of Sligo?—I did.

4830. Are you a Provision Merchant, or was she?—I was.

4831. I want to ask you first, with reference to Mr. Patrick Flynn; I will come to him first, and take the others in their order; did you see that Mr. Patrick Flynn there, in the box?—I did.

4832. You heard him examined?—I heard part of the evidence.

4833. Did you hear him state that he told you he had been served with an ejectment for non-payment of rent?—He did.

4834. Did he ask you anything in reference to that?—He wanted me to stand to him, to take him out of the hobble.

4835. Had you had dealings with him; he is a pig merchant, is he not?—He is a pig butcher; he used to buy pigs in his place.

4836. Had you had dealings with him?—Oh, yes.

4837. What occurred between you and him about this?—I asked him the nature of the case, and he told me.

4838. What did he tell you?—That he was very badly off, and that if I could take him out of his hobble, he would be in a position to do some favour for me again, which he could in the pork season.

4839. Did he tell you who was the attorney against him?—I asked him and he told me; I had no money then to relieve him, so I called on Mr. Pollock.

4840. Is that the gentleman who has been mentioned as the attorney against him?—I went to Mr. Pollock, and got the case adjourned to the next sessions, that in the meantime I might have money to pay it, if he had not money to pay it himself; he told me he had an idea of getting a wife and a fortune, and if he got that he would be independent.

4841. Did Major Knox ever, by writing or otherwise, authorise you to pay that ejectment process for him?—No such thing at all.

4842. Did Major Knox ever write to you such a letter as to say that he was thankful for Mr. Flynn's vote, and that he authorised you to pay the amount?—No such thing ever occurred.

4843. Do you remember after the regatta, it was I believe in 1868, it occurred?—I forget now.

4844. It was in the summer or autumn season, at all events; do you remember Flynn asking you to go with him to Major Knox?—I do.

4845. Was the Major at this time, after the regatta, staying on the Mall, in Sligo?—He was.

4846. What was his object in going to the Major?—Well, he was badly off, and wanted to see if he could lift something from the Major.

4847. Did you go with him?—I did.

4848. Did you hear him apply to the Major for anything?—I did.

85.

4849. What was it?—He said, "Sir, I am a great friend of yours, and times are bad, and if you would give me something I would stick to you"; and he immediately put his hands in his pockets in this way (illustrating): "Mr. Flynn," said he, "I am very sorry, but if it was to secure 50 seats I would not give a single sixpence or a single shilling."

4850. Mr. Justice Keogh.] That is the way that Major Knox acted?—Yes, that is the way.

4851. What did Flynn do then?—He said he was a humbug, he did not delay long; the Major turned his back on us.

4852. Since the Major said he would not give a sixpence or a shilling, did you do anything to try to relieve him from the ejectment?—I did.

4853. Was that of your own motion?—Yes.

4854. Not on the authority of Major Knox?—No, Major Knox knew nothing about it.

4855. What was it you did to help your friend, the pig butcher?—The case was adjourned from one sessions to another; I went to the next sessions and I got the money, 10*l.* something, I forget what it was, but I took Flynn's word that he would repay me when he got the fortune; I had the life hunted out of me to get it paid, and I went and paid it then to Mr. Pollock.

4856. Was Flynn with you when you paid it to Mr. Pollock?—I forget now.

4857. Is it true that you ever canvassed with Major Knox in your life?—No.

4858. Do you remember one day having seen the Major and Mr. Harloe Phibbs, the attorney, coming up into Pound-street?—I was in that neighbourhood, I was coming down Albert-lane, Mr. Harloe Phibbs, a particular friend of mine, called me over, and he said, "Come over here, we will go up Pound-street," and I went up Pound-street with him.

4859. Did you show him any houses?—I did.

4860. Did you leave them then?—I did.

4861. Did you see a mob of women following Major Knox?—I did.

4862. Do you remember his getting into Mahan's house?—I do.

4863. Did you, before you left them, go into that house at the same time?—I forget how we went in, but some of us went in and some stopped outside.

4864. Do you remember whether the women blocked up the door or not?—I am sure of it.

4865. Do you remember any of them taking hold of Major Knox?—I do, dragging him by the coat.

4866. Did you hear what he said; whether they would let him go or not?—He would have to give them something; I think that is what they said; before they would let him go.

4867. Did the Major on that occasion give a sum of money to be distributed amongst them?—He stretched a sovereign to me, to give drink to the women.

N 3

4868. Is

T. Brennan.

T. Brennan. 4868. Is there a word of truth in the story that he desired you to give a sovereign to Mrs. Mahan, and hoped that her husband would vote for him; is that a fact?—No; you could not hear what was said for the noise of the women.

4869. You gave the money, and it was distributed in drink amongst the women?—I gave the orders to Mrs. Mahan, and I was glad to get rid of them.

4870. This pig butcher stated that he had a conversation with you respecting a score of sheep that you were to get for him from Major Knox?—I never had a sheep in my life.

4871. Is there a word of truth in what he said?—Oh, not at all; a score of sheep! what had I to do with sheep?

4872. Is there a word of truth in saying that you were to get the price of a score of sheep from him?—Oh, what nonsense! to talk of sheep.

4873. Do you know the persons who have been talked of, Gray, and Kilcullen, and Mulligan?—I do.

4874. Were they part of Major Knox's mob at first?—They were.

4875. Do you remember the state of the town at the time of the revision; whether it was in a state of excitement or not?—It was.

4876. On that occasion did you hire some persons for the purpose of a mob for Major Knox?—I did; I was one of them myself.

4877. Did you go to the Court-house to protect the Major and his friends during the revision?—Yes.

4878. Was Captain Flanagan's mob very large then?—Bigger than our mob.

4879. Were they violent in their conduct?—Oh, yes.

4880. Did you get sums of money for the payment of these people?—I did.

4881. Was that pig butcher one of the mob?—He was.

4882. For a long time, I believe, he was active as a mobsman for Major Knox?—He was.

4883. Do you remember when he became a mobsman for Captain Flanagan?—I do; he wheeled.

4884. Did you ever give Kilcullen 25 l.?—No.

4885. Did you pay him as one of the mob?—I did.

4886. Like the rest of them?—Yes.

4887. Was the pig butcher also paid as one of the mob?—He was.

4888. Do you remember, after the revision, applying to the Major to pay more money; the men memorialising the Major, and applying to him to pay more money to the mob?—I do.

4889. Did the Major refuse to give any more?—He did; he said we were all a damned pack of scoundrels.

4890. And he refused to give any more money?—Yes.

4891. Did you ever throw a sum of money on the ground, on the path, for those fellows to take up?—No, I put it into their fist always.

4892. Do you know a man of the name of Dominick Oates?—I know him, but I do not know much about him.

4893. Do you know a man of the name of Leonard?—Yes.

4894. After the Major said you were a damned pack of scoundrels, did you do anything to give the people money for the mob yourself?—I did.

4895. And did you still divide some money?—I had not it, and I went to the Bank of Ireland and got 20 l.; it is due still, and I divided it among them.

4896. We served a subpoena on the manager of the bank, to produce the bill; is that it?—Yes.

4897. You are the drawer?—Yes.

4898. And James Gray, another of the mobsmen?—I got his leave; it was not Grey put his name there; he asked me could I do it? I said "Yes;" but he got 5 l. himself, and 14 l. was divided.

4899. You divided the money to keep these people quiet?—Yes.

4900. Did not Major Knox know something about it?—What did Major Knox know about it?

4901. He did not know anything of it?—Nothing at all.

4902. Do you know a woman of the name of Mary Burke, a servant girl that was at Leech's?—I do not know anything about her, only I saw her here a couple of days, and I think I saw her here some time before.

4903. Had you anything to eat or drink in Major Knox's own apartments?—No.

4904. Do you remember whether his cook brought you into the pantry at the head of the stairs, and upon two or three occasions gave you something to eat?—She asked me to have something to eat in a little pantry standing on the top of the stairs.

4905. Did you ever dine there in your life?—No.

4906. Is it true that a third drawing-room was taken for you?—No drawing-room; it is a small little room.

4907. But was it taken for you?—I had no business with it.

4908. With respect to a person of the name of Neilan; you saw that man here?—I did, yesterday.

4909. Do you remember that man coming to you at the end of 1867, and saying anything about his having heard that you had a mob?—No.

4910. Did he ever apply to you to employ him as a mobsman?—The question was objected to.

4911. Did he ever apply to you on any subject?—We often had conversation; Neilan heard that I was dividing money with these fellows; he said I ought to know he was in need, and anything that would be going, to give him some.

4912. Did you give him anything?—I offered him 2 l.; I read the list of the names to show what I was giving all the fellows, and he indignantly refused it.

4913. What was he to do for the 2 l.?—I would not count him so good as the rest of them, but it was for charity's sake.

4914. What do you mean by his not being so good as the rest of them?—He was not as good mettle as the rest.

4915. Was he to go with them?—Of course.

4916. Did you offer him anything for his vote in your life?—I never talked to him about his vote; I did not know whether he had one; he was so poor, and not able to pay his rates.

4917. That man said you told him that the Major had bought the Tennyson estate; is that true?—No.

4918. Do

4918. Do you know that he had done any such thing?—No, I do not.

4919. Do you know whether in point of fact, Mr. Tennyson has yet sold that estate?—I do not know a ha'porth about it.

4920. Did you ever tell him that you were agent for Mr. Tennyson's property that Major Knox had purchased?—No.

4921. Were you such in anyway?—I wish I was.

4922. But were you?—No.

4923. Was Martin Mulligan a mobsman?—He was.

4924. Did you pay him as such from time to time?—I did; I gave him his divide the same as the rest.

4925. Did you ever give anything for his vote?—No; Martin Mulligan had no vote.

4926. Did you ever promise him 40*l.*?—No; I never did.

4927. Did you ever offer John Henry any money for his vote?—No; never in my life.

4928. Did you ever speak to him of money matters at any time?—No; when I spoke to him, it was about buying two pigs that I had; that was all the conversation we had on the Sunday I met with him.

4929. When was that?—Previous to last winter.

4930. You said you never canvassed?—No.

4931. Had you any authority from Major Knox to canvass voters at all?—Certainly not.

4932. Had you any other duties, except collecting mobs, and you yourself one of them, regulating the forces?—No.

4933. Were you beaten on the occasion of this election?—I was; after voting.

4934. Tell us how you were beaten, and what occurred to you?—Pat Flynn was one of the party; I was kicked in the ancle, and was nearly losing the leg; my nose is injured for ever, and my ear.

4935. Were you knocked down?—No, I was too well kept up with clubs and sticks to be knocked down; my life would have been taken, only for Mr. Cherry, I think.

4936. Do you happen to remember whether Mr. Cherry appealed to the mayor of the town, Mr. Tighe, at the time to protect you?—I do not recollect anything from the time of the assault they made on me at the hall.

4937. Did you leave Sligo?—I did.

4938. What made you leave Sligo?—I could not live in it; they threatened to shoot me.

4939. How many days after the polling did you leave?—When my foot was getting worse I went up to Dublin, and I applied to Major Knox to get into a hospital, and the Major gave me a letter to Dr. Macnamara. I went to Dr. Macnamara; he looked at my foot, and said, "If you do not give that foot rest I will have to cut it off."

4940. Did he get you into the Meath Hospital?—Yes, and I remained a fortnight.

4941. He got you well?—Yes.

4942. Where did you go to next?—London.

4943. What did you do there?—I went applying for a situation to Ferry and Roberts, tea merchants in Eastcheap.

4944. Do you remember having been sent for and having come over to this country from London?—I do; I was sent for.

4945. How long ago?—I think last Saturday. I got a letter from Mr. Lawder, with 3 l. enclosed in it, to come over here; that there was a petition, and that I was required as a witness. I got the 3 l. changed at a discount of 1*s.* 6*d.* at one of the cash offices in the Strand.

4946. Mr. Justice Keogh.] That was Saturday week?—Yes, my Lord.

Cross-examined by Mr. Waters.

4947. First take these into your hands, and leave them as they now are, and tell me, is that your name and handwriting (handing documents to the Witness)?—Yes, it is.

4948. How much money did you spend on the Sligo revision and election?—I could not tell you.

4949. Did you keep any accounts?—Never.

4950. You are not able to give his Lordship any better answer than that; you cannot tell how much money you spent in the Sligo election?—I could not tell you; I would do so at once if I could; I would have no hesitation.

4951. I suppose you had frequent communication from Major Knox?—Not very much communication.

4952. Had you had any?—I had.

4953. Letters?—Yes.

4954. You do not happen to have any of them with you?—No; all I have with me is what you see; I have no letters or correspondence.

4955. Where are they?—I do not know where they are, because a week before the election I had to leave the house, and never was at the house since.

4956. Did you leave them in the house?—I suppose they are there.

4957. You suppose they are there?—I do not know whether they are in it or not.

4958. Did you take any away with you?—No.

4959. Did you go home to your house since?—How could I?

4960. Did you get a subpoena to produce those letters?—I did not.

4961. You never heard of the subject, the subpoena?—No, never.

4962. How much money did you get from Major Knox from time to time?—Wait till I see; I got 15 l. of the first money to divide; that was in 1867.

4963. What was that for?—To divide among the mob.

4964. As you pleased?—Yes.

4965. What was the next sum?—£. 10.

4966. When was that; in 1867 also?—No; I think that was in 1868.

4967. Are you sure whether it was 1868 or 1867?—I think it was 1868.

4968. That was 10 l. early in 1868?—I think so.

4969. It was well known that Major Knox was then going to be a candidate for Sligo?—Yes.

4970. It was known when you got the 15 l.; you knew it?—Everyone knew it.

4971. And it was to forward his election that you got the 15 l.?—No, it was not.

4972. For what other purpose?—There was a hostile feeling against him with the Armstrongs' party, and we wanted to have a battle with them for that.

4973. You say it was not to forward his election, was it to impede his election?—I say it was to "bell the cat" with the other fellow.

4974. You have only told us 15 l. and 10 l.?—And 25 l.

N 4

4975. Mr.

T. Brennan.

22 February 1869.

T. Brennan,
—
22 February
1869.

4975. Mr. Justice Keogh.] When was the 25 l.?—I think, my Lord, it was at the time of the revision, as well as I can recollect.

4976. Mr. Waters.] Did you get nothing beyond the 10 l. and the 25 l.?—No, I think not.

4977. Where had you an account of all these moneys; are you speaking from recollection?—Yes, I am.

4978. Entirely from your recollection?—Yes.

4979. And you never kept any sort of account of what you did with the money, or how much you got?—I never did; I had a pocket-book.

4980. Where is it?—I have not it now. The night of the election I lost it; and whatever was in it I do not know. I will tell you what was in it. There was a bill I am sorry I have not now.

4981. I do not ask you what was in it; after the 25 l., what did you get, that is at the revision; you got nothing between that 10 l. and the 25 l.?—That is the last time. He said we were all a pack of damned scoundrels.

4982. Including you amongst them?—Of course.

4983. On your oath, did you ever get more money from him except at the time of the revision?—No.

4984. Not a single shilling since then?—No.

4985. Did you spend money of your own?—I did.

4986. How much did you spend of your own?—I could not tell you.

4987. £. 100?—Well, I am sure; near it.

4988. Perhaps over it?—No; it was my mother's money, and my own.

4989. Have you been repaid?—No.

4990. None of it?—No.

4991. Did you tell Major Knox you ever spent money of your own?—No.

4992. You never told him that you had spent any of your own money?—No.

4993. How did you spend it?—Well, dividing it, on Saturday night, with those fellows, Flynn, and Kilcullen, and Gray, and all of them.

4994. And you put your name to that bill, that has been produced, and you wrote Gray's name to it?—I did.

4995. And you would be very much surprised to hear Gray swear that he did not know anything about it?—Didn't he get 5 l. of the money?

4996. That is not the question; would you not be very much surprised to hear Gray swear that he did not know anything about his name to that bill?—I would be astonished.

4997. You got the 20 l.?—I did.

4998. Did you pay the bill?—I did not.

4999. It is over due?—It is.

5000. And you applied the 20 l. to the election?—No, I told you.

5001. Did you apply it to the election?—Did not I tell you what I did with it?

5002. You gave Gray 5 l.?—Yes.

5003. Was that towards the election?—He was one of the mob.

5004. Will you answer the question?—Was not he one of the mob?

5005. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Answer the question?—I do not understand it.

5006. Mr. Waters.] Was it for the purposes of the election that you gave that to him?—He was one of the mob at the election.

5007. You were asked whether that 5 l. was for the purposes of the election?—Yes; I did not understand the form of the question.

5008. Had you any account in the Bank of Ireland?—No, I had not.

5009. Was that the first transaction you had in it?—It was not.

5010. What other transactions had you there?—At the time I paid Flynn's money I had a 15 l.-bill.

5011. Did you take that up?—I did not.

5012. Where is it?—I suppose they have it in the bank.

5013. You have not paid it?—It was in the pocket-book I had at the time of the election.

5014. What did you mean by saying they had it in the bank?—I meant the account of it, not the bill.

5015. Perhaps you had other transactions?—Several.

5016. What were they?—Private transactions of my own.

5017. Not connected with the election?—No.

5018. Then these two bills are the only ones connected with the election?—Yes.

5019. Whose name was on the other bill?—It was Charles Judge.

5020. He is a man of Sligo?—He is.

5021. Had you his authority to write his name upon it?—I had.

5022. Is he a good man?—He is not a good man.

5023. Did you write Judge's name yourself, or did Judge write it?—I did.

5024. Why did not Judge write his name himself?—Because he had nothing to do with the money. I asked him, "Charles," said I, "shall I put your name?" I explained it to him, because I would not do it without his permission.

5025. Did you tell the manager you had written these men's names on the bill?—I did not; why should I? Sure I would not have got the money if I had.

5026. How long were you in Dublin after the election?—A fortnight.

5027. And where did you stay after you left the hospital?—I went direct to London.

5028. Did you go straight from the hospital to the steamer that you went away by?—No.

5029. Where did you go?—I went away up to a part of the city next the Westland-row station.

5030. To whose house?—I do not know the house. I asked for lodgings, and I got them that night. I do not know the name of the street, because I do not know much of Dublin.

5031. Where were you living before you went into the hospital?—I was living in McDermot's, I think it is called, a lodging-house on the quays.

5032. Do you know Mr. Hughes?—No.

5033. Do you know no man in Dublin of the name of Hughes?—No.

5034. You never saw one?—No.

5035. What is the last time you saw McMullen in Dublin?—McMullen?

5036. Why do you not answer?—I never saw McMullen in Dublin; never saw him.

5037. Nor out of Sligo?—Nor out of Sligo.

5038. Do you know where he is?—What would make me know anything about it?

5039. You do not know anything about him?—No.

5040. Nor where he went to?—No.

5041. Nothing

5041. Nothing at all about him?—It gave me no trouble at all where he was.

5042. Were the McMullens, father and son, voters?—I do not know.

5043. Were you at the revision?—I was not in the court very much.

5044. Were you at the revision?—I was.

5045. Did you know McMullen and his son?—I did.

5046. Did you see them there?—I saw them in and out of the yard of the court-house, when I had business to go there.

5047. Did you see them at the time of the revision?—I did not. I did not see the father at all; I only saw the son.

5048. Had you seen a list of the voters of the borough of Sligo?—Never.

5049. After the last revision?—No, I had not.

5050. And you do not know who are voters and who are not?—I know a good deal of the voters, of course.

5051. Do you know James Devany?—I do.

5052. Is he a voter?—I think he is.

5053. Where is he?—I do not know anything about him.

5054. But you saw him since he left Sligo?—I know little of Sligo since the week before the election.

5055. Did you see him since he left Sligo?—I have no recollection of seeing him.

5056. Did you see him in Dublin?—I do not recollect of having seen Devany, because I was a very little time in Dublin before I went into the hospital, and when I came out I left it and went to London.

5057. Did you see any men out of Sligo there?—Pat Connell and Henry Gethin came into the hospital there.

5058. And will you swear you did not see other men out of Sligo?—I have no recollection.

5059. Did you see Mr. Gillmor in Dublin?—No.

5060. Did you see Mr. Hignell?—I did.

5061. I suppose you saw him here?—I did.

5062. I was wrong in saying "here;" I mean in Sligo; you saw him at the time of the election?—I did.

5063. You had many conversations with him about the election?—Yes.

5064. And you saw him in Dublin?—I did.

5065. Before and after the election?—Yes; I saw him after the election in Dublin.

5066. Before and after?—I did.

5067. And were consulting with him about the election?—He was asking how we fellows were getting on below.

5068. Were you consulting with him about the election?—There was the kind of talk how things were going on, and so on.

5069. Did you meet him at the "Irish Times" office?—Of course it was there I saw him.

5070. With Major Knox?—Yes.

5071. And did the three of you consult, in the "Irish Times" office, about the election?—He never was in the office with me, with Major Knox.

5072. Did you not swear that a minute ago?—No, you want to confuse me.

5073. How long was Mr. Hignell in Sligo, at the election?—I did not see him until the night I was attacked, when I went into Dr. Ferguson's.

5074. Before the election, how long was he 85.

here?—I do not recollect to have seen him for a good while before the election in Sligo. T. Brennan.

5075. Did you get letters from him?—Yes.

22 February
1869.

5076. And you sent telegrams to him?—I think I never sent a telegram to him but once in my life.

5077. You did send him one?—Yes.

5078. This is it, "Take care you do not make a fatal mistake that cannot be recovered. Wyley is to be here on Tuesday night"?—Yes.

5079. What was the fatal mistake?—Serjeant Armstrong was expected in that night, and the Armstrongites wanted to make a demonstration, and we wanted to check them, and I wanted funds for the mob, not to let them have their swoop.

5080. And the fatal mistake was——?—Mr. Hignell came down himself.

5081. What was the fatal mistake that you telegraphed from Sligo to Hignell?—If he did not send me the money I could not get the fellows to fight without money.

5082. Why did you telegraph to Hignell, of all men in the world?—I often saw Mr. Hignell come down. I will tell you, I got acquainted with Hignell at the time of the regatta, when he came down in the Major's yacht.

5083. You thought Hignell would pay the money out of his own pocket?—No, I did not think so.

5084. Was there no other person managing affairs for Major Knox but yourself?—I did not know any.

5085. Did you never consult with Mr. Harloe Phibbs?—No.

5086. Nor Mr. Pollock?—No, I did not want any consultation.

5087. Then you were the man to look after everything for him?—The fighting department was mine; I did not want any consultations.

5088. Did Hignell come down?—He did.

5089. And give you money?—No; he did not.

5090. I thought you said he brought a few pounds?—No, you want to put question and answer together.

5091. Did Hignell bring a few pounds?—Cannot you let me answer? He came down and said, "I have a few pounds for the men." I went over, and then we consulted together about the few pounds. "Let him put it into his pocket," they said; "we will not take the few pounds, if he has not a lot." So Mr. Hignell did not stand.

5092. Where did you get the money from for them then?—I did not give them any that time.

5093. Did you ever say to any man that you could not give him money; that it would not be safe for you to give him money?—I never said any such thing.

5094. And you gave this money freely?—I did; whenever I gave it to them I put it into their fists.

5095. Did you ever throw 2*l.* in the path, and tell a man to see what was there?—I never did.

5096. Nor 25*l.*?—No.

5097. Did you give orders for drink?—I did.

5098. To whom?—One to Patrick Gordon, and one to John Culligan.

5099. Who else?—I gave an order to Miss Dagenam for some meal and some flour for these fellows, when I could not get the money for them. Neither of them are paid.

O

5100. To

T. Brennan.
—
22 February
1869.

5100. To whom did you give the order for drink?—To Culligan.

5101. Did you pay Culligan?—No.

5102. He is not paid?—He is not paid.

5103. Culligan is a publican in Sligo?—Yes, he was a publican of our own.

5104. Do you recollect going to Keiflaghan, and saying Major Knox was coming to canvass, and he hoped he would stand to him?—I never said anything of the kind.

5105. In point of fact, you never asked a man to give you his vote?—I have no recollection of it.

5106. How long were you working at the election for Major Knox; what time in 1867 did you begin?—I think in November.

5107. And you never stopped, I will engage, until you left Sligo; you were off and on engaged for Major Knox until you left there?—I wanted to have satisfaction of the Armstrong party, and I just worked all my might and main against them.

5108. And you continued your exertions up to the very day of the election?—I did; no, not to the day of the elections; I made no exertions, because I was in at lodgings; I had to go for protection into O'Farrell's; it was the Thursday before the election; I was attacked in the street; I ran into Dr. Ferguson's; I was afraid they would smash in his house, and I went into O'Farrell's house then.

5109. That was one week before the election?—Yes.

5110. You continued your exertions from November 1867?—Yes.

5111. You made continued exertions; what were you doing?—I was working up to keep them in check.

5112. You received letters from Major Knox?—I did.

5113. About the state of the town, and its prospects?—Very few.

5114. But you wrote about the state of the town, and its prospects?—It was about the yacht.

5115. I don't want to know anything about the yacht; I don't want to pry into any of Major Knox's private affairs; I ask, did you write letters about the election matter to Major Knox?—I do not recollect that ever I did; it was principally about the boats.

5116. And you never spoke of Tennyson's estate, and the likelihood of Major Knox purchasing it?—It was rumoured through the town that he had bought it.

5117. That is not my question; did you ever yourself speak of the likelihood of Major Knox purchasing Tennyson's estate?—I do not know; but I heard of it; I do not know whether I might have said anything or not about it.

5118. Is your answer that you did, or not?—I could not say; there was a rumour through the town.

5119. You may have said it?—Yes.

5120. You may have said also something about the probability of your being agent over it, if it was purchased?—Yes.

5121. Did you not expect it?—Yes.

5122. Did you work hard for Major Knox?—I did; and I am not sorry for it.

5123. And he owed you a great deal for your exertions?—He owed a great deal.

5124. He owed you goodwill and thanks?—That is for himself.

5125. Don't you think he did, and did you not expect to be made agent?—Well, I did not.

5126. Did you ever say that you expected to be agent?—No, for there was another party.

5127. Did you ever tell any man that you expected to be agent over Tennyson's estate when it would be purchased by Major Knox?—I do not know; I would not like to give a decided answer, except where I would be certain.

5128. Do you know your namesake, Thomas Brennan?—I do.

5129. Did you tell him?—I don't know, I am not sure.

5130. Will you swear, on your oath, that you don't know if Neilan had a vote or not?—I do not know; I am not certain.

5131. You live next door to him?—I do.

5132. Do you know for whom he voted in 1865?—What do I know about it?

5133. You do recollect?—That I do; I will tell you how I recollect how he voted. He got money for his vote; he voted for Serjeant Armstrong; and there was a row with Mr. Foley, the petitioner here; he was to give him 50 l. or something. Foley advanced 5 l. and forgot to stop the 5 l. out of the 50 l.; Neilan shook his fist, and would not give it him back.

5134. You know that?—It was the talk through the town.

5135. Did he get money from Serjeant Armstrong to vote?—It was over the town.

5136. Did you know it?—Hundreds knew it as well as me.

5137. Did you?—I did know it, sure, and did not I tell you that?

5138. Then you knew he voted for Serjeant Armstrong?—Yes.

5139. What did you mean by saying that you did not know he was a voter?—

Mr. Lawder.] That was in 1868.

Witness.] I know he owed a year and a half's rent; and I did not know whether he had his rates paid or not. That is the reason I did not know; when he owed a year and a half's rent, I thought he might owe the rates as well, and have no vote.

5140. Neilan came to you, and told you he was badly off?—I was often in and out; my newspapers used to be left in his house.

5141. Did Neilan continue to tell you he was badly off?—Do I not tell you, my newspapers used to be left in his house.

5142. I will have an answer; did Neilan tell you he was badly off?—He did, outside his own shop door; didn't I know he was badly off?

5143. Listen to my question: did he not tell you he was not able to pay his rates and taxes?—He did.

5144. Did he ask your assistance to pay them?—He did not.

5145. Did he ask you to speak to Major Knox for him?—He did not.

5146. To anyone?—Wait now; don't confuse me.

5147. I do not want to confuse you; I only want to get the truth from you.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Answer the question.

5148. Mr. Waters.] Did he ask you to apply to Major Knox?—I forget whether he did or not, not, and I should not like to give an answer unless I could be sure.

5149. Did he speak to you to apply to anyone to assist him in paying the rates and taxes?—He told me to speak to the landlord to get a little time, and I did speak to the landlord, and he told the landlord, after that, it was me was pressing him for the purpose of getting the house; that was the reward he gave me for getting the house, after my telling the landlord to give him time, that the creature might get round, or get a situation; and then he told the landlord afterwards that I was the means of pressing him to get the house for ourselves.

5150. Did you write to Major Knox about him?—I forget.

5151. Try to recollect; did you write to Major Knox about him; say yes, or no, if you can?—But I cannot say it, you know; I am not sure.

5152. You knew Haggerty's house?—I did.

5153. And you were in there?—I was in O'Farrell's.

5154. And in Haggerty's?—In Haggerty's yard; I used to go out in the yard sometimes.

5155. And you went from O'Farrell's house, into Haggerty's, through the door that was broken in?—Through the yard; it were two yards that were connected.

5156. When was that communication broken?—I do not know anything about it.

5157. Was it not freshly done; sure you saw it?—Of course I did, and it gave me no trouble when I got in with my life to Dr. Ferguson's.

5158. You always evade my questions; was it freshly done before the election?—Why would it give me any consideration when it was done?

5159. Just answer my question, whether it was so, or not?—I do not know whether it was or not; that is my answer.

5160. You were in Haggerty's house?—I could not say I was in Haggerty's house.

5161. Do you mean to swear you were never in Haggerty's house?—In the kitchen I used to go; it was a waste house.

5162. I know it was; about the time of the election were you ever in Haggerty's house?—It was in O'Farrell's house I was stopping; I might go into the yard, or the kitchen; I might have gone in there occasionally.

5163. Did you ever meet Petrie there?—I never saw Petrie there.

5164. Were you ever in there with him?—I never saw him in it.

5165. Did you see Colonel Knox there?—No.

5166. Did you see Mr. Lawder there?—No; I did not know Mr. Lawder at the time.

5167. Mr. Phibbs?—No.

5168. Mr. Gilmore?—Yes, I saw Mr. Gilmore; he came in to see how I was when he heard of the attack made on me.

5169. You only saw him once?—I suppose Mr. Gilmore came in a couple of times to ask me how I was getting on; they were going to break in the house; he told me to cheer up and not be afraid.

5170. Did you ever see Woods there?—No; I do not recollect.

5171. Did you ever see Stokes there?—No, I did not.

5172. Hignell?—Hignell came to Farrell's to ascertain where I was.

5173. Did you ever see him in Haggerty's?—No, but I saw him in O'Farrell's.

85.

5174. Did you drink some of the beer that Mr. Hignell sent in?—No, I was not drinking at the time, so I did not drink any.

5175. You saw others drink it?—I did not hear of Mr. Hignell sending in any beer; I will swear, on my oath, I never heard anything of the kind.

5176. Did you see the cask of beer tapped?—Yes.

5177. And people drinking it; perhaps they paid O'Farrell for every glass they drank?—I had to pay him.

5178. For what you drank?—For what I ate and drank.

5179. Who suggested to you to go to London?—Well, I went to Ferrier, of the firm of Roberts and Ferrier, to apply for a situation; it was no use my thinking of going to Sligo.

5180. Perhaps you will have the goodness to answer my question; who suggested your going to London?—No one.

5181. Did you carry any letters of introduction with you?—I will swear I did not.

5182. What money did you take with you?—£. 15 of my own.

5183. Who gave it to you?—I had it before the election.

5184. Did you bring it from Sligo with you?—I did, and I got a loan of 7 l. in Dublin; that I owe still. I got altogether 22 l. I was not sure whether I would go to America or not.

5185. You did not see Major Knox before you went?—I think he gave me the cold shoulder at the time I went up.

5186. Did you tell him when you were going?—I did not see him.

5187. Did you tell any one connected with Major Knox that you were going to London?—I did not see any of them.

5188. Did you write to them from London?—No; I will swear I did not.

5189. Nor anyone connected with him in London?—No.

5190. Did you leave your address in London, with anyone in Dublin?—I did not.

5191. On your oath, how did Mr. Lawder know how to find you in London?—How he found me out I do not know; but I will tell you; a boy came—

5192. Did you get a letter from him?—Oh, no. There came a boy where I was stopping, in Sherwood-street, off Regent-street; the landlord came up, "There is a boy below," he said; "he has a letter for you, sir." I knew a young chap named Hare, from Sligo, that is living in London, and he might have told it or written about it. I met him several times in London.

5193. Where is Mr. Lawder's letter?—I have no letter at all.

5194. Did you get a letter from Mr. Lawder?—"Dear sir: You will please come—"

5195. Do not tell me about it, where is it?—I have not it. I do not know where it is; maybe I have lit my pipe with it.

5196. When did you see it last?—The day I got it. I went away, and got the three notes changed, and they cost me 6 d. each.

5197. Do you know that handwriting (handing a letter to the Witness)?—I do not.

5198. Did you ever see it before?—No; I never recollect seeing a thing of the kind. I do not know what it is, or what it is about.

5199. Do you know this gentleman (pointing)?—Yes.

O 2

5200. That

T. Brennan.

22 February
1869.

T. Brennan. 5200. That is Dr. Mahon, I believe?—I do not know who he is; I saw him in Meath Hospital.
 22 February 1869. 5201. On your oath, did you tell that gentleman you were the agent of Major Knox's at Sligo?—I told him no such thing.

5202. On your oath, did you not tell him you bribed men for Major Knox, at Sligo?—I told him no such thing.

5203. I think you told me that you never heard that a subpoena was left for you?—I never heard anything about it.

5204. Look at this gentleman; do you know him.

5205. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You were going to say something?—My brother sent word into Farrell's that there was a fellow named Connor who was stabbed at the time of the election, and there was a conspiracy got up against me.

5206. Mr. McDonogh.] That is not anything about the subpoena?—There was a warrant issued against me.

5207. These are two orders for drink, to Mr. John Keiflahan; "Please give bearer, James Knaggs"; do you know James Knaggs?—I do.

5208. Is he a voter of Sligo?—He is.

5209. "Please give bearer, James Knaggs, drink to the amount of 5 s. Thomas Brennan, 26 September 1868."

5210. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Is that your handwriting?—It is, my lord.

5211. That other is your handwriting also?—It is.

5212. Was that written in Major Knox's presence?—No.

5213. Was either of them?—No.

5214. Mr. Waters.] On your oath, was not that written in Major Knox's presence, and handed by you to Major Knox?—Not at all. He knew nothing about them, and never saw a sight of them.

Mr. McDonogh.] "Mr. Keiflahan, please give bearer, these men 1 l. worth of drink. Thomas Brennan, September 1868."

5215. Mr. Waters.] Do you know that Keiflahan is a voter?—I do; he was not a voter until the last revision, I think.

5216. Not till the October registry?—Yes; that is as well as I can remember.

Re-examined by Mr. McDonogh.

5217. Were those persons mobsmen?—No; Knaggs came to me for a loan of 5 s.; I had often transactions with him; he was on the spree. I could not give it to him; he stopped in the shop a long time; then the only chance was, I had to run over to the desk, and I took and wrote it. He said he was dry after the night, or I forget what it was he said. I could not get rid of him. I wrote it on the desk and gave an order to Keiflahan, because I used to get drink at Keiflahan's off and on, and used to go there frequently.

5218. And the other people that you gave it to?—Those were the Holborn-street fellows.

5219. Were they mobsmen?—They were, of course.

5220. Did Major Knox or Mr. Lawder know a word about that?—They never did.

5221. Did you have any authority from Major Knox?—He knew not a word of it.

5222. You had full authority to put Gray's name to the bill?—Sure, and did he not get some of the money, and divide it?

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN O'FARRELL, sworn; Examined by Mr. Robinson.

J. O'Farrell. 5223. You are a Rate-collector?—Yes.

5224. Do you live in Sligo?—Yes.

5225. You have this house that we have heard some talk about?—I have it in charge.

5226. Do you remember, during the election, any persons coming to your house?—Yes.

5227. Who were they, and for what did they come?—Brennan was the first; he claimed protection; he said his life was in danger.

5228. Thomas Brennan was the first, and he claimed protection?—Yes; I found him in the house when I first went in.

5229. Did anyone else come?—Yes.

5230. Who?—James Tondra, the same day.

5231. Did he also claim protection?—He did.

5232. Did anyone else come?—Thomas McMorron.

5233. Anyone else?—There did.

5234. Who?—A man of the name of Lindsay.

5235. Anyone else?—Yes, a man of the name of West, a man of the name of Armstrong; in all, 10 came.

5236. Did they all claim protection in that way?—Yes, they said they were afraid of their lives; and I told them they could not be there unless I would be paid for them; that I did not in fact want them, the street was so violent.

5237. When did the first of them come; on what day?—The 13th of November.

5238. Did you make any arrangement with them, or any of them?—I did; with every one of them.

5239. What arrangement did you make?—The arrangement was, that they should pay me 10 s. a-day.

5240. And were they to stay there and be fed by you?—They were; there was a distinct arrangement.

5241. Did you ever see either Major Knox or Mr. Lawder there?—Never; not in my own house, or the other house.

5242. Not in your own house, or Haggerty's house?—I never did.

5243. There was something about a barrel of beer which was said to have been bought by Mr. Hignell, and sent to your house; is that a fact?—There is not a word of truth in it.

5244. Who was it bought that barrel of beer?—I bought it.

5245. Who paid for it?—I paid for it, and the man is here to prove it.

5246. What did you pay?—Thirty-one shillings and sixpence, he told me the price of it would be.

5247. You paid for it?—I had a general account with him, and I settled it all; it is included in it. I might mention that the cause of my getting the barrel of beer was, Mr. Le Strange took my own house for the purpose of accommodating voters who were coming from a distance; and and Sir Robert Mann also spoke to me, and told me I would have a number of voters from county Donegal, where his estate lies; and I thought it good to get a barrel of ale, and whatever those men who came in unexpectedly to me left, would be available for the county voters.

5248. Was it Mr. Le Strange arranged with you for the county election?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Loghlin.

5249. You live next door to Haggerty's house?—Yes.

5250. To whom does Haggerty's house belong?—To Major Knox.

5251. When was the communication made between your yard and Haggerty's yard?—When I let the house to Mr. Le Strange.

5252. When was that?—A few days before he came.

5253. Was that a few days before the election?—Yes.

5254. Does your house belong to Major Knox?—Yes; I am his tenant.

5255. At the time this communication was made, was Haggerty's house vacant?—It was.

5256. There was no furniture in it?—No furniture.

5257. Did any furniture come in?—Yes; I hired furniture for the purpose of the election.

5258. Will you tell us how you came to have anything to say to Haggerty's house?—I made it available, as it was waste, and I had charge of it.

5259. How did you come to make it available; to whom did you go?—I consulted Mr. Phibbs about opening the door-way. The thing presented itself to me, that I could make the house available for the county election. J. O'Farrell
22 February
1869.

5260. Tell me, how much were you to pay Mr. Phibbs for the use of the house?—I was not to pay anything; I had no arrangement, but the house is better off by having a fire in it.

5261. Do you know Tom Brennan?—I do.

5262. Did you see him at the revision?—I did.

5263. You, I believe, are poor-rate collector?—Yes.

5264. Was it your duty to be in court?—I was in court.

5265. Did Brennan take an active part in the revision?—I was confining my duties to the court.

5266. Will you answer my question; did he take an active part in the revision?—I observed him to take no part, only he was objected to himself, and he went to procure documents to keep him on the register. That is all the part I saw him take with any party whatever.

Re-examined by Mr. Robinson.

5267. Where did you get the furniture?—I hired it from Mr. Reid, the broker.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOHN MCGUIRK, sworn; Examined by Dr. Kaye.

5268. WHAT are you by trade?—A Hair-dresser.

5269. You are a voter for the town of Sligo?—I had a vote for the borough of Sligo at the last election.

5270. Were you one of those who took refuge in Mrs. Hall's?—Yes; I was one of the persons who were in Mrs. Hall's house.

5271. How many days were you there?—I think on Tuesday evening I went into Mrs. Hall's.

5272. That was the day of the nomination?—I am not sure, but I think it was.

5273. Did you remain there till after the election?—I remained there till Friday night.

5274. Did you see Major Knox there up to the day of the polling?—I never saw him there but on one occasion during that day.

5275. What day was it that you saw Major Knox there?—The day of polling; I never saw him but on one occasion, that is the day of polling.

5276. What time did you see him?—I think it was about a quarter after 10 o'clock.

5277. Did he say anything to you?—I was in the upper part of the house; I think young McGoldrick came up along with him; if I don't mistake, I was seated either on a chair or a form; I don't know which, upstairs, and was looking out on the court-house and the yard; and he came up to me, and said "Mr. McGoldrick, will you come out and vote for me"? "Well, Major, I will not," I said. Then I assigned him the reason; I was under the dread of the death of Captain King at the time, and under that dread I did not vote. J. McGuirk.

5278. You had previously promised to vote for him?—Oh, yes, and it was my intention. Were it not for the death of Captain King I would have recorded my vote.

5279. Did Major Knox on that occasion use any threat towards you?—He never said a word after I gave him the answer, direct or indirect. He never even stopped a second, but walked away.

5280. Is it true that Major Knox said to you, "If you do not vote for me you will be sorry for it; mark the consequence"?—Upon my solemn oath the gentleman never said a word to me, either in the way of threat or in any other way.

5281. Were you really alarmed and frightened at the state of the town and the conduct of the mob?—I would not go out for any consideration.

Cross-examined by Mr. Coffey.

5282. When had you made up your mind to vote for Major Knox?—Twelve months ago.

[The Witness withdrew.]

MAJOR KNOX, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

Major Knox. 5283. You are the Sitting Member for the Borough of Sligo?—I am.

22 February 1869. 5284. I believe you have heard the whole of the evidence here up to this?—I have.

5285. Did you see that man Brennan, who was in the box a few minutes ago?—I did.

5286. Do you remember when you first saw him or knew anything about him?—I think I first met him at a regatta in 1867. I think it was.

5287. Was that a regatta that you furthered?—I did. I took an interest in it, and gave a cup, I think.

5288. Was I correct in referring to the fact that he had made a little boat, which he called the "Irish Times"?—He did.

5289. And you became acquainted with that fact?—I did. I became acquainted with it first. I wrote to him when I saw it, and said I was very much gratified.

5290. You, I presume, had an idea of looking to the representation of the town even as far back as 1867?—I had since February 1867.

5291. You have heard the evidence, not only of that man, but of others; did you ever employ that man as agent for your property?—Never.

5292. In what position; was he at all engaged in any way that you are aware of?—I had nothing whatever in the world to do with the man, except that he and a lot of other men like him got up this mob in the town, which I considered it absolutely necessary to have, because I was annoyed in canvassing. Until I got the mob I could not go through Pound-street and different parts of the town at all.

5293. Pound-street is a peculiar locality?—It is.

5294. Could you go through at all without the assistance of some persons to protect you?—I could not possibly, I think. I could not, I know.

5295. Was any money that you gave that man given solely and entirely for that purpose?—Entirely and exclusively.

5296. And in no other character?—Not a shilling.

5297. Did you ever give him a single shilling to give a voter for his vote?—Never in my life, nor any other man.

5298. Did you authorise him to canvass voters for you, and so engage votes for you?—Never.

5299. In point of fact, did he ever, upon any occasion, go with you upon your canvass, except upon the occasion I refer to, when he was asked to show you some houses?—The only occasion that he ever was with me on my canvass was one day we were going up Pound-street, Mr. Phibbs called him. He was at the other corner. I think he called him; and he asked him to show some houses there; the different people who had votes in the street. He left us then, and we got another man to show us the next locality, the next street.

5300. Do you remember his having accompanied you to the door of Mrs. Mahan's, or going into the house on the occasion?—My recollection is that he did not come into the house; but, after I had gone in, I found that the man Mahan was out; he was not there, I remember, and a number of women came to the door and annoyed me desperately, and I called to Brennan. He was the only man I knew among this crowd, and I gave him a 1*l*. and said, "Will you get rid of these women? Give them some drink and get rid of them." Then they let me out. I was obliged to repeat the operation higher up the street, for they blocked us in again, and I gave them 10*s*. that time. They would not even let me out then. I got through a back gate and gained my escape, and would not go there again.

5301. You have heard Mahan examined?—Yes.

5302. Did you hear that man Clancey examined, when he said you gave 1*l*. to Brennan, telling him to give it to Mrs. Mahan, and that you hoped her husband would vote for you; is there any truth in it?—Not a single syllable of truth.

5303. Did you not say this moment that you had to go out the back way?—That was another house; I forget the name; it belongs to a man of the name of Whelan, I think.

5304. I am referring to anything with which Brennan is concerned; therefore I referred to Mrs. Mahan a little out of the order: do you remember him applying for money to distribute to those people at any time about the revision, or before it?—I do, quite well; at the time of the revision I do.

5305. State how the crowd behaved on the other side at the time of the revision?—I was horribly annoyed by a crowd, particularly one day; I was mobbed in the street coming down, and I was greatly annoyed. I sent to the county inspector, and told him that unless I could be protected I would write to the Government.

5306. Was protection absolutely necessary to you and the persons engaged in the revision?—It was; the police were obliged to follow me then about the town.

5307. Do you remember after the revision being applied to again by Brennan to give him some money for the mob?—I remember the whole lot of them coming up; he was one of them. They were a tremendous lot; they came into the side yard, near the house, and sent me up a long thing, a sort of memorial requiring money; the Pound-street boys, I think they called themselves; and I gave them none.

5308. You refused to give them any more money?—I did; because the other mob were persecuting me, and when I wanted them, these other people did not turn up at all; that was the reason.

5309. Was that the reason you said that Brennan stated?—It was; I do not remember the words, but I remember the occurrence.

5310. Did you give any more money to Brennan after that?—Never to Brennan.

5311. Did you ever employ Brennan, and did he have any species or character of employment touching the election or revision, save as a mobsman?—Never; I had very little to say to the man beyond this, that he used to write up about the boats I was building at Hazelwood; but about this mob work I had very little to say to him. He sent for money sometimes, and I gave him a little, and refused it very often when he asked me.

5312. Did you hear one of those servant women say that a third drawing-room was taken for Mr. Brennan?—Not at all; I had only two sitting-rooms; I had a dining-room and a drawing-room.

room. Then there was a third small room that a man of the name of Murphy, the cook who contracts for us (a Dublin man) had, and I got that third room for him. I told Leech, the man of the house, to try to make him out some place.

5313. Was it for Murphy you took the room?—Oh, it was Murphy's room.

5314. And not for Brennan?—I did not pay for the room at all; I got the use of it.

5315. Do you know that Brennan had got some lunches from Murphy, the cook?—Never, till I heard it stated here. I never heard it stated in my life; I was never there at that time of the day, hardly; I was always about the town.

5316. Did you hear the evidence of that man Sheil, who went to Mr. Cherry?—I did.

5317. That was the man, you know, who said he would go to America; did you ever know or hear anything about him?—I never saw the man in my life till I saw him in this place.

5318. Did you ever authorise Mr. Cherry to suggest that any man should leave the town or go to America?—Never; I hardly knew Mr. Cherry; once I think he called on me to pay his respects when I went down, and that kind of thing.

5319. Was Mr. Cherry an agent of yours in any employment, of any nature or kind?—None whatever.

5320. Now, with respect to this Patrick Flynn, did you hear the evidence of Patrick Flynn, as to his applying, and as to Brennan writing a letter for him to you for the settlement of the amount of the ejectment; do you remember to have heard that stated here?—I did.

5321. Did you ever write an authority to Brennan to pay that rent?—Never; I never wrote an authority to him to pay it; but I have a clear recollection of getting a letter from Brennan on the subject. As far as I can recollect, it was some time as far back as June last.

5322. Have you any such letter?—The letter I got from Brennan?

5323. Yes?—No, I have not; I did not keep it.

5324. Have you the letter that was written in reply?—No, but I know exactly what is in it.

Mr. Caffey suggested that Brennan should go to his mother's house in Sligo and search for the letter.

Mr. Justice Keogh requested one of the resident magistrates, Captain Wynne, to accompany the Witness, with a sufficient force for their protection.

5325. Do you remember Flynn afterwards applying to you?—I do, in July.

5326. Where was that?—It was in the house in the Mall; my cousin's house that I was staying in.

5327. Do you remember that Brennan was with him on the occasion?—He was, they both came together.

5328. What did Flynn say to you?—Flynn produced some kind of document out of his pocket. I do not know what it was; some kind of thing; and he told me that he was pressed for some rent, I think, or taxes. I do not know which; but he asked me to give him 10*l.*, I think, and I would not do anything of the kind. I did not do it.

5329. What did you say to him, as well as you remember?—I remember I told him that I would have nothing to do with anything of the sort at all; and I walked off and left him standing there. I did not see any more of the man.

5330. Do you remember his saying anything to you, calling you any name, or abusing you?—I do not remember what he said, but he was very impudent as he went out.

5331. Did you ever see him again, until you saw him an active opponent of yours at the election?—No, I did not; I did not see him till the nomination, I think.

5332. Did you ever know anything about Brennan having made any arrangement for the disposing of the ejectment?—Never.

5333. Did you ever authorise anything of the kind?—I never knew anything about it, except the application to me.

5334. Did you hear the evidence of John Feeny?—I did.

5335. Did you hear him say, that when he came in you shook hands with him, and said, "Here's my friend, John; what's your figure"?—I heard him say so.

5336. Is there any truth in it?—Not a syllable of truth.

5337. Did you hear him say, "Will 50*l.* do"?—Nothing of the kind occurred; the thing only lasted three minutes; I had sent for him.

5338. Tell us exactly what occurred?—I was standing at the door of the hotel, one day, I think it was the day before the nomination, as well as I can remember, and some man came up to me. I think his name was Price; one of these mob sort of men, and he said that Mr. Feeny, a supporter of mine, was extremely annoyed that I had not canvassed him. This was following up several other complaints of the same kind that I had, and I was a good deal annoyed. I asked Price to tell Feeny I could not possibly go to him, in the state of the town, into Barrack-street (a bad part), but I would be extremely happy if he would come up to me in the evening. Just after that Mr. Waugh was passing with some one, and I gave him the same message, as nearly as I remember. The man came, he was announced; I was in the dining-room after dinner. I had him shown into the drawing-room, where people who came were always shown, and I asked my cousin, Captain Knox, who was in the dining-room, to come in with me while I saw this man. I always did this with all these people who came. I always had a witness present. I went in and spoke to the man, and apologised for my oversight, but said it was unavoidable. He said it did not signify. He then said that he intended to vote for me, but that he expected to be remembered liberally, or something of that kind, for doing so. I said, "Very well, if that is what you have come about, the sooner you go the better." I said to Captain Utrid Knox, "Shew that fellow out." I saw nothing more of him, excepting that he went out.

5339. You said that in his hearing to Captain Utrid Knox, "Show that fellow out"?—I did.

5340. He applied to you then for money, and you refused it?—He did. He said that he would expect to be remembered. I never thought he would vote for me, and I always thought he was a rascal; that was my opinion of him.

5341. Then you had no further communication with him, the moment he said he hoped to be remembered?—I never said another word, except to show him out, except that I would have nothing to do with him. Constantly men came with these sort of messages to me.

O 4

5342. Who

Major Knox.

22 February
1869.

Major Knox. 5342. Who did?—I forget their names; these elector fellows came and said these kind of things. I made them all the same answer, and saw them all in presence of a witness; I got letters from them constantly during the election, offering to vote. A man named Kilcullen wrote to me; that man who was examined here, I think wrote, with some others.

5343. Mr. Palles.] Have you the letter?—I have not; I did not keep it.

5344. Have you looked for it?—I looked for all letters.

5345. Did you look in Dublin?—I brought every letter down connected with Sligo, and I have a lot of them, but there is nothing about this election, because I had no election letters at all much, I burned them then. The reason is this: before, on the day of the nomination, I had to leave this house of Leach's; I could not go back; I never was in it afterwards, and then the letters were burnt by my cousin.

5346. Why were you obliged to leave the house?—It was attacked; I could not stay there.

5347. Where did you take refuge?—I went up to "Allingham's Hotel," and stayed there.

5348. You left the house, and all the papers and letters in it, with your cousin?—I left the house, and left them all in my room; and when I was coming away I sent him, you know, to pack my things, and I told him to bring anything of any consequence in the way of letters, and I believe a great quantity were left, because afterwards Mr. Leach told me he had found a lot; very few letters came up, and they were all burnt.

5349. Did you give anything to Kilcullen?—Not a shilling.

5350. Or any one of these men?—Not a farthing.

5351. Did you, in the whole course of the time, give anything to a voter for his vote?—Never.

5352. Do you know this man Leonard, that you saw here to-day, a messenger?—I do.

5353. Did you hear that man swear that you gave him 5*l.* to take to his brother-in-law?—I heard him swear that.

5354. Is it true?—There is not a word of truth in saying that I gave him 5*l.* to give to his brother-in-law; I never knew he had a brother-in-law; I gave him 5*l.* for his work, going messages for three weeks, and Price, and another named Corrie, I think.

5355. You paid them for their services?—I gave 5*l.* to be divided amongst those men; there were five of them.

5356. You say you did not know that Leonard had a brother-in-law?—I never knew anything about the man beyond seeing him there.

5357. It follows, then, that you did not know he had a brother-in-law, a voter?—Of course not; I do not know it now, except what I have heard here.

Leonard, called.

5358. Did you see that man at the election?—I do not think I did.

5359. Do you remember an application with respect to a man of the name of Neilan; that old man that was here, that said he got money?—I do perfectly.

5360. That was in February 1868, it appears, or earlier?—My impression is that I got his letter a good deal earlier; I think I got it before Christmas 1867, because I went out of town, I remember, for Christmas, and I acknowledged its receipt merely, when I got his letter, on a day or two afterwards.

5361. He stated in his letter that he was in desperate circumstances?—Yes, in fact all he stated was accurate; what occurred.

5362. It was to all appearance a very urgent case of distress?—He described himself as in a very dreadful condition, and as ruined unless he got some assistance. I acknowledged the receipt of his letter. I did no more; in fact, I forgot it. Then I got a second letter, wondering that I could treat him with that contempt in not answering his letter. I then sent the two letters to Mr. Pollock.

5263. Did you know Neilan was a voter?—I did not. I never heard of the man. I knew nothing about him. I knew very little of Sligo at that time. I sent them by post to Mr. Pollock.

Mr. Pollock, called.

5364. Major Knox says he sent you Neilan's two letters by post; have you got them?—I have not.

5365. Do you know what has become of them?—They are destroyed.

Major Knox's examination resumed.

5366. You think what Neilan said about them is quite accurate?—Perfectly true, I think.

5367. Did you authorise Mr. Pollock to give that man anything for his vote?—Certainly not; nor to give him any money in the first instance; but I sent Mr. Pollock those letters, and asked him if he would look into it. It seemed a wretched case.

5368. A case for charity?—A case for great charity, and Mr. Pollock wrote up to me then, I think, as far as I can remember.

5369. Mr. Coffey.] Have you that letter?—No, I have not; I never keep the letters.

5370. Did you keep this one, or throw it into a basket?—I never keep them. Mr. Pollock wrote to me then, and told me, I think, that he would look into it, or something of that kind. Two or three days afterwards I got a letter, saying that nothing less than 20*l.* would get this man out of the difficulty; my impression is, that I asked Mr. Pollock to pay him whatever he thought; to give him as little as he could consistently with its being of use to him; something of that kind; and that he paid the money, and that I repaid him. Whether that is the case, or whether I sent him the money when I got his letter naming the figure, I cannot state. Either I refunded Mr. Pollock, or sent it to him.

5371. But was that act an act of pure charity on your part?—Quite. I knew nothing of the man.

5372. Irrespective of voting and candidature?—Yes; my impression is, that Mr. Pollock conveyed that he was not a voter.

5373. You believed he was not a voter?—That was my impression from the wretched style of man he appeared.

5374. At the time I refer to, when you were canvassing, did you then know he was a voter?—I did not. I do not think that I really knew it till a day or two ago. I had forgotten all about the man.

5375. Did you never canvass him?—No, I never saw him till he was here.

5376. Did

5376. Did you ever give Brennan any money to give to Kilcullen for his vote?—Oh, never, nor for any other purpose.

5377. Except for the mobs?—I did not know who those mobs were. I knew a few of them. They used to send me letters sometimes. I do not remember that man.

5378. Do you remember the evidence of Mrs. Dunlevy here; you remember her stating that she went over to your house on the Mall where you were staying?—I do.

5379. And that Mr. Pollock came in, and that she produced a bundle of pawnbroker's tickets; do you remember that?—I do.

5380. And that you asked Mr. Pollock could it be arranged to give her 10*l.*; is there a word of truth in that?—There is not a word of truth in anything as to what occurred. It is true she came through. I remember her coming one morning. I was at breakfast. She had been there lots of times before; and the servant came in to me, and said this Mrs. Dunlevy was there again, and would not go. I said, "You had better show her in." They used to come in dozens there. I saw her, and Mr. Pollock then came in as this woman did; in fact, they came in together almost. She said something about money, I know; but I refused. I told her I had nothing to say to it, and my recollection of what Mr. Pollock said was very strongly indeed to recommend me not to do it; and he told me afterwards that if I listened to it, I should be a great fool. He told me something about the woman that did not induce me to have anything more to do with her.

5381. You refused to give her money?—I did. I never gave her a shilling in my life.

5382. Did you say on any occasion whatever that you would leave "commands": that you would leave 10*l.* with Mr. Pollock for her?—Never.

5383. Did you hear that woman say that you came to her house in the daytime, and that she complained to you of her disappointment at not having received the "commands" you left at Mr. Pollock's?—I heard her say that.

5384. And that you then took out 10*l.* from your pocket and handed it to her; is that true?—There is not a word of truth in it; not a syllable of truth in it.

5385. Did you hear her say that you told her not to say a word about it, for that her husband would get two years' imprisonment, and that you would be punished yourself?—I heard her say that.

5386. Did you ever say anything of the kind?—Nothing whatever.

5387. You heard her say that that occurred, I think, at the time of the revision?—Yes.

5388. Either at that time, or at any time, did any such thing ever occur?—Never. She asked me constantly for money, but I never gave a farthing, nor her husband; and the husband asked me.

5389. The husband asked you?—The husband asked me; he called one day, I remember particularly; I think after the revision, some time; I stayed a day after; I think he called the day I was leaving; he came and told me that he had a vote, and he would want money to keep himself going between the time of the revision and the election; something of that kind. However, I told him I would have nothing on earth to say to the man, and I told Mrs. Corrigan, the servant, who is here, to show this man out at once, and not to allow him in the place again; and the man was impertinent, as all those people were when they did not get money. He showed him out. I do not know whether he came again. I never saw anything more of him.

5390. From the very beginning, the earliest period, did you express to your agent that there should be nothing impure in that election?—I did; and to every one else I saw about the election.

5391. That nothing of the sort should be done?—I did.

5392. Did you endeavour to carry that out to the best of your ability?—I did, most strictly.

5393. And personally did you carry it out?—I did.

5394. To your knowledge, did a single voter get one single shilling for his vote?—I am convinced they did not, upon my side; that there was no money supplied for any such purpose; and I am convinced that no gentleman in Sligo would have put his hand into his pocket to do it.

5395. Then you supplied no money for it?—I did not.

5396. Did you hear these matters stated about Mr. Stokes wanting people to go away?—I did.

5397. Did you ever authorise Mr. Stokes to do any such thing?—No, I did not; but I remember one day I heard from somebody, I rather suspect it was Mr. Lyons; I cannot say positively, there were so many people calling; but I heard from somebody that Mr. Stokes had made a suggestion to some man, I think McCarrig was the name, to the best of my recollection, that he had made some arrangement or solicitation to this man to go away; and I went down to Mr. Stokes, and I spoke to him about it, and I told him that must not be, that it would destroy the election, that we did not require that sort of work, and it must not be done. Mr. Stokes said it would not be done. I saw him afterwards, and I said something of the same kind to him again. When I heard of this, I was so disgusted about it that I determined to give up the whole thing, and I told the people so.

5398. You told who?—I went up to the hotel when I heard it; I first of all called on Mr. Lawder and told him about it, and I was greatly annoyed. I then went into a room where there were a number of gentlemen, friends of mine. Mr. Paton, the solicitor, was one of them, I remember, my family solicitor. Another gentleman, my cousin, Mr. Utrid Knox, was there. There were a good many, I forget them. However, I determined to resign; I consulted Mr. Paton, and his advice to me was to go on, as I had pledged myself to do so, but to go on and win properly, or not at all; not to lower myself, and I came to that decision.

5399. That you would go on?—Yes, and I believe I would have had a majority a great deal larger if—5400. Did you go to the extent of ordering your things to be packed up to leave the town?—I did.

5401. What did Mr. Stokes say when you cautioned him not to attempt to do these things?—I think he said that nothing illegal should be done, that he did not intend to do anything illegal. I think he said the report was exaggerated, or something of that kind.

5402. Did you ever, at any time, sanction any illegal act of that or any other character?—Never.

Major Knox.

22 February 1869.

Major Knox.
—
22 February
1869.

5403. And as soon as you heard of the report with respect to Mr. Stokes, did you take measures at once to repudiate it?—I did. I did nothing beyond what I have just mentioned. I went to him, then I went up to the hotel, and saw these two gentlemen there. I think I sent to him also in the evening again to caution him. I think I got Mr. Morrison to call on him, to the best of my belief.

5404. You are not sure of that?—I am sure I sent some one, I think it was Mr. Morrison.

5405. That was a young gentleman?—A young barrister who was down here.

5406. He was accompanying you as a friend?—Yes.

5407. You heard them talk (although there is no evidence) of some McMullens having gone to Bandon?—I did.

5408. Did you ask anything whatever of that, or sanction it?—Nothing whatever. I never saw them nor knew anything about it.

5409. Caution them to leave the town, or anything of the sort?—No, I never heard anything of the sort.

5410. Had you authorised, or sanctioned, any such thing as Mr. Stokes ordering a car to go to Bandon?—Nothing of the kind.

5411. Did you hear the evidence of Mrs. Hall; that she entered into agreements with all these people by herself?—I did.

5412. Did you ever pay for one?—Never.

5413. Or sanction it?—No, I knew nothing whatever about it. I was never in her house but twice.

5414. What were the two occasions, Major Knox, if you remember?—I was there on the 16th, I think the day before the nomination; because I went in with Mr. Lawder to see where our friends were to go into the court-house. This house is part of the court-house. There is an entrance through it to the court-house. I went in to see the place where we were to get the next day. The sub-sheriff was there.

5415. Mr. Cogan?—Yes, he was there.

5416. Who also?—Mr. Lawder.

5417. You remember the mayor was there, Mr. Tighe?—I am not sure. Mr. Harker, the assessor, was there.

5418. What was the other occasion?—The second occasion? I was in there twice in the same day. I mean to say I have been three times really there. I was there twice on the day of polling.

5419. What brought you there that day?—There were a great number of electors there who had gone in to live there for the election. I went in to get them to come out. Captain King's death frightened them; and we could not get them to come and vote. I went in to speak to them, and asked them to come out; that we required support; that we wanted votes; in fact, the others were ahead at the time. I told them that, and some of them came out, I remember, by the front, and some were afraid, and the mayor opened a side door and took them into the court, and they went in and voted.

5420. Were those friends of yours and supporters of yours?—They were all supporters of mine.

5421. Was that the occasion on which you asked Mr. McGuire whether he would vote or not?—No; I came back afterwards; I think there were four did not vote then at the first time, and some one came and told me I had better go in and see them, that they were frightened to come out, and I went in. I forget who the two were that did not come out. Mr. Gethin and Mr. McGuirk, I remember; two came out and two did not. I went upstairs and saw Gethin, I think, first; he would not come, he was afraid, and then I went into another room with one of the men who showed me in, and Mr. McGuirk was in it.

5422. You have already told us what occurred?—Yes.

5423. Did you ever threaten any of these men with any injury or damage to them?—Not a bit; I did not say anything to them except to ask them to come out.

5424. Do you remember to have heard Mr. Dunleavy say anything about an offer of 10 acres of land; did any such thing ever occur with you?—No; I had not any land, only very small town plots, nothing of that kind.

5425. You never did?—They have all been let a long time.

5426. Did you hear Mr. O'Farrell here a minute ago?—I did.

5427. A gentleman who had voters also?—Yes.

5428. Did you pay for any of these voters?—No, I did not; I had nothing to do with it.

5429. Had you anything to say to it?—Nothing, except that Mr. Phibbs, I think, told me that Mr. O'Farrell was using the next house for both county and borough for these lodgers that came in, and if I had no objection I was to charge him, or something of that sort. I said, of course I should not charge him, that he was welcome to the use of it, he was tenant of the next one, which is also mine; he had charge of the second house, and he kept the key of it.

5430. Were you present when a man of the name of Tiernen gave his evidence?—I was.

5431. Is it true that you offered or promised to make amends for any losses he said he had suffered in former elections?—No, never; I remember canvassing one time with Mr. Utrid Knox who was with me; we did not canvass him; we were walking down the street. Mr. Utrid Knox asked me if I knew this man. I said, "No; I did not know him," and he introduced me; but there was nothing said about anything much, nothing but about the regatta, or something of that kind.

5432. Did you ever make any promise, direct or indirect, to give him anything?—No, never; he sent me a memorial one time, I think I mentioned it, or somebody mentioned it, asking for money.

5433. But you did not give it?—The memorial was signed by a number of people; I did not give it; I have it somewhere; I do not know what became of it.

[Adjourned to Nine o'clock
To-morrow morning.]

Tuesday, 23rd February 1869.

Mr. Robinson stated that, in accordance with the Judge's request, Captain Wynne proceeded last night to Sligo in charge of the Witness, Thomas Brennan, and that on their arrival at the Sligo station, where a body of police were drawn up for their protection, they found that a large mob had assembled, and that an assault was made upon Captain Wynne. 23 February 1869.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that the inquiry would not close without some notice being taken of the occurrence. He hoped the necessary steps had been taken to bring the offenders to justice.

Mr. Robinson stated that a man had been arrested. It had been ascertained that telegraphic messages had been forwarded yesterday evening from the Carrick station to Sligo.

Mr. O'Loghlin suggested that the telegraph clerk should be sent for.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that he thought that would be desirable.

Major KNOX, recalled; and further Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

5434. I THINK you told me yesterday (the learned Judge will kindly inform us whether it is so) that you had no committee?—No, there was none.

5435. You heard the gentleman on the other side read from the expenses agent's documents a receipt for cars?—I did.

5436. When were those cars employed?—They were employed from the day I arrived in Sligo; I think the 3rd of November, or the 1st.

5437. October, I think, it was?—No; perhaps the first of November. Whatever day, I came down until the 16th; then I went to the hotel, and I could not go out after that.

5438. You had no further cars?—I had no further cars after the 16th.

5439. Were those cars for your own personal convenience for driving about the country?—They were cars and carriages for dining out at places.

5440. You had a large circle of friends there?—Yes.

5441. In fact, they were part of your personal expenditure?—They were; they were all for myself.

5442. One word as to Tiernen; I did not ask you, perhaps, with sufficient clearness about that; he said, "I suffered at former elections for my votes; he said he would make amends for all if I would vote for him;" is that true?—I never had any conversation with the man at all about anything of the kind. I hardly know the man. Major Knox.

5443. He says that you told him to call upon the clerk of the peace on Monday at four, and he would make recompense; is that true?—There is not a syllable of truth in it. I never knew it until I heard it here.

Captain Wynne appeared in court, and stated that he telegraphed to the police-station last night, and, on his arrival at Sligo, found a body of 20 police. He kept Mr. Brennan in the railway carriage until he had formed the men up in force, and then marched Brennan between them, followed by a howling, screeching mob. He accompanied Brennan in his search through the house, and saw him bring away all the papers that he observed. On their return to the station, he (Captain Wynne) received a blow at the back of the head, and was covered with blood.

Mr. Justice Keogh stated that he was sorry it had been his duty to send him upon such a dangerous expedition, and thanked him for the courage he had displayed.

THOMAS BRENNAN, recalled; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh

5444. HAVE you searched for the letter we were speaking of yesterday?—I have.

5445. Have you found any such letter?—I searched every place, and found a lot of correspondence, which I have brought. This is what I have got (producing it).

5446. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Captain Wynne says you found a lot of papers; you had better produce them?—Here they are, my lord.

5447. Mr. Macdonogh.] Do you produce every paper?—Everything I could find; everything I could get.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you see these papers, Captain Wynne?

Captain Wynne.] I saw him take some papers, but of course it was not my duty to inquire into them. T. Brennan.

5448. Mr. Macdonogh (to Thomas Brennan).] Are these the only papers you have?—Yes, they are.

Captain Wynne.] I saw, when he went to his drawers, there were no papers in them hardly. There were a very few things.

5449. Mr. Macdonogh (to Thomas Brennan).] Was that your mother's house?—Yes.

5450. Mr.

T. Brennan.
23 February
1869.

5450. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You did not find the letter?—I could not account for it. I had no recollection of destroying it, but I left no place unsearched.

5451. Then there is no letter?—No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Palles.

5452. Is this the first place you have lived in?—No; I was in London before.

[The Witness withdrew.

Major KNOX, recalled; and further Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

Major Knox.

5453. I WAS about to ask you whether you wrote to Tiernan, authorising him to pay Pat Flynn's rent; is there a word of truth in that?—No, there is not.

5454. How many of the Catholic persuasion voted for you?—I am not certain of the number.

5455. I believe you had received promises from a considerable number besides?—I had, from a great many more.

Cross-examined by Mr. Caffey.

5456. Can you recollect on what day you had the interview with Mr. Paton and the other gentleman, when you were on the point of leaving Sligo?—I do not remember the day, but I know it was in the week before the polling; before the nomination.

5457. Was it in the week of the polling?—Certainly not.

5458. The week before?—Certainly, the week before; because I was staying at my lodgings at the time.

5459. When was it that you formed the determination of standing for Sligo, when a vacancy would arise?—It was in 1867, I think; February or March 1867; at least, I then was asked to come forward.

5460. Had you come then, in February 1867, to a determination upon the subject?—I had; or whenever they sent me the resolution that the meeting adopted, asking me to come forward, I accepted it. I think it was in February, I am not quite sure; it was either in February or March.

5461. Tell me, were you in Dublin when that intimation reached you?—When that communication reached me?

5462. Yes?—I was certainly.

5463. I take it for granted that you left Dublin for Sligo as soon after as you conveniently could?—I did, a few days after.

5464. When you arrived at Sligo you met, of course, the gentlemen that were encouraging you to contest the borough?—I did not meet them collectively.

5465. Well, individually; you met them in the course of your canvass?—I did not canvass then; there was no vacancy at the time, and it was considered not good taste to canvass.

5466. But you called upon these gentlemen who had become your supporters?—I did.

5467. All of them?—Yes.

5468. Mr. Stokes was one, of course?—No, certainly not; because he was not a supporter of mine.

5469. Not at that time?—No, he was a supporter of Serjeant Armstrong.

5470. Will you give me the names of the gentlemen you thought it courteous to call upon?—The first was Mr. Wynne, of Hazlewood; the next was Sir Alfred Garbooth, who, I think, I did not see; then there was Mr. Alford, of Mount Shannon; and then Mr. Henry Lyons, and Mr. Williams.

5471. Can you tell me the names of any townspeople of Sligo?—Mr. Lyons is one of the inhabitants; Mr. Williams is another; Mr. Woods; I do not know that I saw them; I think that I did; I believe I did; probably I did. I went then and saw Mr. Gilmore, who I knew before, the proprietor of the "Sligo Independent"; and I called on a great many, a tremendous number.

5472. I take it for granted that from that period down to the revision you were more constantly in Sligo than had been your habit before?—Yes; I had been there before.

5473. But you were there more constantly?—Yes, but not often. I do not think, between that and the election, I was there more than three or four times during the whole period.

5474. May I ask you who was it that you entrusted your interest to, I mean in a professional way, at the revision?—I did not personally entrust my interest to anybody, because there is a society in Sligo called the Conservative Registration Society, and they managed the revision entirely. I have subscribed to them always.

5475. May I ask what was your subscription for that year?—£. 50, I think; the same as was always given before by Mr. Macdonogh.

5476. My friend here?—Yes.

5477. £. 50 was your subscription to that society?—Yes.

5478. Who was the acting person of that society?—Mr. Roger Robinson.

5479. Anybody else; had they a secretary to represent them?—They had.

5480. Perhaps I could suggest his name?—He is dead; Captain Fawcett.

5481. Had they a paid agent, do you know?—Mr. Thomas Wilson.

5482. Was he the paid official?—Yes, he was the paid official.

5483. I take it for granted, you had communications, frequent ones, probably, with Mr. Wilson?—Not for some time; I did not know him for some time.

5484. When did your acquaintance commence with him?—Well, there was not much interest taken in the first registration; that was not important; there was a considerable majority.

5485. That is the one prior to the one upon which your election turns?—Just so; there was not much interest in that; I do not think I took much interest; I did not have much to say to it.

5486. When was it you paid your subscription of 50*l*?—I think it was somewhere about September, before the revision, a month before the revision.

5487. Do you mean the revision of 1868?—No, the revision of 1867.

5488. Did your acquaintance with Mr. Wilson commence at that time?—I do not think I knew anything about Mr. Wilson much in 1867 at all.

5489. Were you present yourself at the revision in 1867?—No.

5490. Did you renew your subscription in 1868?—I did.

5491. How much did you contribute for 1868?—I contributed

--I contributed, oh! much more; I think I gave two subscriptions, if I remember rightly; I think I gave 100*l*.

5492. Each time?--No, at one time; I do not remember the amount of the other exactly; 30*l*. or 40*l*., or something of that kind; I know I gave 100*l*. in one.

5493. Do you keep a diary?--No.

5494. Are you in the habit of doing so?--Never.

5495. Do you keep a cash-book of your own personal expenditure?--No, never in my life; not of my own personal expenditure.

5496. That is what I mean; I do not go into your establishment at all.

5497. Could you by looking at your cheque-books be able to tell me what was the amount of the third subscription that you gave; whether it was 30*l*. or 40*l*.?--No, I do not think I have it; it was something of that kind, 30*l*. or 40*l*.

5498. Are you able to tell me it was close upon that?--Well, I did not take much notice. I suppose Mr. Roger Robinson told me what was wanted. The funds of the society were not large. There were subscriptions, and I gave the balance between the two that was required for the revision. I cannot tell exactly what it was.

5499. Would I be correct in representing that you paid whatever sum was required for the purpose of carrying out the revision?--No, certainly not, because there were subscriptions from different gentlemen.

5500. But over that you supplied whatever was deficient?--Yes; but I will explain. This society manages both the borough and county revisions. It is a united society; and I gave Mr. Roger Robinson a subscription, which he said would be wanted for the borough, to do that part of the thing.

5501. Do you recollect whether that was paid by cheque or not, or was it transmitted from you, or how were these subscriptions paid?--I should say it was paid by cheque.

5502. From yourself?--Yes, I should say so.

5503. In whose favour was the cheque drawn?--Roger Robinson, certainly. These payments were made to him, but I made other payments for this revision.

5504. To whom?--I will tell you. I paid through Mr. Robinson a fee of 50 guineas to Mr. Shackleton, the barrister.

5505. Which you paid yourself?--Yes, through Mr. Robinson.

5506. But you paid that?--Yes; in consequence of the new Act of Parliament they thought it necessary to have some advice.

5507. You were here yourself during this revision?--In Sligo?

5508. Yes?--Yes.

5509. And I take it for granted you were in court for the purpose of seeing your supporters, and whether their claims were admitted or rejected?--I was here. I had my own claim among others.

5510. But you wanted to see after your own interest?--Yes.

5511. You saw Mr. Wilson here, of course?--I did.

5512. Who were the professional gentlemen who were acting in that revision in your interest?--They were not in my interest, but the interest of the Conservative society. I saw Mr. Sedley and Mr. Phibbs.

5513. Mr. Pollock; was he there?--Mr. Pollock assisted very much, but he was occupied with the county revision. He is for the county, chiefly.

5514. But did he assist in the borough?--He did; he gave all the help he could. But I do not know whether he was officially engaged; I could not say.

5515. Were any of the funds you gave to pay these gentlemen?--One of the subscriptions I gave was mainly for the purpose of paying agents.

5516. In addition to the other sums?--No, certainly not; it is included in it. I told you.

5517. Who were the agents that those sums were provided to pay?--Those I have named; there was Mr. Phibbs, Mr. Charles Sedley, Mr. James Sedley. There was another one, I forget his name, and Mr. Shackleton, the barrister.

5518. You have mentioned him already?--Mr. Wilson, he is permanent; he is a regular thing every year; there was nothing for him. I think that is all; there was Mr. Pollock, but, as I say, he was not official.

5519. Who was it who, at the period of the revision, was acting as your attorney or agent for the purpose of the election?--I had not one at all; I had none whatever; nothing of the kind, not for the election.

5520. With whom did you go over the list?--Mr. Pollock did my own private business in Sligo with reference to a few houses, and so on; I had no other solicitor.

5521. I take it that Mr. Pollock is your solicitor for your private affairs?--Yes, he is.

5522. Who was it you compared the results of each day's operations at the revision court with?--I spoke to everybody.

5523. But there was somebody specially charged with it?--I spoke to them all. I have no doubt I spoke to the gentlemen or to the people who took the active part; Mr. Shackleton chiefly, because he was a very old friend of mine.

5524. Then he and you put your heads together about the results of the lists?--Well, we took a great interest in the result. There is no doubt we were very anxious about it.

5525. And I take it for granted you compared the lists of 1867 with the additions and alterations that have been made in the revision of 1868?--I cannot say much about that. I do not know very much about the 1867 list.

5526. But, Major Knox, is not that so, that you compared the former list?--I do not think that the two lists were ever put to me, but of course I was anxious to know if my own chances were as good after the last revision as they were before.

5527. Had you that list of 1867 with you in Dublin, or did you only see it in Sligo when you came down?--I am sure I had it in Dublin; I am certain of it.

5528. Do you recollect who it was transmitted the list of 1867?--There were two lists between the one you are referring to, because the 1868 list was the old franchise; as to the 1867 list, I really cannot tell you that I ever read it through, but the 1868 one I certainly did.

5529. Will you oblige me by trying to recollect, if you can, who it was transmitted to you both lists, or either?--The 1868 list certainly was sent.

5530. By whom?--I think by Mr. Wilson; certainly he was the official who always did that.

5531. And although you say you did not particularly

Major Knox.

23 February 1869.

Major Knox. particularly observe the list of 1867, was Mr. Wilson the transmitter of that?—If I got it I am sure he sent it, and I daresay he did: I am pretty sure he did send it.

23 February 1869.

5532. Then you are pretty sure he sent the list of 1867?—I know I got copies of the register of 1867, but I do not know as to the list.

5533. Then the list of 1867 was sent by Wilson himself?—It was, I am sure it was; the register.

5534. The two lists prior to the ultimate list; am I correct?—Yes, quite correct.

5535. Who is Mr. Grubb?—I do not know much about him. He is a friend of a relative of Mr. Balfour of Sligo; he lives in Dublin. I did not see him before.

5536. Did he come down with you?—No, he was with Mr. Balfour.

5537. Did he come down in your interest?—No, I think he was glad to see me get in. I did not know the man at all.

5538. Did you have any pecuniary transactions with Mr. Hignell?—Certainly not, except that he is paid a salary at my office, never in my life of any description whatever.

5539. He is in your employment?—Yes, for the last 10 years he has been in my employment. He was in the army, and I took him from the army; I know nothing about him except that he gets so much a week.

5540. Is there a person of the name of Gourley in your employment?—Yes; a little boy.

5541. How is he employed; is it writing covers, or what?—He is a kind of messenger in my office. I send him on messages and things of that sort.

5542. Are you sufficiently acquainted with his handwriting to be able to say you would know it?—I think I would know it; it is a boy-like hand, a bad hand; I think I might know it.

5543. I suppose this is the document you have been speaking of, the register of 1868 (handing it to the Witness)?—I do not think that is my copy.

5544. No, it is not; but it is the same thing, it is identical, that is the document?—Yes. They are all the same; I am sure it is.

5545. Mr. Macdonogh.] You presume they are all the same?—Yes; it looked just like that.

5546. Mr. Coffey.] Have you got your copy here?—No; I am pretty sure I left it in Sligo. I heard they were stolen, but I have no reason to know it.

5547. Have you got any documents whatever connected with the election in your possession?—No; I believe they were stolen from my lodgings; they disappeared one day; I went to look for them and they had gone; where they went I do not know; I have never seen them since. I wrote to Mr. Leech about these things; I do not know what became of them.

5548. When was it that you got this list of 1868, this revised list; was it immediately after the revision?—I should think a little while after the 1868 list.

5549. We will take the 1868 list?—I beg your pardon, the end of 1867; I am not sure I got it; I do not remember.

Mr. Coffey proposed to put in the register.

Mr. Macdonogh objected, because the copy was marked with pencil.

Mr. Coffey said he would get a second copy.

5550. Now this is the register of the last revision, upon which the election turns?—I am sure it is the same kind of thing I got. (The lists were put in and marked.)

5551. Something was said about your receiving applications for money through Brennan; how many did you get?—I got them occasionally, from time to time.

5552. About how many did you get?—I cannot tell; it ranges over a long period.

5553. You got several?—Yes. As a rule, they were not signed by Brennan only; they were generally signed by a whole lot of those fellows, a regiment of them; they were generally a kind of joint thing; they were always asking for money, almost invariably, and they were signed by a whole number of them sometimes, and sometimes by Brennan alone, but generally by all of them; a kind of statement of what they were doing.

5554. Of the exertions they were making?—Exactly.

5555. And I suppose they gave a favourable account of their efforts?—Always.

5556. And the wonderful results which they achieved?—Exactly.

5557. Did you give any money, or send any money by letter of credit, or order, or cheque?—To Brennan; to these people?

5558. Yes?—I did some small sums at intervals.

5559. At intervals you sent letters of credit, or cheques, or orders?—I think, as a rule, I generally pay everything by cheques; I fancy it was by cheques.

5560. Is your recollection sufficient?—That is my recollection; I might have sent a small thing by post-office order, or by letter of credit.

5561. But otherwise you would send by cheques?—That is my impression.

5562. You sent by cheques, and you also gave money yourself in Sligo?—I gave some money one day.

5563. At present I am only confining myself to Brennan?—I do not know whose hands it went through, because there was a lot of them bothering me at the time; I do not know who took it out of my hands; I cannot possibly say, for they persecuted me.

5564. Have you got your cheques with you?—No, I have not; I brought down merely the election ones.

5565. I must remind you that your attention was called to this matter, and you were asked to produce those cheques?—(The notice to produce was read, and admitted by Mr. Lawder.) It would be all embodied in about two cheques, which I have in my hotel, and which I can get if you wish it; but they are in the account, I can tell you.

5566. Do you recollect at all any communication to you by Brennan in writing, with respect to a man of the name of Neilan?—Certainly not; decidedly; I never got a letter from Brennan on the subject; that is my firm belief.

5567. That is your belief?—That is my firm belief; but I got a letter from the man himself.

5568. You regarded it as a mere matter of charity, I understand you?—I did; I knew nothing about the man; but when I got the second letter I sent him to Mr. Pollock; I asked him to see if it was a case of charity. The man appeared to be in a very bad state.

5569. Have you any recollection whether the money was paid by you to Mr. Pollock?—My recollection of it is, that Mr. Pollock paid the money himself, and that I refunded it to him.

5570. And that he charged it to you?—I cannot recollect whether I sent it at first, as I said yesterday, but that is my belief, that he paid it, and I sent him a cheque.

5571. What time was it the application was made to you; of course I have the means here of knowing, and I do not wish to entrap you in the least degree; when was it; I may as well tell you; it must have been some time in January 1868; it must have been?—I thought it was December 1867; but it was about that.

5572. This man was miserably poor, as you say?—Oh, yes (a letter was handed to the Witness).

5573. Is that your letter?—That is my letter, I forgot the date; it is 10th January.

5574. The man was miserably poor, according to his statement to you?—So he said.

5575. That is what I mean, according to his statement to you?—Yes.

5576. Utterly destitute?—Yes.

5577. And you looked upon it as a complete matter of charity?—I looked upon it as a complete matter of charity; I did not know whether it was or not, so I sent him to Mr. Pollock to see, and if it was a matter of charity to do it; if it was not, not to do it.

5578. It was to be given to him, I understand, if the man's statement was borne out, it was to be treated as an absolute matter of charity, and to be given to him as such?—Yes; but I instructed Mr. Pollock to get some sort of security. I think he said in one of the letters he would repay it when he had it, or something or other.

5579. Did Mr. Pollock tell you he had taken any security?—He did, certainly.

5580. Did he remit you the security?—I think it was an I O U.

5581. Did he remit it to you?—No, he kept it; he has lots of things of mine.

5582. Did you get any other securities for charity?—I did.

5583. In what instances; what were the other instances in which you got a security?—I remember an instance of a man who had been a schoolmaster at Hazlewood.

5584. I am talking about Sligo?—He lives in Sligo; he had lived in Hazlewood, but he got into great destitution, and referred me to somebody or other he knew.

5585. What is his name?—Flanagan; I got an I O U from him.

5586. By whom was that transaction conducted?—I think it was directed by myself.

5587. Directed by yourself?—Yes; I think he sent me an I O U, or something of that sort.

5588. Have you got the I O U?—I do not know where it is, but I have got it.

5589. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What was his name?—Flanagan.

5590. Mr. Coffey.] Had you any other charitable transactions of that sort?—No, I do not remember.

5591. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What was the amount of that loan to Flanagan?—I think it was about 6 l. or 7 l.

Re-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

5592. You told my learned friend, Mr. Coffey, that he was a poor man of the name of Flanagan, a schoolmaster. I do not know whether my Lord heard the words at the time.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I have it on my note.

5593. Was he a very old man?—He was. I asked him if he was a voter, and he was not, or I would not have given it to him. This is not very long ago. It is only about eight months ago, I think.

5594. You ascertained he was not a voter?—Yes; he was a wretchedly poor man.

5595. He had been a writing-master?—Yes; a schoolmaster in Hazlewood.

5596. You have been asked by my learned friend about the persons who were officials of the Conservative Registration in Sligo. Have not the gentlemen on the other side the privilege also of having professional help?—They have, and very good too.

5597. Who represented them?—Mr. McNeith and Mr. O'Loughlin. There were others, but I do not know their names.

5598. Do you happen to know that Roger Robinson is very ill?—He has been very ill a long time.

5599. Must he keep his room?—I do not know, but at the election the other day he was brought out in a very bad state.

5600. Do you know the revision lasted ten days?—It was a tremendous affair; two courts were sitting at once.

5601. Was Captain Flanagan there?—He was.

5602. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You recollect that witness, Mrs. Dunleavy?—I do.

5603. She stated that you went to her house; did you, in fact, go to her house?—I remember I canvassed her. Mr. Pollock and I went one day; I cannot tell the date, but I think it was in July, after the regatta. I never canvassed since: in fact, before the revision.

5604. You were in her house at that time?—My recollection is that the husband was away, and that Mr. Pollock only asked, and we did not go in.

5605. Then you were not in her house at the time she mentions, when her husband was there?—Never. I never saw her husband in the house in my life. I only saw him once in my life at all, and that was in my own house.

5606. You heard a matter mentioned about Mr. Stokes; that he was doing something you thought improper with reference to the electors; from whom did you hear that?—From Mr. Lyons. My belief is that he told me first; but I heard it from more than one: I heard it, I think, from Mr. Williams too, who came to me and warned me that Mr. Stokes was going on in a way that must be stopped.

5607. Did he say more particularly what way?—I heard of his making some kind of inducement to a man whose name, I think, was M'Tighe.

5608. Did you hear of any other?—I heard nothing more particular; I heard he was very officious, excessively officious.

5609. And was it in the way you understand to mean that he was practising corruptly?—I heard he was thrusting himself forward in a way we did not require.

5610. Was that what we all understand by "corruptly"?—I would certainly say so; that

Major Knox.

23 February 1869.

Major Knox. he was pushing himself forward and trying, as it were, to show that he could do a great deal.
 23 February 1869. 5611. Had you heard that of any other of your supporters?—I did not, because I had inquired, and I was told that it was not the case.

5612. It was stated by one or two of the witnesses that Mr. Stokes had called on you at your lodgings, at Leech's?—I think I remember his calling one day once.

5613. Only once?—Once. I only saw him once, certainly. Everybody called.

5614. During the whole time: there was a witness stated here that he used to go to your lodgings in the evening?—I think he was never there in the evening at all; I was hardly ever there in the evening; I was out to dinner. I think I only saw a person once in the evening, and that was that man, Feeny.

5615. This register is put in here; will you be so good as to take it in your hand; one that has no marks upon it (handing the document). I think you said that you had gone over the register of 1868?—I am sure I did, my Lord; quite certain.

5616. Your attention was called to that case of Patrick Neilan; look at that; does he appear as a voter there?—I see him.

5617. Does he not appear as a voter?—He does.

5618. Will you look at the list; do you see a man named Feeny; what is his Christian name?—

Mr. Macdonogh.] John.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Yes, John Feeny.

Witness.] No, he is not here.

5619. He is not there?—No, and the other man of that name, I think there is one, written in pencil, but it is not in print.

5620. You mentioned last evening that numbers—I think the word you used was a "great" number, a "great number of elector fellows" were constantly coming to you and asking you for money?—They were; these poor ones.

5621. And writing?—Oh, perpetually.

5622. When you said "a great number of these elector fellows," to what extent would you say?—Well, there appeared to me to be a certain class of them.

5623. But what number?—I think they were nearly the whole of the inhabitants of that poor part of the place. I should think, I am sure, I got from 30 to 40.

5624. Asking money?—Generally.

5625. Asking for money, of course?—They always used to begin by saying they were distressed, and then saying they would be great supporters of mine when the time came, and they hoped in the meantime I would remember them, and all that kind of thing.

5626. Does your recollection go to the extent of 30 or 40?—I am sure there were fully 30 at different times. It used to be a long thing generally on blue paper. My table was covered with them at Mr. Knox's house. It was a dreadful thing. The doors used to be knocked all day by these people.

5627. Asking for assistance?—Asking for money; my hall was full of them. I had to go out and stay at Mount Shannon; I was so persecuted, but they were all the same class.

Re-examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

5628. May I take leave to ask a question upon that through your Lordship, whether he refused them in every instance?—Oh, in every instance. I had to get the police to remove them.

[The Witness withdrew.]

EDWARD POLLOCK, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

E. Pollock.

5629. You are a Solicitor, residing in Sligo?—In Sligo.

5630. Do you know Major Knox?—I do.

5631. Do you remember when he came to Sligo, at first?—I do not remember the date exactly, but I remember the circumstance.

5632. And he employed you, in reference to some slight conveyancing, some small matters about houses?—He did.

5633. Some property?—Yes.

5634. Did you know that woman, Dunleavy?—Yes.

5635. Do you remember when Major Knox was staying in the Mall?—I do.

5636. Have you any recollection of having called on Major Knox one morning when he was there?—I have.

5637. Did you ascertain whether there was any person with him?—He was at breakfast at the time. I knocked, and asked for him, and the housekeeper opened the door, and told me he was at breakfast; but she added she would be glad if I would go in. There was a woman teasing the major at his breakfast.

5638. Did you go in?—Yes.

5639. Did you see that woman there?—That woman was Mrs. Dunleavy.

5640. Did you hear her evidence in this court?—I did.

5641. Did you hear her say she produced a number of pawnbrokers' tickets?—I did.

5642. And that she asked for 10*l.*, and that the Major asked you how it could be managed, and that you said you thought it could be managed?—A word of it is not the case.

5643. Is there a single particle of truth in that?—Not a particle of truth.

5644. Was there a single word about money, or anything else?—Not a word or a syllable.

5645. Did you try to get her away as quick as possible?—I saluted her very civilly when I went in; I said I wished to speak to Major Knox on some business; and requested her to withdraw, and she withdrew in a moment.

5646. Do you remember having been attorney to Lady Palmerston, in relation to Flynn's ejectment?—I do; I have done the business of that estate a long time, I mean the law business.

5647. Do you remember being asked to adjourn the process of June 1868?—I think it was June 1868, I do not remember the day, I think it was; I remember the fact, the being ordered to bring an ejectment against Flynn, amongst others, for not paying rent in ordinary course. I issued the ejectment, and some one or other, I forget who (Flynn himself, or some other person), asked me to give Flynn time. I said I thought I could, if there was any chance of getting the rent; and my recollection is that the case was then adjourned; the rent was paid me; I gave a receipt for it, and paid over the rent for it when I settled my annual account.

5648. Had you any communication with Major Knox on the subject?—Not the slightest.

5649. Did

5649. Did he ever authorise you on the subject?—Not at all; he knew nothing about it, I think; at least, if he did, I knew nothing about his knowledge.

5650. No communication with you?—No, neither directly nor indirectly, nothing in the world about it.

5651. Do you remember, in the end of 1867 or the beginning of 1868, having seen that old man, Neilan?—I think it must have been the beginning of the year, January or February.

5652. He himself has fixed the 15th February as the final transaction?—I cannot exactly fix the date, but I can tell what occurred.

5653. He says the end of December or the early part of the new year?—I cannot tell that; I do not remember; but I remember Neilan, whom I had never seen before to my knowledge, coming to me, and bringing a note, as well as I remember, from Major Knox; and I asked him, was he the person.

5654. I have to ask you, have you the note, or have you looked for it?—I have not, I destroyed it, I did not keep it at all. I asked him, was he the person referred to in this note; and he said he was; and then I asked him what was his business (or something in that way) with me. He said he expected to get some relief from Major Knox, and he was in very bad circumstances, and he told me what his circumstances were; he owed rent and taxes; and an ejectment was brought by Mr. Phibbs; and it was out of charity I defended him, I remember. That was subsequently to it; but I made Major Knox acquainted with the circumstances of the case; and I know that I got him 20*l*. Whether I paid it first of all, and the major gave it back to me, or whether the major sent me the money for it, I am not sure about. As well as I remember about it, there was nothing further passed, except that I took his security for it, according to directions.

5655. Did you know he was a voter at all?—I did not; I never saw the man in my life before, nor do I know yet whether he is a voter or not, except that I heard in this court he was.

5656. Did a single word pass between you, as to a vote?—Never. The man swore that, himself, here, if your Lordship remembers. I never had a word of conversation with him about the election, or vote, or anything of the sort.

5657. Are you able to say that it was bonâ fide and purely a matter of charity?—Undoubtedly; I believe that, as I am sitting here this minute.

Cross-examined by Mr. Palles.

5658. When did you first act for Major Knox?—When he came down first he asked me to act for him in local business. I forget the time when he came down; I suppose a couple of years ago; I think it is that.

5659. Before he was a candidate?—Yes.

5660. And you did act as his solicitor in all his local transactions?—I did.

5661. And you continue at present to act as his solicitor in all local transactions?—I do.

5662. Did you act at all for him at the revision or the election?—I did not.

5663. That is, not professionally?—Not professionally. I acted at the revision, as I think I mentioned yesterday, under the Conservative Society. I made an arrangement for a long time for the county.

5664. With Mr. Sedley and Mr. Phibbs?—Yes.

5665. You acted for the borough as well?—I did; at least I was not very active in it, because I had more to do with the county, but I was there giving my assistance.

5666. And you did, as we all do, your best?—Yes.

5667. I think Major Knox told me that you canvassed with him in July, before the revision?—I did.

5668. Do you remember how many people you canvassed with him?—A great many.

5669. When did you commence your canvass?—I think, about that time.

5670. The major determined to stand, he said, about February 1867; do you say you commenced to canvass as early as June?—I could not exactly say, but I am sure when he came to his first canvass I went round with him.

5671. I just want to fix that date; about when?—Upon my word, I cannot remember.

5672. Was it about the summer of 1868?—I dare say it was about the summer of 1868.

5673. I want a few landmarks, if I can get them. From time to time, when he came down to canvass, you canvassed with him?—Yes.

5674. And you canvassed any persons you thought you would have any influence with?—Yes.

5675. Was there any other person with you when you were canvassing upon these occasions?—I think Mr. Phibbs was with us upon several occasions. I do not remember any other in particular.

5676. Not in particular?—I do not remember any other but Mr. Phibbs and myself.

5677. I have been asking about that date; was it before or after the summer sessions?—The summer sessions would be in July.

5678. I think they were early in July?—June or early in July; about that time.

5679. A little before, wasn't it?—I cannot say, upon my oath I cannot.

5680. How many ejectments had you upon the Palmerston estate in that session?—When that ejectment you were talking about was brought?

5681. Yes?—I would just say there may have been, on that and on the other estates—

5682. Yes, take them as a whole, how many had you?—I dare say there may have been seven or eight.

5683. Are you in the habit of getting your instructions from Mr. Fox or from Mr. Stewart direct?—From both. Sometimes from Dublin; sometimes from the local gentleman, Mr. Fox.

5684. You thought Flynn was poor, didn't you?—I thought nothing about it; I did not know his circumstances at all.

5685. What was your belief?—My belief was what I was told, that he was poor, or I would not have given him time.

5686. How much rent did he owe?—I think it was a year.

5687. Was it a year or a year and a half?—I think it was a year.

5688. £.10 was the amount; do you know what the rent was?—I know 10*l*. was the amount claimed.

5689. That is why I ask you was it a year or a year and a half?—I do not know.

5690. Do you know the person upon whose application it was allowed to stand over till October?—I do not.

Q

5691. Do

E. Pollock.

23 February 1869.

E. Pollock.
23 February
1869.

5691. Do not you know that the object was to save the crop?—No.

5692. Would not the effect of its standing over from June to October be that the landlord could not touch the crop; would not the crop be removed before October?—It would, in the natural course.

5693. Is it your habit to allow ejectments to stand over for poor men, under these circumstances, without communicating with your principal?—I think, Mr. Palles, this was the rent of a house and not of land.

5694. Was it a house?—I think it was a house and flat in Sligo town; I am not certain whether it was or not.

5695. Is it your habit to allow ejectments of that sort to stand over, without instructions from your landlord or the agent, at the application of unknown persons?—It was not a person unknown. I think Thomas Smith, the bailiff, sent me word that it might be done, or something.

5696. Was Thomas Smith the only person you spoke to?—Certainly, that was all.

5697. Did any one else; was it Smith asked you to allow it to stop over?—I think it was he who asked.

5698. Did anyone else speak about it?—I do not remember.

5699. Will you swear there was not?—No; I will swear I do not remember. I believe Flynn himself sent to me.

5700. How many others of these ejectments did you allow to stand over?—I do not think any more stood over.

5701. Was the decree executed?—There is never one executed in the Palmerston office.

5702. Did you get any money directly or indirectly from Major Knox in the course of the last year?—No money of his.

5703. Directly or indirectly?—None.

5704. Did you get any money connected with the election, directly or indirectly?—None.

5705. Now about Neilan. In that transaction did you conceive you were acting as a solicitor for Major Knox?—Major Knox?

5706. Yes?—I did.

5707. You looked upon it as a business transaction?—I did.

5708. There was a security?—Yes.

5709. When did you destroy the letters?—At the time.

5710. Is that your habit?—It is; I have enough business letters to file, without documents of that description.

5711. Mr. Justice Keogh.] I should like to know from you what was the state of the town of Sligo during that election; you were there, I suppose?—I was indeed.

5712. During the whole time?—Yes.

5713. I should like to know from you what was its condition as regards the conduct of the mobs a few days before the election?—It was very much disturbed.

5714. Was there danger to voters and to people doing their ordinary work?—I think so; I will give an instance; Major Knox dined with me one day, and we had to guard him; we had a patrol up and down before my house of 50 men and a sub-inspector.

5715. You reside in the town?—I reside in the town of Sligo.

5716. Was there stone throwing?—Oh, at numbers of houses; there are 3,000 l. worth of malicious injuries to come on at these assizes.

5717. £. 3,000, that is what I wanted to have from you?—I know that there are 3,000 l. worth of claims coming on at the next assizes.

5718. And you have already told me there was much injury and damage done in the town?—A great deal.

5719. Will you describe to me what the character of those injuries was?—Stone throwing and window breaking, and numerous assaults on people in the streets. There was my poor friend Captain King; I was not in the court-house when he met his death; of course I don't know how he met it.

5720. Now tell me, can you speak as to who were the persons; did any persons appear to be encouraging or leading these people to anything of that kind?—I think they were mixed up, the country people and townspeople; country people that came in.

5721. Were there any persons of the better class amongst them?—I don't think there were, that I remarked; I think the inhabitants on all sides would set their faces against such a thing in the town of Sligo.

5722. Then how do you account for the town getting in that state; if all the inhabitants on both sides would set their faces against it, how do you account for it?—Those I am talking about are the respectable portion of the inhabitants; it was a very unusually excited election. I have seen a great many in Sligo, but this was very unusually excited.

5723. Did that continue?—It did.

5724. After the election?—After the election it did.

5725. Are you aware does it still continue?—I think it does, so far as some obnoxious voters go. I know up to very lately, one voter's house in particular being attacked repeatedly since the election.

5726. Repeatedly since the election?—Yes.

5727. Is that in the daytime or night, or how?—Towards evening, I think, is the time generally when it is done; there are a great many criminal cases returned to the assizes; election assaults.

5728. You have the conduct of the revision, don't you?—In the county.

5729. But not in the borough?—Not in the borough.

5730. Who has the management of the borough?—Mr. Harloe Phibbs.

5731. He has the management?—Yes; I held them both at one time, but it was too much trouble, and they were divided. Mr. Phibbs has for years conducted the borough.

5732. Do you assist at the revision; do you assist Mr. Phibbs?—Not as a matter of course.

5733. Did you in 1868?—That is the last revision.

5734. The last revision?—I did.

5735. Did you the one before that?—No, I think not.

5736. Do you happen to have yourself a copy of the register for Sligo?—I have not.

5737. You do not keep it?—No, I do not.

5738. What became of the I O U of Neilan's?—I have it somewhere in the office.

5739. You heard Neilan say that you offered him at first 12 l.; is that so?—It may have been so, because my business was to ascertain how much would relieve his necessities at the time.

5740. Then he said it would not do?—He said it would not do.

5741. And he went away?—Then there was 20 l. he got.

5742. He said he went away and returned again after after some time?—I think he may have done that.

5743. You were asked as to the rent of that man Flynn?—Yes.

5744. Do you recollect who was the person who spoke to you about it?—No, I do not; it took place in court, whatever it was.

5745. Had you got the money?—It was paid in court, but I cannot recollect the time.

5746. Was it paid in June, or was it paid in October; they swore it was paid in June, you know?—I really cannot tell; I suspect it was paid in October, and for this reason, there would be no use in adjourning the ejectment.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HARLOE PHIBBS, sworn; Examined by Dr. Kaye.

5749. I BELIEVE you are a Solicitor, practising in Sligo?—I am.

5750. Do you know a man named Thomas Brennan, who was a witness yesterday?—I do.

5751. Have you known him for some time?—I have.

5752. Where does he live in Sligo?—He lives in the part called High-street.

5753. Is it his own house?—He and his brother live together.

5754. Had you any conversation with him as to the last election, about voting?—About his voting?

5755. Yes?—

Mr. Palles objected to the question.

Mr. Justice Keogh asked if Brennan was a voter.

Dr. Kaye stated that he was in the bill of particulars.

Mr. Justice Keogh said there were two Thomas Brennans.

Mr. O'Loghlen said it was Thomas Brennan of High-street.

5756. Dr. Kaye.] You are charged in the bill of particulars with bribing a man named Thomas Brennan: is that true?—Perfectly untrue.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Is Brennan in the bill of particulars as one of the persons alleged to have been bribed.

Mr. Lawder.] He is my Lord, in No. 1.

5757. Dr. Kaye.] Do you know a man named Patrick Flynn?—I do.

5758. Do you remember his coming for drink for the boys?—I do.

5759. Do you remember what time that was?—I should say a short time before the last revision.

5760. Tell us what took place between you?—I met Flynn, and I think there was a person named Gray with him, whom I only knew by appearance at the time, and Flynn told me that the men or the boys up the street wanted some money for drink, and he asked me could I get any, and I said I didn't know anything at all about it, but I would make inquiry; but of myself I had no knowledge; however, he began to say they had been very badly treated.

5761. Did he say why they had been badly treated?—Yes; he said that there were some persons who were opposed to the Armstrong party at one time, and they were then in favour of Major Knox.

5762. It was in consequence of that?—They had been badly treated, and they wanted some money for drink; I said I knew nothing of it.

5747. That is another thing altogether; Flynn swore that you were paying the money in June, and that when he saw it was coming on in October, he remonstrated about it, and then it was you set it all right; is that the case?—I cannot remember at which it was paid; it was at sessions.

5748. You will not take upon yourself to contradict that?—I will not, because I have no distinct recollection, and of course I would not; I have a great deal to do at the sessions, and really this has escaped my mind.

E. Pollock.

23 February 1869.

5763. Was it for the purpose of the mob he wanted it?—Some 60 or 70 of them who were a mob.

5764. You did not on that occasion give Flynn any money?—No.

5765. You said Gray was with him; did you afterwards see Gray?—I afterwards met Flynn, and I said, "Flynn, I have been speaking about it, and I think I could get something for them to quiet them."

5766. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You had been speaking to somebody?—Yes.

5767. To whom?—I do not recollect; I had been speaking to Wilson, but I do not know whether I mentioned that to Flynn at that time.

5768. Dr. Kaye.] What then?—On that occasion I mentioned to Mr. Wilson that Flynn had been speaking to me to get money for those boys for drink, and that he himself said, "Recollect, I do not want any at all for myself;" I said, "I could not give you any on either side, because I think it would be wrong to give you any." "Oh yes, I know very well," said he; "I am a voter, and I would not have any at all for myself personally, it is only for these men I want it." I met Flynn afterwards, and I gave him a card, as he described to you, for him to go to Mr. Wilson, and he would get 5*l*.

5769. For those men?—For those men who at the time were called the Sandy-row boys.

5770. In other words, was it Knox's mob?—Or Knox's mob, as you call it.

5771. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Is there a Sandy-row in Sligo?—No; but I heard of such a report, that they had been called that.

5772. There is not a Sandy-row in Sligo?—No.

5773. Dr. Kaye.] Do you remember calling at Mrs. Dunleavy's at any time with Major Knox?—I do, and Mr. Pollock.

5774. Was Dunleavy the husband there at the time, do you remember?—I did not see any person but Mrs. Dunleavy.

5775. Did you hear anyone that was with Major Knox ask Mrs. Dunleavy on that occasion if her husband would take a situation in Dublin?—No.

5776. Did anything of that kind occur?—Not in my presence.

5777. And were you with Mr. Knox during the time he was there?—As close as I am to you.

5778. About what time was that?—I think that time has been fixed.

5779. About what time was that?—That was the time Major Knox was on his canvass, but I cannot fix the date.

H. Phibbs.

- H. Phibbs.* 5780. But with reference to the revision, what time was it?—Some time before the revision.
- 23 February 1869. 5781. Did you ever say to Mrs. Dunleavy upon that occasion, or upon any other, that Major Knox had done well for her, and would do better after the election was over, but that he could not then give any money?—It is perfectly untrue.
5782. Is there a word of truth that such a statement was ever made by you to Mrs. Dunleavy?—Such a statement was never made by me to Mrs. Dunleavy.
5783. Or anything to that effect?—Or anything to that effect. I may now mention, my Lord, that Mrs. Dunleavy came to my house on three or four occasions, and on each occasion wanted to get money; that I would get money for her from Major Knox; and I on each occasion refused to have anything to do with it; I told her that I could not do any such thing.
5784. Did she ever make the same application to you in the street?—I have a distinct recollection of meeting her once in the street; I think I did it a second time in the evening on my returning to my house, when she made a similar application, and I refused.
5785. Did you hear Edward Kelley examined?—I did.
5786. Did you hear him state that he was on one occasion in Mr. Woods' shop when you came in?—I did.
5787. You heard his evidence with reference to that?—Yes.
5788. What was the object of your visit at that time to Mr. Woods?—
5789. Mr. Palles.] What did you do?—I will tell you what I did on that occasion. I have a recollection of seeing Kelley in the shop as I entered or as I was going out. My object in going to see Mr. Woods—
5790. Say what passed between you and Mr. Woods?—Nothing whatever passed between old Mr. Woods and me. I went to young Mr. Woods; he is a commissioner for taking affidavits. An affidavit had been made for a person of the name of Martin, and I called upon him to make inquiry after that.
5791. Dr. Kaye.] On that occasion you had no conversation whatever with old Mr. Woods?—Certainly not, nor at any other time with old Mr. Woods, with reference to the election.
5792. Did you hear Mr. Macneith's evidence with reference to Flynn's ejection matter?—I did.
5793. You were present at the sessions, were you?—I was; I attended the sessions.
5794. It was in June, according to his account?—Yes; I attend the sessions; I was there.
5795. Had you any conversation with Mr. Pollock upon that occasion with reference to that particular ejection, to withdraw it?—I do not recollect any conversation about it till I heard it here for the first time.
5796. Did you interfere in any way in the withdrawal of that ejection, or in paying the amount that was claimed by the plaintiff?—I did not.
5797. You did not?—Certainly not.
5798. Do you remember being with Major Knox when he called at Morrow's house?—I do.
5799. Will you just state the circumstance?—

Mr. Justice Keogh.] No, that case utterly broke down.

5800. Dr. Kaye.] Do you know Mrs. Hall?—I do.
5801. Do you know her house?—I do.
5802. Were you in her house during the time of the election at all?—I was, twice.
5803. What were the occasions of your visiting her house?—On the one occasion I went there to see Mr. Robinson, who was staying there, and on another occasion to see one of the voters who was there, a man of the name of Ferguson.
5804. And were those the only two occasions upon which you were in her house during the election?—They were the only two occasions, to my recollection.
5805. Have you read the bill of particulars in this case?—I have looked through that portion that referred to myself.
5806. In how many cases are you yourself charged with acts of bribery in that bill of particulars?—I think the several acts which I am charged with about bribery, and undue influence, and other matters, amount to 37.
5807. Is there any foundation for any one of those charges?—I never in the whole course of my life bribed a man or offered him sixpence at any election.
5808. Or used any undue influence?—Or used any undue influence to get him to vote.
5809. Or to restrain him from voting?—Or to restrain him from voting.
5810. You reside in Sligo?—I do.
5811. You have resided there many years?—I have.
5812. Will you tell us the state of the town at the time, or before the election, if his Lordship wishes to hear it?—I have known Sligo for the last 20 years, and there has been a great number of contested elections there, but I do not think I ever saw the town of Sligo more disturbed than it was on the last occasion. There were several houses in the town that were completely wrecked, and that within 200 yards of the court-house. On the day of the polling there was the house of a man, whom I am charged in the bill of particulars with bribing, which was literally broken in by the mob outside, and that within 200 yards of the court-house, and within view of the military. I went to the captain in command of the military, asking him to protect the house, not knowing at that time whose house it was. He went up with a company of infantry to enable the house to be protected, but not until there was a great deal of damage done to the house.
5813. Is that the man we heard of who was arrested on the process on his way to the poll?—Yes.
5814. And his house was injured?—Yes.
5815. Was there injury done to other houses?—Yes; there was a man of the name of Dunovey, whose house was completely broken in; the windows and shutters and all completely demolished. There was another house in Market-street close to Mr. Balfour's. That man kept soft ware; he sold hat and band-boxes in the street. I saw a great deal of his property kicked about. There was another man of the name of Gethins, whose house was broken in, and has been repeatedly since.
5816. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What is his name?—Gethins. Coming home from church on the Sunday before the poll, I saw round Major Knox's house a tremendous mob, which prevented us from passing the street, and Mr. Colson was obliged to bring down a body of police.
5817. Are

5817. Are you able to tell in whose interest the mob appeared to be?—They were opposed to Major Knox, as far as I can tell you.

Cross-examined by Mr. Waters.

5818. You canvassed a great deal, I believe, with Major Knox?—I was with Major Knox a great deal.

5819. Could you tell his Lordship when you commenced?—I could not fix the date.

5820. In 1867?—No.

5821. In 1868?—When he commenced his canvass I really could not give you the date.

5822. Would you say early in 1868?—No, I would not; I do not recollect.

5823. Would you say what period of the year it commenced?—If I fixed the date I should say about July.

5824. You say you canvassed with him; you went with him to Dunleavy's?—I did.

5825. That was for the purpose of canvassing?—Yes, he went there for the purpose of canvassing.

5826. We were told that was before the revision; was that in July?—It was before the revision.

5827. In July?—I think it was, but I could not exactly say.

5828. You will not swear as a matter of absolute certainty?—No, but my belief is it was.

5829. Tell his Lordship are there two Dunleavys voters in Sligo?—There are; there is one in Thomas-street, and the other in Gore-street.

5830. Francis Dunleavy in Thomas-street, is that the man you are speaking of?—No.

5831. Francis Dunleavy, Gore-street, is the man you are speaking of?—Yes.

5832. And that you think was in July?—To the best of my recollection.

5833. Do you know Brennan, Thomas Brennan?—I do.

5834. There are also two Thomas Brennans?—Yes.

5835. Take Mr. Brennan with the moustache, to distinguish him?—Mr. Brennan who was examined here?

5836. They were both examined. Did you not canvass Thomas Brennan, of Abbey Quarter (that was the old man); did not you canvass him with Major Knox?—Yes, with him; I recollect now.

5837. I presume you never canvassed the other Thomas Brennan?—To ask him for his vote?

5838. Yes?—I never heard Major Knox ask him for his vote.

5839. He voted for Major Knox?—Yes.

5840. That is Thomas Brennan the younger?—Yes.

5841. You commenced in July; did you continue working for Major Knox down to the election?—I was not working for Major Knox more than going with him on his canvass.

5842. And taking a warm interest in his support?—I did, a warm interest in his support.

5843. Assisting him with all your power?—Anything I could have done I would have done.

5844. All the power you had you used?—Such as it was I gave it; it was very small.

5845. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you recollect Brennan canvassing with you?—I do. I will just mention what had occurred when I went up into a place called High-street, or Mail Coach Road. There were a number of new men coming on the register about that time; that is, men who had not been on the register before, and whose names I did not know, but men who were likely to come on the register, of the value of under 15*l.*, but over the value of 4*l.* I met Brennan, and asked him to come with me and point out the houses of such parties as I would refer to.

5846. He went along with you?—For that purpose.

5847. Now let me ask you; you say you got a card which you gave, or a ticket?—Yes.

5848. And which is described here to be a round card with a hole in it?—It was a square card, about so large (pointing), and I just cut the hole in it.

5849. You cut the hole in it?—Yes.

5850. Had you previously agreed with any person that you were to send any cards?—What occurred was this: I met Flynn; I told Flynn I would see if I could get him so much money. I afterwards met Flynn, and told him he could get 5*l.*; and he said "Oh, that won't give them all drink, that won't be enough." I said, "That is all I have anything to do with."

5851. Had you previously agreed with any person that you were to give the card as a token?—I had.

5852. With whom?—With Mr. Wilson.

5853. That you were to give a particular kind of card, and that he was to give 5*l.* for that card?—I took the card at his shop, and cut a bit out, and made a hole in it, and showed it to Mr. Wilson. I said, "Grey will bring you this card."

5854. You told him the name of the person who was to bring it?—I believe I did.

5855. What was the necessity to send a card; if you were telling Mr. Wilson he was to give 5*l.* to Grey, what was the necessity of that?—I did not want to give the money to Grey.

5856. But you told Mr. Wilson the man's name?—Flynn told me his name.

5857. Then you told Mr. Wilson that he was to give 5*l.* to Grey?—I did.

5858. Then where was the necessity for the card?—I do not know.

5859. That is what I want you to say; had you given a card upon any other occasion?—Never, on any account.

5860. And why did you give this money?—Because I had been speaking to Mr. Wilson before.

5861. What reason had you to expect that he would give money for this purpose?—I consulted Mr. Wilson about it, and he said he had some money lying by he would appropriate for that purpose.

5862. Whose money did he say it was?—I think he said it was money he got from Major Knox.

5863. From Major Knox?—Yes.

5864. For that purpose?—Yes.

5865. Then you gave this card?—I did.

5866. Did you know that Grey was a voter?—No, he was not; he was one of the men. Flynn had a slip of paper, and there were a number of names upon it, and Grey was upon that list.

5867. You conduct the Conservative registration business for Sligo?—I do.

5868. For the borough?—Yes, for the borough.

5869. You conducted it in 1867?—I did.

5870. Of course you closely examined the lists of applications and of voters?—I did.

5871. Did you know Peter Neilan was a voter?—Patrick Neilan?

5872. Yes?—He was in the former list, I knew.

Q 3

5873. You

H. Philb's.

23 February 1869.

H. Phibbs. 5873. You knew he was in the list of 1867?—
Yes.
23 February 1869. 5874. You knew he was in the list of 1868?—
That is the last registration you speak of.

5875. Both?—The one of 1867 was not then in existence.

5876. The close of October 1867 was the registration of 1868?—That brought it up to December 1868.

5877. Then there has been subsequent registration under the Act of Parliament?—Yes.

5878. But did you know that Neilan was a voter both in 1867 and 1868?—I was aware that Neilan was on the register from 1867 up to 1868; but I was not aware then whether he would be on the next list or not.

[The Witness withdrew.]

EDWARD POLLOCK, recalled; Examined by Mr. Justice Keogh.

E. Pollock. 5879. WHAT time was it you mentioned as to calling on Mrs. Dunlevy with Major Knox, at her house; can you recall what time it was?—I cannot.

5880. About what time; was it in 1867?—1868, I think.

5881. Do you recollect what time in 1868?—Indeed I do not.

5882. Was it early in the autumn, at the time of the revision, or what was it?—It was before that, I think.

5883. It was early in the year?—I think so.

5884. You recollect the case of your going to Woods' house?—Yes.

5885. You had no conversation with Kelly then?—No, I never did; I never spoke to the man in my life, except in passing.

5886. Did you see any one else?—It was in the shop.

5887. What time was it?—It was in the evening.

5888. Did you see his son with him?—There was no person with Kelly at that time but Kelly himself.

5889. And could his boy have been there without your seeing him?—The boy that was there.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] It is a different case, perhaps.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM ABBOTT WOODS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

W.A.Woods. 5890. You reside in Sligo?—Yes.

5891. I believe you are a magistrate for the borough?—Yes.

5892. Do you know a carpenter of the name of Kelly?—I do.

5893. Did you see him in that box?—Yes.

5894. Did you hear him examined?—I did.

5895. Has that man worked for you occasionally?—Yes; he worked at one time nearly half a year, off and on, continually for me; that is 15 or 16 years ago. He has worked for me, on and off, since that time, as I required him.

5896. Was he engaged in doing any work in a stable of yours?—Yes.

5897. About what time was that engagement or employment?—He mended it for me some six or seven weeks, I should think, before the election; and as it proved to be badly mended, and the stable man pointed out to me that the boards had shot out, and the horses' feet were liable to be caught against it, it was required to be done again, I brought him in, in order that it might be re-mended.

5898. Did you hear that man examined here?—I did.

5899. Did you hear him say that he told you he had been offered 15 l. not to go to the revision?—I did not hear him say that.

5900. Is it true?—It is not true; I heard him say it here, in the box, but I did not hear him say it then.

5901. Is it true, then, that he told you any such thing?—No.

5902. Did he say anything to that effect to you?—No.

5903. Did you hear him give evidence in that box about your asking him about mahogany for the partition of the stable, and what number of feet it would take?—Yes; it is utterly untrue; I said nothing at all about mahogany in the stable.

5904. Did you use these words, or anything to the like effect, "Now understand me" (touching his shoulder); how many feet of mahogany would it take to repair that partition?—Was there any such conversation?—No such conversation.

5905. Was there any conversation referring to 30 feet at all?—No, nothing.

5906. Did you ever say 50 would be all right?—Never.

5907. You had no conversation at all about mahogany in the stable?—No.

5908. Did you ever, directly or indirectly, promise that man money for voting?—Never.

5909. Or to induce him not to vote?—Never.

5910. Do you remember Kelly swearing to the fact of his having met you at your door, and that he gave you a note upon that occasion?—I do.

5911. Is that true?—No.

5912. You remember the occasion to which that evidence relates?—I do.

5913. Where were you at the time to which that relates?—I was sitting in my own front parlour, reading.

5914. Is that front parlour on the ground-floor, or above?—Above. I have no parlour on the ground-floor at all; nothing but business premises.

5915. You have a large shop, I believe, and you have a hall?—Yes.

5916. And then you have a small office?—Yes; but that is all. They were locked up at that time.

5917. About what hour was it when you were reading in your parlour?—I think it was about nine, or, perhaps, a little after nine at night.

5918. Did you go into the hall at all?—No; the maid informed me that Edward Kelly wanted to see me. I took up one of the candles, and stood on the lobby, and said, "Come up Edward." I brought him into the only vacant room there was.

was. That was on the same floor; the drawing-room.

5919. Did you see whether there was any other person in the hall or not?—Not at that time.

5920. Did you at any time see whether there was another person in the hall?—Yes, when he was going out I stood on the stairs holding the candle that he might see his way down, and then I saw his son below, but not till then.

5921. The little boy?—Yes, the little boy; and the maid is here who opened the door, and who told me of the circumstance, and who let him out, I think.

5922. Did you hear that boy say that you were at the door when they went in; that you were in the hall, and that he saw his father hand to you a note?—I heard him say it.

5923. Is that true?—It is not true.

5924. Now I go back to what occurred when you called him upstairs; did he enter the room?—He did.

5925. Inform his Lordship what he said to you?—He told me then that he had frequently told me for six or 12 months before, that he wished not to vote at all, or to vote in such a way as would show the clergy the way that they had treated him; and then he wanted from me a pair of shoes, or the price of it, or 3*l.*, that would help him away; and I said, “Is that what you want, Edward? If one penny would send you out of Sligo, I would not give that penny.”

5926. Did the interview terminate then, or was there anything else?—It terminated then. At the time he had a deal of work on hand for me, which was unfinished, and which remains unfinished still.

5927. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What kind of work?—Carpentering work; gates and doors, and things of that sort.

5928. Mr. Macdonogh.] Did you hear Mrs. Dunlevy's evidence?—I did.

5929. Did you hear her say that you offered her 50*l.* to induce her husband to keep away from the election?—I did.

5930. Is that true?—No.

5931. Did you offer her anything?—No.

5932. Do you remember any conversation having occurred between you and Mrs. Dunlevy at her house?—I do.

5933. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You were at her house?—Yes, I think I was three times at her house; once perhaps a month or two before the election.

5934. Mr. Macdonogh.] Do you remember having had any conversation with her with relation to paying for some manure?—Yes.

5935. Just tell us what occurred?—I called in to pay her some money. She said I was to have given her more, and I said, “No, I had taken a note of it.”

5936. Mr. Justice Keogh.] How much was it?—Two and sixpence. I had been buying manure during the winter, and had bought perhaps 15*l.* worth or better of manure through the town, and I had been buying in the neighbourhood of her house. I usually send my labouring men round to see when it can be brought by the cart; I allow them to take so much; but where they would not sell by the cart, or where the cart could not be backed in, we generally bought by bulk, and the man generally brought me to five or six of these little places together. I had bought in the neighbourhood; and she sent out for me. I said to the man, “What is that little bit worth?” and he said “Two-and-sixpence.” She wanted more, and I said “No, Mrs. Dunlevy, I give no more.” “Well,” she said, “it is worth more,” or something like that; when I went to pay for it—

W.A. Woods.
23 February 1869.

5937. Was that subsequently?—Yes, I called one time when she was not there. I merely put my head in, and said, “Is Mrs. Dunlevy here?” She was out, and then I went away. I called again to pay for it, and she chizzled me out of sixpence or a shilling beyond what she had a right to.

5938. Then it was 3*s.* you gave her?—Yes, I think so.

5939. That was the occasion you heard her state she had the offer of money for her husband?—Yes.

5940. Did any such thing occur?—No.

5941. Nothing of the sort?—No.

5942. Had you any conversation, with reference to her husband, with her?—Yes.

5943. Tell his Lordship what it was?—I asked her was Frank there; Frank had wrought for me for a long time, both he and his father; and several times, when she and the husband had quarrels, I had to make up the quarrel between them, and I did think that my word would have some influence.

5944. Never mind what you thought?—I asked, “Was Frank there?” and she said not; and I asked her, was he going to vote at this election? “Yes,” said she, “I would like him to vote for Major Knox.” “Is he at home?” said I. “No,” said she. “Then,” I said, “my opinion is he will be better away, for if he wants to vote for Major Knox, he will not be let do it if he comes to Sligo.”

5945. Is that what passed?—That is the whole of what passed, and not one single syllable of money or reward ever uttered.

5946. Did you offer her any valuable consideration or inducement?—Not in any one way.

5947. Was the town in a state of disturbance at that time?—Oh! very much so.

5948. Had you yourself opportunities of seeing the state of the town at that time?—Yes, and long before it, and the whole county.

5949. Was the state of the town untranquil at the time of the revision?—Certainly, and long before; in fact, it was not safe for a person to be seen go into a house; I was most anxious to be out of the town.

Cross-examined by Mr. O’Loghlin.

5950. You had no transaction with Mrs. Dunlevy, except about this manure?—No.

5951. And the value of that was 2*s.* 6*d.*?—Yes.

5952. I understand you to say you went three times to her house about that 2*s.* 6*d.*?—No.

5953. Did you go three times into her house?—I was three times at her house.

5954. Was that on account of this manure?—Yes. The way it occurred was as I told you. In the first instance, I had been buying manure; she sent out for me; I went at her request, and my labouring man along with me. The second time I was not half a minute in the house; the third time it was I paid her, and this conversation took place.

5955. Did you ask her if her husband was in Tipperary?—No, I did not know where he was.

5956. Did you ask where he was?—Yes.

5957. Did she tell you?—Yes.

5958. Did you happen to go upstairs?—Yes.

5959. Was it for the purpose of paying the 2*s.* 6*d.*

W. A. Woods. 2s. 6d. you want upstairs?—No, it occurred in this way: when I gave her the 2s. 6d. she demurred at the price, and said, “If you will look at the pit,” where it was, “you will see it is worth more.” I went to do it. There was a house in the yard; I said, “If the owner is here let him stand beside her,” that I might look into the pit. When the man went out the horse kicked. I went out. I said, “Is there any other way of looking at it but this way?” Said she, “Come this way;” not having answered the question, and then we went up into the room, and the occurrence took place as I tell you.

5960. The conversation you had with Mrs. Dunlevy was upstairs?—It was; that is, the most of it was. I had offered her the money below for the manure.

5961. How long before the election was that?—I am not quite sure; but I think it was about a week.

5962. Was it on the 14th?—I could not tell, indeed.

5963. Do you recollect Saturday before the election?—I think it was on the Saturday before the election. I remember the occurrence, for this simple reason. I had some small business in Steward's office, and that is open on Saturdays.

5964. It was the Saturday before the election?—Yes.

5965. You know Kelly?—Yes.

5966. What night before the election was he in your drawing-room, or in your parlour?—I could not tell, indeed; but I should think it was a week or so before.

5967. Was it the Saturday?—I think not.

5968. Was it Friday?—I could not tell you.

5969. The election took place on Thursday?—I believe it did.

5970. Was he ever in your drawing-room before?—Never, I think.

5971. At night?—Never; except, perhaps, he might have been if he had been at work in it fitting up cornices, and all that sort of thing.

5972. Did you ever ask him at night before into your drawing-room?—No.

5973. Or your parlour?—No.

5974. Where did the conversation about the mahogany take place?—Where did it take place? Any conversation I had with him —

5975. The conversation about the mahogany, where did that take place?—In the shop.

5976. Was anyone with you at the time?—I think my son was.

5977. That is Mr. Joseph L. Wood?—Yes.

5978. Is he a voter?—He is.

5979. Was he by?—I believe he was.

5980. Did Mr. Phibbs come in?—I do not know whether he came in at that time. Mr. Phibbs did not come in to the shop.

5981. When Kelly was there?—Not while I was speaking to Kelly.

5982. When Kelly was there; upon your oath?—Yes; Mr. Phibbs came in when Kelly was there.

5983. Did he go into your office?—I must explain.

5984. You can explain after?—Mr. O'Loughlin, I will not pass from one question to another, unless I explain it to you.

5985. What is your explanation?—At the time Mr. Phibbs came into my shop, Kelly and I, I think, had no conversation.

5986. Did I ask you that; did Mr. Phibbs come into your shop while Kelly was there?—Yes.

5987. Did he go into your office?—He did.

5988. Had you any conversation with him?—No.

5989. Did you speak to him at all?—I do not know.

5990. What took you into your office with Mr. Phibbs?—To see if there was anybody there to receive him.

5991. Was Kelly there at the time?—He was standing at one corner of the shop. The shop is a long one, and I had had no conversation with Kelly at all at the time.

5992. Will you tell me how many days that conversation about the mahogany took place before you saw Kelly in the drawing-room?—I could not tell.

5993. What was the conversation?—It was in this way; Kelly erected the hand-rail of my stairs, and he has frequently boasted that it was a piece of workmanship that no other man or men in the county could do; he and his brother did it 40 or 50 times in the last 15 or 16 years; he has referred to that. I had intended to build another house, and I had conversed about it; the conversation we had had reference to the mahogany that would be required in a new house I was about to build.

5994. Mr. Justice Keogh.] But a conversation did take place about mahogany?—Certainly, my Lord.

5995. In the shop?—Yes.

5996. Mr. O'Loughlin.] What was the exact expression used about mahogany?—I wanted to know what was the quality of mahogany I had got before; I had imported it; the mahogany had been bought, and cut out roughly, some year or two before we used it, and I wanted to have the same done upon the first occasion I had the opportunity.

5997. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You asked him what quantity of mahogany it would take to do this work?—I do not remember about the quantity, but I do about the quality, the kind; he informed me it was St. Domingo.

5998. Mr. O'Loughlin.] Did he say how much it would take?—I do not remember that he did.

5999. Did you ever say how much it would take?—Never.

6000. Did you hear anything about cubic feet?—I think there was something about cubic feet.

6001. What was it?—I think it was that it was by the cubic foot it was sold.

6002. That what was sold?—The St. Domingo mahogany.

6003. You did not know that before?—Well, I think I did know it before, for this reason, that I had bought it some 16 or 17 years ago in the same way in England, and imported it for the purpose; but having had only one transaction of the sort in my life, I was not very familiar with it.

6004. But on this particular occasion you knew all about the way the mahogany was bought before?—Yes, I knew I had bought one piece of mahogany before for the purpose.

6005. What did you say to him about cubic feet?—I do not remember that I said anything, except that it was bought by the cubic foot, and at such a price; I forget what the price was.

6006. Did he say anything about cubic feet?—I do not think he did, not that I remember; but, Mr. O'Loughlin, this much I will swear, that whatever occurrence took place with reference to quantity quantity or cubic feet had no reference to the election, or voting, or money in any one way; and that to construe it in that way is in itself a wrong, and what is unjust and untrue.

6007. That is all right; tell me, did he say how many cubic feet were required?—I cannot remember that he did.

6008. Will you swear he did not?—I do not believe he did.

6009. Will you swear to me that he did not say 40 cubic feet?—I will swear it.

6010. That there was no such thing?—That there was no such thing.

6011. Is the house that the mahogany is wanted for, built?—No, and I will tell you why. Kelly and I had two years before, as well as then, arranged about this house, or two houses; it was to have been built at the corner of the Town Hall plot. When I had bought the bricks and arranged for them with Mr. Griffiths, and was about to begin, then I ascertained a fact I did not know before; that having got a notice with reference to the Towns Improvement Act, I found that if I had built the house, I could get no more value than what the vacant plot was, if the Bill passed; therefore, I abandoned the idea. The Bill having been cast out, I was about to do the thing again, and resume it; but the Bill has been brought in again, and until it is decided one way or the other, I cannot do it; that is the reason of it.

6012. That is the explanation?—Yes.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was this the Mr. Woods who was mentioned in connection with the letter?

Mr. Macdonogh.] No, my Lord; it is his son.

Witness.] I was mentioned as having been in a room at Mr. Hagarty's; I was never there but once; I could tell your Lordship why I went there.

6013. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Were you at Mr. Hagarty's?—I was once there; a person had come to me, and informed me that Mr. Beattie and somebody down at Ballytivens wished to get into Sligo and required protection; they were afraid that if they did not get in, they could not possibly get in on the day of the polling, and they wished to get into some person's house; I went to see if I could see any person to whom I could communicate that fact, and there I met with Mr. Petrie, and he and I had a conversation in the place. There had been smoking going on, in that sort of way, and I did not wish to have anything more to do with it.

6014. Why did you go to this particular house?—Because I thought O'Farrell was a man likely to see some of these people, and get it attended to, or I might see some person there; I think it was O'Farrell I went to see about it; as to Mr. Hagarty's, I forget now; I am not very particular as to its locality. The two houses are close beside each other, and if I were to be shot this minute I could not tell which house I went in.

6015. Did you see Leonard there?—I could not charge my memory.

6016. Did you see any other person?—I did.

6017. Who did you see?—I saw Mr. Petrie and his son there.

6018. Who else?—I think I saw Mr. Tom Wilson; I went just to the door; I had been smoking and chatting, and I disliked the smoke, and I did not sit in the room.

6019. Can you give me the names of the persons you saw there; Mr. Petrie and his son, Mr. Tom Wilson, and who else?—I think Mr. Balfour.

6020. Who else?—I think Mr. Grubb was there, or Pubbs; I am not sure what his name is.

6021. Who else?—I heard in an adjoining room a lot of singing and noise; some of them singing, and all that sort of thing, and I wished to get out of it as soon as I could.

6022. Can you tell me anybody else you saw there?—I assure you, my Lord, I do not remember; if there was anything to refresh my memory about it, I would do it.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS REID WILSON, sworn; Examined by Dr. Kaye.

6023. You live in Sligo?—Yes.

6024. What business do you carry on?—I carry on a bookselling, stationery, and auctioneering trade.

6025. And I believe you have been for a considerable time connected with the Conservative Registration Society?—Since 1855.

6026. Do you know a man named Tiernan?—Yes.

6027. He stated here that you advanced him a sum of 3 l.?—I advanced him the sum of 4 l.

6028. What was the date of that account?—30th June, 1868.

6029. Had you known Tiernan before that?—I had known him since I was a child.

6030. Whose money was that that you advanced?—It was my own money.

6031. Had Major Knox anything to do with that loan?—No, nothing whatever.

6032. Is that loan still outstanding?—Yes.

6033. Did he give you any security for it?—He gave me an I O U for it.

6034. Have you got that I O U?—Yes. (Produced.)

6035. Do you remember giving a sum of 5 l. to a man named Gray?—Yes.

85.

6036. About what time was that?—I think some time in September, I could not say exactly as to the date; I took no note of it.

6037. Mr. Justice Keogh.] September in what year?—September last year.

6038. Dr. Kaye.] Did he come to you with a card?—Yes, he did.

6039. Did you know the object?—It was for distribution amongst the mob in favour of Major Knox.

6040. That was the purpose for which the 5 l. was given?—Yes.

6041. Had you the name of any of the mob before you?—I got the 5 l. to give to them; I did not know any of them. I asked a man named John Morrow to bring me a list of those who were favourable to Major Knox. He brought me a list of close on 30 names; amongst them I saw Pat Flynn and Dominic Kilcurran; I took my pencil, and said I could not give those men anything. He said, "How will I distribute it?" I said, "Go and see; how can I distribute this money?" He went away and brought me back word that if I gave it to Gray, he was a man trusted by all the rest.

6042. Mr.

W.A. Woods,
23 February
1869.

T.R.
Wilson.

T. R. Wilson.
23 February 1869.

6042. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who said this?—John Morrow, the man I sent.

6043. Dr. Kaye.] Did you see yourself at that time, that there was a small mob in the town in favour of Major Knox?—I saw there was.

6044. And I suppose there was an opposition mob also?—Yes.

6045. Do you know a man named Sheils?—I never knew him till I saw him in the witness box here.

6046. There are several instances in which Mr. Wilson's name appears in the bill of particulars. You did not offer money to bribe, or did you offer money to anybody to bribe at that election?—No, I never offered a bribe whatsoever to any man in my life.

Cross-examined by Mr. Coffey.

6047. You are a paid officer of this Registration Society?—Yes.

6048. I suppose you have the arrangement of the calculations upon the revision calculations of the number of voters on either side?—Yes.

6049. Do you make these up to the best of your information?—Yes.

6050. When did you see Major Knox?—After he came to Sligo.

6051. When did you make his acquaintance?—I think I was introduced to him shortly after he was adopted at the Conservative meeting.

6052. And I presume you were in communication with him from that hour onward, more or less?—We had very little communication.

6053. But you had communication?—Yes.

6054. Had you communication, more or less, on the subject of the revision?—I do not think we had that year, in 1867; he may have written some letters, of course; I could not say.

6055. Did he supply you with money?—No.

6056. Where did you get the 5 l. you paid?—That was in 1868.

6057. Where did you get it?—From Mr. Utdred Knox.

6058. He is Major Knox's cousin?—Possibly he is his cousin.

6059. How much money did you get from Mr. Utdred Knox?—£. 5. Nothing more from him.

6060. From him; did you get anything else?—I got 10 l. about a fortnight afterwards from Major Knox.

6061. Did you get any more money?—No.

6062. You were to use your discretion in reference to the money?—Yes; to give it to the mob.

6063. You were to use your discretion in reference to that money?—It was given to me for a particular purpose; I could not use my discretion with regard to it.

6064. Could not you use your discretion with reference to the persons to whom you would give it?—I suppose I could.

6065. Do not you know you could?—It was given to me for a particular purpose.

6066. I know that; but were you not to distinguish the persons to whom you gave it; had you not the power to give it to one, and withhold it from another, as you liked?—I had, I suppose.

6067. Did you communicate in writing with Major Knox at all?—I did.

6068. In Dublin?—Yes.

6069. Did you communicate to him the result of the calculations on the list?—Major Knox was in Sligo at the registration, and I had no necessity.

6070. Is that an answer to my question?—I did not.

6071. You say it was unnecessary, as Major Knox was in Sligo?—Exactly.

6072. Did you confer with him upon the subject?—I did.

6073. Did you confer with him with respect to the result of the 1867 revision?—No.

6074. Did you show him the list?—I sent him a list, I daresay; I cannot tax my memory with 1867.

6075. Did you consult with him, and he with you, as to the steps necessary to be taken upon the revision of 1868?—No; I do not know that we consulted together.

6076. Did you speak together as to what it would be proper to do?—No, I do not think we asked that.

6077. Did you send to him as to the steps to be taken about the revision?—I think I went over the list with him, to tell him who I believed would support him, or who would vote against him.

6078. You think; you believe; you are a person of respectable appearance and position; do not you know you did that, as well as that you sit in that box?—That is what I mean.

6079. That is what you believe?—

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Let him answer.

Witness.] After the revision.

6080. Had you gone over that list before?—No, not till the revision was completed.

6081. Mr. Coffey.] Had you any communication with him after the completion of the revision of 1867?—I do not think I had; I may have had; but I am not certain.

6082. You are not certain?—I do not remember.

6083. Did not Major Knox give you a handsome subscription in 1867?—He gave me no subscription.

6084. He gave it to the society of which you are a paid officer?—Yes.

6085. Did you, after the receipt of that subscription, communicate with him or speak to him as to the result of the revision of 1867?—I got it from the society. I sent—

6086. I am asking you, did you communicate with him as to the result of the revision of 1867, having received 50 l.?—I answered you before; I think, to the best of my recollection, I sent him the list and the result of 1867.

6087. Did you mark that list?—I might have done so.

6088. Did you mark the list of those you presumed were for and against him?—I sent him the list of 1867.

6089. Did you send him a blank list; you might as well have sent him an alphabet?—I do not think I did, to the best of my recollection; but I may have done so. I do not remember doing it.

6090. Is your memory a blank as to whether you sent him up a list without any information upon which he could exercise his judgment?—It was, as well as I remember, a list, a register, divided into Catholic and Protestant.

6091. Is that your signature (handing a telegram to Witness)?—Yes.

6092. Now, Mr. Wilson, did you consult Major Knox as to the steps you thought it advisable able to take with reference to the revision of 1868, and the arrangements that were to be made?—I do not remember doing so.

6093. Did you have any communication by telegram or in writing, with respect to the revision of 1868, and the preparation necessary for it?—I might have done so.

6094. You may have done so?—Yes.

6095. You are the officer of the society?—I am.

6096. Do you keep a correspondence book?—No, the secretary keeps that, Mr. Robinson.

6097. Have you any letters from Major Knox with reference to the revision?—I have not.

6098. Had you ever got any?—No; I burnt them before the election.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] What is that?

Mr. Coffey.] As to any letters he had from Major Knox with reference to the revision, he burnt them.

Witness.] There were a great many others, besides Major Knox's, that I burnt.

6099. But is it a fact that you burnt every letter from Major Knox on the subject of the revision and the election?—I got no letter in particular about it, because he was in Sligo.

6100. Did you burn any letter you got with respect to the revision or the election?—I do not remember getting any letter.

6101. What did you mean by saying you burnt all Major Knox's letters with reference to the revision and the election?—I burnt a great number of letters.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I have got the answer.

Mr. Coffey.] Very well, I will leave it there.

6102. Will you explain to me the meaning of this telegram you received from Major Knox. "To ———Wilson, Esq., August 1868. I am most anxious that Mr. Sedley should defend all those you name, and to give all the help we can to their defence." What does that refer to?—They were a number of his mob accused by the police of assaults. I wrote to him to say I thought it unfair that they should have no one to defend them, and that is the answer I got.

6103. You said you marked the list of 1867 with Catholics and Protestants; did you go over with Major Knox the names of Catholics and Protestants in the list of 1868?—I did.

6104. Is the list marked?—Yes, I made out the list for Major Knox, and gave it to him.

6105. Were you in communication with Mr. Stokes with reference to the result of the revision?—No.

6106. You had no communication with him?—I see Mr. Stokes almost every day.

6107. But had you any communication?—Not with regard to the election.

6108. Is Mr. Stokes a subscriber to the society?—I do not know. I know nothing about the private work.

6109. Are you not a paid officer?—I am.

6110. In what capacity?—In the capacity of attending to the register.

6111. Who is the secretary?—Mr. Robinson.

6112. Who keeps the names of subscribers?—I suppose he does. I know nothing about it.

6113. Are there any books there?—I do not know.

6114. Have you any books connected with it?—No; except these (producing some books).

6115. What books are those you have there?—Books connected with the list, the registration list; persons objected to, and the claimants; those are all the books I have; and the copies of notices served. (Books produced.)

Mr. Justice Keogh.] It is quite irrelevant.

6116. Mr. Coffey.] Will you hand me the list of 1868. Under the letter M there, do you find two persons of the name of Macmullen?—Yes; James Macmullen and William Macmullen.

6117. Do you know those men?—I do not know James.

6118. Do you know the other?—Yes.

6119. How did you mark them?—As Catholic. I opposed them as much as I could at the revision. I can show you the notices.

6120. There is a man named Gavanny, how did you mark him?—Catholic.

6121. Did you oppose him?—No, there was no object; Macmullen was a claimant.

6122. You live in Sligo yourself?—I do.

6123. Did you see the Macmullens before the election took place in Sligo?—Not for weeks before.

6124. Did you see them before the election at all?—I have often the father; I do not know the son.

6125. Did you see him from the day the election took place until you left Sligo yesterday?—No, I did not.

Re-examined by Dr. Kaye.

6126. With reference to this money you got for the purpose of the mob, had you any order given not to use the money for any improper purpose?—No, none whatever.

6127. Were your instructions to give it entirely?—

Mr. Justice Keogh.] He said so.

[The Witness withdrew.

ANDREW GREEN, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

6128. You are a Merchant, of Sligo?—Yes.

6129. You live in Castle-street?—Yes.

6130. Did you see that man, John Feeny, in the box here?—I did.

6131. Did you hear him examined?—Part of his examination.

6132. Do you know Mr. Chisholme?—I do.

6133. He is a mercantile gentleman in Sligo?—Yes.

6134. Do you remember seeing this Feeny in your house, when Mr. Chisholme happened to be with you?—I do.

6135. Did you hear that man swear that Mr. Chisholme, when he said he had not clothes, offered him clothes, and directed him to go up to Mr. Williams and Mr. Lyons, and get them?—I did not hear him give that evidence.

6136. Assuming that he did, did that occur in your presence?—It did not.

6137. Did Mr. Chisholme suggest a journey to Dublin, or elsewhere?—Not in my presence.

6138. Feeny stated it was in your presence; that you were present?—I was present all the

T. R. Wilson.

23 February 1869.

A. Green.

A. Green. time they were together; I never heard anything of it.
 23 February 1869. 6139. You say Mr. Chisholme was in your house; was he there before Feeny came in?—I cannot say which was in first.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say Mr. Williams or Mr. Lyons.

Mr. Macdonogh.] Those are the two he said, "I will get you clothes; go up to Mr. Williams or Mr. Lyons."

6140. Do you remember after that; I mean the occasion when you saw him in your house; by the way, did he leave before Chisholme?—Chisholme went first.

6141. He went away?—Yes.

6142. Do you remember after that having gone to the glass-house?—Yes.

6143. Where is that?—It is up the yard.

6144. In the rear of your house?—Yes.

6145. Did this man Feeny follow you?—He wanted glass.

6146. Did he ask you for glass?—Yes; and he got it.

6147. Then you went to the glass-house?—Yes.

6148. Mention to his Lordship what he said; did he say anything about porter?—He said if he could get 30 l. to go to Dublin, and buy porter, he would vote for Major Knox.

6149. What was your reply to that?—I made no reply; I knew nothing about it.

6150. Did you tell him so?—I did.

6151. Did you accede to his proposal?—No; I could not.

6152. Did you, directly or indirectly, offer or promise to give him 30 l. or 30 d.?—Neither.

6153. Had you any authority whatever, as agent or otherwise, from Major Knox?—Not at all.

[The Witness withdrew.]

WILLIAM LAWDER, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

W. Lawder. 6154. You were the Conducting Agent for Major Knox, at the last election?—I was.

6155. I will ask you one question which will shorten it; you are stated to have bribed 11 persons?—Yes; I am.

6156. Did anything of the kind occur?—Never.

6157. You heard some evidence given as to the man Kearns?—Yes.

Mr. Macdonogh.] Your Lordship tells me that that case failed.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Which was it?

Mr. Coffey.] He was left in the house, and your Lordship said it failed.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Oh, yes.

6158. Mr. Macdonogh.] He was the man who would vote for Major Knox, and that gentleman pressed him; did you press him?—Never.

6159. Mr. Justice Keogh.] There is nothing in a man pressing another to vote for his principles?—As a matter of fact, I did not.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I understand, but I do not see any illegality in pressing by legitimate means to get a man to vote for your principles.

Mr. Macdonogh.] But even legitimate pressure he did not exercise.

6160. What were your instructions with reference to the conduct of this election from Major Knox, with reference to its propriety and purity?—My instructions from Major Knox were, not to attempt to do anything improper during the election. These were the same instructions that I have always adopted when I have conducted several elections.

6161. Did you follow out those instructions?—Yes; I did.

6162. Do you remember the occasion that Major Knox adverted to in relation to his having heard something about Mr. Stokes's officious interference?—Yes.

6163. What occurred; tell his Lordship?—It was on a Sunday when Major Knox came back from church. He came in to me to the hotel where I was staying, and he said, "Mr.

Lawder, I will give up this concern altogether; I have just been informed that Mr. Stokes has taken liberties with my name; and I will not represent any place, nor take any seat in Parliament by any improper means," or words to that effect, as far as I can go. I said, "If you have not employed Mr. Stokes, I think you would be very rash to go away in a hurry on account of the acts of any fellow who attempts to outrage your character," or words to that effect, as far as I can go. He was advised at the same time by Mr. Andrew Paton, Mr. Eutrid Knox, and one or two others in the locality, not to embark in anything that would affect his name as a gentleman, and not to connect himself in any way with any improper act. He said, "I would sooner give up the whole thing than allow my name to be tarnished;" or something to that effect.

6164. Are you aware that he actually ordered his portmanteau ready to go?—He told me he had ordered it; he said, "I have ordered my portmanteau to be packed, and I will leave the place by the next train."

6165. Was that the first time that you had heard of Mr. Stokes thinking proper officiously to interfere?—It was.

6166. Was he engaged in any one way by you?—Not at all.

6167. You had no committee?—No, I never have a committee; I would not have a committee.

Cross-examined by Mr. Palles.

6168. When was it you were retained to act; fix the date?—The first time I had the pleasure of meeting Major Knox was in the month of August.

6169. What day of the month was that?—I cannot say that.

6170. Go as near as you can?—It was about the middle of the month; I was staying in Dublin at the time; I was introduced to Major Knox, and that was the first.

6171. Were you retained then?—I was so far retained as this, that he said he would be very glad if I would act for him.

6172. But

6172. But when did you commence to act for him?—How do you mean?

6173. Don't you understand?—No, I do not.

6174. When did you do your first act as conducting agent?—Since you ask me the first date, the first time I saw him he was good enough to show me his address.

6175. I do not want to know anything that passed between you and Major Knox; I only want you to fix the date, if you can, when you first commenced to act as conducting agent; the first act, whatever that act was, I do not want to know?—The first thing ever I did for Major Knox was to go to Sligo.

6176. When was that?—I think about the end of August.

6177. You wrote a letter to Mr. Brennan in London to bring him over here, did you not?—Yes.

6178. When did you write that?—I cannot fix the time; after the petition was presented, and after I heard it was going to be prosecuted, I went to Mr. Macdonogh and said, "Such and such charges are made against such and such persons."

6179. You are not bound to say anything that passed between you and Mr. Macdonogh; I did not ask it, and am not to be understood as asking it; I asked you a very simple question; when did you write the letter to Brennan?—I cannot fix the date, but as soon as I possibly could after I conferred with Mr. Macdonogh.

6180. Fix it as nearly as you can; was it December, January, or February?—It was some time in February.

6181. Mr. Macdonogh.] This present month he means?—Yes.

6182. Mr. Palles.] About when?—Brennan stated the date when he got the letter; can you tell me about when you sent it; was it about a week ago?—Oh! much more than a week.

6183. Who gave you his address?—I did not get his address.

6184. How did you send the letter?—I gave it to a correspondent in Dublin, and asked him to find it, as Mr. Macdonogh told me he was the person who was charged in the bill.

6185. Do you mean you had not the means of finding Brennan yourself?—I had not.

6186. How long was your correspondent looking for him before he came over?—I do not know.

6187. Who is your correspondent at Dublin?—Mr. Dargan.

6188. When did Mr. Dargan tell you he had succeeded in finding Brennan?—He never told me.

6189. And you knew nothing in the world about it till Mr. Macdonogh stated here you could produce him?—Indeed I did; I saw Brennan in Dublin after that, and he told me then that he was there, and would be, of course, here.

6190. Did you send him 3*l.* to bring him from London?—I did.

6191. When was that?—At the same time I wrote to him; I never wrote but one letter.

6192. That is, you wrote, and gave the letter to your correspondent?—Yes.

6193. At what time did Mr. Macnamara give you the document that was served on Brennan; did he send it him?—No.

6194. Did Mr. Knox give it him?—No.

6195. How did you know it?—I heard of it.

6196. From whom did you hear it?—I do not remember.

6197. From whom did you hear it; you can tell me that, I am sure?—I will tell you anything I can.

6198. Who did you get it from?—I think Major Knox told me this man was in the hospital.

6199. Of course you have no documents connected with the election?—Yes, I have.

6200. Letters from Major Knox to yourself, or from yourself to Major Knox, I do not ask you for; but what other documents have you?—I do not think I have one.

6201. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You say your correspondent did it; what do you mean by that?—He is what you call a town agent.

6202. Did you write this letter to Brennan in the country?—I did.

6203. Where?—In my own house.

6204. In this town?—Yes.

6205. Did you send the letter to Dublin?—I did.

6206. To Mr. Dargan, your correspondent?—Yes.

6207. Did you give him any clue?—No, I did not; I said, "This man is charged in almost every case in the bill of particulars," and they were to get, if they could, his address; I never heard a word about him till I saw him afterwards in Mr. Knox's house in Abbey-street, in the "Irish Times" office.

6208. When did you see him there?—I saw him there Monday week; I never saw him before, and would not have known him, only he then told me.

6209. Do you know where your correspondent got the information?—I do not.

6210. Did you never ask him?—No; when I got the witness I thought it was quite enough; Mr. Macdonogh told me not to allow a single man—

6211. Mr. Justice Keogh.] That is what I should expect from Mr. Macdonogh, from his good sense and his good taste, that he would bring forward every witness, and would be no party to keeping any one away?—I knew nothing at all about the man till he came.

6212. Mr. Palles.] What was the date on which you were served with the bill of particulars; the 15th of February was the day?—Yes, there was one bill served at four o'clock.

6213. The 15th of February, was it not?—Yes.

6214. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You said that when you ascertained that this man's name was mentioned in every charge in the bill of particulars; did you then determine to subpœna him?—No; then I went to Mr. Macdonogh.

6215. Then you wrote the letter to him?—No, I went to Mr. Macdonogh, and said that this man was charged in every case.

6216. When you found the man charged in every case, you consulted Mr. Macdonogh, and then you wrote the letter which was delivered to Brennan?—Yes.

6217. Do you not see, it was proved that you wrote the letter at least as far back as last Saturday week, and the 15th is subsequent to that?—It was subsequent to this bill of particulars.

6218. It could not be; it is a perfect impossibility?—I assure you, my Lord—

6219. It is impossible?—As a matter of fact, it is so.

W. Lawder.

23 February
1869.

W. Lawder. 6220. It is a physical impossibility; this is the 22nd; Friday was the 19th; the bill of particulars was on the 15th, received by you at four o'clock on Monday, and you just told me you saw Mr. Brennan at Major Knox's office on the morning of that day. He could not come by telegram from London. It is the fact, you know; you are at liberty to explain it in any way you can. You have sworn it was after that bill of particulars, and you have given me an elaborate explanation about going to Mr. Macdonogh's, and that it was in consequence of that you wrote for Brennan. Brennan has since sworn that he got your letter last Saturday week, and you say you saw him in Major Knox's office upon the Monday. You are at liberty to explain that, if you can?—I may make a mistake about the date.

6221. It is not the date; it is that you have given me an elaborate and an apparently truthful explanation of your reason for writing from the town of Carrick-on-Shannon to this Mr. Brennan, namely, that you did it after consultation with Mr. Macdonogh, and you now persist in stating that it was after you got the bill of particulars, when the bill of particulars was not delivered until four o'clock last Monday week, and you wrote from Carrick-on-Shannon a letter which that man swore he received in London upon Saturday, and you yourself swear that you saw him in Major Knox's office upon the Monday?—I may make a mistake about the date, but I will swear most positively—

6222. Well, you do make a very egregious mistake; you have repeatedly sworn to a matter with circumstance; this is not a mistake, but it is a mistake with circumstance?—Well, my Lord, as a matter of fact, I never knew there was such a man in being until then.

6223. That is not the question; you have now been stating what is deliberately impossible; you can go down.

Mr. Macdonogh asked for a few minutes to consider whether he should call any further evidence.

Mr. Justice Keogh said that that ought to have been done before; but he did not want the consideration of time to induce the learned counsel to spare the production of any number of witnesses. The case ought to be sifted to the bottom, and the parties should not hesitate to produce witnesses in order to save public time.

UTRID AUGUSTUS KNOX, sworn; Examined by Dr. Kaye.

U. A. Knox. 6224. I BELIEVE you were Clerk of the Peace for the county of Sligo up to the close of the last year?—Yes.

6225. And resided in Sligo?—Yes.

6226. Do you know a man named Flynn?—I do.

6227. Had you ever any conversation with him about the election?—Yes.

6228. When was that?—It was some time, I think, previous to the revision of last year.

6229. What was the substance of that conversation?—He came to my house one evening accompanied by another man whose name, I think, was Kilcullan, or some such name as that, and they represented themselves to me as being sent on the part of a party of men that they styled "Major Knox's mob." They said they were thirsty souls, and required some drink to keep up their courage, as they were being very much hooted and hissed by their neighbours, in consequence of their desire to assist Major Knox in Sligo. They asked me to give them something to enable them to procure drink for these parties who were their co-partners in the mob. I refused to do so on two grounds.

6230. Did you state so?—I did; I told them that I did not at all approve of mob influence in any way, and I did not wish to see a recurrence of the drunken scenes and rioting which had taken place about a week or ten days before, and for which I understood some parties were in custody.

6231. You gave them no money upon that occasion?—None.

6232. Did you ask him or canvass him for his vote for Major Knox?—Never.

6233. Or to abstain from voting?—Never.

6234. Do you know a man named Tiernen?—I do.

6235. Do you remember accompanying, or being with Major Knox, when he went into Tiernen's house?—I do.

6236. What time was that when you first went there?—It was some time in the year 1867, as well as I remember.

6237. Did Major Knox, in your presence at that time, canvass Tiernen for his vote?—No.

6238. On any occasion; were you with him at Tiernen's upon any other occasion?—Never.

6239. Upon any occasion when you were with him; that, you say, was the only occasion; did he say to Major Knox that he was labouring under difficulties, and had suffered great loss at former elections, and did Major Knox in reply say to him, that he would make amends; and he would call upon him next day, and get through it all right?—No such conversation took place.

6240. Or anything of the kind?—Nothing of the kind.

6241. Did you lend Tiernen any money at any time?—I did.

6242. When was that?—It was in the year 1867, as far as I remember.

6243. Did you take a security from him for it?—I did.

6244. Have you got the security?—I gave it to Mr. Lawder.

6245. Whose money was that you lent to him?—My own.

6246. Had you any communication with Major Knox on the subject, at all?—No.

6247. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What was the amount?—I think it was 10 l.

6248. Was there anything said about a vote in connection with it?—Not a syllable.

6249. Did you ever canvass this man for his vote?—Never.

6250. Mr. Wilson has stated that he got 5 l. from you?—Yes.

6251. When was that?—It was, I think, some time about the revision of last year.

6252. For what purpose did you give that to Mr. Wilson?—That he might in some way or other have it distributed amongst those parties who were described as Major Knox's mobs.

6253. For

6253. For that sole purpose you gave that money?—Solely for that purpose.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Loughlin.

6254. Tell me, you were clerk of the peace?—At what time, pray?

6255. In 1867?—I was.

6256. And in 1868?—Yes.

6257. And at the revision of 1868?—Yes.

6258. Does Major Knox, when he is in Sligo, live in the same house that you live in?—Occasionally.

6259. That was his place of residence at that time?—Yes.

6260. Are you in the habit of lending money?—I do not make a trade of it.

6261. Are you in the habit of lending money?—No.

6262. To Sligo voters?—Not as a rule.

6263. How many Sligo voters have you lent money to?—That I could not say.

6264. Five?—Possibly so.

6265. Ten?—No.

6266. How many?—Four or five, I daresay.

6267. Did you take I O U's from them all?—I did.

6268. Where are the I O U's?—I have them in Sligo.

6269. Who were the voters besides Tiernen, to whom you lent money on I O U's?—I lent money to a man of the name of Gilmore; I think he was a voter.

6270. Is that Samuel Gilmore?—Yes.

6271. He voted for Major Knox?—I know not how he voted.

6272. Do you mean to swear you do not know how he voted?—I have not the slightest idea; I could not tell you how 20 men in Sligo voted.

6273. How much money did you lend him?—I think it was about 5 l., but I could not say.

6274. And you took an I O U?—Yes.

6275. Was it before the election you lent him the money?—It was.

6276. Who else did you lend money to?—A man named Dowland.

6277. Is that James Dowland?—Yes.

6278. He lives, I believe, in Chapel-lane?—I believe so.

6279. He is a voter?—I believe so.

6280. Did he vote at the last election, or not?—I am not aware.

6281. How much did you lend him?—I lent him sums on two different occasions.

6282. How much?—I cannot tell you the exact amount.

6283. 10 l.?—No.

6284. 15 l.?—No.

6285. 20 l. at one time?—No.

6286. How much did you give him altogether?—I daresay it might have been 12 l. or 14 l.

6287. Have you his I O U for it?—Yes.

6288. Name another voter you lent money to?—I don't think that I can.

6289. Did you lend money to anyone else?—I have had monetary transactions with other parties; voters.

6290. As voters?—No; but other parties who might be voters; they were business matters.

6291. These were not business matters, then; Dowland, a superannuated old coach-guard, and Sam Gilmore; was it done out of charity?—Quite so.

6292. You lent 4 l. or 5 l.?—I did.

6293. You took I O U's?—I did.

85.

6294. Are you in the habit of taking I O U's for money you give in charity?—Sometimes.

6295. Will you just tell me how Sam Gilmore voted?—I cannot. (The poll-book was handed to the Witness.)

6296. Will you look at the top of that page; do you see the column there, "Knox and Flanagan"?—I do.

6297. Would you now go down to Mr. Gilmore's name, and see for whom he voted?—He is marked here as having voted in the column headed "Knox."

6298. During the year 1868, how much money did Major Knox give you?—I have not the least idea.

6299. Did he give you a thousand?—No.

6300. Five hundred?—No.

6301. How much?—I do not think he gave me any money.

6302. What did you mean by saying you had not the least idea?—In this way, that he occasionally gave me money to pay bills in Sligo for him.

6303. Did you think I meant that?—I had no idea; I can tell you this, that he did not give me 20 l., if that is what you want to know.

6304. How much money do you say you lent Dowland?—The exact sum I cannot tell, it might be 12 l. or 14 l.

6305. How long ago was that?—A long time ago; in the early part of 1867.

6306. You never had a business transaction with him?—Unless you call that business.

6307. You went to Tiernan's house with Major Knox?—I was in his house with Major Knox.

6308. You said you did not canvass him on that occasion?—No.

6309. Was it to pay him a visit you went?—I went to introduce Major Knox to him.

6310. As the candidate?—No.

6311. As what?—As a person who came to Sligo, and might hereafter, possibly, seek their suffrages; and I was anxious to introduce him to those parties I knew.

6312. How many did you introduce him to?—I do not know.

6313. How many?—I do not know.

6314. Fifty?—I do not know.

6315. Did you introduce him to every elector you knew?—No.

6316. How many?—Some 15 or 20.

6317. As the probable candidate?—Yes.

Re-examined by Dr. Kaye.

6318. Was he actually in the field as a candidate at that time?—No.

6319. Mr. O'Loughlin.] May I ask in whose handwriting that note is (handing a note to the Witness)?—Part of it is in mine, and part of it is Tiernan's.

6320. The body of it is in yours, but the signature is his?—Yes.

6321. Where did you give him the money?—In the post-office in Sligo.

6322. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Do you recollect what sort of money you paid him in?—I think, my Lord, it was in notes and gold, whatever I happened to have in my purse at the time that amounted to the sum he asked me for.

6323. Would it be five notes, two sovereigns and four half-sovereigns?—I dare say it would; I cannot bring my mind to the exact coins in which I paid him.

6324. He

U. A. Knox.
23 February
1869.

U. A. Knox. 6324. He has described it in that way?—I dare say he is quite correct.

23 February 1869. 6325. You say you lent money at different periods?—Yes.

6326. What was the largest sum you lent him in any one person at any one period?—I don't think I lent him more than 10 l. at any one time.

6327. What did you lend in the aggregate?—I do not think it was more than about 16 l.; I think it was 16 l. some odd shillings and pence. One of the cases I can explain to your Lordship; in fact, I can tell you the story. The statement upon which I lent him the money in this transaction, as far as I remember, was for the amount of a decree that his landlord had against him; his goods were seized, as he expressed himself; they were under seizure for rent due to his landlord, and were to be sold on Saturday night. He represented to me what a very great hardship it would be to put him out; I knew his landlord not to be so hard upon him as the man represented to me; I had known him before as the guard of the coach; Dowland has been repeatedly to the landlord; I lent him, I think it was 6 l., the sum, in fact, in the decree, which Dowland showed me.

6328. Mr. Justice Keogh.] That was the first time?—Yes, in February 1867.

6329. When was the second?—The second time was in the latter end of the same year, when there was a similar demand. There was a bill or a decree in the Court of Sessions court, or something of that sort; I gave about 10 l., it might be a few shillings over or under.

6330. Had he any claim upon you?—No claim whatever upon me.

6331. As a demand?—No.

6332. But isn't it strange that a man should come and borrow 6 l. and not pay it, and then borrow 10 l. a year afterwards, and not pay that?—I knew the man to be in needy circumstances; I knew he had borrowed money from people before, and I had no doubt that the man would pay me; none whatever, nor have I. I believe the man to be an honest man; I have known him for some time, and I did not wish to see the man driven on the streets, as the phrase is, if it were in my power to keep his house over his head for some time longer; I also knew he was expecting to receive a pension.

6333. Now about Tiernen's?—He mentioned to me that Captain Henry Fawcett, for whom I had great respect, and who was local inspector of the gaol in which Tiernen was employed as barber, would be security for him, and I remember saying, "It is quite enough to mention Captain Fawcett's name."

6334. Was Mr. Fawcett a gentleman of position and independence?—I cannot say what the man's means were.

Re-examined by Dr. Kaye.

6335. All those moneys; were they all your own moneys?—Totally and entirely.

6336. And were they business transactions?

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I understood Mr. Knox to say they were his own money, and that he gave them from the motive of charity; but took a security with the intention, that if parties were able, they should pay it, that is how I understood it.

[The Witness withdrew.]

STEPHEN MOOR CHERRY, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

S. M. Cherry. 6337. I BELIEVE you are a mercantile gentleman in Sligo?—I am.

6338. Were you authorised in any respect at the last election by Major Knox?—Not in the slightest.

6339. You have heard a person of the name of Shiels examined?—I have.

6340. Had you any authority, direct or indirect, from Major Knox or Mr. Lawder, or any person on behalf of Major Knox, to deal with Shiels?—None whatever.

6341. Mention what occurred between yourself and that man?—I remember on the Monday week before the election, I was posting my books—

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I think I ought to tell Mr. Cherry the position in which he is; I will tell you, Mr. Cherry, that you are now about being examined as to transactions which involve a criminal offence; there is evidence given in the case which enables me to say that as far as you are concerned, and if the case stood there, on the evidence which at present exists before me, there would be, I will not say conclusive proof, but strong evidence of your having been engaged in a criminal transaction; you are not, therefore, bound in any way to give any evidence which will tend to criminate yourself. I am bound to tell you that; it is my duty, but at the same time, I can tell you that if you make a full, and to me satisfactory disclosure, such as I believe to be true in omnibus, not in part but in all things, you are then entitled to ask me for a certificate which will be a protection to you against penal consequences. If I am satisfied, when you go off the table, that you have told me the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, you shall have that certificate; if I think otherwise I shall not give it, and then your statements may possibly tell against you; having given you that instruction, let us now proceed with the examination.

6342. Mr. Macdonogh.] Listen, Mr. Cherry, if you please; I hope you understand what the learned judge has said to you?—Perfectly.

6343. You were going to say something about the Monday; you are now going to tell all the truth, whatever it is?—Of course; I have nothing to hide. On the Monday previous to the election I was looking over my books, posting my books; in doing so I was looking down the index of the letter "S," and my eye caught Shiels's name, and the idea came into my head that he had been in the habit of doing business with me, and paying an instalment of three shillings a week for a debt which he owed me. I had been from home, and I had not noticed if he was paying his instalments, and I referred to his account, which I can show. I found that he had not paid his usual instalments from the 31st of August up to that date, as my cash book will prove; prove; I then and there called one of my young men, and asked him, had Shiels paid on Saturday night.

Mr. Macdonogh.] I am not asking any questions, my Lord, but rather wishing him to tell the whole truth.

Witness.] I went to my young man, and asked him, had he paid on Saturday night, or for several previous nights, and he said he had not; I told him to go up and to ask him to come down, or to ask him what was the reason he had not paid; the young man went up, and Shiels sent down a message that he would come down; he did not come down, and I sent another message to him; he came down to me on Wednesday morning, and I took him to my ware-room; not to any private room but to my ware-room; if you please, I would like to describe it: it is an open room; there is no secret about it; any person can come up to it; I asked him how it was he was not paying; he said he thought I was being paid, for he left the money with his sister for that purpose; and he apologized to me for not paying, and promised faithfully to do so; well, my Lord, we talked about other subjects, and in the course of it I learned that he was a voter; I did not at the time know that, because he was a young man, his father was living, and I did not know which of them was; but I learned that he was a voter; the idea occurred to me, perhaps he might wish to oblige me, as I had obliged him; I held a decree for him four years; I never pressed the man; in fact, he asked me not even to tell his employer; and often, when he was a defaulter, I did not do so; I then said to him, "I have obliged you often, and I would as a friend ask you if you would vote for Major Knox"; or something of that sort. No, I did not ask him to vote for Major Knox, I am certain; I asked him not to vote; I said I would not expect of him to vote; I remember that, and said that if he would leave town, I would like if he would do so; he said he could not do so until he consulted his friends; and, my Lord, I said, "It is better for you not to do so, because if they hear it of course they will object"; something to that effect; "and if you like now to say you won't go, I have done with it; I do not want you at all; I do not want to press you in the least, if you think not to go;" he said he would give me an answer, and went away; nothing else occurred at that time; accordingly he came back again; and, my Lord, he stated to me, that he was offered 20*l.* from Flanagan's side, that if I would give him 40*l.* he would go away. I said, "My good man, if you want money from me, I will have nothing to say to you, I only ask you to act as a friend; if you do not like to go you need not;" but he was not satisfied; then he went away, and came back on Saturday morning, and came into the shop, and he then informed me he was going to America, and he asked me to give him some goods.

6344. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Now you are on the second interview?—Witness. This is the third; the last.

6345. What date is it?—The Saturday morning previous to the election; exactly about 10 o'clock; just as he was going to his breakfast I understood.

6346. The Saturday previous to the election; that is the third interview?—The third, not the last, because I saw him in the evening again; he said he was going to America, and he asked me would I sell him a few things; would I give him a few things; as I understood, sell them; I sold a few things, and entered them in my book, which I can produce here (Witness handed the book to the Judge); he bought those things, my Lord—two shirts.

6347. I have them all here, 1*l.* 10*s.* 6*d.*?—He asked me to give him 20*l.* to proceed to America; I said I would not give him 20*l.*, and I cross-examined him as to his intention of going to America, because I thought perhaps he was not going; but I said, "I will not give you 20*l.*, but I will see if I can arrange to send it to you in Dublin." My Lord, we talked; I really advised him, and said I thought it would be a very good thing for him to go to America; when he said so at first, I said that perhaps he would be better there, and I fell into the trap, my Lord, exactly; that is the fact of the matter; he went away then, but I think I mentioned to him; either I mentioned that I would give him a letter to a friend in America; I had done so, my Lord, the very same week, and I think that is the reason that put it into my head, to another young friend who was going, Mr. George Mullen, and I let him have 10*l.* at the same time, as the cash-book will show; I gave George Mullen, on that occasion, a letter of introduction, and I think, I am not sure now, my Lord, whether it was I said I would—

6348. Is it Mullen or Mr. Mulligan?—Mullen; he lived in the country; he is not a voter at all; here is his name for 10*l.* (pointing to an entry in the book); I am not quite clear whether I said I would give him a letter of introduction, or whether he asked me for it, but at any rate he was to call back for the letter of introduction in the evening; I was sending an order to Coster and Brodie for paper, and I have the invoice, which I received; the idea came into my head, that I would send the money to Coster and Brodie, and ask them to pay his passage to America, and to take his receipt; my Lord, I asked them to do so; I wrote a cheque for the amount, and got a cash note on the Provincial Bank for 24*l.* 5*s.* 3*d.*; I then wrote a letter, and I would like to state the substance of it; I do not remember the exact words, but the letter was this: "Gentlemen, enclosed I send you Bank Order for 24*l.* 5*s.* 3*d.*, out of which you will please pay the amount of your account, and you will dispose of the balance in the following way—Mr. John Shiels is going to America, as he informs me; you will please take his passage in a vessel, the first vessel going from Dublin, and you will hand him the balance on board, and take his receipt"; I do not, my Lord, remember anything about Friday, whether I told them to keep it till Friday; Mr. Shiels said something about Friday; I do not remember that, my Lord, because I understood he was going at once; but I may have said, "If you can get a vessel going to America before Friday, if you are going by the steamer after that, or any time, give it," and I think it is very likely.

6349. Did you know when the American steamer sailed from Dublin?—No; I thought he might go to Glasgow, you know, or Liverpool, and take a vessel from that port, and I did not wish to prevent him going either way, whichever he liked. I think that is all with reference to that.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Have you any other thing to examine this gentleman on?

6350. Mr.

S. M.
Cherry.
23 February
1869.

6350. Mr. Macdonogh.] Yes; but I want to comply with your Lordship's wishes. There are these pieces of paper; I want to ask him about one of them. There is a direction to Mr. Hughes, 25, Queen-street. Did you ever write that (handing it to the Witness)?—I never wrote it; never saw it, that I am aware of, before.

6351. Do you know whose handwriting it is?—I do not.

6352. Are you able to tell his Lordship whether you gave that to this man Shiels?—I did not, my Lord; all the documents I gave are in my own handwriting, and I am prepared to admit them.

6353. Take all these in your hand (documents handed to Witness)?—This is my handwriting, this receipt; certainly this "John Shiels" is not my handwriting. You will find it corresponds with that envelope. That part of it (pointing) is mine, my Lord. I corresponded with Logan; I have letters to show it was a bonâ fide transaction altogether. There are Logan's letters.

6354. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Who is Logan?—He is the man in America I wrote the letter to; but they will show it is a bonâ fide affair. This is one of my memoranda, but those other things I have nothing to say to. I believe they were enclosed round my card, and I wish to see that card, if it is here, because it was tampered with by the other side; I saw it here, and no mistake.

6355. Mr. Justice Keogh.] That is a most improper observation?—Well, my Lord, there was writing on it I never made.

6356. You have no right to make a comment of that kind, and you are not in a position to justify you in commenting upon the conduct of any person?—I was very indignant.

6357. You have very little reason to be indignant with anybody?—Well, my Lord, I know my own intentions.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] You had better not, unless you wish to incur the penalty of contempt of Court, make such an observation as that again.

6358. Mr. Macdonogh.] One word about that address; look at that, you see that envelope and that address?—My Lord, I wish to make one explanation about this, "Go on to Enniskillen without stopping; driver will tell you where to stop for your bed," and so on; I understood that this would cost him a few shillings more than if he stopped in the "Black Lion," and I intended to send him the difference, whatever it might be.

6359. What I want to know is, look at the direction of the envelope, do you know any such person?—No, never.

Cross-examined by Mr. Coffey.

6360. I will let his story rest as it stands; but you saw this man the night before he left?—He came into my shop for the letter of introduction.

6361. Were you with Mr. Stokes?—Yes, I was; I will tell you that I was going to order a car at Mrs. Buchanan's. When I left my shop I did not know where I would order it; I think I intended going to Mrs. Buchanan's; but as I was going along Mr. Stokes's shop, that was at the corner of Castle-street, I saw Mr. Stokes in the shop. I just went in and I told him what I was going to do, to order a car; he said Mrs.

Buchanan was here, and her driver; and he said he had ordered the car, or something of the sort.

6362. Stokes?—Yes; I think I told Stokes where the car was to stop, he suggested it would be better to go on to Enniskillen at once, and I wrote then what I gave to the driver in Stokes's shop at the time; I gave something to the driver.

6363. You and Stokes arranged that between you?—That was all the arrangement about it; Stokes had said he would order the car; Mrs. Buchanan was a tenant of his, and he would order the car at the time.

6364. Did you know anything about the car going to Bundoran?—No; nor any other car whatever.

6365. Then, I stop that; when did you destroy the letter that Coster, Brodie and company returned to you?—A few days after I received it.

6366. Under whose advice did you burn that letter?—Under nobody's advice.

6367. Under your own?—Under my own.

6368. You took the idea into your head to do it?—I did; I wrote for it for that purpose.

6369. Why did you burn that letter?—I thought it was a private letter; I will tell you the reason; I remember the circumstance quite well. I was leaving home, and of course I leave my young men in charge of all my keys; that is my business place, and I was afraid those young men would see this letter, and I destroyed it, as I was going away to England; that is the reason why I did it.

6370. Now tell me, did you tell the man where he was to go to when he got to Dublin?—I did not; and more than that, and I can prove it if you produce his brother, I did not know, but I will tell you. He came down to me on the Monday morning; I arranged I was to give as much money as would supply his family while he was away in America, until he would get into a position to support his family.

6371. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You were to support his family?—I was to give them as much money as would support his family; I said so on Saturday night. Shiels, before he left, said he would send down his brother for money to me on Monday morning, and Shiels did not tell the whole truth, for I gave more money than he acknowledged to.

6372. Mr. Coffey.] Indeed; how much more?—I will produce the cash-book to show it; I gave him 30 s. more into his own hands, I gave him that, and my cash-book will show it. His brother came down to me on Monday morning, for what I had promised. I intended to do what I said; I really did. I do not wish to deny it; I must explain this, if you please. His brother came to me on Monday morning for a pound, and, said he, "Mr. Connolly has written for my brother, and he has promised to pay his rent, and a lot of things of that sort, will you please to write to him and tell him not to go, for our family do not believe it," or something to that effect. Said I, "I do not know where his address is; he told me his address was Post Office, Dublin; and if I had known his address I would likely have fallen into the trap, if it were a trap."

6373. I will not ask you any more?—I think not.

6374. Who did you cheque upon to get the 24 l.?—The Provincial Bank. Here it is; there is the item, the 14th day of November.

6375. Mr. Justice Keogh.] New let me ask you you; you say you burned the letter?—I did, my Lord.

6376. Which came back to you?—I did. I wrote back for it, for that purpose.

6377. You got back that letter and burned it?—I tore it, I did not burn it; I did it the way I do other papers of no use; private letters. I have all my other letters filed, but I do not keep private letters.

6378. Did you consider that a private letter, about 25 l.?—I did consider it a perfectly private letter not connected with my usual business, such as invoices and orders for goods; and this kind of letters I always destroy.

6379. You wrote to Messrs. Coster, Brodie & Company to get back the letter?—I did. I told them Shiels was not going to America as he informed me.

6380. Now, sir, did you give that money, or that cheque, with a view to induce this man, John Shiels, to refrain from voting at that election?—My Lord —.

6381. Answer me, yes or no; did you give him that money to induce him to leave Sligo, and to refrain from voting at that election?—It had that object, my Lord.

6382. Did you give him any money in order to induce him to refrain from voting at that election?—It was not as an inducement.

6383. What was it?—I thought he was going to America, and I thought that would assist him.

6384. Then, it was benevolence?—It was.

6385. Charity?—Charity.

6386. You swear to that now, that it was charity?—I thought it was.

6387. You swear it was charity?—Well, he made a certain promise about sending home money to his family.

6388. And that is the only answer you can give me; I would like you to consider that question again?—It was not charity, but it was to assist him.

6389. Well, I will take it so; you swear it was to assist him, and not to induce him to refrain from voting at the election?—Well, that idea was in my mind, that it was to assist the party.

6390. Tell me, sir, do you know this house of Haggerty's?—I do.

6391. Were you there?—I was there on one or two occasions.

6392. In the evening?—I think it was; yes; I was there once in the evening, and once in the middle of the day.

6393. Who was there when you were there?—I must tell you, my Lord—

6394. I do not want these things; I want simple answers?—Mr. Grubb was there, and Mr. Balfour.

6395. Who else?—I did not see any others; they were smoking at the time.

6396. What brought you there?—I just ran in without any object whatever more than that I was passing by to the court-house and back.

6397. And of all houses in the town, you made a point of going into what has been described as an empty house?—No, it was not an empty house; Mr. O'Farrell lived there.

6398. No, he did not; I am asking about Haggerty's house?—There were people standing at the door when I went in.

6399. Who was at the door?—There were some boys I did not know; at least, I don't remember their names.

6400. Is that any reason for going into an empty house; you saw some boys at the door you did not know?—My reason was, to know about voters that were expected to come in from the surrounding districts.

6401. What did you want to know about them?—To know if they had come in; that was all the object I had in view.

6402. Do you recollect telling me the way this transaction commenced was, that you were looking down your book, and you came to the letter S?—Yes.

6403. You told me that was on the Monday previous to the election?—Yes.

6404. If it was the Monday previous to the election (the election takes place upon Tuesday and the Thursday following), how came it that that third interview with Shiels was on the Saturday previous?—My Lord, it was Monday week.

6405. You say it was Monday week?—Yes.

6406. I have nothing further to ask you?—There is another occurrence, my Lord, about Henry. Henry swore I offered him money, my Lord; I did not know the man at all, but I saw Leonard there; I remember distinctly seeing Leonard, and I never offered that man anything whatever.

6407. Where did you see him?—In Mrs. Hall's, and Leonard was there, and why did he not prove it?

6408. Were you at Mrs. Hall's?—Yes.

6409. Did you go to the assistance of those men at Mrs. Hall's?—I will tell you all I did; I was going along Castle-street, and Mr. Chisholm said to me, "Go and place a ladder against the wall." I went, and I placed the ladder against the wall, and I came back again.

6410. What was the ladder placed against the wall for?—I believe it was to let voters who lived in that street go over if they were afraid to go the other road.

6411. What time was it you went to Haggerty's house to inquire about voters?—I did not take any active part till the day after the nomination, and I was incensed by the mob calling out epithets to me going along the street.

Mr. Coffey called the attention of his Lordship to an item in the witness's banker's book, showing that on the morning of the 14th there was a bill for 50l., and the names endorsed upon it were Mr. Green and Mr. Chisholm.

6412. Mr. Coffey.] Was that an accommodation bill, Mr. Cherry?—It was for my accommodation.

6413. For your accommodation?—Yes.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Well, Mr. Cherry, I do not want to ask you any further questions, but I shall certainly not give you any certificate.

Witness.] If there is any other question to ask me, I will answer it.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] That is all I have to say; you have not satisfied me that you have told the whole truth, but I have come to exactly an opposite conclusion.

[The Witness withdrew.]

S. M.
Cherry.

23 February
1869.

MAJOR KNOX, re-called; Examined by Dr. Kaye.

Major Knox.
23 February
1869.

Dr. Kaye.] WITH reference, my Lord, to the error which Mr. Lawder has manifestly made, Major Knox will tell your Lordship in a few questions how it was, and that Brennan arrived after Mr. Lawder consulted Mr. Macdonogh.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] That is exactly what I commented on, Mr. Kaye, that Mr. Lawder, being on his oath, told me that the first way he came to inquire for Mr. Brennan, was that he found his name in all the charges, in the bill of particulars; that he then consulted Mr. Macdonogh, and that Mr. Macdonogh, as I would expect from him in all cases, desired that there should be no one kept back, and that, thereupon, Mr. Lawder wrote to Dublin a letter from Carrick-on-Shannon to his correspondent in Dublin, which letter having been sent to London this man came back, and the first he saw of him, he said, was in the office in Abbey-street belonging to Major Knox. That was simply, I said, and say again, giving an explanation which was wholly impossible in point of fact, because the bill of particulars which gave him the information that Brennan's name was mentioned in 11 different charges, was not delivered until last Monday morning, and Brennan said he received the letter in London on the previous Saturday. Mr. Lawder said he wrote his letter to bring him over, and he saw him in Dublin on the Monday. Now, as the Bill of Particulars itself was not delivered until four o'clock on Monday, it is utterly impossible that any steps could have been taken in consequence of that. It is not the fact, the fact is different. It was deliberately giving me a narrative of reasons for doing things which did not exist; that is all.

Dr. Kaye.] Quite so, my Lord, but in point of fact that is not the reason why Brennan was sent for at all.

The Witness.] It is a slight mistake, my Lord, which I can explain. I heard one day in the hall of the Four Courts, Dublin, where I had some business, that Mr. O'Loughlen, the barrister, was boasting that we were keeping Mr. Brennan out of the way, and that we did not intend to produce him. I wrote to Mr. Lawder at once; I told him I heard he was charged in these cases. I saw Mr. Lawder the next day, or the next day but one, in Dublin, and both he and I called together, and told Mr. Macdonogh the occurrence. The sole mistake Mr. Lawder has made, is that he was twice in Dublin. It was the first of the two times it occurred. As regards Mr. Brennan's address in London, I can tell you how I knew that. Mr. Cashel Hoey wrote to me one day from the "Stafford Club," and told me that a man named Brennan, who appeared to be in rather a wretched and poor condition, and who appeared to be exhausted, called on him for assistance, and he had referred him to Mr. Doyle, who is our London representative. The man said he was from Sligo. Then Mr. Doyle wrote to me and said, "Shall I give him any assistance?" I said, "No, it might be construed into something or other." However, when I heard this rumour, and had seen Mr. Macdonogh, I telegraphed to Mr. Doyle. I saw Mr. Dargan, and he sent over to a London agent. I got a free pass for him in the train, and he came.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I am quite sure that that is the true explanation, but it is in the recollection of counsel on both sides that Mr. Lawder said it was in consequence of finding Brennan's name in 11 different charges in the Bill of Particulars. It shows at all events that people ought not to be giving explanations hap-hazard.

6414. Mr. Macdonogh (To the Witness).] And perhaps you will now be able to fix the time when you wrote?—

Mr. Justice Keogh.] I am quite satisfied with the explanation given by Major Knox. I paid the greatest attention to every word he said on the subject.

ROBERT STOKES, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

R. Stokes.

Mr. Justice Keogh.] Now, Mr. Stokes, I don't know whether you were in court when I was speaking to Mr. Cherry, but I shall give you the very same instructions that I gave Mr. Cherry, that you are not bound to criminate yourself in any way. Offering any inducement to a voter, either to vote or refrain from voting, is a criminal offence to be visited by the very heaviest and severest penalties, and you are not bound to give any evidence that will be calculated to criminate yourself. If you do wish to give evidence as regards this transaction, and you give it to my satisfaction, not as regards particular questions you are asked, but as to everything connected with this matter, if I am satisfied that you have told the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, you are entitled then to ask, and shall receive from me a certificate which shall protect you from penalties; but I think it right to tell you, if I am not perfectly satisfied with your not concealing anything, I shall not give you that certificate. Now having given you that caution, you may either refuse to answer the question, which you have a right to do, which may tend to criminate yourself, or not, as you please.

6415. Mr. Macdonogh.] I hope you understand the learned judge?—I think I do.

6416. I shall ask you but one question, Mr. Stokes. You have heard certain matters mentioned here; now I am not going to ask about those, because I would rather you would attend expressly to what his Lordship has said; but I want now in justice to my own client to ask you a question. You have heard matters imputed to you in the course of this trial, at the election?—I have.

6417. Now

6417. Now I want to know had you any authority, direct or indirect, from Major Knox, to do any or all of those things?—Not the slightest.

6418. Whatever you did, were those things done without the knowledge or sanction of Major Knox?—They were.

6419. Had you any authority, direct or indirect, from Mr. Lawder, his conducting agent?—On the contrary, he warned me not to have anything to do with anything that would tend to any corruption, or disparage the cause in any way.

6420. He warned you. Now, Mr. Stokes, you remember subsequently Major Knox coming to you, and complaining that he heard you had been meddling with the matter?—He did.

6421. Was he displeased with you upon that occasion; did he express displeasure with your conduct, with what he had heard?—Certainly; a disappointed look he had, or appearance.

6422. Tell his Lordship exactly, as well as you remember, the words Major Knox made use of, or the substance of what Major Knox said, complaining of what he had heard?—That he would rather not be returned for the borough of Sligo than to be under the imputation of having anything that was corrupt, or illegal, or dishonourable attending it.

6423. Do you remember whether he expressed any intention to leave the town at that time?—He did, he told me.

6424. Tell his Lordship where?—As well as I can remember, he told me he would rather give it up than have anything illegal or corrupt done to injure him or injure his character.

6425. Did you make any promise to him as to what you would do, or abstain from doing?—I did.

6426. What did you say?—I told him, as far as ever I knew how, that I would, that I had very little influence, but any influence I had should be very moderately exercised.

6427. Did you give him any express promise with respect to not doing anything improper?—I did, and I hope when I give my evidence that my Lord will see I have not done, since the revision.

6428. Having asked you as to my own client, I forbear asking you anything as to your own acts, because you are to do that, and to tell the whole truth to his Lordship.

Cross-examined by Mr. Palles

6429. You said you told Major Knox you would use your influence moderately?—Yes, what lay in my power.

6430. When was it you told him that?—Perhaps it was 10 days or a week before the election; I am not particular as to the time; my memory does not exactly keep the date.

6431. When you said you would use your influence moderately to the Major, what did he say to you?—He said he would be obliged; he bowed; he said nothing that I could recollect.

6432. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You said “obliged”?—Yes, thanked me; something of that sort; courteous.

6433. Mr. Palles.] You had often seen the Major in Sligo before this?—I often saw him, but not to speak to him.

6434. You knew for some time he was before the electors?—I did.

6435. And you did of course use your influence as well as you could?—Not as well as I could.

6436. Did you use some influence?—Yes, I used some influence.

6437. And you were glad when you saw him to tell him you were using your influence?—I was very glad to meet him.

6438. And you told him how you were getting on?—I do not recollect that I did.

6439. What did you say to the Major when you met him in the course of the canvass?—I know I met him one time and thanked him very much for a favour he did me.

6440. What was that?—Some two years ago, or better, he got a relative of mine a promotion in a model school.

6441. And you felt bound to do as much as you could for him, as he had been kind to you?—I would like to do it.

6442. And when you met him, you said, “Well, Major, we are getting on pretty well to-day,” or “this week”; or, “We have not gone on so well this week”?—I cannot tell.

6443. Tell me the kind of conversation; you are bound to tell everything you know?—As far as my memory goes.

6444. Tell me the substance of any of your conversation?—I could not.

6445. He knew you were using your influence?—It was probable he suspected it.

6446. And he thanked you for it?—I don’t know for my influence.

6447. Was not the Major always very bland?—He is a nice gentleman.

6448. And he was always obliged to you when he saw you were doing your best for him?—I daresay he would be.

6449. How many people did you canvass to vote for the Major?—I think I had some three or four tenants that I hoped would vote for him, but they would not. They promised, some of them, but they did not.

6450. I suppose you told the Major you had asked your tenants?—I do not think I did.

6451. Will you swear you did not; you never told anybody how your tenants would vote?—I did not.

6452. How many else did you canvass besides your tenants?—I do not recollect.

6453. Think?—I do not recollect.

6454. Have you a good deal of influence, or only a very little influence?—It is a little influence.

6455. How many did you canvass?—I do not think I canvassed many.

6456. You can form no idea?—No; all my tenants, but not after the revision.

6457. Before the revision, how many did you canvass?—I expected two of them.

6458. Were you with the Major during the revision?—No.

6459. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Tell me, Mr. Stokes, did you accompany Major Knox in his canvass?—Never.

6460. You know that house of Haggerty’s?—I do.

6461. Were you ever there?—I think I was once or twice.

6462. In the evening?—Not in the evening.

6463. What time?—I was once with O’Farrell; he brought me over to show me the communication he opened; for I lived in the house that O’Farrell was going into, and I occupied it.

6464. Who did you meet there on the occasion

R. Stokes.

you were there?—I think when I was going back I met young Mr. Petrie and young Mr. Wood.

6465. I did not ask you whom you met going back, but when you were there?—I went in to see O'Farrell, and the opening he had made from one house into the other.

6466. I did not ask you how you went in, but who did you meet there?—I think it was Mr. Petrie and young Mr. Woods.

6467. Who else?—I do not recollect any more.

6468. Did you see Mr. Cherry there?—Not at that time.

6469. At any other time?—I do not know about another time.

6470. Did you see anybody else?—Not that my memory tells.

6471. Search your memory?—Really at present I do not recollect.

6472. You say that you had this conversation with Major Knox about 10 days before the election?—About 10 or 12 days; I am not exact as to the time.

6473. Do you recollect Mr. Cherry writing that paper, telling that man Sheils to go on to Enniskillen, and telling him where he was to go; do you recollect suggesting to Mr. Cherry that it would be better for him to go on to Enniskillen direct?—I do not believe I suggested it.

6474. Did you hear Mr. Cherry swear it?—No, I was out of court.

6475. Being told by me that he did so, will you be good enough to search your memory and say whether it is true or false; did you suggest that Sheils should go on to Enniskillen direct?—(No answer.)

The shorthand writer read an extract from Mr. Cherry's evidence bearing on the point.

6476. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Now, you have heard what Mr. Cherry swore, what do you say?—It is very possible I did it.

6477. You said just now you did not; what do you say now?—I think it is very possible.

6478. You say you do not know?—Yes.

6479. Did he tell you that this was a person who was going away, not to vote at the election?—I believe he did.

6480. Did you consider, then, that you were carrying out your promise not to do anything illegal for Major Knox?—I did not.

6481. You did not?—I certainly did.

6482. You thought it a legal thing?—I thought it was no harm to send a man away on a car when he was willing to go.

6483. That is your idea of electoral law; when you say you did everything that was right, it was proceeding upon these ideas you have?—If I have acted otherwise, it was through ignorance.

6484. That is what I want to know; let me ask you, can you now recall the names of the persons you met at Haggarty's on any other occasion?—Only Mr. Cherry, young Mr. Woods, and Petrie.

6485. Anybody else; search your memory; just think; anybody else; did you see Leonard?—I saw him forcing his way there.

6486. Forcing his way; on what occasion was that?—The night before the election.

6487. Then you were there the night before the election?—Yes; I was at the door; the streets were greatly crowded.

6488. Were you there the night before the election?—Yes, I was.

6489. Were you in the room?—I do not think I was in that room.

6490. You were in the house?—I was in O'Farrell's house.

6491. You were in Haggarty's house the night before the election?—Yes.

6492. Who was there that night?—I think that is the night Mr. Cherry was there.

6493. Who else was there in the room upstairs; was it upstairs?—I don't believe I was upstairs that night at all.

6494. Who did you see below stairs?—I saw Foulder, the man who was there for protection.

6495. Did you see Mr. Cherry?—I think I did.

6496. On that occasion?—As well as my memory carries it out; I am not certain.

6497. Did you see young Woods?—I believe I did.

6498. Did you see old Mr. Woods?—No.

6499. Did you see Mr. Wilson?—Perhaps I saw Mr. Wilson; I am not very positive.

6500. Did you see on any occasion Mr. Lawder there?—I did not.

6501. Did you see him going in there?—No.

6502. Did you see Mr. Phibbs there?—I did not.

6503. Now try your memory on that subject?—Mr. Harlowe Phibbs?

6504. Did you see him going in there?—With regard to that —

6505. Did you see him going in there?—If I stayed at my own door —

6506. Did you see him going in there?—I believe I did.

6507. How often?—I believe only once, if ever I did in my life.

6508. When was that?—Standing at my own door.

6509. When?—I could not point out the time nor the date.

6510. But about what time?—Perhaps three or four days before the election.

6511. Did you see Mr. Pollock going in there?—Never at any time in my life.

6512. Did you see Mr. Lawder coming in there at any time?—Oh, no.

6513. Is Mrs. Buchanan a tenant of yours?—She is; she gets a good deal of saddlery from me, and I run an account with her.

6514. Did you ever pay for the car that went to Bundoren?—I never did.

6515. Did you promise it?—I told the boy to charge it to me.

6516. Now, what is the fare; the distance is, I believe, 20 miles?—Sixteen, I think.

6517. Sixteen is it; I thought it was 20; what is the fare for the car?—

Mr. Macdonogh.] It is 16 Irish miles; 20 English miles.

6518. Mr. Justice Keogh.] What is the fare for two persons going and returning; I want you to tell me that; is not it 8*d.* a mile for two persons?—Oh, no; it is according to the house you take it at, and she is not an expensive woman to take a car from.

6519. Take it at the most expensive; they don't generally practise economy at elections; supposing I was going with another person on an outside car, would not we be charged 8*d.* the mile?—I believe that is the legal fare.

6520. Twenty miles out and 20 returning, would be 40 miles; would not that be 1*l.* 12*s.* exactly, exactly, would not it?—They are not charged 8*d.* a mile for returning; they very seldom charge for return.

6521. If they wished to charge the highest rate, would not that make 1*l.* 12*s.*; I have a reason for asking the question?—It would not.

6522. Now get Mrs. Buchanan's book; I want to see that (the book was produced and handed to the Judge); now, take this book in your hand (the book was handed to the Witness); do you see there, on the left hand side, "Bundoren"?—I do.

6523. At the other side, do you see Mr. Starkie?—I do.

6524. Are you able, without the assistance of a glass, to see that all that is entered to you?—I believe it is.

6525. It is changed to Starkie, but it was Stokes originally?—I believe it was.

6526. Now look at the other column; cannot you say that there was 1*l.* 12*s.* there; was 1*l.* 12*s.* entered there originally?—I cannot say; I never saw it before.

6527. Take that glass; it will help you to find that out (the Witness inspected the item in the book through a magnifying glass); what is it converted into now; is it 10*s.*?—It is 10*s.*

6528. Did it not originally stand 1*l.* 12*s.*?—I could not say that.

6529. Now look at the other entry, "Manor Hamilton;" is not that altered also?—It appears like it.

6530. Is not the name also altered from Stokes to Starkie?—It appears so.

6531. What car was that?—I believe it was the car that Sheils travelled on.

6532. What made you liable for the car to Bundoren?—I ordered it.

6533. For whom?—I did not tell her for whom.

6534. I did not ask you that; for whom did you order it?—For the two MacMullans.

6535. Two voters?—Two voters.

6536. Why were you anxious that they should pay a visit to Bundoren?—They wished it; they asked me to do it.

6537. That was your object?—Yes.

6538. Why did you charge yourself with their expenses?—They said they wished to leave town.

6539. And you gave them the car?—I gave them the car.

6540. To take them there?—To take them there.

6541. Now, Mr. Stokes, I ask you, and my decision with regard to yourself will depend on whether you give me a frank answer or not; with what object did you assist those two men, being voters of the borough of Sligo, to leave Sligo on that day; my decision as regards your individual case, may depend upon your giving me a frank answer to that or not?—My object was to promote Major Knox's return.

6542. Very well, that is a frank answer; do you know where those MacMullans are?—I do not know.

6543. Where did they go to?—I never heard, and never saw anything about them.

6544. Do you know who gave them the means of going away?—I do not; all I provided was the car for them.

6545. Who told you to provide the car for them?—It was my own entire act; I went down to give the order to Mrs. Buchanan's for the car for them; while I went down to do it they met me, and said they wished to do it.

6546. And you gave them no money?—No.

6547. And you do not know who did. Now, do you expect me to believe, Mr. Stokes, that those two men went without anyone giving them any inducement, and you do not know it?—Well, my Lord —

6548. I will give you an opportunity of reconsidering the question; will you now tell me what was the inducement that was held out to those men, and by whom, to get them to leave the place?—Indeed I could not.

6549. And you swear you cannot?—I swear positively.

6550. You know nothing about it?—They only come to me, and I got them the car.

6551. Do not be in a hurry. You have already told me you did it to advance Major Knox's interests; do you persist in swearing to me that you know nothing about the way in which they were induced to leave?—I do not.

6552. Then I will not give you a certificate.

[The Witness withdrew.]

THOMAS WILLIAMS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

6553. You are a Merchant in Sligo?—Yes.

6554. And I believe a magistrate?—Yes.

6555. Did you hear Mrs. Hall's servant swear that Mr. Williams, a man with a large beard, was frequently at Mrs. Hall's house in the company of Lyons and Gilmore, and others, going through the voters' lodge there; did you hear her state that?—Yes.

6556. Is that true?—No.

6557. How long is it since you were at Mrs. Hall's house; were you there during the election?—I have not been there, inside Mrs. Hall's house, for the last twelve months, under any circumstances.

6558. Then I need scarcely ask you, were you there at the election?—I was not.

6559. Did you hear Leonard swear that you, Mr. Williams, were frequently in Haggerty's house, with Messrs. Lawder, Knox, and others?—I did.

85.

6560. Is that true?—No, I was in once, and once only.

6561. Mention to his Lordship the occasion upon which you were once in that house?—The borough magistrates considered it was necessary to apply to the Government for an additional force of police. An arrangement was made with the resident magistrate, Mr. Colson, to meet at the barrack on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Henry Lyons, Mr. Colson, and myself were there 15 minutes waiting, and the other magistrates did not come; I said to Mr. Lyons, "I will go down to the news-room, or if there are none of them there, I will go home; I would not lose my market. Passing Haggerty's house I saw Leonard, that gave evidence here; I said to him, "Did you see Mr. Wood or any of the magistrates here?" "I did not," said he; "he is probably upstairs;" I ran upstairs, I looked round an empty house; I saw three or four persons there; I did

T. Williams.

T. Williams. I did not stay two minutes; I came out again, and that was the only time I was ever in that house, and that is the reason for my going.

23 February
1869.

6562. Mr. Justice Keogh. You said something about Mr. Wood?—We expected to meet Mr. Wood and the borough magistrates in consultation; it was a very inconvenient day; they did not come, and I could not stop; I saw Leonard at the door, and I asked him had he seen Mr. Wood, and he said he had not, but it was possible he might be upstairs; I ran upstairs to look for Mr. Wood; I came out again finding he was not there, and from that to the present day I have never been inside the doors of that house.

6563. Mr. Macdonogh. I ask do you remember having had a conversation with Major Knox in relation to Mr. Stokes?—I do.

6564. About what time was that?—I cannot say what time it was, probably a week before the election, or something very near to the election.

6565. Tell his Lordship what he said in reference to Mr. Stokes?—I remember calling on Major Knox.

Mr. Coffey objected to the question.

[The Witness withdrew.]

HENRY LYONS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

H. Lyons.

6566. I BELIEVE you are a magistrate of both the county and the borough?—For the county, not for the borough; I have given up the borough commission.

6567. Only for the county?—No.

6568. Did you hear James Kearns and Pat Barry examined?—Yes, it was John Kearns.

6569. Do you remember an evening about 10 days before the election, returning from your place of business in town to your country place?—I do.

6570. Your private residence?—Yes.

6571. Upon arriving at your residence, did you find any persons there?—Yes; I found those two persons there, Barry and Kearns both.

6572. Had you sent any message or invitation to them previously, or either of them?—Never in my life, nor never would, and that is another thing; would have nothing to do with the men decidedly.

6573. Now tell us, if you please, what occurred with those people?—When I came down and saw them I knew one of them; I knew Barry better; he was down at the river side; they came in with me into the house; I asked them if they would be long and they said not long; they came with me into the house; Barry came with me into one room, a sort of office or school-room for the children, and the other man went into the parlour. Barry began to talk to me about the election; when he and I had talked a little together about the thing, he asked me to go in and speak to John Kearns, and said whatever he would do, John Kearns would do. I asked him what was that; he said they would go away, he and John Kearns would go away until after the election if they got 50 l. a piece in cash and their expenses paid. Those were the words he said.

6574. What was your reply?—Well, I said that was impossible, that no person would give them cash at all at all; it was impossible; and I never offered them cash, nor promised cash in my life to either of them.

6575. Did you on that occasion?—Never on that occasion, or any other occasion.

6576. Did you hear them say that you offered them half-notes; is that true?—It is not true; I never offered them any money in any shape, half-notes, whole notes, nor any other money.

6577. Did this proposal to give or to get the 50 l. emanate from them?—It came from himself and not from me in any shape or form; they talked it over candidly in the place, and I let them go home as they came; they went without promise, money, or a halfpenny in the world from me.

6578. Did they say anything about returning?—They said they would come next evening and see if I could do anything for them.

6579. After they left, did you turn the matter over in your mind?—Certainly; I returned to my sitting-room, thought the matter over, and I said—

6580. Tell me what you did?—What I did was to make up my mind that when I got down the next morning the first thing I should do would be to say, I would have nothing to do with the affair; those were the honest words. The next morning the first thing I did, after getting my breakfast about eight, was, I went down the street to Barry's house from my own private house; I walked about an English mile to the river-side; saw Barry come out of his door as I was approaching the house; he was coming as it were to meet me; when he saw me he turned back, was going up the field at the end of the house, as I think he swore here himself; I called to him I wanted to speak to him; he turned right round; I said, "Barry, I have come up to tell you I shall have nothing whatever to do in any shape or form with that business you had with me last night; don't come to me again;" he was to have come to me that evening.

6581. That is they told you they would come?—Yes, they told me.

6582. And accordingly did you afterwards speak to them again upon the subject?—Never, to the present hour.

6583. And did you give any excuse or sanction to that application?—Certainly not, and never had any intention of such a thing in my life, because I could not do it, and I would not do it on any terms.

6584. In fact you gave them notice that you would not allow any such thing to go on?—Certainly.

6585. Did you act as agent or canvasser for Mr. Knox?—Never; that is a strange thing for me to say; I never asked any voter in Sligo to vote for Major Knox.

6586. I presume you supported him?—I did; I was anxious for his return, but I never made myself officious, nor went into any house in Sligo, and I defy any man to say so.

6587. Did you hear one of those girls examined?—Yes, and I was very rude; I must apologise to his Lordship for that, but I could not listen to the false imputation, for I was never in the house for three years.

6588. You

6588. You apologise to his Lordship for that exclamation?—I do.

Cross-examined by Mr. Waters.

6589. You said very pointedly three times you would not give them any cash, and did not promise them any cash, or that it was impossible they could get it?—I did; no one would think of giving them cash. I told them they would not get cash from anybody.

6590. Of course it would be a dangerous thing to give a man cash; you would have to trust the man?—Of course; you might trust some, but not trust others.

6591. It would be much safer that they could come back at a safe period, and get the cash then?—If they went away 50 times, I would not give them anything.

6592. Of your own money?—Nor of anybody else's money; I never would.

[The Witness withdrew.

JOHN GALBRAITH, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

6593. You are a merchant in Sligo?—Yes.

6594. Did you hear the evidence given by Mrs. Dunleavy as to going to your house?—I did.

6595. Did you hear her say that you threw down 20 l. upon the counter?—I did.

6596. Was that true?—It was not.

6597. Did you offer her any money or reward of any kind to induce her to keep away her husband?—None whatever.

6598. Was young Mr. Woods there?—He was.

6599. Did he offer her any money upon that occasion?—None whatever.

6600. Did you hear her say that you or Woods, I really don't remember which it was, dictated a letter for her to her husband?—I did.

6601. Is that true?—It is not true.

6602. Did you see her sit down and write a letter herself?—I did.

6603. Tell his Lordship exactly the whole truth of what occurred on that occasion?—Certainly. Mr. William Woods came to me—

6604. Is that the younger?—No, the elder. On the Saturday he asked me, would I send for Mrs. Dunleavy to write a letter to her husband, who he said was in Roscrea, Tipperary. I said I would, and I did so.

6605. That is, you went for her?—I sent for her. Mr. Joseph Woods, the younger, came up, and we went upstairs to my upper ware room. Joseph Woods asked her, would she write a letter to her husband at Tipperary to go with a party to come to vote for Major Knox.

6606. Mr. Justice Keogh.] To go with the party?—To come to vote for Major Knox. She said she would, and referred to me, and I said I would feel obliged if she would. She sat down and wrote the letter to her husband at her own dictation. She handed that letter to Mr. Joseph Woods, and I have not seen or known anything of it up to the present, except what I heard in court.

6607. Did you read the letter?—No, I did not.

6608. Or did you hear it read?—Yes, Mr. J. Galbraith Joseph Woods read it.

6609. See if you can read it (handing letter to Witness)?—I believe that is the purport of what I heard, or something like that.

6610. Is that the whole of the transaction that you know anything about?—It is.

6611. Mr. Justice Keogh.] I want to ask you a question; you stated that Mr. Woods, senior, came to you?—Yes.

6612. When did he come to you?—He came on Saturday about 12 or one.

6613. Was that the Saturday before the election?—It was, to the best of my belief.

6614. He asked you to send for Mrs. Dunleavy to ask her to just write a letter to her husband at Tipperary to act with a party to come to vote for Major Knox?—Yes.

6615. And in consequence of that you sent for her, and she wrote this letter, as you say?—That is correct.

6616. Now just let me call your attention to that letter: "Dear Francis, I have arranged matters with friends in Sligo. I am quite satisfied that you should go, after you get this letter, with the party who bring it to you. Dear Francis, you may be quite satisfied. I have all things made right to your satisfaction, so don't come home." After reading that letter, do you persist in saying that it was to come to vote for Major Knox that the letter was written?—That was the idea I had distinctly.

6617. The letter expresses an entirely different one?—I knew nothing of it.

6618. You see now the letter expresses an entirely opposite idea?—It does; but I had nothing to do with the matter.

6619. It is a curious way to ask a man to come to Sligo, his wife telling him not to come?—The reason is that this man Dunleavy—

6620. I don't want to enter into it. The letter speaks for itself.

[The Witness withdrew.

SARAH LISCOE, sworn; Examined by Dr. Kaye.

6621. ARE you the housemaid at Mr. William Woods?—Yes.

6622. Have you been there some months?—About four.

6623. Do you know a man named Edward Kelley?—Yes.

6624. Do you remember his coming last November in the evening?—I remember his coming one evening before the election.

6625. Had he anybody with him?—Yes, he had a little boy.

85.

6626. Was it you opened the door for him?—It was.

6627. Did he give you a message?—He did.

6628. What did he ask you?—He asked me if Mr. Woods was in the house.

6629. Did you say he was?—I did.

6630. Did you go to Mr. Woods?—Yes, I did.

6631. Where was Mr. Woods at that time?—He was in the parlour.

6632. Is that upstairs?—Yes.

S. Liscoe.

S. Liscoe. 6633. Did you tell Mr. Woods?—Yes, he told me to tell the man to come upstairs.
 23 February 1869. 6634. Did you go down?—Yes.
 6635. Did you tell him to go upstairs?—Yes.
 6636. Did he go upstairs?—He did.
 6637. Where was the little boy?—He stood at the door.
 6638. Did you see your master and Mr. Kelley at all in the hall that night?—No, he was not there at all at that time.

6639. Did you see Kelley hand your master a note?—No, not in my presence.

6640. Did you see Kelley going away in a short time?—Yes, I did.

[The Witness withdrew.]

JOSEPH LOUGHIDE WOODS, sworn; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

J. L. Woods. 6641. ARE you the son of the gentleman who was examined here to-day?—Yes.

6642. Do you remember going to Mr. Galbraith's?—Yes.

6643. Did you see Mrs. Dunlevy there?—Yes.

6644. Had you any authority, direct or indirect, from Major Knox to go there to see Mrs. Dunlevy?—Certainly not. When I went to Mr. Galbraith's I had no idea who I was going to see.

6645. What made you go?—In consequence of a message I received from Mr. Galbraith that he wanted me.

6646. Had your father expressed a desire for you to go there?—No.

6647. Did you see Mrs. Dunlevy?—Yes.

6648. Did you see Mr. Galbraith also?—Yes.

6649. Were you in court when Mrs. Dunlevy swore that Mr. Galbraith threw 20 l. down on the table?—I understood she swore it, but one or the other, I don't care which; it is not a fact, there was not a farthing paid on the occasion by either party.

6650. Was any offer of any money made to that woman?—Certainly not.

6651. Did you hear her swear that you or Mr. Galbraith, I really do not know which, dictated a letter for her?—I did.

6652. Is that true?—It is totally untrue.

6653. Did she write that letter from her own dictation?—She did.

6654. Do you happen to know whether that is it (handing a letter to the Witness). I would not swear that was the document, but it was something to a similar effect. Possibly it might have been.

6655. Did you put that in an envelope?—I did not.

6656. Did you ever address any envelope for it?—Never.

6657. I want you to tell his Lordship exactly what you did with that letter?—I brought that letter to Major Knox's lodgings; it was shown to Major Knox in my presence; Major Knox said that he disapproved of it wholly, and that it could not be used in any way until Mr. Lawder had seen it.

6658. Was it shown to Mr. Lawder?—It was shown to Mr. Lawder; I showed it to Mr. Lawdor.

6659. What did he say upon the subject?—He said he would not allow it to be used on any consideration, and that it was most improper.

6660. Did Mr. Lawder express his disapprobation of the whole transaction?—He did, in the strongest terms possible.

6661. What did you do with that letter?—The letter was condemned on consultation. No consultation about it, but Mr. Lawder condemned it peremptorily.

6662. Mr. Justice Keogh.] You said this moment that the letter was condemned on consultation?—What I mean by consultation is the conversation that occurred between Mr. Lawder and myself at the time.

6663. Mr. Macdonogh.] What did you do with it?—I left it there, I believe; I left it lying on the table while I was talking to Mr. Lawder. I understood that it was condemned, and looked upon it as such.

6664. And did you ever send it to its destination?—Certainly not.

6665. I asked you before what general authority had you; had you any authority in particular to procure any such letter, or to send to Mrs. Dunlevy?—Certainly not. I went there, not at all expecting to meet Mrs. Dunlevy, and when I went there I thought I was doing a clever thing in getting it written.

6666. And you did it on your own responsibility?—Solely.

6667. And when you showed it to these two gentlemen they condemned it, and disapproved of it?—They did.

6668. About Kelly; tell his Lordship what you know about that?—I saw the person Kelly come into my father's shop, in company with my father. I accompanied them to the end of the shop, and a conversation then occurred about some work that was then on hand by Kelly, carpentering work on a farm my father has about 10 miles from Sligo. Some general conversation occurred about the election. I heard what Kelly swore as to the mahogany, and to the offering of money, and I swear it is positively untrue.

6669. As to the 50 cubic feet of mahogany, I want you to tell his Lordship, those were the very words he used; did that occur?—It did not.

6670. Tell his Lordship the whole of what occurred?—My father said, "Edward, what sort of mahogany is in the hand-rail," meaning the hand-rail in our residence, and he described to my father the various qualities of mahogany, inferior and superior. We had a general talk about it in that way.

6671. Mr. Justice Keogh.] Was anything said about feet at all?—I would not swear there was not, but there was nothing said about cubic feet in the way of 50 or 40, or any specific number.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Loughlin.

6672. I want to clear up another matter; you say you showed the letter to Mr. Lawder?—I showed it to Major Knox first.

6673. You showed it to Mr. Lawder?—I did.

6674. Where did you show it to Mr. Lawder?—At Major Knox's lodgings.

6675. Did you show it to him the evening you got it?—I did not.

6676. When?—The following day, the Saturday.

6677. Was Major Knox present when you showed showed it to Mr. Lawder?—He was in the room, but I came on one side to speak to Mr. Lawder.

6678. Had you previously shown it to Major Knox?—I had.

6679. Did you give that letter to Mr. Lawder?—I did not.

6680. What did you do with it?—It was lying on the table, and I left it there.

6681. In what room?—In the room nearest the hotel.

6682. Was it in Major Knox's room you left it, I mean the room occupied by Major Knox?—I believe, Major Knox's own special room was next door to that; I believe that was a public room, where every one went in and out.

6683. Look at that envelope (handing it to the Witness); do you happen to know whose handwriting that is?—I do not know whose handwriting it is at all.

6684. Can you form any opinion?—No, not at all; I never saw it before.

[The Witness withdrew.

Major KNOX, recalled; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

6685. Do you remember that letter (handing letter to Witness)?—I do; I remember the letter; I think this is it, to the best of my belief.

6686. What did you say when it was shown to you by that young man?—I read the letter, and I told Mr. Woods it was a thing we could have nothing in the world to do with; there was a suspicion about it; it was written, as you see, in a peculiar way; and my idea of the thing was, that it was a trap. However, I said, "You had better take it to Mr. Lawdor, because he knows that better than I do"; so he took it, and I never saw the letter since.

6687. Did you see Mr. Lawder read that letter?—I saw Mr. Woods go over to another part of the room near the window.

6688. That is Woods, junior?—Yes, the one who was here this minute. I saw him go over with Mr. Lawder, and I saw Mr. Lawder with this in his hands, and he read it. Mr. Lawder then came over to me, and said, "This is a thing you must not touch with a pair of tongs; we must have nothing to do with it." I do not know what became of the letter.

6689. Have you lost a number of documents you had in that room?—I have: half the things I had, books and all.

6690. Did you ever see that again?—Never.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. LAWDER, recalled; Examined by Mr. Macdonogh.

6691. Do you remember the occasion that Major Knox and Mr. Woods have spoken of?—Yes.

6692. Tell us what happened?—Mr. Woods showed me this letter, and said he had shown it to Mr. Knox, and he said he would have nothing to do with it, but show it to me. I said I should have nothing to do with a document of that kind whatever.

6693. What did you do with it?—Mr. Woods took it out of the room after I had read it. I said, "I shall have nothing to do with a document of that kind."

6694. Did you authorise him to send it to anybody?—On the contrary, I told him such a document should not be sent to any elector.

Cross-examined by Mr. Coffey.

6695. As I understand, you handed that document back to Mr. Woods?—Exactly.

6696. It was not left in your custody?—No.

6697. You gave it back to him?—I said, "I shall have nothing to do with it."

6698. Tell me, did you ever see that letter again, after you gave it into Woods' possession?—Never.

6699. Did you see it in the room or apartment that Major Knox and you were in, in the evening afterwards?—Never.

Major KNOX, recalled; Examined by Mr. Justice Keogh.

6700. I THOUGHT when you were at the hotel you mentioned, that you lost a number of documents that were there?—At the time I was at the lodgings, almost every day I missed things; I told Mr. Leech about it; I did not like to accuse anybody, but I suspected somebody of taking things; I lost lots of things.

6701. When you were at Leech's, you told him of that?—Yes, I did.

6702. There is only one other thing I will trouble you upon; you mentioned that when that transaction took place about Mr. Stokes, I think you said there were some friends of yours, electors, and I think you said the gentleman who acted as family solicitor, Mr. Paton, told you to go on and not to leave?—I consulted him, being a very old friend, and I thought I could trust him in the matter. What he said was that he thought I was pledged, from the course I had taken, to go on.

6703. Was he acting as your solicitor in the matter?—No, he was Sir Robert Gore's.

6704. Was he assisting at your election?—No, he was not there at the election; he was taking over the office of clerk of the peace at the time.

6705. Is he not the present clerk?—Yes.

6706. Has he acted as your solicitor in the revision?—No, nothing beyond our family; I only consulted him as a friend just then.

WILLIAM EVANS WOODS, recalled by Mr. Justice Keogh.

W.E. Woods.
23 February
1869.

6707. I WANT to ask you one question; you were examined here to-day as to Mrs. Dunleavey's testimony; did you recollect when you were so examined that you desired Mr. Galbraith to send for Mrs. Dunleavey in order to induce her to write a letter to her husband to keep him away from the election?—She herself—

6708. Do not render it necessary to repeat the question; when you were examined here to-day, had you on your recollection that you were the person who asked Mr. Galbraith to send for that woman to send a letter to her husband?—I had not.

6709. You forgot that altogether?—I forgot it altogether.

6710. Is the fact so, that you were the person who, after having three interviews with that woman, told Mr. Galbraith to send for her to induce her to write that letter?—I did not say I had three interviews with her.

6711. You called three times; after those calls and that interview, did you ask Mr. Galbraith to send for that woman to get her to write a letter to prevent her husband coming to the election?—She herself said—

6712. Did you ask Mr. Galbraith?—I did, my Lord, not to get him to come to the election, because I did not think his life would be safe, and I recommended her—

6713. That is not what I am talking of; did you ask Mr. Galbraith to send for that woman?—I did.

6714. Did you ask Mr. Galbraith to get her to write a letter to her husband?—I did not.

6715. You swear that is not true, as sworn by Mr. Galbraith?—It is not correct.

[The Witness withdrew.

Mr. Robinson was heard to address the Court, and sum up the case on behalf of the Respondents.

Mr. Palles was heard to reply on behalf of the Petitioners.
